Prom night

BSHS seniors continue tradition

*When whipporwills call and ev'ning is nigh
I hurry to My Blue Heaven*
— From "My Blue Heaven," theme song of 1956 Big Spring senior prom

*There walks a lady we all know
Who shines white light and wants to show
How everything still turns to gold
And if you listen very hard
The tune will come to you at last*
— From "Stairway to Heaven," theme song of 1983 Big Spring senior prom

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

The song has changed, but the story's the same this year for high school seniors who attended the traditional prom Saturday night: It was a night to remember.

The seniors of 1983 still dine before attending the prom, and they still spend the night at a lake afterwards. They wear frilly dresses and tuxedos and decorate elaborately.

There are a few differences, though, such as eating at a restaurant rather than a banquet, holding the prom at the country club instead of the Cosden Club (now Dora Roberts Community Center) and celebrating the late night party at Colorado City Lake, not Lake J.B. Thomas.

Shirley Murphey, a clerk at the Kopper Kettle store, graduated three years ago and remembers her prom night as being breathtakingly romantic. She married her prom date four months later. She and Kevin were one of those couples who start going together in the ninth grade and never give up.

"We're one of the few couples that stayed together," Shirley said. Her bridesmaid wore Shirley's blue chiffon dress at the wedding and Kevin wore his prom tuxedo. Prom night was that special for them.

"It was our way of celebrating," Shirley explained. "It was the beginning of getting out of school and we knew we were getting married."

"It's something every senior should do," she added.

Big Spring City Councilmen Robert Fuller went to the "My Blue Heaven" themed prom in 1956, only he doesn't remember the theme or the name of his date, or much of anything that happened.

"I just know I liked to dance," he said. He does remember having to rent a tuxedo and driving the family's 1955 Chevrolet and that somebody drove their car into Lake J.B. Thomas.

He also remembers the spiked punch. "Back then there wasn't as much open drinking as there is today, but it almost always happened," Fuller said. "The kids tended to hide. There were a lot of people who got sick, people who didn't drink very much."

Fuller's classmate, Julie Shirey of 2308 Lynn, recalls the night in a little more detail.

"The prom was marvelous," she said. "The theme was 'My Blue Heaven' and the juniors had decorated tumbleweeds with blue angel hair and lights underneath so that they looked like clouds."

"We just danced and danced and danced," she continued. "I wore a turquoise formal dress — there was a lady in town who made all the dresses. She didn't use hoops, but they stuck straight out with just yards and yards of net material."

The party continued all that night and all day Sunday, she said.

"We went after the dance to Clyde McMahon's cabin at Lake Thomas," Mrs. Shirey said. "Some of the parents fixed breakfast."

It was on the route to the lake that the ill-fated boy drove, accidentally, into the lake and carved his nickname into '56 history. He forgot the curve in the road.

"We always called him 'Wrong-way' after that," she said. "That's something we always remember about prom night."

The teen-agers danced, boated, drank and ate until the sun rose and then headed for home, Mrs. Shirey said. But they didn't stay home long.

"Everybody changed clothes and picked up their picnic baskets and went to Ben Fickland (lake)," she said. "We spent the whole day there. Two guys got put in jail for throwing beer bottles out of canoes."

Every class has their story to tell and every class resurrects them at reunion after reunion. Five years from now, the seniors of '83 — just as the class of '56 — will be swapping stories and reminiscing about the "good ol' days" at Big Spring High and prom night escapades. It's a tradition.

Man shot last night

Marks fourth shooting in 8 days

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Saturday night calm of the United Health Care nursing home was interrupted Saturday night as a man ran into the facility yelling that he had been shot.

Nursing staff on duty at 9:30 p.m. said the man, later identified by police as Tony Deal, 22, of Big Spring, apparently came in the south end of the nursing home at 901 Goliad and ran down the hall toward the north end of the building.

Nurse Ruth Price said the man said "I've just been shot. I'm going to die" and collapsed in front of the nursing station at the north end of the building.

Big Spring Police officers along with attendants from Shaffer Ambulance Service were dispatched to the scene. There they found Deal lying on his right side, again repeating that he had been shot. Deal apparently had suffered a gunshot wound to the left side of his head.

Deal of 909 16th was coherent for a short while before lapsing into unconsciousness just before attendants wheeled him from the nursing home.

He was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital emergency room.

Deal was treated for gunshot wounds to the head and was in stable condition at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Police declined to say whether they had identified any suspects in the shooting. The type of gun used in the apparent assault was not known.

The shooting marked the fourth such incident here in the last 8 days; shootings also occurred early Thursday morning, Tuesday night and last Saturday morning. Edward Eugene Banks and Hector Gaspar Valdez, both of Big Spring, died in the first two shootings. Robert Lee, also of Big Spring, was wounded in the stomach in the last incident.

SHOOTING VICTIM — Tony Deal, 22, of 909 16th St. is wheeled out of United Health Care nursing home after he entered the facility at 9:30 p.m. Saturday yelling that he had been shot. Deal was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was in stable condition Saturday at 11:30 p.m.

Ector County tax assessor resigns post

ODESSA (AP) — The long-time Ector County tax assessor-collector has retired following the dismissal of charges alleging misapplication of several thousand dollars in automobile license fees.

Charges against Charles Winn 73, were dropped at a hearing Friday on a lawsuit to remove him from office, said District Attorney Mike Holmes.

The suit, which was also dropped, claimed Winn was incompetent and should be removed from office because he allowed an employee to keep her job after she admitted taking money from the office.

"Charges were dropped after negotiations," Holmes said. "The basis for the suit was that Winn was indicted for carelessness" rather than actual theft.

Winn and a former employee, Beverly Hudson, were named in sealed indictments handed down Tuesday by a grand jury.

Winn, who has been tax assessor-collector since 1961, was charged with misapplication of fiduciary property in connection with the alleged embezzlement of more than $10,000 in car registration fees.

Ms. Hudson, 43, manager of the tax office's title department, was indicted on two second-degree felony charges, one of official misconduct and the other of misapplication of fiduciary property.

She is free on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Soldiers team in brigade

Two Big Spring natives have achieved command positions with the U.S. Army on the same post within the same infantry brigade.

Col. W. Bruce Moore, commander of the 3rd Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., and 1st Sgt. Charles Ray Copeland, commander of Company C of the Brigade's 2nd Battalion, have been serving together since November 1982.

This is the first time either infantryman has worked with the other and the first time they have worked with another soldier from Big Spring within the same brigade.

Moore has been at Fort Campbell since November when he assumed command of the "War Eagle Brigade."

Copeland has served with the unit since November 1981, when he was appointed intelligence sergeant for the 3rd Brigade.

Senior meets congressman

Clark Johnson, Big Spring High School junior, meet this week with Congressman Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, at his Washington office.

Johnson's visit with Stenholm was part of the week-long Washington Workshops Congressional Seminar, an annual event designed to offer high school students practical knowledge of American politics.

Johnson's trip to Washington was sponsored by Union Carbide's facility at Big Spring. He is one of 121 students from around the country sponsored by Union Carbide for the 1983 program.

Johnson was selected by officials from Big Spring High School on the basis of his academic performance and interest in civic and governmental affairs.

2 arrested on drug charge

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Colorado City man and woman were charged Friday with possession of a controlled substance after police reported finding marijuana growing at their residence located across from Colorado Middle School.

Charged and released on cash bonds of $500 each were 21-year-old Robert Ellis McDonald and 25-year-old Janie Martinez McDonald, both of 1215 Chestnut St.

According to police Chief Ed Wheat, a search warrant was issued after officers received a tip that marijuana was growing in the backyard of the McDonald's home.

Mitchell County Sheriff's deputies and Department of Public Safety officers assisted with the arrests.

2nd liquor vote possible

COLORADO CITY (SC) — There may be another liquor election soon in Mitchell County.

County Clerk Jo Ann Beach said an application has been made for a possible election in Precinct 4. The application requires 10 signatures, which then permits the county clerk's office to issue a petition for the election.

Precinct 4 encompasses the eastern part of Mitchell County stretching from the Scurry County line and extending south to about 16-Mile Road.

It will be earlier this week before it is known if the application has the required 10 signatures.

2 commissioners 'rescued'

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County voters may not realize the long hours county commissioners put in on their jobs.

Commissioners Paul Hunter and Paul Logsdon are good examples.

Last week, the two elected officials remained to discuss business after the commissioners' regular monthly meeting. Unknown to the two dedicated commissioners, the courthouse was locked during their conference, and when Hunter and Logsdon decided to leave, they discovered they were locked in.

Hunter dug in his pocket, found a quarter and called the Mitchell County Sheriff's Office across the street.

The two were rescued in short order. Hunter said that although he considers the phone call a legitimate county expense, he won't ask for reimbursement.

GOLIAD'S AMERICAN LEGION WINNERS — Sara Backus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Laurence Backus, and Matt Burrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burrow, were named the American Legion Award recipients at Goliad Middle School for 1983. Students are selected by teachers on the basis of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service. The award is handed out annually by the Big Spring American Legion Post No. 506.

Two escape Phantom crash

COMANCHE (AP) — Two men aboard a Navy F-4 Phantom parachuted to safety Saturday when the jet fighter crashed in an unpopulated area about three miles south of this West Central Texas town.

Navy Lt. J. Sylvia Maxwell said there were no reports of injuries.

She said the aircraft, based at the Naval Air Station in Grand Prairie, was on a regularly scheduled training mission.

VAN-TAGE POINT — Becky Mauldin, manager of Greenbelt Manor of Big Spring, inspects a van which will be used to transport residents of the newly opened older adults section of the housing community, called Greenbelt Estates. Phase I of the project opened Friday, offering duplex units for sale or lease to adults 45 and older.

Greenbelt opens adult community

Performance Properties Corp. of Dallas Friday announced the opening of Greenbelt Estates, a special section of duplexes for lease or rent to older adults at Greenbelt Manor of Big Spring.

The company said 22 two- and three-bedroom homes on March Circle and South Langley Drive have been set aside as the first phase in a planned retirement community for adults 45 and older at the former Web Air Base officers quarters, which were purchased by Performance after the base closed in 1978.

"There's a need for a mature adult community in Big Spring," said Fara Fitzek, a representative for Performance. "There are long waiting lists at similar facilities here."

Rent for the furnished and unfurnished units will be comparable to that charged for other units at Greenbelt Manor, and financing for purchasing one of the units will also be available, Ms. Fitzek said.

Special programs for residents of the section have been planned, she added, including a community van to transport residents for medical, shopping and recreation needs. Activities for the older adults at other facilities, such as the Kentwood Center, have been arranged.

A community center, converted from two residential units, will be opened in July. Other activities planned for residents include aerobics and exercise programs, daily devotionals, organized games, sing-alongs, walking and biking tours, and crafts instruction.

"This is not going to be a rest home," said Ms. Fitzek. "It is a planned community to look after the needs of the retired and those planning to retire soon."

Phase II of the project, which includes 65 units on Dow Drive, will commence when vacancies in Phase I are filled, she said.

The homes can be rented on six-month and 12-month leases, or purchased at 12 percent interest with a 5 percent down payment.

"The advantage of this kind of community is that residents will be grouped together with like people," Mrs. Fitzek said. "They will have common interests and lifestyles."

Performance operates three similar housing projects in McAllen, Pharr and Edinburg.

Flood victims found downstream of site

DRIPPING SPINGS, Texas (AP) — The swollen waters along the banks of Perdarnales River are slowly receding after a flashflood that roared through a youth campsite and drowned four people.

On Friday, search teams found the last two missing bodies of the Hope Center for Youth expedition.

Jeremy Williams, 11, of Houston, was found seven miles downstream from the campsite, in a creek that feeds into the Perdarnales. The body of counselor Harold Harvey, 26, of Nacogdoches, was found about three miles from the site.

Authorities recovered the body of 12-year-old Jamie Hendrick of Houston on Thursday. The body of John C. Lowers, 12, of Lufkin was found Wednesday.

All had been swept away by the flood waters that climbed 20 feet above the normal river level early Wednesday morning.

"I don't think they ever got out of their tent," Hays County Sheriff Alfred Hohman said.

Meanwhile, nine other boys from the East Texas home for troubled youths were rescued from the water by three counselors at the campsite five miles downstream from Perdarnales Falls State Park. All have returned to their families for an emotional reunion.

"Some of them didn't want to go. They wanted to stay and deal with it as a group," said David Bridges, an educational supervisor at the center.

The youths and the counselor were among a group of 16 from the private, non-profit home in Apple Springs, near Lufkin, said director Lyndon Langford.

They group was on a 20-day expedition. One man whom authorities feared had been swept away, Trevor Smith, 28, of Houston, appeared at the Perdarnales Falls State Park office about noon Thursday.

TAKING A FLING — Mrs. Clyde Angel revues the book "Memories of My Life" at the Third Annual Spring Fling book revue luncheon held Saturday by the Big Spring Altrusa Club. The event, which also featured a Maypole dance by students of the Dance Gallery, was held at Garrett Hall of the First Methodist Church.

West Texas surprised by mid-May chill

From staff and wire reports In its last gasp, winter hurled golfball-sized hail and heavy rains on parts of North Texas Saturday as a cold front made its way across the state.

However, the effects of the front were negligible in West Texas save for cooler temperatures and a threat of thunderstorms.

The National Weather Service did issue a tornado watch for Howard County and the surrounding area Friday evening, but skies stayed friendly and clear most of the night.

Most of harsh weather was caused by the cold front sweeping down from the north. It was part of the same system that caused heavy snows in Montana and the northern Rockies earlier in the week.

Things were not so pleasant farther east.

A funnel cloud was sighted near Maypearl in Ellis County south of Dallas, where a flash flood warning was issued as heavy rains drenched the area.

Golfball-sized hail fell near Cleburne and marble-sized hail pelted McKinney.

A severe thunderstorm watch was issued for much of North Central Texas and the Hill Country as the front approached.

Police Beat

Thefts, attacks reported to police

Amador Rios of 1511 Bluebird reported to police that between May 3 and May 12 someone stole two televisions, a lamp, a table and several miscellaneous items from his home. Rios estimated the stolen items to be worth $1,465.

Rios said the suspects kicked open the back door of his home and then removed the belongings.

Other reports included the following:

• Betty Hamilton of 1405 State told police that at 9:45 p.m. Thursday a subject known to her choked her and pushed her off a porch at 608 Goliad.

• Police said burglars tried to break into Marquez Fence Co. at 1507 W. Fourth by breaking the lock on a window on the west side of the business. Police said entry was not gained.

• Cheri Sparks, an employee of Howard College, reported to police that a 19-inch color TV was stolen from the girls' dormitory lounge between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday.

• Randy Olvera of 505 Benton told police he sustained injuries to his head in a fight that occurred in the 600 block of the Lamesa Highway at 2:15 a.m. Saturday. Reports show Olvera was treated and released at Hall-Bennett Hospital.

• Ron Brock, employee of Bob Brock Ford, said someone broke the vent windows on four 1983 pickup trucks and stole the AM-FM cassette radios from three of the vehicles sometime Friday night.

• Police said vehicles driven by William Winters of 704 Birdwell and Jack E. Hunt of Garden City Route collided at 10:45 p.m. Friday in the 2500 block of Goliad. Hunt was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way. A passenger in Winters vehicle, Manny Wiltz, was treated for minor injuries.

Sheriff's Log

Three released on bond

Robert Dutchover Jr., 22, of 1205 Lamar was released on bonds totaling $10,500 after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin on suspicion of unlawfully carrying a weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia and theft over $200.

• Sheriff's deputies said they arrested Oscar Solis, 21, of 1208 Marjio on a peace bond issued by Heflin. Solis was later released on a $3,500 bond.

• Christopher B. Wooton, 22, of 1400 Lexington and Shawn M. Murry, 26, of 411 S. Bell were both released on $1,000 bonds after being arraigned before Heflin on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Area schools take top honors in livestock show

Area schools took top honors in the 4-H District 6 Livestock Judging Contest last weekend.

The Howard County senior 4-H team won the overall championship in the senior division competition.

The team defeated 14 other teams to capture first-place honors. Team members include Jamie Phillips, Blair Richardson, Cole Hunt and Kevin Hamlin.

The junior division team grabbed second-place honors behind Ector County. The junior team is composed of Duncan Hamlin, Lance Robinson, Jimmy Miller and Vance Christie.

The Martin County 4-H team took third place in the junior division competition. Team members include Walton Stone, Chris Stone, Cade Robertson and Mike Billingsley.

Individual senior honors went to Howard County competitors Kevin Hamlin, Hunt and Richardson. They placed first, second and fourth respectively.

Tavie Murphy from Glasscock County took 10th place in individual honors.

In the junior division, individual honors went to county competitors Duncan Hamlin, second; Vance Christie, fifth; and Jimmy Miller, sixth.

Stone from Martin County took seventh in the junior division.

Kids 'clean up' on contest awards

Winners of the Big Spring Independent School District's "Ways In Which We Can Make Big Spring More Beautiful" contest were announced this week.

Students in grades 1-5 participated in an art contest, while grades 6-8 entered an essay competition on ways to make the city more attractive.

First grader Greg Gannaway of Kentwood Elementary and a student of Mrs. Loyce Phillips took first place in grades one and two with his "Mow and Grow Help Big Spring Glow" poster.

Brian Poitevint, a fifth grader at Marcy Annex, won in grades three through five. His poster depicted the Beetle Bailey comic strip character Killer raking trash with the slogan "Please Keep Big Spring Beautiful." Brian is a student of Mrs. Beth Tevis.

The essay contest winner was Erin Kelly, a sixth-grade Signal student at Goliad Middle School. Second place went to Mary Anita Trevino, a Signal eighth-grade student at Runnels Junior High. Shawna Adams, another Goliad sixth-grade Signal student, won third place.

The essays are printed below with Miss Kelly's first, followed by Miss Trevino's and Miss Adams'.

The Big Spring area and its appearance could be greatly improved if more of the people of Big Spring would become aware of our city's present and potential beauty. One of the first major things to do would be to remove some of the excessive amounts of litter in Big Spring. We could organize a "Pick-up-Litterathon" in which sponsors would pay volunteer participants a certain amount of money for each pound of litter the participant collects. The money that is collected could be used by the city for future projects to beautify Big Spring.

Small parks scattered throughout Big Spring would allow the citizens to enjoy the grass, trees, flowers and other plant life. It would also provide a picnic, party and just-for-fun area closer to home.

I think the Colorado River Municipal Water District's fountain is a contribution to Big Spring's beauty. Certainly, more fountains, gardens, and "Green Stops" would make Big Spring a more beautiful place. Wouldn't it be nice to have "Green Stops" where you could sit and watch a fountain or smell the flowers on a lazy afternoon?

ART CONTEST WINNERS — Winners of the Big Spring Independent School District's "Ways In Which We Can Make Big Spring More Beautiful" art contest are (back row) Geneva Noyola, second place in grades 3-5, and Brian Poitevint, first place. In grades one and two, Greg Gannaway (left) won first place and Wayne Markham won second.

