Hays: panel's $3.9 million could keep SWCID open

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

In its long funding battle with the Texas Legislature, the SouthWest Collegiate Institute received good news today as the Budget and Oversights subcommittee recommended $3.9 million in funding for the school in 1984-85.

Although the amount is short of the school's requested $7 million, it did give the college the possibility to stay in operation, according to Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, and Sam Hill, vice president of SWCID.

Calling the recommendation a "tremendous step in the right direction" Hays remained optimistic about SWCID.

"It's not nearly enough," Hays said. "However, we could operate SWCID on that, it will cover day to day operational expenses, but there will be no new buildings.

Hays said the SWCID campus is still in need of new dormitories and an occupational-technical building, as well as additional teachers and staff. Hill said it will be up to Dr. Hays, the district's board and himself to decide if the funding is enough to keep SWCID open. "Being optimistic, I hope we'll be around in the next two years," Hill said.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, called the funding amount a "major victory," saying that SWCID was the only college the subcommittee allowed an increase over Legislative Budget Board recommendations. The LBB recommended $2 million in 1984-85 for the deaf school.

"Of course, we felt like we would have liked to have more," Shaw said. "But all other state agencies were cut from 1 to 6 percent."

Shaw said the Budget and Oversights subcommittee will hand its recommendations over to the Higher Education Committee today. At a later date the HEC will send the budget proprosal to the House Appropriations Committee.

Shaw does not think the House Appropriations Committee will change HEC's funding recommendation for SWCID.

"Everyone has been cut to the bone, especially in education," Shaw said. "So I don't believe the HAC See SWCID, page 2-A

Kirk Kirkham would hunt "snake" even if the 21st Annual Big Spring Rattlesnake Round-up was not coming up this weekend. Kirkham says he already has 40 rattlesnakes for this year's annual three-day hunt, an event which he has been attending for the past eight years.

"I love to hunt snake," Kirkham says. "I'd hunt even if the price was 50 cents a pound.

Currently, "snake" is bringing $2.25 a pound, down from last year's $5.50 a pound.

Kirkham is the project chairman for the American Businessmen and Coors (AM-BUCS) rattlesnake round-up this year. He hopes this year's show will duplicate the success of the past.

The Pit Masters will once again handle the snake show Saturday and Sunday at the Howard County Fair barns, he added.

"Basically the only change we'll have at the show is Dr. John Perez from Texas A&I (University) will do milking and do presentations on what he does with the venom,' Kirkham said.

City Council candidates face the issues

Funds and projects

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

Six of the seven candidates vying for two seats on the city council spoke to about 70 Big Spring residents last night at a "Meet the Candidates" forum sponsored by the Howard County Democratic Club

Both city council and school board candidates had three minutes each to tell local voters about themselves and why they joined the election race. The meeting was held in the Howard County district courtroom at the courthouse.

Council candidate Rodney Martin - owner of a 24-hour oilfield service business - said this morning that he did not attend the meeting because he had to work

Following are the city council candidates in order of their appearance and some of the comments they made.

• Albert Pettus said he and his family moved to the Knott Community from Arkansas in 1926 and graduated from Knott High School.

He told the audience he is running for the council because the city can be run more efficiently and that serving on the council constitutes his service to God and country

"I've heard this and that about what's going on in the city," Pettus said. "I've always had a burning desire to do something for the country in which I live. We got a good town, amen?'

Pettus, whose impassioned speech drew "amens" and "that's rights" from some in the audience, said he will rely on the Bible to guide him if he is elected.

"I've derived a lot of knowledge from the Word of God," Pettus said. "I believe there is two forces governing this world, the force of God, good, love, and the other one is the Devil.'

• Russ McEwen, who says he is "conservative fiscally," currently is serving his first term on the city council. He attended Big Spring High School, Howard in every area of town rather than just the areas that County Junior College and the University of Texas. can afford it." McEwen said he wants to be elected again so he can finish programs, such as the Capital Improvements Program, that were started during his first term.

I do sincerely attempt to represent every person," McEwen said. "Obviously certain people disagree with some of the decisions we (the council) have made, some disagree violently. I've made decisions I believe are in keeping with the growth and prosperity of the community

• Russell Williams, a Big Spring native, is a 19-year-old Howard College student, editor of the college newspaper and a part-time Montgomery Ward's employee.

Williams said he understands the city and its needs and that he can represent both young and old.

"I feel I have a full grasp of the city and its needs," Williams said. "At my age I can understand the needs of the youth and of the senior citizens because I live with a senior citizen, my grandmother." Williams said he would like to see renewed growth in Big Spring industry.

• Ricardo Beltran, a Chicago native, said the city manager's job and the restoration of the Settles Hotel are two of his major campaign issues. He said he is against both and the audience responded with scattered applause.

"I hear they are contemplating restoring the hotel. You can't raise the dead," Beltran said.

Beltran said is concerned about City Manager Don Davis's work.

"People call me about what's going on in city government, what's going on with the city manager,' Beltran said. "If I get elected, I'm going to find out what's going on.

• James T. Hicks, a lifetime Big Spring resident, said he wants to be elected as a concerned citizen helping his city.

"I feel a lot of changes need to be made," Hicks said. "We need to improve the water system and the roads See City Council, page 2A

Congress nears OK on jobs bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is on the verge of completing the first anti-recession bill of 1983 a $4.6 billion package providing aid for the needy and money for thousands of public works jobs.

A compromise plan worked out late Monday night also contains $5 billion urgently needed to assure continued payment of unemploy-ment benefits in 27 states and the District of Columbia. As a result. congressional leaders said they hoped for final passage by Wednesday.

That would send the measure to President Reagan, who opposed a jobs bill for the first six weeks of the congressional session, but then succumbed to congressional pressure and authorized his aides to present a blueprint that served as the starting point for the eventual compromise.

The bill calls for $225 million for shelter and various food distribution programs for the needy, as well as several hundred million dollars for programs such as social services, maternal and child health, and alcohol, drug abuse and mental health.

The largest single item in the measure is $1 billion in Community Development Block Grants to local governments. Most of the re-mainder of the $4.6 billion will provide funds for public works jobs in areas ranging from highway construction, Amtrak repairs and programs administered by the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Corps of Engineers.

The measure allocates an estimated $2.1 billion of its $4.6 billion to areas of high unemployment.

But some spending - notably for transportation and military construction projects - are earmarked largely for areas represented by influential members of the appropriations committees of the two houses.

A report accompanying the bill provides $33.8 million, for example, for transportation projects in the Dade County, Fla., area. That's the region represented by Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., chairman of the transportation subcommittee.

The overall $4.6 billion price tag is slightly higher than Reagan's original $4.3 billion plan, but below both the $4.9 billion the House approved earlier this month and the $5.2 billion agreed to by the Senate. In addition, it was stripped of a Senate-passed provision that Reagan found particularly objectionable, $1.2 billion in increased revenue sharing for cities and counties.

House Democrats were more than willing to agree to the Senatepassed revenue sharing provision, but Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., insisted on deleting the funds.

He said unidentified officials at the White House had made it clear to him over the weekend that the revenue sharing funds could pro-mpt a veto by the president. "The administration has indicated to me that this bill is too large and specifically they do not like" the revenue sharing, Hatfield said.

With the revenue sharing funds stripped out, he said, chances of Reagan signing the measure were '100 percent better.

Congressional aides, who asked not to be identified by name, said there would be other attempts later in the year to increase revenue sharing, a program under which the federal government provides grants to cities and counties with relatively few strings attached.

Democrats in the House have promised to offer bills providing health care for unemployed workers, for example, and legislation is expected on the House floor later this year to provide protection to farmers and homeowners facing mortgage foreclibruro.

—— School board hopefuls state their positions

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

A forum held last night in the 118th District courtroom gave about 70 voters a first-hand look at the nine candidates running for three open spots on the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees.

Most of the hopefuls were predictably nervous as they were allowed three minutes to introduce themselves and give a few reasons why they had chosen to seek one of the school board seats.

