EXPLAINS ST. PATRICK'S WORK — Father J.P. Delaney of Sacred Heart Catholic Church traces the path of St. Patrick on a map of Ireland in his office. Delaney, who came to America from Belfast at the age of 26, is celebrating St. Patrick's Day in the company of other Irish priests working in the United States.

Ignore the tumbleweeds and dust storms. Think of wishing wells, not oil wells.

And if Big Spring resembles an Irish town today, it's because Father J.P. Delaney wants to feel closer to his homeland.

The pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church has brought 30 Irish priests, all working in America, to town for a golf championship, a supper and a celebratory Mass led by Bishop Fiorenzo of San Angelo.

"It's just a little get-together we've set up for St. Patrick's Day," Delaney said. "We're going to exchange some stories and remember Ireland."

Delaney, 72, was born and raised in Belfast. He still speaks with a strong Irish accent and professes a great love for the culture and its people.

"I do miss Ireland," he said. "It's so different from here, but it's where I grew up and wherever your youth is, it's important."

Many of the Irish priests visiting today share that feeling, including Father Charles Conaty of Colorado, who came to America with Delaney in 1936.

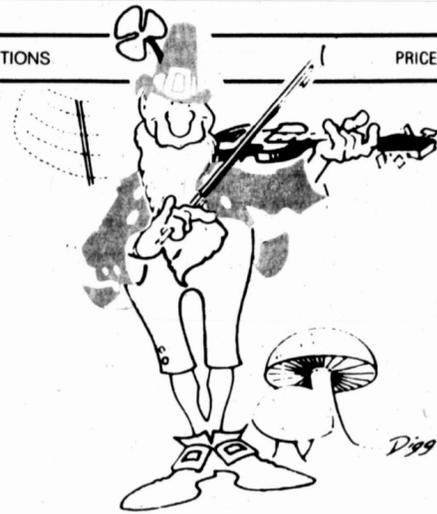

"We had no choice where we were going after completing education," Delaney said. "We got our orders from the Superior General in Rome and originally, I think, both Father Conaty and I were to be sent to Ceylon, India."

But instead, at the age of 26, Delaney was sent to Eagle Pass and then Houston before settling in Big Spring in 1954.

"I tell you, we were so ignorant of Texas that we did not realize it was a part of the United States — we thought it was a country apart," he said.

He has led the church at 508 N. Aylford through growth in his time here, adding a youth center and a new church building. His work is

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City turned green today with thousands wearing the colors of Ireland massing for a controversial St. Patrick's Day parade led by a supporter of the Irish Republican Army.

Before the marchers stepped off up Fifth Avenue under a gray sky, Cardinal Terence Cooke met privately with Michael Flannery, the 81-year-old IRA sympathizer whose selection as grand marshal prompted a boycott of the parade by the Irish government, the U.S. Army, 23 bands and several politicians.

The two conferred before Cooke's Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in honor of the patron saint of Ireland.

Arthur Godfrey dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Fans mourned Arthur Godfrey, the ukulele strummer whose gift of gab made him a radio and television favorite for five decades, and even the singer he once fired on live TV recalled Godfrey as "the greatest salesman in the world."

Godfrey, who liked to call himself the Old Redhead and who was once

LaRosa had just finished singing "Manhattan" on the TV show "Arthur Godfrey and Friends," when Godfrey turned to the audience and announced, "This is Julie's swan song." He accused LaRosa of a "lack of humility."

The singer told reporters Wednesday night that he and Godfrey never reconciled, but he credited Godfrey for giving his career a boost and recalled Godfrey as "the greatest salesman in world."

From his signature greeting of "Howa'ya, Howa'ya," to his public battle against lung cancer, Godfrey did everything with his own brash style. He liked to say that you "get as much out of life as you put into it."

"You had nothing to do with your birth, and you can't control the circumstances of your death. But you can do something about living," he told one interviewer.

"He made the personality more important than the talent," recalled another easygoing TV celebrity, Art Linkletter.

At his peak in the 1950s, Godfrey had a Monday-through-Friday daytime show, "Talent Scouts" on Monday night and an hour of "Godfrey and His Friends" on Wednesday nights. His weekly prime-time audience measured 82 million viewers.

In 1969, it was reported that Godfrey's shows brought in $159 million in advertising for CBS.

His "Talent Scouts," with an applause meter that measured audience response to unknown performers, is credited with giving newcomers Pat Boone, Barbara McNair, Vic Damone, Johnny Nash, the McGuire Sisters and Shari Lewis their start.

ARTHUR GODFREY ... died Wednesday dubbed "the Huck Finn of radio" for his folksy wit, died Wednesday at age 79 after being hospitalized 13 days for emphysema and pneumonia at Mount Sinai Hospital.

The entertainer will be cremated without any public service, said a spokesman for the William Morris agency, which represented Godfrey.

"I hope — indeed I shall pray — that he will rest in peace," said Julius LaRosa, the singer "discovered" by Godfrey and then fired by him on the air in 1963, shocking the nation.

Texas drawl tames shrew

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Spring City Theatre production of William (Billy Bob) Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" has a few weak moments, but overall contains many rewards in its unusual Western presentation.

Director Cecelia McKenzie chose to avoid the usual pitfalls of convoluting Texas accents into the Bard's Olde English and instead has the actors speak in their normal voices. Costumes and stage settings also come under this Westernization.

Cowboy hats, blue jeans and boots are the basic garb for the players. The theater group also opted for a stark stage, broken only by an occasional hay bale, milk can or burlap-covered bench.

Another switch on Shakespeare is that several women are playing male roles in the production. During the Bard's time, men often played the female roles.

Despite the emphasis on the Western motif, the true enjoyment of the production comes from the play itself. All the players attempt to maintain a certain level of campiness, but Shakespeare's play is still the main star.

Basically, "The Taming of the Shrew" is an off-the-wall love story, complete with several love-stricken characters. Several men wish to marry the noble daughter of a rich man but can not even court her until the older daughter is married. The problem is the older daughter — an acid-tongued caterwauling shrew.

The men hatch a plot to find a husband for ill-tempered

Katharine to open a path to the lovely Bianca. The equally fiery Petruchio is selected to marry "Katharine the Cursed," as she is referred to in the play.

Once married to Katherine or Kate, Petruchio begins to tame her passion to make her into a better wife. Meanwhile, the suitors begin their devious courtship of Bianca. The finale ends with Petruchio winning a huge bet when Kate obeys his every whim.

Sharon Loftin is effectively shrewish as Katharine, the untamed older daughter. She is particularly good delivering insults

'The Taming of the Shrew' opens tonight at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium early in the play. Her role becomes less gripping as she is "tamed," but that is a fault of the play and not the performance.

Ms. Loftin does especially well in the famous barbed exchange with Petruchio when they first meet.

Petruchio is played with vigor by Terry Dobson. He rants and raves and returns every salvo Kate hurls at him. His lies about Kate's passion for him, as well as his pretended anger during his cooling of her hot-temper, are handled well.

Not too many people can deliver

Action/reaction: Checks delayed?

Q. Why is it taking so long for elderly people to get their Medicare checks to pay bills?

A. According to Ray Abelar of the Social Security Administration Office in Big Spring, he has seen no indication of any delays. Abelar said some problems did exist a year ago, but not now. He said 40 to 45 days is the normal time for claim settlement. If persons have individual problems, they should contact him in the Federal Building (post office).

Water off downtown Sunday

Water service in downtown Big Spring will be shut off for about nine hours Sunday so work crews can examine the system's valves.

Water service will be discontinued from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. in an area bounded by Gregg Street on the west, Fourth Street on the south, First Street on the north and Goliad Street on the east.

There also will be two contiguous areas in which the water will be off sporadically during the day. This area lies between Fourth and Sixth Streets and the alley between Scurry and Main and the alley between Main and Runnels. The additional area is bordered by Goliad to Benton and Third to First.

Plaintiff loses suit

A Howard County jury found yesterday against the plaintiff in 118th District Court in the civil suit brought by Michael Spradling against his parents.

Spradling was seeking ownership of a piece of land he says his parents promised him if he built a home there. The suit for title to the land was originally filed in May of 1978 by Spradling against Lev Dolby Spradling, et al.

The jury said the land was worth less after the home was built on it.

Injury suit seeks damages

Buel E. Wood of Big Spring is seeking $31,970 in damages in 118th District Court from another Big Spring man in connection with a traffic accident.

The suit claims Jerry Lane Phillips of 1103 Runnels was negligent while driving his vehicle Aug. 12, 1981. The West Highway 90 accident left Wood with a broken pelvis and other injuries, according to the suit.

Damages of $20,000 are being asked in the suit as well as $6,000 for wages lost and $3,000 for medical expenses.

Robert E. Miller is representing Wood.

Penney's sued in accident

A Big Spring woman is suing the J.C. Penney Co., Inc. for injuries she says she suffered when she fell at the company's Big Spring Mall store.

Barbara Figueroa filed the suit in 118th District Court through her attorney, Elliott Mitchell.

The suit states Ms. Figueroa fell on a piece of liquid near the front of the store, injuring her back on Aug. 13, 1983. The suit says the store was negligent in not removing the liquid or warning customers of the hazard.

The amount of damages sought was not detailed in the suit.

Curriculum on agenda

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees will act on local textbook committee recommendations and suggestions on curriculum for the Bauer Magnet School in a regular meeting set for 5:15 p.m. today at the high school.

The textbook recommendations come from teacher committees in the district which have approved books applicable to the district's curriculum from the State Board of Education's textbook adoption list.

The Bauer Magnet School program recommendation is the result of extensive meetings at all elementary schools in the district. The meetings were held to gather suggestions from parents, teachers and individuals on the school's curriculum for the current year.

The board is expected to review the curriculum program and make any necessary changes of suggestions for the school.

