

Two Mitchell County liquor applications approved today

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Two applications for off-premises liquor sales in Precinct 3 were approved today by Mitchell County Judge Bill Carter.

"Yes, we lashed around for about three minutes," he said in a telephone interview. "It was simple."

Gary Harkins of Big Spring and James Beavers of Colorado City had their application approved for wine and beer sales at The Outpost on South FM 1229.

John E. Snider of Colorado City, who withdrew his application last week because he forgot to sign it, returned to have his application approved for beer and liquor sales at B&J's Package and Beer Store on 405 E. 2nd.

Those were the only two applications presented this morning, Carter said.

Last Wednesday an application for sales at Colonial Food Store at 1205 Hickory was denied because Carter felt the store was too close to a school. Colonial is appealing the decision because the store is outside the 300-foot limit drawn by the Colorado City Council.

Two other applications were presented but withdrawn last week by Bobby Joe Tammen and J.N.

Baker. Neither application was presented this morning.

Tammen, owner of Bojo's convenience store at Lake Colorado City State Park, withdrew his application after Carter questioned him on church affiliations and a 1979 aggravated assault charge that was later dismissed. He said he wanted an "impartial judge."

The two applicants winning approval today must now send their applications to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission in Austin. Carter said it would be 10 days to two weeks before they would receive licenses to begin selling alcohol.

Carter has not set another hearing date for applications, but he said he knows of six to eight possible applications that may be presented in the near future.

Carter last week questioned whether liquor sales could be considered progress and recommended that part of the profits from sales go to fight alcoholism.

"It (alcohol sales) is still a controversial issue around here," he said this morning. "But we had an election down here and the people in Precinct 3 have spoken."

City sued for $60 million

Officials call Lubbock man's claims ludicrous

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A 43-year-old Lubbock man arrested here Feb. 2 on a Lubbock County felony theft warrant is asking $60 million and $5,000 per month for life in a lawsuit against Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner, Mayor Clyde Angel and the city council, City Attorney Doyle Curtis said.

Curtis said the lawsuit was filed April 19 in Abilene federal district court by Angelo Napoleon Ansley. He filed a similar case in Lubbock state district court on March 3.

The federal suit alleges that during his stay in city jail here, he was exposed to and observed medical malpractice, unsafe and unsanitary living conditions, jail trustees with "keys authority," strip searching, violation of personal property and other abuses of civil rights.

"It's laughable and a joke, but then it's not, because you've got to defend it, even though it's totally frivolous," Curtis said.

Curtis said yesterday he had prepared the defendant's answer that denies all the allegations.

"I'm not really concerned about it, I'm just upset by it," Curtis said. "It's an abuse of the judicial system. You and all the taxpayers have to pay for it, and it's a waste of time."

Curtis said the federal district judge has granted Ansley's request

NOVICE GUITAR MAKER — At age 81, Jim Abreo decided to make a guitar just to "stay busy." Using simple tools and scrap lumber, Abreo built the guitar in a month. After building the instrument, Abreo, also a musician, said he'll probably stick with playing guitars rather than making them.

Octogenarian keeps busy by building guitar

By BOB CARPENTER

At 81, Jim Abreo of 500 Abrams likes to keep busy. It's hard to slip up on him and not find him working in the yard or playing the fiddle or helping with church activities.

The retired grocer and self-taught musician recently decided to pass the time by building a guitar out of scrap materials he had around the house.

"I try to keep busy so I won't get bored and start laying around the house. I'm still pretty active for my age," Abreo said.

To show that he's "still pretty active," Abreo will shake his arms, dance around a bit and then play a few tunes on the fiddle or guitar.

The idea to make the guitar came on the spur of the moment, according to Abreo.

"I had the lumber around the house, and I wondered what I could do with it," Abreo said. "And so I decided to make me a guitar."

Using another guitar as a pattern, Abreo fashioned his own instrument out of paneling and other pieces of scrap wood. His tools consisted of a knife, a rasp, pliers, a clamp, a coping saw and a hacksaw.

Familiar with carpentry, but a novice at making guitars, he estimates that he has spent 23 hours working on the instrument in the last month. Already playable, he said the guitar should be complete with finishing touches soon.

To show the accuracy of his instrument, he places it side by side with a factory guitar and plucks the strings on both. "It's perfect," he says as both guitars emit the same sound.

Dam plan back on course

AUSTIN — "Use it or lose it." That's what one legislator says an appeals court ruled in a long-running battle over whether there is enough water legally available in the Colorado River for the proposed Stacy Dam.

The dam is a project of Big Spring's Colorado River Municipal Water District. It has been caught up in litigation since the district filed for a building permit in 1977.

CRMWD's district manager O.H. Ivie said the dam, to be located 45 miles east of San Angelo, is needed to meet the water needs of projected growth in the area of Big Spring and San Angelo.

Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, takes issue with the court interpretation. He is sponsoring legislation to reinstate what he says is the way the law was generally regarded before that decision.

The 3rd Court of Appeals offered the opinion while ruling in favor of Stacy Dam. Saying that downstream water permit-holders had not used all of the water they were allowed to, the court ruled that the unused water is available for the dam.

Geistweidt's bill, aimed at removing the "use it or lose it" law, was reported favorably Tuesday from the House Natural Resources Committee with three "no" votes, including one from Chairman Tom Craddick, R-Midland.

O.H. Ivie, general manager of the

O.H. IVIE
... CRMWD manager

Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring, said that he disagrees with Geistweidt's move, but says he doesn't feel it will affect the outcome of the dam's litigation because the matter must be resolved according to the law when the case developed.

"We are of the opinion that the Texas Water Code is fine as it is," he said.

He said he is concerned the bill would allow river authorities to control the Texas waterways by forcing those interested in obtaining water rights to buy them from those entities.

Although Geistweidt said he favors the Stacy Dam project, the court's interpretation of the law could make it difficult to finance the dam and similar projects.

Geistweidt said the ruling holds that unless a permit is perfected or used to its full authority within three years, the permit holder loses the right to the unused water.

A water project might be constructed to full size immediately in a money-saving move, he said, although its backers wouldn't anticipate using it to capacity for 10 years. However, the court ruling would make it difficult to sell bonds for the project since the water rights would not be perfected fast enough and the rights could be lost.

The CRMWD filed for the dam's construction permit in October 1977. The Texas Department of Water Resources issued the permit, but that move was contested by a coalition including the Lower Colorado River Authority and a group of Lake Travis property-owners.

The opponents said there was no unappropriated water available in the river.

"On paper, that statement is true," said O.H. Ivie, CRMWD general manager. "But in the real world 2,000,000 acre feet of water is dumped into the Gulf of Mexico from the river. No one is using their allotted amount."

Since 1977, the commission's decision has been appeal three times and each time the court ruled in favor of the dam. It is now before the Texas Supreme Court.

"I feel certain we will win there, too, and that should be the last appeal," he said.

N-waste meets cold reception

A request to make the county a nuclear waste disposal site drew little support from Howard County commissioners during their regular meeting yesterday.

Dr. Paul S'uck of 1303 11th Place asked commissioners to offer vacant buildings in Big Spring and the county to store waste from the soon-to-be-activated nuclear power plant in Glen Rose.

The Big Spring State Hospital physician said the plant has no place to store waste yet.

Stuck assured commissioners the waste was "much safer than ashes from a coal furnace."

"Use your position to inform people on the safety of atomic waste," Stuck said. "It can further nuclear power to offer the area to store waste."

Commissioner Louis Brown asked Stuck what would happen if a tornado struck a building where waste material was stored. Stuck replied the nuclear waste would be in lead canisters, probably below ground.

"Nuclear waste disposal is a non-problem," Stuck said.

Nuclear power is needed in order to provide abundant and inexpensive electricity, Stuck said. Water for West Texas is a need atomic power could provide as well, he said.

"Two-thirds of atomic power is wasted due to environmental controls," Stuck said. "There is no way a nuclear plant can explode."

Commissioners expressed little interest in offering Howard County as a nuclear waste disposal site. Stuck also requested commissioners aid him in his effort to inform people about atomic power.

"I want to promote nuclear power all over," Stuck said.

Commissioners said they saw no problem with Stuck informing people about nuclear power.

Q. What kind of revenue does the county make from repossessed oil rigs?

A. None, according to County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin. Howard County receives no proceeds from foreclosed property, Mrs. Franklin said. If a public auction is held, normally the lien-holder gets all the money. The county could receive a small fee ($10-$15) for serving the citation, she added.