In the race are incumbents Al Valdes and Carol Hunter, challenged by David Huff, Margaret Gilstrap, Chestnut Brown Jr., Gilbert Padilla, Bill Brooks, Melvin Berry and Dan Wise. Delbert Donelson, whose term is expiring this year, chose not to seek reelection

The at-large election is scheduled for Saturday, April 2.

Following is a capsule of comments by each candidate.

• Dan Wise - Wise said running for the board was something he had wanted to do for a long time, and he now feels he has the time to devote to being a board member.

Wise, director of social services and volunteers at Malone- Hogan Hospital, said his experience in counseling children and people in his work would enable him to lend that experience to the board.

• Al Valdes - Valdes, a member of the school board for nine years, said he was running again because he is "very concerned with the education of your boys and girls."

Valdes said he felt rewarded when he could make a contribution in the life of a young person. He also indicated that long-range plans he has helped the district start persuaded him to run again and be reelected to finish those plans.

• Carol Hunter - Mrs. Hunter has been on the board for the past six years and served as president for 41/2 years of that time. She praised the district's administration, schools and teachers and asked that she be allowed to continue in her "pursuit of the joys and problems that we (the district) have."

Miss Hunter said her experience as member of the board qualified her as a candidate. She also vowed to not only represent the interests of the students, teachers and parents but also to listen to the desires of the taxpayers.

 David Huff — Huff, running for the board for the third time, said if elected, he intends to get involved with all functions of the districts from talking to teachers to attending PTA meetings.

Huff, also a certified teacher, said he feels a board member should be active in all facets of the district rather than just attending a board meeting once a month. Huff said he hopes his involvement in district functions would help him better represent the interests of the voters and taxpayers.

 Chestnut Brown Jr. — Brown said he filed for the board in order to see "children get the education they need to grow up to be strong Americans.'

Calling children "a lifetime investment" Brown said he wanted to serve on the board to make wellrounded decisions so students could grow up as adults with a "good self-

Absentee voting continues

Absentee voting continues for the Big Spring school board and city council.

A total of 72 persons have already voted absentee at the county clerk's office in the courthouse for the school board election, according to County Clerk Margaret Ray. She said more interest has been shown early this year in the school board race.

Nine candidates have applied for three positions on the school board. City Finance Director Thomas Ferguson said 53 persons have cast absentee ballots in the city council election. Seven candidates are vying for two positions on the council.

Absentee voting continues until March 29 for the April 2 election. School board absentee ballots may be cast in the county clerk's office in the Howard County courthouse. City council voting is being done in City Hall on Fourth Street.

Volunteer firemen meet

Thirteen members of the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department met last night to discuss ways to organize and improve their firefighting system.

Members from six of the department's nine stations were at the meeting at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office. Stations represented were Coahoma, Luther, Knott, Lomax, Sand Springs and Jonesboro. Representatives from stations at Vincent, Silver Heels and Forsan did not attend. Howard County Commissioners were invited, but did not attend. The representatives were given copies of a proposed constitution and by-laws which suggested forming a committee to represent the volunteers' needs before the Howard County Commisioners' Court. "A main concern of ours is setting up better communication between the stations," said Paul Roy, a member of the Jonesboro Volunteer Fire Department and the leader of the meeting.

'We also want to establish some sort of training for the men. We have many who are certified, but there is a need for more extensive training," he said.

Roy said the proposed constitution will be discussed by the individual departments. He said the volunteers expect to meet again to finally approve the constitution at a later date.

Lamesa dials phone hike

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa's telephone rates are going up, the city council was told at its meeting Monday.

O.D. Hearne, a representative of General Telephone and Electric Co., told the council rate increases are necessary to provide better service to the area

The rate hike will take place probably by mid-June, Hearne said. Residents of Dawson County will see a 44 percent rate increase from $8.90 to $12.80 for a residential phone line. The rate for a business phone line will increase 43 percent from an average of $23.60 to $33.85.

• Gilbert Padilla - Padilla called for the board, teachers, parents and students to work together to fashion a strong educational system in the district.

Padilla said he was a candidate because he was concerned with keeping the district's educational system abreast of all current teaching methods. He also said that without proper education the "doors of opportunity would be locked" for students.

• Margaret Gilstrap — Mrs. Gilstrap said she was seeking a school board seat "to fight for the children's right and the best education that can be given them."

Mrs. Gilstrap said she was in favor of competency tests in schools to eliminate social promotion, spending tax dollars with utmost effectiveness, and raising teacher pay.

• Melvin Berry - Berry said he becarte a candidate to "have some influence" on what is used in the district's curriculum and teaching me.nods.

Berry advocated more career planning for students, teacher evaluations to determine dedication and competency, and stressing academics over athletics.

• Bill Brooks - Brooks pledged "to look at every question from all sides and make decisions based on common sense, my experience as a teacher, concerned parent and independent businessman."

Brooks, who has taught in Big Spring, Lubbock, Odessa and at Texas A&M, said he wished to make the district's education system "the best it can be."

will mess with anything in the HEC budget." SWCID will also get a recommendation from the Senate Finance Committee, but there is no word yet on what that amount may be. Shaw was optimistic the amount would at least be equal to that recommended today.

The recommended appropriations presented by the HAC and the SFC will be worked out in a joint conference committee to produce a single, acceptable budget and then go to the Legislature for approval. Shaw said

After legislative approval the budget goes to the governor to be signed into law. However, the governor can exercise his power with the item veto and can strike individual items from the budget.

This means SWCID's funding still has to go through the Senate Finance Committee, the conference committee of the House Appropriations and Senate Finance committees and the governor before the final decision is handed down, Shaw said.

Dallas blaze leaves400 homeless

SAVING WHAT THEY CAN - Residents at the Willow Creek Apartments carry what they can from their homes as a 5-alarm fire rages through their apartment complex. At least 100 units were damaged by Monday's fire, causing $6 million in damages.

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas firefighters say it was a miracle no one was seriously hurt in a ferocious fivealarm blaze that destroyed about 170 apartments and left 400 people homeless.

The fire - the fifth multi-alarm blaze here in the past week - caused at least $6 million in damage Monday and was declared the most expensive fire in Dallas history

Many of residents of the 824-unit Willow Creek Apartments had left for work when the fire broke out about 8:30 a.m., officials said.

Three firefighters were injured while battling the blaze in the north-side complex. Two residents who suffered minor injuries were taken in private vehicles to area hospitals, officials said.

'It was a miracle of God," said Lt. Kent Miller, a Dallas Fire Department arson investigator.

"If this had been 3 a.m. on a Saturday, we would have had a lot of ambulances out there," Miller said. The firefighters were treated and released from Presbyterian Hospital of Dallas, said fire department spokesman Bill Jernigan.

"They were mostly sort of cuts and abrasions," Jernigan said. "One person had a burn around his eye area from probably a falling cinder or something.'

Damage was estimated at $6 million to the buildings and $600,000 to the contents, Jernigan said, adding, "Those are preliminary, low numbers."

Fire department spokeswoman J.J. Howe said the fire, "in terms of dollar loss," was the largest in the city's history.

A fire at the apartments Aug. 18, 1980 caused $780,000 in damage, said fire department spokeswoman Judy Smith.

About 100 firefighters used 25 pieces of equipment to battle the blaze, fanned by 20 mph winds.

APARTMENT BLAZE - Smoke pours from the Willow Creek Apartments in north Dallas Monday morning. The 5-alarm fire kept fire fighters busy for about four hours, sending three fire fighters to the hospital with minor injuries. Over $6 million in damages was reported and at least 100 units were damaged.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The admission by a presidential aide that he held an extensive discussion on political races with an Environmental Protection Agency official will likely drive a House probe of the agency into a sharp turn toward the White House.

James M. Medas, White House special assistant for intergovernmental affairs, changed his earlier story and late Monday admitted that on July 13 he and then-EPA Assistant Administrator Rita M. Lavelle talked about several governors up for re-election.

