Man killed when hit by car

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

A New Mexico man was killed early Saturday morning when he was struck from behind by a vehicle 4.2 miles south of Big Spring. Robert Martinez, 36, of Hobbs, N.M. was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Bobby West at 3:23 a.m., according to DPS Trooper Glen Redmon. West ordered an autopsy at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Redmon said.

A Howard County man has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the accident, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Terry Gamble, 30, of Sterling City Route posted $20,000 bond to be released Saturday.

The accident occurred on north of Todd Road off Highway 87. Martinez was apparently walking south on the improved shoulder of the road when he was hit and thrown 150 feet, Redmon said.

The man's back, neck and both legs were broken by the impact, according to Redmon.

Dr. Robert Rember's autopsy also revealed Martinez had been "hit square from behind," Redmon said.

Two Howard County sheriff's deputies were also called to the scene.

Police settle armed standoff

Robbery suspect barricades himself in restaurant; no injuries

A tense standoff between police and an armed man barricaded at the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant at 2200 Gregg Friday night ended when a Big Spring policeman lunged through a window to subdue the man.

Robert Loveless, 24, of 2606 E. 24th, the manager of the Kentucky Fried Chicken for the last six months, was charged Saturday with aggravated robbery since he allegedly robbed the store earlier in the evening.

No shots were fired and there were no injuries during the incident, police said.

The standoff took place Friday between 10 p.m. and 11:20 p.m. Police blocked all traffic in a three-block perimeter from the restaurant.

According to witnesses and Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner, the following incidents occurred.

At 6:48 p.m., Loveless allegedly entered the store armed with a snubnosed .38-caliber pistol and demanded all the money in the cash register. Employee Jeff Keller said he first thought his boss was joking and resisted the request.

"When he pulled his gun and pointed it at me, I gave in," Keller said Friday night at the scene.

The robbery was reported and

police were still looking for Loveless when he returned to the restaurant at 10:05 p.m., apparently to return the money. He momentarily held two employees hostage, then released them after one of the employees promised to call the police.

"He told me and Johnny (Mata) to stay with him, but I left — I wouldn't stay," Keller said.

"Johnny crawled through the (drive-through) window and came over here (Baskin-Robbins) and called the cops."

"If you don't have enough b--- to come in and kill me, I'll kill myself," Loveless reportedly said to arriving policemen.

Police quickly surrounded the restaurant and established a telephone contact with Loveless restaurant at 11:10 p.m. to take from Baskin-Robbins ice cream store across 22nd Street. Detective Robert Stapp was still talking to Loveless when Turner ordered all streets blocked around the buildings at 10:45 p.m.

Patrolman Dean Boyd, an acquaintance of Loveless, spoke briefly on the phone with the barricaded man. Then Boyd crossed over to the Loveless some cigarettes he had requested.

The two talked through the drive-through window of the restaurant. Loveless waved his arms and yelled obscenities at people gathered across the street.

"Get some ice cream and have a laugh on me, a-----," Loveless screamed.

Keller said Loveless was not getting along with his family, his employer and his girlfriend. Keller, who has been at Kentucky Fried Chicken for a year and a half, said he talked to the manager "all the time."

Keller also described Loveless to Turner as a man who "loses his temper fast and is real emotional."

"I've never seen him like this," Keller said. "He's crazy man. He said he didn't have nothing going for him."

Loveless directed several insults at the police chief, who was crouched behind the restaurant.

The capture came when Loveless flailed his arms into the air and spun around with his back to Boyd. The young patrolman bolted forward, diving through the window to tackle Loveless at the shoulders.

With Boyd's sudden action, a call of "Go, Go!" sounded and approximately 25 other policemen stormed the building with pistols, rifles and shotguns ready. They immediately surrounding Loveless.

Boxers fight to keep their Northside home

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A ragged frame building on Northwest Fourth street has seen in the past year the emptiness of abandonment, the cheers of a championship team and, currently, contention between its occupants and the Big Spring school board.

Originally an elementary school, the structure now houses the Howard County Boxing Team, an enthusiastic group of 30 youngsters who have punched their way to wins in regional and state competition.

Strife arose recently because the team believes they may be faced with losing their home. The property owner — the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees — may sell it.

