Celebrities descend on Pro-Am

The Big Spring Country Club golf course is ready for tournament play. Now it's the players' turn.

About 75 golfers were on the course in a chilly wind this morning preparing for tomorrow's tee-off of the first annual Signal Peak Shriners' Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Former Dallas Cowboys receiver Golden Richards arrived in Big Spring last night and began practice rounds this morning.

"This could be embarrassing," he said, surveying the Big Spring Country Club links. "When I left Salt Lake City yesterday there was 3 inches of snow on the ground. I haven't played golf in a while, so I'm not going to start practicing until a lot of people are out of sight."

Richards played with the Cowboys from 1973 to 1978. He is now host of the cable television show ESPN Outdoors.

Although he was born and raised in Salt Lake City, he says he has a very special feeling for Texas and has been in Big Spring several times before.

"You know, I only did okay on the field, but Texans, they always treated me very well," he said.

Richards is to tee-off at 1:32 p.m. Thursday and 2:28 p.m. Friday. His foursome includes Big Springers Don Cook and Hugh Porter ... and a former rival, Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

"I've met Terry a few times, mostly on the field," Richards said. "I've heard he's a wonderful person and very dedicated."

"I've got no score to settle ... but I'll tease him a lot," he said.

"The important thing about this tournament is the Shriners, helping the kids. That's the bottom line."

Richards' sentiment was shared by Benny Passons

Interest tax nixed

From staff and wire reports

Local banking institutions were expressing relief and elation today over a lopsided House vote to repeal withholding taxes from interest and dividends.

The House vote Tuesday to kill the 1982 law makes it all but certain the 10 percent withholding tax will not go into effect as scheduled on July 1.

The Senate is likely to delay until next week a decision whether to follow the House and vote for repeal or to save face for the president by substituting some new measures aimed at catching tax cheats.

"We were elated," said Jim Weaver, president of Citizens Federal Credit Union. "It will save us $17,000 in implementing the program, which saves the member's money. And we don't have to increase fees or cut back on interest rates to compensate for it."

Weaver said it was also a psychological relief to credit union members who were confused and upset over the implementation of the 10 percent withholding on interests and dividends. He also said the repeal would save employees from answering questions about the program.

"We pretty much feel this is what the customers wanted," B.Y. Butler, vice president, cashier and auditor of State National Bank said. "I think the banking industry feels good about it, and we support whatever makes the customers feel good and satisfied."

Butler also said he was "delighted" by the repeal, which will save the banking industry costs in setting up a system to handle the program.

By a veto-proof margin of 382-41, the House turned down appeals from Reagan and Democratic leaders and voted to kill the 1982 law. The Senate last month voted 91-5 to leave the law on the books but prevent its use. Senators now have another chance to consider outright repeal.

And President Reagan appears to be backing away from threats to veto the repeal legislation.

Reagan and other backers of withholding have accused the banking industry of using deceptive advertising that scared many people — especially the elderly — into believing withholding was a new tax and that it would loot their savings.

"I'm a little disappointed in the comments from Reagan and some of the other congressmen," Weaver said. "If the banking industry had made such comments it would have been self-destructive. People would have taken their money out of savings and put it into real estate, or diamonds or whatever."

Weaver said he had read volumes of material on the subject and had never seen misleading information provided by the banking industry.

"It's just a matter of them being a sore loser," Weaver said.

Butler said there was no validity to the statement accusing the banking industry of misleading savers.

Coahoma names honor grads

COAHOMA — Cheryl McCoy was named Valedictorian and Ricky Long was named Salutatorian at Coahoma High School last week.

Miss McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McCoy, plans to attend Angelo State University in San Angelo in the fall.

She will graduate Thursday with a 99.03 grade point average and has been awarded a $2,000 per year scholarship for four years from the Carr Foundation.

She is a member of the National Honor Society, participated in the Coahoma High School band and played on the school's basketball and track teams for four years.

Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Long, graduated with a 96.19 grade point average. He has received a $500 scholarship from Howard County Junior College and a $500 scholarship from Big Spring Savings Association.

He has been active in Future Farmers of America and was named Outstanding Boy in the FFA Chapter.

He has been on the Coahoma High School golf team for four years and was named Outstanding Golfer the

Nalley-Pickle, River Welch sued

Half million sought in lawsuit

The former owner of Trinity Memorial Park is suing Nalley-Pickle and River-Welch Funeral Homes, Inc. for more than half a million dollars.

Henry S. Childress Jr. of Big Spring filed the suit seeking in excess of $570,000 against the funeral home corporation and two individuals in 118th District Court this week.

The suit alleges the corporation defaulted on a $225,000 promissory note to Childress for the purchase of Trinity Memorial Park. The suit also names Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home employees Tommy Whatley and Tom Starnes, both former Trinity employees, as defendants.

The civil suit states after Whatley left Trinity, he immediately began work with Nalley-Pickle. At this time, the suit alleges he began contacting Trinity customers to cancel their accounts and move them to Nalley-Pickle because Trinity was "going bankrupt".

Starnes and Whatley made "slandorous statements" about Trinity, damaging the company to the point Childress sold his stock in the company, the suit states.

All of these actions are violations of the Texas Business and Commerce Code, the suit states. Starnes also violated a non-competitive agreement by going to work for Nalley-Pickle, the suit states. Nalley-Pickle was aware of the contract before hiring Starnes, the suit states.

The suit asks for separate judgments of $200,000; $120,000; $50,000 and the balance of the $225,000 note.

Childress is represented by Big Spring attorneys Ben Bancroft and Robert Miller.

Tommy Welch, an officer of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Homes, said today he had "no comment whatsoever" on the suit.

Civil lawsuit against city dismissed

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Federal District Judge Halbert O. Woodward dismissed on Monday two civil lawsuits filed by a Lubbock man that claim his civil rights were violated while incarcerated in Big Spring city and Lubbock County jails.

Angelo Napoleon Ansel, 43, asked $60 million and $5,000 per month for life in a suit that alleges his civil rights were violated or deprived during his approximate 48-hour stay in city jail here.

The suit's allegations included that he was strip-searched and denied the right to call a Houston attorney representing him in a Harris County civil rights case, that his clothes and medication were taken, that the shower, sink and drain were stopped up, and that the bed was dirty and the commode was not working.

"... the discomforts he may have suffered, if he did in fact suffer such discomforts, are not serious enough to support constitutional deprivation allegations," Woodward said in a memorandum to City Attorney Doyle Curtis.

Woodward said after the May 12 hearing that Ansel's claims were without arguable merit in law and that they were maliciously filed.

"Judge Woodward just confirmed my feeling that all his claims were frivolous," Curtis said.

Ansel was arrested Feb. 1 on a misdemeanor charge and later transferred to Lubbock on a felony theft warrant.

In his lawsuit against Lubbock County Sheriff D.L. (Sonny) Keese, he alleges that he could not properly breathe because there were no windows in the jail, the soap caused a skin rash, he was forced to cut his hair and that he suffered mental anguish because there were no Mexican-Americans or blacks on the jail staff.

"It does not appear to the court that the plaintiff is entitled to any relief in either case," Woodward's memorandum says. "His claims are frivolous, do not rise to constitutional standards, and the court feels that they are maliciously brought by plaintiff rather than an attempt to rectify any deprivations of constitutional rights."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Flex lex

Q. Is there a state law limiting the number of unexcused absences a student may have? If so, is it illegal for a school district not to enforce it?

A. Section 21.032 of the Texas Education Code states a student must attend 165 days of a regular term, according to Big Spring ISD Superintendent Lynn Hise. However, subchapter .033 allows the local districts certain leeway to exempt students for illness, school trips and so forth, Hise said.

GOP budget panel chairman seeking votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unable to enlist enough votes from fellow Republicans to pass a compromise budget resolution, Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici is turning to Democrats for help in forging a spending plan.

Now that Domenici has dropped efforts to win President Reagan's support for the spending blueprint, his committee is expected to approve higher taxes and cut the defense budget proposed by the White House.

The president, however, vowed at a news conference Tuesday night to veto any bill that raises taxes while the nation is emerging from a recession.

"I will veto spending bills that would rekindle the fires of inflation and high interest," Reagan added.

The decision by the New Mexico Republican to seek Democratic votes follows last week's defeat of a budget compromise bill that was backed by both the president and the Senate's GOP majority leadership. The committee was making a new attempt today to agree on another budget plan in time for a full Senate vote on Thursday.

The Senate also faces another vote on whether to repeal withholding of taxes from interest and dividends. The House voted 382-41 Tuesday to repeal the measure, which Reagan says would reduce cheating by taxpayers.

