

Big Spring native killed, local resident injured in Snyder crash

From staff and wire reports
SNYDER — A Big Spring native was killed and a Big Spring resident was critically injured in a two-car head-on crash that left two other persons dead and another hurt early Sunday.
 The accident occurred two miles south of Snyder on Texas Highway 350 at 1:15 a.m.
 Perry Keith Kruse, 26, of Ira, formerly of Big Spring, was pronounced dead at the scene by Scurry County Peace Justice Preston Wilson. Kruse was driver of one of the vehicles, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The driver of the other vehicle, Vicente Montoya, 26, of Snyder, was also pronounced dead at the scene. A passenger in his vehicle, Augustine Romero, 26, of Snyder, died at Cogdell about 45 minutes after the wreck, the DPS said.
 Delia Aguilar, 41, of 1201 Lamar in Big Spring, was transferred to Lubbock Methodist Hospital from Snyder's Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 5 a.m. Sunday. She was in critical condition this morning, according to a Lubbock hospital spokesman.
 Ms. Aguilar, a passenger in Montoya's 1977 Pontiac, suffered multiple compound fractures, according to Peggy Rankin, a registered nurse with Cogdell.

A third passenger in Montoya's car, Jose Perez, 17, of Mexico, is at Cogdell in stable condition with abdominal injuries, Miss Rankin said this morning.
 DPS officials say the two drivers — Kruse and Montoya — had been drinking.
 DPS trooper Kirby McCravey said Kruse was on the wrong side of the road when his pickup truck smashed into the station wagon driven by Montoya.

Blood tests, evidence found at the scene and interviews indicated that both drivers had been drinking before the accident, McCravey said.
 The passengers in Montoya's car were described as "good drinking buddies," the trooper said.
 Kruse was born April 16, 1956 in Big Spring. He has lived in Ira for several years.
 Services for Kruse will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at First Baptist Church in Snyder. The Rev. Jim Moseley of Ackerly will officiate.

GAIL SUTPHEN
 ...once played for WBAP radio in Fort Worth

Piano lady

By RICHARD HORN
 Staff Writer

"My mother used to pray that I would be musical," says Mrs. Gail Sutphen of 1414 11th place.
 Her mother's prayers were apparently heard.
 In the past, Mrs. Sutphen offered the fruits of her musical talents at radio station WBAP in Fort Worth. Today she offers them in music lessons and in playing at Furr's Cafeteria at the Highland Mall.
 "I guess I inherited my love for music from my mother," she said. "She was a music teacher and I started music lessons when I was 5."
 "I never had to be forced to practice. At an early age I could read music and play by ear."
 Mrs. Sutphen was born in Fort Worth and took her first job on the musical staff of WBAP, playing live music for several of the station's shows.
 "I played piano, organ and accordion, and I sang," she said. "We did a little of everything — some religion, but mostly pop."
 Her favorites are "pretty things," she said, especially "Misty," "The Rose" and "Chariots of Fire."
 "You'd be surprised how many young people, say in their late 20s and early 30s, really enjoy the pretty music of the 1950s and 1960s," she said. "The most requested piece by far is 'Somewhere My Love.'"
 After two years at WBAP and its sister station, WFAA in Dallas, Mrs. Sutphen married and her husband came to Big Spring to work as a building contractor. Mrs. Sutphen taught piano and organ here.
 When her husband died several years later, she moved to Dallas and worked as an organist at Riverlake Country Club.
 "Music has always been very important to my life," she said. "I was very active in music — teaching and performing — in Dallas."
 She stayed there for a little over three years, then took a job as a music therapist at Big Spring State Hospital.
 After six years, she was offered the job playing dinner music when Furr's Cafeteria at Highland Mall opened 17 years ago.

Finance board suggests $2 million SWCID budget

By RICHARD HORN
 Staff Writer

Officials of the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and legislators trying to save the school today expressed disappointment at a Senate Finance Committee's recommended $2 million two-year appropriation.
 The figure, announced Sunday in Austin, is $1.9 million short of the $3.9 million the school says it needs to survive.
 Legislators and SWCID officials say the low figure is the result of State Comptroller Bob Bullock's announcement that $953 million has been cut from available state revenue.
 But Sen. John Montford said this morning that he was to appear before the committee today at 3 p.m. to request the additional $1.9 million for SWCID.
 "We're going lay it all on the table," Montford said. "We're going to give them the needs, the reasons, the wherefores and the whys. Things are very austere here in Austin. SWCID is not being singled out."
 Earlier in the budgeting process, the Legislative Budget Board recommended the school receive $2 million during the two-year period, a figure the Senate Finance Committee stuck with Sunday.

 The House Appropriations Committee already has approved a $3.9 million SWCID budget for the two years beginning Sept. 1. The committee was meeting today to review various figures in response to Bullock's new revenue estimates.
 Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring said that the Senate committee's decision would put the appropriation issue into a House-Senate conference committee.
 "They will have to adjust between the two figures," he said. "I would hope they would adjust it near the higher figure, but it's going to take some work. The $3.9 million is what SWCID needs to operate."
 "I'm quite disappointed. This does change our situation some," he said.
 Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District said he was disappointed by the news and felt Bullock's new revenue figures were the cause.
 "Sen. Montford told me on the phone this morning that Bullock's report has wreaked havoc in Austin," Hays said. "They are having to cut everywhere. I see SWCID, page 2A

Typewriter wars plague commissioners

By MIKE DOWNEY
 Staff Writer

Just when it seemed safe to type again, the typewriter wars flared up again in the Howard County Commissioners' Court.
 Awarding the contract for six electronic typewriters and three advanced machines with memory is on the agenda again today.
 Commissioners had awarded a contract for nine typewriters worth about $11,000 for county employees on March 28. They had narrowed the bids to two companies March 14 and had Xerox and Olivetti (Malone Business Systems) demonstrate their products at the last meeting.

 Commissioners then awarded the Midland-based Malone Business Systems the contract after four hours of deliberation.
 However, commissioners then partially canceled the purchase order for six of the nine machines after a local company — L.H. Office Center — complained it had a lower bid.
 Commissioner David Barr said he and the other commissioners were not aware the local company was selling Olivetti typewriters as well.
 However, L.H. Office Center does not have a service contract on the machines as stated in the bid requirements as he understands it, Barr said.

 "I'm sure we'll just award the bid right back (to Malone Business Systems)," Barr said. "We just wanted to get this cleared up."
 Barr said County Auditor Jackie Olson contacted the commissioners after the meeting about the complaint and pointed out the lower bid of the Big Spring company. Barr said the difference is about $200 on the six machines, but without a warranty.

"The taxpayers' money" will be better suited with a warranty or a guarantee from the local company to repair the machines, Barr said.
 The question of whether it is legal to cancel actions taken in public meetings has not been raised yet, according to County Attorney Bob Miller. He said he had spoken with Commissioner Bill Crooker about the matter, but no question of legality had arisen.
 "I can't see there's any problem," Miller said. "The best thing is to get back to square one — it just makes common sense."

Council will rehash lowering sewer rates

By CAROL DANIEL
 Staff Writer

The city sewer rate issue — scrutinized inside and out since January — may finally be resolved tomorrow night at the Big Spring City Council's regular meeting.
 The council will rehash means of lowering the rates at a work session tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the airport terminal building and again at the 6:30 p.m. meeting at City Hall.
 Councilmen changed the sewer billing method in November 1982 from a flat rate to a method designed to charge customers for the actual amount of wastewater used.

 An ordinance revising the method passed on a 3-2 vote with Councilmen Jack Y. Smith and Larry Miller dissenting. Smith and Miller said the city should retain the flat rate; however, other councilmen said the new method would be more equitable.
 Both sides did agree the city needed more revenue to finance the city sewer system.

 After a trial period of about four months — and protests from customers whose bills had increased — the council and city staff studied projected revenue figures for the fiscal year and decided customers are being overcharged.
 Councilmen tabled a revised ordinance at their last meeting March 22 that would have reduced the base rate by 50 cents, saving sewer service customers $31,500 this fiscal year.

