Fireman axed; gambling case to DA

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

A lieutenant with the Big Spring Fire Department was fired today and a criminal case against him for illegal gambling promotion was presented to the district attorney, City Manager Don Davis said this morning.

Davis also said Big Spring police would investigate charges of harassment and misconduct made against the fire department administrative staff during the investigation of the fireman.

A news release from the city manager said, "As a result of an intensive investigation, this morning we presented to the district attorney a criminal case against Keith Hamilton for illegal gambling promotion that occurred in a city fire station, while he was on duty as a city fire fighter."

"Also, (Fire) Chief Ryals terminated Mr. Hamilton this morning based on the above conduct."

"During the course of the investigation, there have been several allegations of harassment and misconduct made against the fire department administrative staff. These issues are presently being looked into and a report on this will be forthcoming as soon as possible."

Hamilton, 35, has been with the Big Spring Fire Department since 1974, Davis said. He could not be reached this morning for comment. A woman who answered the phone said he was not at home.

According to the Texas Penal Code, illegal gambling promotion is a third degree felony punishable by a $5,000 fine and two to five years in prison.

The charges close an investigation begun in mid-February during which 10 firemen were questioned about the reported activities.

Davis said the alleged gambling involved "bookmaking" on football games.

"We questioned those firemen who we felt had knowledge of the activities," Davis said. The Big Spring Police Department handled the investigation at the request of Davis.

He said there were no other charges or allegations against city employees as a result of the investigation.

Several firemen told the Herald last week that they had been required by Fire Chief Jim Ryals to make statements in the investigation. They said they were told they would be fired if they did not answer questions.

"We want to get it (the charges of harassment) tended to as quickly as possible," Davis said.

Davis said the firemen questioned were not under investigation.

Davis this morning denied earlier allegations by firemen that the investigation was retribution for a disagreement he had with Hamilton over substations being closed during a seven-week firefighting course.

"I don't remember what I said. Apparently the firemen hold me in greater esteem than I do myself because they hang on every word," Davis said.

"I can't recall exactly what was said. He (Hamilton) asked me did I think the school is worth closing the substations and I said certainly it is. He asked was it worth the risk and I felt it was. By training firemen you

Legislative puzzle holds the key to SWCID future

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The official outlook for the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf is still optimistic, but that mood is dependent on pieces of a legislative puzzle falling into place.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District, who has just returned from two days of testifying before the House Budget and Oversight Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, believes there is still hope in gaining $7 million in funding for SWCID during 1984-85.

"I'm still kind of optimistic," Hays said. "I just don't see a group of intelligent people (the Legislature) saying there's not a pressing need for that institution out there."

Yesterday, Gov. Mark White recommended a $3 million two-year appropriation to keep the deaf school afloat.

Hays said the school needs at least $7 million in funding for the next two years or SWCID will be forced to close its doors at the end of summer.

... still optimistic

In his two days before the committees, Hays said he was "well received," but cautioned that a warm reception does not mean SWCID will get the needed funds.

"All you can do is get a feeling — they make absolutely no commitment," he said. "In essence, what they said in both committees was that they were going to see how it all stacked up and see what they could do for us."

Recommendations for funding for all state universities and junior colleges will be voted on later in the session.

Meanwhile, there is a political move to get SWCID declared a state-supported junior college free from reliance on the HCJCD.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw and Sen. John Montford are preparing to file just such legislation Friday, according to Hays.

Currently, because the deaf school is part of the district, SWCID can only spend state money on faculty and operations, but is restricted from spending money on maintenance, student services, food service staff and dormitory personnel.

The rest of the tab must be picked up by district taxpayers — something Hays says is not fair because the school serves the state as a whole.

Hays is optimistic that if SWCID can achieve separate status as a

Tax district picks two

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The three remaining members of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board won't be lonely any more.

During yesterday's meeting directors elected two new members to join them in the wake of resignations by former board members Roy Watkins and Jack Watkins.

Arnold Marshall of Big Spring and Wendell Shive of Coahoma were unanimously elected to the board by members Billy T. Smith, Lila Estes and Clay Reid.

Marshall was nominated by the Big Spring Independent School District and Shive's name was submitted by the Coahoma ISD. Previously, Roy Watkins had been elected by the BSISD, and Jack Watkins served for the CISD.

Shive was the only nominee for Jack Watkins' spot, while Marshall and Robert L. Roberson, who was nominated by the Forsan ISD, were in the running for Roy Watkins' post.

In other action the board voted to reduce the Appraisal Review Board from two three-member panels to one panel. The extra panel had been added last September to handle tax protest hearings preliminary to the completion of the 1982 tax rolls.

The board also elected Jack Shaffer by a 2-1 vote to serve on the ARB for a two-year term. Shaffer replaces Gerald Harris, whose one-year term is expiring.

The board also:

- Tabled an issue involving car-use payments for district employees. The board was divided on the matter of whether to pay employees a set amount for each mile driven, or pay a flat monthly rate. The board will take up the matter at next month's meeting.
- Appointed Maxwell Green as auditor for the district's 1982 revenues and expenditures.
- Discussed liability insurance for the board and advised Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira to seek cost estimates for such insurance.

The Bard in cowboy boots

SCT production moves Shakespeare west

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Shakespeare will be performed with a Texas accent when members of Spring City Theater present "The Taming of the Shrew" March 17-19 at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium.

Although the script will be exactly as penned by The Bard, participants in the cast will be dressed in Western attire with traditional 10-gallon hats, boots and chaps. The stage will be a reflection of a street from the Old West, complete with tumbleweeds, stacks of hay and swinging saloon doors. Gone will be the Old English pub and the tights and tunics worn by people during Shakespeare's time.

"There are several reasons we are going with a Western theme," said Cecelia McKenzie, director of the production. "One is that we do not have the money to do the play with an authentic Shakespearean background and setting. Since we are doing it in a semi-abstract Western setting, with Western costumes, the people in the production will provide their own costumes."

"We believe this will bring the play closer to the people, make it more relevant while maintaining it as a classical work of art," she said.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is one of Shakespeare's comedies, dealing with the story of Katharina Minola, a "shrew" who stands in the way of her younger sister's marriage. Before anyone can wed the younger, sweeter Bianca, someone must wed Katharina, a formidable task because of her violent temper.

But Petruchio appears on the scene ready to challenge the temper of Katharina and at-

Couple caged in parrot plot

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston couple has been jailed and a flock of parrots they are accused of smuggling into the United States is on its way to a special quarantine facility.

Ventura Natalia Johnston, 41, and her husband, David Lawrence Johnston, 43, were ordered Wednesday to be held in lieu of $50,000 bond by U.S. Magistrate Frank Waltermire. They are charged with violating federal smuggling law.

Government agents on Tuesday seized 103 parrots at the Johnstons' $200,000 home. The birds, including a Scarlet Macaw valued at $4,000, were found in cages "in the garage, in the bedrooms, under the bed," said U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service special agent David Kleinz.

Kleinz said the parrots were brought into the U.S. from Nuevo Laredo after their capture in Mexican jungles. They were transported to Houston several days ago, a trip that contributed to the death of 21 of the birds, he said.

"They're stressed," said Kleinz of the surviving birds. "They have upper respiratory infections and nasal congestion. The trip was hard on them."

The dead birds, he said, had apparently been stuffed into air vents of a van in an attempt to conceal them from U.S. Customs agents at the border, said Kleinz. They were found at the house in a plastic bag.

The parrots will be moved in a $100,000 climate-controlled motor home to a government quarantine facility in Mission, Texas. They will be held there to ensure they are free of disease and then sold.

Former city manager kills self by mortuary Shakespeare

ABILENE (AP) — The death of a former city manager whose career spanned three city government posts has been ruled a suicide, officials say.

Suicide was ruled Wednesday in the gunshot death of James Edward Swaim, 55, a former city manager at Breckenridge, Cisco and Sweetwater. His body was found outside an Abilene funeral home.

The body was found by a funeral home groundskeeper about 9:30 a.m.

A 12-gauge shotgun was discovered by the body, along with a hand-written note on the steering wheel of Swaim's car nearby, police said. The note gave no reason for the death, authorities said.

The suicide ruling was made by Justice of the Peace Clarence Collins.

Swaim served as city secretary and assistant city manager at Graham before taking the city manager's post at Breckenridge in 1957.

He became city manager of Sweetwater in 1967, then left in 1971 to become regional manpower planner and regional services coordinator for the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene.

Cisco hired Swaim in 1976 as city manager, but he left four months later, citing personal problems. Two months after resigning, he was hired as a draftsman for the city of Abilene, where he remained until last December.

Mitchell officials say prisoner costs are up

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County Commissioners met Monday with representatives of Colorado City and Loraine to discuss increased county costs in housing prisoners.

City Manager Rick Crowley and Police Chief Ed Wheat represented Colorado City. On hand from Loraine were City Councilman Jack Brewer and Police Chief Edgar Haltom.

Sheriff Wendell Bryant said the cost of keeping prisoners has risen to almost $27 per day. Colorado City and Loraine currently are reimbursing the county $3 per day for housing their prisoners.

According to Commissioner Paul Hunt, other counties are charging between $35 and $50 per day for housing prisoners.

No action was taken on the matter.

Ex-football player tackles conterfeiter

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Salvadoran who tried to pass a counterfeit $100 bill at a San Antonio cafeteria was captured after a flying tackle from a former college football linebacker, authorities say.

Jon Milstead, a former University of Oklahoma player, said "instinct" made him chase the man and tackle him in the middle of a busy road.