Other items on the agenda include the adoption of a 1983-84 school calendar, a look at proposed band and choir tours for the coming year and teacher resignations.

The board is expected to go into executive session to discuss teacher performance evaluations and to consult with the school attorney on legal matters.

SPELLING BEE WINNERS — Lee Baker, left, won the Kentwood Elementary School spelling bee by correctly relettering the word announcer. Jeff Rutledge, right, was runner-up in the preliminary contest to the Howard County Spelling Bee March 30. Leland, 10, and Jeff, 11, are now eligible to compete in the county bee.

What it means to be Irish

EDITOR'S NOTE — This year New York's annual salute to St. Patrick has been overshadowed by the dispute over the naming of an Irish Republican Army sympathizer as grand marshal. But the parade has stood for many things over the years. In 1967 the late Hal Boyle, Pulitzer Prize-winning war correspondent and columnist, wrote this account of what the day meant to him.

By HAL BOYLE

AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK — What is it to be Irish? On 364 days of the year being Irish isn't visibly different from being Scotch, French, Italian, Jewish, Serbian, Dutch, or — yes — even English.

The Irishman pays his bills, complains against his taxes, does his work, and listens to his wife like the man of any other race.

But on this one day of the year — Holy St. Patrick's Day — the Irishman becomes an Irishman.

And on this day you have to be Irish to know what it is to be Irish.

The outer signs, of course, can be seen by all. The Irishman overnight grows a foot taller and stalks the earth a giant. All traffic lights turn green before him, and if they don't he sees red.

But this air of majesty is only token evidence of interior change. The men of other races who envy the Irishman his bearing on St. Patrick's Day would envy him far more if they could look inside the Irishman's soul.

What is it to be Irish? How can you put the wonder of it into words? If a psychiatrist stretched himself out on his own warm couch after his last customer had gone home, and he dreamed of the man he himself would most like to be — well, he might be perfect, but he's still only half an Irishman on St. Patrick's Day.

What is it to be Irish? It is to have an angel in your mouth, turning your prose to poetry. It is to have the gift of tongues, to know the language of all living things. Does an Irishman pause and turn an ear to a tree? It is because on this day he wants to hear what one sleepy bud says to another as it opens its pale green hands to the warm sun of spring.

What is it to be Irish? Oh, on this day it is music. Not just the cornet in the parading high school band, but the deep, deep music of living, the low sad rhythms of eternity. The Irishman hears the high organ of the turning spheres, the dim lullaby of the worm in its cocoon. All the world is in tune, and he is in step with that tune, the tune that only he can hear.

What is it to be Irish? It is to live the whole history of his race between a dawn and a dawn — the long wrongs, the bird-swift joys, the endless hurt of his ancestors since the morning of time in a forgotten forest, the knock-at-his-heart that is part of his religion.

What is it to be Irish? It isn't only the realization that he is descended from kings. It is the realization that he is a king himself, an empire on two feet striding in power, a strolling continent of awe.

What is it to be Irish? Why, on St. Patrick's Day, to be Irish is to know more glory, adventure, magic, victory, exultation, gratitude and gladness than any ordinary man can experience in a lifetime.

What is it to be Irish? It is to walk in complete mystic understanding with God for 24 wonderful hours.

primarily with Hispanics, he said. Delaney became an American citizen, but he has two brothers living in Ireland. He says he visits the country at every opportunity, and on one of his most recent trips he retraced the steps of St. Patrick.

He admits that St. Patrick's Day has "picked up a lot of fiction," making it difficult for non-Irish Americans to understand the holiday.

"He was a historical figure, born in A.D. 387, and he single-handedly converted Ireland to Christianity," Delaney said, moving to a large map of Ireland on the wall and pointing to the city of Antrim, where he says St. Patrick began his work.

"He was taken prisoner by pirates and sold to a farmer. He escaped and had a vision that convinced him to preach the Christian faith," Delaney said.

St. Patrick converted the nobility, which made it possible for all the people of Ireland to hear Christianity taught, Delaney said. He was so successful that before his death he had other Bishops and a number of priests to assist him.

"He died on March 17, 493 in Downpatrick," Delaney said. "There has been a lot of fiction built around St. Patrick's life — such as his driving the snakes out of Ireland. No one knows that he actually did that, but there are no snakes in Ireland. They can't live there for some reason."

Delaney says the emphasis on green for the holiday comes from St. Patrick's teachings.

"When he talked to one king about the Trinity — the Father, Son and Holy Ghost as one in God — he reached down and picked up a shamrock and pointed out that there are three parts to the leaf, but it is still only one leaf," Delaney said.

well. Betty Church is luscious as the desirable Bianca. She coos and vamps on stage in a parody of every saloon girl in every Western ever made.

Cliff Coan provides a solid presence throughout the play as Hortensio, the pistol-packing pursuer of the fair maid Bianca. He has a tender comic scene with his heart's desire as he pretends to be a music teacher.

David Justice as the girls' father — Baptista Minola — delivers a believable performance, aware of Kate's shortcomings, but eager to marry both daughters off.

The master-servant role switching of Donnie Wheeler as Tranio and Chris Smith as Lucentio is confusing taking place so early in the play. Both actors handle their parts well.

Greg Smith as the servant Biondello shambles through "The Taming of the Shrew" as a laconic cowboy who takes everything with a grain of salt and a toothpick.

Other performers include Judith Gray as Vincentio, Sanden Daughtee as Grumio, Betty Clere as Curtis, Jackie McElroy as Pedant, Mary Owens as the widow, Ken Facazio in duo roles as the tailor and a servant and Chris and Michael Gibson as servants.

Although he misses Ireland, he has no plans to return to his homeland to live.

"I get my orders from Rome," he said. "But I certainly don't mind it here. That's the power of America. It's made up of so many different people from all over the world."

lines like "lusty wench" and "I was born to tame you" without sounding somewhat ridiculous.

The most outlandish performance in the play is gender-switching Carolyn Ford Withuhn as old man Gremio.

Gray-haired and clad in overalls, she hams it up as one of the many chasing after the fair Bianca. She plays Gremio as a combination of Walter Brennan's "Real McCoy" character and Captain Kangaroo's Mr. Greenjeans.

Earlier, politicians and local officials gathered at an Irish restaurant for the traditional St. Patrick's Day breakfast of sausage, eggs and soda bread.

Parade officials said today's event would be held "with dignity and pride" despite the boycott.

"We're not going to let them hijack the parade," said Mayor Edward Koch.

Gov. Mario Cuomo said he would "never miss" an opportunity to celebrate the "magnificent culture" of the Irish.

violence," Cooke said. "We remember those who every day are denied basic human rights and equal opportunity."

The crowded cathedral was silent after the remarks, but Flannery's applause rang out loudly.

3 businesses burgled

Three businesses reported major burglaries to police Wednesday.

The manager at Bob Brock Ford of 500 W. 4th told police someone broke a vent window on a 1983 pickup truck and stole a stereo unit. The incident occurred sometime between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, police reports said.

• A television set valued at $200 and 20 cases of beer valued at $193 were stolen from Fina's Cafe at 200 N. Gregg Wednesday night, police were told. A window at the front of the building was broken out, police reports said.

• Someone broke into the Coors Distributorship on the Interstate Highway 20 service road and stole $120 in cash, a camera valued at $75 and four 12-packs of beer valued at $19.50, police were told. The theft occurred sometime Wednesday night.

• Sam Abrea of 500 Abrams told police he went to his mailbox Wednesday afternoon and found a check missing from an opened envelope. Abrea said the check was for $228.

4 bankers indicted for embezzlement

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Four former officers — including the former owner and former president — have been indicted on charges they embezzled and misapplied more than $113,000 in Jefferson Savings and Loan Association funds.

Former owner Guillermo Hernandez Cartaya and former president James LeBlond were accused Tuesday in a 13-count indictment, officials said.

Two officers of the McAllen association, Jesse Rodriguez and Billy Myron Bannister, also were named in the indictment.

The indictment supersedes a similar indictment handed down Nov. 23, 1982. It drops one man, company officer Herbert Day Houston Jr., and adds Cartaya and Rodriguez.

Cartaya already had been indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of stealing about $500,000 of savings and loan money. His trial on that charge is scheduled for later this month.

Before Tuesday's indictment, Cartaya was free on bonds totaling $100,000.

Cartaya faces a five-year sentence in Miami on an income tax evasion conviction. That conviction is being appealed.

Chamber rejects loan request by Sports Car Club

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce board yesterday rejected a request by the Sports Car Club of America for a loan of $2,000.

The car club had asked for the loan to pay for national sanctioning and insurance for the club's race set April 30 and May 1 at the Howard County Industrial Park.

However, board members said it was not the chamber's responsibility to lend money and suggested the club go to a lending institution.

The club has sponsored a road race at the Big Spring Industrial Park for several years.

The board was told that Hayes Stripling Jr. had donated the old Stripling Wholesale Grocery building at First and Gregg streets to the Big Spring Industrial Foundation.

The building contains 13,000 square feet, has a 20x130 foot mezzanine and a 12x75 foot cold storage area.

In other business the board:

- Adopted a motion prohibiting individual chamber committees from entering into contracts without the approval of the board of directors.
- Heard a report stating that 95 new members had been signed up in the chamber ambassador's recent membership drive. Steve Childress was named top salesman.
- Adopted resolutions supporting the decontrol of natural gas and a freeze on government spending to be sent to the proper officials.

The freeze resolution asks for changes in cost-of-living adjustments, limiting Medicare and Medicaid, freezing federal civilian pay for a year and limiting future raises, and cutting defense spending.

• Heard a report saying that Faron Young, Larry Mahan, Golden Richards, Russell Erleben, Charlie Johnson, Charlie Young and several other celebrities have indicated they will appear at the Signal Peak Shriners' Pro-Am set for May 18, 19 and 20.