 The issue was tabled because several councilmen expressed dissatisfaction with the study and wanted to look further into the matter. Councilmen can't agree whether to reduce the current base rate or revert to a flat rate.
 Smith and Miller both say they want to return to a flat rate.

Soil, erosion and winds lead to I-20 dust

Unusual texture, poor erosion prevention and high winds combine at Morita flats

By CAROL DANIEL
 Staff Writer

Peculiarly fine-textured soil, poor erosion prevention and high winds work together to produce sandstorms that recurrently plague Interstate Highway 20 from Big Spring to Stanton, according to local soil, geology and highway experts.
 The unusually fine and alkaline white sand turned vicious on Friday, April 1 when swooped up by hurricane-force winds. It snarled Easter-holiday traffic for at least four hours along a 15-mile stretch of highway that passes through the desolate area known as Morita Flats.

"It's a very bad place with that old alkali-type soil," Dean said. "But we've never had that bad of a traffic problem before."
 Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon said the sandstorm was particularly severe last Friday because a field north of the interstate recently had been plowed for cultivation.
 "They just began plowing so there was nothing to hold it (the soil) down," Redmon said. "That's why it blew so hard there where everybody was tied up."
 Mary McBride, a geologist with the University of Texas Department of Economic Geology, explained that the soil's texture is fine because it is composed of sedimentary deposits from ancient stream beds.
 Bill Fryrear of the U.S. Big Spring Field Station said one type of soil — the Drake series — found in fields about eight miles west of Big Spring is the most difficult to control and that it's next to impossible to use normal soil conservation techniques to hold it down.
 "The particular soils being farm-

Congressmen to walk for March of Dimes

In a bi-partisan show of support for the March of Dimes efforts to prevent birth defects, more than 150 senators and congressmen will step out on the lawn of the nation's Capitol in the second annual Congressional WalkAmerica April 12.

The symbolic event will serve to encourage constituents to join the nationwide WalkAmerica April 23-24 to raise funds for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

In Big Spring, WaAmerica/TeamWalk will take place April 23 at 9 a.m. beginning at the Big Spring Mall.

Joining the politicians on April 12 in Washington will be eight television celebrities who will tour 24 cities to promote the walk-a-thon.

They are Crystal Bernard of "Happy Days," Margan Brittany of "Dallas," J.J. Bullock of "Too Close for Comfort," "Dean Butler of "Little House: A New Beginning," Kim Fields of "The Facts of Life," Claudia Lonow of "Knot's Landing," Ted McGinley of "Happy Days" and Timothy Patrick Murphy of "Dallas."

Coahoma JP performs creek bed ceremony

COAHOMA — Justice of the Peace Willie Grant did not have to conduct a wedding on horseback this weekend at Lawn after all. But she did marry a Lawn, Texas couple by a creek bed.

Mrs. Grant said the couple — Jana Reid and Kenneth Griffith — decided to get married on Jim Ned Creek south of Abilene with everyone garbed in Western wear.

Everyone, that is, except the bride. "At the last minute, she decided to wear white and change to Western clothes at the reception," Mrs. Grant said.

An outdoor reception under a tent was canceled earlier in fear of the weather, Mrs. Grant said. However, the elements cooperated Saturday, she added, with good weather.

"It was real pretty," Mrs. Grant said. "The ceremony was held on the edge of a creek bed under live oak trees."

Spirituality workshop slated

The Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church will host a five-hour workshop April 16 on spirituality.

The workshop, "Your Life — God's Gift to You and Others," will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m. Topics include "How can I grow through life's events?", "How can prayer help me make sense out of my life?", "Where do my gifts come from?", and "Can I make a gift of myself?"

Facilitator of the workshop is Ann Schwendinger, St. Mary's University. She is director of continuing studies at St. Mary's and teaches spirituality for the graduate Theology department at St. Mary's University.

Ms. Schwendinger has 10 years of experience teaching Theology, doing pastoral work and working as a church administrator. She holds a Master's degree in spirituality and a Master's public administration.

Cost of the workshop is $10. Immaculate Heart of Mary Church is located at 1009 Hearn St.

HC students display works

Recent winners of the Howard College Art Show will be exhibiting their works at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office on Third Street this month.

All of the first-place artists are current students of Howard College.

Rhonda Camp, a freshman from Coahoma, took first in pastel. Winnie Turney from Big Spring won top honors in the charcoal division. Popular Choice poll winner and top three-dimensional competitor was Vi Taylor, a sophomore from Hot Springs, Ark.

Jackie McElroy, a Big Spring freshman, placed first in oils and inks while Kathryn Russell-Mobley grabbed first in mixed media. Best of show honors went to Jo Alice Rember of Big Spring for her mixed-media entry.

Siamese twins leave hospital

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Two surgically separated Siamese twin girls were released from Providence Memorial Hospital over the weekend, officials said today.

Brenda and Miriam Hernandez, joined from breastbone to navel at birth March 20, were separated March 31 at the hospital. The team of surgeons finished the operation in 3 hours and 15 minutes, less than half the time they thought it would take.

The infants shared no vital organs and had separate hearts. Before the surgery, Dr. Richard Heath predicted they had less than a 50 percent chance of surviving the separation.

The girls are the children of Raul and Maria Delores Hernandez of Ciudad Juarez, Mexico — across the border from here.

"They went home Saturday," nursing supervisor I.M. Flood said today. "They were doing fine."

Ms. Flood said the girls were staying with their mother's family in El Paso.

Oscar rehearses for big night

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Selleck and Raquel Welch provided an "equal opportunity drool" to those watching the rehearsal for tonight's Oscar telecast as the stars showed up in jeans and tennis shoes to read their cue cards.

Glittering gowns and elegant black ties will replace casual clothes for the 55th annual Academy Awards show at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion, but Sunday the place was overrun by technicians, informally dressed stars and an audience of 2,000.

The stage crawled with dozens of production workers, from set painters putting the final touches on backdrops to stage managers with earphones and clipboards.

And while cameras were working, the scenes appeared only on monitors scattered throughout the hall. Tonight's Music Center gala will be televised on ABC to be seen live or on tape by an estimated 400 million people in a record 74 nations.

Because the winners remain a secret until the presentation, the Oscar telecast, the envelopes opened at the run-through contained only the names of fictional winners.

But if some of the glamour was missing, the stars were real enough — and they were the main draw for an estimated 2,000 people who got complimentary rehearsal tickets from ABC, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and other offices connected with the event.

The audience cheered as emcees Walter Matthau, Liza Minnelli, Dudley Moore and Richard Pryor worked on their opening number, even though the performance was at times barely audible.

The crowd whistled enthusiastically for Selleck and Ms. Welch, who are presenting the film editing award.

"It's like Venus and Adonis," said one awed spectator.

"It's like an equal opportunity drool," said another.

understand, but I'm disappointed. "We don't know what will happen," Hays said. "If they (conference committee) stick to the $3.9 million we will be all right. Any less and we're in trouble. We're already in trouble with the $3.9 million."

Hays said he was optimistic the House committee would "stick to its guns" on the $3.9 million.

He said there were several members of the Higher Education Committee on the panel who will support SWCID's cause.

"I'm optimistic," he said, "but not as optimistic as I was before Bullock's report."

Shaw said this most recent defeat does not mean SWCID faces an immediate ultimatum. He said he and Montford were still awaiting word from Attorney General Jim Mattox on their legislation that would make SWCID a separate state-supported college.

The legislation would, in effect, remove a state imposed restriction that prohibits SWCID, like all junior colleges, from spending money on maintenance and operation programs.

"Our best strategy, I think, is to wait for word on that," Shaw said. "I've never seen it like this," he said of the budget discussions in Austin. "We may get another decline in available revenue in May that would make getting financing even more difficult."

"I was talking to the Speaker (of the House Gib Lewis) and he said the House was going to stand firm on a no-tax bill. That means they may start cutting more. That could endanger SWCID," he said.