Last month, senators voted 91-5 to leave the law on the books but prevent its use. Senate action on the House bill is expected to be delayed until next week.

William D. Ruckelshaus won unanimous confirmation by the Senate Tuesday to become the new head of the embattled Environmental Protection Agency, a job he held from 1970 to 1973. The 97-0 vote set the stage for today's installation of Ruckelshaus as the successor to Anne McGill Burford. She resigned in the wake of a half-dozen congressional investigations of EPA.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 30-26 Tuesday to free funds to develop and test the 10-warhead MX missile, prompting Reagan to predict swift congressional approval of the new weapons system.

"I look forward to prompt approval of this vital program by the full House and Senate," Reagan said several hours after the panel's vote.

The Senate, where the Appropriations Committee voted 17-11 last week to free $560 million for MX development, may consider the bill on Friday. The full House is scheduled to debate it on Monday.

Moving toward final passage of the largest rewrite of immigration laws in 20 years, the Senate voted 76-21

Tuesday to kill an amendment that would have provided amnesty for millions of illegal aliens living in the United States.

After his anti-amnesty amendment was killed, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said "the Senate has raised the flag of surrender on getting control of America's borders."

The Senate was expected to take a final vote today on the immigration bill, which is designed to curb the tide of illegal immigration and give legal status for millions of undocumented aliens residing in the country.

In other action, the Senate Finance Committee voted 8-2 Tuesday to set up 75 enterprise zones to help rehabilitate decaying urban areas. The bill, supported by the Reagan administration, would give federal tax credit equal to 10 percent of the wages they pay.

Wilson Goode nets Demo bid

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — W. Wilson Goode, a sharecropper's son nominated by Democrats as their first black candidate for mayor, pledged today "to build a city for everyone" after turning back ex-Mayor Frank L. Rizzo's bid for a political comeback.

Goode will face Republican John Egan in November's general election in a city where Democrats outnumber Republicans by a 5-to-1 margin.

"No concessions," said a disappointed Rizzo, who insisted on getting a good night's sleep while awaiting the final figures today. Goode had been favored to defeat the tough-talking former policeman, who served two terms as mayor from 1972 to 1980 but was barred by law from seeking a third consecutive term.

Returns from 98 percent of the city's 1,794 precincts put Goode ahead by more than 42,000 votes — 312,219, or 53.2 percent, against 270,115, or 46 percent, for Rizzo. Four other candidates in Tuesday's Democratic mayoral primary shared 20,000 other votes.

"I feel very, very good, very, very happy about my victory," Goode said this morning. "We did better among the whites (than expected). In fact, it was the best vote any successful black candidate in his first try ever did among white voters."

Goode said he will spend the next week trying to unite the Democratic Party.

"I'm convinced once Mr. Rizzo looks at the vote totals and analyzes them he will see that we won and he will do the gentlemanly thing and support me," Goode said.

THE WINNER — W. Wilson Goode won the nomination in Philadelphia's Democratic mayoral primary election Tuesday. Here he makes a victory sign shortly after casting his ballot in the race, in which he beat out former mayor Frank L. Rizzo.

Reagan tough on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, displaying a toughening attitude toward Congress over the budget, says "it is time to draw the line" on defense cuts and greater domestic spending.

At a news conference Tuesday evening, he also had strong words for the Sandinista leaders in Nicaragua: "They're not minding their own business. They are attempting to overthrow a duly-elected government in a neighboring country," he said.

Reagan, after a three-month break in his formal news conferences, told the nationally broadcast session with reporters that Syria's Arab allies are urging the Damascus government to pull its troops out of Lebanon when the Israeli forces are prepared to leave. "I can't believe that the Syrians want to find themselves alone, separated from all of their Arab allies," the president said, reaffirming his optimism that a Syrian withdrawal can be achieved. He also said he did not know how long the U.S. Marine contingent would remain in Lebanon, but it could "be there for quite a period."

In an opening statement, the president said he had tried supporting a proposed compromise to cut defense spending and raise domestic allocations beyond the goals he suggested for fiscal 1984, but this was "to no avail."

"It is time to draw the line and stand up for the people," he said. "I will not support a budget resolution that raises taxes while we are coming out of a recession. I will veto any tax bill that would do this."

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said today that Reagan "has gone the last mile" and had "compromised as far as he can" on the budget.

Reagan, asked whether the anticipated budget deficit of approximately $200 billion would drive up interest rates, predicted that "in the very near future, we are going to see a further drop in interest rates."

Reagan is doing battle with Democrats and Republicans as Congress tries to pare the anticipated deficits. So far, he has failed to muster a majority of Republicans to support his overall budget goal.

The Democrat-controlled House has approved a plan calling for a $30 billion tax increase in fiscal 1984, to cut the deficit, while the Senate is trying to break a deadlock over the size of a new tax increase.

Teen may testify in murder trial

OZONA (AP) — Prosecutors planned to call a 14-year-old girl to the stand today to testify against the man she says she escaped from after her sister and mother were murdered.

The testimony of the Kermit teen-ager, Selena Elms, helped convict Michael Eugene Sharp last November in Lubbock for the murder of her 8-year-old sister, Christie.

Sharp, a former Odessa oil worker, received a life sentence for the killing. The prosecution is seeking the death penalty for Sharp, in connection with the knife-slitting of the mother, Brenda Kay Broadway, in 1982.

This trial was moved to Ozona on a change of venue.

Ms. Broadway, 31, and her daughters were abducted from a car wash in Kermit last June and taken to a remote area southeast of town, where they were disrobed and abused sexually, prosecutors say.

Selena testified in November that she escaped in the early morning hours of June 11, 1982, while Sharp was stabbing her mother and sister. Naked and her arms bound, she ran five miles across the rough West Texas plain before she found help from an oil rig crew, she said. A welder testified Tuesday that he called police on June 14 after he saw a composite drawing on television that described a killer as having a tattoo on his left upper chest.

Sam Cubine, who worked with Michael Eugene Sharp the day before the murders, said he told police that Sharp was the man they were looking for.

Fifth-grader lends support to White

TEMPLE (AP) — Gov. Mark White, bucking a May 30 deadline and hostile lawmakers, took his tax show on the road and found solid, unswerving support from Jerry Townsend.

Taxes collected to increase teacher pay raises would be well spent, according to Townsend, a Western Hills Elementary School fifth-grader.

"The teacher has to come in here every morning and put up with us for eight hours, so I figure they should have more money paid to them," Townsend told the governor. "Putting up with all us little kids, I know that's going to have to be torture."

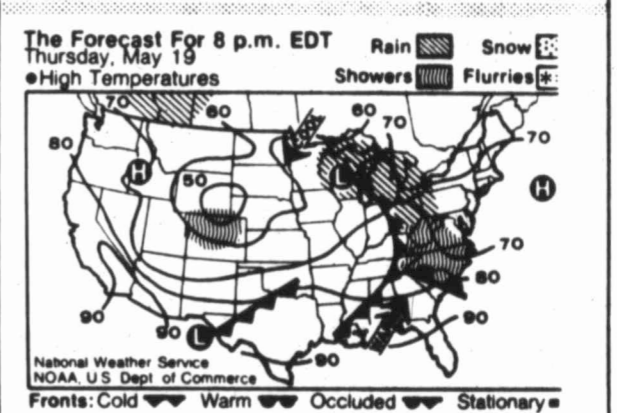

While White's classroom pitch won the student's support, the governor's $1.27 billion luxury tax hike package remains in trouble in the House. He acknowledged that Speaker Gib Lewis is the prime obstacle to the 24 percent pay raise plan.

"He has kind of gone off one way and I've gone off another," he said, calling Lewis the "one more vote" he needs to give his plan a chance.

"I think if we get one 'yes' from the speaker of the House it will go through very clearly. I just need one more vote," he said.

White's Tuesday trip took him to Belton Rep. Bill Messer's Central Texas district. Messer opposes the governor's plan, as does House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter of nearby Killeen.

Weather

Showers, fog reported

A broken line of thunderstorms extended from Northeast Texas into central sections of the state before dawn today as light showers fell in Southeast Texas.

Some patches of light fog were reported elsewhere in South Texas. Skies were clearing behind a cool front in the Panhandle and South Plains.

Temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in Northwest and West Texas, while readings in the 60s and 70s were noted. Readings at 4 a.m. ranged from 42 at Amarillo to 77 at McAllen.

West Texas — Fair to partly cloudy through Thursday. Warmer moisture Thursday. Highs 67 Panhandle to 82 south and 92 Big Bend. Lows 41 Panhandle and mountains to 55 south and near 60 Big Bend. Highs Thursday 69 Panhandle to 87 south and 95 Big Bend.

