COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Colorado City teen-ager drowned Thursday evening near the Texas Electric Service Co. power plant at Lake Colorado City.

Robert Weeks, 16, jumped into a strong current of discharged cooling water at the plant on the east side of the lake and drowned almost instantly, Mitchell County Peace Justice Charles Watlington said this morning.

"He couldn't fight the water. He just got sucked into it," Watlington said. "The water comes down in swirls and the undertow is very strong. He didn't move from the spot where he jumped in. He never had a chance."

Watlington said it took an hour and a half to recover the boy's body because of the current.

"No Swimming" and "No Fishing" signs are posted in the area, he said.

Weeks was swimming with two other boys in the restricted area, Watlington said. Ben Carter and Curtis Humphrey, both of Sweetwater, tried to save Weeks, he said.

"One of the boys jumped in and tried to pull him out, but he got caught, too. The other boy found some bailing wire and threw it in and saved the one who jumped in the second time. He couldn't save the Weeks boy," Watlington said. "It's a miracle they weren't all drowned."

The cooling water follows a long, narrow canal from the plant down to the lake. Watlington said Weeks was on a catwalk above the spot where the water enters the lake. He jumped directly into the stream, Watlington said.

Bruce Moore, plant superintendent, said this morning that the cooling water flows at a rate of 250,000 gallons a minute.

"It's deceptive because it doesn't look that strong on

Plane crash-lands, four oilmen unhurt

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

A private plane carrying four oilmen en route from Big Spring to Austin was forced to make a crash landing Thursday evening when its engine lost power several miles north of Mathes Field in San Angelo.

The four men aboard, A.M. Tolson, Sovoy Kay, Herschel Stocks and George Keith, all of Austin, escaped with only minor scratches.

The single-engine, six-seat Beechcraft Debonair was piloted by Tolson, 48, owner of Tolson Oil Co. in Austin. The plane is owned by the company.

Kay and Stocks are Big Spring natives. They formerly worked for American Petrofina in Big Spring and are now employed by Tolson.

The four men were in Big Spring for a business meeting. Tolson, Kay and Stocks are stockholders in Thurman Oil Co. of Big Spring, according to Sam Thurman, general manager of the firm. Keith is an accountant for both companies.

The plane left Big Spring Regional Airport at 4:30 p.m.

"They lost oil pressure about 15 miles out of San Angelo," Lt. Louis Hargraves, an investigator with the Tom Green County Sheriff's Department, said this morning.

"The engine quit about four miles west of the airport (Mathes Field)," he said. "Tolson saw a road that cuts through a hilly area and set the plane down. The plane sort of cartwheeled when it hit and nosed into the ground." The crash occurred a mile south of San Angelo city limits.

"We had plenty of oil when we left Big Spring, but the plane's belly was covered with oil when we landed," Tolson said in a telephone interview this morning.

MIRACLE CRASH — A Tom Green County Sheriff's deputy (far right) looks over the wreckage of a small plane that crashed just outside the San Angelo city limits late Thursday afternoon. Miraculously, all four aboard the plane suffered only scratches and walked away from the crash site. The plane, enroute from Big Spring to Austin, crashed after losing power.

MAJOR LARRY SEALS
... back from Beirut

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Marines' second landing in Beirut. President Reagan's visit to Berlin. The Polish hijackings. Vice President Bush's travels in Europe.

The initial news releases on these major events could have come from former Big Spring resident Larry Seals, until recently the public information officer for the United States Army Command in West Berlin, Germany.

Seals, an Army major, was on the first helicopter with the first wave of Marines when they landed in Beirut following the massacres at the Sabra and Shatilla refugee camps. He coordinated press information for Reagan's visit to Berlin recently, as well as the vice president's trip there. He handled the international press in connection with five Polish hijackings.

But after 37 months in the intense and sensitive public information position, Seals has come back to the States to a new assignment in Michigan. With a promotion to lieutenant colonel expected, Seals will be advisor to the military police for the Michigan National Guard.

In Big Spring briefly to visit his mother and stepfather, Melba and D.H. Soles, Seals reflected on his years in Europe working with the international press, living near the Berlin Wall and landing with the Marines at Beirut.

"Berlin is a symbol for freedom in Europe," Seals said. "It is where Americans made a stand."

Berlin is located 110 miles behind the intra-German border in an area controlled by the Soviet Union. Berlin itself is divided in half: East Berlin controlled by the Russians and West Berlin occupied by the U.S., Britain and France.

The Berlin Wall itself is physically imposing: 110 miles long, 18 to 20 feet high, surrounded with barbed wire, tank placements, machine guns and guards. Seals said the wall truly separates the difference in democracy and totalitarianism.

"I think every American should go to Berlin to see the difference between a viable culture and the gray of totalitarianism," Seals said. "The contrast is no more real anywhere else in the world."

Seals described Berlin as "life in a fishbowl." Everyone is constantly aware of the politically sensitive nature of the city and the multinational situation, he said. "Everything a person does is continually measured closely," Seals said.

"There was a feeling you never were free," he said. "Simply to leave the city required Russian approval."

The 1964 Big Spring High School graduate traveled often into Soviet-controlled East Berlin.

Oil tax

Panel debates breaks for independents

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, May 5 — A U.S. Treasury Department official told a congressional subcommittee Thursday that the department would not support doing away with special tax breaks for independent oil companies.

The federal treasury will lose about $3 billion this year because of those tax advantages, but the negative effect on the industry of changing the tax breaks would not justify additional federal revenue, said J. Gregory Ballentine, deputy assistant secretary of the Treasury Department for tax analysis.

However, another high-ranking federal official told the House Ways and Means Oversight Subcommittee that "there does not appear to be a sound argument" for giving tax exemptions to independents that major oil companies are denied.

"For the independents in the petroleum industry, the allowance of special tax preferences extends privileges not accorded small businesses in other industries," said Alice M. Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office.

"Although the special independent tax provisions are consistent with the purpose of increasing U.S. (oil) production, they could be designed in a more uniform fashion," said Rivlin. "Both integrated (major) and independent producers could be provided the same incentives," she said.

Ballentine acknowledged that the independent industry receives rare tax benefits, and he said the Treasury Department would not advocate spreading those benefits to other industries. "We have not isolated any other area (of business) in which we would make similar provisions," said Ballentine.

Although the subcommittee has no legislative authority, it will make a recommendation based on its findings to the full Ways and Means Committee at the request of committee chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill. The hearing was announced last December as an extensive examination of taxes on independent oil companies.

The need for the tax breaks was outlined by both Southwestern congressmen and representatives of independent companies. All six members of Oklahoma's congressional delegation, plus Oklahoma Democratic Sen. David L. Boren, formed a single panel in the day-long hearing, which continues today.

While most members of the Oversight Subcommittee gave sympathetic comments toward the tax incentives, in light of the recent sharp downturn in the oil and gas business, Subcommittee Chairman Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., suggested that many independent oil companies were receiving tax breaks without an economic need for them.

If there are independent oil companies

Seals

Despite his fairly routine visits there, he said he never got used to always being watched.

"I was never comfortable there," Seals said. "I never got used to being there."

In September 1982, Seals was sent in with the Marines' second landing in Beirut to help handle an intense international press demand. Although he is with the Army, Seals was the only man available at short notice to assist with the press.

"I was to handle the press to take the pressure off the Marines so they could do their job," Seals said. "I was in the first chopper in the first wave. There were over 300 international press people waiting on the runway."

Seals said the devastation of West Beirut was extensive when he arrived. He estimated 40 percent of the buildings were destroyed, "just rubble."

He set up press operations in a burned-out fire station at the airport. Only as he was leaving in mid-October did the station get running water and electricity, Seals said.

The Army major left with admiration for the Lebanese people. He said they were very industrious in cleaning up their once-beautiful city. Also, the Lebanese were very glad to see the Americans, Seals said.

"They had put up with the PLO and the Israelis for several years," Seals said. "They were great to us because the Americans were giving them their city back."

The Marine contingent Seals was with is still in Lebanon as part of the multinational peacekeeping force.

Peace in the Middle East is a goal that involves extremely complex issues, Seals said. Like most Westerners, Seals said he was at first impatient for a peaceful settlement.

Values that are difficult for Americans to understand as well as complex factions contribute to the difficulty of achieving peace, Seals said.

"I can appreciate the jobs governments and others bring to the problem of bringing peace to the Middle East," Seals said. "I can be more patient."

The stories of the horrors of Beirut come from reporters shocked by the reality of war, Seals said. Coming from a quiet hotel room to a war zone is not a pleasant situation, he said.

"War is horrible, but it is a reality that occurs," Seals said.

Peace is worth the risks of death, Seals said. He said he is proud of our government taking that chance in Beirut in spite of the danger and the recent bombing of the embassy.

Seals said he regrets his new assignment means leaving behind many friends and the ease of travel to historical places. However, he says he will not miss the weather or jet lag.

Berlin only has sunshine about 30 days in a year, Seals said.

He looks forward to returning to American vegetables and the chance to pursue his hobby of sailing in the Great Lakes. The former public information officer has mixed feelings about leaving his position.

"You had the sense of almost being part of history there," Seals said. "But it will be pleasant to be relieved of the pressure."

the surface," he said. "It's warm water, probably about 80-85 degrees. It attracts a lot of fish and we chase fishermen away all the time."

He said this is the first time he knows of people swimming at the spot.

Watlington said there was no one else in the area at the time of the drowning. One of the boys went to a nearby house to call for help, and Mitchell County Game Warden Ronnie Aston arrived at the scene at 6:10 p.m., he said.

Weeks' body was recovered at 7:40 p.m. Watlington pronounced him dead at the scene at 8:13 p.m.

Aston could not be reached for comment this morning. The victim was a sophomore at Colorado City High School and lived at Lake Colorado City with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hogue.

Services are pending at Kiker-Seale Funeral Home in Colorado City.

This was the second drowning in a week in Mitchell County. John Ervin Smith, 19, of Snyder, drowned in Lake Champion Sunday afternoon.

Crime Stoppers cites Watson

In a regular meeting of Crime Stoppers, Inc. yesterday, Tom Watson, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, was presented a plaque for his service as the first president of the citizens' organization.

In other business, the group authorized the purchase of bumper stickers to promote the Crime Stopper telephone number, which is 263-1151. The group has already authorized telephone stickers bearing the number.

The group also heard that a brochure explaining the Crime Stopper program will soon be available.

Crime Stoppers paid out $750 last month for confidential information on several burglaries in Big Spring and Howard County.

"I guess it was leaking from the time we left Big Spring. I didn't notice it until the cabin filled with smoke. I radioed and said we needed an emergency landing."

Hargraves said the sheriff's department received the call at 5:49 p.m. They were alerted by Mathes control tower.