"But John Montford is the best one to have fighting for SWCID," Shaw said. "I'm sort of crying in towels right now, but I think we'll win. It will just be close."

"It's a disappointment, a big, big disappointment," said Sam Hill, district vice president for SWCID. "It's $1.9 million short of what we need to get by on a shoestring budget."

"I don't think it's throw-in-the-towel time, though. It's just going to take a lot of work," he said.

"I don't believe this is a case of the legislature not thinking we're a worthwhile project," he said. "But you can't get blood out of a turnip."

Hill said he was encouraged that the Senate committee went along with the LBB's recommendation that SWCID receive an increase in appropriation, instead of the 1 percent cut recommended for other junior college districts.

"We will be working closely with Sen. Montford to see what can be done," he said. "It's a real dogfight down there, especially after Bullock's announcement."

"I hope he (Bullock) is wrong," Hill said. "But they (the Legislature) is cutting. I think they think we're worthwhile, but if the money's not there, it's not there."

Officials with the district, which supervises and provides local funding for the deaf school, originally had asked for a two-year appropriation of $11 million.

State budget leaders have been stung by recent projections of state revenue decreases that would leave the Legislative Budget Board's $31.4 million two-year spending proposal about $2.5 billion in the red. Deficit spending is prohibited under the Texas Constitution.

"We've almost got to get both sides of the coin," Hays said.

The Howard County Junior College District and its taxpayers have been subsidizing SWCID with local tax dollars because of the restriction prohibiting the use of state money on building construction, maintenance or renovation, he noted.

ed on have very fine texture and are quite shallow," Fryrear said. "Consequently, we're not able to grow much. You don't see the build-up of soil along there because it's so fine and is constantly eroded away."

When farmers till their fields the soil doesn't form clods that break surface tension, Fryrear said.

Thus when even a slight breeze stirs the soil, the grains react much like particles in a nuclear explosion, knocking against one another and sweeping up into the atmosphere, said Joe Pickle, a Howard County historian.

Pickle said Morita Flats was a bed of severe sandstorms also during the severe drought in the 1950s. The sandy fields were once mined to sell to service stations to soak up oil spills, he said.

The lime-like soil is recommended for range land, not cultivation, Pickle said. Cultivating it only inflames the problem, he said. Fryrear said placing cotton gin trash on the fields would help break the surface tension, but that it would take years to substantially reduce the severity of the sandstorms.

Police Beat

Burglars hit homes over weekend

Police investigated reports of two weekend burglaries in which three televisions were stolen.

Francis Enriquez of 1206 S. Main told police someone entered her house Sunday night and stole a $1,300 Curtis Mathes TV and a $499 Zenith TV.

Charles Williams of 905 W. Fourth told police someone broke into Park and Lock storage at 400 Abrams and stole a color TV and a stereo that belong to R.M. Langston of 509 1/2 Nolan.

Police reports also show the following: ● Linda Ward of 1710 Alabama and Burle Nichols of Ackerly told police that someone stole all the hubcaps from both their vehicles that were parked Sunday at Bowl-A-Rama on East Highway 80.

● Doyle Edmonson of 1511 Johnson told police someone stole three BMX bicycles worth $130 each Sunday night from the front of his residence.

● Buster Weaver of Route 1 Box 777 told police someone stole his pickup truck Saturday night while he was inside College Park Safeway store. He said he left his keys inside the unlocked 1967 Ford Ranger.

● A 26-year-old east side woman told police that her husband struck her Saturday night while she was asleep in her home. She was taken to Hall-Bennett Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance service with cuts on her face. She said she doesn't know if he used his fist or a tool in the assault.

● Garrett Dean Burgess, 21, of Sterling City Route Box 5 was arrested last night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Police also cited him for running a red light and no insurance.

● Police say they arrested Jody Brittain, 22, of Gail Route last night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated after his vehicle collided with a vehicle driven by Thomas Ament of Sterling City Route on the 1100 block of Gregg.

Brittain also was cited for no driver's license, no insurance and making an improper turn. A passenger, Emanuel Thomas Mingula, was arrested on suspicion of public intoxication.

Musician 'Bongo Joe' charged with assault

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A downtown street musician known for years as "Bongo Joe" has been released on $5,000 bond after being charged with aggravated assault.

George Coleman, 59, was arrested Saturday night after a 23-year-old man was shot in the chest.

Coleman's giant oil drums, jokes and whistles have been a downtown institution since shortly before 1968's HemisFair.

He said Saturday night's shooting incident began when Manuel Salias Rubio began harassing him as he played for about 30 tourists.

"He was strutting around, pulling up his pants and falling all over the tourists," he said.

The musician said the man made racial slurs and then reached for his back pocket when Coleman asked him to leave.

"To tell you the truth, I'm not sure what happened," he said.

Police records show Coleman handed officers a .44-caliber pistol when they arrived at the shooting scene, by San Antonio's Riverwalk.

Coleman said he bought the gun about a year ago after being robbed four times.

"I'm somewhat in mourning for the guy who got hurt," he said Sunday. "I don't want to see nobody hurt."

Rubio was released Sunday from Medical Center Hospital.

Man eats way to world record

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Kirk Jordan is hard-boiled when it comes to pickled quail eggs. He gulped down 36 of them in 30 seconds to tie the world's record over the weekend.

The Grand Prairie man, a member of the chili team fielded by the Wax Museum of the Southwest, beat 13 other contestants in the event's world championship at Traders Village.

The contest was part of the two-day Eighth Annual Prairie Dog Chili Cook Off and World Championship of Picked Quail-Egg Eating.

WAITING FOR THE PLUNGE — Wayne Cash of Big Spring waits for someone to throw the ball that will plunge him into the dunking booth at the benefit for multiple sclerosis held yesterday at the Brass Nail. A number of Brass Nail employees, including Cash, manned carnival booths and served barbecue Sunday afternoon on the lot south of the club to raise funds for the MS Society.

Men caught trading antiques for drugs

Jordan withdraws from Mideast talks

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein has halted Jordan's participation in talks the United States hoped would lead to Mideast peace, and accused the Palestine Liberation Organization of breaking a tentative promise to cooperate in the negotiations.

In a blunt statement issued Sunday by the government news agency, Hussein called off his series of meetings with PLO chairman Yasser Arafat and said Jordan "will neither act separately nor in lieu of anybody else in Middle East peace negotiations."

Jordan's announcement came as a top PLO moderate was slain in Portugal, an assassination claimed by a Syrian-backed group that opposes any move to negotiate with Israel.

In an official comment today on Hussein's announcement, Syrian radio said "Syria's prediction of the failure of imperialist American and Zionist plans to rule over the Arab nation ... has now started to take its course."

The king's declaration could doom President Reagan's peace proposal, which was based on the prospect that Hussein would join in negotiations with Israel as a representative for the Palestinians. Under the Reagan plan,

JORDAN'S KING HUSSEIN ... halts participation in talks the negotiators would arrange for "autonomy" for the Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, in close association with Jordan.

Western diplomats in Amman, who requested anonymity, said today Hussein was exhausted by recent events and was unlikely to revive a dialogue with the PLO in the near future.

"There is gloom around town," said a Western European diplomat. "There has been a great deal of effort made at the expense of many other things, including the king's health. So I don't think anyone has the stamina to continue."

Reagan blamed "radical elements" of the PLO for the development and said he remained hopeful about his plan after talking with Hussein by telephone.

Israeli officials today said Hussein's move virtually ended hopes for the Reagan plan but they suggested the king still could open talks with Israel on his own. One official in Jerusalem said his government had anticipated no results from the Jordan-PLO talks, and added: "Only those who expected something from these talks will be disappointed."

Israel has rejected the Reagan plan, but U.S. officials had suggested the Israelis might compromise if Hussein and non-PLO Palestinians offered to negotiate in lieu of the guerrilla organization.

