

Court upholds state's ban on N-plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a stunning setback to the nuclear power industry, ruled today that states may ban new nuclear plants until the federal government devises a safe method for disposing of radioactive waste.

In a 9-0 ruling, the court upheld a moratorium on new nuclear plants enacted by California in 1976.

The justices, rejecting legal arguments by the Reagan administration, said that state power to limit development of commercial reactors is not completely preempted by federal law.

The court's opinion on nuclear facilities did not specify what effect its ruling has on 57 nuclear power plants now under construction nationwide.

But the Harvard law professor who won the case for the state of California said the decision means states can prevent those plants from beginning operations.

"The decision's underlying rationale is a total victory for the states," said Professor Laurence Tribe. He said the court's grant of power to the states "plainly is independent of the question whether the plant has begun construction or not."

No utility has sought permission to build a nuclear power plant since 1978.

The decision comes at a time when the future of nuclear power is already in some doubt because of costs to build new plants and safety fears raised by the accident in 1979 at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island.

Justice Byron R. White, writing for the court, said a lower court ruling which upheld California's moratorium was correct in saying "that the promotion of nuclear power is not to be accomplished at all costs' ... Congress has allowed the states to determine — as a matter of economics — whether a nuclear plant vis-a-vis a fossil fuel plant should be built."

White said, "Congress has left sufficient authority in the states to allow the development of nuclear power to be slowed or even stopped for economic reasons."

Spokesmen for the Atomic Industrial Forum and the American Nuclear Society, groups representing the industry, declined comment on the decision until their officials learned more about it.

At least five states besides California have halted new nuclear plants and four have placed restrictions on their development.

A number of other states are seeking to limit the transport or disposal of nuclear waste within their borders. But today's ruling did not deal specifically with that issue.

California, in adopting its moratorium, said it was not trying to regulate the safety of nuclear plants, which is pre-empted by federal law.

Instead, state officials said they were concerned that electricity service which depended on nuclear plants might be interrupted in the future if the federal government failed to come up with a method to safely dispose of radioactive waste.

The Reagan administration has said that allowing states to block new nuclear plants could seriously jeopardize the growth of nuclear power as a source of electricity.

Former President Ford assails Reagan defense plan

DALLAS (AP) — President Reagan's "inflexibility" in paring his proposed budget and extending his deadline for building up the military could jeopardize the nation's defenses, former President Gerald Ford says.

Delivering the keynote address Tuesday at the annual meeting of Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc., Ford said Reagan should extend his defense budget projections from five years to six years in order to "extend the cash flow."

Ford's audience of 600 business leaders and political leaders included former Texas Gov. Bill Clements and Lady Bird Johnson.

"I don't know what is so sacrosanct about building the defense program in 60 months," Ford said. "I think you can get the same hardware, the same program and every year incrementally improve your military capability — but do it in six years rather than five years."

Ford said that because of Reagan's and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's "inflexibility, the Congress is going to reduce the budget, and they're going to reduce it in the wrong places."

Ford said he generally supported Reagan's economic policies, but added that, "I happen to believe that there has to be some reduction in what the president proposes to the defense budget."

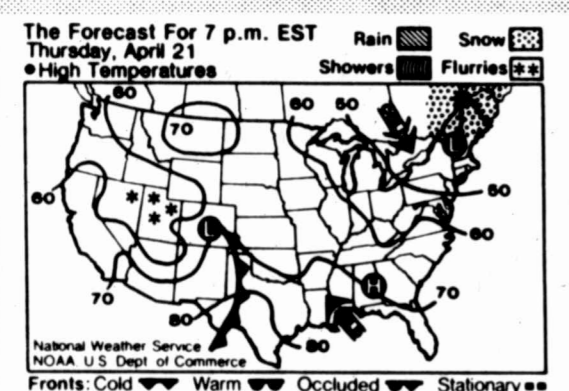

Ford said "we have to have the B-1 bomber ... the MX missile system, and I strongly support a 600-ship Navy," but added that he believed Reagan should extend the deadline for the defense budget.

"My difference of opinion with the president comes on how quickly you have to spend $1.6 trillion. President Reagan and Secretary Weinberger want to do it in five years," Ford said.

LADY BIRD AND THE PRESIDENT — Former President Gerald Ford shares a laugh with former First Lady, Lady Bird Johnson in Dallas Tuesday. Both Ford and Mrs. Johnson were in Dallas for a shareholders meeting of Texas Commerce Bancshares. Both are directors of the bank holding firm.

Showers reported in Central Texas

A warm front triggered widely scattered rain showers over central, southeastern and eastern portions of Texas early today, and fog enshrouded the lower Rio Grande Valley.

The front extended from a low-pressure trough in Central Texas southeastward into the Gulf of Mexico. It brought patches of drizzle and fog, which reduced visibility at Brownsville to less than a half-mile.

Hostages freed unharmed

Inmates surrender; no deals made

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two inmates who held a pair of hostages at gunpoint for six days in a prison basement "were not promised anything" beyond initial protection when they surrendered, officials said.

"There was no deal. The inmates were not promised anything. We didn't agree to anything," said Superintendent George Petsock at the State Correctional Institution after the hostage were released unharmed Tuesday.

"The one guarantee that we gave them ... (was) we would have federal authorities standing by to monitor the release," Petsock said.

The inmates, Richard Henkel, 45, a convicted bank robber, and Louis Coviello, 26, a convicted murderer, were moved to Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary and put in separate cells Tuesday night, said Assistant Warden Clifford Kinney.

"If you caused the (other state prison) inmates to be locked up for six days and two staff members to be abused mentally, then you're going to face a lot of animosity," Petsock said.

Henkel, of Pittsburgh, and Coviello, of Dunmore, planned to escape Thursday morning on the ride to a hearing for Henkel's trial on a murder charge, prison spokesmen said. The inmates were being strip-searched when they took Kostas "Gus" Mastro, 51, and Danny Kohut, 39, hostage, officials said.

Mastro, a 30-year prison employee, walked out of the basement room unexpectedly at 10:28 a.m. Tuesday and asked for a cigarette. He was given two packs and a plate of food.

Negotiators, who had traded food for information from the inmates, did not immediately realize that he had been freed, said Ken Robinson, spokesman for the state Bureau of Corrections.

Spontaneous cheers from the other inmates could be heard outside the prison walls when news of Mastro's release was broadcast.

Shortly after 3 p.m., Coviello, a high school football star serving a life term for first-degree murder, walked out of the room, handed over his gun and surrendered, Robinson said. Minutes later, Henkel told prison officials by phone that he was ready to give up, too.

"Danny Kohut came out the door first followed by Mr. Henkel," Robinson said.

The hostages were examined by prison doctors and declared to be tired but uninjured.

Bob Birch, a director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said the union representing 225 prison guards warned state authorities two years ago that conditions at the prison could lead to a crisis like the hostage siege.

Henkel and Coviello each obtained a handgun Thursday morning even though prison officials had been tipped the day before that the pair planned to escape during the 10-minute ride to the Allegheny County Courthouse or in the courtroom.

Several times during the siege, Petsock's administrative assistant, Tom Seiverling, said the tip led authorities to search the two inmates and their cells the day before the trouble began.

But Petsock, who was vacationing in Florida and unaware of the crisis until the fourth day, said Tuesday that those two cells were not searched.

"I have no idea" where they got the guns, the superintendent said, adding that an investigation was under way.

Henkel, who served time for a bank robbery conviction, was scheduled to stand trial Monday in the mutilation slaying of Deborah Gentile, 27, of Pittsburgh. Meanwhile, Allegheny County Judge Ralph Cappy said Monday that prosecutors could introduce evidence linking Henkel to the murders of three other people, including his fiancée, Susan Dixon, in 1978.

Court backs obscenity statute

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, after looking at pornographic movies and magazines, today upheld the state's obscenity law.

The court based its decision in 12 Houston cases on an opinion written today in a case involving a book store clerk's sale of the magazine "Swedish Erotica No. 25."

Texas' obscenity is constitutional because it is "neither vague nor overbroad," according to the appeals court.

"In an obscenity case, the juror's personal beliefs regarding what is acceptable, tolerable, intolerable, indecent, decent and the like are irrelevant and immaterial, because the juror decides the issue through the eyes and mind of the average person," said Judge Marvin Teague in his opinion for the court.

"In doing so, the juror actually is deciding what, to the average person in his community, is obscene," said Teague.

The Court of Criminal Appeals apparently had no trouble deciding that the magazine "Swedish Erotica No. 25, No Holes Barred and several others it reviewed were obscene.

Also found obscene were movies entitled "Red Garters," "Cry for Cindy" and some with more explicit titles.

Marital problems associated with child abuse

AUSTIN, Texas — Parents who abuse their children tend to be young parents with marital problems, say scholars at The University of Texas at Austin.

"Poor marital adjustment tends to be highly associated with crisis and stress, abuse and neglect," says Dr. Deborah P. Valentine, lecturer in social work. "Abusing parents tend to be younger than the national norm of parents," she says, adding that "unemployment rates among abusers are also very high."

Alcohol or drug abuse is involved in approximately 50 per cent of the child abuse cases, notes Dr. Clayton T. Shorkey, associate professor of social work.

Alcohol or drug abuse may "essentially increase the parents' inability to deal with a whole range of stresses in their situation," he says.

Research indicates that parents who abuse their children tend to have very low self-esteem, says Dr. Shorkey.

Associated with low self-esteem, adds Dr. McRoy, is the feeling of abusing parents that they have no sense of control over their lives, that some external forces are controlling what happens.

"As a result," she says, some parents "tend to try to exert control through violence, unfortunately, and sometimes that violence is directed at a particular child. Sometimes they attempt to surrender that control further through neglect."