Earlier in the day, he had said he and Ms. Lavelle held a discussion but discussed no campaigns except one in California

Members of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on investigations were ready Monday to question Lavelle about her meeting with Medas, but the former EPA official defied a committee subpoena and failed to appear. The panel voted 8-0 to cite her for contempt, an action which could lead to criminal prosecution

The committee members have been looking for evidence that the White House and the EPA used the $1.6 billion toxic waste "superfund" for political purposes

Even before Medas' statement, several panel members said handwritten notes of the meeting, taken by a Lavelle aide, confirmed political manipulation of the fund.

Medas gave his version of the meeting in a memorandum to White House spokesman Larry Speakes. "At no time did I say, suggest or imply that EPA policies ought to be shaped to meet political considerations." Medas said. "As I discussed the procedures for dealing with governors and their staff, Lavelle would make political comments about individual governors.

"Although we discussed a number of races, the only race I recall we discussed in any detail was the California governor's race because of our mutual California background.

He said Ms. Lavelle requested the meeting, which lasted about 15 minutes.

Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., who introduced the contempt resolution against Ms. Lavelle, said the July 13 meeting showed the White House was using the toxic dump cleanup program "to influence the outcome" of political campaigns.

A packet of documents made public by the panel included handwritten notes from the meeting taken by Susan Baldyga, the Lavelle assistant who was fired along with her boss last February. She was scheduled to testify, but was excused to obtain an attorney.

Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., told subcommittee members and a crowded hearing room that he had wanted to have Mas Lavelle present at the hearing to explain why copies of his official 1982 campaign contributors list were found on her desk when her office was secured after her dismissal.

Ms. Lavelle was fired by President Reagan after she refused a request from ex-EPA Administrator Anne McGill Burford to resign. The action followed sharp criticism by Ms. Lavelle of the agency's general counsel, Robert Perry.

Ms. Baldyga's notes of the Medas-Lavelle meeting included these references:

-New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean, a Republican elected in 1981: "Help him all we can - new 'guv'."

-"Bend over backwards" for Republican Gov. Richard Snelling of Vermont, re-elected last year; and for conservative Democrat Edward King, former Massachusetts governor defeated in his state's 1982 primary.

-Democratic Gov. Bob Graham of Florida, "very wary; takes shots all the time.

-Former Texas Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican defeated in 1982, "tough fight."

-Gov. Dick Thornburgh of Pennsylvania, re-elected last year: "real solid; only media market Republican.

-James Thompson, re-elected Illinois governor last year in a close race, "tough, very important."

-Lamar Alexander, re-elected Republican governor of Tennessee last year, "terrific; very important, former chief to Baker.

EPA papers show

marked for Clements

WASHINGTON (AP) - Documents released by a House committee investigating the Environmental Protection Agency purport to show that the White House tried to use a part of the $1.6 billion "superfund" toxic waste cleanup program to boost the reelection bid of former Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

The documents, released Monday, contain terse references to several Republican candidates and denote, the committee claimed, White House political manipulation of the program.

Next to Clements' name was a notation of "tough fight" and two stars.

'That was indicated to be an important race to the White House," said Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn.,

The documents were released by the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on investigations, which voted to cite former EPA official Rita M. Lavelle for contempt of Congress

The subcommittee said the notes were taken at a White House meeting last July 13 between Ms. Lavelle and James M. Medas, a White House special assistant for intergovernmental affairs.

Gore said that "Texas fared well under pre-election superfund consideration because and nouncements were made regarding four sites during the August to September 1982 period."

Clements lost his re-election bid to then-Attorney General Mark White.

The notes reflected even more favorably on Gov. Thomas Kean, a New Jersey Republican. "Help him all we can - new 'guv'," the documents said, referring to Kean.

Mattox suing for damages in Capitol fire

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawyers for the state are seeking millions of dollars in damages from the Zenith Radio Corp., manufacturer of a television investigators say d the Feb. 6 fatal fire at the Capitol. The suit was filed Monday shortly after Attorney General Jim Mattox announced the results of a sixweek investigation into the fire, which killed 23-yearold horse trainer Matt Hansen of New Caney. Hansen was a guest in Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's apartment in the East Wing of the Capitol. Three others, including Hobby's 18-year-old daughter, Kate, escaped unhurt.

Also named in the lawsuit was G&M Television Inc. of Austin, which sold the color television set to the state Senate last October.

An autopsy revealed that Hansen was intoxicated and had a trace of marijuana in his blood when he died, and investigators originally said the fire might have been caused by a cigarette.

Phoenix, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Mattox said contrary to earlier investigators' reports, Hansen was in his bedroom with the door closed when the fire started, not in the den where the television set was. Investigators believe it was Hansen who left the television on, though Mattox said the set still should have been safe whether left on or not.

"We know of no safety problems associated with Zenith color television sets," said a spokesman at the Zenith headquarters in Glenview, Ill. "Zenith field engineers and product safety officials will investigate the allegations. Until that investigation is completed, it would be inappropriate to comment further.

The lawsuit did not specify damages, Mattox said,

Zenith has had any other reports of their 1983 Model No. Y1926W television sets being involved in other fires "If in the course of working on discovery should we ascertain that the product had a history they knew about of starting fires, we would consider seeking (additional punitive) damages," Mattox said.

Glenn Bromley, one of the owners of G&M Television Inc. said he would not comment on the case because of the pending legal action.

Mattox said the investigation also revealed that firefighters got the blaze under control with only about 15 minutes to spare. Investigators said the fire was spreading so rapidly, that if it had burned much longer, it would have destroyed the entire Capitol.

Nix on bank withholding law

Dear Editor.

President Reagan and Senator Dole are discounting the significance of the deluge of mail asking for repeal of the law which requires withholding tax from interest and dividends.

They conclude or accuse the banking industry of orchestrating the strong opposition.

Why don't they explain why withholding is needed instead of mouthing meaningless accusations?

Congress and the White House will learn that the American people are quite capable of making judgments for themselves.

For example, the people would have voted against involvement in Vietnam. I assume that IRS continues to receive the annual notification of the amount of interest and dividends paid to each account, so why the withholding? Would that the people had representatives in Washington! GORDON CAVNAR

No one kept candidate away

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this time to alleviate any anxieties Mr. David Huff is experiencing at not having been invited to speak at our League of United Latin American Citizens meeting. Time nor space allows for a detailed explanation but it should be obvious to all concerned why we would be particularly interested in these two candidates.

Neither Mr. Chestnut Brown nor Mr. Gilbert Padilla are sectional candidates by their own accounts both believe in kids and the very best education they can obtain. This was proven by the answers they provided to various questions asked of them.

L.U.L.A.C. tried to make this meeting as public as possible by inviting the newspaper and radio sta-tions. Apparently only one radio station felt it was newsworthy. For that we thank you Mr. Bill Hughes KBYG.

Next time you read Focalpoint try and understand the whole context of it. L.U.L.A.C. has never turned anyone away. An open meeting implies just that. Any one may attend. Sorry we missed you.

Dear Editor.

My family and I moved back to Big Spring (my hometown) from Midland about six months ago. We subscr be to the Herald and always read the letters to the editor.

Mr. Gilstrap's letters have both amused and amazed me, wondering what kind of a nut he must be. But lately I have come to realize the only nuts in town are those of us who have silenaly tolerated the "spoiled kid" tactics of Mr. Davis and his followers

Well, here's my vote for the people of Big Spring. For democracy, for Mr. Hamilton and the return of his job.

My grandfather, "Pappy" Hale, was with the Big Spring Fire Department for 24 years, a fact I'm proud of, but I dare say were he alive today he'd be disgusted and hurt at the deplorable condition our city has fallen into under the "leadership" of our so-called city manager.

Thank you.

I had not thought of her visit to our shores in terms of her cranial adornment until I read a letter to the Houston Post that began:

"Why does Queen Elizabeth II insist upon wearing hats that resemble visored bedpans?"

I looked at some pictures of the British monarch traveling though California, and her hats were pretty diabolical.

