U.S. Embassy bombed; 28 killed in Beirut blast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A car bomb blew up outside the U.S. Embassy today, and authorities said 28 people were killed and 105 wounded in the fiery blast that collapsed the center section of the seven-story building. Six U.S. Marines and two U.S. Army soldiers were reported among the dead.

U.S. Marine commander Col. James M. Mead said people were still trapped alive in the rubble and that rescue efforts were under way. U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon was briefly trapped but escaped unharmed, the White House said, calling the attack a "despicable terrorist act."

A police officer on the scene said an estimated 330-pound bomb was hidden in a Lebanese police car and detonated by remote control in the embassy's driveway. There is no fence separating the embassy from the seaside road.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio said a Moslem suicide terrorist drove the car and that it had diplomatic license plates.

A group called Moslem Holy War claimed responsibility, telling the newspaper Al Liwa, "This is part of the Iranian revolution's campaign

BOMB BLAST VICTIM — Rescue workers carry the body of one of the persons killed when a huge bomb ripped through the American Embassy Monday afternoon in Beirut. The bomb collapsed the entire front of the seven-story building, located on the seaside cornice in West Beirut. The blast occurred at 1:05 p.m. local time.

against imperialist targets throughout the world. We shall keep striking at any imperialist presence in Lebanon, including the multinational force." Moslem Holy War has claimed several previous attacks on the multinational force. White House spokesman Larry

Speakes said in Washington that two people wearing U.S. Marine uniforms were among at least 21. See Embassy, page 2A

Finance committee okays Texas budget

$29 billion state budget cuts spending by $2.4 billion

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has approved a $29 billion state budget that avoids new tax increases and pares 1984-85 spending by about $2.4 billion.

Committee Chairman Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, said after the 9-0 vote Sunday night that the new budget would be "pretty inadequate" for state spending in several areas, including prisons, teacher salaries, highways and social services.

Jones, reflecting strong sentiment in the Senate that a tax increase is needed, said that the recommended budget is "probably a bit regressive in the level of public services."

Members of the Legislative Budget Board were to begin adding up the exact figures contained in the legislation today.

Like the House Appropriations Committee, the Senate panel decided to hold the line on teacher pay raises, providing the 9-percent average increase already built into salary schedules.

Another major Senate cut came in the Texas Department of Corrections budget, which the budget board had recommended for $798 million, a reduction of at least $80.6 million.

The committee trimmed salary increases for state employees and university faculty to four percent in each of the 1984 and 1985 budget years to save an estimated $228 million.

The committee earlier had agreed to set the increase at 4.5 percent for 1984 and 5 percent for 1985, and the Legislative Budget Board had recommended 6 percent raises in each year.

The House Appropriations Committee, which also worked Sunday evening, has made deeper cuts, setting state employee raises at 4½ percent for 1984 and nothing for 1985.

The reduction in the TDC budget parallels reform legislation that would reduce prison spending by relying more on rehabilitation programs and less on incarceration.

Agreeing to a suggestion from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, the Senate committee planned to meet today to consider what to include in a new section and possibly two new sections of the standard appropriations bill that won't be funded unless a tax increase is approved by the Legislature.

Among the items under consideration in the new section are additional salary increases for state employees and a boost in public school teacher salaries.

The recommended budget assumes that Comptroller Bob Bullock will not revise his tax revenue estimate again.

Mrs. Bill Read dead at 55

COAHOMA — Mrs. Bill (Marshallene) Read, 55, died at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in a Temple, Texas hospital after an illness. Services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Don Parker, minister of Coahoma Church of Christ, officiating. Graveside services will be at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at Round Mound Cemetery northeast of Abilene.

She was born Nov. 4, 1927 in Shackelford County. She married Bill E. Read Aug. 31, 1947 in Abilene. She graduated from Abilene High School and Draughan's Business College. They moved to Coahoma in April of 1961. She assisted her husband in chartering the Coahoma State Bank. She also founded and was past owner of Coahoma Insurance Agency. She was a member of Coahoma Church of Christ where she was a Bible class teacher for many years. She was past president of 1941 Study Club, past officer of Cactus Chapter of Abilene American Business Women's Association.

She is survived by her husband; one son, Eddie Read of Austin; one daughter, Mrs. Don (Misha) Harris of Garland; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ray of Clyde; one sister, Marida Whatlington of Snyder and two grandchildren.

GTE rate hike hearing begins

AUSTIN — Several General Telephone Co. customers brought their telephone "nightmares" to the Public Utility Commission Monday for the start of a hearing on the company's request for an $85.5 million increase in annual revenues.

"I have never met a customer with good service," said Carol Foster, a real estate agent from the Crosby area in Southeast Texas. Mrs. Foster led off the fairly short list of complaining customers by saying, "My experience with General Telephone has been a nightmare. My telephone very rarely operates."

- Her complaints included:
- Too much line noise for normal conversations.
  - Required repair service calls at least two or three times a week since January.
  - A morning ritual of trying at least 8 times to get a dial tone.
  - Complaints by clients who can't reach her by phone for hours or days at a time. She added that her husband works for St. Regis Paper Co. "They have standing orders for an employee to come and get my husband when there's a problem at the plant. They can't depend on the phones."

Customer complaints opened the hearing, which is expected to take about 10 days. Testimony on the financial condition of the company was expected to take up most of the hearing time.

Last week the PUC staff recommended an annual revenue increase of about $31 million.

The San Angelo-based phone company serves about 800,000 Texas customers in counties scattered across the state. It is asking for increases in the cost of basic residential phone service ranging from 20 to 50 percent. The company received a $46.8 million rate increase last June.

Magnet school sign-up goes well

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Pre-registration for places in the new Bauer Magnet School extended day program went so well last week that students had to be placed on a waiting list pending openings, according to Big Spring school district Superintendent Lynn Hise.

Total figures today showed the district had signed up 235 students from schools other than Bauer for the program scheduled to begin in the fall.

However, the Bauer campus can only hold about 130 of those students in addition to those already attending the school, Hise said. Capacity for the school is estimated at about 300. According to the district's last enrollment report, 171 students currently attend Bauer.

Extended day registration for students already attending Bauer will be the week of April 25-29, according to Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator.

The remaining students for other schools are relegated to waiting for an opening in the program which features enrichment programs in academics, fine arts. See Bauer, Page 2-A

Library begins Monday hours

Quietly and unassuming, without fanfare, the Howard County library opened today for its first Monday. In celebration of National Library Week, the staff held a brief ceremony on the library steps to signify the new hours.

As Head Librarian Judith Gray replaced the old sign with a new one showing the Monday hours, the staff and a small crowd applauded. Mrs. Gray said the public had been demanding the Monday opening for some time.

"This has been a long time in coming," Mrs. Gray said. "We finally were able to get the money in the budget to do it."

Mrs. Gray invited everyone to attend Friday's Silver Tea and Open House at the library from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Sheriff's Log

2 Odessans injured in one-car accident

Two Odessa residents were injured Sunday in a one-car accident on Interstate 20, according to the Department of Public Safety. Trooper Dean Richardson said 47-year-old James T. Morgan was passing another vehicle on the right west of Big Spring when his vehicle struck the railroad bridge commonly known as "Chicken Bridge."

One passenger, Anita M. Kelley, 17, was also hospitalized with Morgan. Both are in satisfactory condition, according to a hospital spokeswoman. Two other passengers, John Doyle Elledge, 25, and Robin J. Smith, 17, were not injured.

Richardson said charges are expected to be brought against the driver.

Jerry Wallace Harvill of Caldwell was arrested by Bryan law enforcement officials in connection with two Howard County warrants for theft of service and issuance of bad checks. Harvill posted $6,000 bonds to be released.

Kevin Jay Patterson, 23, of 1501 A Wood remains in Howard County jail after sheriff's deputies arrested him Friday on two county warrants of driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended. County Judge Milton Kirby refused bond for Patterson.

Two persons remain in county jail under $10,000 bond each after their arrest by police earlier this week for suspicion of theft over $200. Donald Ray Jenkins, 33, and Alvin Andrew Jenkins, 39, both of Lamesa, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Helfin.

James Edward Scott, 43, of Amarillo is in county jail under $5,000 bond after his arrest by police for suspicion of injury to a child. Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt set bond at $5,000.

George R. Mulvihill, 50, of San Antonio posted two bonds of $200 each in connection with charges of no drivers license and no insurance.

Terry Kinsey, 23, of Sterling City Route posted $500 bond to be released after his arrest by police on a warrant of theft by checks. Bond was set by Daratt.

C-City cheerleaders chosen

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado High School cheerleaders for the 1983-1984 school year were chosen this week by Angelo State Cheerleaders.

