Odessa pipeline explosion kills 4

ODESSA (AP) — Investigators found four bodies today and were looking for that of another person presumed killed when a natural gas pipeline ruptured and ignited into a tower of flame, officials said.

An explosion, triggered when a drill pierced the pipeline, destroyed two trailer homes Tuesday and sent flames roaring 600 feet into the night sky 10 miles west of this West Texas city.

Four bodies were found after the blaze was quelled about 7 a.m., said Audrey Smith, a sheriff's department spokeswoman. None of the bodies had been identified, she said.

Ector County Sheriff's Capt. David Saunders said four members of a family of five were in one of the trailer homes when the pipeline was punctured at 7:30 p.m. They, along with one man on the drilling crew, are presumed dead, he said.

A nearby resident said the flames "cremated" the family's trailer. Officials said four of the injured lived in the other trailer. Two were critically burned.

"If there was anybody in that trailer, I know for sure there's no way they made it," said Rusty Glover, a witness. Glover said he saw one man who was burned "from the waist up."

Another man may have been trapped inside a pickup truck too close to the fire to reach, while a fifth person was overcome as he ran from the flames, officials said.

"We're looking through the rubbish to see if we can find people who are missing," Sheriff's Captain Gene Kloss said this morning.

Three deputies and 30 to 40 firefighters in nine fire trucks kept vigil near the flames early this morning, officials said.

Saunders said the fire continued after the gas supply in the eight-inch pipeline was shut off.

Glover, who lives about one mile from the trailers, said the explosion lit up his front yard and sounded

Basketball coach benched

Two Howard College faculty members were terminated when the Howard County Junior College Board of Trustees yesterday chose not to renew their contracts. The board also accepted resignations from two other instructors.

Harold Wilder, athletic director and men's basketball coach, and John Chandler, instructor in journalism and drama, found their one-year contracts would not be renewed for the coming year. The board reached its decision after meeting in closed session for about 30 minutes.

Chandler met with trustees in the closed session to plead his case; however, Wilder was not present at the meeting.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, said he and the board believed that a change was needed to make the men's basketball team more competitive in Western Junior College Athletic Conference and Region V Tournament play.

"It's a hard decision to make and one we would rather not make," said Harold Davis, president of the board. "However, I know Harold wants to continue coaching and he'll land on his feet. We all wish him well and will be pulling for him wherever he goes."

No reason was given on why Chandler's contract was not renewed for the coming year.

Hays also said that the position of assistant men's basketball coach has been eliminated, thus putting assistant coach Greg Polinsky out of a job.

"However, it has nothing to do with Greg's performance. We simply will not have an assistant coaching position next year," Hays said.

The board appointed Davis and Cold front blows through Big Spring

From staff and wire reports

A cold front extending over the western half of the state brought cooler temperatures, showers and wind into Big Spring early this morning.

The high winds accompanying the front caused at least one incident of damage today. Big Spring police reported the gusts caused a scaffolding at Oilfield Industrial Lines to roll down an incline and fall on two cars at the plant.

The forecast for Big Spring calls for a 30 percent chance of showers with continued gusty winds from 15-25 miles per hour. The high temperature today is expected in the upper 40s, with a low tonight in the mid 30s. Forecasters say temperatures should warm up into the 60s tomorrow.

The U.S. Big Spring Field Station reported that since 8 a.m. the city had received four-one hundredths of an inch of rain.

In other areas of the state, the front brought snow mixed with rain and gales of up to 40 miles per hour.

About an inch of snow was on the ground in Amarillo after the front passed through the Panhandle, the National Weather Service said.

Scattered showers and thunder-showers extended from the Trans-Pecos area into the south plains

Car, kid collide

A 7-year-old College Heights Elementary School student was injured when he collided with a car while crossing a street on his way to school this morning.

Justin Speer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wretha Speer of 1010 E. 20th, was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital. He suffered bruises and abrasions, according to a hospital spokesman.

The incident took place at the corner of 17th and Austin at 8:10 a.m., according to Big Spring police Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat.

"From what we know, the mother let her two kids out of the vehicle and they ran across the street," he said. "One of the children (Justin) ran into the vehicle on the left rear

Schneider dukes it out

'Hazzard' star begins movie career on the run

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

John Schneider wants to be John Wayne — at least as far as his movie career is concerned.

The television, recording and movie star was in Dallas last week for a March of Dimes benefit showing of his first motion picture, "Eddie Macon's Run" — an action-adventure picture also starring Kirk Douglas.

The 28-year-old New York native said he hopes to pattern his movie career after his hero John Wayne.

"The Duke" played basically the same character in all his films, Schneider said.

"With a sympathetic character, you can go anywhere from there," Schneider said. "I like the character of the good guy."

"Eddie Macon's Run" was picked by Schneider as his first motion picture for several reasons, mainly the quality of the people with the film. Martin Bregman, Louis Stroller and Jeff Kanew were involved in such award-winning films as "Serpico," "Dog Day Afternoon," "Badlands," and "Carrie."

A second quality was the input Schneider and other actors had into the movie. He said he and co-star Kirk Douglas were able to sit down with the writer and director and make changes in the movie.

Schneider also said he chose a film like this because it was a career move instead of a commercial one. He noted he shortened a car chase to avoid comparison with his TV series.

"With the success of 'Dukes,' anyone one of us could do a film that would do very, very well but wouldn't move us that far in our career," Schneider said, holding his thumb and forefinger an inch apart.

The blond actor hopes his performance in "Eddie Macon's Run" will "surprise some people." He says the hardest thing to do is to make some people enjoy something. Movies are not supposed to be "real life," Schneider said.

"Motion pictures are entertainment — they are for people to come in and cheer on ... Rocky Balboa beating up his opponent or Eddie Macon making it to his wife and son."

Audiences, particularly young ones, don't confuse real life with motion pictures, Schneider said.

"Kids are incredibly smart," Schneider said. "I think you have to give them a lot more credit. They know they are going to a movie."

Despite labeling his movie as just entertainment, Schneider said the film does have something to say. He says although "Eddie Macon's Run," is a chase movie, it has value.

"It's a relationship movie — it's not a 'Smokey and the Bandit,' Schneider said. "The things about the family, about how important that is, about love and about what that can do for you — that outweighs the other things."

"The other things" include the language in the film — "I'm not real proud of that" — and the idea that breaking the law is acceptable if you can get away, Schneider says. Although Eddie Macon is a convict however wrongfully imprisoned, Schneider says Macon's family ties override any anti-law bias.

In two recent television movies, Schneider appeared in roles as something of a romantic leading man — a change he appreciates.

"I like that. In 'Eddie Macon's Run' and 'Happy Endings' and in 'Dreamhouse,' the characters are all

RUNNING FOR FREEDOM ... AND STARDOM — John Schneider sprints down the road in his first motion picture — "Eddie Macon's Run." Schneider plays a unfairly-imprisoned man who escapes from Huntsville prison to run to Mexico to join his wife and son. Schneider hopes his first feature film will garner him new fans and "surprise some people."

"Shrew" play interpreted

Richard Fendrich of the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf will interpret Saturday night's performance of "The Taming of the Shrew," according to Cecilia McKenzie, director of the production.

The Shakespeare classic will be produced with a Western flair, she said. Actors will be attired in western clothing and the stage will feature western props. Dialogue will remain exactly as penned by the Bard.

The Spring City Theater play will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for children.

Thursday night performance will be in conjunction with the Dora Roberts Community Week, and ticket proceeds will go toward the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Participants in the community week activities may attend a reception before the performance at which hors d'oeuvres will be provided by the Brass Nail.

The play is open to the public each night, Mrs. McKenzie said.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any member of Spring City Theater. For more ticket information, contact Mrs. McKenzie at 263-1451.

Absentee voting urged

Howard County voters are being told they may want to vote absentee in the Big Spring city council and school board races because election day will be April 2 during Easter weekend.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said many people may be out of town since Friday, April 1 will be a holiday for many. Absentee voting will continue through March 29 for the school board and the city council.

A total of 12 persons have voted absentee so far in the school board election, according to Mrs. Ray.

Nine persons have cast absentee ballots for the Big Spring city council, according to City Financial Director Tom Ferguson.

Absentee voting for the school board is being held in the county clerk's office in the Howard County courthouse. City council absentee voting is at City Hall.

SWCID wants your green

The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf is asking Big Spring and the surrounding communities to show their support for the school by wearing green tomorrow on St. Patrick's Day.

School officials are seeking increased state funding to keep the institute open.

very much normal people," Schneider said. "They get themselves into bizarre situations and the audience sees how they react."

The unmarried star is currently juggling three careers and a strong interest in another. With six months devoted to his television series, four months for a movie and two months for a record album, he says he doesn't have much spare time.

"If I break them up that way, then they can be done. In the past, I tried to do the albums after work (filming 'The Dukes of Hazzard')." Schneider said.

Schneider would like to race cars professionally as well, but laments he just does not have the time.

"I love fast cars. It's opened up a whole new world, new friends, a whole new topic of conversation." In addition to his careers, Schneider spends considerable time with yet another passion: kids. He has been chairman of the March of Dimes Superwalk for three years.

During the showing of "Eddie Macon's Run," in Dallas, he spent several minutes talking with children in wheelchairs from local hospitals.

"I walked it (the Superwalk) the last two years," Schneider said. "I mention it everywhere I go. I just like to get kids involved in it."

Since he was a child actor himself at age eight, Schneider said he has enjoyed working with kids. He likes their genuine honesty and the fact they do not fool easily.

"They're very open with their emotions — they either like you or they don't like you," Schneider said. "That's neat, especially in this business."

Schneider's next film will begin shooting in July — a western based on Willie Nelson's hit album "The Redheaded Stranger." The film will be made in Mexico because of cheaper costs, he added.

Schneider hopes the western will succeed because he feels it is time for them to return to popularity.

"There's two things the industry doesn't seem to think is working: westerns and musicals. Frankly, I'd like to get out of space and come back to the Old West."

Movies aside, Schneider plans to start filming "Dukes" — as he calls it — in April. He said he and Tom Wopat are back to stay in the TV series. The two proved the car was not the star of the show, Schneider said.

"That was Warners Brothers' big publicity campaign: 'General Lee — The Star of The Show,'" Schneider said with a laugh. "Yeah, well, ... it's just a car."

He will be there as long as the show is, Schneider said.

SA rewards 'good works'

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

"The greatest sin is to neglect good works." So said Chesley McDonald, a longtime Howard County rancher and Abilene Christian University trustee, speaking yesterday at the Salvation Army's annual advisory luncheon at the First United Methodist Church.

In the spirit of McDonald's advice, several individuals and organizations were recognized at the luncheon for their work in the community with the Salvation Army.

Honored was Salvation Army secretary Rosie Stapp. Handling up to 60 requests a day, she is the first sign of the Salvation Army for everyone seeking help. She often puts in 20 to 40 hours of unpaid overtime each week in her effort to help people.

Lt. Carroll E. Braun of the Salvation Army presented Ms. Stapp with one of two special awards. A second award went to bookkeeper Mona Hyatt. Due to budgetary problems, the Army could not pay a full-time bookkeeper. Mrs. Hyatt agreed to cut her pay in half but continued to work full-time.

Johnnie Lou Avery presented the Christmas report for the Salvation Army in recognizing numerous organizations for their work. The canned food drive brought recognition for the public schools, particularly the top three collectors: Runnels Junior High, Big Spring High School and Lakeview Elementary.

A donation of $7,000 in toys and food from Oilfield Industrial Lines (O.I.L.) was acknowledged.

Other citations went to the Horace Tubb family, KWKI, Big Spring Cable, the Civitan Club, Guy V. Speck, the Blue Knights, the Rotary Club, the Downtown Lions Club and the Blue Knights of the Big Spring Police Department.

The 50 volunteers from the Big Spring Prison Camp were recognized for their work as bell-ringers at the numerous kettles around town at Christmas.

The Payne family was honored for their special fund, established in 1963 in memory of their son. Braun said the fund had just been used to install a new kitchen at the main Citadel.

MCDONALD MAKES A POINT — Chesley McDonald gestures with the bent finger he says he shares with Roger Staubach while speaking at the Salvation Army luncheon yesterday. McDonald entertained the crowd with several humorous jokes and closed with a serious theme.

Braun said 73 percent of the $256,407 spent in 1982 by the Salvation Army for services went to Howard County residents. The Army assisted 13,404 residents with 14,787 meals and 5,790 days of care provided, Braun said.

The Salvation Army advisory board chairman Jerry Reid presided over the meeting.

board members Dr. Charles Warren and Don McKinney to a committee to screen applicants for the head coaching position.

Hays said the college has already received 25 applicants for the job.

The board also received and accepted resignations from Arthur Castetter, instructor of music, and Jacqueline Allen, instructor in the dental hygiene program.

In other action on the board:

• Hired Curtis Lee Johnston as an instructor in auto body repair.

• Approved a bid for employee insurance from the Texas Association of School Boards for $43.99 a month per employee. The package includes medical, dental and life insurance coverage.

• Accepted an $8,686 bid from Pollard Chevrolet for a staff car. The car is a 1983 Malibu.

• Approved a bid of $1,397 for a 180-200 amp Mig welder to be used in auto mechanics, and a bid of 1,452 for a cut-off saw for the Agriculture Department. Both bids came from Wes-Tex Welding in Big Spring.

• Increased the graduation fees for students from $17.50 to $20.

The vehicle, a blue 1980 Ford LTD belonging to the City of Big Spring, was driven by Kenneth Richard Huffman of 1907 Runnels, an employee of the city water department.

The car was moving through the crosswalk, Jeffcoat said.

Mrs. Wretha Speer said both her son and his sister, Lee Ann, 9, told her Justin was hit at the front of the car.

"I didn't see it happen," she said, "I just looked back and saw him on the ground."

Mrs. Speer said Justin received a bruised hip and a knot on the back of his head.

like "lightning and thunder."

The puncture in the line, which carried 1,160 pounds of pressure, was 20 miles from the pump station, "and all that gas has to escape somewhere," Glover said.

The fire broke out after a crew drilling fence post holes began working in the area, he said.

Laverne Mann, nursing supervisor at Odessa Medical Center

Hospital, said two people, including one member of the two-man drilling crew, were transferred to the burn unit at Lubbock General Hospital in critical condition.

They were Gloria Pena, 39, with second- and third-degree burns, and Santiago Gutierrez, 42, with second- and third-degree burns over 90 percent of his body.

Gutierrez was listed in critical condition this morning, and Mrs.

Pena was listed in serious condition, said hospital spokeswoman Romano Hoffman.

Mrs. Pena's husband, 44-year-old Alvarado, and his son, 10-year-old George, were admitted to the Odessa hospital in stable condition with second-degree burns, Ms. Mann said. A second son, Alvarado Jr., 13, was treated for burns and released.

Tornado hits ranch, levels 4 homes; 3 hurt

HARLINGEN (AP) — A tornado that struck a ranch near Harlingen Tuesday evening destroyed $50,000 worth of farm equipment, two mobile homes and two frame homes, the National Weather Service reported.

A 42-year-old woman was hospitalized while two others were treated for their injuries and released from a hospital here, officials said.

Alice Peters, 42, was in stable condition at Valley Baptist Hospital with lacerations, bruises and a fracture, said a spokeswoman. Celia Salazar, 14, and Cecelia Salazar, 15, were treated for lacerations and released, the spokeswoman said.

The tornado touched down about 5:30 p.m. 2 1/2 miles south of Harlingen on the W.D. Peters ranch.

Laurie Peters, 21, had left her trailer home with her 8-month-old daughter, Amanda, just moments before the twister demolished the trailer.

Don Ocker, weather service forecaster in Brownsville, said the service has no estimate of the tornado's wind velocity.

Police Beat

Man charged with hitting officer

Joseph Fredrick Perry, 19, of 2617 Albrook was charged with aggravated assault on a police officer during an apparent scuffle in the police holding unit Tuesday night.

Perry struck officer Charles Doan on the left forehead while Perry was in police custody, according to police reports. Doan was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was treated for a contusion on the forehead.

Perry was also charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

Police reports also show the following:

• Officers received a call at 10 p.m. Tuesday from Rip Griffen's Truck Stop on Interstate Highway 20 about a man suspected of selling drugs in the parking lot. Officers stopped a suspect and found he was carrying a carburetor tube containing a "hard, brownish substance believed to be hashish," police reports said. Officers also said they found four needle syringes.

Police arrested the man, Oscar C. Casillas, 24, of San Francisco, for suspected possession of a controlled substance and drug paraphernalia.

• Ricardo Saucedo of 1209 Scurry told police someone entered his residence between 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and stole a jewelry box containing two necklaces and a bracelet. Saucedo estimated the loss at $145.

• Three cases of beer were stolen from the 7-Eleven convenience store at 300 11th Place at 1:30 this morning. Loss was estimated at $17.97.

• Several storage units at Wooten Self Storage at 301 State were burglarized between 10 a.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. today. The locks were cut, police reports said. No estimate of loss has been made.