Bitter Chicago mayor's race in final day

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's rancorous mayoral campaign steamed into its final day today with Democrat Harold Washington saying members of his party would rather destroy the city than see a black in power and Republican Bernard Epton railing at a "prejudiced" news media.

A television poll released Sunday night showed Washington losing support to Epton in liberal, mainly white lakefront wards considered crucial to his chances in Tuesday's election.

Earlier in the day, Washington and Epton appeared on a succession of national and local radio and television interview programs that focused on the racial hostility that has clouded the campaign.

A survey of 660 registered voters by

Democrat Harold Washington ... campaign in home stretch

ABC-owned WLS-TV showed Washington retaining a 14 percent edge over Epton two days before election day. The poll found 52 percent of the support going to Washington, an increase of four percent from two weeks ago. Epton had 38 percent, also a four percent rise in two weeks.

But along the North Side lakefront where Washington was expected to do well Tuesday, Epton gained 11 points to 52 percent support while the Democrat lost 6 points to 36 percent.

WLS said the survey, conducted by Richard Day Research Inc., had an error margin of 6 percent. Voters were polled Thursday through Saturday.

In a campaign stop Sunday night, Washington — trying to become Chicago's first black mayor — took aim at white city Democrats who have defected to Epton's cause.

"They (white Democrats) have tried to skew this thing off and make it appear as if the whole issue is race — that's not true," Washington told a gathering at DuSable High School, where he was a track star. "It's a factor, you can't deny it."

But more corrupting in the final analysis (is) the greed and the avarice and profit motive on the part of a few Democratic Party leaders who would rather destroy this city than to see a black man (reform it)."

Epton, meanwhile, accused the media of overlooking his "extensive" campaigning in black neighborhoods.

"They (the media) have been there with me," he said during a stop at a Hispanic youth soccer game. "Unfortunately, the media is very biased and very prejudiced and they've shown it throughout."

On ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley" program, Epton denounced the media for strong emphasis on racial divisions in the campaign.

"Race is a very bum rap," he said. "We've lived here in peace and harmony for many years. The media are pointing up the worst possible situations — you (media) have a tendency to mold the news rather than report it."

Racial tensions in the strident campaign have surfaced several times, including an incident on Palm Sunday when demonstrators shouted at Washington to "Go home" as he stumped with former vice president Walter Mondale outside a church in a predominantly white neighborhood.

Several radio stations planned to broadcast tonight a five-minute Epton commercial that says the major issue in the campaign is not race, but "who can do the job" in City Hall.

SANDBAGGING — Workers build a small levee of sandbags to hold back flood waters Sunday in Stidell, La., as the rising West Pearl River sent 2,000 persons from their homes.

Storms swamp Northeast

By The Associated Press

The driving rainstorms that drove about 27,000 people from their homes in Dixie swamped the Northeast with more than 4 inches of rain in places, causing flooding today from New Jersey to Massachusetts.

Rising rivers and streams forced some people to leave their homes and high winds and heavy rains knocked out the power to hundreds of homes in New England.

At least one death was blamed on the weather.

Meanwhile, another storm forming in the West was spreading snow over parts of southeastern Idaho, Montana and eastern Wyoming with overnight accumulations of 6 inches or more expected in places.

Flood warnings were posted today over all of Connecticut, all of Massachusetts except for Buzzards Bay and the Cape Cod area, and along the Passaic River in New Jersey.

The storm dumped at least 4.43 inches of rain in Providence, R.I., on Sunday and by early today, more than 3 inches had fallen at Bridgeport, Conn., and about 2½ inches at Boston and Hartford, Conn. On Sunday, 3.69 inches of rain fell in Central Park in New York City, a record for the date.

On Sunday, 3.57 inches fell at Stevenson Dam in Monroe, Conn.

The 1.78 inches of rain that fell Sunday in Philadelphia also was a record for the date and brought the total to 3.73 inches for April, more than is normal for the entire month.

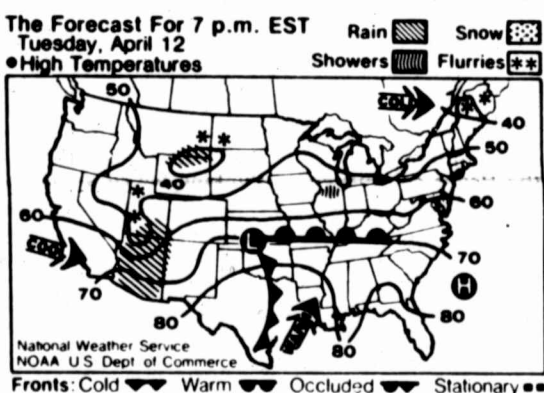

"The land is drenched, there's nowhere for that water to go but into the rivers," said police Capt. Thomas Mulcahey in Passaic, N.J., where residents were bracing for floods on the Passaic and Pompton rivers.

Evacuations were reported in Virginia and Connecticut. High winds and heavy rains knocked out power to 850 Connecticut homes.

Farther west, in West Alton, Mo., authorities say it may be three weeks before the 300 to 500 people who were forced from their homes by a broken levee can return. The levee ruptured Friday and let in the waters of the swollen Mississippi River.

A National Weather Service forecaster in Kansas City said the worst of the rains are over — until Wednesday.

Weather

Skies mostly clear, maybe spring is here

By The Associated Press

A high-pressure system over the Gulf of Mexico kept skies mostly clear today, except for high cloudiness in the Panhandle that could signal widely scattered showers or thunderstorms.

The rainfall was expected to develop slightly ahead of a developing low-pressure trough Tuesday. Temperatures should be warmer. Overnight lows were warmer with near-seasonal normals, ranging mostly in the 50s and 60s. The exception was a low of 45 degrees recorded at Amarillo.

Winds across the state were from the south and southwest at speeds of 5 to 15 mph.

West Texas: Sunny, warm today. Fair, cool tonight. Partly cloudy, warm Tuesday; widely scattered late afternoon or evening showers or thunderstorms Panhandle. Highs today upper 70s north to near 90 Big Bend valleys. Lows lower 40s Panhandle to lower 50s south. Highs Tuesday mid 70s north and far west to mid 80s Big Bend valleys.

BLOCK SAYS "MANY WILL OVERPAY"

The New Tax Laws are complex and if you aren't familiar with all of the changes you could be overpaying your taxes unknowingly. Some of the tax revisions make you lose other deductions which would have benefited you more. The instruction (you received from IRS) booklet doesn't answer all the questions that could affect your income tax return.

The New Income Tax revisions affect every taxpayer regardless of income. Your H & R Block Tax preparer can show you how the new Tax Laws can save you money or cost you money if you don't know how to apply the revisions to your benefit.

I.R.S. doesn't check every tax return to see if the taxpayer took all the available deductions and credits to the taxpayers benefit. Thus many taxpayers overpay their taxes.

DWI bill aimed at the offenders

Intoxicated drivers involved in an injury-causing accident often go free, with little penalty, to drink and drive again. This happens due to what is called "deferred adjudication." The practical effect of deferred adjudication is to allow alleged DWI offenders to continue to drive, serve no jail time, receive no insurance penalty and have no record of a drunk driving offense.

THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE currently is considering Senate Bill 1 which includes elimination of deferred adjudication. Probation for first offense DWI would still be allowed, but it would be part of a driver's record for future DWI court action. Sen. Bill Sarpalus of Hereford, co-sponsor of the bill, expects strong debate on this issue before a decision is made.

When deferred adjudication is granted, final determination of penalty is withheld or deferred to a later time.

The court's final judgment is then based on known actions of the defendant during the deferment or probationary period. Alleged DWI offenders may serve an unsupervised probation. Successful completion of probation only requires that the defendant avoid being arrested and charged with crimes, including DWI, and not be brought before the same court in which he appeared for the earlier charge.

Following successful completion of deferred adjudication, the defendant's court record is either removed or excluded from use as evidence in later DWI arrests. Thus, there cannot be a repeat offense if the first offense never becomes a matter of record. Theoretically, then, a drunk driver is allowed unlimited "first offenses."