The old Lakeview YMCA building had been long abandoned when County Commissioner Louis Brown asked the school board if the team could use it for a training facility. At that time the structure was rotting and served only as a shelter for transients.

The board granted the team permission in March 1982 to borrow it without cost until the property could be appraised and advertised for sale.

Boys, parents and boxing fans descended on the building to clean it and make it palatable as a training center.

"We begged and borrowed for paint and carpet," said Sarah Garza, who has two sons on the team.

"Nobody wanted this place before. We even had to clean human excrement from the walls where the bums from the trains had been."

Though the building still is weathered and worn, the team is gushingly proud of their handiwork. As mothers lead a tour of the center they point out the sheet rock they've installed, the plumbing they've repaired and the carpet and curtains they've hung.

The center room is furnished with a boxing ring surrounded by walls splashed with patriotic red, white and blue paint. The mothers arranged the snack room so they can watch the boxing bouts while they serve refreshments.

"When we go out of town, other people envy us because we have a building at all," Mrs. Garza said.

In essence, the Howard County Boxing Team has come to think of the building as their own and do not want to see it taken away. They have plans for further refurbishing, but those improvements have been abandoned until they know what is to become of the building.

Also, the young team was asked recently to host the Texas Region 9 Boxing Tournament on June 3-5, a request they consider an honor reflecting outstanding performances in Amateur Boxing Federation competition.

So the potential sale of the property seems a slap in the face to those involved with the program, team members said.

"For what little they get for the building, how does it compare to what they take away?" Mrs. Garza asked.

School board member Jimmy Anderson said Friday that the board has not made a decision on the facility's future, although the matter was discussed at an April 18 board meeting.

"There hasn't been brought to this board member's attention any results from the appraisal or any plans to sell the building," Anderson said.

"Some people have called about it, but there is nothing definite yet. It was the board's decision that we didn't need the property and that it wasn't being useful to us."

"I wasn't aware that the boxing team was using the facilities," he continued. "A lot of this has come to light since that time. At the next school board meeting we should have more information to

Action/reaction: School days

Q. Are the public schools going to begin an 11-month school year?
A. No, according to Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Lynn Hise. Although a national educational task force has recommended a longer school year and school day, Texas is not changing its current year any time soon, Hise said. He pointed out Texas public schools already have the suggested seven-hour school day.

Storms still rage in Houston area

HOUSTON (AP) — Tornadoes, hail, heavy rains and howling winds pummeled Southeast Texas for a second day Saturday, forcing at least 600 people to flee rising flood waters and hampering efforts to clean up destruction called the worst in more than two decades.

Residents in the six-county area in and around the nation's fifth largest city were granted a brief respite after waves of tornadoes ravaged the area Friday, claiming at least 10 lives and injuring at least 100, leaving as many as 1,000 families homeless and about 200,000 without electricity.

On Saturday, a third storm system spewed at least eight tornadoes as it marched eastward across the region. The system dumped rain and one-inch hail on swollen rivers and saturated ground.

The National Weather Service said the storm system moved into Louisiana Saturday evening, leaving lingering clouds but ending the threat of additional tornadoes and heavy rains that already have caused creeks and rivers to overflow.

"The worst is over," said NWS spokesman Bob Fields. "There may be some clouds and a few light

Police Beat

Woman shot on Gregg St.

Big Spring police were still investigating the apparent shooting of a woman at approximately 12:15 a.m. Sunday morning at the 1600 block of Gregg St.

Details were sketchy at presstime, but police had a suspect in the shooting.

A man at the scene who asked not to be identified said he saw a car drive by and "the driver stuck a gun out the window and fired."

The victim was being treated and questioned at a local hospital at presstime.

Car stereo equipment valued at $170 was reported stolen at 8:13 a.m. from the vehicle belonging to Jeffrey Allen Keller of 3700 Hamilton. Keller had been the victim of a holdup and was held hostage briefly Friday night at Kentucky Fried Chicken where he is employed.

Robert Johnson, 20, of 1506 State was arrested for suspicion of driving while license suspended. He was later released on bond after transfer to Howard County sheriff's office.

Porfirio Ortiz of Big Lake was arrested by the Department of Public Safety for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was arraigned before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt and released after posting $2,500 bond.