Senior student Robyn Turner will be head cheerleader. Juniors Traci Blackwell, Stacy Free and Denise Gregory and sophomores Yvonne Luman and Carmen Longley completed the roster.

Laura Baum returns for a second year as "Sluefoot," the Colorado City High mascot.

"We've set a precedent with cheerleading at CHS," said sponsor Kitten Arthur. "We have a young group this year, but it's a very talented group and I'm sure our past excellence will carry over in our new squad."

Youth serves 15 days for not saying 'yes sir'

HOUSTON (AP) — A teen-ager walked out of jail after serving half of a 30-day sentence for failing to answer "Yes, sir," to a judge.

Michael Anthony Washington, 19, was released from the Harris County Jail Sunday. The Texas Court of Civil Appeals in Austin ordered Washington to be released Thursday on a $100 personal recognizance bond pending an appeal of the sentence.

But jail officials refused to release the teen-ager until they received written permission from the court. Sheriff Jack Heard said the notice arrived Sunday afternoon.

Washington's lawyer, Walter Gill, contended his client should have been released when the sheriff received oral confirmation from the appeals court.

"I think you should give the high court credit. It's word is good," Gill said.

State District Judge Michael McSpadden ordered Washington to serve 30 days in jail March 30 after the defendant, who pleaded guilty to burglary and received a probation sentence, answered "Yeah" instead of "Yes, sir," to the judge's questions.

C-City regulates alcohol sales

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council last week approved an ordinance which will regulate the sale of alcoholic beverages within the city limits.

Voters in Mitchell County Precinct 3, which takes in part of Colorado City, recently approved the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption.

"We have adopted the provision in our code wherein the city states that no place that sells alcoholic beverages can be located within 300 feet of a church, public school or public hospital," City Attorney Pete McKinney said.

"That is our option and is not required by the state; however, we did have that option and adopted it," he said.

To date, four applicants have received applications requesting licenses to sell alcoholic beverages in Precinct 3.

PET THERAPY — Mae Champlin chats with Shannon Petit, 4, while petting a puppy at the Bell Haven Nursing Center in Killeen. The program of bringing animals into the nursing center began 1½ ago and therapy sessions allow residents a change from routine.

Pets break routine for elderly

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — Thursday was a special day for Rachel Purdin as her hands, trembling with age, stroked the Italian greyhound puppy sleeping on her lap.

The 83-year-old Bell Haven Nursing Center resident sat in a corner of the recreation area as she waited her turn to hold the petite dogs during the center's weekly "pet therapy" program.

"She responds more to animals than to anything else," Jane Ziesmer, activity director, said. "She smiles, talks to them and cuddles them."

Owner Richard Goforth carried one of the 4-week-old puppies from lap to lap as eager hands touched and stroked the dogs' velvety backs.

Paws, an elderly statesman of a cat, nonchalantly glanced from a basket in a pushcart. However, the 17-year-old cat received its own share of attention when it was scooped from the basket and its taffy-colored fur was ruffled by residents.

"The thing I like most is it brings out those smiles," Mrs. Ziesmer said.

After Paws and the dogs finished being adored in the recreation room, volunteers took the animals to individual rooms for bedridden residents.

"He's a dang little bitty old thing," Jesse Brown commented about the tiny dog whose body filled his hands.

"Here, take it back so I won't lose it," Brown said as he returned the puppy.

The program in the Killeen nursing center began 1½ years ago, Judy McClelland-Sherman said.

A member of the Fun-Tier Kennel Club of Greater Killeen, Mrs. McClelland-Sherman has brought everything from great danes and rabbits to a baby opossum into the volunteer program.

The animals are screened for health problems and diseases, and are selected for an amiable disposition toward being handled by strangers, Mrs. McClelland-Sherman said.

The only bad incident besides an occasional housebreaking problem was a rabbit nibbling a resident's sleeve, she said.

Another time, a resident made arrangements for a friend to bring a lamb during the therapy session without warning the coordinators, Mrs. McClelland-Sherman said.

"One day, I had my horse in a horse trailer outside and one of the residents said, 'Oh, my gosh, is she going to bring that in here?'" Mrs. Ziesmer said.

The therapy session allows residents a change from routine and gives them a choice of whether to hold the animal or not participate, Mrs. Ziesmer said.

"In a nursing home, everything is a routine. You have to eat at a certain time, take your medicine at a certain time. My job in the activity department is to give them some freedom of choice and variety," Mrs. Ziesmer said.

Officials at the Olin E. Teague Veteran's Center in Temple are interested in starting a similar therapy project, creative therapist Serena Johnson said.

However, volunteers are needed to bring the animals to the hospital's domiciliary and nursing home.

"If we've got support, we'd love to do it. The patients had been asking about it," Ms. Johnson said.

Many nursing home residents are from a rural background, and miss having exposure to animals, Mrs. Ziesmer said.

The sight of the animals sparks memories of the past and often starts conversations on animal-raising advice, Mrs. Ziesmer said.

One resident recalled her own experiences with bottle-feeding Chihuahuas when Goforth showed her his miniature greyhound.

"I raised little puppies and put an ad in the paper. They sold better than chickens," Lou Chappel said.

Embassy

killed in the blast, "but we cannot verify that there are any American dead."

However, doctors at the American University Hospital in Beirut said the morgue had 28 bodies from the blast, including those of six U.S. Marines. U.S. Army Capt. Alfred Martin said two U.S. Army soldiers also were among the dead. They apparently were from a special group helping rebuild the Lebanese army.

Doctors at the hospital reported 105 wounded. Lebanese police reported 28 dead and said 78 were wounded.

The blast at 1:05 p.m. (6:05 a.m. EST) collapsed the entire front of the central wing of the seaside building and blew a large hole through the ground floor visa section in the northern wing.

An Associated Press reporter said the building's center section from the ground to the roof collapsed like a layer cake and a body could be seen dangling from the fifth floor, its arms and legs hanging down and dripping blood.

Two other wings of the embassy were still standing, although they sustained heavy damage. Witnesses at the scene said the explosion was caused by a car bomb in a vehicle parked in the circular driveway or just beside the embassy, in the seaside in west Beirut's predominantly Moslem Ein Mreisseh neighborhood.

Special U.S. envoys Philip C. Habib and Morris Draper were in the presidential palace five miles away at the time of the explosion, but Draper's wife was visiting the embassy and he raced back to the compound to search for her. A U.S. Marine said she was taken to a hospital with cuts on the temple.

A towering cloud of smoke was seen rising from the area of the embassy shortly after the explosion.

A U.S. Marine standing in front of the embassy said, "There is a soldier and some others in there," pointing to a pile of rubble.

'Super unleaded' may mean gasohol

DALLAS (AP) — Texas motorists have been using more gasohol than they think because service stations have been selling the gasoline and alcohol blend from pumps marked super unleaded, officials say.

One result is that the state has lost millions of dollars in revenues since a tax break for gasohol took effect more than a year ago, officials add.

No state law requires pumps to be labeled as gasohol when they contain the mixture instead of gasoline.

"The gasohol that you have today is ... marketed as super unleaded and it's in pumps everywhere. You've been burning it and I've been burning it if we've used super unleaded gasoline in our cars," said Dan Kubiak, a former legislator who sponsored the gasohol tax law two years ago.

Kubiak, of Austin, estimated that about a quarter of all super unleaded fuel sold in the state now is gasohol.

The 5-cent-a-gallon tax break designed to boost the gasohol industry instead has become a windfall for companies who sell the fuel as super unleaded gasoline, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

In 1982, when the tax break went into effect, the sale of gasohol in Texas increased 4,000 percent over the previous year, the Times Herald said. But the booming sales have cost the state millions of dollars in taxes and deprived consumers of price cuts, several officials complain.

"The gasohol that you have today is ... marketed as super unleaded and it's in pumps everywhere. You've been burning it and I've been burning it if we've used super unleaded gasoline in our cars." — Dan Kubiak

"I regret this money is not going to Texas per se. It's keeping gasohol alive here, but it's not benefiting us the way that I wanted it to benefit us when I passed the bill," said Kubiak.

Kubiak and other gasohol promoters predicted the tax break would spawn a homegrown production industry that would give Texas corn and grain farmers a ready market for their crops.

But the beneficiaries have been farmers in the Midwest, where most of the distilling plants are located, said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

"I think the guy that ought to get the marketing award for the year ought to be the guy who said to his boss, 'Let's not call it gasohol; let's call it super unleaded,'" said state Rep. Jim Horn, R-Lewisville.

Gasohol drew national attention during the early 1970s when an Arab oil embargo forced industry to search for alternate sources of fuel. Since alcohol is more expensive than gasoline, states began offering tax exemptions to encourage its production and sale.

