

White's task force calls for unemployment tax increase

AUSTIN (AP) — A governor's task force recommended Saturday that Texas employers be forced to come up with $1 billion in taxes by the end of 1985 to pump up the state's unemployment benefit fund. Gov. Mark White's task force on jobs backed a plan that would jump the average state tax from the current $31.20 per employee to $215.96 per employee next year.

The plan was recommended by consultants who studied the state's out-of-money unemployment fund. Unemployment benefits have continued to flow only because of loans from the federal government.

The task force also asked officials to take a close look at a consultants' report citing problems in the Texas Employment Commission. After a closed-door session, chairman Elvis Mason of Dallas said "no action" was taken on the report, but the task force wanted to "urge" that the problems not be ignored.

Arthur Anderson Co. said in its report that TEC is top-heavy with assistants, unmanaged and slow to help the unemployed. Jared Hazletine of the Texas Research League, which also studied TEC, recommended the commission be expanded to six part-time members, instead of the three full-time commissioners who now run the agency and hear about 400 appeals a week.

Mason said the task force report to White would not recommend any changes in the TEC structure. "At the same time, the task force believes strongly that the audit that has been done by Arthur Anderson of the TEC has a great deal of very worthwhile and important recommendations with respect to possible improvements in the TEC's operations," he said.

School in Bulldog Country

System focalpoint of community

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The group of buildings at the north end of town only looks like a small college campus. It's really an independent school district.

It's also the focalpoint of this town. No resident talks about Coahoma without mentioning the school system. No one mentions the school system without crediting the people of Coahoma.

The Coahoma school system has a 1983 enrollment of 567 students in kindergarten-6th grade, 172 in grades 7 and 12, and 260 in grades 9-12. It has a staff and faculty of 145 and a student-teacher ratio of 15-1.

The three main school buildings are set on about 60 acres of land. They are connected by a comfortable underground tunnel system which is constantly camera-monitored. The school district office, Bulldog Stadium and storage buildings are on the same plot of land.

Most towns in oil-rich areas put a lot of public money into schools. But Coahoma has the advantage of being large enough to need big, advanced facilities, yet small enough to be intimate — so that teachers know their students and vice-versa.

"I really like it," said David Shaw, a sophomore who moved to Coahoma last year from a larger school system in Uvalde. "You get to know a lot more of the kids and you learn more."

"It's sort of like a big family," commented another student in passing.

"THE KIDS are our strongest point," said out-going school superintendent Richard Souter. "They are morally good, I guess you could say. They're sincere and they have good discipline. We have very few problems with our student body."

Souter, 48, joined the school system four years ago. He resigned in January of this year after the seven-member school board (Kirby Brown, Bruce Griffith, Warren Jeter, Ken Cobb, Donnie Reid, Ronnie Wood and Stanley Phillips) had renewed his contract.

"I feel at this time I cannot be effective anymore," Souter said at the time. He declined to comment on the matter further, as did members of the school board who were contacted.

It was during Souter's term that a $6,000,000 bond issue was passed by Coahoma voters. Included in the 1981 proposal were the new elementary school building and the tunnel system (designed primarily as a safety measure against tornadoes). Both were opened for business last fall.

"In 1980," Souter said, "the school board (which included Reid, Brown and Phillips, along with Harold Abernethy, Clovis Phinney Jr., Don Myers and Wayne Davis) sat down and put together a 5-year plan for the district. We got financial advisers to study the situation."

As a result, Souter says, the district will be free from construction cost debts in eight years.

"They've assured us we can achieve that," he said. Minerals account for 97 percent of the district's funding. The rest comes from a property tax rate of 72 cents per $1,000 value, Souter says.

The healthy financial situation is credited for a lot of the system's success. Coahoma pays teachers at $4,000 per year above the state base. This, Souter says, lets the system be selective so it can hire

Mariah places 4th among high schools

Scores high in national competition

DAYTON, Ohio — Mariah faced its toughest competition ever Saturday and ranked fourth among 25 high schools in Winter Guard International competition.

The Big Spring High School color guard finished in 23rd place overall, according to Bill Bradley, one of the unit's directors.

Fifty guards were entered in the Open Class competition — which includes older, more experienced independent units. Of that, only the top 15 can compete in today's national finals.

Mariah scored 72.88 points out of a possible 100.

"That's the highest we've ever achieved in WGI contests," he said Saturday night. The units were not able to hear judges comments on the performance until later Saturday night.

"I think they (Mariah) did a really fine job. I was very pleased. Big Spring can be very proud," he said.

The 18-member unit substantially defeated their Rocky Mountain Region rivals — the Regiment Royale of Denver, Colo. — who finished slightly ahead of Mariah in an earlier contest. Regiment Royale scored 67.033 Saturday.

"It felt really good to beat them that much," Bradley said.

Of the high schools, only two — Canandaigua Academy and Marcus Whitman, both of New York — made it into today's finals. Another New York school, Jamestown Express, finished third ahead of Mariah.

Bradley said one of the best guards, the independent Connecticut Skylarks, scored 94 points.

"To be in anything national and to be actually in the same room with the best — it's exciting and a little scary," he said.

Bradley said the unit would watch today's finals before leaving for Texas in the afternoon. They are scheduled to arrive at Midland Regional Airport at 11:06 p.m. on American Airlines.

Mariah has been Texas champion for the last two years. The unit's other directors are Tracy Burch, Bonnie Anderson and Steve Waggoner.

Ackerly aiming for health

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

ACKERLY — Balloons, blood and better health tips were some of the things at the Ackerly Health Fair Saturday. More than 80 persons participated in the all-day fair that featured 16 booths and services at the Sands High School Gymnasium.

Health Fair Chairwoman Patty Schuelke said one purpose of the fair was to show what charities offered instead of the usual fund-raising effort. The past fairs had just featured a blood drive, but the event expanded to include a wider range of activities, she said.

"We wanted to make the public more aware of the health services available in the area," Mrs. Schuelke said.

The Big Spring State Hospital, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the March of Dimes, the Rainbow Project and the American Heart Association were passing out information in Ackerly. Blood pressure tests, CPR training, dietary tips and other health-related items were also presented.

A clown passed out balloons from a Big Spring pharmacy to several little children.

The blood donated at the Ackerly Fair would be processed in San Angelo and then allocated among 35 hospitals in the area, according to Martha Whitworth of United Blood Services. The San Angelo organization was handling the blood drive in Ackerly.

An additional ingredient to the health fair this year was the health

The health fair was sponsored by the Four County Young Homemakers and the Sands Future Homemakers.

Teresa Gaskins, one of the fair organizers, said preparations for the fair covered approximately a month.

Walkers sign up for March of Dimes benefit Saturday

Registration for next Saturday's March of Dimes WalkAmerica/Teamwalk continues as the list of volunteer walkers for the event grows daily.

Dorene Zilberg, executive director of the March of Dimes Caprock Chapter, said city employees, local politicians and celebrities, and area businesses have joined the list of participants for the charity event.

Registration forms may be picked up at local 7-Eleven stores and Big Spring Athletics, Inc.

The Big Spring High School Band will herald the start of the walk at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Mall. The Federal Prison Camp band will welcome the marchers completing the 10-mile route back at the mall.

Howard College cheerleaders will be on hand to cheer on the walkers while BSHS cheerleaders distribute balloons, caps and buttons.

The "Presidential Classics" of Howard College will carry the WalkAmerica banner, and symbolic walkers will lead the teams and individual volunteers during the opening stage of the march.

The symbolic walkers are Sen. John Montford, Rep. Larry Don Shaw, Mayor Clyde Angel, County Judge Milton Kirby, Woman of the Year Jane Thomas, Johnny Lou Avery, Miss TEEN Felecia Ford, Barbara Holdampf and directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

A limousine provided by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home will return the symbolic walkers to the mall.

Poop-out trucks, provided by Highland Pontiac Datsun, will patrol the route of the march for those unable to complete the 10-mile stretch. In addition, paramedics from Howard College will man the five checkpoints where National Guard members will provide equipment and water services. At two 7-Eleven store checkpoints, vouchers will be distributed for free drinks.

The heartier walkers who finish the walk will be given a free Whopper by Burger King.

Walkers will raise money through the event by soliciting donations from sponsors. Prizes will be awarded to marchers based on the amount of donations received.

Persons who bring in $100 or in pledges will receive a WalkAmerica T-shirt, a Grogg thermal mug.

A walker with $75 or more in donations will receive a free meal from Burger King for every month of one year.

Bomb scare reported at skating rink

A bomb scare Saturday night emptied Skate Palace at 3302 E. Interstate 20 in less than ten minutes, but police discovered no explosive.

According to Sgt. Jerry Edwards, a female voice had called the rollerskating facility at 10:38 p.m. The voice said her son was unhappy and he had planted a bomb there to go off at 10:50 p.m. Five police officers evacuated the estimated 150-200 skaters and searched the building, Edwards said.

At 11 p.m., the skaters re-entered the building, collected their belongings and the establishment closed for the night, Edwards said.

Big Spring police arrested two persons Friday night in connection with unauthorized carrying of a weapon and possession of marijuana.

A vehicle driven by Lorenzo Lopez Juarez, 23, of 506 N. Lancaster was stopped on a routine traffic check, according to police. Two pistols were found under the seat, one reportedly stolen, police say.

Juarez was arraigned before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt on suspicion of unauthorized carrying of a weapon and theft. Juarez posted $12,500 to be released.

Edward Fierro, 27, of 507 Aylford, a passenger, was also charged with suspicion of unauthorized carrying of a weapon and possession of marijuana. Fierro posted $2,500 bond to be released after being arraigned before Daratt.

The theft of $731 in currency was reported by Margaret Thomas of Cole Lane between 7:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. Friday. Ms. Thomas said someone she knew took the money from her purse without her consent.

The theft of a $500 floor jack was reported by Jack Love of 3605 Tingle. Love said the jack, belonging to Tommy Bedford, was taken from a trailer while parked at his residence between 3 a.m. and 11 a.m. Saturday.

Another floor jack was reported stolen by Steve Valencia of 107 N.E. 8th Friday at 6 p.m. Valencia told police the $150 jack was taken by someone he knew.

Hugo G. Campbell of 2609 Clanton told police a rifle, a shotgun, two gun cases and a scope were taken from his vehicle Friday at 10:30 a.m. while it was parked at Furr's Supermarket. He valued the loss at $650.

The glass top of a TransAm was reported stolen by Teresa Askew of 1207 Benton between 11:30 p.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. Friday. The $398 top was taken while the vehicle was parked at the residence, she said.

Ollie Williams of the Mayo Ranch told police the $100 bug shield from his vehicle was stolen at 1:50 a.m. Saturday while it was parked at his motel.

the best teachers possible.

"I CAME from the pen — the state penitentiary," said Rob Ethridge, junior high principal for the last 19 years. "I was recreation director," he added quickly.

He has seen many changes in Coahoma's school since he joined the system 24 years ago. He received the required teaching certificates from Sul Ross University.

"The biggest change is in discipline," he said. "We're more permissive — we're not as strict on our demands. The kids aren't any wilder, it's just a different approach."

That view was shared by Mrs. Doris Tiller, English teacher with the high school for the last 26 years.

"Ever since I've been in Coahoma I've been so proud of our school system," she said. "We get so many fine young people — it's always a challenge."

"It's harder now," she said. "We used to demand homework and stand over them until they did it. We can't anymore. We've found it isn't good. Students have to learn to meet responsibilities or they'll have to suffer the consequences.

"If we do too much hand feeding, they don't develop as individuals," she said. "I used to paddle students a lot, but I think I found it hurt me more than it hurt them."

The system does have its disciplinary action. A strict attendance policy, in which students cannot take final exams if they miss too many days, is administered.

The high school has in-school suspension. Students to be disciplined are isolated from the rest of the students during school hours in a room where they must work on class assignments. Some of these suspensions last for three school days, Mrs. Tiller said.

"IT'S A completely different kind of kid," said Janice Cook, high school speech and drama coach. She formerly taught in the Big Spring school system.

"It's smaller. Everybody knows everybody," she said. "I don't think we have the discipline problems, the violence or the amount of drug problems that you have in other districts."

grabbed third place honors while Kneel Stalling from Howard County took fifth in individual totals.

The purpose of the livestock judging competition is to instill understanding of slaughter and breeding animals, Howard County Extension Agent Dennis Poole says. The students learn how to grade animals for quality foodstuff and breeding capabilities, he said.

"The 39 awards are just an added incentive," Poole said. "The evaluation of an overall livestock program is more important."

Student judges are given 12 minutes to evaluate four animals on a 1-2-3-4 basis, Poole said.

The judging event was sponsored by the Howard County Extension Service, 4-H and the Howard County Adult Leaders Association. Extension Agents Don Richardson and Peggy Kalina were also involved in the contest.

Dieters want instant success, expert says

ACKERLY — What do people want from their diet? "Instant success ... so they can get into that dress or suit for a special occasion," said Billie Hamilton of the Diet Center in Lamesa. Mrs. Hamilton had one of 16 booths at the Ackerly Health Fair Saturday.

Mrs. Hamilton said only 10 percent of the people who undertake diets to lose weight keep that lost weight off. The other 90 percent believe they can return to their old habits without gaining weight, she said.

"You have to get to the root of the problem of why people gain weight," Mrs. Hamilton said. "Counseling is one method in a program for healthy living."

The word "diet" has a negative connotation today, Mrs. Hamilton acknowledged. Actually, anything people eat is part of their diet, she said.

But undertaking crash diets can be detrimental to the body, Mrs. Hamilton warns. If a person loses weight and gains it back several times, the body cells begin to lose their elasticity, she said. A steady health program has longer and more beneficial effects, she said.

Reagan says he'll protect July tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, his veto pen "right behind my ear," said Saturday he will not tolerate attempts to repeal withholding on interest and dividends or indexing tax brackets to inflation.

He also threatened to veto attempts to change the third year of his tax-cut program scheduled to go into effect in July.

"I'm carrying my veto pen right behind my ear," Reagan said in his weekly radio broadcast, delivered from Camp David, Md.

"If the repeal (on withholding) passes Congress, I'm all set to veto it, just as I'm prepared to protect the July tax cut and indexing with a veto if necessary," he said.

The Senate, under pressure by banks and worried constituents, was expected this week to repeal the controversial law requiring 10 percent withholding on interest and dividends as of July 1.

But Reagan said the law would catch tax cheaters — gaining $18 billion for the government over the next five years — not punish savers.

Complaining that "people are being badly misled" over the issue, Reagan said withholding was simply "by far the most effective way of collecting taxes owed."

"The only people who stand to lose under this law are those who haven't been paying their taxes in the first place, and what's wrong with that?" he asked.

"What it really boils down to is this," Reagan said. "Even in a law-abiding country like ours, there's still a minority of people out there who cheat on their taxes. Last year Uncle Sam lost billions of dollars in taxes on unreported interest and dividend income."

Saying he wanted to expose the myths surrounding the issue, Reagan denied withholding would place a burden on the elderly, who are eligible for exemptions from withholding.

In addition, he said small savings accounts with interest of less than $150 a year are exempt so most accounts of low-income people and children will not be affected.

He said the law would actually be "a real convenience" for many people.

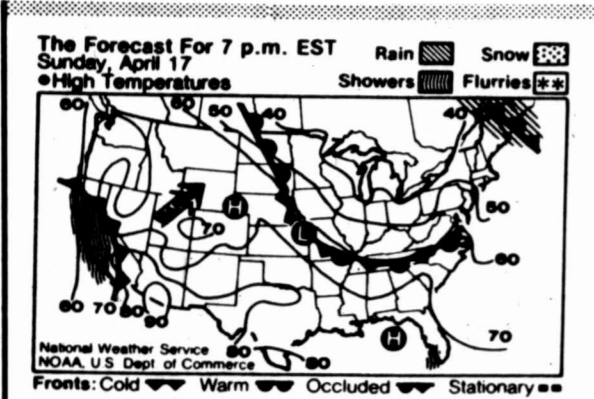

"For example, withholding will free many taxpayers from the chore of preparing quarterly tax payments," he said. "It will prevent other citizens from being faced with a substantial accumulated tax bill on April 15th."

Reagan denied the law would reduce incentives to save. "That just doesn't make sense," he argued. "Withholding will have a minimal effect on accrued interest. For example, the annual loss on a $1,000 account earning 9 percent interest would be less than 50 cents."

"But I think most Americans would forgo the 50 cents if it meant others who are cheating on billions of dollars of unpaid taxes would have to pay their fair share."

Weather

Warm weather to continue

By The Associated Press

An upper level disturbance brought mostly cloudy skies to the Texas Panhandle Saturday while an area of high pressure in East Texas kept skies throughout the rest of the state clear.

Afternoon temperatures in the 70s prevailed over most of the Lone Star State, except for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where thermometer readings crept into the 80s, and the Panhandle, where the mercury dipped to the 60s.

The late afternoon extremes were 65 at Amarillo and Galveston and 81 at McAllen.

Winds kicked up out of a southerly direction over most of the state at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Winds in extreme East Texas continued from the north at near 10 miles an hour.

The National Weather Service forecast called for sunny and warmer conditions statewide Sunday with highs reaching the 80s in South Texas and near 90 in the Big Bend.

Storms spread rain and snow from Wisconsin to the Northeast on Saturday, gutting rivers and unleashing mudslides in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Rain fell from New Jersey and northeastern Pennsylvania into western New England and from Wisconsin to southern Illinois. A spring snow fell over eastern and northern New York and over southern Wisconsin.