Antonio Ontiveros, 18, of 116 N.E. 11th was arrested for suspicion of DWI and traffic warrants. Ontiveros was arraigned before Daratt and released after posting $2,500 bond.

Police say they arrested John Rowland Danko, 22, of 118 E. 3rd and Lewis Medley, 26, of the Howard House Saturday. Danko is charged with suspicion of no drivers license and failure to maintain financial responsibility. He remains in police custody.

Medley was charged with unauthorized carrying of a weapon after officers observed a long hunting knife and a revolver in Danko's vehicle on the passenger side, according to police reports. He posted $5,000 bond to be released.

Christopher Morgan of 611 Douglas reported $120 in cash stolen from his house between Friday and Saturday. According to police, the door was kicked in and the thief went straight to the money.

Poncho's Newstand on 312 Rannels was the victim of a BB gun when a pellet shattered the $75 front door window between 9 p.m. Friday and 5 a.m. Saturday.

Andres Vargas Pereira, 31, of 1317 Kindle is being held in Howard County jail without bond in connection with the May 10 shooting death of Hector G. Valdez, 30, of 507 1/2 Bell. Pereira was transferred from city jail where he has been held since his arrest May 11.

Lee Smith, 30, of 1605 Cardinal posted $15,000 bond to be released after his arrest by city police for suspicion of burglary. Smith was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Robert Charles Johnson, 20, of 1506 State posted $1,000 bond to be released after his arrest for suspicion of driving while license suspended. Bond was set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