Freak spring storm yields snow, rain

A "freak" spring storm brought rain and hail to the Great Plains today after dumping up to two feet of snow on Wyoming and Colorado, closing roads, leaving thousands of people without power and forcing some voters in Denver to cast ballots by flashlight.

The mid-May blizzard sent 86 mph winds whistling Tuesday through Fort Carson, near Colorado Springs, Colo., making travel impossible in some areas because of reduced visibility.

As much as 24 inches of snow fell near Wheatland, in southeastern Wyoming, and Interstate 80 between Cheyenne and Laramie remained closed early today because of heavy buildup.

The blizzard deposited 23 inches of snow on Buckhorn Mountain, 11 miles northwest of Fort Collins, Colo.

"It was a freak storm, an unusual storm for the amount of snow it brought at this time of year, but the worst is over," Hugh Crowther, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service's Severe Storms

Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said today. "It's moving in an easterly direction, turning to rain as it gets into the lower elevations."

The cold front was centered over central Kansas today, bringing heavy rain, wind and hail to south-central Oklahoma. Stockmen's warnings were posted today in western Nebraska and northwest Kansas.

Winds gusting to 55 mph made driving difficult Tuesday in Denver, where 4 inches of snow glazed streets and closed two of four runways at Stapleton International Airport, delaying flights for an hour or more.

Dave Scherer, a spokesman for the airport, said, "Conditions are similar, but not as intense as the Christmas blizzard." That storm closed the airport for 36 hours.

The heavy, wet snow tore down eight transmission lines in Denver, cutting off power over a total of more than 20 square miles in a dozen pockets, mostly residential areas.

Ruckelshaus to be sworn in as EPA head

WASHINGTON (AP) — William D. Ruckelshaus, confirmed by a unanimous Senate vote to become head of the Environmental Protection Agency, is being sworn into office with a mandate to restore the integrity of the embattled agency.

This afternoon's ceremony follows by a day the 97-0 confirmation vote in the Senate. However, that vote also triggered questions of how much of a change Ruckelshaus can or is likely to make in Reagan administration environmental policies.

Open for Business

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Federal debt woes

Charles Stenholm recently sent out a questionnaire to people of his district with one of the questions being, "What do you consider the most serious problems facing our nation?" A compilation of the questionnaire responses showed deficit spending to be considered by those voters in the 17th district as the most serious problem.

The federal debt is spinning out of control and will exceed the ceiling established by law of 1.29 trillion dollars in June. The national debt is projected to be by September $1,388,000,000,000!

The situation is clear: there has to be less spending or more taxes. Congress has got to face up to this and they have to get the message from us.

Remember that you can get a tax credit for hiring low income 16 and 17 year olds who are certified by local job-service offices. This applies to summer jobs with credit up to 85 percent of the first $3,000 in wages and a maximum credit of $2,550. For details, see the Texas Employment Commission.

Thursday and Friday, May 19-20, at the Hyatt Regency in Austin will be the 1983 Governor's Conference and Opportunity Fair for Minority and Women-Owned Businesses in Texas. It is not too late to reserve a place by calling 713-221-3286. It offers a change to sharpen business skills, meet minority and women entrepreneurs from all over the state, get much needed advice about marketing, taxes, legal matters, financial growth, and target new corporate prospects for goods and services by meeting buyers from Texas' largest corporations one-on-one. The cost is $95 per person.

The Salvation Army is looking for clubs or groups who would like to dress dolls to give to underprivileged girls at Christmas. This has been a successful project done in the past. The Salvation Army furnishes the dolls in August which gives plenty of time for dressing them. For more information contact Mrs. Helen Braun at 267-8239 or 267-8929.

Fast was statement, feminists say

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A year ago today, seven women began a fast to inspire ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. They failed, but say the experience deepened their commitment to feminism and believe women will be a potent force in the 1984 elections.

On May 18, 1982, the woman began a diet of water and prayer in a protest that one participant, Dina Bachelor, called "a statement of women's deprivation and hunger for justice."

They broke the fast 37 days later, after losing a total of 230 pounds — an average of 33 pounds each. The 10-year drive to ratify the amendment, which would ban discrimination on the basis of sex, ended a week later. Only 35 of the necessary 38 states ratified the amendment by the June 30 deadline.

A new ERA proposal is before Congress. When it will be considered is uncertain.

The fasters' leader, Sonia Johnson of Sterling, Va., a Mormon excommunicated for her feminist views, ran for president of the National Organization for Women last fall and lost. Now she lectures at universities, is outlining a book and "organizing women into think tanks" for the 1984 national elections.

"The fast caused a heightening of awareness among women of the possibilities, and what more can you ask?" Mrs. Johnson said from Sugarloaf Key, Fla., where she was visiting a friend.

The former fasters predicted women will be a potent force in 1984 elections for president, Congress and state legislatures.

Shirley Wallace, still a Mormon, left her husband and entered the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley, where her youngest of four children is a student. She hopes to become a lawyer.

"I was a good Mormon wife for 23 years," Mrs. Wallace, 44, said this week from her Evans, Colo., home. "When I was married the important thing was, my values were, God wanted me to have children."

"And so I did that," she said. "My whole drive is for women's rights; my education and my plans are for that. Law seems to fit into the political system better than any other area."

Sister Maureen Fiedler, a Roman Catholic nun from Washington, D.C., switched religious orders, toured much of the nation and spent February in Nicaragua learning how "peasants overwhelmingly support the Sandinista government" that President Reagan denounces. She now lobbies Congress to bar U.S. support for anti-government guerrillas in the Central American nation.

Disease program highlights meeting

Members answered to "a house plant I enjoy" or "a club program I'd like to have" during roll call at the City Extension Homemakers Club meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. Jowili Etchison.

Mrs. Frances Zant was nominated as delegate to the state meeting in Lubbock in September.

Thank you notes were read from a hospitalized member and from Big Spring State Hospital for donating cookies.

Mrs. Arlene Johnston spoke on osteoarthritis. She said a person should not wait more than six weeks to see a doctor if he thought he had symptoms. The symptoms are:

Persistent pain and stiffness on arising; pain, tenderness or swelling in one or more joints; recurrence of the symptoms especially when they involve more than one joint; recurrent or persistent pain and stiffness in the neck, lower back, knees and other joints.

Mrs. Vaunetha White spoke on rheumatoid arthritis. She said the person needs to find out what type of arthritis a person has so a doctor can prescribe the right medication for it. Surgery and artificial joints have helped some patients. Today's artificial joints last much longer than previous models. Research continues in this medical area.

At the next meeting, members will tour the Petroleum Museum and other places in Midland. Today the organization met at Mrs. Alta Lee Underwood's home for a craft day. The members were making Christmas trees for door decorations.

Dr. Donohue

An update on toxic shock syndrome

Dear Dr. Donohue: What happened to the toxic shock syndrome? We read so much about it a couple of years ago. Is it no longer a threat? I think your readers deserve an update. — Mrs. T.R.

Why have we seen so little about toxic shock syndrome recently? Because the number of cases has dropped off considerably, from a high of 135 a month in 1980 to around 50 a month currently. But it's still an important medical subject, one we understand better, especially how to recognize it and how to prevent it.

Here is the toxic shock syndrome story. All of what I say may not be conclusively proven, but it will give you the update you request and the current thinking about ways to prevent it.

The story involves staph germs. Ordinarily they cause no problems but since women may harbor those germs in their genital tract, they become important because of the entrance of tampons into the picture. With the use of tampons, especially the superabsorbent kinds (which have been removed from the market) staph germs may multiply more readily. As they do that, they produce a toxin. This poison is then absorbed into the blood stream, and that's what causes the toxic shock syndrome.

The symptoms of toxic shock syndrome include chills and fever. Often there is a diffuse, red rash. Muscles begin to ache. Joints, especially those of the wrists, knees, ankles and the small ones of the hands and feet, are painful. There may be vomiting or diarrhea.

They syndrome may eventually include a dangerous drop in blood pressure — the shock part of the picture. And further, if the poisoning process continues, there may be kidney, liver, and nervous system damage. The woman may become disoriented. Finally, death may occur.

This was the setting for the widespread publicity surrounding this illness a couple of years ago. It is still around and still making people sick. Fortunately, more women are being advised of things they can do to prevent it.

