The battle of Big Spring

OFF YOUR KNEES, YOU KNAVE — Armor-clad warriors fought to the "death" several times yesterday on Big Spring's field of honor at Comanche Trail Park. They battled for the title of War Lord of Ansteorra, the kingdom that includes Texas and Oklahoma.

Medieval 'war' waged in park

By CAROL DANIEL

The herald rises before the crowd of nobles and mundanes and bows to the Queen of Ansteorra.

"Lords, Ladies and Gentles," he calls to the medievally-garbed group of 100 gathered yesterday at Comanche Trail Park. "On the field of honor, Ulad of Stargate and Gareth Greyhawk of Stargate will engage in mortal combat."

The armored warriors, one from Houston and the other from Lubbock, face off, brandishing their bamboo weapons.

"My lords, salute the crowd," the herald demands. "Salute the lady who inspires your colors."

With that, they begin their three-round fight in the day-long tournament that determines the War Lord of Ansteorra, or in mundane tongue, Texas and Oklahoma. The mightiest warrior wins the right to lead Ansteorra's forces to battle, should there be one.

They fight under the watchful eye of the queen. The king, unfortunately, was on a business trip.

When one warrior falls to the ground, mortally wounded, his opponent continues pounding him in the head. From the crowd swells, not a bloodthirsty cry for more, but a vehement demand to "halt, halt!" the fight.

Unlike their medieval predecessors, this group wants no injuries.

On the sidelines, Yona of Namron (Norman, Okla.) and Lord Thomas McFarland of Argyle (Odessa-Midland) explain the goings on.

The participants live in the Current Middle Ages and are members of the Society for Creative Anachronism. The SCA is a non-profit educational organization dedicated to researching and recreating the customs, combat and courtesy of the Middle Ages.

Members build weapons, armor, and shields — and fight with them. They hold medieval tournaments and revels and their guilds study and practice brewing, armory, dance, calligraphy, and many other "lost" arts and

Mitchell precinct OKs liquor sales

By MARGARET BAUM
Herald Correspondent

COLORADO CITY — Voters in Precinct 3 of Mitchell County Saturday passed a proposition allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption.

The total votes were 476 for the proposition and 393 against. Of that, 41 absentee ballots were cast for and 57 against.

The precinct reported a 61 percent turnout. A total of 1,424 persons are registered to vote and 869 cast ballots.

"We were delighted with the voter turnout and I especially want to thank each person who voted," said Mrs. M. C. Burnett, co-chairman of the proponents of the issue.

"I'm saddened tonight with the passing of the issue," said Harold Davis, pastor of Oak Street Baptist Church and treasurer of the Citizens Against Legalizing Liquor. "The sale of alcoholic beverages in the stores of our community is certainly not progress."

"Alcoholism and drunkenness are a spiritual and moral reproach to any city," he said. "The one inherent factor in a democracy is the fact the majority can be wrong but win. This has happened in Colorado City today and God will hold us responsible."

Election Judge Jesse Munoz said that to the best of his knowledge, it was the largest voter turnout that Precinct 3 has ever had.

It is a sprawling precinct that covers not only parts of Colorado City, but reaches to the county lines of Coke, Howard and Scurry.

The proposition permits beer, wine and liquor sales from package stores. It does not allow for open taverns.

Howard College rodeo ends 3-day competition

After the national anthem and the prayer thanking the Lord "for being a cowboy and doing a cowboy's part," Sul Ross University lassoed six of the nine events this week at the Howard College NIRA Rodeo.

Other teams boasting winners include New Mexico Junior College and Western Texas College. Howard College, coached by Dusty Johnston, failed to win an event.

Final standings for the schools are figured at the end of college rodeo season.

About 150 people attended last night's events which ended about 10:30 p.m.

KBYG radio station won the goat dressing contest at half-time, an event in which local news media teams raced one another in clothing goats.

The college rodeo teams weathered cold and rain Thursday through Saturday to compete at the Howard County Fairground's Rodeo Bowl. The usual gasps and blanched expressions crossed the faces of those who watched as their boyfriends, husbands and sons limped away from angry animals.

The audience groaned again at the emcee's nonchalant remarks after particularly bad falls.

"He's not so worried about his head," the announcer said, "as he is about the $75 straw hat he just bought."

Those bareback bronc riders lucky enough not to be bucked into a wall pounded the ground in frustration when they slipped off before their allotted times. And the women watched forlornly as those slippery calves refused to be roped.

Not all the contestants were losers. The winners and their times are as follows:

Mark McKinney of Sul Ross — 71 seconds, bareback bronc
Cody Lambert of Sul Ross — 7 seconds, saddle bronc

Freddy Hernandez, college not given — 9.7 seconds, calf-roping

D.R. Daniel of New Mexico Junior College — 5.25 seconds, steer wrestling

Gayla Newton of Western Texas College — 10.88 seconds, goat tying

Chuck Lambert and Lynn Williams of Sul Ross — 6.38 seconds, team roping

Julie Simms of NMJC — 17.60 seconds, barrel racing

Jayne Gentry of Sul Ross — 3.75 seconds, break away

Cody Lambert and Danny Williams, both of Sul Ross — 71 seconds each, bull riding

For ex-POWs, memories remain

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

The first song Carl Ruse heard after being freed from a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp was Frank Sinatra singing "Don't Fence Me In."

Ruse, a 69-year-old World War II veteran from Odessa, banded war camp stories and chuckles with ten other ex-POWs last night in memory of the fall of Bataan. Yet the light-heartedness in the Veterans Administration Hospital conference room disguised still-fresh memories of physical and mental torture.

Afterwards, Ruse spoke bluntly about his three and a half years of captivity. He pulled out a billfold in which he carries two eloquent photographs, his bright brown eyes and year-etched face never changing expression as he spoke.

"It's been a long time, but I can still remember it as though it were yesterday," he said.

The first faded gray photograph was taken when he was liberated from a Yokkaichi, Japan, camp. He weighed 80 pounds. Then he turned the billfold over to reveal the solemn face of a Japanese boy who worked with him at the camp and sneaked food to him.

During his almost four years of captivity, Ruse plowed Filipino rice paddies and then worked in Japan in a blast furnace that melted down brass and copper items from Japanese-captured islands.

He underwent humiliation and physical and mental trauma, but Ruse survived.

"I ate everything I got a hold of, and it wasn't always too good," he recalled. "A lot of them (POWs) claimed they couldn't eat the rice they gave us. That's why we lost so many."

County's top speller is third in region Bee

LUBBOCK — Sashi Rajagopalan, Howard County's spelling champ, came in third in the 79-round regional spelling bee here Saturday.

The region's top speller is Lamesa 8th grader David Sorola, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sorola of Lamesa.

Sashi went out in the 52nd round on the word "partan." She spelled it "partin." A partan is a crab.

She thought she had lost in the 51st round after judges told her she had misspelled "gratinate." She left the stage, but the judges asked her to return when they discovered a mistake had been made.

David won in the 79th round with the word, "chansonnette," which of beerswillers, bellydancers and berserk bashers. It is a living, breathing subculture that can be educational — as well as fun.

"It's like living theater," said Yona, a seven-year veteran.

A member creates his or her own character, someone who might have lived in Western Europe between 600 and 1600 A.D. Their names and costumes must be approved as authentic, however they can not take on personalities of historical figures or well-known fictional characters.

"You can't be Ann Boleyn, but you could be her third cousin," McFarland explained.

There are between 15,000 and 20,000 members in the nine kingdoms of the "known world," the United States. There are members also in Germany, England, Australia and two U.S. naval warships.

Because it is difficult to be authentic and still live in the real world, SCA members have to make concessions, thus the "creative" in creative anachronism. Modern-day cameras are common at jousts, but they're called "stealers of souls." Watches become "anachronometers."

Members explain away their glasses by saying monks wore them in the middle ages. Their eye contacts are authentic, they say, because they first were invented by Leonardo da Vinci.

"It's what the Middle Ages should have been, rather than the way it was," McFarland said. "We do not have the bubonic plague and the inquisition, but we do have indoor plumbing."

Most of the fun, besides the bloodless battles and hearty revelries, comes with creating and explaining their persona.

"These guys come up with some wild stories," McFarland said. "Like trying to explain how they became a Jewish Viking."

Members learn how their character would have dressed, how they would have worshipped, even what oaths they would have cursed.

Yona of Namron is the son of a Norse father and an Indian mother, his name meaning bear in Cherokee. With a red beard, leather armor and round spectacles, he's the product of one of the early Norse expeditions to the New World.

"I've gone back to the Old World with my father's people," he said. "Now he serves as squire to 'My lord, Count Sir Finn Kelay O'Donnell from Nordliche Strum' (Tulsa, Okla.)."

Many are so devoted as to travel hundreds of miles each weekend to a tournament or revel. The ultimate trek is to the Pennsic War in Pennsylvania that determines the loser between the East and Mid-Realm kingdoms.

"Why does the war determine the loser?" one asks.

"Because the loser gets Pittsburgh," they answer.

Norwood spelled it "abrogate." Sashi, daughter of Ramachan-

"At the first camp we were burying 500 a day," he continued. "We dug trenches to bury them in and the next day we had to dig another one for the next batch. It was during the rainy season, their legs and arms would float up."

"Then we'd see the dogs come up and eat them," he said. "I used to think about it all the time, but not so much any more. Oh, every once in a while I'll dream about it."

About 70 people listened raptly as the veterans recalled old memories and swapped stories probably told hundreds of times in bars and cafes across the nation.

"Luckily, we can laugh at some of it," one man said. "Being deloused is one of the most humiliating things a human can go through, but I guess we all went through it and made it."

Those who spoke ended with a simple sentence. "I was glad to be home."

Dr. Delores Little closed the ceremony with her own welcome home.

"We know it is difficult to go back over those events," she said. "But it is important that we recall to our own reality of living what made our country and what made it possible for us to live here."

"We thank each of you," she continued. "We, too, are glad that you are home."

Challenger lands without a hitch

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Challenger, ship No. 2 in America's spacefaring fleet, came home Saturday from a break-in flight of 2.1 million miles. More than 100,000 cheerleaders thronged a sun-splashed desert runway.

Paul J. Weitz, a retired Navy captain, and Air Force Lt. Col. Karol Bobko guided the ship to a centerline landing, on time to the predicted second. It was 42 seconds after 10:53 a.m. in California.

Astronauts Story Musgrave and Donald Peterson were only passengers for the final phase of Challenger's five-day, 80-orbit flight, which would have been an unqualified success had not a satellite gone astray after it was ejected from the ship.

Musgrave and Peterson spent 3 hours, 47 minutes in the ship's open cargo bay on Thursday, making the first U.S. spacewalk in nine years as they practiced techniques that will be needed when the shuttle goes up to retrieve and repair satellites.

The foursome left the shuttle a half-hour after landing and walked around the ship, which appeared little worse for wear.

"Challenger is one hell of a flying machine," said Weitz, at a post-landing ceremony attended by Gov. George Deukmejian of California. "Being here today and having you folks be here kind of makes us feel a little bit like the Academy Awards, we stand up front and take all the bows and credit."

Bobko called the flight "a fantastic voyage" and Musgrave added: "We hope we have started another era in the space program by getting Challenger off to a good start."

And Peterson: "We had really a good time. We had a really fine mission. We really enjoyed ourselves."

The four astronauts later returned to the Houston area where they were welcomed by a crowd estimated at more than 500 people.

Fierce storm continues moving east

FLOODED ROADWAY — Floodwaters from the Bogue Chitto River at Franklinton, La. forced the closing of this stretch of road Friday. Some 200 homes in the area were flooded during the rising waters. President Reagan has declared parts of Louisiana a federal disaster area.

Tornado kills 3 persons in Florida

By The Associated Press
Thunderous rains ended Saturday after claiming 10 lives and forcing 27,000 people to flee floodwaters in Louisiana and Mississippi, but the storm moved into Florida and spawned a tornado that killed three people.

President Reagan pledged financial aid for areas awash after four days of rain.
Many towns remained under threat of more flooding from up to 2 feet of rain. The 20,000 evacuees in Louisiana and 7,000 in Mississippi have begun returning home.

Residents of Slidell, La., a New Orleans suburb and one of the fastest-growing areas of the state, were asked to leave Saturday because their turn had come to fight the waters of the raging Pearl River.

Nevertheless, the sun broke out in the afternoon for the first time in days. And Jim Thornhill, the civil defense director of Columbia, Miss., where the wild Pearl consumed a levee, said, "We're definitely on the road to recovery."

Alabama residents also saw the sun on Saturday, but rivers remained swollen and farmlands flooded. Rural flood warnings were posted for most of the rivers in central and western parts of the state.

AT INVERNESS, Fla., north of Tampa, a car "was picked up and slung to the ground about 200 to 300 feet from the roadway" by a tornado Saturday and three travelers were killed, Citrus County sheriff's Capt. Jim Hill.

The National Weather Service said there were two confirmed twister touchdowns in Florida's Citrus County. In one, south of Lecanto, a tanker truck was overturned and a mobile home and four structures were damaged.

In Washington, deputy White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president would telephone Govs. Dave Treen of Louisiana and William Winter of Mississippi to tell them the Federal Emergency Management Agency would expedite any emergency aid it could provide to augment state and local relief efforts.

He said the FEMA also began to process a formal presidential disaster declaration to enable the two hard-hit states to qualify for federal relief funds for flood victims and businesses.

NOLAN DUKE of the National Severe Storms Forecasting Center in Kansas City, Mo., said the storm was "pretty much breaking up" after reaching the Atlantic.

Duke said the storm was pushed ashore by a "big jet stream system" that barely budged for four days and relentlessly pounded the coastal flatlands day and night.

The system was just like the one that brought devastating storms to California earlier this year, Duke said, only this one "had to wait to get to the Gulf before picking up moisture."

The moisture fed the storm in an "unlimited supply, as long as the wind was blowing," Duke said, and "it just kept pumping and pumping with nothing to push it out of the way."

Hard hit was Hattiesburg, Miss., where three people died after the Leaf River jumped its banks. About 1,000 homes and 250 businesses were damaged in Hattiesburg and 300 homes across the river in Petal, and 5,000 people were evacuated.

Hattiesburg Mayor Bobby Chain estimated damage at $108 million.

"We have to start planning for our recovery," Chain said.

Uncounted thousands of homes were flooded in the New Orleans area, most of them Thursday, telephones were out for more than 24 hours and damage was put at $50 million to $100 million.

IN MOST of southern Louisiana, people were drying out their belongings and preparing to move back home in a area 100 miles wide from the Mississippi border west to Baton Rouge.

Volcano silent; lava flow destroys homes

VOLCANO, Hawaii (AP) — Kilauea volcano fell silent Saturday, but lava from its latest eruption continued flowing through a remote hillside subdivision where it destroyed several homes, authorities said.

"We can't really say the eruption is over," said Jon Erickson, spokesman for Hawaii Volcanoes National Park. "When it stops it stops."

About 150 residents of the Royal Gardens subdivision, routed Friday and Saturday for the third time since the volcano began its eruption Jan. 3, had been ordered evacuated Friday as an 18-foot high, 900-foot-wide wall of lava approached their homes on the volcano's slopes.

But a vent in the volcano fell silent Saturday morning and the level of activity dropped to its lowest point since Jan. 3, Erickson said. Roadblocks were lifted and residents were allowed back home.