• Raymond Johnston of 2804 Lynn told police someone placed a water hose in the inside of his car and turned on the water, causing an estimated $500 worth of damage to the interior. Johnston's car was parked at his residence. The incident occurred between 6 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, police reports said.

Sheriff's Log

Three released on bond

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Rory Jay Lawson, 19, of 606 San Jacinto last night on a county warrant for bond forfeiture in connection with a driving while license suspended arrest.

Lawson was released on $1,000 bond after being arraigned before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

• Sheriff's deputies also arrested Wayne Gressett, 26, of 4043 Vicky in connection with a peace bond. Gressett was released on $3,500 bond after arraignment before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

• Mack Edmiston of 1810 Benton paid a $76 fine and had checks to Heflin's office after his arrest by sheriff's deputies on a county warrant of issuance of bad checks.

• Henry Edward Bittner, 25, of Oakland, Calif., remains in county jail after his arrest by city police for suspicion of criminal mischief. Daratt set bond at $2,500 for Bittner.

• Henry Mendoza Ortega, 46, of 817 N.W. 6th pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to burglary and was sentenced to six years in the Texas Department of Corrections. Ortega and three other county prisoners were scheduled to be transferred to Huntsville today to begin their prison sentences.

• Willie Earl Scott, 51, of 3022 Dixon posted $1,000 bond to be released after his arrest by city police for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Bond was set by Peace Justice Bobby West.

College buys new computer for software

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Howard County Junior College District board yesterday approved the purchase of a $197,735 IBM computer to go along with $250,000 worth of free software the district will soon be receiving from East Texas State University.

In an earlier meeting trustees were told that the software would be available for no charge from ETSU because Howard College's director of computer services, Terry Hansen, helped develop the software programs.

The only problem in accepting ETSU's gift was that the district's current NCR computer system could not be made compatible with the software without major adjustments.

Mike Bruner, vice president for fiscal affairs, said modifying the NCR computer would have taken four or five years and countless expenditures.

Bruner, Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, and other administration members checked into the possibility of buying a computer system to fit the software, found the idea sound, and recommended the district advertise for bids.

A bid received from IBM showed the district could purchase a new computer system, and the monthly payments would be less than the HCJCD is currently paying for the lease of the NCR system.

Figures showed for an initial payment of $65,000 and monthly installments of $5,383, the district could sign a lease purchase agreement with IBM and own the system outright in five years. The district now pays $5,965 for its current computer and will never own the system, Bruner said.

On top of the reduced monthly payments, the district will enjoy the use of $250,000 in software at no cost.

"It's really a smooth system," Bruner said. "The IBM computer has two to three times the capacity and is two times as fast. We'll also have the capability to go on-line across campus as compared to the present system."

Bruner also said the ETSU software has "all the bugs worked out" and should be no trouble for the district to use because of Hansen's knowledge with the programs. Bruner added that it takes seven or eight years to develop a software program such as the one the district will be receiving.

Bruner said the computer and software should be in operation by the late July.

Science fair begins

Thursday at coliseum

The Permian Basin Regional Science Fair will begin tomorrow at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum as 651 students' projects will be examined by a force of about 90 judges.

Students will begin setting up their exhibits at 8 a.m. with grades 6-12 on the floor of the coliseum and grades 1-5 in the East Room of the facility.

At 1 p.m. the judges will descend on the projects and hold interviews with students. Judges will examine the quality of the work, the student's understanding of the project, and compare the exhibit with others in the same category.

The judges should be finished with their tasks by 6 p.m. and the projects will be open to public viewing from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Friday at 8:30 a.m. an awards program is planned in the coliseum. Afterwards the public will once again be allowed to view the exhibits.

This is the fifth year the fair has been held in Big Spring and there are 437 entries and 651 students competing this year.

San Angelo firemen

fired for gambling

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A 31-year fire department veteran and two fellow firefighters indicted along with him on felony gambling charges have been dismissed from their jobs, Fire Chief Gene Kilgore says.

Battalion Chief Chester Glenn Avants, 52, and drivers Terry Douglas Stinnett, 35, and William Paul Miller, 34, were indicted Tuesday on charges of gambling promotion and keeping a gambling house.

"Each man will receive a letter stating the reason for the dismissal, which is pretty obvious," Kilgore said.

He declined further comment except to say that the men have 10 working days to file an appeal with the San Angelo Civil Service Commission. Appeals to the board must be resolved within 30 days, Kilgore said.

"I don't know yet what I'm going to do," said Avants, who is eligible for retirement.

U.S. Marines wounded

Islamic group claims responsibility for attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A grenade thrown at a U.S. Marine patrol from a window of a building near Beirut airport slightly wounded five Marines today in the first attack on the American peacekeepers, the Marine commander said.

An anonymous caller told the French news agency, Agence France-Presse, that a hitherto unknown organization called al-Jihad al-Islami, or Islamic Holy War, "declares its responsibility for the attack on the American occupation forces." The caller did not elaborate.

The attack came 10 hours after eight Italian peacekeepers were wounded by grenades and rifle fire in two ambushes near the airport. The Italian ambassador, Franco Ottieri, said two of the Italian troops were "paralyzed for life," and another had his right foot amputated. He called the assaults on both the Americans and Italians "an organized plot" to keep the peacekeepers from carrying out their mission.

The U.S. Marines and the Italians are part of a peacekeeping force that has been in Lebanon since September.

America's U.N. ambassador, Jeane Kirkpatrick, deplored the attack and told reporters in Tel Aviv it "was presumably provoked by someone who is interested in maintaining war and destroying the possibility of peace."

But the Marine commander in Beirut said that patrols would continue and that the Marines "would not allow a single act of terrorism to stop us from our mission." An Italian officer said, "Nothing will change. We will continue our mission and our regular patrols. We know peacekeeping requires sacrifices."

In southern Lebanon, witnesses said an Israeli soldier shot and wounded a Palestinian woman in a crowd of stone-throwing demonstrators demanding their relatives be freed from the Ansar prison camp near Sidon. The Israeli command said it had no report of casualties in the incident.

The attack on the 12-man Marine patrol in Beirut occurred shortly before 9 a.m. About 30 suspects were reported arrested, and 200 Lebanese soldiers set up checkpoints and began searching cars and houses in the predominantly Moslem area bordering the airport.

The Marine commander, Col. James M. Mead, of Boston, told reporters a single hand grenade was tossed at a Marine patrol from a second-floor window at the end of a street connecting the airport and the coastal road on the southern outskirts of the Lebanese capital. All five wounded Marines were flown to a Navy hospital aboard the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, part of a 6th Fleet flotilla off Beirut's coast supporting the peacekeepers. None of the Marines was immediately identified.

"We will, however, not allow a single act of terrorism to stop us from our mission which is presence and peacekeeping. Our patrols must continue and they will continue." — Marine commander Col. James M. Mead.

"I would like to make it very forceful that the five injuries are superficial, but we have still sent them out to the ship for at least a 24-hour observation period, for X-rays, that type of thing," Mead said. "There is no danger of loss of life at all."

Mead said the Marine patrol did not return fire because the source of the grenade attack could not be ascertained immediately.

"One of the Marines, who was slightly wounded, had seen the grenade come out, but of course it was too late," Mead said.

Mead said the Marines were put on a state of alert Tuesday night after gunmen ambushed an Italian patrol.

Mead said the Marines were continuing their state of alert and added: "We will, however, not allow a single act of terrorism to stop us from our mission which is presence and peacekeeping. Our patrols must continue and they will continue."

It was the first time Marines have been attacked since the multinational peacekeeping force was deployed in Beirut last September to help the government reestablish control over the war-torn Lebanese capital, racked by years of Moslem-Christian civil war and then Israel's June 6 invasion to rout Palestinian guerrillas.

Shortly after the leathernecks arrived about five months ago, a U.S. Marine suffered a superficial hand wound from flying shrapnel when a car bomb exploded about 40 yards from a Marine checkpoint in the Ouzai beachside neighborhood. But there was no indication that bombing was aimed at the Marines.

The United States has 1,200 Marines based at Beirut airport as part of the 4,800-member international peace force, which also includes contingents from France, Italy and Britain.

ON GUARD — U.S. Marines patrol the area where five American Marines were superficially wounded by a hand grenade thrown from a second-floor window Wednesday in Beirut. The attack occurred during a routine patrol by marines serving in the multinational peacekeeping force.

O'Neill predicts passage for nuke weapons freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. declared today that the House, reflecting the will of the people and not just Democratic control of the chamber, will pass a nuclear weapons freeze resolution by a margin of at least 50 votes.

"I think we'll win by 50, maybe more," O'Neill told reporters at mid-morning. The vote is not expected before tonight.

He said the non-binding resolution, which calls on the United States and the Soviet Union to freeze their nuclear weapons arsenals, "expresses the will of the American people."

"On matters like this, I don't like to say that it's a Democratic issue. These are all conscience votes — how you feel in your mind and your heart."

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes continued administration criticism of the proposal, saying, "I don't think it would be at all helpful if it passed the House."

Speakes said that President Reagan "could conceivably make a few calls" to congressmen before the vote. But the spokesman said he considered such action unlikely.

The administration acknowledged Tuesday that it faced an "uphill battle" to turn back the freeze initiative.

Advocates of the measure contend that the "mutual and verifiable" weapons freeze is a vitally needed first step toward curbing the arms race. Opponents say it will undercut U.S. arms control negotiators and may increase — rather than reduce — the danger of war.

About 5,000 supporters of the grassroots nuclear freeze movement rallied at the Capitol last week and fanned out through congressional corridors to lobby for the freeze. Ballot referendums favoring a freeze have won the endorsement of voters in nine states, 12 counties and 22 cities.

A similar freeze resolution lost by a slim two-vote margin in the House last August. If it passes the House this time, however, the measure is expected to face considerably tougher going in the Republican-controlled Senate.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Tuesday that Reagan "recognizes that the outlook for tomorrow's vote is not promising."

"It will be an uphill battle for us," Speakes said. The spokesman emphasized he did not expect Reagan to be deterred "from his viewpoint that a freeze at present levels is highly disadvantageous to the United States."

"The administration believes we can do better than a freeze," Speakes said, asserting that the freeze would remove Soviet incentives to negotiate reduced arms levels and would be "virtually impossible to verify."

The administration is backing a substitute resolution introduced by Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Broomfield's proposal declares congressional support for the arms talks in Geneva and endorses the long-term goal of eventually achieving a strategic weapons freeze "at equal and substantially reduced levels."

Reagan met at the White House Tuesday with Broomfield and 23 other congressmen to map strategy in advance of the freeze vote.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., an outspoken freeze opponent, said Reagan did not disclose whether he planned to do last-minute lobbying.

Stratton, chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on military nuclear systems, said he told Reagan that if the House passes the freeze, the president should make a televised address "with charts, to explain where we really are" in the arms competition with Moscow.

While Reagan did not commit himself, Stratton said the president "sounded as though he thought it was a good idea."

Senate heads to showdown on interest tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, frustrated in repeated efforts to reach a compromise on a $5.1 billion jobs bill, is heading toward a pair of showdown votes on a proposed amendment to repeal the withholding tax on interest and dividends.

Backers of the banks-supported amendment claim they have the votes to force their measure onto the jobs bill, despite a vow by President Reagan to veto the bill if it contains the amendment.

A victory could trigger a filibuster against the jobs bill by Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. And that could delay Senate action on the measure for two or three more days.

After nearly a week of back-and-forth debate, the Senate was ready to vote today, first on Dole's effort to block the amendment and then, if that fails — as Senate leaders expected it to — on a move by Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis., to clear the way for a vote on his withholding amendment.

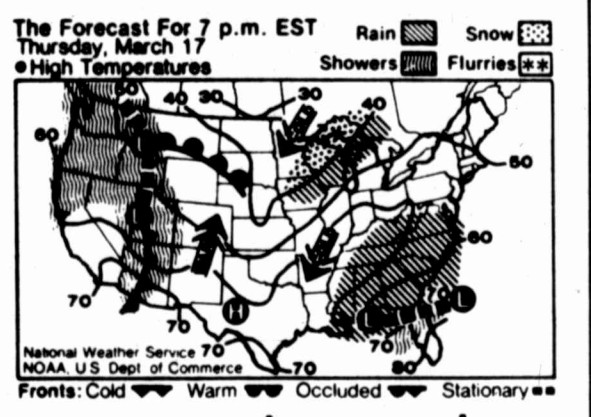

Kasten claims he has more than 60 votes in support of his amendment. If Kasten wins today, "I'll filibuster it," Dole told reporters. "He may have the votes, but it isn't going to come easy."

Efforts to end the stalemate peaceably collapsed late Tuesday when Kasten refused to withdraw his amendment from the bill, despite a promise by Dole and other GOP leaders that he would have a chance to offer it on separate legislation next month.

Dole claimed that was a big concession on his part, since he earlier had resisted efforts to give Kasten a separate vote on withholding.

"The right of the people to have a vote is being threatened by this leadership," Kasten said.

Weather

Snow to the north; possible rain here

By The Associated Press
Heavy snow hit the Rockies and the upper Mississippi Valley today, while thunderstorms ambushed the southern Plains and south Atlantic coast and light rain fell on New England.

The white stuff hit hard in New Mexico and Colorado, stranding travelers at Denver's Stapleton International Airport late Tuesday, but snow also blanketed an area from South Dakota to Minnesota and Wisconsin, and over northwest Kansas.

West Texas: Generally cloudy, colder today; light snow Panhandle and occasional light rain, a few thundershowers elsewhere east of the mountains. Snow accumulations Panhandle 1 to 2 inches today. Considerable cloudiness, cold tonight with chance light snow Panhandle. Cloudiness decreasing southwest today and tonight, all sections Thursday. Warmer in the north Thursday afternoon. Highs today near 40 Panhandle to near 60 southwest. Lows tonight upper 20s Panhandle to near 30 southwest with near 40 southeast. Highs Thursday low 50s north to low 60s south except near 70 Big Bend valleys.

Don't let home prayer be banned

Dear Editor,

I would like to share with you and your readers what I had read from "Evangelizing Today's Child" magazine, page 39, Mar-Apr. issue:

Five U.S. cities have adopted zoning laws which make it illegal to hold either Bible studies or prayer meetings in private residences. In a town near Boston the building commissioner notified a clergy that inviting more than four people to his home for a Bible study was a violation of the "Home Occupation" ordinance. In Atlanta a zoning official stated that any kind of regular home Bible study which includes nonresidents is illegal without a special use permit. In Los Angeles homeowners have been warned that if even one nonresident entered their home for a religious service a cease and desist order could issue. In Maryland, two residents were issued a citation for using their home for worship services without a use and occupancy permit. In Canton, Michigan, a local pastor was told by a zoning official that any regular Bible study in a home was a violation of the zoning ordinance and the code for Canton makes no provision for a special use permit. (Used by permission of "Vision" magazine, Christian Educators Assoc., Newport Beach, Ca 92663, 3-82).

This unconstitutional ordinance would have been unthinkable 10 or 15 years ago. Is it so far-fetched, then, to consider that in the years to come Big Spring, Texas, could not only adopt this ordinance, but perhaps one that forbade all public or residential sharing of one's faith outside the confines of one's own structured church?

If our elected and appointed officials across our country will not uphold our constitutional rights now, what makes us think that they will in years to come?

Christians, NOW is the time to become alerted to the dangers of our short-sightedness and complacency. We can no longer afford to be an uninformed and uninvolved group in our world. The freedom that has been given to us by God, through Christ, and fought for and kept by our forefathers, has been paid by an extremely high price. Let us never cease to consider this valuable gift of freedom. We must hold onto it!

I have come to the realization that our officials will not be stirred into action until we the people are stirred to act. I beg of you — turn off your TVs long enough to write letters, share articles of importance, send telegrams, and above all else, PRAY. Dare to be informed, then dare to do something about it. Buy a roll of stamps and mail letters to editors and elected officials across our nation. May God bless our efforts, and stir the hearts of the God-fearing majority into action.

Thank you.

Off the hook in Europe

BONN — American diplomacy won less than a sweeping victory with the triumph of Chancellor Helmut Kohl in the German elections on Sunday. For the Kohl government, while basically more friendly to Washington, will be just as pushy as the Social Democratic opposition in urging the Reagan administration to compromise with the Russians on the issue of nuclear weapons in Europe. So unless the administration can get off that European hook, there will be continuing risk of a falling apart in the Atlantic alliance.

The Euromissile problem looks, at first blush, like just another item on the arms control agenda. The Russians have targeted some 250 intermediate-range nuclear weapons — the SS-20s — on Western Europe. NATO has replied with a proposal to deploy in Western Europe, by the end of this year, 572 American Pershing II and cruise missiles capable of hitting Soviet territory.