Another factor causing child abuse, notes Dr. McRoy, is that often parents seem to have unrealistic expectations of children.

"They have certain ideas as to what is appropriate or inappropriate behavior for a particular child at a particular age, and as a result they make certain demands on that child to perform accordingly," she says.

Parents who abuse their children often are unable to distinguish between bad behavior and a bad person, says Dr. Shorkey. So rather than try to change bad behavior, those parents assume that the child is not merely behaving badly, but is a bad person who needs to be punished or condemned, he says.

"And I think probably this factor can't be stressed enough — that inability of parents to be able to see themselves, see their kids, see their spouse, see other people that they interact with as really fallible human beings that are going to behave good sometimes and bad at times," he says.

Dr. Valentine adds that the problem is compounded by the fact that a parent may not be having his or her own affection needs met.

"Often abusive parents are selfish in the sense that they have trouble weighing their own needs against their child's needs," adds Dr. McRoy.

"Some individuals and families tend to have a proensity towards violence, and that could be another factor," she continues, stressing that a combination of two or more of the factors and characteristics mentioned by the panelists can lead to abuse.

Persons who suspect that a child is being abused are urged to contact their local child welfare department, says Dr. Valentine.

"Many people are very, very frightened of being reported or of making a report to child welfare," says Dr. Shorkey, but "in some cases, situations that may really be potentially harmful to kids can continue for a long period of time without being reported."

The panelists emphasize that only a small percentage of the children are actually removed from their homes following intervention when suspected child abuse is reported. Furthermore, Dr. Valentine explains, intervention often results in support to the family through "parent education, counseling, increasing parent skills and information networking."

The panelists discuss several organizations formed to help parents who abuse their children, including Parents' Anonymous, made up of former child abusers who meet on a regular basis, and Chris Nurseries, a 24-hour day-care service where parents can take their children during time of stress and potential child abuse.

Volunteers are honored locally

Two volunteer agencies honored their volunteers during National Volunteer Week this week.

Malone-Hogan Hospital held its Annual Volunteer Awards Luncheon and officer installation Tuesday at Big Spring Country Club. Service Hours Awards were presented to 55 Malone-Hogan Volunteers. Helen Draper was the outgoing president and new officers were installed.

Big Spring State Hospital honored its volunteers with a volunteer luncheon today in the Allred Building Auditorium from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. Volunteer recruits attended an orientation and walking tour of the hospital in addition to attending the luncheon.

The Veterans Administration Medical Center will honor its volunteers May 9 in conjunction with National Hospital Week, May 8-14.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program has 289 volunteers currently giving their time in community service to 17 volunteer stations that the program serves. These stations are in Big Spring and Coahoma.

RSVP volunteers serve in nursing homes, hospitals, day care centers, Headstart, schools, Mobile Meals Program, Nutrition Program for Elderly, Canterbury Library, Extension Homemakers and Westside Community Center. The service is expanding to include volunteers working with youth on probation and Rainbow Project when it opens.

The RSVP volunteers will be honored during the Annual RSVP Recognition Banquet to be held during National Senior Citizens Month. The banquet will be held at Howard College Cafeteria May 17.

Music club picks officers

Suncha Christensen was elected president of the Big Spring Music Study Club at its meeting April 12 in the home of Dana Moore.

Other officers are Marjorie Dodson, first vice-president; Naomi Graham, second vice-president; Opal Osborne, corresponding secretary; Carol Boyd, recording secretary; Susan Dawes, treasurer; Joan Beil, reporter-historian; and Dorene Zilberg, parliamentarian.

The life and music of Victor Herbert were discussed. Thelma Carlile prepared the program. Herbert's operettas were reviewed. Selections were sung by Susan Dawes and Gaye Cowan.

The next meeting will be a salad luncheon in the home of Dorene Zilberg, May 7.

Dear Abby

Family expansion makes girl angry

DEAR ABBY: A week ago my mother, who is 35, announced she was pregnant! At first I was mad. Now I'm really upset. Everyone in the family is overjoyed — that's all they talk about, and when they do I leave the room. I am 15 and have an older sister 17, and a younger sister, 14.

This is our stepfather's first child, and I feel it is the wrong time to have a baby. We started adding on to our house two years ago but we were unable to finish it because of financial problems. Abby, there just isn't room for another child right now.

I am the only person in the family who feel this way, and when I express my true feelings I am told I am selfish. I have been very emotionally upset since I heard about this, and I've been getting into a lot of arguments with my family. I know it's not all my fault, but I have no one to turn to.

us not to mention it to her because he would prefer that she didn't know.

My wife and I feel that Lester should tell his fiancée, particularly because he grew up in a small town not far from here where everyone there knows we adopted him when he was a small child.

Many of our friends and relatives from the small town come here to shop and visit, and I worry that Lester's fiancée might hear the truth from someone else.

LESTER'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Try to persuade your son to tell his fiancée that he was adopted and tell him (as you told me) why he should do it soon.

If he refuses, he will have to handle the consequences.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: First, you are very intelligent to realize that you need help in handling your feelings of resentment.

It's not uncommon for siblings to feel as you do when a new baby is expected, but you are overreacting and need to talk to someone who will not make you feel guilty for expressing your feelings honestly. Discuss this with your school counselor, and please write again after the baby arrives. I'll bet a package of Pampers you'll change your mind.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is in his late 20s. (I'll call him "Lester.") He's a fine young man and has always known that he was adopted, but he never speaks of it. We asked him a few years ago if he had any desire to know his biological parents and he said, "No. You are the only parents I want to know and as far as I'm concerned, I have no other."

Lester is being married soon to a young woman whom he has never told that he was adopted. He asked

Male breast responds to hormone

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 74 years old, a male, and have been told that I have gynecomastia. Will you explain the reason for this and anything else pertaining to this disorder?

Where does the trichomonas germ come from? If you mean by that question where it was born in the distant primeval past, or beyond, I cannot answer. But I am sure you mean the germ that causes the disease.

the trade name for the drug cimetidine. It inhibits stomach acid production, which, if excessive, may result in heartburn. Feldene is piroxam. It's an anti-inflammatory drug and a pain reliever, a little like aspirin.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

the male breast frequently enlarges in the later stages of life, and again after surgery related to breast cancer. The enlargement is related to the increase in male hormone production.

The breast tissue grows in response to an imbalance between the body's male and female hormones.

When the male hormone (testosterone) becomes higher than it should in relation to his male hormone (testosterone), the breast tissue grows. With age, there is a tendency for the testosterone production to wane a bit, so the balance may tip in favor of the estradio. In youngsters, the completion of the normal hormonal regulation process usually corrects such temporary abnormalities. But this is not the whole story.

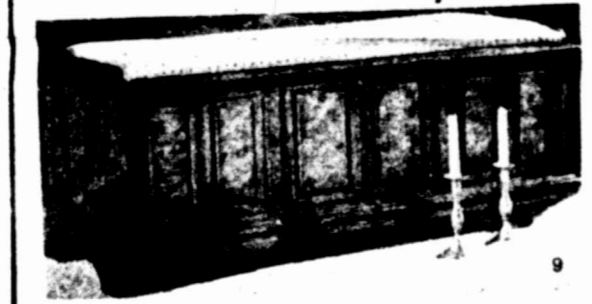

There are other causes for persistent or sudden unexplained breast enlargement in males. Certain drugs may lead to it. Digitals may cause it in some cases. In other

The enlargement in males is a benign condition and may get it from the other. It's found throughout the world, and millions upon millions of people have it. Often males can have it, have no symptoms, yet spread it. Usually, but not only always, the females who encounter it have an accompanying discharge. The germ can also survive outside the body for brief periods of time, so there is potential for non-sexual spread. That's uncommon, but real enough to save some marriages. Sexual activity is the usual way the germ is implanted.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am on three different medicines, and I would really like to know what they are and what they accomplish in the body. They are Corgard (for a fast pulse), Tagamet (for heartburns) and Feldene (for arthritis).—M.B.K.

Corgard is the trade name for nadolol. It's a blocker of nerve receptor cells on the heart muscle. By blocking them it slows the heart rate. Tagamet

1-24 count package frozen dinner rolls (Parkerhouse style)
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup margarine, melted
Coat tube pan with brown sugar - melted margarine mixture. Mix one package butterscotch pudding mix (instant), 1 cup sugar, 1 Tbsp. cinnamon. Melt one stick margarine or butter. Roll the frozen rolls in the melted margarine or butter; dip in the sugar mixture. Stand rolls up in pan; pressing them into brown sugar mixture. Use all butter and sugar mixture by sprinkling on top. Let rise overnight. Bake for 30 minutes the next morning at 325 degrees to 350 degrees.

WIND AND WAVES MILK PUNCH
Jobeth Corwin
1 1/2 quarts softened vanilla ice cream
3 cups chilled pineapple juice
1/2 cup orange juice
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
4 cups cold milk
In a mixing bowl while beating softened ice cream, gradually add fruit juices, then milk. Beat until frothy and pour into chilled punch bowl. Yield: 3 quarts.

SOME ENCHANTED CHICKEN
Gaye Ann Cowan
3 or 4 whole chicken breasts
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
4 green onions, chopped
1/2 cup vegetable oil, divided
1 small can sliced water chestnuts
1 small jar mushrooms
1 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 Tbsps. cornstarch
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
dash pepper
Slice and then dice chicken. Fry until opaque. Remove from pan. Add fresh vegetables to skillet and cook until translucent. Place chicken back in skillet with vegetables. In a separate bowl mix cornstarch, soy sauce, sugar, chicken broth, and salt. Add to skillet. Cook until sauce is thick, stirring constantly. Serve over rice.

