Robbery suspect wounded after chase

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Staff Writer A man who walked away from the psychiatric ward of the Veterans Administration Medical Center was shot in both legs by law officers after he stole two guns from Gibson's, commandeered a car from a woman in the parking lot, and led police on a 20-mile chase that ended one mile east of Stanton Tuesday night.

Eric Etnire, 30, of Alamogordo, N.M., was charged with aggravated robbery and auto theft by Big Spring police and with attempted capital murder on peace officers by the Martin County Sheriff's Department.

Officers at the roadblock where Etnire was trapped said he screamed from his car that he wanted to find a house and shoot it out with police, according to Rick Turner, Big Spring chief of police.

"He pointed the shotgun at us and that's when we opened fire on the subject," said police officer Gary Edwards. The man's legs had been visible beneath the partially opened car door Etnire was returned to the VA hospital after being treated for "four or five" shotgun pellet wounds at Malone-Hogan Hospital following the 8 p.m. armed

"I don't know what we'll do with him at this time," Big Spring police chief Rick Turner said late Tuesday night. "I don't know if he's under our custody or theirs (the VA hospital).

After the man was taken into custody, police found a shotgun, a .45 automatic pistol and 350 rounds of ammunition in his possession.

ACCORDING TO Turner and Gibson's clerk Lisette Howell, Etnire "escaped" from the hospital — located across the street from the Gibson's store - and entered the discount store at approximately 7:57 p.m. Tuesday. Miss Howell said he asked her for a box of shotgun shells and then asked to look at a shotgun on display. The clerk said after she handed them both to him, Etnire loaded a shell in the gun and said, "See this," pointing it at her, "now I want that .45 automatic," indicating a handgun on display.

She said he also demanded shells for the .45 and told Miss Howell to "walk with me to the door.

The two exited the store through the north door. At that time, Nancy Gray and her son, Noah, 10, pulled into a parking space. "I saw him and the girl come out of the store," she told police. "I saw the gun but I thought he had just bought it." As Mrs. Gray was getting out of her car, Etnire approached her and demanded her car keys. "I said 'What?''' Mrs. Gray said. "The girl then said 'Give him the keys...that gun is loaded.' I gave him the keys and started for the (Gibson's) door.

"He told me to drive," Miss Howell said, "and I said no, please no, get someone else.'

Etnire left both women there and drove onto FM 700. Officers Jimmie Hensley and Randy Isbell — on routine patrol heading east at Malone-Hogan Hospital were alerted to Etnire's route and followed him to the intersection of Highway 80 and FM 700.

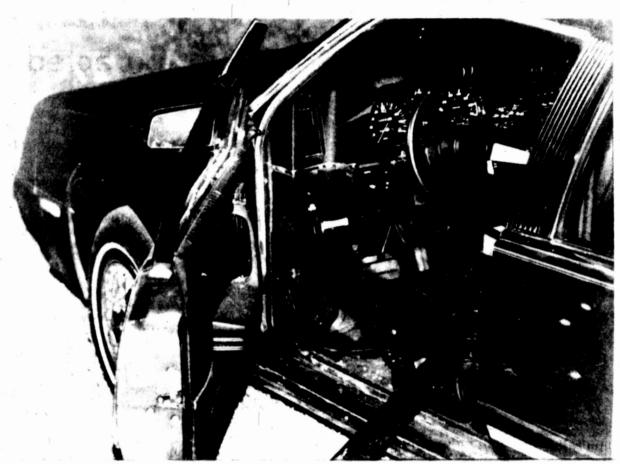

The officers tried three times to stop Etnire and finally got him to pull over at the Coca-Cola plant on Highway 80. As the two officers were getting out of their vehicle, Etnire jumped back in his and headed west on 80.

Hensley and Isbell were joined by patrolmen Gary Edwards and Steve Fleckenstein and Howard County Deputy Carl Thurman in the chase on Interstate 20, speeds never exceeding 80 m.p.h. A roadblock was set up at Exit 818 just east of Stanton. Etnire left the interstate near the County Line Liquor Store and drove west on the service road. He was forced off the service road at the Stanton exit by Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders.

"He was stuck in the sand," Turner said, "and he had the .45 in his hand, cocked with the safety off. The officers kept ordering him out of the car. He tried to get out and then got back in the car."

"He was screaming at us," Patrolman Edwards said, "but I couldn't tell what he was saying. Then he Tony Dodds is a bull rider and team roper for the Howard College Rodeo team. He is scheduled to compete tonight at the Tarleton State University National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeo in Stephenville, 225 miles from Big Spring.

"It gets in your blood once you get started," he said, and Dodds got an early start. He rode his first bull at the age of 13, and has been riding ever since.

'If you're not doing well, or you get hurt, you think about quitting," Dodds said. "I've thought about it several times — but it don't seem right to go to a rodeo if you're not in it.' The pull of the rodeo is strong, Dodds said - it has to be to keep a college student dragging a trailer filled with $10,000 of rodeo equipment and horseflesh an average of 500 miles every weekend. Dodds, a Sterling City sophomore at HC, would like to become a professional bull rider. He lacks $400 "filling" his Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association permit, or earning $1,000 in PRCA-sanctioned events during a probationary period.

In the meantime, HC offers Dodds an opportunity to get an education and keep rodeoing.

"I went to Angelo (State University) for a year and a half," Dodds said, "but I couldn't rodeo there. They didn't even have a rodeo team Howard College pays for everything at school except my meal ticket and my books and I have to pay my entry fees for rodeos. That's not bad, especially if you're going to school to get an education.'

Still, juggling the rodeo circuit and school books can prove difficult. Rodeo team members have to carry a 2.0 grade point average over 12 See Bull Rider, page 2A

Subdivision issue still unanswered

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

Questions aroused by a proposed city subdivision ordinance that drew the ire of rural land owners last February have been partially answered by an attorney general's opinion, City Manager Don Davis said yesterday.

The opinion held that the city has the duty, not just the option, of approving or disapproving maps and plats of subdivisions. It also says the city's jurisdiction in this matter extends five miles outside city

However, the question remains whether the city can impose different standards, or choose not to impose standards at all, on subdivisions outside city limits

Davis said the city staff will submit that question again to the attorney general's office.

Newsmen were told about the opinion at their weekly meeting with Davis, attended also by Mayor Clyde Angel. Angel said he will continue to sit in on the meetings to show the city council's support of the city manager.

Rural landowners were concerned about the proposed ordinance updating land development regula-

City Manager Don Davis said yesterday that a state fire department standards commission endorses the training course that sparked controversy last month between Davis and local fire fighters

Earl Malone, a field representative for the Texas Commission of Fire Protection, Personnel Standards and Education, last week approved and asked the Big Spring Fire Department to continue the fire fighting courses, Davis said. The commission inspects the department twice a year and certifies firemen.

The controversy began in January when a fireman questioned Davis's decision to close four substations from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday so that all firemen could attend the 7-week

Two of the substations, at 11th and Birdwell and at Wasson Road, were reopened two weeks later after an anonymous letter was sent to the State Board of Insurance, a government agency in Austin which sets the key rate for fire insurance.

Big Spring bucked a statewide trend in sales tax payments as its March allocation dropped less than 2

Receipts across the state averaged nearly 5 percent lower for March and up to 60 percent lower in some cities, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock. Bullock returned $34.9 million to 974 cities that levy the one-percent city sales tax.

The city of Big Spring collected $147,599.85 in sales tax payments in March, compared to 147,156.42 in March of 1982 — a 1.1 percent drop. Big Spring is actually running ahead of its 1982 payment totals with Coahoma showed a 58 percent drop in sales tax from $2,757 to $1,158. Overall, Coahoma is nearly 20 percent under its 1982 totals. Forsan received $3,013 this month in this its first year of collection.

Midland and Odessa suffered the largest area drops in sales tax payments for March. Odessa plunged nearly 55 percent in payments from $851,688 to $384,192. The city's yearly totals lag almost 30 percent behind its 1982 totals.

Midland shows a 44.3 percent decline in tax payments from $729,458 to $405,987 for March. Midland trails 1982's sales tax totals by nearly 25 percent.

Other area towns had similar declines in sales tax payments from the state. Colorado City dropped 37.2 percent for March and nearly 10 percent for the year. Stanton declined nearly 20 percent for last month's payments and is currently almost 23 percent behind 1982's payments.

Lamesa dropped 44.7 percent from March 1982 and nearly 20 percent for the year.

Across the state, Houston received the largest sales tax payment of $7 million — a 31.5 percent drop from 1982's March check. El Paso's $746,000 check was 43.7 percent smaller than its 1982 payment.

Snow expected in area by tonight

From staff and wire reports

Big Spring residents Wednesday braced for a freak spring storm which left eight inches of snow at El Paso and Amarillo on its march eastward

The National Weather service said Big Spring had a 70 percent chance of receiving snow acculations before Thursday sunrise. Rain was also forecast for the area

The unexpected snowstorm highlighted what has so far been a bizarre week of early spring weather for the Permian Basin. An unusually powerful sandstorm Friday was followed by mild temperatures and sunny skies over the weekend. On Monday, however, the temperature began a steady drop into the lower 30s and has yet to top the 50-degree mark.

Two inches of snow fell late Monday and early Tuesday on Amarillo, which has recorded a nearrecord snowfall this winter.

Snow also accumulated on the South Plains, the mountains of far West Texas, and El Paso. A mixture of snow and rain fell on Midland and Odessa. Travel advisories were in effect for the Panhandle and South Plains through today as forecasters expected additional snow and rain.

The Department of Public Safety said roads and bridges in the Panhandle and parts of the South Plains were packed with snow and ice. The National Weather Service also posted a travel advisory on roads east of El Paso and through Guadalupe Pass, where winds were expected to reach 45 to 55 mph.

The snow prompted authorities late Monday to close U.S. 83 north of Spearman and U.S. 287 north of Stratford. The DPS also discouraged travel north of Dalhart on U.S. 87 because of deepening drifts.

Panhandle residents hoped the storm was the last hurrah for a winter that dumped 44 inches of snow on Amarillo, just short of the single-season record snowfall of 48.7 inches.

The cold front brought chilly temperatures and gray skies to most of the rest of Texas.

An ambulance then took Etnire to the hospital.

AT FIRST, police thought a child had been taken complice," however, turned out to be Jay Allen, who had been parked next to Mrs. Gray's car at Gibson's, had witnessed the scene and had followed Etnire and police all the way to Stanton.

"I noticed something unusual was going on and not knowing what to do, I followed him," said Allen, whose 51/2 month old son was in the seat beside him.

"He (Etnire) came out carrying a shotgun and the girl with him," Allen recalled. "I thought it was kind of strange the way he was carrying the gun. He stopped the lady who had pulled in beside me and by the look on her face, I knew there was something wrong."

Allen said he followed Etnire until police halted the man near Stanton. "I thought I'd be safe if I stayed far enough behind him," said Allen, an engineer in the production department of American Petrofina. "I was mad," he said, explaining his actions which left his wife still shopping in the store. "You know what's going on and there's no sense in him getting away with Allen added his son slept peacefully through the ble to sleep all day, but he slept through all this, the sirens, the lights, everything," the father said.

Miss Howell, who is the regular night clerk in the sporting goods department at Gibson's, was visibly shaken by the hold-up. "I was pretty scared," she said. "I'm going to tell them to put me in another department." She has been with the company six months.

Mrs. Gray's car, a 1983 Chevrolet Cavalier, was taken to the police station, the left side dotted with pellet holes. "We just picked it up (brand new) at noon today," she said, smiling weakly.

At Disneyland, nearly 100 people, many of them children, were stranded above the Anaheim, Calif., amusement park when the high winds damaged a gondola ride, officials said. All passengers were rescued.

High winds ripped the roof off a building in another part of Anaheim, winds swirled through nearby Fullerton, and a Thousand Oaks man was critically injured when he was struck by lightning. At least 10,000 customers in the Los Angeles area had their power knocked out by the storm, officials said.

"It was just a heavy, black, swirling layer above us that developed over the city," said Anaheim Police Sgt. John Beteag. "Within 30 minutes, the blue sky had disappeared."

A twister hit the small southwestern Mississippi town of Bude on Tuesday, heavily damaging 13 homes and three businesses and injuring four people. The Mississippi River and its tributaries surged as much as 8 feet above flood stage as thunderstorms rolled across the heartland with drenching rains and an occasional tornado In southeastern Tennessee, 50 families were evacuated from their homes for a time Tuesday and two men were killed in flash flooding when their car stalled as it crossed a creek and was carried downstream. Many bridges were washed out. The storm that hit the West Coast on Sunday and stalled, dropping snow measured by the foot over the Rockies, has been blamed for at least six deaths, including four in California, one in Colorado and one in Texas.