"They were really lucky they found a place to land. If they had gone another half mile they would have been in the lake (Lake Nasworthy, south of an Angelo)," he said.

"If they'd been able to go another three-quarters of a mile they'd have been on the end of the runway. But the pilot did a real good job."

"I saw I wasn't going to make it to the runway," Tolson said. "I had two choices: Put it in the water or find a place to land it right there. I chose the latter."

"Mr. Tolson saved us. He did a great job," Stocks said this morning. "He found a bit of caliche road and brought the plane down. He was dodging hills and mountains and trees, trying to keep it flying. But it was either land or go in the lake. We didn't want to go in the lake."

Tolson said he has 10 years flying experience. Hargraves said the left wing and wheel snapped off, but otherwise the plane was intact. There was a four-hour supply of fuel on board, but no fire occurred, he said.

The four men rented a car and drove to Austin last night.

Federal Aviation Administration officials from Lubbock were to investigate the crash today.

San Angelo Fire Department pumpers and Tom Green County Sheriff's Department patrol cars were dispatched to the site. Ranger Aviation of San Angelo assisted in the investigation and guarded the plane last night, Hargraves said.

Tax Breaks

panies in financial straits. "Why should we use the tax system" to aid those companies? Rangel asked a panel from the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

He suggested giving federal grants to independent companies rather than allowing the tax breaks. "It was difficult to understand the plight of the independent (before the hearing)," said Rangel. "We don't know truly who this independent is and how much return they get on their investment. Wouldn't it be a heck of a lot easier to raise the tax (by doing away with the exemptions) and to give the $3 billion" only to needy oil companies.

Rep. William M. Thomas, R-Calif., the next congressman to question the panel, said the suggestions by Rangel almost caused him "to bite through my pipe."

H.B. "Bud" Scoggins, general counsel for IPAA, told Rangel that elimination of the tax incentives for independents would have the effect of lowering the price for a barrel of oil by $6 to $10. He cited the current drop in oil prices as a reason for the sharp two-year decline in the number of active drilling rigs in the United States.

Harold E. Wright, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, told the subcommittee that the tax incentives had helped bring about an increase in drilling activity since 1979 in Texas, which produces about one-third of the country's domestic oil. He said that 26,372 wells were drilled in Texas in 1982, an increase from 16,149 wells drilled in the state in 1979.

He added, however, that "Texas producers have joined the recession with a vengeance," and that the number of new wells "has dropped some 40 percent below year-ago levels, and the decline continues each week."

Independent company tax exemptions under examination by the subcommittee include:

• A percentage depletion allowance of up to 1,000 barrels of oil per day or the equivalent amount of natural gas.

• Deduction of so-called "intangible drilling costs," which are expenditures made while drilling a well for expenditures on non-permanent items, such as drilling fluids and roads.

• Windfall profits tax exemptions for stripper wells (which produce less than 10 barrels of oil per day), and reduced taxation rates for independents under the windfall tax for the first 1,000 barrels per day of production.

Howard House reverts to owner after trustee sale

No buyers showed interest in Tuesday's Howard House Hotel substitute trustee's sale, so the property title reverts to Charles Schuler Jr. of Petersburg, Texas, said Bob Miller, the substitute trustee.

Schuler, who sold the hotel and three city lots two years ago to J.W. (Bo) Rich of Odessa for $55,000, said he foreclosed on the transaction and authorized the auction because Rich has not made monthly payments on the property note in six months.

Miller said he received calls Monday and Tuesday from persons who thought they could purchase the property for just a few thousand dollars. He said if anyone had been genuinely interested in the property, they would have contacted his office before.

"Bo (Rich) just asked how much time he had to get his stuff out," Miller said. "Evidently he isn't interested in the property either, and frankly, I don't know of anyone who would be. Schuler's just trying to get his property back."

Schuler said Rich still owed him $38,000 on the property (lots 1, 2 and 3 of block 20) when he stopped paying on the note. Bo and his wife, Georgia, also own the Settles Hotel on lots 11 and 12 of block 19.

Schuler said yesterday he will try to sell the property and that Larry Brennan will continue as manager and Bill Jones as clerk at the hotel.

Salvation army needs truck to carry cheese

The Salvation Army of Big Spring is in need of a vehicle to transport 6,000 pounds of cheese once a month from Lubbock, according to Lt. Carroll Braun.

The cheese is part of a U.S. government giveaway and benefits 600 families each month. However, Braun said the program may have to be discontinued if the SA cannot come up with a suitable vehicle to make the monthly trek.

Braun said the SA has been using a van and one other vehicle to carry the 6,000 pounds of cheese each month. But both vehicles — being of the half-ton variety — are grossly overloaded.

The SA is asking for the donation of a vehicle for one day a month, he said. The SA will provide a driver with a chauffeur's license. The vehicle must have the capacity to carry a 6,000 pound load and preferably be enclosed to protect the cheese from heat and rain.

The SA will be able to notify the truck owner one week in advance when the vehicle will be needed.

Persons interested in donating such a vehicle should call Braun at 267-8239 or go by the SA's business office at 308 Aylford.

Israelis agree in principle to withdraw

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet today approved in principle the agreement worked out by U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz for Israel's withdrawal from Lebanon. But the Cabinet said it had reservations on "a number of security and political problems."

The Cabinet announced its decision following a daylong debate among Prime Minister Menachem Begin and his ministers on the accord worked out over nine days by Shultz, who was sent to the Middle East by President Reagan to break the stalemate in Israeli-Lebanese negotiations.

Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor read a statement to reporters saying the government "decided to approve in principle the proposed agreement between Israel and Lebanon. Regarding a number of security and political problems, the government will act to receive further clarifications."

Meridor did not elaborate on the statement.

In addition to the Cabinet's reservations, the Israelis have said they will not pull their troops out of Lebanon until the Syrian army withdraws.

Cabinet ministers who spoke with reporters were divided on the tentative agreement.

Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai, apparently reflecting misgivings of some ministers over the pact, told reporters: "It's not a good arrangement. We should have had a much better one."

Modai said he was displeased with provisions for Maj. Saad Haddad, the breakaway Lebanese army major whose militia has served Israeli interests in southern Lebanon for seven years.

Haddad "won't have the position we would have hoped he would have," Modai said.

It was not known precisely what the accord said about Haddad, but it was believed to fall short of Israel's demand that he be in overall command of Lebanese forces in south Lebanon.

Housing Minister David Levy and Labor Minister Aharon Uzan both called the agreement "the best we could get."

Levy said it provided for an end to the technical state of war with Lebanon, security arrangements to protect Israel from attack and "above all, a new era on our northern border and a springboard for understanding and coordination of positions with the United States."

The daily Maariv quoted ministers as saying before today's meeting that they expected Begin to support the Lebanon accord, while Yedioth Ahronoth, another paper, said Defense Minister Moshe Arens favored it, his predecessor Ariel Sharon was opposed and Begin was undecided.

Davar, the journal of the opposition Labor Party, quoted a diplomatic source as saying Begin had nothing to lose by accepting the accord since it was certain Syria would reject it, in which case no troop withdrawals from Lebanon were likely in the near future.

Before the Cabinet announcement, Shultz said he had invited Begin to Washington to review U.S.-Israeli relations. He gave no date.

Begin was last in the United States in November on a private visit which was to have included talks with President Reagan. But he had to rush home early when his wife died, and no date was set for another trip.

Reagan was understood to be reluctant to see Begin before the Lebanon crisis was over and the two would be free to tackle broader Mideast issues.

The Cabinet announcement came 11 months after the Israelis invaded Lebanon to drive out Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas. Israeli troops have been there ever since.

A major feature of the debate over the agreement had been arrangements for security in the southern part of the country to prevent future terrorist attacks against Israel.

PRESIDENTIAL VISIT — President Ronald Reagan meets with Mayor of San Antonio Henry Cisneros Wednesday in San Antonio. The President was in Texas to celebrate Cinco de Mayo, a Mexican national holiday. The President spoke to a group of people gathered in the Plaza Nueva before continuing on his trip to the west coast.

President courts Hispanics in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — President Reagan chose his whirlwind trip to San Antonio to announce his plan for a special task force to investigate the "hardship caused by economic uncertainty" in Mexico.

Reagan courted Hispanics, who make up 57 percent of this city's population, during Thursday's two-hour visit and spent most of his time at a Cinco de Mayo celebration.

Cinco de Mayo, translated May 5, is a national Mexican holiday that celebrates the 1862 victory of outnumbered Mexican troops over an invading French army.

Reagan met with key Hispanic Republicans, ate a taco to the accompaniment of mariachi music and kissed a baby.

The president promised his Hispanic listeners an all-out effort to combat the drastic effect the battered Mexican peso on the U.S. border economy.

"This is not your problem," Reagan told about 1,200 people gathered at a downtown, tree-lined plaza. "It's our problem and we'll meet it together."

Reagan's new interagency task force, to be known as the Working Group on Southwestern Border States, was developed in consultation with U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

"We're both concerned about the impact the peso devaluation and the financial crisis it's having on the people of South Texas — and in the border areas of other states," Reagan said.

"We are also trying to do everything we can to work with Mexico itself in attacking the problem. We've offered the Mexican government our assistance."

Tower recently asked for the formation of the group to help economically strapped sections of South Texas.

"Its task will be to examine the problems and catalog the ways the government can be of help," Tower said Thursday.

"We have an obligation to do everything that we can to meet the crying needs of the communities affected by the economic crisis in Mexico. The problems these communities are facing are not of their own making."

Reagan said the task force has been asked to report within 45 days on what role should be played by federal, state and local governments to remedy the damage three successive devaluations have inflicted on U.S. border businesses.

The president, sharing a sun-splashed platform with Mexican-American women in long dresses and men in sombreros, enumerated to the crowd his administration's contributions to Hispanics.

Reagan said he has appointed 130 Hispanics to high-level positions in his administration and reminded his listeners that he signed a 25-year extension of the federal Voting Rights Act, the longest since its enactment in 1965.

The president left Texas to fly to Phoenix, where he planned to speak to the National Rifle Association's convention and visit with his mother-in-law.

Jet lands safely after engines fail

MIAMI (AP) — Teams of investigators began trying to learn why tiny rubber oil seals were missing from an Eastern Airlines jumbo jet that lost all power and glided within 2,800 feet of the ocean before limping back to land when one engine revived.

The three-engine Lockheed L-1011, carrying 172 people, dropped more than 16,000 feet in 10 minutes Thursday before pilot Dick Boddy managed to revive the tail jet and guide Flight 855 safely back to Miami International Airport.

Smoke streamed from the single working engine as the plane landed.

As many passengers — shaken but relieved, and toasting their good fortune — boarded another Eastern L-1011 to resume their journey to Nassau in the Bahamas, federal and airline officials began looking for the cause.