Survivors sue LULAC over slaying at club

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The League of Latin American Citizens has been sued for $1.75 million by the survivors of an Albuquerque man who was killed outside a LULAC club two years ago.

The family of George Almarez contends in the lawsuit that national and local officers of the Hispanic organization failed to provide adequate security at the club.

The lawsuit seeks $750,000 in economic damages, $750,000 in compensatory damages and $250,000 in exemplary damages.

In August, Danny Pete Blea was convicted of murdering Almarez in an alley next to the club following an argument. Blea also was convicted of aggravated battery and aggravated assault for shooting bartender Patricia Campos.

Blea was sentenced to life in prison, but that term doesn't begin until he completes a 49-year sentence for heroin trafficking, state prison officials said.

During the trial, Blea testified that he drank at least 25 beers and tequila shots at the club the evening of Jan. 26, 1980.

Alaskan murder suspect dies in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Alaska authorities came to Texas looking for a solution to a spree of killings of young women. Now they will leave with more questions and another suspicious death — that of the man who confessed to the killings.

Thomas Richard Bunday, 35, told Alaska State Troopers Jim McCann and Chris Stockard Monday that he was responsible for five women killed during a two-year span, according to the two officers.

On Tuesday, 75 minutes after the arrest warrant that McCann and Stockard were awaiting was issued in Fairbanks, Alaska, Bunday was killed when the motorcycle he was riding slammed into a dump truck near Vernon, about 40 miles east of here, Texas Department of Public Safety troopers said.

Alaska state troopers at a Fairbanks news conference Wednesday refused to speculate on whether the accident was a suicide, but one investigator called the unexpected turn of events "mind-boggling."

McCann and Stockard said they arrived in Texas March 7 and Bunday, a career military man who was stationed at Eielson Air Force Base near Fairbanks until September 1981, admitted to them that he strangled and shot the women.

McCann and Stockard said they could not arrest Bunday until they obtained warrants from Alaska. The warrants were issued at 2 p.m. CST, and Bunday was killed at 3:15 p.m., officials said.

Stockard said Bunday, a technical sergeant at Sheppard Air Force Base here, was not under surveillance at the time of the accident.

The two troopers said they first interviewed Bunday as a suspect in January. They said his name cropped up initially among thousands based on car registrations derived from vehicle sightings near the crime scenes.

As investigators continued to sift thousands of leads, Bunday's name kept cropping up, they said.

"We looked at over 200 people and his name kept coming up," McCann said.

Stockard and McCann came to Texas with search warrants to inspect Bunday's home in Burkburnett. They said Wednesday that the search uncovered evidence linking Bunday to the murders, but they would not elaborate.

Gale warnings along Texas coast

By The Associated Press

A strong low-pressure mass in the Gulf of Mexico brought gale warnings along the entire Texas coast today, while frost warnings were posted for large sections of the state in the wake of a high-pressure ridge.

Winds were gusting to 35 mph north and northwest across the Gulf coast, and wind speeds were expected to increase to more than 40 mph from the northwest.

Low cloudiness flowing around the low-pressure mass covered most of Northwest, North and Southeast Texas. The high ridge pumped freezing air into the High Plains as a few snow flurries lingered in the eastern Texas Panhandle.

Clearing skies and windy conditions prompted a freeze warning for the Hill Country and a frost warning for South Central and Southeast Texas tonight.

West Texas: Generally cloudy north, partly cloudy southeast, fair elsewhere today. Isolated light snow flurries Panhandle this morning. Decreasing cloudiness north and east tonight. Partly cloudy all sections Friday. Rising afternoon temperatures today, Friday but cold again tonight. Highs today low 40s Panhandle to low 60s south with up to mid 70s southwest. Lows tonight upper 20s north to mid 40s Big Bend. Highs Friday upper 50s north to mid 70s south except near 80 Big Bend valleys.

Cisco mayor pro-tem arrested for murder

CISCO (AP) — When Eastern Airlines Flight 1659 pulled up to a gate at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, Loyal Lundstrom was ready to stop running.

The 59-year-old mayor pro-tem of Cisco was arrested Wednesday morning, 13 days after he disappeared. He was last seen March 3, the day his 27-year-old wife was killed with a shotgun, authorities said.

Lundstrom, thought to be an up-and-coming civic official in this small West Texas town, contacted police through an unidentified intermediary, Cisco Police Chief Randy Whittle said.

"He was just tired and realized he wanted to get things in order," Whittle said. "He gave himself up on his own."

It wasn't until Lundstrom disappeared and a nationwide hunt began that Texas authorities — and Cisco residents — learned that Doris Lundstrom's death came 14 years after a Minnesota court overturned Lundstrom's conviction for killing his first wife, authorities said.

"He was just tired and realized he wanted to get things in order. He gave himself up on his own." — Cisco Police Chief Randy Whittle.

Lundstrom, who arrived at the airport on the Eastern flight from Oklahoma City at about 8 a.m., was transported back to Cisco and held in the Eastland County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

The Rev. Cliff Reneau, a family friend who found Mrs. Lundstrom's body, issued an appeal calling for Lundstrom's surrender. Mrs. Lundstrom taught Sunday school at Reneau's First Church of the Nazarene and was named the parish's mother of the year two years ago.

Authorities refused to say if Reneau's open letter influenced Lundstrom.

Eastland County District Attorney Emory Walton said the case would be taken to a grand jury.

An "accumulation of evidence" prompted authorities to issue the murder warrant for Lundstrom, Walton said. But authorities have been tight-lipped about details of the slaying.

Walton and Whittle responded "no comment" to queries about the motive for the murder and the whereabouts of the shotgun.

Authorities did find "some evidence" in Mrs. Lundstrom's car, found March 8 at the airport, Walton said.

Mrs. Lundstrom's body was found at the motel the couple operated in Cisco. An autopsy indicated the woman died March 3, the same day Lundstrom disappeared after leaving their children in the care of Reneau.

Lundstrom has a history of disappearing and once dropped out of sight for about two years, said Walton.

New EPA head sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is moving rapidly to find a new head for the Environmental Protection Agency, whose acting director ran into controversy just a week after he took over, a Reagan administration official says.

The official said it was "extremely unlikely" that acting director John W. Hernandez Jr. would get the job permanently following revelations about his record at the troubled agency.

"There is a sense we need to move on an expedited basis and as rapidly as we can," the White House official said Wednesday night, speaking on condition that he not be further identified.

The official said President Reagan's senior advisers have narrowed the list of potential administrators to approximately six names.

Hernandez became the center of new controversy Wednesday when he told a congressional panel that he showed a 1981 EPA draft report on dioxin to the Dow Chemical Co., the manufacturer of the toxic chemical.

But Hernandez, who was then deputy EPA administrator, denied ordering changes in the final version that deleted critical references to Dow.

Hernandez said the Chicago EPA office deleted the critical references to Dow. But EPA spokeswoman Kathy Brown, in Chicago, said the changes were ordered by Hernandez subordinates in Washington.

Hernandez was named by Reagan to replace Anne McGill Burford on March 9. But since then, White House and EPA officials said he has had no contact or direct instructions from the president.

Mrs. Burford resigned under pressure from Congress, where six panels are investigating EPA, looking into allegations of political manipulation, perjury, conflict of interest and "sweetheart" deals with industry.

According to the White House official, the list of potential nominees to take over the agency permanently includes: William D. Ruckelshaus, the first administrator of the agency when it began operation in the Nixon administration and now a Weyerhaeuser Co. official; Christopher DeMuth, a budget office executive responsible for the administration's regulatory reform program; Henry Diamond, a Washington lawyer who was an aide to former N.Y. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller; and James Buckley, the former Republican senator from New York who has worked for the Reagan State Department.

In addition, said the official, "There are a couple of others" on the list. But one of those mentioned in the past week as a possible nominee, John Quarles, a former EPA official, has been ruled out, the White House source said. Hernandez has also said he would like the EPA job permanently.

Rep denies drug usage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ronald Dellums, denying that he or his aides ever bought or used drugs, is challenging the House ethics committee and the Justice Department to be specific about any such accusations.

"I am aware of these vague allegations that are directed at us," the California Democrat told a news conference Wednesday. "I flatly deny them."

Dellums made the assertions in the wake of media reports that Robert Yesh, until Wednesday a 13-year employee of the House doorkeeper's office, had told a federal grand jury that Dellums and some of his aides had bought and used cocaine and marijuana.

Dellums, 47, said he had hired Washington attorney Michael Tigar to meet today with House ethics and Justice officials involved in probes of possible drug use on Capitol Hill.

Tigar was to meet with Joseph Califano, the special counsel hired by the ethics committee. He also hoped to arrange a session with D. Lowell Jensen, head of Justice's criminal division.

Dellums said Tigar would be trying to learn "who said what, what were we supposed to have done and when we were supposed to have done it — to find out in very specific terms."

Texas ex-justice Yarbrough arrested

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough, who fled the country after losing his appeal of a perjury conviction, was captured after he ventured away from his safe retreat on the Caribbean island of Grenada, officials say.

The fugitive ex-justice was arrested Wednesday on the independent island nation of St. Vincent 19 months after fleeing Texas to avoid a five-year prison term.

Acting on the fear that Yarbrough might post bond and flee, officials left Wednesday night to begin extradition proceedings.

Yarbrough was ordered to prison for a 1978 perjury conviction. He faces an additional charge of felony bond-jumping, authorities said.

"I'm enormously pleased. I'm delighted," said Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle, who announced the surprise arrest at a hastily called news conference Wednesday evening along with Gov. Mark White.

Yarbrough had fled Texas with his wife and two children to attend medical school in the Caribbean island of Grenada. He had successfully avoided arrest there because the United States has extradition problems with that island state.