A major improvement to Big Spring would be to use some of the many vacant lots in developed areas. I do not mean to destroy these lots, which are a portion of the quickly shrinking wildlife in our area. Simple trails would put these lots into use and the planting of trees or flowers would greatly enhance it.

I realize that the city does not have excessive amounts of money to use on this program, but a wisely planned campaign that works on gradually improving Big Spring's appearance could really make a difference.

We could also consider digging up the weeds and other undesirable elements and replacing them with trees or flowers. This would make our environment more attractive-looking.

The city should also think about tearing down condemned buildings. This would not only prevent the waste of Big Spring's land, but it would also make Big Spring more suitable for new businesses or housing. Big Spring's younger generation can also get in on making Big Spring more beautiful. The writing on business walls, school walls, bathroom doors and so forth is their problem. If young people had any pride in their town, they could learn to respect it.

Big Spring is a nice town, but it has a few bad points. One problem is litter. If the people of Big Spring had a little consideration for their town, they would help keep their environment clean by keeping trash and other waste where it belongs — in the dumpsters.

By picking up litter and stopping graffiti, Big Spring's tax money could be used for more important things, such as fixing waterline breaks and repairing streets, rather than having projects to clean up and fix what others mess up. Those are just a few ideas of how to make Big Spring more beautiful. There are many more to add to that list, but the whole community must help to improve our town.

In making Big Spring a more interesting and beautiful place to live and visit, the city might consider the idea of forming a folk-life center. It would give the people a reason to clean up our city and make it beautiful. Our folk-life heritage is one of the things we in West Texas are especially proud of. Much of the folk-life art is becoming lost. Families have not taken the time to pass down from generation to generation the many "folk-life arts" that were a necessity of life years ago.

We are fortunate to have many area people who are talented in the old arts of blacksmithing, weaving, pottery, quilting and so forth. These people could help bring our heritage to life by demonstrating and selling their art to the public. In turn, the city would stand to gain in a project like this because of the possible tourist trade. The tourists would not only enjoy and buy at the folk-life center, but would also spend the night at motels, shop in other stores and eat at our city's many eating places. Perhaps the tourists would enjoy Big Spring's recreational facilities — parks, shows, bowling alleys, miniature golf, skating and Moss Creek Lake.

This is one project the community of Big Spring could do that would not only be profitable, but also interesting and fun, and this would help to beautify our city.

John Connally hosts stock show at hotel's ballroom

HOUSTON (AP) — Fifty-one four-legged hotel guests paraded like models down a carpeted runway Saturday as former Texas Gov. John Connally showed off the wares of his eighth Western Heritage sale.

Connally was one of three businessmen displaying 26 Quarter Horses and 25 Santa Gertrudis cattle at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel. The animals and 27 works of art were to be auctioned off in the hotel's grand ballroom Saturday night.

The morning show was held before about 700 brunch guests on the hotel's lawn.

"This is a 'nowhere but Texas' event," spokeswoman Linda Wilson said.

She said the show this morning gave potential bidders a chance to view the animals more closely and watch them walk. The show's total sales last year were $3,125,500, Ms. Wilson said. Of that sum, $1,782,200 stemmed from art; $309,800 from cattle; and $1,033,500 from Quarter Horses.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS PARADE INTO BIG SPRING ...160 participated in annual event

Olympics prove to be special event

With their motto "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt," 160 area Special Olympic athletes competed last weekend in Big Spring at Blakenship Field.

The Area 18 Special Olympics is sponsored annually by the Elks Lodge, assisted by the Association for Retarded Citizens, the Civitan Club and by Teens Aid the Retarded. The Olympics include 13 activities, with events such as dashes, wheelchair races and several field events.

Mike Cowley of Big Spring, a coordinator for the event, said "Socially it brings the community closer to learn of their (retarded citizens) need for being accepted, which is so crucial in their social development. It definitely helps them to develop a better attitude about themselves."

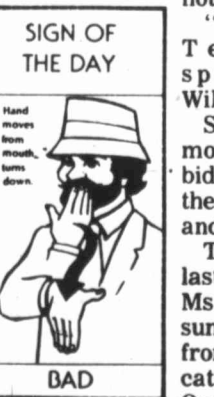

Twenty Big Spring Special Olympians competed in the event, with Edward Reyna and Pamela Epps winning third place trophies as outstanding athletes.

Others participating were Raphael Aguirre, Benji Yanez, Randy Mears, Stephen Mills, Lettie Anguiano, Felix Anguiano, David Green, Carrie Parker, Lene Wyle, Ramon Holguin, Melinda Buchanan, Joann Ochoa, Baron Sonntag, Lee Luebner, Joe Paul Rushing, Henry Solis, Bobby McCarty, Clifford Volbrecht. Over 1 million children now participate in this program first begun in 1968.

THE BIG FINISH — An unidentified Andrews girl crosses the finish line in the Area 18 Special Olympics held recently at Blakenship Field. The meet drew 160 entrants with 20 of those from Howard County. The annual event is sponsored by the Elks Lodge in Big Spring in order to improve the mental outlook and physical health of the children.

Controlling minds by burning books

Fifty years ago, 40,000 Berlin citizens watched German students carry books and pamphlets out of offices and libraries and dump them on huge bonfires in the city's streets.

They were purging Germany of the works of disruptive authors — Thomas Mann, Albert Einstein, Sigmund Freud, Marcel Proust. Their works were judged unfit for German readers.

The Third Reich not only sanctioned but commissioned the search, seizure and destruction of materials that contained ideas not conforming to government-approved patriotism.

Book control led and thought control followed. Nothing could be written or said that subverted the Nazi movement. These controls conditioned German minds into accepting the Holocaust.

Ah, but that was long ago. It couldn't happen today. Don't kid yourself. Last month in Martha's Vineyard, members of a local church burned books and records they called "satanic trash."

The demonstration was similar to many others that have taken place in this country. People who know what others should read have burned everything from The Living Bible to Playboy magazine.

The lessons of history are clear. Censorship is far more dangerous than anything contained in a book or a record jacket.

Censorship destroys independence of thought and spawns subservience. Let us remember the Berlin bonfires and stand strong against thought control.

Around the Rim

By CAROL DANIEL

Children's TV

One by one we have watched the best and the brightest programs disappear — "Captain Kangaroo," "Animals, Animals, Animals," "30 Minutes," even the long-popular "Wonderful World of Disney."

The marketplace has come into play. CBS lost millions over the years by airing a show for children ("Captain Kangaroo"), while the other two networks put on hugely profitable shows for adults. But in the end, the economic pressures from the news departments and the affiliates proved too much.

THE NUMBER of shows for children has decreased in the past couple of years as a direct result of the Reagan administration's emphasis on deregulation by government.

The agency's interest came shortly after Action for Children's Television filed a suit in the U.S. Court of Appeals claiming that the FCC's failure to act on rulemaking in children's television was illegal.

Representatives of the networks brought film clips and anecdotal examples of the kinds of programming they were providing, but it was clear that cable firms such as Warner-Amex, which is offering Nickelodeon, a 13-hour-a-day channel for young people, are going after the market that commercial television doesn't particularly want.

Warner-Amex president John A. Schneider said cable is currently offering 158 hours a week of children's programming, 91 of which are on Nickelodeon. He also said cable will be in about half the 83 million to 84 million television homes in America by 1985.

IT HAS BEEN 13 years since the FCC and the networks were first pushed to improve the product the commercial stations were offering children. And while the hearings were held in conjunction with national children's television week, only the network representatives seemed to think there was much to celebrate.

But self-regulation and programming by economic pressures alone may prove costly for the networks in the long run. Cable is doing what many people hoped for, namely providing viewers with diversified programming for children, something neither Congress, nor the FCC, nor the government, nor public pressure has been able to do.

And while the FCC is getting back in the game, cable, at the rate it is going, may have left the marketplace that had no room for "Captain Kangaroo" far, far behind.

Widower is angry at God

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know it will probably offend you, but I am angry at God. I have just lost my wife to cancer, and I find myself overwhelmed with resentment and bitterness — even though she was a fine Christian and I know she is in Heaven. — B.H.

DEAR B.H.: I suspect there are many people who have gone through a similar experience, because it is not easy for us to accept things like this or to understand why God permits them. But I deeply hope you can get rid of the anger you feel toward God because it is wrong, and it also can affect you as a person. The Bible warns us to be careful "that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many" (Hebrews 12:15).

First of all I want you to realize just how much you have for which to be thankful. I know it may be hard for you to be thankful toward God right now, but if you will, let your heart and mind turn from your own self-pity and resentment and turn instead toward God and his blessings to you. Be thankful for the years of happiness you had together. Be thankful that your wife knew Christ and is now in Heaven with him — where pain and death will never touch her again. Be thankful that God is with you right now, and that he loves you and wants to help you. God is still in control — even if you do not understand all that happens in this sin-scarred world. Like Paul we can be "sorrowful, yet always rejoicing" (2 Corinthians 6:10).

Then confess to God how you really feel.

The private club of Texas Aggies

This week, we received by special messenger a copy of the commencement address at Texas A & M. The speech was delivered by Houston Post columnist Lynn Ashby, and here are some excerpts:

"Thank you all for having me here this morning — a Teasip asked to impart words of wisdom to Aggies. It seems only fitting, and I do love missionary work. I bring you greetings from civilization."

"At times such as these, a commencement speaker is supposed to tell you certain things — things which you should already know: onward and upward, the world is waiting for your talents, save us from ourselves. That's Bevo chips. By now you should know the direction, and if you don't, it's too late.

"I will tell you that there is room at the top, and I'm lonely up here."

"You are different. Whether you are better or worse than the rest of us is debatable. But you are different. You worked to be different. I mean, on most campuses you can walk on the grass. Most schools don't build huge bonfires and wear distinctive military uniforms. You do. You have worked to be different and most of the world would agree that you have succeeded beyond your wildest dreams. But if you want to stick out in the crowd, you'd better be better."

"Because now we get down to the nub of the matter: you are selected, you are chosen, you are pampered, loved and congratulated, but so are the graduates of the 1,984 institutions of higher learning in this country. There are two universities for every one of you here today.

"Now let me tell you something. You have not heard of most of them ... but they've heard of you."

"They have heard of Texas A&M, from dumb jokes to Broadway musicals... Why? I will tell you why. In every operation, in every organization, inevitably one person, one group, stands out... the Marines, the Dallas Cowboys, the New York Yankees..."

"In our world, in our lifetime, among all the nations on earth, it is the United States. We have something everyone else wants. And for that reason, we are the nation they love to hate. In the United States, among all the states, for the very same reasons, it is Texas. And in Texas, it is the Aggies. You are a private club which we cannot join. You have something going on which we don't fully understand, but you have it; we don't, and we're somehow jealous. "So never forget that Texas is to America as America is to the rest of the world. Texans have too much, do too much, work too hard, have too much fun. And it chaps the heck out of everyone else. Within Texas, we have the Aggies, they have too much, they do too much, they have too much fun and others are on the outside, looking in."

"So it follows jealousy that people poke fun at those on the inside. The world tells jokes about the ugly Americans. Americans tell Texas jokes. Why? Because no one cares how many North Carolinians it takes to screw in a light bulb. Big deal. No one would go see the Best Little Whorehouse in Vermont — if there is one.

"And, in Texas, no one cares how many Mustangs or Bears or Horned Frogs it takes to eat an armadillo.

"America is, Texas is, you are, the targets.

In a convoluted way, it is, after all is said and done, flattery. You are in a private club, and we can't get in. And now you have paid your dues.

"In a few minutes, you are going to come up here and be branded, branded forever more, as a Texas Aggie. Eventually, you may be broke, you may be divorced, you may be dispossessed, displaced, disgraced, but no one will ever, ever, be able to take this away from you: You are about to becoming a degree-carrying Texas Aggie. You are the Aggies, the Aggies are you. And there is no such thing as an ex-Aggie."

"When you leave here, you may go to a job, to graduate school, to undergraduate school, wherever you go you will soon be known as the Aggie. Believe me, it will happen. The office Aggie, the town Aggie, the cellblock Aggie."

"So be good. Be very, very good. Remember, maroon is also a verb."

"You are now famous or notorious. It took over a century, but millions and millions of people now know about Texas Aggies. And what do people expect from famous — or notorious — people?"

"More. "We expect more from you, and you must expect more from yourself."

"The world is waiting for you, not with outstretched arms, not with bated breath, but with an open mind and a question: 'So you're an Aggie. I've heard about you. What's in it for me?' Now's your chance to show them. And never forget, never ever forget, 'I am Texas A&M. I'm it. I am an Aggie.' It is an honor reserved for those who deserve the very best, and finally got it."

City Beat

By KEITH BRISCOE

"I am a Jew, an American, and a socialist, in that order." My grandfather on citizenship

Inevitably, when a community becomes embroiled in local controversies, the words Constitution, Christianity and Communism are brandished from ideological sheaths to do battle in a war of words.

Sadly, such is the case in Big Spring as correspondence reveals the great public debates surging over the merits of city management, prayer in school and the inalienable rights of the individual.

The three C's of dilatational debate — Constitution, Christianity and Communism — have been brandished with such abandon that they have lost their cutting edge. They have become "buzz words," intended to solicit an instantaneous, emotional reaction in the audience.

Words have consequences. If we seek the truth in our daily affairs, then we must choose our words carefully, knowing their meanings, history and the sentiments they inspire. Wild and whirling rhetoric leads only to confusion, not the clear and concise debate necessary for a well functioning democracy.

Since our readers are intent on employing the three C's in their editorial correspondence, I shall attempt a small lexicon for future editorial reference on the words' proper usage.

CONSTITUTION — The Constitution of the United States was written in 1787, 11 years after the country declared its independence. Its intent was to provide a broad legal outline for a strong central government empowered to act directly on the individual. Much of it is now irrelevant, and it has had to be amended 26 times. But it is the supreme law of the land. It protects both the individual from the abuse of the government and the government from the abuse of the individual. Its endurance for almost 200 years is credited to its flexibility, or the ability of lawmakers to adapt its general principles to changing times. It is basic law, not Holy Writ.

CHRISTIANITY — Considered one of the world's three great monotheisms (in addition to Judaism and Islam), Christianity was founded by Saul of Tarsus (The Apostle Paul). It is named after Jesus bar Jehosef (Jesus son of Joseph), a wandering rabbi in the Roman province of Judea. The followers of Jesus believed him to be the Messiah (the Christ), and after his death, a small sect arose worshipping him. The group remained insignificant in the Jewish world, but grew tremendously when Saul stripped it of its Judaism to appeal to the gentle slave populations. Despite its Eastern roots, it remains essentially a Roman religion.

COMMUNISM — In contemporary parlance, Communism refers to an economic order in which the workers own the means of production; that is, those who do the labor own the produce and the property from which it's produced. The distribution of goods is based on equity among consumers. Communism precludes private ownership of property, but not democracy.

WHAT HAVE these droll academic definitions have to do with great debates sweeping Big Spring?

If you invoke the Constitution to favor your argument, be aware you are basing your belief in the document as it is interpreted today. It is not written on tablets for everlasting. Citing the Constitution against the Supreme Court ruling forbidding prayer in public school leads to a legal conundrum. The court's ruling is the Constitution.

Proclaiming you are in the right because you are a Christian is to say that your argument is unapproachable because you happen to be an adherent to a particular religion. Christianity is one of many religions practiced in Big Spring, and being one its followers entitles you to no special legal standing.

Denouncing someone's position as invalid because he is a supposed Communist is merely stating you disagree with someone because of his economic beliefs. Communism (I'm treading dangerous ground here) is compatible with the Constitution.

The careless inclusion of the three C's in editorial invective can be most distressing. I have seen sentences to the effect: "Such a Communist doesn't believe in the Constitution or our Christian way of life." This kind of verbiage says nothing except the writer is an ignoramus.

HERE ARE a few hard truths. It's possible for an American to be any of the following combinations: a law-abiding Christian Communist; a Jewish, Marxist Supreme Court justice; a Muslim, socialist city councilman; an atheist, capitalist war hero; or a Christian fascist who does not support the Constitution.

America is a wonderful mix of all kinds and possibilities, each with the dignity and right of his individual conscience and beliefs.

You can take the three C's — and any other initial — and mix them and jumble them and still come up with a true-blue American.

But don't confuse the meanings. This dissertation will probably cause shock and anger among some. But it's just my small contribution to the public forum. That's my right as a non-Christian who stands firmly behind the Constitution and a little to the left of Karl Marx.

Report from Austin

By LARRY DON SHAW

Odds are against horse race betting

State representatives are rounding the final turn as we head toward the finish line on May 31. Texas senators say their versions of the state spending plan and drunk driving laws are "sure bets" this session, but House members are still figuring the odds on these and other major issues.

If you're following my train of thought, you'll realize there is another key issue still at stake in the House — pari-mutuel wagering on horse races.

On April 26, the Texas Senate debated and passed their pari-mutuel proposal, Senate Bill 440. Almost identical to the House bill, it calls for a statewide referendum to decide whether to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Texas on a local-option basis. Upon passage, local voters would determine in a second election whether to allow a racetrack in their community. If betting is legalized, the state would assess taxes on such proceeds. Under the Senate plan, 5 percent of revenue from pari-mutuel taxes would be designated for aid to welfare children, and 3 percent would go into a water development fund. Other revenues would help fund a Horse Racing Commission to license, regulate and supervise the industry, while revenues to local governments would be obtained from a tax on admissions to racing events.

Supporters and opponents of the bill are neck-and-neck on the issue. In fact, voters who have returned various questionnaires sent by my colleagues, as well as those responding to my own questionnaire published recently in several District 69 newspapers, have been surprisingly divided on this issue. Percentages are averaging very near 50-50 and are seldom more lopsided than 60-40 either way.

It's an emotional issue, and both sides have valid arguments. On one hand, 32 states have legalized pari-mutuel wagering. In 1981, our neighboring states of Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico received a total of $35 million in revenues from pari-mutuel taxes. Considering our own weakened economic situation and the projected revenue decline in the next few years, pari-mutuel betting might provide a means to boost our state revenue.

However, I believe opponents of pari-mutuel betting have stronger arguments. First, only about 12 to 18 percent of total track revenues are designated as "take-out" funds, and the states get a very small portion of that. Revenues in surrounding states have never provided more than 0.7 percent of a state's total revenue. In fact, current trends indicate that states are taking less and less of the take-out and giving more money to trackowners, breeders and others who need it to offset track losses resulting from a decline in attendance and soaring operation costs.

The moral question of pari-mutuel betting is another important consideration. Proponents claim that legalized gambling will put an end to blatant illegal "bookie" operations controlled by organized crime, yet the National Gambling Commission has investigated this claim and found that participation in illegal gambling is even greater in states where gambling is legal. It's an unfortunate fact that organized crime exists throughout the nation, but I firmly believe that responsible state officials should not entice or promote its operation in our state. Moreover, "compulsive gambling" often leads to increased felony crimes and violence in the home, and can have a negative influence on our children and neighborhoods.