Hundreds of travelers were stranded in many areas from the central Rockies to the Oklahoma Panhandle, where 8 inches of snow fell and practially no roads were open Flooding forced at least 60 families out of their homes along the Illinois and Spoon Rivers in central and southern Illinois.

"Two-thirds of the town is virtually inaccessible," said Alderman Ed Amburg in Grafton. Ill. where the river was expected to crest at 9.6 feet above flood states

At Hannibal, Mo., the Mississippi River crested at 8 feet above flood stage, lapping at sandbag dikes, and about 20 families evacuated ther homes

The Army Corps of Engineers issued more than 150,000 sandbags to residents of St. Charles, Mo., where the Missouri Rover was 7 feet above flood level and still rising.

In Colorado, where the snowstorm produced up to 40 inches of new snow in some areas and many avalanches in the mountains, forecaster John Lein said the cold and snow vere expected to continue for the next three

Denver, chilled by sub-freezing cold, marked 52 hours of a continuous snowfall with the flakes still coming down.

In Utah, where winds gusting through canyons at 104 mph on Monday derailed a train and toppled about 55 steel high-tension transmission towers, cutting power to 44,000 homes, up to a foot of snow fell overnight. The winds continued during the night with gusts of 75 mph in the Cache Valley area, knocking down power lines and damaging some buildings

In Colorado, the community of Wondervu southwest of Boulder had been buried under 40 inches of snow since Sunday, while Fort Collins got 22 inches. Snow 60 inches deep was reported in Golden Gate Canyon, half of it from the latest storm.

"Because of icy and slick conditions, all our motels are full," said Nancy Marquez, a dispatcher with the New Mexico state police in Tucumcari. "They are putting up people in the National Guard Armory.

Highway patrol dispatcher Sane Rieken said snow in the Oklahoma Panhandle had shut down virtually all highways in the area. "This is just a no-man's land, anyway, and we always catch the last part of those snowstorms from the Rockies. In the Texas Panhandle, where up to 8 inches of snow fell, about 40 motorists were stranded overnight in Stratford with winddriven snow drifting 4 feet deep on ice-packed roadways. The storm, with winds gusting to 25 mph, was blamed for the crash of a twin-engine plane Monday just south of Dalhart, Texas, that killed attorney John L. David, 51. "It was terrible out there," said Peace Justice Yvonne Whiteaker, who pronounced the pilot dead at the scene. "One minute, you could see the road just fine, the next minute you couldn't see anything.' The storm brought the total snowfall in Amarillo, Texas, to 44 inches for the season, just short of the single-season record of 48.7

Texas authorities said snow and sleet may have caused two Navy jets to run off a runway in El Paso on Monday. One F-4 broke up in a fiery crash, but its pilots ejected safely. The second aircraft came to a harmless stop in

Expulsion harms Franco-Soviet relations

PARIS (AP) — France's expulsion of an estimated 47 suspected Soviet spies has plunged Franco-Soviet relations to their lowest point since the French elected a leftist government two years ago.

The Soviet Embassy called Tuesday's expulsions an unjustified political act and said France would have to bear the negative consequences. Neither country would say exactly how many Soviets left France on Tuesday aboard a special plane sent from Moscow, but the French Interior Ministry said the expelled officials had tried to steal military and technical secrets.

Ironically, the biggest spy sweep in French history was carried out by a Socialist-Communist French commentators of both left and right said President Francois Mitterrand had timed the sweep carefully to increase his prestige at an economic summit meeting scheduled in June with six other Western leaders in Williamsburg, Va.

Government spokesman Max Gallo told reporters after a Cabinet meeting today that the expulsions demonstrate France it is not a "soft belly" in Europe for the theft of military secrets.

"France is applying on its territory that which others apply with much more rigor on their own territory," Gallo said. "As much as espionage is a current practice, it is also a rule that he who is caught is punished There has been little love lost between Moscow and Paris since Socialist party leader Mitterrand's presidential victory in May 1981 ended 23 years of conservative rule in France. Moscow had publicly supported the failed re-election bid of Mitterrand's conservative predecessor, President Giscard d'Estaing Giscard had pursued a policy of dialogue with the Soviet Union in hopes of lessening international tensions. He irked the Western allies by holding a surprise summit meeting with the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in Warsaw in May 1980 — five months after Soviet troops moved into Afghanistan.

Mitterrand took office a year later and immediately declared the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan an obstacle to normal relations with Moscow. He also was an early and outspoken critic of the December 1981 military crackdown in Poland.

But the Soviets have been most incensed by Mitterand's stance on the European missile crisis

Although France is not a n:ember of NATO's military wing, Mitterrand has strongly supported the alliance's decision to begin deploying U.S.-built Pershing 2 and cruise nuclear missiles in Europe this year if the Soviets refuse to withdraw their new SS-20 missiles from East bloc countries.

astronauts, awakened by a sultry love song, plunged into a day of tests and experiments today, including dress rehearsal for Thursday's space walk. Specialists on the ground said they expect to salvage the satellite ejected from the shuttle early in the mission.

'Teach Me, Tiger,' sung by the sexy-voiced April Stevens, was the wakeup music beamed to the orbiting shift by Mission Control in Houston. Capsule communicator Mary Cleave asked if they were reading and got this reply: "Loud and clear."

The astronauts were also relieved that they were not to blame for the problems encountered by the communications satellite.

The space travelers had asked several times if anything they had done had caused the rocket failure that sent the 21/2-ton payload tumbling into the wrong orbit after they ejected it from Challenger's cargo bay Monday night.

Mission Control, after analyzing the problem, assured them Tuesday night they were not at Musgrave and his crewmates, commander Paul J. Weitz, Karol J. Bobko and Donald H. Peterson, also were pleased to learn that ground controllers had regained control of TDRS and had successfully commanded through radio signals all of its systems into operation.

Musgrave asked if the experts were optimistic about moving the payload out of its egg-shaped orbit into its intended stationary outpost 22,300 miles high.

'They're looking at using the on-board fuel to boost it up to geosyn-chronous orbit," Gardner said. "It looks like they'll be able to do it and that we'll have a good TDRS for future shuttle missions."

TDRS is the largest, most complex and most expensive communications satellite ever built, but to be effective it must be in an orbit matching the spin of Earth. It is designed to serve as a space switchboard between the Earth and as many as 26 satellites, including the shuttle fleet.

The TDRS ran into trouble 51/2 hours after it was deployed from Challenger when a 1 minute, 40-second firing of an attached booster rocket ended 20 or 30 seconds early. The satellite, instead of hovering over one spot along the equator, 22,300 miles high, tumbled into a 13,540-to-21,950 mile eggshaped path.

"We're working toward putting it where it belongs as soon as we can," said Robert E. Smylie, associate administrator for tracking and data systems for NASA, which needs the $100 million satellite desperately for future space missions.

Magnet school will offer education-plus

Pre-registration begins tomorrow for Big Spring's Magnet School program, a program full of opportunity for the cultural enrichment of our town's elementary school children.

Students from all over town can choose to attend the program at Bauer School next year, and they will receive transportation

From 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m., students will receive the same basic skills instruction as all other elementary students in town. But from 3 to 5 p.m., students at Bauer — and only at Bauer — will be allowed to participate in an Extended Day Program. During these two hours, students can attend two different specialized enrichment courses - courses such as science, foreign language, computer, art, music, drama, shop, cooking, photography, puppetry, group sports, gymnastics, skating, etc. The exact courses to be offered will not be determined positively until after the registration process is complete — obviously a photography course would not be offered if only one student

The dates for pre-registration are April 7 to 15 at the Big Spring Independent School District Administration Building, across the street from the high school, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Parents are asked to pre-register their children during this time to aid the District in its planning process.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS Lynn Hise has made a wise choice in reassigning Mrs. Jean Wilder from her present position as principal of Washington Elementary to principal of the Bauer Magnet School: Mrs. Wilder is known for her innovativeness and leadership. The selection of Mrs. Wilder to pioneer the magnet school concept in Big Spring gives the project its best chance of success.

In the meantime, Hise, Mrs. Wilder and others will inspect magnet schools in Odessa and Houston to obtain the best possible ideas to implement in Big Spring's program.

If you have an exceptional child in elementary school, a child who would benefit from specialized classes such as instrumental music, be sure to explore the possibilities of signing up your child for the Bauer Magnet School program. Only at Bauer will these opportunities be available.

What's in a name

Just how important is the right name? Imagine these classics by their original titles: "Jettison" Monster" — "Jaws"; "All's Well and Trust" — not "Fred's Bank." that Ends Well" — "War and People like to exercise control Peace": and "Before This Anger"

"Roots. These names have become part of our language, part of our history. It is questionable whether the books would have had the same impact with their initial titles. "Roots" and "Gone with the Wind" are part of Americana - would "Jettison" have been the same?

Book titles are not the only area where the right words must align perfectly with the situation. Take the names of some of the early leaders of the country, back during the Revolutionary War. Strong popular names like Thomas, Ben, George, Nathan, John and Ethan dominated the times

Ever wonder if the colonists would have followed Marauding Maurice or Pugnacious Percy into

The names are fine, but they just do not lend themselves to greatness.

THE SOUND of certain names has certain psychological virtues that aid in achieving certain goals. "Let's win one for Barney" just isn't awe-inspiring. Notre Dame would have been crushed by the opposing team that day

Would children and adults have thrilled to the frontier exploits of Seymour Crockett? What about that cute Disney character, Moses Mouse? Even the classics might have been different if Camelot's king had been named Herbert instead of Arthur.

Names are important; they have tremendous peripheral power to influence and convince. Steve Martin 'Gone with the Wind'; "Catch-18" once said people like banks with "Catch-22"; "The Terror of the names like "First Federal Security

> People like to exercise control on them to fit our pectations and desires. Look at the Presidents for the last few decades. We have reduced their given names to nicknames to lessen the distance between us.

Ronnie, Jimmy, Jerry and Dick are the most recent examples. Nobody could do much with Lyndon and JFK became John or Jack. Ike and Harry were easily the most popular Presidents. Franklin Delano Roosevelt's imposing title was simplified to FDR. Herbert was just there after Silent Cal.

We like the President to be a commanding figure of a leader, but we don't want him to get too high above

PRIMARILY, however, a name gathers connotations from whomever or whatever it is attached to. People have never heard Adolf quite the same since the 1930's. Kennedy will always have a certain mystique to it. The Watergate Hotel will never be the Names give dimension and individuality to those units of the species of homo sapiens. A name gives an entity character and substance where nothing was before. In time, titles and identifications that arouse certain reactions today may change.

Who knows - John Wayne may one day replace Atilla the Hun as an blessing in disguise." "Like a fat man going on a diet.

OPEC cartel a fortnight ago. The clear implication is a vigorous Saudi defense of price stability, which can be turned to the general advantage by the U.S.

The Saudi role is crucial in part because the kingdom is such an efficient producer. A barrel of oil costs much less than a dollar to produce here. Even more important, the Saudis, and the Saudis almost alone in the world, enjoy the luxury of being able to raise and lower output over a vast range

They produced over 10.5 million barrels a day only three years ago. But as the population is small (say 5 million) and the income needs are elastic, output can be cut way back. Zaki Yamani, the oil minister, acknowledges it is now running under 4 million barrels a day. Other authorities hint the figure is close to 3 million

The arrangements made at the OPEC conference in London early this month were engineered by the Saudis and depend upon them for enforcement. One feature is a reduction in output. The 13 OPEC members, which have produced as much as 31 million barrels a day, now agree on an overall ceiling of 17.5 million barrels. Except for Saudi Arabia, each country has a specific quota.

FOR THE TIME being, almost all the OPEC members agree to keep output below their official ceiling. Saudi Arabia, which accepts the role of "swing" producer without a quota, stays way below its ceiling.

Abu al-Khail told me it would be "natural" to draw down some of the roughly $135 billion in Saudi reserves invested abroad. The minister of industries, Gazi al-Gosaibi, said it would be "simple" to stretch out construction projects. The official most responsible for relations with other Arab states, Crown Prince Abdullah, said that foreign aid, including aid to other Arab countries, was not sacrosanct

FINAL DECISIONS await presentation of the annual budget next month. But the tone of the comments, the readiness to slow down the pace of development, are persuasive evidence that the Saudis have counted the cost of the present cut in oil prices and are prepared to make a strong defense of the present price structure. Perhaps there will be a little erosion around the edges. But there is not in sight from here another big price break, with the prospect, thereafter, of a big price spurt.