Five structures were destroyed overnight by lava, Erickson said, and a sixth — a model home for the subdivision — was "totally isolated, surrounded by lava, there is no way to get to it."

No other homes appeared to be immediately threatened.

Police and Civil Defense officials gave reporters a tour of the subdivision where burning boulders crashed from the top of the wall of lava and disintegrated as they slowly moved forward. Trees exploded when they came into contact with the flow.

Abortion protests called 'terrorism'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Right-to-life activists increased their sometimes violent harassment of abortion clinics last year, creating a "climate of terrorism" that raises concern about patients' safety, says a professional association of doctors and abortion centers.

Thirty-three incidents of violence against abortion clinics were reported in 1982, including six firebombings and the kidnapping of a doctor, according to Uta Landy, executive director of the National Abortion Federation.

Although she was unable to provide specific figures for past years, Ms. Landy said the 1982 count was the "highest number that we have ever seen" and that harassment of abortion clinics is likely to increase this year.

"People are very concerned for their own safety, as well as for the safety of the women who are having abortions," she said in a recent interview.

Joe Scheidler of the Pro-Life Action Committee in Chicago says his group has stepped up its efforts to picket abortion clinics around the country and to discourage women from having abortions. In fact, Scheidler said he may help picket the federation's annual meeting in New Orleans this week.

But he firmly denied his group had been involved in any violence.

"We call it non-violent direct action," he said in a telephone interview. "If I'm really committed to be pro-life, I would never set fire to a clinic. Someone might get hurt."

The federation is determined to fight any type of harassment, which Ms. Landy said has "created a certain kind of climate of terrorism."

"I think we have grown prepared enough and sophisticated enough to fight violence in a very organized kind of fashion," she said, citing her organization's efforts to educate abortion providers about countermeasures, insurance and legal avenues to stop right-to-life groups that overstep the bounds of free speech.

Such countermeasures will be one focus of the federation's annual meeting, she said.

The NAF, founded in 1977, now has 250 members — including doctors, counselors, abortion clinics and others involved in providing abortion services.

The federation initially concentrated on setting standards for abortion services and trying to educate women who are seeking abortions in what they should expect in terms of quality care.

But in the past two years, it has turned to more public education efforts and politics. That concentration will intensify later this year when the organization's office moves to Washington from New York City.

The public image of abortion is poor, Ms. Landy says, because of the history of illegal abortions and right-to-life groups' efforts to paint the procedure as a moral wrong.

"People are very ignorant about it. They know very little about what an abortion facility is like, the physicians who perform abortions, the counselors and the like," she said.

"Illegal abortion was a terrible thing and there is a lot of stigma attached to that — back alleys and dirt and quacks performing abortions. I think the other side has perpetuated that and capitalized on those images," she added. "The way abortions are provided is really the opposite of that."

Ms. Landy says she believes harassment of abortion clinics will continue to increase because anti-abortion groups have turned their attention to the local level, after trying thus far unsuccessfully to outlaw abortion on a national scale. Legislation to ban abortion narrowly failed to pass Congress in 1982, but national right-to-life groups are pushing new bills this session.

"They are moving more to decreasing access and availability of abortion services," she said.

These efforts include local ordinances requiring 24-hour waiting periods, "informed consent" counseling and zoning changes designed to exclude abortion clinics. The U.S. Supreme Court is currently considering whether several such local ordinances are constitutional.

There oughtta be a law...

We think it's time someone took a stand against winter in April.

Here everyone has bought their warm weather clothes, only to have the temperature dip to bone-chilling degrees. Are we really going to have to dig out our winter coats again, after we already put them up two months ago?

We're supposed to be cooking outdoors now, but it's difficult to barbecue the steaks when there's snow on the grill.

We look to the sports page to find how our favorite baseball team fared, and we read the game has been postponed due to snow.

At the track meets, the poor runners shiver and suffer in the cold air. You can't buy hot chocolate because it's a cold weather drink and the weather was supposed to be warm.

April is supposed to be the time when bikined beauties and muscled hunks get a head start on their summer tans — but no chance so far this year. We fear a crop of pale, pale bodies for the summer.

So what can be done? Write your congressman and complain to the city manager. We just can't have winter in April anymore.

Closet chocolateur

What's dark brown, comes from South America and drives people into the street at 3 in the morning to buy it?

Ah, chocolate. The stuff of which dreams are made.

I confess, I try to be the jogger, the Perrier-with-a-twist-of-lime drinker, the spinach salad eater. I even bought a Walkman to lose myself in the health-conscious crowd.

But as far as I'm concerned, there's nothing better than a chocolate shake at Woolworth's lunch counter. I guess I'll always be a chocolate lover at heart.

I'm not alone. There have to be more closet chocolate lovers than closet gays. Our problem (or virtue) is that we don't want to come out of the closet. It's too much fun being sinful.

Eating chocolate is a world-wide passion, a sensuous delight. One Herald staff writer said he wants to immerse himself completely in the sweet stuff, to have it poured over his body. Now there's a chocolate lover.

CONNOISSEURS know that, like a fine wine, one has to give chocolate a good mouth feel to truly appreciate it. The tongue curls around it and then the amber liquid, melted by the mouth's heat, slides down the throat. Heaven.

Some of us kind can't afford to be a true connoisseur. I have to settle for staring at Hershey chocolate bars at 7-Eleven while buying my $4 bottle of Liebfraumilch.

Why is this simple, common food so fascinating? Perhaps because it's not so simple or common. Chocolate has 300 identified compounds, one of which is phenylethylamine, a chemical that can be associated with the emotion of falling in love.

Chocolate originates from cacao trees in exotic places like West Africa, Brazil, Ecuador, Venezuela and Malaysia. The long yellow pods are sliced open with a machete and the small ivory colored beans ferment for a week among banana peels, a process that piques the imagination of the most calloused globe-trotter.

I'M INTRIGUED by the $600 chocolate Monopoly sets sold at exclusive shops. I'd feel much better about losing Park Place to my sister if I could help her eat it later.

There, I've confessed. I've come out of the closet. The way to my heart is through a box of Godiva chocolates. Bring it on.

Out to Lunch

By MARGARET BAUM

Feeding the flock

Whenever my mind's eye pictures delectable cuisine, it doesn't envision Parisian restaurants or Oriental repasts. I think of the "family night suppers" in fellowship hall at the church.

We had those suppers once a month for years — our children grew up being held while their plates were filled. When they were old enough, they filled their own — usually with one piece of meat and at least three or four desserts. No vegetables.

The rule of thumb was "bring enough for your own family plus one," which certainly provided more than enough for everyone.

Preparing our family's contributions was no effort, but it was a tremendous undertaking for two adults to get four small children and food for six into the car and to the church without the dessert looking as though small fingers had raked through it and the casserole had been sat on. We never got to the church with a complete salad — somebody always picked out the bell pepper. I still don't know which one did it.

After the minister's "blessing," we inched our way in two lines toward an unbelievable array of culinary artistry — meats, vegetables, salads of all colors and descriptions and desserts ... cakes, pies, cobblers, cookies. I often wished for a camera, because I could have put together a magazine food section to rival "Better Homes and Gardens."

THERE ALWAYS was teasing and joshing about who went back for seconds and thirds and the comment, "Methodists sure know how to cook and eat" always drew a laugh. Then, after everybody had eaten all they possibly could, chairs were pushed back and lots of visiting went on — comparing opinions about the latest Cowboy game ... discussing a new business coming to town ... sometimes, simply catching up with what had happened lately to the person sitting next to you. The children entertained themselves by playing games between the rows of tables — sometimes, even under them. But nobody minded.

WHEN IT WAS time to go, dishes were gathered up and small, sticky hands were clasped firmly to be sure everybody got in the right cars. That month's "family night supper" was over. But, for a while, people slowed down, took time to inquire about each other ... took time to care.

It's difficult for differences to exist when people break bread together.

A talk with 'Whorehouse' author

Two weeks ago I had the opportunity to meet Larry King, co-author of the hit Broadway musical "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

He was at a party at Indian Cliffs Ranch in El Paso, hosted by Texas managing editors.

Midway through the party, I walked up and said, "I just want to meet you. I'm Linda Adams from Big Spring."

"Big Spring!" he replied. "You're the only damn town in West Texas that has a hill in it!"

I acknowledged that this was true. He wanted to know if Mr. Pickle were still at the paper, and I replied that he had retired, and that his successor Tommy Hart had also retired.

King then talked about working and being fired from newspapers in Hobbs and Midland and Odessa.

When he learned I was from Sweetwater, he told a football story. The year was 1947. "You're not born yet, right?" he said.

"Well, almost," I replied.

He had played football for Midland High School, and he recalled what he said had been the most painful night of his life. It happened at Mustang Bowl in Sweetwater. He was a receiver. "I remember two times that I was open for a touchdown pass, they didn't throw the ball to me. But the three times I was open that they did throw the ball to me, I dropped it. All three times. It's easy for me to understand teenage suicide, because I came very close that night."

Earlier during the convention King had told a story about jamming one night with Willie Nelson. They had played and sung all night, and finally it was time for Nelson to go home. King pleaded, "Willie, I'll give you $50 if you'll just sing 'Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain.'"

King said Nelson considered the proposal, then said, "Okay. But I'll give you $100 if you won't join in."

After hearing King take the mike from the band at the La Cantina party and sing "Blue Eyes," I could well understand Willie Nelson's concern.

AT THE PARTY, King told me how he really learned to write. He had been in the Army, and was on a ship with 2,000 other soldiers. Right before the ship left, he was pulled off the ship and told his orders had been changed. He was being assigned to the Signal Corps photographic unit. First he starred as an "actor," in such hits as "How to Roll an Army Field Bunk," and "Personal Hygiene." Then he began writing the scripts, "and this is where I really began to learn to write," he said.

"Life is so damn strange," he said. "Why was I the one yanked off that ship? It could have been anybody, but it was me, and it changed the course of my whole life."

Although King is pleased with his success, he fears that when he dies, the headline on his obituary will read, "Whorehouse Author Dead."

I received a letter this week from a Chicago friend who described that city's mayoral race between Harold Washington (D) and Bernard Epton (R). The letter brought home to me the vast difference between a city election in Big Spring and one in Chicago.

Here is an excerpt: "I am really ashamed to be from Chicago, this whole thing reminds me of stuff in the 50s and 60s.

"Rep. Washington, the black guy, may not be the best candidate the black population could put forth, but when was the last time one said about a white candidate, 'He's a first-class candidate.'"

"I have some real concerns about the aftermath of this election, regardless of who wins; I think things are so out-of-hand that we could have a replay of some of the riots of the 60s if Washington doesn't win, and I fear an assassination attempt if he does.

"The Republican candidate, by the way, is basically your typical, bland, sacrificial lamb guy who in a normal year wouldn't get much more than 35 percent — if that. He is not a bad individual, but I don't see him as much of a leader.

"Anyway, we'll know more in a week or so. I hope none of the stuff I've written happens, but I really don't like the way things are going in this one."

Makes Big Spring politics seem comfortably tame, doesn't it.

What to do with your child

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We have a young child, and my mother-in-law is urging us to do something to teach our child about religion. I have always felt that we would just wait and let the child make his own decisions about religion when he grows up. Should we follow her advice? — Mrs. S.D.

DEAR MRS. S.D. Yes, you should. The Bible says, "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it" (Proverbs 22:6). It also commands us to do all we can to help our children understand God's truth.

It is true, of course, that the time must come when a child makes his own decision for Christ. But that does not mean we should neglect to guide them and instruct them. After all, you seek to protect your child from physical dangers, and you help him to understand (for example) why it is important to be careful when he crosses the street. You also feed him a balanced diet so he will grow physically. He does not know what is best for him at this age, and part of your responsibility is to help him and keep him from harm.

It is important to guard your child physically — but it also is very important to guard him spiritually as well. He is not just a physical or mental being — God has given him a spiritual nature as well. In fact, the most important decision he will ever make in his life will be whether or not he will trust Christ for his salvation and follow him in his life. Now is the time to help him understand that God loves him and wants him to be his child.

Your question, however, suggests to me that you and your husband do not give much attention to God in your lives. What will you teach your child — not only by your words, but by your actions? If Christ means little to you, your child will probably grow up thinking Christ doesn't need to be very important in his life as well. But you need Christ. You need to make him the foundation of your marriage and your family. That is why I urge you and your husband to examine your own need of Christ, and then yield yourselves to him without reserve.

School bus drivers speak out

Dear Editor, We think it is about time that the school bus drivers of Big Spring had a chance to speak out in their defense.

First of all we are humans like everyone else. We are mothers, fathers, and grandparents. But most people think of us as just the Bus Driver.

We, for the most part, do a special job and that is taking your children and ours to and from school. In the course of these trips, we handle a little of everything: from wet pants, illness, pot smoking, tobacco chewing, spitting on the floor or seats, tearing the covers off the seats, foul language, fights, and even kids bringing guns or knives.

Now, we only have from 40 to 72 students to carry every day, and we have to keep order on the bus, watch the traffic, and keep our eyes on the mirrors so we can get these kids to school and home in one piece.

We get passed on the road while our red lights are flashing and people pull out in front of us trying to beat the bus to the next corner. We can't park where we are supposed to because people pull into our loading zones and we have to block traffic while we are waiting to get into the marked zones.

We report students for causing trouble on the bus and all we get for this is flak.

We are not allowed to eat, drink, smoke or use profane language on the bus. Why should the student?

We try and correct a problem several times before we report a student. Then, if all fails, we write up the student.

We have been called every foul name there is and all we can do is report them. Sometimes it helps to report a student, but, sometimes it is necessary to call their parents.

Al Valdes thanks voters

Dear Editor, I would like to thank the voters who re-elected me to the Big Spring School District Board of Trustees.

For the past nine years I have dedicated myself to keeping informed and studying all issues form all sides because our school system is our most important institution.

I know I haven't always pleased everyone with my stands on these issues but I have carried out my duties to the best of my abilities with the perspectives I had at the time.

I deeply appreciate this opportunity to serve and pledge continuation of my best efforts to work for a strong school system. I want to work in partnership with the taxpayers who carry the burden of the load.

Sincerely,
AL VALDES

Woman had her day in court

Dear Editor, I read the article about Mrs. Worthan's alleged ordeal at the Police Station, Re April 5, 1983, and although I can identify with her feelings, I cannot sympathize with her.

It appears she is trying to place the blame for her shame on the much-abused and overloaded shoulders of a policeman who was just doing his job.

What ever happened to innocent until proven guilty, she asks. She had her day in court and she pleaded guilty — what happened, she was sentenced! Case closed.

Introducing Proposition Zero

Despite all the memorizing in school days past, even state lawmakers have trouble recalling the letters and numbers of more than 3,000 bills. That's why we often nickname the most important ones, and I'm pleased to be co-sponsoring a bill known around the Capitol as "Proposition Zero".

Now don't be misled—Proposition Zero is far from a "nothing" bill. In fact, it zeros in on two very important issues: local school property taxes and the equalization of state education funding. The bill proposes to eliminate school property taxes on residences and automobiles and compensate by a one-cent increase in the state tax. As a result, almost everyone would pay less in sales taxes than they've been paying in property taxes.

Many of us are still gasping for air after the first round of tax notices under last session's "Peveto Bill" arrived. Although the principle behind 100 percent property valuation is basically a sound one, it dealt a dirty blow to most homeowners. Due to the various exemptions, a tremendous tax burden was shifted onto homeowners' shoulders. The result was a lot of angry taxpayers who, in turn, forced many school districts to face the possibility of taxpayer-sponsored elections to "roll back" new tax rates.