In fact, political tensions among the NATO allies figure far more than straight arms control in the Euromissile problem. An American response to the Russian deployment was first urged back in 1977 by Helmut Schmidt, the Social Democratic chancellor who stepped down last fall. After Schmidt's original appeal, there swept all over Europe, but especially Germany, a wave of antinuclear sentiment. When the U.S., in 1979, offered to deploy the new Pershing and cruise missiles, the allies attached a condition. Deployment would take place only if U.S. negotiations with Russia failed to reach an accord limiting Euromissiles on both sides.

The Russians, since it would involve scrapping weapons already in place, had almost no interest in reaching such an agreement. It was far easier for them to throw out hints of compromise, in the hope of splitting the U.S. and its allies.

One round of such skirmishing at Big Two Euromissile talks in Geneva preceded the German elections. The U.S. offered the zero proposal, whereby American deployment would be cancelled altogether if the Russians dismantled all their SS-20s. The Russians came back with an offer that would exclude new U.S. nuclear weapons from the Continental entirely, while diminishing somewhat the SS-20 force. Moscow called for reducing the SS-20s to the number of nuclear weapons already deployed by France and Britain — 126.

In the election campaign here the Social Democrats hailed the Soviet offer as a step forward that might make all further deployment unnecessary. They called on the U.S. to match it by coming off the zero option with a counterproposal. Chancellor Kohl stood by the commitment to deploy if there were no better offer. But he hinted that after the elections he would make a major new effort to reach an accord with the Russians.

The vote Sunday gave the Socialists only 38 percent of the vote. A more radically antinuclear party, the Greens, entered the Bundestag with a little more than 5 percent of the vote. So there was only a minority against deployment.

But the Greens have already indicated they will fight any deployment of Pershing II and cruise missiles with demonstrations on the sites. At least some Socialists seem ready to join them in that kind of opposition. As Karsten Voigt, a Socialist member of the Bundestag who specializes in security issues, put it:

"In office under Schmidt we had to compromise with the Americans. Now there is no such need. For the first time in 20 years, Social Democrats can oppose the U.S. on a major security issue."

The prospect of such confrontation is not welcome to the Kohl government. While the chancellor has the majority necessary to force deployment, he will take such a step only after further talks in Geneva prove that no deal can be struck. His national security adviser, Horst Teltschick, along with foreign ministry and defense officials, has already begun working up proposals for giving new impulse to the Euromissile talks.

The Kohl government wants the U.S. to make a "new initiative" on top of the zero option. Officials here talk of offering to deploy only some 75 to 150 cruise and Pershing II missiles, if the Russians come down to the same number of SS-20s.

The Reagan administration cannot respond with unconfined joy to proposals for still more concessions to the Communists. But that Kohl comes up with almost exactly the same approach as the Social Democrats should teach a lesson. The lesson is that Euromissile talks are essentially a loser for the U.S. Any Russian interest in coming to terms pales before the temptation to provoke bad blood between the U.S. and the allies.

The American interest, in these conditions, is to move the focus from Euromissiles, where the Russians can divide the allies, to talks on intercontinental, or strategic, weapons, where the American lead gives Moscow an incentive to compromise. In arranging for such a transition, the U.S. can dangle before the Russians both a stick and a carrot.

The stick is the threat that unless Moscow quickly comes to terms on some kind of Euromissile accord, there could eventually be, with Kohl in power, full deployment of cruise and Pershing missiles. The carrot is the prospect that a move from the minefield of Euromissiles to the solid ground of strategic weapons could be arranged at the summit in a meeting between Ronald Reagan and Yuri Andropov.

Billy Graham

Word of God gives us hope

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am still young and single, but when I look at the terrible conditions in the world today I wonder if it is really worth it to get married and raise children in this kind of world. Can you see why I feel like this? — T.M.P.

DEAR T.M.P.: Yes, I can understand why you feel like this. The headlines do not seem to give us much reason for hope, do they?

But for the Christian there is another set of "headlines" — the Word of God. In it we find that God is ultimately in control of this world, and some day his kingdom will fully come. All the evil and sin we see around us will be judged, and Christ will rule. Some day the promise of God recounted in the Book of Revelation will be fulfilled: "The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he will reign for ever and ever" (Revelation 11:15).

In the meantime, God has not promised to remove us from all difficulty and conflict in this world. Christians throughout the ages have known what it is to be persecuted and in the midst of turmoil and trouble. But he has promised to be with us, and that is what you need to hear whenever you think things are getting out of hand. "I have told you these things, so that in me you may have peace. In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world." (John 16:33).

In other words, you should get married if God leads you to a Christian partner. Take your signals from God, not from the daily headlines. We are not to take the easy way out or refuse the responsibilities God would give us. Do you know Christ, and are you trusting him for your future? There is no better preparation for the future than to commit your life to him right now and then learn to walk with him every day.

Such terms as "open heart" surgery, "triple bypass" and "stress tests" — unheard of three decades ago — are accepted parts of even laymen's vocabularies these days. They're typical of the progress in cardiac diagnosis, treatment and care evident today.

Penwrecked

The lowly pen — how many masterpieces have you written ... and how much garbage have you churned out in your lifetime?

Someone made a TV movie a few years ago that traced the owners of a gun until it returned to its original owner. Somebody should do a similar treatment for a pen someday. It would be interesting.

How many times have you missed a pen that had just become adjusted to your style? The cap was chewed just right; the clip worked in all your pockets; the curve from where you sat on it fit perfectly in your hand.

I believe a Wayward Home for Stray Pens must exist somewhere. I have always been tied to writing instruments. As a student from grade school through graduate school, pens were necessities. As a teacher, the old red pen was a must. As a reporter, I would feel naked (not really) without one.

The red finally played out and I washed the blue away. I never have been able to find another cartridge for the thing.

Most favorite pens do not have such happy fates. Most disappear without warning in the clutches of an unknowing thief. Nobody really sets out to steal pens — it just happens: inkophobia.

In no other place in the known universe, however, do pens vanish so rapidly as in a newsroom. The manner in which apparently-solid writing objects can dissolve into scattered molecules is uncanny.

I wager I have had 68 pens cross into the Twilight Zone since I've been here. But pens are expected to disappear since they are the tools of the trade at a paper.

However, pens vanish at a snail's crawl compared to pencils. I'm surprised the wooden instruments don't flare into flame with the velocity at which they are snatched up.

I'm considering using a bicycle chain and lock. I laid a pencil on my desk one day, turned to the files, came back and it was gone.

BACK TO pens. They are becoming somewhat outdated in today's society with the decline of letter-writing and the advent of word processors. The need for writing has gone downhill. This column is the only thing I still write consistently — notes don't count.

But try to slip a typewriter into your pocket sometime or use it to shoot spitwads (7th grade study hall) and, you know, you can't lose a word processor between the seats of a car.

Incidentally, just why do Bic pens have those little portholes on the side?

DESPITE THIS affinity for pens, I have never really latched onto a favorite — for one good reason. Every time I get an expensive fine-writing mechanism, somebody walks off with it or I manage to sabotage it somehow. I have several Cross pens that are well-washed.

But I do have some fond memories of those wisps of wonder. In the 8th grade, I had a cartridge-loading fountain pen. What a pen — it had a fine line like a hypodermic. With my cramped and tiny scrawl, I could get 200 words per line. I probably saved a hundred trees that year.

I borrowed a pen from my father my first year of teaching that had two colors: dread-red and flu-blue.

First-strike fervor hits Air Force

WASHINGTON — The Air Force doesn't want its missile officers worrying — and maybe thinking twice — about launching a nuclear first strike or raining warheads down on civilians. Lt. Steven Gifford found this out the hard way.

Gifford is a five-year veteran with top-secret clearance and is a firm believer in a strong national defense. As a nuclear missile mechanic at North Dakota's Grand Forks Air Force Base, he had no qualms about working on Minuteman missiles.

It was only when he was assigned to missile training class and was taught how to fire the deadly weapons that he began to have doubts. It was what his instructors taught him that bothered Gifford, a Mormon who once considered becoming a military chaplain.

Gifford was shocked by the various missile targeting plans. They included first-strike attacks, with which the United States would initiate a nuclear war. They also included what the Air Force called "flexibility targeting," a discharge. Officers testifying at his discharge hearing said they couldn't believe Gifford really bought the Air Force slogan: "Peace is our profession." One colonel pointed out that first-strike plans "are published in all the papers and everything."

So, with truly weird logic, the board of officers reasoned that Gifford must have joined the missile class intending to drop out. Therefore, he was guilty of fraud; he didn't deserve an honorable discharge.

The base chaplain and the psychiatrist who interviewed Gifford testified in his defense. His only problem, they said, was an active conscience.

To the macho Air Force brass, that's a fatal flaw. They take the Shakespearean view that "conscience does make cowards of us all" — and they don't want any Hamlets in the missile control rooms.

That, in a point worthy of the discharge, which can bar him from civil service employment and constitutes a stigma he feels is undeserved. He has no job prospects and no means of supporting his wife and three children.

But he says he doesn't regret having followed his conscience. "To totally trust some officer who decides it's time to beat the Russians to a nuclear attack ... I couldn't do it," he said.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: The Red Brigades have terrorized Italy off and on for several years, but they're not as fiendishly clever as they'd like everyone to think they are. They missed a golden opportunity to wring information out of a well-known American captive: Gen. James Dozier. Testifying to congressional committees in secret sessions, Dozier was able to assure the members that he had given very little information to his kidnapers for one simple reason: Dozier speaks little Italian, and his captors spoke equally little English. Evidently the Marxist terrorists haven't recruited any bilingual poddlers.

STAR-COM, owned by Cleo Carlile, had a major booth in the satellite show at Las Vegas this week. This is the market show of satellite distributors and manufacturers.

We have the long and short of it in anniversary observances this week in our business community. Kent Morgan and Ben Miller, owners of Morgan's Men and Women's Wear, are celebrating their first year of operation as a "factory direct" store in Big Spring. Meanwhile, Carter's Furniture, owned and operated by Terry and Dorothy Carter, is celebrating its 35th year.

Saturday night at the Howard College Auditorium at 7 for only $1 admission we have the opportunity to view the Cotton Miss Pageant sponsored by the Dryland Cotton Promoters. This is a group of local farmers' wives whose primary goal is to promote cotton. Dawn Underwood will be the mistress of ceremonies.

Don't fail to get involved in the many activities of the Dora Roberts Rehab Center Community Fun Week. There's something going on every day that will aid this worthy cause.

The Beautification Committee, headed by Chuck Benz, has invited all clubs and organizations in town to participate in the upcoming community beautification campaign that will concentrate in this first phase with the downtown area. A meeting of all club representatives, business people, and anyone interested in contributing ideas, time and effort will be held March 17 at 4 p.m. in the Chamber conference room.

Speaking of the Chamber, 95 new members have been signed since Jan. 1. Steve Childress just won a trip to Las Vegas for having sold the most memberships during the Ambassadors membership drive. I think it is important to note again and again that membership in the Chamber is an investment in this community. It is a beneficial membership that gives back to the member more than he has paid for dues. If you were missed being called and you aren't a member, call the Chamber today and get on one of the working committees and plug into the mainstream of community activities.

President of the board Bill Read will be having coffees at 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on March 22 for new members. Tickets go on sale this week for the annual industrial barbecue. Cost is $6 for the event to be held Friday, April 8 at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

It seems as if everywhere we go people are enthralled with home video. I've had several people write me asking where they can get information or questions answered such as, "If I buy a home video recorder, is it against the law to record copyrighted programs off the air?" I've had so much interest in this lately that I stepped around the corner from my office and talked to Al Scott who owns Big Spring Video. He's just one of about four dealers of video equipment and supplies. He spoke on behalf of the industry when he answered some of the questions that have come in. He stated that technically it is against the law to record copyrighted programs off the air, but the Supreme Court is looking at this now and may have a decision sometime this summer. VCR owners don't, however, have to worry about the police coming into their homes and arresting them for taping "The Edge of Night" episodes for home use only.

Another person said, "I recorded 'Giant' and 'Gone With The Wind' and am making copies to sell to friends. Is this against the law?" Al answered, "Absolutely! In fact it's copyright infringement and piracy, a federal rap, which will get the FBI, CIA, and probably the IRS after you!"

"Can I buy or rent blockbuster movies such as 'Star Trek', 'An Officer and A Gentleman' and 'E.T.'?" one reader wrote. And the answer was that most newer movies are not released immediately but after they have made the rounds of the movie houses across the nation at least one time. Al said that most of the video dealers in town have all the movies mentioned for sale or rent except "E.T.," which is not yet available.

I suggest that you contact one of the dealers in town with your questions. They are eager to educate you about the possibilities and surprise you at the relatively inexpensive costs involved in buying and renting equipment, supplies and movies. Al said that he and all the other dealers sold out of blank tapes quickly just before the television showing of "Winds Of War" because everyone who had a recorder wanted to tape it. Video tapes are the electronic books of the future.

4-H horses around

By RENEE BLACKWELL
Well, spring has almost arrived and with it, horse judging contests. The Howard County 4-H Horse Judging team has worked hard during the winter preparing for the soon-to-come judging contests where they will pit their ability to spot a good horse against their peers from around this part of the country. They are also continuing plans for hosting a judging contest here in Big Spring. But even while they work toward these goals, there are other contests in which they will show off their horsemanship knowledge and skill that they are planning and practicing for. These contests range from 4-H horse shows to junior and high school rodeos held all over the country. About this time every year ropes are "broken out", calves and other stock are purchased, horses are pulled out of the pasture, and eager rodeo contestants head toward rodeo schools where PRCA cowboys will give them tips on how to better their skills and hopefully give them the winning edge for the rodeos to come. Other cowboys and cowgirls will turn their rigs toward the 4-H horse show circuit where they will work toward competition on the national level.

The 4-Hers will show their horses in halter, showmanship, western pleasure, roping, cutting, and various other classes.

No matter what their placing during the spring and summer might be, these contestants on both circuits will finish out the season winners because of their experiences they have undertaken and the places they have ventured.

MAINTENANCE PRODUCTS BUSINESS OPENS — Jerry Robinson Maintenance Products opened for business recently at 610 E. Fourth. The business offers a full line of products from cleaning home or office.

Maintenance supply business opens

Jerry Robinson Maintenance Products had its official ribbon cutting this week and opened its doors to supply individuals and businesses with a full line of janitorial supplies, papergoods and chemicals.

Located at 610 E. Fourth, the business is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The store will also open up for customers in an emergency situation, according to Clara Robinson, office manager. The store offers towels, napkins, detergents, soaps, brushes, brooms, mops and deodorant for use in the home or at the office.

Jerry Robinson is owner of the store, while his mother, Clara, serves as office manager. Tony Starr is employed as the firm's salesman.

Chevettes, T-1000s recalled for fire problems

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling additional Chevrolet Chevettes and Pontiac T-1000s because it has found more cars had problems with fires in engine compartments than originally believed.

Those fires have caused eight injuries, GM said.

The No. 1 automaker will recall an extra 491,000 of its 1980-, 1981- and 1982 model Chevettes and Pontiacs.

GM recalled 107,000 of the cars in a voluntary recall in early November, but announced the new recall "at the urging" of the federal government, according to Barry McCahill of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in Washington.

"We found more cases" of fires, he said, adding that NHTSA has been conducting an engineering analysis on the problem since last July.

The cars need a retaining clip to keep a plug on the carburetor from popping out, a GM statement said.

If the plug works loose, it can cause gasoline to spray out under the hood and lead to fires.

The cars all have four-cylinder, 1.6-liter engines.

GM said it knows of a total of 200 reports of fires.

GM spokesman Harold Jackson said "further investigation" since last November showed more cars had the plug problem than originally believed.

The automaker said it will replace the clip free of charge.

White House spokesman asks press to 'show a little respect'

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House spokesman Larry Speakes admonished the press Tuesday to "show a little respect" and stop asking questions once President Reagan refuses to answer them.

Speakes also accused television cameramen of violating Reagan's privacy by shooting through the windows of the Oval Office from the Rose Garden. "Let me tell you this," said Speakes. "We won't bring the cameras out here anymore if you're going to shoot through the windows of the Oval Office."

The issue arose during a visit by Netherlands Prime Minister Rudolph Lubbers. He and Reagan conferred in the Oval Office and then walked outside to the colonnade in front of the Rose Garden to pose for pictures. Reagan declined to answer a question from ABC correspondent Sam Donaldson about whether he would veto the jobs bill pending in the Senate. NBC correspondent Andrea Mitchell followed up with a question about nuclear arms talks.

Speakes, standing to the side of Lubbers and Reagan, said, "Andrea, he said no questions. That sounds like another question."

"He could say no answers," Donaldson offered. "Please show a little respect," Speakes said, as Reagan and Lubbers prepared to return inside.

With reporters still gathered in the Rose Garden, Speakes complained that some cameramen had been shooting through the windows of the Oval Office before the picture-taking session.

"Traditionally the Oval Office has been off limits as far as cameras peering into the windows," Speakes said.