Gaye Ann Cowan
Chicken breasts
1 cup orange juice
1 small can tomato sauce
2 Tbsps. soy sauce
1 Tbsp. molasses
1 tsp. garlic salt
3 Tbsps. Worcestershire
1 Tbsp. brown sugar
3/4 tsp. paprika
slice one onion
slice one green pepper
Take chicken breasts, skinned and dredged in flour and salt and pepper. Fry until lightly brown in oil. Add to other ingredients, mixed, and cook, covered, at 250 degrees for one hour. Serve over rice.

1/2 cup water
1/2 tsp. salt
3 tsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. paprika
After simmering meat balls in sauce for 30 minutes, serve over cooked rice. Serves four.

CEREMONIAL SWEET-SOUR PORK
Pat Anderson
2 cups cubed lean pork (1 lb.), or cubed pork chops
Marinate in: 1 Tbsp. dry sherry, 1 Tbsp. soy sauce, for at least 20 minutes.
Sweet-sour sauce, see recipe

MEAT BALLS TONKINESE
Jane Overman
1 lb. ground meat
3/4 cup oatmeal
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped water chestnuts
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. onion salt
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
Mix well; make into small solid balls and brown in margarine. Drain. Simmer in sauce for 30 minutes.

BLOODY MARY'S MANGO SAUCE
Mickie Burcham
6 cups green or half ripe mango slices (4-5 mangoes)
1 1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
Cook mango slices in

2 Tbsps. cornstarch, mixed with 1/2 cup water
1 14 oz. can pineapple chunks (drained) (optional)
Mix sugar, catsup, juice, vinegar and garlic together. Stir and bring to a boil. Stir in the cornstarch mixture; stir until sauce is thickened. If you are using pineapple chunks, do not add until just before serving. They should only be heated through, not cooked.

Make a smooth paste of sugar, cornstarch, salt and one cup of coconut milk. Combine one cup of milk with remaining cup of coconut milk and cook slowly until hot. Add cornstarch paste and stir constantly until mixture thickens. Pour into 8 or 9 inch square cake pan. Cool, then chill. Cut into 2 or 3 inch cubes. Serve on mango leaves.

SEA FOAM SALAD
Pat Anderson
1 No. 2 1/2 can pears
1 pkg. lime gelatin
2 small pgs. cream cheese
2 Tbsp. salad dressing
1 cup whipping cream
Drain pears and heat one cup of juice. Dissolve gelatin in hot juice. When cool and slightly set, add cream cheese and salad dressing, which have been softened together. Mash the pears with a fork or strain and add to the gelatin. Whip the cream and fold into salad. Chill in a mold or pyrex dish.

SPECIAL ISLAND PIE
Pat Anderson
1/2 cup melted butter
1 1/2 cup sugar
4 eggs, beaten
1 Tbsp. corn meal
1 Tbsp. flour
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup coconut
1 tsp. vanilla
Mix all together. Pour into unbaked pie crust. Cook until set at 350 degrees.

SAXY LOOTELLAN'S SALAD
Jane Overman
1 cup canned mandarin oranges
1 cup pineapple chunks
1 cup coconut
1 cup sour cream
Mix well; chill and serve. If desired, add one cup marshmallows, which will make it a five cup salad.

COCKEYED PINEAPPLE COOKIES
Linda Holmes
2 cups flour, sifted
3 tps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt

1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup milk
1 cup diced candied pineapple
Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Add all of milk and mix to smooth dough. Mix in pineapple. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead lightly. Pat to 1/2 inch thick. Cut in "fingers" and brush with melted butter and sprinkle with granulated sugar. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 450 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

FRENCH PLANTERS' CHOICE CHEESECAKE
Marjorie Dodson
1 pkg. Duncan Hines pineapple supreme cake mix (or any other flavor)
3 Tbsps. oil
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 pks. (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
3/4 cup sugar
4 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
3 Tbsps. lemon juice (or other liquid)
2 cans pineapple pie filling (or other fillings, depending on flavor of cheesecake)
Reserve one cup of dry cake mix. In large bowl combine remaining cake mix, one egg, oil, brown sugar (mixture will be crumbly). Press crust mixture evenly into bottom and 1/4 way up the sides of a greased 13 by 9 inch pan. In same bowl, blend cream cheese and sugar. Add three eggs and reserved cake mix. Beat one minute at medium speed. At low speed slowly add milk, lemon juice; mix until smooth. Pour into crust. Bake at 300 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes, until center is firm. When cool, top with pie filling; chill before serving. Store in refrigerator. May be frozen.

BALI HAI COCONUT MILK
Mickie Burcham
Meat from two coconuts
2 cups cream
1 cup milk
Dice coconut or cut into pieces about 1/4 inch thick. Combine cream and milk in a pan, bring to a boil. Place one cup of diced coconut with 1/2 cup cream-milk in electric blender. Cover and turn on high speed for ten seconds. Pour into bowl. Repeat process until mixture is used

Singles preparing meals to eat at home

There is a growing tendency among people who live alone to prepare their own meals rather than go to a restaurant, especially with the high cost of eating out. And singles of both sexes are leaning toward something a little more personal than a TV tray.

Brillat-Savarin, the great 19th-century food writer, loved to cook, even though he was a bachelor who often ate alone. He once remarked that "animals feed, man eats, only a man of wit knows how to dine."

Singles who have acquired a liking for whipping up meals for one or two soon learn that the main problem is quantity. It isn't always easy to prepare small amounts of food. Roasts you can forget, unless you like them warmed over. And large fish are out.

But frozen foods, for some reason, are often packaged in a size that a couple, or even a hungry single, can dispose of. Most supermarkets also package steaks, chops, chicken parts and hamburger in small amounts, as well as larger ones.

Singles quickly learn the use of leftovers, since they often wind up with some, no matter how careful they may be. Scrambled egg remains can be used as a stuffing for tomatoes. Leftover vegetables can serve as the base for a hearty soup. And, if you must have that roast, you can use the remains for hash or a stew.

Dining alone can be depressing at times, which prompted one bachelor to suggest that morale should be kept up by serving meals in a cheerful atmosphere, with cloth napkins, silverware and maybe a vase of flowers.

It also helps to have something festive with the meal, and this usually falls into the sweets category. Homemade ice cream makes a nice ending to the meal, and what's left can be kept for weeks

Cajuns swamp bayous for crawfish races

By RICHARD STEWART
The Houston Chronicle

BRIDGE CITY, Texas (AP) — The sleek racing steeds are at the starting gates, the racing commissioner holds up his arm and the noisy crowd quiets down.

The commissioner starts the race with words familiar to all racing fans: "Hot boudin and cold couscous, come on, crawfish, push, push, push."

Eight crawfish head for the center of the race track in a dash that brings cheers from the crowd. Some crawfish walk forward, some go backward. Some go in circles and some just sort of sit there as if they were trying to figure out what's going on.

What's going on is crawfish racing, a not-always-serious sport that's a regular feature of dozens of festivals and Cajun gatherings in Southwest Louisiana and Southeast Texas.

Crawfish are humble crustaceans that inhabit swamps, ditches and a growing number of ponds that used to be rice fields in Texas and Louisiana.

Crawfish, sometimes affectionately called mud bugs and sometimes even called crayfish by Yankees and other unfortunates who have not yet been exposed to Cajun culture, are not often known for their speed.

They are, however, much cheaper to raise than thoroughbred horses and as Texas Racing Commissioner A.J. Judice points out, "You can always eat the losers."

Judice has long been involved in a campaign to promote Cajun culture in Texas. That campaign required frequent trips to festivals and fais-do-dos in Louisiana. In 1959 Judice made a fateful trip to Breax Bridge, La., for that city's 100th anniversary celebration. That celebration grew into one of the country's most famous festivals.

It was there that Judice first saw crawfish races. He vowed to return to Breax Bridge with a racing crawfish of his own.

In 1963 Judice's crawfish Tante La-La won the world's championship crawfish race at Breax Bridge. The race was held at 8:30 on a morning after a night of partying and Judice and Tante La-La were the only ones who showed up for the race, but Judice insists that Tante La-La would have won even if she had competition.

That was when Judice met Jim Braud, 59, the owner of a photo store in Port Neches. The two decided to import crawfish racing to Texas. They were soon joined by Buddy Porter, 57, who operates a floor covering business down the street from Braud's store.

Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe once appointed the trio the official crawfish racing commissioners of Texas. Nobody ever appointed any other commissioners or took away their commission, so the three men still consider themselves commissioners and say no crawfish race in Texas is official unless they are there to oversee it.

Crawfish racing in Texas is clean, Judice says. In Louisiana trainers sometimes put hot sauce on their steeds to speed them up, or tempt them to run faster with a promise of boudin, he says.

A significant change in crawfish race tracks surfaced early this year. A recent crawfish festival in Bridge City featured tracks in which the crawfish started on the outside of the track and waddled to the middle.

Always before the crawfish had been set loose in the middle of the track and the first one to reach the outside won.

The new track has made for faster races, Judice says. Before, some smart crawfish would see the smiling Cajuns around the sides of the track and would hesitate to head in their direction. Now the crawfish follow their natural instinct to flee hungry Cajuns.

Briar to vote again on incorporation

FORT WORTH (AP) — The former city of Briar may be making a comeback — just two weeks after a majority of voters abolished their local government.

Briar, just outside Fort Worth, officially was reincorporated last week by the Tarrant County Commissioners Court. Residents voted April 2 to abolish the city of 1,810.

But on Monday, Tarrant County Judge Mike Moncrief authorized a reincorporation election August 13.

A petition bearing the names of 61 registered voters was submitted — 44 more than required to call an election, said county legal adviser Marvin Collins.

The petition proposes to re-create the city in 1,243 acres — about a tenth the size of the original Briar — and contain about 800 residents, said Fort Worth attorney Henry Kerry, who wrote the petition.