That's how those of us outside California must remember her visit: through pictures. We were not included. The Queen did not come to Texas where she could have been crowned with a cowboy hat and maybe bucked a few broncs instead of just planning a horse trot with President Reagan at the Ranch in the Sky.

Why has there been no outcry at the exclusion of 48 states from the Queen's visit to "America" Because the rest of America doesn't care that much.

Californians are well-known for their interest in celebrities, and unfortunately that is what category the British Monarchy has fallen into.

They are a little like high class movie stars in that they lead fan-what we read doesn't affect us very much.

I have often wondered if she really enjoys these trips. It rained almost constanty while she was in California earlier this month. She was constantly surrounded by her staff and by news reporters. Irish protestors greeted her at almost every stop. To top it off, she was served salmon six times in six days. But she kept smiling and looking queenly (Queen-like? Queenish?) while those around her gawked and snapped pictures. The trip was probably restful. President Reagan's ranch is apparently very pretty and pleasant, even though it includes the Reagans, whom, royal rumor has it,

Elizabeth II doesn't like. Best of all she and Prince Phillip got to mellow out at Yosemite National Park. (Did the Queen pick up any of that California lingo like "mellow out" or "let's have lunch"? Did she drink Perrier and soak in a hot tub?)

But her visit is ironic. In the 1700s, Americans died so we would not have to pay huge respect to a British monarch; it seems funny that now millions of dollars are spent by the United States to insure her happiness.

Safety chief likes to star in show

WASHINGTON- Although she has had some bad publicity for using a government chauffeur to drive her to the hairdresser, Nancy Steorts, chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, has shown little distaste for starring at press conferences announcing actions that show the agency is doing its job of protecting the public.

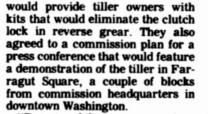

But when she can't be present to take credit for the agency's watchdog activities, Steorts apparently is less enthusiastic about publicity. That, at any rate, is the inference to be drawn from a stinging internal memo written by Commissioner Sam Zagoria.

The point at issue was whether a full-dress press conference should have been held to publicize the recall of 230,000 garden tillers manufactured by the Roper Corp. of Kankakee, Ill., and retailed by Sears Roebuck.

The commission found that the tiller - sold under the names Roto-Spader, Sears and Craftsman - had caused at least 31 serious injuries, including broken legs and severe cuts, and resulting in seven leg or foot amputations. The injuries occurred when the gardeners' legs were caught in the tiller's rearmounting tines when the machine was locked in reverse.

The safety commission determined that Roper and Sears had been remiss in reporting the injuries in a timely fashion, and Roper was fined $175,000 for the violation - the third-largest civil penalty in the commission's history, as Zagoria's memo notes.

The two companies subsequently agreed to a massive, wellpublicized recall campaign, which

Because of the gruesome nature of the injuries caused by the rototiller," a commission staff attorney wrote to Steorts in January, "we believe it is particularly important that news of this settlement and Sears' and Roper's improved corrective action receive maximum media coverage.'

The acting public affairs director told Zagoria she thought the press conference with demonstration was "an excellent idea," and said she had asked Steorts to discuss the matter. Bu no discussion was held. Instead, Zagoria noted in his memo, Steorts sent the public affairs director a memo two weeks later that said, in toto: "No press conference. Only press release." Zagoria, in his memo, said that when the commission's media relations director was asked why no press conference would be held, the only explanation was: "The Chairman is not available." A question about the possibility of using some other commissioner for the press conference drew the same response, Zagoria added. "I regret the necessity to report such a serious error of judgment, Zagoria wrote. "Here was an oppor tunity to help prevent further serious injury, proposed well in ad-vance by conscientious staff, prepared as to product and location and accepted by the companies involved - and it was lost. The chance to alert possible future victims was sacrificed because of the convenience of the Chairman

Footnote: After first offering a ludicrous "No comment" to my associate Tony Capaccio, commission spokesman Lou Brott called back to say that "the crux" of the decision not to hold a press conference was agency rules that forbid detailed discussion of the nature and scope of injuries caused by a product. "It had nothing to do with the chairperson's schedule," he said.

FEEDBACK FROM THE FIELD: In January, I reported serious criticism from several sources of the harsh treatment being given to Cambodian refugees by Immigration and Naturalization Service officers in Southeast Asia.

The complaints - of INS officials threatening and shouting at refugees who sought entry to the United States and forcing them to stand during interviews - were in-directly confirmed by a directive from INS headquarters forbidding such treatment.

The column had an affect of sorts on the INS interrogators involved. They've asked Washington to refute the charges.

One cable to headquarters from the Hong Kong INS officer was headed: "Cambodia Refugees Jack Anderson's Report." It slyly suggested that the column was "an indictment not only against officers stationed in Southeast Asia, but against yourself," and added: "It is urged that you respond to the Anderson report." After denying specific criticism, the aggrieved INS officer in Hong Kong said in the cable: "The campaign to take more and more Cambodian refugee applicants has inflated into a frontal assault on INS.

Referring to my report that INS officers had been accused of being hostile and adversarial, the cable whined: "The people who are pressing to accept more and more refugee applicants are the adversaries.'

FERDINAND'S FEARS: President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines is convinced that his domestic enemies pose the greatest threat to his regime.

He told President Ronald Reagan during his visit here that he'd survived five assassination attempts, and later remembered it was actually eight.

"Like many Southeast Asian leaders, Marcos believes that the major threat to his security will be from internal subversion which is not covered by the (American mutual defense) treaty," a secret CIA report comments. "Marcos in the past has threatened to invoke the treaty to cover grey areas, such as threats to Philippines forces in contested islands offshore."

Fairy photographer admits fakes

FAIRY TALE JUST THAT - One of a series of pictures alleged to show small dancing figures with butterfly wings that created a sensation 66 years ago. The London Times revealed Friday that the photographs were fake. It said that 76-year old Frances Griffiths, who took the photos in 1917, finally owned up last week after a lifetime insisting the photos were genuine.

Kids thinking the unthinkable

NEW YORK (AP) - The more Heather Parsons thought about the unthinkable, the worse she felt about it, "like I should just cut my head off. It's scary.'

The possibility of nuclear war worries 9-year-old Heather and many others in a generation of American children trying to understand one of the most complicated issues of the times.

"Kids have a special interest in this issue," said Daniella Stromberg, 17, a cofounder of Kids Outreach, a group of New York City teen-agers that talks to children about nuclear weapons, war, fear of dying in a war and the power of an atomic bomb.

"They don't have a future yet. They haven't grown up," she said. "I have 60 or 70 or 80 more years to live, and if this planet isn't around for that long, I miss Uncertainty about the future of the planet may cause children to lose hope, to develop a get-it-now value system or even to turn to drugs or cults, psychiatrists and teachers say.

Schools, and children themselves, are finding ways to ease that uncertainty by discussing the fear and dread.

At P.S. 3 in Greenwich Village, Heather and her second-, third-and fourth-grade classmates recently discussed nuclear war with teens from Kids Outreach. "It makes me feel sad," said one girl.

"If they do drop the bomb on any of the cities, then kids and people are going to

"I feel good that people care," Heather said. "But I feel bad that they're not stopping it.

Kids Outreach showed the children a film, "Bombs Will Make the Rainbow Break," in which youngsters talk about nuclear war. The class then talked over its feelings about nuclear weapons and

The "whole idea is not to get them all riled up," said Rose Greenberg, 17, a discussion leader. "We just want them to know we're thinking about this, too. Kids are exposed to talk of nuclear war everyday, and they worry.'

Dan Zulawski, Heather's instructor, said he thought the session was helpful. "It raised their awareness of the whole issue and didn't seem to leave them frightened," he said.

Teachers are also trying to help. The National Education Association asked 48 junior high school teachers to test a new curriculum, "Choices: A Unit on Conflict and Nuclear War," and decided this year to offer the curriculum nationwide.