Ricardo A. Rhode-Blanco, 33, was jailed yesterday in lieu of $100,000 set by U.S. Magistrate Jamie Boyd. Milstead, 31, is assistant manager at a Luby's Cafeteria here.

Cashier Annie Willis told federal agents she immediately detected the $100 bill was counterfeit when the man asked her to change it for him Tuesday.

The man panicked and bolted out of the cafeteria after she called on Milstead for help, Ms. Willis said.

lessen the risk," Davis said.
Davis confirmed that the investigation of Hamilton began after the conversation with him.
"The timing may have been bad," Davis said. "But there was no retribution."
The conversation between Davis and Hamilton took place at the start of a seven-week course in January. Four substations (18th and Main, 11th and Birdwell, Northside, and Wasson Road) were closed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Saturday so that all firemen could attend the course, Ryals said.
Two of the substations, at 11th and Birdwell and at Wasson Road, were reopened two weeks later after an anonymous letter was sent to the State Board of Insurance, a government agency in Austin which sets the key rate for fire insurance.

The board notified the fire department saying directors did not believe it was a good idea to close all the substations, Ryals said last week.
"What we probably should have done was notify the State Board of Insurance before we closed down the substations," Davis said today.
Davis said he "had an idea" who notified the board, but said he did not think it was Hamilton.

Police Beat

Arrest made in man's beating

Police say they arrested John Richard O'Callaghan, 53, no address given, on suspicion of aggravated assault and public intoxication Wednesday night. Police say they answered a call of a disturbance at 8:45 p.m. at the Wyoming Hotel to find Leon Hastings, no age or address listed, near the railroad tracks, severely beaten.

Hastings is reported in stable condition at Malone Hogan Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Police say they arrested Dee Arvin Ratliff, 42, of 2112 Grace for suspicion of simple assault and public intoxication. Police report they received a call from Cheryl Ratliff of 1504 E Wood at 4:37 p.m. Wednesday that a subject was threatening to cut out her heart with a knife.

After receiving a call of shots being fired in the 1500 block of Virginia, police say they arrested Robert Eugene Hale, 32, of 1506 A Virginia for suspicion of possession of marijuana. Hale was later released after posting bonds totaling $2,000 on charges of possession and driving while intoxicated.

A theft of 120 railroad ties was reported by Dr. Carroll Moore of 1700 Farm Market 700 at 10:24 a.m. Wednesday. Moore told police the ties, valued at $960, had been taken between Friday and Sunday without his permission.

Jesse Ramirez of 909 W. 5th told police $320 worth of stereo equipment had been taken from a vehicle parked at Highland Pontiac between Feb. 17 and March 9.

A major accident on South Nolan and East 11th Streets at 3:40 p.m. Wednesday involved vehicles driven by Patricia Mae White of 1009 S. Nolan and Andrea Roberta Cohen of 906 S. Nolan. Ms. White was treated and released at Hall-Bennett Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Ms. Cohen was ticketed for failure to control speed, police report.

Three receive probation

Three persons pleaded guilty in 118th District Court and received probated sentences.
Alejandra Arzola Torres, 42, of Motel 9 received a five-year probated sentence for felony driving while intoxicated. Juan Vasquez, 25, of 809 N. Lamesa received a 10-year probated sentence for burglary of a habitation. Carlos Vega, 20, of 703 N. Lamesa also received a 10-year probated sentence for burglary.
William Earl Crayton, 24, of Odessa remains in Howard County jail under suspicion of public intoxication and $200 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. Heflin also fined Crayton $106.

PIK deadline is Friday

Friday is the last day for area farmers to sign up for the Payment in Kind farm program at the county Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service office.
The March 11 deadline for the PIK program will end at 5 p.m. Friday. U.S. Secretary John Block has urged West Texas farmers to back the program in order to reduce surplus stocks of cotton and help farm prices.

El Paso board files to brake forced busing

EL PASO (AP) — The El Paso school system's board of trustees has filed a federal court motion to end a 1976 desegregation plan that forced the daily busing of nearly 1,000 students.

The school board's trustees ordered their attorneys to try to end a federal discrimination suit that is forcing 15 El Paso schools to swap Hispanic students for non-Hispanic students to even out racial imbalances in this West Texas city of 450,000.

Attorneys Sam Sparks and Anthony Safi said Wednesday that the district already has complied with 11 court orders outlined by U.S. District Judge William Sessions as a result of a 1970 lawsuit filed by 14 parents against the city school district.

David Alvarado and 13 other parents charged more than 12 years ago that independent schools within El Paso city limits, which now is 62 percent Hispanic, established and continued discriminatory practices toward Mexican-American students and their educators.

As a result of the 1976 ruling, it presently costs about $140,000 a year to bus an estimated 970 students between 15 grade and high schools, attorneys say. The court-ordered busing started in 1978.

Deaths

William Jackson

Memorial services for William Kenyon Jackson, 67, who died Monday at a local hospital, were Wednesday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the Rev. David Bristow officiating. Jackson donated his body to the Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

He was born March 11, 1915 in San Marcos. He attended Baylor Military Academy in Tennessee and Rice University where he was an honors student.

He was one of the founders of Cactus Paint Manufacturing Co. of Big Spring and served as chairman of the board of Fiber Glass Systems Inc. He was also on the advisory board of Security State Bank.

He was a chemical engineer at Cooden Oil and Refinery Co., which once sent him to Mexico to supervise chemical developments. He also served as a consultant vice president for Vickers Petroleum Corp. of Kansas.

He married Margaret Campbell, who died in 1968. He later married Gloria Connelly in Lubbock in 1970. They lived here for 12 years.

He is survived by three children, Carlton Jackson of Brownfield, Margaret Jackson Owens of Palo Alto, Calif., and William Campbell Jackson of Big Spring; one sister, Jean Ellis of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; a sister, Nancy Jackson Bruce of Fort Worth; three stepchildren, William Connelly Edwards of Lake Jackson, Sylvia Edwards Zella of Panama City, Fla., and John Oaks Edwards of Albuquerque, N.M.; a nephew, Don Bruce, and a niece, Ellen Bruce, both of Fort Worth; and three grandchildren, Carlton and Franchesca Ellis, both of Rio de Janeiro, and Kyle Jackson of Brownfield.

Ola Williamson

Ola Mae Oldham Williamson, 79, died Wednesday night at a local hospital following a brief illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church with Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, retired Presbyterian minister, officiating. He will be assisted by Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church and by the Rev. William F. Henning, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Burial will be at Mount Olive Memorial Park. She was born Sept. 22, 1903 in Snyder. She married George Oldham in June 1923. They moved to Big Spring in 1932 and purchased the International Harvester dealership. She sold the dealership after he died June 25, 1946.

She later married Harvey Williamson in December 1951. He died on July 11, 1974.

EPA probe continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anne McGill Burford is gone, but congressional investigators vowed no letup in their scrutiny of the Environmental Protection Agency, which she left crippled by controversy over allegations of mismanagement and conflict of interest.

"The investigation will continue. The saga is just going to begin," Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., said Wednesday after President Reagan accepted "with great regret" Mrs. Burford's resignation as EPA administrator for the past 22 months.

Mrs. Burford said the furor over the EPA and her direction of it had disabled the agency and distracted the president from pursuing his domestic and international goals. Reagan called her departure "an occasion of sorrow for us all."

EPA Deputy Administrator John Hernandez will serve as acting administrator until a successor to Mrs. Burford is found.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the White House would consider suggestions from many sources in the search for a successor to Mrs. Burford, including Congress, the Republican Party, private industry, environmentalists and "whoever wishes to make their views known."

The chairmen of the half-dozen congressional panels investigating EPA said their inquiries into possible wrongdoing and mismanagement within the agency will continue unabated.

"Anne Gorsuch-Burford is not the issue," said Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., chairman of the House Government Operations subcommittee on the environment. "The issue is the operation of the Environmental Protection Agency and the implementation of our environmental laws."

"We will continue this investigation until every rock is overturned and every fact uncovered," said Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Science and Technology subcommittee on the environment.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., told reporters that "of course" Mrs. Burford had become a political liability and that "she did the right thing" by resigning.

Mrs. Burford, who planned to discuss her resignation at a news conference today, said she could no longer take the pressure of the investigations and media attention.

"Shoot, I can't even work anymore," she said in an interview with The Denver Post on Wednesday. "All I can do is read news clips and figure out how to get dressed in the morning without TV camera crews in there."

"That's not right. That's not good government," she said. "It's killing me."

She said Reagan accepted the resignation after she told him she believed she had done a good job and he "observed that it didn't seem to be getting out in the news media."

"I love that guy, I really do, and I'd be proud to serve him any place," she said.

The subcommittees are investigating EPA's handling of its $1.6 billion Superfund program to clean up abandoned chemical waste dumps. Allegations have been made that the fund may have been manipulated for political purposes and that EPA officials may have been guilty of conflicts of interest in making decisions.

Much of the investigation has focused on thousands of pages of EPA enforcement files withheld from Congress on a claim of executive privilege.

Ironically, Mrs. Burford's resignation came only minutes after the White House agreed to let congressional investigators have full access to those documents, a position Mrs. Burford has said she unsuccessfully urged upon the White House last fall.

Mrs. Burford had been under subpoena to deliver the documents to one of the House subcommittees today. Until the agreement was reached, she was bound to honor Reagan's orders to withhold them, although Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., the subcommittee's chairman, said he would move to cite her for contempt of Congress if she did so.

She already stands as the highest public official ever cited by Congress for contempt, for her refusal last December to hand over some of the same documents.

The agreement was negotiated directly between Dingell and two of Reagan's top aides — White House chief of staff James A. Baker III and White House counsel Fred Fielding — bypassing the Justice Department. It amounted to a virtual waiver of executive privilege, giving Dingell's subcommittee full control over the documents.