After 2 fires, county agents now hot-footing

Howard County commissioners learned yesterday the county agriculture extension office is continuing its bad luck with vehicles.

County Agent Don Richardson reported a pickup — the second in a month — had been destroyed by fire last week.

The engine in a second pickup had blown up previous to the commissioners' April 25th meeting. Advertising for bids to replace that vehicle is still in progress.

Richardson said he was traveling with assistant county agent Dennis Poole from Llano to Lometa last week when the engine started smoking. After they stopped the vehicle, fire quickly engulfed the entire pickup in less than 30 minutes, Richardson said.

"There's nothing but the hull left — unbelievable," Richardson said.

Commissioners are considering getting a temporary vehicle through the extended warranty on the pickup.

Commissioners also awarded Parks Gulf station the gasoline, hydraulic and lubrication oil contracts for the county. Parks bid .958 cents for gasoline, $.255 for hydraulic oil and $.287 for lubrication oil.

Southwest Energy received the diesel, transmission and lubrication grease contracts. The company bid .8075 cents for diesel and had the apparent low bid on the other items.

In other action, commissioners:

- Moved to allow the Boy Scouts of America to locate a district office in the county library basement in the soon-to-be-vacated historical commission office.
- Approved seeking bids to relocate the Road and Bridge Department's radio antenna and to replace their current system with a $4,500 remote unit.
- Gave County Engineer Bill Mims permission to install a 36-inch culvert for $2,400 on the Old Gail Road to correct a drainage problem.
- Agreed to hire a parttime secretary until October for Texas Ranger Charles Brune and Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission officer Sam Smelser.
- Decided to advertise for bids for fire extinguishers for county buildings and vehicles.
- Complimented Treasurer Bonnie Franklin for good management of the county's investments. Mrs. Franklin said she had $3 million currently invested.
- Moved to pay long-distance phone calls for Texas Game Warden Steve Armstrong up to a $15-a-month limit.

Junior college board elections face change

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A House committee Monday approved proposals that would allow junior college districts to elect board members from single member districts and thereby avoid lawsuits.

The House Higher Education Committee adopted two bills. A proposal by Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, would allow junior college districts to set up pure or modified single member districts if they so desire. The bill does not require them to change from their current at-large systems.

A second bill, sponsored by Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, would mandate that the larger districts in Texas, such as those in Tarrant, El Paso and Travis counties, elect their boards through pure single member district systems.

If Moreno's legislation is not approved but Cavazos' is, the effect would be that all junior college districts would have the option to convert to some form of single member districts. But the bill would not require them to do so.

A modified single member district system allows some board members to be elected at-large while others are elected to represent certain geographical areas.

Cavazos said that current law restricts junior college boards to the at-large system, a restriction that could set them up for lawsuits if it is not removed.

Howard College offers vocational nursing class

Howard College's School of Vocational Nursing is now accepting applications for a class to begin in August. The class, limited to 36 students, is a 12-month course, including 681 classroom hours and 1,120 hours of clinical experience.

On completion of the course, the student and faculty will submit an application for State Board examination. On passing the examination, the applicant will be a licensed vocational nurse.

Applicants for the program must be at least 17 years old and in good mental and physical health.

Other requirements are that the applicant must have at least two years of high school or the equivalent and must furnish a transcript. Any person not having two years of high school will be required to take the GED test.

Interested persons should call for an appointment at 267-6311, ext. 280. Director of the program is Ramona Harris, R.N., and instructors are June Stone, R.N. and Jean Morris, R.N.

Although he has enjoyed fashioning his instrument, Abreo doubts guitar making will become a hobby.

"I probably won't ever make another one. This one will be my artifact. I'm kind of old and tired, and making guitars is more work than I can take," Abreo said he has lived in Big Spring since 1922 and has been involved in music since that time. He lists the fiddle, guitar and harmonica as his favorite instruments.

He still plays at functions with his brother whenever asked.

"The Lord made me full of music. I love to play popular music better than anything," he said. "My life has been given to the service of the Lord, and if he still has me here, I think I should always keep busy."

to be considered a pauper so that he doesn't have to pay court costs. Ansley also asked that he be provided a lawyer, but the judge has not yet ruled on that, Curtis said.

Lubbock District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell said Ansley was arrested on a felony theft of auto warrant for purchasing a car with a worthless check.

"He has a past history of this type of thing," Darnell said of the lawsuit.

The state lawsuit was filed against Lubbock County Jail, the county sheriff, the county judge, the architect of the jail, the Lubbock County Welfare Commission and the person he bought the car from, Curtis said.

Ansley was arrested here Feb. 2 after a 7-Eleven clerk claimed Ansley tried to pay for $24.86 worth of gas with a worthless check, according to police reports. He was held in jail here on the theft warrant for Lubbock County authorities.

Turner said he also is not concerned about the outcome of the lawsuit.

"It's so frivolous," Turner said. "I'm not worried about it."

Cotton pickers win wage dispute

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Thirty-nine field hands won a victory over a Texas farmer in a federal court decision which said the farmer did not pay the minimum wage to the hands for cotton chopping.

The ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal reversed U.S. District Court Judge Halbert O. Woodward and sent the case back to him with instructions on what he has to do.

Woodward had ruled in favor of the farmer and banker, Ercell Givens of Abernathy, president of First State Bank of Abernathy and owner of a 4,000-acre farm.

In reversing, the 5th circuit Friday told the judge to hold a hearing to determine how much is due in unpaid minimum wages and damages under the Fair Labor Standards Act for work done in 1977 and 1978.

In addition, the judge must determine the number of violations committed under the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, and award liquidated damages up to $500 per violation.

The 5th circuit said Givens' failure to pay minimum wages was clearly deliberate and willful.

Givens' defense was that he contracted with Manuel Tonche as an "independent contractor" to furnish him with a crew of field workers to chop, or hoe, his cotton and that the field hands were Tonche's employees, not his.

The 5th circuit did not agree. Such a defense, it said, was "little more than an attempt to exculpate himself by portraying Tonche in the guise of an independent contractor, by attaching a label to him."

3 nabbed in plane pot raid

WALLER (AP) — State narcotics officers arrested three people, confiscated 620 pounds of marijuana and seized two airplanes during a late night raid at a private airstrip near this Southeast Texas town, authorities said.

Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said the arrests were the result of a four-month-long undercover operation.

He said the confiscated marijuana had an estimated street value of $663,300 dollars. Todd said agents also seized a 9mm machine gun and three ground-to-air radios along with a twin-engine Navajo airplane and a single engine Aerocommander.

Police Beat

Thieves, vandals, free ride reported

The management of the Holiday Inn on East Highway 80 reported to police that an unknown white male broke the deadbolt lock on room No. 152 and spent Sunday night in the room without paying or registering with the motel.

● Mary Hildebrand of 805 W. 17th told police that someone she knows stole $100 worth of cosmetics from her home between May 3 and May 6.

● Alvarez Marchecheo Jr., assistant manager of the Safeway store at 1300 Gregg, reported to police yesterday that someone had stolen four shopping cars from the business recently.

● Janett Meeks of Sterling City Route told police someone broke the rear windshield of her car as it sat parked in the 900 block of Gregg Sunday night.

Man fined for DWI

Joseph Flores, 26, of Snyder paid a $106 fine in Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin's court after his arrest by the Department of Public Safety for suspicion of public intoxication. Flores was then released.

● Ernest L. Bazon, 18, of Corpus Christi paid a $106 fine in Heflin's court after his arrest by city police for suspicion of public intoxication and possession of marijuana under 2 ounces. Bazon pleaded guilty for public intoxication and posted $1,000 bond to be released in connection with the marijuana charge.

48 cases await grand jury list

Forty-eight cases are expected to be presented to the Howard County grand jury Wednesday and Thursday, including investigations into murder and gambling.

The grand jury will investigate the murder of Eladio A. Zubiate Jr., whose remains were discovered in a shallow grave in Howard County Jan. 5, 1983. Zubiate's body was unidentified until Feb. 11 when pathologists made the positive identification.

Gary Willingham, 27, of Gail Route is the defendant in the investigation. Willingham is currently serving a five-year term for burglary at the Texas Department of Corrections.

The grand jury will also investigate promotion of gambling in connection with former Big Spring fireman Keith Hamilton. Hamilton, 35, was fired from the fire department after an internal investigation into alleged bookmaking activities in the department.

Indictments will also be considered against Eric Entire, 30, of Alamogordo, N.M. for armed robbery and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Entire was arrested April 5 after he was shot by law enforcement officials following a high-speed chase from Gibson Discount Store in a stolen car.