Eastern and National Transportation Safety Board officials said the engines stalled because of oil leakage, due to failure to install small rubber seals called "O rings," which cost pennies, during nightly maintenance.

"With the 'O ring' missing, the oil was able to leak out," NTSB spokesman Ira Furman said. "If oil leaks out, the engine will fail. Engines require lubrication."

Furman said the thumb-sized, ring-shaped seals, which cost "pennies," fit into a notch on a magnetized oil plug that is removed nightly from the engines to check for any wear that would show up in the oil. Each plug is supposed to carry two rings.

New oil plugs were apparently installed without the seals Wednesday night, he said, leaving space for oil to leak under pressure.

"We have yet to determine whether the plugs are supposed to come out of the stock room with the 'O ring' or whether the mechanics are supposed to put the 'O ring' on," he said, refusing to fix blame.

"Why they weren't there is the next phase of the investigation," said Eastern spokesman Jim Ashlock.

The airline said the other 27 L-1011s in its fleet were inspected and all had the seals.

After a brief dispute between the Miami-based carrier and the NTSB, Eastern gave the cockpit voice recorder and flight data recorder to safety board investigators, Furman said.

The recorders were being hand-carried to Washington today and will be transcribed as quickly as possible, he said.

Three investigations of the incident were under way by Eastern, the NTSB and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Texas governor hunting tax hike, teacher raise

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White is shopping for a tax hike that will give teachers a 24 percent pay hike and satisfy a House that is not in a tax-raising mood.

"He told us he would be studying taxes this weekend," said Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center, after a Thursday meeting with White.

White met with several lawmakers while the House finished work on a $30.8 billion two-year budget that includes only the small teacher pay raise guaranteed by law. House members voted twice Thursday against major pay raises. They approved a small increase in welfare payments for needy children.

All sides in the teacher pay raise battle now agree it will take a tax hike to fund the 24 percent White package. Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, told colleagues Thursday he would ask for a one-cent, two-year emergency raise in the state 4 percent sales tax.

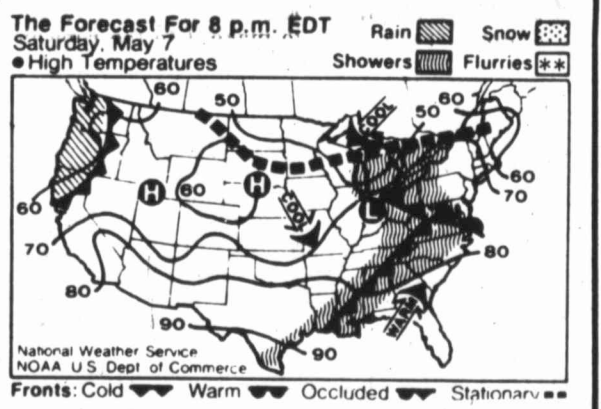

Texasans are "ready, willing and able" to pay the higher tax to pay teachers and increase welfare for needy children, he said.

Speaker Gib Lewis says Garcia must be talking to different Texans than he is.

"That certainly hasn't been the response I've been receiving," he said. "I'm against, at this stage, any tax bill."

Lewis' message to teachers counting on a pay raise was: "I certainly don't want to say give up and forget about it. We're still searching."

— Mother —

We are happy to participate in the celebration of Mother's Day. Motherhood is the most noble calling to which a woman can devote her time. Great men & women throughout history have paid tribute to their mothers and acknowledged their help & training.

Rembrandt wrote: "A kiss from my mother made a painter." Thomas Edison: "My mother was the making of me. She was so true, so sure of me, and I felt that I had someone to live for, someone I must not disappoint." Gen. John J. Perone: "My mother's prayers have followed me." Abraham Lincoln: "All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to my angel mother." Most of us feel the same way as these great men about our mothers. Because our mothers made our life more beautiful and practical, we have gathered to pay her homage. "Honor your father and your mother, as the Lord your God commanded you; that your days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with you." Deut. 5:16.

Dancing for healthy hearts

Dear Editor,
With everyone worried about huge and seemingly unsolvable world problems, we tend to overlook concerns that touch us in our daily lives. Heart disease, the nation's Number One Killer, is one concern that this paper's readers should not overlook.

Here in Howard County, we all have a chance to help solve the problems of heart disease, thanks to our local American Heart Association board of directors and volunteers.

With education and research the Heart Association is combatting heart disease, but everyone's help is needed. You can join the fight by participating in a special fundraising event, Dance for Heart, scheduled for Saturday, May 7, 1983.

Aerobic dance students will dance for up to four hours after having recruited sponsors to make pledges.

Dancers and sponsors alike will be fueling the fight against heart disease. Call your local Heart Association to find out how you can have fun and help your heart at the same time.

After all, a healthy heart is worth dancing about.

Texas Lit

Texas is a strange breed. We rail, rant and rave about everything that's wrong with our city, county and state — but let someone else criticize the Lone Star and we'll all defend the glory of Texas.

Texas writers are even stranger than regular Texans. They make a name for themselves writing regional (Texas) literature — but many writers feel there is no "literature" in Texas literature. There are those, however, who continue to write about the Texas they love. And in doing so, they write about universal subjects.

Nonetheless, for a true taste of Texas — to work in the fields and on the ranches with Texans, to fight teen-age boredom in a small town, or to understand the species Texanus Redneckius, there are a few Texas writers one must pursue.

Larry McMurtry — "In a Narrow Grave," McMurtry's collection of essays about Texas deals (broadly speaking) with the "Texas Myth" and the shift from a rural to an urban reality. Sad at times, funny at others and irritating on occasion, the essays touch upon many of the basic truths of Texana.

A list of McMurtry's chapters gives an idea of the scope of the essays: "Here's Hud in Your Eye," "Cowboys, Movies, Myths and Cadillacs: An Excursion on Ritual Forms in the Western Movie," "Southwestern Literature," "Eros in Archer County," "A Look at the Lost Frontier," "The Old Soldier's Joy," "Love, Death and the Astrodome," "A Handful of Roses," and "Take My Saddle From the Wall."

If novels, rather than essays, are your cup of tea, read McMurtry's "Horseman, Pass By" (sometimes shortened to "Hud"), "Leaving Cheyenne" and "The Last Picture Show." All these are early McMurtry novels, and all read like your neighbors' diaries.

Don't bother with "Terms of Endearment," or "Somebody's Darling." They're insipid novels with no semblance of a plot. "Moving On" and "All My Friends are Going to be Strangers" are borderline novels for the advanced Texas searcher.

McMurtry can be annoying in his later novels, but his earlier efforts bring memories to light like mice under a bale of hay.

Traveler is impressed

Dear Editor,
I don't know if you have a "letters to the editor" in your paper but I'd like to tell you that last week, after a visit in your city, we were leaving and had some minor car trouble a few miles out of Big Spring on Highway 87.

We were impressed by the people who stopped to see if they could help. We don't have names, but through your paper, we'd like to thank the young man in the yellow Chevrolet pickup, who turned around and took my husband to a phone. And the young couple in the Halliburton truck who brought him back to the car. Also to the handsome young Elanco salesman who also stopped to help. And, of course, special thanks to John, Rosie and Paul for your help!

Experiences like this renew our faith in our fellow man.

We live in a busy world, I know. Many times people don't have time to help, or, because of the crime so prevalent they're afraid to stop and render aid. But we do appreciate the kind people of Big Spring who took time to lend a helping hand to a stranded traveler, 10 miles out of town.

We soon had the radiator hose replaced and were on our way again. Thanks to you again and God bless each of you.

Sincerely,

Buy this man a drink

It used to be if you went into a bar you could always find an argument over the merits of a pro football team. But now, thanks to Ronald Reagan's constant drumbeat concerning defense weapons, he's got the whole country talking about whether we can win a nuclear war or not.

I dropped by "Dumbarton's Bar & Grill" the other afternoon for a beer. The man on the next stool said, "How do you think we'll do against the Russians this year?"

I couldn't tell which side he was on so I played it cool.

"It's too early to tell. It depends if we can harden our Minuteman silos in time to put our MX missiles in place."

"Exactly what I was thinking," he said. "Of course the commies could still crawl through our window of vulnerability."

"Yeh, but if we get the B-1 bomber built, set up our Pershing and cruise missiles in Europe, and develop a tricky 'star wars' defense, we can zap their land-based air attack before it gets off the ground," I said.

"How many nuclear warheads do you think we need to smash them back, if they launch a first strike attack?"

"We've got about 10,000 now. I'd say we could use another 5,000 just to be on the safe side. Even if they knock out 7,000 we could pulverize them with the other 8,000."

"You know where I think we're making our big mistake?" he said. "We're trying to match the Soviets missile for missile. What we should do is go ahead with single-warhead Midgetmen that the Russians couldn't hit because we'd spread them all over the country. There's something to be said for not putting all your MXs in one dense pack."

Dumbarton, who was washing glasses said, "A guy was in here yesterday, and he heard from a friend at the Pentagon that the Soviets were violating the SALT II treaty when it came to underground testing."

"I wouldn't put it past them," I said ordering another beer.

"You know what we have to do?" the guy on the next stool said. "We have to rethink MAD, the Mutual Assured Destruction strategy we've been using for the past 20 years. It's not working any more. I say we sit down with the Soviets in Geneva, offer them a zero option, and if they don't take it, tell them to buzz off."

"How do you feel about a limited nuclear war?" I asked him.

"I'm not against it, as long as we don't kill more than 40 or 50 million people on each side. What about you, Dumbarton?"

"It's an option," Dumbarton said. "And I don't want to take away our bargaining chips. The Soviets have got us outnumbered when it comes to conventional war, so if we up the ante and announce we're prepared to fight a limited nuclear war it will give them something to chew on."

I said, "What really gets me sore is that Congress is dragging its feet when it comes to spending money for a good defense. Reagan knows what the country needs better than anybody."

The guy on the next stool said, "You better believe it. I saw him in 'Hellcats of the Navy' the other night on TV, and the man really has the guts to stand up to the Russians."

Dumbarton refilled our glasses. "I think Reagan has what it takes. But I'm not too sure about 'Cap' Weinberger."

"Why not?"

"He's too light. He could be knocked over by one SS 19 intermediate range missile. You want a big guy in that position who can take a lot of punishment when he gets hit by an ICBM."

A guy at the end of the bar said, "Anybody hear the Baltimore Orioles score?"

Dumbarton said to him angrily, "Watch your language, buddy. There are ladies in this bar, and if you want to talk dirty you can go drink somewhere else."

Neutron bombs may turn up in Korea

WASHINGTON — Most Americans probably got the idea that the neutron bomb — the nuclear weapon that kills people but leaves buildings intact — was shelved years ago after running into a storm of critical outrage.