Cloudy skies prevailed over parts of northwest Texas, southwestern Oklahoma, western North Dakota, eastern Montana and the Great Lakes.

Rain was expected to continue Sunday across northeastern Maine, with scattered snow flurries and cloudy skies over the rest of New England, New York and northwestern Pennsylvania.

TODAY AND MONDAY
West Texas — Fair and continued warm through Monday. Highs Sunday and Monday in the 70s and 80s. Lows Sunday night generally in the 40s and 50s.

Hostages held for three days

Inmates give list of demands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two inmates who grabbed hostages and holed up in a prison basement room after an escape attempt went awry issued a four-page list of "points for discussion" on Saturday, the third day of the standoff.

The hand-written list was passed through the door of the room by one of the hostages, Kostas "Gus" Mastro, said Ken Robinson, spokesman for the state Department of Corrections.

In return, prison officials handed over four sandwiches — the first food sent in since the stalemate began Thursday morning.

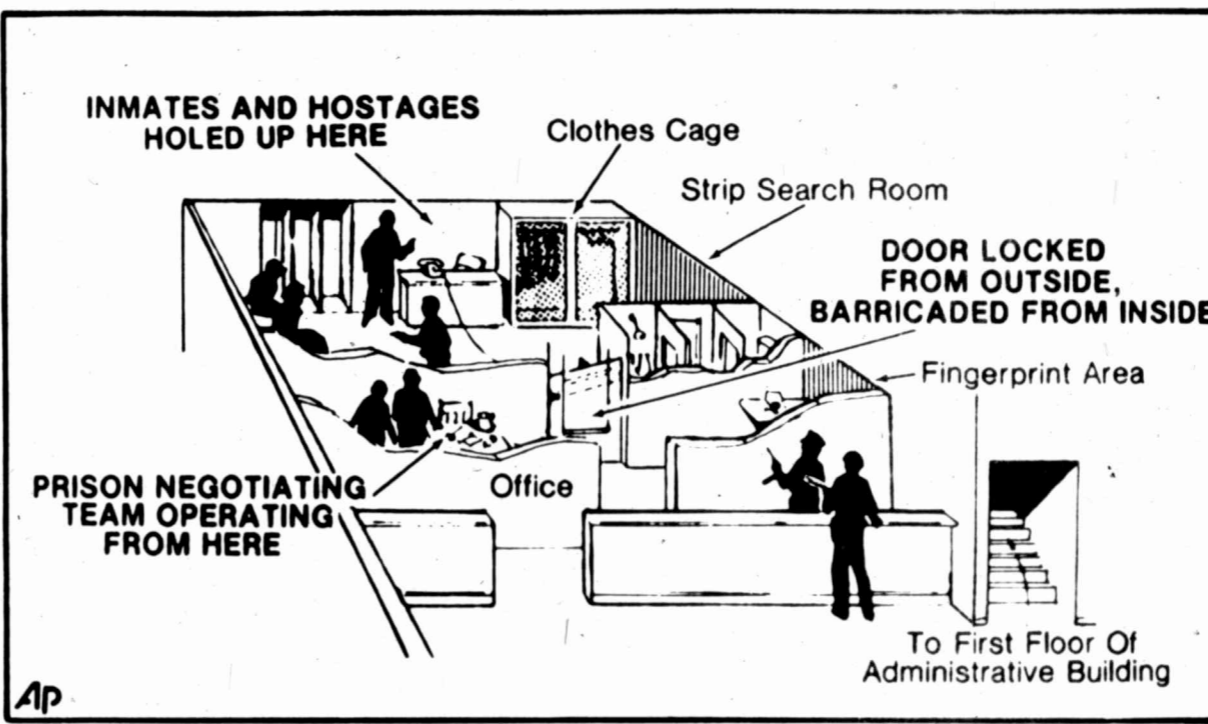

"It's a beginning point for us to go forward. At least it's a starting point for negotiations now," Robinson said.

He refused to disclose the contents of the message but said negotiators were "optimistic."

"It was not out of fear" of harm to the hostages that the food was provided, Robinson said.

"We were not going to give them something until we got something from them telling what they wanted to end it. We got that," he said.

Robinson said negotiators could not see into the room, but Mastro, a civilian prison data supervisor, had called out for food just before the list was issued and appeared to be fine. Four cigarettes

PITTSBURGH PRISON SCENE — Drawing shows area of the Western Penitentiary in Pittsburgh where two inmates are holding two inmates hostage.

Telephone negotiations between the inmates and officials outside the room have been sporadic since 8:30 a.m. Thursday, when convicted murderer Louis Coviello, 26, and convicted bank robber and murder suspect Richard Henkel, 45, seized Mastro and guard Daniel Kohut at gunpoint.

The rest of the 1,300 prison inmates have been locked in their cells since Thursday morning. Sixty inmates in one section shouted and banged on cell doors briefly Friday in protest over denied commissary items such as cigarettes, Robinson said.

Henkel and Coviello seized the hostages in the Western Diagnostic and Classification Center, a section of the prison, as the inmates were being prepared for appearances in court.

They barricaded themselves in an identification room used for processing inmate transfers.

Gladys Russell of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Coviello's mother, and her daughter, Gigi Coviello, 21, arrived at the prison Saturday morning hoping to talk to Coviello, but were turned away.

"The general opinion is that the longer it goes, the better it is," said Thomas Seiverling, administrative assistant to State Correctional Institution Warden George Petsock.

Shultz warns of Soviet missiles in Nicaragua

DALLAS (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says the Soviet Union may deploy nuclear missiles in Nicaragua, where they can easily reach the United States.

In a speech Friday to the World Affairs Council and the Chamber of Commerce, Shultz also said he hopes his three-day trip to Mexico starting Sunday will smooth differences between the two countries on Central America.

He said the flow of refugees from Mexico and the rest of Central America who seek opportunities in the United States could be curbed with economic development and stability in that region.

"Especially now, when a troubled world economy invites unrest, we must safeguard democracy and stability in our immediate neighborhood," Shultz said.

"What is happening in Central America could endanger our own security and that of our friends throughout the Caribbean Basin — from Mexico to the Panama Canal."

Shultz made no reference to allegations by some members of Congress that the United States is engaged in a covert operation in Nicaragua aimed at toppling the Sandinista government.

But he cited reports that Nicaragua's Minister of Defense, Humberto Ortega, said last week that Nicaragua would consider accepting Soviet missiles if asked.

He said that "Some of you may not have noticed that Nicaragua's minister of defense said on April 9 that Nicaragua would consider accepting Soviet missiles if asked."

But Shultz offered no evidence that the Soviets have done so, or are even entertaining that idea.

Service station bombing may have extortion link

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — Area Exxon dealers were asked to inspect their stations Saturday after a bombing at a service station that authorities said could be linked to an extortion plot.

"We have asked our dealers to make a normal safety inspection based on all the media coverage" of the bombing, Exxon spokesman Karl Fink of Dallas said Saturday. None of the dealers found anything amiss, he added.

"We're cooperating with all the local authorities ... and we are operating as usual," Fink said.

No one was injured Friday when a small bomb damaged an Exxon station, a telephone booth and a police car Friday in this city between Dallas and Fort Worth. The bomb exploded in a garbage can about 25 yards from where a police officer awaited instructions from a caller who earlier in the day demanded $114,000 in gold coins from the oil company.

Grand Prairie police and FBI and U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents continued to investigate the bombing Saturday. FBI and police spokesmen said they had no new leads in the case.

Tom Kelly, FBI special agent in charge of the Dallas office, said Friday agents were "in the midst of an extortion investigation."

"We haven't established a connection between that bomb and the extortion attempt," Kelly said. "I'm not at liberty to discuss the case any further."

Tax & financial planning

INVESTMENT EXPENSES (Keep Track)

Income tax filing time serves as a reminder of the records we didn't keep for the prior year. For those people who are not in a business and do not have a formal recordkeeping system, many tax deductions are lost for lack of a proper diary or logbook.

Expenses you incur in maintaining an investment portfolio are deductible as itemized deductions on your income tax return. Any expenses paid during the taxable year for the production or collection of income or for the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of income are deductible. Deductions for such expenses, however, are not permitted to the extent that they're incurred for earning fully tax-exempt income such as interest on municipal securities. Deductible expenses include fees paid for investment counseling, clerical help, office rent, telephone, and travel incurred in connection with investments.

Expenses which relate to rents and royalties are taken as a deduction directly against the revenue from those activities as opposed to being treated as itemized deductions.

Start now with a diary of all the expenses that you think relate to your investment activities. If you're in doubt as to the deductibility of a given expenditure, list it anyway and let your accountant help you make a determination at the end of the year. Better yet, spend a few minutes with your accountant now to determine which expenses constitute investment expenses for itemized deductions and those expenses which may be treated as business expenses against rental property, etc.

A simple system of identifying expenditures day by day will produce a far better tax result than trying to recall twelve months of activity at the end of the year.

Budget Resolution is critical issue

One of the most important issues in Congress now is the Budget Resolution, which sets spending levels and revenue needs.

The House of Representatives already has passed its version of the Budget Resolution. According to Sen. John Tower, its content is nothing short of alarming, for it threatens to undo all the progress made these past two years in controlling domestic spending, reducing the tax burden on the American citizen and rebuilding our national defense capability.

SEN. TOWER NOTES the House-passed resolution would raise taxes by $315 billion over the next five years. The only way to achieve such a massive tax increase would be to cancel the 10 percent income tax cut scheduled for July and the indexing of income tax rates scheduled to begin in 1984.

As a result, the average family would pay an additional $3,750 over the next five years. Those earning less than $10,000 would see a tax increase of 24 percent. For those earning between $10,000 and $50,000, the tax increase would amount to 15 percent; but for those earning more than $200,000, the increase would be only 3 percent.

This money would be used on a runaway domestic and social spending spree. But it also would cut national defense spending by $206 billion over the next five years, resulting in lower defense spending than what Jimmy Carter proposed.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH. It is critically important that we retain the income tax relief for lower- and middle-Americans embodied in the July tax cut and 1984 indexing of tax rates. We must control domestic spending — our nation must live by a reasonable budget, just as individuals and businesses do. But we also must have adequate funding of our national defense.

We hope the Senate will act more responsibly than the House has on this matter. The Senate will pass its own version, and then a conference committee made up of members of both houses will reach a compromise agreement.

In the meantime, we must let those who represent us in Washington know how we feel about it.

Twerp trivia

It has happened, it is real I am different than I planned But the wonder at what's coming Keeps a spark within the man. — by Bill Camfield (Icky Twerp)

STEPHENVILLE, Texas — It is pre-Pac Man days, when little Texans wore crew cuts, black suede penny loafers and Dr. Kildare shirts. They were days for great heroes, when every Bosco-drinking kid waited for 3:30 p.m., flicked on KTVT Channel 11 (Fort Worth) and sat in a state of rapture.

One! Two! One! Two! (Dixieland music begins). La! Da! Da! (Four apes with musical instruments dance out). La! La! (Apes collide, make monkey fisticuffs). La! La! (Enter funny-suited, fright-wigged, bearded, earnest-looking host).

"All right, Ajax and Delphinium, settle down."

It is Icky Twerp.

And that was Slam Bang Theater, circa 1965.

Oh, for the days of Icky Twerp, host of one of THE classic kids' shows of all time. The Twerp version of Slam Bang Theater ran from 1959 to 1972, but the show is still on Channel 11, minus Twerp, and still with the same Three Stooges format.

Twerp's character was one of good nature, jolly humor and complete tolerance for the show's unpredictable pandemonium. It was produced at a time when spontaneous energy and rib-tickling comedy were TV mainstays. There were no highly commercial demographics or audience surveys, no monitoring organizations to answer to.

So Twerp reigned, while Ajax (the ape) threw pies, the studio audience hurrah-ed and the band played on.

Slam Bang and The Three Stooges had a disturbing effect on my brothers. They sat mesmerized, watching the nose tweaking, ear twisting and hair pulling and then — during commercial breaks — experimented with the maneuvers, using their little sisters as guinea pigs.

My sisters and I soon learned to hide during commercial breaks.

Slam Bang Theater was a family affair at Channel 11 — the dancing, horn-tooting apes and other characters were played by regular station personnel. Two former apes still are with KTVT.

Clem Candelaria, who at one point set Twerp's cue card on fire, now is programming director for Channel 11. Phil Crowe, who played an ape! Lavender Louie and other Slam Bang denizens, is now station production manager. It must have looked great on their resumes.

I know you're out there somewhere, so here's an Absolutely Authentic Slam Bang Theater Quiz for 100 percent fans only.

1. What is Icky Twerp's full name? (Ickamore Twerpwhistle)
2. When did the show go on the air? (1959)
3. Name the five sidekick apes. (Ajax, Delphinium, Linoleum, Arkadelphia and Caladium)
4. What was the theme song for Slam Bang Theater? ("Didn't He Ramble," a New Orleans Dixieland funeral march)
5. Name three other characters on the show. (Lavender Louie, Mr. Blotz and the Barefooted Foot Runner)
6. What movie did Icky Twerp (Bill Camfield) guest star in with The Three Stooges? (The Outlaws Is Comin')
7. What other popular character did Bill Camfield play on Channel 11? (Gorgon, host of The Nightmare Show)
8. When did Icky Twerp leave the airways? (1972)
9. What was Icky Twerp's official title? (Proprietor of Slam Bang Theater)
10. What commercial almost always ran midway through the show? (Dr Pepper — showing how to heat it up, put it in a coffee cup and serve with lemon)

So bright that daylight became dark

I had a strange dream the other night. Ordinarily I don't remember my dreams. But I had placed a pad and pen on my nightstand so that if I awakened from a dream, I could record it while it was on my mind. I have been looking over the notes I wrote down the other night. They frighten me. Even now I do not remember dreaming this dream. But the urgency in my handwriting makes it seem almost real.

Riding in a car — Billy (my husband) is driving — sirens go off — I roll down my window — "Why is the siren blowing?" — Suddenly a bell rings — suddenly the horizon — dark — then fire explosions — A bomb — horrible — Oh no, this is really happening — the explosion is getting bigger and bigger and coming towards us — it's so bright that daylight becomes like night — I think life's about to be over — I think it's spreading toward us, going to hit us the next minute, but Billy says no, it's thousands of miles away, in another state, in North Dakota ...

Hundreds of people driving trucks, tractors, trailers — I'm carrying my red and white writing book — Everybody in cars on roads — explosions all the time —

Suddenly all this turns into a giant patched cloth sock — you can see some hand dangling it, jiggling it —

I get separated from Billy — I am looking all over for him but I can't find him — going down desolate streets looking, crying, thinking the end of the world is already over — this is really hell, just wandering down the streets forever looking for him — at the very end I see a figure at the opposite end of an alley — Billy? I'm running to find out —

At this point, a line is drawn in my notes. I have gone to the trouble to sketch a little picture of the explosions, adding such labels as "churning fire and smoke," "black around the edges," "skies an eery color," "utter chaos and confusion."

My last written words: So horrible yet fascinating. If only I could get back to the way life was — I would appreciate it so much better.

Then, scribbled again, was the phrase: So bright that daylight became dark.

Apparently at this point I rolled over and went back to sleep.

If you'd asked me a few weeks ago what my biggest fears were, I doubt I would ever have replied "nuclear holocaust." And yet, my dream indicates this may be a deep, hidden fear. On the other hand, maybe I've just been to hell and back again.

Coahoma pupil is disappointed

Dear Editor,

Coahoma has a reputation of being a great school, to a point I agree. However, the state law attendance policy is unfair. It is said that if a student misses more than 10 days a semester he or she will not receive any credits for that semester. I have become a victim of this policy.

I consider myself a good student at Coahoma High School and hold down a part-time job at Hillcrest Baptist Church nursery.

I feel that I have lost the chance to fulfill my goals of the future; as with many high school students, I know what kind of work I'd like to get into. I have never been a trouble maker in or out of school and feel that I should be given a chance to receive the credits for the classes which I have successfully passed. I have already passed most of the classes I chose to take this school year and feel that I should be able to keep those credits that I so worked for.

Furthermore, this policy is not enforced during a hospital stay, but is applied to those sick at home. Many illnesses do not require hospitalization, such as the "flu." I feel that this policy is unfair, in that regardless of work performed and given satisfactory credit, it will be for nothing, due to 10 excused absences.

The response of concerned parents will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you,

Low bidder is dismayed

Dear Editor,

In the article, "Typewriter Wars Plague Commissioners," written by Mike Downey, dated April 11, 1983, several things were written that were not correct.

The commissioners had awarded the sale of six Olivetti typewriters to Malone Business Machines for the price of $850 each with a 90-day warranty. While I had bid $824.30 each with a one-year warranty for the same machine.

After the sale was awarded I called to see why my bid was rejected. It was not rejected but through several unfortunate errors my bid was overlooked. Since the commissioners had already awarded the bid and purchase order number they felt legally they could not change their decision. They asked Malone Business Machines representative to release them from the bid so that they could award it to me but he refused.

When you bid you expect to lose some bids but to lose it when your price is lowest, your warranty is longer, and you are local while your competition is out of Midland hurts to say the least.

Roughing it across the Rubicon

History follows rivers, I was taught. Being the easiest and most expedient conduit of travel, rivers allowed civilization to stretch out its tentacles, to strike new roots in the growth and wanderings of humanity.