Farmers became a strong lobby for the fuel in hopes it would open a new market for their corn and grain. By 1980, Texas and 30 other states had adopted gasohol tax breaks.

Under the Texas law, gasohol must be 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol of at least 192 proof.

For every gallon of gasohol sold, the oil distributor gets a 5-cent credit on his state motor fuels tax bill. The federal government, which also promotes the gasohol industry, kicks in another 5-cent-a-gallon break on the federal motor fuels tax.

For gasoline, the state imposes a 5-cent-a-gallon tax and the federal government a 9-cent tax.

Horn said that when the tax break was being debated in the 1981 Legislature, proponents expected that gasohol would continue to be sold at a separate labeled pump and that distributors would be forced to pass on the tax savings to entice consumers to purchase it.

What they didn't realize was that Texas has no law requiring gasoline dealers to label the pumps or to pass on the tax break, he said.

Horn, who has sponsored a bill requiring gasohol to be labeled, said that while the fuel improves performance in some new cars, it may create carburetor problems in older cars.

"I only want consumers to know what they are buying. Some of them are probably blaming their cars for problems that may be caused by fuel," he said.

Chinese soldiers ambush Vietnamese patrol

PEKING (AP) — Chinese soldiers ambushed a five-man Vietnamese patrol and killed four of them inside China near the Vietnamese border, Radio Peking reported late today.

The radio said Vietnamese "agents" sneaked into China's southwestern Yunnan province, which borders on northern Vietnam, about 2:30 a.m. Sunday to attempt a surprise attack on Chinese positions.

A militia squad ambushed the patrol and killed four of them "in less than one minute in a brilliant ambush," the radio said, adding that the fifth Vietnamese threw down his weapons and fled.

On Saturday and Sunday, the official Xinhua news agency reported earlier, Chinese artillery hammered Vietnamese positions along the border opposite Yunnan province and the neighboring Guangxi province. The radio did not mention any shelling today.

The Vietnamese government protested what it called "violent" artillery shelling of its border posts by China.

The Chinese said the shelling was retribution for "intolerable" Vietnamese firing that killed or wounded at least 14 soldiers and peasants in March, and also was intended to warn Vietnam to stop its battle with Khmer Rouge guerrillas in Vietnamese-occupied Cambodia.

The Chinese Communist Party newspaper, The People's Daily, said the shelling were "both a forceful blow to the arrogance of the Vietnamese authorities and a serious warning against their ambitions of regional hegemonism."

China and Vietnam have been at odds since the 1978 Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia, which toppled the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge regime. China is now a chief backer of the three-party Cambodian coalition formed last year to try to drive out an estimated 180,000 Vietnamese soldiers.

The leader of that coalition, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, plans to fly to Thailand late this month before visiting his followers on Cambodian soil, according to a report today in the English-language Nation Review in Bangkok.

The newspaper gave no further details of Sihanouk's reported trip, which has been rumored in Bangkok since Vietnamese forces launched successful drives against the Cambodian resistance groups along the Thai-Cambodian border on March 31.

Sihanouk spends most of his time in North Korea and China, but has made two trips to Cambodia from Thailand since the guerrilla war against the Vietnamese there began. The coalition he heads includes his own followers, another non-Communist faction and the Communist Khmer Rouge.

Xinhua, in its report about the Chinese artillery fire, said, "The shelling (Sunday) destroyed the enemy's surface fortifications. The Vietnamese position is in a mess." There have been reports of casualties from the shelling.

The Vietnam News Agency, quoting a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, said Chinese artillery shells fell on three Vietnamese provinces Saturday. It said nothing about Sunday's assault.

"The serious incident provoked by the Chinese authorities on April 16 has further worsened the situation on the common border in violation of Vietnam's sovereignty and threatening the security and normal life of Vietnamese citizens," the spokesman was quoted as saying.

On Sunday, Xinhua said, "The Chinese frontier guards in Yunnan were (again) compelled to fire back at the Vietnamese troops." It accused Vietnamese agents of sneaking into Chinese territory and setting fire to more than 1,500 acres of woods, bamboo groves and rubber trees and destroying communication wires and border residents' homes.

"Such wanton provocations have reached intolerable proportions," the People's Daily said. "We warn the Vietnamese authorities: the military provocations and aggression against China must be stopped at once."

The People's Daily said one aim of Vietnam's border provocations was to "tie up China" and divert world attention "to cover up its crimes of aggression in Kampuchea (Cambodia)."

But Vietnam's Foreign Ministry spokesman said, "This trick of thief crying 'stop thief' cannot fool anybody," according to the Vietnam News Agency.

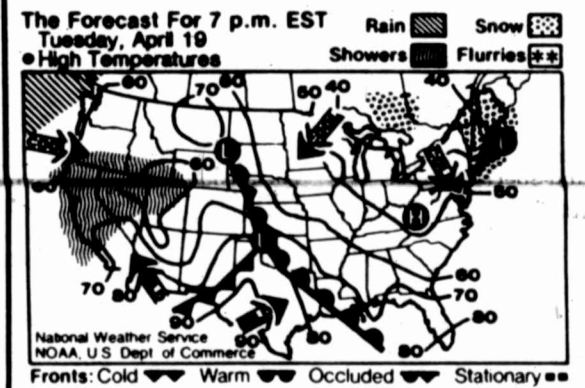

Western military observers predicted China would keep up the pressure on Vietnam until Hanoi pulls back its troops battling the Cambodian guerrillas.

China launched a four-week attack into Vietnam in 1979, calling the action both self-defense against Vietnamese provocations and "teaching a lesson" to Vietnam over its incursion into Cambodia.

FIRE'S AFTERMATH — Two policemen are looking at clothes and shoes left behind by people during a stampede at the exit of a disco club in Taegu Monday while trying to escape from a fire inside the club. Twenty-five people were killed and more than 70 others were injured in the pre-dawn fire.

Fair skies, warmer through the week

By The Associated Press
A high-pressure system centered in the Gulf of Mexico kept skies fair and temperatures mild across Texas today, and warmer readings were forecast for later in the week.

The system kept dry northwest air flowing into the Lone Star State, with only a small area of partly to mostly cloudy skies from Lufkin into East Texas to mar the fair skies. Winds were light and northerly behind the weak front.

Korean nightclub blaze kills 25

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Fire raced through a disco jammed to over-capacity with 400 people early today, killing at least 25 and injuring 70, many of them teen-agers trampled in a panicky stampede toward a narrow exit door.

Police said they feared rescue crews would recover more bodies in the smoldering rubble of the House on the Prairie disco in downtown Taegu, South Korea's third largest city 200 miles south of Seoul.

The bodies of 17 young women and eight young men had been recovered by mid-morning, most of them badly burned, police said. Some of the injured were in critical condition at local hospitals.

City officials said about 400 people, many of them teen-agers, were packed into the disco, which is on the second floor of a wooden building that also houses a club downstairs.

Officials said the disco's legal capacity was 300 and that the teen-agers had been admitted illegally. South Korean law forbids teen-agers from patronizing bars and discos, and the House on the Prairie had been closed in January and March for violations, the officials said.

Police said there was one exit, five feet wide, that led directly down a stairway. One radio station reported there also was an emergency exit but that it had been locked. That account could not be confirmed immediately.

Investigators believed an electrical short circuit may have caused the blaze because witnesses reported seeing sparks and flames shooting from the ceiling.

Lee Chan-dong, 19, one of the injured, told reporters from his hospital bed that he saw "fireworks like flames."

Officials claim progress in prison hostage talks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Prison officials negotiating for the release of two corrections workers got close enough to joke with one of them and reported progress in convincing a pair of armed inmates to end a siege that entered its fifth day today.

"They're going to have to come out of there at some point and they know that," Kenneth Robinson, spokesman for the state Corrections Department, said at a late Sunday news briefing.

Fifteen hours of negotiations broke off shortly before 11:30 p.m. Sunday and were to resume sometime today, Robinson said.

"We're still optimistic," he said. "Right now both sides want to end this. It's a matter of coming to terms."

Negotiators and the inmates trimmed the inmates' original four-page list of items for discussion Sunday, Robinson said. Authorities have released no details about the list.

The negotiations were taking place by telephone or through a wooden door in a barricaded basement room of the State Correctional Institution at Pittsburgh. Behind the door Richard Henkel, 45, a convicted bank robber awaiting trial for murder, and convicted murderer Louis Coviello, 26, held the two hostages, authorities said.

Robinson said one of the negotiators joked with hostage Kostas "Gus" Mastro, a civilian records supervisor, while speaking through the door Sunday afternoon. The negotiator teased Mastro about whether he would be paid overtime for the hours spent in the windowless, 10-by-20-foot room.

"The fact that we are able to have humor is something of a positive thing," Robinson said.