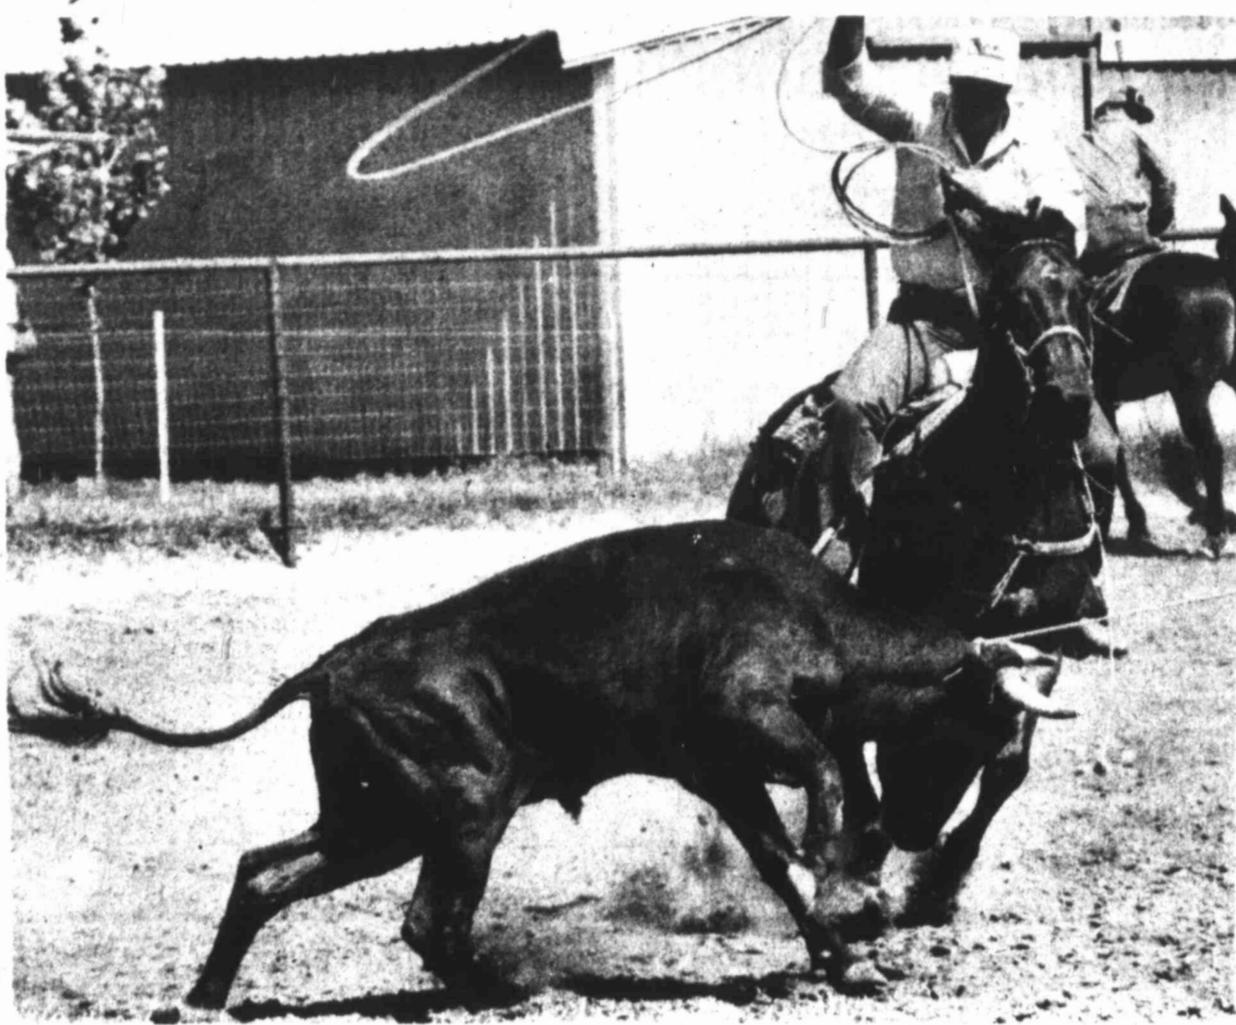

Lillie Acosta, no age given, of Lamesa paid $60.88 in fines to Heflin's office after her arrest in Dawson County in connection with a Howard County warrant for worthless checks.

Commissioners to open bids

Howard County commissioners are expected to meet Monday at 9 a.m. in the courthouse with County Auditor Jackie Olson in connection with opening of bids and a budget workshop.

Commissioners are also expected to hear from County Agricultural Extension Agent Don Richardson concerning his vehicle problems. The extension office has been the victim of two vehicle mishaps: one a fire engulfed and a blown engine in the second.

County Engineer Bill Mims is expected to discuss the summer employment program with commissioners in addition to equipment problems. District Clerk Peggy Crittenden is also scheduled to meet with commissioners.

TAKING DOWN THE BULL — Shannon Boyles of Coahoma edges closer in order to rope a bull at the First Annual Bill Hudson art and roping exhibit Saturday in Colorado City. The roping event began at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Anderson Arena north of Colorado City on Highway 208. The affair featured an art auction and an art exhibit in addition to the roping. The event's organizers had not released roping results at presstime Saturday.

Loveless was placed in custody and tentatively charged with aggravated robbery, according to Turner.

"There was no resistance, he didn't fight after Boyd dove through the window," Turner said.

At an 11:50 p.m. press conference Friday, Turner praised the actions of the police force, especially Boyd. "We feel very fortunate the situation turned out like it did," Turner said. "Boyd showed good judgment in a risk-taking situation."

"In a lighter moment, the police chief said although he had given Boyd latitude to take action, the patrolman's rapid vault through the window "was a surprise to me."

The police chief said Boyd had developed a relationship with Loveless following a similar incident at Loveless's home. Boyd had also disarmed the man at that time, Turner said.

Turner said he hoped "some kind of psychological evaluation for him" could be arranged.

Thoughts of a Run Classic participant

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The air was cool and brisk yesterday morning at the Spring Run Classic as the nearly-200 runners approached the starting line.

Unfortunately, I was not.

As a runner (more or less) for several years, the desire to run in every race possible has always been there. However, the body has been elsewhere.

With two races under my belt, I wanted to run in this local event as well. But the 10-kilometer (6.2 miles for your non-metric types) was beyond my tortured lungs and wobbly legs. In short, I was in terrible shape.

But that old competitive spirit called (run, you dummy) so there I was at the line for the two-mile race. Actually I wasn't "at the line." I was somewhere back in the pack so nobody would run over me.

Although touted as a "fun run," the two-mile was no fun for me. Without the urging of Sports Editor Greg sprinkles through the night, but no more. The front has shifted and moved into Louisiana and eastward."

Harris County authorities left intact flood warnings for people living in low-lying areas of Houston.

NWS meteorologist Steve Harned estimated Lake Houston would crest three-to-five-feet above flood stage on Sunday and threaten residents in the Channelview and Lynchburg suburbs through Monday.