Donaldson objected, saying, "We are not going, when our cameras are here in public, to say that we won't shoot in a certain direction. No... We reserve the right to see whatever we see out here."

Speakes said the White House had "a gentlemen's agreement with you people, with the cameras, throughout the years, but now you choose to violate it."

"You weren't here (during the Carter administration) for four years, believe it or not," Donaldson replied.

"I understand," said Speakes. "That's when things went to the dogs."

Speakes added, "We consider the Oval Office off limits for still and television cameras when the president is in there in a private moment. If you don't want to respect that, then we don't have you out here anymore. It's as simple as that."

"Suits me fine," Donaldson said.

The ABC reporter also protested "the suggestion that asking the president a question is a sign of disrespect."

"When he said, 'I'm sorry, no questions,' and then another reporter speaks up and asks a question, then I think it is a sign of disrespect," Speakes said.

CBS correspondent Lesley Stahl told Speakes, "I think you just like to pick on the women" — a reference to Speakes' singling out Ms. Mitchell.

Speakes said he also had singled out Donaldson. "You did not single out Mr. Donaldson in front of the president," Ms. Mitchell complained.

The writing on the wall differs for men, women

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The graffiti men put on restroom walls is vastly different from the graffiti authored by women, University of Illinois researchers say.

"Women are more caring and helping; men are more competitive and aggressive, much less conversational than women," said Edward Bruner, a professor of anthropology.

He and a team of researchers recently studied the graffiti on restroom walls at the Urbana-Champaign campus.

Bruner said those created by women are "more interactive and interpersonal. They raise serious questions, ask advice and sometimes share experiences."

Women frequently write about their problems, such as, "I love Ray, but he only likes to have a good time. What should I do?"

Other women will respond by offering advice or by sharing similar experiences, he said.

But in the men's restrooms, the team found the messages "more competitive, more self-centered, usually about sexual conquests, sexual powers and frequency of performance," said Bruner.

"They are much more graphic and individualistic."

The researchers found men's graffiti derogatory 54 percent of the time, compared with 15 percent for the women's graffiti. Bruner said derogatory graffiti is hostile, aggressive and racist, "classified as an insult, attack or put-down."

Trust fund could help cut taxes, finance college

By the Associated Press

How would you like to save for your children's college education and trim your federal income tax bill at the same time?

You can accomplish the twin goals by setting up a special short-term trust for your child.

"You've got to see a lawyer, but it's a fairly simple procedure," said Robert Trinz, supervising editor of Prentice-Hall, Inc.

The type of trust involved is something known as a "Clifford trust." It must run for more than 10 years and the property you put in it must remain there for more than 10 years. The trust also must be irrevocable; you can't change your mind.

President Reagan has proposed another way to save: tax-sheltered Education Savings Accounts which, in some ways, would be similar to Individual Retirement Accounts, although details of the program have not been worked out. Reagan called for creation of the savings incentive early this year and again in his radio address on Saturday.

The idea behind the Clifford trust, according to Sidney Kess of Main Hurdman, an international accounting firm, is to shift income which you normally would receive yourself to your child, or to the trust on your child's behalf. That means the money will be taxed at a much lower rate.

"To accomplish this shifting of income, the parents assign cash or some other property to the... trust," Kess said. "This cash or property generates income, which is either held in the trust or passed through to the child..."

The first $1,000 your child earns is tax free; it's covered by the $1,000 personal exemption. In addition, your child is entitled to a $100 dividend exclusion; the first $100 worth of dividends earned is also tax free. (Beginning in 1985, a maximum of $450 in interest income also will be exempt from taxes.)

Tax experts at Prentice-Hall offered the following example of how the plan can work:

Suppose you have a four-year-old son who will be ready for college in 14 years. Set up a trust to last for 14 years. Transfer enough stock to the trust to provide the boy with $1,100 in dividend income per year. That $1,100 is subtracted from your income and added to your son's. You lower your own tax bill. And unless your son has income from some other source, he owes no tax at all on the $1,100.

Assuming your son banks the money, he'll have $15,400 from the trust alone when he is ready for college. He also will have whatever interest he has earned on the bank account. And you get the stock back when the trust goes out of business.

There are two ways to handle the income from the trust: it can be left to accumulate or it can be paid to the child. (Kess said the money does not literally have to be handed over to a youngster; it can be given to the parents to bank in the child's name.)

Unless your child has substantial income, it generally makes more sense to pay him or her the income from the trust because there will be little or no tax due. If the child does have other income, however, you may want to let the income from the trust accumulate. The trust then must pay taxes on it, but the rate will be lower than it would be if you had to pay yourself.

Trinz said parents who are concerned that their children will spend the money unwisely also might want to let the income from the trust accumulate, rather than paying them directly.

Kess said there are several pitfalls. If the person who sets up the trust has too much control over it, for example, the income will be taxed as though the property had never been put in the trust, he said. For this reason, some tax professionals feel that the best way to set up a trust is to name a trustee, although Kess said the risk of trouble is slight.

Dear Abby

Businessman wants doctor on time

DEAR ABBY: I am a busy businessman writing in reference to "Tired of Waiting," who had a long wait at the doctor's office.

I had the same problem and this is how I solved it, I had an appointment with a local physician who kept me waiting for a very long time. The next time I had an appointment it was for 11 a.m., so I phoned the doctor's office at 9 a.m. with this message: "This is (), and I have an appointment this morning for 11 o'clock. I need to know if the doctor is on schedule. You see, I, too, am a busy person and do not have time to sit in your waiting room doing nothing, so if the doctor is running behind, I prefer waiting in my office rather than his. If you will please call me when he's ready, I can be there in 20 minutes. I know he doesn't think 20 minutes is a long wait since I waited over an hour to see him for my last appointment."

Well, Abby, guess who was ready for me when I got there? I rarely have to wait more than 10 minutes for this doctor now.

NO WAITING IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR NO WAITING: Beautiful. But let's hear from a doctor's secretary:

DEAR ABBY: I work for two pediatricians, and try as we do to keep to a schedule, it's nearly impossible, and this is why:

Joe Jones calls. He must have a physical exam to continue playing basketball with his high school team. He's lucky. We're able to find a spot for him within a couple of days. His appointment is at 3 p.m. right after school.

He calls from school to tell us that his car won't start. A friend will bring him, but he can't get there until 3:30. Can he still have his checkup? Of course he can. We'll work it out somehow. But someone will have to wait.

Mrs. Smith called this morning. She needs an afternoon appointment because her child has an earache. She shows up with two children because in the meantime the other one has gotten sick. Will we see both children? Of course. But someone will probably have to wait.

Mrs. Anderson is bringing in her first baby. He's 6 months old, and she is nervous and has lots of questions for the doctor. Will he take the time to reassure her, to answer her questions and help her to deal more comfortably with the baby? Of course he will. But someone will probably have to wait.

Something like this happens nearly every day, but we cannot refuse to help our patients when they need us. I won't even talk about what happens to our schedule when emergencies come in, or when the telephone rings off the hook.

MARGARET IN GLENCOE, ILL.

DEAR MARGARET: Now, let's hear it from a doctor's wife:

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe you printed that tired old complaint from "Tired of Waiting," the woman who had to wait to see her doctor.

Hey, "Tired," just calm down! Have you ever written to Dear Abby to say you got into see the doctor on time?

Doctors' wives, let's unite and write to Dear Abby about the times we've waited and waited for our husbands who have been called back to the hospital to see "Tired of Waiting."

A DOCTOR'S WIFE WHO'S TIRED OF "TIRED"

Council reviews March Extension Club events

Members of the Howard County Extension Homemakers Council were reminded of all March events during their meeting at First United Methodist Church March 7.

On the calendar for March were the Family Living Committee meeting held March 1, the Howard Council on Aging held March 4, the Council meeting March 7, and the Lunch and Learn Meeting on Toxic Shock Syndrome held March 11.

Upcoming events are the Canterbury Extension Study Club program on recycling Thursday at 3 p.m. at Canterbury, the Howard County 4-H Food Show at Canterbury Saturday at 2 p.m., and the Extension Homemakers Leader Training meeting at the County Extension Office March 28. Those attending the Leader Training meeting will learn about nutrition. A clothing recycling workshop will be held March 24 from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Youth Fellowship Hall at First Methodist Church. The workshop, sponsored by the Howard County Family Extension Living Committee, is opened to the public and is free of charge.

"Bargain Shopping for Clothing" will be the theme for March.

Each club in the county reported on its individual activities. The District Six Homemakers will host a training meeting at Chrane, April 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Delegates from Howard County are Mrs. Lucille Petty, Mrs. Francis Mason and Mrs. Zula Rhodes. Mrs. Myrl Soles will preside over registration with Mrs. Mattie Wren and Mrs. Jen Davidson assisting. Mrs. Dolores Norred will be an alternate.

The 4-H Food Show will be in the form of a tasting tea and food 4-H members have made.

Tina Steffen, Lifestyle editor at Big Spring Herald, spoke about getting club news published in the Herald.

City Extension Club will assist Easter Seal campaign

The City Extension Homemakers Club members viewed a program on "Bargain Shopping for Clothing" at their meeting recently. Lillian Dawson and Alta Lee Underwood co-hosted the meeting.

Mrs. Underwood presented the program and passed out information about the topic.

Roll call was answered by naming a favorite dress or piece of clothing. Members also told of their high school prom or banquet dress.

All ideas for the yearbook are to be turned in as soon as possible.

The Howard County Extension Council report was presented. Two clothing recycling workshop sessions will be held. The District meeting will be held in Crane. Howard County is in charge of registration.

The Easter Seal Society seeks help from each extension club. The club voted to assist the Easter Seal Society on an individual basis. The Chamber of Commerce invited the club to a beautification project meeting to be held at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Chamber office.

The Big Spring State Hospital needs small plastic "butter" containers for occupational therapy. All clubs are continuing to collect aluminum cans for the 4-H Scholarship.

The Rainbow Girls are collecting old nylon hose for a project. The club is assisting with the collection.

Committee recommendations were read and accepted. The Cultural Arts and International Understanding committee recommendations were accepted with the provision that the club helps a local organization rather than an international organization.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Marie Daniels with Nadine Hodnett co-hosting, March 25 at 2 p.m.

Gold Star Mothers begin a project to aid poor children

Saving cancelled postage stamps with proceeds to be used to buy food and clothing for children in destitute areas became a project for the Gold Star Mothers Thursday. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Viola Burchett, 1304 Nolan.

Club mothers reported providing 21 trays of food and seven vases of flowers for the needy and shut-ins. They also reported making 17 courtesy trips for friends, 39 visits to patients in hospitals and nursing homes and donated $32.50 to charitable organizations.

Plans were completed for the 30th Annual Department of Texas Convention to be held April 7 to 9. All convention meetings will be held in the Veteran's Administration Medical Center in Room 212. The convention is being hosted by the local chapter of the Gold Star Mothers.

Mrs. Martha Moody and Mrs. Annie Smith will represent the Gold Star Mother Chapter at the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee meeting March 17 at 4 p.m. in the Chamber office.

Special guests at the meeting was Willie Mae Brunson, Mrs. Burchett's daughter.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Lydia Hernandez, 908 Goliad.

When and why a person needs bypass surgery

(Note: This discussion of coronary artery bypass surgery is in response to a continuing flow of letters from my readers on the subject.)

I cannot begin to discuss this surgery without some digression into the way the heart muscle receives its own blood supply. It does so through three main arteries—the right coronary, the left circumflex, and the left anterior descending artery. The two left-sided arteries are branches of a larger vessel called the main left coronary artery. I am sorry about all these names, but perhaps they will become more meaningful as we go along.

Any or all of these arteries may narrow from fatty deposits on their inside lining. The result will be angina pain as the heart muscle in that area is deprived of blood. If the deposit is large enough, blood will be completely shut off and part of the heart muscle will die—a heart attack.

It is in this setting that we discuss coronary artery bypass surgery. In it a small section of a vein (usually one from a leg) is sewn into the aorta and looped over to the blocked vessel at a point beyond the blockage. The bad artery section is bypassed. This way blood now flows directly from the aorta (main artery leaving the heart) to the part of the other artery that is free of blockage, thence to the heart muscle.

Now to some of the questions. Why is this done? How often is it done? When should it be done?

Coronary artery bypass is being done frequently, about 100,000 times a year in the U.S. alone. The answer to the question, why, is a bit more difficult. It is two-fold: to increase life expectancy and to improve the quality of life. The two terms are not necessarily identical in meaning.

Back to our earlier anatomy lesson. We know that if the left main coronary artery is blocked, then bypassing that blockage will prolong the length of life. We are not certain that bypasses will prolong life in all other cases of blockage involving the other vessels named earlier.

So we come back to that phrase—quality of life. We do know that such surgery almost always improves that. In other words, the patient's angina attacks are less, and very often may disappear entirely.

So this brings us to the "when" part of the question. Many factors have to be fed into the formula to decide when. The patient, his age, the degree of his problem, his general health and, probably of most importance, the degree in which his angina can or cannot be controlled with medicines. When angina cannot be controlled through medication, surgical procedures, like bypasses, offer the only other path to either improve quality of life or extend life itself.

Many readers express doubts and fears about such surgery. It is major surgery, make no mistake. It does bring sobering thoughts. However, one must consider the incapacity brought by the condition the surgery is intended to rectify. Fears may be balanced by knowledge of the increased experience doctors have accumulated in performing the operation itself, as well as in factors such as patient selection.

The mortality rate from untreated heart circulation deficiency is much higher than that from the surgery. No one likes to live by statistical risk factors, but in medicine such factors must be looked at in the light of reality. Once the decision is made, then concentrate on the positive results that can ensue.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please tell me the difference between ocular hypertension and regular hypertension? Is ocular hypertension another way of saying "glaucoma"?—R.P.

Ocular hypertension means too much pressure of fluids within the eyeball, that fluid being the aqueous humor. That is glaucoma. It doesn't refer to blood pressure, if that's what you mean. That is too much pressure of the blood against the walls of the arteries.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A cousin of mine, who is very health-conscious, drinks all of his liquids at room temperature. He claims that since one's body is 98.6 degrees a cold

Texas called parrot smuggling capital

HOUSTON (AP) — In a town along the Mexican border not long ago, U.S. Customs agents stopped a stout, middle-aged woman when they observed a "strange fluttering" in the ample folds of her blouse.

Inside a sock stuffed in her blouse was a drunken Mexican parrot, who had been given tequila in the hope it would not emit telltale squawks during the trip through Customs.

Last week government agents in Houston confiscated 103 parrots — including 21 dead ones — and charged a north Houston couple in what was called the largest seizure of contraband parrots from Mexico.

These incidents illustrate why Texas has become the parrot-smuggling capital of the world, say Houston-based government agents David Kleinz and Jeff Friend.

"By geography alone, Texas is much bigger for parrot smuggling than any other state," says Friend, a Customs Service special agent. "The climate along the border is good for the birds. They do well here."

And once the contraband birds get to the big cities — Houston, San Antonio and Austin are the most popular — they are distributed to other parts of the country as well, he says.

"The demand here is staggering," adds Kleinz, a special agent for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "But people just can't seem to get enough of the birds anywhere."

And though the two agents can smile about the woman who tried to smuggle the bird in her cleavage, they are deeply concerned about the upsurge in smuggling, because they believe the public is unaware of the economic and health hazards.

Also, they say, organized crime is beginning to tap the lucrative bird-smuggling market and the instances of large-scale parrot smuggling are on the rise.

"It's been suggested that bird-smuggling is as profitable as marijuana smuggling," says Charles Conroy, a spokesman for Customs, which estimates that at least 10,000 parrots are brought into the United States illegally each year.

No one knows how many come into Texas, but agents believe that the number of parrots confiscated by Customs yearly in the southwest region (Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona and part of Louisiana) is only a fraction of the number smuggled.

Customs confiscated 216 parrots in 1980 and 668 in 1981. Last year's total of 405 birds may reflect a shift in manpower to other enforcement priorities, says Conroy. Friend and Kleinz, who once concentrated exclusively on investigating parrot cases, now have added responsibilities.

The two men are worried about a decrease in efforts to halt parrot smuggling.

"One of these days we may see an incredible outbreak in Newcastle disease that could destroy every chicken, duck and pigeon in Texas," says Kleinz.

Parrots can carry exotic Newcastle disease, an outbreak of which destroyed 12 million birds, mostly laying hens, in southern California in 1971-74. Eradicating the disease, which spreads quickly among birds, cost the government $56 million, mostly in payments to chicken farmers whose fowl had to be destroyed. The infected parrots came from South America. Parrots also can carry psittacosis, a flu-like disease transmissible to humans.

For these reasons, people who wish to import a Psittacine or hookbilled bird must make advance arrangements with the U.S. government, reserving a space at one of nine quarantine facilities for 30 days to ensure that the parrot is free of disease. The hefty $80 cost tends to encourage smuggling.

Kleinz says smugglers hawk their birds "at fast-food restaurants along the border" and through unscrupulous pet shop operators.