In 1982, the 1,100 school districts in Texas collected more than $900 million in residential property taxes. Under Proposition Zero, the one-cent sales tax increase would generate an additional $300 million. The total would be kept in a public education sales tax fund and distributed by the State Treasurer to school districts based on their average daily attendance (ADA). For 95 percent of the districts across the state, this approach would generate significantly more money per student than the amount currently collected in local property taxes.

Take my home district of Big Spring, for example. The ADA is about 4,500 students. According to 1982 data, the school district collected $719,000 in residential property taxes — about $160 per student. Had Proposition Zero been in effect, it would have generated more than $1.2 million for Big Spring, or $269 for each student.

The story is similar for the vast majority of schools in District 69. Only about 55 local school districts across the state would potentially lose money under the plan; however,

Proposition Zero guarantees a return of at least the amount lost from residential tax exemptions.

The difference to taxpayers is really astounding. By increasing the state sales tax only one cent, a family who makes $10,000 annually would pay only about $23 dollars per year to educate Texas school children. A family who makes $30,000 would pay about $54 per year.

Other benefits of this bill are clear as well. To those on limited or low incomes, a sales tax paid gradually is far preferable to paying a lump sum at the end of the year. Middle-income families would realize a proportionate savings as well. Finally, the opportunity "gaps" between poorer school districts and richer school districts would be closed considerably under Proposition Zero. After all, the ingredients of education should not be determined by the individual property wealth of local school districts.

Please let me know your reaction to the "Proposition Zero" bill by writing my office in Austin, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78769. Or feel free to call me at 512-475-2617. I have just recently installed a new, toll-free number in Big Spring: 1-800-592-4731.

Bullock suffers from lack of credibility

By JIM DAVIS

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock told us last week the state will have $953 million less in revenue the next two years than he had estimated a few weeks before. This news, tacked onto several earlier reduced revenue estimates, further shocked state leaders trying to balance the budget.

At the same time, Bullock firmly denied he was drinking the day he was stopped by a state trooper for driving 106 miles an hour, almost double the legal rate. The two empty beer cans the trooper saw in the car must have been left by someone else, Bullock said, and the trooper was mistaken about smelling alcohol on his breath.

These two events seem unrelated, but they point out a problem as the Legislature and Gov. Mark White struggle with satisfying legitimate state needs while honoring the public's resistance to new taxes: Bullock has a credibility problem.

Politicians naturally are suspicious sorts. They have to be in a profession where so many people are trying to pull them so many different ways and so many others would love to see them pulled apart.

So, it's understandable that legislators, who are going to have to take the heat if they deny teachers a reasonable pay hike or raise taxes to meet these and similar needs, are looking at Bullock with a suspicious eye.

On the surface, it doesn't seem to matter much whether they believe the story about the mysterious beer cans in the new car of a man who says he is a reformed alcoholic. Such things are mostly good for enlivening conversation at the bars where legislators and lobbyists hang out.

With more suspicion than charity existing in such settings, it's not surprising that Bullock's version isn't drawing much sympathy. Even those who defend him have to admit that a reformed alcoholic — particularly one in the public eye — doesn't show much judgment by driving 106 mph with two empty beer cans in clear view, whatever their source.

And Bullock's judgment has become an issue in the struggle over state finances.

Under Texas' pay-as-you-go constitutional requirements, the comptroller wields tremendous power. He alone determines how much the Legislature can budget for the coming two fiscal years. There is no way legislators effectively can challenge the revenue amount the comptroller sets.

In the current case, Bullock's revenue estimate, in great part, will determine how much is spent the next two years on highways, teachers' salaries, prison construction and many other things. And, it can determine whether legislators and Gov. White have to accept a tax increase and try to explain it to the public.

If Bullock's estimates are on target and as accurate as possible, they can help the state survive perilous financial times. If they are unreasonably low, they can force the legislators and governor to make politically dangerous decisions unnecessarily.

Q. A real estate agent advised a friend to make some repairs to his home to make it more salable. These repairs included major ones to the roof and furnace. Is this necessary?

A. A good, reputable real estate agent will often make suggestions to make the home more attractive to prospective buyers. However, major repairs to roof and furnace, for example, usually do not pay for themselves in resale prices, and are usually not suggested. What may be advised, however, is to have a reputable roofing or heating contractor give bids for the work. With this information at hand, your agent can then tell a prospective buyer what kind of expense he may be looking at in these improvements.

El Paso's ballet finds dancing tough

EL PASO (AP) — With a $90,000 deficit, cash flow problems and now a lack of performers, the Ballet El Paso is dancing the blues.

The El Paso company, executive director Ed Cimballa said, hasn't had the funding to attract top-notch dancers. But because of its current lack of talent, the company plans to nearly double its 1983-84 dancers budget.

"We will be paying more to our dancers next year than we ever have before," he said.

Reagan blames liberals for economic defeats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan accused liberal House Democrats on Saturday of trying to "wreck the progress we've made" toward economic recovery, and he promised to veto any congressional attempt to revoke the 10 percent income tax cut taking effect July 1.

Noting that "the date many of us dread more than any other" — the April 15 deadline for filing federal income tax returns — is only a few days away, Reagan promised Americans they will receive the final installment of his 25 percent reduction in income tax rates as scheduled.

"It's not as much as we wanted," he said, referring to his original proposal for a three-year, 30 percent cut, "but it's the most we could get, given the tremendous opposition to any tax reduction by the spending lobbies in Washington."

"All of you who've worked hard to meet your tax obligations this year, be on guard," Reagan warned in his weekly radio address, made Saturday from his Camp David, Md., retreat.

"The liberal Democrats in the House of Representatives want you to pay more, much more," he said. "They want to increase taxes on medium-income families by $3,550 over the next five years" by eliminating the July 1 tax cut and Reagan's plan to tie tax rates to the cost of living.

"Nothing could be more unfair," Reagan said of the House-passed plan. "I promise you this: I will veto any attempt to take away the third year of your tax cut" or the law to index tax rates to inflation.

Claiming that local, state and federal governments now take "40 percent of our nation's income," Reagan said, "We've been creeping closer to socialism, a system that someone once said works only in heaven, where it isn't needed, and in hell, where they've already got it."

"Just as our program is beginning to mesh and deliver what we promised with personal savings and spending up, productivity up, auto and steel production and housing construction all recovering, workers being called back, the stock market hitting an all-time high and consumer confidence surging, just as the recovery is gaining strength, a plan is afoot that would wreck the progress we've made," Reagan said.

"The liberal Democratic tax policy seems to boil down to this: America makes, government takes," he added. "We will not reverse our progress in reducing tax rates. We have only begun."

Regarding the economy, Simon said, "There are now more poor than ever. Business failures are at the highest point since the Great Depression."

The management at Fiberglass Systems Inc. would like to take this opportunity to thank all the volunteers associated with Jonesboro Fire Department for their prompt & professional assistance when called on.

Israel mourns Jewish victims of Holocaust

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., April 10, 1983 7-A

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — President Yitzhak Navon and other dignitaries on Saturday mourned the 6 million Jewish victims of Nazi genocide, during a nationally televised ceremony that opened observances of the annual Holocaust Day. The ceremony at the Yad Vashem Holocaust memorial in Jerusalem commenced a 24-hour mourning period in which Israelis will observe a nationwide minute of silence and most stores and restaurants will be closed. Speakers at the ceremony read from Holocaust writings and a choir sang of the Jewish resistance to the Nazis in the years leading up to and during World War II. The theme of this year's commemoration is the 40th anniversary of the Warsaw ghetto uprising, the 53-day revolt in which Polish Jews held out against the German army. An estimated 65,000 Jews died in that struggle, which began April 19, 1943. At the televised ceremony, the Yad Vashem chairman, Dr. Yitzhak Arad, declared 1983 the year of Jewish heroism. Arad said the Warsaw revolt, which ended when the Nazis bombed every building in the compound and killed or captured most of the remaining Jews, sparked other Jewish revolts in ghettos and concentration camps throughout Nazi-occupied Europe. In 1943, more than 1 million Jews fought in the allied ranks against the Nazis, and thousands of Jewish youths joined underground resistance fighters, Arad said. The Jews in the Warsaw ghetto knew they would die, he said, but "they fought so that history could write that the Jews fought back." Speaking earlier on Israel Radio, Arad quoted from the last letter of the ghetto commander, Mordechai Anielewicz. The letter was smuggled out before the Nazis destroyed the ghetto. "What happened here goes beyond my wildest dreams — the Germans have fled from the ghetto twice. I have lived to see a Jewish defense in the ghetto in all its greatness and glory," he wrote. Arad, a Holocaust survivor, will head an Israeli delegation to ceremonies in Poland next week marking the ghetto uprising. The unofficial delegation is braving critics who charge that by going, the Israelis are legitimizing the Polish government's suppression of the independent union Solidarity. The critics also say the group would be endorsing the Polish view of the ghetto uprising as an all-Polish rebellion. Arad said he hoped to prevent Polish authorities from presenting the uprising as part of the national resistance to the Nazis. The Jews resisted without help from the Polish capital's non-Jewish population, he said. At sundown Saturday, the radio aired interviews with some of the estimated 100,000 Holocaust survivors living in Israel. On Sunday, the country will come to a standstill at 8 a.m. with the sound of air-raid sirens. Traffic will stop, people will stand in silence and state flags will be lowered to half mast.

Classes on computers may become required

By JANET WARREN

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — It's a sign of the times. Five- and six-year-olds in some Texas public schools are learning to type into a computer terminal before they can write with a pencil.

As the computer age begins to infiltrate the classroom, members of the State Board of Education are studying the idea of "computer literacy" and pondering whether to mandate courses with that objective in mind in Texas schools.

In a presentation before the board Friday, some educators already heavily involved in that new educational technology emphasized that in two years being able to read a "menu" on a computer will be as important as being able to read a book's table of contents.

STUDENTS WHO will get ahead in the changing society will know how to use computers to retrieve data spewing from the "information explosion" as compared to students in years past who memorized everything, said Pat Sturdivant, assistant director of the Houston school district's Department of Technology. Her department deals specifically with the district's massive computer education program.

Jim Poirot, head of North Texas State University's computer science department, said the push for "computer literacy" is unique in that it is coming from the parents and industry and not necessarily academia. A computer literate society is a must if the state is to reap the benefits of the "science-driven" era, he said.

APPARENTLY THE new technology is not being forced on unwilling students. Kids like working with computers. They see them as an extension of Pac-Man or color television, according to a Houston school district film strip.

One board member voiced concern when Ms. Sturdivant noted that some students are learning to type before they can write. But she assured him that writing is being taught, too.

Some people may think computers are good for nothing but dry mathematical computations. But a demonstration on a classroom computer showed that students can select some words to make a sentence and only to see the string of words come alive visually and verbally.

For example, a student could chose "the," "man," and "runs." The screen then would display a cartoon-like man running. A computer voice also would say the sentence.

Such programs are very helpful for students learning English as a second language, Ms. Sturdivant said. However, the programs currently are not available from the companies making computer software, she said, so HISD district officials have developed some themselves.

While the computer educators complained that there is trouble finding good, educational programs for the schools, they predicted that more would become available as the publishing companies realize schools are serious about using computers.

THE STATE could help those districts steer clear of pitfalls by establishing a format and other criteria for those programs, said Sandy Pratscher, a Texas Education Agency consultant. Five to 10 school districts phone already phone her office each week with such questions, she said.

State board members will hold hearings across the state this summer to help them reach a decision next fall on new curriculum requirements for Texas schools. A Texas Education Agency official said that the agency probably will receive a lot of public input on computer literacy.

DALLAS (AP) — Secured creditors of Braniff International aren't saying whether they will support or oppose a proposal from Hyatt International Corp. that could get the grounded airline flying again.
 Braniff's secured lenders met in New York on Friday, but adjourned without making a statement.
 One committee member, who asked that he not be identified, called the meeting "tense," but would say nothing further, The Dallas Morning News reported today.
 The secured lenders group is made up of 39 banks and holding companies holding liens against Braniff assets.

White rips U.S. policy on border

AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White had some strong words Friday for the federal government's handling of the current economic problems that have left the Rio Grande Valley on the border of economic ruin.
 During his weekly news conference White said the financial situation is so bad in the Rio Grande Valley that "people now are not waiting for their cars to be repossessed, they just go in and hand the tankers the keys and that is something that hasn't happened in many, many years in Texas."

Vice President George Bush, during an Austin stopover Thursday, said solving the problems in the Valley should be solved by aiding an economic recovery in Mexico.

Unemployment along the Texas-Mexico border has skyrocketed and businesses have been hard hit by recent devaluations in the Mexican peso.

White expressed displeasure at the inactivity of the Republican administration following a briefing he delivered to President Ronald Reagan and others during a trip to Washington, D.C. last month.

"I was hopeful that by this time we would have seen more positive steps from the national administration in Washington to alleviate the suffering that exists along the that border," White said.

"It's dramatic and they've had the evidence since I presented it more than a month ago," he added. "I think it's alarming that they would ignore the human problems that exist there and the realities of the economics..."

White, a Democrat, said he is developing a plan to help lower the unemployment rate in the area, a proposal that would include efforts to increase tourism and new job training programs.

Plans for National Library Week announced

By ROSE von HASSELL
Cataloguer

Since April 17-23 is National Library week the Howard County Library is planning some special events.

On Monday April 18, we will start opening on Mondays. This will give our patrons an extra day to come and make use of our services.

On Friday, April 22 from from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. we will have a tea for the public. This is our way of saying thank you to the many patrons who support us. At the tea will be Shirley A. Darden who has written a cookbook titled "Collections of Favorite One-Bowl Cake Recipes." Shirley lives in Big Spring with her husband Aubrey Ray, five children and two grandchildren. She is a graduate nurse, has been active in Girl Scouts, the Red Cross, has taught at the Guam Rehab Center for Adults, was an instructor at the University of Guam Police Academy, a photographic model and had a 15 minute radio talk show.

As you can see she is very active and this is one reason she decided to do a cookbook. There are 21 cake recipes and 19 frostings, plus very helpful hints to make baking a success. Each recipe is mixed in one bowl and takes five minutes or less to measure, mix, and get into the oven.

Shirley will autograph her book to those people that would like to purchase a copy. The price is $2.95. We will also have samples to taste from the cookbook.

Our book sale will be held on April 22 and 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. We have paperbacks, fiction, non-fiction and children's books for sale. The prices are very reasonable, so if you want a good book to read and a bargain, come to our sale. The proceeds from the sale go to the library for special equipment, and other needs that are not covered in the budget.

Won't you come and help us celebrate National Library Week by coming to the tea, book sale, check out a book, or just come and visit with us and see what the Howard County Library has to offer the people of Howard County?

municipal workers in this North Texas town. Mayor John Lenley and council member Jerry Spurger said they quit Thursday night to protest the election of Billy Branch, Eddie Lee Bratton and Kenneth Leeson to the council last Saturday.

Sign-up begins for benefit walk

Registration forms for the March of Dimes WalkAmerica/TeamWalk April 23 are now available at the organization's office located in the Permian Building, said Dorene Zilberg, executive director of the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes.