But two weeks ago, Yarbrough left Grenada on a trip to the nearby island of St. Vincent, and U.S. authorities made their move.

Yarbrough was spotted by U.S. consular officials in Kingston, the capital of St. Vincent, and arrested by local authorities, said Gilbert Pena, head of the governor's Criminal Justice Division.

"A couple of weeks ago we heard there may be an opportunity to make the connection in St. Vincent, so we were in contact with the U.S. marshal's office and the U.S. attorney's office in St. Thomas (the nearest U.S. territory), who were assisting us in developing a plan to get him," said Pena.

After the arrest "the governor in St. Vincent decided to let the U.S. government have him — not on an extradition basis, but simply as a person who is almost deported, an undesirable person," Pena said.

He said federal marshals from the Virgin Islands flew to St. Vincent in the British West Indies on Wednesday and took custody of the Texas fugitive. They whisked him on a charter flight back to U.S. soil, where Pena said "I think he's in jail" on the island of St. Thomas.

Pena, Assistant District Attorney Bill Wilms and Travis County Sheriff Doyle Bailey left Wednesday night on a private plane for St. Thomas, according to Ann Arnold, White's press secretary.

The three officials flew to Dallas on a state-owned plane and then flew to St. Thomas on a private jet owned by Dallas millionaire H. Ross Perot.

Ms. Arnold said the trip was set up quickly because of fears that Yarbrough might post bond.

Pena said he did not know when Yarbrough would be brought back to Texas.

"It's going to be just like extraditing him from another state," since St. Thomas is a U.S. territory, he said.

Yarbrough actually enrolled in school in Grenada in 1980, but he was not officially a fugitive until the following year when he failed to show up for a formal sentencing hearing Aug. 11, 1981. His appeals had run out.

He had resigned from the Supreme Court on July 16, 1977 amid controversy over his qualifications to hold a seat on the court. Critics said he was elected because of the similarity of his name to that of former U.S. Senator Ralph Yarborough, D-Texas, and Don Yarborough, a former Republican candidate for Texas governor.

Yarbrough, who said God had told him to run for office, won election to the court in November 1976, but quickly found himself in mounting legal troubles.

Several civil suits against him stemming from past business deals sought about $1 million in damages. This led to more problems for Yarbrough, who was a relatively unknown Houston lawyer when he ran for the Texas Supreme Court.

Prosecutors accused him of lying to a grand jury that was investigating allegations that he plotted to have a witness killed to keep him from testifying against Yarbrough in civil suits regarding his financial dealings. The alleged plot was foiled and no one was hurt.

Yarbrough was convicted on the perjury charge January 27, 1978, but appealed. He remained free on $5,000 bond pending his appeal, and Pena said that bond had been forfeited.

Yarbrough's lawyer, former Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr, said his failure to show up for the sentencing hearing in 1981 was "a complete surprise."

Truman letters reveal history

The letters of Harry S. Truman to his wife, just made public after the death of Mrs. Truman some months ago, bring fascinating new insights into the life and character of the president — and into events at the time of World War II as well. Undoubtedly they will prove to be a gold mine for historians and biographers.

The letters, most of which had been stored in the family home in Independence, Mo., tell us much about Truman's undying affection for his "Dear Bess" over a period extending from his days as a young farmer until several years after they had left the White House. They tell us, too, of his negotiations with Churchill, Stalin and other world leaders as the war was drawing to a close.

One curious aspect of their correspondence, in light of today's tight security arrangements, was his free-wheeling comment on those leaders and their discussions at the Postdam Conference. Although the letters arrived in this country by diplomatic pouch, they were then placed in the regular mail for forwarding to Independence — yet Truman was given to revealing state secrets in his brisk, feisty style.

The fact, for example, that Stalin had agreed to enter the war against Japan. "Stalin goes to war August 15th with no strings on it ..." he wrote on July 18, 1945. "I'll say that we'll end the war a year sooner now, and think of the kids who won't be killed!"

A Truman scholar, Robert H. Ferrell, has been examining the letters, and a selection of them will soon be published in his book, "Dear Bess". That volume is something to look forward to.

Sex, cable TV and free speech

Cable television has been hailed as a revolutionary communication technology, capable of providing the American family with everything from live theater to protection from burglary. But it is also becoming a battleground in a dispute over the meaning of the First Amendment.

The issue is at the heart of a lawsuit soon to be filed by the Illinois chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. It challenges an ordinance in the Chicago suburb of Vernon Hills which prohibits "indecent" on cable-transmitted programs. At least 19 suburbs of Chicago, as well as the city itself, have ordinances banning or restricting "adult" material on cable — only a handful of such laws around the country.

The forces of censorship have a precedent in the Federal Communication Commission's regulation of broadcasting. Its rationale is that since the airwaves are a scarce public resource, those granted the privilege of using them for private profit should be subject to government control.

The Supreme Court stated it this way: "Where there are substantially more individuals who want to broadcast than there are frequencies to allocate, it is idle to posit an unbridgeable First Amendment right to broadcast comparable to the right of every individual to speak, write and publish." The Fairness Doctrine, the equal time rule, and more important, the FCC's power to revoke the licenses of stations violating its vague standards — all these limit the First Amendment rights broadcasters. Leaving aside the question of whether that rationale makes sense, it clearly doesn't apply to cable TV. Cable operators don't use public airwaves, and the number of potential channels is practically unlimited.

Another justification for broadcast regulation is that TV owners have no choice over whether to let broadcasts into their homes — no choice, that is, except turning off the set. But they can get cable programs only by making an explicit choice to spend money for them. Buyers who don't like what they get can cancel. In other words, cable TV is much less like traditional broadcasting than it is like movies or books.

That was the conclusion reached in one of the few court decisions involving cable TV's First Amendment rights. Last year, a federal judge in Utah decided there is no real difference "between going to the movies and a theater and having the movies come to me in my home through electronic transmission over wire... The location is different. The content is the same. Why should the non-'indecent' on Main Street be transmuted by ordinance and municipal definition into 'indecent' in my home?"

Banning something "indecent" is, in the Supreme Court's view, much different from banning something obscene. Obscenity, which has a reasonably clear meaning (as defined by the Court), is beyond the pale, with no constitutional shield. But anything falling this side of obscenity is protected.

Indecency, by contrast, could mean anything. Some people think "Last Tango in Paris" is indecent; other reserve that adjective for Jerry Falwell's political views. Which definition should apply? Obviously neither. People who don't appreciate Marlon Brando's ingenuity with butter shouldn't subscribe to cable services that display it. People offended by Falwell's sermons should exercise similar discrimination.

The single legitimate concern of those who would censor cable programs is the exposure of children to sexually-oriented programs. But the responsibility for protecting children lies with parents, not local governments. They can choose not to buy adult cable services, which are invariably offered separately from other channels. Or they can buy lockboxes which make certain channels inaccessible without a key.

The problem is no different from that presented by Playboy magazine, which may be left where Junior can sneak a peek. The risk to children is no grounds for abridging the freedom of adults.

When the framers of the Constitution wrote the First Amendment, they applied it to all known forms of verbal communication: there was not one law for newspapers and another for the citizen preaching on the street corner. Freedom is indivisible now as it was then. Either the First Amendment applies to cable TV and other new technologies, or else each passing year will render a basic constitutional right more and more irrelevant.

Billy Graham

How to be successful

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What, in your view, is the definition of a successful person? I would like to be successful but I'm not sure exactly what that means. — B.W.

DEAR B.W.: There are certainly many ways of defining success. Most people, I suspect, think of success in terms of material success, such as having a large bank account or many possessions. Other think of success in terms of power or influence, such as a "successful" politician or businessman.

But to me there is only one true standard by which we should measure ourselves, and that is the Word of God, the Bible. We can achieve all the material success in the world, but in God's eyes we may still be failures. Jesus told a parable about a man who had been very rich and powerful in his lifetime. He had lived a life of luxury — and yet he had been very selfish and neglected those who were in need. When he died he found himself in Hell, whereas the poor man he had neglected went to Heaven. (You can read the whole story in Luke 16:19-31). In the eyes of God the poor man was successful and the rich man was a failure because the poor man loved God while the rich man had neglected him.

Make it your goal to be successful in the eye of God. The first step is for you to commit your life to Jesus Christ without reserve, telling him that you want to serve him and not yourself. Then seek each day to live for him, and spend time each day with him in his Word so that you know what he wants you to do and what kind of person he wants you to be.

As far as the Roman world was concerned, the apostle Paul was a failure. But he knew that the important thing was to serve Christ. At the end of his life he could say honestly, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith" (2 Timothy 4:7). May you be able to say it also at the end of your life because you have put Christ and his will first all your life.

The word tuxedo is an Algonquin Indian word meaning, "he has a round foot."

Around the Rim

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Mount Baldie

Today is St. Patrick's Day. Most people with "Irish" surnames like Jaklewicz are lifting mugs full of ye old green beer, wearing green underwear and socks and wishing their favorite leprechaun the greeting of the day. Yes, it's a joyous spring day in Irish communities everywhere.

But not for this Irishman. Waking up this morning and peering at the aging face in the mirror, he noticed the hair on his scalp was thin. His disgust didn't match the first day he discovered his impending doom. But he was disgusted just the same. Later he realized his first column on going bald appeared in this very space exactly a year ago. Things obviously have been downhill since.

His hair was thin last spring but nothing compared to its condition now. While hair on most heads are too numerous to count, his didn't even require a calculator anymore. Each day, more of hair washed down the shower drain. So did a huge chunk of his ego.

What really makes him furious is the reaction of other people. "Oh now, Greg, it's not really that bad," they say, forcing the fakes of smiles. "I hardly noticed it." Sure, sure. If I was 6-10 or something, you turkeys might not notice it. But we all know even Kareem Abdul Jabbar is losing his afro.