Civil defense officials urged residents to evacuate the area.

"That water will go right down the San Jacinto River. There are several thousand people in that area and we're advising them to get out while they still can," said John Caswell of the Houston-Harris County Civil Defense office.

Three tornadoes dipped out of the black skies near Sealy and Bellville in Austin County, west of Houston.

Two were spotted near Houston Intercontinental Airport, while one touched down in an open field in west Houston and another popped out of the sky west of downtown Houston.

Jakiewicz, I would probably be collapsed on some backroad near O.I.L.

The first 50 yards went fine — I passed two pudgy older guys and a little girl. After that, everything went downhill — primarily because we were running uphill on "Chain-Gang Lane" (bad joke).

Steadily dropping back, I could barely see the front-runners of not only the two-mile, but the 10K as well. After the first curve, people were whizzing by me. I began worrying about finishing.

Circling the barrels to begin the mile back (9 minutes, 18 seconds), I could see my competition coming up: a three-year-old girl and her mom and a teenager who was walking. I stepped up my pace.

With a quarter of a mile to go, my lungs felt like collapsed tea bags; my breathing resembled the wail of a discarded bagpipe; my legs were wet Rice-A-Roni.

But with Greg's encouragement ("That guy behind you's going kill you!"), I managed to finish strong and earn a firm handshake from Race Organizer Craig Bailey.

Next year, the 10K — look out, Stephen Stallings.

In Port Arthur, a tornado was sited near Sour Lake but apparently did no damage.

The twisters retreated to the clouds without causing any damage or injuries, authorities said.

In Central Texas, tornadoes touched down near Gonzales and Northrup, where a woman was injured, and near Dublin and Gorman.

"My husband told me to take a vacation, get away and relax. So what do I do, I come to tornado country," said Linda Rolls of Reno, Nev.

Reagan preparing for international summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, host to next week's summit of the world's major industrial democracies, may gain politically from being at the center of an international stage. But administration officials are aware a poorly-run summit could cost him dearly.

The president's aides have been preparing for the meeting in Williamsburg, Va., for nearly six months, and Reagan will spend most of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in pre-summit briefings.

But there is concern that White House and State Department hopes for the conference could be skewed by serious differences among the participants, particularly over the U.S.

budget deficit. Concern about the deficit is strong among leaders of the guest nations, since they contend it tends to push up interest rates, which in turn tends to raise the value of the dollar against other currencies.

It was just a year ago, at the start of the summit conference in Versailles, France, that Reagan said he would succeed in reducing the federal deficit over the next three years "with a balanced budget in sight." Instead, estimates of the deficit have ballooned to the vicinity of $200 billion a year.

White House and State Department officials say that while the summit can have a short-lived impact on the president's political standing, the lasting impact can only come if the meeting improves the nation's economic picture.

"The history of economic summits is that they've only had a modest impact on the political standing of presidents," said David R. Gergen, Reagan's assistant for communications.

"The summit, over the Memorial Day weekend, will not be a spectacle for a lot of people," he said. "They won't be watching every night" on television.

But, he said, "if the summit explodes, that is harmful."

Scientists lose Viking on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A last-ditch effort to contact the silent Viking I lander on Mars' dusty Plains of Gold has failed and scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory confirmed "we have lost it."

"We've had no luck yet and it looks like we are out of luck," John Schlenz, operations chief of the laboratory's Deep Space Network, said Saturday.

"We're still trying, but the feeling is that the batteries died. There is nothing else we know of at this time (that caused Viking's failure)."

Scientists made several unsuccessful attempts to raise a signal from the craft between 7:30 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. PDT, Schlenz said.

AIRPLANE DISPLAY — Thomas Gay of the Big Spring Model Aircraft Association argues the ability of his Smurfs plane Saturday at the association's show in the Big Spring Mall. Gay, along with members John Turner, Layne Mims, Bob Karwedsky and others, were promoting their hobby and their first model aircraft fly-in July 17. The association members fly their radio-controlled and static-line model planes every Sunday at the old Howard County airport.

Southeast Texas storms Over 500 flee rising river

CONROE (AP) — Rescue workers used boats and four-wheel-drive vehicles in a race with new storms Saturday as about 500 people were forced to take refuge in Montgomery County centers.