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY records indicate some individuals have been charged with first offense DWI as many as 10 to 15 times. These offenders often go on to cause DWI accidents resulting in serious injury to others.

Deferred adjudication does not serve the public, it serves only the drunk who threatens our public highways. The Legislature will be wise to eliminate it.

Presidential myth

"Any modern president is at best an orchestra conductor waving a baton at a cacophony of sound that now and then produces a semblance of melody." — Eugene E. Jennings, a guy who knows a lot about presidents.

Every four years we go to the polls to vote for a president. It's a nice little ceremonial event and we generally elect the candidate who looks the best on TV and can stir our patriotic souls with speeches about making American great again.

Almost unthinkingly, we can be duped into the age-old scam that a candidate, or even an incumbent given a second chance, can balance the budget, right the economy, dash unemployment and make peace in the world. Either we voters are optimists or extremely forgetful of past presidential performances.

DEEP DOWN we know these promises are virtually impossible to achieve, and certainly not something to be pulled off in four or eight years. Still we seem to believe it can be done which automatically sets us up for disappointment.

Of course, the candidates don't do much to discourage this myth, especially if running for office the first time. It seems like they should make some effort to tame their grandiose promises. If they did, the winners wouldn't wind up looking like bumbling who have no idea of what is going on around them. When someone gets elected we have a lot of faith in him and then two years into his administration we are calling him a bum. We are impatient and fickle. Any person with common sense wouldn't want to sit in the Oval Office, so it makes me suspicious of those who do.

The only solution to the problem is for us to be more understanding and candidates should be more honest, that way no one is in for a letdown.

I SUPPOSE we still think one man can make the difference in government. Government has grown too large for any one person to emerge a true leader and catalyst. There are also too many egos in Washington to let one guy get all the glory.

Columnist Andy Rooney once said about presidential candidates, "If a candidate is so conceited as to think he's got the brains it takes to solve this country's problems, I don't want to have anything to do with him. Of course, he can't solve our problems. If he's honest, he'll tell us he's just going to do the best he can to keep everything from going to hell."

It's a nice piece of advice we should all take, Andy, but I'm afraid it has the half-life of a campaign promise.

Homosexuals and the military

Should homosexuals be allowed to serve in the armed forces? The American military services say no, and require the discharge of all homosexuals. But that policy has become an embarrassing anachronism, with no basis in either theory or practice. Sooner or later the services will have to defer to Americans' growing tolerance of homosexuality.

One man trying to hasten that day is Melvin Dahl, a 23-year-old former Navy fireman who was discharged for admitting he was gay. This despite an impeccable record: he had been given leadership positions in his unit and had been invited to apply for cryptographers' school.

The Navy has never accused Dahl of actually committing homosexual acts. Its rules require the expulsion of people who so much as "by their statements, demonstrate a propensity to engage in homosexual conduct." Dahl had told the Navy he was gay when he enlisted, but was admitted anyway. When he acknowledged it again during a security clearance screening, however, he was banished.

NOW DAHL IS suing to be reinstated. Later this month he will start a walk from New York to San Francisco to raise money for his court fight. His chances of reinstatement are good: in some cases, the services have paid large financial settlements to discharge homosexuals rather than risk losing in court. And the fact that Dahl isn't accused of engaging in homosexual acts makes the Navy's position weaker still. The Army lost a similar case in 1980.

Jack Anderson

The Navy cites several reasons for barring homosexuals. The most familiar is the "security risk" argument, which holds that gays, fearing exposure, are peculiarly susceptible to blackmail. It made sense 20 years ago, when homosexuality was almost unknown and known homosexuals faced disgrace and ostracism. Nowadays, when millions of homosexuals have come out of the closet, it is absurd.

Anyone who is openly gay, as Dahl was, can't be blackmailed with the threat of exposure. The Pentagon has conceded as much in cases involving homosexuals working for defense contractors who require access to sensitive information. Their security clearances can't be denied or revoked if their homosexuality is "publicly acknowledged" — since that eliminates the security risk.

The other dangers cited by the Navy are more vague. Gays, it says, impair the functioning of military units and hinder recruiting, mainly because many heterosexuals bridle at living and working with them.

This danger is mostly conjectural. Dahl's attorney, Joseph Schuman, has gotten a Navy memorandum which asks, "Does the Navy have any empirical proof that homosexuality among its members has an adverse effect upon the completion of its mission?" The answer: "No such empirical proof is known at this time."

There is evidence to suggest more tolerance than the Navy admits. A 1982 Gallup poll found that among Americans between the ages of 18 and 24 (the prime recruiting pool), 54 percent thought gays should be allowed to serve in uniforms — with only 34 percent disagreeing. (By contrast, only 32 percent thought gays should be permitted to teach in elementary schools.)

EVEN IF GAYS are unpopular among many servicemen and women, the problem isn't unmanageable. At one time blacks were segregated from whites in the armed forces in deference to white prejudice. But when they were forced to accept integration, the services adapted. Likewise, the service academies have survived what was once unthinkable — the admission of women.

Dahl's homosexuality apparently caused no serious problems with his shipmates. His superior, who has testified to Dahl's excellent performance, named him platoon leader even after the Navy had begun its discharge proceedings.

Other experts suggest that admitting gays would lead to romance between officers and enlisted men, homosexual cliques, lovers' quarrels and other troubles in the barracks. But if gays let their sexuality get in the way of carrying out their duties, they should be discharged for not carrying out their duties — just like anyone who can't meet the demands of military life.

The problem with the current rule is that it makes no distinction between good gay service people and bad ones. If homosexuals do poorly in the military, the policy is unnecessary: they will be subject to discharge anyway. If not, the rule is unjust as well as unwise. In an age of growing tolerance, the ban on gays looks less like hard-headed realism than blind prejudice.

Billy Graham

Don't marry a drug pusher

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Sometime ago I found out that my boyfriend is involved in selling drugs. I guess I ought to stop going with him, but I think I love him and I hope somehow I can reform him. Do you think there is any hope of this? — E.G.

DEAR E.G.: I know you are concerned for your boyfriend and want to help him, but I seriously doubt if you will be able to make him reform. In addition, there is a high probability that instead of you reforming him, he will instead influence you and cause you to become involved in things that are wrong. It may be that breaking off your relationship will be the one thing that will shake him into realizing the seriousness of what he is doing.

What he is doing is serious — not only in the eyes of the law but in the eyes of God. The reason is that he is causing others to get involved in drugs, and is therefore affecting countless lives in terrible ways. You need to talk frankly with him about this. You also need to realize that there is probably very little future in this kind of relationship. What if you were to get married some day? What kind of father and husband would he make?

Your boyfriend and you have a deeper need, however — even deeper than the need to stop what he is doing and live a responsible life. You both need to come to Jesus Christ and turn your lives over to him. Right now you are living for yourselves. But God created you, and he loves you. He wants you to do what is right and to follow Christ, because he knows that is the only way to true peace and happiness in life. Jesus said, "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" (John 10:10).

Have the courage to do what is right, and commit your life to Jesus Christ. He died on the cross to take away your sins, and he wants to come into your life right now and be Lord of your life. He has a perfect plan for your life — including his will for your marriage with a man who loves Christ. The road you and your boyfriend are on is wrong and will only lead to disaster. Get on God's way before it is too late.

The United States contributes more to the United Nations budget than any other country — over 180 million dollars in 1982.

WASHINGTON — This is the story of a cop who was blacklisted for doing his job too well.

The honest cop is Michael Hubbard, a Washington, D.C., police detective with solid experience in narcotics and organized crime investigations. He was one of 500 applicants for 24 coveted jobs at the Environmental Protection Agency's office of criminal enforcement last year — and was told confidentially that he was among the top candidates.

The jobs were recently filled — after a congressional committee accused the EPA of dragging its feet. But Hubbard's name was not on the list.