But the subtle insults parade on just the same. When I go the hair stylists (they used to be barber shops when I was a kid), I get the works for $5 off the regular price. It's like a senior citizen's discount... probably because I have as much hair as most of my elders.

The first time they did that, I ask why. "Well, uh" the girl stammered, "I just didn't have, uh, that, uh, much to, uh, do."

I see. Then there are the people who meet me for the first time and say, "You're Greg? You don't look anything like your picture in the paper." What's the supposed to mean, bulldozer face. Burt Reynolds I'm not. But you're no Bo Derek either, lady.

I catch a lot of rude comments from the kids at the high school. If they only understood. One girl told her friend one day, "He's not that old... what are you, Greg, about 30?" Thirty! Give me a break. Just because I look like John Houseman doesn't mean I'm as old as George Burns.

It's the hair, see. The basketball players really give me a hard time because I'm a writer in the locker room is probably the shortest person around. "Saaaay, Greg, you're going bald, man," they laugh. "You got more hair in your moustache." Really? Are you sure? How can you tell? What will the girls say?

Deception is easy. If I wear a cap, I can fool a lot of people. But it's no use getting the chicks excited and then taking off my hat to see them crumple in shock. "Gag me with a comb, he's bald," they whisper. "Just like my daddy."

The greatest tragedies come when my hair is wet. I have gained a fear of water like the Wicked Witch of the West of Wizard of Oz fame. When my hair get wet, I reeeeally get bald. I look like someone's grandpa at the pool. And drying my hair... as soon I get away from the water source, the top of my head is dry. The sides take a little longer but that's little consolation.

What did I do in my former life to deserve such a fate? Was I Ghengis Kahn or something? Of course, some of us thin-haired types don't it worry them. They play golf every afternoon and 17 bikini-clad girls are always hanging around them. They have something more than hair of their heads... money. I have neither and consequently, only the neighbor's dog is glad to see me each morning.

People complain about being overweight, too thin or having big feet. So what... you can lose that flab or work out at the muscle hut or wear flared pants. Hair is like taking a plane ride with Amelia Earhart; once it goes, it never comes back.

So while everyone is out having a good time tonight, I'll stare at my autographed picture of Telly Savalas or listen to the soundtrack from Hair. Maybe I'll visit city editor Keith Briscoe who wears the same hair style I do.

By the way, the Herald finally took an updated picture of me which appears above this column. And now you've seen the rest of the story.

Taxpayers 'help' ex-presidents

WASHINGTON — Much has been written about the "imperial presidency" — the sometimes-royal splendor in which our chief executives, their families and their huge staffs are pampered at the taxpayers' expense.

But few Americans realize the staggering costs of what might be called the "imperial ex-presidency" — the pensions, expenses, Secret Service protection and office-library upkeep for our former presidents. The situation becomes absurd when you realize that the three current living ex-presidents are all either millionaires or close to it, thanks largely to the opportunities that arose directly from their years in the White House.

The estimated cost of the imperial ex-presidency this year alone is $27 million. Three years ago, the bill was $18 million. And in 1965, when the single ex-president was Harry S. Truman, a man of devoutly democratic tastes, the cost was only $64,000.

In a perverse sort of way, it was the spectacle of Truman, carrying his own luggage into his home in Independence, Mo., and answering his own correspondence after he left office, that inspired Congress to provide staff and stationery expenses for former presidents.

Since that well-intended decision to help a man of modest means cope with the burdens of former high office, the legislated expense accounts for the former presidents have ballooned.

Ironically, the growth of ex-presidents' expenses came at a time when any former president — even one who was forced out of office in disgrace — was guaranteed at least a comfortable income from books, lecture fees, directorships and other sinecures available precisely because he had one held the highest office in the land.

No one wants to see our ex-presidents face financial hardship — like Thomas Jefferson or U.S. Grant, for example — but former presidents have been soaking the taxpayers for staff and expenses used for political purposes and to generate income. A former president's staff allowances now starts at $150,000 a year and decreases to an eventual $96,000.

Oddly enough, it is the ex-president who has been out of office the longest — Richard Nixon — whose staff charges the taxpayers most in one area: travel expenses. Travel vouchers obtained by my associate Vicki Warren show that Nixon's staff ran up travel bills of more than $20,000 last year. Gerald Ford's staff travel expenses were less than half that of Nixon's last year; Jimmy Carter's staff travel cost only $7,000.

Bob Barrett, who runs Ford's office, supports the idea of curbing ex-president's expenses. He said Ford scrupulously separates official, personal and political expenses. Barrett thinks it would be a good move to have former presidents give Congress a public accounting each year on how the taxpayers' money is being spent.

IRISH STEW: Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., is an erudite and combative public figure in the best tradition of Irish-American politics. Now he has put his political career in jeopardy by refusing to march in that annual outpouring of Irish enthusiasm, the St. Patrick's Day parade.

Moynihan's decision to boycott the parade, because Grand Marshal Michael Flannery is an unapologetic supporter of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, has outraged many of the senator's constituents. To unrelenting Irish-Americans who want the British out of Northern Ireland at whatever cost, Moynihan is now right up there with Oliver Cromwell in the pantheon of deep-eyed villains, traitors and spalpeens.

Yet Moynihan, as vice chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, has inside information on the IRA and its links to some of the worst international terrorists: Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi, the Italian Red Brigades, West Germany's Baader-Meinhof gang and extremist elements of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Unpublished studies done for the senator document the IRA's ties to terrorists. One such study notes for example, that "The IRA has received increased financing and arms, including M-16 rifles, through their associations with other guerrilla groups" such as Red Brigades, Baader-Meinhof and the PLO. The IRA has also received arms from Czechoslovakia.

But probably the IRA's staunchest support comes from Irish-Americans like Flannery. In fact, when the 81-year-old president of the Irish Northern Aid Committee was tried last year on charges of stockpiling machineguns for the IRA, he admitted it in court. But he won acquittal by persuading the jury he had been under the impression he was working with the CIA.

Even Moynihan's glib tongue is no match for Barney like that.

White sparks Texas-Alaska feud

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he was only kidding when he slighted a certain northern state that is bigger than Texas, but some irate Alaskans apparently took him seriously.

White said Wednesday he was "delighted" that an Anchorage radio station was running a rather uncomplimentary song dedicated to him, but that it was all misunderstanding of a compliment he tried to make.

Last month, White told an audience of local government officials in College Station that Alaska was trying to lure Texans to vacation there, but that he did not know "why anyone would want to go to that cold, barren place."

Employees of station KFQD responded with the song, sung to the tune of "The Yellow Rose of Texas," with lyrics, in part:

"He can talk about his oil wells and 'bout the Rio Grande,
"But nothing can compare to our great Alaska land.
"The biggest thing in Texas, that small state way down south,
"The biggest thing to see there is Gov. Mark White's mouth."

White said the Alaskans apparently don't know a compliment when they hear one.

"It's a little difficult to compliment people these days," White said. "I was bragging on what an effective program they have in their tourist development and that I think they did an extremely good job of setting out the glories of Alaska."

"I think it's too bad that they don't understand that sometimes you say things in jest and apparently they took it seriously."

Meanwhile, Austin humorist Cactus Pryor wrote a response to the Alaska song, written to the same tune: "Oh, I been up to Alaska, from Anchorage to Nome, "Where bear and wolves and mooses and caribou do roam, "Where salmon, trout and king crabs and char and rainbows play, "But more than other creatures, it's where displaced Texans stay. "If they're too small to be Texans, we ship them to that state. "If they're ornery, weak and ugly, good Alaskans they will make.

Ex-students get 'A's for excuses

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A crackdown on federal loan defaulters, many of whom owed money on student loans, deserve an "A" for imagination, one Justice official feels.

"Those arrested gave us some great excuses for why they ignored the summons," said U.S. Attorney Robert Wortham. "One guy told us that his dog ate the summons."

The arrests, and the excuses, began when U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher decided to get the attention of defaulters in his district by ordering them to appear in court.

Fisher ordered federal marshals to round up 15 people early this week who had ignored collection letters, federal lawsuits and then Fisher's orders to appear before a federal magistrate.

Wortham said about 75 percent of the people had defaulted on student loans while others needed to repay Veterans Administration educational benefits and Small Business Administration loans.

Wortham said the arrests were part of a national crackdown on those who refuse to pay money they owe the government.

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Darlene Gifford, Community Relations Manager

Taking aim on fraudulent calls

In recent months, you may have read that Southwestern Bell is beginning to take steps to cut down on the number of fraudulent long distance calls placed from public telephones and charged to an unauthorized third number.

Effective April 1, the company will begin a new procedure that is designed to eliminate fraudulent calls.

On that date, all Southwestern Bell operators (as well as operators from independent phone companies) will start requiring approval from an individual at the third number before the call is put through.

While this new procedure may cause a slight inconvenience for customers desiring to place legitimate bill-to-third-number calls from public telephones, it will benefit everyone in the long run.

First, this will greatly reduce the burden on customers, who help shoulder the cost of fraudulent third-number calls through higher rates. And secondly, there will be less expense of having to investigate those types of calls, which also drives up rates.

Actually, the new third-number verification will cause a delay of less than one minute. If the operator is unable to verify the charges, the caller will be asked to provide alternate billing (such as charging the call to his or her Southwestern Bell Calling Card or placing the call collect).

A convenient billing alternative

The Calling Card may represent the most attractive alternative to third-number billing. Not only are direct-dialed Calling Card calls faster and more convenient than third-number and collect calls, they cost less. Depending on the distance of the call, a Calling Card can save you up to 50 cents on interstate calls and 75 cents on intrastate calls.