"Briar just keeps coming back, doesn't it?" he said. Concerned Citizens of Briar, which was behind the disincorporation effort, had claimed residents would receive better law enforcement and road maintenance services by disassembling the city government and reverting to county government.

The group also said that if Briar had been left intact, a city property tax would have been inevitable.

"I feel it is ridiculous that people will have to be put through this again," group spokeswoman Sherry Davis said of the reincorporation drive.

"We beat them once and we can do it again," she said.

Former Briar Mayor Sparky Pearson, who opposed the disincorporation, predicted his side will win this time.

"Some of us us never really wanted to do away with the city," he said. "...We need to provide our own police protection for the people in the area."

Pearson said much of the support for disincorporation came from residents of the Wise County portion of Briar, which also stretched into Parker County. The petition calls for Briar to be primarily in Tarrant County.

But Ms. Davis noted that the April 2 vote was 495 to abolish the city and 120 to retain it.

"Let me assure not all of those 495 people live in Wise County," she said.

The Tarrant County Sheriff's Department will maintain control of all city buildings and assets until the election.

Eyes of Texas science focus on big telescope

ABILENE (AP) — Scientists at the University of Texas McDonald Observatory want to build a 300-inch telescope that would be the world's largest. The "Eye of Texas" will be built as soon as the necessary funds are raised, Dr. Harlan J. Smith said in a speech at Abilene Christian University Monday.

"I'm very confident it will be built. I just can't tell you when," said Smith, director of the observatory in the Davis Mountains of West Texas.

The giant telescope and a supporting dome would cost a total of about $32 million, he said. But Smith contended the cost was not exorbitant, saying it would cost about $100 million to copy the United States' largest telescope, the 200-inch instrument at Mount Palomar in California.

The cost for the Texas telescope is lower because of its unique design, added Smith.

"This is one-tenth of the cost of the classical design and better," he said.

The telescope would be the world's "most efficient bucket for collecting light," Smith said.

Librarian makes living answering weird questions by phone

By LINDA GIBSON
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — You might never need to know where you can sell two pounds of human hair, but Jim Hicks can tell you.

He knows, too, why the boundaries of the 50 states weren't drawn so they'd all be square, and he can recite the legend of the sand dollar.

Those are some of the 35,000 questions that Hicks, head of reference services at the Central Arkansas Library System, and five reference librarians answered last year.

No question is turned away, Hicks said in a recent telephone interview. The only limitation is the time it takes to answer a question. "Term papers are a good example," he said. "We don't do term papers over the phone."

Hicks has answered weird queries for seven years. The query about the sand dollar is the one that stands out in his mind.

"It took us awhile to find it," he said. "The sand dollar has features on it that symbolize Christ. The five holes in it symbolize the five nail holes, for example."

Hicks said the caller with the hair for sale was told to try wig shops. The person asking why state boundaries weren't drawn square was told that natural boundaries such as rivers and mountains made that task impossible.

Gail Lawrence, reference librarian at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, said she and her three colleagues answer 50 to 100 questions a day. "It's a great field if you like trivia. One of the better questions we got when I was at Ohio State was, 'I'd like some information on a short war for a short paper.'"

Ms. Lawrence also has been asked where the world's largest nudist camp is.

So, where is it? "It's in the Book of World Records," she said, laughing. "A reference librarian never remembers the answers to the questions. They remember where they found them."

Telephoned Tuesday, though, she did a quick check and said the biggest nudist camp was in Ile du Levant in southern France. It housed up to 15,000 nudists until it closed down in 1965, she said.

Depending on the library, some questions — medical or legal ones, for instance — won't be answered. And some calls need no answer.

"People are lonely and want to talk to someone," said an employee at a newspaper library. The employee, who asked that the library not be identified, remembers one caller who wanted to warn the newspaper that Republicans had implanted devices in Arkansas' brains to make them vote for former Gov. Frank White, who ran for re-election in November.

He lost anyway.

Woman wins $1.2 million in lottery

VANDERGRIFT, Pa. (AP) — Alta Smith had planned to play her family's birthdays in last week's state Lotto game. But she made a mistake in one of the numbers — and now she's $1.2 million richer.

"My son was sitting right there when I picked the numbers and he never corrected me," said Mrs. Smith, 54, a high school cook for 19 years.

Mrs. Smith played the number 24 instead of 25, her daughter-in-law's birthday. Friday's winning Lotto series was 3-9-17-18-22-24.

"My daughter-in-law said, 'Mom, don't you worry about it, we'll celebrate my birthday on the 24th,'" Mrs. Smith said.

The new millionaire said she didn't expect her life to change drastically, despite 21 annual payments of $60,495.

She said she will probably retire from her job at Kiski Area High School at the end of the school year.

Mrs. Smith said she may buy a new car to replace one wrecked two months ago. She said "finances" prevented her from buying a new one earlier.

Cooper pins 23-3 blow-out on Steers

Coog batters rake BSHS for 20 hits

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

"I've never scored that many runs...it sure is nice." And so chuckled Cooper coach Andy Malone after his team's 23-3 victory over Big Spring Tuesday afternoon. Across the Steer Park diamond, however, the doors were shut tight as coach Frank Ibarra tried to regroup his troops.

"We just didn't play good baseball...we just were a little too laid back," he said. "When you make something like 10 errors, that's not wanting it bad enough."

Actually it was just nine errors, coach, but we get the point. Cooper raked Jinx Valenzuela for 14 basehits and tagged reliever Dean Gartman for six more in rolling to the most lopsided victory in District 4-5A this season. That comes only days after Midland Lee's 19-2 thrashing of Abilene High.

Big Spring-Cooper boxscore can be found in Scorecard. The Steers make up a non-district game today at Snyder with Adam Rodriguez starting the 4 p.m. game.