After considering these arguments and the economic and organized crime projections, I've decided to vote against pari-mutuel betting — if, in fact, the bill comes before the full House at all. Right now, the pari-mutuel bill is dangling in a House committee, where eight of its 15 members are consistently voting against bringing the measure to the House floor for debate. It appears that the Committee is as divided as the people of Texas on this issue, and the race is too close to call.

I'd certainly like to know your thoughts on pari-mutuel betting. Write to Rep. Larry Don Shaw, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78769, or call my toll-free number in Big Spring, 1-800-592-4731. Remember, that's a free call to district residents outside the Big Spring area.

A Closer Look

Nothing escapes the eyes of the press

AUSTIN — Joby Miller didn't play by the rules, and thus her actions became an official embarrassment to the Texas House of Representatives.

Ms. Miller made headlines last week by stripping to a string bikini bottom and pasties while gyrating before state Rep. David Patronella, D-Houston, to mark his 26th birthday. It was a gag sponsored by some of Patronella's fun-loving House cohorts. Such things are known as "tension relievers" during legislative sessions.

The problem was that Ms. Miller, an employee of Stripper Gram, performed her service in the public hallway just outside the House chamber, thus also just outside the Capitol press area. What was planned as a good-natured prank on the young House member thus became a cause celebre.

Shortly after the photographers' cameras stopped clicking, House Speaker Gib Lewis took the podium to criticize the stunt as "...certainly in bad taste. What was meant to be a prank turned into something more serious."

Many members who earlier had been smiling and gawking at the stripper became serious and appalled at the speaker's concern.

Suddenly, the reality of the situation sunk in: Word of this little stunt was going to reach the people back home through the media.

The local newspaper the next day quoted a legislator as moaning, "Everything was going along real smooth, no scandals, nothing embarrassing, until this. I bet I'll get more mail about this stupid stunt than I do about horse racing."

Cancer patient indicted

BEAUMONT (AP) — A 19-year-old cancer patient placed on probation after saying he smoked marijuana to relieve nausea from chemotherapy has been indicted for possession of methamphetamine and hashish.

Edward Lee LeBlanc Jr. was placed on six months deferred adjudication and fined $7.00 in January after he pleaded guilty to two misdemeanor counts of marijuana possession.

LeBlanc said a Houston cancer specialist advised him to smoke the weed to ease the nausea caused by chemotherapy treatments. Assistant District Attorney Richard Hughes said Friday he planned to file a motion to revoke LeBlanc's probation because of the new charges.

The new charges arose from a March 16 search of Robert Dale Crites' apartment, a friend of LeBlanc, authorities said. Police officers testified at an examining trial last month before Peace Justice Wallace McCasland that they found methamphetamine and hashish on a table.

Crites also was indicted with LeBlanc on the same charges.

Both men have been released from the county jail on bonds of $10,075.

Education chairman favors tax hike

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans are willing to pay higher taxes to fund a pay hike for teachers, the chairman of the State Board of Education said Saturday.

But Joe Kelly Butler of Houston stopped short of endorsing the $1.27 billion tax package laid out Friday by Gov. Mark White, who is pushing for a 24 percent pay raise for teachers during the next two years.

"I'm not in a position to analyze it," said Butler, who had not seen specifics of the White plan.

"I think the proper tax program would be addressed favorably by the citizens of Texas," he said.

The governor's program depends heavily on increases in "sin taxes," including taxes on liquor, cigarettes, amusement machines, beer and wine. If approved by lawmakers, the tax hikes would be the state's first in 12 years.

The chairman said he had "no way of knowing what the public thinks about sin taxes."

"We haven't addressed the kinds of taxes, just the amount of funds," said Butler.

"I haven't really run into anyone who didn't think Texas should pay enough where we can have the best possible education," he said.

During Saturday's board meeting, the Texas teacher of the year was honored. Patricia Taylor of Westchester High School in the Spring Branch Independent School District said teachers have to "have some way (to make teaching) worthwhile."

"Let's work to raise salaries," she urged the board. "There's got to be a way and we Texans can find it."

The presentation to Mrs. Taylor was made by Texas first lady Linda Gale White, a former Spring Branch teacher.

Mrs. Taylor teaches English as a second language to foreign students.

"We need some help from you to raise our standards of education in the state of Texas," she told the board, adding that some teachers should be asked to find other jobs.

"Let's suggest another career. Let's keep only the best teachers," she said, calling for Texans to "make it tough to be a teacher."

Also Saturday, the board approved members of the state textbook committee. Only 26 of the 27 committee members were approved.

Board member Vally Bostine Jr., of Houston, complained that the committee nominated in his district works outside the district.

The nominees were compiled by the Texas Education Agency staff after the Legislature recently approved a measure setting up a 27-member committee — one from each congressional district — to replace the 15-member committee.

Larry Burnell of the Fort Bend ISD was nominated in Bastine's district. Burnell lives in Bastine's district, but the Fort Bend ISD is not in the district.

The board voted 22-3 against confirming Burnell. A replacement will be chosen at a later meeting.

Q: I realize this is a simple question with no simple answer, but, I thought I'd try: What, basically, is the cause of interest rates fluctuating as dramatically as they have lately?

A: You're right, there is no simple answer to that question. Basically, however, when the money supply is tightened by the Federal Reserve Board, interest rates go up. People stop putting their money into savings accounts and choose higher paying investments. Banks, already losing money, and faced with higher costs of obtaining money, are reluctant to make long term loans. To try to stay afloat, interest rates rise. When the demand for money drops (as when the Federal Reserve Board institutes measures to discourage credit buying), interest rates on loans also drop.

After high school, boot camp is next step for many

Navy News Features
SAN DIEGO — For some, it's the biggest challenge of their lives. For others, it's a passing irritant on the way to bigger and better things. But for all who pass through the gates of the Recruit Training Command here, it's a proving ground.

The goal is to make it. The alternative is to break trying. The only measure of success is completion of the 108-year-old Navy tradition called boot camp.

During the coming summer months, thousands of fresh high school graduates will undergo the boot camp experience to become sailors.

The mission of this sprawling training center is simple and hasn't changed: Indoctrinate and orient new recruits in the basic skills necessary to make the transition from civilian to Navy life. But to achieve this goal in an eight-week period, there is no time for easing into the routine.

Some, putting it kindly, would call it abrupt.

The transition begins the moment they step off a gray Navy bus into an open compound for processing. Confused and suffering from culture shock, most don't know what to expect.

"The first day, most of us were scared," said recruit Genaro J. Arce of Oregon City, Ore. "They woke us up at 3:30 a.m. banging on trash cans, shaking bunks, and yelling. I didn't know where I was or why I was there."

"I was expecting more of a laid-back situation where I would come in, they would give me my stuff and assign me a company — but it didn't work that way."

It's designed to get their attention fast. It does.

"Most of the counseling and guidance comes in the first week," said Chief Quartermaster Kent A. Kolbrak of Merrillan, Wis., a company commander who has served six years at the Recruit Training Command (RTC) and pushed through 15 companies.

"That's when they're adjusting to being away from home. Where they may have had their own bedroom at home, they're sharing an open-bay barracks with 79 other people. There's a lack of privacy, and you just can't wander off into a corner to think things out."

The fear of the unknown is soon displaced by the obvious. They realize where they are, why they are there, and that there's no backing out.

"The fear goes away after the first three days," said Arce. "Then you know you're in trouble."

During the first three days, recruits spend their time in processing. They receive their haircut (a little close) and are herded from one center to another where they are fitted with uniforms and given medical and dental exams. Then they are formed into companies, assigned a company commander, and the real training begins.

The Navy's eight-week program isn't as physically demanding as the Army or Marine Corps. But everyone from the commanding officer to the recruit will tell you that, while the Navy may have undergone changes, it's still physically and emotionally trying.

For three days each week recruits participate in a two-hour physical fitness program. By the end of his training a recruit can run 2 1/4 miles in 18 minutes or less.

"Looking back, the emphasis is shifting more from the physical to the technical side of our Navy," said Capt. John K. Gardella of Huntsville, Ohio, the RTC commanding officer. "But there is still enough drilling and physical exercise left that, when a young man graduates after eight weeks, he knows how to carry a rifle and march as a team."

"Physically, we focus on aerobics," said Gardella. "It used to be that all the physical aspects of boot camp were based on the ability to carry a rifle, put it over your head, and do physical exercise with it. That still exists to a certain degree, but now we have an extensive aerobics program designed to build total body strength."

Modern boot camp began as a recommendation by Commodore Stephen B. Luce to provide trained seaman for both the Navy and Merchant Marine. On April 8, 1875, Congress authorized the enlistment of 750 youths between the ages of 16 and 18 to serve in the Navy until they reached age 21.

Under Luce's plan, recruits were given preliminary training instruction on station ships and then transferred to training vessels where they were taught gunnery, seamanship and other skills.

Over the years the system expanded and, although Luce favored training at sea, "boot" camps were established ashore and served as the forerunner of the Navy's modern training system.

Today that system has expanded to three training commands — Great Lakes, Ill., Orlando, Fla., and San Diego. More than 100,000 recruits go through training annually, with about 25,000 attending San Diego where as many as 250 recruits are received daily.

A recruit's day starts at 4:30 a.m. and ends at 9:30 p.m. In between, his time is regimented to the last minute. Once taken for granted, time for enjoying a coke, cigarette or candy bar becomes a luxury and a privilege, extended only at the discretion of the company commander.

Instead, the recruit attends classes in everything from leave-and-liberty conduct to damage control and fire fighting. He also spends many hours drilling and maintaining an exceptional personal appearance. It's all designed to make a better sailor and a better man.

Gardella feels the program is a success.

not afraid to do anything anymore."

"The biggest change is the self respect," said Kolbrak. "For a lot of them it's the first time they've ever been on their own and done anything themselves, and they're really proud."

"Every Thursday night I co-host a reception for the parents, wives, relatives and guests of graduating companies," said Gardella. "Every week someone will thank me and RTC for what we've done. I hear such comments as the father who recently said, 'It's the first time my son has ever called me sir.' This is symbolic of the changes, the discipline and the attention to detail that we focus on in boot camp."

Parents and relatives are not the only ones to see the change. No matter what their age, recruits say they have also noticed a change in themselves.

"Even though I'm as old as I am, I think I've become more disciplined," said 29-year-old recruit William D. Wimmer of Chester, Ohio. "Now I pay more attention to detail and what I'm doing."

"My attitude has changed about a lot of things," said Arce. "I'm more positive about things and

COMEBACK GRADUATION — Gene Dalton, 31, poses with the cap and gown he'll wear today when he receives a bachelor of science degree from Boston University. Dalton was given a second chance at life after having lost his wife and job and being imprisoned for the death of his son.

Graduation caps man's 2nd chance

BOSTON (AP) — Five years ago, Gene Dalton was ready to end it all. He had lost his job. He was in jail accused of killing his own son in a fire. He climbed on a chair in his cell and wrapped a sheet around his neck. "The guard stopped me before I could finish the job," said Dalton, 31. "Thank God."

His close shave with death will seem far away Sunday when Dalton, given a second chance by Boston University President John Silber and author-attorney George V. Higgins, will receive his bachelor of science degree in sociology.

Shortly after his suicide attempt, Dalton's brother James, a BU security guard, mentioned his case while chauffeuring Silber.

Silber persuaded Higgins to represent Dalton, who was charged with setting a house fire and causing the death of his son, Eddy.

Higgins, whose novels have been made into tough-guy movies, took the case from a public defender and a month later won acquittal on the arson-murder charges in Suffolk Superior Court.

"There never was a murder," Higgins said. "It was a horrible accident." The jury found Dalton innocent of arson, but convicted him of assaulting his common-law wife, Higgins said. Dalton served several weeks in jail.

Higgins explained that Dalton had gone out with the woman on Christmas Eve, come home and the two quarreled. Dalton hit the woman, then left the house for his job as a cab driver. While he was asleep in his cab at a taxi stand, the house burned and their son died.

"I knew Eddy was hurt but I didn't know how bad until I turned on the radio in my cell and that's how I found out he was dead," Dalton said. He was driving a cab after losing his job as a security guard with the Penn Central Co. Higgins said Dalton "never lied to me. The client trusted me with his life."

But Higgins said the real hero is Silber. "I have never seen anybody evince such strong beliefs as applied to a total stranger as John Silber," the attorney said Thursday. "John Silber put his money on it, quite a lot of it."

"He felt so strongly about the matter of justice in the case that he said he would pay for the kid's defense out of his own pocket. And he did."

Silber could not be reached by telephone Thursday, but his assistant, Sam McCracken, confirmed details of the case. He said the university president simply preferred to "let the facts speak for themselves."

Higgins did not say how much the defense cost Silber, but said, "I will say that I gave him a bill that ran well into five figures."

Silber's generosity didn't stop there. "When I was released, Silber sent for me," Dalton said. "He thought I was qualified to go to college. That knocked me on my backside because nobody in my family had gone to college. My parents did not have the money."

BU gave Dalton a four-year scholarship. He worked as a volunteer in the Perkins School for the Blind and earned pocket money by helping organize a campus escort service.

After he gets his degree Sunday, Dalton wants to get work helping prison inmates.

"I'm interested in going back to prison... on my own terms," he said. "Being a police officer and being in jail, I know both sides."

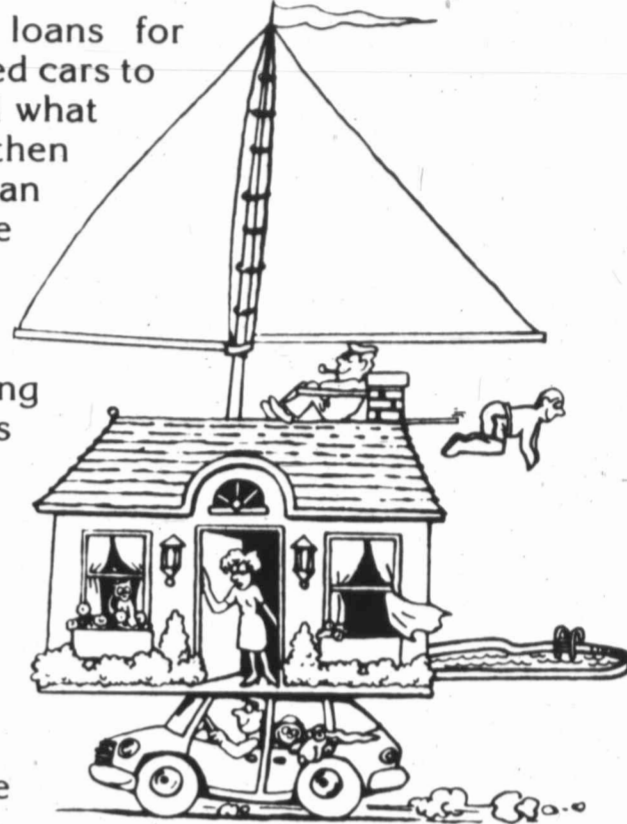

"I'd like to help get people out of the prison system and educate them, or else they'll lead the kind of lives they led before they got in."

It's not every day that you can get a deal like this: a free gas grill* for your backyard when you install the best in air conditioning for your home! You'd be smart to jump at the chance.

Only gas air conditioning has a ten year warranty... that's twice as long as any other! And, that warranty is backed by Energas, so you can be sure it means what it says. Gas air conditioning lasts longer because there is no compressor to wear out and break down. Hand-crafted stainless steel construction adds to its performance and longevity.

Order your gas air conditioning before June 1, 1983, and get the free gas grill.

Act now... it'll be hot before you know it!

ENERGAS

*Includes free installation at same address where air conditioner is installed.

10-Year Warranty

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in materials and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for 10 years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

Ex-agent's career mirrors ag history

Special to the Herald
SNYDER — The career of retired Scurry County agricultural extension agent Billy E. Roach runs parallel to the development of the extension service in Texas.
 He retired on Feb. 28 after almost 24 years as an agent in Scurry County. On April 28 he was honored by his fellow agents at a barbecue at the Bassinger Ranch in Garza County.
 "Billy Roach is the kind of man who makes an organization good," said Billy C. Gunter, extension office district director from Lubbock and Roach's supervisor for the past 19 years. "He's as loved and respected as any county agent I've ever known."
 Roach became Scurry County agent on Sept. 15, 1959. He came to Snyder from Swisher County where he began his extension career in 1954 as that county's first assistant agent.

 Roach said that he has seen many changes in agriculture and in the educational programs of the extension service since he began his career.
 He said that during his service in Scurry County the program that had the most economic impact on the county was the boll weevil diapause control program.
 "The first spraying was in 1976," he said. "Some 92,000 acres were treated at a cost of $500,000. It was a producer-financed program."
 He is especially proud of the involvement and support of the people of the county in such programs as Scurry County Fair and 4-H activities.

 "We've had a real good 4-H program," he said, "especially in exhibiting livestock. I remember one year we carried only one steer to a show in Lubbock, but it won grand champion."
 Roach was born in Colorado City and grew up on the farm of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Roach.
 He is married to the former Margaret Payne of Colorado City. They have two daughters and a son.
 Roach holds a bachelor's degree in range animal husbandry from Sul Ross University in Alpine and a master's from Texas A&M.

Mexico, USSR sign oil pact

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico and the Soviet Union have signed an agreement to cooperate on petroleum technology.

A statement from the state-run oil monopoly Petroleos Mexicanos, known as Pemex, said the agreement covers geology, geophysics, drilling and transportation.

"It is highly satisfactory for Mexico to participate in the agreement that the two countries made to advance administration, production and exploitation of a natural resource as important for our peoples and for humanity as petroleum," said Donaciano Tamex, deputy director of commerce for Pemex.

A Pemex technical delegation visited the Soviet Union in March and the agreement was signed here Thursday during a visit of Soviet petroleum experts to Mexico.

Mexico currently produces 2.7 million barrels of oil daily, exporting 1.5 million barrels of that amount.

Development plan targets impoverished Mexican state

TUXTLA GUTIERREZ, Mexico (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid presented a development plan for the impoverished southern state of Chiapas that projects spending $550 million in government and private funds on development here this year.

The program includes funds already budgeted for the area, such as the $230 million the state petroleum monopoly Petroleos Mexicanos, known as Pemex, plans to spend in Chiapas.

Some of the country's most important petroleum deposits in Mexico are in the state, the southernmost in Mexico some 650 miles southeast of Mexico City.

The program includes petroleum and agriculture development as well as improvement and maintenance for the highway and communications system.

De la Madrid appeared at a ceremony in this state capital with Gov. Absalon Castellanos.

Mexican tuna industry slips; U.S. embargo on fish cited

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. embargo on Mexican tuna has had a catastrophic effect on the tuna industry here, the business daily El Financiero reported Friday.

It said a backlog of 60 million cans of tuna has developed because of slack demand for the product in Mexico, where it is not a traditional food item.

The tuna embargo was decreed two years ago because of a dispute over territorial limits. The United States does not recognize the 200-mile limit that Mexico claims at sea and objected because the Mexican government seized American boats it said were violating its territorial limit.

MIGUEL ALEMAN died Saturday

Former Mexican president dies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Former President Miguel Aleman, who in 1946 became the first non-military head of state of modern Mexico, died early Saturday at his Mexico City home after suffering a heart attack, a government spokesman said. He was 80.