To apply for a Calling Card, call your Southwestern Bell business office (listed in the Customer Guide section of your local directory). There's no charge to obtain a Calling Card, and having one can eliminate the need for carrying change to place phone calls.

Watch for phone cables when digging in your yard

Now that spring is just around the corner, you may be planning gardens, lawn landscaping, putting up a fence, or other outdoor activities.

If so, you'll want to be on the lookout for buried telephone lines and cables when you dig.

We started burying our cable and wire from overhead to underground a few years ago to help protect phone service from ice, wind and rain. But, it also increases the chance that you might cut off your own service, with nothing more than a shovel or ditch-digging machine.

If you think there may be a cable or phone line underground in the area where you want to dig, but you don't know for sure, just dial "0" and ask for "Enterprise 9800." We'll tell you what to do, and if necessary, send a telephone person out at no cost to show you where a cable runs in your area.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line.

A NIGHT IN CHINATOWN — This 34-foot dragon, created by (left to right) Mrs. Jimmy Johnson and Mrs. Rick Hamby, will decorated the scene for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Benefit Dance Saturday from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Brass Nail. The dance, with the theme "A Night in Chinatown," will culminate a week of fund-raising activities by local citizens for the rehab center. A dinner and auction also will be a part of the evening. Many local merchants have donated items to be auctioned off including a fur coat, western apparel, paintings and sculptures, a trip to Los Angeles, Calif., jewelry, barbecue grill, a 45 piece set of china and much more.

Dear Abby

Gifts receive endorsement

DEAR ABBY: I've written to you three times in my life — so far — and two of my letters have appeared in your column. Not bad! Here goes again:

Re: money gifts at weddings: Why not? So many young people live together for a while before they tie the knot and really don't need any more serving pieces, toasters or blenders.

We gave both of our nephews money for wedding gifts. One of them pooled all his cash gifts and used it for something he really needed — a sizable down payment on a car.

I think the "correct" thing to do in every situation is what is sensible and practical for the people involved. Any gift given with love and consideration for the recipients is "correct" in my book. Who cares what the etiquette books say!

T.J.F. INAGAWAM, MASS.

DEAR T.J.F.: I agree. But the etiquette books say that cash gifts are "correct." What is incorrect is a wedding invitation accompanied by the suggestion that a gift of cash is preferred. In other words, it's okay to give cash, but it's not ~~okay~~ to suggest it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a knockdown, drag-out fight about a point of etiquette.

Here's the situation: My husband and I were dinner guests at the home of a couple in another city. On returning home the following day, we sent the hostess an exceptionally lovely arrangement of flowers to express our appreciation.

It's been two months, and we've heard nothing from the hostess to indicate that our flowers were received. (Never mind a "thank you.") My husband maintains that our flowers were a "thank you" for the dinner, and it's not necessary for her to thank us for having thanked her.

I say the hostess should have at least let us know our flowers were received. Who's right?

PEA PICKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You are. The hostess should have acknowledged the flowers and thanked you for them.

DEAR ABBY: Your column featuring the questionnaire to determine whether you are an alcoholic brought tears to my eyes.

I remember taking that test a year ago at my second A.A. meeting. The results convinced me that I was an alcoholic and had to do something about it.

When I was 17, I found myself drinking Coffee Royals at 8:30 a.m. to face my day. I had been drinking and drugging since I was 12. I was a basket case.

I am 18 now, and I have not had a drink, or drugs of any kind, for nearly a year. Tomorrow will be my first anniversary.

Alcoholics Anonymous has definitely saved my life. I have everything going for me. I came from a life of hell, and today I have a hell of a life!

Thanks for constantly plugging A.A. That column made my day.

BOBBY'S.

DEAR BOBBY: No thanks due me. A.A. threw you a lifeline. You caught it. Congratulations.

Program gives beef to needy

The Oregon CowBelles, a group of women in the cattle business, have begun a national program to aid America's needy people during the celebration of National Agriculture Week, March 20 to 26," said Kathy Kurtz of the Oregon Beef Council.

The program, "Lunchless Wednesday," will have CowBelle members across the nation going without lunch one day and donating the money saved to the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army will use the money to buy beef for its neediest food kitchens. The national goal is to raise $34,000.

The CowBelles' project has people helping people rather than government helping people, Kurtz said. National Agriculture Week recognizes the abundant food supply America has produced for local and international consumption. The CowBelles believe that "Lunchless Wednesday" will be an expression of concern for the needy and pride for American agriculture.

Scientists receive grants for their research on birth defects

Four scientists from Texas and Oklahoma have received grants totaling $58,000 from the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. The four recipients are Jonathan B. Ward Jr., Ph.D., at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston; Ivan L. Cameron, Ph.D., and Robert J. Klebe, Ph.D., both at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio; and John A. Bantle, Ph.D., at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

These grants are funded by the March of Dimes to investigate reproductive hazards in the workplace and to develop ways to test environmental chemicals for possible risks to human reproduction.

Each year hundreds of chemicals have been added to the list of substances whose hazardous potential has not been known. Determining which chemicals can cause birth defects, sterility, or cancer in humans would be greatly aided by the availability of tests that are fast, inexpensive, and accurately reflect what goes on in the human body.

The four March of Dimes grantees have been working toward this goal. The system that Dr. Cameron has been developing uses fish embryos to identify industrial and environmental agents that can disrupt embryonic development. Dr. Bantle has been working on a similar system using frog eggs.

Dr. Ward has been evaluating a battery of tests to measure adverse effects of agents that may cause mutations in exposed workers. The tests have included screening white blood cells for structural and chromosomal abnormalities, counting sperm cells and examining their ability to survive and move, and using a bacterial test to identify mutagens present in the workers' urine.

Dr. Klebe has been examining industrial compounds that, through not believed to cause mutations directly, may nevertheless cause birth defects by either fusing embryonic cells together or altering the normal expression of their genes.

Dr. Donohue

Menopause is usually a gradual thing

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a few questions on menopause. Is it true that the average age for it is 50? Does every woman have the hot flashes? What about irritability, nervousness, depression? How long do symptoms last? Are they all due to lack of female hormones? Do you become irregular right away? I'm 35, and have become somewhat irritable of late. My periods are regular and I have no flashes. But I'm wondering. — T.Y.

You've covered the menopause waterfront, T.Y., that's for sure.

Your right in setting 50 as the average age for menopause. It's defined as a full year of no menstrual periods together with other symptoms, like the hot flashes. Yes, generally speaking, the mother's age at menopause is a rough guideline for when to expect the daughter's — but it's not exact by any means.

The kinds of symptoms and their duration are so varied that you can't set a definite time spans for them. Some women have them for months or up to a year or so. In fact anywhere in that range would be normal. Some women slip through menopause with no symptoms at all, and some may have them to the point of incapacitation.

Hot flashes are certainly due to the decrease in the woman's estrogen production, and they generally subside as the body becomes accustomed to the lower amount of the hormone. Some may experience thinning of the mucous membranes of the genital tract, depression, insomnia, fatigue and loss of bone mass. Some of these are due to the hormone changes; some are not. Generally speaking, the periods become irregular and lighter prior to stopping completely, a process that usually takes a year or more.

At 35, and with normal periods, it doesn't sound as though your irritability can be due to menopause. You should look for some other cause. The booklet "Make Menopause Easier" is a more in-depth discussion of this subject. For a copy, write me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: The other day a doctor on TV stated that elderly people should take vitamin B-6 to counteract memory loss. How do you feel about this? — H.H.O.

I have not heard of that. It is not part of standard medical treatment. I don't know if it works, I don't know whether that doctor was referring to some sort of experimental work going on or not. If it proves to be an effective treatment, I'll let you know. For the present, I would be skeptical.

However, since many elderly people tend to shortchange themselves nutritionally, the B vitamin groups is frequently the first to be deficient. For those who are not getting a balanced diet, attention to such vitamin needs, generally, is a wise thing.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

TOE TO TOE — Darrell Blesi of the Carden International Shrine Circus touches up a toenail paint job on one of the circus's elephants just before its last performance in Tulsa, Okla.

BeBe's rich dog's life is over

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Sixteen-year-old BeBe had adorable curly hair, a loving guardian and a $600,000-plus trust fund that paid for all her food and medical bills.

Her wealthy mentor left part of her California estate to BeBe, after adopting her in 1967 at the age of 6 weeks.

BeBe, a gray miniature poodle, was to be buried here Wednesday afternoon. "I'm in a state of shock," said Naiomi Karins, a part-time bookkeeper who served as the dog's guardian. "I'm really going to miss her."

The poodle died Tuesday in a San Antonio veterinary clinic and her final resting place will be at San Antonio's Pet Memorial Park — in an individualized casket in her own private cemetery plot.

BeBe became a wealthy dog five years ago, when the will of Bodie Cominoli was opened.

Mrs. Cominoli owned a posh supper club in a San Francisco suburb and died "a millionaire several times over," said Mrs. Karins, who was her niece. Mrs. Cominoli, who died at age 72, had few close relatives and no children, and BeBe kept her company, Mrs. Karins said.

"Everything she had touched turned to money," the niece said, "but without any children, all her love went to the dog."

When she knew she was dying of leukemia, Mrs. Cominoli told her niece that death didn't scare her.

"She told me, 'It's just that I worry about who'll take care of BeBe,'" Mrs. Karins said. "I told her I'd take care of the dog, and that she shouldn't worry."

Mrs. Karins received $10,000 in the will, far less than BeBe, but said the discrepancy didn't bother her.

"She (Mrs. Cominoli) was like a mother to me," Mrs. Karins said.

She said she had commuted between San Antonio and California to care for her ailing aunt.

Under the terms of the will, Mrs. Cominoli's house and furniture were sold and the $500,000 proceeds went to the Leukemia Society.