Beyond rivers lay the pale of prehistory, where savage humanoids fought with deadly creatures in a primordial struggle for food and territory.

In my previous life as the doyen of Dallas snobs, I lived by the credo: "Never go west of the Trinity River."

Granted, the Trinity is no great flow. But it marked the boundary of civilization. Beyond the Trinity there was no Bartok, no ballet, no bagels.

My move to Big Spring was something akin to Abraham's journey to Canaan. He crossed the Euphrates (as I crossed the Trinity) for no other reason than he was told to.

BIG SPRING, the Beersheva of the West Texas Negev, is a well of modern conveniences. It was with little culture shock that I moved in. I have left here three times since. Twice I have scurried back to Dallas to refuel on the manna of big city society. The last departure — last weekend — was a crazed plunge westward deep into the darkness.

The first stop on my reckless trailblazing was White's City, N.M. My backwoods motel room was equipped with a sauna, whirlpool bath, plush double beds and cable television.

Could I survive?

No one visits White's City to see White's City. This tourist town, comprised of three hotels, two restaurants and a gift shop, lies conveniently at the entrance to Carlsbad Caverns National Park.

The caverns should be listed as one of the world's eight wonders not because of their scenic beauty but because the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers managed to sink elevator shafts 73 stories deep through solid rock to the cave's bottom.

Roughing it, I chose the foot path descent into the cave, stepping gingerly over bat guano (whatever that is) one mile to the Great Cavern.

The caverns were formed in a centuries-long tumult of geological upheaval, the park ranger told me. I thought it all looked phony. I could not escape the impression that the park service had employed Walt Disney to fashion the striking features out of styrofoam. I frequently had the feeling that the caverns were some Hollywood technician's bad attempt at recreating the topography of Mars.

(The stalagmites and stalactites also reminded me of a bad New Wave German film I once saw which made liberal use of natural phallic symbols.) It is a weird hole, and there is no flattery in it.

An hour's drive south from the caverns are the Guadalupe Mountains, where the toughest tourists take on treacherous trails up and down and around the peaks. Leaving my vehicle at the National Park Tourist Information Bureau, I embarked on a hazardous four-mile trek which led to a spring three-quarters of the way up an 8,000-foot peak. The trail was strewn with formidable boulders sometimes exceeding six inches in diameter, and the way was often slowed by mud and snow. Midway through the walk a swallow suddenly sprang from a bush, upsetting my gait and almost forcing me over a precipice into a ravine three feet below my path. Such are the dangers of exploring the wilderness.

ON THE RETURN route to Big Spring from the borderline outback lies the Great Sahara of West Texas, the Monahans Sandhills State Park. There is no geological reason for the existence of these dunes. I suspect the Monahans Chamber of Commerce trucked in tons of the sand to give passing tourists something to look at.

Nevertheless, the great shifting sands are an imposing sight and a challenge even to the most web-footed explorer. Surely even Lawrence of Arabia would have difficulty traversing such gradients. I expected to see Field Marshall Montgomery appear over a crest in his pursuit of the relentless Rommel.

The Sandhills are a wild and rank place. Only with great trepidation does the explorer embark on their discovery. Relief is a well-provisioned concessionary, an air-conditioned tourist bureau and strongly paved motorcar approaches to the reaches of the desolation.

In the quickness of three days, I had circumnavigated the misty and mercurial forlornness of the land beyond the river. Only brave souls and hearty machines should dare the journey.

Big Spring, I learned, is the last outpost of civilization before one enters the Great Expanse, an uncharted uncertainty marked by inflated prices for accommodation and gasoline.

Between Dallas and Los Angeles is a void filled only by the Spring City and a quaint little bar south of Carlsbad where martinis are going for $1.75 each.

If Big Spring is an outpost, then I must fancy myself as somewhat of a pioneer. I straddle the boundary with one foot in civilization and the other in the netherworld. I have not yet crossed the Rubicon to rustic resettlement. But I enjoyed roughing it.

Teachers find Capitol frustrations

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — In the popular new movie "Sophie's Choice," there is a scene in which a neurotic young woman tempts our young, sexually starved hero with lots of "dirty" talk. When they finally are alone, he passionately embraces her. She screams and tells him she only talks about it — she's not ready for anything more.

After their recent dealings with Texas politicians, the teachers of our state probably can empathize with the frustrations of our young hero.

After years of steaming on the back burner while other special-interest groups grabbed off the lion's share of the state budget allocations, 1983 looked like the year of the teacher in the Texas Legislature.

That was because 1982 basically was the year of the teacher in state elections. Politically active teachers learned a hard lesson in 1978. They gave John Hill a big hand in beating incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe in the Democratic Primary but couldn't get excited about the threat of a Republican millionaire from Dallas in the general election — until after that millionaire, Bill Clements, edged out Hill.

Teachers' balloon — while not bursting — has been losing air ever since.

White has continued calling for 24 percent pay hikes over the two-year budget period as a starting place, but his voice seems to get weaker all the time. He has a problem in that he also ran for governor on a "no-new-taxes" platform.

The Senate seems willing to pass a tax increase of some sort that would bring in added revenue and permit a big teacher pay hike. The House does not. A strategy is under way to provide a special appropriation that will pay teachers — and certain other state services — if more revenue is obtained in the future, either from an improved economy or a tax bill passed in some future special session.

Teachers are saying they were promised big things and they want them even if it means a tax bill. Other state employees are saying if the teachers receive a big jump in pay during bad economic times, they want their share.

So, the stage is set for a first-class Capitol brawl during the next few weeks as the legislative clock ticks toward a May 30 closing of the session.

And legislators these days no longer go to Capitol-area bars after work and talk about whether there will be a special session. Now they talk about when there will be one.

Megavitamin supporters plan case for lawmakers

By JANET WARREN

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — State officials who placed a moratorium on the use of megavitamin therapy in state mental hospitals said Friday they are waiting for proponents to produce scientific studies proving the treatment's effectiveness.

L. Gray Beck, chairman of the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said that although megavitamin backers promised at a March 25 board meeting in Brenham to immediately supply that data, "unfortunately those studies have not been delivered to the committee as yet."

But Ruth Guenther, a megavitamin supporter speaking at the session Friday, said that information on the studies had not been delivered because compiling the data is time-consuming and volunteers are doing it, she said.

Large doses of vitamins are sometimes prescribed for mental or physical ailments. But the Texas Medical Association has supported the moratorium. A TMA representative has termed the therapy "experimental."

Several megavitamin supporters appeared at the March board meeting, telling of several cases where the treatment, founded by Nobel prize winner Dr. Linus Pauling, had boosted intelligence levels and cured some mental illnesses. They asked the board to lift the moratorium, begun after a state board dietitian discovered a psychiatrist at the Rusk State Hospital treating patients with the therapy.

Beck said the board decided at the March meeting to have its medical advisory committee review the issue again. He asked Friday that supporters have the scientific studies to the committee by its April 22 meeting, where megavitamin supporter Dr. Ron Wurtsbaugh has been invited to speak.

Wurtsbaugh, medical director of the Austin Clinic, has criticized the committee's initial report recommending the moratorium.

Earl Staelin, an Austin attorney and megavitamin backer, along with Ms. Guenther, asked the board to appoint Wurtsbaugh and two other megavitamin proponents to the advisory committee.

NASA told to plan 'moderate' space missions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, with limited science funds, should plan moderately priced missions to Mars, Venus, Titan and a comet before the end of the century, a panel recommended Saturday.

The proposal came from the Solar System Exploratory Committee, made up of leaders of the science community and NASA who have just concluded a two-year study.

The committee noted the first two decades of space exploration were a Golden Age for planet probes — with the United States dispatching 32 unmanned spacecraft to other worlds in the 1960s and 11 in the 1970s.

But only two are scheduled in this decade — to Jupiter and Venus.

"Constrained budgets for the space sciences has resulted in increasingly lengthy intervals between the initiation of new planetary missions," the committee report said. With this in mind, it said it has formulated a core program "in which scientifically exciting missions can be carried out within a framework of cost-saving innovations in both engineering and management."

To keep costs down, the report said, NASA should develop Planetary Observers, which would be derivatives of well-tested Earth-orbital satellites, and a new, modular spacecraft called Mariner Mark II for trips to the outer planets, comets and asteroids.

The committee said the Planetary Observer program should be funded at $60 million a year and the Mariner Mark II at $100 million a year starting in fiscal 1984. NASA will consider both in its budgetary plans.

The first four proposed missions are:

- A Venus Radar Mapper to be launched in 1988 to provide a radar map of the cloud-enveloped surface.

- Mars Geoscience-Climatology Orbiter to be launched in 1990 to gather information on the planet's surface composition, magnetic field and seasonal changes of carbon dioxide, water and dust that interact between the surface and atmosphere.

- Comet Rendezvous-Asteroid Flyby to make a flyby probe of a large asteroid and then rendezvous for a short period with a comet — to photograph the gas and dust boiling off the comet's nucleus and to measure the gas and dust composition. Three comets were mentioned as potential targets for a rendezvous in the mid-1990s — Enke, Tempel 2 and Honda-Mrkos-Pajdosakova.

- Titan Probe to be launched between 1988 and 1992 to examine the unique, orange-colored atmosphere that shrouds Saturn's largest moon and its mysterious surface, which is cold enough for methane to form pools or possibly oceans.

The committee said there are many other missions it would like to recommend but could not at this time because of their high cost. They include the return to Earth of samples from Mars and comets, robot rovers exploring the Martian surface and probes to Neptune, Uranus and Saturn.

The report said the primary goal of exploration should be the determination of the origin, evolution and present state of the solar system.

Other objectives, it said, should be understanding the Earth through comparative planetary studies, understanding the relationship between the chemical and physical evolution of the solar system and the appearance of life and the survey of resources available in near-Earth space.

Blacks at Ole Miss want Rebel flag banished

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The Black Student Union claimed Saturday that racism is condoned at the University of Mississippi and issued a list of demands including banning use of the Rebel flag at campus functions.

The demands were read following the dedication of a new athletic building on campus and Gov. William Winter was among the spectators.

BSU President Lydia Spragin said, "We approached the governor and told him what was upsetting us. He listened and I got the feeling that he was concerned."

Among the demands was "the removal of all racist symbols," including the Confederate flag, the song "Dixie" and the mascot, Colonel Rebel.

Miss Spragin said the demands were triggered by publication of pictures of rallying Klu Klux Klan members in the school yearbook, which came out earlier this week.

"We showed him (Winter) the annual with the KKK pictures and he asked for a copy of our pamphlet," she said. Winter had to catch a plane for New York immediately after the dedication and could not be reached for comment.

The KKK was demonstrating last fall in support of continued use of the Confederate flag, the song "Dixie" and other slavery-era institutions as symbols of the school. Ole Miss athletic teams are called Rebels, another Civil War reference.

The question of the symbols was raised when the first black ever elected to the school's cheerleading squad, John Hawkins, refused to wave the Rebel flag. Hawkins takes over as BSU president this fall.

Ms. Spragin, a senior, said the publication of the Klan pictures was not the only offensive activity on the campus where less than 800 blacks attend, compared with more than 9,000 whites.

She said fraternity brothers in cars have thrown Rebel flags at black pedestrians and shouted racial epithets. She did not identify the fraternity.

"The rest of the world should really know what is going on at Ole Miss," Miss Spragin said.

She said about 200 members of the black group attended the dedication of the Thomas N. Turner Health, Physical Education and Recreation Center, named for a Delta planter.

"We participated in no part of the program expect to bow our heads for the prayer," she said. The black students carried red, black and green flags, which symbolizes African pride.

"Our purpose is to promote the removal of the double standards and conditions that exist here for black students and help create an environment where we can obtain equal educational and social opportunities," Miss Spragin said.

Mississippi's population is about 2.6 million and of that number 887,000 are black, roughly 35 percent.

NEW YORK (AP) — Musical comedy star Ethel Merman was in satisfactory and stable condition Saturday after surgery to remove a brain tumor, a hospital spokeswoman said.

"The doctors feel it will take two to three days to evaluate the results of the surgery," said Ann Burton.

Polish underground calls for major protests

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Solidarity underground's call for nationwide protests on May 1 presents a major challenge to both the Communist government and supporters of the outlawed independent union in the weeks before Pope John Paul II's scheduled homecoming.

If the protest fizzles, it would lend credence to the government's claims that most Poles no longer back the labor movement and its leader, Lech Walesa.

If it succeeds, the government might face renewed unrest on the eve of the papal pilgrimage — a visit that some analysts predict could lead to suspension of Western trade sanctions that were imposed after the Dec. 13, 1981, martial law declaration.

On Saturday, police picked up 26 Solidarity supporters, including one said to be planning the May Day protests, and confiscated radio transmitters and printing presses, state television said.

The government did not announce the arrest of any of the members of the five-man underground Temporary Coordinating Commission, which on Thursday issued the call for May Day protests. But the crackdown appeared to be a response to the call for demonstrations and was viewed as the government's way of showing it would take measures to control unrest.

Walesa has not directly supported the protest call in public. But he says he has been cooperating more with the underground and this presents the government with another delicate problem.

If Walesa were to be arrested, his seizure could spark protests at home and darken Poland's image in the West at a time when authorities are trying to brighten that image.

On the other hand, Poland's leaders may feel that they must somehow curb Walesa's cooperation with the underground, or face a groundswell of public unrest. Walesa's charismatic attraction for Polish workers played a major role in the occupation strikes that led to the creation of Solidarity in August, 1980.

Walesa indirectly associated himself with the protest call by meeting last weekend with fugitive union leaders. Although he declined to endorse publicly an underground communique which stemmed from the meeting, he said he and the underground had agreed to cooperate.

Police subsequently interrogated Walesa, his wife and his driver about the meeting, but the pressure failed to deter the labor leader from vowing Friday that he would meet again with the underground.

"I will hold another meeting," he said outside Gdansk police headquarters as he waited for his driver to be released. "I'll do the same thing again."

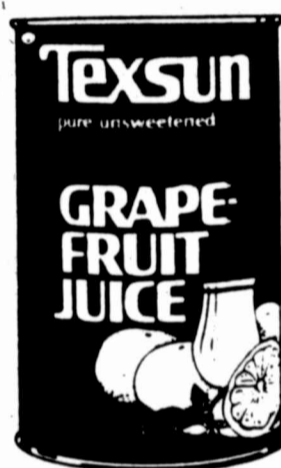

Since the suspension of most aspects of martial law at the turn of the year, the government has said it has won public trust and established social peace. Solidarity was outlawed under martial law.

If tens of thousands of Solidarity supporters heeded the underground call for May 1 demonstrations, as they did for a similar call last year, it would undercut these government claims.

Despite the outlawing of Solidarity, popular support for the union movement is thought to be quite strong, based on interviews with workers and intellectuals.

Video joins buyers for livestock auction

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — When the auctioneer stepped to the microphone at the Amarillo Livestock Auction and began speaking at his usual 90 mph clip, the weekday auction fell into a familiar routine — minus the cattle.

Entire lots of calves and yearlings were being placed on the selling block, bidders' hands were waving frantically, and the competition was fierce to get the very best animals.

But there was not a single cow to be found in the auction ring. The stars of the event were on huge 40-inch television screens as the livestock auction conducted its first-ever video sale.

More than 40,000 cattle — 10,000 calves and 30,000 yearlings — were auctioned Thursday as buyers competed for cattle that are being sold for future delivery.

"We were pretty pleased with the business," video auction director Jack Tompkins told the Amarillo Globe-News. "We ran all the cattle through, and the people at the auction seemed interested in the idea."

Not only were people in the auction ring interested, but so were buyers in Oklahoma City, Okla.; Jackson, Miss.; and Lake Placid, Fla. Television screens were placed in hotels in each of those cities, and buyers thousands of miles from Amarillo were able to bid on the cattle.

The out-of-town buyers were linked to the auction through two conference call lines. One telephone line allowed buyers to listen to the auctioneer as he barked sale prices, while the other line allowed buyers to relay their bids to auction officials in Amarillo.

Although no sales totals were available Thursday night, buyers in Oklahoma City and Amarillo were the heaviest buyers in Thursday's sale, while Mississippi and Florida buyers were a little more tentative, an official said.

"The folks from here and Oklahoma City definitely did the most business," Tompkins said. "But we didn't expect much action from Florida on the yearlings. They were fairly active when the calves were offered."

He said buyers from Mississippi also showed interest in some of the calves, although heavy rains in the Jackson area kept cattlemen busy on the ranch and away from the auction.

"Jackson had about five inches of rain, so the situation there really hurt the sale. But we still had a little activity out of them, too," he said.

Activity may have been slow in the east, but buyers in the auction ring seemed to embrace the idea. Future delivery sales have been devoid of competition in the past, since there have been few auction opportunities for such transactions.

Tompkins said in the past most future delivery sales were made at a cattleman's ranch as two or three bidders were brought out to survey the animals for sale. With a limited number of people bidding on the cattle, prices generally were kept down by the lack of competition.

Pee Wee Friemel, a buyer from Umbarger, said he thought the sale would offer both cattlemen and buyers opportunities unavailable before the advent of video sales.

"I think this has got its place," he said. "You get to see more cattle than you normally would. It'll never replace the regular sale if you want cattle for immediate delivery, though."

Footnotes from Howard County Library

Book sale planned this weekend

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

Once again the Friends of the Library is sponsoring a book sale at the Howard County Library. It will be held next Friday and Saturday during National Library Week.