LONDON (AP) - Do you believe in fairies? Britons who do got a nasty shock today when The Times of London reported a famous set of fairy photographs that created a sensation 66 years ago are fakes

The newspaper said 76-year-old Frances Griffiths, who took the pictures showing small dancing figures with butterfly wings in 1917, finally owned up last week after repeatedly insisting the shots were genuine.

The Times said Mrs. Griffiths, who now lives in Kent in southeast England and is writing a book on the subject, said the shots were faked using cut-out illustrations from books.

The photographs she and her cousin Elsie Wright, 82, took at Cottingley Dell near Bingley in Yorkshire in northern England created a wave of fairy fever at a time when belief in the paranormal was widespread in the country.

Among the many duped by the photographs was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the doctor-turned-writer who created fiction's most famous detective, Sherlock Holmes Conan Doyle, who died in 1930, was vice president of the Marylebone Spiritualist Association, now called the Spiritualist Association of Great Britain.

He investigated the Cottingley Dell fairy photographs taken by the two women, who were then young girls, and announced the pictures were genuine.

Conan Doyle even declared that the creatures in the photographs reproduced in the same manner as humans because they had navels. The author published an article in the widely read Strand Magazine in 1920 in which he described the Cottingley Dell fairy sensation, further boosting public interest in the affair.

As the fame of the girls spread, they produced a second series of fairy photographs.

Conan Doyle's findings acted as an inspiration for others. Edward L. Gardiner, then national secretary of the Theosophical Society, announced that fairies worked inside the stems of flowers, tinted petals and gave a warm green color to the leaves. He solemnly declared that fairies were visible only when they were relaxing. The Times printed one of the 1917 photographs. It showed the head and shoulders of a dreamy-eyed girl seated before a grassy knoll on which four small winged figures are dancing.

The British Broadcasting Corp. made a television film about the two women and their fairy photographs five years ago.

The photographs came to light after the girls were scolded for saying they were late home because they had been "playing with fairies." They borrowed a camera from Elsie Wright's father and returned home with a photograph of several dancing figures.

The Times said the hunt for the Cottingley Dell fairies created small fortunes for several of those who took up the story. But it said the girls only received 20 pounds, then worth about $80, in bonds from Conan

MASTER OF MINIATURES - Norman Forgue poses with some of the 150,000 miniatures he has created in his basement workshop in his Skokie, III., home. The 78-year old craftsman has won more than 200 ribbons for his work surrounded by more than 150,000 miniitems, lives in a Lilliputian world of his own making.

One of his projects is carving lifelike human figures an eighth of an inch high from wood matchsticks and painstakingly painting them.

In half of a pecan shell, are a matchstick Napoleonic general, his horse, and two soldiers - all arranged in a setting painted inside the shell.

He crafted a figure of the Biblical strongman, Samson, holding a horse over his head to throw at the enemy. It is part of a tableau called "Samson Meets the Desert Hordes.

There is a farmer with a pitchfork, a gypsy king sitting on a throne, and Don Quixote ready to tilt windmills.

'People say it's incredible that I can do this," said Forgue. "I look at these tiny things, and sometimes I can't believe it myself. Everything is right down to the last detail

"It's tedious work with a special knife. I can't work on them steadily. I have to put them aside and start on something else. Figuring it all in, it takes from 10 to 12 hours to carve one figure.

Currently, Forgue is planning an alloriental room for a collector.

"It will be absolutely authentic, scaled one inch to the foot." he said. "The kind of wallpaper I wanted finally has arrived from Japan, and I have most of the accessories on hand now.

The craftsman is best known, however, for his beautifully illustrated, 21/2-inch books. "If you can read a newspaper, you can read these little books," he said.

They were an outgrowth of his full-size book designing business that he turned to in the Depression years of the early 1930s.

"I served famous publishers all over the world," he said. "I started the miniatures in 1961 and have a list of about 140 people ready to buy each book as it comes out. In a year, most of them go out of print and bring 30 to 50 times the published price from then on.

collect a $100 reward

·LEWISVILLE, Texas (AP) - For $100 rewards, high school students here are turning in fellow students - and in some cases best friends - in a program designed to crack down on the in-school sale and use of drugs.

Administrators in this north Dallas suburb say Lewisville High School students are responding to yellow posters featuring a cross on top of a grave and offering a $100 reward from the Parent Teacher Student Association.

Assistant Principal Malcolm Dennis said since the program began in September at the 2,200-student school, 20 names have been turned over to school officials and 17 of those were reported to police.

"You'd be astonished at how well the students are cooperating," said Dennis. "Some have even turned in their best friends.'

He said the 17 were expelled after turning in drugs, mostly marijuana, during searches of their belongings by the principal or an assistant principal.

The names of the students are given police only if drugs are found on the student, said Dennis. He said no action was taken against three of the 20 students because no drugs were found.

'We are working with a totally legal conscience," said Killough. "Our school boarad has determined and the courts have upheld in the past that while students are on campus and away from their parents, we become their guardians and have a right to search them, their lockers or their cars.

Dr. Donohue

2nd opinion frees woman from pain

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to offer hope to other women who have possibly been misdiagnosed as I was.

My symptoms began almost 10 years ago. I went to my G.P., who sent me to a gynecologist, who said I had genital herpes. For 10 years I had periodic flare-ups that were most common after menstrual periods or sexual activity. These episodes caused a tremendous strain on my emotional system as well as my marriage. I couldn't begin to tell you the pain and frustration it caused, or the tears I shed.

Finally, in desperation I went to another gynecologist. Bless him! He told me that I did have a trace of herpes. What I did have was an allergy to the dye in the colored toilet tussue I had been using for years!

This allergy had been keeping me in constant state of irritation for years. Since learning of this and using only unscented, white toilet tissue, I have been symptom-free! If any, of your readers are in doubt about a herpes diagnosis, I urge them to consider seeing another doctor. Doing so changed my life. THE NEW ME

DEAR ME: Thanks for wanting to help others. Many women will bless you. But I'm not so sure the manfacturers of scented, colored toilet tissue will.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently spent four days on our vacation with my brother and his wife. The window shade in the guest room, and the curtain were so sheer that we were awakened at sunrise every day.

After the first night, my brother asked us how we had slept, and I told him that we had slept very well but not long enough, thanks to "Ol' Mr. Sol"

FIRED-UP FROG - Texas Christian Universit's Darrell Browder fired a jump shot over Arizona State University's Chris Beasley during a second round NIT game Monday night in Tempe, Ariz. Browder scored 29 points to pace the Horned Frogs to a 78-76 victory over ASU, advancing TCU to a quarterfinals matchup against Nebraska.

'Killer Frogs' win again Browder, TCU leap by Arizona St. 78-76 in NIT

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Texas Christian University basketball Coach Jim Killingsworth says his Horned Frogs were lucky forward Doug Arnold decided to pick up the scoring slack after guard Darrell Browder had fouled out.

Arnold poured in 20 of his 26 in the second half as TCU held on to beat Arizona State 78-76 in a second-round game of the National Invitation Tournament here Monday night.

The Horned Frogs advance to the quarterfinals of the tournament against Nebraska which downed Iona 85-73 Monday. That game will be played Thursday night at Nebraska.

"After Browder went out, Arnold starting working. He did a great job," Killingsworth said. "Up until that point, Darrell was most of our offense.'

Browder, who had in 23 of his 29 points in the first half, picked up his fifth foul and exited with 9:52 remaining in the game and the Horned Frogs ahead 60-59

After Walt Stone's jumper put Arizona State up 68-67 with 5:50 left, Arnold poured in six straight points for a 73-68 lead.

The host Sun Devils, kept in the game throughout by the 33-point effort of Byron Scott, closed to 77-76 on Chris Beasley's basket with 2:19 to go.

But Beasley missed the front end of a oneand-one free throw situation with 1:49 remaining and Brian Christensen sank a crucial free throw with 46 seconds left for the 78-76 Texas Christian lead.

Christensen missed a free throw with 10 seconds left, but Arizona State could not get the tying basket despite several tip-in attempts at the buzzer following Scott's missed jumper.

