Seven injured, traffic snarled; highway stretch closed for 4 hours

By CAROL DANIEL and BOB CARPENTER Staff Writers

Sand-caked and goggled law enforcement officials labored in wind gusts up to 58 mph this morning to aid stranded and injured motorists along 15 miles of Interstate Highway 20.

Related story, page 3-A

Three ambulances shuttled seven injured persons in near zero visibility to Malone-Hogan Hospital. Only one serious injury was reported in the two major traffic pileups located about eight miles west of Big Spring and near the Lomax community.

Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard said about 10 a.m. that there was a "significant number" of accidents, but he had not determined how many. Drivers, unable to see in the West Texas sandstorm, crashed into vehicles ahead and congested traffic from Big Spring to Stanton.

The pileup apparently started about 8 a.m. when a Memphis-bound Continental Trailways bus originating from Odessa plowed into the rear of an 18-wheel tractor-trailer rig. Passengers said cars following behind ran into the bus, triggering a four-hour traffic jam and dozens of accidents.

Firemen used the jaws-of-life to free the bus driver, 49-year-old Vern Standhope of Big Spring, from the wreckage. He underwent surgery this morning for a fractured ankle. His was the most serious injury reported in the smash-up, hospital spokesman Dan Wise said.

Three bus passengers from Odessa were taken to Malone-Hogan to be treated for scrapes and abrasions. They were 35-year-old Floyd Simpson and a married couple, 27-year-old Ronald and 29-year-old Becky McLendon, the hospital said.

Other injuries included a Big Spring boy, Mark Worley, who was treated for a cut nose and a woman who suffered a whiplash.

Officials barricaded both lanes to avoid increased traffic congestion. Both lanes were opened again at 11:20 a.m.; however, traffic at noon was still snarled for two miles as officers warned of low visibility on the interstate.

BIG SPRING FIREMAN LENDS HELPING HAND...emergency technician Doug Carson helps free injured bus driver

'At times I couldn't see the ground from the truck, the dirt was so bad.'

As he waited in the emergency room for his father to be treated, Larry Davis of Odessa described the smashup.

Davis said he and his father, Earl, were sitting in separate pickups in the east bound lane of Interstate 20. They had pulled up behind a bus.

"It (the traffic) was backed up for as far as I could see," Davis said. "We were sitting still and I could just see the front end of my dad's truck. I heard a lot of screeching and then the next thing I saw was my dad's pickup fly by, go up over the end of a car and end up sitting on top of the car."

Davis said he hurriedly moved his father to his pickup to wait for an ambulance.

"At times I couldn't see the ground from the truck, the dirt was so bad," he said.

Bill Fryrear at the U.S. Big Spring Field Station said winds this morning averaged 45 miles per hour with gusts out of the northwest up to 58 miles per hour.

"The problem they're having out there is the different soil texture at that particular field," he explained. "A strong wind will just about bring visibility down to zero."

Patrol units from the Texas Highway Patrol in Big Spring and Stanton, Big Spring police, the Howard County Sheriff's office and volunteers controlled the traffic.

DUSTSTORM RESCUE ATTEMPT — Big Spring firemen pry open the front of a Continental Trailways bus at mile marker 166 early Friday morning. The eastbound bus crashed into the back of a tractor-trailer between Big Spring and Stanton during a duststorm created by wind gusts of up to 58 mph. Bus driver Vern Standhope of Big Spring was lifted out of the front windshield and taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital with a fractured right ankle. No other injuries were reported.

Jobless rate falls to 10.3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate declined to 10.3 percent in March as hundreds of thousands of the discouraged jobless — not counted in the rate — apparently waited for stronger signals they would find work before renewing their search for a job, the government reported today.

The seasonally adjusted rate fell for only the second time since the economy plunged into a deep recession in the summer of 1981. The 0.1 percentage point decline in unemployment followed two months of standstill 10.4 percent civilian joblessness.

Nonetheless, nearly 11.4 million people remained on the unemployment rolls.

The department recorded an additional 1.8 million "discouraged workers," Americans who have given up their search for a job and are thus not counted as unemployed members of the labor force. The figure matched the previous calculation of discouraged workers.

An alternate unemployment rate that includes the 1.7 million military personnel stationed in the United States fell an identical 0.1 percentage point — from 10.2 percent to 10.1 percent.

Kirby's secretary defending state hospital fee payments

By MIKE DOWNEY Staff Writer

The courthouse secretary whose fee collection was the center of Monday's Howard County commissioners meeting says she just wants to do her job.

The collection of fees for doing Big Spring State Hospital commitment papers by Vanessa Cooper brought angry words between County Judge Milton Kirby, County Attorney Bob Miller and Commissioner Bill Crocker Monday.

Miss Cooper said she had taken the job as county judge's secretary in January because of the hospital commitment fees. Commissioners ruled in January the fees should go into the general fund rather than to an employee.

"Whoever has had this job for 30-something years has gotten those fees," Miss Cooper said. "I don't see what the question is."