Aleman died at 2:15 a.m., said a spokesman for the president's office, Manuel Alonso Aleman's body was to lay in state at his home until a burial scheduled for 11 a.m. Sunday in the Spanish Cemetery here, Alonso said.

Aleman was hospitalized in January at Methodist Hospital in Houston for a checkup. He was believed to have been ill for some time, but asked the hospital not to disclose his condition.

Before Aleman took office in 1946 for a six-year term, Mexico's presidents were drawn from the military.

His administration strengthened the position of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, which has dominated Mexican politics for more than 50 years, and advanced Mexico toward its goal of becoming a major Third World industrial producer.

After his term expired in 1952, Aleman became one of the giants of the tourist industry and remained highly influential in Mexican politics.

Born Sept. 29, 1903, in Sayula, in the region of Acayucan, Veracruz, Aleman's childhood was spent moving around the state with his family. His father was a storekeeper and a revolutionary.

A law graduate from Mexico City's National University of Mexico, he built a fortune in real estate investments by buying up large amounts of cheap land in Veracruz, now a site of luxury hotels.

Aleman began his public career as an attorney in the Department of Agriculture, 16 years before he became president at the age of 43.

Britain

LONDON (AP) - Britain's Labor Party, governed for nearly 10 years, lost the general election on Sunday, May 9, in a landslide. The party's four-year rule ends with the election of the Conservative Party.

It also wants to join the European Community, slap on import controls, state spending cuts, and an end to the national industries during four years of servitude.

The radical party contrasts sharply with the Conservative Party's right-wing policies. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, and a platform put forth in the party's new election manifesto.

To vanquish Mr. Thatcher's favored policies, Labor would woo away at least 10 percent of the electorates.

A three-week campaign they will challenge the Conservative Party's foreign policy role in the new alliance.

Graduation ceremonies will begin at 8 pm on Thursday, May 19, in the Coahoma High School Auditorium. The public is invited.

Collector's hot rocks confiscated

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - A radioactive rock acquired by a collector now is in the hands of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission - and the rockhound says he wants it back.

But the NRC says Richard VanHuizen has to pay $140 for a license to keep the rock plus pay a $460 fee every time federal officials inspect the area where it's stored, and that could be as often as every two years.

VanHuizen, of Waterford Township, calls that "ransom" but the NRC disagrees.

"The possession and use of radioactive material is licensed in order to protect the public health and safety," NRC spokesman Jan Strasma said earlier this week. "The NRC wants to know where such material is, how it is stored and how it's used. The fee covers the cost of monitoring the material."

VanHuizen said he got the hot rock six years ago from a friend who had been in the demolition business in St. Louis. VanHuizen said he had some idea that the rock contained uranium, a suspicion confirmed when he brought the rock to a show in Allen Park last month.

A friend used a Geiger counter to check the dull, black, egg-sized stone with a distinctive bright yellow streak, VanHuizen said.

"The Geiger counter went wild," VanHuizen said. "He was shocked when he saw it was so radioactively hot."

Awards given

On Wednesday in the assembly, the American Legion Award was given to Matthew Burrow and Sara Backus. Presenting the awards were Bill Birrell and Ollie Bransom from the American Legion Post.

Also named were the top ten nominees for this award. In the order in which they were placed, the boys were Aaron Allen, Keith Tucker, Perry Prudhomme, Scott Oliver, Shamir Caplan, Paul Williams, Pat Collins, Taff Wennik, Manuel Alvear, and Dieter Gerstenberger. The top ten girl nominees were Kenda Madry, Lynn Malone, Cheri Wyrick, Tamara Burnsed, Laura Ogburn, Cindy Locke, Rebecca Read, Katrina Thompson, Traci McCormick, and Nikki Rodriguez.

Honored with certificates were the students who had made the honor roll once, twice, or three times in the three nine-weeks. Awards were given to members of the annual staff and the Megaphone reporters. Teachers named five top students of each of the different departments.

In a recent short story contest held in Mrs. Warren's English classes, Jo Jo Read won first place in her class, Edward Hernandez was second, and Isidro Melendez was third. Barney Dodd rated first in his class, with Tiffanie Evans second, and Nikki Rodriguez third. Scott Oliver won top honors in his class, with Malinda Ellison second, and Kim Young and Martina Solis tied for third. The winners won "Write On" buttons designed by the Goliad art classes.

Students may place their orders for the school newspaper, The Maverick Express, on Monday and Tuesday during advisory. The price is 25 cents. The paper is produced by the annual staff and will feature puzzles and creative writing. In addition, each student who orders a copy of the newspaper will receive a free picture. The newspaper will be distributed Tuesday, May 24.

On Friday, May 12, there was a Coke party on the patio of the school. This party was won by students in first period classes by raising enough money in the candy sales to receive this.

Student Council Reps chosen

Elections for six freshman student council representatives were held on Friday, May 13. Matt Garrett, Christy Malone, Eric Thompson, Shelly Carmichael, Carey Fraser, and Mary Anita Trevino were the students chosen.

On Tuesday, May 17, Goliad seventh graders will be bussed to Runnels for orientation. Hosts and hostesses will be Carey Fraser, Tabitha Green, Scott Ferguson, Matt Garrett, Christy Malone, Mary Lou Fierro, James Weaver, Amy Burgess, and Kevin Williams. Others will be Medina Corwin, Amy Cox, Christian Gribble, Bernard Williams, Jay Burcham, Rebecca Thompson, Connie Swinney, John Hart, and D'Carlon Wilson. Michelle Cox, Eric Thompson, Paul Decker, Samantha Subia, Charlie Ogle, Annisa Dean, Jesse Bridges, Jill Beall, John Olson, Raymond Ontiveros, April Patrick, Rodney Bailey, Tessa Underwood, Pam Palmer, and Kelli Preston were also chosen. Other students assisting are Andy Dominguez, Sheila Chatman, Karen Brodie, Joe Beasley, Kirsten Wilkins, Mario Gonzales, Shelly Carmichael, Rachel Tedesco, Henry Sanchez, Cary Lewis, Teresa Pruitt, Paul Blalack, Sidney Parker, Larrie Norman, and Danny Wise. In addition Mary Anita Trevino, Kim Schaffer, Todd McKimney, Melissa Garner, Sheila Cunningham, Gregg Newton, Tiffany Milch, Victoria Logan, Tracy Butler, Joanna Hamilton, Lydia Hinojos, and Tom McQueary are helping.

All library books were due on May 11. Students will not receive report cards if they do not have all library books turned in.

Runnels Band went to Snyder on Saturday, May 14. They competed on contests and solos and ensembles.

Members of the National Junior Honor Society have scheduled a field trip on Friday, May 20. They will be going shopping at Permian Mall, to the Monahans Sandhills, and to eat pizza.

Blind workers make braille pages

NORTH COLLEGE HILL, Ohio (AP) - Workers at a non-profit print shop in this Cincinnati suburb turn out more Braille pages than anywhere else in the world - without ever seeing the finished product.

At the Clovernook Home For the Blind, everyone pitches in to make such publications as The New York Times, Fortune, Psychology Today and Children's Digest available to the sightless.

Blind pressworkers feed a ton of kraft paper each day through custom-made presses in a small shop at Clovernook, producing 55 million Braille pages each year for books and magazines.

Sightless binders stand at long assembling tables, putting pages in order while others double-check the page numbers.

Workers stitch and bind the books and periodicals. Proofreaders glide their fingers over the page proofs to catch errors while a sighted person reads aloud from original manuscripts.

Nowhere else in the world matches the home's output of Braille pages, said Mark Walpole, assistant director of the workshop.

But the product isn't the most important reason for the printing shop or for an adjacent weaving shop, famous nationwide for its soft, woolen blankets, its hand-loomed place mats and table cloths, Walpole said.

"Making blankets and printing pages are more important in terms of keeping the blind employed than the income it produces for the home," he said in an interview earlier this week. "Historically, our mission is to provide employment for the handicapped."

About 35 handicapped people live at Clovernook. Others commute to their jobs.

"In order to live here, you must work, unless of course you are past employment age," Walpole said.

Sixty people work at the printing shop, sometimes surprising their supervisors with their cleverness and adaptability.

For instance, 36-year-old Elmer Carey operates a machine which makes page-sized zinc plates for the Braille presses. He types on a computer keyboard to translate letters from print to Braille.

"We didn't think he could do it," Walpole said. "But two days later he had memorized the keyboard and is doing a wonderful job."

Carey said he is no relation to the family which owned the historic Cary Cottage used as the first home for the blind when Clovernook opened 80 years ago.

Back in 1903, two sisters decided to found the home for blind women in Cincinnati.

"They got William Procter (of Procter & Gamble) to buy these 26 acres, including the Cary Cottage, and nine blind women started to live there," Walpole said.

Britain's labor party turning radical

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor Party, which governed for nearly half the post-World War II era until it lost to the Conservatives four years ago, heads into the June 9 general election committed for the first time to unilateral nuclear disarmament.

It also wants to quit the European Common Market, slap on import and currency controls, boost state spending to cut unemployment, and renationalize industries sold off during four years of Conservative rule.

The radical platform contrasts sharply with the prospect of another term of right-wing policies under Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, and a moderate platform put forth by Britain's new centrist alliance.

To vanquish Mrs. Thatcher's favored Conservatives, Labor would have to woo away at least 5.5 percent of the electorate — a monumental challenge in a three-week campaign. If they succeed, Laborites say they will change Britain's foreign policy and its role in the Western alliance.

PRIME MINISTER THATCHER
...confident of victory

"We will see that Britain plays a leading role in guiding the world away from nuclear bombs," declares Labor leader Michael Foot, 69, veteran anti-nuclear campaigner and peace marcher.

Since 1945, Labor administrations have done as much, sometimes more, than Conservatives to build and modernize Britain's own nuclear weapons and to welcome U.S. bases. But the Labor Party, with a decidedly pacifist left wing, has a long history of quarreling over Britain's role as the only nuclear power in Western Europe outside France.

"There are some of us who will fight and fight again," Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell declared in 1960 when the party, in opposition, voted for a resolution calling for unilateral disarmament. He did fight, and the resolution was overturned a year later.

The disarmers fought on too, but until this campaign had been foiled by a party hierarchy that expunged anti-nuclear planks from its election platforms.

Skeptics say the current commitments are so radical, and reached after such bitter arguments with moderates led by deputy leader Denis Healey, that Labor just wouldn't carry them out — or at least not all of them.

"They're wrong," Labor general secretary Jim Mortimer, himself a moderate, told The Associated Press.

"Without any question, within the lifetime of a Parliament (five years), a Labor government will negotiate Britain's withdrawal from the Common Market. And we will remove nuclear weapons and nuclear bases from British soil and British waters."

That would mean scrapping Britain's Polaris nuclear submarines, banning U.S. cruise missiles due to be deployed here by December, and canceling the Thatcher government's deal to buy U.S. Trident missiles, which would replace Polaris in the early 1990s. It also would mean expelling 190 U.S. F-111 nuclear-armed jets housed at two bases in England, Upper Heyford and Lakenheath, and U.S. Poseidon submarines based on the west coast of Scotland.

Conservatives denounce Labor's nuclear and Common Market policies as "dangerous rubbish" and "surrender."

"We would move from being one of the most influential countries in the Western Europe to being one of the most despised," said Tory Agriculture Minister Peter Walker.

"We would provoke dismay among our friends, delight among our enemies," he said.

Etna threatens village

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — In a bold plan to save mountain villages from a boiling river of lava, workers blew up a dam early today to divert the liquid rock into a man-made channel on the slopes of Mount Etna, Europe's most active volcano.

A brilliant red flash set the night sky aglow as the explosion broke through an earth retaining wall, built to stem the flow of lava while the canal was completed. Huge rocks pelted the area and within three minutes the lava began pouring over the shattered dam.

It may be several days before officials know whether the project has diverted enough lava to prevent the flow from hitting the villages. Civil Protection Minister Loris Fortuna said if half the flow is interrupted "it will do the job we need."

Some experts have criticized the $4.9 million project, started April 29. They said the canal could not handle a major flow, and much of the molten rock would solidify in the canal, making it useless.

The explosion, shown on television, occurred at 4:09 a.m. today (10:09 p.m. EDT Friday). It was the first time officials had agreed on the use of explosives to block the flow of lava from Etna.

The lava — with a temperature of 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit — has tumbled 4.2 miles since the flow began March 28, destroying dozens of houses and restaurants and more than six square miles of orchards and farmland. Recently, it has been flowing at a rate of 16.5 feet to 66 feet an hour, threatening the villages of Nicolosi, Belpasso and Ragalna.

Shortly before the explosion, warning flares were fired and officials, scientists and journalists took cover in bunkers 350 yards from the barrier to watch from behind bullet-proof glass.

The huge blast, using 1,100 pounds of explosives, had been scheduled for Friday afternoon. However, a new lava flow damaged some of the 50 metal tubes that were placed to hold the dynamite, forcing a delay.

Swedish explosives expert Rolf Lennart Aberstein supervised the placing of the charges that were designed to blow up the dam about 15 feet high, 10 feet wide and 45 feet long.

The retaining wall had been built to contain the lava while workers completed a 1,750-foot canal on the southeast slope that was designed to channel the flow from towns at the mountain's base.

DESPERATE EFFORTS — Italian soldiers make their way up the slopes of Mount Etna in Sicily to set up explosives to blast an earthen dam to divert the lava flow from mountain villages.

Vandals spray Stonehenge with blue soccer slogans

SALISBURY, England (AP) — Vandals on Saturday sprayed soccer slogans in blue paint on five of the ancient monoliths at Stonehenge, a mysterious prehistoric circle of altar-like stones that is one of Britain's top tourist attractions.

Two men were being questioned by police in connection with the incident at the monuments on Salisbury plain in Wiltshire.

The slogans, in six-inch high letters, say "PFC," the initials of Portsmouth Football Club, "Pompey," the club's nickname, and "Kick to Kill Pompey."

A custodian at the monuments, which date back to 2,100 B.C. and which archeologists believe may have been built by ancient astronomers, said only time will tell whether the paint could be removed.

He noted that a slogan painted 15 years ago was still visible on wet days and that another painted four years ago saying "free the ponies" had also resisted chemical removers.

1,000 arrested in Chili

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Troops brandishing submachine guns seized about 1,000 people in pre-dawn raids Saturday and carted them off to soccer stadiums and police stations in apparent retaliation for the first widespread protests against President Augusto Pinochet's military regime.

About 150 soldiers in battle dress, backed up by an estimated 100 policemen and plainclothes agents, surrounded two shantytowns in southern Santiago shortly after midnight. Using bullhorns, they ordered everyone over the age of 14 to come out.

"They surrounded the neighborhood before five in the morning and ordered through loudspeakers that all men over 14 years old had to go to the soccer field," said a 55-year-old man from one of the shantytowns, who said he feared reprisals if he were named.

"Two hours later they let me go, but my two sons are still being held," he told The Associated Press.

Witnesses estimated 1,000 residents of the Joao Goulart and La Victoria districts poured into the streets and were marched to soccer fields for identity checks. They said some were let go and others bused to police stations from the stadiums.

At midday, reporters could see several hundred boys and men still waiting in the stadiums for security agents to check their identity cards.

Police officials claimed the operation was a search for common criminals.

But the two shantytowns were the scene of clashes Wednesday between police and demonstrators taking part in the first nationwide protests against the regime since it came to power nearly 10 years ago in a coup against Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Six labor unions that organized the "Day of National Protest" called the demonstrations a nonviolent appeal for dialogue between an authoritarian regime and critics demanding greater political freedom.

Come one, come y'all

This is the week of the Shriner's Pro-Am golf tournament.

No ifs, buts or maybes about it. People of Big Spring, be at the Country Club Thursday and Friday. You'll see a tournament that will have West Texas talking until the LaJet Classic. And perhaps still then.

The Pro-Am promises to be one classy event. First of all, the Country Club course is in great condition considering we haven't had rain in a million years. The greens are in excellent shape and pro Gary Hammer is even working on getting the wind to quit blowing for three days.

Secondly, the people who have been organizing this thing for the last year are getting re-excited. By now, the hard work has taken its toll on the volunteers. For example, Hammer is in a daze after phoning "12 hours a day" the last month trying to get the best club pros to Big Spring.

But it's like a second wind. Now that the tournament is almost at tee-time, the long hours of work begin to fade away and fun takes over again.

The greens have been roped off in preparation for the expected large gallery. By Thursday, a huge leader board will be put up, along with concession and souvenir stands. Mingling with the crowd will be the Houston Oiler Derrick Dolls (I know some guys who'd like to mingle with them).

Radio stations stations KBST and KWKI will broadcast live reports from the tournament for those folks unable to attend. Computer systems will tabulate the scores and produce up-to-the-minute standings.

To help you pick out the celebrities and pros you'd like to see, the Herald will run the complete team pairings beginning Tuesday. Hammer has set aside Monday as parings day, saying that in itself is a monumental task.

GARY HAMMER
...expects great tourney

What Hammer really meant was that trying to match the best pros with the worst amateurs — myself topping that list — will be a chore.

Benny Passons, Dwight Nevil and other top-notch Texas club pros will be in the tournament. Hammer thinks that any of a half dozen golfers can approach a 10-12-under-par round. "If the wind doesn't blow, they'll tear this course up," he predicts.

If I figure correctly then, Passons will shoot in 18 holes what it takes me nine.

Of course there will be talented locals playing too. That list isn't complete but Ronnie Broadrick and Jimmy Welch are two I know of who will be playing.

I'm not sure how well Terry Bradshaw, Golden Richards and the other celebs golf, but I'm sure they'll at least be entertaining. Should he have a bad round, Bradshaw can certainly throw his clubs long and far. Guys like Faron Young can start singing should their putting games falter.

The whole idea of the tournament is having fun. Whether it's playing, attending the VIP party Wednesday night or the parade earlier that afternoon, hugging a Derrick Doll or swooning over Golden, or just watching top flight golf with a friend, the Pro-Am is going to be a blast.

But most importantly are the people who will benefit from the event — those needing the care and service provided by Shriner's hospitals. While you're getting autographs from the stars, find a Shriner and thank him for his role in the community.

By this time next week, the First Annual tourney will be over. Rumor has it that pianist Floyd Kramer and LA Raiders punter Ray Guy are coming for the Second Annual. But before we think about that, let's make sure this year's tournament is a grand success.

See you at the CC Thursday.

Shriner pros are top flight

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Big Spring Country Club pro Gary Hammer says that if the wind doesn't blow next Thursday or Friday, one of the visiting pros at the Shriner's Pro-Am golf tournament will possibly shoot 12 under par.

That's reason enough to be in the gallery for the first-ever tournament which benefits Shriner's hospital and special treatment centers across the nation:

"If I to pick a pre-tournament favorite," Hammer says, scratching his head, "well, there are four really great players coming: Benny Passons, Rives McBee, Dwight Nevil and Jimmy Powell. Any of those four could win."

Passons is the hottest golfer among the foursome, coming off a season during which he was named Minimax Player of the Year for being best overall player in the North Texas section of the PGA.