Dingell said he regarded the agreement as full compliance with the subpoena and that Mrs. Burford would not be required to appear before the subcommittee today.

Dingell, one of the few Democratic chairmen investigating the agency who had not called for Mrs. Burford's resignation, said in announcing the agreement that he hoped Mrs. Burford would remain in office to receive a fair hearing.

ACTING REPLACEMENT AT EPA — Deputy Environmental Protection Agency Administrator John Hernandez, left, will assume the duties of Anne Burford, right, who resigned Wednesday. Mrs. Burford's resignation came shortly after the White House said it was releasing to Congress documents it had refused to turn over earlier in Congressional investigations. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Hernandez will be acting administrator at EPA and a search for a permanent replacement would begin Thursday.

White proposes taxes

New taxes might balance governor's budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Smokers, drinkers and arcade game players might have to foot the bill for a balanced state budget, said Gov. Mark White as he presented a $32.9 billion, two-year fiscal plan to Texas legislators.

White, who previously had predicted no tax hikes, delivered the budget to a joint session of the Legislature on Wednesday, one day after state Comptroller Bob Bullock again reduced his estimate of how much money legislators can spend in 1984-1985.

Bullock said dropping oil prices mean $867.1 million less in state revenues.

The White budget comes up $1.4 billion short of revenue — a difference he said could be made up by adopting two of three "alternatives" — increasing "luxury taxes," selling bonds to finance highway construction or live with reduced programs.

Although he avoided a flat recommendation to increase taxes, White said the "luxury tax" increase could raise $800 million. The highway bond proposal would save up to $700 million.

If White's budget can be reconciled with revenues, teachers would get an overall pay raise of 24 percent, with a September 1983 raise for new teachers of 36 percent.

The total increase in teacher salaries would be $1.6 billion — part of a $3 billion total education budget increase that includes $170 million in equalization aid to poor school districts.

"Who can blame today's college students for turning away from life in a profession whose only certain guarantee seems to be that they will be treated as second-class citizens?" said White, who called for a starting teacher salary of $14,500 a year, instead of the current $11,100.

He also included a $125 million-a-year dedicated fund for smaller Texas colleges that do not share in the Permanent University Fund.

Other state employees, including higher education workers, should get 6 percent pay hikes in each of the two years, White said.

"We agonized before eliminating many budget items, but finally decided to go with programs for people rather than more bricks and mortar," said White, drawing applause from legislators.

Proposals for additional prison construction apparently were slighted by White.

State prison officials say they need $1.5 billion for a massive building program to keep up with the inmate population explosion. But White's budget gives them only $665,000.

White, who has previously accused corrections officials of wanting to build "Cadillac prisons," said his budget would go for less expensive dormitory housing rather than maximum-security cells.

He said his proposal would help reduce the number of inmates by increasing probation services. He called for a 14 percent increase in Adult Probation Commission funding, much of it for additional probation officers.

White also wants $5 million for a test program of restitution centers, where nonviolent offenders would work to repay victims, and asked legislators to give the Department of Public Safety 40 more narcotics officers.

The governor drew applause again when he announced a $37.7 million hike in Aid to Families with Dependent Children, raising the per-child allotment from the current $36 per month to $53.

Lawmakers were skeptical of White's suggested alternatives, though most leaned toward increasing "luxury taxes" before any other levies, such as sales taxes.

Highway bonding found little support among legislative leaders.

"It goes against my grain," House Speaker Gib Lewis said of the idea.

"I have never understood how you save money by borrowing," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

White said upping the cigarette tax by 5 cents, the mixed drink tax by 8 percent, upping the package liquor tax to $3.60 per gallon from $2, levying an additional 25 percent tax on other tobacco products, and charging $50 rather than $15 per amusement machine could add $618.3 million to state coffers.

"I don't have any hard feelings against those proposals," said Lewis. "Those are the things that will probably be more palatable than some of the other things he's talking about."

White argued, "If taxes are the only alternative, they should be placed on luxuries which people choose to consume and not on necessities which people need to survive." Lawmakers applauded.

Social Security plan to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that would affect virtually every American, the House has passed a $165.3 billion plan to rescue Social Security by imposing higher payroll taxes, curbing benefits and raising the retirement age from 65.

By a 282-148 vote Wednesday night, the House sent the measure to the Senate, where the finance committee was expected to wrap up work on its version of the package today. The full Senate is expected to vote next week.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., predicted Congress will have the legislation on President Reagan's desk by the end of the month.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., expressed confidence today that the Senate would quickly pass legislation similar to that adopted by the House.

He was asked if the measure would be identical to the House bill and he replied, "I wouldn't say that."

The House bill follows the bipartisan recommendations of the National Commission on Social Security Reform, calling for affluent retirees to pay income tax on half their benefits; a six-month delay in this July's cost-of-living increase; accelerated payroll tax increases; a boost in the levy on the self-employed, and mandatory Social Security coverage for new federal workers.

Those measures are supposed to keep Social Security solvent through the rest of the decade and solve two-thirds of the system's long-term, $1.9 trillion deficit.

During House consideration, legislators voted 228-202 to accept an amendment by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, to eliminate the remaining third of the long-term deficit by gradually increasing the retirement age from 65 to 67 in the next century.

The Senate package is expected to parallel the House measure.

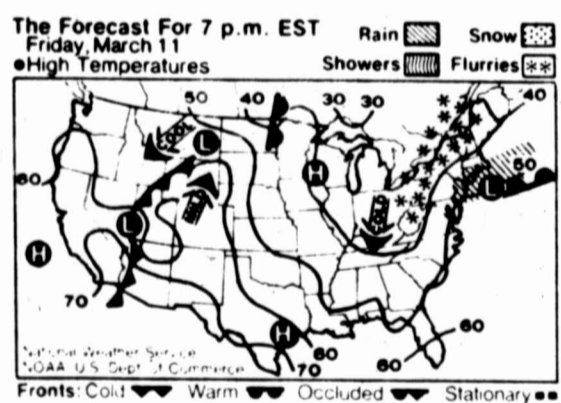

"It has taken this House two years to make the journey from crisis to compromise," said House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

"For the last two years, we have watched the fuse burn on Social Security — paralyzed by partisan bickering," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. "As Washington maneuvered for political advantage, the balance in the retirement fund continued to fall."

Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., reflected the feelings of many of his colleagues when he said the rescue package "isn't my choice, but it's the only choice. ... If the bill fails we will all deserve the chaos that will result."

Under the bill, the 116 million Americans paying into the Social Security system and the 36 million people receiving benefits will share the burden of bailing out the system.

Clear skies; light breezes

By The Associated Press

A high pressure ridge brought clear skies across the Lone Star State today, with the exception of the lower Rio Grande Valley, where a weak cold front has stalled.

Temperatures dipped into the 30s under the clear conditions and the influence of the high pressure mass, which produced light breezes statewide.

Readings remained in the mid to upper 50s behind the front in the southern tip of Texas. Extremes ranged from 59 degrees at McAllen to 32 degrees at Wichita Falls.

The forecast calls for fair conditions through Friday, then turning a little warmer.

West Texas: Sunny and warm today. Clear and cold tonight. Partly cloudy Saturday. Highs today and Friday mid 50s. Panhandle to near 70. Lower Pecos Valley and near 80. Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight near 30. Panhandle to mid 40s. Big Bend.

Phone companies want measured local calls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the resistance of consumer groups and state regulators, telephone companies across the country are trying to apply their long-distance pricing procedures to local phone service.

Local calls would be "measured" — in other words, billed — on the basis of time-of-day, day-of-week, the length of a call and distance — just like long-distance. The industry calls such pricing Local Measured Service, or LMS for short.

Telephone officials assert that Local Measured Service offers the best option to skyrocketing local rates while properly forcing the people who use the phone network the most to pay for that use.

The Florida Public Service Commission recently rejected a bid by Southern Bell to offer LMS as an option. Part of the problem, says Commissioner Susan W. Leisner, "was it just got too complicated for consumers. There's really no way to keep track of your calls or verify charges."

"And Southern never really justified the variable cost by elements. For example, does it really cost them more if you stay on the phone for 30 minutes instead of 15 minutes?"

Ms. Leisner attributes Southern Bell's defeat to "an overwhelming local reaction. I think a lot of the uproar came from retirees from New York, where they had it and hated it."

Local Measured Service

The debate over Local Measured Service is not

new. Cities like New York and Chicago have operated under various types of LMS billing for decades. The controversy is building, however, because of a pending breakup of the Bell System, major changes in regulation and suspicions that the phone companies want to make LMS mandatory.

"But the main obstacle is the very natural, instinctive reaction against change," says spokesman Pic Wagner of AT&T.

There is also the matter of money.

With any pricing system, there are winners and losers. Joseph R. Fogarty, a member of the Federal Communications Commission, is fond of pointing out a parent with teen-agers is not going to be a winner with measured service.

That's the point, counters Patricia Montgomery of Illinois Bell. Should a neighbor who doesn't place many calls subsidize that teen-ager? A flat rate can't be offered, she notes, without averaging every customer's usage.

"Chicago telephone rates are among the lowest in the country because customers pay for what they use,"

Miss Montgomery contends.

According to Wagner, the vast majority of Americans still obtain local phone service on a flat rate basis — meaning they are allowed to place an unlimited number of local calls for a set monthly fee. Only about 13 percent of Bell's residential customers use some type of measured service, he says.

On the other hand, he continues, more than 50 percent of the Bell System's business customers use some form of measured service — available as an option in more than 40 states.