Commissioners ruled Monday to again allow her to collect the fees for working the commitment papers for BSSH, but on her own time. Miller had opposed the See Fees, page 2-A

Trustees purchase computer system, table bid for Morrison school land

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

The Big Spring school district will now have its own in-house computer system as the board of trustees yesterday accepted a $102,411 bid from IBM.

Included in the bid was $78,411 worth of hardware and $24,000 in software. The board approved the system to eliminate the district's reliance on outside computer services, and to save the district in overall costs.

The board okayed a payment plan for the hardware in the form of a 10 percent down payment and 36 monthly installments with 10 percent interest. The district will pay $6,367 down and make 36 payments of $1,833.73, according to Assistant Superintendent Don Crockett.

Crockett said the $24,000 in software will be purchased outright.

The board also amended the current 1982-83 budget to make provision for the expenditure.

"We've been studying the need of the district for several months now," Crockett said. "And we felt like it would be cost effective for us to own our own equipment and software and then the overall district would be better served."

The district has relied on the services of the Region 18 Service Center for about six years — and current costs for those services are now at $52,000 a year, according to Crockett.

The board also tabled a bid by Sacred Heart Church for the old Kate Morrison School property at North Aylford and Sixth streets.

The bid — the only bid the district received — of $12,500 failed to meet the appraised value of the property prompting the trustees to table the matter.

Local attorney Wayne Basden, who attended the meeting representing Sacred Heart, offered to negotiate the amount of the bid, but the board declined until it could seek out an attorney's opinion on the matter.

In other matters the board agreed to replace the judge of the Northside Fire Station poll for Saturday's school board elections. Dr. E.S. Morgan was replaced by Mrs. Omega Hernandez because Morgan was recently hospitalized for surgery and will be unable to preside over the polls.

WRATH OF THE STORM — A 40-foot tall cedar tree at the corner of 17th and Main was uprooted by wind gusts of up to 58 mph Friday morning in Big Spring. The high winds, accompanying a cold front moving through the state, caused a severe duststorm which accounted for three major accidents on Interstate Highway 20 west of the city.

Passengers escaped through bus windows

By CAROL HART and By TINA STEFFEN Staff Writers

Five passengers on a Continental Trailways bus from Odessa were forced to climb out of the windows of the bus this morning following a collision with a tractor-trailer rig which left the bus driver trapped between broken pieces of metal and glass.

The bus crashed at 7:50 a.m., passengers said. The five passengers, the only riders aboard the 6:30 a.m. express departure to Memphis, Tenn., were brought by the Department of Public Safety to the Continental Trailways terminal in Big Spring to fill out accident reports. About 9:45 a.m. they were taken for medical observation to Malone-Hogan Hospital where the bus driver was undergoing surgery.

Floyd Simpson, a passenger from Midland, said "visibility was bad" this morning as the bus was heading toward Big Spring. The driver of the bus, Vern Stanhope, had slowed down on Interstate Highway 20 because of the poor visibility caused by a raging dust storm, he said. The driver further slowed down when he came upon a tractor-trailer moving slowly on the highway.

Simpson said Stanhope changed lanes. "He moved over to pass it. Then there was a big puff of wind, and it got real dark. We hit another tractor-trailer rig" which was either stopped or moving slowly in the lane to which Stanhope steered the bus, Simpson said.

"We slammed right into the back of it," Simpson said.

The front of the bus sustained heavy damage and the driver was pinned in the wreckage, Simpson said.

"I tried to pull the bars from around the driver," Simpson said. "But I couldn't do it. He was trapped."

Simpson and other passengers on the bus reported that cars and other vehicles began slamming into the rear of the bus.

Becky McClendon of Odessa said "We couldn't see the truck until we were right on it." Mrs. McClendon was shaken and had several bruises on her arms. "When we hit, I was in a trance. I'm not sure what happened next. The driver was hurt."

Gretta Cochran of Midland said the initial collision "felt awful." The passengers could feel the impact of other cars slamming into the bus.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN — Three passengers from a Continental Trailways bus sit in the local bus terminal filling out accident reports following today's bus-truck collision on Interstate Highway 20. Pictured above, from left, are Boyd Cochran and his mother, Gretta Cochran, both of Midland, and Becky McClendon of Odessa. These three and two other passengers were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital from the terminal to check their condition.

'We couldn't see the truck until we were right on it. When we hit, I was in a trance. I'm not sure what happened next. The driver was hurt.'

"We didn't know what to do, whether to stay in or try to get out. We stayed inside the bus for about 15 minutes, then we went out the windows, because we felt we'd be safer on the outside instead of on the inside."

Several of the passengers ran to the safety of a nearby ditch, away from the traffic on the road.

Simpson said "I climbed out the front of the bus where there used to be a windshield. I stood there and talked to the driver until the DPS got there, to try and keep him awake."

Boyd Cochran, Mrs. Cochran's 12-year-old son, was on his way to San Angelo with his mother. "I was sitting in a seat and he (the bus driver) was passing a crane. It was cloudy. I couldn't see nothing. It was just like it was dark."