This spring some of the interesting titles include: The New Dog Encyclopedia by Henry P. Davis, The Magic of Walking by Aaron Sussman and Ruth Goode and the 1982-1983 Hotel and Motel Red Book put out by the American Hotel and Motel Association with descriptions and prices of hotels and motels across the country.

As in past book sales, a great variety is available. In the non-fiction area biographies, religious text, books on travel, art and science are included. In the fiction area you will find Reader's Digest Condensed books, magazines, westerns, mysteries, science fiction and general fiction.

There is again a generous supply of the ageless National Geographic. For paperback fans we have two tables full of those lightweight publications.

The twenty-three volume, 1976 edition of the Colliers Encyclopedia along with older sets of encyclopedias will be available. Bids will be taken on these sets.

The prices are: hardcover 25 cents an inch, paperbacks 25 cents and 10 cents each, newer hardcovers $1.00 each, National Geographics 10 cents each and Reader's Digest Condensed Books 10 cents each.

We'd like to thank the Junior Library Club members for their efforts in organizing the books for the sale. And thanks should be extended to the many patrons who generously donate their books for the sale. Proceeds are used for purchase that benefit the library and the community.

We hope you decide to come to the book sale and take advantage of the bargains.

Insanity defense may save man taped during murder

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A Rio Grande Valley farmer who claims he was insane when he killed his wife's ex-husband changed his story about the slaying after finding out the man had tape-recorded it, a prosecutor says.

Paul Wolf, 21, of La Feria testified that he beat his wife's ex-husband to death because he was upset with a nagging child visitation fight.

Wolf is on trial in state district court for last summer's slaying of Leticia Castro, a Farr elementary school teacher who was engaged to marry Billy Staton, the ex-husband. He also faces trial later for Staton's slaying the same night.

Wolf has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the two slayings. If the jury determines that Wolf was insane at the time of the murders, he will be set free under Texas law, said Cameron County District Attorney Rey Cantu. Cantu suggested Friday that Wolf changed his story about how he killed Staton and Miss Castro after he learned of the existence of the tape recording. Cantu claims Wolf fixed his testimony to go along with an insanity defense.

A mini-cassette tape recorder was found on Staton Aug. 6, 1982, the day the two bodies were dragged from separate Rio Grande Valley drainage canals. Wolf alleges the recording depicts a sudden act of insane violence spawned by his love for a child and fear for her mental health.

"Isn't it true that the defendant's first story to you doesn't match the facts of the objective tape recorder?" Cantu asked psychiatrist Richard Coons of Austin.

Coons acknowledged Wolf had changed his story, but said that was common among distraught people. Coons testified that Wolf originally had told him he killed Staton after Staton first attacked him. He said Miss Castro also attacked his first.

Testimony during the trial has indicated that Staton and Mrs. Wolf had been in and out of court over the visitation rights for nearly a year. Staton is Mrs. Wolf's former husband and father of her daughter, Melanie, who was 2½ years old at the time of the killings.

Wolf, who considers Melanie his daughter, says he became increasingly upset because Melanie would cry and kick when Staton came to pick her up for weekend visits and that she would wake up in the middle of the night screaming.

Comptroller eyes Governor's job

AUSTIN (AP) — Political algebra: Bob Bullock is to Mark White as Mark White was to Bill Clements. While Clements was governor, White, then attorney general, prepared his successful run for Clements' job. Now Comptroller Bullock wants White's job.

"My Lord, I'd take a test with him any day of the week about government. He's had no legislative experience and that's being reflected at this time," said Bullock, who, like White, is a Democrat.

As attorney general, White was in the enviable position of being Clements' lawyer. Bullock is in the perhaps more enviable position of being White's banker.

Under the Texas Constitution, the comptroller tells lawmakers how much they have to spend. To spend more than the Bullock estimate, legislators would have to raise taxes — and Bullock has thrice dropped the revenue estimate this year.

To get those taxes enacted, White would have to sign the bill.

"Bullock wants a tax bill," said Rep. Billy Clemons, D-Pollak. "Not that he wants a tax bill, but I think he would like to see Gov. White back a tax bill."

"Something funny is going on between the comptroller and the governor," said Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, another freshman.

At a recent freshman legislator breakfast, Bullock, at his salty best, scolded the lawmakers for slow action on appropriations.

After the woodshed session, Rep. Steve Carriker, D-Roby, said, "He was basically running for governor."

Bullock's not worried about the complaints. "Ever since I started the (tax) raids back in August 1975, there's been speculation that I was going to run for governor. I've been going through this for eight solid years, which is fine. It suits me," he said.

But Bullock takes umbrage at charges that he's playing with the estimate, which he said he may lower again in May. He said the continual downward revisions are necessary because of poor economic conditions — plunging sales tax receipts and sagging oil prices.

"What advantage is it to me to make an inaccurate estimate?" he said. "Anybody who would think a moment would know that I'm probably getting blamed more for the possibility of a tax bill than Mark White is."

A top White aide did not agree with the charges of politics in the estimate.

"We are really not that paranoid," said the aide, who agreed to comment if he would not be identified. "Bullock doesn't really get White's goat."

Bullock "may be our banker. But White will try to figure up as many innovative financing schemes to throw at him as it takes to solve our banking problems," said the aide.

Of the freshmen making the accusations, Bullock said: "In a way I can understand it because of the fact I understand most of them really don't understand revenue estimating."

"They come down here and make all those promises in November, thinking ... there's no problem about money. Then when you start to wake them up, shake them a little bit, their first reaction is that it's politics," said Bullock.

BOB BULLOCK
Holds state purse strings

Not all freshmen lawmakers are charging politics. Rep. Kenneth Armbrister, D-Victoria, said Bullock's record of "honesty and integrity" makes such charges unwarranted. But Armbrister said Bullock's early announcement of his 1986 gubernatorial candidacy leaves the comptroller vulnerable.

"I will admit his announcing so early his intention to run for governor in four years has hurt his credibility with a lot of people, not only in the Legislature, but outside the Legislature," said Armbrister.

Carriker said, "My personal belief is his numbers are pretty close to accurate. It may also happen that his numbers serve a political purpose, but that doesn't mean the numbers are unrealistic or inaccurate."

Bullock told reporters last November that he wants to be governor in 1986. He said he made the decision before White's win over Clements, a Republican.

When Clements lost, Bullock hired several former Clements' workers. Bullock rehired Tony Proffitt, who left the comptroller's office last year to work for Buddy Temple's aborted run for the Democratic nomination for governor.

When Temple quit the race, giving White the nomination, Proffitt emigrated from the Democrats to Clements' camp and helped put together the tabloid that resurrected an old DWI conviction against White.

Bullock doesn't think the Proffitt record upsets Democratic Party regulars.

"That's like saying because a friend of mine has leprosy that I ought to have it. I can't hardly see that that rubs off. I hired him because I think he's able and capable," said Bullock.

The comptroller said his gubernatorial ambition does not mean he'll be an obstacle to White, a man he said never has shown "a great deal of vision."

"Until now, I don't think he's done anything to bring us out of the problems. Just what is it a governor can do to stimulate or slow down the economy? It's a damned good question. I'll tell you what he can do."

Farmers' income in 1983 to hold steady, USDA says

By PHILLIP SWANN
Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture predicted this week that 1983 net farm income will remain steady and could even increase over 1982.

To paraphrase Groucho Marx, it looks like farmers are working themselves up from nothing to extreme poverty.

But the news has to be called good — especially if you consider the alternative. The USDA last January said 1983 net farm income could fall as low as $16 billion, the lowest level in several years.

The reason for the revised forecast: PIK. The three letters that spell CASH for farmers.

In the payment-in-kind plan, farmers have signed up to take 82.3 million acres from production this year. That's more than a third of their cropland, which should reduce supply and increase demand and prices.

But the program should be retitled, PIK for the Sick.

Years of high interest rates and low prices have sunk many farmers into a cement-like debt. What if PIK raises the price of a bushel of corn by a few dimes? Will that save the farmer who sees his loan officer more than his children?

The seriousness of the situation was captured at a House Appropriations subcommittee hearing this week on the USDA's sudden lack of funds for the Farmers Home Administration's loan program.

Over 1,000 Texas farmers could be forced to postpone or cancel planting this season if the FhMA does not approve the loans, according to Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon.

Subcommittee members, especially Southern Democrats, told Agriculture Secretary John Block that many farmers would go out of business without the loan money.

"With the cost of production so high, we thought we at least had your cooperation in keeping people in business," said Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the appropriations' agriculture subcommittee.

Block said the department had not decided how to handle the problem. "We're not sure what to do," Block said.

That response prompted Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., to lambast the Reagan administration's farm policies.

"The only thing I agree with is that you don't know what you're doing," Alexander said.

The subcommittee finally approved $600 million in aid for the program.

Whitten charged that the Office of Management and Budget ordered Block to stop issuing the loans. In 1981, Congress gave the agriculture secretary the authority to use any or all of a $600 million emergency fund to keep a loan program going.

"The money's there," Whitten said. "I don't know why you don't use it unless you have orders from above."

Block sidestepped the question and reiterated that the USDA had not made a decision. But the charge that OMB "controls" the USDA is not new and prompts one to question if agriculture is really a high priority in the Reagan administration, as Block claims.

Several congressmen, including Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, had urged Block for two years to adopt a supply management program, similar to PIK. The congressmen said prices would never climb unless farmers took their goods off the market. It's a textbook case of supply and demand — too much supply and not enough demand.

How many Aggies does it take to rile Midland?

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND — So the story goes, a firebrand oilman named Clayton Williams Jr. once hoisted an Aggie flag atop a downtown Midland building as a universally obscene gesture to his adversaries.

"You damn right I did," Williams laughingly says now.

"I flew that Aggie flag to kinda tell them all to go to hell. That was my war cry. A big bank was picking on me...and that was my way of giving 'em the finger."

He liked the idea so well it became something of a trademark.

The ultimate son of Texas A&M, Williams, 51, adopted the fluttering maroon and white flags as a battle symbol and they fly daily above his offices here and elsewhere and atop his oil rigs around the country.

"I've flown them at the drilling sites but they don't prevent dry holes," said he. "Still, I like to see the flags and so do other Aggies."

At $300 a flag, he quipped, it ain't no cheap deal.

ACTUALLY, THERE'S nothing cheap about Claytie Williams, a short, lean and ruggedly handsome enigma whose flag-waving defiance and robust lifestyle reflect the best and worst of Texas' big rich oil zanies.

"He's an Aggie from the word go," says a friend, Ed Thompson, vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

"A lot of people get hacked off because he's a little flashy. A dumb-ass Aggie is not supposed to have done as well as he has."

"But he's a great guy."

He jogs, punches cattle, hunts big game and oversees a vast business empire that includes oil and gas production and transportation, real estate, cattle, banking and oil field services and supply.

As cunning as a coyote and often as wily, Williams rose from a $10,000-a-year insurance peddler to oil multimillionaire in a rollercoaster quarter century punctuated with good luck, bad luck, hard work, cold beer and the competitive, indomitable spirit of a pit bull dog.

BY HIS OWN count, the 15 entities that form the Williams Companies produced $1.5 billion in gross revenues last year.

Also by his own count, he owes a nationwide consortium of banks roughly $220 million.

"I'm a debtor," he shrugs. "I borrow a lot of money."

An optimist by nature and a gambler by choice, he is at once charming, crude, bold, brash, serious, flip, salty and rarely immune to a good time.

"I'm colorful, which is a nice way of saying I'm full of bull..." he said with a grin.

He met his beautiful wife Modesta while guzzling beer and belting out Mexican ballads from a table top in one of his favorite honky tonks.

"I love to drink beer and sing mariachi songs...and she picked me up the first night we met," he joked.

Says the dark-haired Ms. Williams: "We've been going round and round in circles but I never get bored."

Downtown Midland awoke some seven years ago to discover a pink diaper flapping from the flagpole above Williams' 16-story Gulf Building. It signaled the birth of a daughter, the fifth addition to the Williams brood.

"That was good bull..." he recalled with a chuckle. Beneath all this prattle beats the maroon heart of an ingenious and individualistic oilman-rancher-entrepreneur with an uncommon knack for making money, friends, enemies, headlines and whoopee.

"Claytie throws a hell of a party," says Thompson, referring to an annual bash in which Williams routinely invites 7,000 of his closest friends to a Brangus cattle sale and party at his ranch near Alpine.

CLAYTON WILLIAMS stories abound in this oil rich, high-rise, white collar energy Mecca of 85,000 and across the stark, windswept, semi-arid reaches of West Texas from which he sprung half a century ago. Some may even be true.

Many center around his "hell-raising" days as a youngster growing up in Fort Stockton, the son of an engineer-author father who set the tone for Clayton Jr.'s individuality.

Young Claytie's fondness for frothy beverages, pretty girls and table-top sing-a-longs earned him a generous following among the Saturday night booze and brawl crowd.

"They'd be out drinking beer and they'd say, 'Let's go hear that dumb guy from Fort Stockton sing them Mexican songs,'" Williams recalled. "I never had so much fun. I think in Spanish, farm and ranch Spanish."

As a partial tribute to those carefree days, Williams every six months or so closes down his Midland offices at noon, gathers up one and all and heads off for an afternoon and evening of revelry.

"Shut that son-of-a-gun down and let's go drink beer," he insists.

"If something's not going on, he gets bored" says Lana Loyd, his secretary, who spends much of her day blushing over an endless stream of ribald Aggie jokes.

JUST ONE, TALL CITY SAYS
...Clayton Williams Jr.

"He makes things happen. All his employees love him and hardly anybody else quits."

Says "Executive Sidekick" Bob Smith: "Claytie demands excellence, but he also rewards excellence."

Always quick to share his good fortune with his employees, Williams once said his goal was to make more of his (800) employees wealthier than any oilman ever has before.

"I may have already achieved that," he said with a smile.

DESPITE A certain love-hate relationship with Texas A&M, he graduated in 1954, entered the Army and was sent to Ft. Wolters in Mineral Wells, Tex.

He moonlighted as a waiter at the Brazos Club in the historic old Baker Hotel, and it was there that he launched his insurance sales career.

While serving drinks and hustling tips at an insurance gathering, he was told: "Son, I think you'd make a good insurance salesman."

He took the advice to heart and did well, he said, until his clientele of friends and relatives dried up.

"Then I had to look for another job."

Scurrying about in a 1952 Chevy, Williams brokered oil leases at night, sold insurance by day and dabbled in a variety of energy-related adventures that enabled him to double his income annually for several years.

"I saved my money because I was working too hard to have time to spend it," he said.

Asked once by Texas Business magazine what it was that separated him from others and elevated him to success, he replied:

"Well, for one thing, my Aggie background and education was a big help, and I developed a feel for the land, for formations."

"And I've always had the ability to totally immerse myself in something I get involved in. I have this obsessive desire to absorb, absorb, absorb. And I concentrate."

SAID A LONGTIME associate: "When Williams works, he works like a demon possessed. He'll let nothing interrupt his train of thought."

Looking back now, Williams ironically attributes his success to his failures, not a few of which were a succession of dry holes.

"I think it's how you handle your failures that determines your eventual success," he said. "It's the ability to retrench and regroup."

It was his executive sidekick Bob Smith who said once that you have to know Williams to understand what makes him different.

"He's always up, always gung ho. He's a driven man who refuses to get down just because he hits a few dry holes."

"Other oilmen will suddenly get real conservative when they're on a losing streak. Not Claytie. He pushes all the harder. But more than that, he's a visionary. He has a business foresight that's very rare."

Williams concedes to an overblown ego but maintains that it's under control.

"Like Will Rogers said, it's okay to take the world seriously, but never yourself. You can't take yourself too seriously, especially if you're a wildcatter."

During one particularly lean period, after a series of dry holes and virtually broke, he drilled a well east of Jackson Hole, Wyo., which he cleverly called "The Last Hope."

"In a John Wayne movie, that would have hit," he said with a wry grin. "For an Aggie, it was a dry hole again."

But on New Year's Eve 1975 he "hit it big" with a natural gas well near Mentone, Tex., in Loving County.

Although the Gataga 2 well blew out, forcing evacuation of tiny Mentone, it was eventually brought under control and produced 200 million cubic feet of gas a day.

Williams told the evacuees who took refuge in neighboring towns to send him their hotel bills. Few did.

He got a note from one fellow who said, "That's the first time I've had a woman in a motel room on New Year's Eve in a long time. I ought to pay you!"

"There was lots of excitement," remembered Williams. "It was one of the experiences that makes life worth living."

Another was a $150 million commercial real estate development launched during the "euphoria" of the 1981 energy and economic boom. Called ClayDesta Plaza, the 175-acre business community, similar in concept to the Los Colinas development outside Dallas, appears to have survived the recession and could be completed by the mid-'80s.

"ClayDesta," said Williams, "is a major project and we'll be involved with it for sometime."

But perhaps his biggest gamble was an energy exploration venture into the Austin Chalk trend in the Giddings area in 1976. He risked millions and reaped tens of millions.

"Giddings was my biggest individual undertaking," he says. "It took an intensive concentration of money, people and effort. It was a helluva lot of work for not so much profit."

For instance, he said, he spent up to $800,000 per well and drilled more than 300 wells. An $800,000 investment for a $1.5 million well is not the stuff of which oil and gas fortunes are made.

'Impolite youth' still in jail

HOUSTON (AP) — A teen-ager jailed for 30 days for failing to say "Yes, sir," to a judge remains behind bars despite an appeals court order to free him.