The problem with such statistics, however, is that they include all forms of LMS — simple systems where there is a flat charge per call, to "full-element LMS" where the billing takes account of time, day, duration and distance.

One example of the former is an option known as Economy Service in the District of Columbia. A customer pays $2.20 a month, plus 4.9 cents for each local call.

"We've supported that idea of a per-call billing option for years," says Dr. Lee Richardson, a marketing professor at the University of Baltimore and vice president of the Consumer Federation of America.

"But the telephone companies have decided they want the full-fledged, so-called local long-distance system."

"And we are ardently opposed to that," adds Samuel Simon, the executive director of the Telecommunications Research and Action Center, a Washington-based public interest group. "It's too complex — unnecessarily complex — and the average consumer won't be able to understand and accurately gauge his monthly usage."

Without new options, customers will be locked into flat local rates that could double or triple.

In Chicago, for example, the cheapest flat rate for unlimited local calling is now $32.85 a month. On the other hand, a Chicago resident can take an LMS option that costs $6.50 a month, covering 80 calls within the city.

so high and the local calling zone so small that nobody would want it," says Tony Pappas, a spokesman for New York Telephone. "To average everybody together," he said.

The debate over Local Measured Service is not

Dear Abby

Young woman learns lesson

DEAR ABBY: Last summer when I just turned 18, I had a very short affair with a 14-year-old boy. (He looked older.) As if that wasn't bad enough, I became pregnant. I debated on whether to tell him, and I did finally. He was very upset, as was to be expected.

I was preparing to go off to college and I knew there was no way I could have a baby, so I had an abortion. The boy agreed that it was the best thing to do and promised to pay half to cost.

I had the abortion last September, and he hasn't paid a dime toward it. I talked to him on the telephone a few times and he kept promising to send me the money, but he never did. I think I have waited long enough and don't know what to do now. I have had to borrow the money for the abortion, and I have to pay it back. I've considered telling his parents about the whole thing, but most parents will take their child's side, so what good would it do?

What do you think I should do?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Because the "boy" was 14, you could possibly be in trouble for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, or possibly charged with statutory rape. Leave bad enough alone, and write off the loss as tuition in the school of experience.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago our mother passed away after a long illness. Six months later our father married a woman who is the complete opposite of our mother. She's bossy, argumentative and outspoken. In spite of all that, we are grateful that Dad seems content with her.

The problem: Not once since our father married this woman have we been able to have a private conversation with him. (We have tried). When we call long distance (they live 150 miles away), she gets on the extension and horns in. When we see them, she doesn't let him out of her sight for a minute. She reads every letter we send Dad. She even opens the letters addressed to him.

We would enjoy a little private time with our father alone, but she will not allow it. What do you suggest?

LOST: ONE FATHER

DEAR LOST: Don't put all the blame on her. If your father wanted a little private time with you, he could arrange it. She may be calling the tunes, but it still takes two to tango.

WANDA FORD...award recipient

Special award goes to employee

Wanda Ford has been awarded the Administrator's Hands and Heart Award, said John H. Steward, director of Veterans Administration Medical Center.

The award is given annually to recognize the outstanding employee in each VA medical facility whose sustained, compassionate direct patient care is exceptional. The award recognizes the employee who consistently does the most to exercise professional expertise and to provide emotional support, help and guidance to patients above the call of duty.

The award is a name bar with a detachable sterling silver hands and heart emblem that may also be worn as a pin. Ms. Ford's name also will be engraved on a brass plate and affixed to the award plaque.

Ms. Ford is a native Big Spring and attended Howard College. She is a certified dental assistant and has been employed by the hospital since May 10, 1965.

Debra Mitchem, bride-elect of Lee Alexander, was honored with a bridal shower Feb. 26 in the home of Margaret Ray. Miss Mitchem, her mother, Mrs. David Mitchem, and the bridegroom-elect's mother, Mrs. Walter Alexander, were presented with orchid carnation corsages.

Hostesses were Margaret Ray, Eulene Jones, Wanda Anderson, Donna Morris, Gayle Worthan, Clarice Birrell, Janie Anderson, Martha Saunders, Ruelene Porter, Wilma Grice and Nancy Black. They presented the honoree with an electric mixer and an electric iron.

Other special guests were the bride-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Isaacs and Mrs. Waneta Mitchem.

Miss Mitchem and Alexander will wed March 18 in the Birdwell Lane Baptist Church.

Dr. Donohue

Narcotic can affect breathing

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been injecting Dilaudid for the past eight months — four or five times a day. I do them to get high. Please tell me what serious side effects they can have. In the last two weeks I have had trouble breathing. — V.O.

Dilaudid is a narcotic quite similar to morphine. It's as addicting as morphine, and you definitely are addicted. You know the peril from using such substances. There's ample evidence of the ruin that narcotic abuse can wreak from a societal standpoint. But if you want to stick strictly to health matters, addiction has plenty of negative factors to recount.

It somehow alters brain cells so that they actually need the substance used. Without it, you undergo withdrawal symptoms — cramps, muscle pains, vomiting, etc. Withdrawal from this drug can be quite violent. More to the point, based on your note, V.O., narcotics in high doses can depress the respiratory (breathing) center of the brain and produce difficulty breathing normally.

So it's best for you to get yourself to a drug abuse center for careful detoxification and for the psychological support you will need to break your habit for good. Prolonged use of a narcotic will make you crave more, cause you to become apathetic, and lead you into a style of life that is self-destructive. Please, get the help you need right away.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have cataracts and am preparing for the surgery to have them removed. I am wondering about the new lens implants that avoid the need for strong cataract glasses. How old are the implants? Will one need glasses afterward? — Mrs. R.P.

Intraocular lens implantation has become very popular in the past several years. According to a recent report by the American Academy of Ophthalmology, an estimated 250,000 such implantations were done in the U.S. in 1981 alone. Certainly, improvements have been made in technique and in the implants themselves to avoid post-implant complications.

Still, the procedure is not for everyone undergoing surgery for removal of cataracts. The decision is based on individual factors in each case. As you know, the implanted replacement lens used is a tiny plastic one. It acts much like the real lens that is removed.

The idea of lens implantation originated in the 1940s from observations made by a British physician treating combat-injured fighter pilots' eyes. He found that bits of cockpit plastic imbedded in the eye wasn't as harmful as expected. Further studies proved the feasibility of using plastic replacement lenses following cataract removal. Your other cataract-related questions are answered in the booklet "Cataracts and Glaucoma," which other readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can an allergy to milk develop in a person in her 60s? I am told that it is due to my enzymes wearing out. Is there something that can be taken by mouth to help this condition. I see pills in drugstores called digestive enzymes. Will they help? Or do I have to put up with the terrible gas due to the milk in order to get the benefit of the milk? — E.C.

You're speaking, I am sure, of a deficiency of the digestive enzyme, lactase, which is needed to utilize the milk sugar, lactose. Many people develop such a deficiency with age. You can buy preparations of that enzyme to put in your milk before you drink it. I am told it is effective. Your druggist should be able to get that for you. It is available commercially under the brand name LactAid.

I don't want your use of the word allergy to stand unchallenged. The lactase deficiency is not an allergy. Milk allergy is another problem. A milk allergy results from one of the proteins in milk being absorbed into the blood. It causes antibodies against that protein to be made, causing symptoms. It's more common in children, and it's usually treated by simple avoidance of cow's milk. You then have to provide the calcium and other milk nutrients by other means if milk has been totally proscribed.

Blood donation times listed

Most people insure their lives, cars and health in case they need the insurance someday. But some people don't think about needing blood transfusions to sustain their lives in the event of an emergency.

Statistics prove that two out of every three people will need blood transfusions in their lives. Blood transfusions constantly place a demand on the need for blood donations. You can give blood at the following times and locations this month.

March 22 — You may give blood at the Veteran's Administration Medical High School from 9 a.m. to Center from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

March 23, March 24 — April 4 — You may give blood at the Dora Roberts Health Center from noon to 6 p.m.

Forum meets

The Modern Woman's Forum met Friday in the home of Mrs. C.R. Moad to hear the story of "Miz Mabel's Legacy."

Mrs. F.C. Tibbs presided. Members voted to bring donations of children's books, dress materials, crayolas, and Bible stories to the West Side Center.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. T.G. Adams, 507 Johnson, Friday.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas effective March 18, 1983.

The proposed changes in rates will affect all customer classes and are designed to increase the Company's gross intrastate revenues by approximately 15 percent annually.

A complete set of revised rate schedules has been filed with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and is available for public inspection in each of the Company's Business Offices in the State of Texas. A summary of the Company's rate filing has also been sent to the Mayor's Office of each affected Municipality.

Wedding music to be theme

The West Texas chapter of the American Guild of Organists will present a program of wedding music at 2 p.m. Sunday at Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway, Midland.

Purpose of the program is to help the public make appropriate musical selections for weddings, organists say.

Professionals, recitals and solos for mock weddings will be played with models wearing wedding attire from local shops.

Among West Texas organists to be at the event are Charles Parham Jr., minister of music, First United Methodist Church.

There will be no admission charge and all interested persons, prospective brides, bridegrooms and their families are invited to attend.

The West Texas Chapter of the National Organization, American Guild of Organists, is made up of church organists, choir directors, singers and those subscriber members who support the advancement of high quality church music through professional affiliation. Members are from the West Texas area.

Local dean of the chapter is Darryl Knapp. Chairman of the committee for the wedding program is Harriet Motter.

FAMOUS WAITRESS — Margaret DeRycke poses with some of the nearly 1,000 letters she has received supporting her crusade against the new tip reporting law.