"The bus pulled up and there was an 18-wheeler in front of us dead stopped in the road. And we hit it, I heard a horn. It was steady."

"When we crashed my glasses came off and I hit the ash tray (on the seat in front of him)."

"He was real shook up," his mother said. The boy was already developing what looked like a black eye while at the Big Spring terminal.

"I had never been in a wreck before," Boyd said. "The whole bus in front was dented in. His (the driver's) legs were all broken. It was awful. He couldn't move, but he didn't say anything or moan. He was a real good driver and was handling it well until the 18-wheeler was there and we smashed into it."

Easter Seal Society lays egg hunt plans

ON THE HUNT — Holly Oliver, left, and a shy Marcia Talley, pose with the Easter bunny at the Big Spring Mall Friday in anticipation of Saturday's Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Easter Seals Society at 3 p.m. on the Veterans Administration hospital lawn.

Children under the age of 12 are invited to hunt for 2,000 Easter eggs Saturday on the Veterans Administration Hospital grounds in an effort to raise money for the Easter Seal Society.

Children divided in four age groups will hunt in roped off areas from 3-5 p.m. for the eggs, and a grand prize egg in each division.

The age groups are as follows: crippled children, ages four and under, ages five, six and seven, and ages eight to 12.

A donation of $2 will be taken for each child participating with the exception of crippled children. All proceeds will go to Easter Seal Society. The Big Spring Mall Easter Bunny will make a guest appearance from 3 to 3:30 p.m.

Oklahoma winds rip buildings, vehicles

High winds today ripped the roof off the Carnegie High School gymnasium, destroyed a car in Edmond and toppled a semi-trailer truck in Lawton.

In Carnegie, 27 miles west of Anadarko in Caddo County, Superintendent Harold Butler called off classes in the junior and senior high schools after the roof of the school gymnasium was destroyed by strong winds.

Butler said the two schools are in the path of chunks of debris blowing from the gymnasium roof.

He estimated that 40 percent of the building's roof was gone. He said he feared rains would cause heavy damage inside the building.

A used car was destroyed and two other cars were damaged when high winds blew a 5-by-10-foot sign off its pole at Pete Gootos Buick in Edmond about 10 a.m. today.

Tooter Cosper, used car manager, estimated damage at $6,000.

Lawton police said winds topping 60 miles per hour toppled a semi-trailer truck.

There were numerous reports in the state of trees being blown over.

The National Weather Service in Oklahoma City issued a high-wind warning for the northwestern two-thirds of the state today, with winds of 35 to 45 mph.

Ken Gallant, a meteorologist at the National Weather Service, said the high winds were caused by the differences between a strong low-pressure system over northwest Oklahoma and high pressure in Wyoming.

Gallant said the difference between the pressures was so large that it was causing an influx of cooler air into Oklahoma at a high speed.

Holy Week tourism declines

Devalued peso keeps Mexicans at home for Easter

B The Associated Press Merchants and other border businessmen say the weakened peso has drastically reduced the number of Mexican Roman Catholics making the traditional Holy Week pilgrimage to Texas.

"We can't blame them for not coming here," said Steve Morales, past president and board member of the Mexican-American Chamber of Commerce in Corpus Christi. "With the peso the way it is now, they can't even afford to buy chewing gum."

Mexicans who crowded the shopping malls, hotels and businesses of South Texas cities before the peso began its series of devaluations last year stayed away this year in large numbers, officials said.

Merchants said in past years they looked forward to the week before Easter for increased sales revenue that rivaled the Christmas holidays in volume.

Shopping malls in Corpus Christi last year planned special activities for Mexican customers. But this year, Sunrise Mall had no programs planned for Holy Week, said Nancy Wilhausen, mall marketing director.

Officials of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce, which normally registers 100 to 150 families from Mexico during Holy Week, had signed in two families Tuesday afternoon.

Not many more Mexican families are expected to sign up during the remainder of the week, chamber officials said.

Hotel reservations by Mexicans also decreased for the same period, said Jack Dettloff, general manager of La Quinta Royale and president of the Corpus Christi Hotel-Motel Association.

"At my particular property, we have about 15 rooms occupied by people from Mexico," said Dettloff. "That's one-third to one-fourth of the number we had last year. I have spoken with other operators and they are experiencing the same. The Mexican tourists are just not there."

During Holy Week last year, banks sold pesos at an exchange rate of 49 to the dollar. Businesses along the Texas-Mexico border were selling pesos this week for 155 to the dollar.

Officials said the black market or street exchange is as high as 180 pesos to the dollar in border towns. The quasi-official exchange on international bridges is 165 to the dollar.

Travel by Mexicans into other areas of Texas also was curtailed by the peso dip.

The number of Mexicans arriving at San Antonio International Airport for Holy Week is "not as heavy" as last year, said Sharon Hudson, airport inspector for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We're seeing half of what it has been," Ms. Hudson said.