McBee won the North Texas sectional championship in 1982 while Nevil is familiar name, having played several years on the pro tour. He won the Metro chapter tournament last year and produced the best average stroke per round.

Powell didn't win last year but "finished higher more often than anyone else, Hammer reports.

"The winner will be on those guys right there," the Big Spring pro predicts.

Hammer is pleased with the condition of the course. "The greens are in excellent shape...maybe the best they've ever been. The fairways...well it's still too early to have a tournament here because the winter is so hard on them. But we'll play it anyway."

The list of confirmed pros stands at 45 with eight other almost-sures in the wings. Hammer says the tournament field of 240 players is full but "we're still taking names for the waiting list. And of course, we're still taking donations. The whole point is to raise money for the kids," he said.

Other pros to watch for are Dick Weston of Kermit, Ronnie Rosson of Floydada, George Clark of Midland and Richard Whittenburg of Lubbock. The best player from West Texas could be Micky Piersall of Pampa, Hammer says; the best from East Texas could be Mike Kennedy of Paris.

Foursome pairings for the two-day tournament will be made Monday.

The 36-hole event begins with 30 teams teeing off at 8:30 a.m. Thursday and the second group at 1:30 p.m. Hammer expects most of the celebrities, which include Terry Bradshaw and Golden Richards, to play in the afternoon.

"It's going to be a great tournament," Hammer says. "I think the people will see some excellent golf."

1983 Shriner's Pro-Am Tournament

Duffer's playing guide for '83 Pro-Am tourney

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Amateurs wishing to play the Shriner's Pro-Am were not required to play a qualifying round. Thus, a few befuddled duffers are sure to be scattered among the field 240 contestants.

I know one personally...he's the sports editor of the Big Spring Herald.

Since Las Vegas has announced odds of 1,000,000-1 that my foursome will need my help, I've already thought of other ways to contribute to our winning effort: a) advise out-of-towners on how to play the Country Club wind; b) hold their cokes while they putt for birdies; c) mark our team's scorecard; and d) provide comic relief when I slice onto the adjacent fairway.

Also, I've prepared the following guide to the 6,940-yard, par 71 Country Club course.

No. 1 (par 4, 399 yards) — A slight dogleg to the left. Slice tee shot into rough on right to make this relatively easy hole a challenge. Blast out from behind 3-foot tall milkweed with five-iron near green but pitch over. Once on, three-putt.

No. 2 (par 4, 451) — A fairly long hole but straight. Boring play unless you've brought a Sony Walkman along. Hit at least two shots out-of-bounds into rangeland to north. Great shot puts you within inches of the cup...at least, that's where it was last week. Two-putt and curse the buzzards hovering above you.

No. 3 (par 3, 197) — First chance at the $15,000 car, don't blow it. Select medium iron and leave tee-shot 30 feet short of green. Partner tells you to cheer up; there's still three more par 3's to go. Encouraged, you chip and putt to take par, you're first and last of the day.

No. 4 (par 4, 384) — A chance to really pick up some ground. Your massive drive rolls on prairie-like fairways into water hazard. It was an orange Titleist...only two left in the box. Skip second orange ball into water before final getting over. Consider withdrawing from tournament.

No. 5 (par 5, 573) — Longest hole on the course; check wallet for plane reservations to the green. Check water and oil in cart before setting out for distant flag. Make the green in eight shots, three of which go 30-feet each.

No. 6 (par 4, 441 yards) — Another long hole. Wish you had that graphite driver you saw in pro shop. Straight approach to green but you slice tee shot into No. 5 fairway. Meet Terry Bradshaw and other big names when you dash over to retrieve ball. Hit five more times before seeing the No. 6 flag again.

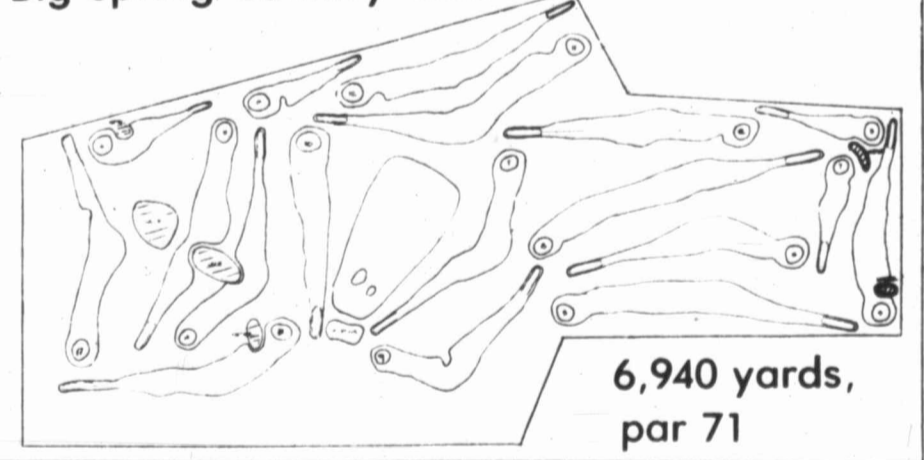

No. 7 (par 3, 194) — Is it a 280 ZX, Trans Am, BMW? Forget it. Your tee-shot flies left and barely avoids new water hazard. You take double-bogey and wish you were watching Bogey in Casablanca instead of making fool of yourself.

No. 8 (par 5, 558 yards) — For the first time all day, you hit a decent drive. Only problem is you skied it and it lands just beyond the ladies teebox. Your bag is beginning to wear a blister on your shoulder. You'd take a 10 but make it in 12.

No. 9 (par 4, 360 yards) — Food, water, Derrick Dolls are in sight now. The gallery circles the green and you respond to the crowd by unintentionally cutting the right corner on your tee shot. Your approach lands the fringe of the green. Suddenly, the gallery recognizes Bradshaw's foursome a hole behind and vacates. Your ex-wife and a 91-year-old man are the only ones who see you sink a 40-foot putt for a five.

No. 10 (par 4, 402 yards) — A hole you could birdie but winds kicks up to 40 m.p.h. and three shots only get you near the green. Your putting touch is back and you sink a 30-footer, the ball breaking once left and once right. You thank yourself for those long nights of practice at Putt-Putt.

No. 11 (par 5, 516 yards) — You pull out your binoculars, stand on cart and locate flag. It's a dogleg left but you dogleg right. In the confusion, your second shot is aimed at the clubhouse. Preacher in your foursome scolds you for drinking. It's then you remember the pint of vodka in your golf bag.

No. 12 (par 4, 413 yards) — You're coming back the way you just came and naturally you stub your tee shot and drive the No. 11 fairway. You're happy because you never once set foot on it the hole before. From 100 yards out, you pitch the ball onto the green. It strikes the pin, however, and caroms to the No. 11 teebox. You see Faron Young rubbing his left calf, trying to get the circulation started again.

No. 13 (par 3, 190) — Yes sir, lucky No. 13 and the shortest hole in the course. Can you go from rags to riches? Amazingly, you drive the green. Tournament official is impressed and offers to let you test drive the new car. The excitement is too much. You four-putt from 10 feet.

No. 14 (par 4, 435 yards) — Water. You see water. Your ball, worn out from being hit 135 times already, decides to cool off. You lost your third orange ball. One encouraging thought...only four holes are left. You ask Grady Cunningham if you can use his extra set of Pings. He asks if you'd like to caddy for him.

No. 15 (par 4, 453 yards) — Water. You see water. This time you take out your putter and roll the ball between the two hazards. You make and continue putting to the green. It takes 14 shots but at least every one was straight.

No. 16 (par 3, 189 yards) — Last chance for the car. You hit a five-iron and really whack it. They're yelling at No. 13...Ralph McDuffick has hit a hole-in-one. Your ball then hits the pin and rolls into the cup. An ace! Sorry, Gary Hammer says, we only had one car.

No. 17 (par 4, 400 yards) — You're almost finished. So is the Mercedes you hit on the road when your approach shot sails over the green. You look down and notice a 3-iron in your hand. You were just 40 feet from the cup.

No. 18 (par 4, 405 yards) — The last hole. You're elated. Then you remember there's 18 more tomorrow. More water and big crowds here. You concentrate and bogey the hole. You spot the girl of your dreams in the crowd. She's smiling. She's Mrs. McDuffick. You go home.

VARSTIY TURNS GREEN WITH ENVY — Exes running back Carl Green breaks loose for a short gain Friday evening against the Steer varsity. Putting the tackle-hold on the BSHS senior's defensive back Robert Porras. The two teams fought to a 6-6 standoff in the annual scrimmage event.

Exes, varsity battle to scrimmage standoff

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Sports Editor
 Danny Stephen still has it. Robert Doport might still get it. And Quinn Eudy enjoyed all of it. Stephen, the senior, and Doport, the varsity candidate, produced two of the heaviest hits while their head coach observed at the exes-varsity scrimmage Friday afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

And just as the two bone-crunching tackles were of equal magnitude, so was the score. Carl Green scored on a 17-yard run for the exes in the first quarter while Derek Logback pulled in a 13-yard scoring pass from Tommy Gartman for the varsity in the second period for the only touchdowns of the "game" portion of the 2 1/2 hour workout.

What made Eudy happiest were the three times the varsity defense withstood exes pressure from inside their own 20-yard line. "That's what really pleased me," the second-year head coach said. "When the exes got ready to score, we rose up and stopped their progress. We did that three times."

The first time came late in the third quarter. A 12-yard run by quarterback Adam Rodriguez, his 20-yard completion to John Roemer and a running first down set up the exes deep inside varsity territory. The exes were stopped on the next series but an offside call on the varsity gave them another shot from within the 10.

Scott Eggleston gained two yards but the exes fumbled on the next play with junior-to-be Jay Pirkle recovering.

A fourth quarter turnover set up the exes in good shape. Twice, however, quarterback Dean Gartman was brought down for losses and on fourth down tossed an incomplete pass in the face of pressure by lineman Randy Lamb.

The final chance for the exes came with time running out in the game. Rodriguez gained 12 yards on one run and broke away for 23 on another. Doport put his vicious lick on the senior quarterback on the play and Rodriguez fumbled the football away to J.D. Williams on the next play.

"Yes sir, it was a very spirited get-together," Eudy said, smiling. "I think Doport is looking for a job for next year. It seemed like there was a lot of enthusiasm today...people were really flying to the football."

The varsity had its hardest time controlling Stephen, both on offense and defense. His first quarter hit on varsity running back Eric Sherman stopped the senior-to-be cold in his tracks at the line of scrimmage. On offense, Stephen rushed the football 13 times for 60 yards.

The exes blew another chance to score on the game's first play. Rodriguez tossed an 80-yard scoring pass to Billy Thompson but they were whistled for an illegal offense and the score was nullified.

For the varsity, improving running back Mike McKinley gained 45 yards on just six runs while Sherman had 49 on three, including a 32-yard gain on a cut-back run in the second half.

"I want to thank you seniors for going out and making this a success," Eudy told a huddled group of both teams after the scrimmage. He turned to the varsity candidates and said, "You've got the makings of a football team. You did a good job last year but you've got to build on that. Right now, you guys are the Big Spring Steers."

Prior to the game, both squads ran 20 offensive plays. Neither scored on offense but the varsity did get into the end zone when senior-to-be Robert Porras intercepted a Rodriguez pass and returned it 20 yards for a touchdown.

The workout completed three weeks of spring football drills at Big Spring High. The next practice sessions come in August when the Steers open fall workouts.

Dr. J shoots Sixers to within game of finals

REBOUND. AAAAAARRAAUUGH — Philadelphia's Mark Iavaroni (8) lets out a yell as he comes away with a first quarter rebound against Milwaukee Saturday. The Bucks' Sidney Moncrief (4) watches. The Sixers won the NBA playoff game and hold a 3-1 lead in their Eastern Conference title series.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Julius Erving scored 18 of his 26 points in the second half and Moses Malone added 25, leading Philadelphia to a 104-96 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Saturday as the 76ers took a 3-0 lead in the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff finals.

Malone scored five of his points in the final 2:50 for the 76ers, who can sweep the best-of-seven series and advance to the NBA finals with a victory here Sunday afternoon.

Junior Bridgeman led the Bucks with 24 points.

Bridgeman connected from long range and rookie Paul Pressey scored on a bank jumper and a dunk as the Bucks opened a 78-71 lead with 10 minutes left to play.

The 76ers went scoreless from the field for nearly 4 1/2 minutes before Maurice Cheeks responded with seven straight points, including a layup, to tie the game at 78-78. After three more ties, a jump shot by Erving and a dunk by Bobby Jones on a feed from Clint Richardson put the 76ers ahead 92-88 with 3:55 to play.

Brian Winters countered with a long jumper for the Bucks, but Malone converted a three-point play and scored from inside to help the 76ers mount a 97-90 advantage with 1:48 left.

Bridgeman scored after a steal by Sidney gave Philadelphia a 103-94 spread with 30 seconds left.

The Bucks, clogging the middle on defense and dominating the boards in the early going, broke to a 9-1 lead.

Milwaukee defenders double- and triple-teaming Malone, twice stole the ball from the big center, and the Bucks converted at the other end both times to build their lead to 21-10.

Bridgeman scored eight points and Bob Lanier seven for the Bucks in the first quarter, which ended with Milwaukee ahead 28-23.

But with the Bucks' Marques Johnson and Winters shooting cold from outside, the 76ers rallied and took their first lead at 40-38 on a jump shot by Jones with 4:01 left in the first half.

Winters hit his first basket seconds later and Moncrief added two free throws to help the Bucks regain the lead at halftime at 48-45.

NBA Playoffs

Moncrief, but two free throws by Erving on the 76ers' next possession made it 99-92 with 43 seconds left.

The Bucks' Alton Lister scored from inside and was fouled three seconds later. However, Lister missed the free throw, and two free throws apiece by Malone and Andrew Toney

Laker rally puts Spurs in big hole

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio center Artis Gilmore says it's a little awkward to play basketball when your back's up against the wall.

That's the way the Spurs felt after dropping Game 3 of their Western Conference final to the Los Angeles Lakers Friday night, 113-110. Now trailing 2-1, the Spurs hope for a tie Sunday in Game 4 of the National Basketball Association's best-of-seven series.

"That would have been a big win for us, but now our backs are up against it," Gilmore said. "We just have to win Sunday. We just cannot let them run the ball on us."

"When we play Sunday," said the Lakers' Norm Nixon, "the pressure is on the Spurs."

The defending NBA champion Lakers are trying to become the first team to win consecutive championships since the Boston Celtics did it in 1968 and 1969.

"We came out to win, and not just tonight," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley promised after watching his team roll over the Spurs in Friday's third quarter.

Los Angeles scored 34 points to the Spurs' 19 in that decisive period and never looked back.

"We just couldn't get our rhythm in the second half," said Gilmore, who finished with 17 points. "We wanted to push the ball up the court, but just couldn't."

The Spurs may have to play Sunday without guard

Johnny Moore, who scored in double figures and set NBA records for assists during most of this year's playoffs.

Moore suffered a deep bruise on his left calf and left the game grimacing in pain in the fourth period.

Game 5 of the series switches back to California on Wednesday, where the teams split the two opening games, and Albeck and his Spurs don't want to travel to the West Coast down 3-1.

Los Angeles made it to the NBA final last year by vanquishing the Spurs in four straight games.

Los Angeles forward Jamaal Wilkes, who scored a game-high 26 points Friday night, said he'd like to head home with three victories.

"We can't afford to be complacent," he said. "We'll come out quick. But we really needed this one."

Akeem staying at UH

HOUSTON (AP) — Akeem Olajuwon, the 7-foot center who led Phi Slama Jama into the NCAA basketball final, said Saturday he'll return to the University of Houston rather than turn pro and forgo his junior year.

Olajuwon, who had been wavering all week, announced his decision just hours before the National Basketball Association's midnight Saturday deadline for underclassmen to notify the league of their intention to leave college.

"I'm definitely going to stay in school," he said in a CBS interview during halftime of the Philadelphia 76ers-Milwaukee Bucks playoff game.

He said he had conferred with his family in Lagos, Nigeria, before making his decision "and they want me to stay in school, so I decided to stay in school."

Earlier this week, Memphis State's Keith Lee, Georgetown's Patrick Ewing and Earl Jones of the University of the District of Columbia, said they also would stay in school another season. Lee is a 6-10 junior forward, while Ewing and Jones are both 7-foot sophomore centers. Olajuwon said Houston Coach Guy Lewis was out of town and was not aware of his final decision.

"He thought I was going to go," Olajuwon said.

Houston teammate Clyde Drexler, a junior forward, announced Friday that he would turn pro.

"It's my childhood dream and I was not going to let the opportunity pass me by," Drexler said Saturday.

Olajuwon said he had three goals: to be an All-American, to get his degree and to win the national championship.

The Cougars almost did last month, losing 54-52 to North Carolina State in the final seconds on a dunk while Olajuwon was out of position.

Drexler was a second-team All-American and was the team's No. 2 leading scorer with a 16.3 average. Olajuwon led the Cougars with 67 dunks and was among the nation's leading rebounders with an 11.2 average last season.

Orioles smack Rangers, 14-11

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Len Sakata's bases-loaded double in the top of the 11th inning broke a 10-10 tie and the Baltimore Orioles went on to a 14-11 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday night.

Baltimore loaded the bases with nobody out in the 11th against Dave Tobik, 0-1, on a single by Eddie Murray, a double by Gary Roenicke and an intentional walk to Jim Dwyer. Sakata's double to the wall in left-center made it 12-10 and Rick Dempsey followed it with a two-run single. Billy Sample had an RBI single for the Rangers in the bottom of the 11th.

Tippy Martinez, 1-1, got the win and Tim Stoddard the save. Baltimore had 19 hits and Texas a team-record 22, five by Jim Sundberg.

Texas took a 5-0 lead in the second inning on Bucky Dent's two-run single and Sample's three-run homer. Baltimore tied it in the third two runs scoring on a triple by Cal Ripken Jr. and one on John Lowenstein's fifth homer.

The Orioles went in front 9-5 in the fourth with Dan Ford and Murray hitting two-run doubles, and they got another run in the fifth on Leo Hernandez' RBI single.

Texas made it 10-7 in the fifth on George Wright's two-run double. Sundberg and Wright hit RBI singles for the Rangers in the sixth and they tied it in the eighth on Wright's bloop double, his fourth RBI of the game.

Mariners 4, A's 1
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dave Homder belted a three-run homer in the fourth inning and Matt Young and Bill Caudill combined on a four-hitter as the Seattle Mariners defeated the Oakland A's 4-1 Saturday.

The Mariners nicked Rick Langford, 0-4, for a run in the first inning on a walk to Al Cowens and Pat Putnam's triple. With one out in the fourth, singles by Putnam and Ken Phelps preceded Henderson's fourth home run of the season.

American League

Twins 2, Angels 1

ANAHEIM, Calif. (P) — Tom Brunansky delivered a two-out, bases-loaded single in the eighth inning to drive in two runs, breaking a scoreless tie and giving the Minnesota Twins a 2-1 victory Saturday night over the California Angels.