Actually, the Pentagon has been quietly producing neutron warheads since August 1981, when President Reagan gave the go-ahead. This is despite the fact that our European allies have refused to allow neutron bombs on their territory, Soviet threat or not.

But military planners know there's another place the tactical neutron bombs could be used effectively: South Korea. There is talk in the Pentagon of doing just that.

In fact, it was in South Korea that the neutron bomb's inventor, Sam Cohen, first conceived it. On a secret 1951 mission to Seoul as a Defense Department consultant, he noticed a large bridge over the Han River on the outskirts of the capital that had proven impervious to conventional bombing. North Korean troops and tanks had swept across the bridge and captured Seoul.

A small nuclear bomb would have done the job, but it would have devastated Seoul in the process and left deadly radiation in its wake. The city would have been destroyed to prevent its capture — which is almost what happened when it was retaken anyway.

Had neutron bombs been available for the battle to recapture Seoul, Cohen says, "their application would have represented a highly discriminate attack — far more so than was the attack that actually took place using conventional weapons, and which pretty well leveled the city."

Cohen made a case in his recently published book, "The Truth About the Neutron Bomb," that his bomb got a bad rap in the emotional 1977 debate over its possible deployment in Western Europe. Used against Soviet armor on the north German plains, Cohen believes, it could overcome the Russians' crushing advantage over NATO forces. The North Koreans have a similar edge.

There is no effective protection for tank crews against the neutron bomb. Shielding heavy enough to block penetration of lethal neutrons would render the tanks too unwieldy for battlefield maneuvering.

It's not generally known, but the United States already has tactical nuclear weapons deployed in South Korea. My associates Dale Van Atta and Ron McRae have seen details of the deployment, as well as of the entire neutron bomb program.

A secret Pentagon report lists the non-strategic nuclear weapons available in the Pacific area: 133 bombs deliverable by plane, 63 eight-inch howitzer shells, 31 155-millimeter howitzer rounds and 21 "atomic demolition munitions" (ADMs).

The ADMs are nuclear land mines, buried within a mile of the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Korea (some right next to the fence). They would be detonated by remote control if the North's armored forces headed across the DMZ toward Seoul, 40 kilometers away.

Most of the neutron bomb production consists of some 340 warheads built for the Lance ground-to-ground missile, which is not yet deployed in South Korea. The Pentagon is also producing eight-inch neutron artillery rounds that can be used by South Korean howitzers, and is working on a new 155-millimeter artillery shell with a neutron version.

For now, these weapons are being stockpiled only on U.S. territory. They can be deployed only with the permission of the country involved. Most likely, South Korea will agree to the deployment of neutron bombs.

CAR WARS: Federal Trade Commission Chairman James Miller has decided to ascend from the ridiculous to the sublime in his feud with Commissioner Michael Pertschuk. Some time ago, Miller, in a fit of perquisitorial pique, ordered Pertschuk's car — a green Hornet — towed from its parking spot because Pertschuk had forgotten to put his official ID tag in the windshield.

Cooler heads prevailed, and Miller rescinded his order. Now, sources says, he has decided to battle the liberal Pertschuk on strictly ideological grounds.

If Miller is now taking the high road, a couple of House subcommittees may not be. They're planning

She loves her baby's father

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am living with my boyfriend, who is the father of my baby. I know this is wrong, but I love my boyfriend deeply and just can't imagine life without him. The problem is he seems to be growing more and more distant toward me and now I am afraid he is going to leave me all alone. I just don't know what to do.
— P.G.F.

DEAR P.G.F.: There may be someone reading this question right now who is being tempted to do the same thing you have done. My prayer is that your experience will be a warning to them and they will have the courage to turn their backs on this temptation. The problem — as you have sadly discovered — is that the kind of relationship you have had may seem ideal for a time. But there is no commitment (unlike marriage, which involves a vow of commitment). And when there is no commitment, things eventually become unraveled.

It will not be easy for you to do the right thing, I suspect — but doing the wrong thing will only lead to a deadend of heartache and grief. What is the right thing? The right thing is for you to end this relationship, especially if (as you indicate) your boyfriend shows little evidence of being in love with you and wanting to make a commitment of marriage to you. What you are now doing is morally wrong in God's eyes — and continuing in this relationship only increases the problem. Your child needs the example and security of a stable home life.

But I want to point out a very important fact to you. You are fearful about the future and concerned about being alone. But you are not alone — God is with you. You need to turn to him and find in him the forgiveness and security you need. And he wants you to come to him because he loves you. What you have done is wrong and your life will not necessarily be easy as a single parent. But God cares for you. "The Lord is compassionate and gracious, slow to anger, abounding in love ... as high as the heavens are above the earth, so great is his love for those who fear him" (Psalm 103:8, 11).

Moving into the Condor-minium

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sisquoc and Tecuya, the first California condors to be hatched in captivity, have moved into their home on the range.

Although far from the wide open spaces of their mountain nests, the isolation unit in the $100,000 "Condor-minium" at the San Diego Wild Animal Park near Escondido is posh by bird standards.

It even has a bathing pool. Tecuya marked his 1-month birthday Thursday by joining Sisquoc, hatched March 30, in the airy new home.

It was the first time outdoors for the pair and demonstrated they have passed a critical stage in their infancy, said condor keeper Bill Toone.

"We've done all the mothering we can do in terms of keeping them warm," he said. "This really marks the hump for both of them. I think we can say with a great deal of confidence that the worst possibilities are behind us."

Sisquoc and Tecuya, now six and four pounds respectively, have thrived on a mice diet and have gained 10 times their original weight.

Both were artificially incubated at the San Diego Zoo after biologists snatched the eggs from nesting grounds in a condor sanctuary in Ventura County. State and federal biologists hope the captive breeding program will help save the vanishing birds, the largest in North America. Wildlife authorities say only 19 or 20 of the California condors are alive in the wild.

Since their hatchings, the two have spent most of the time in germ-free isolettes at Wild Animal Park.

Their new surroundings put the two chicks in close contact with a group of Andean condors and "they all seem relatively comfortable around each other," Toone said.

The chicks will remain in the isolation unit for five to six months, until they are strong enough to fly. At that time, they will be moved into a flight enclosure, Toone said.

Sisquoc remains the spunkier of the two, said Toone.

"He's a lot more mobile, always clumping around on his big feet to check things out. He's cocky and certainly a condor. I reached in today and got a good bite from him. He's definitely feeling his oats."

"But Tecuya has the best

appetite. Sisquoc is growing faster but cannot compete with Tecuya at eating. Tecuya is a voracious and aggressive eater," he said.

Both will continue to be fed by hand puppets that resemble adult condors for three to four more months before going on an adult diet of mice, mackerel, and a canned meat for carnivores.

According to Toone, "an amazing interaction exists between the chicks and the puppets. The chicks are convinced they are real. They'll preen each other, nibble at the puppets' necks and try to stick their heads in the puppets' mouths for more food."

Bodies found in drums were shooting victims

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The man and two women whose decomposed bodies were found in a pair of cement-sealed steel drums were shot in the back of the head, a coroner said Thursday.

Explaining that his autopsies were far from complete, Coroner Boyd Stephens said, "Obviously a shot into the back of the head is very likely to cause death, but whether that is the cause, we don't know. This is only the beginning."

He said there appeared to be some other injuries on the corpses, but could not say what was inflicted before death and what resulted from cramming the bodies into the 55-gallon drums found Tuesday in Golden Gate Park. He said he also could not fix a probable time of death.

Stephens said he was able to retrieve dental work with fillings, but that he needed missing-persons documents before he could try a match-up. San Francisco police average 230 missing person reports a month.

Police have said they doubted a motive could be determined until more is known about the victims.

"It's obvious we are withholding information, things that will enable us to proceed with the case," said one officer on the case who asked that his name not be used.

Stephens said he too was withholding certain facts. Possible motives included revenge, a "sour" drug deal, a territorial dispute among thugs, or as "a message to others involved in the same type of criminal activity," homicide Inspector Mike Mullane said.

Inspector Ron Schneider, who has worked with Mullane on the case since the drums were found Tuesday, agreed that there were too few facts to establish a motive. "Your mind could really go wild with something like this," he said.

However, the inspectors said they had determined that the drums were dumped in the park Friday between 2:30 a.m. and 2:45 a.m., apparently with some difficulty.

"We know that within that 15-minute period, four and possibly five cars went by on Fulton Street," Mullane said. "And we know that someone or more of these drivers or passengers in the cars noticed something."

They would not say how they were able to pinpoint the drop time, but they asked motorists in the area at that time to call authorities.

LATEST VICTIM — Mary Serrano of New York holds a photo of the latest member of her family to fall victim to violence in her Brooklyn neighborhood. The son, David, 15, was shot in the head Saturday during an argument with another youth over a radio. He has now being kept alive on a respirator.

A mother's grief 4 sons victims of gang violence

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman says her "gang-controlled" neighborhood is responsible for the violent deaths of four of her 14 children, including a 15-year-old son shot in the head last weekend.

David Serrano died Wednesday afternoon after clinging to life for four days on a respirator at Lutheran Medical Center. Three of his brothers were killed in 1977. Another brother, wounded twice in 1977, survived.

David was shot Saturday with a zip gun by another 15-year-old who accused David of stealing a radio, according to police. The shootings involving his brothers were outgrowths of barroom arguments.

Candido Serrano Jr., 23, was shot to death outside a bar on Easter Sunday in 1977. Joseph, 24, and Edward, 22, were slain Dec. 26, 1977, in the wake of an all-night Christmas party in a social club. Both those times, Alexander, then 26, was wounded, but pulled through.

"It's the neighborhood," said their mother, Mary Serrano, 59, who has raised 14 children in the Sunset Park section of Brooklyn, not far from the Gowanus Bay docks.

"The gangs control everything. And there's pressure on the kids to join. They should stop the guns and drugs you can get all over this neighborhood."

She said David had hoped to join the Army some day to get away from the scene. He was pronounced brain-dead at 4:50 p.m. Wednesday, hospital officials reported.

Community leaders disputed Mrs. Serrano's view of the neighborhood, which they said was on the way back from a slide and said the crime in the area has never been any worse than other nearby sections.

"We have problems with crime, but it's not overwhelming," said Wilfredo Lugo, executive director of the Sunset Park Redevelopment Committee. "Compared with other communities, this is a safe one. We have a young, active population."

"We went down in the 1950s and '60s when the waterfront died. We've been trying since to bring the docks back and we've stabilized housing in the neighborhood," Lugo said.

"Drugs and gangs are problems of recent years, not a long-time one like places like Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brownsville or the Bronx," said Doyle Lord of Sunset Park's United Negro American Association. "Most of the crime in this area is a direct result of the economic situation ..."

Police have charged George Rentas with shooting David Serrano.