The other hostage is guard Daniel Kohut. Robinson said officials have been able to see Mastro, 51, and have spoken to Kohut, 39, through the door, and believe both are well despite the fact that Kohut suffers from high blood pressure.

Explorers say thanks

Dear Editor,
Recently, the Big Spring Police Explorers sponsored a skating party at the Skate Palace. Had it not been for the courtesy extended to us by the Herald, Skate Palace, KBST, KWKI, and many other local merchants, the party would not have been the success that it was. Our many thanks go to the above businesses for their generosity in publicizing the party.

We would also like to thank those of you who attended the party, also without whom the party would not have been a success. The Explorers are planning many more entertaining events in the future and we look forward to your appreciated participation. Thank you.

Boxing Club thanks supporters

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Howard County Boxing Club, I would like to say THANKS for your coverage of the team's efforts and progress.

Also we would like to publicly thank Commissioner Louie Brown for his most needed support.

We have another man who devotes his time getting donations and driving the team in his van to tournaments by the name of Mr. Zehe Valles, of Sid Richardson Carbon and Gasoline Co. His knee illness doesn't stop his dedication to the team.

Mr. Gardner of the Dr Pepper Beverage Co., also devotes his time and gets us donations. We also have another man who lends us the use of his van at times, Mr. Manuel Villa.

Mr. Ed Garza of ODI also coaches and collects donations whenever possible. We lost one coach, Mr. David Baldwin but we still have Jamie Baldwin who does the matching of our boys at tournaments.

Last but not least, Mr. Ron Dukes who goes with the team to support the boys and at times also uses his truck for the boxers transportation and does whatever else the Club needs, moving the Boxing Ring to and from the Gym. He works at Moffatt Carpets.

These people deserve all the credit that goes into making the Howard County Boxing Club the best of West Texas and our friends here in Big Spring should be proud of these boxers.

We need more support from all the people here of Big Spring.

Academy awards onward, upward

WASHINGTON — Social significance figures explicitly in all the movies nominated this year for major Academy Awards. They are marred, as works of analysis, by a disconcerting bias.

Still, they express perhaps the most positive feature of American democracy. They give expression to a constant striving for improvement — an upward mobility of popular culture.

To get a feel for the quality of this year's crop, it is useful to recall winners from the past. Movies with important themes have often done well. Recent winners include "Ordinary People," which dealt with the breakup of a marriage, and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which had madness as its subject matter.

BUT BACK IN 1959 there was "Ben-Hur" — a saga of chivalry in Ancient Rome utterly empty of meaning. Twenty years before, the palm went to "Gone With the Wind," a saccharine drama of an Old South that never was.

This year every film to reach the top addressed itself directly to some kind of social or political problem. "Gandhi," which won so many of the awards, commands special notice in that respect. For it introduces into the "Ben Hur"-type saga the political message of passive resistance.

"Sophie's Choice" is set against the background of the Holocaust. "The Verdict" centers around corruption in the legal profession. "Missing" features violence and an official coverup in Latin America. "E.T." explores the difference in perceptions that separates adults from children. "Tootsie" casts the everlasting war between the sexes in the dimensions of a role reversal.

A tilt against the ties that bind American society looms large in all these works. Ours has been a violent past, and this country now finds itself engaged in strenuous struggle against an international movement that does not scruple to achieve its ends by violence. To eliminate force from the range of options available to American authorities is to invite anarchy here and abroad.

But Richard Attenborough, the director of "Gandhi," said over and over again in many ponderous ways that he was trying to give "greater access" to "other criteria" for "solving problems." "E.T.," whatever its charm, shoots a poisoned arrow at the authority of parents and police. It even questions, in a not so subtle way, the ideal of beauty, or at least being good-looking.

In "The Verdict," honesty overcomes corruption in the courts only by a kind of accident. "Sophie's Choice" suggests that no freer options are available in the plastic society of middle-class America than in Auschwitz. "Missing" derides American officials in the performance of bureaucratic duty. "Tootsie" preaches the lesson that a man pretending to be a woman is more successful — or at least can get away with more — than men and women who play it straight.

BUT AMERICAN society can take these shots easily. The country is no more vulnerable to any of these films than it is to the Beach Boys, or the Canadian movie about acid rain. To make a thing about giving license to the "wrong elements" is to make the country look ridiculous in the eyes of the world.

For the most striking feature of the U.S. at this time is resilience. We can take three years of the worst postwar recession without any breakdown of order. We can repudiate four presidents in a row with no diminution of constitutional vigor. We can even lose a war without suffering the shattering loss of morale familiar in so many other powerful countries that came a cropper.

Mere size, no doubt, accounts for some of the resilience. Americans can always seek their fortunes elsewhere, and, in that sense, the frontier is not dead even now. The Sun Belt may have its problems, but Europe doesn't have a Sun Belt. Neither does Japan.

Moreover, the welfare state, despite all the slings and arrows of the radical right, does what it is supposed to do. Social Security, unemployment insurance and various subsidies for health, food, education and poverty not only soften the harshness of recession. They also provide the automatic stabilizers that first break, and then reverse, economic downturns.

Underlying everything, however, are a striving and an aspiration. The American people are, as they have always been, a people on the move. Throbbing operators are everywhere, and they seek betterment of all kinds. Material improvement, to be sure, but also better education and more cultural attainment. A part of that aspiration is a continuing quest for a better grip on social and individual problems, for a richer understanding of the human condition.

The nominees for the Academy Awards, and "Gandhi" especially, bear witness to the questing spirit, the ceaseless effort for spreading everything, including comprehension, in wider and wider circles. America, in other words, houses an aspiring society. The impulse to go onward and upward applies — in no bad way — to the popular culture which continually assimilates the attitudes and arts that were only yesterday avant garde.

Billy Graham

Please explain the Holy Spirit

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What exactly is the Holy Spirit? When was it created? — Mrs. B.E.

DEAR MRS. B.E.: First of all the Holy Spirit is not an impersonal force of some type (like a sort of spiritual gravity or magnetism). He is a Person — in fact, he is God himself. The Holy Spirit is a Person, not an "it."

There is much I could say about the Holy Spirit, for the Bible tells us much about him. (That is one reason, in fact, that I wrote a book on the Holy Spirit several years ago). He is God — and because he is God he has always existed. When we come to know Jesus Christ as our personal Lord and Savior, God the Holy Spirit comes to live within us. The Bible says, "If anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he does not belong to Christ" (Romans 8:9).

Think of that — it is a staggering truth! God himself has come to live within us! But why? The Bible tells us there are several reasons. For one thing, the Holy Spirit has come to show us the truth about Christ. As we read the Bible — which we should do regularly and prayerfully — the Holy Spirit (who inspired it) points out its truths to us and convicts of sin in our lives.

In addition, the Holy Spirit has been given to us to guide us. We all face decisions every day, and sometimes we face very important decisions. When we have committed our lives to Christ, the most important thing we can do is seek to do God's will. As we pray and seek the will of God about a decision we face, the Holy Spirit can lead us by giving us the conviction within our hearts that a certain way is the right way.

God the Holy Spirit also is the One who changes our lives. For example, he gives us certain qualities which we do not have — what the Bible calls the fruit of the Spirit. "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control" (Galatians 5:22-23). He also gives each of us certain spiritual gifts which we are to use to help others. How do these things happen? They become real in our lives as we yield each day to Jesus Christ as our Lord, and allow the Spirit of God to rule and direct us according to God's perfect will.

BY BOB CARPENTER

Times a-changin'

In the 1967 film, "The Graduate," the protagonist is told his future lies in plastics. I'm sure if they were to remake the film with an '80s feel the word computers would be substituted for plastics.

Computers, things which only used to be in science fiction books or shows, have slowly become part of our consciousness. We have automatic bank tellers, video games and pocket calculators, all which operate on computerized principles. On a more complex level are word processors and microcomputers, which make themselves indispensable with their convenience and ability to retrieve and store large amounts of information.

It's a bit disconcerting to watch the way computers have, and are, becoming a viable part of our society, especially if one is in that group hi-tech experts have tabbed "computer illiterates." I'm in that group, as is everyone else who knows next to nothing about computers.

THIS PAST weekend, I went with my wife to a computer seminar for teachers designed to inform educators of hardware and software available for the coming wave of microcomputers in the classroom.

Being the illiterate I was, I hadn't realized just how important the computer will become in education in the next three to five years. Already used for drill and practice in many schools, there is now a move on by the computer industry to make computers a tool for teaching.

Almost everyone knows of the popularity video games enjoy with youngsters; well, microcomputers excite kids just as much, according to experts. In fact, industry people say the microcomputer could be a boon to the ailing educational system in our country.