Given that stable outlook, the U.S. and other industrialized countries can move with confidence to prolong the present market conditions. By a small tax on imported crude oil, they can keep demand relatively low, maintain a premium on other forms of energy and raise enough money to cut budget deficits significantly. They can thus assure, especially if they act in concert, that Saudi responsibility on oil pricing translates into a solid, enduring and far-reaching international economic recovery

The result is OPEC production of about 15 million barrels a day. Britain and Mexico - two non-OPEC members present at the London meeting as "observers" - agree not to increase production. Thus there is a lid on output that, in a few months, should see the exhaustion of stocks and the end of the glut.

An equally important feature fixes prices. The standard is set by Saudi light at $29 per barrel — down from $34 before the London meeting. Nigeria, which along with Libya and Nigeria produces a premium crude, is allowed to sell at $29.50. That is a dollar below the normal differential of over $1.50. That bonus has been given to Nigeria by the Saudis because the country is in dire economic and political straits. It poses a danger to the agreement because the North Sea producers, led by Britain, are competitive with Nigeria. Their temptation is to cut prices below the Nigerian level, thus setting off a downward price spiral.

But the Saudis have implicitly threatened the British that they would respond to such a cut with a burst of high production. That could drive prices below $25 per barrel which is the production cost of oil in the North Sea. So the British are under enormous pressure to hold present prices.

Some cost, however, falls directly on the Saudis in the form of a balance-of-payments crunch. The Saudi statistics for 1982 add up to an import bill, largely for construction, goods and services, amounting to $90 billion. Oil revenues, at the lower price and reduced volume, will combine with proceeds from foreign investment to yield about $50 billion this year. So for 1983 the kingdom has to find $40 billion to make ends meet

Stay away from astrology

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My aunt believes completely in astrology. She is always making horoscopes and reading charts and tries to get me involved also. Do you think this is a harmless practice? - Mrs.

DEAR MRS. B.B.T.: No, I do not and I strongly urge you to stay away from your aunt's practices. The Bible makes it clear that we are to have nothing to do with occult practices of any sort, including astrology. "Let no one be found among you ... who practices divination or sorcery, interprets omens. engages in witchcraft, or casts spells, or who is a medium or spiritist or who consults the dead. Anyone who does these things is detestable to the Lord' (Deuteronomy 18:10-12). Astrology is a type of interpreting omens.

Why is the Bible so strong against these things? One reason is that when we are preoccupied with something like astrology - even if we consider it a harmless amusement — our minds and hearts are not where they should be. We are trusting them instead of trusting God. We are overlooking the greatest need we have, which is forgiveness for our sins. We are looking to things like this for guidance instead of committing our lives to God and trusting him to guide us by his Holy Spirit. Such things also are closely related in the Bible (and in practice today) with the occult. There are evil forces in the world — Satan is real. We are warned to flee from anything that is associated with the devil. "The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work" (1 John

Have you ever turned to Christ and asked him to come into your life? I suspect your aunt has become involved in these things because down inside she has a spiritual hunger. But only God can satisfy that hunger. You also need Christ to guide you every da he wants you to be his child by faith in Jesus Christ.

Only God knows the future. But when we know Christ, we can trust him for our future because he loves us and nothing "will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord'

Pentagon poohbahs fly high at our expense

WASHINGTON — While millions of Americans have been struggling to make ends meet, the privileged poohbahs in the Pentagon have been flying high — literally — at the taxpayers' expense.

The Defense Department's generals, admirals and highranking civilians have a fleet of 9,000 aircraft available to chauffeur them around the country whenever they get the itch to travel.

According to an internal report prepared by the Pentagon's new Inspector General's office, these planes and helicopters have become an "on-demand airline service" for brass hats who are too lazy or too superior to take commercial flights to their destinations.

This abuse of rank's privileges is expensive. It costs about $800 an hour for a flight in a T-39, the military version of an executive jet. For a C-140, the huge, gussied-up transport transport plans

Yet the Pentagon bigahots whistle up a T-39 or a C-140 as casually as if they were halling a taxicab. The IG report has stimulated an inquiry by the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y. It cites numerous violations of the spirit, if not the letter, of the laws covering use of these special planes. My associate Lucette Lagnado has obtained a copy of the IG report, which was intended for official eyes only. Here are some of the highlights:

 A T-39 was sent from Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, D.C., to fetch a high-ranking Pentagon civilian at a field near Detroit. The round-trip flight cost $1,578, compared to the commercial fare of $95, according to the report, from Detroit to Washington. The IG investigators noted taht while the high muckamuck was waiting for his personal air-taxi service, three commercial airline flights left Detroit for Washington.

 Football games between service academics are a common excuse for using the special aircraft fleet. Officers and their families, cadets and even cheerleaders are given free rides to games in a C-141 Starlifter. The IG investigators learned, for example, that it cost $300,000 to transport cadets to just two service academy games in 1981. "The use of military airlift to transport academy cadets/midshipmen to sporting events as spectators is, in our opinion, a questionable practice that needs reevaluation," the IG report states.

 Wives of four-star generals and certain other top brass can accompany their husbands free of charge if their presence is considered to be "in the national interest, essential to mission accomplishment and desirable for diplomatic or public relations reasons," according to a 1980 guideline issue by the Defense

• The IG found that Air Force wives are actually encouraged to travel, which led the investigators to observe that while ths "may be an accepted interpretation of the DOD guidance, we do not believe that it is within the spirit of what DOD intended." The report adds a practical warning that "with wives aboard, the appearance of an official trip, as viewed by the public and news media, may be tainted towards one of personal use."

"Dead head legs," that is, empty flights on the way to a VIP pickup, cost "at least $28.2 million and (consume) 10.9 million gallons of aviation fuel per yer," the IG estimates.

 Helicopters are routinely used by the brass where cars would do the job more cheaply. The Army, for example, uses choppers to transport bigshots between Fort Monmouth and Lakehurst, N.J. -32 miles apart. A car would cost $14; the helicopter ride costs $380.

PRIVATE ARMIES: An ominous arms buildup - other than the Kremlin's is causing concern in Washington. Arsenals of deadly weapons are being acquired by private armies associated with the so-called "survivalist" movement. While individual survivalists simply want to bring their families through a disaster alive, the paramilitary groups are stockpiling machine guns, anti-tank cannons, rocket launchers and even antiaircraft artillery. There are more than three dozen known paramilitary groups and an estimated 20,000 members.

Second condor chick hatches

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Zookeepers kept a 24-hour watch on the second California condor hatched in captivity after the rare bird pulled through a complicated delivery, while the first chick appeared to be improving after briefly losing its appetite.

The new chick, given the Indian name of Tecuya, was "resting after its ordeal" Tuesday in a sterile plastic isolette, the type of container used for premature human infants, zoo spokesman Jeff Jouett

Tecuya was to be transferred later today by ambulance from a zoo laboratory to the San Diego Wild Animal Park near Escondido, where it will join Sis-

The zoo has received $30,000 since last week to help the condor captive breeding program, said Sheldon Campbell, president of the San Diego Zoological Society, adding that the hatchlings "have captured the imagination of people throughout the world."

Tecuya, with the assistance of birdkeepers, emerged from its softball-sized eggshell Tuesday and spent its first day of life sleeping and eating a special meal of chicken egg yolks and entrails.

"It's in pretty good shape and feeding aggressively and that's a very good sign," Jouett said of the

Zookeepers were concerned about Tecuya because the new chick was not as strong as Sisquoc, hatched last week, and quite a bit smaller, said bird curator Art

"The next few days are extremely critical," he said. Meanwhile, Sisquoc was making a comeback after losing its appetite and spunk early Tuesday, said Jouett. The chick probably suffered a "mild shock" as the remainder of the antibodies in its yolk sac were used up and the baby's own immune system "kicked in,"

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Some mothers would sooner die than send their children to a KISS rock

Not Ruby Gardea. She not only tolerates son Archie Cordova's craving for heavy metal music, but encourages it, believing that watching a bone-jarring inferno of screaming guitars and thunderous drums beats smoking marijuana and stealing hubcaps.

Mrs. Gardea also scoffs at the notion that KISS is a dangerous influence, as many parents have charged.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's just Archie's individual taste in music," she said. "I'm lucky. My kid isn't into drugs and all that. He really gets into his music and that's fine with me. I have no objections. I think it's OK for kids to like KISS as long as they don't get too hung up on the blood and guts part."

Cordova, a 17-year-old junior at El Paso's Hanks High School, has been a KISS fanatic for "years and years." When trick-or-treating was still Archie's passion, his mother traditionally made a costume and presented it on his birthday.

A few years ago, while Archie was discovering rock music and expressed a particular fondness for KISS, she created a costume based on the leather garb of the not-so-wholesome foursome. He wore it on Halloween.

"KISS was his first favorite rock group," Mrs. Gardea said. "I got one of the albums and decided to try my hand at sewing him a costume. It made a big hit. I couldn't believe how his friends reacted. They were really impressed."

Over the past few years, Archie and his mother made improvements on the outfit, which consists of tall boots, silvery fabric, black leather, sequins, metallic thread and gaps revealing plenty of bare skin. As yet, Archie has not acquired the 8-inch platform shoes that would complete the picture.

'But I'm working on it," he said. When Archie dons his flamboyant threads, he also wears a wig and his mother spends almost three hours applying black and white clown makeup to create a face that resembles Gene Simmons, the tongue-waggling KISS bassist. His 10-year-old sister can't understand the KISS fanaticism. When Archie dresses up, "she freaks out,

But others seem to appreciate the costume's detail and authenticity.

Archie recently took first place in a KISS look-alike contest at Roxy's nightclub, winning $50 and a ticket to the KISS concert in El Paso. He also frequently is hired to show up at parties in the garish garb.

Archie hopes to attend college someday, but at the moment the fledgling guitarist is more consumed with the idea of starting a rock band.

His mother approves, though her tastes vary considerably.

"I'm kind of conservative myself," Mrs. Gardea said. "I go for disco. People who like rock bands have to have a certain ear for them. I can only tolerate it a little while.

Container gardens beautify homes and lawns

By TINA STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor

No matter how small or large your yard, its appeal and attractiveness can be heightened by the use of con-

For small areas, gardening in containers expands your growing potential and allows you to be flexible with your planting schemes. For large areas, pots of shrubs or flowers add interest and accent

Plants in containers have the advantage of mobility. "It's good to have things in containers because you can bring them up close to where you usually are (in a yard) so you can enjoy them," said Terri Johansen, a local nurseryman. You can move containers to follow the light or change your landscape plan as often as you

Containers can be rotated to ensure better and more uniform growth. Care is easier, usually requiring less bending over. Insect, disease and weed control is easier, and the growing media will be as good as you can make it. Container gardening "is good because you don't have to contend with poor soil," Mrs. Johansen said. Other advantages she mentioned included being able to take the garden with you if you

Container gardening allows you to garden where you couldn't ordinarily to lend that "extra touch" - on porches, patios, or steps, by the pool, along driveways and paths, and in the skies with hanging baskets. "There are more people using container gardening these days," Mrs. Johansen said. "Choose plants that go with the location of the pot, or choose the place for the plants you want to grow." Consider the temperature, shade and sun when making a decision,

YOUR CHOICE OF containers is almost as endless as the plants you can put in them. Many decorative containers of wood, ceramic, clay, plastic or metal are available at a garden center, or you can make your own from barrels, pipe, cement blocks, trash cans or whatever you have around. Mrs. Johansen said she's even seen gardens in an old cowboy boot

Whatever is used, be sure it is cleaned out well before usage and that it has good drainage provided. Use the best possible planting media you can buy or make to achieve maximum growth, flowering or fruiting. A good basic mix is one third each by volume of soil, organic matter, and sharp sand, perlite or vermiculite. Organic matter can be peat moss, compost, leaf mold or rotted manure. If you wish, you can use a mix of half organic matter and half sand, perlite or vermiculite. If you use too much soil, the mix will be heavy, making movement of the container difficult and causing poor aeration, which will result in limited

Planting into a container follows the same techniques as planting into the ground. Make sure the roots of woody plant material are spread out as evenly as possible in the container for even root growth. Place enough media in the container so that there is room for one to two inches of mulch with a final depth one-half to one inch below th top of the container. "Most plants need to be planted in the same soil depth as they were before repoting," Mrs. Johansen said. "Cacti need a sandy, well-draining type soil. Ferns like humousytype soil that retains moisture better. Put cacti in clay pots so it can dry out faster. Ferns need a ceramic or plastic pot so it doesn't have as much chance for air to CONTAINER GARDENS - Almost any landscape can be enhanced by the use of container plants. For small areas, containers expand the growing potential and allow more flexibility. For large yards, pots of shrubs or flowers add interest and accent.