Four aggravated assault with a deadly weapon cases will also be considered as well as 14 burglary cases.

SA celebrates week with plea for camp

This week is National Salvation Army Week, and in conjunction with the event, the local SA is promoting a campaign to raise funds to sponsor underprivileged children at summer camp.

The camp is in Midlothian, 30 miles south of Dallas and offers activities such as horseback riding, swimming, crafts and character-building programs. A feature of the camp is that an effort is made to improve relations between law enforcement officials and youngsters. Plain clothes officers work with children during the camp.

About 70 local children are eligible to attend the camp providing funds are available. The cost of the camp is $10 a day or $70 for the entire week. Further information can be obtained by calling the Salvation Army office at 7-8239.

Cisco seeks 6th chief after police head quits

CISCO (AP) — The resignation of Randy Whittle will force this city to search for its sixth police chief in 2½ years.

Whittle, who joined the Cisco department on Feb. 1, will resign on May 20 to become an administrative deputy in the Hopkins County Sheriff's office.

The biggest case during Whittle's short term in office was the slaying of Doris Lundstrom, the wife of then Mayor Pro Tem Loyal Lundstrom. Lundstrom, who vanished the day of the slaying, later surrendered and has been charged with murder.

Whittle declined to comment Monday about a reported feud among authorities during the Lundstrom investigation or on his relationship with District Attorney Emory Alton and Eastland County Sheriff Johnnie Morren.

Mock appraisal scheduled

A demonstration appraisal of a residence will be shown to the directors of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District Wednesday.

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira is also expected to discuss the possibility of obtaining a computer for the appraisal office.

The HCTAD board of directors meets at 1 p.m. in the county courthouse.

Reagan: MX rejection blow to security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, lobbying for approval of the MX missile, says rejection of the weapon by Congress would deal "a blow to our national security that no foreign power would ever have been able to accomplish."

Speaking at a memorial dinner for the late Rep. John Ashbrook in Ashland, Ohio, the president called on Congress to support the MX program and promised, in turn, to combine it with "vigorous arms control."

Reagan stopped in Ashland for several hours Monday night after a long weekend at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., then returned to the White House.

He planned to continue his lobbying effort today in a meeting with members of Congress from both parties. Prior to that session, Reagan was to meet with the National Security Council to consider revising a proposed treaty with the Soviet Union on reducing strategic bombers and missiles.

Larry Speakes, the deputy White House press secretary, said efforts to persuade Congress to go along with production of 100 missiles at an estimated cost of $18 billion would be the main focus of the president's week.

"... We are not building missiles to fight a war, we are building missiles to preserve the peace." — President Ronald Reagan

Speaking to reporters aboard Air Force One as Reagan flew from California, Speakes said the president would spend "a good deal of time with congressmen on the MX this week." He said that included face-to-face meetings as well as telephone calls.

Congress is expected to vote by the end of the month on whether to deploy the huge new system. Production funds were deleted last year, partly because of opposition to Reagan's proposal for basing the system. In response, the president appointed a commission of defense experts to come up with a basing mode. The commission, which issued its report in mid-April, suggested that 100 MX missiles be built and installed in existing Minuteman silos near Cheyenne, Wyo.

The group also recommended that the United States deploy a new single-warhead missile in the 1990s and adopt a new approach to arms control that would focus on limiting warheads instead of missiles.

In his dinner speech at Ashland College, where the John M. Ashbrook Center for Public Affairs is being created, the president said he more than agrees with the commission's report.

"I believe with every fiber of my being that these steps are essential to ensuring arms control progress and our nation's future safety and security," Reagan told the audience at the $200-a-couple dinner.

"Only when the Soviets are convinced that we mean business will arms control agreements become reality — we are not building missiles to fight a war, we are building missiles to preserve the peace," he said.

Reagan insisted Congress "must act soon on these recommendations, especially the MX. If the Congress rejects these proposals it will have dealt a blow to our national security that no foreign power would ever have been able to accomplish."

He complained that the "debate over a new ICBM and our entire strategic triad has cost the country millions of man-hours and billions of dollars and it still hasn't been decided."

Ashbrook, a staunch conservative and Reagan ally, died April 24, 1982, during his campaign for the U.S. Senate. The public affairs center is designed to expose students to conservative philosophy, economics and politics. The schools' library, which is being renamed in his honor, will contain his personal papers.

Reagan described Ashbrook's career as a testimony to "enlightened conservatism" and told the audience: "Even those who view the world from a different political perspective can honor this man's utter devotion to principle and his understanding of the essence of political leadership."

Syria wants withdrawal plan changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syria is pressing for radical changes in the plan worked out by Secretary of State George P. Shultz for withdrawal of troops from Lebanon, according to administration officials.

While details of the plan have not been disclosed — and some may never be — two key provisions are known to especially rankle President Hafez Assad and his Damascus regime. These give Israel the right to keep observers in Lebanon after the withdrawal and authorize trade between Lebanon and the Jewish state.

At a minimum, officials told The Associated Press, the Syrians are demanding an equivalent right to supervise areas in northern Lebanon now under their control to keep the border free from forays against the minority Alawite government in Damascus. Also, the officials said, Syria is trying to carve out an influential role in Lebanon for pro-Syrian forces in the country.

These include Druze groups and the Maronite faction headed by Suleiman Franjeh near Tripoli. "They want some right to tell the Lebanese how to run their country," one U.S. official, who declined to be identified, said Monday.

"I think the Syrians are going to try to string this out and somehow put on pressure to modify the agreement," said another official. "How this will work out, I don't know."

The principal changes Syria seeks in the agreement would keep Israeli observers out of Lebanon and cripple trade between the two countries.

If the Syrians do not drop their objections, the plan Shultz arranged on his two-week shuttle could fall apart. Israel has agreed to withdraw its 15,000 troops only if the Syrians and 12,000 Palestine Liberation Organization fighters leave as well.

Delay in implementing the withdrawal plan also could set back President Reagan's efforts to arrange Mideast peace talks based on his proposal last Sept. 1 for Palestinian self-rule in some form of association with Jordan.

Shultz returns to Washington on Wednesday after attending the annual ministerial meeting in Paris of the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. Officials here said he may go back to the Middle East later to bolster the withdrawal plan but that it would not be renegotiated, as demanded by Syria.

The administration had high hopes for a pullout of all foreign forces after Lebanon and Israel accepted the terms mediated by Shultz. But Shultz ran into resistance from Assad when he visited Syria, although Saudi Arabian leaders promised their support during a visit to Jidda on Sunday.

Assad followed Shultz to Jidda for two days of talks. On his return home, a Syrian spokesman said the Saudis agreed with Syria's reservations to the U.S. plan and "the dangers which might result from the Lebanese-Israeli draft agreement in case it turns into an agreement."

Teachers need grass roots support

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas teachers need more "grass roots support" and less self-lobbying for pay raises, according to the lawmaker in charge of the House tax-writing committee.

Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, says the teachers' demand for a major paycheck "boosts" has won little sympathy from House members opposed to the tax hikes that might be needed. "I find it self-defeating," Schlueter said Monday of teachers' call for a 24 percent raise.

The teacher pay raise proposal — pushed by Gov. Mark White — temporarily has stalled while White works on his proposal. The House last week approved a 1984-85 budget that includes only the minor raises required by state law.

Schlueter said teachers must recognize that many groups are getting far less than they want this year. He said teachers deserve a pay raise, but not this year "when everyone else is having problems, struggling through the economic times."

Teachers blowing their own horns are less effective as lobbyists than would be mothers who think their child's teacher deserves more money, according to Schlueter.

"What they need is grass roots support from the parents. When that and/or a critical teacher shortage arises there will be a definite change in the thinking," he said.

"My mail is running significantly ahead for not passing a tax bill," he said, adding Texans would favor a teacher pay hike in "normal times," but not in a budget crunch year.

A public education funding bill sponsored by Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center, also is on hold pending some move by White. Haley, who also has proposed a half-cent increase in the state sales tax, said he'll hold back the education bill until something breaks.

"It's now lying on the table subject to call, which means it's going to come up when I bring it up," said Haley, chairman of the House Public Education Committee.

Haley said he's waiting "for the governor to give us direction on how he wants (teacher pay raises) funded."

White told reporters last week he would probably make new proposals to a joint session of the Legislature this week.

Scattered showers hit Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms developed before dawn across North and South Texas and portions of the Panhandle.