At the seminar, we got to actually play with the computers and see what they could do. The computers were amazing. With their easy-to-understand instructions, positive re-enforcement and gentle corrective measures, they had us captivated.

The computers can average grades, keep up with attendance and grade the student's progress.

While helping the teachers to teach, the computer can also save them precious time lost in record keeping, thus allowing the educator more time with the student.

THE EXPERTS at the seminar said computers have garnered strong grassroots support from teachers, parents and students, and will be making a mass migration into schools in the next five years depending on computer prices and if enough software (education programs) is available.

Experts said about 400,000 microcomputers will be in the 100,000 elementary and secondary schools in the U.S. in a few years. There are already 100,000 in use.

Also, 50,000 secondary educators will be teaching computers as their main subject in five years, provided that many teachers are available. Sadly, universities are far behind in preparing students to become computer teachers — almost no school has a major in computer education. So for the time being, most teachers will be self-made.

THERE WILL be problems with the coming computer age in education, but those bugs will be worked out. There's too much money to be made and learning to be accomplished from computers.

Soon we'll be turning out people to work our computer-dependent society. That's scary for a computer illiterate like me. I feel like a tube in a transistorized world. There isn't much choice for people like me except to retool my knowledge before I get left behind much like the U.S. auto industry was left behind. As one expert said, "We're no longer in the industrial age, we have moved into the information age."

Bob Dylan's words should be heeded by anyone thinks this change isn't imminent. "Coming gather round people wherever you roam and admit the waters around you have grown. Accept it that soon you'll be drenched to the bone. If your time to you is worth saving, then you better start swimming or you'll sink like a stone, for the times they are a-changin'."

Abuses go unpunished

WASHINGTON — I reported recently on the apparent political manipulation of minority business contracts at the Commerce Department. I also reported that the department's inspector general, Sherman Funk, had shown reluctance to punish the wrongdoers, even though he was well aware of the abuses.

Part of the problem may be that Funk used to work for the Commerce Department office that became the Minority Business Development Agency. Thus many of those who should be targets of investigation are former colleagues and friends of the inspector general.

MBDA's San Francisco regional office and an old friend of Funk, MBDA Director Victor Rivera and his deputy, Theron Bell.

According to documents produced by Funk's investigators, Romero first recommended that the $369,000 contract go to San Diego State University, then reversed himself after being asked by his superiors to reconsider the decision.

Floyd Cotton, the agent in charge of the investigation, left before it was completed, but he gave the inspector general a memo outlining several leads that should be pursued. At least six of the suggested leads were never followed — including one that recommended interviewing Rivera and Bell again on inaccurate statements they had made to investigators. This was never done, according to Rivera and Bell.

Cotton also left a draft report of the investigation, which my associate Peter Grant has obtained. It lists specific cases of alleged improper conduct by Romero, including furnishing false information to his superiors and "improperly and unjustifiably" reversing his recommendation.

As for Rivera and Bell, Cotton's draft report charges that they acted improperly on the San Diego State contract and gave investigators inaccurate information about a White House meeting.

Despite this clear finger-pointing by his investigators, Funk didn't even mention Romero, Rivera or Bell in his decision memorandum on the San Diego case. Funk did write that the reversal was "capricious, arbitrary and unwarranted," and was apparently done "for purposes other than obtaining the most responsive bid." And the inspector general recommended that the contract be given to San Diego State, which it was.

When first interviewed, Funk claimed he had followed up all the leads left behind by Cotton. He also said that Cotton never wrote a draft report. Later he said he had been unaware of Cotton's draft report or the "leads" memorandum until I brought them to his attention.

Funk said he didn't recommend disciplinary action because "normally the inspectors general do not make recommendations on individual actions, they simply present the findings."

Rivera said the reason he took no action against Romero was because Funk didn't recommend any.

"There's an old phrase for that," remarked Funk when told of Rivera's excuse. "It's called passing the buck."

Funk vehemently denied that he is ignoring wrongdoing at MBDA. Indeed, he said, "I'm thought of as having a vendetta against MBDA." He said his office is currently working on cases of alleged favoritism at the agency, and that results can be expected soon.

Dr. Donohue

Does gallon of water help?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I drink a gallon of water a short time after waking up each day. It makes me feel better and any illness I get is much reduced in effect because of drinking water. My mother says I am washing out all the good germs. My dad says I will have a stroke, and my uncle says my pH balance will be endangered.

I say that drinking water makes my colon more efficient in helping my body form fresh blood and help rid my body of impurities. I think that as long as I eat right and exercise I will be benefited by drinking water, not harmed. I worked up gradually to drinking the gallon.

The Chinese call the water-drinking "water therapy". Unfortunately, my relatives think Western man has a monopoly on medical science. I would appreciate your views. — J.T.

Jim, you and my brother (and, I sure some Chinese people) belong to the hydrotherapy school of health care. I am not impressed with my brother's health, nor the theory. I can't imagine drinking a gallon of water in a short time.

The only immediate effect I can think of is an inordinate need to urinate. However, you will not wash out all of your good germs. You will not have a stroke, and you will not alter your body's pH (acid-alkali balance). You will not make your colon more efficient, nor will you make fresher blood or prify the blood you have.

You lose about two and a half quarts of liquid each day — from urine, sweat and vapor lost breathing.

We need only replace that amount. You get about a quart from that in the food you eat, and another one and one half quarts from fluid intake. We were given a pretty good indicator for our fluid needs. We call it thirst. I'm sending a copy of this item to my brother.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please explain in your column what is meant by sensorineural deafness? I was diagnosed as having 10 percent loss of hearing in both ears — nerve deafness. I guess I was in a state of shock, because at the time I did not ask questions I should have asked. — Mrs. M.S.

Hearing is nothing short of a miracle. As outside sound waves strike the eardrum, they create vibrations that set in motion a chain of tiny bones, which passes the sound on to parts of the inner ear, from where they are eventually transmitted as electrical impulses to your brain by way of the hearing nerve.

Deafness occurs if anything in this complex system malfunctions. Sensorineural loss means that the malfunction is occurring in the cochlea, a tiny structure shaped like a snail shell responsible for firing off impulses to the hearing nerve.

Sensorineural loss can be temporary or permanent, depending on the cause. For example, a viral infection can cause loss if inflammation is affecting that nerve process. The hearing returns when the infection subsides. If permanent damage is done to the structures hearing loss would also be permanent. Your doctor will be able to tell more on the next examination (which you mention in another part of your letter). He can tell whether hearing has improved or not.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes color blindness? I realize it is somehow inherited. Two grandsons are affected. They are always well-nourished. Can you comment? — Mrs. H.M.S.

Red-green blindness is found in eight out of every 100 males and in four out of every 1,000 females. I think this may be one reason why so many wives select their husband's ties. Nothing in your grandsons' upbringing cause it. It's from their genes, so it is hereditary.

And the way it is inherited explains why so many more men than women have it. The gene for color blindness happens to be located on the same bit of inheritance material that also determines sex.

More men have the disadvantage because they need a gene from only one parent for it to be passed on. Women need the gene from both parents to have the condition. So females are often silent carriers. They may not be color blind, but they can pass on the gene for it to a male child.

REVIVED WOMAN — Karla Woods of Champaign rests Sunday in her room at Champaign's Burnham Hospital where she was in satisfactory condition. She had been taken to the hospital for an autopsy early Friday after she was found at her apartment unconscious. Police thought she was dead because she had no pulse or heart beat. Paramedics were taking her to the city morgue, when a police officer noted movement in her. The hospital staff revived her.

'Dead' Illinois woman revived

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A 23-year-old woman was "resurrected" and revived hours after she had been considered dead because a policeman noticed her swallow, authorities said.

"We were lucky, and she was lucky she was in a trauma center," Dr. Jitendar Sethi said Sunday night at the Burnham City Hospital, where the woman was reported to be talking and thinking normally three days after the incident. Doctors say they expect a full recovery.

Karla Woods was found on the floor of her apartment Thursday afternoon. Although the door was open and the room was chilly, the detectives who took her to the hospital morgue believed she had died from a mixture of drugs and alcohol, police said. At least a dozen officers as well as doctors at the scene believed Miss Woods was dead, and it was hours before she was placed on a morgue table and Detective Gary Wright noticed her move her diaphragm and swallow.

"I'm telling you, I've seen dead people 100 times in my life, and she was dead," Wright said later. "I saw a resurrection. I'm going to my grave believing she had a second chance and this is a miracle."

The victim was rushed to the emergency room upstairs, where her body temperature was measured at 80 degrees, but no brain or heart damage was found. Doctors gave her oxygen and warmed her with thermal blankets, raising her temperature slowly over the next several hours, said Dr. Samuel Young, a neurologist.

"We just did what seemed to be the logical thing to do," Young said.