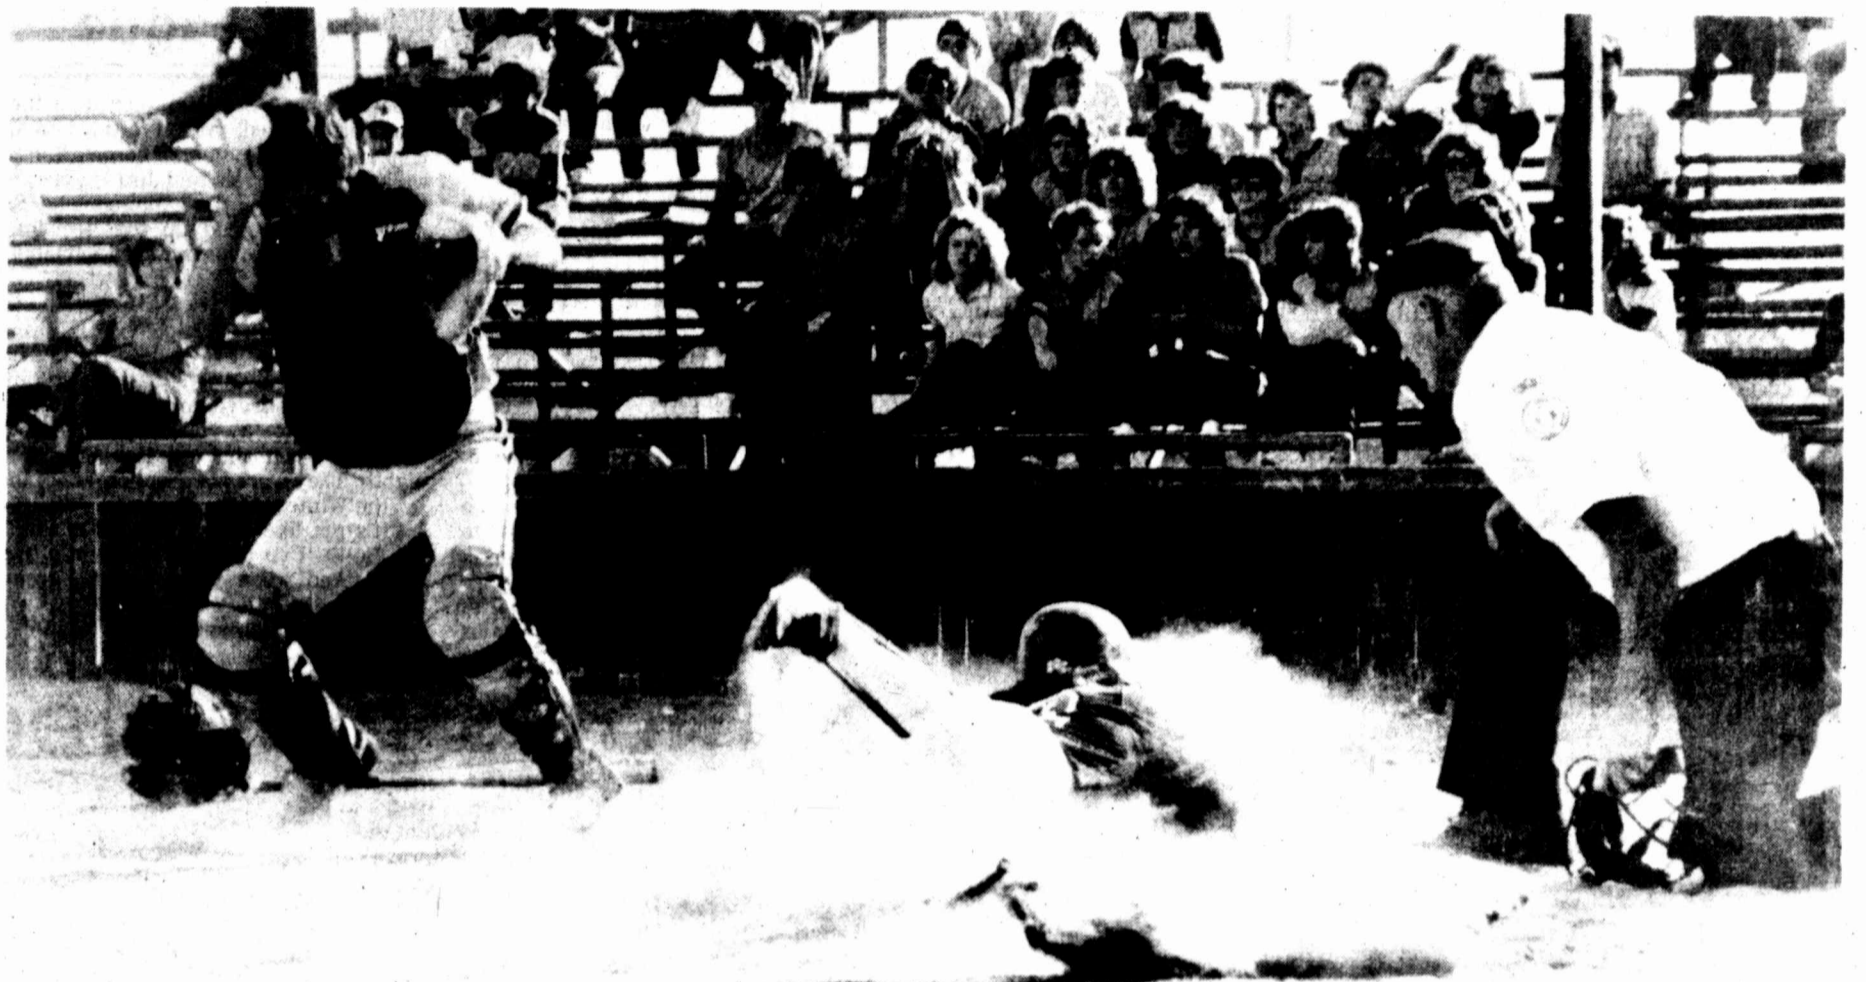

Big Spring was never in the game. Cooper scored three times in the top of the first as Larry Martin and Donnie Allen knocked in runs and with the exception of a scoreless second, mounted runs the rest of the game to attain the 23-run total.

Kurt Parker, who entered the game 2-for-20 in district play, continued to wield a big stick against Big Spring, rapping four basehits and scoring three times. Malone let all 18 players he brought on the bus take a turn at the plate and all but pitcher Greg Galbraith reached base.

"We've lost something like five games by one run in district," Malone said, "so if could take a few of these runs and used them back down the line, we'd be right in the running."

The Cougars were hitting the ball well before arriving in Big Spring. They pounded out 14 hits last week in a 17-13 win over Odessa and reached double figures in Saturday's 7-6 win over Midland.

Meanwhile, the Steers — who has scored 34 runs in their last three games — went silent. An unearned run and Alan Trevino's sacrifice fly in the fifth finally put Big Spring on the scoreboard after Cooper has built a

ANOTHER RUN TO THE ROUT — Cooper second baseman Nathan Jones raises another duststorm as he slides into home plate with one of 12 runs the Cougars scored 19-0 cushion. George Bancroft singled in another run in the seventh.

A 12-run fifth inning for Cooper had cracked the game wide open; all but one run in the rally was unearned. Allen reached on an error and Tommy Tarr tripled home on the next pitch. David Knapp was awarded first on a catcher's inference call and Clay Clemons flied out to right, scoring Allen.

Under normal conditions, that would have been the third out. Tuesday, however, 12 more Cougars advanced to the batter's box and 10 more runs scored.

"I don't think it was Jinx's (Valenzuela) fault," Ibarra said. Of the 19 runs the senior left-hander surrendered, only five were earned. "We've got to learn it's not going to be handed to you. We were just too relaxed. It was embarrassing."

In the fifth inning of Tuesday's game at Steer Park, Big Spring catcher Marty Rodriguez tries to keep the ball in play. Cooper won the game, 23-3.

Despite the end result, the Steers stand a better chance of making the playoffs than the Cougars. Big Spring is 6-5 in district and trails co-leaders San Angelo and Lee by two games. Cooper upped its record 5-6 with the victory.

"That's what I told them in the locker-room," Ibarra said. "We're going to finish the season strong. We're going to do everything we possibly can to win our last three games."

4-AAAA Roundup

AHS rips Central; 'Cats, Lee now tied

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Thanks to Abilene High, the District 4-5A baseball race tightened up Tuesday.

The Eagles, 19-2 losers Saturday to Midland Lee, returned the favor with a 15-0 pasting of San Angelo Tuesday afternoon. The loss dropped the Bobcats back into a tie with Lee for first place. The Rebels clipped Permian 6-1. In other games, Odessa nipped Midland 7-5 in 10 innings and Cooper pounded Big Spring 23-3.

Here's how they went around the league Tuesday afternoon:

Abilene 15, Central 0

ABILENE — David Oden collected three hits and drove in six runs as the Eagles turned the tables on their district competition.

Jay Gravens, who didn't make it through the first inning Saturday, went the distance for Abilene, giving up just four hits to the Bobcats.

The loss snapped Central's eight-game winning streak which had propelled the 'Cats to the top of the league race.

Gravens added 3 RBI while Matt Waldmann and Ricky Rodriguez had three hits each.

Athletes honored at Howard

ONE OF TWO MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS — All-American Neil Haskins shows off her Most Valuable Player award she received at Tuesday night's All-Sports

Banquet at Howard College. Haskins shared the honor with teammate Susan Cordell, each taking home separate trophies.

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Athletes in basketball and baseball programs at Howard College were honored at the school's All-Sports Banquet Tuesday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Dr. Bob Riley, vice-president at the college, was the guest speaker for the event. Other honorees included intramural winners, basketball and volleyball teams at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and the HC rodeo team.

Four awards were presented to Hawk basketball players. Sophomore Nate Givens was honored as the team's and the Western Junior College Athletic Conference's leading scorer and rebounder, guard Leon Issac as the team leader in assists, forward Reggie Childress as the Hustling Hawk and Dwight Harris as the Newcomer of the Year.

Big Spring begins regional golf

LUBBOCK — Big Spring joined 14 other teams here this morning for the Region I-5A girl's golf tournament at the Meadowbrook Municipal Golf Course.

The Lady Steers are playing the two-event without Diana Jones who remained in Big Spring with the flu. Competing will be senior Patricia Jones, sophomores Sandra Arellano and Deborah Edwards and freshman Pam Martinez. Other teams on hand for the tournament are District 4-5A champion Midland High, L.D. Bell, Arlington Heights High, Bryan, Paschal, Bel Air, El Paso Hanks, El Paso Coronado No. 1 and 2 teams, Amarillo high, El Paso Eastwood, Denton, Tascosa and Westwood.

Reputed Mafia boss loses bid to leave jail

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Reputed Mafia chieftain Carlos Marcello lost a bid for freedom Tuesday in the U.S. Supreme Court and will remain jailed pending lengthy appeals of his conviction in the Brilab bribery case.

He had been freed on $300,000 bond but prosecutors acted suddenly last week to have him jailed to keep him from fleeing the country.

Ironically, the government has been trying for about 30 years to deport Marcello, born in North Africa of Italian parents.

Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White turned down Marcello's plea and also refused to postpone the jailing of Marcello's co-defendant in the Brilab case, Charles E. Roemer, who at one time was the No.2 man in Louisiana state government.

Roemer has until April 25 to surrender for a three-year sentence. He and Marcello were convicted in 1981 of conspiracy to violate the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) in a "sting" operation aimed at bribing state officials.

Marcello's lawyers were out of the office and unavailable for comment on the justice's ruling, said a secretary. Roemer, called at his Bossier Parish office, was out with no word on when he would return, a secretary said.

Marcello, 73, was jailed Friday after prosecutors said they had evidence — never made public — that he intended to flee the country rather than serve his seven-year sentence. He also has a 10-year sentence pending for trying to bribe a federal judge in Los Angeles.

On Monday, officials announced that he was to be transferred to the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo., because of his age. Bill Garrison, a spokesman for the U.S. Bureau of Prisons' district headquarters in Dallas, would not say when the transfer was planned, for security reasons.

Marcello's lawyers filed a motion with U.S. District Judge Morey Sear, asking that Marcello be kept in New Orleans so he can help with the appeals. But Garrison said Marcello could be held in Springfield for three months before being transferred to a regular federal prison. It is the same medical center where Marcello last went to jail.

He was imprisoned for taking a swing in 1968 at what he thought was a newspaper photographer at the airport here. The photographer was an FBI agent and Marcello was convicted of assault on a federal agent.

Marcello served five months of his two-year assault sentence at Springfield before being freed March 12, 1971.

In 1961, federal authorities literally forced him out of the United States and left him in Guatemala, but he slipped back a month later.

He was brought to New Orleans when he was a few months old but neglected to become a U.S. citizen. An Italian court ruled in 1967 that his father was Italian, though the family was in Tunis, Africa, when Carlos was born on Feb. 6, 1910, under the name Calogero Minacori.

Students protest rebel flag

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Black students prayed and sang in front of the University of Mississippi administration building Tuesday amid campus tension over use of the Rebel flag as a school symbol.

During the brief demonstration, about 100 students sang "We Shall Overcome," and recited The Lord's Prayer before walking away, an observer said.

The rally followed a Monday night march by several hundred white students who waved the Stars and Bars flag and sang "Dixie" in front of a black fraternity house.

None of the blacks left the fraternity house, and there was no confrontation as Oxford police dispersed the whites.

University spokesman Ronnie Caldwell said Monday night's demonstration was neither reasonable nor calm, "but no one was hurt and there were no confrontations."

"There was a lot of screaming and yelling and milling around. They sang 'Dixie' and chanted 'Hotty Toddy,'" a university cheer, he said. He compared it to a pep rally.