Michael Anthony Washington, 18, was ordered temporarily freed Thursday by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. But officials of the Harris County Jail refused to release Washington until they received written notice from the court in Austin.

The court ordered Washington released on a $100 personal recognizance bond Thursday until the dispute is settled. But jail officials and State District Judge Michael McSpadden said Friday they had received no notice of that action.

McSpadden ordered Washington to serve 30 days in jail March 30 when the defendant, who pleaded guilty to burglary of a building, failed to answer "Yes, sir," to his questions.

"He was raising his voice and looking at me with those eyes and if kind of shook me up a little," Washington said. "I was nervous."

CBS contempt ruling upheld

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal judge who was refused a preview of a controversial report on CBS television's "60 Minutes" program may proceed with his contempt of court ruling against the television, a federal appeals court said Friday.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued a one-sentence order denying a CBS request to block U.S. District Judge Adrian Duplantier's contempt proceedings.

Duplantier cited the network for contempt when he demanded to review the script for the program's Jan. 16 segment that dealt with a New Orleans Police Department investigation of a policeman's murder in the Algiers District.

Seven NOPD investigators — later dubbed "The Algiers Seven" — were indicted for violating the civil rights of people they questioned in the Nov. 8, 1980 murder of Officer Gregory Neupert.

The trial was shifted to Dallas because of pre-trial publicity, and their attorneys argued that broadcast of the CBS report in that city would make it difficult to select an impartial jury.

When Duplantier asked the network to let him review the script, CBS first agreed, then recanted, saying the judge's order was prior restraint of the press.

Infant sicker than ever after transplant, doctor says

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A 3-month-old Texas girl suffering a rare disorder that leaves her body unable to fight infection has grown steadily weaker with pneumonia since an experimental transplant to try to save her life, a doctor says.

Stephanie Garcia of Raymondville, Texas, was transferred from John Sealy to the University of Minnesota Hospital in Minneapolis, one of two U.S. centers performing the experimental procedure.

Stephanie, who underwent a bone marrow transplant April 8, has been placed on a respirator, said Dr. Randall Goldblum, the infant's physician at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Texas. She has been in critical condition since the operation.

"Her lung function is continuing to decrease," said Goldblum, who said he had talked to Minnesota doctors Friday afternoon. "They're trying everything known to man to get her through this period. If she could carry on for another week, we would expect her to start getting some help from the bone marrow transplant."

The child has been suffering from viral pneumonia since shortly after she was born, Goldblum said.

Stephanie suffers from severe combined immune deficiency, a disorder that leaves her body defenseless against infection.

On Jan. 14, Duplantier held the network in contempt. He subsequently ordered that the segment not be broadcast. He was overruled by the 5th Circuit.

This past week, two special prosecutors hired by the 13-member district court asked the appeals court to allow the judges to intervene in the case to support Duplantier.

They also asked Duplantier to hold the network in criminal contempt of court.

The contempt proceedings and several other matters stemming from the Neupert case are still pending before Duplantier and the 5th Circuit.

Lady Godivas protest taxes

By The Associated Press
 Latter-day Lady Godivas rode again in cities from New York to California to protest taxes as millions of citizens jammed post offices and harried clerks in a last-minute rush to beat the midnight deadline for filing federal tax returns.

The horseback protests Friday, organized by the Libertarian Party, were to remind Americans of the medieval lady who rode naked through the market of Coventry to show her displeasure with high taxes.

The modern-day counterparts wore flesh-toned leotards or bathing suits for their rides through such cities as Sacramento, Calif., Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Rochester, N.Y.

Some taxpayers, however, were already feeling bare — of cash — as they mailed off checks to Uncle Sam in time for the envelopes to bear an April 15 postmark.

"The government doesn't do anything for you but take your money," complained John Sekulski, an unemployed factory worker in Rochester who happened along as that city's Lady Godiva rode by.

Traffic was snarled around the city Post Office in Washington on Friday night as mail clerks stood on curbs and in the middle of the street in pouring rain, collecting stamped envelopes from last-minute filers.

The scene was repeated at central post offices around the country, while inside, other taxpayers filled out Form 4868 to obtain a filing extension.

"It's not procrastination; it's a tradition," said Edgar Ford at the post office in Birmingham, Ala. "I always turn my tax in on the last day."

Outside, motorists hit their horns as a protester held up a placard: "Honk If You Hate Taxes."

Not everyone objected to the hassle. "My name is not important," said one elderly woman with a walker at the Manhattan District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. "Only say that it is a privilege to pay the maintenance of a free country such as our own."

The IRS estimated that 5 million to 10 million couples and individuals struggled to finish their taxes by midnight.

The agency estimated that up to 3 million of them would file for extensions. With the form, taxpayers are allowed to pay an estimated tax, but put off filing until as late as Aug. 15.

According to the government, between 96 million and 97 million federal tax returns will be filed for 1982, up by about 1 million from last year. Close to 80 percent were due to receive refunds, which take eight to 10 weeks.

The main Manhattan post office — which accepted more than 100,000 filings Friday — was still jammed with hundreds of people just after midnight. Every writing table was littered with tax forms and people milled about asking for instructions, stamps and envelopes.

Toddler killed in morning apartment complex blaze

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 23-month-old girl was killed, and a 9-year-old boy burned, early Saturday as flames roared through the upper floor of a small two-story apartment complex in southwest San Antonio, officials said.

Other children trapped by smoke and flames in the three-alarm blaze jumped from second-floor windows before firefighters arrived at the complex, fire officials said.

Convict denied new trial

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — State District Judge Thomas Mescall has refused to grant a new trial for Marion Albert Pruett, who was convicted in Albuquerque in the 1981 beating death of his wife.

Mescall turned down the request Friday from defense attorney Ronald Koch, who said that what happens is of no consequence to his client, but that it is his obligation to pursue the matter because he believes Pruett's trial was not fair.

Pruett was convicted Feb. 15 in the death of his wife, Michelle Lynn Pearson, and sentenced to life in prison.

A date in, er, on court

Close your eyes and... Imagine Disney World opening one morning, and only five people passing through the turnstiles. Imagine the World Series being played, and seats still available at game time. Imagine gold being found in California, and the hills remaining uninhabited. Hard to imagine isn't it. Also hard to imagine why the Figure Seven Tennis Center isn't one of the most popular recreational places on a sunny afternoon in Big Spring. Nine courts, comparable to any in West Texas and still Lenny Prudhomme opens the pro shop and strings tennis rackets by himself. "We have about twenty people who come out here regularly," he says, shaking his head. He would like to have waiting lists and schedule court times. Instead he watches more business reeling in fish from the great Comanche Lake.

...wants more business

Prudhomme, who earns most of his keep working at Malone-Hogan, has been operating the courts and pro shop for about a year with his tennis-playing family. In this time, the appearance of the facility have improved drastically, three courts have been re-surfaced (three more undergo facelifts next month) and little extras like umbrellas and water coolers have been installed courtside.

In short, Prudhomme hoped turning the Figure Seven into a country club-type facility would attract a larger clientele.

Wrong. The main problem, he thinks, is Joe Tennis-Weekender himself. Joe comes out with cutoffs, his $9.99 racket and gripless sneakers for an occasion set or match. When Joe can't play McEnroe's net game, or serve like Tanner, or run the baseline like Lendl, he gets frustrated and goes home. The racket and can of dead balls gets tossed into the far reaches of his bedroom closet.

"They don't follow up," Prudhomme says. "They get lazy or find something else to do. When you start playing tennis regularly, you start to look forward to it. You get irritable if you can't get out to the courts."

Sounds like the symptoms of Joe Golf-Weekender; bring on a sunny afternoon and he goes nuts until he can grab his clubs and get a tee-time. Tennis, however, requires more movement and thirst quenchers other than beer. Given a choice, most men will put on a golf glove rather than a headband.

But the kids use the courts. Because of spring UIL district tournaments, Prudhomme says over 500 students have played Figure Seven in April. "That puts the adults to shame," he says.

So how to do solve apathy towards tennis in Big Spring?

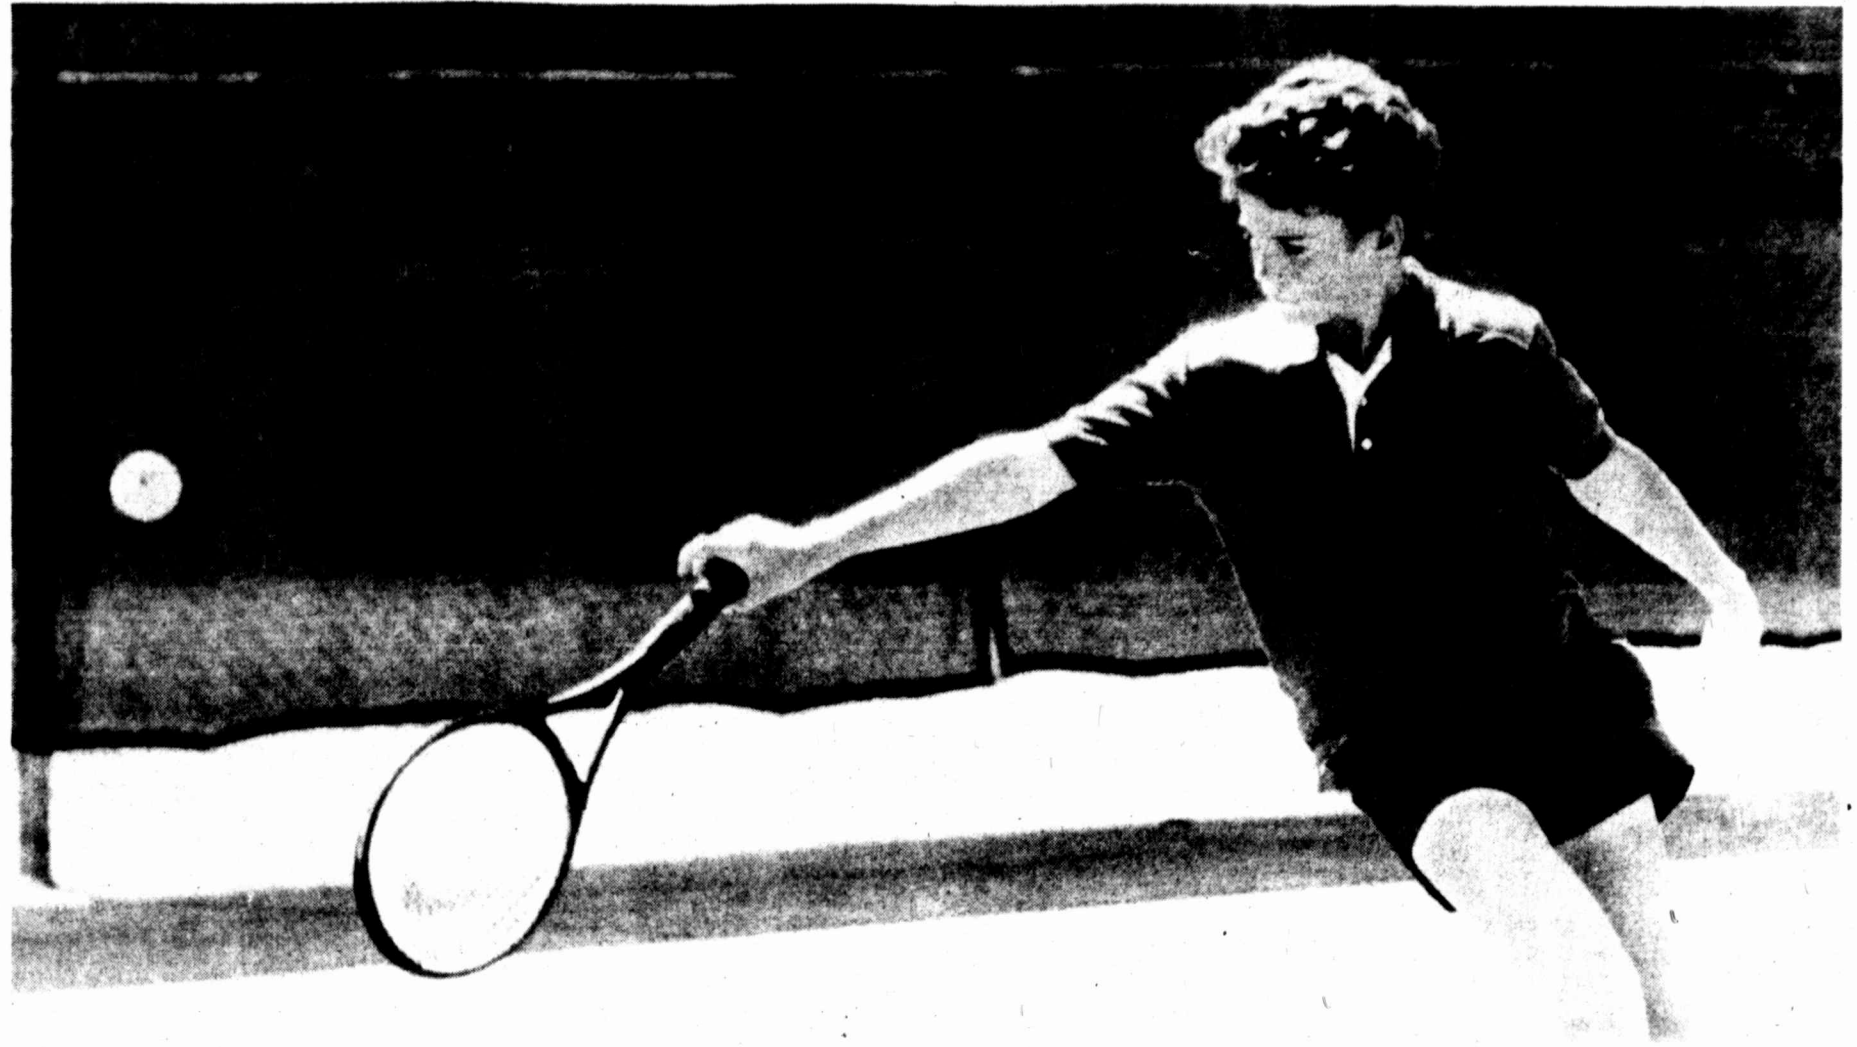

All Prudhomme can do is invite people to drive into Comanche Trails Park morning, noon or night and take the courts. If they have any problems, questions...whatever, he'll be glad to help. Local coaches Allan Holliday and Kim Hood are usually around to lend a helpful racket.

The Center will stretch its hours to 10 a.m.-10 p.m. beginning in May (they're 2-8 p.m. now). A mini-camp for third through ninth grades is planned soon. If enough interest is shown, group lessons will be given Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

Playing fees are 75 cents for juniors and $1 for adults for a minimum of an hour and a half of tennis. Yearly memberships are available at $60 for juniors and $75 for adults.

"All the people have to do is come out," he says again. Imagine getting into shape, getting a great tan and doing something different for a change. It isn't that hard to do.

"That's how most of the parents find out we're here," he says, laughing. "The kids tell them 'pick me up when you're done fishing.'" That's some fish story, Lenny. But we get the point. "All the people have to do is come out," he offers.

PUTTING FOLLOW-THROUGH INTO IT—Perry Prudhomme, a seventh grader at Goliad Middle School, follows through with a backhand volley in Saturday afternoon's doubles match against Aaron Allen and Taff Wennik. Allen-Wennik, also students at Goliad, downed Prudhomme and partner Quade Weaver 7-6, 6-4 in the seventh grade boy's championship match.

Team trophy stays at home

Big Spring 7th graders win title at weekend tourney

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor
If the tennis talent in Big Spring comes in waves, the crest of the surf must be in the seventh grade. Both seventh grade boys' doubles team advanced to the finals, Perry Prudhomme took second in singles and two girls' doubles teams battled for third place as Big Spring took the team trophy in its own junior high tennis tournament played Friday and Saturday.

Big Spring accumulated 32 points, much to the surprise of coach Kim Hood. Andrews was second with 23 and Odessa Bonham third with 14. Bonham edged Odessa rival Nimitz 29-27 for the eighth grade trophy with Midland Goddard finishing third with 18 points.

"The thing I didn't know," Hood said, "was how we'd do against the Midland and Odessa schools because we have never played them before. We've lost to Andrews before in a dual match but I didn't have all of my boys with me."

The team trophy is the second as many starts for Big Spring. Two weeks ago they won the team title in Odessa.

Friday, Prudhomme worked his way up the singles draw and met Madhu Challipalli of Bonham in the finals. Challipalli, whose older brother Ram won the 4-5A crown last spring, needed three sets to subdue the pesky Prudhomme 5-7, 6-3, 6-2.

"Perry really played well," Hood said. "It was a tough loss for him."

Big Spring also got a third in seventh grade singles as Aaron Allen topped Sid Braddock of Odessa Nimitz 6-2, 6-1. Eric Atkins lost in the consolation finals, falling 8-0 in a pro set to Scott Hubert of Odessa Nimitz.

The teams of Prudhomme-Quade Weaver and Allen-Taff Wennik were the cream of the seventh grade doubles crop. Both advanced to the finals where Allen-Wennik showed more overall consistency and downed Prudhomme-Weaver 7-6, 6-4.

Meanwhile, the Big Spring girls weren't doing too badly either.

Mindy Kniffen of Andrews tripped Morgan Warner of Odessa Bonham 6-1, 6-1 in the seventh grade finale. Lara Cunningham notched a win for Big Spring when she defeated Melody Watkins of Andrews 6-2, 6-7, 7-5.