Registration forms may also be picked up at local 7-Eleven stores, whose parent firm, the Southland Corp., is serving as national sponsor of the benefit walk.

Southland has also agreed to allow 7-Eleven employees from its 10 Big Spring stores and nine Midland stores to participate in the TeamWalk.

Volunteers participating in both the individual and team portions of the walk will solicit pledges from sponsors. After the 10 mile route is completed, the pledges will be collected and donated to the March of Dimes for research to prevent birth defects.

Mrs. Zilberg said companies in the Big Spring area are being encouraged to enter teams for the benefit. "This promotes team spirit and comradery among the employees and provides the company with visibility and good public relations," she said.

In last year's walk, in which 1.5 million volunteers participated, many teams wore company T-shirts or other insignia to identify their employers, Mrs. Zilberg said.

"Through TeamWalk, your organization can join the fight to save babies — and give America's future generations the best start in life," she said.

Everyone who finishes the walk will receive a free hamburger from Burger King. Two "Battered Boot" trophies will be presented to the person or team who has collected the most donations.

Any walker who turns in more than $100 in pledges will receive a WalkAmerica T-shirt and a "Grogg" thermal mug. Donations of $75 or more will earn the volunteer a free meal at Burger King every month for a year, and the walker with $50 or more in donations will receive a free movie pass from Jack Lewis Buick & Cadillac.

The walk will begin at 9 a.m. at the Big Spring Mall.

Shaw to lead benefit walk

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw will return to his hometown April 23 to lead the March of Dimes WalkAmerica/Teamwalk. Joining him will be state Sen. John Montford of Lubbock, Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel and District Judge Jim Gregg.

The 10-mile walk will begin at 9 a.m. at the Big Spring Mall. "I urge the good people of Big Spring to be a part of this volunteer effort and get sponsors for WalkAmerica," Shaw said. "Show your support and concern for the unborn and the newborn who have a right to be healthy babies."

LARRY DON SHAW ...to lead walk

NEW STORE: — The Southland Corp. opened its 10th 7-Eleven store in Big Spring March 31. The manager of the convenience store, located at the corner of Fourth and Johnson streets, is John Dolan. The store is shown displaying a March of Dimes WalkAmerica banner. The Southland Corp. is national sponsor of the benefit walk.

Death row woman released

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Janet Sanders Miller, once scheduled to be executed in 1975, is making her transition from death row to freedom.

Ms. Miller walked out of the women's prison in Oklahoma City on Wednesday after Gov. George Nigh signed her parole papers.

The Pardon and Parole Board voted 3-2 last month for Ms. Miller's parole.

Ms. Miller, 36, never denied her role as a planner and getaway car driver in the 1975 robbery and murder of Louise Bensen, 27, a Midwest City convenience store clerk.

Mrs. Bensen was robbed and shot by Bill Roger Miller, Ms. Miller's common-law husband.

They were tried jointly on first-degree murder charges, convicted and sentenced

Miller remains in the state penitentiary. Their death sentences were commuted to life terms in 1975 when the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the state's death penalty law.

She had spent 21 months on death row before her sentence was commuted, and later was transferred to the Mabel Bassett Correctional Center in Oklahoma City.

Tulsa resident Donna Hobson and parole board member Augusta Mann took up her cause while she still sat on death row. Mrs. Hobson and several former parole officials, including former Chairman Charles Chestnut, said she might have received a lesser sentence if she had been tried separately from her husband.

...and justice for all

Too many times these days, justice isn't served. Whether you notice it oozing out of the nation's courtrooms or you notice it when Billy Martin is raising Cain at home plate, the absence of justice is going around town like an epidemic.

Friday night, justice reigned at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa. Of all places. Right in very face of magical, mystical, mighty Mojo, justice drew top billing. And for a Big Spring athlete, no less.

Just a year ago, sprinter Richard Evans ran fifth in the 100 meters at the District 4-5A boy's meet in Midland. Unfortunately for Evans he ran in the lane closest to the stadium wall and was overlooked. Overlooked, completely. Pickers said he was seventh. No way. I saw it. He was fifth sure as Jaklewicz is Polish.

Evans was really hurt. The points didn't mean much to Big Spring's team standing or to the Steer senior, but he had placed in his final meet and done something positive for his team. But his name never appeared among the top six on the final results sheet.

A dozen months later, Big Spring sprinter Shell Rutledge is exited from the 200 meter preliminaries for "rolling forward" while still in the blocks. From my angle, parallel to her across the stadium floor, she did not move forward an inch. But sports writers seldom draw any attentive ears on protests.

I picked up the baton coach Anna Ezzell had dropped and tossed it against the stadium wall. Why Shell Rutledge? Why someone from Big Spring who had a legitimate chance of going to state in her specialty and bring not only notice to her school but to the district itself? Why someone with a balanced combination of attitude and athletic skills?

Why two years in a row to the best all-around athlete at Big Spring High?

After taking a dinner break, I returned to the pressbox to find a crowd around a portable video console. BSHS athletic director Ron Logback was engaged in animated conversation with men I recognized as meet officials.

What he was showing them was that Rutledge's late set in her blocks had produced no "roll forward." He emphasized the gun should never have been fired if someone was still getting set. And even though Logback was biased on behalf of his athlete, he remained the diplomat. "We still have to abide the rules," he said. "But..."

His point was well-taken. The officials moved to an adjacent room and came out minutes later with the decision to give Shell another opportunity to run.

I really couldn't believe they did it. They actually admitted to making a mistake which I interpreted as passing the test of character with flying colors. These guys really came through in the clutch.

Of course, Shell responded with an amazing 24.9 in the 40-degree night air with no one pushing her. Her determination drew the applause of friend and foe alike. Everyone was glad to see her get another chance, even the Midland High girl who was bumped from the finals when Shell made it the final eight.

It's a good thing Big Spring High's video camera crew was at the meet; whatever the system cost, the debt was paid in full when Logback ran his replays 1,000 times for the meet officials.

And there's Logback. While I still don't agree with his strategy on kicking out the Bleacher Bums at the recent Midland Lee game, I'll give him an a-okay on standing up for Shell Rutledge and Big Spring High.

A point was proved Friday night. With a little tact and a lot of gumption, a small group can get something big accomplished. Even Big Spring High can win its case when going to court against the 4-5A big boys.

And there still remains a tiny bit of justice in the world.

Rutledge summits victory

Permian wins 4-5A meet, BSHS fifth

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

ODESSA — Big Spring High was never a serious threat to derail Permian's bid for a team championship but the Lady Steers were still the talk of the District 4-5A track and field meet at Ratliff Stadium here Friday.

Shell Rutledge, the heavy favorite to win the 200 meters, was disqualified for "rolling forward" in the preliminaries, re-instated after meet officials reviewed a video tape of her start and later won the event with the fastest time since her own district record in 1980.

Her 10 points in the event didn't make a ripple in outcome of the meet as the speedy Panthers ran away with the 4-5A track title with 115 points. San Angelo Central finished second with 91 points with Midland Lee was third at 79.

Big Spring, the runners-up last year, was fifth with 65 points while defending champion Cooper, winners the last two years, slipped to seventh with only 37 points.

The Lady Steers qualified Rutledge in both the 200 and long jump and their sprint and 800-meter relay teams for the Region I-AAAAA meet April 22-23 in Lubbock. Janet Fleckenstein is an alternate after finishing third in the 800 meters.

Last year's meet had a definite Carla Jackson theme to it as the Big Spring senior had a part in five gold medals. Rutledge came close to matching her efforts, but it was an all-day struggle to do so.

Long jumping in just her third meet this year, she gained the finals but with only the seventh best distance. Coach Anna Ezzell changed her take-off to her left foot and suddenly the BSHS senior flew to a 17-7 1/2 effort which stood as the best until Midland High's Penny Griffin went 18-1/4 to win the event.

But that wasn't near as tough as getting into the 200-meter finals. With all eight competitors in heat 1 in their blocks, Rutledge was the last to raise up before the start. The starter interpreted her movement as a roll forward and fired a false start.

Although Ezzell protested the disqualification, the decision held until Big Spring High athletic director Ron Logback produced his school's video tape of the start. After much consultation and playbacks of the tape, officials allowed her a second qualifying chance; she would run against the clock and if her time was one of the eight best, she be allowed into the finals.

A rejuvenated Rutledge, with the bundled stadium crowd cheering each stride, sped to a 24.9. Not only was the time good enough to get her in the finals but beat the preliminary best by over a full second.

She was unchallenged in the finals, finishing in a 25.2 and making regionals in the event for a third time.

"I'm glad it turned out the way it did," Rutledge said, smiling broadly. "But I still wanted to break my old record."

Adding the extra sprint to her schedule made it an extremely busy night for the Lady Steer senior. She anchored the 800-meter relay team to a second place finish, almost catching up to Mojo's Juanita Kelly at the tape after taking the baton from Paula Spears well behind the transfer from Ector.

Big Spring ran a 1:44.4, a half-second better than the squad's previous best. Permian was clocked in a 1:44.3, a new district record. The BSHS time even topped the previous 1:44.62 best set by Central in 1980.

Rutledge also ran the second leg of the sprint relay, a race in which (See 'Day' on page 4-B)

JUMPING FOR REGIONALS — Big Spring High long jumper Shell Rutledge uncoils during a preliminary attempt Friday at the District 4-5A girl's track and field meet in Odessa. Rutledge made the finals and then went 17-7 1/2 to finish second and earn a trip to the Region I-AAAAA meet in Lubbock.

ODESSA — A normally reserved Shell Rutledge was all smiles late Friday night. Even more encouraging, the twinkle had returned to her eyes after being abruptly snatched away that afternoon.

It was a long, cold day at the District 4-5A girl's track and field meet Friday. The gray day turned from dismal to absolutely depressing when the Big Spring High senior was disqualified in the 200-meter dash much to her shock and the unbelief of contestants, coaches and spectators throughout Ratliff Stadium.

Here was Rutledge, beaten only once this year in the 200 meters. She was second behind multi-talented teammate Carla Jackson at last year's district meet, running a 25.88 behind Jackson's winning 25.35.

At the Region I-AAAAA meet in Lubbock two weeks later, Jackson sped to a 24.73 to gain entry to the state meet. Patty Pope of El Paso Andress, however, clocked a 24.86 to nip Rutledge (24.98) and prevent Big Spring from sending a pair of sprinters to Austin.

Now a year later, Jackson has gone to Abilene Christian University and Rutledge is left to fill her spikes as the district's premier track athlete.

Until about 3:10 p.m. Friday, she had done her best to live up to others' expectations. But that's when the walls came tumbling down.

Poised in her blocks to run the first heat of the 200 prelims, she (See 'Second' on page 4-B)

Myers accepts Odessa College job

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

ODESSA — Big Spring High basketball coach Archie Myers has accepted an assistant coach's position at Odessa College.

"He will be a great addition to our program," OC men's basketball coach Jim Yeakel said on making the announcement Thursday. Myers, however, has not turned in a letter of resignation said Big Spring High athletic director Ron Logback Saturday afternoon.

"He hasn't resigned with us yet," Logback said, "but that doesn't mean we're going to stand in his way. I'm happy for him...I had hoped he'd stay with us because he had a lot to offer our kids but we wish him all the luck in the world if he wants to try to improve himself."

The former Howard College all-American and standout at Steph F.

Austin served as head boy's basketball coach at Big Spring this past year, guiding the Steers to a 17-12 record and third place finish in District 4-5A. It was the first winning season for BSHS in 10 years.

Myers' responsibilities at Odessa College will include recruiting and a supervisory role for the college's new multi-purpose athletic facility to be built on the site of old W.T. Barrett Stadium. Prior to coming to Big Spring, he served as assistant coach to Jerry Stone at Midland College and helped coach the Chaparrals to the 1982 National Junior College Athletic Association championship.

Myers joins a rebuilding program at Odessa College. The Wranglers struggled to a 7-23 record this past year and won just one game in Western Junior (See 'Myers' on page 6-B)

4-5A tennis foes blank local hopes

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

MIDLAND — Big Spring went 0-for-8 at the District 4-5A tennis meet here Friday but coach Allan Holliday isn't about to pull a John McEnroe-style tirade over his team's showing.

Sending six freshman boys and three sophomores girls onto the Midland High courts, Holliday saw his charges outplayed by the older players of the district. The only major disappointment for Big Spring was the first round loss of doubles team Amy Burleson and Kim Madry.

A pair of sophomores from Permian, Stacy McAfee and Shannon Sullivan, fought back from a defeat in the first set to upset the BSHS seniors 5-7, 6-3, 7-5. Their win was no fluke; they tripped Paula Shriver and Sheila Reeves of Abilene High in another three-set match, winning 7-6, 3-6, 7-5 to advance to Saturday morning's semifinals.

FIRING A CANNON SHOT — Big Spring High singles player Dana Cannon returns a backhand shot against Cathy Carlson of Odessa High Friday morning at the 4-5A district tournament in Midland. Carlson, the No. 2 seed, downed Cannon 6-1, 6-2.

Burleson-Madry won Madry's serve to tie the set and won the next two games to win. They fell behind 2-0 in the second set and could never recover.

Holliday then met with his players and discussed strategy. "They played real aggressive and kept the ball away from McAfee," he said, as his team jumped off to a quick 4-0 start in the rubber set. "They were playing the serve-and-volley game like they should. Then I don't know what happened."

Madry lost her serve and the Permian duo roared back to within 5-4. Big Spring had match point once but a wide-open overhead smash went into the net instead. McAfee-Sullivan tied the set and won the final two games, equaling the effort of Burleson-Madry in the opening set. (See 'Youth' on page 4-B)

MAD ABOUT MAZZILLI — Pittsburgh Pirates players and manager Chuck Tanner, left, congratulate teammate Lee Mazzilli (11) after his two-run homer in the ninth Friday night game against the Houston Astros. The blast proved to be the difference in the game as the Bucs won their third straight with a 5-3 victory over Houston in the Astrodome.

Schlichter aiding FBI in pro gambling probe

BLOOMINGBURG, Ohio (AP) — The hurt was obvious on Roger Grimm's face. "Nobody can believe it that something like that would happen," said the 54-year-old barber, who remembers when a youngster named Art Schlichter used to come to him for haircuts.

"I guess it's just a story of a small-town boy that couldn't stand the pressures of all that money."

Schlichter, 22, a former Ohio State University football star and now a Baltimore Colts quarterback, was identified Friday as the National Football League player helping the FBI in a sports gambling probe.

He lost nearly $400,000 betting on basketball games this year, according to reports, and went to the FBI after the gamblers pressed him for payment and threatened to tell the Colts about his gambling.

Four Baltimore men have been indicted on charges stemming from the probe. "It was a complete surprise to me," Grimm said Friday from his two-chair shop in Washington Court House, about five miles from Schlichter's hometown of Bloomingburg.

Grimm pulled out a 1979 magazine article that called Schlichter "The Buckeyes' Soft-Spoken Playmaker." The story portrayed him as a religious, soft-spoken farm boy who was loyal to his hometown. And Schlichter is quoted as saying he'd "probably go back to the country and be a farmer" if he couldn't play football.

"That's the kind of kid I thought he was," Grimm said.

Farming is what most folks do in this slice of rural central Ohio. Bloomingburg, a town of barely more than 1,000 residents, is part of Fayette County, where large farms dot the flat landscape.