Miss Woods' blood showed an alcohol level of 0.15 and some trace chemicals, but "nothing that would constitute an overdose," Young said.

She could remember little of what happened before she lost consciousness, Young said. She left a bar with a companion Wednesday night, and the next thing she remembered was waking up in the hospital Friday morning, he said.

Young said she remains hospitalized because some of her body chemical levels remain high, probably due to trauma from the cold.

Wreck kills Hawley teenager

HAWLEY, Texas (AP) — Services are scheduled today for a Hawley teenager who died in a Jeep rollover that injured two others, authorities said.

Melissa "Missy" Franklin, 17, was pronounced dead at Hendrick Medical Center by Justice of the Peace Clarence Collins after the accident Saturday night.

Injured were Jeff Sellers, 15, in satisfactory condition at the hospital with a fractured left leg, and Jackie Florence, 17, whose wrist was broken, the Texas Department of Public Safety reported.

Florence was treated at the hospital and released, a spokesman said.

The driver of the Jeep, James Barbee of Hawley, was not injured, the DPS said.

The vehicle rolled over on Farm Road 1082 about 10:45 p.m. Saturday, said DPS officers said.

Dallas sheriff injured in wreck

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County Sheriff Don Byrd remained hospitalized today after he sustained injuries in an early morning automobile accident in the suburb of University Park.

Byrd, 55, was in fair condition at Presbyterian Hospital of Dallas, a sheriff's department spokesman said.

The sheriff was transferred to a private room Sunday afternoon from the intensive care unit at Presbyterian, where he was treated for "two fractured ribs, deep facial cuts and a concussion," said sheriff's department spokesman James Ewell.

He said Byrd was returning to his home in north Dallas from a party thrown by Dallas millionaire Ray Hunt at a downtown hotel when he rammed his sedan into a signal light post.

Ewell said he told deputies "he had picked up the mobile phone in his car and was either about to make a call or getting one when he dropped the receiver in his lap."

It's a cold start for Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — An extremely fit Greg Meyer and his close friend Bill Rodgers, weakened by a cold, headed a field of more than 6,000 runners in the 87th Boston Marathon, which started today under overcast skies.

The roads were dry, temperatures were in the 40s and a westerly breeze provided a tailwind as the runners set off at noon on the 26-mile, 385-yard race that has been a Boston tradition since 1897.

Meyer, 27, went into the race as the favorite. Rodgers, 35, a four-time winner of the Boston Marathon, was the sentimental choice.

There were 6,515 official entries in the race, including 701 women.

Last year's winner, Alberto Salazar, passed up Boston this year and instead ran in the Rotterdam Marathon April 9.

New Zealand's Allison Roe, the Boston record holder with 2:26.51 in 1981, led the women's field and had some last-minute motivation. In Sunday's London Marathon, her world record of 2:25.29 was equaled by Grete Waitz, who won the Boston race last year but skipped the race this year. The women's field also included American record holder Joan Benoit, the 1979 winner seen as a top contender today, and Canada's Jacqueline Gareau, the 1980 champion.

Among the other top men's entries were Dan Schlesinger, Randy Thomas, Benji Durden, Bob Hodge, Ron Tabb, Jeff Wells, Tom Raunig, Kevin McCarey and Kevin Ryan of New Zealand.

The Board of Governors of the Boston Athletic Association, which operates the race, has steadfastly refused to change anything about the 26-mile, 385-yard race — at least not this year.

Will Cloney, president of the BAA and director of the race until his retirement last June at the age of 71, had some innovative plans in mind in an effort to keep up with the recent changes in the sport.

But Cloney's ideas were not carried out by the new board, although it has said it would re-evaluate the situation after this year's race.

Among Cloney's plans to maintain the popularity of the race, which was first run in 1897 as a 24 1/2-mile event, were to shift it from the annual Monday Patriots Day to a Sunday in order to attract network televi-

Facts and figures

Starting point — East Main Street in Hopkinton.
 Finish — In front of Prudential building in downtown Boston.
 Distance — 26 miles, 385 yards.
 Expected number of starters — 6,515, 5,814 men, 701 women.
 World best — 2 hours, 8 minutes, 13 seconds, by Alberto Salazar, United States, in 1981 New York City Marathon.
 Course record — 2:08:51, Alberto Salazar, 1982.

tion, and acquire sponsors in an effort to offer prize money under guidelines established by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the world governing body for track and field.

On Sept. 23, 1981, Cloney signed a contract with attorney Marshall Medoff, head of International Marathons, Inc., making Medoff the exclusive solicitor for race sponsors.

Under the contract, Medoff was to keep all sponsorship money over $400,000. More than $712,000 was raised for the 1982 race, including $400,000 from Seiko.

But the new BAA board challenged the contract in court, claiming the BAA is a charitable organization and laws forbid an agent soliciting for such a group to receive more than 15 percent of the gross revenues.

The state attorney general's office ruled last month that the contract was invalid. An appeal by Medoff also is pending.

Now, Cloney is concerned about the future of the Boston Marathon. He said he tried to bring the race "into the 20th century," but the people who are running it now "want to turn the pages back 20 years and make it a nice little local race."

This year, the number of entrants — men under 40 needed qualifying times of two hours, 50 minutes or less, men over 40 had to qualify under 3:10 and the women's qualifying time was 3:20 — dropped considerably from last year — from 7,530 to 6,515.

And next year, with the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials in May — at Buffalo, N.Y., for men and Olympia, Wash., for women — the Boston Marathon is expected to have a difficult time attracting "name" athletes.

This year's field, filled with most of the top Americans but lacking the leading foreigners, was helped by the fact that the race is the qualifier for United States teams that will compete in the World Track and Field Championships and the Pan American Games in August.

At least two networks had expressed interest in televising the Boston Marathon if the race was changed to a Sunday, but backed off after it was decided to continue running on Patriots Day.

The Boston Marathon expects a comparatively weak field in Olympic years, meaning that 1985 will be a big test

Another pitcher is almost perfect

THE FRUSTRATIONS OF THE TAGGED-OUT BASERUNNER — Dave Stapleton of the Boston Red Sox vents his frustrations by throwing down his batting helmet after being thrown out trying to stretch a single into a double against the Texas Rangers in eighth inning action Sunday. The Rangers defeated Boston 1-0 in fourteen innings at Boston's Fenway Park.

Giants' Hammaker hammers Reds, 3-0

By The Associated Press

It was Cap Day in San Francisco — and the Giants' fans took their hats off to Alton Hammaker. Pitching the best game of his young career, the lanky left-hander hurled perfect baseball for seven innings and wound up with a nifty two-hitter as the Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 in the opener of a doubleheader Sunday.

National League

It was the third serious bid for a no-hitter by a major leaguer over the weekend. On Friday night, Detroit's Milt Wilcox pitched a one-hitter, coming within one batter of a perfect game. And on Saturday, Montreal's Charlie Lea yielded only an eighth-inning hit in another one-hitter.

"I'll tell you, the way the pitchers have been flirting with no-hitters and perfect games the last few days, I was thinking maybe the third time was the charm and he might get it," said Reds Manager Russ Nixon.

"It was fun. I'd like to try it again," said Hammaker, whose attempt at perfection was cheered loudly by a crowd of 37,094 at Candlestick Park as he mowed down the Reds with his sliders and fastballs.

The Reds quieted the fans considerably by scoring nine runs in the first inning of the second game, which they won 12-3.

Johnny Bench ended Hammaker's no-hit bid with a line single to left field on the first pitch of the eighth inning.

"He felt confident against me," Hammaker admitted. "I could tell that. His first time up he hit the ball well and I thought it might go into the alley."

Bench: "The pitch I got the hit on was the same pitch I hit in the second inning, a slider up over the plate. I was sort of guessing with him in the eighth. I was confident I'd get a pitch to hit, and I was going to hit it. It happened to be the first pitch."

(See 'Pirates' on page 2-B)

Rangers bop Boston in 14 innings

BOSTON (AP) — Little Fenway Park, the smallest stadium in major league baseball, is noted as a hitter's paradise and a burial ground for left-handed pitchers because of a short left-field wall.

However, the Texas Rangers and the Boston Red Sox made a joke of that baseball judgment Sunday, hooking up in a pitching duel that turned into a 3-hour and 45-minute marathon.

For 13 innings, the two teams battled to a scoreless standoff. Then, with two out in the top of the 14th, Larry Biittner singled and came all the way around on a double by Peter O'Brien and shortstop Glenn Hoffman's wild relay throw to the plate.

Biittner's unearned run lifted the Rangers to a 1-0 victory, snapping Boston's modest three-game winning streak. And it came on a wild gamble by third base coach Wayne Terwilliger, who waded Biittner on as Hoffman was taking the throw from Jim Rice in the left-field corner.