SMUGGLED PARROTS — Charles Conroy, public affairs officer for the U.S. Customs Southwest region, looks at some parrots confiscated by the government last week. Texas has been called the parrot-smuggling capital of the world.

Ibarra's strategy outsmarts Abilene

Steers open 4-5A play with 8-5 victory over Eagles

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Some coach's decisions work, others fail. Tuesday afternoon, Big Spring High's Frank Ibarra proved to be a winner while first-year Abilene coach Bob Harmon learned a hard lesson.

Jinx Valenzuela tossed three-hit relief and Alan Trevino knocked in the winning run in the fifth inning to lift Big Spring to an 8-5 District 4-AAAAA opening win over the Eagles at Steers.

The win was the third of the season for the Steers over Abilene and boosts BSBS to 7-5 overall. Abilene tumbles to 5-7.

Boxscore can be found in Scorecard.

Twice the Ibarra tapped the baseball resources in his cranium and twice he came out a winner.

His first decision came prior to Tuesday's game when he replaced slump-ridden Mark Walker with Valenzuela in the designated hitter's slot. The senior responded with three singles and two RBI.

The second decision also involved Valenzuela. When starter Adam Rodriguez loaded the bases with none out in the fourth, Ibarra called on his left-hander to put out the fire. Although Steve Stacy greeted him with a rolling single up the middle, Valenzuela shut down the Eagles on two hits the rest of the way to raise his record to 3-1.

Harmon's mistake came in the fifth inning when Big Spring rallied to tie and go ahead for good in the game. With two out and AHS ahead 5-4, Harmon intentionally walked Tom Cudd to load the bags and bring on a force at any base. That was his error.

Ibarra lifted Chris Lamb in favor of Walker who rapped a grounder to Eagle third baseman David Oden. Oden bobbled the ball and Matt Warren — who moved to third on the free pass to Cudd — scored to tie the game. Moments later, Trevino stroked a shot that Stacy chased down behind second but could not make a play. Two runs scored to give BSBS a 7-5 lead.

"I gambled in the fifth," Harmon said later. "I thought we could get the next batter out so we intentionally walked Cudd. Then they hit the ball to our third baseman and I thought 'Here we go.' But then we couldn't make the play."

Ibarra stared at his scorebook later and shook his head. "We won but I don't know how. When they got the bases loaded, I told coach (Alan) Bollig that if they just got two runs, we would win. Then the next inning, I told him if we could hold them, we would win. It was just a matter of time."

Abilene led 1-0 in the first on Jay Graven's RBI single but Pirkle's two-run homer — his fourth of the year — in the bottom of the frame gave Big Spring the advantage. Oden returned the favor in the second, clouting a two-run shot to put AHS back on top. Pirkle's single in the third tied the game 3-3.

Rodriguez, struggling for three innings, gave up singles to Oden and Rob Starnes, sandwiching a walk to Jim Mobley in the fourth. Valenzuela gave up Stacy's two-run single but retired two batters and tagged out Starnes at home when the AHS first baseman tried to score on a wild pitch.

Two strikeouts in the fifth cooled off another Eagle rally and Valenzuela coasted through the final two innings.

Big Spring added an insurance run in the sixth when Valenzuela single in Pirkle. Pirkle scored three runs and drove in three as Big Spring pounced Abilene pitcher Jim Bourland for 11 hits.

Ibarra was surprised he didn't get more mileage out of his starter. "Adam was not on today. I don't know if it was nerves or what but he struggled from the first batter. It's nice to know you have a pitcher like Jinx or Tom (Cudd) left to do the job."

Although Ibarra did a stand-out job coaching, he didn't make it through the afternoon without unscathed. "My gamble backfired on me when Danny was thrown out," he said of third in the Steer first baseman was nailed at third on Pirkle's single. Otherwise, the third-year coach did his job.

Big Spring travels to Midland Saturday.

4-AAAAA Roundup Midland, Lee earn first win

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Jose Carrasco fanned 13 and scattered six hits to pitch Midland High to an 8-3 victory over Permian Tuesday as the District 4-5A baseball season opened around the league.

Midland Lee outslugged Odessa 12-7 in another game while the Abilene Cooper-San Angelo game was rained out. The contest was rescheduled for 4 p.m. today in Abilene.

Here's how they went around the league:

Midland 8, Permian 3

ODESSA — Eight Permian errors — including four by second baseman Ronnie Squieres allowed Midland to score behind Carrasco's stellar pitching effort.

The game was tied 3-3 after five innings but three errors in the sixth inning keyed a five-run Bulldog outburst.

Tommy Tyler took the loss for Permian, 5-4. Midland evened its record at 6-6.

MIDLAND — Darren Webb's two-run single in the fifth inning rallied the Rebels into a 7-6 lead.

Odessa led early, building a 6-3 lead before Lee took control of the game with a pair of four-run innings in the fifth and sixth.

Craig Ray, in relief of Kerry Robertson, got the win.

Lee is now 7-5 while Odessa tumbles to 2-6.

Hawks lash Longview

Five Hawks collected two hits each while pitcher Billy Mitchell earned his first collegiate victory as Howard College bombed Longview 18-2 in a game called after three innings Tuesday at the HC ballpark.

The win gave Howard a four-game sweep of the Lakers. HC won Tuesday's opener 11-5 as Bobby Behnsch and Mark Warren blasted a pair of three-run doubles.

Howard is now 12-1 for the year while Longview continues its long road trip with an 0-8 record.

Behnsch, Mitchell, Ricky Sustaita, Hector Sanchez and Warren collected a pair of hits each in the second as the Hawks raked Laker pitcher Tony Leon for 13 hits. HC scored nine runs in the third inning, seven coming with two out. The pitching-depleted Lakers tossed in the towel after the third.

Mitchell allowed just one hit and Tisdale, Sampson all-American

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayman Tisdale, Oklahoma's record-breaking 18-year-old, has done something even Virginia's Ralph Sampson never accomplished by becoming the first freshman ever named to the first team of The Associated Press' All-American basketball squad.

The 6-foot-9, 240-pound Tisdale joined seniors Sampson and Dale Ellis of Tennessee and sophomores Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Michael Jordan of North Carolina on the first team, which was announced Tuesday.

It marked the third straight year that Sampson was named to the first team. He was an honorable mention choice as a freshman.

"Wow, I can't hardly believe that," Tisdale said after being informed of his selection. He averaged 25.1 points and 10.6 rebounds in leading Oklahoma to a 23-8 record and a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

The Tulsa, Okla., native led the Big Eight Conference in scoring and rebounding and was named the league's Player of the Year. He broke every freshman scoring record and eclipsed the Sooners' single-season scoring record with 779 points while hitting 59.2 percent from the field.

Sampson, 7-4, averaged 19.1 points and 11.7 rebounds and blocked 91 shots in leading the Cavaliers to a 27-4 record and a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference's regular-season title with North Carolina. He made 59.3 percent of his field goal attempts.

In his career, Sampson has scored 2,171 points, the third-highest in Virginia history, and grabbed 1,477 rebounds and blocked 249 shots — both Virginia records. Virginia, also headed to NCAA playoffs, has won 110 and lost 22 during the Sampson era.

Sampson, the ACC's Player of the Year, is the only repeater from last year's first team. He was the AP's Player of the Year the past two seasons.

"The year will be complete with the national championship," said Sampson, who spurned pro opportunities after his first three college seasons. Despite his effort, the Cavaliers have failed to win the NCAA crown during his reign.

Ellis, a 6-7 second-team choice last season, plays the low post in the Tennessee offense and averaged 23.0 points this season on 60.2 shooting from the field and 6.7 rebounds. He was the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Year, is the 10th highest scorer in SEC history and the third-highest in Tennessee's history with 2,002 points and a 59.1 shooting percentage.

Ewing, a 7-footer who was the leader of the young Georgetown team, averaged

Y swimmers finish seventh

HOUSTON — The swimming quartet of Shamir Caplan, Mitch Houghton, Cade Loftin and Scott Ferguson placed second in the 200-yard medley relay and fourth in the 200-yard freestyle relay to lead the Big Spring YMCA swim team to a seventh place finish at the 1983 Texas State YMCA Swimming Championships.

Seven Big Spring swimmers, ages 9-14, participated in the annual meet, hosted by the Houston Dad's Club Swim Team Feb. 25-26.

Loftin, swimming in the boys' 13 and 14-year-old division, placed sixth in the 100-yard breaststroke; eighth in the 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard butterfly stroke; ninth in the 100-yard freestyle; and 12th in the 200-yard individual medley.

In the same division, Ferguson finished fifth in the 500-yard freestyle, seventh in the 200-yard freestyle, 10th in the 100-yard breaststroke and 100-yard butterfly stroke, 12th in the 50 yard freestyle, and 13th in the 200-yard individual medley.

Caplan, competing in the boys 11 and 12-year-old division, placed third in the 100-yard backstroke, sixth in the 50-yard freestyle, seventh in the 100-yard butterfly stroke and 200-yard individual medley, and eighth in the 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke.

Swimming in the same division, Aaron Vollmer finished fourth in the 100-yard backstroke and seventh in the 50-yard freestyle and 200-yard freestyle.

Caplan's younger brothers also placed well in the boys' 9 and 10-year-old division.

Liron Caplan finished seventh in the 50-yard breaststroke, eighth in the 200-yard individual medley, 10th in the 100-yard freestyle and 50-yard backstroke, 11th in the 50-yard freestyle, and 13th in the 50-yard butterfly stroke.

Ilan Caplan finished eighth in the 200-yard freestyle, 10th in the 50-yard breaststroke, 13th in the 50-yard freestyle, 16th in the 100-yard freestyle and 50-yard butterfly stroke, and 19th in the 50-yard backstroke.

Competing in the girls' 9 and 10-year-old division, Ashli Eriksen finished fifth in the 200-yard individual medley, eighth in the 50-yard breaststroke, 10th in the 100-yard freestyle, 12th in the 50-yard freestyle, 13th in the 50-yard butterfly stroke and 16th in the 50-yard backstroke.

The Westside Community Center is forming a summer soccer league and March has been designated sign-up month.

Sign-up nights are each Thursday at 7 p.m. during the month. Parents are encouraged to help with the program.

For further information, contact organizers Hank Weilbacher at 267-6680 or Gilbert Padilla at 263-3648.

CHS fares well in tennis

Coahoma High's Dana Souter advanced to the third round of the Midland Invitational tennis tournament this past weekend.

Souter whipped Valerie Stevens of Odessa 6-0, 6-2 and Debbie Lester of Monahans 6-2, 6-2 before bowing out to Casey Wikse of Odessa 6-0, 6-1.

Mila Sellindo also advanced two rounds, outplaying Morgan Warner of Odessa 5-7, 7-6, 6-3 and downing Tudy Nichols of Forsan 6-2, 6-2 before being eliminated by Audra Nedham of Odessa 7-5, 6-3.

Vince Kingsley downed Bryan Stringer of Garden City 7-6, 6-4 before losing to Tommy Heiting of Odessa 5-7, 7-6, 7-5. Zack Creech fell to Jamie Gustin of Forsan 6-0, 6-1 in the first round.

Softball sponsor needed

A Big Spring Industrial League softball team, sponsored last year by Yale E. Key Oil Well Service, is in need of a sponsor for the 1983 season.

For more information, contact Melody Stokes at 267-5980.

Girls' softball sign up set

Registration dates for the 1983 Big Spring United Girls Softball Association season have been set for Saturdays March 19 and 26 at Goliad Middle School.

Registration times are from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. both days in the school foyer. Girls ages 8 (by Aug. 31 this summer)-19 are eligible to compete and must bring a parent or guardian and copy of their birth certificate. Fee is $12.50 per player.

Persons wishing to sponsor a team, umpire or keep score should contact league president Ronnie Cunningham at 263-0664 after 6 p.m. on weekend days.

Scuba diving class slated

The 19th Annual Scuba Diving Course begins March 24 at the local YMCA.

The course is held twice weekly and should last through May 22 according to Dr. Floyd Mays who will instruct the special program again.

Cost is $125 for Y members and $150 for non-members with minimum age set at 18 years. All equipment is provided by the Y except for wet suits.

Applications for the sanctioned course are available at the Y.

Softballers meet tonight

A meeting of the Men's and Women's Slowpitch Softball Leagues is scheduled tonight at 7 p.m. at Wayne Henry's.

New officers and discussion of the spring-summer season are top items on the agenda. Teams participating in the leagues and players are encouraged to attend.

Rice perfect for salads, desserts, main dishes

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

and
By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

Diane Duncan, a home economist who works with the Houston Rice Council, was in Big Spring last week to visit with the Herald and submit rice recipes to the Recipe Exchange.

Ms. Duncan travels around the United States and Canada talking about the versatility of rice. She left many recipes and we're sharing them in today's Recipe Exchange.

Ms. Duncan also left many cookbooks and pamphlets by the Rice Council. Most pamphlets are available free of charge by writing to Rice Council for Market Development, P.O. Box 740121, Houston, Texas, 77274.

Diane also shared some tips on preparing rice. For example, when cooking rice, measure carefully and exactly. Don't wash or rinse rice, because you'll lose valuable vitamins and minerals. Don't peek when boiling rice, because that will let out steam and lower the cooking temperature. Don't stir the rice after it comes to a boil, because that will mash the grain and make the rice gummy. Also, don't leave the rice in the pan in which it was cooked for more than five to 10 minutes or the cooked rice will pack.

If you have any recipes which you'd like to share with the Recipe Exchange, please send them to the Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas, 79720.

1/2 cup diced sweet pickle relish
1 tsp. salt
dash of pepper
1/2 tsp. sweet basil
1 cup sour cream
Combine rice, carrots, celery, sweet pickle relish, salt and pepper. Toss lightly. Chill. Serve on salad greens. Blend basil into sour cream. Spoon over salad.
Makes six to eight servings.

BROILED SOUTHERN RICE PUDDING
3 1/2 cups milk
1 cup uncooked rice
1/2 cup light cream
2 eggs, well beaten sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
Scald 2 1/2 cups milk in a 3-quart saucepan; stir in rice. Cover tightly and simmer for 25 minutes or until rice is tender. Mix remaining 1 cup milk with cream, eggs, 1/4 cup sugar, salt, butter and vanilla. Stir into cooked rice. Add raisins, lemon peel, and juice. Mix well. Pour into a buttered shallow baking dish. Place dish in a shallow pan of water and bake at 325 degrees F. for one hour or until pudding has set. Spread pudding with whipped cream, sprinkle with two teaspoons sugar mixed with cinnamon, and broil until topping is lightly browned. Serve hot or cold.
Makes six servings.

CAROUSEL RICE SALAD — This salad is a new idea for homemakers who like to plan out-of-the-kitchen meals during the vacation months, which are right around the corner. It calls for cooked rice which has been cooled, and can be prepared the night before or at the last minute.

densed cream of mushroom soup
1 Tbsp. Dijon mustard
2 Tbsp. dry white wine
1/2 cup half and half (cream and milk)
1/2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 can (9 1/4 ounces) tuna, drained
1 cup cooked green peas
1/4 cup sour cream
salt and ground black pepper
3 cups hot cooked rice
Saute onions and mushrooms in butter until soft. Add soup, mustard, wine and half and half, and Worcestershire sauce. Heat; add tuna, peas and sour cream. Season to taste. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes six servings.

CLASSIC RICE SALAD
3 cups cooked rice, cooled
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup finely chopped sweet pickles
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Blend all ingredients thoroughly. Chill. Serve on lettuce leaves, if desired. Makes six generous servings.

CONEY ISLAND CASSEROLE
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/2 cup sweet pickle relish or chopped sweet pickles
1 package (12 ounces) frankfurters, cut in eighths
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 Tbsp. prepared mustard
salt and ground black pepper

Combine rice, celery, onions, green pepper, relish, and frankfurters. Blend mayonnaise and mustard. Pour over rice mixture and toss lightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Turn into a buttered shallow two quart casserole. Cover and bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Makes six servings.

BOSTON BAKED SAUSAGE AND RICE
1 pound smoked country-style link sausage
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup catsup
2 Tbsp. firmly packed brown sugar
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. liquid smoke
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
3 cups cooked rice
Place links in pan. Add 1/2 cup water. Cover and simmer five minutes. Remove sausage and cut in 1 1/2 inch pieces. Combine with remaining ingredients. Turn into a buttered shallow two-quart casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes six servings.