CAREFUL ATTENTION to watering must be paid with container gardening, more so than with growing the same plants in the ground. The reason is that the media in a container dries out more quickly than the ground because of its limited size and lack of ground water. Water as often as necessary to keep the media moist, which may be as often as every day in the heat of the summer. "For cacti, let them get dry" before rewatering, Mrs. Johansen said.

The frequency of watering demands frequent, light fertilization, as fertilizers will leach quickly from the planting media. One gardening source says to use a liquid fertilizer at one-quarter label strength every week. Mrs. Johansen recommends fertilizing every four to six weeks with a well-balanced fertilizer 20-20-20 or 20-20-18. Check first with your nursery to determine what you need for your container garden.

Mulching container plants prevents weeds and conserves valuable moisture. Use an attractive course material such as wood chips, pine needles, leaf mold, gravel or hulls, applied one to two inches thick, depending on the container's size.

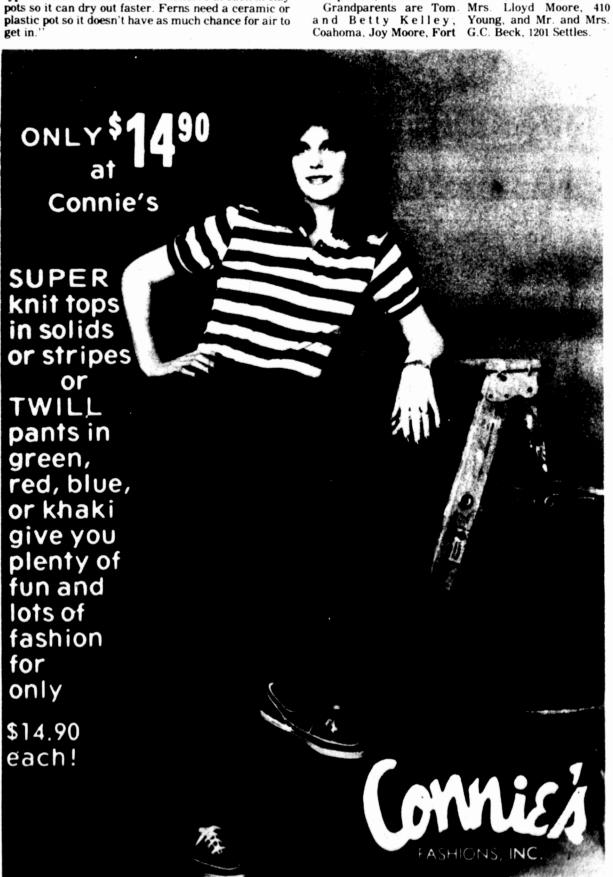

There are many plants that do well in containers. The main thing to remember is that containers are usually set in a place where they are "on display," so choose flowering plants with a long bloom period and other plants for season or year long attractiveness. When you choose plant material, keep in mind the ultimate size of the plant, and choose a container whose size is in proportion to the plant.

Almost any annual will do well in container planting. For a smashing effect, try combining several plants, using different heights and textures, paying attention to the color scheme.

Vegetables have much container potential if you stay away from the larger ones like corn or the heavy rooted ones like pumpkins. Tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, beets, carrots, lettuce or spinach are excellent choices. Many new varieties of vegetable are "dwarf," and therefore are perfect for containers. Also, almost any herb will also be a savory addition to a planter.

WHEN CHOOSING shrubs for container plantings, remember that winter hardiness is a limiting factor. However, most conifers, especially taxus and junipers, will withstand the winter with little or no problem.

A few precautions taken in late fall will ensure success: move containers out of the sun and wind, and make sure the planting media is kept moist well into the winter. Roses make attractive container plants. especially when compact growing and heavy flowering varieties are chosen, but they must be moved indoors into the house or frost-free garage or shed to prevent winter damage.

Arteries and angina

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor diagnosed my problem as angina. Yet he said my arteries are clear. How could I have the angina and have clear arteries? Can you tell me more about this condi-

Heart arteries clogged with fatty deposits are the cause of most angina, and that's the kind we hear most about. In this, the fatty deposits block the flow of blood going through the arteries serving the heart. As soon as the heart gets extra work to do, as in exercise or eating a large meal, the person may feel pain. The heart, at the same time it is pumping extra hard, is getting less blood supply than it needs. And at the same time the decreased blood flow is reducing the ability to rid the heart muscle of its waste products, the same kind of waste products produced by any working muscle. The result is pain — the angina.

But you're told you have angina, yet your heart arteries are nice and clean. There's no fatty buildup at all. So why the heart pain?

It's because the lessened artery flow to the heart is from an entirely different cause, and that is spasm (constriction) of those arteries. The reason this occurs in some people is not known, but it has a name - variant angina, or Prinzmetal's angina (after a doctor who first described it). The immediate cause is the same (impeded blood flow) and the symptoms are the same - side and arm pain usually. But the cause is different.

There's another important difference in this kind of angina. Because the spasm of the vessels tends to occur during rest, the patient has the symptoms at that time while lying down or sleeping, for examples. So unlike the regular angina, you cannot predict an episode, as from engaging in certain exercises.

The treatment, however, is with the same kind of drugs, including nitroglycerine. Newer drugs, called calcium blockers, are quite effective for Prinzmetal's angina. Nifedipine and varapamil are examples of calciumblocking drugs.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My mother and I had a bet going and she won. I'd like to know why. When I got poison ivy I had to go to the doctor for shots and pills to clear it up - after weeks of itching and scratching. Well, my mom had poison ivy and it went away on its own. She didn't even have to go to a doctor. How come? I thought it got into your body and only medicine would get it out. Can you think up any way I can still win my bet? — K.Y.

I can't think up a way to win your bet for you and maintain medical credibility. But I think I can explain what's going on

Poison ivy doesn't get into your body in the accepted sense of that term. The resin from the surface of the leaf gets onto your skin. That's what causes the reaction and the rash. If you get rid of the resin on your skin you will be OK. If you keep the rash area clean and don't do so much scratching, the chance of the rash becoming in-

You admitted doing a lot of scratching, so you very likely developed an infection from something unrelated to the poison ivy resin. When that happens, you have to go to the doctor. You need antibiotics to clear up the infection. Your mom, realizing that infection can occur this way, probably didn't do any scratching, and relied on willpowwer and soothing lotions to take care of things. Next time, don't

Once a chunk of coal, Billy Joe's a diamond

By KATHRYN BAKER Associated Press Writer

"I been to Georgia on a fast train, honey

"I wasn't born no yesterday. "I got a good Christian raisin' and an 8th-grade education.

"Ain't no need in ya'll treatin' me this way." Billy Joe Shaver

COUPLAND, Texas (AP) — It is late, and this tiny Central Texas town is only a dot of light amid miles of darkened, rolling plains.

Cars and pick-up trucks line the street outside the Coupland Tavern, a venerable old honkytonk with a wooden dance floor worn so slick you can slide clear across it, up to the stage where Billy Joe Shaver is playing.

Every seat is taken, and people stand along the walls. Some are young professionals who have driven the 25 miles from Austin. Most have come from the farms and ranches or small towns nearby.

Shaver has no clever, between-song patter. As his bass player re-tunes, he shifts awkwardly and finally mumbles, "I wish I knew what to say during this time

But Shaver is pure eloquence when he sits down to write his songs. He says what all here wish they could, putting down elitist intellectuals with a clever, dirtroad wit, or celebrating the call of the highway and the peculiar bond among the seekers who inhabit it.

After years of struggling, Shaver's songs have paid off. He has had four No. 1 county hits: "I'm Just an Old Chunk of Coal (But I'm Gonna be a Diamond Someday)," by John Anderson; "I Couldn't Be Me Without You," by Johnny Rodriquez; "Because You Asked Me To," by Waylon Jennings; and "Ride Me Down Easy," by Bobby Bare.

Willie Nelson, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Elvis Presley, the Oak Ridge Boys, Johnny Cash, Kris Kristofferson and Tom T. Hall, are among the 30 major artists who have recorded his songs.

But success has not affected Shaver, 43. He still takes his hat off when he's introduced to a woman. He just calls himself a poet: 'Long ago and far away

In my old common labor shoes,

"I turned the world all whichaway, 'Just because you asked me to.

He and his wife, Brenda, met in Waco, where Billy Joe moved from Corsicana when he was 12. Now they live in the Texas Hill Country southwest of Austin when Billy Joe isn't traveling to Nashville or New York.

Their 20-vear-old son, Eddy, an accomplished guitarist, plays in his father's back-up band. Billy Joe can only strum a guitar with the thumb of his right hand because he lost three fingers in a sawmill accident 17 years ago.

At an interview later, Shaver apologized profusely for being late. He had just come from visiting his old friend Willie Nelson, who lives west of Austin, and had trouble tearing himself away.

He and Nelson are fellow self-proclaimed "outlaws" of the business (and perhaps society as a whole.) "The devil made me do it the first time," Shaver once wrote

"The second time I done it on my own. After a while, he opens up a little, and it's easy to see where the songs come from.

"My daddy left me before I was born," he said. "My childhood was really very sad. I didn't have my mother, I didn't have my father. My mother, she wouldn't have much to do with me because she hated my father so - and it's easy to understand that she wouldn't like me. So those days back then were very lonesome "I can remember even being a teen-ager walking down the road and saying, 'I'll never be smart enough to drive a car.' I mean I was humble. And I still am, because, boy, I didn't have nothin'. I can remember seeing cars whizzing by and thinking, even if I had the money to get into a car I couldn't never figure out how to get by another car without hitting it. Can you believe that? It's true. It's just the way I felt. "I still feel that way sometimes," he said. "That's what saved me, I hope. Because I know everybody sitting around is capable of writing a million seller. I know all those hits are really the same. Everybody's got one. Everybody is one.

Shaver and his sister were raised by their grandmother on a pension. Sometimes the checks were late and they would have to overdraw their account at the general store.

Teacher picks jail over divorce payments

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — In Paul W. Lataille's sixth-grade classroom, students who make trouble get a choice — finish on time a writing exercise assigned as punishment or stand against a wall during recess until it's done.

Lataille faces a similar choice. Since March 1, he has chosen to stay in prison rather than pay his wife a $12,425 divorce settlement. He claims the judgment discriminates against him because he is a man.

"I teach my kids to think for themselves and to know when you're right and when you know you're right to stick to your guns," said Lataille, 51, a teacher for 12 years at Lonsdale Elementary School in Lincoln. "I've never backed off of that."

To clear a contempt citation and leave the Adult Correctional Institutions Intake Services Center, he must pay his wife $8,500 from savings accounts, $3,500 in legal fees and $425 in back alimony of $75 a week.

"Too many men are willing to sit home ... and watch TV and don't realize they are losing their rights," said Lataille in a recent prison interview. "I am prepared to stay here the rest of my life. If the judge has that much power, I have nothing. Let the people see that."

much power, I have nothing. Let the people see that."

After 27 years together and five children grown to adulthood, Lataille and his wife, Solange, were granted a divorce in November on grounds of irreconcilable differences. His refusal to pay the settlement has held up filing the final decree.

He said they argued about ordinary things, like money and how to discipline the children. "We reached an impasse in life," Lataille said. "We both changed values and attitudes. We probably both have our shortcomings."

In the divorce judgment, Mrs. Lataille was granted the couple's $60,000 house, $8,500 from savings accounts, plus $3,500 for legal expenses and $4,000 a year in alimony from her husband's $22,000 salary.

Lataille got the $12,000 sailboat, rental property valued at $75,000 held in a corporation with his brother, and a retirement annuity valued at $24,000, with his wife named as beneficiary in case of his death.

Lataille objects to alimony as "an unconstitutional legal conspiracy" left over from times when a wife was considered property. The rental property should not be part of the settlement because it is held in a corporation and was inherited from his mother, he said.

"Even though he felt the judge was wrong, he instructed me not to make an appeal" said Lataille's lawyer, Mitchell S. Riffkin.