Biittner appeared to be a dead duck as he rounded third. However, Hoffman, who fired a 200-foot relay strike to nail a runner at the plate Friday night, had trouble and his throw sailed high and wide of catcher Rich Gedman for an error.

"When I got the ball, I looked and figured I had him by 20 feet," Hoffman said. "However, as I threw, the ball just slipped out and I knew it was going to be over his (Gedman's) head. I wish I had it back."

"Good Lord, I thought Biittner was out by a mile, but the throw just went flying away," Texas Manager Doug Rader said.

"Too bad somebody had to lose, but we really needed that win," said Biittner, who spent the first 11 innings on the bench.

"I'm not too sure I could have stopped at third even if I had got the sign. I decided to go all the way as soon as the ball was hit. I was thinking score all the way. The worst that could have happened is we would have been out and gone into the next inning. It's one of those things that worked in our favor."

Starters Rick Honeycutt of the Rangers and John Tudor of the Red Sox, both southpaws, engaged in a hot duel. Honeycutt retired after throwing 111 pitches and allowing five hits in eight innings. Tudor went 10 innings, allowing just four hits and striking out seven while throwing 140 pitches.

Odell Jones replaced Honeycutt, worked his way out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the ninth and earned the victory, blanking Boston on three hits in five innings. Dave Tobik pitched the 14th and picked up his second save despite a one-out double by Reid Nichols. Boston relief ace Bob Stanley, 1-2, was the loser on the unearned run. He allowed four hits in as many innings.

The 1-0 game was the first in Boston since Mike Torrez of the Red Sox turned the trick against Minnesota July 18, 1960. The major league record for a 1-0 game is 18 innings, set by Walter Johnson in 1918 and equaled by Carl Hubbell in 1933.

The longest scoreless game in Fenway Park was a 1916 standoff between the Red Sox and the old St. Louis Browns called after 17 innings because of darkness July 14, 1916.

American League

In other American League games, the Oakland A's beat the Seattle Mariners 7-4, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Kansas City Royals 6-3, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Cleveland Indians 6-1, the Minnesota Twins outslug the California Angels 11-8, the Chicago White Sox whipped the Detroit Tigers 6-1 and the New York Yankees downed the Toronto Blue Jays 7-5.

A's 7, Mariners 4

Mike Norris scattered five hits and struck out 11 in eight innings as the A's won for the sixth time in the last seven games. Norris gave up homers to Ken Phelps, Dave Henderson and Domingo Ramos to account for all the Seattle runs. Jeff Burroughs and Dwayne Murphy homered for Oakland.

Jim Gantner drove in three runs with a homer and sacrifice fly, while Mike Caldwell, who had been rocked for 19 hits and 11 runs in his first two outings, scattered eight hits and one run over seven innings. Relievers Jamie Easterly and Pete Ladd struck out George Brett and Amos Otis, respectively, with the bases loaded to end the game.

Orioles 6, Indians 1

Mike Flanagan hurled a three-hitter and Eddie Murray put the Orioles ahead 3-1 with a first-inning single. Flanagan, who lasted only two innings in his last start while yielding six runs, allowed singles to Manny Trillo in the first inning, Andre Thornton singled in the sixth and Julio Franco in the ninth.

Loser Bert Blyleven walked the first three Baltimore batters in the bottom of the first. The tying run scored on a passed ball by Chris Bando before Murray delivered his two-run single. Baltimore made it 4-1 in the third when Murray singled, took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Jim Dwyer and added two runs in the on Joe Nolan's single, Al Bumbry's RBI double and Dan Ford's single.

Twins 11, Angels 8

Dave Engle's tie-breaking two-run double in the seventh inning helped Minnesota snap a four-game losing streak and end the Angels' three-game winning streak. Before Engle's decisive hit in the three-run seventh, the Twins tied the score 7-7 on singles by John Castino, Gary Ward and Tom Brunansky. Engle then ripped his second double of the game off Andy Hassler. The Twins added two runs in the eighth on singles by Mickey Hatcher, Castino, Ward and Gary Gaetti.

Kent Hrbek hit a three-run homer for the Twins, while Reggie Jackson had a three-run shot — his third homer in three games — and Fred Lynn hit a two-run homer for California.

White Sox 6, Tigers 1

Rookie Ron Kittle's two-run homer, his fourth in this season, capped a four-run first inning and Dennis Lamp hurled a two-hitter. The game in Chicago was played in 34-degree and a 14-mile-an-hour wind lowered the wind chill factor to 17.

Rudy Law opened the Chicago first with a single and scored on a double by Tony Bernazard, who reached third when third baseman Howard Johnson dropped the relay throw for an error. Bernazard scored on Johnson's second error, a wild throw home on Greg Luzinski's grounder, and Kittle lofted a shot into the upper deck in left field. Lamp gave up a single to Lou Whitaker leading off the game and lost his shutout bid in the fifth when Larry Herndon hit his third homer.

Yankees 7, Blue Jay 5

Dave Winfield smashed a two-run homer and Steve Kemp scored from second base on a sacrifice fly as New York rallied with four runs in the fifth. Doubles by Buck Martinez and Cliff Johnson had given Toronto a 4-3 lead in the top of the fifth. Ken Griffey singled to open the Yankees' fifth against Jim Clancy and Winfield followed with his fourth home run of the year, a 400-foot drive over the left field fence. Winner Shane Rawley scattered eight hits, including Johnson's second home run of the season in the eighth.

Walker goes 142 yards

WILD ROMP — Philadelphia Stars rookie running back Kelvin Bryant (44) runs for 45 yards in second quarter USFL action Saturday in Oakland. Behind is Oakland Invaders' Alva Liles (92). Bryant, from the University of North Carolina, ran for more than 100 yards.

By The Associated Press

While New Jersey's Herschel Walker pulled even with Kelvin Bryant as the top rusher in the United States Football League, the Generals would have been all alone in last place if Washington's Ken Olson could have kicked a 33-yard field goal.

Walker, after scoring two touchdowns and rushing for 142 yards on 28 carries, had to watch helplessly on the sidelines with eight seconds to go as Olson lined up his game-deciding kick.

"I was thinking, 'They'll miss it,'" said Walker, the multi-millionaire 1982 Heisman Trophy winner who is tied with Bryant with 713 yards.

Walker was right. Olson's kick faded to the right of the uprights and the Generals had held on to beat the Federals 23-22 Sunday.

Elsewhere in the USFL, Denver edged Birmingham 9-7, Michigan tripped Chicago 17-12 and Boston bombed Arizona 44-23. On Saturday, Philadelphia beat Oakland 17-7.

Olson's boot was his first official field goal attempt as a professional. Earlier in the game his miss from 37 yards was nullified when Dana Noel was penalized for roughing the kicker.

Olson refused to talk about his miss, but holder Joe Gilliam, the Federals quarterback who threw three touchdown passes — two of them in the fourth quarter — said, "I put the ball down good. It was a good snap. It was just one of those things."

"I've learned over the years you take them any way you get them," said Generals Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose team boosted its record to 2-5.

Washington Coach Ray Jauch, whose team fell to 1-6, said: "It's the same old story. We almost won. We fell short."

Gilliam came off the bench in the second quarter with the Federals trailing 14-2 to guide their comeback bid. His 9-yard scoring pass to Joey Walters cut New Jersey's lead to 23-16 early in the fourth quarter.

Gilliam closed the gap to 23-22 on a 52-yard pass play to rookie Craig James, who took the ball at the 35-yard line, was spun around at the 28 and regained his balance to dash into the end zone. The Federals, trying to take the lead, missed the two-point conversion when Gilliam's pass was batted down.

"You've got to play to win," Jauch said, explaining the reason he opted for a two-point conversion rather than an extra-point kick that may have sent the game into overtime.

Pirates pounce on Cubs, 7-0

Hammaker, 1-1, who also gave up a ninth-inning single by Dann Bilardello, faced only 28 men, one over the limit, struck out 10 and walked none in the brilliant performance. Jeff Leonard homered for one of the San Francisco runs.

The Reds were a different team in the second game, pounding out nine runs in the first inning, including a three-run double by Tom Foley.

In other National League action, it was Houston 6, Montreal 3; Pittsburgh 7, Chicago 0; Atlanta 3, Philadelphia 1 and San Diego 9, Los Angeles 1. The New York-St. Louis game was called because of snow.

Pirates 7, Cubs 1

John Candelaria and Rick Rhoden combined on a three-hitter as Pittsburgh weathered two snow delays and temperatures in the mid-30s to beat Chicago. The second game was postponed because of the bad weather.

Candelaria gave up just two hits and retired the final 12 batters he faced but was lifted after two two delays caused by snow flurries in the bottom of the sixth. Pittsburgh's Lee Lacy had a double and two singles, scored three runs and had two stolen bases, raising his NL-leading total to 10.