Rain continued to pelt the area north of Houston and several tornado sightings were reported a day after twisters killed two county residents and injured at least a dozen others.

Some people refused to leave their homes even though creeks ran as deep as 20 feet over some county roads, said constable's officer J. McDougal.

"We've got several families over in east county that won't leave," he said. "We've been telling them, 'OK, give me your name, date of birth and next of kin so we can notify them when we find your body.'"

McDougal said the threat usually was effective.

Some of the heaviest flooding came in the heavily forested southeast part of the county, where tornadoes turned trees into missiles Friday morning. County Judge Jimmie Edwards said about 25,000 people live in that area.

"The damage is tremendous in the Porter area from the tornado Friday morning," Edwards said. "The more rain we get, the worse it gets."

Edwards said 50 National Guardsmen were standing by to aid civil defense and county workers in evacuation efforts.

About eight inches of rain soaked the county between Friday morning's tornado and early Saturday afternoon, Edwards said.

"We have water in the homes and the river and creeks still rising. But we don't know how extensive the damage is or will be. We're still in the middle of a storm," said Nancy Mayes, the county civil defense director.

The San Jacinto River ran high out of its banks and threatened to force further evacuations.

"Every time we project the crest, we get more rain," Edwards said. "We've just quit making predictions."

Nonetheless, he said officials expected the river to rise to 23 feet if rain stopped Saturday afternoon. He said 24 feet would be extremely critical.

"We are saturated," Edwards said. "We are full."

At the Montgomery County Courthouse east annex between New Caney and Porter, one of the five refugee centers opened Saturday afternoon. About 275 people had registered by mid-afternoon, said David Martin, an American Red Cross Worker.

Among those who sought shelter were Frank and Patti Berry, of Porter, who owned "half a house, if it's still there." The house was still under construction but the family was living there.

Mrs. Berry said she left with the two children Saturday morning but returned later to try to persuade her parents, Frances and Wayne Center, to evacuate. They refused.

"We have hogs and goats and chickens and so on," she said, explaining her parents' reluctance to leave. Berry added, "They're stubborn."

By the time the family left her parents' home, Mrs. Berry said, they had to use a boat to get their children across swollen Peach Creek.

"We could have let them try to walk out, but they tend to panic," Mrs. Berry said. She said she and her parents spent several hours trying to rescue the animals.

"I have one hen sitting on the bathtub," she said.

Berry said he got emergency leave from the Navy to return home to Porter because of flooding.

Reagan gives more swats to U.S. schools

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — President Reagan, declaring "we just haven't been getting our money's worth," said Saturday that the nation's schools were not making the grade and more federal dollars will not help.

"The road to better education for all our people simply cannot be paved with more and more recycled tax dollars collected, redistributed, and over-regulated by Washington bureaucrats," the president told 1,900 graduates, faculty and guests at commencement ceremonies at Seton Hall University.

The four-year Roman Catholic college is in this north Jersey town, about 15 miles west of New York City.

Visits to the northeast have been rare for Reagan, who has been concentrating his public appearances in the politically friendly Sun Belt. The northeast is considered less crucial than the South and West to any reelection plans if Reagan seeks a second term.

But one Republican strategist, who spoke on condition that he not be identified, pointed out that New Jersey has been friendly territory for recent Republican presidential candidates. Reagan enjoyed a landslide victory there in 1980, President Nixon carried the state by a wide margin in his 1972 campaign for re-election and President Ford won there by a slight margin in 1976.

When he was introduced, Reagan was given a standing ovation from most, but not all, of the graduates.

At least one graduate and several faculty members walked out as the president started to speak. Earlier, they had distributed a notice of their plans to protest his appearance and the high unemployment rate in the area.

While the president spoke, chanting from about 100 persons demonstrating outside the campus' main gates could barely be heard. They were gathered to protest the president's arms policies and efforts to increase funding to Central America. Another group of about the same size came to support his stand against the regime of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

The president used his speech to seek support for his proposal to give parents of children in private schools tax credits based on the tuition they pay. The proposal would ease the cost of sending youngsters to religious and non-religious private schools, but critics contend the plan risks cuts in public school funding.