Waitress' check voided by IRS tip rule

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Things are looking up for Margaret DeRycke, the waitress who griped loudly when new Internal Revenue Service rules left her with payless paydays.

After a string of paychecks stamped "Void, void, void," Mrs. DeRycke, a waitress for 37 years, says she has received slightly more than $6 total in her last two checks.

The 52-year-old night-shift waitress for Denny's Restaurants complained last month that new IRS tip-reporting rules had left her with a paycheck of zero dollars and zero cents.

The Associated Press carried her story nationwide, NBC's "Today Show" featured her, and radio call-in programs as distant as Hawaii kept her tied to the telephone.

She says she has received nearly 1,000 letters of support from waiters and waitresses across the country.

Mrs. DeRycke said she was told by the president of Denny's Inc., Vern Curtis, that he's "100 percent behind me" and will pay all her expenses for traveling to speak on the subject.

In May it's on to Washington where she hopes to deliver a mounting pile of petitions to the president and Congress.

Under legislation that took effect Jan. 1, restaurants with more than 11 employees are required to tell the IRS what their total receipts are.

The restaurant must "allocate" a tip income to each employee of 8 percent and compute the withholding accordingly.

As a part-time waitress earning less than minimum wage, Mrs. DeRycke in a typical week earns gross pay of $75. Deductions for items such as Social Security, pension, insurance and taxes used to leave her with a paycheck of about $30.

Most of her income was in cash tips. Because she is reporting a higher tip income now, withholding taxes have increased, leaving her with paychecks near zero.

Mrs. DeRycke has admitted that she did not fully report her tip income before the new law took effect. She said she didn't think it was required.

Instead, Mrs. DeRycke said she thought employees only had to report enough tips to bring their total reported income up to the minimum wage level.

An IRS study found only 16 percent of waiters and waitresses were fully reporting their tip income before the law took effect. The new rules are expected to produce more than $2 billion in federal revenue over the next three years.

Now Mrs. DeRycke, who claims she earns less than 8 percent tips, has been claiming 8 percent. She said she doesn't want to face an IRS audit.

"To tie myself up and listen to their phony baloney, it's not worth it," she said.

The National Restaurant Association has formed a committee to study alternatives to the "allocation" aspect of the rules, spokeswoman Dorothy Dee in Washington said.

Scientists hope to raise condor

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For the second time in three weeks, scientists snatched a California condor egg from a cliffside nest Tuesday and transported it to an incubator in the San Diego Zoo.

The bluish-green egg, taken from the condor sanctuary in Ventura County, was flown by helicopter to San Diego in a tiny cotton-packed carrying case heated at about 95 degrees.

Biologists hope to hatch the eggs and raise the nearly extinct species in captivity for the first time. There are only about 20 California condors left in their natural mountain habitat. Three are in captivity.

The first captured egg, removed from the sanctuary Feb. 23, is scheduled to hatch in the first week of April. The latest egg, judged to be three weeks old, will probably hatch a week after that, said Bill Toone, the zoo's condor keeper.

Toone and two other members of the egg-snatching team — Noel Snyder of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Rob Rayme of the Condor Research Center in Ventura County — camped out for five days in rain and rugged terrain before they had a chance to grab the egg.

Toone said they were watching the condor couple from atop the cliff Tuesday when they saw the female leave the nest unguarded. That allowed Rayme to rappel down to the nest, don surgical gloves, put the egg in his backpack and scramble up the cliff.

From there, the egg was placed in the "egg suitcase," and the scientists hiked for two hours to a site where the helicopter could land.

The egg came from the same condor couple that had neglected their chick last year, Toone said. That chick, now at the San Diego Wild Animal Park, was taken from its nest when observers noted the parents left the nest for up to a week, leaving the baby alone.

"The embryo looks real good," Toone said after the egg was "candled," an X-ray-like process where a high-intensity light is beamed through the egg. Toone said there may be "potential difficulties" with the condor egg that was recovered Tuesday.

"The shell on this egg are 30 percent thinner than the average condor egg," he said. "We think this might be left over from use of DDT (pesticide) in the area. Whether or not the thinner egg shell will affect this egg is not known yet."

"We expect if there are to be any problems, they'll surface at hatching time," he said. "Everything looks good now, but the big hump is yet to come."

Tiny angler catches record

ANDOVER, Minn. (AP) — Daniel VanVickle is about to be honored for landing a state record fish, but the meaning of it all is easily lost on him.

At 3½ years old, he's still too young to be able to read his name when it is printed in the Department of Natural Resources' next record book.

Daniel, of Andover, Minn., is the state's youngest fisherman ever to achieve the distinction.

In an interview Wednesday at his home, Daniel politely listened to questions while paging through the latest issue of Sesame Street magazine.

"Was it exciting to know you caught a state record?" he was asked by a reporter.

"Boat. See boat," he answered, pointing to a picture in the magazine. He puckered his lips and imitated the sounds of a sputtering outboard.

"See my new shoes. Mommy got 'em."

"Oh, yes, those are nice shoes," said the reporter.

"But what about your big fish?"

His eyes sparkled. He was fishing with his father, Kim, last April 4. They were on a pontoon boat on Coon Lake in Anoka County.

"Tell me about your big fish," his inquirer said again. Daniel climbed down from the kitchen chair.

"I threw my line in the water and 'swish' my bobber went down and I caught a fish," he said, reenacting the action.

For the record, Daniel caught a 2-pound, 9-ounce white crappie. It's not only the largest reported taken in the state, it's the first white crappie — a close cousin to the more common black species — ever submitted for the record book.

Roy Johannes, a state biologist and keeper of the record list, examined the fish and verified that it was a white crappie. The weight already had been certified at an East Bethel store.

"What did you use for bait?" Daniel was asked.

"What the fish bite on," he said, losing patience.

"What's your favorite fish?"

"A big one. I'm going to catch a bigger one," he said, before nap time cut short the interview.

RECORD HOLDER — Daniel VanVickle, 3½, holds his 2-pound, 9-ounce white crappie caught last April. The catch is good enough to be listed in the record books for its size, its type and the age of its captor.

Frito-Lay president says U.S.

should abandon 'Great Society'

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The president of Frito-Lay Co. says that the cultural revolution that began with the "Great Society" speech of President Lyndon Johnson has failed and the nation needs new direction — particularly in education and criminal justice.

D. Wayne Calloway made the comments in a speech on the Abilene Christian University campus Wednesday.

Johnson envisioned an America "so successful, so rich, so perfect and so wealthy that we could create a society in which no problems existed, in which all futures were assured and all risks eliminated," Calloway said.

He said the program allowed the federal government — and society in general — to stop setting priorities.

"We could have everything we wanted at no cost at all. There was only one problem. It didn't work," he said.

Calloway said the Great Society triggered major changes in education and, with it, increased bureaucracy, cost and federal control. But he added that even though $2,000 is now spent a year on each student, more than one of every five of students is functionally illiterate.

The Golden G-String

Award presented to stripping excellence

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Move over, Oscar, Emmy, Tony and Grammy. Strippers will soon have their own prize for excellence: the "Golden G-String Award" to be presented at an international convention of the bump-and-grind set.

Joanne Hatch of Calgary, Alberta, said Wednesday she hoped the three-day program, set for June 16-18 at the Sahara Hotel here, would "upgrade the image of our profession."

Labeled Strip-Tease Artist Roundup, the event will be open to dancers, agents, hotel and club management and costume designers, said Ms. Hatch, a 12-year veteran of the business.

She estimates there are 15,000 to 20,000 strippers in North America, ranging in age from 17 to 40.

The convention is open to retirees as well as current dancers, she said.

The event is to conclude with six hours of competition among male and female strippers for what Ms. Hatch has dubbed the first annual "Golden G-String Award."

Thursday Notes

TED TURNER
He's honored

March 10, the date when members of the Thursday Notes Committee of Athletic Excellence names its Sportsman of the Year. The envelope please...drumroll...and the winner. Atlanta's soft-spoken Ted Turner!

Ted was unable to attend this week's writing but thanks his mother, dog "Atlantis" and all viewers of WTBS for the honor. And now back to our regular programming.

Meetings and special events...

•Fast-pitch people are urged to meet with Tom Mize and his friends next Thursday at 7 p.m. at Wayne Henry's to organize this summer's industrial fast-pitch softball league. Six teams are in the works and top newcomers to the program are big (that's in 6-6) Phillip Ritchey of Coahoma and James Walker, formerly of Big Spring High.

•A reception honoring legendary Lamesa High basketball coach O.W. Follis is scheduled from 2-5 p.m. March 19 at the Dawson Co. Women's Building. Former players and cheerleaders are special guests. An ex-ballplayers basketball game follows at 7 p.m. at the Lamesa Middle School gym.

11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, members of the Howard College Hawks baseball team, coaches Bill Griffin and John Weeks and those sultry bat girls will be at Pollard Chevrolet to meet the public. You can find something to eat, too, like hot dogs and apple pie. Get it? Baseball...hot dogs...apple pie...and Chevrolet...

Event of baseball interest. When the Hawks play Western Oklahoma in a doubleheader Saturday March 19, a special collection will be taken up to benefit the Dora Roberts Rehab Center.

Charlie Merritt, a former semi-pro ballplayer with the Big Spring Broncos and Midland Black Indians and a current client at Dora Roberts, will toss out the first pitch. The hat will be passed with donations collected to be presented at "A Night in Chinatown" that evening by HC president Dr. Charles Hays.

Since it's a Saturday event, all baseball fans should be at the ballpark to support the idea.

*****

Coming up next week is the annual ABC Relays at Blankenship Field on the Big Spring High campus. Boys and girls teams from across West Texas will be on hand for the one-day track and field extravaganza. While you're out at the Hawk doubleheader, stop in and watch the area's top track meet.