San Antonio tends to attract wealthier Mexicans because it is farther from the border than other Texas cities, said Richard Casillas, INS district director here.

HOLY WEEK PROCESSION — Hooded faithful, led by a barefoot person carrying a cross in penitence, walk through the streets of Cadiz, Spain, participating in the town's traditional Holy Week procession.

It's April Fools' — seriously!

BOSTON (AP) — As a student of humor, Joseph Boskin says Americans don't take April Fools' Day seriously enough.

"I think we have to resurrect it," said Boskin, a social historian who tries to discern the deeper meaning of elephant jokes and other bits of folk humor. "It gives everybody a chance to be foolish without censure."

The Boston University professor traces the custom of telling jokes and playing pranks on April 1 to the days of the Roman emperor Constantine, when a group of fools and court jesters told the monarch they could rule the realm better.

Constantine was amused by the claim, Boskin said, and gave his jesters one day to rule. A jester named Kugel was named king for a day, and he passed an edict that only the absurd would be allowed on that day.

"In a way it was a very serious day," said Boskin. "In those times fools were really wise men. It was the role of jesters to put things in perspective with humor."

The custom stuck, Boskin said, and became a yearly event. The choice of April 1 as the day of fools goes back to the time when the New Year was celebrated from March 21 to the first day of April.

Boskin said allowing foolish behavior one day a year has its therapeutic value by allowing people to act out of character.

"It has the same psychological value that is accomplished when men bring their wives breakfast in bed on Mother's Day," he said. "It is the time when you are permitted to assume the power that you really don't have."

Boskin said he and school chums in Brooklyn once celebrated April Fools' Day by sending out notices to all the teachers that classes had been canceled. "I grew up in a very cerebral neighborhood," he explained.

Although the April Fools' tradition came to this country with English and European immigrants, Boskin said the day of fools has fallen on hard times.

Pope presides over Holy Thursday Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Twenty-four cardinals, 45 bishops and 1,300 priests from Rome renewed vows of celibacy and obedience in the presence of Pope John Paul II today in a Holy Thursday Mass at St. Peter's Basilica.

"We want to renew those promises with which we are bound to Christ on the day of our ordination," the pope said in his homily.

The pontiff, wearing white vestments, celebrated the Mass with the clerics at the canopied main altar.

John Paul also gave communion to a number of the 5,000 faithful including two grandchildren of the Count of Paris, pretender to the French throne.

The service marked the start of four days of Easter ceremonies that have attracted an estimated 1 million tourists and pilgrims to Rome.

The Mass preceded a major ceremony in the Basilica of St. John Lateran later in the day when the pope washes the feet of 12 youths in a re-enactment of the last supper of Jesus and his apostles.

The pope also was scheduled to carry a wooden cross at the ancient pagan ruins near the Colosseum in Good Friday ceremonies.

Dr. Donohue

Short stature

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our 11-year-old son is 51 inches tall. We had him tested for growth retardation. All the tests, for glands and for bone age, were within normal ranges. We don't want to make a big issue out of this, but his size is bothering him a great deal, with his friends being taller than he is now. We want to give him every advantage in life and would appreciate your thoughts on giving him growth hormones. — Mrs. G.S.

Your son's "problem" is a common one judging from my mail. What about the young boy whose growth is lagging? Does it mean a lack of that growth hormone made by the pituitary gland? Or does it mean the lad is only exhibiting genetic factors that simply destine him to be shorter than average males?

Were this my child I would have done what you have done. You took him to his pediatrician and you let the doctor access his situation through the appropriate tests.

If the child does lack that pituitary hormone (Human Growth Hormone), then the result could be pituitary dwarfism, the kind in which the person is abnormally short but perfectly normal in other physical characteristics. That hormone can be measured in the blood.

Another test to determine the significance of abnormal height for one's years is the one for bone age. X-rays show the status of bone ends and the degree to which they are closed or still open — allowing continued growth. If the bone age test is in normal ranges, then with that, along with those normal hormone tests, you can be assured that further linear growth should occur. If such tests do indicate a glandular problem, then it is possible to stimulate further growth with use of actual human growth hormone from outside sources.

So why, many parents may ask, cannot the youngster be given the hormone anyway and get the growth process speeded up? It doesn't work. If tests show he doesn't lack the hormone, then providing it from the outside source won't help. You can't, for example, make a 7-foot basketball center of someone genetically destined to be a 5-foot-10-inch guard by stuffing him with the growth hormones.

In addition, Mrs. G.S., you probably know that a normal spurt of growth for boys occurs between 13 and 15 and a half years. So long as your son's tests show that he has the prerequisites (normal growth hormone production and appropriate bone age) this growth will occur. He may never be terribly tall for his age, but he can be expected to catch up to a large extent.

Finally, giving the pituitary growth hormone referred to would not only be futile, it would be most wasteful. The hormone has to be extracted from the pituitary glands of human beings who have died, so it is in very short supply and its use reserved for those rare instances where the gland deficiency has been established beyond doubt.