'We wanted Byron to take the ball to the basket and he got a great shot off. We'll take that 99 times out of 100," said Sun Devil Coach Bob Weinhauer. "But it just wouldn't go in and we had at least two, maybe three other chances to tap it in and those wouldn't fall either. It was not to be for us.

Killingsworth said the final 10 seconds of the game were "the longest I've ever seen played. We were really fortunate to win.'

The victory was the Horned Frogs' fifth in the their last six games as they improved their overall record to 23-10.

The game was tied 16 times, including 13 in the first half before Browder's driving layin and Dennis Nutt's jumper in the final minute gave Texas Christian a 39-35 lead at intermission.

"TCU played a solid, error-free game," Weinhauer said. "They maintained their com-posure even after Browder fouled out and Arnold took over the game from there. It's a tribute to them that they didn't get flustered.' The Sun Devils, losing for just the fourth time in the last 14 games, finished the season at 19-14 despite 19 points from Paul Williams and 14 from Beasley.

Scott, a junior guard, became his school's all-time scoring leader with his first basket of the game - breaking Seabern Hill's record of 1,539 career points.

"We knew coming in that we weren't going to stop him," said Killingsworth of Scott. "But ASU probably thought the same thing of Darrell.

Browder is TCU's all-time leading scorer.

Big 10 teams exited from NIT

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten's stock dropped a bit in the National Invitation Tournament when the Minnesota Gophers lost last week

Monday night, the bottom dropped out completely for one of the nation's strongest basketball leagues as both Northwestern and Michigan State were eliminated.

DePaul rallied to pull out a dramatic 65-63 victory over Northwestern and Fresno State upset Michigan State 72-58 in two of eight NIT games Monday night, leaving the Big Ten without a team to compete in the nation's oldest post-season basketball tournament. It was the second close victory over a Big Ten team in this tourney for DePaul, which beat Minnesota 76-73 in a first-round game last Tuesday night.

Also advancing to quarterfinal games later this week were Wake Forest, Texas Christian, Mississippi, South Carolina, Nebraska and Oregon State. Wake Forest beat Vanderbilt 75-58, Mississippi defeated South Florida 65-57, South Carolina stopped Virginia Tech 75-68, Nebraska trimmed Iona 85-73 and Oregon State walloped New Orleans 88-71.

Kenny Patterson's 35-foot shot at the buzzer capped an 11-point comeback for DePaul as the Blue Demons caught Northwestern at the end. Patterson took the inbounds pass from Tyrone Corbin and let fly for the winning basket.

DePaul held a 52-49 lead when Jim Stack tied it with a three-point play and Northwestern, led by Stack and Gaddis Rathel, the "third choice."

"But they overloaded on both of them so they threw the ball back to me figuring the worst it could be would be a tie.

Although Northwestern had taken a 63-54 lead with less than four minutes to play and the shot clock turned off, Meyer said, "We still thought we could win it, even when we were nine points down, really. It was one of the few times this season that we retained our poise. Northwestern played a terrific game and took us out of our offense. We got by with a very poor shooting night.

Ron Anderson and Desi Barmore scored 16 points apiece to lead Fresno State over Michigan State. The Spartans maintained a five-point lead throughout most of the second half, but the Bulldogs rallied to outscore Michigan State 8-2 and grab a 53-52 lead.

Fresno State's Omel Nieves scored the goahead basket with 3:47 remaining. Michigan State, meanwhile, could hit only one of nine rally the Demon Deacons over Vanderbilt. The loss denied Vanderbilt a chance to post the school's first 20-victory season since 1973-74. The Commodores finished the season with a 19-14 record.

"This was probably our biggest win," said Rudd, who led the Deacons from a 37-29 deficit to a 50-39 lead during a 21-3 spurt early in the second half. "I think psychologically this will give us a big lift and allow us to get to New York and the NIT's final four.'

Wake Forest came back from a 32-25 deficit at the half.

"Coach (Carl Tacy) told me to just go out and play hard in the second half," Rudd said. "He said we needed a big lift from the guards and more defense on (Phil) Cox. I wound up getting a lot of shots on the fast break and I was hitting them." Carlos Clark's 30 points led Mississippi over South Florida. Clark keyed a 10-0 scoring spurt that gave Ole Miss a 21-11 lead it never relinquished. It demoralized South Florida, which got no closer than six points in the second half.

Mike Brittain and Brad Jergensen scored 15 points each as South Carolina defeated Virginia Tech. The balanced Gamecock scoring overshadowed a strong performance by Dell Curry, who scored a game-high 27 points for Virginia Tech.

Stan Cloudy's 24 points lifted Nebraska past Iona. It was the second consecutive game in which the 6-4 junior had a season-high point total. In a first-round NIT game, Cloudy had 20 to lead the Huskers past Tulane Oregon State forward A.C. Green had 18 points and the Beavers led all the way to down visiting New Orleans. The Beavers had five players in double figures.

Bryant carried 27 times for 177 yards in Philadelphia's 17-10 United States Football League victory over the Birmingham Stallions Monday night, setting up a match next weekend between the league's only two undefeated teams, the Stars and the Tampa Bay Bandits.

"I don't feel I played a good game, but we work hard on both the run and the throw. But we were running so good there's no need to throw," said Fusina, who completed eight of 15 passes for just 56 yards. The Stars rushed 30 times for 200 yards.

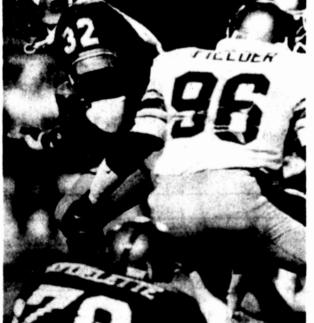

"We were pretty conservative," Fusina said.

Bryant credited his success to the Stars' offensive line

"It lets me know our offensive line did a great job," Bryant said. "We've got some big horses up front. I just try to go out and play 100 percent. I don't worry about what people say about me." When asked about his performance compared to Heisman Trophy-winner Herschel Walker of the New Jersey Generals, who has only 164 yards in 48 carries for the season, Bryant said: "Our offensive line is better than New Jersey's." Stallions Coach Rollie Dotsch said, "Bryant demonstrated he is one of never relinquished. the best backs in the USFL, if not the country."

"I'm never pleased when a guy runs the ball down our throat," Dotsch said. "Our tackling was shoddy in the first half," when Bryant rushed for 139 yards. "There are two things we do well, rush the passer and protect the asser. There are elements in our game I'm not pleased with.'

Alvin Harvin scored the Stars' first touchdown on a 2-yard run around left end in the first quarter and set Bryant's third-period TD with a 67-yard return of the second-half kickoff.

BUSTIN' LOOSE — Birmingham Stallions fullback Ken Talton (32) runs by Philadelphia Stars' Don Fielder (96) for a big first down gain Monday in a USFL game in Birmingham. The Stars remained undefeated with a 17-10 victory.

Bryant then rushed five consecutive plays, scoring from the 1. Reggie Collier took the Stallions 58 yards in five plays for a touchdown. keeping the ball and sprinting around left end for the

• The Big Spring Steers hope to stay on top of the District 4-AAAAA standings when they host Odessa High at 4 p.m. this afternoon at Steer Park.

The Steers are 2-0 after Saturday's 6-0 shutout at Midland. Adam Rodriquez blanked the Bulldogs on four hits and Tom Cudd smacked a two-run homer for the Steers.

Probable starter for the Steers, 8-5 for the season, this afternoon is left-hander Jinx Valenzuela, 3-1 on the season. Cudd could also see mound duty.

Boyd Cowan tossed the Bronchos, 3-6 overall, to a 4-2 victory over Cooper Saturday. Cowan is also the team's top hitter, playing shortstop when he's not pitching.

NBA strike deadline nears but solution still a mystery means anything, negotiators in National Basketball Association contract talks may be getting down to business

After about seven hours of talks Monday, the two sides were at it again today, a day closer to the April 2 strike deadline set by the players association.