Teammate Rebecca Read won the consolation championship, downing Terrell Williamson of Andrews 8-4 in a pro set.

Kniffen returned to the finals with Watkins and the duo clipped Cathy Fancher and Beth Atkins of Odessa Nimitz

6-4, 6-2. In the third place match, Cunningham-Angie Wilson bounced teammates Read-Amber Logback 7-5, 6-4.

In the eighth grade division, Raja Naidu of Bonham topped Daniel Geitz of Nimitz 6-1, 7-6. Naidu made it two without any effort. Partner Tom Heiting and he won by default over Kevin Moore and Brad Whitfield of Goddard.

Jill Bramlett, younger sister of former 4-5A champ Jeff Bramlett, of Midland San Jacinto downed Casey Wikse of Nimitz 6-2, 6-2 in the eighth grade girl's championship.

Wikse didn't get away without a trophy; she teamed with Kisa Cole to drop Keely Hendricks and Jennifer Sullivan of Bonham 6-4, 6-1 in the eighth grade doubles final.

7 boxers depart for tournament

Seven junior boxers representing the Howard County Boxing Club leave this afternoon for the Police Athletic League national tournament in Cleveland, Ohio.

The seven — Gene Dukes, Jamie Baldwin, Juan Baldwin, David Baldwin, Marcus Garza, Vince Goana, Jr. and Gabriel Gaona — leave from radio station KBST at 2 p.m. Accompanying them north are coach J.V. Martinez, assistant coaches Ed Garza and Vince Goana, Sr. and Zeke Valles.

The HC team was invited to the tournament on the basis of its team championship record this year. The tourney is scheduled April 20-23.

BIG SPRING HIGH STANDOUT IN THREE SPORTS ...Shell Rutledge is covered by no one's shadow

Coming out of her Shell

Sports push Rutledge back into mainstream

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

It would have been easy for Shell Rutledge to disappear.

Even if she had returned to school, she could've turned into just another face in the hallways. But she doesn't like walking in the shadows.

After a fabulous freshman track season in which she set the District 4-5A record in the 200 meters, Rutledge slowed down her next year. It wasn't slow-motion, mind you, but there was a noticeable difference as she finished second in her specialty to Cooper's Carla Seldon.

When she returned a month late from summer vacation, the news filtered out. Shell had become pregnant and had a baby girl. Instead of quitting school, she was back to finish her education. And instead of turning in her athletic talents, she attacked them with even more rigor.

"Without my parents behind me," she says, "I couldn't have done it. My mom said to go on and get my education and she'd take care of the baby. Everything's turned out all right, better than most people would have had it."

Returning to Texas from North Carolina — where her parents now live — in October, she barely made the deadline to continue her junior year in high school. She missed out on volleyball but stepped right onto the basketball court and earned honorable mention all-district honors.

She was more of her old self in track, too, beating Seldon on the tape to earn a regional berth behind teammate Carla Jackson. There she finished third, letting Patty Pope of El Paso Andress pass her down the final stretch.

"It upset me," she said of her letdown. "I slowed up and Patty came up from nowhere and beat me."

Rutledge didn't make it to state but the year certainly wasn't a wasted effort. And now comes her senior year and she is quickly making people forget about Jackson whose shadow is still cast long and far on West Texas girls' track.

"People are still looking back," she admits. "There will never be another Carla Jackson. I can't replace her but only do as best as I can."

(See 'Understanding' on page 12-B)

Steers bats shake OHS, 11-6

ODESSA — Alan Trevino continued his batting rampage with a three-run homer in the second inning and Tom Cudd hit a two-run shot in the sixth to power the Big Spring High Steers to an 11-6 win over Odessa High here Saturday afternoon.

The win puts Big Spring all alone in third place in the District 4-5A race with a 6-4 record. Odessa drops into a fourth place tie with Abilene at 5-5.

Trevino has collected seven hits in 11 at-bats in the second go-round of district play. He hit his second home run of the season against the Bronchos but it was Big Spring's five-run fifth inning that put Odessa away.

Cudd put BSHS ahead to stay with a one-out single and Jay Pirkle followed with an RBI double. Odessa starter Boyd Cowan was yanked in favor of Seth McCann and Billy Thompson greeted him with a run-scoring single. A fourth run was walked in and David Anguiano capped the rally with an RBI single.

Big Spring got two more insurance runs in the sixth when Cudd hit his second home run in district play after Danny Arista had singled.

Odessa led 2-0 early as Freddy Alvarado knocked in a run with the first of his three hits. He doubled in another run in the fourth and smashed a two-run homer in the sixth to collect three RBIs.

The Bronchos pounded Adam Rodriguez, 3-2, for 13 basehits but the senior right-hander worked out his jams to notch a complete-game victory.

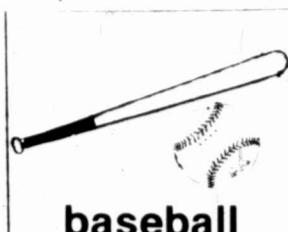

"We're really hitting and scoring some runs," said coach Frank Ibarra whose team has scored 34 runs in its last three games, all victories. "If we can play better defense and our pitching tightens up, we'll be all right."

Big Spring is 13-10 overall and hosts Cooper Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Steer Park.

Expos' Lea 1-hits Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Montreal's Charlie Lea pitched 7 2/3 hitless innings and finished with baseball's second one-hitter in two days and Andre Dawson hit his third home run in three games as the Expos beat the Houston Astros 2-0 Saturday.

Lea, bidding for his second career no-hitter, lost it in the eighth when Terry Puhl, batting for rookie catcher John Mizerock, pulled a clean single to right field.

Lea finished with six strikeouts and three walks. It was his second one-hitter against Houston. Last May 28, also in the Astrodome, he faced one batter over the minimum but was tied 0-0 with Houston's Don Sutton before the Expos scored four runs for Lea in the 10th inning.

This one-hitter followed Milt Wilcox's for Detroit Friday night. Wilcox had a perfect game going for 8 2/3 innings before Jerry Hairston hit a clean pinch single for Chicago, the only baserunner against Wilcox in the Tigers' 6-0 victory over the White Sox.

Lea, 2-0, who pitched 5 2/3 perfect innings in winning his first game of the season against Los Angeles on April 9, pitched his no-hitter against San Francisco on May 10, 1981.

Cubs 6, Pirates 5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jerry Morales' two-run pinch-double capped a three-run Chicago rally in the eighth inning that lifted the Cubs to a 6-5 victory Saturday over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory was the second in nine games for Chicago. The Pirates lost their third consecutive home game after winning their first five games on the road.

Ron Cey opened the eighth with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch by Larry McWilliams, 1-1. After McWilliams got Leon Durham to fly out, he walked Keith Moreland and was replaced by Rod Scurry.

Scurry then walked pinch-hitter Ron Woods and Jody Davis followed with a sacrifice fly to score Cey before Morales lined his double down the left-field line to score Moreland and Woods.

Willie Hernandez, 1-0, worked two scoreless innings for the victory. Lee Smith picked his first save.

Phillies 8, Braves 4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tony Perez's two-run single in the seventh inning snapped a 4-4 tie, and Steve Carlton struck out 12 Braves Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to their fifth straight victory, an 8-4 decision over Atlanta. The loss, Atlanta's first since opening day, ended a seven-game winning streak.

Carlton moved past Gaylord Perry into third place on the all-time strikeout list with 3,466, trailing Walter Johnson's 3,506 and Nolan Ryan's 3,494. Perry has 3,462. It was the 71st game in which Carlton has struck out 10 or more batters. The 38-year-old left-hander scattered 12 hits and walked four in eight innings' work.

Cardinals 6, Mets 2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mike Ramsey rapped a tiebreaking triple to highlight a five-run uprising in the seventh inning, carrying the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-2 triumph Saturday night over the New York

Met.

The victory was St. Louis' sixth in a row, handing New York its fifth straight setback. Until erupting in the seventh, the Cards had been restricted to two hits and one run by Mets' right-hander Ed Lynch, 0-1.

New York second baseman Brian Giles opened the gates for St. Louis by booting George Hendrick's grounder to start the big seventh.

After Hendrick advanced on Ken Oberkfell's sacrifice bunt, David Green singled to produce a 2-2 tie. Ramsey then tripled over the head of Mets center fielder Mookie Wilson, scoring Green, and Dane Long, pinch-hitting for Dave LaPoint, 1-0, delivered a three-base hit to the same locale, scoring Ramsey.

Reds 8, Giants 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Johnny Bench belted a three-run homer, Dan Driessen drove in three runs and Mario Soto pitched seven innings of two-hit ball Saturday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Reds blasted 19 hits, including four singles by second baseman Ron Oester, who raised his average to .417.

Cincinnati erupted for four runs in the sixth inning to take a 6-1 lead. The outburst included Bench's 378th career homer, placing him 23rd on the all-time list.

Cesar Cedeno was hit by a pitch by starter Fred Breining, 2-1, Eddie Milner singled and Bench cracked his first homer of the season, with two outs. The Reds added another run in the inning off reliever Mike Chris when Driessen walked and Oester and Jeff Jones singled.

HIP, HIP, HOOORAAAAH — Houston Astros pinch-hitter Craig Reynolds (12) is hugged by team mascot AstroDilla and teammates Bill Lawley, center, and Phil Garner, right, after his 10th inning single that beat Montreal 7-6 Friday night. It was the first win in 10 tries for the Astros this season.

Bosox bop Texas, 2-1

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice and Wade Boggs drove in runs with sixth-inning doubles Saturday as the Boston Red Sox edged the Texas Rangers 2-1 on the pitching of Bruce Hurst and Mark Clear.

Boston, blanked on two hits for five innings by right-hander Danny Darwin, broke a scoreless tie after Dwight Evans led off the sixth with a checked-swing single to the left of the mound.

Rice, 6-for-11 with six runs batted in in his last three games, followed with a double off the wall in left-center, scoring Evans. With two out, Boggs lined a double to left, scoring Rice.

Hurst, 1-1, blanked the Rangers on five hits for seven innings. He needed help from Clear after Texas pushed across a run on a single by Billy Sample, a bunt single by Mike Richardt and a two-out double by Dave Hostetler. Clear pitched out of the jam and went on to earn his first save.

Angels 9, Twins 5

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Reggie Jackson's three-run homer capped a seven-run explosion in the fifth inning that boosted the California Angels to a 9-5 victory Saturday over the Minnesota Twins.

Bruce Kison, 2-1, was the winner, yielding seven hits and striking out 10. Rookie Bryan Oelkers, 0-2, fell victim to the Angels' bats in the fifth.

California got a run in the third when Bob Boone hit his first homer of the year, off the foul pole in left field. The Twins retaliated with three runs in the bottom of the inning when Ray Smith and Lenny Faedo singled and John Castino hit his fourth homer, to right field.

Then came the big fifth. Oelkers walked Brian Downing and Bobby Grich. Tim Lincecum loaded the bases with an infield single, Boone drove in two runs with a single and Rod Carew followed with another run-scoring single to chase Oelkers and give the Angels a 4-3 lead.

BALL STRIKE OUT 2

PRIOR TO DISASTER — The scoreboard in Comiskey Park shows just how well Milt Wilcox was pitching Friday night. For 8 2/3 innings, Wilcox tossed perfect baseball at the White Sox. Pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston singled moments later to end Wilcox's bid for history. He finished with a one-hitter and 6-0 victory.

White Sox 3, Tigers 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie Greg Walker's pinch-home run triggered a three-run eighth-inning rally Saturday, leading Floyd Bannister and the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Walker slugged his first homer of the season with one out off starter Dan Petry and pinch-hitter Lorenzo Gray greeted reliever Howard Bailey, 1-1, with a single. Tony Bernazard doubled and when left fielder Larry Herndon misplayed the ball for an error Gray scored the go-ahead run. Harold Baines then doubled to score Bernazard.

Bannister, 1-1, who signed a five-year, $4 million contract as a free agent, gave up three hits in eight innings but had trouble with his control. Dick Tidrow picked up his first save.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead in the seventh when they scored an unearned run without a hit. John Wockenhus was safe on shortstop

Scott Fletcher's throwing error, Chet Lemon sacrificed and Mike Ivie was given an intentional walk before Bannister walked Glenn Wilson to load the bases. Tom Brookens followed with a sacrifice fly.

Orioles 2-3, Indians 0-7

BALTIMORE (AP) — Julio Franco, a replacement for the injured Toby Harrah, rapped a three-run double to snap a fourth-inning tie, and the Cleveland Indians defeated the Baltimore Orioles 7-4 in the second game to earn a split of their Saturday doubleheader.

The Orioles won the opener 2-0 on a combined nine-hitter by Jim Palmer, Storm Davis, and Tippy Martinez.

Franco entered the nightcap after Harrah was struck on the left hand by a pitch from Dennis Martinez, 1-2, in the first inning. Franco singled and scored on a single by Andre Thornton in the third, and then cleared the bases to key a four-run rally in the fourth.

Neal Heaton, 1-0, allowed five hits in seven innings of the nightcap, and Dan Spillner earned his fourth save.

Palmer posted his 264th career victory after allowing five hits during a five-inning stint in the opener. Larry Sorensen is 0-2.

Northwood takes series from HC

DALLAS — Mike Serviente tossed a five-hitter and Joe Carrillo rapped a solo home run to lead Northwood Institute to a 3-1 victory and Region V doubleheader sweep here Saturday.

Northwood scored in every inning in winning the opener 7-5. Howard had won the series opener 7-6 Friday as Moe Rubio earned his second straight complete-game victory.

Serviente and John Wilson locked up in a tight pitching duel in the second game. Howard got his lone run in the third inning as Stephon Hodge walked, stole second and came home on one of two hits in the game by Bobby Behusch.

Northwood tied it up in the fourth when Carrillo homered and then got its victory the next inning when catcher Tabb Turner singled in the go-ahead run.

Wilson also tossed a five-hitter in taking the loss. Neither team committed an error in the second game. Howard committed four mistakes in the opener and only one run was earned against pitchers Behusch and Roane Smith.

The teams matched scoring for four innings before Northwood broke a 5-5 tie in the bottom of the fifth. Sam Thielepapp drove in the winning run with a single and NI added an insurance run in the sixth.

Howard's only win in the series came Friday when Rubio scattered 11 hits in nine innings of work.

The Hawks trailed 6-4 until the eighth inning when Billy Mitchell slammed a two-run homer to tie the game. Howard pulled ahead in the ninth when Hodge singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third and came home on a wild pitch.

Howard's potent bats went silent in the three-game set; the Hawks managed just 17 hits in three outings.

Howard is now 25-17-1 for the season and 9-12 in Region V play. The Hawks return home for Thursday single conference game with Hill Junior College.

Zoeller zooms into Heritage Classic lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller came from six shots off the pace with a 65 and moved into a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $350,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

While other leaders faltered, Zoeller beat the swirling winds with a seven-birdie effort, matched the best round of the tournament and completed 54 holes in 204, nine under par.

A single shot back at 205 was Bob Eastwood, a journeyman pro still seeking his first victory in 12 years of tour activity. He managed to salvage a round of par-71 with a 30-foot birdie putt from off the green on the 18th.

Canadian Jim Nelford and Mac O'Grady, who held the second-round lead, were next at 206, two shots back. Nelford had a 70 and O'Grady, who made 17 tries at the qualifying school before gaining his four playing rights last fall, rallied for a 73. He played the front in 40, but birdied three of the last five holes, a stretch that winds down to the red and white lighthouse behind the 18th.

Hale Irwin, twice a winner of this title and a two-time U.S. Open champion, South African Mark McNulty and Mark McCumber were next at 207. McCumber closed up with a 68, Irwin shot par-71 and McNulty 72.

Craig Stadler with 67, David Graham with a 69 and Fred Couples with a 68 were grouped at 208.

Lee Trevino, who once crept to within two strokes of the lead, made bogey on three of the last four and finished with a 72 that left him six strokes off the pace at 210.

"The key to it was that I was able to hit the ball solid and the wind didn't bother it so much," Zoeller said.

Of equal importance, however, was the return of his putting touch, Zoeller said.

"I've been flirting with it for some time. Today, it was there. The hole just seemed to jump in front of the ball."

"I'm a streak putter. I just hope I can keep it going tomorrow."

Zoeller, who has won only once since taking the 1979 Masters title, scoffed at any hint of pressure in Sunday's final round of the chase for a $63,000 first prize.

WHY DIDN'T THAT THING GO IN? — Fuzzy Zoeller of New Albany, Ind., watches a birdie putt miss on No. 17 at the Heritage Golf Classic Saturday afternoon. Enough putts did fall for Zoeller as he grabbed the third round lead of the $350,000 event.

"Pressure? What's pressure? What the hell, I'll just go play golf and try to enjoy it. You just have to wait for it to happen. If it's my turn, fine. If not, there's always another tournament."

"It's fun to beat such a great golf course," Zoeller said of the 6,650-yard Harbour Town Golf Links.

Cooper teams win 4-5A golf

SAN ANGELO — "It's hard to get very excited when the state champion from last year is in your district."

Those words came from Big Spring High golf coach Howard Stewart after watching the Cooper Cougars run away with their fourth straight District 4-5A golf title here Friday afternoon.

The Cougar No. 1 team fired a 306 while the No. 2 team carded a 325 to qualify both Cooper teams for the regional tournament the first week of May in Lubbock.