You have done what you should do. Now be guided by your doctors. I am sorry that this response had to be so lengthy, but as I mentioned, I have received many letters similar to yours, and hope this clarifies things a bit.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Abby

Woman foots big bill for mismatched shoes

DEAR ABBY: I had polio as a child and consequently my left foot is two sizes smaller than my right. In order to get a pair of shoes I can wear, I have to buy two pairs in different sizes. This leaves me with an extra pair of brand new shoes that I may as well throw in the garbage! This hurts my thrifty nature.

I have at least 20 pairs of beautiful, expensive shoes in my attic (the left shoe is 4B and the right shoe is 6B.) If I could sell them for a third of what they cost me, it would make me very happy.

I tried placing an ad in our local paper, but the only two people who called did so to ridicule me. (They must have thought I was some kind of weirdo.)

My question: Do you know of any shoe company that will sell mismatched shoes?

MY FEET DON'T MATCH DEAR FEET: No, but you're in luck. There is a club you can join. It's a "mismatch shoe service" for men, women and children whose feet also "don't match." (Amputees, as well.)

There is a nominal fee for placing your name and needs in the registry. For information, write to: National Odd Shoe Exchange, Rural Route No. 4, Indianola, Iowa 50125.

Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope when writing for information about how to join.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the bride who wishes to carry her baby down the aisle during her church wedding: I think it would be fine. Good baby sitters are expensive and hard to come by these days.

I also think it would be appropriate for the bride's father to carry a blue or pink shotgun, depending on the sex of the child.

The woman determines relationships at work

NEW YORK — Much has been reported and written about office romances but the biggest headlines have gone to situations involving those at the executive level. Additionally, the sexual harassment guidelines issued by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission have brought about publication of charges heretofore overlooked.

While boy-girl relationships will continue among the younger employees, it's a different ball game for office romance at the managerial level.

One thing has not changed, however, according to a former practicing female psychologist who is now a human resources consultant. "It is still the woman who determines the nature and sets the tone of business relationships with male colleagues. This is done right at the start since men tend to make a sex appraisal of the woman based on the first meeting."

The consultant offers these on-the-job tips to women: Don't send out mixed signals. If you don't want a co-worker or the boss to make a pass at you, don't dress or act in such a way to invite one. If you do, you'll probably get one.

When a boss or a male colleague invites you out to dinner, suggest making it a foursome with his wife and one of his or your friends.

IF YOU'RE PAID a well-meant compliment, simply accept it graciously. Ignore any other kind.

If a conversation gets too personal, an obvious reference to your husband or fiancé can usually get it back on a safer track.

When traveling together, be sure to pay your own way. You both will have expense accounts anyway. Also when traveling, keep busy, don't have a lot of free time on your hands. Fill the time with keeping your reports and paperwork up to date. Don't spend idle time in the cocktail lounge.

Always keep in mind that you're being paid to do the job for which you were hired and doing that job well is your major objective. Concentrate on that.

While EEOC regulations protect a woman from sexual harassment, it pays a working woman to remember that it takes two to tango on the job as well as on the dance floor, the consultant concludes.

Toastmasters Club to organize

The organization of a Toastmasters Club is in consideration for the Big Spring Area.

An informational meeting will be held Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. in the conference room of Avery & Associates, 210 Permian Building. All persons interested in the organization are urged to attend. For additional information about Toastmasters membership, contact Johnnie Lou Avery at 263-1451.

Toastmasters is open to men and women wanting to learn and improve communications abilities and leadership qualities. The club offers opportunities to learn effective communication, not by rules alone, but by practice speaking to groups. By speaking in the club atmosphere of understanding and helpful evaluation, one improves quicker and gains confidence.

While the Toastmasters program is not a course, it does offer a practical laboratory which supplements formal education.

Members meet and join in self-improvement efforts with other conscientious people from many professions and vocations. Members gain confidence in oneself and increased ability in organizing and presenting one's own ideas and thoughts.

Members analyze words and deeds of others and join in evaluations of them. The members also learn and practice group management and administration.

The Big Spring Club will be sponsored by the Midland Toastmasters Club.

Congressional legislation discussed

More than 300 bills were introduced in the Legislature in 1982. Mrs. Alton Underwood said to members of City Extension Homemakers Club March 25. Each bill must be read three times each time it is presented in each House. Much discussion takes place in committees before the bill ever reaches the House and Senate chambers.

Mrs. Underwood said writing, wiring or calling government officials were the best ways to get messages across.

There was a short discussion on getting citizenship papers. It takes five years and it is basically history that is the topic of tests administered. Candidates for citizenship must also swear to be loyal to the U.S.A. Mrs. D.D. Johnston won the prize for the best grade in a U.S. quiz given to the members.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Ervin Daniels with Mrs. M.F. Hodnett as co-hostess.

The next meeting is April 8 with Mrs. Clyde Cantrell as hostess and Mrs. Melvin Newton as co-hostess.

Alpha Tau Rho Chapter elects 1983-84 officers

Kathy Nichols was named president of the Alpha Tau Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi during the group's recent meeting.