The session Monday was the longest since bargaining began last fall over what appear to be two major issues - the league's demand for a cap on team salaries and the union's insistence on maintaining the ability of free agents to move from team to team.

Whether it was a fruitful session and whether it brought the club owners and the players any closer to an agreement is not known.

The talks are so secret that even the site was a mystery. Unlike negotiations the past two years in the major league baseball and the National Football League contract disputes, newsmen are unable to question negotiators when they break. Neither side issues statements.

Alex Sachare, a public relations spokesman for the league, declined to say what took place at the latest session, and Larry Fleisher, who directs the talks for willingness to help ease the league's the players union, was not at his suburban financial problems.

NEW YORK (AP) - If bargaining time home Monday night. He was staying in New York, at an undisclosed location, unavailable for comment

Among those with Fleisher, general counsel to the players association, were his aide Charles Grantham, and Maurice Lucas, player representative of the Phoenix Suns

Bob Lanier of the Bucks, the association president, failed to make his expected appearance because he was snowbound in Milwaukee

Commissioner Larry O'Brien again headed the management team which also included Executive Vice President David Stern, the league's chief negotiator, and three members of the league's labor relations committee, Larry Weinberg, president of the Portland Trail Blazers; Jack Krumpe, president of the New York Knicks, and Alan Cohen, chairman of the New Jersey Nets.

Though the previous contract expired last June, there has been no interruption of play. The April 2 strike deadline falls about two weeks before the start of the post-season playoffs, usually very lucrative for the teams

The club owners have said there can be no new contract until the players show a

UT's Wacker needs surgery again

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas basketball forward Mike Wacker has had a second operation on his left knee and says he is much more optimistic about playing for the Longhorns again.

"I was getting kind of down, but now I really think I'm going to play again," said Wacker.

The surgery was performed last Wednesday at Baylor Medical Center in Dallas by Dr. Pat Evans, a team physician for the Dallas Cowboys.

"If Mike comes back, it would make for a great recruiting year, so to speak," said Texas Coach Bob Weltlich.

Wacker, 6-foot-9, was averaging 15.2 points and 9.2 rebounds a game when he shattered his knee in a game against Baylor on Jan. 26, 1982.