Speaking of track, Carla Jackson is now just a fond memory in Big Spring but is becoming a standout at Abilene Christian University. The former state Class AAAAA long jump champ debuted outdoors last week at the University of Texas with a winning 18-5 1/4 leap. Her effort was one of four firsts for the Wildcats.

*****

And finally, from the famous Herald Hole-In-One Scrapbook, Sam Thurman is the latest honoree. Thurman knocked it in on No. 3 at the Country Club, a 157-yard shot with a 4 iron. Witnessing his feat — why is it the same guys every time? — were Jack Cook, Dick Pfeiffer, Don Reynolds and Bill McClendon. — GREG JAKLEWICZ

Astros' J.R. undergoes surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors began operating on Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard today to remove and replace a clogged artificial artery placed in his left leg three years ago after a stroke that almost ended his career.

Hermann Hospital spokeswoman Debora Kuehler said surgery was under way at 8:55 a.m. She said she did not know if the procedure had started as scheduled at 7:30 a.m., but added doctors still planned to explain the operation to reporters in a 2 p.m. news conference.

Dr. Timothy Flynn and Dr. Charles VanBuren were to remove the artificial artery and replace it with a vessel from another part of Richard's body, said the team spokesman.

Richard, a former All-Star pitcher, suffered a near-fatal stroke in July 1980. He has been attempting since to rehabilitate his pitching and return to the major leagues.

He developed problems with circulation in his leg while at spring training with the Astros and tests showed that the artery graft was clogged.

The problem originates, said the spokesman, from a 1980 surgical procedure. Doctors then removed a portion of an artery from Richard's left leg to repair a clogged artery in his neck that had led to the stroke. The leg artery was replaced with the artificial graft.

Dr. William Fields, Richard's personal physician, said he should be pitching again in about six weeks. The doctor predicted Richards would be back in the major leagues this year.

A 6-foot-8 right-hander with a fast ball clocked at nearly 100 mph, Richard was the National League's starting pitcher in the 1980 All-Star game. He had a 10-4 record and a 1.89 earned run average.

His stroke came shortly after the All-Star game and long months of rehabilitation followed.

Rangers lower ticket prices

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Rangers have lowered ticket prices for the 1983 season, officials say.

The change was announced Wednesday by Rangers vice president Larry Schmittou. Adult general admission prices dropped from $4 to $3.50, children's general admission from $2.50 to $2 and plaza level tickets from $6.50 to $6, he said.

The Rangers had raised all ticket prices by $1 soon after the 1982 season opened.

Tickets for opening day and all games go on sale Friday.

TAKING FLIGHT AT HOWARD — Big Spring High basketball standout Shell Rutledge, center, signed a letter-of-intent to play for coach Don Stevens and the

Shell Rutledge signs with HC

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

With six starting or part-time starting sophomores graduating, Howard College coach Don Stevens has already hit the highways in search of freshmen to fill his depleted Hawk Queens roster for the 1983-84 season. He made a giant stride in fulfilling his needs Wednesday afternoon.

Shell Rutledge, a three-sport athlete and District 4-5A all-district basketball selection at Big Spring High School, became the first player to sign a scholarship agreement with Howard College.

The 5-10 senior forward scored 13 points a game for the Lady Steers this past season, leading her team to a 15-12 season record and third place finish in the 4-AAAAAA standings. She was an honorable mention all-league choice as a junior and preceded this year's basketball award with an honorable mention selection in basketball.

"I wanted to get a scholarship to play basketball," Rutledge said. "I like the way coach Stevens runs his program at Howard. Everybody on the team is a threat on offense."

Rutledge added she liked her chances of considerable playing time as a freshman and staying in Big Spring. "My family is moving back (from the East Coast) to Big Spring," she said.

Stevens made the BSHS standout his first recruit because of her outstanding leaping ability, quickness and inside scoring abilities. "I've got to work harder on my ball-handling," she admitted Wednesday, "and my free throws."

"I'm excited for her," said high school coach Annette Fowler. "I know she has a lot of potential.

There are a few areas she has a weakness in but she has the ability to improve in them. I'll miss her."

Signing her to the letter-of-intent was Howard College athletic director Harold Wilder. "Coach Stevens says she has a rare combination of athletic ability and high type personality," he said. "She's the kind of person we're trying to attract to our program."

Stevens expects her game to improve now that she'll concentrate solely on basketball. "Now that she'll be in basketball nine months of the year, he feels she can become a blue-chip player."

Rutledge is also a track standout, running on BSHS relay teams and was the second place finisher at district and third place winner at regionals last year in the 200 meters.

BASEBALL
•The Big Spring High Steers and Lamesa Golden Tornadoes are in the Abilene Invitational baseball tournament Thursday and Friday.

The Steers battle the Abilene High junior varsity at 1 p.m. today at Rose Park while the Tors tested Cooper, also at 1 p.m., at Cooper High. The winners play at 4 p.m. at Cooper while the losers also play at 4 p.m. at Rose Park.

Abilene High, Lubbock Coronado, Fort Worth Carter-Riverside and San Angelo are the four other teams participating in the tournament.

Big Spring enters the tournament with a 3-3 record, losing 10-2 to Coronado in Lubbock Monday. Lamesa is 3-1 after splitting a Tuesday doubleheader with Lubbock Estacado.

•The Howard College Hawks embark on their first road trip of the season today when they meet powerhouse Ranger College under the lights at 7 p.m. in Ranger.

The teams meet again Friday for a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

The Hawks are 8-4-1 for the season, winning one of three Region V games this past weekend against McLennan.

Probable starter for HC is Brian Robbins (0-0).

Top hitters for the Hawks are third baseman Blake Rosson (13 of 31, batting .372), right fielder-designated hitter Billy Mitchell (16 of 43, batting .372), Bobby Behnsch (16 of 45, batting .356), and Stephon Hodge (18 of 44, batting .419). Hodge is hitless in just one game and has missed two due to illness.

Scuba course starts soon

The 19th Annual Scuba Diving Course begins March 24 at the local YMCA. The course is held twice weekly and should last through May 22 according to Dr. Floyd Mays who will instruct the special program again.

Cost is $125 for Y members and $150 for non-members with minimum age set at 18 years. All equipment is provided by the Y except for wet suits.

Applications for the sanctioned course are available at the Y.

Soccer league forming

The Westside Community Center is forming a summer soccer league and March has been designated sign-up month.

Sign-up nights are each Thursday at 7 p.m. during the month. Parents are encouraged to help with the program.

For further information, contact organizers Hank Weibacher at 267-6680 or Gilbert Padilla at 263-3648.

Soccer league starting

The YMCA's spring soccer league kicks into action this weekend with three leagues hitting the field.

In the 5-7 age division, Elrod Furniture battles State National at 9:30 a.m. followed by the ATS-JLU Builders game at 10:15 Saturday.

On Sunday, Elrod meets JLU Builders at 1:30 p.m. while ATS and State National play at 2:15 p.m.

For 8-9-year-olds, Sid Smith plays Anderson at 11:15 a.m. Saturday with the Penney's-Dorland game next at 12:15 p.m. On Sunday, Forsan tangles with Dorland at 3 p.m. with Sid Smith and Penney's battling at 4 p.m.

The 10-13-year-old division begins Saturday at 9:30 a.m. with KKIK and KBYG battling. At 10:30 a.m., Beall's and First National play. On Sunday, the Herald and First National square off at 1:30 p.m. with the KKIK and Beall's game following at 2:30 p.m.

Meet the Hawks

The Big Spring public can meet the Howard College Hawks baseball team, coaches and bat girls Saturday from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. at Pollard Chevrolet.

Coach to be honored

LAMESA — A reception for longtime Lamesa basketball coach and athletic director O.W. Follis is scheduled from 2-5 p.m. March 19 at the Dawson Co. Women's Building.

An ex-players game is set for 7 p.m. that evening in the Lamesa Middle School.

Lamesa splits twin-bill

LAMESA — The Lamesa Tors split a doubleheader baseball game with Lubbock Estacato Wednesday, losing the first 10-0, but firing back in the second for a 13-11 victory.

In the first game, Lubbock had 10 runs on 7 hits and no errors. Lamesa had no runs, 1 hit and 6 errors.

Wayne Dotson was the winning pitcher and Tony Cervantes was the loser. The game was called in the fifth inning because of the 10-run rule.

Dotson and Felix Kennedy hit solo home runs for Lubbock in the first game.

In the second game, Lamesa scored 13 runs on 10 hits and committed 2 errors. Lubbock had 11 runs on 14 hits and 4 errors.

Steve Teague was winning pitcher and Michael Garibay was the loser.

Gilbert Arredondo hit a grand slam homerun in the second and a solo shot in the fourth for Lamesa. Also for Lamesa, Alfred Morales hit a solo homer in the third inning and a 2-run homer in the fourth.

Lamesa is now 3-3. They play in the Abilene Invitational Tournament today.

Evert Lloyds takes match

DALLAS (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd took a long sip of water and shook herself out of the daze caused by an unexpectedly tough match against unseeded West German Eva Pfaff.

Lloyd did win Wednesday in the second round of the Virginia Slims of Dallas tennis tournament, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, but it took longer than she had hoped.

"I was a great match for me to play," said Lloyd. "It's good for me to be pushed. That's what I want are good matches."

This one was good throughout as the serve," said Lloyd, "the tournament's second-seeded player behind Martina Navratilova. "She was just serving bullets."

But Lloyd, who defeated first-round opponent Mary Lou Piatek 6-1, 6-0, Tuesday, welcomed the surprisingly tough victory.