Vice president is Alicia Curry, recording secretary is Judy West, treasurer is Martha Specht and corresponding secretary is Jayne Mitchell. The "Girl of the Year" and "Pledge of the Year" were voted on and will be announced later.

The chapter met in the home of Cynthia Anderson, Coahoma. They observed a St. Patrick's Day theme. Members brought green food to eat.

Plans for a bake sale were discussed. The sale is slated April 30 in Coahoma.

The next meeting is April 11 in the home of Sheri Lepard.

Members report on Rebekah Assembly

Lucille Brown, LaVerne Rogers and Odelle LaLonde reported on their recent trip to the Rebekah Assembly of Texas meeting in Abilene at the meeting of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 meeting recently.

Sixteen visits to the ill were reported. A resolution of sympathy was read for Grace Martin. Certificates of perfection were presented to Odelle LaLonde and Lois Hood.

Gromyko schedules news conference on arms policy

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, is to hold an international news conference in Moscow Saturday, Foreign Ministry officials said.

Western diplomats and other observers in Moscow speculated that Gromyko, who last week was given the title of first deputy premier, would give official Soviet reaction to President Reagan's latest offer on reducing European nuclear arsenals.

The only public response the Soviets have made so far to the offer came from Radio Moscow today, which said there had been skeptical reaction to the offer around the world — but did not reject Reagan's proposal outright.

Gromyko has not held a news conference, with Western reporters present, in Moscow since June 25, 1979.

He has met Western reporters at news conferences abroad since then, but it is highly unusual for him to do so in Moscow. It is also unusual for the Foreign Ministry to convene a weekend conference.

Gromyko's 1979 news conference concerned SALT-2, which had just been signed in Vienna.

Gromyko at that time said that if the U.S. Senate did not ratify SALT-2, the Soviets would not return to the negotiating table.

The Senate has not ratified that treaty, but both superpowers are said to be adhering to its terms. The Soviets and Americans are currently negotiating reduction of strategic arms and European nuclear arms in separate sets of talks in Geneva.

Soviets form anti-Zionist front

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviets with apparent official backing on Thursday urged their countrymen to join a movement to fight Zionism, branding the ideology embraced by many Jews as an imperialist "strike force" against communism.

The appeal came two weeks after an international conference on Soviet Jewry in Jerusalem accused the Soviet government of pursuing a policy of "pervasive and virulent anti-Semitism."

The appeal to join the "Anti-Zionist Committee of the Soviet Public" was carried by the official news agency Tass, which said Soviet intellectuals were spearheading the campaign. Publication of the report by Tass indicated the effort was endorsed by the Kremlin.

A Western diplomat said Moscow's Jewish community has been warning for some time that the Kremlin was planning a Jewish "front" to receive foreign delegations and "act as a propaganda instrument."

But the diplomat said there were reports that authorities had difficulty in finding Soviet Jews willing to lend their name to the committee.

The diplomat said he was familiar with one of the signers of the appeal listed by Tass, a Col.-Gen. David Dragunsky. The diplomat said Dragunsky was Jewish.

"The Israeli ruling top crust and the leaders of international Zionism are responsible for numerous crimes including political adventurism" and atrocities in Lebanon, the appeal said.

"The reckless, adventurist policy of the Israeli Zionists is a source of trouble and sufferings not only for the Arab peoples," it said. "It is in conflict with the aims of establishing a just and lasting peace in the Middle East, and thus with the vital interests of Israel itself."

The letter denounced "reactionary circles of the U.S.A." as heightening world tensions, then stated, "in its global strategy, imperialism widely uses international Zionism as a strike force for an offensive against socialism."

It said Western news agencies, "including Zionist propaganda, daily slander our Soviet homeland" and distort Soviet policies.

"Usurping the right to defend Soviet Jews, the Zionist ringleaders try to persuade world opinion that a 'Jewish question' allegedly exists in the U.S.S.R.," it said. "Soviet Jews ... angrily denounce such slander," it said.

Introducing the Zilmobile

Kremlin's limousine draws Red salutes

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet magazine, breaking with past secrecy about perks for Kremlin leaders, has printed a detailed description of the new ZIL 4104, the long, black limousine which draws salutes as it carries dignitaries down the reserved center lanes of Moscow thoroughfares.

Older models of the ZIL have received scant mention in the Soviet press, apparently in keeping with a policy of reticence about detailing the lifestyles of Communist leaders.

ZIL limousines, hand-tooled in limited numbers at a Moscow truck factory, are reserved for Communist Party chief Yuri V. Andropov, other top Kremlin officials and state guests.

They are said by unofficial Soviet sources to cost about $140,000 each. Only about 30 ZILs are manufactured each year, the sources said.

The article in the April issue of Za Rulom (Behind the Wheel), which was obtained by The Associated Press on Wednesday, described the ZIL as an "automobile of the top class."

"Reliable, technically modern, comfortable, prestigious, these are the typical characteristics of the autos produced by the Moscow factory," said the article signed by E. Gusev, the deputy chief designer.