But Charles Griffin, a black student journalist, said the gathering was hostile.

"They were yelling 'nigger night' and 'save the flag,'" Griffin said.

Oxford police chief Billy White estimated the crowd at about 500 and said the marchers were orderly "in that there wasn't any fighting, just yelling and carrying on."

"We just asked them to leave. We walked up and asked them to leave and they went back to the campus," White said.

He said the highway in front of the fraternity house was blocked for about 15 or 20 minutes. He said about 10 or 12 policemen, both university and city, were used for crowd control.

Last fall, black students called for a halt to some Ole Miss traditions at athletic games, including the use of the Rebel flag, singing "Dixie," and display of the Colonel Reb cartoon mascot. The blacks called the symbols racist and offensive.

Terry Robinson, a junior from Gulfport who participated in the Monday night march, said that the Rebel flag as a symbol of Ole Miss was not a racial issue.

"This demonstration is simply showing support for Ole Miss," Robinson said. "It (The flag) never meant anything else until the blacks brought it up."

"If they loved Ole Miss like we do, they would just let it die," Robinson said.

Braniff files reorganization plan to stall court

FORT WORTH (AP) — Braniff International Corp., whose "Flying Colors" once crisscrossed three continents, has filed a bankruptcy reorganization plan that would turn the grounded airline into a small flight maintenance operation.

The plan, filed Monday, leaves the door open for resumed air service. But Braniff Chairman Howard Putnam said a proposal to put the carrier back in the air would have to come within four weeks and offer more than the latest of several takeover bids by the Hyatt Corp. hotel chain.

Braniff officials asked U.S. Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers to give the airline until May 16 "to develop and to propose a viable flying operation."

"Our No. 1 priority is to get airplanes back in the air and people back to work again," Putnam said.

Under the reorganization, Braniff would run its maintenance operations at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and Dallas' Love Field. Putnam estimated that the operation, which would employ about 200 of Braniff's 2,000 former workers, would gross $10 million to $15 million the first year.

"It's not big. It's small. But without a flight operation, it's the best we can come up with," Putnam said. The reorganization plan must be approved within 60 days by more than 50,000 creditors, then studied by the court to make sure it follows the bankruptcy code.

Braniff, whose flight system once included North and South America and Europe, faced a $1 billion debt when it ceased operations May 13 and filed for bankruptcy protection. The company owes $467.5 million to creditors whose loans were backed by the airline's assets.

Braniff officials spent the weekend studying the latest Hyatt takeover proposal, which is supported by former employees who would nearly all be returned to work. The hotel firm initially offered $10 million in a plan that called for creditors to provide $50 million and gave Hyatt 80 percent control of the airline, but the creditors vetoed that proposal. Hyatt has since increased its offer $35 million, but company officials say creditors have offered only $15 million while $60 million is needed for a revived airline to succeed.

Last fall, a joint operating venture between Braniff and Pacific Southwest Airlines was rejected by an appeals court. If an agreeable flight operation plan is found, Braniff has 60 days to make changes in its reorganization proposal and submit it for a new vote by creditors. If the reorganization is not affirmed by the court, Braniff loses its exclusive right to determine its own fate, and anyone can then file a plan to be voted on by creditors.

Grumman sues over bus buy

NEW YORK (AP) — Grumman Corp. sued for $500 million Tuesday, charging that it was flimflammed into its 1978 purchase of the Fxible Co., which manufactured more than 2,600 faulty buses.

Grumman asked for $250 million in compensatory damages and $250 million in punitive damages against Rohr Industries Inc. of Chula Vista, Calif.

Fxible was one of only two companies to manufacture a new generation of energy-efficient buses mandated by the federal government, and the bus was sold across the country.

In New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Houston, Kansas City, Mo., and other cities, the frames of the buses cracked and the fleets were taken off the street within months of their debuts in 1980.

Grumman launched an eight-month effort to identify and fix the problems. The company determined that the Rohr design was inadequate and then redesigned and fixed the buses.

Grumman, of Bethpage, N.Y., and its subsidiary, Grumman Allied Industries Inc., filed the suit in U.S. District Court in Uniondale, N.Y.

L.J. Peeples, director of corporate public affairs for Rohr, was in meetings Tuesday and not available for comment, his secretary said.

Grumman alleged that Rohr claimed its Model 870 Fxible bus had been tested for 500,000 miles of service when it had not been tested at all, and it charged it was never told that a prototype of the 870 developed severe cracks due to wear.

Rohr apparently covered up the facts because it had suffered losses and desperately needed to sell the Fxible subsidiary to stay in business, Grumman charged.

If the facts had been known, Grumman said, it would not have bought Fxible.

Grumman said the $250 million in compensatory damages consisted of the costs of determining the problems and fixing them; the Fxible purchase price of $55 million minus the present value of Fxible assets; the loss of business opportunities; and damages to Grumman's reputation.

Grumman said it learned of Rohr's alleged duplicity when it was negotiating to sell Fxible's assets to General Automotive Corp. in February. That sale is still being negotiated, the company said.

The suit was assigned to Judge Jacob Mishler.

Israeli army welcomes new chief of staff

JERUSALEM (AP) — Lt. Gen. Moshe Levy took over as the new Israeli military chief of staff Tuesday from Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan, who retired from the military with a record stained by the Beirut massacre. The 6-foot-5-inch Levy had to bend down so that Prime Minister Menachem Begin could pin on new rank insignia as he was promoted from major general in a brief ceremony in the prime minister's office building.

Levy, 47, said he would do his best so that the army would continue to provide security for Israel and "to allow the government the freedom of political action that it needs."

Begin praised the retiring Eytan, 54, and said Israel owes him "an indescribable debt."

Eytan's five-year's as commander of all Israel's military forces was the longest and stormiest term Israel has ever given a chief of staff. The state inquiry commission that probed last September's massacre in Beirut accused Eytan of negligence and breach of duty in failing to foresee the slaughter or to stop it once it had begun. The commission said it would have recommended his dismissal if he had not been about to retire. The commission's findings also censured other officers and forced the resignation of Defense Minister Ariel Sharon.

The massacre of Palestinians in two camps surrounded by Israeli troops was carried out by Lebanese Christian militiamen.

Eytan's remarks at the ceremony for Levy indicated he would not change anything in a military career he started as a teenager. "If I had to choose my path again from the beginning, that is the way I would choose," said the gruff-spoken general.

Eytan has said he plans to return to his farm home, where his hobby is carpentry. But many Israelis had doubts that he would leave public life.

The daily Davar reported Sunday that Begin would like Eytan to be No. 2 on his list for re-election in 1985 with the Likud bloc, and some expect Eytan might find an ideological home in the far-right Tehiya (Renaissance) Party.

Israelis protest PLO insult

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A Palestinian diplomat laid a wreath Tuesday at a monument to the Jewish heroes of the Warsaw ghetto uprising, then called the Israelis the "new Nazis."

Tel Aviv Mayor Shlomo Lahat said he would protest to the Polish government. "The murderers have found a way to desecrate the holy memory of the heroes of the Warsaw ghetto," said Lahat, one of the Israelis who came to Warsaw for observance of the 40th anniversary of the doomed Jewish uprising against the Nazi occupiers.

Palestine Liberation Organization diplomat Fouad Yaseen, referring to the 70,000 Jews who died in the World War II fighting, said "they were the victims of fascism and so are we. The new Nazis are Zionists and Israel."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Education Minister Zevulun Hammer called on his country's delegation to return home in protest, according to his spokesman Israel Cohen. Cohen said Hammer also advised members of the delegation by telephone to complain to the Polish government "over its deceit in the matter."

Mayor Lahat said he would lodge a protest with the government. He said allowing the PLO representative to lay the wreath was "contrary to a promise given to us yesterday by Vice Premier (Mieczyslaw) Rakowski."

The head of the American delegation, Rabbi Alexander Schindler of New York, said he would not protest the Arab action, but called the Arab gesture "obscene."

"I think that to have the representative of a people that murders Israeli women and children is a mockery, a hideous, hollow mockery, of everything that happened in the ghetto," Schindler said.

By late Tuesday, there was no official Polish reaction to the dispute.

Polish authorities had attempted to avert the confrontation by persuading the Palestinian to join other diplomats in a separate observance about two hours after ceremony for the visiting Jews.

A Labor Party member of the Israeli Parliament, Rabbi Menachem Hacohen, said he would boycott a gathering at Warsaw's Grand Theater Tuesday night because of the Palestinian action.

"I refuse to go to this celebration," Hacohen said. "I think that we have to protest to the Polish government, and we will protest to the government."

Lahat and other foreign Jews visiting Warsaw for the ceremonies met with Poland's leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski and separately with with Rakowski on Monday.

Mall manager named

The Big Spring Mall has a new boss at the helm. Big Spring resident Jane Meldahl was named manager of the Big Spring Mall effective Wednesday, April 13, according to Bramalea, Ltd., owners of mall.

Mrs. Meldahl replaces Mark Sheedy who has moved into the private sector to work for Partee Enterprises.

She has been a resident of Big Spring for about one year and had previously worked at KBYG radio. Mrs. Meldahl came to Big Spring from Houston where she was employed by the University of Texas' school for Public Health. While at the school, she served as administrative assistant to the dean in charge of building maintenance. Because of her experience in managing the daily maintenance of buildings, the Bramalea officials said they felt she would have no trouble adapting to the mall operation.

...new mall manager

Mrs. Meldahl said she has no changes planned for the mall other than continuing the facility's involvement in community activities.

"I want to involve all aspects of the community," she said. "And I welcome community input as to what we need. The scope of the mall is to meet the needs of the community, whatever they may be at the time."

The Big Spring Mall has been open since March of 1982 and currently has about 20 businesses in residency.