"It was a great match for me to play," said Lloyd. "It's good for me to be pushed. That's what I want are good matches."

This one was good throughout as the serve," said Lloyd, "the tournament's second-seeded player behind Martina Navratilova. "She was just serving

Bay Hill Classic starts today

Floyd has something to prove

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd has some lost ground to make up.

"It was a very humbling experience. It was deeply frustrating, even embarrassing. It was not a lot of fun," Floyd said of last week's Honda-Inverry Classic, where he tied for sixth and won $12,950.

Floyd knows full well he should have won it. "I let one get away, just gave it away," he said before teeing off today in the first round of the $350,000 Bay Hill Classic.

From a 3-shot lead after 36 holes last week, Floyd thrashed his way to a fat 78, one of his worst rounds in three seasons. He rebounded in the final round, but it was too late.

"I hit a lot of bad shots. I didn't make the putts. I lost my confidence. I lost my composure," he said.

"I don't show a lot of emotion on the golf course. Some people think I don't have emotions. But I do. I'm human. I have emotions. And that hurt. You just have to be man enough to put it behind you and go on to the next one.

"That's what I have to do here — put it behind me. It's over. Now I have to try to play well in this one. There's no reason I shouldn't. I've played well for three years now," added Floyd, who has won three tournaments in each of the last two seasons and is the current PGA title-holder.

"I'm still playing well. I'm playing well enough to win. It's just a matter of getting it done," Floyd said. Despite his one-round lapse last week, he has finished seventh or better in four of his last five starts, a record of consistency that made him one of the prime candidates for the $63,000 first prize here.

Other major standouts testing the 7,089-yard, par-71 Bay Hill Club course, in addition to host Arnold Palmer, are Jack Nicklaus, a second-place finisher last week, U.S. and British Open champion Tom Watson, Masters title-holder Craig Stadler and Tom Kite.

Kite, the defending champion here, won the Crosby earlier this season and is on one of the consistent streaks that has marked his play over the past couple of seasons. In his last four starts he hasn't finished lower than sixth and has collected $117,000.

Other major players include 1983 tournament-winner Isao Aoki, Gil Morgan, Gary Hallberg, Bob Gilder, Keith Fergus and Gary Koch, and Australian Greg Norman, the 1982 leader of the British Order of Merit and winner of the Australian Masters and Hong Kong Open in his last two starts.

NBC will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Three-time state champion wins close bout

FORT WORTH (AP) — Quarterfinals in the Texas Golden Gloves boxing championships resume tonight, after Jessie Benavides bested Michael Collins of Houston in their bantamweight bout.

Benavides, a three-time state and two-time national champion won a close but unanimous decision over Collins Wednesday night.

He edged Collins in the finals last year when he won the flyweight title, but lost to the Houston boxer a week later in the American Boxing Federation tournament.

This year, both entered as bantamweights for the first time. Benavides is seeking to add the bantamweight crown to state and national titles he's already won in the flyweight and light flyweight divisions.

The only other 1982 state champion in action on the second night of a five-night tournament was Vincent Releford of Fort Worth. Releford, last year's light welterweight winner, won on a second-round knockout when he slammed a left hook to the head of Corpus Christi's Leonel Longoria in their welterweight bout.

Here are the results of Wednesday night's round of the State Golden Gloves Tournament:

Light Flyweights — Jesus Flores, San Antonio, outpointed Gilbert Sanchez, Austin; Timmy Silva, Wichita Falls, outpointed Juan Vasquez, Corpus Christi; Johnny Miller, Lubbock, outpointed Norman Wheaton, Fort Worth; Robert Curillo, Odessa, outpointed Reginald Howell, Dallas.

Bantamweights — Harry Washington, Fort Worth, outpointed

Arnold Hernandez, San Antonio; Fernie Morales, El Paso, outpointed Alton Chaney, Dallas; Joel Abila, Odessa, stopped Tony Perez, Wichita Falls, TKO (1); Jesse Benavides, Corpus Christi, outpointed Michael Collins, Houston.

Lightweights — Reginald Robinson, Houston, outpointed Daniel Vela, Corpus Christi; Danny Gonzales, Fort Worth, outpointed Miguel Holquin, El Paso; Michael Rose, Dallas, outpointed Ralph Reyes, San Antonio; Edward Parker, Lubbock, outpointed Florencio Saucenda, Odessa.

Welterweights — Vincent Releford, Fort Worth, stopped Leonel Longoria, Corpus Christi, KO (2); Gilbert Castillo, Lubbock, beat Ray Jones, Tyler; Rodell Jones, Austin, outpointed Don Brewer, Wichita Falls; Kenneth Cleveland, Dallas, outpointed Neil Weas, Houston.

Middleweights — Randy Leaks, Lubbock, outpointed Mark Tyler, El Paso; Elton Dublin, Fort Worth, outpointed John Green, Wichita Falls; Gilbert Taylor, Dallas, outpointed Rolando Garcia, Odessa; Pierre Ingram, Austin, outpointed Billy Clay, San Antonio.

Heavyweights — Gilbert Vera, El Paso, outpointed Verbal Jordan, San Antonio; Arthur Powell, Odessa, outpointed Mickey Pryor, Fort Worth; William Marshall, Tyler, outpointed David Vaughn, Wichita Falls.

Spurs slap Suns

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Phoenix Coach Don MacLeod says San Antonio's trips to the charity line late in the game were the crucial factor for the Spurs in their 108-105 victory over Phoenix in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

"It was a very good game. The difference was the free throws in the fourth quarter. San Antonio shot a lot of them and we didn't," MacLeod said.

George Gervin, who picked up almost half of his points at the free throw line, made one of two free shots with eight seconds to wrap up the victory. Larry Nance missed a try at a 3-point goal at the buzzer that would have sent the game into overtime.

The Suns led 100-98 with 2:12 to play, but San Antonio scored seven straight points for a 105-100 lead. Johnny Moore's steal and two free throws with 33 seconds left on the clock capped the rally.

"This was a must-win for us," San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck said. "I knew Phoenix would bounce back from that loss in Dallas, so we wanted to be ready. They had beaten us three games to one, and it was important to win this one in case we meet in the playoffs."

Rare book goes on display

WACO, Texas (AP) — A book in Baylor University's private collection that was printed on the same press that produced the historic Gutenberg Bible goes on display today here, officials have confirmed.

Dr. Robert Collier, dean of graduate studies and research, authenticated "Codex Justinianus," printed in 1475 on parchment, or animal skins.

Collier is an expert on incunabula, or rare book identification. He teaches an English Department graduate course in bibliography and research methods.

"The Baylor copy is perfect in that it has not been reconstructed from disassembled copies," Collier said.

The book is one of nine known "perfect" copies in the United States.

The book was given to Baylor by former U.S. Sen. William Blakely during the 1960s. Law librarian Della Geyer said he reportedly purchased it in London during the 1940s.

Baylor officials said the book contains the legal code of the Roman emperor Justinian and was considered the bible of early lawyers.

The book's printer, Peter Schoeffer, was the son-in-law and partner of Johannes Fust, a lawyer and financier who originally supported Gutenberg but later sued him for failure to pay his debts. The suit resulted in Fust obtaining Gutenberg's equipment.

The book will be on display through March 28 in conjunction with the exhibit of the Gutenberg Bible, which is touring the state as part of the University of Texas centennial celebration.

WANDERING COW — Sidney Kraftsow stands with Julieann, a pregnant 700-pound Brahma heifer, who jumped fences, crossed rivers and highways to travel 30 miles back to her former owner. Kraftsow had sold her because she was such a free spirit.

Julieann, the homing cow, returns home

GENEVA, Fla. (AP) — Julieann, a pregnant, 700-pound "free spirit" of a cow, didn't take it lying down when her owner sold her to a cattle rancher 35 miles down the road.

Like Lassie, she set out for home — jumping fences, crossing rivers and highways and ignoring driving rain in a determined cross-country tramp.

On Monday, 20 hours after she began her trek, the 2-year-old purebred Brahman, about 100 pounds lighter and showing a few scratches on her hide, strolled onto Sidney Kraftsow's farm.

"I've heard of dogs and cats doing that. But a cow? Never," said Kraftsow, throwing an arm around Julieann. "All the cattle people around here are flabbergasted."

Rancher Read Hayes had bought the heifer from Kraftsow on Sunday, took her to his property south of here, near Christmas in Orange County, and penned her up. He said she jumped out of her pen that night, leaped over two four-foot barbed wire fences that surround his pasture and made her way north.

"Talk about instinct," said Hayes. "I'm just amazed that she had that good a sense of direction."

Hayes tracked the cow in Monday's rain along a dirt road to the Orange-Seminole county line. But he lost the trail, apparently because Julieann swam the Econlockhatchee River and forded several small creeks.

Kraftsow said Wednesday he had sold the cow to Hayes because she was such a "free spirit," often jumping five-foot cattle-gate guards to wander in and out of this rural community, browsing through citrus groves and eating oranges and grapefruit.

"Actually, she was such a wanderer that we considered selling her to the Kissimmee market for hamburger," said Kraftsow's wife, Virginia. "But we just couldn't do that because she is a purebred cow."

A University of Central Florida specialist in animal science said he had never heard of a cow performing such a feat.

"It's a homing pigeon instinct that cats, dogs and pigeons have," said Dr. Hal Wallace of the university's College of Agriculture. "But I'm not aware that cattle had that extent of an instinct."

Julieann is carrying a calf sired by another Brahman at Kraftsow's farm. Hayes bought her to breed for purebred offspring.