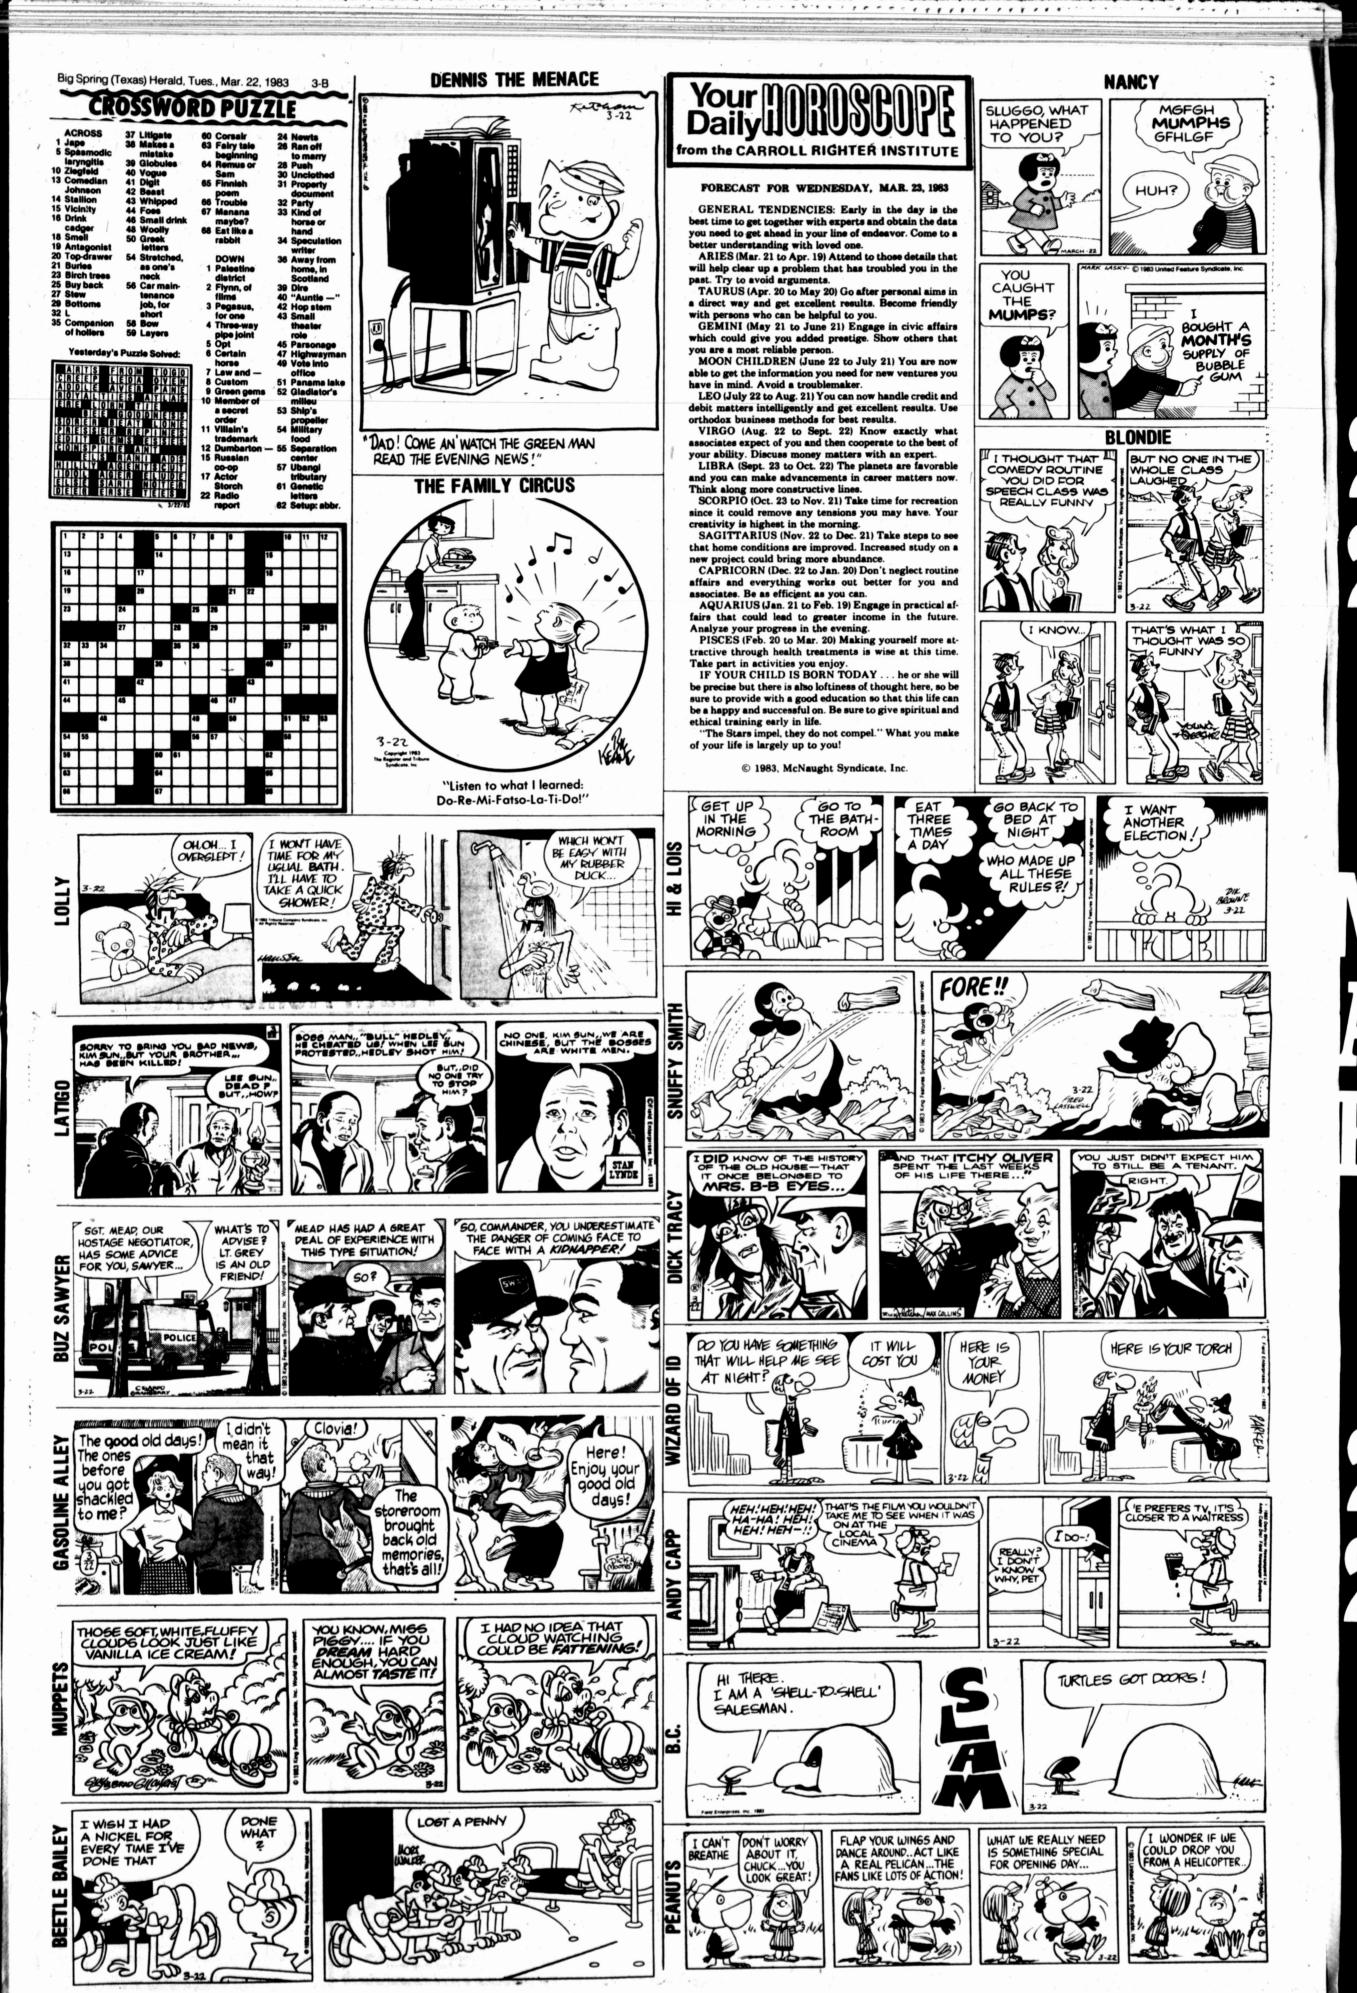

Mason, who has all but cemented a starting spot in Texas' rotation since starters Charlie Hough and Danny Darwin have been sidelined, combined with Paul Mirabella and Dan Boitano on a six-htter.

Riflemaker's flintlocks in demand

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Thirteen years ago, Herman Hendricks wouldn't have been able to tell the difference between a firing pan and a frying pan. But that's not the case now. The 38-year-old Bucks County man is in demand, so much so that his "signature" on a reproduction flintlock rifle is worth a couple of thousand dollars.

But Hendricks remains modest to the point that his exquisite rifles, powder horns, pistols and hatchets are sometimes given away. If he has a friend or relative who at one time admired his work, Hendricks may decide to make a present of it.

In this day and age, that may be difficult to understand, especially considering his rifles require more than 300 hours' work. But to Hendricks, giving is often better than receiving.

581 SHING

> FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A Fort Worth man and three teen-agers rested today following their Mexican vacation, which they say was a nightmare that included beatings by police officers who then jailed the youths in Matamoros.

But the Mexican police official in charge of Matamoros tells a different story. Police Captain Alvaro Zeron said the boys shouted insults to police and were beaten when they resisted arrest.

Matamoros Mayor Jorge Cardenas said he has demanded a complete investigation into the allegations stemming from the incident last Thursday in a seedy section of the border town. Cardenas said if any wrongdoing is discovered, the police offcers will be punished.

Richard Laisure, 37, said he and his son, Chad, and four of his son's high school friends went Thursday night to a small cantina in a rough section of Matamoros known as the Pink Zone.

He said the boys heard a scuffle outside the bar and looked outside to see police beating people in the street.

One of the youths, 16-year-old Mark Mendoza, said the flash unit on his camera went off just as police ordered him not to shoot any pictures.

It was then, Laisure said, that a unit of about 35 police officers lunged at the group and hit them with clubs and fists. None of the Texans required medical

"When you make this stuff and put so much time and love in it, I don't mind giving it away," he says.

"My personality is in those guns. And I'm not a chintzy old so-and-so."

Like many muzzleloader enthusiasts, Hendricks began his career with a flintlock kit. It proved to be a good deal of fun and helped spark his curiosity.

afrest in the territory

It wasn't long before he was collecting as much information on flintlocks as he could find.

"I had a few books, copied a few things, asked ques-tions, and things picked up little by little," he recalls. "I thought we had gone as far as we could with high-powered rifles, and I was looking for a challenge. It turned out to be a lot of fun."

The Pennsylvania counties of Bucks, Northampton and Lehigh comprised one of the centers of the flintlock industry during the late 18th and early 19th centuries, an era known as the golden age of riflemaking.

Each county had its own school of thought, and there were often several schools of thought within each county, depending on the creative whims of those families who carried on the trade.

"After everything is laid out and the brass work is on," he says, "I can have the engraving done. Finishing the wood is quite a chore in itself, but something with which Hendricks, a furniture finisher in Quakertown, is quite familiar.

"I believe my products are as good as anybody's," he says. "And we don't overprice anything. I sold three pieces, a matched set of a hatchet, pistol and rifle, for $3.500.

"I don't get much hunting in myself, but I still love, the rifle. I'm just glad I can carry on the tradition."

Hendricks is following in the footsteps of such wellknown flintlock makers as Herman and John Rupp, Adam Angstadt and Andrew Verner. He attempts to follow the design of these Colonial weapon-makers as closely as possible and it is often painstaking work. The wood, usually a variety of maple, is purchased

Woman indicted in Belushi death will fight return

TORONTO (AP) - The woman indicted in the death of comedian John Belushi will fight extradition to California, according to her attorney, who said any other action would be "an affront" to Canadian and international law. Cathy Evelyn Smith, 35, a former back-up singer for Gordon Lightfoot and other performers, surrendered to Toronto police Friday night after the Los Angeles County grand jury returned a 14-count indictment Tuesday charging her with Belushi's 1982 murder and 13 counts of supplying and administering dangerous drugs to the comedian. The indictment was not made public until Friday

'She will be extradited,' Los Angeles District Attorney Robert Philibosian told a news conference late Friday. "The only question is whether or not she waives formal extradition and agrees to return voluntarily.

A bail hearing was scheduled in a Toronto court today, said Ms. Smith's Toronto attorney. Brian Greenspan, who added the hearing may be postponed.

Greenspan bristled late Sunday at Philibosian's comments, saying: "To suggest that there will be extradition, that she won't fight extradition, is an affront to our legal system in Canada and to international law.

He added: "Unlike in the United States, there are not going to be any press conferences. The hearings will not be determined by the news media. The hearings will be determined in a court of law.

Los Angeles district attorney's spokesman Al Albergate said late Sunday the office has "sent a number of documents up' to Canada for the hearing.

He said district attorney personnel "would go get her'' if Ms. Smith is ordered to return to Los Angeles but added that no one from the office had yet been sent to Toronto.

"They're trying to find a scapegoat," Ms. Smith told the Toronto Sun newspaper after learning of the indictment.