Why? Simple enough: Hubbard was the stubborn bird dog who tracked a cocaine ring through the halls of Congress, to the intense embarrassment of a lot of people in high places. Two alleged ringleaders are being extradited from Australia for questioning about their big shot customers on Capitol Hill.

The Justice Department, already smarting over criticism of its questionable behavior in the ABSCAM operation, has shown reluctance to pursue yet another investigation of congressional wrongdoers. So the department has been judiciously leaking stories to the effect that the cocaine-in-Congress scandal is really nothing to get excited about.

This is nonsense, of course. If the lawmakers who piously proclaim their outrage at narcotics abuse are themselves indulging in illegal drug use, the public is entitled to see them prosecuted to the fullest extent of the laws they have passed.

Here's what Hubbard, who worked closely with my associate Jack Mitchell and Indy Badhwar, managed to accomplish:

- Arrest of the cocaine ring's three leaders, one of whom has been cooperating with a grand jury.
- Seizure of $250,000 worth of cocaine.
- Recorded evidence that then-Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. discussed narcotics.
- Evidence from three witnesses that Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., purchased illegal drugs.
- Evidence against other members of Congress, including at least one check used to pay for drugs.
- Sworn testimony before a grand jury and the House Ethics Committee.

Conscientious cop blacklisted

That's a pretty impressive record for any investigator. But given the Justice Department's timidity in the whole Capitol Hill drug scandal, the last thing the officials wanted was to reward a cop who played such an important role in nailing congressional cocaine pushers.

SO HUBBARD, the veteran investigator, was quietly blacklisted. Already transferred within the Washington police department and given the clear impression that he was out of favor for his successful pursuit of crime in high places, Hubbard has now been informally — but effectively — barred from a job where his talents might uncover more embarrassment for government officials.

In documents filed in a federal court suit, Hubbard said he was told he had become a "political hot potato." And an EPA official, Michael Brown, was quoted in one court document as saying: "The last thing we need here is a guy who is going to smear his face with camouflage paint, put a knife in his teeth and infiltrate under cover of darkness to a hazardous waste site."

This backhanded tribute to Hubbard's professional skill was supplemented by the actions of another EPA official, Peter Beeson, head of the criminal enforcement office and thus the man who would be Hubbard's boss. According to the court documents, Beeson ordered subordinates to classify Hubbard as "unqualified and unsuitable" for EPA, and to ignore his military record and the veteran's preference law in considering his application.

Footnote: Beeson and Brown referred all questions to an EPA counsel who did not return several telephone calls.

RABIES ALERT: The Washington, D.C., area is experiencing a rabies epidemic this spring, with more than 450 cases reported so far. But the National Park Service, which is responsible for the White House grounds, isn't particularly worried about rabid wildlife attacking the First Family.

A Park Service spokesman said the White House gardeners are on the alert, though, for any nocturnal critter spotted in the daytime, or for any animal — four-legged, that is — seen "acting weird." In the event of a worst-case scenario — a rabid raccoon, say, lunging at the president — the Secret Service is ready.

Dear Abby

Gracious rejection

DEAR ABBY: I nearly wept as I read the letter from the 60-year-old widow who felt "insulted" when the gentleman with whom she had spent a lovely evening (their first date) asked if he could "stay over." She described herself as "attractive," but, Abby, what good is a pleasing appearance in a woman who has no heart?

Here was a lovely widower who enjoyed himself as much as she and didn't want the evening to end. She could have taken his hand in hers and said, "Thank you for wanting to 'stay over,' but I have never spent the night with a man I did not deeply love — and you and I have only just met."

That would have told him how highly she valued romantic intimacy and sent him home with his confidence and self-respect intact. I am almost certain that he would have returned swiftly with flowers, candy and the most gentlemanly conduct, for most men long for love as much as women do.

To ask for affection is no crime. But to refuse it so callously should be.

SAN MARINO LADY

DEAR LADY: What a gracious, sensible lady you are. Others could learn from you.

DEAR ABBY: We have our son and daughter-in-law to our home for dinner at least twice a month. We love having them and their children, and when they leave, my son always says, "Come to visit us." I usually say, "Tell us when and we will be there." I notice my daughter-in-law never says anything but "Bye."

I know our son would love to have us in his home, but we're never invited. Occasionally they take us out to a nice restaurant, but we'd much prefer to be entertained in their home. They have a very nice place. We dropped by around Christmas time (uninvited) to drop off their gifts, and they invited us in and seemed happy to see us.

I like my daughter-in-law. She's nice, quiet girl. She even paid me a compliment recently by saying, "You have never been an interfering mother-in-law in the 17 years we've married to your son."

What is wrong, Abby? Solve this problem and I will call you a genius.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Some people cannot handle entertaining at home. The very thought of it is so upsetting that they don't even want to make the effort. I suspect that is the case with your daughter-in-law.

I'm sure she likes you, so accept the restaurant dinners with good grace and don't let it bother you.

Dr. Donohue

Blood tested for liver condition

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is a blood test alone conclusive that a person has a liver condition? After a recent physical checkup I was told I have a serious liver condition. Do you suggest a second opinion? — H.D.M.

Laboratory tests are not without error. That's to be expected, even though means of analysis continue to improve year after year. So it's usually wise to have a second test just to see if it shows the same as the first. And, of course, there are other signs and other kinds of tests to nail down a diagnosis of liver disease.

I think you really meant to ask me whether a blood test can indicate a liver disease in a person who has no outward signs of illness, in a person who feels perfectly well. That's possible. Some people may have mild hepatitis (liver inflammation) and never realize it. And some tests may show the liver to be functioning less than ideally, yet without producing symptoms. Such is the reserve capacity of the liver to serve us, even when it's diseased.

However, if the liver condition persists, symptoms will appear. In this sense, the person has been fortunate. He has gotten an early warning from the blood test to which you refer.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

LAST DAY for 1982 IRA TAX-DEFERRED DEPOSITS

April 15. That's the last day to file your 1982 income tax report. It is also the last day to deposit up to $2000 in an Individual Retirement Account at Homestate Savings. Even though you are enrolled in a retirement program, you can put up to $2000 ($4000 for a working couple) annually into IRA. A married couple with one spouse working, can set aside up to $2250 into IRA annually. The money deposited into IRA, and the interest it earns, is tax-deferred until withdrawn at retirement.

Jewish uprising memorialized

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — About 3,000 Poles prayed for the 65,000 Jews slaughtered in the 1943 Warsaw uprising in a memorial Mass at St. Augustine's Church, the only building in the old ghetto that escaped destruction by Nazi troops.

The Jewish fighters "did not want to die as animals led to the slaughter house. They did not hope to win, because they knew they would be killed. But they wanted to die as human beings." Roman Catholic Cardinal Jozef Glemp said Sunday.

The memorial Mass was not part of the two-week program sponsored by the Communist government to commemorate the Jewish struggle. That program began Saturday with a modest wreath-laying ceremony and will include the reopening of a Warsaw synagogue for Poland's 15,000 Jews.

Marek Edelman, 62, the nation's only survivor of the ghetto battle, refused to attend any of the official ceremonies, saying the program was "hypocritical" because the government ran an anti-Semitic campaign in 1967-68.

Edelman at 22 helped organize the uprising and was one of the 1,000 Jews, vastly outnumbered by the Germans, who fought with smuggled and homemade weapons against the final Nazi assault.

When the three-week rebellion began on April 19, 1943, the ghetto's population was an estimated 70,000. About 65,000 people were either killed by Nazi troops or died because the invaders blockaded shipments of food and medicine to the area.

Some 6 million Poles, half of them Jewish, were killed during the German occupation during World War II.

Thousands in the ghetto died in Nazi gas chambers before the uprising began.

In Israel, air raid sirens wailed for two minutes throughout the nation to honor the 6 million Jews killed in the Nazi Holocaust. The Warsaw uprising is the focus this year of that nation's annual remembrance.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin and his Cabinet attended the main commemoration at the Yad Vashem Holocaust memorial in Jerusalem.

The memorial institute's director, Yitzhak Arad, is leading a delegation of 298 Israelis to Warsaw for the official program.