What is a woman to do about tampon use? If she has any of the signs of the syndrome, she should discontinue their use. And further, even if she does not experience difficulty, there are points made by health authorities regarding tampon use in general that she should heed. Tampons should be used intermittently during her period, never for a full day or full night. If they are required over that time period, she is wise to change them. They can be used for part of the day or night. The real key is the frequent change. Tampons should not be used by women who have had toxic shock syndrome in the past.

While the problem is predominately a disease of menstruating women, it is not limited to them. It has been reported in males and infants. Everyone harbors the staphy germ causing it, but women are more prone because of possibility of rapid growth in association with the unwise use of tampons.

Dear Abby

Son's affair

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding "Heartsick Mother," whose good-looking, intelligent, 18-year-old son admitted that he was having an affair with the mother of one of his friends. (She was 41 and divorced.)

You told the mother to point out the pitfalls of such an affair — or ask his older brothers to. What pitfalls? That arrangement can be the best thing that ever happened to her son.

I'm a happily married middle-aged man. I was a painfully shy 18-year-old boy when I went away to college. A buxom little widow in her 50s — the landlady in the rooming house where I stayed — helped me overcome my shyness. She also taught me how to be a lover and a gentleman.

I have no regrets. She filled my needs and I filled hers. Every 18-year-old boy should have the kind of deal I had.

IT HAPPENED IN CAMBRIDGE

DEAR IT HAPPENED: The mail is running 10-to-1 in your favor. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Heartsick Mother" doesn't know when she's well off. That 41-year-old woman has probably taught her son a lot. But there's something every man should learn, and apparently her kid hasn't learned it yet: how to keep his mouth shut.

TIGHT-LIPPED IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with a 41-year-old woman keeping company with an 18-year-old boy?

Any single woman over 40 knows that most single men over 40 are eccentric, selfish, cheap and intimidated by a contemporary woman.

Eighteen-year-old men are delightful companions. They are open, honest, warm and unaffected. And they're wonderful lovers!

I am a 40-year-old widow, but you may sign me...

South best bet for low-priced homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home buyers looking for low prices may want to avoid Hawaii and head for Arkansas.

The typical Hawaiian home is worth nearly four times as much as one in Arkansas, according to owner estimates collected by the Census Bureau in 1980.

On a regional basis, housing values are highest in the West and lowest in the South, the bureau reports.

Peter Fronczek of the Census Bureau's residential finance division, said shipping prices for materials help boost the price of houses not only in Hawaii, but also in Alaska.

He also said many Americans have been moving West.

"In any place that has a high degree of migration, demand is going to outstrip supply, at least for some period of time. Any time you have that kind of situation you are going to have prices increasing," Fronczek said.

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist at the National Association of Home Builders, said that land costs are extremely high in Hawaii and tend to be low in the Southern states.

Labor costs also tend to be high in Alaska and California, he said, but are lower in the South which has fewer unions.

The Census Bureau said the median value of an owner-occupied American home in 1980 was $47,300. That means half of such homes were worth more and half less than that amount. The values were estimated by the owners.

In the Western states, however, the median value of homes was $71,200, and Hawaii topped the nation with a $119,400 price tag for the typical home.

Arkansas had the nation's lowest median home value at $31,100, and the median value for the Southern region was $39,700.

Regionally, the Northeast had a median housing value of $47,300, the same as the national figure, while for the North Central states the typical value was $43,900.

Here is a state-by-state list of the median value of owner-occupied housing units:

1. Hawaii, $119,400; 2. California, $84,700; 3. Alaska, $75,200; 4. Nevada, $69,200; 5. Connecticut, $67,400; 6. Colorado, $64,600; 7. New Jersey, $61,400; 8. Washington, $60,700; 9. Wyoming, $60,400; 10. Utah, $60,000;

11. Maryland, $59,200; 12. Oregon, $59,000; 13. Arizona, $56,600; 14. Minnesota, $54,300; 15. Illinois, $53,900; 16. Wisconsin, $48,600; 17. Massachusetts, $48,500; 18. Virginia, $48,100; 19. New Hampshire, $48,000; 20. Rhode Island, $47,000;

21. Montana, $46,400; 22. New York, $45,900; 23. Idaho, $45,900; 24. New Mexico, $45,400; 25. Florida, $45,300; 26. Ohio, $45,100; 27. Delaware, $44,600; 28. North Dakota, $43,800; 29. Louisiana, $43,000; 30. Vermont, $42,300; 31. Iowa, $40,600; 32. Pennsylvania, $39,100; 33. Texas, $39,100; 34. Michigan, $39,000; 35. West Virginia, $38,500; 36. Nebraska, $38,000; 37. Maine, $37,900; 38. Kansas, $37,800; 39. Indiana, $37,200; 40. Georgia, $36,900;

41. Missouri, $36,700; 42. South Dakota, $36,600; 43. North Carolina, $36,000; 44. Oklahoma, $35,600; 45. Tennessee, $35,600; 46. South Carolina, $35,100; 47. Kentucky, $34,200; 48. Alabama, $33,900; 49. Mississippi, $31,400; 50. Arkansas, $31,100.

Reagan says rocket sales could help economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, seeking to encourage private enterprise in space, says it will allow companies to buy Delta, Atlas and Titan rockets and launch them from existing pads.

The move announced Monday comes as the government phases out use of such unmanned rockets — called Expendable Launch Vehicles, or ELVs — in favor of the space shuttle, a manned rocket capable of going again and again into space. Commercial companies also have been clamoring for the use of the ELVs and their launch facilities.

Selling the rockets

"would add to the general economic vitality of the United States and provide the United States with a more robust space launch capability," the White House announcement of the plan said.

The new policy applies not only to existing rockets, but also any other unannounced rockets that might be developed for commercial applications.

The announcement said that allowing private participation would "offer a domestic backup for the shuttle at essentially no cost to the U.S. government."

Companies that express interest in taking over the launch systems include Martin Marietta Corp., Bethesda, Md., which builds Titan II; General Dynamics Corp., St. Louis, builder of the Atlas Centaur; and Space Services Inc., which wants to buy Centaurs and launch them from Cape Canaveral with private payloads.

Kentucky bank sold

to Texas investors

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Citizens Bank of Elizabethtown, controlled by C.H. Butcher Jr. through a holding company, has been sold to three Texas investors for an undisclosed price, bank president James Fugitte announced Tuesday.

A statement issued by Fugitte identified the purchasers as Jack B. Strong, Carl E. French and Coy D. Jones, all of Longview, Texas.

Butcher, a Knoxville, Tenn., financier, said last month that he was giving up control of nine of 10 banks in Kentucky to Jones and Strong.

The Kentucky institutions are among 22 banks and a loan company that Butcher has been under pressure to sell in the wake of the failure of the United American Bank of Knoxville, owned by his brother Jake, in February.

Butcher did not own Citizens Bank but he controlled it through a holding company owned by Phillip Hayes of Elizabethtown.

Fugitte said arrangements had been completed for the Texans to purchase E'town Bancshares Inc. from Hayes. Bancshares holds 80 percent of the common stock in Citizens Bank, where Hayes is chairman.

"Plans are for Citizens Bank to continue to operate locally just as it has in the past, with no major policy or staff changes," Strong said in the statement.

Fugitte said Strong has numerous investments in quarterhorses and oil as well as Texas financial institutions. Jones is chairman and chief executive officer of American Bancorp of Longview.

American Bancorp, with $130 million in assets, is the surviving corporation of a merger of two banks in Longview and one in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Interest outlook worries investors

Just as the economy is showing clear signs of recovering from the 1981-82 recession, investors have found a new worry: Interest rates may have hit bottom.

While the government reported Monday that manufacturers boosted the operating rate of their factories in April to the highest level in more than a year, the stock market dropped sharply and the bond market nosedived.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which hit an all-time high earlier this month, was off nearly 22 points before recovering in the final hour of trading to finish the day at 1,202.98, a decline of 15.77 points from Friday.

Analysts linked the market's sharp reversal to fears that interest rates will not decline much further this year. Many economists have said the economic recovery may stall unless the cost of business borrowing comes down.

That concern is tied in part to the Federal Reserve Board's report late Friday that the nation's money supply rose $4.2 billion in early May. Some analysts have said the fast rate of money growth could prompt the Federal Reserve to push up short-term interest rates in order to prevent a resurgence of inflation.

Also, the influential economist Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers said Sunday he believes interest rates will not go much below current levels in the near future.

Interest rates in U.S. money markets rose slightly Monday as bond prices fell sharply. The price of long-term bonds lost $10 for each $1,000 in face value.

As hopes dimmed for a speedy decline in U.S. interest rates, the dollar climbed Monday to a record high against the French franc and rose sharply against other major currencies in U.S. and European trading.