Mrs. Cominoli asked that the money not spent from BeBe's trust fund be given to the same group.

Senators vote for stiffer DWI penalties

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Bill Sarpalus had the statistics and the stories to persuade his colleagues to approve a bill that would increase penalties for drunken drivers.

Statistics: 100 DWI accidents a day in 1981; 1,082 people killed; 27,751 injured; and damages totaling $3.5 billion.

Stories: A 16-year-old boy who was DWI had a wreck that killed his best friend — "something you have to live with the rest of your life," said Sarpalus. Another 16-year-old DWI victim was paralyzed from the waist down, a 19-year-old in a coma for the rest of her life; a 21-year-old who had to learn to walk and speak after an accident.

"Keep your minds on the cries of your constituents who have been abused by drunken drivers," said Sarpalius, D-Hereford.

Sarpalius' bill, the product of a two-year effort to get tough on drunken drivers, was sent to the House on voice vote Tuesday, with Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, voting "no."

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, offered an amendment that he said "in essence would destroy Sen. Sarpalius' bill," but it failed 26-3.

Santiesteban said the major difference in his proposal was that it retained "deferred adjudication," which gives those convicted of DWI a chance to erase the conviction from their record.

He said Sarpalius' bill would only crack down on the poor and minorities, because "rich people who can afford it" will hire a lawyer and get off. "This is not a proper bill for all Texans," he said.

Sarpalius recounted committee testimony of a Harris County prosecutor who said, "Deferred adjudication is a joke as far as DWI is concerned."

Under Sarpalius' bill, first-time DWI offenders would pay a minimum fine of between $100 and $2,000, face possible jail time between three days and one year, and have their license suspended for between 90 days and a year.

His measure, however, would authorize probation. A second offense would mean a minimum fine of between $300 and $2,000, jail time of between three days and two years, and license suspension for six months to two years.

A third offense would cost between $500 and $2,000, carry a possible jail term of 30 days to five years, and license suspension for six months to two years.

Sheriff may be asked to quit

BALLINGER, Texas (AP) — Runnels County commissioners say that if they have to they will confront Sheriff Hershall Hall in his hospital room to ask him to resign his office.

The commissioners court voted Tuesday to ask County Attorney Kendal Granzin to file a lawsuit for the removal of Hall, who pleaded no contest March 7 to a drunken driving charge.

"We've got a problem here, and speaking from the county's standpoint, the sheriff's office doesn't have the dignity it deserves. Something has to be done to clear this," Commissioner Robert Virden said.

Commissioners said they would drop the removal action, if Hall quits voluntarily, but they noted that he refused a similar request from them late last year following his Christmas Eve arrest in nearby San Angelo on the DWI charge. According to the Texas Constitution, "... County officers may be removed by the Judges of the District Courts for incompetency, official misconduct, habitual drunkenness, or other causes defined by law, upon the cause therefore being set forth in writing and the finding of its truth by a jury."

San Angelo police say they arrested Hall in connection with a traffic accident and pressed the DWI charge when he refused to take a breath analysis test.

Hall was granted two years' deferred adjudication, a punishment that means his conviction would be stricken from the record, if he meets the terms of his probation.

Hall, who is recovering in Ballinger Memorial Hospital from a bladder infection, received word through a messenger Tuesday of the commissioners' vote to seek his ouster, County Judge Michael Murchison said.

"The sheriff is aware of what has been done, so the next move is up to him," Murchison said. "We're not going to go up there (to the hospital) today, but we are fixing to go up there."

A nurse at the hospital told a reporter seeking comment that "Mr. Hall is not accepting any calls."

Residents attending Tuesday's commissioners court complained that

Hall's health — he also was treated earlier this year for exhaustion — has impaired his ability to serve effectively as sheriff.

"We came here for a reason," said M.L. Jarrett of Ballinger. "I'll make it simple: We want him out."

Friends say Hall has been troubled by the long-term hospitalization of his seriously ill wife. He reportedly was en route to a San Angelo hospital to visit her when he was arrested.

The vote against Hall Tuesday put him on the other side of the law for the second time.

Thursday Notes

Leading off this week's Notes is a reminder to catch the annual ABC Relays scheduled Saturday at Blankenship Field on the Big Spring High campus.

Six boys and nine girls teams will be competing in the all-day track which begins with field events and running prelims at 10:30 a.m. Junior varsity boys and girls teams will also run in the 4-division meet.

Top local performer to watch is senior Shell Rutledge who already holds the meet record in the 200 meters (25.7). She'll be running anchor legs on two BSHS relays and perhaps aim for the record in the 400 meters, an event she ran for the first time last week in Odessa and won.

Also Saturday is a 1 p.m. baseball doubleheader between Howard College and Western Oklahoma. Several activities are planned for the twinbill to benefit the Dora Roberts Rehab Center. A collection will be taken up and client Charlie Merritt, a former semi-pro player with the Big Spring Broncos, will toss out the first pitch.

Speaking of the ABC Relays, one performer who dazzled the crowd last year will be missing. Carla Jackson, the state 5-A long jump champ, won the triple and long jump jumps and the 100 meters.

Now at Abilene Christian, Jackson won her second long jump medal with an 18-10 leap last weekend at the Border Olympics. ACU finished second behind U-Texas in the meet.

From the golf course, C.M. Rainwater has taken advantage of the recent spring-like weather to play some of his best golf.

Last week, Rainwater carded an eagle on the No. 5 hole at the Country Club. That's impressive enough for me since the only eagle I can get is on the back of a quarter.

But for Rainwater, the feat is something special. You see, he's 72 years old and has overcome Parkinson's Disease enough to play competitive golf. Congratulations, sir.

The youngster keep doing it. Not only has the weather been great for golf but for fishing also. These two guys — Arvin Hart and Boyd Roper — caught enough fish last week at Mathis Lake to feed the state of Montana.

Using goldfish and catfish bait, Hart and Roper pulled in this string of fish weighing between 10-22 pounds. The largest weighed 28 pounds.

All we need now is an invitation to the fish fry?

Basketball is a great game...unless, of course, you can't make a layup.

Russ McEwen, a man who dabbles in insurance during the day and City Council at night, prides himself on hitting his 40-foot pull-up jumpshots during 6:30 a.m. basketball games Wednesday and Friday mornings at the YMCA.

But when playing for the First Christian Crusaders, Russ can't even hit a simple layup. Three times this week against First Methodist, Russ could get the ball no higher than the iron. Finally, with the game's outcome no longer in doubt, he put one in.

When you miss all those layups in front of people, how can he even think about running for another term on the Council. People just don't forget things like that...

Former Steer basketball coach Ed Haller was in town this week. Saying he needed to take a "spring break" from his cabin in the New Mexico mountains, Haller returned to Texas to see some old friends and play golf.

Haller and wife, Ernie, have been snow-bound all winter. With his golf clubs standing in the corner of their cabin, Haller was about to go nuts. Finally he was able to play

Arnold shoots TCU by Tulsa

UP FOR THE REBOUND — Texas Christian forward Doug Arnold (33) goes up for the rebound against Tulsa forward Herbert Johnson during first half action Wednesday in the National Invitational Tournament game between the two teams. TCU won the game, 64-62.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas Christian forward Doug Arnold hit a jump shot with five seconds left to lift the Horned Frogs to a 64-62 win over Tulsa in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament Wednesday night.

Arnold, a 6-foot-9 senior, finished with 20 points and pulled down 17 rebounds for Texas Christian, which improved its record to 22-10.

Arnold's 18-foot jumper capped a furious final 10 minutes in which teammate Darrell Browder hit 12 straight points. Browder finished with 18.

Texas Christian scored the first eight points to quiet a home crowd of 9,178, but Tulsa tied it at 14. The Horned Frogs led 29-21 late in the first half before Tulsa's Ricky Ross and Steve Harris closed the halftime gap to 31-27.

Harris finished with 18 points while Ross added 15.

Tulsa took its first lead of the game at 42-41 on a follow shot by center Bruce Vanley with 12:19 remaining. Vanley had 12 points more for the Hurricane, which ends the season at 19-12.

The score changed hands five times and was tied eight times after that, last at 62-62 on Vanley's free throws with 1:14 left. Texas Christian held the ball to set up Arnold's game-winner.

Tulsa could manage only a desperation shot at the buzzer.

Nick Cucinella and Dennis Nutt added 10 points apiece for the Horned Frogs. Herb Johnson had 12 for Tulsa.

An embarrassed first-round loser in the last three NCAA basketball tournaments when DePaul was ranked among the nation's elite, coach Ray Meyer finally avoided the opening-round jinx Wednesday night. Freshman Tony Jackson scored 20 points and keyed a second-half surge that carried the Blue Demons to a

George Wright's three-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning capped a five-run rally that carried the Texas Rangers to a 10-7 victory over the Houston Astros Wednesday.

Wright's home run came after Larry Parrish tied the game with an RBI single. Bucky Dent and Billy Sample also homered for Texas while Houton's Art Howe drove in four runs, three with a home run.

Ben Oglivie singled to drive in one of three Milwaukee runs in the first inning and added a two-run homer in the fifth, giving him four homers and 10 runs batted in as the Brewers improved their spring record to 8-1 with a 9-7 victory over the California 'Pirates' on page 2-B)

BASEBALL

● The Howard College Hawks host Northwood Institute in a 1 p.m. doubleheader on the HC campus. Wednesday's single game between the two teams was rained out and is tentatively rescheduled Friday.

The Hawks are 1-5 in Region V conference games while Northwood is 2-0 after sweeping Hill 11-7 and 11-0. Northwood will start Mike Serviente (3-1) in the opener while Jeff Norwood (2-1) will go in the second game. Kelly Smith (1-0) and Roane Smith (0-0) will go for Howard.

For the season, Northwood is 12-5-1 while Howard is 12-7-1, winners of four straight against Longview this week.