Mrs. Lataille, 47, said she wasn't surprised by her husband's decision to go to prison. She said his strong self-confidence was one of the things that attracted her to him in the beginning.

"For him, it's not punishment or medicine he has to take — it's almost a triumph," she said. "He's a fighter, and if anything, he works better under stress." In prison, Lataille said he spends much of the six hours daily he is allowed outside his cell — Room 13—pacing in the recreation room where fellow inmates watch cartoons. Other time is spent studying a book on divorce law.

consuming that he decided to stage his own. The result was the arrest of 26 men at his cock fight last Sunday. Bowser, 73, and another man were charged with promoting the fight. In an interview, Bowser said he usually sells the roosters to other cock-fighting fans or takes them to Louisiana, where, he claimed, cock fighting is legal. But a spokesman for the Louisiana State Police said cock fighting is illegal throughout Louisiana. When pressed to name the town where he takes his roosters, Bowser said he can't remember its name. He said it's on Interstate 10, just across the Texas line.

Davilla, population 72, is on FM 430 and FM 487, about 50 miles northwest of Bryan. The Milam County sheriff's office got an anonymous tip that a cock fight was taking place and sent two deputies to break up the event.

When the deputies arrived, a spokesman for the sheriff's office said, two roosters were fighting to the death. In the rules of cock fighting, the fight goes on until one of the chickens is dead.

The sheriff's spokesman said the spectators were standing in a circle in a flat, muddy area between Bowser's chicken pens.

All 26 spectators were arrested without incident, authorities said. Since the fight was on Bowser's property, he was charged with promotion of gambling. Another man, Bernardo F. Avila of Buckholts, was arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals. The other participants were arrested on charges of gambling. Sheriff Leroy Broadus said his deputies seized no money or chickens. Each of the 24 paid a $61 fine and was released from jail Sunday, Broadus said. Avila had to put up $500 bail, but Bowser had to post

$1,000 bail before he could be released. That makes him mad, he said.

"I don't understand how they come up with this promotion of gambling' thing," he said Monday. "We weren't out there to gamble. We were out there for the Bowser said the bets being made at Sunday's fight were small - $5 or $10 total for the winner.

"It wasn't enough money to make it worth it for us to be out there," Bowser said. "If it was just for the money, why, none of us would be out there. We just do it for the enjoyment of it. It's a sport, like horse racing or football."

But unlike those sports, cock fighting involves pit-ting two animals against each other and having them fight until one is dead. It's illegal in Texas, but Bowser doesn't believe it's cruel.

"It's what they're bred to do," he said.

"You get two roosters together (outside the cock fighting ring) and they'll naturally fight. But in the sport, it's a fair fight. At least, they have a chance they have to be within two ounces of each other, or it's no match. It's not like raising them and killing them for food, where they just go down the line and chop, chop, chop.'

His main interest in the sport, Bowser said, is in raising the fierce birds. He said he doesn't fight the chickens, but sells them to other fighters.

"I take them to other states, where it (cock fighting) is legal, and I sell them," he said.

"A good cock can bring in $75 to $100." However, the illegality of the sport doesn't always stand in its fans' way in Louisiana or in some parts of

A Louisiana trooper said arrests are made "fairly often" for cock fighting.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has made no recent arrests in East Central Texas for cock fighting, said David Wells, DPS public information officer in Brazos County sheriff's Deputy Charlie Owen said the sheriff's office has not received any reports of cock fighting in the county.

But Broadus said he'd heard that cock fighting is popular in the western part of his county. Around Davilla, Bowser said, cock fighting has been popular for years, but Sunday's fight was the first in the area in about two years.

Broadus said the fight two years ago was also broken up, leading to the arrest of several men. Those arrests stopped cock fighting for a while near Davilla, but Bowser said he got tired of having to go out of state to

"Sure, I know it's illegal," he said. "But it's my land, and I wanted to have a little fight with a few of the people around here. Nothing big, just a little sport.'

But his arrest taught him a lesson, Bowser said. "I'm not doing this any more," he said. "I'm selling my cocks and letting it go. I'm too old for this.'

Doctors reveal new blood test that can pinpoint depression

HOUSTON (AP) — Family members worried when a successful 53-year-old accountant suddenly became restless, refused to talk to them or to friends, and ate only snack foods

He failed to finish his work on schedule, frequently called in sick and often argued with co-workers. His grooming became disshelved and he started drinking

His wife found him one afternoon sitting in a corner, sobbing and unable to explain what was troubling him. It was then that doctors at a psychiatric hospital, using a simple blood test, diagnosed the problem as biological depression — a hereditary disorder that triggers deep and sometimes fatal depression in about 6 million Americans

The test, used routinely for many years to diagnose another illness, is being used at Houston International Hospital to identify the problem and warn of possible suicides, said Dr. Timothy Sharma, a consultant to the mental health facility.

The blood test can detect excessive amounts of the hormone cortisol in a patient's bloodstream with 96 percent accuracy, Sharma said. Once diagnosed, as in the case of the accountant, the hormone and the depression can be controlled by exercise or medica-

"A person with biological depression lacks energy, over-eats or doesn't eat at all, is apathetic, feels dejected and, in extreme cases, attempts to kill himself, all for no apparent reason." — Tim Sharma, M.D.

tion, he said.

"Everyone sometime during his life gets depressed when he wrecks his car or when a family member or friend dies. But eventually that sadness passes," Shar-

Depression also can be brought on by alcohol or drugs or diseases that alter the body's chemistry, he said.

The person then falls victim to several symptoms, according to Sharma.

"A person with biological depression lacks energy, over-eats or doesn't eat at all, is apathetic, feels dejected and, in extreme cases, attempts to kill himself, all for no apparent reason," he said.

Suicide, which claims about 30,000 lives a year, is the nation's 10th-leading killer, according to government

Sharma said the culprit which brings on suicide is a glandular secretion called Cortisol.

Cortisol — which regulates the body's metabolism is produced by glands at the base of the brain.

There is a standard level of cortisol in everybody. But for those with a biological tendency toward depression, that level is very much elevated," Sharma said. Panic, stress and anxiety can cause the adrenal gland to produce excessive amounts of cortisol, but the body eventually shuts off the process, he said. In a patient with the biological disorder, cortisol continues to be pumped into the bloodstream, Sharma Doctors have long suspected a link between cortisol and depression after studying the brains of suicide

Sharma said high levels of the hormone in the brains and that "triggered the idea to look at depressed patients to see if they also had high levels of cortisol," he

Doctors then started researching the puzzle with the Dexamethason Suppression Test, similar to a procedure used since the 1960s to diagnose Cushing's syndrome, caused by tumors or overactive adrenal

The DST test has been done with several hundred patients during the past two years, Sharma said. A sample of blood, equivalent to about 11/2 teaspoons is drawn from the patient at 8 a.m., 4 p.m. and 10 p.m., and then chemically analyzed, Sharma said.

If an excessive amount of cortisol appears, treatment can be prescribed and the patient's condition monitored, he said.

"Many mild cases can be corrected by putting the patient on an exercise program, whereas the more severe require hospitalization," he said.

Anti-depressants — such as Elavil, Tofranil, Anafranil and Besyrel Trazodone, also can be prescribed, he said.

America faces 'new' economy

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Hastened by the recession and foreign competition, the heavy industries and muscular workers that symbolized America's productive might are losing dominance to more cerebral high-technology industries.

The old industries aren't being abandoned by any means. In some ways they are better managed, and their recovery from the recession that damaged them more than anything since the 1930s might even be termed strong.

But as they lose their dominant role in the U.S. economy and their edge over younger, foreign competitors, newer service industries involved in the gathering, transmission and use of information are strengthening.

They are white-collar industries, service industries, rather than producers of goods. Many are in electronics, and many are in services — medicine, data processing, investments and even hamburgers. McDonald's employs 110,000 people; Bethlehem Steel, second-largest U.S. steelmaker, is down to 67,000.

Further evidence of the shift is the rise in imports last year to nearly 28 percent of the U.S. auto market and 22 percent of the domestic steel market. The loss was only partly cushioned by the growth in production of computers, the engine of the new, sophisticated, white-collar economy.

What caused the shift?

The American economy has been growing into a post-industrial phase for years. Foreign factories, paying lower wages and using automation and management techniques once considered uniquely American, are able to ship goods into the United States for less than they could be produced domestically.

And it often is less expensive to build a new factory that uses the latest efficiencies than to modernize old plants in the United States.

As a consequence, many manufacturing functions have shifted overseas, mainly to the Far East — to Japanese automobile plants and steel furnaces, to Taiwanese textile plants, to Korean electronics factories.

The smokestack industries almost certainly will regain some power. But their recovery is likely to be relative, that is, a recovery from a very low base and not approaching the levels of earlier years.

Steel, for example, is recovering from a point in 1982 when mills operated at less than 30 percent of capacity. For the entire year, the industry ran at only 47.3 percent of its limit, compared with 86.8 percent in 1978. Some plants won't reopen.

The devastation is revealed by employment and production figures.

In 1978, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute, the industry employed 449,197 workers and produced 137 million tons of raw steel. In 1982 it produced only 72 million tons and employed 160,000 fewer workers.

Steel, of course, is affected by car production. Worldwide sales of General Motors, still the world's largest automaker, were 9.5 million cars and trucks in 1978, but only 7.1 million in 1980, just 6.7 million in 1981 and 6.2 million in 1982.

Something else happened that reveals more clearly where the industry is headed, especially in regard to employment.

GM, and many other heavy-industry companies, have been forced by the recession to reduce expenses to survive. In 1980 GM lost $2.65 a share. In 1981, with production falling, GM made a profit of $1.07 a share. And in 1982, with production off even more, earnings rose to $3.09 a share.

How was it done?

In part by copying procedures of the Japanese, who had learned to build at less cost than American manufacturers, and who had thus hastened the crisis in U.S. heavy industries.

One such procedure is the Japanese "kanban," the practice of accepting parts from suppliers just in time for use on the assembly line, leaving warehousing and other expenses to the supplier.

One result, GM said, was a reduction of inventory costs to $6.2 billion in 1982 from $7.2 billion a year earlier. It hopes to refine the procedure by encouraging suppliers to store parts near GM plants and has even bought space for suppliers near its Buick complex in Flint, Mich.

pliers. Perhaps noting a Conference Board survey that showed 63 percent of 508 American manufacturing companies using some foreign machinery, GM asked domestic producers to assure high quality and coordinate schedules with GM needs.

Enormous savings also were found by trimming

It went further in its attitude toward domestic supemployment, and not all the cutting was in blue-collar areas. In cutbacks between July 1979 and November 1982, GM salaried employment fell to 125,000 from 155,000.

Simultaneously, and without great fanfare, the company installed robots on assembly lines, and now has 1,963 of the mechanical workers in U.S. operations loading, welding, assembling, painting and even inspecting. By 1990 it expects to employ 14,000.

Foreign competition is not the only factor that has shrunk the American auto industry. There has also been a profound change in the old trade-in syndrome. Statistics now show the average age of automobiles is close to seven years, about twice that of a decade ago.

Customers don't seem as car-oriented. Albert Sindlinger & Co., which for years has supplied automakers with consumer-attitude surveys, says the industry must realize it is "now competing (for consumer money) with the electronic computer."

The computer is the engine of the new technology. Among other things, the new electronic technology makes it possible to transfer data instead of people. And it is involved more services than goods.

But even in the high-technology industries, the manufacturing functions are being picked off by foreign factories. Japanese companies, using the lessons learned in becoming the world's dominant manufacturer of consumer electronics, has become a major force in the production of computer chips and modules, most of which were developed in the United

News council criticizes Reagan's rules on secrecy

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan's rules on classifying information and silencing government employees in the interest of national security will be used to cover mistakes as well, the National News Council said today.

The organization urged that "the policy be revised along lines less susceptible to abuse."

The council is a private, nonprofit organization that makes nonbinding decisions on complaints brought against the press and issues opinions on news matters. The statement was adopted unanimously by its 17 members, said William Arthur, its executive director.

Commenting on a 1982 executive order by Reagan, the council said, "Experience over the years indicates that it almost certainly would result in suppression of material for purely political reasons or for avoidance of embarrassment to persons in power.

"Instances abound of the misuse of classification as a political device, with information bottled up or abruptly declassified to serve the purposes of those in command."