They said David and some friends were approached by Rentas and some of his friends outside a video arcade around 8 p.m. Saturday. Rentas accused David of stealing a radio earlier in the day. When David denied it, Rentas pulled a homemade gun and fired, police said.

A WORKOUT — Dorothy Severin, left, and Andre Sink, right, work their way to trim, firm and slim figures a few hours a week in a local aerobic exercise class. The women may be participating in the "Dance for Heart!"

Dance-a-Thon Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Highland Mall. The proceeds will benefit the American Heart Association.

Dr. Donohue

Insulin pump use limited

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: We were interested in getting one of the new insulin pumps that were widely publicized recently. We found they were not available. It sounds like the answer to our problems with our young diabetic. What is the status of the pump? How many people are using them? How do they work? — Mrs. E.F.

The technical name for the procedure is "continuous subcutaneous insulin infusion." It is the most exciting idea in treatment of insulin-dependent diabetes since the development of insulin therapy itself, but it is still in the experimental stage. It's not for everyone. The last I heard there were only about 4,000 insulin-dependent diabetics using the device. Bugs are still being ironed out to assure continuing reliability of insulin delivery so that neither too much or too little is supplied. And the patient using the pump still must have blood sugar levels checked just as must the patient using the traditional injections.

Different pump models are being studied. They are about the size of pocket calculators, and they fit onto a belt or into a pocket. They weigh less than a pound. From the pump, a connecting plastic tube is implanted under the skin, usually of the abdomen. It's hoped that future refinements will permit continuing blood sugar monitoring, with the pump responding with insulin quantities keyed to that monitoring. Thus, the pump will act very much like the body's own natural insulin pump, the pancreas.

I am sure we will be hearing more about the pumps in the months and years ahead. But for now you just cannot walk into a physician's office and ask for one. You can, if you wish, check with a local diabetes association chapter and ask if any research work is going on in your area.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr.

Donohue in care of the Big "Diabetes — The Sneaky Spring Herald, P.O. Box Disease." Enclose a long, 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dance-a-Thon to benefit AHA

More than 25 area dancers are expected to participate in the "Dance for Heart" Dance-a-Thon at the Highland Mall from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., May 7. Dancers plan to raise public awareness of aerobic exercise and raise funds to benefit American Heart Association.

Each participant has recruited sponsors who make pledges based on the number of minutes the participants dances. The event lasts four 45-minute sessions. Participants dance as many sessions as they are able.

The dance-a-thon is being held statewide under the sponsorship of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness. Funds raised will support research, public and professional education and community service programs of the American Heart Association.

Participants will receive prizes based on the amount of their pledges. The participant who collects the most in pledges statewide will receive a trip for two to Cancun. The participant who collects the second most in pledges statewide receives a trip for two to Puerto Vallarta.

Aerobic dance, which has become popular in recent years, is a fitness sport combining the cardiovascular benefits of jogging with the easy-to-learn movement routines choreographed to music. Students hop, kick, slide, lunge, skip, bend, twist and stretch in continuous motion. In addition to trimming and firming the body, aerobic dance strengthens and conditions the heart by making the body work hard and demand increased amounts of oxygen.

Anyone wishing to make a pledge in support of a "Dance for Heart" participant is asked to call Carmen Salazar at 267-3671.

Reagan's ideas on education discussed

"Self Appointed Censors: New Threat to Our Schools" was the program given by Mrs. S.R. Nobles at a recent Modern Woman's Forum meeting. Mrs. Nobles shared President Ronald Reagan's ideas and quoted him saying "We should welcome God back into our schools." According to her, he also urged improving basic skills, discipline and competition, saying we must reverse a two-decade decline in education. Advocates of government interference in education have had time to make their case and they've failed. The growth of book protests in the country raises questions about academics and basic freedom, Mrs. Nobles said. Members donated books to the West Side Center in the club's name. The next meeting will be a noon luncheon May 13 in the home of Mrs. F.C. Tibbs.

Tape features aides, secretaries and clerks

Area Texas Educational Secretaries Association members and guests were treated to a taped presentation of Big Spring Independent School District secretaries, aides and clerks in action. The program was set to background music of "Nine to Five" at their final meeting recently. The presentation was compiled by Bobbie Alexander, Big Spring High School audiovisual department. The group will continue an annual $100 scholarship to a Howard College business major. Last year's recipient was Dora Morales. Plans for the summer work conference in Austin, June 26-29, were discussed. Outgoing president Mildred Puckett installed new officers. New officers are: Ruth Budke, president; Lil Blasingame, vice president; Darla Swindell, secretary; and Undine Kernodie, treasurer.

Singer should realize that marriage isn't a solo act

DEAR ABBY: Just finished reading Mitzi Gaynor's letter to you. Yes, I agree, it's a beautiful let... She says: "After being married to the same wonderful man for 28 years, we're still best friends as well as lovers. It hasn't always been easy, but I've worked at it. In order to get along with your guy, you have to play his game. If he likes watching sports, start off the game by sitting on his lap. If he likes to eat, learn to be a good cook. The song says, 'Woman needs man, and man must have his mate.' Well, girls, get more interested in parlor, bedroom and bath." End of quote.

It seems to me that in our culture, in order to make a marriage work, the burden is about 90 percent on the woman. For example, what do the women read? Magazines telling them how to be a better wife, mother, lover. How to prepare his favorite foods, how to make yourself more attractive for him, how to nourish his ego and build him up. In short, make up, make over and make do!

In the meantime, what do the men read? Sports Illustrated, Field and Stream, Popular Mechanics and science fiction. And last, but not least, Playboy!

Here is what I wish Mitzi's husband would have written:

"Dear Abby: Mitzi and I have been married for 28 years, and we're still best friends as well as lovers. It hasn't always been easy, but I've worked at it. 'All you men out there, in order to get along with your woman, you have to learn to play her game. If she's in the kitchen, cooking or cleaning up, give her a hand. If she likes to dance, take her dancing at least once a week. As the song says, 'A good man is hard to find.' But I say a good woman is hard to find, too, so 'bug her in the morning, kiss her in the night, give her lots of lovin' and treat her right, cause a good mate nowadays is hard to find.'

"I say, men, turn off the TV and get interested in the parlor, bedroom, bath and kitchen! Sincerely, Jack"

Abby, why is it when you reverse the letters, Jack's sounds almost comical? Somehow women are expected to do nice things for their men! If a man does the same nice things for a woman, he's suspected of being weak and wimpy.

Baby, we've still got a long way to go. Sign me... MARRIED 34 YEARS AND WE'RE BOTH STILL WORKING AT IT

DEAR ABBY: I'm dating a wonderful woman. She's beautiful, kind, loving and intelligent. There's just one drawback — she's never on time! If I'm to pick her up at 7 p.m. I can always expect to wait for at least 30 minutes before she's ready to go.

I am always on time. I hate to be late for anything. If I'm going to be late I would just as soon not go at all.

How can I cure this lovely lady of this terrible habit? JOHNNY-ON-THE-SPOT

DEAR JOHNNY: Easy. Make an announcement: "If you're not on time, the date is off!"

You may have to cancel a couple of dates, but I pro-

FEEDING THE HOMELESS — American Red Cross volunteer Eddie Mendes dishes out food to Valentin Espinosa Wednesday as a line of people follow him in Coalinga, Calif., sight of a devastating earthquake which forced many residents to abandon their homes.

Starting over

California quake victims vow to rebuild

COALINGA, Calif. (AP) — Merchants walked carefully through the ruins of more than 200 devastated shops in downtown Coalinga on Thursday for the first time since a wrenching earthquake evicted them and smashed their stores to rubble.

No formal decision on the fate of the businesses was made, but Mayor Keith Scrivner said, "Unofficially, most of the buildings downtown are coming down."

"It looks to me that very few will be left standing," said the city's information officer, Bob Semple. "There are buildings that will have to be knocked down — we can't kid anybody about that."

One of the 47 people injured, Walter Fratti, 38, was unconscious and clinging to life in a hospital in Visalia. Fratti suffered head and stomach injuries when his home collapsed on him, and he was listed in critical condition on life support systems.

There were no deaths. The earthquake that struck Monday measured 6.5 on the Richter scale and was centered 10 miles northeast of this San Joaquin Valley town of 7,000 people.

It caused $31 million damage by state estimates. About 141 businesses were destroyed, and 73 others were badly damaged but probably can be repaired, said Richard Adams of the state Office of Emergency Services.

Of the city's 2,700 homes, 563 have been classed as uninhabitable.

The devastating temblor was followed by more than 1,500 aftershocks in two days, state geologist Bob Streitz said.

Two big, early morning aftershocks disrupted the uneasy sleep of residents Wednesday and Thursday, the first registering 4.5 and the other 4.3 on the Richter scale of ground motion.

Those jolts sent glassware and groceries tumbling again, but no additional injuries or major damage were reported, Fresno County sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Schmidt said.

Crews demolished and removed the most hazardous remains of a number of buildings without informing owners, which added to tensions over their losses.

Scrivner said owners will be allowed to continue removing property from their ruined buildings as long as there are items of value buried in the rubble.

"If it gets out of hand, the sheriff's department will close it off and evacuate it. We'll have to start all over again," he said. "They could go in and just bulldoze everything. It's to that point."

Merchants were told to go for their records first, stay out of basements and upper floors, and wear hardhats and gloves.

Ken Davenport was one of a group of volunteers cleaning out a building containing a number of shops, including Crazy T-Shirts, which opened on the day of the quake.

"Most of the shops are pretty small," he said. "All the extra walls have kept the building in shape. The buildings downtown, most of them look just fine. They have to come down, but they don't look dangerous."

Robert Stout, owner of Stout's Air Conditioning and Appliance Service Co., was optimistic as he surveyed the shambles of his office.

"We're a service company. If we can take our equipment out, we can be back in business. We just have to play it by ear."

Meanwhile, Red Cross volunteers started family interviews to determine needs for food, clothing and shelter. State Unemployment Development Department personnel opened an emergency center for unemployment and disability claims.

The National Guard continued serving about 3,000 meals a day under a "big top" tent. Many home owners were still without cooking gas.

Relief reaches earthquake site

COALINGA, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of earthquake victims lined up for food, blankets and financial advice, as state officials awaited President Reagan's decision on whether this community will be declared eligible for federal disaster aid.

As aftershocks continued to rattle the oil and farming town Wednesday, the state Office of Emergency Services estimated damage since Monday's strong earthquake at $31 million.

The town and surrounding Fresno County have already been declared a state disaster area. State officials hoped a federal disaster declaration would be issued today, making townspeople eligible for the federal assistance.

"Coalinga's a pioneer town," said food market owner Vince Motte. "One way or another, we'll rebuild."

Motte had just spent $20,000 remodeling his store only to have it heavily damaged Monday in the earthquake that hit 6.5 on the Richter scale. An aftershock of 4.4 leveled the remains early Wednesday, but he was still determined to rebuild.