CHICKEN ITALIANO
12 choice chicken pieces* (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
1 envelope (one and three-eighths ounces) onion soup mix
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup dry sherry or chicken broth
1 cup drained canned tomatoes
3 cups hot cooked rice
Place chicken pieces in a buttered shallow large baking dish (about 13 by 9 inches.) Sprinkle with soup mix. Blend mushroom soup and sherry. Pour over the chicken. Add tomatoes. Cover and bake at 375 degrees F. for one hour or until chicken is tender. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes six servings.
*Drumsticks, thighs and/or breast halves

PORK CHOPS WITH SAVORY SAUCE
2 Tbsp. flour
1 1/2 tps. seasoned salt
6 lean pork chops (1 1/2 pounds), 1/2 inch thick
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 large onion, sliced and separated into rings
1 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup sour cream
2 Tbsp. milk
Parsley rice*

Combine flour and seasoned salt. Coat chops with flour mixture. Heat oil over high heat in a 12-inch skillet for two minutes. Reduce heat into medium high. Add chops and cook for five minutes on each side. Arrange onion rings on top of chops. Add broth, cover and cook over medium heat 25 to 30 minutes or until chops are tender. Stir in sour cream and milk; cook until hot, about one minutes. Do not boil. Serve over Parsley Rice. Makes six servings.
*Parsley: Add two tablespoons chopped parsley to three cups hot cooked rice.

1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
8 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. worcestershire sauce
1/4 tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce, optional
2 cups cooked rice
1 can (four ounces) chopped green chiles, undrained
1 medium tomato, chopped
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese

In 10-inch skillet over medium-high heat cook onions in butter until tender, about three minutes. Beat eggs with milk and seasonings. Stir into skillet. Reduce heat to medium low. Cover; cook until edges are firm and center is still slightly soft, 12 to 15 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand about 10 minutes. Makes four servings.

2 1/2 cups julienne strips of cooked beef
1/2 cups minced onions
2 cans (4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms, drained (reserve liquid)
1 cup uncooked rice
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
2 tps. prepared mustard
1/2 cup chili sauce
1 cup diced celery
Cook meat, onions, mushrooms and rice in butter until rice is golden. Add seasonings, celery, and mushroom liquid combined with water to made two cups. Heat to boiling. Cover, lower heat, and cook 20 to 30 minutes, or until liquid is absorbed. Fluff with a fork and serve at once. Makes six servings.

TUNA LORENZO
1 cup sliced green onions, including tops
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 can (9 1/4 ounces) tuna, drained
1 cup cooked green peas
1/4 cup sour cream
salt and ground black pepper
3 cups hot cooked rice
Saute onions and mushrooms in butter until soft. Add soup, mustard, wine and half and half, and Worcestershire sauce. Heat; add tuna, peas and

Robert Morris snaps 1 NCAA tournament jinx

By The Associated Press
You'll have to forgive the Colonials of Robert Morris College if they're not exactly looking forward to a case of deja vu.

Last year, in their first-ever appearance in the NCAA Basketball Tournament, the Colonials were wiped out 94-62 by Indiana in the first round.

Tuesday night, they survived a preliminary-round test — an NCAA first — by defeating Georgia Southern 64-54, and their first-round opponent Thursday night in Tampa will be another Big Ten team from the Hoosier State, Purdue.

"Experience in the NCAA helps," Robert Morris Coach Matt Furjanic said after the Colonials' triumph in the first half of a doubleheader at Dayton, Ohio, where Alcorn State defeated Xavier of Ohio 81-75 in another prelim. "The first time you have a tendency to sit back and enjoy it. The second time you get a little hungry. We're a better team right now than we've ever been."

In another twin bill at Philadelphia, Gordon Enderle scored 18 points and Craig Robinson added 15 as Ivy League champion Princeton defeated North Carolina A&T 53-41, and sophomore forwards Albert Butts and Ralph Lewis sparked a second-half drive that powered La Salle over Boston University 70-58.

In first-round action later this week, La Salle meets Virginia Commonwealth at Greensboro, N.C., on Thursday night, while on Friday night, Princeton faces Oklahoma State at Corvallis, Ore., and Alcorn State meets Georgetown at Louisville.

Forest Grant scored 17 points and Chipper Harris added 16 to lead Robert Morris past Georgia Southern. The Colonials, 23-7, have won 19 of their last 20 games.

Robert Morris led 26-21 at halftime and three quick baskets at the start of the second half by Roy Dudley helped the Colonials build a 14-point lead.

Michael Phelps scored 18 points to lead Alcorn State over Xavier, which was in the NCAA field for the first time in 22 years. The Braves are making their third NCAA appearance in four years.

Alcorn's full-court pressure bothered Xavier in the first half, resulting in 19 turnovers and a 40-32 Alcorn lead. The Braves opened the second half with five straight points, fashioned a 17-point lead and then withstood a rally that brought Xavier within three points with a minute left.

Princeton, 19-8 and riding a 10-game winning streak, had little trouble with North Carolina A&T's zone defense and ran off six straight points to take a 14-7 lead midway through the first half.

La Salle, the East Coast Conference champion, outscored Boston University 14-4 in the first eight minutes of the second half.

Rotator cuff tear downs Vuckovich

By The Associated Press
The Milwaukee Brewers, who are holding their breath fearing the worst concerning 1982 Cy Young Award winner Pete Vuckovich, got some good news — and some good pitching — from Jim Slaton.

While Vuckovich's shoulder problem was diagnosed as a torn rotator cuff — he will be re-examined next week to determine whether surgery is necessary — Slaton, normally a long reliever, held San Diego to one hit in five innings Tuesday to lead the Brewers to a 5-1 exhibition victory over the Padres.

"When you lose someone like Vuckovich, the way he can pitch, it is a real blow," said Manager Harvey Kuenn. The 30-year-old Vuckovich has a 32-10 record in two seasons with Milwaukee, including 18-6 last season when the Brewers won the American League pennant.

Should Vuckovich be sidelined, the Brewers could move the veteran Slaton into the starting rotation, although there are other candidates in the picture, as well.

On Tuesday, Rick Manning doubled twice and Neal Heaton pitched four scoreless innings of one-hit ball as the Indians defeated the Oakland A's 6-2.

Chili Davis, who went into the game with an 0-for-15 spring batting record, hit a 450-foot home run, two doubles and a single, leading the San Francisco Giants to a 7-2 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Bob Horner drilled a two-run homer and Terry Harper's two-run single snapped an eighth-inning tie, lifting the Atlanta Braves to a 6-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Mike Marshall and Dusty Baker hit two-run homers and Burt Hooton hurled six innings of one-hit ball as the Los Angeles Dodgers flattened the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2.

A throwing error by California shortstop Dick Schofield, whose two-run homer had put the Angels ahead in the top of the eighth, let in the winning run in the bottom of the inning as the Chicago Cubs posted a 5-4 victory.

Elsewhere, Doyle Alexander, trying to rebound from last year's disastrous 1-7 injury-marred season, allowed one run and four hits in six innings and Dave Winfield hit his first spring home run as the New York Yankees defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 6-1.

Larry Parrish broke out of a spring slump with three hits, including a two-run triple that keyed a four-run first inning, as the Texas Rangers pounded the Baltimore Orioles 8-1. Parrish also had a double and a single as the Rangers ripped four pitchers for 14 hits.

American announces new air fare structure

DALLAS (AP) —American Airlines has adopted a new fare structure, based on mileage, that would reduce coach fares in 720 markets, officials say.

The airline cited a need to make "domestic air fares more rational and easier to sell and understand" in announcing the plan Monday.

Four classes of travel are established in the system, which would increase fares in 543 markets, airline officials said.

American said the plan applies to travel beginning April 2, and thousands of old fares will be discontinued by April 15. Spokesman David Lobb said travelers can choose from both old and new fares between April 2 and April 15.

The airline's four categories of fares are first class, coach, off-peak discount and Super Saver. A children's discount of 25 percent will be available in each category.

In a few markets, a fifth fare, business class, also will be offered.

American will base all normal coach fares on mileage in conjunction with the new fare structure. The mileage rates range from 15 cents a mile for trips of more than 2,500 miles to 53 cents a mile for trips of fewer than 250 miles.

The new off-peak fare will provide a 25 percent discount from normal coach fares for one-way or round-trip travel.

Super Saver fares will be offered under different mileage categories and will provide a discount of about 50 percent from the new coach fares on roundtrip travel only. Passengers will be required to make their reservations and purchase their tickets at least seven days before travel and stay at their destinations from seven to 14 days.

The fares will range from $199 for trips of less than 500 miles to $399 for trips of more than 2,000 miles.

"The explosion in the number and complexity of different fares has produced tremendous confusion for the public, travel agents and airline personnel, and is rapidly reaching a point where it is taxing the capabilities of airline computer systems," said Thomas G. Plaskett, American senior vice president-marketing.

"At the same time, fares have reached a point where the price paid by the customer bears no logical relationship to the distance traveled," he said.

OPEC price cut should have little effect

By The Associated Press

Oil analysts say OPEC's new price cut and production agreement should have little immediate effect on the cost of U.S. gasoline and heating oil, but one OPEC minister believes the cartel's agreement has set the stage for an upturn in oil prices within two weeks.

Yields on short-term Treasury securities turned up, meanwhile, meaning banks and savings and loan associations will be allowed to pay higher rates on certain savings certificates beginning today.

For the first time in its 22-year history, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to cut its official price for crude oil, to $29 a barrel and to limit total production to 17.5 million barrels daily. The announcement came Monday in London, where the oil ministers had held 12 days of talks.

Later in the day, Mexico announced it will drop the price of its top-grade crude to $29 a barrel. Pemex, the state petroleum monopoly, has been selling its light-grade Isthmus crude, used for making gasoline, for $32.50 a barrel. Mexico is not a member of OPEC but generally follows the pricing policy of the oil cartel.

Even before OPEC reached its decision, most of the world's oil had been priced between $29 and $30 a barrel. And on the spot market — where oil not under contract is traded — prices already were as low as $27.50 a barrel. So OPEC's reduction should not touch off lower prices at the gasoline pump, analysts say.

But if the agreement succeeds in drying up the world oil glut, gasoline prices may stop falling and could begin rising later this year.

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, predicted that within two weeks, oil prices "will firm up and start increasing."

Yamani and other oil ministers view the agreement as a significant turning point for the 13-member group. OPEC's influence on prices had become eroded by conservation and new oil discoveries in non-OPEC countries, cutting the cartel's share to less than half the Western market.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan hailed the OPEC price cut as "clearly good news for the United States and for the world economy."

At the Treasury's latest auction of short-term securities Monday, the government sold about $6.2 billion in new three-month bills at an average discount rate of 8.256 percent, up from 8.205 percent last week. About $6.2 billion in six-month bills were sold at an average rate of 8.264 percent, up from 8.171 percent.

Lunar renaissance

Scientists say manned moon base possible by 2007

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — About 400 scientists gathered at the Johnson Space Center say that the United States could open a manned Moon base by 2007 — the 50th anniversary of Sputnik and the space age — if planning begins in the next few years.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientist W.W. Mendell said that the week-long Lunar and Planetary Space Conference that opens Monday is "part of a gentle, broad-based sales job to get people talking about the idea and actually thinking about it."

"We have the technology to do some of it," J.D. Burke, an engineer with the jet propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., told the Dallas Morning News. "We certainly have the technology available to us to figure out how to do the rest."

Conference organizers are trying to get the attention of NASA's second-in-command, Hans W. Mark, who will give the keynote address for one session devoted to discussion of a "lunar renaissance."

"Selling space, especially the Moon, will require convincing the people that the Moon is politically and economically important and urgent," said Nathan Goldman, an assistant professor of government at the University of Texas at Austin.

But NASA officials are preoccupied with problems on the space shuttle Challenger, their efforts to get President Reagan's support for a fifth shuttle and a permanent space station in low orbit, Mendell said.

So he said a sales job is necessary if the Moon base is to become a reality by 2007.

Mike Duke, chief of NASA's Planetary and Earth Sciences Division, said the first phase of Moon base program would not require additional funding.

He said the first step would be a lunar-mapping satellite at a cost of about $150 million.

The next step would be to send unmanned vehicles to the lunar surface for site evaluation, engineering tests and experiments.

"Big modern technological civilizations have to have some big, modern technological things they want to do," said Burke. "And so far, practically all we've done is develop ways to kill more people. We are capable of much better things than just coming up with bigger and better weapons."

That's right, the signs say 'Granny Crossing'

DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP) — This Chicago suburb, which put up "No Kissing" signs at a commuter train station three years ago, has come up with "Granny Crossing" signs for elderly pedestrians.

The signs, showing a purse-toting elderly woman hand-in-hand with a Boy Scout, were put up near a senior-citizens housing complex after the complex manager complained to the village board about an unsafe traffic crossing.

"Several times I have seen near-misses," manager Gail McGilliard said.

The board recently accepted an idea by assistant village manager Marge Emery to use granny-crossing signs instead of the traditional pedestrian crossing signs.

Ms. McGilliard said she doesn't know if the signs are having much of an effect, but they cause "a good double-take."

"People are stopping for them," she said. "Maybe there is an extra watchful eye now that the signs are there."

Mrs. Emery also thought up the village's no-kissing signs in 1979, when commuters and their spouses caused regular necking bottlenecks at the local Milwaukee Road station.

The original sign depicted a woman in curlers smooching a hat-wearing man — with a red slash across the drawing. A similar sign — but without the slash — was marked "Kissing Zone" and erected in a nearby parking lot.

The no-kissing sign was stolen, as were several successors before the village replaced the $50 metal signs with a tar-backed cardboard version. It also began selling hundreds of the cardboard signs for $2.50, and smaller, ceramic-tile versions for $3.

So far, the granny-crossing signs have escaped the attentions of the light-fingered. But Boy Scout troops have been asking if the sign will be available for purchase in cardboard or tile.

Blind driver gets two days in jail

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — A 25-year-old man who had been declared legally blind was sentenced to two days in jail after he got in a car accident while trying to drive an intoxicated friend home from a bar.

Gregory Doss of Peoria was convicted of drunk driving Monday and also fined $200 in addition to the jail sentence.

Police said they arrested Doss after he drove off the road and hit a light pole during an early morning ride last December. Doss refused to take a breath test, and police found he had no driver's license because he has only about 30 percent vision.

Doss testified that his friend was too drunk to drive home from the bar, and that he thought he could still see well enough to drive.

Father wins controversial custody battle

NICKOLAUS BLACKBURN ... returned to father

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Mark Blackburn readied his home Tuesday for the arrival of his son, a boy caught up in a bitter custody battle that revolved on his mother's affair with a black man.

"We've got a party planned for him with a cake and everything," Blackburn said as he, his new wife and two stepdaughters awaited the arrival of 4-year-old Nickolas.

Superior Court Judge Bernard Mulherin awarded custody of Nickolas to his father Monday, ruling in Waynesboro that the boy's mother, Kathleen Blackburn, is "sexually irresponsible and maintains an unstable lifestyle."

Before the judge's custody order could be executed, he had to rule on a motion asking that he allow Ms. Blackburn to retain custody of Nickolas pending an appeal.

"We're just waiting," the 24-year-old father said

Tuesday. Neither Kathleen Blackburn nor her attorney were available for comment Tuesday. She was not at her job and her home telephone number is unlisted. The attorney was not in his office.

Mulherin's 30-page order said Blackburn and his new family offer Nickolas a home of "superior stability for nurturing a young child as opposed to the example of" Ms. Blackburn.

Ms. Blackburn "has had numerous meretricious relationships, without discretion and in the presence of (Nickolas)," the judge said.

Since her divorce from Blackburn in 1979, she has "failed to set an appropriate moral example" by conduct that led to an abortion, venereal disease and the birth of an illegitimate, racially mixed daughter, the judge added.

Ms. Blackburn's affair with a black police officer in the south-central Georgia town of Millen resulted in the birth of the daughter, Jennifer, in 1981.

"Her conduct with him and others was immoral and a bad influence on the child," the judge said.

He also said Ms. Blackburn neglected Nickolas until his paternal grandmother was awarded custody in 1981.

The Georgia Supreme Court overturned that custody order, and the child was returned to his mother last November. Blackburn then began his own custody fight.

Mulherin said Blackburn "gives the appearance of being a hard-working man with dedicated goals in life, and a part of a wholesome family unit."

Mulherin granted visitation rights to Ms. Blackburn and urged the parents to conduct themselves in "a spirit of cooperation" to "aid the emotional stability of Nickolas in years to come."

MARK BLACKBURN ... happy to have him

Ford recalls Pintos, Mustangs for defects

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is recalling 99,863 cars because metal fan blades could break and fly off, marking the 11th time in six years that the company's vehicles have been recalled for the problem.

In a statement released Monday, the No. 2 U.S. automaker said the new recall affects 1977 through 1979 Ford Pinto and Mercury Bobcat cars and 1977 and 1978 Ford Mustang II models.

The cars have 2.8-liter engines. They also either have air conditioning, or in the case of the Mustang II, Rallye packages, Ford said.

There have been no reports of injuries due to broken fan blades on the cars now being recalled, although there were injuries from broken fan blades on vehicles recalled earlier, Ford spokesman Mike Davis said. He said he did not have details.

From 1977 through 1981, Ford recalled more than 2.42 million cars and trucks in 10 recalls because of the fan-blade problem, records from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration showed. Vehicles recalled ranged from 1972 Cougars to 1979 LTDs and heavy-duty trucks, the records showed.