Gold prices fell.

In its report on factory use, the Federal Reserve Board said the gains in April included "sizeable advances among industries that were especially hard hit in the past few years."

April's overall increase of 1.3 percentage points from March was the fifth increase in a row since factory use hit a record low of 67.4 percent of capacity last November.

Robert Ortner, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the overall increase in April "indicates a clearer upward trend in the economy."

The higher operating rate of factories was only the latest in a string of government reports that pointed toward economic recovery. Last week the government said industrial production and retail sales rose more sharply than expected.

Conventional loans regain popularity

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is rare that something pronounced dead a few years ago should arrive back among the living, quietly step into its old role, and go about its business as if nothing had happened.

But the rarity has occurred: The fixed-rate, long-term home mortgage is back among us. Just ask your local banker, or look in his newspaper ads.

That this should occur seems to amount to a considerable mystery, especially when you recall that many a lender said good riddance to the critter as if it were a despicable criminal of the most dastardly kind.

There was a reason for that. The long-term, fixed-rate mortgage got a lot of lenders in serious trouble. Here they were with 8 percent loans on their books when they, themselves, were paying more for money to keep alive.

As interest rates rose the situation worsened. Lenders were losing on those mortgages every day, and yet they couldn't get rid of them. No sane borrower would pay off such a mortgage in advance. No, not even the president of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, who held a 6 percent home mortgage and who reacted in horror to the suggestion that he retire it early.

Many savings institutions went under or were forced to merge with others. It was understandable: They were paying 15 percent for their money and earning only 8 percent on their mortgages. Never again, they said.

Never didn't last, and among others, Saul Klamman, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, is deeply concerned. Some institutions, he says, have dangerously short memories.

To make such loans, and then hold them in the bank's own investment portfolio rather than reselling them, said Klamman, "amounts to playing Russian roulette with interest rates and the future of the institution."

An economist with a memory, a memory of savings institutions begging the federal government for help, Klamman told the annual meeting of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Cincinnati a week or so ago that bank managers have "an overriding fiduciary responsibility not to 'bet the bank' in this way."

The penalty for being wrong on interest rates, he said, "is death." And the interest rate cycle, he reminded them, was far from dead.

It almost goes without saying that nobody can foresee where interest rates will be 30 years from now. Or in 20 or 10 or five or in one year. But some lenders are out there with 30-year commitments.

Why? For a combination of reasons. One reason becomes obvious when you consider what would happen if interest rates fell to 8 percent or less. It would be the reverse of the situation that earlier had caused so much trouble.

A second reason is that fixed-rate, long-term mortgages are probably the easiest of all to sell. Customers are accustomed to them. They like them.

The third factor in the decision is revealed by any mortgage rate book.

One example will do. On a $24,500 loan at 13.75 percent for 30 years the monthly payment amounts to $285.46. How much of that do you think goes to build up equity, or ownership? About $5 a month, or $60 in the first year.

Receipts for mixed drinks rise

State Comptroller Bob Bullock recently reported that the collection of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax during the first quarter of 1983 was up 2.7 percent over the same period last year.

Bullock's office sent a check totaling $8,142 to Howard County as its share of the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks. The City of Big Spring received a $2,309 check as its share.

All Texas cities and counties receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state.

PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE

The secret to pool care is preventive maintenance. The secret to preventive maintenance is pool testing. If you see algae, stains, scaling, etc., it could have been prevented. Proper testing and care insure years of pool pleasure; neglect can cause serious problems and needless expense. Proper disinfecting and control of the PH and alkalinity are essential in preventing bacteria, scale and corrosion. Don't judge by your neighbor's pool as every pool is individual in this respect. Temperature, swimmer load, size, filtration systems and different chemical use are all factors which cause varying pool water conditions. Learn to test properly.

Japanese to check on alleged Soviet spying

TOKYO (AP) — Seven members of Japan's Parliament left for Washington Tuesday to check recent testimony by a former KGB officer that some influential Japanese helped in Soviet espionage activities in Japan.

The group is led by Tsutomu Kawara of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party. Members will meet Wednesday with Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., chairman of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence.

Last December, Stanislav Levchenko, a former KGB major now in exile in the United States, testified before a closed-door session of the committee that some Japanese collaborated with him while he was in Japan working as a journalist from 1976 to 1979.

In a recent magazine article, he listed the names or KGB code names of 26 Japanese who allegedly worked with him. Among them were a former labor minister from the Liberal Democratic Party and two prominent members of the major opposition Japan Socialist Party. All those named denied the charges.

Sshhhhhhh... Fffffffwhhaaack! clap-clap-clap-nice clap-clap-it'll play-clap-clap. And so (complete with sound effects) the first-ever Shriner's Pro-Am Golf Tournament tees-off at the Big Spring Country Club.

Clovis Country Club in Clovis, N.M. and Rick Pobst of Woodhaven in Fort Worth. Sports personalities in town include Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw, former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver (and ESPN outdoors show host) Golden Richards, New Orleans Saints (and former U-Texas) placekicker Russell Erxleben and Olympic weightlifter Sam Walker.

The weather is expected to be clear with temperatures near the 80-degree mark for the tournament. With guest pros and celebrities just now arriving, teams and tee times are still being juggled by Country Club pro Gary Hammer. A finalized list will be available by 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

tournament will be the hole-in-one prize. A $15,000 automobile goes to a golfer who sinks his first shot on any par-3 hole. Also, a late-bloomer's prize of $3,000 will be available Friday. The tournament will be conducted as a PGA tour event, with roped-off greens for the gallery, concession and souvenir stands, radio broadcasts from the course by KBST and KWKI and up-to-date leader boards.

Here are the revised pairings for the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament. Because of last-minute changes, participants are asked to contact Big Spring Country Club pro Gary Hammer after 3 p.m. Wednesday for finalized pairings and tee times. Play begins at 8:32 a.m. Thursday and Friday.

VALUABLE GUY IN THE NET — New York Islanders goalie Billy Smith makes a reflex save Tuesday night against Edmonton. Smith, named the playoff MVP, held the high-scoring Oilers to just six goals in four games to lead the Isles to their fourth straight Stanley Cup championship.

Isles grab 4th Stanley

Smith chosen MVP, Gretzky held scoreless

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Islanders reached the end of the road to the Stanley Cup and found their fourth consecutive triumph in the finals something to treasure. "This one here is the sweetest of all, and especially because of all the injuries," Islander coach Al Arbour said Tuesday night following his team's 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers. "We had five guys that hurt their knee. It's remarkable. They all work for each other, play for each other."

Langevin, also a victim of the injury jinx. "I think the guys got tired of it. Three years on top and winning, and the constant demand of this area — and the competition of the Rangers — gets to you after a while. We got tired mentally." The Islanders looked anything but tired in the early going. After a tense beginning, goals by Trotter, John Tonelli and Mike Bossy in a 1:37 span gave them a 3-0 lead after one period. "We knew if we gave them a taste, just one win, we could be in trouble," added Langevin. "They would start saying, 'we know what we have to do to beat them.' The Islanders don't give teams a taste. It's something we pride ourselves in."

Nevertheless, the Oilers fought back with two goals in the second period. Jari Kurri scored in the opening minute and Mark Messier added his 15th goal of the playoffs with just 21 seconds remaining to close the gap to 3-2. But Bossy's goal remained the difference, as goaltender Billy Smith, who won the Conn Smythe Trophy as the playoffs' most valuable player, thwarted the Oilers for the remainder of the game. "They played disciplined hockey. It wasn't one person or one guy," said Wayne Gretzky, who, despite not scoring a goal in the finals, set a new playoff scoring mark with 38 points. "As a team, they play extremely well, and without a doubt, they shut us down offensively. When we did get by them, Smith was always there to make the big save."

Lakers want to wrap up Spurs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "It's winning time," a playoff proclamation by Earvin "Magic" Johnson, seems to have become the Los Angeles Lakers' theme. The Lakers, whipped 4-1 during meetings with San Antonio during the past regular season, can send the Spurs home for the summer with a victory in tonight's fifth game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference finals. Los Angeles holds a 3-1 edge going into the 8:30 p.m. PDT contest at the Forum and needs just one more victory to move into the championship finals against either the winner of the Eastern finals in which Philadelphia leads Milwaukee three-games-to-one. Despite having won the NBA title two of the past three years and being the defending champions, the Lakers were rather lightly regarded heading into this year's playoffs. But they've appeared to be building momentum as the playoffs progress. The Lakers took control of this series last weekend in San Antonio, impressively winning two contests there to build a two-game pad in the best-of-seven series. The absence of two injured front-line reserves, rookie James Worthy and veteran Bob McAdoo, was expected to hamper the Lakers' playoff chances. But McAdoo has come back strong and, along with Michael Cooper, gives the Lakers the same first seven players who won the NBA championship last year.