Reagan's order "undid key features" of a 1978 order that called for restraint in labeling information secret and required that classification be based on "identifiable" possible harm to national security, the council said

In the last two years "the balance has swung sharply in the opposite direction" to encourage more classification and Reagan's order has been aimed at stemming disclosure of material that has been classified, it said. The council also charges Reagan's action could perhaps lead to governmental censorship.

perhaps lead to governmental censorship.

The council said the new rules could block or impede notable books, such as those produced by Dean Acheson, Robert McNamara and Henry Kissinger, with its lifetime obligation on high-level officials to get clearance for anything they write after leaving office.

Changing rules about what information will be available to the public should not be done without consulting news organizations and other interested parties, the council said.

The council vowed to be especially congnizant of moves by the Reagan Administration, particulary in the area where the release of information to the public is concerned.

testifying in the damage phase of the antitrust suit against the National Football League said the Raiders football team and the Los Angeles Coliseum have overestimated losses.

Called to testify by NFL attorneys on Tuesday, accountant Donald F. Markstein, of Price Waterhouse, said his projection of losses resulting from the league's effort to keep the Raiders from moving to this city amount to about $4.3 million.

The plaintiffs claimed losses of $26 Markstein based his lower estimate on

Landry says Cowboys need only discipline to be Super

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - A little more discipline is all the Dallas Cowboys need to be back in the running for the Super Bowl, Coach Tom Landry said

"We'll make a few changes this year in the way we do things. More discipline will be one aspect. But as far as personnel there's not a lot of things to improve," Landry told reporters.

Landry, third winningest coach in NFL history, was the guest speaker at a prayer breakfast hosted by Gov. Lamar Alexander.

"Danny White has been a remarkable quarterback for the Cowboys," said Landry, whose team has won two of the five Super Bowls in which it has played.

Before the Redskins game the press got on him for not being able to win 'the big one.' Of course it wasn't true but coming just before the game like that it kind of shook him up," Landry said.

The Redskins won the game, played at Washington, and went on to defeat the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

Landry said the Cowboys will be looking to strengthen their defense in the upcoming NFL draft in which the Cowboys have the 23rd pick of the first round.

"It'll be like the 29th after the USFL draft," Landry said. "They probably took four or five players that would have gone in our first round."

One team was on a roll; one team was on the slide. Henry Klepac — with a little help from Jim Osborn — kept the slide going for the Big Spring High Steers.

The San Angelo catcher ripped three straight basehits to knock in four runs while Osborn tossed his second consecutive two-hit shutout to lead the Bobcats to a 7-0 victory over the Steers Tuesday at Steer Park.

Steer boxscore can be found in Scorecard.

The win was the fifth straight for the 'Cats and moved them into sole possession of second place. Big Spring, meanwhile, lost its third straight and dropped into a third place tied with Odessa High.

"We've been getting some solid pitching," Bobcat coach Rex Scofield said, "and at the plate we've been real aggressive. We've been

No doubt, coach. San Angelo burst into a 7-0 lead after just four innings and cruised to its fifth straight victory. Osborn had no trouble with the Steers batting corps, giving up just a bloop single to Marty Rodriquez in the third and a bad hop single to Alan Trevino in the seventh. He struck out seven and allowed just one runner to advance to third. Osborn has won all of his district starts and has a string of 14 straight scoreless innings. "It's as plain as day," frowned Big Spring coach Frank Ibarra. "We have no pitching and we have no hitting right now. I just don't

The Steers were totally baffled at the plate. Only outfielders Tom Cudd and Jay Pirkle got good aluminum on the ball but three solid connections resulted in three long fly outs. 'We need a lot of work on our hitting.' Ibarra understated. But while his team has scored only 10 runs in its last 21 innings, his pitching has surrendered 29 runs

'We've got two senior pitchers who aren't getting their heads in the game," Ibarra said strongly. "I bet we lead the league in giving up runs with two outs. Today, Jinx wasn't being very smart. He wants to spot pitch but he doesn't have the pitches to do that. That takes

Central bunched their scoring in third and fourth innings. Valenzuela walked only four two in the final inning — but a base on balls in the third may have cost his team the game.

Klepac doubled in Augie Alcala in the first inning to give San Angelo a 1-0 lead. That increased to 3-0 in the third when Scott Bingham and Klepac rapped back-to-back singles.

With two out, Valenzuela walked weakhitting Mark Smith — a player he fanned on three pitches in the second. Melvin Stewart made him pay by stroking a single up the middle to give his team an insurmountable 5-0

Klepac wrapped things up his next at-bat by slugging a two-run homer to left field, oddly enough, only his first of the season. "That was another one of those batting practice fastballs," Ibarra shook his head. "I've told him (Valenzuela) he's a strong kid and he should throw his hard fastball. But he tries to place the pitch in there and he gets into trouble.

After Klepac's homer, the senior lefthander settled down to tossed 31/3 innings of hitless ball. He finished the game with 10 strikouts but nine came from the bottom four batters in the Central lineup.

But while he was giving his team a chance to rally, the quiet Big Spring sticks remained deathly silent. "We've got a lot of young kids and they look up to these older pitchers," explained Ibarra. "When they go out there and get bombed, it really gets them down.'

Despite all the adversity, the Steers remain in the thick of the playoff race. Midland High upset Lee 14-2 to keep the Steers within two games of first; they trail the Bobcats by just

'There's still a long ways to go," Ibarra brightened. "It's a matter of when are we going to come out of our slump. If that's soon, we'll still be in it.'

McLennan pounds Howard twice

WACO - McLennan Community College, the toprated junior college team in the state, continued its domination over Howard College here Tuesday

The Highlanders swept a doubleheader with the Hawks, winning 6-1 and 10-0. McLennan completed its Region V conference scheduled with Howard, winning five of six games. The hard-hitting Hawks managed just four runs in three games this week in Waco.

McLennan boosted its Region V record to 13-2 with the three victories. Howard falls to 7-8 in conference and to 23-13-1 for the year. Five of the 13 losses have been to MCC.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Just the hint of a smile, as if he knew a secret, flirted with the corners of Johnny Miller's mouth.

"I think it's going to be an exciting year for me," the one-time Golden Boy - now a seasoned 35-year-old - said after a practice round for the 47th Masters tournament, the first of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness

His comeback has been confirmed. And now, Miller said, he's primed and ready to challenge for a return to the position of dominance he once held.

Miller went into a four-year decline after his glory years of the mid-'70s, but rebounded with a victory in 1980. He now has won at least once, including the Inverrary Classic earlier this season, in each of the last four years.

"Each win was another step back up the ladder," he said. And now he's looking at still another step, a major stride. Even when I was winning everything, I wasn't a consistent player. I either won or finished nowhere." he said

"Over the winter, I set two goals for myself.

"One is that, for the first time in my career, I'm going to be a consistent player. I had a consistent year last season. I only won once, but I had a stroke average of 70.7 and that's not bad. I was top 10 five or six times.

"Well, this year I want to be even more And Miller is right on target. He's been top 10 three times and has a scoring average of

"I've always played good on the West Coast, but I've never played well in the spring and summer," he said.

"The way I'm putting, the way I'm playing, I'm expecting a good spring and summer.' And, he suggested, it may be even better

"The win at Inverrary was important. It was another step up the ladder," he said. "I think I'm ready to make a shot at the leaders again. "Maybe I'm not yet ready to be No. 1. But I might be No. 2 or 3.

"I think I'm ready for that."

The second goal he set for himself, Miller said, was "win in the majors again, and win this year.

"I'm really excited about the majors. All of them. Look at the courses. I couldn't have picked them better.

'There's Riviera (in Los Angeles, the site of the PGA). I've won there. It's one of my favorites.

"There's Oakmont (for the U.S. Open). I've won there (the American national championship in 1973).

'There's Royal Birkdale (for the British Open). I've won there (the British Open in "And then there's Augusta National. I've been second here three times. There's no reason I can't win here. "It's all a matter of putting and nerves. If my putting holds up, and my nerves hold up, I can win.

"I might be ready to challenge again, challenge in the majors.

"I think it's going to be exciting."

Spurs bop Kings, win third divisional title

Mike Mitchell knew what San Antonio would have to do Tuesday night to defeat Kansas City and gain the franchise's third consecutive Midwest Division championship.

'We knew we had to go out and concentrate tonight," said Mitchell, who played a key role in the Spurs' 130-113 victory over the Kings. "We wanted to win the divisional championship tonight and eliminate any doubts.

The Spurs concentrated enough in the first half to make 68 percent of their shots from the floor and build a 28-point halftime lead.

San Antonio increased its bulge to a game-high 75-45 only seconds deep into the third quarter, never allowing the Kings to cut the margin under 15 points. Mitchell, Gene Banks and George Gervin combined for 20 field goals in 26 attempts in the first half as San Antonio constructed a firm foundation for its fifth straight victory and its ninth win in its

Jones, the winningest pitcher in the Pacific Coast League in 1982, earned the save Tuesday night in the Rangers' 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"I couldn't figure out why a kid with that great an arm wasn't given a chance," said Ranger Manager Doug Rader. "I was excited when we drafted him."

And Rader was excited Tuesday night when Jones chopped down the last two batters to preserve the victory for Jon Matlack

Jones, who was 9-12 with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League and 3-11 with Seattle in 1979, had control problems in the past. But his 90 mile-an-hour fastball was on target against Chicago. Mike Mason pitched two innings of hitless relief after Matlack tired.

Mariners 5, Yankees 4

Billy Martin began the season arguing His biggest gripe came in the Seattle half of the third when umpire Dan Morrison allowed a leadoff double by Julio Cruz to stand although television replays showed that a fan leaned out of the stands and deflected it away from a leaping Dave Winfield.

The hit triggered a four-run inning and the Mariners went on to nip the Yankees 5-4 on Al Cowens' seventh-inning sacrifice fly, the 21st time in 33 games they have beaten New York in the Seattle Kingdome.

Angels 3, Brewers 2

California's Bruce Kison made the first opening game start of his 12-year big-league career and held the Brewers to five hits and one run over the first

The Angels took a 1-0 lead off Don Sutton in the first inning on rookie Daryl Sconiers' second major league homer. California went ahead to stay in the fourth on singles by Reggie Jackson, Doug DeCinces and Bobby Grich and made it 3-1 in the fifth when Brian Downing walked, was sacrificed to second, took third on a fly ball and scored on a passed ball by Ted Simmons

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 1

Willie Upshaw drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Rance Mulliniks hit a two-run homer, while Dave Stieb allowed just three hits in six innings, including Dave Stapleton's homer in the

Tigers 11, Twins 3

A three-run homer by Larry Herndon in a six-run first inning triggered a 15-hit attack, which included six extra-base hits. Jack Morris went seven innings for Detroit, yielding six hits, walking two and striking out six, while Minnesota starter Brad Havens was shelled for seven hits and eight runs in 11-3

Dodgers' power bombs Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Los Angeles' Ken Landreaux and Pedro Guerrero provided an unbeatable onetwo punch with a combined 11 runs batted in Tuesday night to wilt the Houston Astros 16-7.

Landreaux knocked in six runs with a sacrifice fly, double and single and Guerrero had a three-run homer and two run triple to contribute to the impressive 15-hit Dodger attack.

The besst Houston could muster was centerfielder Omar Moreno, who singled twice and tripled to

The Astros won only three spring training games and could not match the Dodger power in the regular season opener, but Astros Manager Bob Llllis isn't ready to concede the race after one

It was the Dodgers' biggest opening day victory since 1978 when they beat Atlanta 13-4.

Houston starter Joe Niekro left the game afte three innings and was replaced by LaCorte. Alejandro Pena replaced Valenzuela and got the victory.

Pirates 7, Cards 1

Pittsburgh pitcher John Candelaria says his "big objective this year is trying to stay healthy." One game into the 1983 season, Keith Hernandez and the St. Louis Cardinals are probably already sick of Candelaria, a left-hander who two years ago in St. Louis nearly saw his career come to an end when he tore a muscle in his pitching arm, ripped through the Cards' lineup Tuesday, scattering four hits and striking out 10 batters - including Hernandez three times — to hand the 1982 World Series winners a 7-1 loss in their National League season opener.

While the Cardinals were waving helplessly at Candelaria's offerings, the Pirates were pounding Bob Forsch and five relievers for 11 hits. Lee Lacy, Dale Berra and Lee Mazzilli hit solo home runs off Forsch in the first five innings and Jason Thompson unleashed a three-run shot off Doug Bair in the

Mets 2, Phillies 0

Tom Seaver made his return to New York virtually a perfect one, silencing Philadelphia on three hits through six innings. He might have gone further if the muscles in his left thigh — the one he'd pulled during spring training — began to tighten.
Fortunately for the Mets, Manager George

Bamberger called upon rookie Doug Sisk. He finished the shutout, allowing two hits and striking out three over the final three innings, and picked up his first victory in the major leagues when the Mets nicked Steve Carlton for two runs in the seventh inning on a bases-loaded single by Mike Howard and a sacrifice fly by Brian Giles.