Reagan also encouraged prayer in schools, saying, "Although I know that this idea is not too popular in some supposedly sophisticated circles, I can't help but believe that voluntary prayer and the spiritual values that have shaped our civilization and made us the good and caring society we are, deserve a place again in our nation's classrooms."

The president advocated paying and promoting teachers "on the basis of their merit and competence."

"Hard-earned tax dollars should encourage the best," he said. "They have no business rewarding incompetence and mediocrity."

In most public school systems, pay raises are based on length of teachers' service and education level.

"We spend more money per child for education than any other country in the world — we just haven't been getting our money's worth," the president said.

"Many of our high schools are not doing the job they should," he said.

"Again and again, when compared to students in the other industrialized nations, many of ours place badly," Reagan said, adding that by some estimates, half the nation's gifted youngsters are not meeting their potential.

"That's a criminal waste of our most precious national resource, you, our sons and daughters," he said.

"There was a time, not too long ago, when the solution to this problem would have been summed up by most politicians in one big five-letter word: money. Just pour more money on the problem, the conventional wisdom went, and it would go away," he said.

The president acknowledged that his message on the state of the nation's schools was "what you'd expect to hear" from a conservative.

Robot speaks at graduation

ARNOLD, Md. (AP) — Commencement exercises at Anne Arundel Community College on Saturday were absolutely traditional except for one thing: The speaker was 4 1/2 feet tall, had a chrome head and went by the name of Robot Redford.

The decision by officials of the two-year college to march bravely into the future with a robot leading the way as commencement speaker created controversy within the student body and anxiety within the college administration.

But in the end, it all went smoothly. Robot Redford had its big moment, doing little but roll to the front of the stage and turn from side to side while its creator, William Bakaleinikoff, spoke through an off-stage microphone. "Computers are now a part of us all," he said.

"If it had been better programmed, to talk and to deliver the address, I would have liked it better," said graduate Burton Edwards, whose field of study was computer technology.

But Robot Redford was clearly upstaged by the event's human participants.

It was class valedictorian Kathleen Hammac who brought the crowd to its feet for a standing ovation, when she broke into tears while thanking her parents and two small daughters for their support during her education.

Waste not, Watt not...

Interior Secretary James Watt, it turns out, considers himself a consumer advocate. It was for the consumers' sake, he recently told Congress, that he didn't quibble about the price he'd take from the coal industry for the largest tract of coal land ever leased in America — a price the Government Accounting Office estimates was $100 million short of fair market value for the land.

It was so future consumers wouldn't run out of energy supplies or jobs "10 or 15 years down the road" that Watt says he chose to lease so much government land now — at a time of such soft demand in the coal industry — that he is flooding the market, driving down the price the public can obtain for its land, and turning over to a few coal companies all future decisions about when and for what price the coal should be mined and sold back to the public that used to own it.

Indeed, Watt has promised his consumer constituency that — whatever the protest — he will continue these sales. Congress may think there's a law against selling the public's property at bargain-basement prices, but that's not how Watt interprets it. He will not, he says, "seek to optimize the dollar return at the expense of future consumers."

With friends like this, the consumers of America hardly need enemies.

WHAT WE DO NEED is for Congress to call a halt to the fire sale that the conservator of the public's estate seems to think is in our interest. In fact, we need a change of conservators: someone who doesn't think it is his responsibility, as one of Watt's staffers proudly told a congressional investigator, to put as much of our assets as he can on the market as fast as he can; someone who doesn't have an other-worldly glint in his eye when he assures the members of Congress who are demanding a practical approach to this real estate leasing that he himself has "a different philosophy."

It's doubtful Watt would have lasted this long if he were the conservator, with this "philosophy," of President Reagan's private estate. Why is he still minding the public's?

Reckless advice

Richard Gere's latest film, "Breathless," has been crowdstruck this past week during its run at the Big Spring Cinema, a condition I can only attribute to the lackluster manner in which it has been promoted by its producers.

Fortunately, the movie has been moved to the R/70 and held over for another week to give you one more chance to see this quickly funny adaptation of Jean-Luc Godard's 1959 French classic.

PLOT IS NOT important here — it's the last thing one remembers of the film — so don't be put off by its description. Gere plays a petty car thief named Jesse Lujack on the lam for accidentally shooting a cop. Instead of running for his life, the dopey romantic remains in Los Angeles to pursue the lovely Monica, played by French model Valerie Kaprisky.