The heaviest activity was located near Uvalde, west of San Antonio, according to the National Weather Service.

A single-engine plane crashed in heavy fog and mist south of New Braunfels about 11:45 p.m. Monday and killed four people, the Department of Public Safety said.

The plane clipped a power line, caught fire and crashed in a pasture near Interstate 35, the DPS said.

Mostly cloudy skies were the rule across Texas before dawn. Temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s, except for readings in the 70s in South Texas.

West Texas — Fair to partly cloudy with decreasing thunderstorms through Wednesday. Highs 75 Panhandle to 85 south and 92 Big Bend. Lows 55 north to 65 south. Highs Wednesday mostly in the 80s.

'Back to basics' includes thinking

By now the pattern is familiar. Test scores of younger students, particularly in the elementary schools, and those measuring simple, rote skills, are up, while those of high school seniors and those measuring more sophisticated skills, particularly the ability to reason, stay down.

Thus, it was again the other day with the results of the latest test of mathematical skills by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, a federally funded testing program designed to provide periodic evaluations of how well the nation's students are doing.

The new results indicated that the math skills of 9- and 13-year-olds were higher than they had been in 1978, while those of 17-year-olds stayed the same. Further analysis also indicated that students did well on "routine items" and lower on those that require thinking, estimation and analysis.

The phenomenon is not limited to mathematics. Similar patterns have been recorded in English, where, as in math, they appear to stem from a narrow emphasis on "the basics" and on upgrading the skills of students who have been doing below-average work. Those efforts have apparently paid off — scores of minority students, for example, are up — but only at the expense of more sophisticated skills and, to some extent, of more able students. "The back-to-basics movements," said Willoughby, "has missed the whole point. Thinking and reasoning are basics."

Learning to decode words and manipulate numbers isn't enough if there is no ability to understand and evaluate the meaning of sentences and paragraphs and mathematical statements. The more sophisticated skills become particularly important in an age when machines are able to do rote computing a thousand times faster than humans. To teach children to do only what the machine can do as well or better is simply inadequate.

Encouraging students to think has always been more difficult for the schools, not because thinking is more difficult but because people who think are themselves sometimes more difficult. They require more intelligence, patience and energy not only from their teachers but from their parents and community. On the NAEP math test, students with calculators were asked the following: "An Army bus holds 36 soldiers. If 1,128 soldiers are being bused to their training site, how many buses are needed?" Only a small percentage got it right. The answer is 32, not 31.33.

Striving for acquired grace

Dear Editor,

My congratulations to Geneva L. Rogers. She may not, until now, know that she has a native gift that is equivalent to being "born-to-the-Purple" social rank of Sha-a-lol. My envious observation of these gifted ones impelled me to vow, 10 years ago, that I would go and learn to do likewise.

As further motivation to myself I even had a gold necklace made with this letters, Sha-a-lol.

Alas, I have not yet acquired the social skill to feel entitled to wear it! But hope springs eternal; I shall keep on trying for an acquired (not native — but desirable) grace.

Soft education

If one state in the union came out looking good in that scathing government report on public education, it was Texas.

Which is gratifying. Texas, especially West Texas, has been accused of caring less about the meat and potatoes of education and more about the colorful exteriors — like football, cheerleading and beauty pageants.

So, the Legislature has set up specific graduation and curriculum requirements. The Houston school district has lengthened the school day and set up strict attendance requirements that have cut student absences to less than 5 percent.

And that is a start. But when you talk with parents and teachers and even some students, you still hear that education in Texas is hurting.

The chief reason? "Nobody cares about learning," they say.

That is because we do very little to make learning look interesting and fulfilling. The most popular television show among high school students is NBC's Fame.

Great show, but can you imagine doing geometry or studying history while you watch other students dance and sing and play music all the time? And the characters on that show make no secret of their disdain for the "boring basics" — like geometry and history.

Scholastic Aptitude Tests are split up into science and verbal and most students are good in one or the other — usually not both.

What some studies have shown is that those students who are proficient in math and science are not developing that talent. Many educators are blaming what has become known as the liberal arts education.

Liberal arts is a very easy major to coast through; I know, because I was one and I did my share of coasting. I don't mean English, history and philosophy are worthless majors — in fact if used properly they can be the most valuable.

But liberal arts can be used as a way to get through college if you're no good at math or science or a more technical field. And those courses don't encourage students to make practical career decisions. Journalism is teeming with frustrated liberal arts majors.

Nobody has yet said that liberal arts should be abolished, but high school students need to be warned it is not an area of study to aimlessly wander into.

Joe Horton, a counselor at Big Spring High School, has said that he always questions students about what they want to study.

"If they say they want to major in history, then I say 'Fine, what are you going to do with that?' A lot of those majors can be a dead end today. College-bound students need to be aware of that," he said.

If they aren't made aware of that, and if they aren't carefully guided into learning, then the charge that America is losing its edge in the world because of soft education will be hard to refute.

Art Buchwald

Diary, you won't believe this...

I'm not saying I have enough evidence yet to back it up, but just suppose Adolf Hitler were still alive and living in a nursing home in East Germany.

He is visited by his literary agent. "Adolf, we need more diaries."

"I wrote 60 for you already. How many can I produce?"

"I can sell as many as you can write. There seems to be an insatiable appetite for them in the West."

"My arm hurts. Why can't I dictate them to a secretary and have them typed up?"

"Because they have to be in your own handwriting. The publishers at 'Der Stern' are not fools. Here's a brand new black book with your seal on it. Start writing."

"Write something nice about Winston Churchill."

"Who is Winston Churchill?"

"He was the Prime Minister of Great Britain during World War II."

"I don't remember him. Was he the fellow with the umbrella?"

"No, that was Neville Chamberlain. Churchill was the chubby one with the cigar. You hated him."

"Why should I write something nice about him if I hated him?"

"Because we're using the diaries to change your image. We want the world to think you were a really nice person."

"Who says I wasn't a nice person?"

"There are a lot of people who didn't know the real you. Historians like the one you used in 1944. Think of something nice to say about Churchill."

"What about this? 'Churchill is up to his old tricks again, chasing women. I can't have people like this in the party.'"

"No, Adolf. I don't think the historians will buy that. Why don't you say you admired Churchill as a war leader, and you have to give him credit for the way he handled Roosevelt."

"Who's Roosevelt?"

"He was president of the United States."

"Was he a Jew?"

"No, he wasn't."

"I never liked Jews."

"I'm tired. I want to take a nap."

"You can sleep later, Adolf. I need these notebooks. We're talking about millions of marks — West German marks. You and Eva will never have to worry about your old age again. If you don't want to write about Churchill, write something about Hermann Goring."

"I haven't seen Hermann in years. How is the fat slob?"

"He's dead. He committed suicide at Nuremberg."

"It serves him right. He didn't know beans about running a Luftwaffe."

"Write that. The historians will be fascinated as to what you really thought of Goring."

"I don't want to write about Goring. He was such a dumkopf."

"Then write about Eva. It wouldn't hurt to get a little sex in the diaries."

"What's sex?"

"Oh for heaven's sakes, Adolf. I don't care what you write. Just fill up the pages with gibberish. Those idiots at 'Der Stern' don't care as long as it's in your own handwriting."

"Ach. It's been a waste of time. If you're such a hot shot agent how come I haven't been invited on the Phil Donahue show?"

"He wants you badly, Adolf. But after all the Klaus Barbie publicity, the CIA is still arguing whether or not to slip you a visa."

Jack Anderson

U.S. knew of Beirut bombing plan

WASHINGTON — U.S. intelligence agencies received warnings a month in advance that Iranian-backed terrorists planned to bomb the American Embassy in Beirut. Yet nothing was done to beef up security at the building where 17 Americans were killed.

This shocking admission is contained in the super-secret National Intelligence Daily, a document that is circulated to fewer than 100 high-level U.S. officials. An autopsy of the Beirut bombing appeared in the April 20 edition — two days after the tragedy, and one day after the Islamic Jihad Organization claimed responsibility for the blast.

Though the report itself is classified above top-secret, it was reviewed by my associate Dale Van Atta. Here's the appalling story:

The National Security Agency's code breakers had intercepted some alarming communications in the Middle East. These gave a clear indication that a pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem group, fanatically loyal to the Ayatollah Khomeini, was planning to bomb the Beirut Embassy.

At the same time, the CIA — which lost seven people in the bombing — had gathered "humint," or human intelligence, which warned that the same group had plans to bomb the embassy.