Livestock and horses are big in the area, about 40 miles southwest of Columbus and known as the Herefordshire of Ohio. Horse breeding and riding are probably more popular here than anywhere else in the state. Hogs are the main farm commodity.

Grimm said Schlichter had spoken the week before at the Kiwanis Club, talking about the hard work and challenge of football.

"He was down here all the time," Grimm said, noting also that Schlichter had helped with the area Easter Seals Telethon, appearing for 21 hours on television.

He said the recent publicity about the Ohio State star and gambling doesn't matter to him. "I'm one of his biggest fans," Grimm said, adding later, "It doesn't change my feelings for him."

Scott Sefton, 24, has followed Schlichter's career a long time, playing against him on the basketball court in high school, and writing about him for the local newspaper.

"He just had time for everybody," Sefton said, talking about Schlichter's visits to Miami Trace High School, his alma mater. "He came to home football games and the people there would swamp him for autographs. He signed every one until the crowd was gone."

"He was just in here the other day to get a jump rope to keep fit," said Sefton, who now works for Ramsey Sporting Good Inc. in Washington Court House. He said Schlichter bought a football at his store during the NFL players' strike.

"I knew that he was involved in gambling...horses," Sefton said. "The people who knew Art knew he was a gambler. But nobody thought he was in that deep."

Sefton likes to boast that he was the first person to call Schlichter an "All American" in a 1977 story. "I tell you, everybody thought a lot of him. We might be guilty of putting him on a pedestal."

Bucs outduel Niekro, Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Razor-sharp Larry McWilliams shackled Houston on just two hits Saturday night, pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 1-0 decision over the Astros with the help of a passed ball.

The Pirate left-hander won his 1983 debut by striking out an Astro per inning through the first six innings, allowing only Ray Knight's two-out single in the second inning and Dickie Thon's one-out single in the fourth inning.

McWilliams finished with seven strikeouts, retiring the last 16 batters he faced and didn't walk a batter.

The 0-5 Astros are off to their worst start since 1978. They also opened at 0-5 in 1969.

Thon, who has hit safely in all five Astro games, was caught stealing, so McWilliams faced only one over the minimum number of batters.

The Pirates scored on an unearned run in the first inning without a hit. Leadoff hitter Lee Lacy, the National League's leading base-stealer with six, walked and stole second. Lacy continued to third on Astro catcher Luis Pujols' throwing error into center field.

Lacy scored when Astro right-hander Joe Niekro's knuckleball popped off Pujols' mitt for a passed ball.

Locked in a pitching duel with McWilliams, Niekro pitched a three-hitter himself and did not allow a hit until the fourth inning when Jason Thompson led off with a sinking liner that dropped in front of Astro left fielder Jose Cruz.

Cardinals 5, Mets 0

NEW YORK (AP) — Joaquin Andujar fired a four-hitter and struck out a career-high nine and George Hendrick and David Green each delivered two-run singles in the seventh inning Saturday to pace the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-0 victory over the New York Mets.

Andujar, winning his ninth straight game over two seasons, did not walk a batter as the world champion Cardinals won their first game of the year after opening with a loss.

St. Louis scored all of its runs in the seventh off New York starter Mike Torrez, acquired by the Mets from the Boston Red Sox during the off-season.

Phillies 5, Giants 4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gary Matthews cracked a two-run homer and two singles and the Philadelphia Phillies took advantage of wildness by San Francisco pitchers to beat the Giants 5-4 Saturday.

The game was tied 3-3 entering the seventh when wildness contributed to San Francisco starter Mike Krukow's downfall.

Matthews walked with one out and was caught stealing. But Joe Morgan walked and the count on Mike Schmidt went to 2-0 when Jim Barr replaced Krukow, 0-2. Schmidt walked and Tony Perez was safe when center fielder Max Venable dropped his fly ball for an error, enabling Morgan to score and Schmidt to advance to third. Bo Diaz then followed with an RBI single.

Reliever Sid Monge, 1-0, who blanked the Giants for 1-3 innings, picked up the victory with relief help from Ron Reed, who was touched by Bob Brenley's solo homer in the ninth. Dick Ruthven was the starter.

Expos 7, Dodgers 2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tim Raines singled in two runs during a five-run fifth inning and Charlie Lea and Jeff Reardon held Los Angeles to six hits as the Montreal Expos downed the Dodgers 7-2 Saturday.

Lea, 1-0, retired the first 17 Dodgers in order before pinch hitter Ron Roenicke doubled with two outs in the sixth. Lea, who hurled a no-hitter two years ago against San Francisco, lost his bid for a shutout when Dusty Baker homered in the seventh. Lea pitched 6 2-3 innings and gave up five hits, including a run-scoring single by Bill Russell in the seventh.

Bob Welch, 0-1, allowed only one hit during the first four innings before encountering trouble in the fifth. Tim Wallach singled with one out, Warren Cromartie walked and Doug Flynn singled to score Wallach.

Lea then sacrificed and was safe on a throwing error by third baseman Pedro Guerrero that loaded the bases. Raines then followed with his two-run single. One out later, Welch uncocked a wild pitch that allowed two more runs to score.

Reds 8, Cubs 4

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ron Oester homered and doubled to drive in four runs Saturday, highlighting a 13-hit attack that carried the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-4 victory over the winless Chicago Cubs.

Oester's three-run homer in the first inning capped a four-run rally that began with two outs.

Frank Pastore, 1-0, left after giving up two runs on eight hits in eight innings. Tom Hume pitched the ninth and yielded a two-run single to Leon Durham.

Dave Concepcion started the first-inning uprising with a two-out double off starter Chuck Rainey, 0-1, and scored when third baseman Ron Cey batted a slow roller by Johnny Bench and threw past first base for an error. Dan Driessen then singled and Oester slugged his second home run of the season.

Scott Thompson drove in Chicago's first two runs with a triple in the fourth and an eighth-inning double.

'Hoss' bats Texas by Boston

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Rookie Mike Smithson scattered seven hits through seven innings and Dave Hostetler drove in three runs with a double and a triple Saturday night to lead the Texas Rangers to a 10-3 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Hostetler also scored three times and walked three times in his big night for the Rangers.

Texas touched Boston starter Bob Ojeda, 0-1, for a four-run first inning and never trailed. Billy Sample walked, Mike Richardt singled and Hostetler bounced a triple off the top of the center field wall. Larry Parrish then walked. Bobby Johnson singled Hostetler home and Jim Sundberg doubled in Parrish.

Hostetler scored again in the third when he walked, advanced on a walk and an infield out, then trotted home on Sundberg's sacrifice fly.

Fourth-inning doubles by Bucky Dent, Richardt and Hostetler added two runs and in the sixth, Sample tripled and scored on Buddy Bell's infield single.

Boston reached Smithson, 1-0, for a run in the fourth on doubles by Jim Rice and Dave Stapleton. Boston added a pair in the eighth on Rich Gedman's two-run double.

The Rangers added two insurance runs in the eighth when Tony Armas dropped a fly ball in center field, allowing Richardt and Hostetler to score.

Royals 5, Brewers 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jerry Martin stroked three hits, including an inside-the-park home run, and Larry Gura scattered six hits in eight innings to lead Kansas City past

American League

Milwaukee 5-2 Saturday before the smallest Opening Day crowd in Royals Stadium history.

Temperatures hovered in the high 30s at game time and a cold intermittent drizzle blanketed the crowd announced at 17,078. The previous lowest home opening crowd in Kansas City was 20,937 in 1975.

The Brewers jumped on Gura, 2-0, for two runs in the first. Paul Molitor singled leading off. Robin Yount tripled and Cecil Cooper scored Yount with a groundout.

U.L. Washington singled in the Kansas City first off loser Bob McClure, 0-1, and scored on a double by George Brett. Brett then took third on a fly ball and scored on a double by Frank White to make it 2-2.

Martin led off the second with a high fly ball that bounced off the left field wall and rolled into center field. The veteran outfielder dived across home plate under a sweeping tag by catcher Ted Simmons.

Angels 10, A's 2

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Rod Carew's grand slam highlighted a five-run fifth inning and Fred Lynn drove in three runs with three singles Saturday, powering the California Angels to a 10-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Carew's fifth career slam, a one-out shot off Oakland starter Matt Keough, 0-1, helped the Angels overcome a 2-0 Oakland lead.

California banged out 18 hits and managed to overcome five Oakland double plays. The Angels turned four double plays.

Ken Forsch, 1-0, pitched the first five innings. He took the mound in the sixth, but the right-hander left the game without throwing a pitch in the inning because of tightness in his left arm. Luis Sanchez hurled the final four innings and got his first save.

Blue Jays 7, Yankees 4

TORONTO (AP) — Jesse Barfiel's three-run homer off relief ace Rich Gossage sparked a five-run, eighth-inning rally that triggered the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday.

With Toronto losing 4-2, Damaso Garcia led off the Blue Jay eighth with a single and reached second on a throwing error by third baseman Graig Nettles. Gossage came in on relief of Doyle Alexander and walked Dave Collins.

Willie Upshaw then singled home a run and Ernie Whitt lifted a towering fly ball to shallow right field that scored Collins when second baseman Willie Randolph, center fielder Jerry Mumphrey and right fielder Steve Kemp collided, allowing the ball to fall in for a single.

Barfiel, who had dropped a fly ball that allowed two Yankee runs to score in the top of the eighth, then connected for his second homer of the season into the left-field bleachers.

Roy Lee Jackson, the fourth Toronto pitcher, picked up his first victory of the season with 2 1-3 innings of relief.

Bandits strike Gold 22-16 in overtime

DENVER (AP) — Rookie runningback Greg Boone broke a tackle and made an 11-yard touchdown run to cap a 73-yard overtime drive as the Tampa Bay Bandits got a fine passing performance from quarterback John Reeves to down the Denver Gold 22-16 in United States Football League action Saturday night.

With the victory, the Bandits bounced back from an embarrassing 42-3 loss to Chicago last week, and raised their division-leading record to 5-1. Denver saw its three-game winning streak snapped and fell to 3-3.

Reaves, who played nine seasons in the National Football League mostly as a backup, completed 38 of 63 passes for 357 yards. He engineered two long second-half scoring drives that enabled Tampa Bay to erase a 13-3 halftime deficit and take a 16-13 lead late in the fourth quarter.

He then directed the Bandits 73 yards for the winning score in the sudden-death overtime.

On the winning march, Reeves twice completed key third-down passes, and drilled a 28-yarder to wide receiver Eric Truvillion to help set up Boone's scoring scamper.

Boone ran off the left side, shrugged off a would-be tackler, Tom Sullivan, and dashed into the end zone.

Denver took its early lead as running back Harry Sydney turned a short pass into a 56-yard scoring play and Brian Speelman kicked two field goals.

Tampa Bay's two scoring drives in the second-half produced a 16-13 with 5:43 left, but the Gold rallied for a tying field goal. Sydney carried on runs of 16, 7, and 10 yards and Speelman booted a 33-yard field goal with 45 seconds left in regulation.

Morgan sashes to second round Masters lead

JACQUES COUSTEAU PLAYING GOLF — He may look like he's ready for a deep-sea dive but golfer Arnold Palmer is only trying to stay dry at the 47th Masters Golf Tournament Saturday afternoon in Augusta, Georgia. Rain continued to plague golfers, suspending play at mid-afternoon.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gil Morgan, wearing fisherman's foul-weather headgear against the rain, fought his way to a 1-stroke lead Saturday in the uncompleted second round of the Masters, which was played with Jack Nicklaus injured on the sidelines.

The round was called by darkness with six players — including Morgan — stranded on the rain-soaked Augusta National Golf Club course.

Hord Hardin, chairman of this weather-plagued tournament, announced that the round will be completed Sunday morning, followed by the third round. The fourth round now is scheduled for Monday.

"We tried but we didn't make it," Hardin said.

Nicklaus, the only five-time winner of this tournament and holder of a record 17 major professional titles, suffered a recurrence of a chronic back condition and withdrew, walking slowly and painfully to the clubhouse in a drizzling rain moments before he was due to tee off.

"It's no big deal," insisted the 43-year-old Nicklaus. "My back spasmed and I withdrew. It's no big deal."

It was, however, only the second time in his professional career he had withdrawn from a tournament and marked the first time in a quarter-century that the second round of a Masters had been played in his absence.

The tournament schedule was disrupted Friday when day-long rains washed out play. Intermittent showers, occasionally heavy, leaked from the gray skies throughout the day Saturday, once causing a 32-minute delay that, eventually, proved critical.

Morgan, holding the lead at 7-under-par for the tournament, and his playing partners, Jack Renner and Ray Floyd, still had two holes to play when they stopped at 6:59 p.m. EDT.

The six players who were unable to finish play Saturday marked their position on the course and will return at 8:30 a.m. Sunday to complete the round. The cut then will be made to the low 44 scorers and all within 10 shots of the leader.

The third round will begin at 10:45 a.m., with the players going off in twosomes from the first tee only.

Seve Ballesteros, the dashing Spaniard who won this title in 1980, had one hole to play and, at that point, was one shot back of Morgan at 6 under par for the tournament.

Floyd was 5-under with two holes to play. Keith Fergus, who won the Bob Hope Classic earlier this season, was the best of those who managed to beat darkness into the white, colonial-style clubhouse.

He had a 69 and was at 139, 5-under par at the tournament's halfway point.

Jodie Mudd, who turned pro immediately after finishing as the low amateur in the 1982 Masters, and Nick Faldo, a three-time British PGA champion, were next at 140. Mudd had an eagle-3 on the 15th hole on the way to a second-round 68. Faldo shot a 70, including a chip-in birdie on the final hole.

Tom Watson, twice a winner here and the current U.S. and British Open title-holder, defending Masters champion Craig Stadler and Fred Couples were at 141. Couples had a 68, Stadler got a par 72 despite a ball in a pond that produced a double bogey and Watson said he "slopped it around in 71."

"And that's about what it was, too. It was awfully wet out there on the last eight or nine holes."

It was so wet, in fact, that gleeful Lee Trevino trotted up one fairway, happily splashing his way through the water, dragging a club that actually kicked up a wave and looking for all the world like a small boy playing in a mud puddle.

Trevino managed to match par 72 and was at 143.

Jack Renner, who shared the first-round lead with Floyd and Morgan, lost two shots to par and was at 3-under with two holes left. Also at 3-under were 21-year-old amateur Jim Hallett, with two to play, and the legendary Arnold Palmer, who had one to go.

"I did want to finish the round today, but when they tell us to stop, we stop. I can understand the committee's decision," said Palmer, who was soaked to the knees from the puddles and pools that collected on the fairways and caused several minor delays while grounds crews shoveled water off the greens.

"It was unplayable at times and we stopped when it was," Palmer said. "It was just wet. It was very hard to play at times."

Newman new NTSU hoop coach

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Tommy Newman, who led Texas Wesleyan to the NAIA national basketball playoffs this year, was named Saturday as head coach at North Texas State University.

Newman, 38, replaces eight-year NTSU coach Bill Blakely, who compiled a 134-85 record but was fired after his team finished the 1982-83 season with a 15-15 record. School officials said he was fired because of poor attendance at games and a program that had stalled in recent years.

Newman guided Texas Wesleyan to a 26-7 record this year.

"We felt like we needed to speed up the announcement and allow coach Newman as much extra time as possible in his recruiting efforts," NTSU athletic director Fred McCain said.

"We knew he would be behind and hopefully this will help him somewhat."