Big Spring fired a 380 on the final leg of the five-stop district tour and finished 12th among 16 teams.

Jeff Reed returned to early season form when he fired an 82 to pace the BSHS No. 1 team. Other scores were Scott Underwood 99, Ronnie Martinez 99, Rory Worthan 100 and John Rodriguez 101. Underwood, Rodriguez and Worthan are seniors while Martinez is a junior and Reed a sophomore.

The No. 2 team finished 15th after Abilene High's No. 2 team was disqualified. Jaime Hernandez paced the Steers with an 86. Other scores were Mark Gutierrez 94, Joe Trevino 97, Marc Couch 109 and Robert Gilbert 110. Hernandez is a sophomore while the other four players are freshmen.

"I played a lot of the younger golfers which I think should help us next year," Stewart said.

Kyle Coody, son of PGA touring pro Charles Coody of Abilene, won the medalist race, firing a 290 to edge teammate Bob Estes by one stroke. Cooper had the top five golfers — all members of their No. 1 team. The top non-Cougar golfer was Bobby Bechtold of Permian.

In addition to winning the district title for the fourth consecutive year, Cooper is sending both its league entries to regionals for the third straight year. CHS is the defending state champion.

Stars tip Invaders

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Kelvin Bryant broke off runs of 45 and 37 yards late in the first half as Philadelphia built a 10-0 lead, and the Stars went on to a 17-7 United States Football League victory over the Oakland Invaders Saturday.

Bryant, the rookie from North Carolina, finished with 118 yards rushing and increased his league-leading total to 713 yards. He set up David Trout's 39-yard field goal with the 45-yard run, his longest as a pro, and scored on the 37-yard dash.

Bryant had just three yards in the opening quarter, but he added 99 in the second. On the 45-yard run, he was stopped behind the line of scrimmage near the left sideline, broke a tackle as he reversed his field, and was finally brought down on the right sideline at Oakland's 25-yard line.

The Stars, whose 6-1 record is the best in the USFL, allowed a touchdown for the first time in three weeks when Fred Besana passed to Wyatt Henderson on an 18-yard scoring play late in the third period.

The Invaders, playing at home for only the second time, fell to 3-4 with the loss.

Coahoma runs well at meet

WALL — Coahoma picked up three second places and recorded seasonal bests in several other events at a regional qualifiers meet here Friday.

Julie Narin ran a 12.77 to finish second in the 100 meters while Tobie Henry sped to a 59.34 in the 400 meters for runner-up finish behind rival Dawn Carroll of Anson who won in 49.1. Vickie Buchanan tossed the discus 119-8 for second and sophomore high jumper Becky Creech soared over 5-3 to finish second to LeeAnn Runion of Robert Lee.

Coahoma finished third in team standings behind 4-A Sweetwater and Hamlin.

The sprint relay ran a 52.5, 800 relay a 1:55.9 and 1,600 relay at 4:19.0 but none of the foursomes could make the finals. The 1,600 relay time topped last year's regional best.

Individually, Jana Higgins went over 5-0 for the first time in the high jump but didn't place. Henry didn't do well in the long jump but went a personal best 35-6 in the triple jump. That was good for only third place with Sharon Williams of Colorado City taking second in 36-1/2.

Jana Griffin ran a 2:35.3 but didn't place in the 800 while Narin took fourth in the 200 with a 26.42. Mary Bolden of Hamlin won in 25.49.

Coahoma, the District 6-AAA champ, runs at the Region I-AAA meet beginning Friday in Odessa.

Understanding family helped Shell return to school, sports

She is better than Jackson as the total athlete. After a year's layoff, she returned to volleyball and although she struggled for most of the year, she flashed signs of brilliance around the net with her great leaping ability.

Next came basketball. Not only did she lead the Lady Steers in scoring and to the team's first winning season ever, she won all-district and all-South Plains honors. Her quickness, vertical jump and court-speed drew the attention of Howard College coach Don Stevens. With his flock of Hawk Queens graduating, he needed new talent. Rutledge became his first recruit.

Before she plays basketball — hoping to avoid the shadow of Neil Haskins and others, she's running track one more time. After having her disqualification in the 200 meters reversed, she sped to a 24.9 clocking in the prelims and won the finals with a 25.1. Her first time was her best since her freshman year.

She also qualified in the long jump and ran legs on both regional-qualifying sprint and 800-meter relay teams.

The top 200-meter runner returning to Lubbock next week, she is the favorite to advance to Austin. Does that make things easier? "No. It's something that won't come very easy," she says.

If she does make it to the state 5-A meet in Memorial Stadium, it will be the end of a long road back.

A Big Spring native, Rutledge and her family were moved east by the Air Force after her seventh grade year. Finding little or no girls' athletics in North Carolina, she left her family in Goldsboro and moved back to Texas to live with her sister. The arrangement worked out nicely until January of 1981 when she learned she was pregnant.

Only her immediate family knew and she finished out the school year with only a few rumors going around school. Why did she continue playing basketball — she was Sophomore of the Year — and running track? "I didn't let that affect me," she says, smiling.

"It didn't make sense for me not to run track. It's something that I like to do and I just kept on."

She had her baby, Courtney, in Goldsboro that September. With the encouragement of her family, she came back to school. "My parents said there was no need to quit school," she recalls. "A lot of girls make a mistake. I just wanted to start where I had left off."

What was the reaction of her friends and teammates? "They were in shock," she grins. "They thought they knew but when I left I still wasn't showing."

The slender athlete ballooned to 146 pounds during the height of her pregnancy but had no trouble getting back into shape when she started basketball. "It wasn't hard," she says. "I had to take it easy at first but it wasn't hard playing."

The hardest part of all is spending her non-school hours without her little girl. "It's hard, hard to go back," she says of leaving North Carolina on her vacation visits. "We just start getting used to each other and then I have to go."

The story has had a happy ending, one that keeps getting better all the time. Her father has retired from the Air Force and her family is moving back to Big Spring. "I've been away from home for five years," she says, "and now I'll have a chance for me and my little girl to be back together and get to know each other."

Tops on her list this week, however, will be the regional meet in Lubbock. "I've just made up my mind that I'm going to do my best and go to state," she says. And although her presence on the Lady Steer track team has been magnified by both her talents, the girls remain a close-knit group. "They kid me but we're all friends. We're like one big family."

LET ME SHOW YOU — Janice Shaw looks over her father's shoulder as he demonstrates a method in jewelry design to her. Her father, Fred Tatum, has taught and practiced the Lost Wax Art Method of jewelry design for 43 years as his profession. Janice was her father's last student and now works beside him in his business.

Ancient method isn't lost yet

By TINASTEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Most jewelry Janice Shaw wears are her contemporary creations, including her new wedding band. For two years, Janice has designed and cast jewelry using the Lost Wax Art Method her father taught her at his business, Fred Tatum's Custom Jewelry.

"I moved from Houston two years ago in August," she said. In Houston, Janice was a full time housewife who helped with her ex-husband's mobile home contracting business when needed. She came to Big Spring following her divorce and was more than ready for life's new directions.

Tatum has practiced jewelry design for 43 years and taught the craft at Howard College and in Lubbock. "He had stopped teaching regularly by the time I moved here," Janice said. "But when I moved here and got interested in it, he said he would train me and that I was his last student."

"I turned 65 and they (college deans) didn't want to put me on a contract basis," Tatum said. "The deans of the college wanted it (jewelry design) in the art department. Paintings are art. This is a profession. I couldn't get enough students interested in it and it wasn't a regular course."

"I hadn't had direct experience with jewelry," Janice said. "I grew up around it and played with it when I visited Dad. I still consider it playing with it although it's my profession now."

"IT'S VERY CREATIVE. I can take something like this (pieces of broken gold jewelry) and make it into a beautiful ring," she said.

The Lost Wax method is not a new thing, Janice says. "It started about 500 B.C. and almost got to be a lost art. My father started doing it 43 years ago, and no one else was doing it here then. It was hard to sell people on it because they were not familiar with it. Everything was stamped back then."

Because of the tools and fire, Janice believes the craft is an unusual occupation for women. The profession requires imagination and manual dexterity, which women are good at, she says. "It came real easy for me," she said. "I guess I have a knack for it. I got interested in it and love it. How many people do you know get paid for what they love doing?"

Janice and Tatum's other students learned the skill in one year. Tatum trained about 1,000 students, Janice said. Out of those, two learned the skill well enough to make it a profession. She was one of them.

However, a difference lies between her and the other students. "When he taught students how to use the torches, they built windmills and derricks to learn to use the heat," she said. "When I started I was making customers' jewelry."

THE DESIGN BEGINS by picking out a wax model of the ring to be made. The model is stuck on a sprue base and enclosed in a flask. The investment, a plaster of paris-like substance, is mixed and poured into the flask while still liquid. After the investment has hardened overnight, the sprue base is removed and the flask is put into a furnace and baked at 1,200 degrees F. for three to six hours.

The heat is then turned down to 1,000 degrees. During this baking process, the wax model burns away leaving a hardened mold where the model was. Once the flask is ready, it is placed on the casting machine which works on centrifugal force. The machine is wound up. A crucible holding gold pieces is placed next to and touching the flask. The gold is melted with the torch at 1,900 degrees F. Once melted, a mechanism is tripped and the casting machine begins spinning, thus forcing and packing the gold into the mold and all of its crevices.

While the flask is hot it is quipped below cool water. This sets up an explosion that breaks the investment away from the casting. Afterwards, black oxidation is stripped from the casting. The casting is filed and polished and stones are mounted.

"The process is easy for Janice, but for some they have a hard time with it," she says. "Maybe they are afraid of the high temperatures, I guess, and get nervous. Being nervous, they don't have the confidence to go on with it. I learned as I went along and watched Dad carefully."

JANICE PLANS to continue her profession in jewelry design "as long as I can sit behind a bench." She recently married Walt Shaw, a real estate salesperson. She says she doesn't have children at home and doesn't see wasting time there when she could be doing something productive and enjoyable. So she is in business with her father.

Janice prefers wearing unique non-traditional jewelry pieces. She made her and her husband's wedding rings and has kept the rubber mold so it cannot be copied. For rings that are to be duplicated, a rubber mold is used instead of a plaster-type investment mold.

"My favorite thing to do is doing something no one else has done. It's a challenge," she says, beaming about the thought of a creating original designs. "A lot of people like having a ring that no one has one like it."

CLOSE-UP DETAIL — Janice must do quite a bit of close-up work in her designing. Using magnifying glasses she is setting a ruby into a ring she made.

Janice has designed jewelry for two years and plans to make it her life's profession.

CPR: The price for ignorance may be a life

WHEN SECONDS COUNT — Robert Eshleman, a physician's assistant at Veterans Administration Medical Center, applies mouth-to-mouth resuscitation cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Eshleman is in the process of training all employees of VAMC the basics of CPR.

By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

What would you do if someone you were talking with suddenly had a heart attack and fell unconscious to the floor?

Or what if you chanced upon someone lying unconscious. Would you panic and stand there helplessly or do you have the basic skills in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation that just might keep someone alive?

Three hundred and seventeen people at Veteran's Administration Medical Center have those basic skills now, thanks to Physician's Assistant Robert Eshleman and several assistants. John Stewart, administrator of VAMC, told Eshleman he wanted everyone in the hospital — that's a staff of 360 people — to know CPR, and Eshleman and his aides immediately undertook the task.

Eshleman has taught several people outside VAMC but has his hands full with the VAMC employees. If a company or business wants the CPR course taught, Eshleman, a certified Affiliate Faculty Member for Basic Cardiac Life Support by the American Heart Association, has several ideas.

FIRST, MANAGEMENT must be willing to purchase a mannequin specially equipped for teaching. The mannequins cost from $1,200 to $2,600. "You must have one in order to do the course," he explains.

Eshleman will then find someone to teach or will teach the course himself. In Big Spring, Gay Engle and Fred Davis of Malone-Hogan Hospital, Eshleman and Mike West of VAMC do 90 percent of the teaching and we're about to get swamped. We need instructors."

Eshleman is a firm believer in teaching the public CPR. He says "It's a fact that every year, one million people have heart attacks." Of that number, 650,000 of them will die, and 350,000 of them die before they ever reach a hospital."

Medical personnel researched those figures in 1978 in Seattle, Wa., and Helsinki, Finland, and asked themselves what would happen to those 350,000 people if more people took basic CPR courses and knew what to do in crisis situations.

THE RESULTS, Eshleman says, were "very interesting." The study revealed that if someone administered CPR within four minutes of an attack, and if paramedics or other health professionals arrived within eight minutes with proper equipment, "there would be a 43 percent increase in the survival rate. That's amazing."

What follows is a step by step outline of basic CPR. These steps are offered only to familiarize readers with CPR, not to substitute for a CPR course.

- If you happen upon someone you believe to be unconscious, determine if the victim is unconscious before doing anything else. Ask "Are you O.K.?" and gently shake the victim. Scream for help.

- If you determine the victim is unconscious, clear his airway. Check for breathing by carefully turning him flat on his back, face up. Place one hand on his forehead, push firmly backward. Place the other hand under the neck near the base of the skull and lift gently.

ly. Place your ear near the victim's mouth and nose. Look at his chest for breathing. Listen for air. Feel for a flow of air against your cheek.

- If the victim is not breathing, keep your hand under the victim's neck. With your other hand, pinch the nostrils closed with your thumb and index finger. Take a deep breath, open your mouth wide and place it around the victim's mouth. Blow air into the victim's mouth in four quick, full breaths. Do not wait for the chest to rise and fall between breaths. Lift your mouth slightly to get fresh air.

- Check for pulse and breathing. Keep the victim's head tipped with your hand on the forehead.

- Place fingertips into groove at side of neck to find pulse. Check at least five seconds and not more than 10 seconds. If the victim has no pulse, and make sure of that, proceed to the next step.

- Kneel on knees at side of victim, next to chest, knees spread about shoulder's width. With your right hand, run your index and middle fingers along the lower edge of the victim's rib cage to the notch at the top of the "V" of the ribs. With your right hand, measure up from tip of sternum by placing middle finger on the sternum and your index finger next to it.

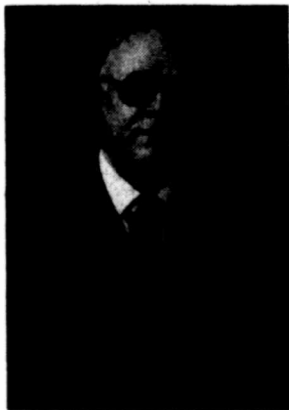

- Place heel of left hand on the breastbone next to index finger of right hand. Remove right hand from its position and place it on top of left hand — heels of both hands parallel — fingers laced together and arched back so they don't press on ribs.

- Straighten arms. Lock elbows. Position shoulders directly over hands so thrust will be straight down and you don't press on ribs.

- Push down with your body's weight so breastbone goes down one and a half to two inches for less than one-half second. Smoothly release pressure for same duration. Keep hands in place on chest.

- If there is no pulse and the victim is not breathing, perform 15 compressions, followed by two quick breaths. Don't wait for the chest to fall between breaths.

Giles Cox to visit local Civitans

GILES COX ...to visit locally

Civitan International Vice President Giles Cox will visit the Big Spring Civitan Club at a special membership meeting in the Patio Room of the Holiday Inn Tuesday.

Cox will discuss happenings in Civitan International. He is a member of the Civitan International Board and the International representative of Civitans in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Cox has been a member of Civitan since May, 1971, and is a member of the Broken Arrow, Oklahoma club. He has held numerous offices.

He retired from Standard Oil Company July 1, 1980, after 32 years of service. He is serving his second year of a two-year term as International Vice President.

Make fresh greens last longer

Make fresh greens such as parsley, dill, scallions, etc., last longer with the "flower method," suggests a tip from home economists. Stick them in a jar with a little water, cover loosely with a plastic bag and refrigerate.

- Begin cycle again. Check for breathing and pulse after first minute and every few minutes thereafter.

OF COURSE, this is a sketchy definition of the process — one which must be taught by a certified CPR instructor. Eshleman would like to see everyone take the course, because different methods apply for person's different ages, and the technique must be learned in a class.

"It's a simple procedure," he adds. "You can make it fun, or you can make it boring."

Eshleman would like to see area churches offer the courses. They could invite the public in and the CPR program could grow, he says.

Eshleman has been involved in CPR for 15 years. He served in the Army 27 years and was a member of the medical corp. He retired as chief warrant officer in the medical corp in 1979. He is a graduate of Baylor University, served in Vietnam, was stationed in Germany and Korea, and was assigned to the VAMC in Knoxville, Iowa, before being sent to Big Spring in 1981.

Eshleman is excited about training the staff of VAMC because "No one has done it before." He and his aides are 60 people short of that goal now, and they hope to complete the task in the next two months.

"No one has ever failed my class," Eshleman said. "I don't like to talk about failure when you're talking about life and death situations. Even if you don't do anything in class you still learn something. There are only eight basic steps."

Although no one fails, Eshleman will only certify people who successfully complete the course. "You've got to show us you can do it," he says. "If we fail to teach people correctly, someone will die."

But Eshleman likes to take the pressure off in the classes, and allows as much time as is needed to get the procedure down correctly.

He says with a smile that he and assistant Mike Wyant practiced the proper procedures 31 times before being certified. "We'll make people go through it again and again. It's fun. Everyone is scared when they come in. We tell them 'Don't be scared, just do it.'"