Top hitters for Northwood are outfielders Gilbert Saenz and David Jefferson (three homers) and shortstop Sam Thielepap. Hawk outfielder Doug Hatch leads HC with a .444 average while catcher Gary Carr is batting .381, shortstop Stephon Hodge .373 and first baseman Bobby Behnsch .362.

MEETING PLACE

● An organizational meeting for the Big Spring fast-pitch softball league is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight at Wayne Henry's.

4-5A golf plays 18 in town

Continuing their chase of Midland High, the Big Spring High Lady Steers joined three other District 4-5A teams for the second leg of the league tournament this morning at the Country Club.

Midland fired a team score of 362 last week in Midland to take an 11-shot lead over BSHS, second with a 373. Midland Lee is third at 375 while San Angelo Central is fourth with a 382 team score.

Big Spring senior Patricia Jones fired a 79, her best round of the year, but trails defending district medalist Kelle Mobley of Midland by seven shots. The MHS senior carded a 72 over the Greentree Course last Thursday.

Other top BSHS scores from the first leg were Pam Martinez at 95 and Sandra Arellano at 98.

Big Spring is enjoying its best season ever, taking second place earlier this week in a 16-team tournament in Kerrville. The Lady Steers shot a 379 to finish behind Lee (371) and one shot ahead of Midland High. The two-day tournament which began Monday was cut to 18 holes because of rain Tuesday.

Jones finished as the No. 3 medalist with a 77. Arellano was the only other BSHS golfer under 100 with a 97 over the Scott Schriener Golf Course.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Billy said the 'm' word! He said 'meanie!'"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAR. 18, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make long-range plans to gain your fondest aims in the future. Accept conflicting views you may have with opponents in a philosophical manner. Be more thoughtful of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discuss with associates any new ideas you have and they can be helpful to you. Don't force any issues with family members.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handling regular duties in a precise manner can lead to a greater income. Come to a fine agreement with co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with those whom you want to enjoy more pleasure with in the days ahead. Make this a worthwhile day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to have a greater income in the future. Allow time to engage in recreational activities you enjoy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day to contact relatives and allies and gain cooperation for a worthwhile plan you have in mind. Discuss it wisely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine day for making new investments, after careful study. Concentrate on how you can be more productive in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use diplomacy instead of forcefulness with loved one and have increased harmony. Evening is fine for being with good friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get in touch with experts in your own field of endeavor and improve your plans for the future with their aid.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your true aims are and then you can gain them by making wise moves and decisions. Use common sense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Analyze your true position and make plans to have a greater income in the days ahead. Relax at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A clever person can give you some pointers on a new project you have in mind. Express happiness with loved one.

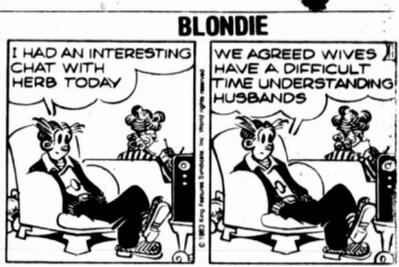

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Cooperation is the keynote today, whether in personal or business dealings. Show more devotion to loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very artistic and should be trained along such lines for best results in lifetime. Teach how to handle money matters early in life. Spiritual training is important. A good family life in this chart.

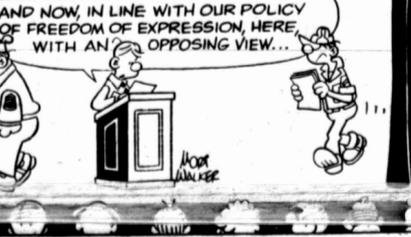

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

ACC may miss clock, 3-pointer

 In the West, tonight's doubleheader at Boise, Idaho, sends Washington State against Weber State and Illinois against Utah. Friday night in Corvallis, it's 16th-ranked North Carolina State vs. Pepperdine in addition to Oklahoma State-Princeton.

Second-round action takes place Saturday and Sunday when the seeded teams make their tournament debuts. The East seeds, in order, are third-ranked St. John's, No. 8 North Carolina — the defending NCAA champion — unranked Ohio State and No. 18 Georgia.

In the Midwest, the seeds are second-ranked Louisville, fifth-ranked Indiana, No. 12 Kentucky and ninth-ranked Arkansas. The Midwest seeds are top-rated Houston, No. 10 Missouri, 13th-ranked Villanova and No. 17 Memphis State. And the West finds Boston College seeded behind fourth-ranked Virginia, No. 7 UCLA and No. 6 Nevada-Las Vegas.

The Atlantic Coast Conference's final exposure to its experimental rules — a 30-second clock and a 19-foot three-pointer — came last weekend in the conference tournament, which North Carolina State won 81-78 over Virginia.

"I think we'll be able to make the adjustment," said N.C. State's Sidney Lowe, the tournament MVP. "The younger guys might rather play with the clock, but you've got three seniors who can play either way."

The Wolfpack hit 108 of 247 — 43.7 percent — from three-point range during the regular season while shooting 47.2 percent overall.

 "We hope we can bounce back from the loss to N.C. State and play our best basketball," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "We're going to work very hard this week to prepare for playing under NCAA rules."

Top golfers hope rain stays away

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tom Watson, Gil Morgan and the rest of a star-laden field should be able to forget about dodging raindrops for the weekend's final rounds of the New Orleans Open.

People are a bit touchy about the weather here, where rain last year turned Lakewood Country Club into a swamp and caused the Professional Golfers' Association tournament to be extended by a day and shortened by a round.

Still, it's the best field ever assembled for the tournament and about as good as one's apt to find at any but a handful of stops on the tour. Fifteen of this year's top 25 money winners are entered.

The tournament is sponsored by U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. for the second year. The purse was raised to $400,000, helping to make March the richest month of the PGA season.

Gil Morgan, with winnings of $136,943 this season, heads the list of current money winners who were to begin play today. Tom Watson, second on the list of career winners with $2,907,784, is the biggest name in the field.

But Hal Sutton, the Shreveport, La., golfer who set a rookie record last season, also figured to draw a gallery as the closest thing to a hometown favorite in the tournament.

Sutton is 22nd on the list of money winners this season after finishing 11th last year.

Last year, only 54 holes could be completed. The finish was pushed back until Monday after five inches of rain washed out late starters on Friday and more rain prevented play on Saturday and Sunday.

Scott Hoch is back to defend his title.

A real Texan can't even pronounce the word quiche

DALLAS (AP) — When it comes to Real Manhood, Yankee boys think they've got it made if they don't eat quiche. That's nothing. A Real Texan can't even pronounce it.

A Real Texan doesn't wear sunglasses; he squints. A Real Texan doesn't wear designer jeans. He never eats in restaurants; he goes to cafes. He doesn't drink in taverns; he boozes in honky tonks. He doesn't eat breath mints or use insect repellent.

A Real Texan's girlfriend would never leave him for another woman, and the closest he wants to get to California is Las Vegas. He never goes to Oklahoma.

"A Real Texan" is summed up in 88 pages selling for $3.95.

Bill Walraven — who is a native Texan but not a Real one — said he was sitting at Scholz's Beer Garten in Austin talking about Real Men, as defined in the best-selling book "Real Men Don't Eat Quiche," when somebody started talking about Real Texans, who are Real Men and a whole lot more.

Walraven continued the game in his column in the Corpus Christi Caller, readers sent in their favorite definitions of the Real Texan, and a book, "Real Texans Don't Drink Scotch In Their Dr Pepper," is the result.

Reading this little book, one finds that Walraven's Real Texan is a fairly crude fellow with simple tastes. He drives the basic American-made pickup or an unwashed Cadillac, and he does without: chili without beans, beans without sugar, cigarettes without filters, beer without a glass.

He almost can do without women. "The Real Texan believes in equal rights for women, so long as they know their place," the book says. And a Real Texan "does not like a woman who is smarter than he, which could make him an endangered species."

"The real Texan is just what he is, warts and all. He is us," said Walraven in a telephone interview from his home. "Real Texans aren't necessarily white males, but I guess probably the cliché of the redneck would come through stronger. You can't caricature women as well."

"The amazing thing is it's proved real popular with the real grizzled rancher type," he said Tuesday. "Your truth gets to be funnier than fiction, anyhow."

The book is not necessarily a collection of put-downs, he said.

"I think a lot of these things have more than a grain of truth in them, and that's why they're funny," he said. "Texas is different from any other state because its history gives it a bragging pinnacle. We're the only state that that fought our own revolution, won our liberty before we joined the union.

"To a Real Texan, it's not really brags, he believes it. The history itself has created the mystique, and it sort of builds up an exaggeration that he can whip any guy on the block."

Walraven and Jerry LaPorte, a cartoonist who illustrated "Real Texans Don't ..." published the little book themselves at a cost of $12,000 last fall. With a first printing of 25,000, Walraven said he thinks the book will go into a second printing.

"It looks like it's doing pretty good," he said.

"We've gotten a great response from all over, from real Real Texans, and non-Texans, people everywhere. It's the kind of thing you read to find out if you are one, or whatever."

Steer sells for fat price

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Twelve-year-old Clinton Merket of Loraine sold his champion Angus steer "Colonel" for $26,670 at the recent Houston Livestock Show.

Other Mitchell County youngsters who made it to the premium sale with their steers were: Don Boyd, sixth place with lightweight shorthorn; Barry Holman, 10th place with a lightweight Charlais; Shelia Benson, 10th place with a mediumweight Simmental; John Preston, 11th place with a middleweight Limousin; Adam Merket, 12th place with a middleweight Simmental; and Missey Neff, 15th place with a middleweight Limousin.

County Agent Bob Benson said the Mitchell County showing was "excellent," with all but one youngster placing in the premium sale.