Tax tip for amended return

Left something out of your tax return after you've already filed, such as a deduction or an income figure? The Internal Revenue Service says you can change your original tax return simply by filing corrected figures on Form 1040X.

The original return can be amended at any time during the three years following the due date (including extensions) of the original, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever was later.

Taxpayers can receive copies of Form 1040X and additional information by calling the IRS Tax Forms Information number in the local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The IRS also reminds that April 30 is the deadline for employers who must report on Social Security and withheld federal income taxes for the first quarter of 1983.

The deadline does not apply to employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial bank. They are allowed until May 10 to file Form 941, Employer Quarterly Federal Tax Return.

NOTICE MOORE GAS TREATING PLANT TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES

You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Construction Permit Application No. 9297 by Hunt Oil Company to construct an Amine Gas Treating Plant in Howard County, Texas. This plant will be located in the NW 1/4 of the SW 1/4 of Section 18 of Block 33 in T&P RR Co. Survey or approximately 4.5 miles southwest of Big Spring, Texas. The facility proposes to emit the following air contaminants: Sulfur Dioxide, Oxides of Nitrogen, and Hydrogen Sulfide. The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board has made the preliminary determination to issue this permit. Before a permit can be issued for this facility, all emission sources must demonstrate compliance with all Rules and Regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of "best available control technology" to each emission source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards.

A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant including the preliminary analysis thereof is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Region 6 office at 1901 East 37th Street, Suite 101, Odessa, Texas 79762, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723. All interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. All comments received in writing by May 23, 1983, shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be made available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board office in Austin.

Shrinkage in civilian work force puzzles government

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — According to the federal government, the size of the U.S. civilian labor force dropped by 645,000 individuals between December and March, a phenomenon that is producing much head scratching.

Why did they leave? Where did they go? The questions become even more perplexing when it is found that one of the usual explanations — a rise in the number of discouraged workers — appears no longer to apply.

As students of the employment numbers know, discouraged workers — those who have given up looking for a job — are dropped from the work force, no longer to be counted even as unemployed.

A rise in the number of discouraged workers, therefore, would mean a resulting decline in the size of the work force. But it didn't happen.

In fact, the number of discouraged workers fell by 85,000 in the period, which would, it seems, have the exact opposite affect to what occurred. It would have enlarged rather than reduced the work force.

Jack Lavery, chief economist at Merrill Lynch, believes that a "meaningful contributor" to the labor force shrinkage could be the number of corporate programs to encourage early retirement. But, he says, "it is difficult to envision this accounting for the magnitude of the labor force decline."

The situation could be a consequence of statistical error or, perhaps, the inability of analysts to draw meaning from the statistics.

The disappearance, however, is loaded with consequence. As Lavery points out, the labor force decline accounts for almost the entire 0.5 percentage point drop in the civilian unemployment rate to 10.3 from 10.8 percent.

And that rate has been cited by the White House and celebrated by millions as evidence that recovery is under way.

Something seems odd too about the retail sales numbers. "Retail sales — who do you trust?" asks Citibank. Do you trust the storeowners, who report gains, or the Census Bureau, which seems to say something else?

According to the bureau, March retail sales rose only 0.3 percent from the same month a year earlier. And at the same time it was reporting that news, the bureau revised February's sales downward by 1.2 percent.

Again, the possibility of statistical flaw is being examined by those who use such reports.

One common question being asked is whether the Census Bureau is too heavily laden with data from established stores, and underrepresents newer outlets, such as computer stores.

Another possibility, say critics, is that the declining dollar sales at gasoline stations lowered the dollar figures significantly. Remember, they say, gasoline sales, measured in dollars, declined only because prices declined.

Citibank, it turns out, believes the Census Bureau. It suggests that one reason for the impression that retail sales were higher than the bureau measured them is that the public has heard mainly from department stores.

"It has to do with the tendency of the press to call on executives of department stores and similar outlets," says Citibank economist Alan Murray. But these stores, he points out, account for only 10 percent of retail sales.

He observes that general merchandise stores have outperformed the average since way back in the middle of 1982. Retail sales in general, he says, have been sluggish. Just as the Census Bureau says.

Housing industry on the mend

By The Associated Press
A key measure of home construction activity fell modestly in March, but economists say the housing industry continues toward a recovery from recession.

Commerce Department officials said Monday that builders began work on 9.2 percent fewer houses in March than the previous month. But the March figure still was 75.1 percent above the level of March 1982 when the economy was mired in recession.

"I think the current level is great," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, a Washington-based trade group.

The Commerce Department also said building permits for future construction fell 4 percent in March, to an annual rate of 1.43 million, after rising for six straight months.

In a more encouraging report, the government also said Monday that factory use rose for a fourth straight month in March, hitting the highest level since last summer.

And on Wall Street, investors appeared to be encouraged by the reports as the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 11.90 points, to a record 1,183.24. It was the eighth consecutive gain for the closely watched stock market indicator.

The last time the Dow put together a string of eight advances in a row was April 8-17, 1975. The average now has risen 406.82 points since Aug. 12.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 88.56 million shares, against 89.59 million Friday.

In its report on factories, the Federal Reserve Board said manufacturing plant use rose 0.7 percentage points to 69.4 percent of capacity, a gain that was expected because of last week's report that the nation's industrial production had risen 1.1 percent in March.

Robert Ortner, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the gains in production and capacity utilization "are effectively burying the '81-'82 recession."

He also said that with production lines reopening, the employment picture should continue to brighten for workers laid off during the recession.

The Federal Reserve Board said the factory use rate for the auto industry slipped a bit in March — to 58.8 percent of capacity from 59.1 percent in February — "but remained well above its depressed fourth-quarter level."

The small dip for cars was outweighed by "widespread increases in activity among manufacturing industries," the report said.

Those increases included the iron and steel industry, which "continued to reactivate capacity at a fast pace," the report said. "Its operating rate has risen from 35.5 percent last December to almost 52 percent in March."

The last time overall manufacturing factory use was as high as in March was August when it was at 69.8 percent, Monday's report said.

The rate was 79.8 percent when the recession began in July 1981. It fell to 67.4 percent in November, the downturn's apparent low point.

In other economic developments:

—The interest rate that commercial banks may pay starting today on six-month savings certificates will drop to 8.710 percent from 8.789 percent last week. Savings institutions will be limited to 8.96 percent, down from 9 percent last week. The changes are the result of the government's auction Monday of six-month Treasury bills.

—Improved European car sales helped General Motors Corp. set records for overseas sales in March and for the first quarter of this year.

Insurance gender rates under fire

NEW YORK (AP) — The two were bound to meet: An idealistically powerful movement to end sex distinctions in setting product prices and a financially powerful industry that sets rates on the basis of sex.

They have met on the battlefield of Congress, but having met, they may not be the natural enemies that some politicians think they are.

Both sides are arguing this issue: Should distinctions in the prices charged men and women be eliminated?

That is, should men and women be considered one and the same for insurance purposes. Almost everyone who has ever investigated the matter agrees there are indeed great statistical differences between them — in longevity, for example, and in the way they drive automobiles.

Women as a group live longer than men and one of the reasons they do is that they tend to drive more carefully than men. The statistics are irrefutable.

That being so, the insurance industry seeks to justify charging them less for straight life and auto insurance, which seems logical enough. But, because women live longer, they charge them more for annuities and pensions.

It is because of the latter distinction that most of the disputes have arisen.

The insurance industry thinks the disputes are groundless, and it is just as adamant in that respect as the nation's banks are in seeking to get rid of interest-income withholding for tax purposes.

But above all — and despite the industry's intense defense of sex as a pricing factor — some leaders of the industry have hinted that it might be possible to live with unisex actuarial tables.

If indeed such tables do come, however, they are bound to cause upheaval in the marketplace. Prices based on sex grouping go back many decades. Next to age, sex is perhaps the primary determinant of prices. To some degree, every company in the insurance industry uses it as a pricing factor.

There is a legal as well as moral and business issue too. Various laws cover discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion and national origin, the very substance of actuarial tables. Insurers do discriminate.

Their discrimination, however, is justified as being without the usual bias but as a simple recognition of the facts of life. But in doing so, the insurers treat people as a class rather than as individuals.

That comes close to being at the very heart of what Civil Rights Act framers had in mind: To end discrimination on the basis of class. But such discrimination — albeit without the usual bias — is an insurance keystone.

Whatever Congress decides, if it really does accept the issues head-on, may have more to do with how the insurance industry structures itself than with what women would pay for a lifetime of insurance.

Tors crush Andrews, 15-4

LAMESA — Gilbert Arrendondo slammed a two-run homer and John Joe Hernandez followed three batters later with a three-run shot in the fifth inning to charge the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes to a 15-4 win over Andrews here Tuesday afternoon.

The victory was the second straight for the Tors who finished the first half of the District 2-AAAA race with a 2-3 record. Andrews wound up 1-4.

Lamesa pounded five Mustang pitchers for 13 hits, scoring 14 runs in the first three innings of the game.

Arrendondo lined an RBI double and Steve Teague a two-run basehit in the first inning as Lamesa rolled to a 4-0 lead. In the second, Hernandez knocked in two runs with a double after Teague walked in a run. Kenneth Williams added a run-scoring double in the inning.

The Tors broke open the game with their five-run third. Blake McKinney walked and Arrendondo followed with his seventh home run of the year. Teague singled and David Smith was hit by a pinch after the second out and Hernandez boomed his first home run of the year to ice the game.

The contest was called after five innings on the 10-run rule.