Padres 16, Giants 13

Steve Garvey made his debut with San Diego a successful one, getting two hits and an RBI in four at-bats - not that the Padres needed them. They pounded Mike Krukow and five San Francisco relievers for 17 hits, eight of them in an eight-run

Columbia allows Red Cross to take over quake relief efforts

POPAYAN, Colombia (Ap) — The state governor's committee administering relief to survivors of the Popayan earthquake bowed to charges of inefficiency, profiteering and misuse of relief supplies Tuesday and announced it would let the Red Cross take over.

Committee member Manuel Mosquera said after a meeting of the 12-member emergency group that effective immediately, the Red Cross alone would be responsible for distribution of all food, medicine, tents and clothing.

"A lot of mistakes have been made," Mosquera said. "All of the responsibility for what has happened falls on our shoulders.

A variety of sources in Popayan confirmed an Associated Press report Sunday, denied by officials in Bogota, that relief tents and food had been sold instead of distributed free. The sources had more reports of misuse of the supplies, particularly by the Colombian

Alicia Iglesias, a vice president of the Colombian Red Cross, said Tuesday that after the quake Thursday, which killed at least 240 people and left 150,000 homeless, the Red Cross tried to move in quickly and start a relief program. She said Gov. Amalia Salazar's emergency committee blocked the agency's efforts. Tents, generators, medicine, food and clothing began pouring in from Colombian cities and abroad-Friday, but the governor's committee and the army, working together, repeatedly confiscated relief aid destined for the Red Cross, she said.

On Saturday, the army confiscated 460 tents donated by the United States, then on Sunday said it had only 206 and would not give them up, Mrs. Iglesias said.

Reporters were not allowed into the army's temporary base near the Popayan airport, but an AP reporter flying over the area and the adjoining police barracks area saw 30 of the blue-and-white U.S. tents

Mrs. Iglesias said the army on Monday grabbed two trucks arriving in Popayan with relief aid from the Red Cross at Barranquilla, and the Red Cross hasn't seen the material vet.

Red Cross relief coordinator Fernando Gomez said 14 portable generators arrived Sunday from the Spanish Red Cross, but the committee confiscated six of them and turned them over to the army.

Gov. Salazar told The Associated Press her committee ordered all relief aid stockpiled under its control because it believed it could distribute it best. But Mosquera said that because the quake struck at the beginning of the Easter holiday, many committee members were away, and it took several days to get the group

An AP reporter found the government's marketing and agriculture agency, IDEMA, selling food to refugees Saturday at its downtown warehouse, which survived the earthquake. President Belisario Betancur objected to the report and said IDEMA also had been donating food to refugees.

However, the head of the government's Family Welfare Institute office in Popayan, Fernando Iragori said Tuesday that IDEMA continued to sell the food and would not begin to give it away until Wednesday

The selling of tents apparently resulted from the emergency committee handing them over to neighborhood leaders instead of setting them up in refugee compounds as the Red Cross recommended.

Residents of one neighborhood said over a local radio station that representatives of the Alfonso Lopez suburb and a member of the neighborhood's communal action committee tried to sell the tents that had been delivered to them.

The governor's committee said it was investigating the accusation.

The bodies of 222 of the 712 Argentines killed in the war are also buried in the Falklands, and the Foreign Office announced last week that relatives would be allowed to visit their graves. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher rejected protests from the islanders, saying she understood the "sensitivities involved," but it would not be right to prevent a visit that is "purely humanitarian in nature.'

Thais admit napalming Vietnamese positions

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) - Thai military officers at the frontier said today that Thai fighter-bombers dropped napalm in a Monday raid on Vietnamese positions just inside Thailand.

The attack, if confirmed, would be the first of its kind since the Vietnamese overran a Khmer Rouge Cambodian guerrilla base along the Thailand border Thursday and began probing Thai frontier posts. The Vietnamese sweep has left scores dead and tens of thousands homeless

There was no confirmation of the napalm attack from the Thai central government in Bangkok, the

The Thai frontier officers told Associated Press reporter Mangkorn Khamreongwong that two U.S.-made F-5 warplanes swooped down on Vietnamese positions and dropped a total of eight canisters of napalm, a jellied gasoline.

Maj. Gen. Prachum Pibhunpranuwat, commander of the second division of the first army, described the air strike as "successful" but gave no details. Prachum is the ranking Thai officer at the border.

The Supreme Military Command said Vietnamese forces were holding territory just inside Thailand near the border town of Phnom Pan and the settlement of Phnom Chat that straddles the border with Cambodia. According to reports from the field, Vietnamese cross-border artillery fire frequently has been intense in recent days, with the Thais sometimes returning The military spokesman said five Thai soldiers have been killed and 16 wounded during the fighting, while the bodies of six Vietnamese soldiers have been recovered over the past six days. Vietnamese weapons, ammunition and gas masks also have been captured, he said.

On Monday, Thailand sent a note to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar protesting what it claimed were Vietnamese intrusions into its territory and "inhumane genocidal crimes" against Cambodian

Last Thursday, Vietnamese forces launched their most intense drive to date in a four-year war against Cambodian guerrilla groups on the western edge of Cambodia

In a series of swift attacks, Hanoi's troops, backed by artillery and tanks, knocked out the Communist Khmer Rouge stronghold of Phnom Chat as well as several Khmer Rouge-controlled villages. Then they overran the headquarters of guerrillas loyal to Prince Norodom Sihanouk, leader of a three-party resistance coalition that includes factions loyal to the Khmer Rouge and to Son Sann, a non-Communist insurgent

More than 43,000 Cambodian refugees have fled the fighting and been given temporary asylum in Thailand. Total casualties are still unknown since most of the fighting has taken place inside Cambodia, but one international relief agency official estimated that about 90 people have been killed and 300 to 400 wounded.

The Vietnamese border attacks have been condemned by the United States and some of Thailand's allies in southeast Asia.

Paul Wolfowitz, U.S. assistant secretary of state for East Asia and the Pacific, arrived in Thailand today and planned to tour areas of the embattled frontier Wednesday, the U.S. Embassy said.

Wolfowitz is scheduled to meet with Thai Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda and other Thai leaders

Nicaraguans claim Cubans aiding leftists

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) - Rightist guerrillas claimed Tuesday that 2,000 Cubans are fighting alongside government forces in leftist-ruled Nicaragua.

"The Cuban mercenaries are stationed in the town of Wastala in the province of Matagalpa, and are transferred from there to the combat zones in Zelaya province on Nicaragua's Atlantic coast," a broadcast over the guerrillas' clandestine September 15 radio station said.

There was no immediate comment from Nicaragua's Sandinista government and there was no independent confirmation of the report. Journalists have traveled in some combat zones and have not reported the presence of any foreign

The Reagan administration, which has not responded to charges it supports the rebels, claims the Sandinistas have extensive Cuban support.

The rebel troops, led by the Honduran-based Nicaraguan Democratic Force, include former Sandinista supporters and former national guardsmen under the late U.S.-backed, rightist President Anastasio Somoza, who was overthrown by the Sandinistas in 1979. The organization has said it will not stop fighting until it forces the Sandinistas from power

In northwestern Nicaragua, rebels attacked overnment four hours in the Limon Valley, in Nueva Segovia province near the border with Honduras, killing 3 Sandinista soldiers, the radio said. Six guerrillas died and three were injured.

The radio, which says it broadcasts from somewhere in Nicaragua" did not say when the attack occurred. The station takes its name from the day Central American countries won their independence from Spain.

Meanwhile, a Honduran armed forces spokesman accused Nicaragua of sending soldiers and weapons through Honduran territory to reinforce leftist guerrillas fighting for power in El Salvador

Capt. Roberto Acosta said a patrol of Sandinista soldiers intercepted by Honduran police on March 26 remains in the country. Increased Honduran patrols have kept them from continuing on to El Salvador or returning to Nicaragua, he said, but have not been able to capture the band

"We have the necessary evidence to prove once more that the Nicaraguan regime has been using our territory to militarily back the Salvadoran guerrillas," said an armed forces statement read by more information about this. Most Americans go about their daily life giving little thought to what our free enterprise system is all about. Our forefathers were committed to an idea, a way of life that they recorded in our country's early documents detailing the principles and freedoms which form our free enterprise system which, at that time, was an economic system new to the world. These freedoms include:

- the full right to develop and use our ideas and inventions;
- •unlimited opportunity to grow and achieve personally;
- the right to enjoy the fruits of our
- individual rights;
- the right to choose or to change jobs:
- business as we choose

A definition of free enterprise is another name for human opportunity that fosters dreams which produce desire that fathers determination which paves the road to achievement.

We tend to lose sight of the fact that even in our worst economic times we are better off than any other country overall.

Economic forecasts in a nutshell: Inflation is expected to be 4 percent this year as compared with 13 percent in 1979, 12 percent in 1980, and 9 percent in Energy prices will be steadier from now on through 1983. Largest increases are expected in medical expenses, rent, college tuition. Interest rates are about as low as they're expected to go and will begin to creep up as business gains. New housing is expected to number 400,000 more than last year which helps other businesses from furniture to landscapers, real estate firms to household movers. Government programs will

Horse racing bill out of senate gate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate horse race betting bill won a trial heat, aided by a new provision that all Texans have a chance to vote on

The Senate Economic Development Committee approved Tuesday 6-2 a bill that would legalize pari-mutuel horse races on a local option basis, provided a statewide referendum in November 1984 passes A similar House bill, currently without a statewide referendum, is pending in the House Urban Affairs Committee. A majority of the committee members said last week they oppose the original bill. "I think this is an escape mechanism and we're ducking our responsibility," said Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, "but I'll vote for it. The people in my district want horse racing. They've been doing it for years. You can go under the grandstand at any race and get any action you want."

"This has been around for a long time and I'm still concerned whether Texas needs this or not." said Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana, who cast one of the opposing votes. "I'm concerned about the regulation of the horses. I'm concerned about the regulation of the people that come in with the horses.

'We have as good legislation as we can get to police this properly," said Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, author of the bill.

The original bills introduced in the Senate and House would allow local option elections on pari-mutuel betting at horse races. A state racing commission, appointed by the governor, would issue licenses to tracks. The state would get 5 percent of the total money bet, with 5 percent of that going to the track and 5 percent to the purses. The rest would go to pay

State Comptroller Bob Bullock testified in favor of the bills and said the state would get $14 million the first year and $126 million by

The amendment by Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, would put the question to voters on the 1984 general election ballot if a horse race betting bill is approved by the Legislature. Voters would be asked if they approve parimutuel betting at horse races on a county-bycounty, local option basis.

"There would be no licenses issued and no tracks built until and unless approved by the voters," McFarland said.

Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio, chairman of House Urban Affairs Committee, which has the House horse racing bill, said he did not know how the issue would come out in

El Paso jail beatings are investigated by DA

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A sheriff's captain has been fired and five jail employees have been suspended in connection with the alleged beating of three inmates

District Attorney Steve Simmons launched an investigation into the inmates' allegations Tuesday night and said he would take the matter to a grand jury if evidence shows the prisoners' civil rights were violated

El Paso County Sheriff Mike Davis Tuesday fired Capt. Joe Bowling and suspended five other employees without pay. Bowling had been suspended with pay a Bowling and about 20 other jail employees were named as defendants in a civil rights violation lawsuit filed by the inmates in federal court last month. The prisoners claim they were beaten after they tried to escape in March 1981. The suit claims they were taken handcuffed into an officers' locker room and beaten until they were unconscious. One inmate almost died, the prisoners claim. The suit contends Bowling participated in the beatings and then ignored requests from medical personnel to send the inmates to a hospital.

Cool temps headed to Permian Basin

From staff and wire reports A cold front headed down through the Panhandle will bring northerly winds and cooler temperatures tomorrow for Big Spring and the rest of the Permian Basin. The National Weather Service is calling for a 20-30 percent chance of showers on Tuesday with winds from the north at 15-20 miles per hour. The high tomorrow should be in the upper 40s, according to the

Elsewhere in Texas, 4 to 6 inches of snow is predicted for the Panhandle and a winter storm warning was posted in that area.