NBA Playoffs

Sixers cautious about blowing lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Billy Cunningham knows what it's like to blow a 3-1 lead in an Eastern Conference playoff final. He's been part of such a scene twice, once as a player and later as a coach. So, while he expects his Philadelphia 76ers to beat the Milwaukee Bucks tonight and advance to the National Basketball Association championship round, he isn't selling the Bucks short. "They're not a team to say the season is over," said Cunningham, whose 76ers lead the Eastern Conference best-of-seven final 3-1. Milwaukee trailed 3-0 before winning Sunday. If the Bucks upset the 76ers tonight, they would go home with a chance to tie the series Friday and extend it to a seventh game here Sunday. Cunningham was a forward for the 76ers in 1968 and the coach of the team in 1981 when the 76ers failed to maintain 3-1 Eastern division leads, falling both times to the Boston Celtics. He noted that Bucks Coach Don Nelson has to look at everything as positive as possible and transfer it to his team. "I have to make sure we're positive as well — also, make sure we know what can happen and make sure it doesn't happen," Cunningham said.

Angels down Aces in Senior

The Angels erupted for six runs in the sixth inning and went on to club the Aces 9-4 in a American Senior League game Tuesday night.

Felix Olivas earned the win for the Angels, allowing just two hits and getting good defense for his teammates. Loser Mickey Franco struck out nine and walked just two.

Mike Dodd, Rene Ruiz and John Hart had two hits and RBI each while Tony Rodriguez knocked in a pair of runs with a double.

The win boosts the Angels to 3-0 while the Aces lost for the first time in three games.

In a National Little League game, the Lions blanked the Rangers 2-0 as Chad Soles and Sammy Corillo teamed for a one-hitter. The pair had a perfect game going for five innings and had nine strikeouts between them.

Losing pitcher Thomas Moore fanned 15 and gave up just four hits.

Monday night, the Yankees pounded out a 12-1 victory over the Cardinals Monday night. Timmy Guterres struck out six and walked none during his three innings of work for the Yankees. Rickey Griffen went one inning to get the save.

Juan Samoro got the loss for the Cardinals.

For the Yankees, Wade Salvato picked up a triple, Guterres got two singles and Chase Frasier and James Williamson each slugged a double and a single.

Panatta out at Italian tournament

ROME (AP) — Adriano Panatta has been the king of Italian tennis for a decade, but his legs are slowing down and his waist is a little thicker as he nears the end of a great career.

For an hour Tuesday, the 32-year-old Panatta delighted a home crowd at the Italian tennis open with his full array of skills. But then the years took their toll and he bowed to 21-year-old Pablo Arraya of Peru 1-6, 6-4, 7-5 in what was probably one of his last appearances here.

"I wasn't tired," Panatta insisted after the match and said he wanted to play the French Open and gain a wildcard entry to Wimbledon. But he admitted that a first-round elimination at Rome would not impress the Wimbledon selection committee.

Panatta, who won the Italian and French opens in 1976 and has been the backbone of Italy's Davis Cup teams, is reported ready to call it quits later this year.

His quick elimination at the $375,000 Italian Open struck a further blow at a tournament sorely lacking in gate attractions.

Organizers expressed relief when top seeded Jose Higueras of Spain announced he would make a go of it despite a shoulder injury that made him a question mark. He reached his decision after a workout.

In play Tuesday, 17-year-old Pat Cash of Australia, junior champion at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open last year, beat Wally Masur of Britain 6-2, 6-0 in a first-round match.

Also 19-year-old Francesco Cancellotti of Italy, runner-up in last week's Florence tournament, eliminated Aaron Krickstein of the United States 7-6, 6-2.

Bobcats hold off Bel Air, 6-4

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Bobcats scored three times in the second inning and went on to down El Paso Bel Air 6-4 in the first game of their best-of-three series here Tuesday afternoon.

Jim Osborn limited the Highlanders, 22-3, to two runs in sixth innings but tired in the seventh. After he walked in two runs, Lance Harris came on with the bases loaded. He got Luis Maldonado to ground into a game-ending force play.

Bobcats hold off Bel Air, 6-4

Augie Alcalá drove in three runs for the Bobcats.

The series resumes Thursday in El Paso. Bel Air must win twice to advance to regionals.

The Bobcats are the champions of District 4-5A.

Foursome wins Chicano Golf

The foursome of Johnny Scott, Juan Montelongo, Hijino Moreno and Alex Escamelas teamed for a 66 to win the Chicano Golf Association selective drive tournament Sunday at the Comanche Trails Golf Course.

Pacers reject Rockets offering for No. 1 pick

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Pacers have rejected a deal proposed by the Houston Rockets for the Pacers to bow out of Thursday's coin flip to determine the No. 1 pick in June's National Basketball Association draft, a Pacer spokesman said today.

The No. 1 pick most likely will be Virginia's 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson.

"We're still listening to offers, but that offer I guess you could say we turned down," Pacer spokesman Dave Paitson said today of the offer the Rockets proposed Tuesday.

"At this point we're listing to what they have to say but they haven't offered us anything we would be willing to trade," Paitson said.

The Rockets offered Indiana their second pick in the draft (No. 3 overall), their No. 1 pick in the 1984 draft and Indiana's choice of either Caldwell Jones or Allen Leavell in exchange for the Pacers bowing out of the coin flip.

The deal "is just sitting on the table," Indiana assistant general manager Ray Compton had said Tuesday. "They called us up, and we just listened. We're not trying to create a deal by any means. We're perfectly content to go into the coin toss, stare them in the eye and flip."

SAVORY CAULIFLOWER SALAD
1 medium head cauliflower, broken into florets
1 (10-ounce) pkg. frozen English peas, cooked and drained or

1 (16-ounce) can English peas, drained
3/4 cup sliced radishes
3 stalks celery, thinly sliced
2 green chili peppers, finely chopped
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup milk
1 small onion, grated
1 1/2 tsp. seasoned salt
1/2 tsp. seasoned pepper
Combine first five ingredients in a medium bowl. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over cauliflower mixture; toss lightly to coat. Cover and chill. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE PUDDING CAKE
1/4 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup sifted flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. salt
2 cups shredded, pared apples
"Pudding Sauce"

COOKING BY THE BOOK — Deana Smith of Ackerly is searching for a recipe in one of her favorite cookbooks.

Cream butter and sugar till light and fluffy. Add egg; beat well. Sift together flour, soda, spices and salt. Gradually stir dry ingredients into creamed mixture. Stir in apples. Spread batter in greased 8" square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve with Pudding Sauce.

PUDDING SAUCE
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 evaporated milk
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/16 tsp. nutmeg
Combine butter, sugar and evaporated milk in small saucepan. Cook, stirring occasionally over low heat until slightly thickened (about 15 minutes). Add vanilla and nutmeg.

MONTERREY BEEF RICE SKILLET
1 lb. hamburger meat
1 cup raw rice
2 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. green chili
1/2 cup chopped onion

15 ounce canned tomato sauce
1 tsp. chili powder
2 1/2 cups water
8 ounce cream cheese, cubed
Brown beef and drain. Stir in rice, salt and onion. Saute for one minute. Add water and boil until water is absorbed. Add tomato sauce and chili powder and simmer an additional 5-10 minutes. Stir in cheese just until blended. Serve immediately.

MAPLE BROWNIES
2 eggs
3/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup maple syrup
6 Tbsp. butter
2-1 ounce squares unsweetened chocolate
3/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup nuts (optional)
1/4 tsp. salt
Beat together eggs, sugar and vanilla. Add syrup; mix well. Melt butter and chocolate over low heat, then remove from heat. Blend in egg mixture. Stir together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir into chocolate mixture. Stir in nuts. Spread in greased 9" square pan. Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool, dust with powder sugar. Serves 12.

HOPPIN' JOHN
1 cup dry black-eyed peas
8 cups water
6 slices bacon
3/4 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup regular rice
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

Rinse peas. Combine peas and water in large saucepan; bring to boiling, then boil for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand one hour. Drain, reserving six cups of liquid. In a heavy three quart saucepan cook bacon, onion and garlic until bacon is crisp and onion is tender, but not brown. Remove bacon, drain on towel and crumble. Stir peas, rice, pepper, salt and liquid into saucepan. Bring to boiling; cover and reduce heat. Simmer one hour, stirring occasionally. Stir in crumbled bacon. Serve immediately. Makes six servings.