John Castino and Gary Ward singled to chase Ken Forsch, 3-2. Andy Hassler retired Kent Hrbek on a foul pop before right-hander Mike Witt came on to walk Gary Gaetti and give up Brunansky's hit to center field.

Brewers 8, Red Sox 7

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ben Oglive of Milwaukee drove in five runs with a club record-tying three home runs and Charlie Moore singled home the winning run to cap a two-run 10th inning, rallying the Brewers to an 8-7 victory Saturday night over the Boston Red Sox.

Boston went ahead 7-6 in the top of the 10th against rookie Bob Gibson, 1-0, on Jerry Remy's RBI grounder, but Ted Simmons singled with one out in the bottom of the 10th against Mark Clear, 1-2. Clear then walked Gorman Thomas, Oglive and Don Money in succession to force in the tying run. Luis Aponte relieved Clear and Moore lined a 1-0 pitch into left-center field.

Yankees 8, White Sox 5
NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Mumphrey collected three singles and a triple Saturday as the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 8-5.

Bob Shirley, 2-2, blanked the White Sox on two hits until the eighth, when he was nicked for three runs. He left after Ron Kittle's leadoff single in the ninth. George Frazier allowed a single and a walk before Rich Gossage came on with the bases loaded and none out and earned his fourth save after Rudy Law's two-run, two-out single.

Blue Jays 8, Indians 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luis Leal pitched five hitless innings and Roy Lee Jackson completed a rain-delayed one-hitter Saturday as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Cleveland Indians 8-1.

The Indians' only hit was switch-hitting Chris Bando's clean line drive single between third and short with one out in the eighth inning. He was batting left-handed.

Leal, 3-3, did not strike out a batter and walked four in his five-inning stint and was helped by an outstanding catch by center fielder Lloyd Moseby with one out in the fifth.

Pirates 2, Mets 6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — George Foster belted a three-run homer to help Neil Allen to a victory in his first start in more than four years as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2 Saturday night.

Allen, who had been struggling with a 5.68 earned-run average in 11 relief appearances, made his first start since May 9, 1979, and worked five innings, giving up five hits, before yielding to Jesse Orosco. It was the first victory ever in five major league starts for Allen, who had made 208 consecutive relief appearances. Orosco held the Pirates hitless over the final four innings for his second save.

The Mets jumped on Larry McWilliams, 3-3, for three runs in the first inning after a 90-minute rain delay when Hubie Brooks singled, Dave Kingman walked and Foster hit his sixth homer of the season.

The Mets made it 4-0 in the fourth when Brian Giles doubled and Jose Quiendo singled. The Pirates got both their runs off Allen, 1-4, in the fifth on Johnny Ray's double.

Another double by Giles and another single by Quiendo gave the Mets a run in the sixth, and Mike Jorgensen singled home their final run in the ninth.

Cardinals 3, Expos 2
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tommy Herr, given a second chance when Montreal first baseman Al Oliver slipped going after a pop foul, ripped a bases-loaded single with two out in the 11th Saturday to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Herr's hit came off Montreal reliever Jeff Reardon, 1-1, and made a winner of Bruce Sutter, 4-1, who entered in the 10th.

National League

Giants 8, Reds 7

CINCINNATI (AP) — Darrell Evans hit two home runs, extending his hitting streak to 13 games, and Chili Davis added a two-run single to pace the San Francisco Giants to an 8-7 victory Saturday night over the Cincinnati Reds.

Evans hit his eighth homer of the year, a two-run shot in the third inning, to snap a 1-1 tie. He added a bases-empty homer in the eighth inning. Davis' bases-loaded single came in a three-run fourth inning.

Bill Laskey, 4-4, went six innings for his fourth consecutive victory, and Greg Minton earned his fourth save.

Laskey singled off Frank Pastore, 2-5, to start the third inning before Evans homered, then Davis and Dave Bergman walked and Max Venable singled to make it 4-1 and chase Pastore.

The Giants sent nine batters to the plate in the fourth, loading the bases on a single and two walks before Davis singled to right off Greg Harris for a 6-1 lead. Another walk loaded the bases again and Harris hit Venable with a pitch to force in another run.

Murphy socks Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Dale Murphy's 11th home run of the season and second in two games, a two-out clout in the 10th inning, gave Atlanta a 4-3 victory Saturday night over the Houston Astros, snapping the Braves' three-game losing streak.

Terry Forster, 1-0, pitched the final two innings for the victory. Rookie Bill Dawley, 2-1, who had allowed only one earned run in 14 big-league innings, was tagged for the homer, his first allowed in the majors.

Houston tied it 3-3 in the eighth inning when Jose Cruz beat out an infield single, stole second and came around on Alan Ashby's two-out bloop double to left.

Jerry Royster's two-run single highlighted Atlanta's three-run first inning. A walk to Rafael Ramirez and singles by Terry Harper and Murphy accounted for the first run before Glenn Hubbard got an infield hit and Royster singled.

Houston got one run in the bottom of the first when Omar Moreno beat out a bunt, stole second, went to third on Terry Puhl's single and scored on Dickie Thon's grounder. The Astros scored again in the seventh on a walk to Ashby and singles by Bill Doran and Moreno.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Home runs by Mike Scioscia and Greg Brock and the five-hit pitching of Jerry Reuss led the Los Angeles Dodgers over the San Diego Padres 4-1 Saturday.

Reuss, 5-1, retired the first 10 batters he faced before Gene Richards beat out a chopper to first with one out in the fourth for the first San Diego hit. Juan Bonilla doubled Richards to third and he scored on a grounder by Steve Garvey.

San Diego's Eric Show, 4-2, gave up five hits in seven innings, but two came in the second when Ron Roenicke singled and Scioscia belted his first home run of the season to give the Dodgers a 2-0 lead.

Los Angeles got only two more hits off Show, including Brock's seventh homer leading off the fourth.

Islanders whip Edmonton, 5-1

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Bourne and Ken Morrow scored third-period goals 70 seconds apart Saturday night, lifting the New York Islanders to the threshold of their fourth consecutive Stanley Cup with a 5-1 victory over the Edmonton Oilers.

The Islanders, who lead the series 3-0, can become only the second National Hockey League franchise to win four straight titles on Tuesday night. Only the Montreal Canadiens, who captured the Cup five consecutive years from 1956-60 and four in a row (1976-79) have achieved that feat.

The Oilers, meanwhile, face the unenviable task of needing to sweep the next four games against New York. Twice before — in 1942 when Toronto did it to Detroit in the finals and 1975 when the Islanders did it to Pittsburgh in the quarterfinals — has a team overcome a 0-3 deficit in the playoffs. Bourne, the Islanders' swift left wing, has put a mediocre regular season behind him with a classy playoff performance. He leads the Islanders in postseason scoring with eight goals and 27 points.

With the score deadlocked 1-1, Bourne nudged a backhanded shot past Oilers goalie Andy Moog at 5:11 of the third period after Moog had blocked Stefan Persson's long slapshot.

Then Morrow, the steadiest of New York's superb defensemen, drilled a 45-footer past Moog after a 3:17 Bryan Trottier to make it 3-1.

Trottier, plus Duane Sutter's goal on a rebound with 3:17 remaining and brother Brent's power-play goal in the final minute, gave the Islanders their eighth consecutive victory in Stanley Cup final play. Overall, the 11-year-old Islanders are 15-3 in the finals.

Track records fall at state meet

AUSTIN (AP) — Roy Martin ran a blistering anchor leg Saturday to give Dallas Roosevelt a state record in the 1,600-meter relay and the Texas class 5A schoolboy track title.

Roosevelt trailed throughout the relay, the University Interscholastic League meet's final event, until Martin cruised into the lead with 50 meters to go. The 20 points for the relay win gave Roosevelt a 50-48 edge over second place Texarkana in the team competition.

Greenwood's Stuart Bureson finished second in the Class A high jump, going 6-8 and fourth in the high hurdles in 14.9. Stanton's Timmy Bryant did not place in the Class AA pole vault.

Martin's anchor leg gave Roosevelt a state record of 3:09.5, easily eclipsing the 3:11.1 set by Dallas Lincoln in 1970. Houston Forest Brook was second in the relay in 3:09.9. Texarkana was third in 3:11.2.

Also Saturday, Woodsboro defended its 2A state team title, and Bremond took an easy win in the A team event.

Woodsboro piled up 52 points, six better than Hawkins' two-man team of Edwin Simmons and Rodney Terry collected. Simmons, a 6-4, 228-pound University of Texas football recruit, won the 200 in 21.5. Terry set conference records in the high jump (6-10) and long jump (24-5½).

Simmons took seconds in the long jump and 100. In the 100 he was edged by longtime rival Ronald Morris of Cooper, who set a conference record of 10.3.

Simmons' runner-up time was 10.4, equalling the old conference record set here last year by Morris.

SAND SHOT — Bobby Wadkins blasts out of a sand trap Saturday on his way to tie for the lead with four other golfers in the Colonial Invitational National Tournament in Fort Worth. Action resumes today.

Wadkins falters but still on top

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Bobby Wadkins found some small consolation in the no-birdie, 4-over-par 74 he contrived in difficult conditions Saturday.

"It's one of the few times you can shoot a 74 and still be tied for the lead," Wadkins said Saturday after the long day's play in the third round of the $400,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

The round lasted almost six hours, including a lengthy delay while lightning flashed and heavy rain drenched the Colonial Country Club course.

"I'm just glad to be finished. It was a long, tough day," Wadkins said of the conditions that ranged from heat to cold, from dead calm to gusty wind, from dry to wet. As an illustration of the difference in the playing conditions, Wadkins said he hit a 7-iron on the par 3 16th Friday, and was short of the green with a 2-iron on Saturday.

Wadkins, younger brother of Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner this season, was the leader alone entering the day's play. Even with a 4-over-par effort, he managed to retain a share of the top spot at 206, four strokes under par.

Going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize, he was tied for the lead with Jim Colbert, former Colonial winner Fuzzy Zoeller, Mike Reid and Peter Jacobsen.

Jacobsen closed up with a 67 in the fickle, shifting, changing conditions. Zoeller, winner of the Heritage Classic earlier this season, shot 68. Reid matched par 70 on the course that was dubbed "Hogan's Alley" after the legendary Ben Hogan won this old event for the fifth time.

Play was held up for 1 hour and 12 minutes by lightning and heavy rains, which preceded a cold front that dropped the temperature from 80 degrees to 59 in a matter of minutes.

Stern workers protest

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Reporters for Stern magazine continued a sit-in protest Saturday at the publication's editorial offices against two editors replacing two others who quit over the Hitler diary hoax, a spokesman for the group said Saturday.
 Several reporters spent Friday night in the offices and were relieved by a new shift Saturday, said the spokesman, reporter Rainer Fabian. He said the protest was not a strike and that Stern staffers continued working.
 The Stern reporters voted on Friday to occupy the magazine's offices until Sunday afternoon, but Stern publisher Henri Nannen said the magazine would not give in to pressure. "We are all grownups," he said.

TAKING TO THE SKIES — Roy Scheider outruns and outguns a police SWAT team while piloting a super-copter in Blue Thunder, now showing at the Ritz Twin in Big Spring.

Copter clash

Excitement hovers over Blue Thunder action
 Blue Thunder, starring Roy Scheider and Malcom McDowell, is rated R and playing this week at the Ritz Twin downtown.
 Don't ask any questions — how, why, what, those kind. Just take your seat, fasten your seatbelts, extinguish your cigarette and prepare for Blue Thunder.
 The summer adventure-thriller movie season has arrived and Columbia Pictures makes sure the first release is a dandy. The basic ingredients are here: the cool-headed hero, high — I chose the word carefully — adventure, humor and a smidgen of humor. We're not talking Raiders of the Lost Ark, mind you, but Thunder makes two hours pass very quickly, very enjoyably.

Rated R mostly for police pilot's language, Blue Thunder will be one of the better escape movies of the summer of '83. Just remember to hang onto your popcorn. — GREG JAKLEWICZ

Palace sneak pleads guilty
 LONDON (AP) — Michael Faan, the intruder who crept into Queen Elizabeth II's Buckingham Palace bedroom last summer, pleaded guilty Saturday to assaulting three policemen and was ordered held until June 3 for medical tests.
 Susan Delal, attorney for the 32-year-old unemployed painter, told Highgate Corner Magistrates Court of north London that Faan had been drinking when he assaulted the policemen Friday night.
 She said he felt lonely and under pressure following the break-up of his marriage and publicity over the palace intrusion.
 "Mr. Faan asserts that he over-reacted," Miss Delal said. "He said he had been drinking and that he would not have acted in such a manner if he had not been."
 Faan hit constable Richard Passfield on the head after being arrested early Friday evening following a fight at a newspaper shop, police said. After being taken to a police station, he butted constable Neil Abercrombie with his head.
 Later in the evening, police said, Faan was released on bail but went to a Turkish restaurant with his sister, he got into another fight and punched plainclothes policeman Gary O'Brien in the face, cutting his lip.
 Faan, who had a bruised eye and a cut nose, was released last January after three months in a top security mental institution.
 Last July 9, he sat on the queen's bed chatting for 10 minutes while blood from his hand, cut on a royal ashtray, dripped on her bedcovers.

like aircraft that can outwit even a pair of F-16s on its own battleground.
 Trying to explain the plot is no easy task because things aren't explained well in the movie. Not that it's that important in this type of film, but here goes...
 Murphy is invited to test the Thunder and is told the craft would come in handy should terrorists show up at the 1984 Olympics.
 It doesn't take long for Murphy to figure out there's more to it than having the chopper practice its attacks on cardboard dummies in the desert.
 Using the craft's thermavision and sensitive listening devices, he and his partner hover-in on a meeting one night. What they find out is the government is responsible for the death of an LA city councilwoman who discovered that, to test its effectiveness, disturbances are being arranged in the Los Angeles barrio districts.
 Believe that or not; it's not that important. What makes this movie is the aerial acrobatics of the Thunder of Los Angeles.
 Murphy steals the Thunder and while he zips around over the city, his girlfriend takes a tape of the conversation to a local television station. The government officials don't like that idea too much and try everything to get Murphy out of the sky.

 Two police copters bite the dust trying to outbait the Thunder. The Air Force sends up two F-16s but Murphy's outsmarts their heat-seeking missiles. Finally it comes down to a one-on-one battle with another Thunder pilot, F.E. Cochran (Malcom McDowell).

The two whisk around LA's skyscrapers, settling an old score dating back from the Vietnam war. John Alanzo's footage of the sky war is superb.
 Blue Thunder's excitement from frame one. The audience awaits the chance to see Murphy do a loop, a stunt supposedly impossible for a helicopter. Scheider isn't called upon to do any great acting but his character is easy to cheer, following the mold of his sheriff in Jaws.
 There's humor along the way. Playing with the Thunder's advanced equipment, the two heroes eavesdrop on several intimate scenes. In one, they listen to a hooker proposition a potential customer — 1,000 feet in the air.

Big Springers are ready for Pro-Am

Why are so many people getting involved in the tournament?

The question was put to some sponsors and directors of the tournament this week. Among them were Eddie Acri, a $100 sponsor, Sam Hunnicutt, of American Petrofina Pipeline and Cosden, a $5,000 sponsor, and Don and Jannan Cook. Don Cook is chairman of the tournament's committee and board of directors.

Acri, a golfer for about 25 years, learned the game from Jerry Scott, formerly of Big Spring and one of Lamar Tech's NCAA championship golfers.

Following his college days, Jerry worked for Acri in the loan business. One day he asked Acri to play golf with him and Acri said, "I'm not going to go out and play that cow pasture pool." But Acri went and enjoyed the game so much that he bought his own set of clubs the next day.

Acri plays golf every afternoon. He looks forward to participating in the tournament and especially to "the companionship with different people, acquaintances and seeing old friends I haven't played with in years."

"It's nice to meet people in the limelight, too," he said. "For our town, it's a new experience. We don't have celebrities come in very often."

Acri decided to be a tournament sponsor because of his enjoyment in golfing and his belief that the proceeds are going to a worthy cause.

"It's (the Shriners) a good organization," he said. "I hear about so many people who have children that were burned and were down there and got the best of care. And they never got a bill."

"It is very heart warming to know we have an organization like the Shriners. Their burn center in Galveston offers so much to people who need help when a tragedy happens," he said. "Many lives have been saved because of this organization with its caring members. In most cases, they ask very little in return. People don't mind helping an organization that really does something good."

"This is going to be a nice tournament," he said.

Acri plays in many area tournaments that have occurred throughout the years. And if the Signal Peak tournament continues to be held, "I think I will participate every year as long as they have it."

Eddie's wife, Mary, also is a golfer. Since women are not participating in the tournament, she will go to the festivities with her husband and ride with him in his golf cart.

Although the tournament's clubhouse hospitality director, Sam Hunnicutt, doesn't play golf, he did get involved. "I was asked by the Chamber (to get involved), and it (the tournament) is a very worthwhile cause," he said.

Hunnicutt was instrumental in getting Cosden Oil and Chemical to contributing $5,000 to the tournament. "I discussed it with my management, made them aware of the worthy cause and the need for it and they approved it."

Hunnicutt will greet people at the country club and make sure that they are having a good time during the tournament. He is looking forward to seeing the crowd of people and visiting with them.

As far as the future of the tournament, "I think (the tournament) will get bigger and better," Hunnicutt said. "And with all the work in it this year, it will be a good tournament. It is something that will grow year to year and will be an annual affair for a long time to come. I'd like to work with it in the future, time permitting."

Some of the Cosden and American Petrofina personnel planning to participate in the tournament are Paul Meek, president of American Petrofina, Jacky Thomas of Cosden, Ron Medley and Ray Mize.

Don Cook, Bill Forshee and a few other people were at the Brass Nail one night about a year ago. They were brainstorming some ideas of something big the Chamber of Commerce's Ambassadors could sponsor that would be a community-type activity which would benefit Excitement thickens as the First Annual Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament and Parade quickly approaches.

Several celebrities and many area golfers will enjoy the sun, game, fellowship, excitement and the rewarding feeling of supporting a good cause, the Shriners Hospitals, during this tournament of tournaments in the Big Spring Area.

For those unsure of what to wear to the parade, for watching in the gallery, for golfing or for attending the VIP parties and dinner, Joyce Wash, head of tournament hostesses, suggests nice looking, yet casual attire that would be worn to any special sporting event.

The classic golfing wardrobe of cotton-blend knit sport shirt and matching casual slacks are a must for the fashionable golfer who is concerned about feeling comfortable while competing in the tournament.

For those in the gallery, cool, comfortable and attractive casual clothes will keep them comfortable enough to enjoy the game in the late spring heat.

Be sure you don't forget the sunscreening lotion. The sun's rays will be strong while the competition is on. Hats also are important for keeping the sun's rays out of the eyes and off the head.

For those attending the VIP parties and dinner in the evenings, summertime dresses and suits are fine choices.