Hundreds of aftershocks continued Wednesday, with a tremor registering 3.5 on the Richter scale at 9:38 p.m.

The scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by ground motion on a seismograph. A quake of magnitude 3.5 can cause slight damage; of magnitude 6 can cause severe damage.

Coalinga's residents, displaced by the destruction of their homes or because some utilities are still out, turned to volunteer agencies for help Wednesday. The Red Cross set up a disaster center, planning 9,000 daily meals with the help of the California National Guard. Banks and pharmacies sent up temporary offices until permanent structures could be rebuilt.

The homeless slept in campers, tents or temporary shelters at the West Hills College gymnasium. And while many were optimistic, others were scared and some couldn't stop crying.

Gloria Sprague said she couldn't clean her damaged house because whenever she began the job she began to cry, unable to cope with the sight of her grandmother's smashed china, ruined furniture and broken glass.

Five-year-old Marlena Ann Allen said her family was sleeping in the front yard. "We were scared half to death sleeping in our regular beds," she said.

The emergency services office said 165 homes and 141 businesses had been destroyed in the community of 6,500, while 681 homes and 73 businesses were damaged.

City spokesman Bob Semple said that "all the initial impact of the earthquake has gone. It is a cleanup operation now."

Pacific Gas & Electric crews were checking for leaks and pipe pressure, and gas service was not expected to be restored for several days.

A contingent of plumbers was expected to begin repairing the piping in habitable homes, said Norm Covell, assistant director of the Fresno County Environmental Health Department.

Broken water mains have been repaired, he said, but residents must await sample test results before they can stop boiling tap water.

Murder charges face mercy doctors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A Superior Court judge on Thursday tentatively reinstated murder charges against two doctors because they cut off life-support to a patient who later died.

In March a municipal judge dismissed the charges against Dr. Robert Nejdil and Dr. Neil Barber, both physicians at Kaiser Permanente Hospital. The Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office appealed that decision.

Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke issued a tentative ruling early Thursday, saying he would issue a final ruling after hearing arguments from prosecutors and doctors' attorneys later Thursday.

TONY BONILLA
...talks to lawmakers

LULAC president says Hispanic power growing

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of the League of United Latin American Citizens told the Texas Legislature Thursday the state and nation should be aware of the political and economic clout of Hispanics.

Tony Bonilla, national president of LULAC, spoke to a joint session of House and Senate.

"As Hispanics we spend in excess of $100 billion a year as consumers today," Bonilla said. "The blacks take home $157 billion. Together blacks and Hispanics represent a quarter of a trillion dollar industry in this country."

Together blacks and Hispanics represent 23 million voters.

"That's why some of us who are active in the political activities across this country may suggest that the hand that picks the cotton and fruits and vegetables will some day be picking the president of the United States," Bonilla said.

He pointed out that when he served as a state representative from Corpus Christi in 1965 there were only seven representatives and no senators. Now there are 24 Hispanics in the House and four in the Senate.

"That reflects how far the Hispanics have come in this state," he said.

"We know your task is difficult and we want you to be assured the Hispanic community is willing to work with you."

Bonilla said Hispanics were vitally interested in a number of issues before the Texas Legislature.

"We do not want any new taxes," he listed as the prime objective.

Other Hispanic aims, he said, were higher pay for public school teachers, no increase in state college tuition, a minimum wage and workmen's compensation for farm workers, increased benefits for welfare children, and mandatory wage deductions for child support.

Gourmet Magazine was denied their recipes...
Alberto's is family affair

Right here in Big Spring Mexican food lovers can enjoy a dish that has attracted the attention of Gourmet Magazine, the food connoisseurs' guide.

The dish is Green Enchiladas, and you'll find it at Alberto's Crystal Cafe. Ingredients include green chiles and a creamy cheese sauce, but the actual recipe is a secret and not even Gourmet Magazine could pry it out of Albert and Sally Rodriguez!

In addition, Alberto's red sauce is widely acclaimed...and regular customers from other states pick up a gallon or two when they're in town.

This should give you some idea of the taste treats in store for you when you dine at Alberto's. Everything is made fresh every day. The recipes and combinations of dishes have been lovingly developed by the Rodriguez family who've been in the restaurant business for 47 years. (Albert is the son of the late Chon Rodriguez, the patriarch of a family that operates other restaurants in Big Spring, Snyder, Lamesa and Odessa.)

The menu includes such offerings as Alberto's Macho Plate — Beef Burrito with Green Sauce, Chili Relleno, Taco, Tamale (homemade) with Chili and Refried Beans.

Or Nachitas a la Mexicana — Beans, Cheese, Guacamole, Chopped Onions, Diced Tomatoes and Jalapenos — in meal size or appetizer size.

Alberto's Chili Relleno — the great green chili cooked in batter — is a very old Rodriguez' family recipe, and well worth a visit.

Alberto's Special — a combination created by Sally — features Chunky Beef, Spanish Sauce, Rice and Beans. It's so popular that the restaurant cooks 70 pounds of beef a day for this dish alone!

"Papa's Special" — a tribute to Alberto's father — is not on the menu, but regular customers know to ask for this delightful Bean Chalupa topped with ground beef, dressed with lettuce and tomato.

Prices range from $3.20 for the traditional combination plate (Enchilada, Taco, Spanish Rice, Refried Beans), to $8.00 for Alberto's Ranch T-Bone Steak. Most entrees are priced under $5.00. Popular brands of Mexican beer are available.

Alberto's has two private dining rooms: a small one for groups of 15 or less, and a large one for gatherings of more than 30.

There are 26 employees, many of them family members, and all of the cooking is done exclusively by family. Noah Leyva is the manager.

Many distinguished people have dined at Alberto's. You can see their pictures and autographs on the wall: columnist Drew Pearson, former Cowboy Roger Staubach, entertainer Gary Collins and movie star Robert Vaughn. But this is not a celebrity style restaurant — it's a friendly, informal place to meet your friends and dine on ample portions of excellent Mexican food. Sometimes, especially at lunch, it's pretty lively. Second and Runnels Streets in downtown Big Spring. It's open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. It is closed on Sundays and on all major holidays.

Alberto's is located at the corner of

TERESA TAKES OFF FOR STATE TRACK
...after two years, Forsan High senior finally returns to Austin

Pianist White returns to state meet

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

FORSAN — She's an accomplished pianist, a member of her school's student council, a twirler in the band and secretary of her senior class. But this weekend, winning a gold medal in the high jump and getting started on her tan are the top priorities for Forsan's Teresa White.

The Buffalo Queen senior competed in the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium as a freshman but hasn't been back since. This year she shrugged off the pressure but had to outbattle LeAnn Runion of Robert Lee to gain her long-awaited return trip to Austin.

"I choked like everything," she explains about the past two years. "I guess I was just so worried about what I did as a freshman. I got to go to regionals but not in the high jump. That was one thing I felt I was better at."

She was determined to make it to and through regionals this spring but removed the pressure from herself. That was made easier by the graduation of Plains leaper Irene McKibbin, a 5-5 jumper and third in state last year. "At district," she explained, "all I tried to do was what we had been working on in practice. I knew I wasn't going to jump against her and so there was nothing to be afraid of."

Runion and White cleared 5-0 at district but White won on fewer misses. It was the same story at the Region II-A meet in Abilene but this time the girls went over 5-2. "I barely tipped it off at 5-4," she said, frowning. "We've been jumping together since seventh grade. She (Runion) beat me at the Wall (qualifier's meet) but that's the only time she's beaten me."

Although she accomplished her goal of returning to Austin, the work was just beginning.

The final two weeks of workouts have been exceptionally tough. Not only has coach Ron Taylor pushed her hard in practice but she's got her senior piano recital coming up Tuesday. That means splitting her time between the high jump bar and the keyboards this weekend in Austin.

"Sometimes it interferes," she said of track season. "If I had my choice," she says, laughing, "I'd rather go to state in track. But I can't throw away ten years of work in piano. This last week has really been hectic."

Big Spring's Rutledge joins 8 area individuals, 1 relay

AUSTIN — It's been said there is safety in numbers. For Big Spring area track fans, a new cliché saying there are gold medals in numbers would do quite nicely this weekend.

Nine individuals and one relay team from Big Spring and the surrounding area are in Austin today for the state track meet. The group is a mixture of veterans and newcomers but all are looking for their first gold medal.

Representing Big Spring High School is sprinter Shell Rutledge. The senior speedster will run the 200 meters and is making her first trip to Austin after four standout years with the Lady Steers.

Rutledge set the District 4-5A record (24.7) as a freshman and finished third at regionals last year. This season, she regained her district title and sped to a 24.2 in Lubbock for first place.

Greenwood High is hoping for good things from senior Renvy Evans who will run the 100 low hurdles and triple jump. The Rangeretts have the only area relay in Austin with Evans, sophomore Marla Morguette and freshmen Amy Franks and Teri Busic making up the 800 relay. The foursome ran a 1:48.81 for second at the Region I-A meet in Levelland.

The busiest individual besides Evans will be Klondike senior Dawna West. The duo, representing District 6-A, will continue their rivalries in the hurdles and triple jump. West edged Evans in both events at regionals — 35-41/2 to 35-23/4 in the jump and 15.4 to 15.6 in the hurdles — after Evans had won the triple jump at district.

West will also run the 400 meters. She was second in Levelland with a career-best 59.3.

Also competing in Class A are senior high jumper Teresa White of Forsan and freshman 800-meter runner Gena Schaefer of Garden City. Absent from the state meet for two years, White won both district and regional titles, edging out old friend LeAnn Runion of Robert Lee. Schaefer was second at the Region II-A meet at McMurry two weeks ago.

White won the jump with a 5-2 leap while Schaefer was second in the 800 with a 2:33.29.

Competing in the Class AA meet is Stanton long distance runner Mary Beth Tollison. Tollison, a junior, won both the 3,200 (12:14.3) and 1,600 (5:37.2) meters at the Region I-AA meet in Lubbock.

Four individuals are signed-up in the Class AAA division.

From Coahoma, senior Vickie Buchanan is making another trip to Austin to throw the discus while junior Tobie Henry is returning although in another event. She long-jumped last year but will run the 400 meters this time out. Buchanan tossed the discus 123-1 at regionals for first place while Henry was second in the 400 with a 58.8.

The third Bulldogette is senior Julie Nairn who was second the 200 meters (25.7) at the Region I-AAA meet in Odessa.

Also from District 6-AAA is freshman sprinter Sharon Williams who blazed to a first place (11.99) finish in Odessa two weeks ago.

The state meet began today and continues through Saturday.

Area boys test regional skills

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

The places are different this weekend but the ultimate destination for 27 area individuals and five relay teams in two weeks is Memorial Stadium in Austin.