Arad said he hopes the group's presence will prevent the Polish government from portraying the uprising as part of broad Nazi resistance and from playing down the Jewish role in the struggle.

Stadler, Floyd poised for final charge

Craig Stadler shrugs one off

Masters' leaders crowded on top

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Raymond Floyd says there's only one way to win a major golf championship — "give yourself a chance."

Floyd did just that in the third round of the weather-plagued 47th Masters golf tournament Sunday. So did Craig Stadler, Seve Ballesteros and Tom Watson.

All have won before on the demanding 6,905-yard, par 72 Augusta National Golf Club course, and only three shots separated the quartet at the start of the final round today.

Stadler was the most familiar foe for Floyd because they met twice in sudden-death playoffs for big pay checks within the last eight months.

Floyd outlasted Stadler on the fifth extra hole for a $300,000 prize in South Africa last December.

Stadler had claimed $100,000 for edging Floyd on the fourth playoff hole in the World Series of Golf at Akron in August.

Today's rubber match was for less money — $90,000 — but it's more prestige, and it wasn't a two-man race by any means.

They were paired in the final twosome of the day, sharing the lead at 6-under-par 210 following Sunday's round in which Stadler had a 69, best score of the day, and Floyd a 71.

Ballesteros, the dashing Spaniard who won the 1980 Masters, was only one shot behind after a 73.

Watson, seeking his third Masters title, had a 71 for 212.

Jodie Mudd, who turned professional after winning low amateur honors in this tournament last year, had a 72 and was tied with Watson.

Two others were in striking distance at 213 — Gil Morgan and Keith Fergus.

Morgan, one of six players stranded on the course by darkness Saturday, came back Sunday to complete his second round with a tournament-leading 70-137. He then ballooned to a 76 in the third round and Fergus shot a 74.

Arnold Palmer, who stole the show in the opening round when he got in the chase with a 68, fell apart (See 'Masters' on page 6-B)

Rangers ride to fifth win

SAFE AT HOME, SAFE IN FIRST — Texas Ranger Larry Bittner (14) signals that Mike Richardt is safe at home during the seventh inning of Sunday's game with Boston. The Rangers rallied from a 7-0 deficit to upend the Red Sox 9-7 and stay in first place in the American West standings with a 5-1 record. Baseball roundup can be found on page 2-B.

Soliz's swings stroke Hawks

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Who is this new guy at shortstop? His name is Chris Soliz, thank you, and you'll be seeing more of him says Ranger Junior College coach Jack Allen.

Soliz cracked four consecutive basehits including a game-winning single in the seventh inning to lift Ranger to an 8-3 Region V conference victory over Howard College Sunday afternoon at Hawk Park.

The win improves Ranger to 26-10 overall and to 8-3 in conference; Howard slips to 23-14-1 and 7-9 with its fourth straight defeat.

"The first time we put him in," Allen said, "his first two hits were doubles. He's only been at the plate 13 or 14 times now because we've just done this (put him in the lineup at shortstop) three or four games ago. He's hitting something like .600."

Soliz belted a two-run home run in the first inning as Ranger grabbed a quick 3-0 lead and after Howard rallied to tie the game in the sixth, he produced in the clutch again with his RBI single.

In addition to his day at the plate, he played flawless baseball at short — as did all the Ranger infield.

"We had been playing real ragged," Allen said. "Then we moved (Scott) Runkle to third and Soliz to short. He had been a relief pitcher. Since then we've been looking pretty good."

"One day I asked 'can anyone here play shortstop?' Soliz said he had some and we tried him out. I don't anybody's going to move him out now either."

Ranger at Howard

WHEN — 1 p.m. (doubleheader)

WHERE — HC ballpark

RECORDS — Howard 23-14-1, Ranger 26-10

SCOREBOOK — The Hawks will start John Wilson and Moe Rubio this afternoon against the Rangers. Coach Jack Allen will go with Mike Smith (3-2) and Mike Holly (4-1). Hawks have dropped four straight Region V games and are 0-4 against the Rangers. Ranger is second in the league with an 8-3 record. Howard is 7-9.

Pretty good, indeed. Runkle made three great plays at third while second baseman Mike Cantu had a part in two doubleplays and stabbed two line drives that killed four potential Howard rallies.

Ranger hurler Kevin Hooper, 4-2, held Howard at bay until the sixth inning. Singles by Blake Rosson and Kelly Smith preceded a towering three-run homer by Bobby Behnsch. Behnsch was especially happy to see the ball clear the fence since he had drawn the pitching assignment Sunday afternoon.

After giving up three runs in the first, Behnsch limited Ranger to three hits the next five innings. When he gave up a lead-off single to Eric Leger and had two a two-ball count on Jorge Marron, coach Bill Griffin pulled him in favor of Jeff Hodges.

Hodges gave up the single by Soliz before retiring the side and then surrendered four more runs in the eighth as Ranger banged out four consecutive hits. One of those by a three-run home run by Runkle that sealed the game.

One bright note for the Hawks was the return of Bruce Hollander. He pitched 2/3 of an inning at McLennan and survived two more against Ranger. He's coming off elbow problems and has not pitched since the first two weeks of the season.

"It's getting better," Hollander said. He walked the first batter he faced and hit another but didn't give up a hit. "I was nervous because I didn't know how my arm would do. Then I finally got in a groove."

Behnsch, 3-3, was tagged with the loss. His team missed another chance to score in the fifth when Stephen Hodge was nailed at the plate trying to score on a shallow sacrifice fly by Behnsch.

In addition to that sparkling play, the Hawks left runners at second in the first and third in the fifth. But after Hooper served up Behnsch's home run in the sixth, he retired seven straight batters before hitting Smith with a pitch to open the ninth. Cantu came up with another super play at second and the right-hander got out of the jam.

Ranger has now all four meetings between the two teams. Combine that with a 1-5 ledger against McLennan and Howard has lost nine games to the Region V leaders.

Rally lifts Rangers by Bosox

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Manager Doug Rader was screaming in the Ranger's dugout in the third inning as the Boston Red Sox mounted a 7-0 lead over his team.

His instructions must have inspired them. The Rangers scored five runs in the bottom of the inning, two unlikely relief pitchers held Boston scoreless on three hits the last six innings and Texas came up with four late runs for a 9-7 victory.

"I told them to try harder," Rader said with a straight face after Sunday's victory, Texas' fifth in six games.

"They battled their tails off. It's a nice feeling when you do that. That kind of feeling can carry you through some rough times," Rader said.

George Wright started Texas' two-run rally that tied the game in the seventh. He singled up the middle, moved up on a ground out and scored from second when shortstop Glen Hoffman pulled Jurak off the bag at first with his throw on Richard's grounder. Richard stole second and scored on Billy Sample's single through the left side of the infield.

In the ninth, Bell singled into right field and advanced on a ground out. With two outs, Stanley walked Wright intentionally but pinch hitter Bill Stein singled through the right side of the infield for the winning run.

American League

A's 11, Angels 4

Left-hander Bill Krueger broke into the major leagues in style when Oakland staked the 24-year-old rookie to an early nine-run lead and whipped the Angels behind a 14-hit attack, including three apiece by Mike Davis and Wayne Gross. Krueger, who never pitched above Class AA in the minors, was promoted to the A's roster last week when Rick Langford was placed on the disabled list. He went seven innings in his debut, allowing nine hits and four runs.

Brewers 9, Royals 5

Jim Gantner drilled a bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning after a two-out error by Kansas City's Gold Glove second baseman Frank White allowed the tying run to score. White, a six-time Gold Glove winner, bobbled a bases-loaded grounder by Charlie Moore and Ted Simmons scored to tie the score 4-4, then Gantner greeted rookie Bob Tufts with his triple.

Orioles 13, Indians 2

Eddie Murray drove in four runs with four hits, including his first homer of the season, and John Lowenstein drove in three with a double and triple as the Orioles rapped out 14 hits, seven for extra bases.