READY FOR THE EVENING — Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hall are stepping out for the evening parties and dinner planned for tournament sponsors. Mrs. Hall is wearing a beaded sun dress with sweater jacket. To accessorize her ensemble she adds a beaded rope necklace, high-heeled sandals, earrings, bracelet and a clutch purse. Hall is decked out in a lightweight suit with a matching tie.

Shriners Hospitals heal little people

Known as the world's greatest philanthropy, the 21 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children and Burn Centers will benefit from the First Annual Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament. The tournament will be held at Big Spring Country Club Wednesday through Friday.

Shriners Hospitals have served children in North America since 1922. The network of hospitals includes 18 Orthopedic units and 3 burn centers scattered throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The hospitals provide medical care to children afflicted with congenital deformities, orthopedic injuries and/or diseases of the bones, joints and muscles, or severe burn injuries to children up to 18 years old.

The hospitals are engaged in teaching and research programs to expand the hospital's benefits. No charge is required for medical services offered to all children regardless of race, creed or religion. The hospitals are supported totally by contributions from Shriners and others interested in improving the quality of life for crippled and burned children.

Shriners Hospitals, owned and operated by the Shrine of North America, offer a total care approach to the treatment of their patients. Their philosophy is "that while medicine might heal the body, tending to the child's mind and spirit are vital to achieving optimal results." Each child can find support in meeting his or her needs from the hospitals' staff, facilities, environment and close companionship of other patients.

THE HOSPITALS ACCEPT children suffering from orthopedic problems who show a reasonable possibility that they would benefit from the treatment and that treatment at another facility would place an undue financial burden on the patient's family.

When the hospitals were established, they were among the first specialized orthopedic hospitals in North America. Their efforts in the field established them as authoritative figures in the medical world.

Many orthopedic surgeons were trained at a Shrine Hospital. As medicine advanced and infections and polio were eliminated, the hospitals found themselves treating the more complicated, specialized cases that could not be adequately treated by local hospital facilities.

The Shriners entered into two new fields in the 1960s. They began a research program and entered into the almost unexplored field of severe burn treatment. They established the three burn institutes during this time.

Researchers today conduct studies into causes of crippling and scarring. They work with other medical schools to explore the frontiers of burn and orthopedic medicine to provide the best treatment. They also try to find ways to prevent afflictions that keep youths from leading full lives. Since the burn centers' inception, the centers have advanced burn medicine more than 100 percent.

Orthopedic research began in the 1960s and has grown from an annual commitment of thousands of dollars to one involving millions of dollars. According to Verlin Knous, a local Shiner involved in the golf tournament, the hospitals' budget for 1983 is in excess of $97 million.

TEXAS IS A HOME for two Shriners Hospitals. The Houston Unit is an orthopedic hospital located at 1402 Outer Belt Dr., Houston, Texas 77030. The Galveston Unit, a burn center, is located at 610 Texas Ave., Galveston, Texas 77550.

The hospital network is growing. Another hospital, located in Tampa, Fla., will be completed in 1984.

The only way to meet the Shriners Hospitals' needs are through donations to the hospitals' endowment fund. Less than 2 percent of all monies contributed to the hospitals is used for administrative costs. More than 98 percent of the contributions is used for patient care.

Each year through the Shriners Hospitals, assessments and fund raising events, Shriners demonstrate their support for the philanthropy. They believe that "no man ever stands so straight as when he stoops to help a crippled or burned child."

Tax-deductible contributions may be made to the Shriners Hospitals For Crippled Children Endowment Fund through cash gifts, real estate, trusts, life insurance benefits, securities and through provisions in wills. Contact the Office of the General Counsel, Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, 2900 Rocky Point Dr., Tampa, Fla., 33607. Or call (813) 885-2575 for specific information as to how you can share in the care of crippled and burned children.

Being a Shriner is 'way of life' for Verlin Knous

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

To Verlin Knous, being a Shriner is a way of life. He has been a Mason for 27 years and a Shriner for 16 years. A friend says, Verlin's spare time is consumed with his dedicated involvement in Masonry and Shrine.

Verlin and his Shriner buddies will assist the professional golfers at the upcoming Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament to be held this week. The tournament will benefit the Shriners Hospitals for crippled and burned children. Shriners' wives will operate concession booths at the tournament.

What is a Shriner?
"Shriners are Master Masons who have attained the 32nd degree in Masonry either through the York Rite or Scottish Rite bodies, which are advanced degrees in Masonry," Verlin said. "A person has to go through these degrees before he can become a Shriner."

Attaining the degrees can be done in any amount of time. "It is mostly ritualistic work," Verlin said. To become a candidate for Shriners, a Mason learns the lessons of the Masonic secret work in each degree up to the 3rd degree where he becomes a Master Mason. Then the Master Mason goes to the York or Scottish Rite and attains the following degrees up to the 32nd degree where he becomes a Shriner.

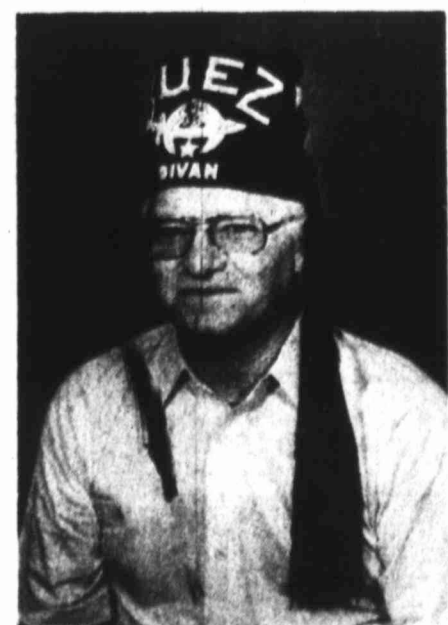

SHRINERS IS A MEN'S fraternity of Master Masons who own and support the 21 Shriners Hospitals. "All of our work is involved in keeping up our 18 crippled children's orthopedic hospitals and three burn centers," he said. "We are fortunate to have two of those located in Texas. We have a Crippled Children's Hospital in Houston and a Burn Center in Galveston."

Funds to support the hospitals are obtained mostly through donations. Some money is raised by aluminum cans donations and by the $100 million club where people can contribute $100 to the hospital's endowment fund. "A lot of money is raised through wills from members or anyone who wants to contribute," Verlin said. "Each club has a circus each year where part of the fund goes to the hospitals."

"Of all money contributed, 98 percent goes to treatment of patients and less than 2 percent goes to administration," he said. "We are a group of Shrine Masons having a good time and working socially to keep our hospitals going."

Any child up to 18 years old suffering from orthopedic or burn problems can receive help from the hospitals at no cost to the parent or child. Hospitalization is financed strictly by the Shrine.

something. They had no idea of the tournament at the time, nor how feasible the ideas would be or what responsibilities would be entailed.

The idea of a pro-am golf tournament came up and they believed it would be the answer. "We came up with a board of directors to guide (us) through and get organized," Cook said.

Of the original group that got together at the Brass Nail, Cook was the only golfer. He was selected as chairman of the tournament's committee, and he had much input in guiding the initial idea into reality. Since that time, more golfers joined the committee.

After learning about the Shriners' work and dedication to crippled and burned children with their hospitals, the committee decided the tournament's proceeds will be donated to the Shriners Hospitals and Burn Centers.

Cook wanted to be involved in a project such as this because he wanted to do what he could to help the community. He believes the tournament will be good for Big Spring, its economy and the Shriners. "Plus I like to play golf," he said.

"There's been a whole lot of city-wide backing" for the tournament, said Jannan Cook, Cook's wife.

"The first year is the hardest one," she said. She doesn't expect the planning to be as difficult for the following annual tournaments. "So far we've had good response." The committee hopes to get things rolling better next year and have more stars, she said, adding that she was surprised at so much response this year.

"If you have any kind of dealing with the Shrine Hospitals, you're treated like somebody special," she said. "I'm real impressed with the local group and what they do."

Quality counts when buying clothes

NEW YORK (AP) — Education is the key for consumers who want to be sure of obtaining quality in clothing, whether they buy designer labels or lower-priced goods, says a designer and manufacturer of men's and boys' apparel.

"Quality does exist, regardless of price," says Calvin Haddad, of Calvin Charles Apparel, who advocates careful inspection of potential purchases keeping these suggestions in mind:

— Quality: The consumer must understand that there are very high quality, well made, durable garments — in contemporary styles — at astonishingly low prices. They must know that higher prices do not necessarily imply highest quality. Without this sense of reality, even a solid knowledge of what constitutes a well-made garment will be insufficient.

— Fabric: Feels good to touch, exudes color, isn't flimsy or rough and scratchy? Then it's probably a quality fabric.

— Color: Many garments today are piece-dyed, meaning the color is put into the woven cloth, rather than the yarn. With flannel shirts, piece-dyeing has a more "manufactured," less natural look. Reverse the fabric. If the plaid or design isn't visible, then it's piece-dyed.

— Stitching: Seams are flimsier today than a decade ago because half the number of stitches per inch are used, to save on thread and manpower. Give the stitching a tug. Does it threaten to tear apart or gape? Then it's no good.

— Inside: Seams should also have an outer, finished "safety" stitch to prevent unraveling and ripping. An open, pressed and finished inner seam is preferable to a bulky single seam that has been treated to a safety stitch. Tipped or covered open and pressed seams sometimes found in men's better slacks, are an important mark of quality.

— Pockets: Corners shouldn't rip at first tug. The backtacking, or extra seam on the pocket corners, should be secure or it has been improperly sewn. Pockets lined with sateen or firm cotton are preferable to those with tricot or gauze innards that easily rip and lose shape. Unlined pockets are appropriate for jeans, not dress pants.

— Zippers: Zippers should be hidden by an extra overlay of material. If not, corners were cut in the manufacturing process.

— Hems: The seams should not show through to the front of the garment and should always be finished to prevent unraveling.

— Waistbands: If the waistband or cuff and the body of the garment look different, the fabric has been poorly cut on different biases or slants. Hidden elastic waistbands are classier than those that show; in dress pants, a "second sleeve" or inner lining on the waistband is essential to keep the shape of the garment.

— Collars: A collar should be malleable, not stiff. Removable collar stays cost more to manufacture, but are more versatile. The back of the collar should also have an extra piece of cloth that serves as a lining and is a mark of a shirt's durability.

Piano students audition

Fifteen piano students of Mrs. Emilee Beckham have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

The pianists auditioned Friday before Edwin Key, judge, to receive district, state and national honors.

The piano students auditioning were: Mark Sprinkle, Tammy Harmon, Nate Sprinkle, John Webb, Kathy Johnson, Christy Webb, Ricky Grimsley, Cary Lewis, Kim Alexander, Scott Farris, Mandi Walling, Christy Alexander, David Sprinkle, Holli Brownfield and Lydia Sprinkle.

This can be of benefit to people who can't get into other hospitals due to financial reasons," Verlin said. The hospital budget for 1983 is in excess of $97 million for all hospitals. A new hospital will be completed in Tampa, Fla., in 1984.

"It's one of the greatest feelings to me to be able to help the crippled and burned children," Verlin said about being a Shriner. "And we (his family) enjoy the fellowship with other Shriners and their ladies. To me it is just a way of life — we are just involved in it." Verlin holds the office of high priest and prophet of Suez Temple for the year.

LAST SUNDAY, several local citizens found some Shriners wheeling around in miniature antique cars on the Furr's Cafeteria parking lot. They were practicing routines they use in parades and competitions for the upcoming Signal Peak Shriners' Pro Am Golf Tournament Parade and their State Competition at El Paso in June. They also will compete in July at Denver, Colo.

The competitions attract 4,000 to 6,000 people. Not only do Shriners perform in miniature cars and motorcycle units, but also in horse patrols, clown units, oriental bands, walking patrols and honor guards. The purpose of the parade performances is to attract people's attention to Shriners and what the Shriners are doing to help crippled and burned children.

Passersby can find the units practicing at 3 p.m. Sundays at the Industrial Park and Highland Mall parking lot near Furr's Cafeteria.

'Best dressed' windows back in style today

Not too long ago, the undressed window was the height of fashion. But the popularity of homey, informal rooms and the desire to conserve energy have made the well-dressed window a better bet recently.

Multiple materials at the window, layered to provide the ultimate in energy savings and decorative currency, have been turning up more often in decorating publications and in the work of leading designers. A trade publication confirmed the current trend by noting recently that a wider selection of window treatment products is now available in the stores.

Reflecting an increased concern with energy savings, sales of miniblinds and vertical blinds, shutters, shades, woven woods and curtains and draperies with energy-efficient linings and backings are showing the greatest sales increases.

The publication found, for example, that about 44 percent of department stores now specifically promote energy-efficient window treatments. Many more stores carry lined draperies and other products which help conserve energy.

Borrowing from the apparel industry which has used separates and the layered look for years to keep people comfortable in many climatic situations, interior designers have begun using layered treatments at the window.

This trend was evident in a recent display of window treatments created by six interior design firms for Hunter Douglas Window Products, a window blind manufacturer. Robert S. Hart, a New street.

Miss Rodeo Texas, Teen competitions planned

As part of the 50th annual Big Spring Rodeo, a sanctioned preliminary local Miss Rodeo Texas and Miss Rodeo Texas Teen winner will be chosen. These two young women will reign over the rodeo June 22-25 as Miss Rodeo Big Spring and Miss Rodeo Teen Big Spring and then go on to compete in the state competition. The state winners will compete in the national competition. The Rodeo Association is looking for well-qualified contestants who will represent the Big Spring Rodeo Association at the state pageant. The winner of the state pageant helps to promote the sport of rodeo by traveling to all the Texas PRCA rodeos and also to the local preliminary Miss Rodeo Texas and Miss Rodeo Texas Teen contests.

Contestants can expect to appear before groups, on television, and at rodeos and therefore, appearance, personality and horsemanship are equally important. Contestants need to be able to wear western clothes with a flair and look comfortable in them, to be able to ride a horse and feel at home in the saddle, and to be able to display a genuine knowledge of rodeoing, sportsmanship and horses.

In the past seven years, Texas winners have won the national title of Miss Rodeo America two times. In the past 12 years Texas contestants have always finished in the top ten. Miss Rodeo America winners travel all over the world, receive many job opportunities with large salaries, and other fringe benefits.

The state Miss Rodeo Texas and Miss Rodeo

Texas Teen will travel to well over 80 rodeos and make many other public appearances with all expenses paid. Again, many fringe benefits and gifts come with this honor as well as all expenses paid to the national contest.

The rules to enter are as follows: Contact one of the following people for entry forms and a complete information packet:

• Johnnie Lou Avery, general chairman, 915-263-1451, 210 Permian Building, Box 2271, Big Spring, Texas, 79721-2271.

• Gail Earls, pageant coordinator, 915-267-6671, County Extension Office, Courthouse, Big Spring, Texas, 79720.

Legal age for the Miss Rodeo Big Spring contestant is 18-24. May be 17 now, but must be 18 by March 1, 1984. Must not be over 24 by September 1, 1984. Legal age for Miss Rodeo Big Spring Teen is 13-17. Contestants must be a legal resident of Texas, not married, ever been married, nor ever bore a child.

An entry fee of $100 must accompany the entry blank, along with a good quality picture. Deadline for entries will be June 1, 1983. It is best to enter as soon as possible and not wait until the week of the deadline, otherwise news coverage for entrant and sponsor will be scarce. The sooner the entries are in the better. All contestants must have a sponsor who will pay the entry fee. The sponsor can be a business, an organization, a friend, relative or any type entity. Contestants will be judged on appearance, personality and horsemanship. Fitted western shirt with blue denim jeans are worn for horsemanship competition. A jacket may be worn to the arena but must be removed for riding. No chaps are permitted. Contestants must furnish their own horses.

Contestants may come from any area of Texas that does not have a local Miss Rodeo Texas or Miss Rodeo Texas Teen pageant.

Each night of the rodeo, all contestants will ride in the grand entry and be introduced individually. The winner and runners-up will be named at the rodeo performance on Friday night, June 24. Judging will be done Monday through Wednesday, June 20-22.

The following winners will be chosen in both the Miss Rodeo Big Spring and Miss Rodeo Teen Big Spring:

Miss Rodeo Big Spring, first runner up, second runner up, Miss Personality, Miss Appearance and Miss Horsemanship; and Miss Rodeo Teen Big Spring, first runner up, second runner up, Miss Personality, Miss Appearance and Miss Horsemanship.

Awards and prizes, rules and regulations will be detailed upon entrance. The major benefit is entry fees and sponsorship into the state level competition. In addition, there will be scholarships, clothes and other types of prizes.

Out of town judges from the Miss Rodeo Texas organization will judge in three categories: appearance and poise in modeling western attire; personality and knowledge of rodeoing in interviews; and horsemanship.

Rape prevention discussed at Elbow Extension meeting

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Jeanette Fauer recently and heard a program on "Rape Prevention." Shelton Ashley presented the program and said "70 percent of violent crimes are drug or alcohol related - rape is a violent crime." Rape victims range in age from 6 months to 97 years old. In Big Spring, rape victims range in ages 18 months to 90 years. At least one half of all rapes occur in an area near the victim's resident. Most rapists are between 15 and 22. The best defense is prevention.

Zula Rhodes was nominated as Texas Extension Homemakers Association Chairman for Howard County. Myrl Soles was named delegate to the Texas Extension Homemakers Association State Convention in Lubbock in September.

The next meeting will be May 19 in the home of Joyce Soles. Jeanette Fauer will present a program on tornado safety measures and Myrl Soles will talk about "A Personal Look at Nutrition."

Guests at the meeting included Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Ashley, and Mrs. Jean Williams.

Dear Abby

Poky widows aren't up to his speed

DEAR ABBY: The lonely widow — is she a myth? The older women I know seem to think sex is messy, disagreeable and very tiring. Their indoor sports consist of cards, bingo and bragging about their grandchildren.

Outdoor sports? They have none. I have yet to see one walk 20 steps from her automobile.

Twenty years ago, as a happily married employee of a large retirement facility, I used to feel sorry for the many "brokenhearted widows." Now I'm beginning to wonder if perhaps they don't prefer it that way. As a 70-year-old widower, I have made several "moves," only to find myself facing a wall of indifference. Here is a sample of the responses I've had when I've called to invite a lady out:

1. "Sorry, I'm leaving for St. Paul to see my grandchildren and won't be back for a while."
2. "I have to work in the church kitchen all afternoon, and by evening I'll be exhausted."
3. "I can't go to the dance with you — I broke my leg yesterday." (I never did check that one out.)

I would enjoy going to a good restaurant, sitting across the table from a pleasant, good-humored lady and discussing all manner of things.

Compare products before buying

Considering a major purchase — that costs a significant amount of money? It's wise to search for information about the product before buying.

Gathering information about a product can be rewarding for several reasons.

You can increase your purchasing power by making the best buy for your wants and needs (not always the most expensive).

You can make an intelligent decision and be pleased with the consequences.

There is a social payoff. Not only will your purchasing power be increased by also your intelligent search for information may have a disciplinary effect on sellers, inducing them to offer better products on better terms to all buyers.

For objective information concerning features, operating procedures, use and care, look at Extension Service FACT Sheets on various products. Brand names and prices will not be included, but the sheets will give general guidelines explaining how the products work.