Uniform Parks and Wildlife rules set for debate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Natural Resources Committee has cleared for full Senate debate a controversial measure putting all 254 counties under control of the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The committee approval came, 8-1, after a last minute plea of protest from East Texans who use dogs to hunt for deer.

The bill would give the commission power to authorize uniform game and fish regulations statewide.

Currently, county commissioners in 71 counties can set some game regulations while another 30 have authority to veto any game and fish regulations made by the state agency. In other counties game and fish regulations are set by the state agency.

"It is our feeling you are doing away with a heritage that has been ours for many years, sports hunting with dogs," said Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville. "We don't feel that hunting with dogs is detrimental with conservation."

"I've been hunting with dogs many times. It's a great sport," said Sen. Lindon Williams, D-Houston, the only vote against the measure.

"We don't feed deer and then hunt them out of boxes like in other parts of the state. The dogs make the deer run. They don't corner and fight them," said O.R. Duff of Polk County. "This sport has been handed down for generations but it will never be approved by the Parks and Wildlife Commission."

In earlier hearings, representatives of sports clubs, environmentalists, and some landowners said the commission could do a more efficient job of protecting the state's wildlife and fishes.

The bill by Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, does not affect shrimp or other shellfish.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said he would support Lyon's bill but he also endorsed another pending Senate bill that calls on the Parks and Wildlife Commission to listen to a citizen's advisory committee on local matters.

The committee also cleared for debate, 6-0, a bill by Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, putting control of the state-owned part of Matagorda Island under the commission. He said the bill merely carried out results of lengthy negotiations between state and federal government.

"Under the contract the wildlife areas will have the same status as the recreation areas," Sharp said.

A third bill, by Williams, was approved 6-0 to increase the Parks and Wildlife Commission from six to nine members.

This would give West Texas and other parts of the state a chance to be represented in commission actions," Williams said.

Weinberger study documents Soviet military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger Wednesday issued a new report which he said documents a "relentless" Soviet drive toward military superiority in all fields, including space warfare.

"The recent change in Soviet leadership gives every indication that neither the direction or the pace of military programs is likely to slacken," said the 107-page document detailing Soviet arms gains since late 1981. That was when Weinberger put out his first such report.

"The U.S.S.R. during the past year has pushed ahead with force modernization, expansion and forward deployment on a scale even larger than before," the report said.

President Reagan said in a statement today that U.S. defense policy was "based on a very simple premise: the United States will not start fights."

"We will not be the first to use aggression. We will not seek to occupy other lands or control other peoples," he said.

Reagan, however, said that to support his defense program, the American preemptive attack, and are using their military power to extend their influence and enforce their will in every corner of the globe."

In a foreword, Weinberger said that "the updated facts presented in this report leave no doubt as to the U.S.S.R.'s dedication to achieving military superiority in all fields."

At a Pentagon news conference this morning that was televised via satellite to Europe, Weinberger warned that "we will be accepting permanent nuclear inferiority" unless Congress approves the administration's plans for a military buildup, including the controversial MX missile, the advanced B-1B bomber and the Trident submarine-launched missile.

Weinberger said it was "dangerous" to talk now about a nuclear freeze, which a House committee urged on Tuesday. The defense secretary said the United States had "begun to catch up" with the Soviets, but that their buildup had meantime "continued to increase."

BLACKJACK TESTED — The Soviet Union has begun testing a new generation of strategic, manned bombers, the Blackjack A, larger than the U.S. B-1, according to a report released by the Department of Defense. This artist's rendering is included in the Pentagon report, "Soviet Military Power."

tercontinental ballistic missiles but that the United States is "obviously superior" in missile-firing submarines, although the Soviets are starting to deploy a giant new missile-launching submarine called the Typhoon. He said the two countries are about even in bombers.

The document was issued in an obvious attempt to muster support for President Reagan's embattled defense spending plans at a time when even Republicans loyal to the administration are calling for cuts.

The report was published one day after the House Foreign Affairs Committee, over administration objections, approved by a 27-9 vote a non-binding resolution calling on the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate an immediate, verifiable freeze on their nuclear weapons.

The Council for a Livable World, which described itself as one of the nation's oldest arms control organizations, criticized the Pentagon report today as a "blatant political gambit designed not to inform but rather to undermine the growing movement for a bilateral and verifiable nuclear freeze."

Unlike many government documents, the latest Pentagon report — entitled "Soviet Military Power" — was printed in a form designed to attract readers in the general public, as well as Congress. The red-covered report is filled with multicolored sketches, photographs, illustrations and easy-to-read charts.

It contained no real surprises but does provide details on a wide variety of Soviet weapons and confirms some unofficial reports, such as the recent Soviet testing of a second new solid-fuel, intercontinental ballistic missile.

The report was issued several days after government specialists on the Soviet Union reported that Soviet military spending from 1976 to 1981 rose at a slower rate than they previously had estimated — about that period.

However, those specialists cautioned that Soviet research and production facilities have expanded rapidly, suggesting that "we may be facing a new burst of Soviet weapons output."

Indicating rising concern about Soviet space developments, the report devoted much more attention than the 1981 document to what it refers to as a "Soviet quest for military supremacy" in space.

It said the Soviets could be able to launch their first prototype of a space-based laser anti-satellite system in the late 1980s or very early 1990s.

Anti-missile systems using space-based lasers could be tested in the 1990s "but probably would not be operational until the turn of the century," the report said.

The Pentagon said the Soviet program to develop high-energy laser weapons is three to five times bigger than the U.S. effort.

Since 1981, the Soviets have tested high-energy laser systems for land- and sea-based air defenses, it disclosed. In the late 1980s, the report said, "it is possible that the Soviets could produce laser weapons for several ... ground, ship and aerospace applications."

Laser weapons, using intense beams of light to destroy targets, would represent revolutionary advances in warfare.

The report said also said the Soviet commitment to its manned space program is growing.

"The development of a large manned space station by about 1990 to maintain a military presence in space is one of the goals of the new heavy-lift launcher (rocket) systems now in development," the report said.

In addition, it suggested that, before the end of the century, the Soviets will send aloft space stations that could weigh more than 100 tons "and be able to support a large crew for extended periods without replenishment."

The United States has no plans for a manned space station, and its program for possible development of a space laser weapon is in a preliminary stage, with a firm decision due in 1987 on whether to proceed.

Available evidence indicates that the Soviets are developing a space system similar to the American space shuttle, as well as what was described as "a smaller space plane."

The Soviets already have conducted some orbital developmental test flights of that smaller space vehicle, the Pentagon said without elaboration.

Discussing Soviet advances in the current generation of strategic weapons, the report acknowledged that the Soviets have conducted their first tests of a new solid-fueled, long-range ballistic missile similar in size to the planned U.S. MX missile, and have conducted the first test launch of a new, small, solid-propellant ICBM that could be made mobile.

Pentagon briefing officers said the solid-fueled ICBM would not violate terms of the SALT II arms control treaty because it represents a "variation" of a previously tested such missile.

The report gave fresh details on the new long-range Soviet bomber, code-named Blackjack A, which it said could join the Soviet air force as early as 1986 or 1987.

This bomber, said to be bigger than the new U.S. B-1, will be capable of flying unrefueled more than 4,500 miles with a full load of bomb is about the same combat radius as the B-1, but nearly twice as fast, according to the report.

"We will not be the first to use aggression. We will not seek to occupy other lands or control other peoples" — Ronald Reagan people "must get the straight facts" about what he called the Soviet threat.

"The Soviets have not slowed the pace of their enormous military buildup," he said. "In little over a year, they have begun testing new models in almost every class of nuclear weapons. They are dramatically expanding their Navy and Air Force, are training and equipping their ground forces for buildup, told reporters at a briefing. "It looks like they're trying to dominate the world."

However, under questioning, the official — who spoke on the condition that his name not be used — said that "strategically we are better" than the Soviets in strategic nuclear weapons. "We are holding our own," he said.

Another official said the Soviets are superior in in-

Auto fuel economy won't increase in '83

DETROIT (AP) — Because of lower gas prices and renewed popularity of big cars, the average fuel economy of cars sold in the United States will not increase this year, for the first time since 1974, a government engineer said Wednesday.

The 1983 fuel economy for cars sold in this country is projected to be no higher than 1982's 27.4 mile-per-gallon average, said Ed LeBaron, engineer at the Environmental Protection Agency's Motor Vehicle Emission Laboratory in Ann Arbor.

He attributed the stabilization to lower gasoline prices and renewed popularity of big cars.

Also this model year, Japanese companies will continue their superiority in fuel efficiency with at least seven Japanese automakers expected to surpass the federal government's 26 mpg corporate average fuel economy requirement, according to an EPA study. In contrast, America's two largest automakers will fall below the standard.

Mileages in 1983 for all imported cars, including European-made, will average about 32 mpg, about 23 percent higher than the domestic's 26 mpg, the study said.

The last time fuel economy remained the same was from 1973 to 1974, when average mileages were 14.2 mpg each year. The last time average fuel economy decreased from one year to another was from 1970 to 1971, when it dropped from 14.8 mpg to 14.4 mpg.

"But the federal standards are going to be a forcing factor until 1985 at least," LeBaron said about fuel economy after 1983.

The automakers will be required to have corporate average fuel economies of 27.5 mpg by the 1985 model year.

Part of the reason why fuel economy is not increasing is an average weight boost on 1983 cars of 38 pounds compared with 1982 models, and engines that are an average 5 cubic inches larger, said Karl Hellman, branch chief at the Ann Arbor lab.

Honda expected to have the top average fleet fuel economy for 1983 — 36.4 mpg, according to the study, in which automakers' figures for sales and car mileages were collected last fall.