A NHTSA spokesman said in Washington the agency had no comment.

The problem "is related to the long-term durability of the blades," Davis said. "They may fracture under stresses" from vibrations, he said.

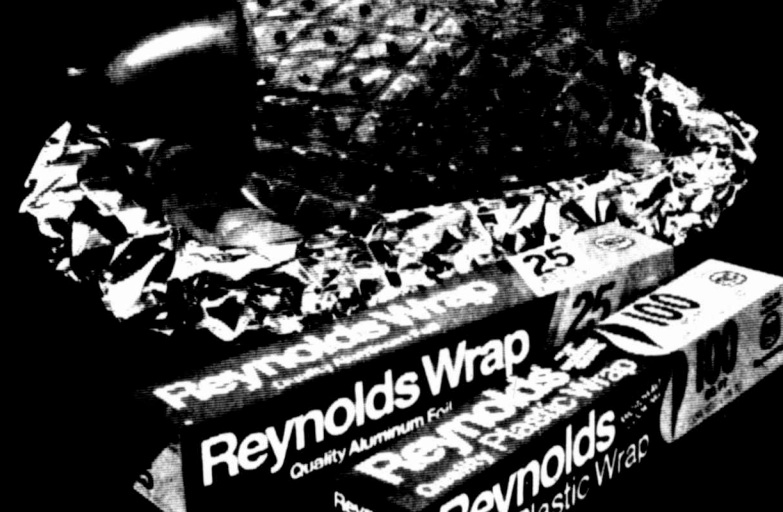

The newest recall came after a field study of some of the cars in January showed blade fractures could occur, Davis said, adding there had been complaints as well.

Ford advised owners that no work should be done on the cars with the hood open while the engine is running until the fan is replaced, free of charge, at Ford dealers.

Of the vehicles affected, 97,856 are in the United States, 530 are in Canada, and others are in other countries, Ford said.

Rocks could change scientists' thinking on meteorites' origins

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the meteorites found on Earth is a piece of the moon and nine may have come from Mars, shattering an age-old theory that these remnants of the solar system come from asteroids or comets, the space agency reported Tuesday.

If some of these meteorites are chunks of Mars, NASA officials said they could be the "most important extraterrestrial rocks studied since the return of lunar samples by the first Apollo moon-landing crew in 1969."

The findings were released here in advance of their presentation later this week at a lunar and planetary conference at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Johnson Space Center in Houston.

The moon meteorite — the first of its kind — was found in Antarctica last year and has been easier to identify than the nine suspected Martian chunks. Scientists were able to compare it with lunar samples collected by American astronauts, and they said it closely matches highland material returned by the Apollo 15, 16 and 17 crews.

"It's clearly lunar," said Prof. Klaus Keil of the University of New Mexico. Analysis indicates the fragment was blasted away from the moon by an asteroid impact about 100,000 years ago and that it sailed the 250,000 miles across the moon-Earth gulf, was captured by Earth's gravity and eventually fell to the ground.

NASA's Dr. Bevan French speculated the meteorite, the size of a golf ball and weighing one ounce, might be from the far side of the moon, the side never seen from Earth. If so, he said, "we may be able to learn a great deal about a huge and unexplored region of the moon from this one little rock."

Dr. Donald Bogard, a geochemist at the Johnson Space Center, said the discovery shows that "not all meteorites are derived from broken-up asteroids or burned out comets, which is what most scientists have long believed."

Identifying the nine suspected Martian meteorites is not so simple. The oldest has been a puzzle to scientists since it fell near Chassigny, France, in 1815. The most recent find — and the one considered most likely to be of Martian origin — was picked up in Antarctica in 1979.

Others were found in India, Egypt, Brazil, Nigeria and in Lafayette, Ind.

The nine pieces are each about 1.3 billion years old — considerably younger than the thousands of other meteorites that have fallen to Earth.

Most date back 4.5 billion years to the beginning of the solar system and the majority are believed to have formed in the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter.

All nine are igneous rocks, which means they cooled and crystallized from molten lava from volcanic eruptions. Scientists, who seriously began studying the rocks in the 1960s, identified Mars as the only world large enough to have generated internal heat for such relatively young volcanic activity 1.3 billion years ago.

The Mars speculation gained force in the last decade when America's Mariner 9 and Viking orbiters and landers returned pictures of numerous volcanic landforms on Mars, many of which were between 1 and 3 billion years old.

Analysis of the 17.5-pound 1979 Antarctic meteorite showed traces of argon, krypton, xenon and other noble gases similar to those measured on Mars by the Vikings. Bogard reported his recent experiments have turned up isotopic patterns in the meteorites that are close to what the Vikings measured.

"It is one more line of evidence," he said. But on the side of caution, he said, "Our studies are like fingerprint comparisons. But in the case of Mars we have a rather smudged print. However, there are several elemental abundance patterns and certain isotopic signature patterns which make for a reasonably strong argument of Martian origin."

Most scientists agree that the only way to be sure is to send a human or a robot on an expedition to collect and return pieces of the Red Planet. "The only conclusive thing would be to go to Mars and find out," said Dr. Michael Duke, chief of NASA's Planetary and Earth Sciences Division.

If these are Martian fragments, scientists are puzzled how they could have escaped the planet's gravitational field and reached Earth. An impacting meteorite or asteroid capable of imparting the necessary velocity, they say, would more likely vaporize rather than eject surface rocks.

NASA's Dr. Lawrence Nyquist suggests that a large meteorite striking Mars with a high enough velocity and low angle of impact could ricochet at high speed, partly vaporizing itself. The resulting vapor cloud, he said, would carry with it pieces of the surface, accelerating them to the high velocity needed to escape the planet.

Rape protest fills Massachusetts town's streets

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Hundreds of protesters outside City Hall chanted "stop rape" as a city board canceled the liquor license of a bar where a female customer was gang-raped while other patrons looked on and cheered.

The protest Monday night brought women from New York City and Boston to this southeastern Massachusetts city to demand an end to violence against women.

"There is a stigma on the city of New Bedford because of what happened," said Earle M. Carter, chairman of the city's Human Relations Commission, who participated in the protest.

The protesters silently marched from the YWCA building to City Hall, a distance of two blocks. They carried lighted candles and signs and banners, some reading "Rape Is Not a Spectator Sport," "Rape is Hate," "Rape is Violence," and "Are our Daughters Safe?"

Four men have been charged in the assault March 6 at Big Dan's Tavern. Police said a 21-year-old woman who had gone into the tavern to buy cigarettes was dragged to a pool table and repeatedly raped for two hours, while some patrons cheered and no one summoned police.

Authorities estimated that 2,500 women and men marched in the protest and that hundreds of others watched.

By the time the demonstrators had left the steps of City Hall, the city Licensing Board voted to "irrevocably" take back the liquor license of Big Dan's

Bar. The bar's co-owner, Deborah Brum, had surrendered the license voluntarily last week after the assault.

Afterward, Mrs. Brum had the bar cut up with chain saws and tables removed from the establishment, located in a working-class neighborhood.

The unanimous vote to take back the license came over the objection of Russell Sobral, attorney for Mrs. Brum's brother, John Machado.

Sobral, along with a lawyer for creditors of the bar, said the decision would be appealed, claiming Mrs. Brum did not have the authority to surrender the license.

While Mrs. Brum nominally headed the Big Dan corporation, her brother operated the tavern. As a foreign national, Machado, a Portuguese, could not hold a liquor license under state law as could his sister, a U.S. citizen.

Darlene Wheeler of New Bedford, an organizer of the protest, said it was scheduled for Monday to coincide with the licensing hearing, but said the focus changed to rape in general when Mrs. Brum surrendered the license.

"It is a visible demonstration that the people of New Bedford care," she said.

Ms. Wheeler said while organizers of the demonstration were horrified at the crime, they generally were satisfied with the way the legal system has dealt with it, especially since bail for the four defendants had been increased from $1,000 each to $50,000 for three and $200,000 for another.

U.S. experiencing three major rabies outbreaks

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal health official said Tuesday that three current "major outbreaks" of rabies have spread across wide swaths of the country — including Texas.

"It's the greatest rabies threat in the past 20 years," said Dr. William G. Winkler of the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control. "It's affecting large metropolitan areas."

Winkler, and others, addressed the subject of rabies at a breakfast session of the American Animal Hospital Association's 50th annual meeting here.

The infectious virus can be transmitted to humans through the bite of rabid animals, and attacks the central nervous system. It can be fatal.

A "huge" skunk outbreak of rabies has swiftly spread through Texas and Oklahoma, on up to the Dakotas and west to Montana, Winkler said.

"It's the greatest rabies threat in the past 20 years," — Dr. William G. Winkler.

The second rash of rabies has been transmitted by raccoons and spread through several Southeastern states, including Florida and Georgia, he said.

A similar rabies epidemic, also distributed by raccoons, has moved through Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the fringes of the Washington D.C. area, he said.

"Raccoons are the most urban rabies problem we have today," Winkler said. "People don't realize how much they populate some sections of urban areas. I saw one in downtown Atlanta the other day."

The raccoon-transmitted rabies outbreak, he said, has hit such Eastern metropolitan areas such as Baltimore, Philadelphia and Trenton, N.J.

"The biggest problem we have today is wildlife rabies," Winkler said. "It can spread so easily."

"We still must depend on dog and cat vaccination as the main barrier between rabies and man," he said.

Texas has the dubious distinction of leading the nation in the number of reported confirmed rabies cases.

The state's Rabies Control Act of 1981 makes it mandatory for dogs and cats to be vaccinated against rabies by four months of age, and at regular specified intervals later.

"It's still hard to combat this thing," said Charlie H. Huff, past executive director of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association.

"We had 600 cases here (Texas) last year and we already have 100 or so this year and the season has not even come," he said.

Pitman-Moore Inc. used Tuesday's session to introduce to the United States a new inactivated rabies vaccine called Imrab, developed by Institut Merieux in Lyon, France.

Imrab is the only vaccine in this country licensed and available for use in cattle and sheep, and also can be used for dogs and cats. Inactivated means it cannot produce disease.

Institut Merieux developed earlier a human rabies vaccine that reduces the number of required painful rabies shots from 21 to a series of five intramuscular shots.

"I CAN'T TELL TIME BECAUSE I DON'T HAVE A BIG HAND AND A LITTLE HAND."
THE FAMILY CIRCUS
 By Bill Keane

"Why is that silly man blowing his horn?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAR. 17, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time when your creative ideas should be used to advantage. You are able to improve relationships with others so there is a greater harmony in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get together with congenials and enjoy amusements during spare hours. Put talent to work and get fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look over your environment and make improvements where needed. Improve your health and accomplish more.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A conference with associates will pave the way to more success in the future. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to elevate your thinking where money is concerned and then you can enjoy more prosperity.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in more social activities after business matters are handled properly. Use that smile more. Be wary of outsiders.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Gain the advice of financial experts so that you can advance more quickly. Draw up a campaign of action.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Consult with an influential person who can assist you in your career. Much good can come of this in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Become more active in civic affairs and get excellent results. Obtain the guidance you need from higher-ups.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You should be highly inspired now and can easily gain your fondest aspirations. Arrange for a future trip.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use your hunches where loved one is concerned and you come out a winner. A good time to make plans for the future.

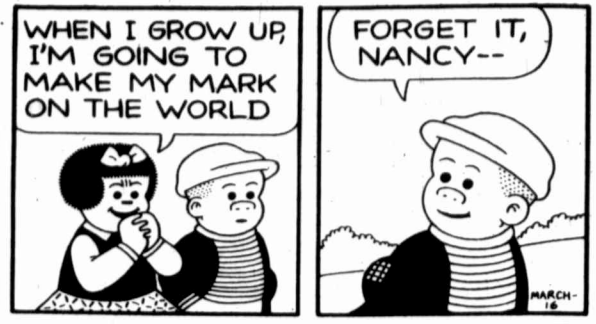

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Meet with associates and make better arrangements for the future. Take health treatments that will perk you up.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take time to make your environs more comfortable. Come to a better understanding with co-workers early in the day.

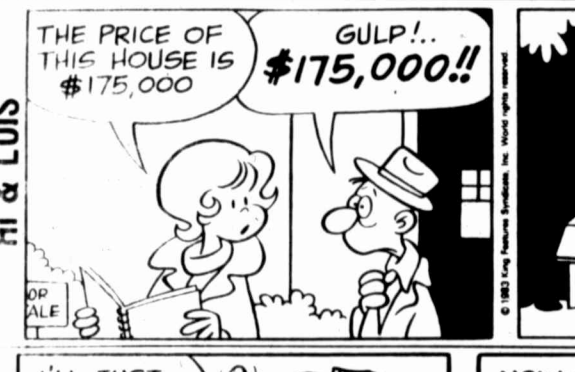

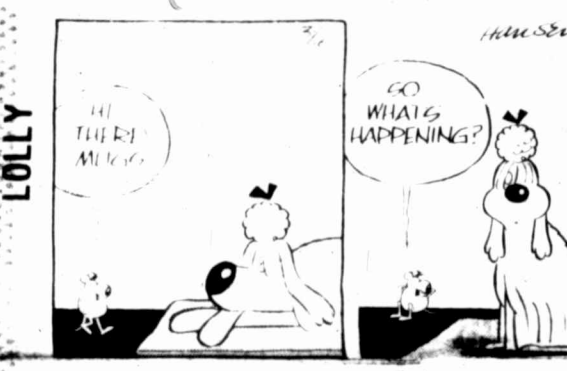

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those persons who can envision the highest results of any undertaking and know its true potential, plus knowing the needs of others. Be sure to equip your progeny with the finest education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

German fliers leaving Arizona training base

PHOENIX (AP) — Supersonic fighters marked with the Iron Cross will soon disappear from American skies, along with the Luftwaffe pilots often seen sauntering down Phoenix streets in cowboy hats and boots.

After 25 years, the German flight training program at Luke Air Force Base is ending Wednesday with graduation ceremonies for seven German air force pilots.

"There was no more glamorous recruiting attraction possessed by the Luftwaffe than the offer of a two-year program of instruction in the American Southwest," said Lt. Col. Heinrich Thuermer, commander of the last German squadron to train at Luke.

"The Southwest always has been a dreamland for German boys. The Wild West, the land of cowboys and Indians."

U.S.-built F-104 Starfighters or F-84s with German markings eventually became a common sight at this Arizona desert base, about 25 miles west of downtown Phoenix.

About 2,700 German pilots honed their skills at Luke under a mutual defense agreement signed in 1957 by the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany. The program is ending because the Germans are replacing their F-104s with different planes.

Upon arrival in Arizona, most of the young Germans quickly outfitted themselves in Western attire for off-duty hours — from jeans and boots to cowboy hats. They frequently could be seen exploring the desert on horseback.

Thuermer, now 40, said he first came to Luke in 1966 and still finds the desert fascinating and exotic. He said the pilots always were impressed with how "very open, friendly and hospitable" the Americans were.

"As for food and beer, well, we missed our real German bread, a firm rye, and the variety of sausages we had at home," he said. "The beer is different but in the heat of summer, we'd rather have two American beers than one stronger German brew."

Among the program's first graduates were aces from World War II, including Lt. Guenther Rall, who is credited with shooting down 275 aircraft, mostly Russian. They came for transition training in the swift, stubby-winged jets and to share their combat experience.

Sixteen of the German student-pilots never returned home. They and six American pilot-instructors were killed in 44 major accidents involving F-104 Starfighters at Luke.

"It is a demanding aircraft — single-seat, single-engine, high speed," Thuermer said of the F-104. "However, there have been no fatal accidents at Luke since 1976."

At the program's peak in 1960, two squadrons of 60 students were flying more than 22,000 hours in F-104s, which travel at twice the speed of sound. The F-84s had been phased out earlier.

In turn, the F-104s also will be phased out by the Luftwaffe later this decade by the European-built, swing-wing Tornado.

That also means phasing out the training program at Luke, because the Luftwaffe pilots will train elsewhere in their new Tornados, a twin-engine, supersonic aircraft designed for use by the British, German and Italian military.

U.S. government officials have reported collecting $36 million through the years from the Germans for aircraft maintenance, fuel and training. Brig. Gen. Henry D. Canterbury, commander of the 832nd Air Division at Luke, estimates that over $600 million flowed into the local economy because of the program.

Faithful fan

Longtime Roger fan got to meet idol

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Big Spring turned out to be a very lucky place for a great Cowboy football star and an 89-year-old woman from Sweetwater.

It was the here that Mrs. Myrtle Connell got to shake hands with Roger Staubach. It was here that Roger Staubach got to shake hands with one of his biggest fans. The two met at a press conference before Staubach appeared at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet Feb. 22 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

"I've seen every Cowboy game that Roger has ever played in," said Mrs. Connell, in town last week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Doris Howard of 109 Carlton House.

That comes to 141 games, according to Dallas Cowboy statistics. And she counts two trips to Texas Stadium to see Staubach play as two of her life's greatest thrills.