NTSU officials said they still plan to hold a news conference Monday morning, at which time they had planned to announce Newman's appointment.

Before going to Texas Wesleyan last year, Newman worked as an assistant coach at Baylor University for five years. He started his coaching career at Arlington Heights High School in 1968 and compiled a 158-64 record while coaching in the high school ranks.

Colorado City second at 6-AAA track meet

Sports Shorts

COLORADO CITY — Two relay victories and a first place by Sandra Williams in the 100 meters spared host Colorado City to a second place finish at the District 6-AAA track meet here Thursday.

The sprint relay of Holly Caplen, Stacy Free, Tomika Randall and Williams sped to a 51.39 for one win and returned with Robyn Turner substiting for Randall to win the 800-meter relay in 1:54.8.

Williams clocked a 13.46 to win the 100 and added a second in the 200 meters with a 28.22.

C-City collected another pair of seconds as Stacy Hamric tossed the discus 97-6 and Loretta Morris took the hurdles in 17.4. All these athletes qualify for the Region 1-AAA meet in two weeks in Lubbock.

Coahoma, the defending district champions, won another title.

"It was tremendous," coach George Martin said. "The weather was snowy and rainy and yet the kids ran their hearts out. You can't ask for more than that."

Forsan sweeps 9-A tennis tourney again

Forsan High again dominated the District 9-A tennis tournament, winning both singles and doubles championships.

Connie Strickland didn't have it easy in the finals but overcame teammate Antoinette Nichols 3-6, 7-5, 6-4 to claim the singles crown. Both players will advance to regionals.

Forsan High also advanced both doubles teams into the finals. Kraus and Connie Fuller downed teammates L. Lucas and P. Duffer 6-0, 6-1 to win the championship.

All six players had to win two matches to gain the tournament finals which were played at the Figure Seven Tennis Center in Big Spring.

Garden City's doubles team of Laurell McDowell and Delma DeHoyos finished third, topping Goodrum-Wilburn of Roby. In singles, Shirley Clifton tripped teammate Marie Ernst for third.

Lemons takes Oklahoma City job where he began coaching

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Former Texas basketball coach Abe Lemons will return to the game as the head coach at the school where he began his career as a head coach, Oklahoma City University officials said Saturday.

Lemons, 61, who coached the Oklahoma City Chiefs for 18 years before going to Pan American, will replace Lonnie Nichols who was fired after compiling a dismal 4-22 record last season.

Lemons, who had a 309-181 record at Oklahoma City between 1965 and 1973, was fired at the end of the 1981-82 season after six years with the Longhorns. He has spent the last year of his contract as an assistant to the Texas athletic director.

Lemons said he still had responsibilities at Texas, and would not assume the official role of OCU coach until Sept. 1. "My obligations aren't real deep in Austin," he said, indicating he will spend most of his time on the job in Oklahoma City.

Lemons said his formula for success is based on players.

"You let a player play a role and do the best he can. You hear talk about team play, and that's fine, but my offense has always been built on individual performances."

"Having a good time is important, too. In any business if you can't have fun along the way, you're in the wrong business," Lemons said.

Asked how long he planned to coach at Oklahoma City, Lemons replied, "until 100."

Terms of Lemons' contract were not revealed, but athletic director Arnold Short said it was a multi-year contract.

Lemons was the head coach at Pan American from 1974-76.

Lemons compiled a 110-63 record at Texas where his teams won Southwest Conference championships in 1978 and 1979 and the National Invitational Tournament in 1979.

The Longhorns raced to a 14-0 record during the 1982 season, and were ranked fifth in the nation, but forward Mike Wacker was injured during a game with Baylor and the Longhorns went on to lose 11 of their last 13 games to finish the year at 16-11.

Lemons would become the fourth head basketball coach at Oklahoma City University in six years.

Nichols was at Oklahoma City for only two years, leading the Chiefs to a 14-14 mark in his first season. While Nichols coached at OCU, the school was slapped with probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for irregularities that occurred before he joined the staff.

In his 1982-83 season, Nichols lost one starter to injury and two others when their grades fell below acceptable minimums. Oklahoma City became the punching bag for the Midwestern City Conference, drawing as few as 250 spectators to its final home game.

DOUBLES TEAM UPSET — Kim Madry, right, returns a volley Friday morning against Permian's Kelly McAfee and Shannon Sullivan. The Mojo pair tripped Madry and partner Amy Burlleson 5-7, 6-3, 7-5 in the first round to keep the Big Spring High seniors from progressing any further in the District 4-5A tennis meet at Midland High.

Youth hinders BSHS in district

(Continued from page 1-B) They were a good doubles team. Holliday admitted. "If we'd had beaten them, I think we could have gone on to the finals. Now Permian will probably have two teams get out of district.

There were few other surprises at the meet. Dana Cannon won the first game off No. 2 seed Cathy Carlson in girls singles but fell 6-1, 6-2 to the Odessa High standout. "I had hoped Dana would get a little closer to Carlson but she just got frustrated and her inexperience came out," Holliday said.

Other first round losers in the girls draw were sophomore Kristi Grimes who lost 6-1, 6-2 to Odessa's Darla Nadeau and the sophomore doubles team of Linda Arroya and Stacy Basham who fell to Kim Awalt and Tammy English of Cooper 6-1, 6-2.

The boys fared no better. Top-seed Adam Dixon of Abilene High blanked Ray Marquez 6-0, 6-0 while No. 2 seed Bill Walrapp, also of AHS, pinned the same fate on Charlie Bott.

The doubles team of Jance Allen and Sam Gladden tumbled to Jimmy Blanton and Bo Burton of Abilene 6-1, 6-2 while Mike Christopher and Joel Schuller, also of Abilene, downed Mark Slate and Victor Coots 6-0, 6-0.

"Jance and Sam played real good doubles," Holliday said. "So did Mark and Victor but they just didn't win any games. They're not at the point where they can win those last points to get a game."

"It went about like I thought except for Kim and Amy," he added.

The team is through for the year, taking a week off before beginning off-season work. "It's tough for Kim and Amy. They've been playing 100 matches a year since eighth grade and then it comes down to one match that lasts an hour and half."

In Saturday's finals, Walrapp upset Dixon 6-1, 6-2 to win the boy's title while No. 3 Debbie Randolph of Cooper surprised top-ranked Kim Gidley of Abilene High 6-2, 6-1 in the girl's singles final.

In doubles, Permian's Kelly McAfee and Paula Brigance, the top-ranked team in Texas, swept by Cindy Johnson and Randa Nicholson of Cooper 6-0, 6-1. Johnson-Nicholson downed Stacy McAfee-Sullivan 6-1, 6-4 in the semifinals.

There was no surprise in boy's doubles as Scott and David Meyers — the unbeaten defending state champions — clipped Kevin Collins and Lewis Astudillo of San Angelo 6-2, 6-3.

Second chance allows Shell to return to regional meet

(Continued from page 1-B) raised up a split second after the other seven runners. The starter saw her delay and interpreted it as forward motion. When he fired the gun, he did so three times.

Disqualification.

In lane seven, Midland Lee's Brenda Havens' expression fell. A judge moved in her direction but the starter called out, "Big Spring." Rutledge stood motionless and then quietly walked off the track.

Halfway across the infield, Big Spring coach Anna Ezzell dropped the baton she was holding and sprinted to the starting area. "She was set," she almost yelled.

"No, Coach, she came up after the other girls and from my angle I saw her roll forward," the starter explained.

"You've got to give her a chance to get set," Ezzell countered.

"I did, coach, but she rolled forward," the starter answered.

Ezzell paused. "I just want you to know you've disqualified a regional, maybe a state qualifier," she said, almost in tears.

"I'm sorry, coach. We've got to follow the rules," the starter said as the Big Spring coach turned her back on the scene.

Rutledge found her sweats and wandered around blankly as other competitors surrounded her. "What happened, Shell?" "What did they do?" "It wasn't you, it was that other girl."

Still, she said nothing. When the impact of her ruling did finally sink in, she said, "I know one thing. They're going to see something tonight."

Every story that has a happy ending also has some form of a hero. In this case, there were two.

High above the stadium, shivering in the northerly wind, were Big Spring High students Danny Sparks and Joe Pena who were filming the meet for Ezzell and her assistants. They were novices to filming track a month before. Friday, they zoomed in on the disqualification like experts.

Athletic director brought the video equipment into the pressbox during the dinner break. Soon a crowd of meet officials surrounded the screen. What they saw was Rutledge raising up later than the girls a lane ahead of her. But there was no forward motion and she was actually set for a split second before the gun sounded.

Logback ran the tape back and forth, again and again. Finally, the officials adjourned to an adjacent room. Several minutes later, the jury reappeared with the verdict. "We're going to let her run again," one said.

Rutledge, Ezzell and the other

4-5A coaches were called to the winner's stand on the stadium floor. "The decision between the meet director and me is to give her a fair chance to compete which she didn't have this afternoon," said meet referee Jim French.

A buzz went through the stadium. "It was our decision," meet director Don Wright explained, "that she didn't have a fair start and we felt like she ought to. Everyone else also thinks she ought to have a chance to win."

Cheers broke out from among the competitors.

And there was Rutledge, the twinkle slowly reappearing in her eyes. "I feel a whole lot better," she grinned. "This is something I'm never going to forget. I never jump, that's the thing that really shocked me."

"At first I thought I did but then I saw the video and knew I didn't," she continued. She turned away and began warming up for her reprieve.

The 3,200 meter finals were run and one starting block was then placed on the track, 200 meters from the finish line. Most of the crowd was standing in anticipation. Rutledge was so nervous, she crouched in the blocks still wearing her bulky sweats. "Take your sweats off!" Ezzell screamed. Her sprinter asked the starter for time and he blew his whistle. "Oh, no," Ezzell moaned, "they're going to disqualify her for delay."

Rutledge removed her warm-ups and returned to the blocks and arched for the race against the stadium clock. If her time were one of the eight best, she would be allowed in to the finals.

"Go for it, Shell," Yolanda Ramirez of San Angelo yelled. The gun sounded.

Everyone in Ratliff Stadium roared encouragement.

Quick as a wink she sprinted around the turn, face drawn tight, arms pumping in mechanical ferocity. "They're going to see something tonight," she had said earlier. When she crossed the tape, she was engulfed by girls in orange, purple, maroon and gold. The clock read "24.9," the fastest time in the district since 1980 when Rutledge herself had set the league standard with a 24.7.

The crowd cheered.

"Way to go, Shell," Ramirez said, hugging Rutledge. Also offering her congratulations was Rita Jones of Midland High who was bumped out of the top eight when the Big Spring girl was allowed to run again.

"I'm really proud of her, I really am," Jones said, "but I wish they would have done all this stuff before now." Fortunately, Jones is a junior and can make the 200 finals next year. "We talked about that," said Jones' teammate April Bryson. "I'm a Shell Rutledge fan...everyone will be tomorrow because I'll be telling everyone I see about her."

"I don't know why they didn't disqualify me, I'm the one that jumped," Havens shrugged.

The finals were anti-climatic. Rutledge finished a good 10 meters ahead of Kerry Evans of Odessa High with a 25.2. There was one more point of drama when the starting gun fired three times again. Marion Jones of Abilene High had jumped, much to the relief of the crowd. "I was thinking about it," Rutledge said of her few moments in the blocks. "I was scared when I heard someone jump. I was glad it wasn't me."

"I wanted to break my old record," she sighed.

"What happened to my 21?" yelled Bryson.

"I'll get it for you at regionals, I promise," Rutledge laughed.

The twinkle in her eye had finally returned.

Steer errors too costly as Abilene wins, 5-4

ABILENE — The Big Spring High committed nine errors, the last coming in the bottom of the ninth inning as Abilene High nipped the Steers 5-4 in District 4-5A game here Saturday afternoon.

The loss Big Spring back in the league race as the Steers lost their fourth straight game after beginning district play with four straight wins. BSHS is an 10-10 on the season while Abilene improve to 4-4 in district play with its second consecutive win.

Steve Stacy reached on a fielder's choice with two out in the ninth inning and Matt Waldmann followed with a single to center field. Outfielder Jay Pirkle charged the ball but let it get under his glove and Stacy scored the winning run all the way from first base.

Two errors in the bottom of the seventh allowed the Eagles to score the tying run and send the game in to extra innings.

With two out and George Shannon on second, Big Spring shortstop Chris Lamb was charged with an error on Waldmann's ground ball to put runners at the corners. Waldmann tried to steal second and catcher Marty Rodriguez fired the ball into centerfield as no infielder was covering second base.

Abilene jumped off to an early 3-0 but Big Spring got a run back in the fourth as Jinx Valenzuela doubled and scored on Danny Arista's double. The Steers went ahead in the game with a three-run sixth. David Anguiano doubled and Marty Rodriguez walked to begin the inning. Valenzuela singled in one run and Arista collected two more RBI with a single.

Adam Rodriguez went the distance for Big Spring, giving up just six hits in 8 2/3 innings. All five runs he surrendered were unearned as second baseman Matt Warren had three, Lamb two, Pirkle two and Anguiano and Marty Rodriguez one error each.

"I don't know, I just don't know," said BSHS coach Frank Ibarra. "We could have easily won the game in the seventh if we could have just caught the ball. It was just one of those days."

The Steers are home Tuesday for a 4 p.m. game against Midland High.

Baylor, Olson shatter Texas Relays records

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Baylor blazed to a national collegiate record in the 1600-meter relay Saturday in the 56th annual Texas Relays while Billy Olson smashed the meet's pole vault mark.

The Bears, with Willie Caldwell posting a sizzling 44.5 second anchor, logged a fully automatic time of 3:01.98.

The old record of 3:01.9 by Arizona State in the Drake Relays in 1977 was manually timed and converts to a slower time than the Bears.

The Bear foursome included Bill Hartson, who ran a 45.8, John Thomas 45.5, Derwin Graham 46.1 and Caldwell.

Olson vaulted 18-feet, 8 1/4 inches but failed in three tries at the world outdoor record.

Arkansas in the men's division and Nebraska in the women's division also sparkled in the relay events.

The Razorbacks won the sprint medley relay, the 3200 meter relay and the 6400-meter relay.

Nebraska, with Merelene Otter running a brilliant anchor leg, took the sprint medley relay in a Relays' record of 1:36.05 and earned first place in the 400 meters with a record time of 43.98. The old marks were 1:38.95, and 44.76 respectively.

Brian Tietjens of Iowa State high jumped 7 feet, 6 inches to eclipse the old Relays' mark of 7-4 1/2 by Mill Otley of Texas-El Paso in 1982.

Dallas Roosevelt thrilled the estimated crowd of 9,000 with the third-fastest high school 1600-meter relay on record, 3:10.38.

Houston's Cletus Clark posted a Relays' collegiate record of 13.56 in the 110-meter hurdles. The old record was 13.57 by Gary Burl, Arizona State, 1976.

Olson, the world indoor record holder, soared 18 feet 8 1/4 inches on his second try to best his Relays' mark of 18 feet 3 inches.

The 25-year-old former Abilene Christian star, who now performs for Pacific Track Club, came close to clearing 19-feet 1-inch on his first try. He was under the bar on his second attempt and ran through the pit on his third effort when he got his steps mixed.

Vladimir Polyakov of Russia owns the world outdoor record of 19-0 3/4.

Olson's best outdoor mark is 18-9 1/4 and he owns the world indoor best of 19-feet and 1/4 inch.