According to the intelligence report, preparations for the bomb attack were supervised by a high official in the Iranian Foreign Ministry, who also gave final approval. It was assumed that Khomeini also knew of the plan and approved it.

The admission that both the NSA and CIA had prior warning of the bombing was hedged with suggestions that the intelligence information could not be verified, and in at least one case came from an untested source.

But this alibi has a hollow ring. Not only had the Islamic Jihad shown itself to be a terrorist group that should be taken seriously, but the CIA had been keeping track of the Jihad and other Khomeini-backed groups for a year or more. For example:

— The Islamic Jihad claimed "credit" for a car-bomb explosion — the same kind of attack as that of April 18 — which killed 12 persons at the French Embassy in Beirut a year ago.

— It also took responsibility for grenade and machinegun attacks on American and Italian troops of the multinational peace-keeping force in Beirut last March. The toll: one Italian killed and five Americans wounded. And it claimed to have taken shots at members of the French peace-keeping force a few days before the U.S. Embassy blast.

— The Jihad is an offshoot of the mainstream Shiite paramilitary organization, Amal. The original leader, Musa al Sadre, was a Khomeini disciple who disappeared on a 1978 trip to Libya. The Jihad is closely associated with an estimated 1,000 Iranian revolutionary guards who have proclaimed an "Islamic-Khomeinist state" at Baalbek in northeastern Lebanon.

CIA reports over the past year list several cases of Khomeini's attempts to export his revolution beyond Iran's borders:

— An attempt to set up an Islamic state in Turkey through the Iranian consulate in Istanbul.

— A planned coup by 60 Bahrainis, many trained in Iran, to take over that Persian Gulf state.

— A meeting in Cyprus of Saudi Arabian opposition leaders to plot infiltration of the military, incitement of the large Shiite minority and eventual overthrow of the royal family.

— Financing of secret trips by Moslem students to Iran for revolutionary training. The students are then smuggled back to their homelands to await the signal for uprising.

CUTTING THE TAPE: Leo Chavez of Albuquerque, N.M., is 19 months old and a victim of EB, a rare skin disease that results in lesions and eventual atrophy of the limbs if not treated surgically. But the only place the operation is performed is Frankfurt, West Germany.

Community groups raised $31,000 for the trip and treatment — but there was a bureaucratic problem: Maria Chavez, Leo's mother, is a resident alien. That meant she would require a re-entry visa for the return to the United States and the process usually takes six weeks.

So Mrs. Chavez asked Re. Manuel

Lujan, R-N.M., for help. He got her the re-entry visa in two days by having her fly to Houston, where an official walked her through the visa process, then to Chicago, where her new passport was delivered. Result: Little Leo got his emergency treatment in time.

ON THE TRACK?: At last a federal official will have the opportunity to put his hard-nosed policies into practice in the private sector. Robert W. Blanchette has quit as head of the Federal Railroad Administration to be the American representative of a French firm that builds high-speed trains.

During his tenure at the FRA, Blanchette consistently advocated cuts in Amtrak's budget and tried to reduce federal funding for rail improvements in the Northeast corridor. A spokesman for the agency said Blanchette opposes federal subsidies as a matter of principle — and that this applied to development of high-speed trains. The railroad industry will be keeping track.

Billy Graham

Confusion about God

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I was involved in a religious cult until a few months ago. I have broken free of it but now I am still confused about God. I would like to know God personally, but I don't know where to look. — D.T.

DEAR D.T.: The rise of a number of religious cults (which claim to have the truth about God but actually do not and enslave a person in their doctrines) is one of the most alarming signs of our time. They and their leaders remind me of those about whom Paul warned Timothy: "They are the kind who worm their way into homes — never able to acknowledge the truth. ... men of depraved minds, who, as far as the faith is concerned, are rejected" (2 Timothy 3:6-8). I am thankful you have broken free of this group, because you would not find God and his will for your life through its teachings.

The Bible promises you, "Ask and it will be given you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened" (Matthew 7:7-8). The One who spoke those words was Jesus Christ, and he wants you to discover the truth. Where can you find God? You can find God in one way and that is through Jesus Christ. He is the One to whom you must look. The reason is because Jesus Christ is God himself, who came down on this earth in human form so we could know what God is like. And he showed us that God loves us, because he went to the cross and died for our sins. He proved that he was God's only Son who is worthy of our worship and our lives, because he rose again from the dead.

Jesus declared, "I am the way and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6). That is a staggering claim — but millions of Christians throughout the ages have discovered it is true. God "wants all men to be saved and to come to a knowledge of the truth. For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself as a ransom for all men" (1 Timothy 2:4-6).

Carol Cooper wins talent title

CAROL COOPER
...wins competition

Carol Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Cooper, won the talent competition at the 33rd Annual Convention of the Stokes-Parker District Texas Association of Women's Club in Abilene this weekend.

Miss Cooper was sponsored by the Ever Ready Civic and Art Club. Club members attending the event included Barbara Bess, Clemmie Johnson, Naomi Graham, Louisiana Jones, and Essie L. Person.

Miss Cooper sang "You Light Up My Life," accompanied by Jennie Edwards. Prizes included a cash donation to be used for her return to college.

Other awards garnered by local members included a first place award to the club for best souvenir book. Barbara Bess, president, was elected assistant secretary of the district and represented the club in the President's march.

Viola Thomas, a member of Big Spring's Ada Bell Dement Club, received a plaque for outstanding club work. Members attending from that club included Lizzie Turnipseed, Cyneather Woodruff and Eloise Jackson.

Topics covered at the meeting included "Breast Cancer," "High Blood Pressure," and "Are We A Non-Profit Organization."

The Big Spring City Federation Club will host the 34th annual convention of the Stokes-Parker Texas Association of Women's Clubs in April, 1984.

Dear Abby

Girl with polio discovers sole mate

DEAR ABBY: Your item about the mismated shoes brought back a flood of memories. Our daughter had polio at age 2, leg braces for five years and then a series of operations. Today, at age 35, she is a successful homemaker and has a career as well. She walks normally unless in a hurry. We, too, have spent a fortune for shoes!

Ten years ago she was hurrying across the bank lobby and was greeted by a new teller who was about her age. The girl asked, "Did you have polio?" When our daughter said yes, she continued, "What sizes of shoes do you wear?"

Our daughter answered "4½ and 6½. What sizes do you wear?" knowing full well that only a person similarly afflicted would ask such a question. The teller answered, "Same sizes — opposite feet!" They have been solemates ever since, exchanging dozens of pairs of shoes. Sign us.

DEAR FOOTLOOSE: Wonderful story! And for those who may have missed the item: For information on how to "register" for shoes when the left foot is not the same size as the right, write to: Jeanne L. Sallman, Odd Shoe Exchange, Rural Route 4, Indianola, Iowa 50125.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 25. We have a 4-year-old son we love a lot. I consider our marriage a good one with one exception. Whenever I get really mad at my husband, I start throwing punches and fight like the devil. When I start hitting him, he hits back, and pretty soon the two of us are slugging it out for all we're worth. Meanwhile our son is watching the whole ugly battle. Soon he is hitting his father to stop him from hurting me.

My husband feels bad when his son strikes him, and I feel worse because I know I started the whole thing.

I value our son's personality and character, and I pray that what he witnesses on occasion will not affect him emotionally. We are really a loving family except for these fights we have occasionally. Please tell me where to go for help to control my terrible temper.

Dr. Donohue

Asprin is asprin

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Two questions. Doctor's orders are for six aspirin tablets daily until I can see him. Problem is pain in knees. I have doctored with this doctor before. (1) I purchased cheap aspirins (a third off), but the label read five grains. Are they as good as the popular brand name I used to buy? (2) Can six aspirins a day have an effect on sex life? I ask because since I've started aspirin my sex life has decreased approximately 50 percent. — R.G.

Regardless of brand name, five grains of acetylsalicylic acid is five grains. The question is, will you get the same amount into your blood for it to deliver the benefits to your joints? That depends on how the aspirin tablet is made.

Most brands give equivalent blood levels of aspirin. Sometimes cheaper brands may fall apart when they are stored for very long. Then all you have is a bottle of aspirin powder, and that does you no good and doesn't save you any money. If you are getting regular tests for blood levels of aspirin, you have a pretty good gauge of the effectiveness of this cheaper brand.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can taking thyroid tablets cause a goiter? I have an underactive thyroid gland (burned out). — J.B.