Regional meets involving the large group of Big Spring area tracksters are going on today in Abilene, Brownwood, Odessa, Levelland and Lubbock. All 10 area schools have representatives at the meets.

The largest contingent of boys gathers today in Levelland where Greenwood's Stuart Burleson will draw much of the attention. The Ranger senior won the state high jump title last year, going 7-0 as a junior. His ability has already won him a track scholarship to the University of Kansas.

Burleson scored 31 points at the District 6-A meet, winning the high jump easily at 6-4 and the 110 hurdles in 15.24. He also runs on the Greenwood sprint relay team (Burleson, Len Lester, Roger Smith, Marc Colburn) which was first at the 6-A meet.

Also competing from Greenwood are Keith Dove in the high jump, Jim Lee in the discus, Troy Wallace in the high hurdles and Colburn in both the 100 and 200 meters. All four were second at the 6-A meet.

Terry Farrington is entered in the 1,600 and Jay Billingsley in the 300 hurdles for Grady High while Perry Wigington of Sands will toss the shot.

Klondike (Robert Guerra, Scott Runge, Ricky Webb, Mike Barkowsky) won the 1,600 relay in 3:37.76. Sophomore Tim Cope was second in the long jump.

Competing at the Region II-A meet in Abilene will be speedy sophomore Mitch Hays, hurdler Ted Tarbett and the Buffalo 1,600 relay team, all from Forsan, and distance runner Doug Jost of Garden City.

Hays made regionals in the 200, 400 and long jump while Tarbett is a 300 intermediates contestant. Both run on the relay team along with Lewis Boeker and Daniel Bristo. Jost, just a sophomore, ran a 11:02.0 at the district meet, to qualify for the Bearkats.

The school with the best chance at a team championship performance is Stanton High. The Buffaloes sped away with the team title at the District 9-AA meet and qualified seven individuals and two relays for the Region I-AA meet in Lubbock.

The individuals are Tim Bryant, pole vault; Mark Helms, 100; Nicky Reyna, 100; Tony Ramos, 3,200; Tommy Ramos, 1,600; Rocky Barnes, 400; and Robby Barnes, 800.

Reyna, Rocky Barnes, Maurizio Iaquaniello and Helms are members of the top-ranked Buffalo sprint relay team with Iaquaniello, Robby and Rocky Barnes and Helms running on the 1,600 relay unit.

Coahoma and Colorado City are sending athletes to the Region I-AAA meet in Odessa. Representing the Bulldogs are senior shot putter James Gilbert and juniors Donald Ewing, 1,600, and David Gross, long jump.

Chris McKinney, a senior, will toss the discus for the Wolves, while sophomore Kevin Norman will run the 100 and senior Jay Claxton the 3,200.

The C-City sprint relay team (Larry Hamilton, Norman, Perry Conner and Joey Ritchey) will also compete. None of those runners are seniors.

Lamesa has two runners at the Region II-AAAA meet in Brownwood. Junior Kreg Bryant is running both hurdle events trying to upend rival Glenn Parham of Snyder. Parham ran a 14.37 to down Bryant (14.88) at district and returned with a 38.5 in the 300 intermediates to best Bryant who had a 40.08.

Sophomore Ruben Sambrano clocked a 10:16.0 in the 3,200 meters, second behind Brent Shoemaker's 10:07.0 for Andrews.

Freshman Schaefer in land of giants

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

GARDEN CITY — Gena Schaefer stands only 5-1 and is winding up her freshman year at Garden City High School. Saturday, she'll be competing within the walls of massive Memorial Stadium in Austin but could be a standout figure among the crowd.

Schaefer was unbeaten in the 800 meters until she ran at the Region II-A meet in Abilene two weeks ago. Mary Ann Vallis of Irion County (Mertz) outlegged her to the finish line but the Bearkat freshman still earned a trip to Austin.

She's a little awed about running on the University of Texas campus but is comforted by the fact her best time of 2:23.31 is just two seconds over the Class A state best. "That makes me feel a little better," she says, flashing her braces. "Instead of looking for a place I can be trying for a medal."

How in the world does someone from Garden City wind up running such great times in the 800 meters? Schaefer reports that there is no history of great track performers in her family and she doesn't run too much away from school. "Maybe that's the thing God gave me," she offers.

"I like winning," she continues with another smile, "but I don't like the hard work." Coach Peggy Eubanks, sitting beside her, nodded her head in agreement. "But I would go out for this...the coaches wouldn't have to force me. I like it the day of the track meet when it's all over. That's okay."

Schaefer was hoping for more company on the trip to Austin. The Bearkat 1,600 relay had run a 3:14.0 this year but had trouble at McMurry College and finished only fourth. She wished seniors Stacy Wilkerson and Marianne Hoelscher, members of the relay, were making the trip but freshman teammate Carol

Black and Gold battle tonight

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Football workouts are almost two-thirds completed at Big Spring High and that means it's time for the annual Black and Gold scrimmage.

A split squad of varsity players, one team in gold and the other in black, will take the field 5-5:30 p.m. this afternoon. Preceding the varsity workout will be a split-squad scrimmage for junior varsity players, beginning at 4 p.m.

With seven offensive and four defensive players back, head coach Quinn Eudy is trying to fill his other 11 positions. Three players — seniors-to-be Ted Gillis and Mark Johnson and junior-to-be Tommy Gartman — are battling for the starting quarterback job. Gillis is also working out at defensive end along with junior-to-be Jay Pirkle who played in both the defensive and offensive backfields last year.

Pirkle and lineman Danny Arista will be playing in their first scrimmage after missing last week's workout because of baseball.

What's the emphasis tonight, coach Eudy?
"Everything," replied the second-year coach.

Eudy added that workouts have continued to be spirited and competition is keen for the remaining starting positions.

Spring drills continue twice daily next week with the three-week session highlighted by the exes-1984 seniors scrimmage next Friday.

STEER STRETCH-OUT SESSION — Linebacker Pete Crabtree limbers up before last week's scrimmage in Memorial Stadium. Crabtree and his teammates will be back in Memorial this afternoon at 4 p.m. for the annual Black-Gold scrimmage which concludes the second week of spring drills at Big Spring High School.

Old and new puts Graham on top

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Australian David Graham used an old putter, a new driver and accepted an assist from the weather to earn a share of the first-round lead in the $400,000 Houston Coca Cola Open.

Canadian Jim Nelford, who has made 23 consecutive cuts, also took advantage of the tranquil, early-morning weather and matched Graham's 5-under-par 66 Thursday over The Woodlands Country Club's 7,031-yard, par-71 course.

Six of the top eight scores over the first 18 holes were posted by golfers who teed off early.

Curt Byrum, John Cook and Lindy Miller were a stroke back at 67, while Bob Boyd, Tomas Gray and Lee Trevino carded 68s.

Trevino and Gray were the only afternoon starters to finish in the top eight.

Defending champion Ed Sneed, who matched par, said he was pleased "considering the difference in the course in the afternoon."

Houston Open

Graham discarded all of his experimental putters and returned to an old favorite. He ran in long putts that included six birdies in the final nine holes. He put a stiffer shaft on his driver and that helped him drive accurately.

"I can't estimate how much it means to hit the ball straight," he said.

"This was my best round of the year and my best nine holes since I don't remember when," said Graham, a former U.S. Open and PGA champion. "I've been having problems with my putting, not mechanically, but just thinking negatively."

Graham solved his negative thinking by returning to an old putter. "I must have tried 20 putters in the last six months," he said.

Graham started on the backside struggled to a 1-over 36 at the turn with three bogeys and two birdies.

Then he chipped within two feet to start the birdie run on the first hole and sank birdie putts of 12, 10 and 15 feet on Nos. 2, 3 and 5.

Nelford missed only two greens, Nos. 8 and 17, but had par-saving putts of five and six feet each time.

"It was one of my more comfortable rounds of ball striking," Nelford said. "I was putting for birdies on almost every hole."

Bunched at 69 were Bobby Wadkins, Mike Nicolette, Gary Koch, Mike Sullivan, Doug Tewell, Larry Ziegler, Mike McCullough, Lee Elder and Victor Regalado.

Hal Sutton, the No. 2 money-winner on the tour this year, carded a 71 and Tom Kite, No. 4 on the list, had a 74.

BLASTING INTO THE LEAD — Jim Nelford of Kelowna, British Columbia, irons out from the rough towards the 18th green Thursday at the Houston Open. Nelford parred the hole to end the day with a five under par 66 and share of the first round lead with David Graham.

NFLPA votes to keep Garvey as union chief

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (AP) — National Football League Players Association head Ed Garvey says it's "very gratifying" that the association has voted to retain him as executive director, but adds he's not sure he wants to keep the job.

"I'm not sure whether that (staying on) is in the cards or there are other opportunities," Garvey said Thursday, after the board of NFL player representatives voted 20-7 to retain him, with one absentee.

NFLPA spokesman Frank Woschitz declined to give an individual breakdown of the balloting. "We're not giving out any names," he said.

Garvey said it was "very gratifying to have the overwhelming support of the board. I think oftentimes personalities are emphasized too much and what's more gratifying is that the players have adopted a platform that this organization can be proud of."

Asked whether the strong vote meant he would remain on as head of the NFLPA, Garvey said: "I have to now obviously make a decision about what I'm going to do. I'll be sitting down with the executive committee and making that decision over the course of the next month."

109th Derby: Marfa choice over Play Fellow

Texas horse could engage in bump-and-run for Roses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Worries of Marfa bothering other horses hover over Saturday's 109th Kentucky Derby, and, with the field at its 20-horse limit, there are fears of a traffic jam at the head of the stretch.

Wayne Lukas, who trains the sometimes wayward colt, plans no change of equipment to keep Marfa on the straight and narrow over 1 1/4 miles at Churchill Downs.

He is putting the task of guiding the stretch-running colt home first to Jorge Velasquez, the veteran jockey who had his hands full in the Blue Grass Stakes April 27 when Marfa was disqualified from second to fourth after interfering with Copelan and Desert Wine in the stretch.

"Training horses is like tuning a violin," Lukas said Thursday after he submitted his entry of Marfa, Balboa Native and Total Departure. "You want Grass, Marfa was doing so well and running so strongly that Jorge didn't see any need to get after him. I think he caught Jorge by surprise."

Marfa, who has three wins and three seconds in nine starts this year, will go from the No. 18 post position. The son of 1975 Derby winner Foolish Pleasure is owned by Robert French, Barry Beal and Lukas.

It might be of some hope to Marfa's backers should he cause problems that a foul claim has never been upheld in the Derby.

Balboa Native, post No. 3, is the Louisiana Derby winner, while No. 9 Total Departure, was second in last Saturday's Derby Trial here. Sandy Hawley rides Balboa Native and Pat Valenzuela rides Total Departure.