"I just ran out of gas," said Olson. "It's the first time I've vaulted in a month and a half. It's been so cold in Abilene I haven't had a chance to touch a pole in practice or in a meet."

Olson couldn't immediately gain admission to Memorial Stadium because he forgot the proper credentials. He had to find a member of his family and borrow one of their complimentary tickets to keep from paying the full $6 price.

With a good tail wind, Olson thought this might be the day he beat the Russian's record.

"I thought I might have five good vaults in me today, but I use all of them just clearing 17-10 and 18-8 1/4," Olson said. "I probably became a little over conscious of the wind. I really needed that wind because of my lack of conditioning."

Brad Pursley of Abilene Christian, who was touted to be Olson's top competitor, failed three times at 17-4.

Another Abilene Christian vaulter, Dale Jenkins, won the collegiate division with an effort of 18-4.

Arkansas, a strong threat to win the most valuable team award, took the 6,400 meter relay in 16:24.2 with Ireland's Frank O'Mara turning in a 4:01.5 mile anchor.

"I have been on three relay teams here that have won this event and this one now is definitely the toughest," he said.

Day has ups, downs for Lady Steers

Big Spring led after two handoffs but lost when Kelly outdistanced freshman Aretha Cork down the stretch. The Lady Steers were clocked in 50.2, just a tenth of a second behind the Panthers.

Three of Permian's relay legs are transfers from Odessa Ector which closed last year.

The remainder of the unusually cold meet was a series of ups and downs for Ezzell's team. Triple jumper Sylvia Randle, who entered the meet with the second best effort, could go only 34-61/2 for sixth place. Griffin won another gold medal with a 36-1/2 jump.

Fleckenstein was tight from start to finish in the 100 low hurdles, an event she finished second in last year and advance to regionals. This time she ran a 16.4 and finished last in her prelim heat. Armantha Redman of Permian won the finals with a 14.9.

Cork had the No. 2 time in the 200 meters prior to district but could do no better than fifth in the finals with a 28.06.

But there were bright spots, however. Freshman Amanda Soils tossed the shot put 90-3/4 for unexpected sixth place points.

Fleckenstein was third in the 800, getting passed by Central's Mary Ann Keister in the last 40 meters and bumped out of a chance at regionals. It was only her third try at the 800 and her 2:31.35 was her fastest time of the year. "Yes, I got a medal," she wheezed after finishing the race. Annie Stobaugh, also of Central, won with a record 2:26.3.

Two freshman made the 100 meters finals with petite Joi Tate finishing fourth in 13.2. Spears made the finals in the 400 but the exhausted junior sprinter never had a chance, finishing seventh.

Checking the final standings, Ezzell said, "Our freshman did quite well. We're still rebuilding in the field events but we should get better." The loss of Jackson, Shirley Dixon (shot put) and Elise Wheat (discus and shot) was too much for Big Spring to overcome this time out.

Ezzell's biggest satisfaction, however, was getting Rutledge in the 200 finals. "Was it a surprise? No, not really really. But I'm glad they did it. I did everything I could but they wouldn't listen. If it hadn't been for Mr. Logback, there'd been no way."

Horner wants to trim up privately

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves third baseman Bob Horner, who can earn extra money by trimming down, apparently wants to do his weight-watching in private.

At the first of 13 weigh-ins, Horner on Friday was silent about what the scale reported. "It's none of your business," he told reporters before the Braves' home opener against the San Diego Padres. Atlanta won the game 4-2 with Horner going hitless.

But Horner, while keeping his actual weight a secret, made it clear that he passed the test when team owner Ted Turner asked if the slugger star "beat me out of $8,000."

Horner replied, "Yep."

Under a clause in Horner's contract, he can earn an extra $7,692.31 at each weigh-in if he keeps his weight under 215 pounds. The contractual provision emerged after criticism last year that Horner was playing overweight.

When the new contract was announced, the arrangement was called a "weight bonus clause."

Mavs drop Spurs by 11

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Mark Aguirre scored 27 points to lead five Dallas players in double figures as the Mavericks ended a seven-game losing streak and downed the San Antonio Spurs 122-111 Saturday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Mavericks overcame a 32-point performance by Spur forward Mike Mitchell and handed San Antonio its second loss in a row.

Dallas led 92-86 at the end of three periods and outscored San Antonio 30-25 in the final period to ice the game and even the series with the Spurs at 2-2.

George Gervin, who was plagued by early foul trouble, finished with 24 points for San Antonio.

Rolando Blackman added 22 points to the Dallas cause and Brad Davis and Jay Vincent tossed in 19 apiece.

"It's nice to win down here because the Spurs are playing so well," Davis said of the Midwest Division champions. "Hopefully this will get us back on track after losing so many games recently."

Davis said he was confident the Mavericks would remain strong through the last games of the season.

"We want to go out with the people thinking good thoughts because the fans have been behind us this year," the third-year franchise's play-making guard said.

Nuggets rip Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) — Kiki Vandeweghe scored 32 points and Alex English added 26 as the Denver Nuggets kept their playoff hopes alive with a 123-105 victory over the Houston Rockets Saturday night in National Basketball Association play.

Denver, 42-36, and Kansas City were tied for the sixth and final Western Conference playoff spot going into Saturday night's games. Kansas City played at Utah Saturday night.

Houston, 14-64, was led by Allen Leavell, who scored 20 points. Wally Walker had 16 and three other Rockets scored 14 each. Terry Teagle, Joe Bryant and Calvin Murphy.

Walker scored eight points in the first quarter, and Houston, hitting 56 percent of its shots, took its biggest lead of the game late in the period, 28-23, on a jumper by Leavell.

Houston led 56-50 at halftime, but the Nuggets outscored the Rockets 13-0 to open the third quarter and led 88-79 going into the final period.

Houston pulled to within eight points of the Nuggets early in the fourth quarter. Vandeweghe hit two baskets and sank four free throws as Denver stretched the margin to 13 points, 109-96, with 3:36 left in the game.

Myers gets new job at Odessa

College Athletic Conference play.

"I know we're getting a late start," he said, "but there are some good players out there. Recruiting is knowing the game and the caliber of the players in the conference."

Myers should know a good player when he sees one. He is the all-time career scoring leader at Howard College with 2,199 points scored in two seasons. He led the nation in scoring his sophomore year, averaging 35 points a game.

"Archie did a good job for us," Logback said. "He's a top professional as both a coach and a teacher. He fit into our program very well. He still has a job with us if he wants."

CLOSE BUT NO CAUGHT BALL — Three New York Yankees players are on the spot to make the catch but the ball still gets by for a baselit Saturday afternoon against Toronto. The three are, from left, Willie Randolph, Jerry Mumphrey and Steve Kemp. A run scored on the play and the Jays went to win 7-4.

Jean Wilder: Drawn to a challenge

In her career as an educator, Jean Wilder has always embraced new challenges.

She has built on her career, upgraded her educational background and worked hard to keep her interest in teaching. Those efforts will serve her well when she faces the biggest challenge thus far in her chosen field: Administrator of Big Spring's new Bauer Magnet School.

The Bauer Magnet School is the Big Spring Independent School District's solution to solving a 1980 U.S. Justice Department suit which charges the district with operating a segregated school system.

Ms. Wilder was reassigned to Bauer from Washington Elementary by Superintendent Lynn Hise to administer the program which purports to draw students from all over the district to Bauer's extended-day enrichment program thus ending a racial imbalance at the school.

Given her penchant for challenges, Ms. Wilder is excited about the move, and although the job at Bauer won't be an easy one, it is something for which she is well prepared.

Ms. Wilder has worked in the BSISD for 13 years serving as a sixth-grade teacher, an elementary counselor, Title 1 supervisor, and she was selected as principal of Washington Elementary two years ago. Before coming to Big Spring, she had taught at Barnhart, Hawley and Abilene.

Along the way she has picked up Bachelor's and Master's degrees, a professional counseling degree, and certification in supervision, mid-management, and language and learning disabilities.

"I consider myself ambitious, I don't think I stayed in it (education) because I'm unambitious. It has been very rewarding for me, but I've made that happen because I've gone back to school and improved my skills, I've gotten into other areas of education. That's what it's all about."

Ms. Wilder is not afraid of change, she has never gone more than three years in her career without altering her work environment or heading back for more schooling.

"I always felt like I was getting stale or that I was getting behind. In education, people don't realize that it can happen very rapidly and if we don't have the tools and the skills then we're behind."

She said this constant improvement has helped maintain her ongoing enthusiasm for education.

"I have never suffered burnout because I have made sure that I have changed positions, if only in grade level, all through the years I've worked in education," she said. "I've tried to change every three years because I get excited when something is new. I've been lucky in being able to do that."

Educators not only suffer from burnout, but many from the harshness of economics. Teacher pay is not always enough with which to support a family and many educators are lured away from the profession by higher wages offered in the private sector.

Of course, Ms. Wilder has a need for money just as anyone else, but she believes education carries some intrinsic rewards which remain priceless.

"Money isn't everything. I love what I'm doing, I love my kids, I'm a people person. I like the hours, I like the time off you have as a teacher, what other profession could I have that has the rewards that education has," she said. "I mean the child with a grimy little hand that brings me a crumbled up cookie and says 'I love you' or a teacher that is excited because Johnny finally learned how to read. I guess really you can't put a dollar sign on it."

While her role in the success of the Bauer Magnet School is vital, she does not wish to be the star of the show, so to speak. She stressed the magnet concept came from a community effort and it will take the same to prosper.

"The unique thing about this magnet school is that the steering committee and the community has set up the guidelines, and this is good because it's something everybody has been involved in," Ms. Wilder said. "I'm just lucky enough to be the one who takes all these people's efforts, hopes and dreams and plug it in. I really feel like there is too much emphasis being put on Jean Wilder because I am just a small part of a team effort."

Ms. Wilder is also quick to praise the district's school board and administration with special mention of Hise, Assistant Superintendent

HAVE YOU BEEN A GOOD BOY? — Jean Wilder, recently named to administer the new Bauer Magnet School, is shown talking with one of her Washington Elementary students, Gene Rogers. Gene is in second grade and will be following Ms. Wilder to her new duties at Bauer.

Harold Bentley and Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator.

"Mr. Hise is very realistic about what is good for the total school system. Principals, teachers and parents are 'his ours' or 'this is mine,' we're very possessive, but Mr. Hise has the ability to be objective and take the broad view of what's good for the community and the school system. I know that the changes made were for the total program."

The Bauer Magnet School concept is at present filled with many variables and unknowns as the district attempts to couple a suitable curriculum with a compatible class schedule. However, Ms. Wilder has several goals already in mind for the school.

"I think the big goal is to get parent involvement. I want the parents at Bauer to feel like 'hey, that's taxpayers' money, I want to get involved in that school. I want to help them make it work' — you do not have success unless you have a parent there helping you, you can't do it by yourself."

Ms. Wilder said her biggest problem will be getting acquainted with parents at Bauer. She places great importance in knowing families and backgrounds as an aid to her work.

"Until I know these things, I can't be effective. I'm just not as familiar with those parents as I am with the ones at Washington and that'll take time," she said.

Of course, a goal of equal importance with Ms. Wilder, is the student's education. She said she is hoping the enriched curriculum at Bauer will make children "excited about learning."

"We've got to be able to meet the needs of students who are going out in the real world and a lot of times, may be, we forget that — the basics are wonderful, but they've got to have skills to cope in the real world too and I think that's my job."

While she is optimistic about the success of the magnet school, she does realize the concept will mean problems. When attempting to achieve harmony among people in a new situation, a few sour notes must be expected.

A major problem, according to Ms. Wilder, will be fusing old staff, students and schedules with the new people and methods that go with the magnet program. She said continuity will be the key that starts with school running smoothly.

Between now and fall when Bauer opens as a magnet school, Ms. Wilder and the district's administration will be studying other magnet schools in the state.

The group made a trip to Odessa during last week, and in two weeks another trip to study Houston's magnet schools will be made.

"I'm real excited over the prospect of getting to visit other magnet school programs over the state," she said. "Most of them have had a great deal of success and I'm very optimistic about Bauer. In talking to other educators and finding out what they are doing will help us to learn from their mistakes."

Away from the office, Mrs. Wilder says there is "nothing earth shattering about what I do with my leisure time."

She said she finds time to "walk a lot" for tension and exercise, and also reads, enjoys water sports and travel.

"My job is my hobby, I love it. I come to work at 7:15 a.m. I give it about 110 percent everyday. It has become my hobby. It's a pleasure to do what I do. I take it very seriously, but it's also a pleasure."

Hise works to make magnet school attractive

The Bauer Magnet School presents a unique opportunity for Big Spring and affords the city's school district a chance to rid itself of claims by the U.S. Justice Department charging segregation.

With Bauer's extended day enrichment program in academics, vocational skills, fine arts, hobbies and sports, the district is attempting to attract enough students from across the district to balance the school's racial make-up.

Last week it was announced that the district is now holding pre-registration for Bauer Magnet School through April 15 at administration offices at 708 11th Place.

Many parents may still be confused about the working of the new magnet school, and recently Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Lynn Hise talked about what the school will mean for students participating in the program.

Hise said interested parents should bring their children in for pre-registration which includes a counseling session to determine the student's interests. From the pre-registration, the district can then form classes and hire teachers for the coming fall at Bauer.

The school will carry the district's regular instructional program from 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day; however, computer instruction and tutoring will also be offered to enrich classes — something that other elementary schools do not offer, according to Hise.

Then from 3-5 p.m. the extended day program will operate offering classes in such proposed areas as computers, foreign languages, music, art, bowling, photography, crafts and other similar classes.

Hise cautioned that these classes may not be the exact ones offered when the school opens next fall. Class offerings will depend on student demand and interest. However, Hise said every attempt will be made to offer classes on a rotating schedule.

"Everyone needs to know we aren't shortchanging them (on class offerings)," Hise said. "It's just that we have to be flexible the first year and see what the interests are."

The program and activities came about from input from parents, teachers and interested persons collected by a steering committee which visited all elementary campuses to gather the information. In essence, the program has been molded to the wishes of the people the district serves.

Hise said the extended day program is offered only to students enrolled at Bauer; however, every elementary student in the district has the opportunity to transfer to Bauer.

This means a student will not be allowed to attend another school in the district until 3 p.m. and then switch to Bauer for the extended day program.

"We're looking at this as an opportunity to make available some things which are not now in the elementary program," Hise said. "We're going to make it work and we're going to do it well."

Hise said tentative plans have the extended day program divided up in six six-week periods. During each six-week period the student will probably participate in two activities between 3 and 5 p.m. depending on the length of the class, he said.

At the end of the six-week time the student may rotate to other subjects or he may wish to continue in that course of study.

"This is for the student that, say, might be learning to play an instrument and he or she wants to stay with it to become proficient," Hise said.

Hise said students signing up for the extended day program will probably be required to remain in the program all year long. However, students not all ready in the program, and wishing to enroll, will be allowed to enter classes.

No student at Bauer is required to enroll in the extended day program — the program is strictly voluntary, Hise said.

In addition to the new program, the district will also be providing busing to and from Bauer for students enrolled in the magnet school.

Other changes at Bauer include enriching the regular 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. class day for students.

Computer assisted instruction will come in the form of 12 computer terminals with programs in reading, language arts and mathematics.

Another change will involve tutoring on an individual or group basis as the need arises. Skills in reading, spelling, language and math are primary targets in tutoring.