LOUISIANA RED BEANS & RICE
1/2 lb. dry red beans (1 1/4 cups)
4 cups water
1/4 lb. salt pork, diced
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 Tbsp. snipped parsley
1/4-1/2 tsp. red pepper
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
Hot cooked rice

Rinse beans. Place in large Dutch oven, add water. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer two minutes. Remove from heat; cover and let stand for one hour. (Or combine beans and water; soak overnight.) Do not drain. Add salt pork, onion, celery, parsley, red pepper, garlic and bay leaf. Bring to boil; cover and simmer one hour and 45 minutes, stirring once or twice. Remove bay leaf. Mash beans slightly and serve over hot rice. Makes six servings.

COUNTRY HAM with RED EYE GRAVY
6-1/4" thick slices of country ham
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup strong black coffee
Saute ham in margarine in heavy skillet, turning several times. Remove from skillet and keep warm.
Stir sugar into pan drippings. Cook over low heat until sugar dissolves, stirring constantly. Add coffee, stirring well. Simmer gravy for five minutes and serve with ham. Serves six.

MICROWAVE CARAMEL CORN
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup corn syrup
1 stick butter
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
4 qts. popped corn
Combine sugar, butter, salt and corn syrup and bring to boil in microwave. Cook two minutes on high. Add soda. Put popped corn in grocery sack. Pour syrup over corn and shake. Cook 1 1/2 minutes on high, and shake. Repeat; cook for 45 seconds and put on pan to cool. Makes four quarts.

HONEY MACAROONIES
1 1/2 cup quick oats
1/2 cup flaked coconut
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup flour
3/4 packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 Tbsp. honey
36 red or green candied cherries

In large bowl stir together oats, coconut, nuts and flour. In saucepan, combine brown sugar, margarine and honey. Bring to boiling, stirring frequently. Pour over oat mixture, blending well. Press one level Tbsp. into greased 13 1/2" muffin tins. Top with cherry. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes. Cool 10 minutes in pan on rack, remove from rack and cool.

PEACHY PECAN CREPES
Dessert Crepes
1 cup flour
1 1/2 cup milk
2 eggs
2 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. cooking oil
1/4 tsp. salt
Combine all ingredients. Beat with rotary beater until well blended. Heat a lightly greased 6" skillet. Remove from heat. Spoon in two Tbsp. of batter. Lift and tilt skillet to spread batter. Return to heat and brown on one side (about 45 to 60 seconds). Invert pan over paper towel and remove crepe. Repeat greasing skillet each time. Makes 16 basic dessert crepes.

Filling
2-3 ounces pkgs. cream cheese
3 Tbsp. sugar
2 Tbsp. milk
1/2 tsp. orange peel
1/4 cup chopped pecans
Blend cheese, milk, sugar and orange peel. Spoon filling in center of unbrowned side of crepe. Sprinkle with pecans. Fold in half, fold again forming a triangle.

Sauce
1-29 ounce can peach slices
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 Tbsp. butter
1/2 cup orange juice

Drain peaches, reserving syrup. In skillet, blend syrup into cornstarch. Add orange juice, lemon juice and butter. Cook and stir until thick and bubbly. Add peaches and crepes. Spoon sauce over crepes and heat through.

Food grading aids consumers

What's the difference between USDA Prime Beef and USDA Choice beef? A recent survey sponsored by the Closure Manufacturers Association (CMA) indicates that 64 percent on consumers could benefit from additional information for their shopping decisions. Of these, 26 percent said they were not sure what government food grades and shields stood for. "Food grading is a service consumers can rely on to get the most out of their food dollar," said John B. Carroll, vice president of CMA, producer of container caps for prepared fruits, vegetables, juices and snacks. "Government agencies and food packers developed this efficient system of grades and symbols to provide a uniform standard of quality for meat, poultry, fruit and vegetables and dairy products." Government food grades, which are issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), first appeared during World War I. To help promote understanding of these grades and other quality indicators, the CMA offers these tips: U.S. Prime grade beef and lamb is the tenderest, juiciest and most flavorful, with abundant "marbling" (flecks of fat) within the lean. USDA Choice grade in high quality with slightly less marbling. USDA Good is leaner, lacking some juiciness and flavor. Select poultry by its age, grade and size. U.S. Grade "A" is top quality - the most meaty and attractive. Young smaller birds such as fryers, broilers or fryer roasts are suitable for barbecuing, frying, broiling or roasting. The less tender mature birds often called fowl or hen, serve well for stewing, baking, soups and salads. In prepared fruits and vegetables in jars, cans and frozen food sections, Grade A are the best, most uniform, flavorful and juicy. Grade B makes up a substantial portion of processed fruits and vegetables and are of very good flavor and overall quality. "Closure-sealed foods packed in clear glass jars offer visible evidence of their quality in color, uniformity and lack of blemishes," said Carroll. "Thus, many packers select the very best grades to 'show off' in jars." The USDA butter grade shields "AA" and "A" are found on 70 percent of all dairy case packages. They indicate level of flavor, aroma, texture, spreadability and quality of the milk from which the butter is made. All butter contains at least 80 percent milkfat. Margarine is not similarly graded. U.S. Grade "AA" (Fresh Fancy) and Grade "A" eggs are especially good for frying and poaching; Grade "B" are used mainly in recipes and baking. But shell color or size does not affect quality or nutritive value. Grade "A" means pasteurized milk that meets established stan-

Meatless meals may save money

Most people know that meatless meals would undoubtedly save money. But the question is, how do you go about planning them? For an easy starter that almost everyone can relate to how about a thick, creamy chowder made from vegetables, fish or shellfish or even fish that might be canned or leftover. These chowders usually have a milk base, slightly thickened. Serve with toasted cheese sandwiches. On a bone-chilling night, it's a combination certain to satisfy. As another starter, consider a meatless pasta such as spaghetti, macaroni, noodles or lasagna. A vegetable sauce made with tomatoes, onion, eggplant and seasonings can taste meaty and is very substantial in protein when Mozzarella, Provolone, cottage or Parmesan cheese are added. In either of these pasta dishes milk and/or cheese supply complete protein which is essential to the diet. Protein foods such as the chowders and pasta just described, also contribute satiety value, that quality of being satisfied, to meals so you don't feel hungry to soon afterward. Another way to serve a satisfying main dish to serve milk, eggs or cheese with other plant proteins, such as peanut butter or peas, beans or lentils. Because the two kinds of protein complement each other, we get substantial main dishes from combining two or more of them as in Chili Mac (meatless chili with macaroni and cheese), Bean Roast (a loaf made with beans and cheese) and Cheese Strata, one variety of which is a sandwich baked in an egg-milk custard. In mixing the two types of protein, you can also use beans with cheese in pita bread pockets and serve with a glass of milk for balance. Enchiladas of all kinds may be made with beans, vegetables and shredded cheese. What about vegetable quiche? Onion, broccoli, spinach and mushrooms have been used singly or with one another in the cheese custard pie. Serve as an appetizer in small wedges or squares or prepare larger ones for a main course. If you've been feeling the budget pinch for some time, substitute economical shrimp for ham, bacon, chicken, etc. in quiche. Leftover white-fleshed fish such as sole, haddock and halibut may also be used alone or with shrimp for quiche. Canned tuna, especially when purchased on sale, might well go into a casserole with rice, peas and cheese. Or, use those foods for a fish loaf for a different entree. Let your imagination and taste be your guide in developing new, economical food combinations. What about a potato-cheese-onion pie, made like a quiche with a single crust? Or creamed eggs over waffles or even baked potatoes? Have you tried cheese rabbit over rusk? Once you latch onto a few good combinations, it's easy to think of others.

1982 poker champion out of tournament

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The 1983 World Series of Poker championships will be missing a familiar name following Monday's elimination of Jack "Treetop" Straus, the 1982 champion.

The 52-year-old professional gambler from San Antonio, Texas, lost all his chips in the no-limit, $10,000 buy-in hold'em game Monday evening.

The championship event, the last of 13 games played in the month-long series, runs through Thursday.

Straus was philosophical about his loss.

"I guess I had one coming," he said. "It finally caught up with me."

Straus took home a record $520,000 in winnings last year.

A fellow Texan, John Jenkins of Austin, led Monday night after the first round of competition, piling up winnings of $40,000.

Straus said his early elimination will not change his aggressive style of play.

"I can't change," he said. "I'm too old to change."

This year's prize fund is a new record, tournament officials report.