For price comparison, brand names, and ratings, consult "Consumer Reports," "Consumer's" Research Magazine, and specialized publications such as "Popular Photography."

To determine if a product will do what you want — and whether you can care for it, read the use-and-care booklets available and labels attached.

If objective information is not available, answer these questions:

I would like friendly company at a lively square dance, for a bicycle ride or for a walk in the park. Am I expecting too much? Or is it me?

LONESOME IN A SMALL TOWN

DEAR LONESOME: The first thing you mentioned was how these ladies feel about sex, which leads me to believe that for openers you come on too strong in that department. Think about it. That could be your problem.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago I read in your column that there were tours for non-smokers.

At the time my husband and I were not interested because we smoked. Since then, he has quit (doctor's orders) and so did I, so he wouldn't be tempted to start smoking again.

Now we're interested in taking a tour this summer with other non-smokers. Where do we write for information?

Alyson Couch receives high award

MRS. DELLA NOBLES returned today from a trip she was excited about taking. She went to see her daughter and son-in-law, BETTY AND SEWELL COUCH, Kansas City, Mo., and formerly of Big Spring. While visiting with them she attended a breakfast in the home of the Chancellor of the University of Missouri where her granddaughter, ALYSON COUCH, will receive the Vice Chancellor's Award.

The award is given to 20 seniors for academic, campus involvement and student association honors. It is the highest award given in the university.

Yesterday, Mrs. Nobles watched her granddaughter graduate from the university with a three-year scholarship to Southern Methodist University Law School.

KENNY BEARDEN, KRYSHA BEARDEN, FLOYD AND GAIL EARLS accompanied their wife, mother and daughter KAREN BEARDEN to the Texas State Women's Bowling Tournament in San Angelo recently. Gail, Karen's mother, said Karen did well in the tournament; however, they do not know how she placed in the tournament yet.

DIANA MCBRIDE, Lubbock and formerly of Colorado City, was honored recently for her "outstanding sales leadership" with the Avon Company at the Excelsior Hotel in Rome. She was among 260 U.S. district sales managers named to the company's prestigious Circle of Excellence for record-breaking sales in 1982. She was in Rome for a six-day conference and the Circle's 14th annual banquet.

Diana grew up in Colorado City and graduated from Colorado High School. She is the daughter of BULA

MAE WALKER and JESSE L. BASSINGER, both of Lubbock. She is the granddaughter of MR. AND MRS. W.R. MIZE and MRS. G.V. BASSINGER, both of Colorado City.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY DIRKS visited their son and daughter-in-law, HENRY AND BRENDA DIRKS, and granddaughter MICHELLE in Dallas during Mother's Day Weekend. Michelle was two years old Tuesday. The Dirks also visited with their daughter and son-in-law, EDDY AND MARY QUILLIN, and their grandchildren JOHN, CRYSTAL and MELISSA.

EDNA AND RED WOMACK, JACK AND JEAN COOK, HARROLL AND JANE JONES AND GUIL AND SANDY JONES recently flew to Hilton Head Island, Ga., the home of the Masters Golf Tournament, for an eight-day vacation. They rented a home where the men did all the cooking between golfing and sightseeing. One day while they were there, they were guests on the PAUL MORGAN'S yacht. Paul is the brother of our local KENT MORGAN.

Okra deserves place in every Texas garden

Okra is a vegetable well-adapted to our Southern climate, and deserves a place in every Texas garden. Here is the best way to grow it.

Okra needs warm soil and warm nights at planting time and warm weather to produce pods. Don't plant it too early, for it won't do well in cool weather.

How much okra you plant depends on how you intend to use it. A good rule of thumb is to plant 4 to 6 feet of row per person for fresh use only. If you want enough to can or freeze, plant about 6 to 10 feet of row per person. And since okra can grow up to 14 or 16 feet tall by summer's end, you may want to plant a dwarf variety if your garden space is limited.

Okra isn't particularly finicky about soils, but it does need a sunny, well-drained plot that has been adequately fertilized. Apply 2 to 3 pounds of fertilizer such as 10-10-10 per 100 square feet of garden space.

Later, after the first harvest, you can add one cup of fertilizer per 100 feet of row. Mix it well with the soil between the rows and then water.

Although it isn't absolutely necessary, you can hasten germination of seeds by soaking them overnight. Sow the seeds about one inch deep and two inches apart. When the plants are 3 or 4 inches tall, thin them to stand about 12 inches apart in the row.

Adequate water at regular intervals of one week to 10 days will help keep okra producing well. Avoid over-watering, which encourages plant growth rather than pod production.

Depending on the variety, okra begins producing pods about 50 to 65 days after planting. The plants usually bear through the summer and well into fall.

The pods are produced on the central stalk and side branches. It can be a real battle dealing with the towering stalks, but don't cut the entire plant back in hopes of solving the height problem. It may never produce pods again the rest of the season.

Okra pods are best harvested when young and tender, usually ranging in length from 2 to 6 inches. Generally, okra reaches harvesting size about 4 days after blossoming. You can almost see the pods growing old, so be sure to pick them every other day. If the pods are not removed, the stalks will soon stop producing.

You can use your plentiful harvest of okra in gumbo, or fry the pods for a delicious Southern treat.

African violet growing tips offered

Tips on growing African violets were given during the Texas Star African Violet club meeting recently.

Shirley White gave the program and said "don't keep plants in direct sunlight. Diffused light from the east or north is best. Insufficient light means few flowers.

African violets aren't fussy about light and are 'neutral day-length plants.' They don't require a specific number of hours of light or darkness in order to bloom.

When watering, water should be room temperature. Always water from the bottom, setting the pot in a saucer. Do not get water on the foliage.

Good drainage is important. Don't allow the soil to become soggy. Check pot occasionally to see that the drainage hole isn't plugged and the soil is not too moist.

Watch plants for indications of insect attack. If you detect mealy bugs — small cottony white spots — touch them with a small swab dipped in alcohol. Most other insects can be controlled by dusting with a complete insecticide. These plants require constant care.

Mrs. White also gave tips for controlling insects with "old remedies." She suggested trying a milk shower by spraying one part skimmed milk and nine parts water on a plant. This is particularly good for tomatoes.

Hot pepper and garlic, crushed, steeped and mixed with water, will rid house and outdoor plants of pests. A good warm bath will help many plants. Use soap and water to keep plants clean and to use against soft-bodied pests, such as aphids.

Smokers need to use plenty of soap and wash hands before touching plants. Many plants are susceptible to tobacco mosaic virus.

For spider mites, try ½ buttermilk and 4 cups wheat flour, preferably flour ground from untreated wheat — mix well and add to five gallons of water. This will destroy a high percentage of mites and mite eggs.

In other business, a cleanup campaign staged by students from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf was reported on. Members of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs will plant flowers in the planters downtown.

Malone-Hogan names employee of month

Lupe Gonzales, courier in the nursing department at Malone-Hogan Hospital, has been named the hospital's outstanding employee for May.

Administrator John Bingham made the announcement.

Mrs. Gonzales started working at Malone-Hogan in November, 1981, as courier. Before moving to Houston in 1980, she was a supervisor on the El Paso unit at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Bingham commended Mrs. Gonzales for her exemplary performance on the job.

Some hospital positions, such as courier, do not have direct patient contact, he said. Employees in these positions must be able to see the importance of their job, apart from that contact.

"Mrs. Gonzales shows deep insight into the nature and importance of her job," Bingham said. "Any hospital administrator likes to have employees see their job as the most important job in the hospital. I believe that anybody worth their salt believes that. Mrs. Gonzales obviously sees her job that way."

Couriers, however, do have occasions to come face to face with patient need, and Mrs. Gonzales remembers one such occasion.

She was walking through the emergency room of the hospital, delivering results of a lab test to nurses there, when 13 members of two families involved in a major auto accident were brought in by people who had found them on the highway.

They were without transportation or a place to stay, and their luggage was still in the wrecked vehicles.

"I heard them talking about what they would do, and realized that they needed a little help. I invited them to stay with me until friends could come for them. Six adults, two teenagers, and two small children stayed in my home for three days," Mrs. Gonzales said.

She is a member of St. Thomas Catholic Church and is assistant treasurer of the Ladies Altar Society.

She was born in Del Rio and has lived in Big Spring since 1941. She and her husband, Carmen Jr., Beatrice DeLeon and Robert.

Etiquette Notes

SHOWERS OF HAPPINESS
Years ago, as legend has it, a young Dutch girl was in love with a poor young man. He was so generous to others that he had never accumulated a fortune of his own. The girl's father disapproved of the match and refused to give her a dowry. Sympathetic villagers decided to help the young couple by giving her a different sort of dowry: each family donated a prized possession, until the bride had accumulated all the household goods she would need for her new home.

This legend describes the first "shower" for a bride. Today, the same thought is still there: helping the bride outfit her new home while sharing the excitement and anticipation of the wedding.

Today, however, many young couples have already established households of their own, and gifts can be less traditional. If you're not sure what the bride needs, you can still give a gift that shows love and thought. Some examples: decorative candles; museum memberships; antique bottles or glass; picnic baskets.

Wedding Pyle-Owen

Deidra Kay Pyle and Henry D. Owen exchanged wedding vows April 16 at the Sherwood Baptist Church, Odessa, with the Rev. Lenard A. Hartley officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Pyle, Odessa. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Owen, 1610 Benton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line gown with Schiffli embroidery, Venice and Wedgewood laces over silk chiffon and silk deluster satin. The gown featured a fitted bodice, wedding ring neckline, full Bishop sleeves, full skirt with an inset of silk satin detailed in front with Venice lace appliques extending the full length of the cathedral-length train. A silk embroidery picture hat with bridal pearls veiling created a blusher and puff and held a fingertip veil.

She carried a bouquet of burgundy and pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and greenery and white streamers.

Stacy Pyle was maid of honor. Mrs. Brian Malone was matron of honor. Gina Phillips and Holly McBrayer were bridesmaids.

MRS. HENRY OWEN
...formerly Deidra Kay Pyle

Eddie Owen Jr. was best man. Groomsmen were Dan Wright, Roger Johnson and Charles Murphy. Danny Shaw, Winston Smith, Ken Brandon and Raymond Stanley were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception.

The bride is a graduate of Permian High School in Odessa and Texas Tech University. She is employed by the Gulf Oil Corp. in Hobbs, N.M.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School. He is employed by Cain Electrical Supply Co. in Hobbs, N.M.

After a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple will reside in Hobbs.

B&PW Club elects officers, mulls Fort Worth meeting

Rose von Hassell was named president of the Business and Professional Women's Club when that group met May 10.

Other officers are Rozelle Dohoney, first vice president; Audrey Wilson, second vice president; Laverne Clawson, corresponding secretary; Marie Afleck, recording secretary; Audie Mae Smith, treasurer; and Mamie Roberts, parliamentarian.

Alpha Morrison reported on the Chamber of Commerce beautification committee and activities of various groups. She gave credit to the Federal Prison camp group and students from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf for their efforts in picking up trash.

The club will enter two decorated cars in the May 18 Shriners parade, it was announced.

Mrs. Roberts announced the state convention of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Fort Worth will be June 9-12. Those attending will be Rose von Hassell, Rozelle Dohoney and Mamie Roberts.

Lea Whitehead was introduced as a guest.

The next meeting will be at Wayne Henry's Restaurant May 24 at 7 p.m.

Weddings

Colvin-Marsh

Brenda Sue Colvin and Samuel Clay Marsh exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon at Hillcrest Baptist Church with Dr. Phillip McClendon, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Colvin, Austin. The bridegroom is the son of Laura Marsh, Loving, N.M.

Robert Parrish, consultant of Deaf Ministries for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, stood next to Dr. McClendon interpreting for the bride and bridegroom. Daniel Campbell, an instructor at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, interpreted for the deaf guests in the congregation. Vesta Bice, "Reach Out to Texas Deaf" Mission Service Corp. volunteer, interpreted the wedding music.

The couple was wed before an altar adorned with two seven-branched candelabra with greenery and the Unity candle.

Kelley Glenn was pianist. Ila McCormick was organist. Vocalists were Randy Anderson and Becky Finley.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white waisted long gown. It featured off the shoulder straps with ruffle lace edging and a lace covered bodice. A lace apron covered the organly skirt, which was edged in lace.

She carried a bouquet of silk white roses and rosebuds with nosegays and an ivy cascade. Matron of honor was Becky Fields, sister of the bride, Austin. Bridesmaids included Dawn Owen and Martha Musick, both of Austin.

Best man was Ronnie King. Groomsmen and ushers included Randy Baker and Glen Carrigan.

Candlelighters were Marta Calderon and Marty Calderon, sisters of the bridegroom, Loving, N.M.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. A three-tiered white cake with three small heart shaped cakes at the bottom, decorated with white lilac flowers, greenery and doves was served. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth with labra for the bride's bouquet as the centerpiece.

A chocolate cake with white icing forming the "I Love You" sign in sign language was served from the bridegroom's table. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over lilac cloth. A brass anchor cross candleholder and brass coffee server set accented the table.

The bride is a graduate of Crockett High School, Austin, and the University of Texas at Austin. She works for the Baptist Student Union at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the New Mexico School for the Deaf, Santa Fe, N.M., and is attending the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Following a wedding trip to the Fort Davis Mountains, the couple will reside in Big Spring.

MRS. SAMUEL CLAY MARSH
...formerly Brenda Sue Colvin

Langford-Perez

In front of the Potter home in McKittrick Canyon in Guadalupe National Park, Lorraine Langford and Felix Perez exchanged wedding vows. Officiating the April 15 ceremony was the Rev. Bob Myers, pastor of Westside Baptist Church in Odessa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Langford, 1605 Sycamore. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Felix Perez, Wasson Rd.

The couple wore matching rainbow shirts and blue jeans. The bride carried a bouquet of wild flowers. The wedding party hiked more than two miles to the ceremony's location.

Cele DeWees of Odessa was matron of honor. Steve DeWees, also of Odessa, was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Malone-Hogan Radiology School. She is employed by Odessa Medical Center Hospital as an X-ray technician.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Respiratory Therapy School in Odessa. He is employed by Odessa Medical Center Hospital as a respiratory therapist.

The couple honeymooned in El Paso and Juarez, Mexico. They are making their home in Odessa.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

Gold Star mother reports on visit to Viet Nam Memorial

The Gold Star Mothers Chapter met Thursday in the home of Mrs. A.W. Moody, 1514 Tuscon. Mrs. Truett Thomas gave a report on her trip to Washington, D.C. and the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. The Memorial is a symbol of the Nation's honor and recognition of the men and women who served in Vietnam. There are 57,939 names on the black granite panels. The Thomas' son, Coy, is listed among the casualties. The chapter will participate in Memorial Day services May 30 at the War Memorial on the east side of the courthouse. Flag Day will be observed June 14.

Anniversary

MR., MRS. LONNIE SMITH
celebrate anniversary

Mr., Mrs. Lonnie Smith

Lonnie R. and Sybil Smith, Knott, will celebrate their 50th anniversary today with a reception held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins of Knott.

The reception will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Hosting the event are Doris Smith, Dora Wilkerson, Donna McCann, Kenneth and Carol Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins.

Smith, originally of DeKalb, Texas, met the former S.H.H. Hilliard in school at Highway in January of 1926. Miss Hilliard was originally from Tishomingo, Okla.

The couple was married May 15, 1933. The Rev. J.A. Bowen, a Baptist minister, officiated at the ceremony, which was held at the Brown home in the Knott Community.

The couple had one child, the late Leonard Earl Smith. They also have three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The Smiths have lived in Knott Community throughout their marriage except for one year in Solodad, Calif. They are members of Knott Church of Christ. Smith is a retired farmer.

The Smiths say marriage "takes a life of hard work and understanding, patience and forgiveness." They enjoy fishing, hunting, traveling and sewing.

Music Study Club names officers for 1983-84 year

The Big Spring Music Study Club met for their annual luncheon recently in the home of Dorene Zilberg.

Assisting as hostesses were Joan Beil, Gaye Cowan, Maureen Haddad and Thelma Carlie.

Using the theme of a musical staff, with the president representing the treble clef and the other officers representing the notes, Jane Thomas installed officers for 1983-84.

Selections from Porgy and Bess were sung by Joe Dawes and Joyce Bradley, accompanied by Joan Beil.

After the program Suncha Christensen, new president, appointed committees for the new club year.

Mr., Mrs. Bryan announce birth

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Bryan, 2911 W. Hwy 80, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Jennifer Nicole.

The infant was born at 1:00 a.m. May 3 in Malone Hogan Hospital. She weighed 7 pounds, 2 1/2 ounces at birth and was 20 inches long.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Hempel, Cleburne, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Bryan, Palmetto, Fla. and Mr. and Mrs. Jerrell Peugh, Rio Vista, Texas.

TONI CHOATE
KATHRYN PERRY

Here at THE ACCENT SHOPPE, we think every bride should know a little something about evaluating china before she goes shopping for it. First, look for translucency: hold up a plate and see how the light comes through. Try for resonance: tap a piece with your fingernail and listen for a clear, echoing ring. Next, lift a china dinner plate and feel how light it is. Examine a few pieces for evenness and balance. They should stand evenly and firmly for careful storage. Now you're ready to look for pattern and color — go for it!

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 267-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Anniversary celebrated by 4-H

The 4-H clubs of Texas are celebrating their Diamond Anniversary this year. 4-H has grown and served the needs of Texas boys and girls for 75 years. More than 187,000 4-H members and almost 22,000 volunteer leaders are active today.

The organization began in 1908 when Tom Marks, an agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, tried to organize an adult corn show to teach farmers near Jacksboro improved ways of growing corn. No one was interested.

Marks said "If I can't teach the old dogs, I'll start with the pups." Thus, Marks organized the Jack County Boy's Corn Club and beginning with 25 boys, he taught them how to grow corn according to new and improved methods.

In 1910, the Boy's Corn Club Rally was held at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas. Corn Club members paraded down Main Street carrying a stalk of corn over their shoulders.

In 1912, Mrs. Edna Trigg was appointed to conduct Home Demonstration work among youth and adults in Milam County. She organized Girl's Tomato Clubs in the area near Cameron. The girls grew one-tenth of an acre of tomatoes and then canned the tomatoes they harvested. This was the beginning of girls 4-H work in Texas.

In 1914, the Smith-Lever Act was passed by Congress, founding the Cooperative Extension Service, the parent organization of the 4-H Cooperative Extension Service was organized as part of the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with state and local governments with the purpose of teaching improved practices in agriculture and home economics and related subjects through an informal out-of-school procedure. This act founded the Texas Agricultural Exension Service, the parent organization of 4-H in Texas.

In 1924 the fourth H was added to the Boy's and Girls Farm Club emblem and the 4-H club was born. The emblem was adopted and received "trademark" status.

In 1968 the Texas 4-H program broadened its emphasis to reach urban boys and girls. In 1975 the Texas 4-H Center became a reality. Thousands of young people have participated in hundreds of training meetings, camps, and leadership laboratories at this facility.