And lastly, enrichment activities in books, creative writing, prose, poetry, memory work, drama, etc. will be provided on a regular basis for students who are above grade level, but who fail to meet state and local guidelines for the district's gifted and talented program.

Besides classes already mentioned, the extended day program will also offer work on microcomputers with software available for science, social studies and individualized instruction.

Extra instructors and teachers to help with the extended day program will not be hired by the district until more complete results of pre-registration and registration are seen, Hise said.

However, he did say any teachers working into the extended day would be compensated for their time. Hise also mentioned that experts in various fields might also be hired as instructors in some of the courses.

"How it will all work out, we just don't know," Hise said. "As time progresses; however, things will become clearer as to the paths we take."

One of the changes wrought by the Bauer Magnet School program was the recent reassigning of four elementary school principals by Hise.

After much consideration, Hise moved Jean Wilder, currently principal at Washington Elementary, to Bauer to administer the new program.

Current Bauer Principal Harlan Huijbregtse was reassigned to Moss Elementary with Moss Principal M.A. Barber moving to College Heights, and College Heights Principal Herman Smith moving to take over duties at Washington.

Hise said he knew the decision would be unsettling to some, but he said he felt the changes were for the good of the district as a whole.

Hise said the district has been given three years by the U.S. Justice Department to set the program in motion and correct the racial imbalance.

"The court will review what we've done and evaluate it," Hise said. "By some of the indications I've gotten, the Justice Department will give us a clean bill of health even if we haven't quite met our goal."

BSISD'S MAIN MAN — Superintendent Lynn Hise is working hard these days to get the new Bauer Magnet School in shape for the coming fall. Hise is working with fellow administrators and teachers to make the special enrichment program a success.

Request repairs in writing

Convincing the landlord to make needed repairs or correct poor conditions is a problem for many renters. If a conflict arises between you and your landlord, make a request for repairs or remedies in writing.

According to the law, landlords must correct conditions adversely affecting the tenant's physical health or safety, such as plumbing problems, rats and excessive roaches, or broken stairs. No one is legally required to repair conditions resulting from ordinary "wear and tear," but most landlords maintain their property to keep it rentable.

Send your written request for repairs by registered or certified mail so that you have proof the landlord received the notice. If your letter is ignored, send a second notice and ask for a written explanation of why corrections have not been made.

If changes are not made after the second written request, you may terminate your lease and move from the unit. Then you can file suit and attempt to recover some rent and damage money in addition to court costs.

You are due a full refund of your security deposit if you have paid your rent and obeyed the lease up to the date it was legally ended. But you must leave the property in good condition, except for the conditions under dispute. Don't withhold the last month's rent because you think the deposit will cover it. The landlord can sue for three times the amount of rent withheld.

Dear Abby

Hats off to oldies but goodies

DEAR ABBY: You recently mentioned that cowboys take their hats off only for very special occasions, but you missed the classic response the questioner may have been fishing for: The story is told about the mother who was wheeling her small child in a stroller when a stranger remarked, "What beautiful red hair that child has! Does his father have red hair too?"

Mother responds, "I don't know; he didn't take his hat off."

Abby, do you suppose the father could have been a cowboy?

PENNSYLVANIA PEN PAL

DEAR PAL: Well, 23 skidoo! Henry Youngman is alive and well and living in Pennsylvania. Oops, I stand corrected. I think he may have moved to Montana. Check this:

DEAR ABBY: When "Leon" asked what the difference was between a tourist and a traveler, you replied, "A tourist is a traveler who looks like he hasn't traveled much."

I have a better answer: "A tourist stays a week and drops $400. A traveler comes with a shirt and a $20 bill, and doesn't change either one."

MOVIN' ON IN MONTANA

DEAR ABBY: How can I find out if a man is legally divorced without his knowing I checked up on him? He's 40, and when we met he said he was divorced, but I have a feeling he's still married.

I'm 22, and I've been hurt enough by men to last me a lifetime. I don't want to be hurt again. I really care for him, but I don't want to mess up my life fooling with a married man.

I can't afford to hire a private investigator, but I need to know the truth, and he gets very ugly if he thinks someone is checking up on him behind his back. Thank you.

PHILADELPHIA FILLY

DEAR FILLY: Call your county clerk's office. Give the name of the man and the approximate date of his divorce. If he is in fact divorced, the clerk's office will have a record of it (if it was filed in that county).

Since divorce is a matter of public record, this information is available to anyone who inquires. And if you really don't want to be hurt again, you will have nothing to do with a man you have to check up on behind his back — and get "ugly" about it to boot!

Dr. Donohue

Limits to sweating

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there a temperature beyond which the body produces no more sweat? Second question: What effect does a sauna have on one's heart during the period of extreme heat? — A.M.

I'll take a crack at your questions, but I cannot do so with any great precision.

We have about 2 million sweat glands. I didn't count them, but that's the figure used. We used them all for one purpose, to get rid of body heat. As surrounding temperature rises, we sweat to lower our body temperature. This evaporation of sweat on the skin surface pulls away heat from our bodies.

Certainly, there's a limit to how much we can sweat. That might be the point at which all of our sweat glands are working. The temperature at which this happens I cannot find written about. You mention in another part of your letter the figure 175 degrees F. I would imagine that limits are reached well below that temperature. And in such intense heat the whole issue could be somewhat moot if internal body temperature were to rise to the point of endangering vital organs.

However, in general our bodies can learn to become better sweaters. We can activate more sweat glands faster and get them pouring out more sweat earlier as we approach higher temperatures. I am sure much research has been done in this field, and if I hear of it I will pass it on.

Your second question is easier. Heat of a sauna increases the heart rate considerably — about 60 beats a minute over its resting state. If your resting pulse is 72, your sauna pulse might be as high as 132 beats a minute. And even though more blood is being pumped each minute, blood pressure actually drops as skin vessels expand dramatically under the influence of the outside heat.

Someone has compared this experience to that of a 10-minute jog. That's a bit high in my estimation, but there's no denying the fact that there is a strain placed on the heart. For these reasons, people with heart or blood pressure problems should ask their doctors before using saunas.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Regarding D.B.'s problem — swelling of the fingers during long walks. Some 60 years ago when hiking in the Rockies, my father taught us to carry a small stick in each hand to avoid this hand swelling. It was especially good when making rapid walks downhill. It worked! — D.H.S.

Sounds as though it should work. Squeezing the stick every now and then should make the hands and finger muscles pump fluid out of tissues.

Square dancers benefit community

I hope you had a nice Easter despite all the West Texas weather we experienced.

I never realized how active our local SQUARE DANCERS are until a friend of mine told me what they do each month.

The dancers bring many visitors into Big Spring, which probably helps our economy. Two Sundays per month, about 20 square dancers from Odessa, Midland, Snyder, Colorado City, San Angelo, Abilene, Eldorado, Andrews and Big Spring, plus places in between, meet for dancing and workshops.

The dancers are in the midst of planning a festival to be held May 6-7. About 40 visiting squares from as far away as Houston and El Paso will attend.

CARLA WALKER HARROLD, former reporter for the Herald, is back in town. She and her husband PAUL are farming. Carla also is doing professional photography work and free-lance computer programming. Carla completed her MBA shortly before returning to Big Spring.

NAOMI HUNT, county extension agent — home economics, had a visitor this week. Her mother, MELVINA WILLIAMS of Boulder, Colo. was here for a week. Mrs. Williams looked on and enjoyed the show when Naomi, ROXANNE RICH and I were getting Naomi fix up for the food page picture that appeared in Wednesday's paper.

NITA TARBET was guinea pig to a makeover during the Tuesday meeting of The BLUE BLAZERS. Makeover artist, GARY DON CAREY, analyzed Nita's color spectrum according to seasons and did the makeover based on the analysis. Gary Don recently completed a course in Dallas for analyzing people in this way. Once the season of colors is determined for a person, the person keeps a book of swatches to use when shopping for makeup or clothing. This analysis lasts a lifetime.

I wish to express my gratitude to those who supported me in the recent City Council election.

Thank you,

A baby shower honoring Mrs. Alan (Cathey) Roman, Midland, was held April 2 in the home of her sister, Mrs. Larry Antley, Midland.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of pink, yellow and green baby socks. The table centerpiece included a white basket lined with pink Easter grass and filled with baby toiletries, colored pacifiers and several stuffed baby toys.

Refreshments of Easter basket cupcakes and punch were served from the kitchen bar which was covered with an off-white table runner. Brass candlesticks holding pink and blue candles and paper honeycomb eggs of assorted pastel colors completed the table decorations.

Texas Gardener tips

Caging may improve yields

There is no doubt that your tomato yields will increase if you grow your tomato plants in cages. Cages are nothing more than cylinders of concrete reinforcement wire used to support the plants in an upright position and keep the fruit off the ground.

To make cages for your tomatoes, get a roll of concrete reinforcement wire 5 feet high with a 6-inch mesh. Cut off a section of wire 5 1/2 feet wide, taking care to cut the horizontal wires so that they form long prongs. Bend the piece of wire into a cylinder, and bend or crimp the cut wire ends, or prongs, around one of the vertical wires.

The resulting cage will be about 18 inches in diameter and 5 feet tall. This 5-foot cage can be used as is for tall plants like Better Boy, or it can be cut in half to form two cages 2 1/2 feet tall. The shorter cages are ideal if you grow tomato varieties such as Spring Giant and Bigset which produce compact plants but lots of tomatoes.

Place a cage over each plant shortly after transplanting. To provide support for the cage, cut out the horizontal circle of wire from the bottom ring to form vertical prongs that can be pushed into the ground. If you use taller cages or even the smaller cages, you may want to provide additional support with wooden or metal stakes to keep them from falling over.

The really great thing about caging tomato plants is that no pruning or suckering is necessary since they are allowed to grow naturally within the cages.

Another advantage is that the cage can be used to protect the plants from cold temperatures or high winds. If the weather looks bad, take a plastic trash bag, open the bottom, and slip it over the cage. For a greenhouse effect, use a light-colored or clear plastic bag. In case of a

OEA students head for national contest

A delegation of Howard College students and faculty advisors returned with honors from the Post Secondary Office Education Association Leadership Conference in Dallas recently. The cluster competitive events and the non-cluster events were held in the El Centro College Campus in Dallas.

Receiving awards were Denise Pierce, first place, Data Entry and fifth place, Job-Application-Data processing, and L. Rose Dunn, winning fifth place in prepared verbal communications.

Howard College students participation in the Office Education Association State Leadership Conference has always been among those winning the highest awards," said Mary Deats, business division instructor and faculty advisor for OEA.

The National Leadership Conference will be held April 27-May 2 in Milwaukee, Wis., with about 4,000 students participating. Delegates will have an opportunity to participate in educational seminars and workshops, hear nationally prominent speakers, elect national officers and compete in the Occupational Competency Tests.

L. Rose Dunn will be a national officers candidate, and is planning to run for Western Region Vice-President. She will campaign for office by attending state caucuses during the National Leadership Conference. Denise Pierce will serve as campaign manager.

"Experiences gained from attending state and national OEA conferences add to the professional and personal growth and development of every student able to attend," Deats said. The objective to OEA is the development of top leaders in business and industry. The organization has affiliations in secondary and post-secondary schools involving thousands of students whose ambitions are for business careers.

Alpha Phi Delta plans April events

Events upcoming in April were discussed at an Alpha Phi Delta chapter meeting Tuesday, held in the home of Beckie Baker.

Events included the city council meeting, held Thursday, Founder's Day dinner April 28 at 7 p.m. at the Country Club, and the chapter party slated April 23 at 4:30 p.m. at Beckie

Baker's home. New pledges will have their formal ritual April 19 at the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Programs were prepared by Tammy Worthan on service, and Robbie Brunson on careers. The next meeting is April 19 at the Reddy Room.

Wedding

Parker-Fryar

In a candlelight ceremony performed under an arch of peach and white dogwood trees, Maleah Beth Parker and Bobby Fryar were united in marriage Saturday in the Coahoma Church of Christ. Don Parker, father of the bride and minister of the church, officiated the rite.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Don Parker, Coahoma. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Fryar, Route 1.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Clint Parker. The couple stood on a riser before a lattice work trellis entwined with fresh ivy. Flanking the dogwood trees were golden candelabra with 95 candles and colonnades wound with fresh ivy.

Music was provided by a chorus composed of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spell, Mrs. Don Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dennis, Raylyn Woods, Cathy Ward, Tracey Spell, Doug Harriman, Gregg Meeks, Larry Kingsley, Vincent Kingsley, and Lonnie Anderson.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza embossed with satin and lace appliques etched with seed pearls and sequins on the fitted bodice. The sweetheart neckline was scalloped with lace, pearls and sequins. The A-line skirt featured applied satin and lace flowers studded with pearls and sequins and sweeping to a lace-trimmed train overlaid with silk organza train. Satin covered buttons closed the illusion fingertip lace sleeves and the back of the bodice.

The three-tiered fingertip-length veil included a blusher of tulle attached to the head band of lace encrusted with pearls and appliques of lace and pearls. The veil was edged with seed pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white and yellow daisies on a lace fan with streamers of lace and satin ribbon, trimmed with seed pearls and sequins.

Jana Parker was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Fay Parks, sister of the bridegroom, Donna Parker and Suzanne Sanders.

Best man was Ken Kelso. Groomsmen were Larry Bennett, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Steve Reeves, and Jim Bob Phillips. Ushers were Ken Fryrear, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Norman Fryar, cousin of the bridegroom, Bobby Roever and Gregg Garrison.

The couple was honored with a reception in the Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with white lace draped with peach organza with yellow daisies. White satin bows held the drapes in place. The centerpiece was a tall white candelabrum with peach candles. Around the base were sprays of peach and white gladiola mixed with daisies with tiny dogwood blossoms. The three-tiered, heartshaped cake was decorated with yellow and white daisies and a garland of green and white flowers around the base. The top of the cake featured a miniature porcelain bride and bridegroom from the Christopher Collection, standing under an arch of dogwood in a circle of daisies.

The bridegroom's table was laid with a cream colored linen cloth topped with a yellow linen cloth. The centerpiece was a wooden tractor with a cotton trailer filled with cotton and decorated with daisies. Chocolate cake and coffee in a silver coffee service were served.

The bride is a graduate of Kimball High School, Dallas. The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is a 1981 graduate of Angelo State University in San Angelo. He is self-employed as a cotton farmer. Following a wedding trip to Pecan Plantation, a southeast of Dallas, the couple will reside in Sand Springs.

Bridal Bouquets
By Lynette Brooks
Etiquette Notes

SHOWERS OF SHOWERS

Some brides have many showers, others only one. Traditionally, everyone invited to the wedding should be invited to the shower, but separate showers are both possible and popular.

Groups with a "special" relationship with the bride — co-workers, sorority sisters, fellow club members — often decide to hold a special shower.

Showers don't have to be "for women only." It is increasingly popular to invite men to showers these days. In this case, the shower should properly be for the bride AND groom. Cocktail-hour or weekend-brunch times are the most suitable for coed showers. Gifts can be addressed either to the bride, or groom, or both.

If holding a mixed shower, it is proper for the maid of honor to consult with the best man about the guest list. Male relatives of both the bride and groom can be invited.

Every marriage sets its own traditions. To start some of your own, contact your bridal registry & wedding ring specialists at Blum's Jewelers.