The front's passage prompted traveler's advisories to be issued for the Panhandle through early Tuesday. Low cloudiness produced drizzle in Central Texas, the Coastal Bend and parts of the Trans Pecos region.

A shield of high clouds also extended over the central portions of the state. Winds over much of the state continued to be gusty ahead of the cold front at speeds of 10 to 20 mph and northerly behind it at 20 mph with gusts to 35 mph.

Temperatures ranged from the 30s over the Panhandle to the 60s ahead of the front and 70s in lower Rio Grande valley

Wood speaks on fires and prevention

Jimmy Wood, safety foreman at Cosden Oil and Chemical, presented a speech on Fire Prevention at the Desk and Derrick Club meeting March 28 at Kopper Kettle.

Wood spoke on the dif-ferent methods used to put out various types of fires. He and other instructors hold fire prevention seminars every fall.

Desk and Derrick Club members will travel to the District V Regional meeting in Abilene April 21 to 24. The organization's next meeting is at 7 p.m. April 18 at Kopper Kettle. All women in oil business is invited to attend.

Big Springer floats at academy

Staff Writer Carol Daniel recently toured the United States Naval Academy with an educators' group, visiting the cadets and attending lectures on the academy's purpose.

> By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

Calisthenics at dawn. Screaming upperclassmen. Marching, marching and more marching. That's how Debbie Shroyer of Big Spring describes the first grueling summer at the United States Naval Academy "I was kind of like in a fog for the first six weeks, I don't remember much about it," said Debbie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Shroyer of Big Spring. "They (upperclassmen) were yelling day and night at me for two weeks. No matter what or how much you did right, they would yell at you for something you did wrong. I'm glad it's over.

Debbie learned to ignore the officers bellowing in her face, she honed her muscles to withstand the calisthenics and she gained the skill of handling pressure.

Debbie made the transfer from civilian to military life, but not without shedding a few tears. See Academy, page 2

"My roommates and I would go to church every Sunday and cry because everybody was so nice to us there," she said with a smile. "My roommates kept me here. It was an 'if you don't quit, I won't quit' type

The contrast between military and civilian life was a shock for the slender, red-haired woman.

"It's a lot different," Debbie said. "People are always looking at you, asking you questions. The pressure is constant.

During plebe summer, midshipmen learn the fundamentals of military life. They learn to shoot, to sail, to organize their waking hours. They must participate in physical tests, drills and athletics. They learn to work under pressure. A typical daily schedule follows this format:

6:15 — Reveille

6:45-7:10 — Breakfast (optional for midshipmen first, second and third

7:15-7:30 — Special instruction period for midshipmen fourth class 7:35 - Quarters for muster and inspection

7:55-11:45 — Four class periods 12:10 — Call to noon formation 12:20 - Noon meal

1:15-3:05 — Two class periods (from the end of sixth period until evening meal formation, participate in varsity and intramural sports)

3:30-4:30 — Drill and parades (twice weekly during fall and spring)

6:30 — Evening meal formation 8-11 — Study period 11 — Taps

Upperclassmen demand plebes to memorize, memorize, memorize and then drill them during meals at King Hall with more than 4,000 fellow midshipmen looking on. In the middle of lunch in the cavernous dining hall, an upperclassman will request a plebe to stand in his chair and shout such inanities as "I'm just testing my lungs, sir!

Debbie said she used the hour between 6:15 a.m. and 7:15 a.m. to memorize required data for the drills, as her night hours were filled with homework.

The longs months of suffering climax with the Plebe Recognition Ceremony during June Week. Herndon Monument, a granite obelisk standing near the chapel, is coated with about five inches of grease to prepare for the ceremony.

The plebes officially become third class officers when one of them manages to climb to the top and place a cap on the monument's tip. Legend says the plebe who reaches the top will leave the academy at the head of his class.

"That was the best day of my life," Debbie said. "I knew plebe

Following graduation, newly minted third classmen depart on a month or more of training at sea with the Fleet, accompanied by first class midshipmen. At-sea training is followed by about 30 days of leave.

During their first taste of life at sea in the Navy, the midshipmen work with enlisted men whom they will later command. Third classmen stand deck, gunnery, operations, and engineering watches; operate ship's boats; and exercise at general shipboard drills.

Debbie sailed on a Yard Patrol boat that cruised up and down the east coast with stops in Newport, Norfolk and New York.

Now that she's in her second year she can, among other things, walk down the center of the hall and call fellow officers by their first name. Every year she'll gain more privileges.

Those privileges are precious to a midshipman. Debbie once was put on restriction and received a B in conduct for having a car within seven miles of the academy. When she advances to first class midshipman (senior), she'll be able to have a car and weekend leave.

She now uses her Saturday afternoon leaves to visit Washington, D.C., and the National Gallery of Art.

Debbie said she has changed in some ways since she went military. She's conquered an aversion to making beds and even helps her mother — without complaining — to do housework when she's home at Christmas.

She's also picked up on academy superstitions. On her way to tests she always tosses a penny at Tecumseh's quiver. Tecumseh, or the god of the 2.0, is a bronze statue of an Indian who promises the midshipman a passing mark if the penny lands in his quiver.

It isn't easy to be accepted to the academy, and it isn't a breeze to graduate. One hears very few midshipmen say they like it there, but they remain optimistic.

"I'm going to be really glad when this is over," Debbie said with a laugh. "And I know someday I'll be glad I came here.

Dear Abby

Kids and reading

DEAR ABBY: I must comment on that exquisite little poem you ran titled, "I Had a Mother Who Read to

I am in my late 80s, and I, too, had a mother who read to me. I, in turn, read to my four sons, who read to their children, and now my grandchildren are reading to their children.

Any woman who does not read to her children because she "has more important things to do" does them a terrible injustice. Being read to is the best way to inispire children to read on their own. There are thousands of children growing up today in well-to-do homes (not poor ones) who are practically illiterate. Their parents subscribe to no magazines, and if they take a newspaper, it is for Father to read the sports section. There are no books in the house, and they have never seen their parents read for pleasure.

Reading teaches children to think. An entire generation is growing upu without having been taught to read. and therefore, they can't think for themselves. How easy it would be for some power-hungry person with much charisma but little integrity to sway those illiterate masses any way he pleases.

Abby, I worry about the future of our great country CONCERNED GREAT-GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GREAT-GRANDMOTHER: I, too, worry. That's why I recommend "The Read-Aloud Handbook" (Penguin Books) as the best lifetime gift a parent can give a child. It tells parents how and what to read to their children in order to inspire them to read and think for themselves.

Those who are feeling the crunch of a depressed economy cannot plead, "Bread is more important than books." Your public library has a treasury of books free for the borrowing. And the librarian will gladly help you select appropriate reading for children of all

DEAR ABBY: What's the big idea siccing "Southern Fool" on Alaska? She's 31, has been mixed up with a married man for 12 years, knows he'll never leave his wife, and now she wants a man to call her own.

She's already proven she has no scruples about a man's marital status. So you advise her to get rid of her 12-year habit by heading north until she reaches

Thanks a lot! My husband doesn't need a habit other than me, and neither does any other Alaska wife. Let "Southern Fool" get her act together where she is, or tell her to go someplace else.

Cancer Society Other first place winners Outlines services

The American Cancer Society in Howard and Glasscock counties has a variety of services available to cancer patients without charge.

"Many people are unaware of all the services we can provide," Mrs. Clyde Thomas, service chairman, said. All that is required in most cases is written permission from the patient's physician.'

Loan equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, commode chairs, and walkers are available as well as expendable items such as dressings, hospital gowns, bed pads, pillows and egg crate mattresses

"These are all in addition to our basic information and referral services," said Mrs. Thomas. Other services are rehabilitation programs, such as "Reach for Recovery" for mastectomees, esophageal speech lessons for laryngectomees, ostomy rehabilitation and related patient and family support groups.

Anyone needing more information may call Mrs. Thomas at 267-6272.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would appreciate it very much if you would send me information on facial skin cancer. I would like to know how that kind of cancer is treated, the chance for recovery.-M.M. Dear Dr. Donohue: What does skin cancer look like?

Can it spread? Please warn people about excessive sun exposure.-L.L. I cannot begin to go into all the types of skin cancers, so I'll limit myself ot the two most common ones—basal cell and squamous. Both often arise from sun—damaged skin, and both have a good cure rate, and that rate improves with early detection and First, basal cell cancer: This appears usually as a smooth, waxy, translucent nodule with small brownish dots in it. This form rarely spreads, although it can invade downward into bone. The nodules may eventually ulcerate and form a crust. They are painless. Basal cell cancer represents about 75 percent of all skin Squamous cell cancers appear as firm, red nodules with scaling. Also painless, these, too, may ulcerate and unlike basal cell cancer this type may spread from one part of the body to another. M.M. (first letter) asks specifically about face skin cancer. There really is no differentiation between skin cancers on the face and other affected areas. The face is most exposed to sunlight, so in those prone to the problem that may be a more common site. But it's the same cancer. Early detection of either type holds the greatest promise for complete cure. And treatment depends on both the kind of cancer involved and how deeply it has grown into the skin, its size and its location. At times. simply removing the growth is sufficient. Or it may have to be scraped and dried with an electric current. Freezing is another method, and some may require drugs like 5-fluorouracil in the form of lotions or

Gimmick helps business

The Creative Homemakers met March 14 at Unlimited Gifts' and Fudge Factory and heard Kathrine Porter, owner and operator, discuss her experiences in opening a business.

Mrs. Porter explained how important it is to have "a gimmick" to help one get through the slow months. The gimmick at Unlimited Gifts is homemade fudge. Mrs. Porter made fudge while talking to the group.

New members Sarah Edens and Barbara Ellison were welcomed to the club.
The next meeting is April 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Marilee's Specialty Shoppe.

Big Spring girl, 3, gets start in movies

SOMER LANCASTER .. film star at 3

At three years old, most children are still working on walking, but Somer Lancaster at three years old was working in John Schneider's movie "Eddie Macon's Run.

She had a four-second bit part in the film currently playing in Big Spring.

Somer is the daughter of the late Sonia Whittington Lancaster of Big Spring. She was living in Laredo with her father when "Eddie Macon's Run" was being filmed, according to Somer's aunt, Yvonne Ray of Big Spring.

The Laredo newspaper had run an ad for children to appear in the movie and Somer's father "just did it for fun," Mrs. Ray said.

"She walked right up to John Schneider and said 'Hello, Bo,'" Mrs. Ray said. "The director was real pleased with her.

The non-speaking role comes early in the film when co-star Kirk Douglas is doing push-ups at his home while watching television. Following a newscast that talks about Eddie Macon, a brief commercial plays with a young girl in it - Somer.

'I think it's just great," Mrs. Ray said. "Of course her grandmother (Betty Smith of Howard County) and I are really pleased.

Mrs. Ray says Schneider was "really charmed" by Somer and carried her around on his shoulders all of the time.

'We didn't talk to her about it (the movie part) a lot because we don't want her getting the big head or anything," Mrs. Ray said. "She's pretty much forgotten about it now

But the call of the camera still sounds. The now-four-year-old "star" is doing some commercials while living with her father in Carlsbad, N.M., Mrs. Ray said.

Two arrested for drugs

Carl Christopher Winton, 17, of 1904 Nolan posted a $10,000 bond yesterday for his release from Howard County jail. The suspect was arrested March 30 in connection with the theft of 500 silver half dollars from his father's home.

· Department of Public Safety troopers say they arrested two men Saturday night on alcohol and marijuana-related offenses.

Virgil Lynn Hitch, 38, of Route 2 was arrested on suspicion of possession of less than 2 ounces of marijuana and public intoxication. He was released after posting $1,500 and $200 bonds.

Donald Frank Atkinson, 33, of 2706 S. Monticello was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and traffic citations. He posted a $1,000 and two $200 bonds for his release.

Police Beat

Burglaries, thefts continue

Police patrolmen had a quiet weekend investigating several reported thefts and burglaries.

 Rodney and Bernard Young of 2313 Allendale told police that someone test drove their $1,050 dirt bike yesterday morning and did not return it.

• James E. Gross of 1800 Hearn told police someone stole a tool box and tools worth $250 Saturday night from the bed of his pickup. The pickup was parked in front of his residence, he said.

• Terry Stockton of San Angelo told police someone stole a $150 tire and wheel Saturday night from the bed of his pickup while it was parked outside a residence on Gail Route.

• Police say they arrested Rene Fernandez, 23, of Southland Apartments on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. The suspect posted a $1,000 for his release.