ESHLEMAN HAS proof that his courses are worth the time. One student took the course, then a few weeks later returned home to find her husband unconscious on the floor. She administered CPR and her husband regained consciousness.

When reporting back to Eshleman, she said "I'm so proud," and Eshleman replied "I'm proud of you." "It works, certainly. We know it works," he said.

Birds, flowers nature of club program

"Birds and Flowers" was the program topic presented by Mrs. J.O. Murphy at the Planters Garden Club meeting April 6.

Mrs. Murphy showed slides of birds and wild flowers from Texas and Colorado.

Mrs. M.F. Hodnett was a guest.

Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales and Mrs. Paul Guy reported on the council meeting. The group discussed how garden clubs might help beautify the town.

Brothers prepare for nursing careers

Did you know that JONATHAN BAYLON and REUBEN BAYLON, sons of MR. AND MRS. FRANCISCO BAYLON of Route 3, received their epaulets at Southwestern Adventist College's annual nurses' capping and dedication service recently? The ceremony marks the beginning of their preparation for a life of service.

HAROLD AND DORIS CANNING are getting more anxious by the day. Their son, BARRY, and his wife MARIE are expecting a baby in the early fall. Marie, the former Marie Homeyer, was an employee at the Herald a couple of years ago.

For those of you who remember AUDREI POLO, formerly of Big Spring, she won the Miss Talent U.S.A. title in a national competition held in Monroe, La., April 2. The 15-year-old sophomore at Highland Park High School in Dallas competed against girls between the ages of 15 and 26.

The young vocalist is the daughter of Dallas stockbroker, GINIE POLO, and the granddaughter of local residents, MR. AND MRS. T.R. MORRIS.

The 1983 edition of "Who's Who In Music" will feature three students from Coahoma High School. They are KATHI WALLIS, SHANNA CALLAWAY and VINCENT H. KINGSLEY.

The students were selected based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential. They join students selected from more than 1,300 schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

ALICE ALLEN of Fort Worth teaches home economics at Texas Christian University. She is the daughter of MR. AND MRS. M.A. LONG, 2909 Navaho. On April 6, she was a featured needlecraft artist in a program put on by the Muarada of Junior Woman's Club.

Some of Alice's work was featured in the March/April issue of Needlecraft For Today on pages 8, 9, 21 and 36. The magazine featured her daughter's nursery she and her husband designed. They wanted a nursery that could grow with daughter ALISA. Nothing changes the room to transform it from a baby's to a little girl's room except the bed and it's canopy. On the latter pages are instructions on how someone can recreate the room.

Not only is Alice an artist, but so is the Long's other daughter FRAN BALLANTYNE of Austin. Fran teaches art in the Austin Public Schools and pursues an art career on the side.

Fran was featured in the Texas Homes magazines once for her textile work on antique fabrics, laces and notions. She uses these things as paint and her sewing machine as a brush to produce a unique contemporary art form of "applied art," the magazine says. "By combining mundane objects into a meaningful statement, she conveys an imaginative vision of the world," says Susan M. Ridgway, the article's author.

Some of Fran's earliest memories are of sitting in her mother's sewing room stitching scraps of fabric as a way of portraying things around her. She has a fine arts degree from Texas Tech University in Lubbock and has studied at University of Texas in Austin.

Classics, fiction are at book fair

St. Mary's Episcopal School will host a student book fair from April 18 to 20. Students will be able to browse and purchase books. The book fair will be open from 9 a.m. to noon. Books will be displayed in the library.

The book fair committee invites students, parents and visitors to attend the fair. Profits will be used for purchasing new books for the library.

The Friend's of St. Mary's is sponsoring the event. Donna Terry will serve as book chairman.

The book fair will display new books from many major publishers. Among them will be classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, crafts, mystery and reference books. The

Homemakers get recipes for cleaning items

"Cleaning on a Shoestring" was discussed by members of the Coahoma Extension Homemakers Club when they met April 13.

Naomi Hunt, county extension agent, told members how to make soft soap and glass cleaner from items in the house.

Mrs. Elmer Lindsey attended as a visitor.

The next meeting will be at 11:30 a.m. May 11 in the home of Frances Mason.

ENGAGING IDEAS

Diamonds are still the most popular stones for engagement rings, but birthstones are also a popular choice. Traditional birthstones are: garnet (January), amethyst (February), aquamarine (March), diamond (April), emerald (May), pearl (June), ruby (July), carnelian (August), sapphire (September), opal (October), topaz (November), turquoise (December).

Tradition does not call for the engaged woman to give her fiance an engagement gift, but it is often done. The customary gift is jewelry: cufflinks, keychain, tieclip, or watch. A signet ring, with his birthstone, can also be given.

Engagement gifts are traditionally given only by relatives and not by friends. Etiquette dictates that (unlike shower gifts) the engagement gift by personal, rather than utilitarian. A gift to an engaged person can be made personal by having it engraved or monogrammed, but be absolutely sure it's something wanted, since you won't be able to return it.

Words of comfort

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old son was killed in a tragic accident seven months ago, and I am just now beginning to come out of my numbness and shock. Throughout the ordeal, friends, family and acquaintances tried to comfort me. Some succeeded, while other failed miserably.

The following comments are words that did not help at all. I realize that everyone was trying to be kind, but there are certain words bereaved parents do not want to hear:

1. "I know just how you feel. I lost my mother, father, husband, brother, sister, etc." These words are so hollow to a parent who has lost a child. Unless they have suffered the loss of a child, there is no way on earth they can know how you feel.

2. "It was God's will." I am no more (or less) religious than the average person, but if it was "God's will" to take my son at 14 and end his young life, then I want no part of a God who could be so cruel.

3. "God needed him more than you did." How inadequate that made me feel, as though something was lacking within myself. If I had needed him more, would he still be alive?

4. "These things happen for a reason." What reason? There is no reason good enough to explain why I had to suffer the loss of my child.

5. "You can have another child," or "At least you have your other children." This is really cold and cruel. Children are individuals and no child can replace the child who has died.

Now for some words that comforted me: a simple and heartfelt, "I'm so sorry." Many people hugged me, held my hand or cried with me. No words were spoken, but they were there for me when I needed them.

Texas Gardener tips

Tatume is tasty squash

Tatume is a little known squash with a great taste. It probably originated in Mexico, but its seed has been sold in the United States for at least 20 or 25 years.

The squash, which has been described as a "round zucchini type," is now planted widely in Texas and Mexico. It's about time you tried it in your home garden.

Don't worry if you're one of those people who can't stand the sight of another zucchini; the flavor of tatume is different. Its white meat has a buttery and slightly nutty taste, and has been known to make squash eaters out of people who thought they didn't like squash.

The squash itself is egg-shaped with a blunt blossom end. White streaks mark the pale green skin, which is so tender that you don't need to peel it.

Tatume is a vining squash which produces an abundance of foliage that shades the fruit. Plant it in the hills as you would any other squash. If possible, keep it watered during dry weather. Drought will reduce the vine's productivity and life. Since the vines grow rampantly, you should try tying them to a fence or trellis if your garden space is limited.

Founder's Day celebration discussed

Beta Sigma Phi Founder's Day celebration was discussed at the recent meeting of the Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The group met in the home of Barbara Kennedy.

Several local Beta Sigma Phi chapters will participate in Founder's Day, to be held April 28. Alpha Kappa Omicron is in charge of programs for the event.

It was announced that a photography company will be in town May 14 to take family portraits of families purchasing tickets. Donna Newell is in charge of sales.

Connie Edgemon of the Mu Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was welcomed as a guest.

The next meeting will be in the home of Connie Edgemon. It will be a Ritual of Jewels for Susan Hester.

Your first squash should be ready to harvest in about 50 to 60 days. Search carefully, since the leaves may obscure the fruit. Harvest tatume while the skin is still light-colored and shiny. Although tatume squashes are the grocer's shelves are often 2 or 3 inches long, you can safely let them grow to 3 or 4 inches in your home garden for most uses. When the skin toughens and darkens and the seeds become large, though, you'll know you've left the squash on the vine too long.

Tatume is a succulent-meated squash which can be cooked just like any other squash, and it is delicious battered and fried. And last but not least of the points in its favor, you'll be amazed at the beauty of your own, homegrown, fresh-from-the-garden tatume squash.

Any outlet that sells ESCO Ltd. seeds or Lone Star Seed Company seeds should carry tatume squash. Or, if you want to mail order it, Porter & Son, Seedsmen (Stephenville, TX) carry it in their catalog.

Aiding muscles

Dear Dr. Donohue: How about some exercises one can use for strengthening back muscles? — J.J.

There are many exercises and variations of each, but here are a couple for starters. (Strengthening back muscles is a good idea for most sports, incidentally, because by doing that you take some of the pressure off the back bones and discs of the spine.)

One exercise is done lying on the floor with your knees bent. As you are in this position, tighten your abdominal muscles as you hold your back flat against the floor.

Another one also begins with the back against the floor. With both hands on one knee bring the knee up as close as you can to your chest. Then return the leg to the floor and exercise the other knee the same way.

I don't know whether you have any existing spinal problems or not, J.J. But I advise you, if you are having symptoms of one, to be examined before you start "strengthening" your back.

Dear Dr. Donohue: In an earlier article you stated that shoveling snow can place 15 times the stress on the heart that is normally imposed on it. How about weightlifting, which you also frequently discuss? I am 29 and my blood pressure is normal. Are there dangers in me lifting weights? Do weightlifters die sooner than nonweightlifters? — R.E.C.

Weight training for a person with a normal heart and blood pressure is quite safe, and so, for that matter is shoveling snow. With any kind of exercise, blood pressure normally rises. In the running kinds of exercises, the rise is mostly in the systolic pressure—the first number. In the straining kind, like weightlifting or snow shoveling, the rise tends to be in both systolic and diastolic.

The double rise in people with heart or blood pressure problems can be too much of a stress. And, of course, with snow shoveling, other factors play a part — coldness, for example. I have no knowledge of weight lifters dying sooner than those who do not lift weights.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you explain the method for determining body fat by using measurements of the biceps muscles? I read of this somewhere, but have forgotten the details, and now I need to get some decent idea of the fat I'm carrying around with me. — J.G.

To do this, you measure the distance around the bicep muscle (the upper arm). Do it first with the muscle relaxed, then with it flexed. If the difference between those two measurements is more than an inch, it means you're not too fat. Another way is to pinch a fold of loose tissue at the back of your upper arm. If the width of the finger pinch is less than a half inch you've got less than 13 percent of your weight in fat. That's not bad.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you discuss the pulse beat as a measure of exercise effectiveness? — Miss F.E.

Your pulse rate is the barometer of your fitness progress. It also tells you at any given time just what kind of shape you are in for your age, weight, etc.

Generally, a good fitness program — running, for example — should result in a lowering of the resting pulse rate, and that is the one you're concerned with in fitness. It should drop by about one point a week in a good training program.

If you think you are in good shape and doubt the need for improvement, you can take a simple test to confirm your thinking. Just walk briskly for five minutes. If your pulse rate is more than 100 beats per minute when taken 10 minutes after you have finished your walk, you had better do some rethinking about your physical condition. You need to see a doctor before you start any serious exercise program.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Lower prices on new homes

For a lower price on that new home — and to qualify for mortgage loans, home buyers may have to give up luxury frills.
Eliminating such things as a fireplace, patio, sunken tub and a bar will help lower the price.
Some builders offer stripped-down model homes for less. The buyer can finish out or add onto these homes as money becomes available.

By LILA ESTES

Q: Would you explain how builder/seller financing works on a home purchase?

A: Builder/seller financing usually involves what are called interest rate buy-downs, and are most often available through home builders and to some extent, through sellers. A typical interest rate buy-down would involve a builder giving the bank a large lump sum, equal to the difference between monthly payments for, say 18 percent and fifteen percent, for a period of, for example 5 years. On a thirty-year loan, then, you would pay $29 for the first five years, and $94 for the remaining 25. This method could enable a person to qualify for a mortgage for which he might not otherwise qualify. The major problem with interest rate buy-downs is payments are liable to make a substantial jump after a few years.

Office of Consumer Affairs plans 'Consumers Week'

During the week of April 24th, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs is once again sponsoring a "National Consumers Week." Virginia Knauer, Special Assistant to the President and Director, U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs made the following comments concerning consumers and the marketplace.

Shopping in America can be an exciting and rewarding experience. The wide choice open to us buyers excite the eye, show how productive we are as a nation, and serve as testimony to the improvements that have taken place in our marketplace.

We expect all our marketplace transactions to meet our expectations — and most of the time they do. However, there are occasions when they do not because of anything from faulty design to poor packaging to inadequate packaging to nondelivery. Quite naturally, we want to be spared from as many of these disappointing experiences as possible: they take time, they waste money, and they certainly are inconvenient.

The best consumer strategy is to shop carefully. By shopping wisely we prevent problems from occurring. One preventive measure is to buy from a reputable seller. Sometimes this is relatively simple: we know the local merchant or mechanic; he or she has a good reputation. The same holds true with regional and national dealers. Thus, we know one key to defensive buying — reputation — and we know another — the warranty. We should always remember: the better the warranty (from a reputation dealer), the better the consumer protection.

But when something goes wrong, we should show patience and understanding, even though our tempers may motivate us in another direction. I know from years of experience that calm voices generally solve problems more effectively than loud ones. So, the first thing we should do is go back to the point of purchase and calmly discuss the matter.

Generally, this is the only step we have to take. Still, there will be times when this first step does not solve the problem, and we will have to turn to other alternatives. A Consumer's Resource Handbook is available for reference in the Extension office — it shows you private, state, and Federal resources available to solve problems when direct attempts to the local dealer have failed. All of these organizations have complaint-handling systems and the Handbook directs you to sources to help for your individual problem.

In many ways, America's marketplace improves each year. Better public and private complaint systems are part of that improvement. They demonstrate that business and consumers can work together to remedy problems and by continuing to do so we will have an even better marketplace tomorrow.

During the week of April 24th, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs is once again sponsoring a "National Consumers Week." In the Howard County Extension Office, however, we feel like every week is consumers week.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service provides ongoing consumer education through programs, informational publication and youth work. If you haven't taken part in any of these programs or used this service, National Consumers Week might be a good time to find out what we have to offer.

Most importantly, the County Extension Office has the professional staff to help you with consumer questions. The Extension Agents serving Howard County are Don Richardson, Naomi Hunt, Peggy Kalina, and Dennis Poole.

The office is located in the Courthouse basement, and the phone number is 267-6671, 267-1821.

Call or stop by to find out more about Extension educational programs. Contact the County Extension Office.

Howard County Library observes special week

"Go for it! Use your library!" is the theme of National Library Week, which will be observed locally April 17-23, Judith Gray, county librarian, said.

For the first time in several years the Library will open Monday, April 18, and will remain open on Mondays. On hand for the event will be county government officials, friends, members, representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and the media. Old hour signs will be removed and new ones displayed.

Monday will also be the first day of the Library Amnesty program sponsored by Whataburger. This program will continue through April 30. People with overdue books may return them to Whataburger in exchange for a coupon good for a free soft drink. Whataburger employees will return the books to the Library.

Logo bags, balloons, and bookmarks will be distributed as supplies last.

On Friday, April 22, the Silver Tea and Open House is scheduled from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Members of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, the Blue Blazers, will host the festivities.

On Friday and Saturday, Friends of the Library will host a book sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Free Saturday Film Program will feature "People Soup," "What is a Friend," "The Hare and the Tortoise," and "The Wonderful World of Strawberry Shortcake."

GARDEN CEREMONY — Leland and Ruth Graves, 2517 N. Albrook, and H.C. McElyea Jr., Odessa, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Tracie, Houston, to Kurt Willstatter, son of Alfred and Edith Willstatter, Ashland, Ore. The couple will wed May 28 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Robertson, 708 Tulane, with Logan Peterson, Emmanuel Baptist, officiating.

STANTON CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Paige Eiland, Stanton, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Paiga Lou, to Tony Lee Marsh during an open house. Marsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Marsh, Wylie. The couple will wed June 25 in the First Baptist Church in Stanton with the Rev. W.H. Uhlman, Florence, Alabama. Hosting the event was Messrs. and Mmes. Paige Eiland, L.C. Hazlewood Sr., L.C. Hazlewood Jr., Joe Falls.

The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication. If a wedding writup is turned in after the wedding the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding. Writups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

Freezing keeps bread edible

Small families and single people who have difficulty finishing a loaf of bread before it becomes stale should freeze loaves of sliced bread as they come from the store.

It takes only a few minutes for bread slices to thaw. Baked breads will keep much longer than unbaked ones. Baked yeast bread will keep up to six months in the freezer while unbaked yeast breads will keep only one to two weeks.

Women starting businesses

An increasing number of women are becoming entrepreneurs. More than two million women run their own businesses now, and one of every four small businesses is owned by a woman.

Many people start a business so they may have more free time, but soon discover that owning a business often takes more time that a full-time job. The business often comes first.

TONI CHOATE
KATHRYN PERRY

Since people use the term "silver" so casually, we here at THE ACCENT SHOPPE thought you'd like to know there are two forms of table silver — flatware and holloware. You can get them in either sterling silver or silverplate. Flatware means knives, forks and spoons, including those you would use to serve food. Holloware means all dishes, bowls, trays, candlesticks and other serving pieces. As a bride, you're sure to want both flatware and holloware to set a pretty table.