Yankees 3, Blue Jays 0

Shane Rawley fired a seven-hitter for his first major league shutout and rookie Don Mattingly doubled home two runs. Rawley, who became a full-time starter last July after spending his first 4½ big league seasons as a reliever, struck out seven and walked two in recording his fourth complete game in 23 starts.

White Sox 7, Tigers 5

Chicago rookie Ron Kittle drove in four runs with a homer and a single and LaMarr Hoyt scattered six hits in 82-3 innings.

Twins 6, Mariners 3

Designated hitter Randy Bush belted two homers and drove in three runs, while John Castino and Gary Gaetti also homered, all off 44-year-old Seattle starter Gaylord Perry.

Astros drop sixth straight

HOUSTON (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates couldn't be happier with their start this season. The Houston Astros, on the other hand, are living a "nightmare" in which they haven't won a game in six tries.

"It is tough to start out like this. It's a bitter pill to swallow," said first-year Astro manager Bob Lillis. "There is some consolation in that we were in every game."

The Astros lost their fourth game in a row to the undefeated Pirates Sunday when Jason Thompson lofted a game-winning home run to give Pittsburgh a 5-0 record and a 10-8 win.

Thompson's homer came off reliever Julio Solano in the seventh inning with the score tied 7-7 and handed the Astros their worst home stand in the history of the club.

Rookie second baseman Bill Doran slugged his first major league homerun, a two-run shot over the left field wall off reliever John Candelaria.

Righthander Henry Bibby, 1-0, picked up the win in relief and Rod Scurry got his first save of the season. Solano, 0-1, was tagged with the loss.

National League

Reds 7, Cubs 3

The NL's other winless team, the Cubs, decided to test Cincinnati's Bench strength and the Reds' catcher-turned-third baseman crossed them up each time.

Twice, Chicago Manager Lee Elia ordered his pitchers — Ferguson Jenkins in the sixth inning and Warren Brusstar in the eighth — to walk Dave Concepcion to load the bases and set up a double-play situation. The first time, Bench hit a two-run double to break a scoreless tie. The next time he smacked an RBI-single to highlight a five-run outburst.

Dodgers 3, Expos 0

Fernando Valenzuela, blasted out of the Dodgers' season opener by the lowly Astros, began paying a return on LA's million-dollar contract with a seven-hit shutout, striking out five Montreal batters and not issuing a walk as the Expos absorbed their first loss of the year.

Phillies 10, Giants 2

Philadelphia's Steve Carlton was about as sharp as Valenzuela, pitching eight innings, scattering six hits, striking out 11 batters and walking three. The Giants' two runs off him were unearned.

Carlton and Bill Laskey were serving up goose eggs until the seventh inning, when the Phillies erupted for eight runs, two on Tony Perez' double, two on Pete Rose's single and three on Gary Mathews' homer.

Braves 4, Padres 3

Craig McMurtry's first major league start was a memorable one — a victory, thanks to Dale Murphy's power and Steve Bedrosian's first save of the season.

Lopez wins J&B golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Nancy Lopez has 27 victories in her Ladies Professional Golf Association career. Perhaps none of the first 26 contained as much drama as No. 27.

Lopez sank a clutch putt of about seven feet Sunday to win the $200,000 J&B Scotch Pro-Am for the second consecutive year.

Lopez, who scrambled to a 2-over-par 74 in the final round, nipped Laura Baugh Cole, who was looking for his first-ever LPGA triumph, by one stroke.

Lopez, who finished the 72-hole tournament with a 5-under-par 283, had to make the putt for a par to avoid a playoff with Cole, who sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie on the same hole.

The victory was the second of the year for the 26-year-old Lopez and the top prize of $30,000 raised her 1983 earnings to $79,998.

Tied for third place at 286 were Jan Stephenson, Patty Sheehan, Vicki Fergon and Alice Miller. Each earned $9,750.

Bulldogettes win 6-3A track title

COLORADO CITY — Julie Narin won the long jump and 200 meters and Coahoma qualified all three relay teams for regionals as the Bulldogettes won the 6-AAA meet here Thursday.

Narin jumped 16-73/4 to each teammate Tobie Henry in the long jump and then sped to a 27.58 in the 200. Henry came back to win the 400 (61.73) and take second in the triple jump.

The Coahoma sprint (53.0), 800 (1:55.9) and 1,600 meter (4:24.51) teams all finished second but gained regional berths.

Becky Creech won the high jump (5-0) and Vickie Buchanan the discus (116-11) as Coahoma piled up 156 points. Jana Higgins was second in the high jump (4-8), Narin second in the 100 (13.7) and Jana Griffin second in the 800 (2:36.5).

Coahoma will run in a qualifiers meet this weekend at Wall and then in the Region I-AAA meet April 22-23 in Odessa.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

DENNIS THE MENACE

MR. WILSON SAYS HE'S GONNA FIX MY WAGON AND IT ISN'T EVEN BROKEN YET!

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"PJ's playin' in some leftover rain."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APR. 12, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you suddenly want to expand your horizons. Make positive plans that will lead to success and happiness. Become more concerned about the welfare of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact an influential person you know and plan how to become more successful. Rest and relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow your intuition, which is accurate now, and could lead to greater success. Engage in social activity in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to new sites with interesting persons who can help you get ahead in the future. Take needed health treatments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A day to listen to suggestions of financial experts so that you can put your business affairs in better order.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Obtain the data you need from associates so you can operate in a more efficient manner. An outsider can be helpful to you now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use modern appliances so that you can do your work more efficiently. Be more fair-minded with co-workers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making plans for putting your creative ideas to work is wise at this time. Strive for increased happiness and it is yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Meet with family members and make long-range plans for the future. Study a new venture that could be profitable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An expert can help you improve your daily routines so that you can save time and make more money. Be logical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A financial expert can give you the advice you need so that you can solve a money problem. Use care in travel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handling personal affairs early in the day is wise. Accept a social invitation tonight and have a good time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan time for studying new ventures that could be profitable in the future. Make plans to engage in favorite hobby.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be modern-minded and should be sent to the finest schools where such thinking could pave the way to an interesting and successful future. There is much sociability in this chart. Don't neglect ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Masters heads into final round

Palmer, 53, finished his second round with a bogey and came back in the afternoon to post a fat 76-218, despite an eagle 3 on the 13th.

"It all just came apart," Palmer said. "All the things I'd been working on seemed to go astray."

After having the second round rained out Friday and then suspended by darkness Saturday, the weather finally changed, bathing Augusta National in warm, bright sunshine Sunday.

"I did not get the most out of my round," Floyd said, "but I felt anything around par today would still give me a chance to win the golf tournament."

Floyd said he missed makeable birdie putts at 2, 7, 9, 13 and 14 and had a bad first putt from 40 feet on the 10th, costing him a bogey.

"I'm confident," he said. "I know how to play the golf course. It takes some discipline. I certainly should be a factor in the golf tournament."

Both Floyd, who tied Jack Nicklaus' 72-hole scoring record of 271 when he won the 1976 Masters, and Stadler, who hopes to join Nicklaus as the only player to win consecutive Masters titles, said they won't be playing each other today, because there are too many other good players in contention.

"I'll go out and play my game," Stadler said. "I'm sure Raymond will do the same."

Stadler gained his share of the lead when he knocked in a 30-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

"I won last year," he said. "I know I can win on the golf course."

Ballesteros, who complained about poor putting except for a 15-footer he holed for a birdie on the final hole, was asked if his game was as good now as it was when he won the Masters in 1980.

"I don't think so," he said. "At that time I was 13 under. Now I'm 5 under."

Watson also lamented his putting, saying he missed birdie putts from 15 feet or less on every hole from No. 3 through No. 7.

"I'm still not very satisfied with the way I'm playing," he said. "I'm going to have to putt better tomorrow to win."

Nicklaus, the only five-time champion in Masters history, was forced to withdraw Saturday when he developed back spasms after taking three practice swings on his first hole.