"I've read all the books by him and about him. I never missed a game," she said. "I think he's a good man with his family and his business. He deserves credit for taking care of his mother and making sure she has a good home."

She remembers Staubach's greatest moment as the game in which he came off the bench to beat the Rams.

"He had seperated his shoulder, but he came back and took the team down the field for the win," she remembers. "That was wonderful."

But Mrs. Connell was slow to become a football fan.

"I hated it when my son played in high school. I refused to watch because I was afraid he'd be hurt," she said.

"But my son and my grandson got me started watching the Cowboys," she said. "After that, I couldn't stop."

When Mrs. Howard found out that Staubach was to be guest speaker at this year's banquet, she sent a letter to his agent asking that her mother be able to meet the star.

"They sent back a letter saying he (Staubach) would be glad to meet her," Mrs. Howard said.

Chamber of commerce officials arranged the meeting and before the press conference began, she stepped up to Staubach and shook his hand.

"I said: 'I'm glad to shake the hand of the best passer in the NFL,'" Mrs. Connell recalled, her eyes filled with excitement from the memory.

And the best passer's response? "I couldn't remember," she laughed. "I was all excited."

DA taking statements

District Attorney Rick Hamby said today he is retaking statements from five witnesses to determine whether to file criminal charges against former Fire Department Lt. Keith Hamilton.

Statements taken by the Big Spring Police Department reportedly connecting Hamilton with alleged illegal gambling promotion are not sufficiently detailed to build a criminal case, Hamby said.

"I can only assume (the statements) were taken with departmental discipline in mind, not for the investigation's sake," Hamby said. "We haven't made any determination if there is a criminal case."

Fire Chief Jim Ryals fired Hamilton last Thursday after a three-week investigation into allegations that Hamilton promoted illegal gambling last fall at a city fire station during duty hours. Hamilton, 35, had been with the department since 1974.

Last Thursday City Manager Don Davis presented statements from 10 firemen — taken by police detectives at his request — to the district attorney as a criminal case against Hamilton. Davis said the alleged gambling involved "bookmaking" on football games.

Fallout exercise plotted

Howard, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin and Mitchell counties will participate tomorrow in a radiological fallout exercise coordinated by the Texas Department of Public Safety's division of emergency management.

The exercise will allow local emergency management coordinators to test their equipment and capabilities for reporting fallout problems and solutions to district, state and federal operating centers.

During the mock emergency exercise, participants will be warned of a possible nuclear attack. Later, a nuclear detonation is simulated.

Emergency operating centers in the districts are then activated and personnel plot and predict fallout based on wind speed and direction. Howard, Dawson, Glasscock and Mitchell counties are included in the Region 4 district.

Radiological defense plans for each area's population are also reviewed.

Also participating in the exercise will be the Texas Department of Health, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Mariah hosts color guards

Big Spring will be the site for the Second Annual State Color Guard Championship competition held at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the Howard College campus March 26.

Mariah, the Big Spring High School Band color guard, is the defending state champion. Seventeen other high schools will be striving for top honors including color guards from Denver, Colo., Dallas, San Antonio, Austin, Snyder and Killeen.

Candidates appear at forum

Voters will be given the chance to meet the candidates for the April 2 Big Spring school board and city council races during a "meet the candidates" night next Monday.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Howard County 118th District courtroom. Each candidate will be given an opportunity to introduce himself and make a brief statement.

The gathering is being sponsored by the Howard County Democratic Club; however, the meeting is non-partisan.

This year there are nine candidates running for three open spots on the school board and eight hopefuls seeking two open city council seats.

TIPS ON TRIPS

If you're bringing along a camera overseas, put a haze filter over the lens and leave it on. It won't interfere with the photography and may keep an expensive lens from being damaged while traveling. Carry a spare set of batteries for the camera. They are not always available abroad and often cost three times as much as batteries purchased in the United States.

Rutledge races to lone gold

BSHS girls 4th at West Texas Relays

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor
ODESSA — Things like muffed handoffs can really make a difference at a track meet.

While no team was going to outrun Permian on this day, the little things cost Big Spring High from taking second place at the first running of the West Texas Relays in awesome Ratliff Stadium here Saturday afternoon.

Permian swept to two relay victories late in the day to take the team trophy with 87 points. Andrews was second with 38, Cooper third with 37 and the Lady Steers tied with El Paso Eastwood with 36 points. Six more schools scored 30 or more points in this division which included 23 teams from all classifications.

Coahoma, although battling with the bigger schools, managed 16 points to outscore 10 other teams.

The highlight of the day for the Lady Steers was the 400-meter dash. Shell Rutledge, the senior speedster who was third in the 200 at the Region I-AAAA meet last spring, ran the race in place of her specialty which was scratched from this meet's agenda.

Doubling the distance didn't phase her as she clocked a 59.17 to win by over two seconds over Amanda Ramirez of El Paso Hanks. Coahoma's steady Tobie Henry was third in 61.99.

Will she continue to run the 400? "No, next week it's back to th 200," she laughed.

Although the win collected 10 points, Rutledge was more impressive in her quarter leg on the 1,600-meter relay team. Taking the baton in last place by 30 yards, she passed four runners to finish fourth.

Dear Abby
Mitzi Gaynor gives tips

DEAR ABBY: A lot of people think that if you're in show business you stay married for about an hour and a half. Nuts!

To make a marriage work, you have to have more going for you than just "love." You have to like and respect each other.

In our case, Jack and I are best friends; we have to be. We've been married for 28 years and haven't been apart for more than a few days.

In order to get along with your guy, you have to play his game. If he likes watching sports, start the game off by sitting on his lap. If he likes to eat, learn to be a good cook. If he gets sick, nurse him as only you can. Instructions and prescriptions are great, but he needs you.

For the past 16 years, I've performed in over 60 different cities, a real cross section of America, and let me tell you, the insecurities and uncertainties about marriage are the same in Chicago, Houston, New York and San Francisco.

The song says, "Woman needs man and man must have his mate" — well, girls work at it! A lot of marriages break up because people get bored. I say, "Girls, get interested in parlor, bedroom and bath!" Love, MITZI GAYNOR (BEAN)

DEAR MITZI: With all the letters I get from losers in the marriage game, how refreshing to hear from a winner! Your letter made my day.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is very nosy when she comes over to my house. Right away she starts looking in my cupboards and closets. And even my drawers!

I told her I didn't like it, but she doesn't listen to me. Now I am thinking maybe I should tell her that if she doesn't stop inspecting my house she can't come over anymore, but she is one of my best friends and I feel that it would be hard for me to tell her this.

CONFUSED (AGE 10)
DEAR CONFUSED: You have a decision to make. You can tell your friend that if she wants to continue to come to your house, she will have to stop looking in your closets, cupboards and drawers. And if she does it anyway, stick to your word and end your friendship.

Or, let her do as she pleases and put up with it. If you learn at age 10 how to prevent people from pushing you around and taking advantage of you, you will have learned a valuable lesson that some people never learn. You are within your rights to demand privacy. Don't be a snot.

Build your own strawberry factory

You may have the wrong soil and conditions in your yard for growing strawberries, but here's a solution that should bring anyone in Texas success — build your own strawberry factory in a hanging basket! All you need is a large, wire-type basket, a good potting mix, sphagnum moss, fertilizer, and several healthy plants. Choose the same types of plants you would use if you were planting them in the ground. In South, Central and much of East Texas,

Central and East Texas. If you garden in the colder areas of the state, the more hardy Ogallala and Fort Laramine are recommended.

Line the inside and top edge of the wire basket with moist sphagnum moss an inch thick to prevent the loss of potting soil. Put about 2 inches of moist potting soil (not garden soil) in the bottom. Begin planting near the bottom of the basket and work upward in a circular pattern. Poke planting holes through the basket at soil level and insert strawberry plants at 6-inch intervals.

Make sure each plant's roots are in the soil mix and the crown is in the moss lining. Continue the procedure until the basket is filled with soil within 1 inch of the top. Plant the top of the basket with 4 or 5 plants, concentrating the plants more toward the edge of the basket. Water the basket often and fertilize it weekly with a water soluble fertilizer.

Water leak is costly

Don't flush money down the toilet. Just one leaky toilet can waste up to 78,000 gallons of water a year, adding about $150 to your water bill.

To check for leaks, remove the tank lid and flush the toilet. As the tank starts to refill, put a leak detector or some dark food coloring in the tank so the water turns a solid color. If color shows up in the toilet bowl, your tank is leaking.

Before you know it, you'll have mouth-watering strawberries right from your own back porch.

Baseball Steers in Abilene

ABILENE — Big Spring ran out of pitching after five tournament games but returned home with a third place trophy from the Abilene Invitational Baseball Tournament Friday.

After splitting two games Thursday, the Steers advanced to the loser's bracket finals with a 4-2 victory over San Angelo in eight innings and a 7-5 win over Abilene. Cooper collected nine hits off three BSBS pitchers, however, to eliminate Big Spring 15-7.

The Cougars advanced to the tournament championship game with the win over the Steers, facing Lubbock Coronado. The defending champs had blanked Cooper 8-0 earlier in the tournament and made it a sweep over the Cougs with a 5-3 victory in the title game. Coronado won all four of its tournament games.

"We just ran out of pitching," said coach Frank Ibarra. With rotation starters Adam Rodriguez, Jinx Valenzuela and Tom Cudd used up, Ibarra turned to sophomore Jay Pirkle against Cooper. Pirkle, David Renteria — elevated from the junior varsity for the tournament — and Dean Gartman failed to hold Cooper in the consolation finals.

The Cougs jumped off to a 10-0 lead before Big Spring rallied for six runs in the fifth. David Anguiano keyed the rally with an RBI single. Greg Badgett slammed a three-run homer in the sixth to ice the game for Cooper.

"They were tired. When you play three games in one day," said CHS coach Andy Malone, "it's pretty tiring for any team."

Big Spring golfers struggle

SAN ANGELO — Abilene Cooper's No. 2 team, paced by medalist Ryan Heller's total of 153, won the San Angelo Invitational golf tournament here Friday afternoon.

Cooper fired a 633 team score to defeat Lubbock Coronado by five strokes. Andrews recorded the second best round Friday over the San Angelo Country Club course with a 322 to finish third with a 657.

Big Spring finished 21st among the 22 teams entered. Junior Ronnie Martinez fired a 95-89 — 184 to lead the Steers. Big Spring dropped Thursday's score of 408 over Bentwood down to a 363 Friday.

Other BSBS scores were sophomore Jamie Hernandez, 96-89 — 185; senior John Rodriguez, 100-88 — 188; sophomore Mark Guterrez, 117-97 — 214; and freshman Larry Garcia, 141-119 — 260. "Our guys are so young and inexperienced," said Big Spring coach Howard Stewart. "It's tough on them to play these good courses."

The Steers join the seven other District 4-AAAA teams for the first leg of the league tournament next Friday at Abilene's Fairway Oaks golf course.

Suspicious pipe

DEAR ABBY: I'm a traveling man who's on the road five days a week. I have a pretty young wife (my second) whom I've always trusted until last Friday night when I came home, put on my bathrobe and found a well-used pipe in the pocket!

I don't smoke a pipe. Never have. And my wife has never smoked anything. She claims she has never seen that pipe before and doesn't know how it got there.

OK, so she's not admitting to anything, but the next day when I went to get the pipe, it wasn't where I had put it! It just plain disappeared. I searched the apartment but it was nowhere to be found.

My wife claims she doesn't know what happened to it. We are the only two people in this apartment.

From what I've told you, what conclusions would you draw? No names, please. My wife calls me...

PAPA BEAR

DEAR PAPA BEAR: It's just a wild guess, but I think somebody's been sleeping in your bed. Pity, the evidence went up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this letter. You are my last hope.

"Dear Mom: Although you are my mother-in-law, I show you the same consideration and respect I show my own mother, and I wish you would do the same for me. Your visits have become intolerable.

"When you come to my home, you stuff so much candy and cookies into my children, they become hyperactive. I don't give them sweets—it makes them wild and crazy.

"At bedtime, you say (to me), "Oh, let them stay up a while longer"—making me look like the mean mother. You toss them around and get them so excited at bedtime it takes hours for them to settle down and go to sleep. Then you go home, leaving me to deal with hard-to-handle children.

"I've tried to talk to you about it, but you turn a deaf ear. I've tried to talk to your son about it, but he doesn't want up take sides against his mother.

"So here's the final word, Mom. You are not to upset the children's sleeping schedules or their eating regulations. If you insist on bringing them candy and cookies against my wishes, I can't stop you, but you will be getting their doctor and dentist bills.—Your Daughter-in-Law"

Gee, thanks Abby, I feel better already. Any suggestions on how to handle this?

FED UP IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR FED UP: Between us, I think we've handled this sticky situation as diplomatically as it can be handled.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Elks present 3 scholarships

The Big Spring Elks Lodge #1386 presented three $1,000 college scholarships to winners in the Elks' scholastic award program.

Picked this year were Teresa Alexander of Big Spring High, Thomas McDaniel of Coahoma High School and Teresa White of Forsan High School.

Exalted Ruler Kerby Kee said one student from each of the area high schools is selected on the basis of scholastic achievement, leadership and financial need. The only limitation on the scholarship is that the student attend a four-year university.

This is the first year for the award, but Kee said the Elks' Lodge plans to make the scholarship presentation an annual event. Serving as scholarship chairman for the Elks this year was Wade Trostle.

Kee also said Teresa Alexander and McDaniel have been selected to compete in the Elks National Foundation Awards Program. The students have a chance to win up to $20,000 each to pay for a college education, he said.

Violet growing tips shared

Neva Clinkscales was named president of the Texas Star African Violet Club at their meeting March 3.

Other officers are Mrs. Mabel Kountz, vice president; Mrs. Vina Lee Wilson, treasurer; and Shirley White, secretary. Mrs. Clinkscales read a letter from the beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce and urged members of attend a meeting of that committee at 4 p.m. March 14 at the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Marie Rowland gave the program "How to Grow a Queen of Show." She said to transplant your "plantlets" in a two-inch pot of potting soil, make a 1/4 inch hole in the middle of the potting soil and fill this with vermiculite, then place one teaspoon of soil mix over this and pack easy. Dampen the vermiculite a little before putting this in the pot. Make sure the plant is centered in the pot then water them to settle them in the soil.

When your violets get five inches across, they are ready for the next size pot. At this time, all the baby leaves should be taken off. For the repotting, first put about 1/2 inches of sponge-rok for drainage. Add some charcoal on top of this, then put one or two tablespoons of soil on top of this. Take an empty two-inch pot and place plant in the middle.

Now is the time to start training violets. Train for symmetry so leaves overlap one another and you can see no soil from looking from center down. You may use wood sticks to train stems. Don't let them get crooked. If they are getting the right light the stems should be short.

For the last potting, we use a 5 1/2 or 6 inch pot. When you violet gets 9 inches across, it will be ready for the last potting. Pot as before. Take off root ball before placing in a 5 1/2 inch pot. This last repotting should be done five to six months before show.

Under windowsill conditions you will need 10 to 12 weeks and under lights seven to nine weeks to let them bloom.

Good growing conditions are using a gro-lux for all propagations. The lights should be 10 to 15 inches from foliage and they should be on 12 to 14 hours a day. Two months before they show they are moved up two hours, with a temperature of 70 to 80 daytime and no lower than 60 at night. Humidity should be 40 to 60.

Placing small trays of water around the violets helps humidity. It is best to feed the plants every time they are watered and change the food occasionally.

Covers over head causes headaches

Unless you enjoy waking up with a headache, don't pull the covers over your head when the alarm goes off. If you put the covers over your head, you breathe in too little oxygen and too much carbon dioxide. This can cause a brow-buster of a headache.

The results prompted the Food and Drug Administration to warn the nation's hospitals of the Portland findings and a similar experience in New Orleans, the report said.

 They head an experienced staff at A-1

Let A-1 Bookkeeping help you save money

Now is the time to make sure you can get the most out of your income tax return.

A-1 Bookkeeping on the Lamesa Highway is where you can make sure.

A-1 is owned and operated by Dottie Carper and Sue Warren. Together they have 20 years experience in helping taxpayers save money.

Remember — it may be illegal to not pay your taxes, but it is wise to take advantage of the deductions made available by the federal government.

Ms. Carper and Ms. Warren head a knowledgeable staff, including Erminia Camacho, Ruth Gibson, Wilma Dorsey and Rene Blackwell.

Besides income tax aid, they provide all the basic bookkeeping services, including reports and services for all partnerships and corporations.

These can be done by hand or with the help of A-1's computer. The computer can do everything from figuring to printing checks.

They have been in business since June, and are ready to be of service in this important time of year for taxpayers. It is to your advantage to seek the help of experienced financial services in taking advantage of what is offered.

A-1 is just the place.

They are open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays during tax season.

Their phone number is 263-3287. Call them today.