Thyroid hormone (your tablets) will not cause goiter. Here's how a goiter (an enlarged thyroid gland) develops: For many reasons, the gland may stop making enough of its own hormone. Blood levels drop, which is a signal for the body to send out another hormone, called thyroid stimulating hormone. And even though the gland is making all it can at that time it gets stimulated and enlarges. That's the goiter.

When the gland is making too little thyroid hormone, the answer is to supply it from the outside (tablets). As the level rises in the body, the thyroid stimulating hormone machinery is turned off and the problem ends.

Now there are other ways for goiters to develop. An inflammation of the gland can produce one. But, in general, what I described for you is the most likely cause of your goiter. The booklet you asked for will answer some of your other questions. Other readers may obtain a copy ("Your Thyroid: How it Works for You") by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In discussing spleens, it is usually noted that one can do nicely without that organ. How come, then, when one has the spleen removed one is told to get protection with the vaccines for flu, etc? As you have said on other occasions, "It's not nice to fool Mother Nature!" — O.L.

The spleen is a necessary organ in the sense that the job it does is important. But we do quite well without it when it has to be removed. The body is equipped with reserve forces to do the same work.

The spleen takes old red blood cells out of circulation, chews them up, and returns the scrap to the body for reuse in new red blood cell construction. It also makes antibodies that help fight infection. And we have reserves on hand to do that work as well.

But, you're right. People without spleens do well to get the flu and pneumonia vaccines. The pneumococcal vaccine prevents one kind of pneumonia, one that people without spleens are more likely to get. Splenectomy (spleen removal) is not fooling Mother Nature, it's just making a sensible compromise with her.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Star Wars" fans can breathe easy. The irascible Han Solo thaws out.

And pure-of-heart Luke Skywalker finally confronts Darth Vader, who turns out to be ... gasp, his father.

The plot line of "Return of the Jedi," latest in George Lucas' nine-part adventure-fantasy epic, has been a more closely guarded secret than the CIA's personnel files.

Even the line of toys that accompanies the latest "Star Wars" movie was held back from toy fairs and catalogs until the film's release May 25. Executive producer George Lucas, the head of Lucasfilm Ltd., wouldn't discuss the film with the press and discouraged visits to his Marin County, Calif., headquarters.

But a screening Monday night has let the Ewoks — little fuzzy creatures who help the good guys — out of the bag.

Episode VI — though only the third to be completed — opens with Luke's return to his home planet, Tatooine. Luke plans to rescue the carbon-frozen Han from the obese, reptilian Jabba the Hutt — the gangster who snatched him at the end of "The Empire Strikes Back" because Han had reneged on a deal.

Meanwhile, the evil Galactic Empire has begun construction on a spanking new Death Star. And the Emperor himself plans to oversee the plans with Darth Vader, whose labored breathing is still labored. The Emperor also hopes to entice Darth's son to the dark side of The Force.

C-3PO and R2-D2 arrive at Jabba's with a message from Luke: He offers the two droids as a gift, in exchange for Han.

lump of folded protoplasm. Courage. Heroes abound in this terrible place — Lando Calrissian is disguised as one of Jabba's guards and Chewbacca comes in with a rather short and feminine masked bounty hunter. Guess who?

Anyway, Princess Leia unfreezes Han. But Jabba recaptures everyone, including Luke, who arrives very much the Jedi warrior. Lando hangs by a thread, Han hangs by his heels and

The Rebel commanders gather to make their move against the Empire. Lando leads the fleet. Luke tackles some rather embarrassing news from Yoda regarding his parentage and learns that Leia is really his sister. Han, Chewbacca, Luke, Leia and the droids head for the moon the Death Star is orbiting so they can destroy the force field surrounding it and allow the Rebel commanders to enter. It's a trap, folks.

Lando dodges lasers in space. Luke dodges his feelings on the Death Star. Han dodges just about everything on the moon.

And how does it all end? That would be telling.

Spurs ready for revenge

Go after Lakers tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The first round of the battle of the big men clearly belonged to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

But 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore and the San Antonio Spurs get another chance tonight when they face Abdul-Jabbar and the Los Angeles Lakers in the second game of the National Basketball Association Western Conference finals.

The defending NBA champion Lakers jumped out to 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven series with a 119-107 victory Sunday at the Forum, as Abdul-Jabbar, also 7-2, led the way with 30 points and eight rebounds. Gilmore scored just seven points and had six rebounds when he fouled out with 5:18 remaining in the contest.

Among those who believe Gilmore will fare better in the future, however, is Abdul-Jabbar.

"Artis was in foul trouble and they couldn't afford to go inside to him when they were playing catch-up," the Laker center said. "But it was only one game, and I'm sure he will be heard from before this series is over."

San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck, whose club beat the Lakers four times in five meetings during the past regular season, said he'll try something new for the second playoff game.

"We are going to look at the films and devise some strategy and hopefully it will work," said Albeck. "I think it will. We are not disillusioned. I remain optimistic and so does the team. You will see a better team..."

While the matchup at center is the focal point for the playoff series, the Lakers received some excellent play in other areas. Guard Norm Nixon popped in 30 points for Los Angeles, and the Lakers also got a morale booster when Bob McAdoo was able to play 22 minutes.

It was the first appearance for the reserve forward-center since he dislocated a toe on his right foot in practice Feb. 16. The Lakers had been thin in the frontcourt since McAdoo was hurt and rookie forward James Worthy went out with a broken leg.

McAdoo was a key player in the Lakers drive to the NBA title last year — including a 4-0 playoff sweep of San Antonio. In his return to action Sunday, he scored four points and had six rebounds.

"Bob was rusty, but he did some big things on defense and the boards," said Laker Coach Pat Riley. "He's going to get better as the series goes on. Just having him on the bench was an inspiration."

Riley believes the Lakers' playoff experience is a plus for them in the series against the Spurs.

"The one edge we have is that we are the defending champion," he said. "We have guys who have been there. They know how to play in these games."

LaCorte leads Astros around Mets

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's bullpen, one of the team's question marks in spring training, has been one of the Astros' biggest assets during the early season.

In the latest in a string of strong performances by Houston relief pitchers, Frank LaCorte retired 12 of 13 men to face him as the Astros defeated the New York Mets 6-4 Monday night.

LaCorte struck out six in four innings to earn his third save of the season.

"Our bullpen has been great," Houston Manager Bob Lillis said. "We've had super performances out of a lot of people so far."

LaCorte came on in relief of winning pitcher Mike Madden, 2-0, and allowed only one hit — a ninth-inning single by pinch hitter Mike Jorgensen.

"We're playing good baseball right now," Houston catcher Alan Ashby said. "I can't say we're playing great baseball, but people have been dwelling too much on our first nine games."

Since tying a major league record by losing their first nine games, the Astros have played four games over .500. Their bullpen has been credited with much of their success.

"We're going to be all right," LaCorte said.

"I showed tonight that I can get people out. Bill Dawley, Mike Madden and Frank DiPino have been pitching well. When we get Smitty (Dave Smith) back, it'll be just another plus for us."

Smith has been bothered by a back ailment during much of the season. Joe Sambito,

National League

Houston's top reliever the past few seasons, is expected to miss the remainder of the year with an elbow injury.

Houston's top four relievers have compiled a 7-3 record among them this year.

"I was just trying to get my breaking ball over tonight," LaCorte said. "I wanted to use that pitch to set up my fast ball. I didn't want to get behind the hitters."

The Mets took a 4-0 lead in the fifth inning on two sacrifice flies by former Astro Danny Heep, a run-scoring single by Brian Giles, and a throwing error by Houston shortstop Dickie Thon.

Houston took the lead with a five-run explosion in the fifth against losing pitcher Rick Ownbey, 0-3.

Ashby's leadoff home run was followed by Omar Moreno's run-producing single, Phil Garner's two-run double, and a run-scoring infield hit by Jose Cruz.

Houston added an insurance run in the sixth on singles by Ashby, Bill Doran and Moreno.

"The difference here is they leave you alone and let you play," said Heep, who was traded to the Mets last December for pitcher Mike Scott. "At Houston, if you didn't do good, you weren't going to play. I don't have that cloud hanging over me here."

Heep entered the game with a .324 batting average for the Mets, who have lost all four of their games against the Astros this season.

Expos 5, Braves 3

Steve Roger has won 138 games in 9 1/2 major league seasons and 137 of them came somewhere other than Atlanta.