Pope to visit solidarity strongholds

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Pope John Paul II's June 16-23 visit will take him to Warsaw and six other Polish cities, five of them strongholds of the outlawed Solidarity labor federation, according to an itinerary released Tuesday.

The itinerary, released by Poland's Roman Catholic bishops, contained few surprises, but confirmed that the pope will remain one day longer than originally planned.

It did not answer two major questions: whether the pope will meet with Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski and the head of Solidarity, Lech Walesa.

Polish officials have said they expect the pope will see Jaruzelski, probably at Warsaw's Belvedere Palace the morning after he arrives. But it was not clear why the visit was not mentioned in the itinerary.

The government has declined comment on whether the pope will meet with Walesa. The government apparently is concerned that a meeting would underscore papal support for the free trade union, but many Poles expect Walesa to seek a papal audience.

The pope's trip to his homeland in June 1979 has been linked to the beginning of social unrest in Poland that led to the formation of Solidarity. The pope has repeatedly spoken out in favor of jailed Solidarity supporters and has called for amnesty — a request which the government has rejected.

His first stop will be in Warsaw, where he will meet government and Communist Party leaders. From there, he will go to Niepokalanow to celebrate a Mass honoring St. Maksymilian Kolbe, a martyr of Nazi death camps, and Czestochowa, home of Black Madonna icon, Poland's holiest shrine.

One reason for his trip to Poland is to celebrate the 600th anniversary of the arrival of the Black Madonna in the Jasna Gora monastery.

During his stay, the pope will say open air masses in Warsaw, Poznan, Wroclaw, Katowice and Krakow. Attendance at each is projected by the church at about 1 million.

The visit comes at a time of increased tension between the church and state. On May 3, a gang carrying a police two-way radio beat six workers at a church relief center in Warsaw. The Roman Catholic church has demanded an investigation into the incident.

Shipyards in Gdansk have protested what they call a propaganda campaign in the state-run media against Walesa and his priest, the Rev. Henryk Jankowski. The press has accused Walesa, a devout Roman Catholic, of being privately critical of the pope and claims Jankowski's parents had pro-Nazi leanings.

In recent weeks, the police have detained Walesa and his aides several times and broke up May Day demonstrations by Solidarity supporters.

The church, sensitive to government fears of unrest during the papal visit, did not request a stop in the Baltic port of Gdansk, birthplace of Solidarity. However, the visits to Poznan, Krakow, Wroclaw, Katowice and Nowa Huta, the steel center outside Krakow, will carry the pope into Solidarity strongholds.

Citizens oppose nuclear plant

FORT WORTH (AP) — Soon after a government ruling that owners of the Comanche Peak nuclear plant near Glen Rose would not have to analyze thousands of pipe support systems, a group of citizens voiced strong opposition against the plant.

About 50 people attended a public hearing Monday night before the three-member panel of the U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board.

The common complaint among the group, which included area residents, officials and employees of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, was that there is no federal decision on how to dispose of nuclear waste.

"We will have the radioactive waste from that plant to worry about and worry about and worry about," said Dallas resident Dennis Danvers. "And when we're all dead, our children can carry on the tradition and expense of worrying about our nuclear waste. I'm sure they will remember us fondly."

The hearing at the Fort Worth Municipal building, which included members of the Citizens Association for Sound Energy (CASE), came on the heels of an ASLB ruling that the owners of the yet unfinished

Comanche Peak will not have to check thousands of pipe supports for their ability to withstand high temperatures.

A U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission study concluded the supports are adequate but uncovered other flaws. Hearings on quality control at the plant and emergency evacuation plans are scheduled for the remainder of the week.

Licensing board chairman Peter Bloch has asked for testimony on whether the flaws indicate "a larger pattern of problems."

Some people at the hearing questioned the competence of the engineers building the plant, about 80 miles southwest of Dallas.

"Here we have the problem of human error, carelessness, ignorance, and also the problem of a badly built plant," said Karen Chandler. "These do not seem to be people committed to safety."

However, the Texas Utilities Co., the primary owner of the plant, called the government decision a victory.

"I felt like the ruling was basically supporting what we've been doing all along," utility spokesman Homer Schmidt said.

An engineer who worked on the project and a CASE witness said the ruling was a setback.

"We lost that point," said Mark Walsh.

CASE had argued that Texas Utilities' decision not to analyze the effect of thermal expansion on pipe supports violated federal requirements and could lead to a meltdown in an accident at the plant.

Others complained that the plant is costing billions of dollars more than the original budget. Texas Utility originally said Comanche Peak would cost $779 million, but later revised it to $3.4 billion.

Drug easing transplants

HOUSTON (AP) — Patients suffering from failing kidneys are not as hesitant to have transplants because of the development of cyclosporine, the scientist who discovered the anti-rejection drug said Tuesday.

"Dialysis really affects a person's life, some patients are psychologically affected by it," said Dr. J.F. Borel, who is attending the First International Congress on Cyclosporine. "The success rate in kidney transplants has made it preferable to dialysis.

"If the organ fails, you can still have dialysis to go back to." Doctors view cyclosporine as a major breakthrough in the transplantation of donor organs because it helps prevent the body from rejecting the organ.

The four-day conference is being held to inform doctors who don't have experience with the drug.

Dr. David Winter, East Hanover, N.J., said dramatic improvement in the success rate of transplants has been recorded at numerous control centers that use cyclosporine.

"This is what is so interesting to me is that different centers use cyclosporine in different ways but they all are showing impressive results," Winter said.

The use of cyclosporine in kidney transplants has boosted the one-year survival rate from 50 to 75 percent to 70 to 90 percent, Winter said.

Heart transplants show a two-year survival rate of 80 percent with the use of cyclosporine, compared to 56 percent without the drug, he said. Winter said Dr. T.E. Starzl of the University of Pittsburgh, had improved the one-year survival rate for liver transplants from 32 percent without the drug to 70 percent with its use.

"No one will even attempt a liver transplant without using cyclosporine," Winter said.

Borel said it took Sandoz about 12 years to develop the drug at a cost of about $50 million. The drug currently is under consideration by the Food and Drug Administration for final approval for widespread use.

Although cyclosporine is more expensive than the drugs it replaces, it is less expensive than dialysis, Borel said.

Sandoz sells the drug at a fixed price but its cost to the patient varies, Borel said.

Winter said the average cost to a patient would range between $5,000 and $7,000 according to the patient's weight.

Dr. Barry D. Kahan of the University of Texas Medical School is president of the conference. Kahan has used cyclosporine during the past two years in some 150 kidney transplants.

Last summer, he initiated a heart transplant program with the drug in collaboration with Dr. Denton Cooley at the Texas Heart Institute.

Cooley has performed six heart transplant operations using cyclosporine and five patients have survived.

U.S. wants report on disappearances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department expressed disappointment Tuesday that Argentina has failed to issue a complete and detailed account of the fate of the thousands of people who disappeared during a campaign against alleged subversives in the mid-1970s.

The Argentine government issued a report two weeks ago declaring that all of those who disappeared are dead and acknowledging "errors" that went beyond the limits of fundamental human rights.

But the government did not say how many people were involved or give any of the circumstances of their deaths. It did assert that it acted "to save the nation" and said that it would take similar action in the future if that were necessary.

The State Department joined a number of governments and groups that have voiced dissatisfaction with the report.

"We share the disappointment that others have expressed that an occasion has been lost to begin the resolution of this question," said John Hughes, the State Department's chief spokesman.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get out from under difficult problems through the use of tact and diplomacy. Analyze and systematize your activities. Do not get upset when details don't work out.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) There is an opportunity for you to make progress via an older person or some legal affair. Your schedule changes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting your work done in the morning leaves time for some entertainment you like. Don't be sassy with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your loved one can give you good advice in the morning, but tonight the situation at home requires tact and patience.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may receive a letter from a friend which brings you benefits. Come to the right decisions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Older individuals are very cooperative, but money matters bore you, so forget them for a while. Finish tasks at hand.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle those financial affairs about which you have procrastinated for some time. Get out and see someone you like.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Gain that desire that means so much to you. You have difficulty getting your ideas across to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget that friend who is erratic and could spoil your day. Don't be pushy in personal matters as it's detrimental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Avoid someone in authority who is irate today. Some new contact has information you need, so get it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show loved one you are steadfast and loyal. Avoid a stranger whose ideas are radically different from your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You gain an unexpected benefit in the morning, so get your bills paid this evening. Carry through on good ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't tax the patience of a loved one. You can accomplish a great deal during the day, but relax this evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will get much data from those who are experienced. Teach early in life the importance of being successful. A more understanding attitude of others will be acquired. Give good religious training to stay on right track.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