The new ZIL is 19 feet, 9.5 inches long and 6 feet, 10 inches wide. It has a top speed of 118 mph, power steering and brakes, automatic locks and a glass partition between the driver's seat and the seven-place passenger area, according to the popular car monthly which has a circulation of 4 million.

A visible symbol of Soviet power, the ZILs usually travel in guarded convoys, using the reserved center lane on Moscow's main streets. Passengers in the long black cars draw snappy salutes from traffic police and awed stares from pedestrians.

The Soviet limousines date back to the pre-war Stalin era, when they were called ZIs.

In 1961, during the de-Stalinization period, Nikita Khrushchev renamed the factory in honor of Ivan Likhachev, its first director, and the cars became known as ZILs.

Designed to replace the older ZIL 114, the new model "reflects progress achieved by Soviet and world auto builders over the last 15 years," the article said.

Careful attention to appearance gives the car a "more dynamic look," it added.

The trunk is shorter, the hood longer and the chrome bumpers curve around the front and rear fenders for a stylish touch. Double headlights and turn signals are recessed alongside the square grill with horizontal bars.

"The grill is tilted slightly forward, making the silhouette of the car more expressive and elegant," the article said.

The ZIL is powered by a V-8 engine and has 315 horsepower at 4,400 rpms. It can accelerate from 0 to 60 mph in 13 seconds.

Fuel consumption at a cruising speed of 50 mph is just under 10 miles per gallon — about double the consumption of Zhiguli (Lada) cars, the small Soviet Fiat sedan which is the most popular private car and costs between $9,800 and $14,000.

FOR TOP DOGS ONLY — A new model ZIL 4104 limousine is shown in Moscow near the Kremlin. As a symbol of Soviet power, the ZIL usually travels in guarded convoys on a reserved center lane of Moscow's thoroughfares.

Soviets wary of arms offer

MOSCOW (AP) — Radio Moscow today reported a "skeptical" official reaction to President Reagan's latest proposal for reducing nuclear arms in Europe but did not reject it out of hand.

The commentary in an English-language broadcast was the first Soviet statement on Reagan's offer Wednesday of an interim agreement with the Soviet Union lowering the number of medium-range missiles each superpower has based in or aimed at Europe.

Reagan did not specify numbers. But he offered to cut back the 572 American cruise and Pershing 2 missiles NATO plans to begin deploying this year in Europe if the Soviets dismantle or modify some of their more than 300 multiple-warhead medium-range nuclear weapons aimed at the West.

"There has been a skeptical attitude to the so-called interim option President Reagan proposes for solving the problem of nuclear weapons in Europe," Radio Moscow said.

It quoted a report by the official Polish news agency PAP saying that Reagan "in fact has not proposed any concrete way to agreement."

The radio also quoted former U.S. arms control negotiator Paul Warnke as saying that "Mr. Reagan's proposals hold little attraction to the Soviet side."

The leader of Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, Monsignor Bruce Kent, was quoted by Radio Moscow as saying that the latest American offer "is unacceptable as a starting point for serious negotiations."

The initial Soviet silence suggested that Moscow was weighing carefully how to react publicly to Reagan's offer.

British kick out 3 Soviet spies

LONDON (AP) — Britain on Thursday ordered two Soviet diplomats and a Soviet journalist out of the country because of "activities incompatible" with their status, a phrase traditionally used to describe spying.

I.V. Titov, correspondent of the Soviet magazine New Times had also engaged in unacceptable activities and if he was still in Britain in seven days, appropriate measures would be taken, the statement said.

Bank offers scholarships

Big Spring Savings Association, through its "Teen-age Savings Club," will award $1,500 to high school graduating seniors, according to Nell Harris, branch manager.

Mrs. Harris said this is the first year the scholarships have been awarded by Big Spring Savings for Howard County students.

All graduating seniors are eligible to apply for the scholarship who meet the following requirements:

- The student must be in the upper 25 percent of his graduating class.
- The student must not be a recipient of any other type of grant or scholarship.
- Students will be considered on a basis of scholastic achievement, as well as non-academic involvement.
- Parent's income will not limit the consideration for these recipients.

Applications are available in area high school counselor or principal's offices or from Big Spring Savings Association. Deadline for applications is May 1, 1983.

Thompson, who won third place by raising $114; Doug Abbott; Holley Armstrong, who placed first with $138 in pledges; Whit Armstrong, who raised $118; and Angel Garcia.

Water assets drop in bucket

At the end of 1982, the Colorado River Municipal Water District had assets of almost $78 million, but the actual net worth of the district was about $200 million, according to district treasurer Joe Pickle.

The consolidated financial statement of the district showed outstanding bonds as of Dec. 31, 1982 in the amount of $28,155,000. Total reserves amounted to about $10,700,000, which puts the district within $17,400,000 of being liquid, Pickle said.

Pickle said the total face value of original bonds was $63,230,000, which means that in 30 years of operation the district has paid back $45 million of the debt.