Not since 1946 has there been a three-horse entry in the field.

Trainer Woody Stephens and Bwamazon Farm have two-horse entries for the Derby, which will draw more than 100,000 people.

Carl Lauer, Robert Victor and Nancy Vanier's Play Fellow, the 19-1 Blue Grass Stakes winner by a nose over Marfa, is the second early choice at 4-1, going from post No. 2 under Jean Cruquet. He became the oldest jockey ever to win the Derby when he rode home Seattle Slew at age 37 in 1977.

Stephens' entry of Caveat, the Derby Trial winner, and Chumming, fifth in the Trial after stumbling at the start, is listed at 5-1.

August Belmont's Caveat, with Laffit Pincay board, leaves from the outside post No. 20, while Hickory Tree Farm's Chumming, with Eddie Maple up, starts from No. 4.

David Foster's Sunny's Halo, who beat Caveat by four lengths in the Arkansas Derby, also is rated at 5-1 and is in the 10th position. Eddie Delahoussaye, who rode Gato Del Sol to victory in last year's Derby, rides the Canadian-bred whose only other start this year was a three-length win in the Rebel Handicap.

Equequity Stable's Slew O' Gold, son of 1977 Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew and winner of a division of the Wood Memorial, goes from No. 1 under Angel Cordero.

The rest of the starters in the crowded field are lightly regarded in the quest for the $426,000 first prize from a gross of $531,000 if all go.

Current Hope, 12-1, who hasn't raced since winning the Flamingo April 2, goes from the No. 12 post under 17-year-old Alexis Soltis. Trainer Roger Laurin's father, Lucien, won Derbies with Riva Ridge and Secretariat.

Desert Wine, the San Rafael and San Felipe winner who is the biggest money-winner in the group with $527,315, and Pax In Bello, third in the Derby Trial, are listed at 15-1 along with the Bwamazon entry of Freezing Rain and Highland Park.

Parfaitement and Country Pine are rated at 20-1 while five horses were placed in the field for betting purposes at 30-1.

They are Paris Prince, the California Derby winner; Law Talk, Explosive Wagon, My Mac and Luv A Libra.

Common Sense, a four-time winner from Suffolk Downs actually entered the Derby, but the owners withdrew when Churchill Downs officials advised that the entry of Country Pine would bump their horse because Country Pine had won more money — a requirement imposed to limit the field to 20 horses.

BRISK WORKOUT FOR THE DERBY FAVORITE — Exercise rider Jesus Cerrillo puts Kentucky Derby favorite Marfa through an early Thursday morning workouts at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ken.

Marfa, trained by Wayne Lukas, is the favorite for the 109th running of the Derby and will start from the 18th post Saturday.

to do it right and at the right time. There's a lot of excitement in the air this morning and Marfa senses it."

On the strength of Marfa's impressive victories in the Jim Beam Spiral Stakes and Santa Anita Derby and the lack of a full-fledged 3-year-old standout, the Lukas entry was made the 5-2 early-line favorite.

But even Lukas can't be sure how Marfa will behave.

"I think Jorge learned something about him in the Blue Grass," Lukas said. "He (Marfa) needs to know who's in charge. He needs a driver and, for a while, Jorge became a passenger. In the Derby, Jorge needs to be a driver."

"He needs to stay after him. In the Blue

Lendl upset in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Lendl's prediction that he wouldn't meet John McEnroe in Sunday's finals of the $500,000 Mercedes Tournament of Champions was right on target — which is more than can be said of Lendl.

McEnroe, troubled by a muscle sprain in his right thigh, still has a shot at collecting his first-ever title on the clay courts at the West Side Tennis Club, but Lendl is heading for Munich after being upset Thursday by 19-year-old Henri Leconte of France 6-2, 6-3.

Seeded second in this select 40-player field, McEnroe advanced to today's quarterfinal clash against Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over an outclassed Jan Gunnarson of Sweden.

Today's other matches sent Leconte against No. 9 Johan Kriek and Brad Gilbert against No. 5 Vitas Gerulaitis.

Gerulaitis, the 1980 T of C champion, won his third-round match on Wednesday.

Special system triggers bells

By CAROL HART
Religion Editor

Have you ever wondered who's playing the bells which chime from the First United Methodist Church at 9 a.m., noon and 5 p.m. every day?

To uncover the secret, you must climb up several flights of green carpeted stairs which lead to the lower level of the church steeple. At the top of the stairs is a locked door. And on the other side of the locked door is a five foot six metal box which houses the complex workings of a fully automated carillon system.

"It's not much of a tour," Charles Parham, minister of music at the church, says. But if at first you are disappointed not to find some wizened little old man who spends his days up in the steeple playing the bells, you may soon become intrigued with the intricacies of the carillon system which was donated to the church about eight years ago. It is a Schulmerich Carillon system from Sellersville, Pa., and, according to Parham, "There is no method of actually playing this one."

The system looks like a stereo cabinet which houses a clock, a tape player and knobs which are used to program the system. It is triggered to begin playing tape recorded music at certain hours during the day. A clock inside the system has "program pins" which are set at certain times. When the clock strikes 9 a.m., noon or 5 p.m., the program pins fall into place and the tape recorder is activated.

The system also knows the difference between days of the week and Sunday, when it plays a different program. And each hour of the day between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m., the system strikes the hour of the day, then gives a rendition of "Westminster Abbey."

The system is so automated that Parham rarely has to go up into the storage room where the main system is housed. He does go in to change tapes on the system, and says "We have Christmas tapes, special wedding tapes, a patriotic tape, Lenten hymns and general hymn tunes."

Although First Methodist prefers religious tunes, "There are all sorts of wild tapes available," Parham says. "We have a vast selection to choose from, including Greek Orthodox hymns, Polish Christmas Carols, Ukranian Orthodox hymns, Jewish hymns and others. I would love to have some popular songs or some classical selections," he says, running his finger through the catalogue of selections. "Or how about

CARILLON SYSTEM
...Charles Parham demonstrates

"Raindrops Keep Falling on my Head," "Do You Know the Way to San Jose," or "Red Sails in the Sunset," he says with a smile.

Parham said that Howard College has a carillon system exactly like the one in First Methodist. At Howard College, some of the popular selections can be heard.

A knob on the system can be adjusted so one, two, three or four songs may be played at any one time. Parham has the system set to play one song three times a day now.

The sound feeds up through the steeple at the church. To participate in this part of the tour, you must climb two sets of circular stairs which wind their way to four large speakers in the top of the steeple. These speakers face in four different directions. "The sound is electronically amplified hundreds of times," Parham explains.

Parham said he has never heard complaints about the system. When the carillon system was installed, Parham said the installers told him they get many requests for systems in smaller towns, but that in larger towns "many people object to the sound. Rarely do you hear carillons in a large city."

Revival set through May 13

Howard services begin this Sunday at East Fourth Street Baptist Church and will continue through May 13. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. with weekday services at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Bob Clements will be evangelist. Joe Whitten will be in charge of music. Clements recently returned from an evangelistic crusade in Korea where as many as 25,000 people attended some of the services and more than 1,500 people made professions of faith in Christ.

Whitten has served for several years as minister of music at First Baptist Church. He will be meeting with the revival choir each evening, Monday through Friday, at 7 p.m., for a 30-minute rehearsal.

Church plans films three, four "Mourning Song" and "God's Waiting Room" will be presented at 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Sunday.

"The Mourning Song" deals with loss through death and divorce and loss of possessions. A 30-minute fellowship period will follow the film in the Parish Hall.

At 7:30 p.m., film four, "God's Waiting Room," will be shown. This film illustrates how God is working even while we are waiting for answers to prayer.

Hitler diaries fake?

West German government: tests prove writings forged

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The government said today its experts had scientifically tested three of the 62 volumes in the purported diaries of Adolf Hitler and concluded they were forged.

"Based on an analysis of the contents and the criminal-technical and scientific investigation, the archives have come to the conviction that the material handed them did not stem from Hitler's hand, but was made in the postwar period," Interior Minister Friederich Zimmermann said in a statement issued in Bonn.

"We regret that this examination could not be done before publication," he said.

Stern magazine, which has been publishing excerpts of the diaries, said it "cannot ignore" the findings, but did not elaborate. A spokesman for the Sunday Times of London said the newspaper had canceled its plans to publish the purported diaries because of the West German government's announcement.

In Frankfurt, Federal Archives President

Hans Booms said experts from his agency, the Federal Criminal Office in Wiesbaden and the Federal Bureau of Standards had examined three volumes provided by Stern, which said it found the documents in a farming village in East Germany.

Scientific tests showed that the paper and ink used in the volumes was manufactured after World War II, Booms said. He provided no specific date of manufacture and did not describe the tests.

He said the experts who examined the documents believe they were forged with the use of historical material on Hitler that was published in 1962. Booms did not elaborate.

Stern Editor Henri Nannen said in a telex statement, "The magazine cannot ignore the statements from the federal archives, but will take them into consideration in further publication. A final explanation of the details is not possible at this moment."

Arthur Britten, spokesman for News International, the company that owns the Sunday Times, said in London that his firm "accepts the report of the German archivists that the volumes they have examined contained materials that demonstrate the diaries are not authentic. In view of this, The Sunday Times will not go ahead with publication."

Sunday Times publisher Rupert Murdoch had paid Stern $400,000 for serialization rights to the purported diaries.

The government study of the documents began last Tuesday, when Stern handed over three volumes of the purported Hitler diaries, Booms said, adding that his office had received four more volumes since then but had not tested them.

The seven volumes were said to cover the years 1934, 1937, 1939, 1941, 1942 and 1943. Booms said they included the two books describing the Nazi dictator's purported knowledge of his deputy Rudolf Hess' flight to Scotland in May 1941, but did not say whether they were among those tested.

Eight charged for planning to sell six illegal aliens

HOUSTON (AP) — Eight Mexicans charged with operating a holding house for illegal aliens tried to sell six men to work at a business near Frisco, an assistant U.S. attorney says.

Five members of one family and three other people appeared before U.S. Magistrate H. Lingo Platter Thursday. They were charged with harboring illegal aliens and conspiring to harbor illegal aliens.

Bond for seven of those accused was set at $10,000. Platter granted Eustoria Rogan Villa, 64, a personal recognizance bond.

Cedric Joubert, an assistant U.S. attorney, said the eight are accused of holding 40 Mexican aliens in the house. The group was allegedly being held until friends and relatives paid smuggling fees.

Joubert said the eight were arrested after an abortive attempt to sell six workers to an unnamed business in Frisco, north of Dallas, for $440 apiece.

He said the employer called federal immigration officers after haggling over the price.

Other than Mrs. Tovar, those charged were Juan Gaona Alfaro, 23; Angel