The sunny South isn't Rogers' favorite place despite Monday night's six-hitter as the Montreal Expos defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-3. It was his 10th victory in his last 11 decisions against the Braves, but his first triumph ever

Strawberry hopes to patch together Mays-like career

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

The parallels are striking. Heralded minor leaguer joins struggling New York team, ballyhooed as superstar and is blown away by major league pitching.

Darryl Strawberry, meet Willie Mays. "As soon as he gets out of New York and relaxes a bit, I think he'll do fine," Willie Mays said Monday of Darryl Strawberry, career major league average .125. "He's trying so hard to live up to what they're saying about him that he's putting pressure on himself."

Strawberry came to New York Friday night — Mays' 52nd birthday, by the way — wearing the mantle of savior for a team that started the season 6-15.

He promptly went 0-for-11 — striking out eight times — before driving in a run Sunday with an opposite field single in the Mets' 10-5 win over Cincinnati. Playing on the road for the first time, Strawberry went 1-4 against the Houston Astros Monday night, hitting a double, but also striking out two more times.

Let's go back 32 years, to May, 1951. Willie Mays, hitting .477 at Minneapolis, joins a New York Giant team that opened the season by losing 11 games in the first two weeks. He goes 0-for-12, hits a home run off Warren Spahn, then goes 0-for-14 and tells Manager Leo Durocher that he can't hack it, to send him back down.

"Leo just told me, 'you're my centerfielder,'" says Mays. "You'll be out there every day. Just relax and have fun."

Mays went on to finish the season hitting .274 with 20 home runs, and was named the National League's Rookie of the Year. He was in the on-deck circle when Bobby Thomson hit his famous playoff home run to win the pennant.

Nobody is expecting a pennant for Darryl Strawberry this year. It's enough that his presence seemed to wake up the Mets, who took two of three from the Reds. But the pressure of succeeding in New York remains. The 11 o'clock news last weekend was a montage of videotape replays of Strawberry strikeouts, mixed in with one loud foul ball.

"This kid, he comes up from Tidewater, I guess it was... he never saw so much press in his life," Mays said.

"He's answering all these questions, trying not to say the wrong thing or be a wise guy. It's hard to concentrate on the game."

Chicago Bulls coach axed

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Paul Westhead was fired today after leading the Chicago Bulls to their second-worst National Basketball Association finish in his first season with the club, a team spokesman said.

"He was relieved of his duties, effective today," said spokesman Tim Hallam, who added the formal search for a successor had not yet begun.

"Sure, Rod (Thorn, the Bulls' general manager) has talked to some people (about the job)," continued Hallam, "but it's not something that's going to happen today or tomorrow."

The Chicago Sun-Times quoted an unnamed source close to the team as saying Thorn informed Westhead of the decision late last Friday, but Hallam said he could not confirm the report.

Westhead, out of town on vacation to celebrate his 20th wedding anniversary, was unavailable for comment, as was his lawyer, Richie Phillips.

Only the second year of Westhead's contract was guaranteed, which means the Bulls will pay him an estimated $175,000 for next season.

Thorn, who was said by the newspaper to have declined comment on the report Monday, indicted last Wednesday that his recommendation to the team's executive committee would be the final word on Westhead's fate. But he said he had not yet made up his mind.

It is the third coaching change Thorn has made in his five years with the Bulls. Jerry Sloan was fired in February 1982 after 2 1/2 years and Larry Costello was dumped 56 games into the '78-'79 season.

The Bulls record this season was 28-54. Several players privately complained of a communication gap with Westhead as the season wound down and none indicated they had any respect for him, the newspaper reported.

Bulls players contacted by the newspaper Monday expressed surprise at the decision, however.

"I'm shocked," said forward David Greenwood. "I didn't think they were going to fire him."

Greenwood, at one point in the season relegated to reserve duty after being a starter his first three years in Chicago, was one of the Bulls players whose game suffered most under Westhead.

"We all (the players) had some problems," Greenwood said. "It was just a matter of getting used to something that we had never experienced before and it was hard for me to get into what we were doing."

COLLISION — Padres catcher Joe Lefebvre sprawls on the ground after a collision at home plate with Pirate Dale Berra in Pittsburgh's 5-3 win over San Diego Monday night. Associated Press photo

Pirates squeak past San Diego, 5-3

Pirates 5, Padres 3
 Jason Thompson cracked a tie-breaking two-run double with two out in the 14th inning to cap the first five-hit performance of his career as the Pirates ended a five-game losing streak. With two out in the 14th, Johnny Ray doubled off loser Mike Couchee for his fourth hit. After Rickie Henderson was intentionally walked, Gary Lucas, the fifth San Diego pitcher, came on and was greeted by Thompson's tie-breaking double.
 The Pirates took a 3-2 lead in the seventh when Lee Mazzilli belted his third home run of the season but San Diego's Steve Garvey tied it in the eighth with a shot over the center field fence, his sixth.

Giants 5, Cardinals 4
 Darrell Evans tied the game with a run-scoring double in the bottom of the ninth and pinch hitter Dave Bergman won it with a bases-loaded single as the Giants defeated St. Louis relief ace Bruce Sutter. The Cardinals, who have lost four in a row, scored three runs in the top of the ninth on an RBI double by Darrell Porter and a two-run single by Rafael Santana to take a 4-3 lead.

Dodgers 4, Cubs 3
 Bill Russell scored from third base as Ken Landreaux beat out an infield hit with two out in the ninth inning as the Dodgers won for the 19th time in the last 24 games. Earlier, Landreaux cracked his fifth home run of the season and rookie Greg Brock hit his sixth, a two-run shot. Dave Stewart, 3-0, the third Los Angeles pitcher, earned the victory by working two scoreless innings.

Red Sox ground the Angels, 8-2

A week's rest didn't hurt Bob Stanley...nor did it help the California Angels.
 "I felt pretty strong," said Stanley, who pitched for the first time in six days to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory Monday night over the Angels. "I've learned a little about when you feel too strong. You throw ice and smooth...don't try to throw too hard."
 Boston's relief ace entered the game in the third inning with a 4-2 lead, the bases loaded and one out and completely shut down the Angels, allowing only two hits the rest of the way.
 The performance lowered Stanley's earned run average to 1.11. In his last 212-3 innings, covering nine games, Stanley has allowed just one unearned run and 14 hits.
 "I'm eating it up," Stanley said of his outstanding start, "particularly when you have a six-run lead and mostly righthanders up there. I had a good sinker. I threw just a couple of sliders."

 The victory was the sixth in seven games for Boston, the American League East leader.
Mariners 6, Orioles 1
 Jamie Allen drove in three runs and Al Cowens scored twice and stole three bases as Seattle defeated Baltimore. Allen hit a solo homer in the first inning and rapped a two-run single in the second following a walk to Jim Maler and a double by Julio Cruz.

"I don't consider myself a home run hitter," said Allen, who also homered in his final time at bat in Boston Sunday. "At first I thought to myself, three homers in a row would be great. But I told myself that I'm a line drive hitter, and it worked out pretty well the second time up."
Blue Jays 6, White Sox 1
 Cliff Johnson snapped an 0-for-18 slump with a home run which triggered a six-run sixth inning, leading Toronto and Luis Leal over Chicago. Leal, 2-3, checked the White Sox on three hits, struck out six and walked two.
 Five of the runs in the sixth inning were unearned as a result of two errors by shortstop Jerry Dybzinski, spoiling left-hander Britt Burns' season debut after coming off the disabled list because of a shoulder injury.

Stallions trample NJ

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Birmingham's Scott Norwood refused to hog the limelight.
 His record five field goals propelled the Stallions to a 22-9 United States Football League victory over the New Jersey Generals and showed up rushing leader Herschel Walker, who was held to a career-low 28 yards on 11 carries.
 "The defense did a super job. They were the ones who shined," said Norwood, who booted field goals of 39, 28, 31, 37 and 25, to erase the league record of four. He missed a 41-yarder in the fourth quarter before a crowd of 38,734.

"We knew we had to run to control the ball and keep Herschel off the field."
 "I never played against a team that controlled the ball the way they did," said Walker, whose previous low was 39 yards on 19 carries against Tampa Bay in the third game of the season. He had only 19 yards on five carries in the first half against Birmingham.
 The Heisman Trophy winner failed to gain more than 100 yards for the first time in six games, but still leads the league with 1,051 yards on 232 carries.
 "I reckon I should have brought my rabbit's foot or something. We didn't have any luck at all," Walker said.
 "Our offensive line dominated them on the line of scrimmage and wars are still won up front," said Birmingham Coach Rollie Dotsch after his team evened its record at 5-5.
 "They totally outplayed us," said Generals Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose team fell to 3-7. "Whenever we did have (the ball) we didn't do much with it."
 Norwood, meanwhile, said his sterling performance was tarnished by his single miss, a kick that faded wide to the right.
 "There's always room for improvement," said Norwood, who has made 13 field goals in 18 attempts.
 His five field goals broke the mark of four held by Michigan's Novo Bojovic and Boston's Tim Mazzetti.
 "The offense moved the ball down there. They weren't long field goals. Any kicker should be able to get those," Norwood said.