Chicago Manager Lee Elia called the game conditions disgraceful, saying the game never should have been played.

"You don't play in snow and you're not supposed to be play when it's in the 30s," said Elia. "I've never been so cold, not even in Montreal."

Lamesa's Teague

holds Pecos

PECOS — Steve Teague struck out six, scored a run and drove in a run to lead the Lamesa Tors to a 9-7 victory over Pecos Friday afternoon.

The Tors capitalized on five Pecos errors to go into an 8-2 lead in the top of the fourth. Lamesa committed four errors in the game.

Pecos came back with three runs in the bottom of the fourth and two runs in the bottom of the sixth to narrow the score to 9-7, but Teague held them off in the last inning.

No home runs were hit by either team.

Lamesa's James Whitley went 2 for 2, scoring a run and driving in run.

Lamesa is 8-12 on the year and 1-3 in district play. The host Andrews Tuesday.

Lamesa second in golf

MONAHANS — Lamesa's District 2-AAAA golf team scored 327 to finish second in the third round of a district tournament Friday.

Andrews placed first with 297.

Other scores were Monahans, 318; Pecos, 313; Sweetwater, 329; Ft. Stockton, 338; and Snyder, 342.

The fourth round will be played this weekend.

The year's totals for three tournaments are Andrews, 904; Lamesa, 966; Monahans, 976; Pecos, 983; Sweetwater, 985; Ft. Stockton, 1,000; and Snyder, 1,014.

UT passes Houston for SWC golf title

WEST COLUMBIA, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas has come from seven shots behind to a 9-stroke win over second-place Houston in the Southwest Conference Golf Championships.

Brandel Chamblee captured individual honors with a 3-over-par 219 Sunday.

The Longhorns won their second SWC title in three years, making up 15 shots on the final six holes of the tourney at the Columbia Lakes Country Club.

Texas outdistanced the eight-school field by posting a 54-hole total of 899 while the Cougars finished at 908.

Chamblee started the day tied for the individual lead with Houston's Billy Tuten, but the Longhorn golfer's birdie on the par-5 17th hole solidified his third tournament victory of the spring. Tuten finished 4 strokes behind at 223.

"When I started the day, I thought a 220 would win this tournament," said Chamblee. "I had trouble with my driver today but I had been hitting it good this week so I was reluctant to put it in the bag."

A pair of 2-over-par 74s from Paul Thomas and Mark Brooks aided the Horns.

Finishing third with a team score of 928, 29 shots behind Texas was Texas A&M. The Aggies were led by Gary Krueger with a 94-hole total of 229.

Texas Tech was fourth at 936, followed by Texas Christian at 950, Baylor at 955, Arkansas at 958 and Rice at 965.

Zoeller wins Heritage by two

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller's victory in the Sea Pines Heritage Classic was the textbook example of cautious experience beating an aggressive challenge.

"I never worry about what the other guys are doing," Zoeller said Sunday after his final round of par 71 had been good enough for a two-stroke triumph over Canadian Jim Nelford.

"Oh, I was aware of what they were doing. I was trying to be very patient, trying not to force the issue. I was just trying to make some pars, sneak in a birdie where I could."

"I didn't want to play stupid. I wanted to play some smart golf, and I think I was able to accomplish that."

Nelford, last man to challenge Zoeller, said he had a different approach.

He had holed a couple of medium-range putts for birdies on the 13th and 14th holes and, at that point, had a share of the lead.

From the fairway on the 15th, however, he elected to go for the flag. "I wanted to get it close, try to make a birdie, put some pressure on Fuzzy," said the young man who has yet to win in six years on the PGA Tour.

But his shot was knocked down by the winds swirling through the pines and he was plugged in a bunker in an almost impossible position. He had to make an 8-foot putt to save bogey.

That put him one shot back and, he said, he felt he needed to make birdie, get the ball close to the hole, to catch up. But, on the next hole, the wind got him again, sweeping his approach to the right. It was plugged in a bunker again. This one led to a double bogey. He had lost three shots to par — and to Zoeller — and the tournament was over. Fuzzy had a three-stroke lead with two holes to play.

"After those birdies 13 and 14, I felt the tournament was mine to win," said Nelford, who plays right-handed and putts left-handed. "I wanted to put some pressure on Fuzzy."

"On 15, it all turned around. I let it slip away."

"I hit two marginal shots, not bad shots, just marginal, and it cost me. I came up with two bad lies. But those kind of breaks happen in golf."

"I played the wrong shots and Fuzzy played the right shots," Nelford said.

Zoeller, a former Masters champion, acquired the fourth title of his career and his first in two years, on a 275 total, 9-under-par on the Harbour Town Golf Links, only 6,650 yards in length but one of the more demanding on the Tour.

"It's a great thrill to beat such a great golf course," Zoeller said after picking up the winner's check of $63,000.

Nelford was second alone with a closing 71 that included six birdies, four bogeys and the decisive double bogey. He won $37,800 and had a total of 277.

Mac O'Grady, a 31-year-old rookie who made 17 tries at the Tour qualifying school before gaining his playing rights last fall, and Bob Eastwood were next at 279. O'Grady had a last-round 73, Eastwood 74.

6-year veteran takes her first LPGA title

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Lynn Adams characterize herself as a "gutsy, aggressive golfer" — the type who is capable of becoming a dominant force on the LPGA tour.

And after capturing her first professional title Sunday, the six-year veteran said she is ready to prove that she indeed is one of the best players in the game today.

"Winning the first is always the toughest," she said after overcoming a triple-bogey and three-stroke deficit to beat JoAnne Carner and Janet Anderson by two shots in the $150,000 Combanks Orlando Classic.

"I honestly think there's no stopping now," she added. "I'm a gutsy, aggressive golfer and I think that's what you need to be to become a consistent winner."

"Now that I've won, I'm ready to go out and win some more. I really think I will."

Adams finished with a 54-hole total of 8-under-par 208, while Carner and Anderson had 210 totals over the 6,274-yard Cypress Creek Country Club course.

Her triple-bogey on the first hole cost her the one-shot lead she held over Carner when the day began, but she regained the advantage with an eagle on No. 12.

"I was fighting embarrassment after that (triple bogey)," said Adams, whose best previous finish was second in the Samaritan Turquoise Classic in Phoenix last month.

Midland mows down Shreveport, 15-8

By The Associated Press

Jerry Blocker blasted a two-run triple to help Jackson to a 14-7 win over Shreveport, as the first nine Mets batters reached base in Texas League baseball action.

In other league play Sunday, Midland whipped Beaumont 15-8 and San Antonio clubbed El Paso 8-2.

The first seven Jackson batters got hits off Captain starter and loser Glenn Barling, now 0-1.

He allowed three hits and three walks, hit a batter and balked home a run.

Jackson's Billy Deane hit two home runs, one from the left and one from the right side.

Shreveport first baseman Mark Schuster scored two homers, one for two runs and another for three.

The Captains are now 4-5 going into a home stand. Jackson is 5-3, at first place in the Texas League East.

Midland's Bill Hatcher scored a solo homerun in the sixth inning. Tim Millner picked up the win in four innings of scoreless relief.

Marty Kain was the loser.

The Cubs had seven runs on six singles, one walk and two errors, in the bottom of the seventh.

The Dodgers had nine nits against El Paso, which posted six, with no homeruns for either team.

David Anderson, 1-1, was the winning pitcher.

Steve Perrett, 1-1, took the loss.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APR. 19, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to tune into the new modes of expression which you have decided you want to be allied with in the days ahead. Seek the most practical way to gain your goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Wait for a better time to make changes you have planned. Be patient in the face of conditions you can do nothing about.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put those new ideas across to higher-ups that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you carry through with promises you have made. Not a good day for probing an associate about a puzzling problem.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use a spirit of cooperation when dealing with an associate today. Concentrate more on a public matter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle those duties ahead of you quietly and efficiently and don't expect too much from a co-worker. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although having fun is on your mind, it would be best for you to show more kindness to an ally who is in trouble now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more objective at home is wise. Try not to criticize anyone or there could be arguments. Show that you have wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to exercise much care in motion to avoid accident now. Be more understanding of a friend's problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to spend beyond your means for something you don't really need. Save your money for more important things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't upset present security until you are sure that you can improve your position. Steer clear of any arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Think of ways to get ahead faster in your line of endeavor. Show others that you are a humanitarian. Be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what well-informed individuals have to suggest and be grateful of their advice. Strive to gain personal aims.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of solving almost any kind of problem. Direct the education along lines that will help humanity. Give good spiritual training early in life and be sure to encourage where sports are concerned.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