SPELLER — Tonya Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Williams of Coahoma, won the Coahoma sixth grade spelling competition and represented Coahoma in the Howard County Spelling Bee Wednesday.

RESTAURANT of the MONTH

Although only a short distance out the San Angelo Highway, a visit to the Brass Nail will transport you to another time and place. The restaurant provides an atmosphere that recalls an era when dining leisurely on fine food was an event of pure joy.

And even if you're just lunching at the Brass Nail and must get back to work promptly you'll still savor the ambience.

The menu offers some of the finest entrees to be found in the area. And the special nights - Seafood Buffet, Barbecue Buffet, Steak dinner - are treats for the entire family. The wine list is impressive.

One of the most popular buffets is the Sunday-Brunch Buffet. The table groans with a selection of four main courses, seafood, fresh vegetables, the Brass Nail's famous Salad Bar Galore, Eggs Benedict and scrambled, homemade desserts, pastries and breads. This Texas class feast is priced at $8.50, and you can return to the board as often as you like. For children 12 and under the price is $4.25.

Lunch buffet prices start at $6.50, and dinner entree prices begin at $10.50.

veal and seafood flown in daily from around the world. Breads and pastries are made in the restaurant's own ovens.

It should come as no surprise to you that the kitchen is overseen by a seasoned chef, Werner Belle, a native of Menden, Germany. Chef Belle has mastered Hungarian, French, German, Creole, Caribbean and Spanish cookery in restaurants around the world. He came to Big Spring from Loew's Anatole Hotel in Dallas.

The sous chef Pedro Rivera and the baker, Lea Risetter, are also from Loew's Anatole Hotel.

The Brass Nail also offers private rooms for meetings and banquets, and the fine service in the dining room extends to these functions as well.

— DINING OUT EDITOR

THE SUNDAY BUFFET BRUNCH (shown above) has become a welcome addition to the Big Spring social scene. Shown is a recent Sunday's board, beautifully displayed and accented with ice carvings. The buffet is priced at $8.50.

Rangers, Astros fall in extra innings

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ron Davis shut Texas out in relief and Lenny Faedo and Bobby Mitchell lined 11th-inning RBI singles as the Minnesota Twins beat the Rangers 5-3 in exhibition baseball.

The Twins and Rangers were tied 3-3 Thursday when Gary Gaetti and Randy Bush opened the 11th with singles off Jim Farr, the last of four Ranger pitchers. Faedo drove in Gaetti for the winning run one out later, and Mitchell's single to center added an insurance run.

Minnesota lifted its spring record to 15-6. Texas dropped to 10-11.

New York 6, Houston 6

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees have extended their exhibition game winning streak to six, thanks to a timely home run by Oscar Gamble.

Gamble's homer with two outs in the 10th inning gave the Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday.

The Yankees overcame a 5-2 Houston lead with three runs in the sixth inning. Rookie Bobby Meacham led off with a homer, Don Mattingly singled, and Brad Gulden followed with a homer.

UH's Lewis picked as top coach

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Guy Lewis, whose team carries a 25-game winning streak into the NCAA Final Four this weekend, today was named The Associated Press' Coach of the Year in college basketball.

Lewis, 61, received 23 of 80 votes from nationwide balloting of sports writers and broadcasters to win the honor for the second time. He landed his first honor in 1968.

He guided the Cougars to a No. 1 ranking this season and a semifinal berth against No. 2-ranked Louisville here Saturday. Houston won its first Southwest Conference crown this season, then took the SWC tournament.

Lewis, a former player at Houston who co-captained the first Cougar teams starting in 1946, is in his 27th season as head coach. The 6-foot-3 native of Arp in East Texas recently received a three-year extension on his contract to forestall any chances of him retiring after his pact runs out this season.

George Raveling, who coached Washington State to an NCAA berth this season, was second in the voting with 10 ballots. Gary Williams, first-year coach at Boston College, was next with eight votes, followed by Rollie Massimino of Villanova with seven.

Dean Smith of North Carolina and Eldon Miller of Ohio State each got five votes. Denny Crum of Louisville, Jerry Tarkanian of Nevada-Las Vegas and Lou Carnesecca of St. John's attracted three votes apiece.

Norm Stewart of Missouri, Bobby Knight of Indiana, Eddie Sutton of Arkansas and Rich Falk of Northwestern each drew two votes.

One vote apiece went to J.D. Barnett of Virginia Commonwealth, Terry Holland of Virginia, Bob Donewald of Illinois State, Larry Farmer of UCLA and John Thompson of Georgetown.

Being at the top is not an unusual goal... depending on the list and what the top spot means. In the case of customer bills, Energas employees plan and work to be at the bottom of the cost list.

Beyond the minimum monthly charge, gas bills reflect the volumes of gas consumed and the cost of that gas. Now that peak winter heating months are over, gas bills should moderate. But—summer or winter—Energas will continue working to keep customer bills as reasonable as possible consistent with safety and reliable service.

In the case of costs to Energas customers, being last on the list (above) is a good place to be.