USFL Roundup

The Stallions' offense also shined, holding the ball for 43:28 to the Generals' possession time of 14:32.
 Four Birmingham players outgained Walker — Ken Taiton (20-64), Earl Gant (12-56), Billy White (15-53) and Cornelius Quarles (11-47) — as the Stallions outscored the Generals 242-38. White had a 1-yard touchdown run in the first quarter, accounting for the Stallions' only scoring other than Norwood.
 Aside from Walker, quarterback Bobby Scott was the only New Jersey player with rushing yardage. Scott, whose 37-yard touchdown pass to Tom McConeaughy early in the first quarter was the Generals' only score, had 10 yards on two carries.
 "It's always good to have more than one running back. This way you can't key on anybody," Gant said.

NBA approves Cleveland, Indianapolis team sales

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Basketball Association franchises in Cleveland and Indianapolis, starved for money and victories, are passing into the hands of two local brother acts determined to save the teams from oblivion.

The NBA's Board of Governors on Monday voted for the sale of the Cleveland Cavaliers and Indiana Pacers to what a pleased league Commissioner Larry O'Brien called "vigorous new owners with strong local ties..."

Mustangs take 2 straight
 The O.I.L. Mustangs scored two wins recently in American Little League Pee Wee action downing the Foster Pest Control Wolves 13-0, and the J.L.U. Builders Tigers 7-2.
 Mustang pitcher Tony Taylor held the Wolves hitless and recorded seven strikeouts. Backing him in the hitting department were Ryan Hamby, Patrick Martinez and Chris Copeland, as all recorded a homerun. Taylor himself also hit a homer.
 Other getting hits for the Mustangs were Justin Speer, Todd Parrish, Lorenzo Pina, Gabriel Rodriguez, Lee Bailey and Jody Whitaker.
 In the second game, the Tigers found Todd Parrish's pitching too tough as he notched 12 strikeouts. Patrick Martinez had a three-run homer for the Mustangs.

Pandas win in USGA action
 In USGA Division I softball action, the Kiwanis Purple Pandas remained undefeated as they beat the Big Spring Athletic's Angels 15-3 Monday. Pam Gill won her second game of the year and Jennifer Crawford suffered the loss.
 Top hitters for the Pandas were Gill with two doubles and Monica Hicks and Amy Gonzales with singles. Rhonda Latimer hit a homerun in the fourth inning.
 Angel batters racking up two hits each were Rosalynn Smith and Crawford.
 In a Division II game, the Downtown Lions Club Rebels edged the Security State Bank Blue Jays 19-17.
 Monica Armendariz led the Rebels with four homeruns. Other hitters were Irene Jara with a double and a homerun, and Margaret West with a double.

Nelson wins single, album of the year

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Grammy award-winners Alabama and Willie Nelson each won two awards Monday night at the 18th annual Academy of Country Music Awards ceremony.

Nelson took single of the year and album of the year honors for "Always on My Mind," a tender love ballad that dates back to the early '70s.

Alabama, a 13-year-old quartet was named top vocal group for the third straight year and was chosen entertainer of the year for second consecutive year.

"What's really different this year is that we didn't expect to win any awards at all," said Alabama's Randy Owen. The group won this year's country group Grammy.

Owen attributed the group's honors to the fans, saying "They're the ones that determine how people (in the academy) vote."

Nelson, who had a stubby growth of beard and sported a satin jacket and denims, quietly thanked the academy and "all the people who met me on the highway playing music." He won three Grammys earlier this year.

Other award winners were Sylvia, top female vocalist; Ronnie Milsap, best male vocalist; David Frizzell and Shelly West, top vocal duo; Karen Brooks, best new female vocalist, and Michael Murphey, best new male vocalist. The show was telecast nationally from Knott's Berry Farm.

Merle Haggard's "Are the Good Times Really Over," took song of the year honors, and "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," won the Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year.

An elated Sylvia told reporters she had waited four years to win her first country award.

"This is my first award I've ever won and I feel great," said the singer from Kokomo, Ind. She added later, "I'm shaking like a leaf."

Although Murphey won in the new male vocalist category he is no newcomer to music. In 1975 he had a hit called "Wild Fire."

"Just think how long it takes to get old, if it took this long to get new," the blond singer-songwriter said. He added he believes his new sound and country radio's broader attitude toward programming were responsible for his acceptance with an album called "Michael Martin Murphey."

The academy also honored some oldtimers. Veteran guitarist Chet Atkins was given a special pioneer award for his work in the country music field and Jo Walker-Meador, executive director of the Country Music Association, was given the Jim Reeves memorial award for her contributions to country music in the last year.

The show also featured a tribute to the late Marty Robbins who died last December and was named the academy's first artist of the decade in 1970.

The academy announced the establishment of the annual Marty Robbins memorial golf tournament starting next September in Los Angeles.

Hosts of the two-hour NBC special were Jerry Reed, Tammy Wynette and John Schneider. The centerpiece of the telecast was a "Crossover Classics" medley highlighting country hits that also conquered the pop charts. The lineup for the medley included Mickey Gilley, Louise Mandrell and Roger Miller.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be prepared for possible upsets today and make sure that you handle whatever comes up in a calm manner. A confident attitude can give you a boost in the right direction.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Strange situation may pop up at noon, so be sure to be tactful. Study a new plan carefully before putting it in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Making sure that your accounts are correct is most important at this time. Be more cooperative with associates.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid whatever stands in your way of financial success. Be sure to handle practical affairs more intelligently. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study how to put a new plan in operation but don't begin action on it yet. Enjoy the company of congenials.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A private anxiety requires your own attention so handle it without confiding in others. Forget romantic nonsense for now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) New conditions arise where an important personal matter is concerned, so use your own good judgment for best results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your business affairs are not working out as you wish, use another plan to improve them. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Converse with one who can give valuable information you need. Show increased devotion to loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use a more direct approach to gain your objectives. Loved one may be in peculiar mood now, but be patient.

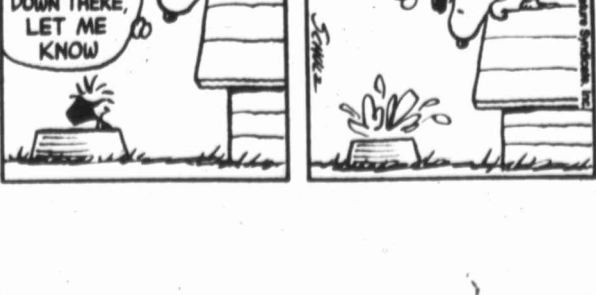

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Strive for increased harmony with associates. One who opposes you needs careful handling. Don't be too emotional.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may not be as efficient as usual now, but study the reasons why and good results should follow. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Instead of criticizing others, use your charm and get better results. Show appreciation to loyal friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have to be handled with a certain amount of restraint and the right kind of discipline. There is a fine personality in this chart that could do well in alleviating the suffering of others. Religious training is a must.

Female flight crossing Atlantic McGuire Air Force Base, N.J. (AP) - The Air Force's first flight to cross the Atlantic with an all-female crew showed the service is "getting away from traditional roles," said one of the women. Capt. Guiliania Sangiorgio, the flight commander, piloted the huge C-141 Airlifter off the runway here at 9:44 p.m. Monday.

Eleven journalists and two Air Force publicists and a five-member medical team accompanied the seven-member flight crew on the trip to West Germany, said Pat Muldrow, chief of media relations at McGuire Air Force Base. "Here we can demonstrate that we're getting away from traditional roles for women," said Staff Sgt. Denise Meunier, 27, of Westfield, Vt., a flight engineer. "There's a lot of paperwork in this job, but we no longer get put behind a desk automatically."

Ms. Sangiorgio, 29, of Sergeantville, N.J., has 1,800 hours of flying time and is the first female active duty aircraft commander at this base. She described the mission as "fairly routine" but said she was "a little nervous about the attention." "But I guess it was to be expected," she added. The plane flew nearly five hours before landing in the Azores islands just west of Portugal.