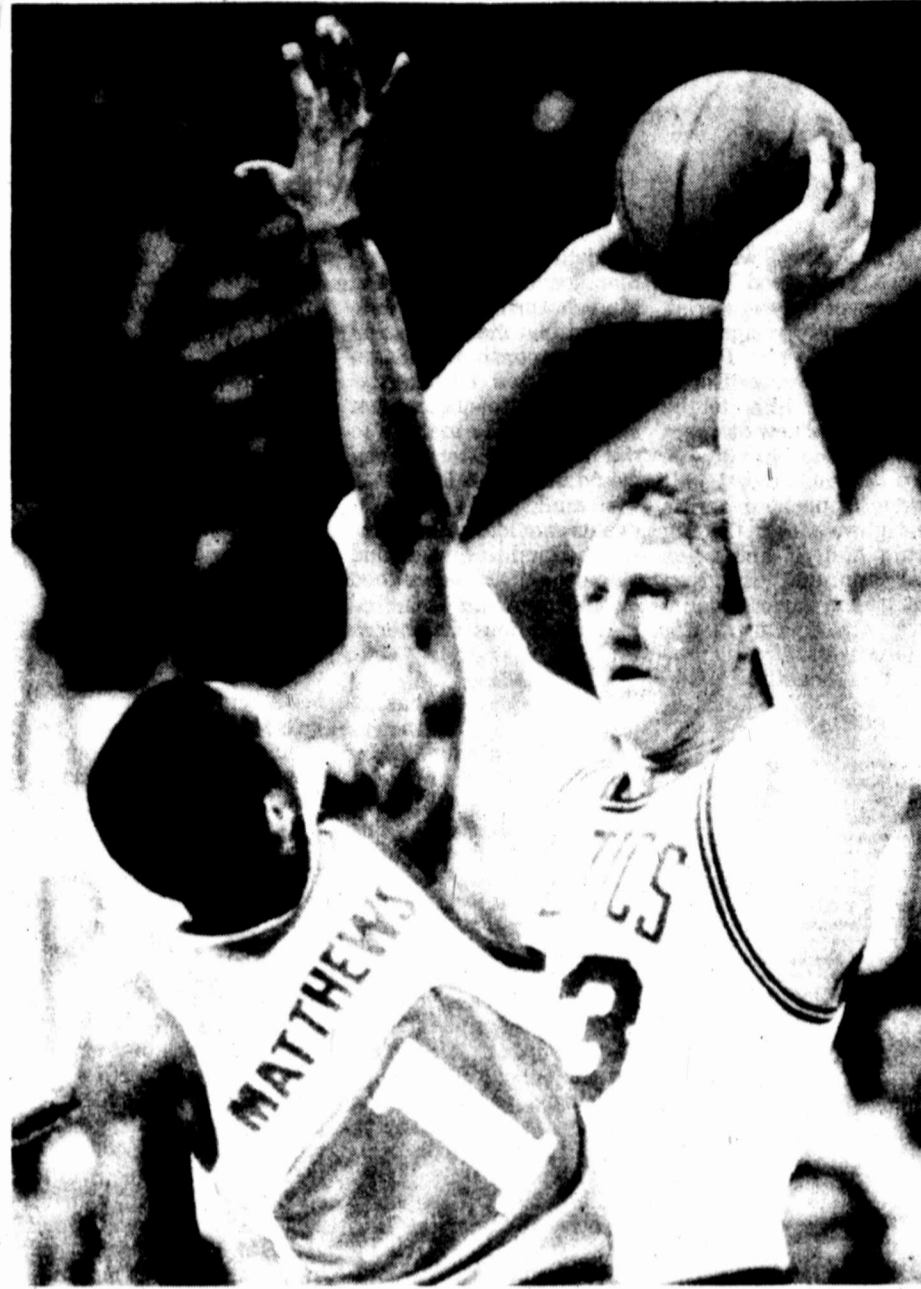

Andrews had 11 hits in the game but stranded seven runners. Fred Mills rapped a solo home run in the fourth inning for the Mustangs.

For the game, Hernandez — who was 0-for-14 in four prior district games — went 3-for-3 and drove in five runs. Teague, who had three hits and a pair of RBI Friday against Pecos, added three more hits and RBI to his .537 district batting average. Williams, a freshman, also had three hits in the game.

Lamesa is now 9-12 for the year while Andrews tumbles to 14-8 overall. The Tors host Fort Stockton Friday at 4 p.m.

IT'S PLANE, NO IT'S A BIRD — Boston Celtics forward Larry Bird, right, soars over the defense of Wes Matthews of Atlanta during the second half of their NBA playoff game Tuesday night in the Boston Garden. Bird scored 26 points to lead the Celtics to 103-95 win over Atlanta.

Bird shoots Celts by Hawks, 103-95

NBA Playoffs

By The Associated Press
Just when then Atlanta Hawks were on the verge of an upset victory, Larry Bird snatched it away for the Boston Celtics.

"You could see for a time that they got the smell of victory," the Celtics' Kevin McHale said of Atlanta's 85-81 lead midway through the fourth quarter. "They were like wolves smelling blood."

But Bird scored eight of his 26 points in the final 3 1/2 minutes and Quinn Buckner hit three long jumpers to rally the Celtics to a 103-95 victory in the opener of their best-of-3 National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff series.

"I thought we played well and they played excellent," Bird said. "If we had played this one in Atlanta we would have lost. Atlanta's defense was tough. They forced us into a lot of bad shots and turnovers."

"Atlanta's slowdown pace is tough," said McHale, who scored 12 points for the Celtics. "It's tough for the other team to get into a running tempo. I'm glad it didn't come down to a basket at the end where one shot could be the difference."

Buckner tied the score for the sixth time at 87-87 with the first of his three open jump shots. The Hawks never caught up after Bird put Boston in front 89-87 with two free throws.

Forward Dan Roundfield led Atlanta with 24 points and 20 rebounds, earning praise from Boston Coach Bill Fitch.

"Roundfield was effective from outside early," he said. "He was the only one hitting for them and he kept them in the game. His inside game is as good as any power forward in the league. He's an excellent player."

Dominique Wilkins added 21 points and Johnny Davis 18 for Atlanta, while Robert Parish had 18 points and 16 rebounds for Boston.

Suns 121, Nuggets 108

Guard Dennis Johnson had 28 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists while Phoenix held NBA scoring champion Alex English to 16 points to win the first game of its series with Denver.

The Suns, who lost four of five games to the Nuggets in the regular season, surrendered 32 points to Kiki Vandeweghe and 25 to Dan Isell. But English, who averaged 28.4 points and had 31 points and 20 rebounds in Denver's playoff-clinching victory over Kansas City Sunday, was held in check.

Johnson had eight points in the second period as Phoenix erased a 32-23 first-period deficit to take a 62-56 halftime edge.

Maurice Lucas, who had 12 of his 17 points in the second half, and Johnson both scored eight points in the third period as the Suns built a 90-77 advantage. But the Nuggets, behind Vandeweghe and Isell, pulled to within three points twice in the fourth period, the last time at 104-101 with 4:19 left.

Haskins, Cordell share MVP honors

and Susan Cordell, who signed last week with Baylor, were named co-Most Valuable Players for the Hawk Queens by coach Don Stevens.

Coach Bill Griffin acknowledged the Hawk baseball team but did not make awards because the team has seven regular season games remaining. Riley told the gathering that "winning has become an important ingredient in the adult world." But instead of preparing students for professional sports, a winning program should prepare them to become winners the rest of their lives no matter which occupation they choose.

Gregg Polinsky, speaking in behalf of head basketball coach Harold Wilder, recognized his athletes for "competing in a conference considered to be the toughest in the nation." He lauded Wilder, whose contract was not renewed for the 1983-84 school year, as a "true professional and quality person."

Stevens was equally complimentary of his athletes. "These young ladies are all very special to me," he said.

As for Cordell, he said, "I'm glad she was for us and not against us. Baylor is very glad to get her...I'm very sad to lose her."

Saying he could list Haskins' accomplishments all night, Stevens only said,

"She's the best player I've ever coached."

Tony Dodds was named Hawk Cowboy while Sissy Doss was the top academic Cowgirl (4.0 GPA) and Chuck Senter the top academic Cowboy (3.15 GPA). Calf-roper James Doss was the High Point Cowboy and Sissy Doss the High Point Cowgirl.

Blues may move to Canada

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The sale of the St. Louis Blues to a group of Canadian businessmen who plan to move the team to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, is about to be finalized, according to Ralston Purina Co., owners of the National Hockey League team.

John P. Baird, senior vice president for Ralston, flew to Saskatoon Tuesday to sign the papers selling the club to Coliseum Holdings Ltd., the St. Louis-based company said. Formal announcement of the sale was expected today.

"We hope what we have to announce is what everyone will be pleased and very, very proud to hear," said Bill Hunter, head of the Canadian group. "We've come a long way in the last two months and we're getting close."

Hunter's announcement last December that he was after an NHL team, and subsequent events, have drawn 17,000 applications for season tickets in Saskatoon.

Ralston said Tuesday that its board of directors authorized consumation of the sale despite a last-ditch effort by a group of local businessmen who sought to keep the team in St. Louis.

Baird said the company had made a management decision to get out of the hockey business. The company offered local investors an opportunity to present an offer, but Coliseum Holdings had presented its financial package last week, he said.

The Canadians are believed to have offered $13 million for the club, while the local group could only come up with about $8 million.

Gold coach hospitalized for exhaustion

DENVER (AP) — Red Miller was being treated at a Denver hospital exhaustion apparently stemming from his round-the-clock schedule as coach of the Denver Gold.

"He's been working seven days a week, about 18-to-20 hours a day for several months," Jim Van Someren, a spokesman for the United States Football League club, said Tuesday night.

Van Someren said the 55-year-old Miller was at practice Tuesday afternoon when he began to feel weak and went to rest.

He was admitted to Denver Presbyterian Hospital, where doctors had him under observation for exhaustion.