The plot sounds like every low-grade desperado movie ever filmed, but it's demotedly different. "Breathless" is a very stylish and sexy film noir, a lovers-on-the-run film with a sleek pop veneer. It combines art film with "B" movie, comic strip and dramatic reality, Harlequin novel and existential romance.

Lujack is an "all or nothing" dude, all strutting postures and wild impulses. He displays devil-may-care bravado when he's actually way over his head in trouble. Jesse gains flashes of inspiration from rock 'n' roll holler Jerry Lee Lewis and philosophizes over a comic book hero called the Silver Surfer.

GERE DISPLAYS a goony comic bent that keeps cropping up between bouts of passion and panic. When he's dressed outlandishly in plaid pants and open knit shirt, it's almost painful to look at him, the awful jerk — although the animal magnetism is there.

But at such moments when Lujack becomes overwhelmed with the passion of a momentous decision and breaks into song, he overwhelms the screen with his goofy charm.

"We can't go on together, with suspicious minds," he moans with an Elvis Presley hip twist as he leaps into the shower with Kaprisky instead of hot footing it to the border.

Kaprisky plays a fairly one-dimensional character, a beautiful and ambitious architecture student who can't fight off Jesse's mesmerizingly reckless romance.

"Breathless" features an exciting rock and roll score and vivid cinematography. A chase scene through Los Angeles leaves one almost breathless with its futuristic wall murals, art nouveau architecture and blazing colors.

So be a little reckless yourself and risk seeing the movie. It's worth the ticket price.

A salute to big people

Pat Porter, that man about town, called me up Friday and dictated a letter to the editor over the telephone. He asked me to polish it up and make it look good, but the way it's printed here is almost word for word the way he said it.

Dear Editor,
I was at the VIP party Wednesday night and I saw what they were talking about when they call celebrities big men.

Now, I'm bigger than Larry Mahan — he's no bigger than a bar of soap. I'm reminded of the story about Hipshot. When asked if he knew so-and-so, Hipshot replied, "Yes, I always liked him because he was such a big man."

"Apparently you didn't know him because he was only 5-foot-3," the other fellow answered. Hipshot responded, "I wasn't talking about how tall he was, I was talking about how big he was."

I met some awfully big men that did a terrific job for a group of little children Wednesday night. I had a small portion and was very proud to be a part of it, because I was in the midst of a star-studded crowd.

PAT PORTER

Pat, of course, was referring to all the big people who had a part in the First Annual Shriners Signal Peak Pro-Am Golf Tournament, which raised more than $15,000 this week for the Shriners' hospitals for children and burn victims.

I'd like to add my hearty amen to his letter. Many people worked long and hard to make this event a success, and a success it certainly was.

And now I'd like to leave you with a parting thought to consider this week:

"I am happy because I am fulfilling my purpose in life. Ten wise men who know their purpose in life are better than 1,000 who work from sunup to sundown and don't know theirs."

Out To Lunch

Among the silver threads

Who said "life begins at 40"? Or 45, for that matter. I'm not sure I can subscribe to that platitude when I'm constantly surrounded by reminders that I wasn't born yesterday, nor even the day before.

Reminders day in and day out — enough to convince me I need help to grow old gracefully — help, for instance, with former "laugh lines" that now can only be classified as crevasses. Someone suggested a hair style with bangs to cover the forehead wrinkles. What about the rest of the wrinkles! Bangs to the chin are hard to explain. And rather tacky, too.

IF I FIND myself humming, one of the children is bound to ask, "what is THAT old song?" and it's something recorded in 1955 by Gordon MacRae, "MOTH-er," they say, rolling their eyes in disbelief, continuing to gyrate around the house to "jam boxes" loaded with the beats of "The Culture Club," "Adam Ant" and "The Human League." I roll MY eyes in disbelief.

Television commercials. Why don't any 20-year-olds have trouble with their plumbing or digestion? It's always some poor old soul who looks as if he just walked out of Carlsbad Caverns backwards and needs someone who cares enough to send the best. And the exotic cosmetic commercials featuring no one over 22½. I'm beginning to believe toiletries for those of us who will never see "40" again consist only of Lava soap and a Brillo pad. Have you noticed these days so many doctors, policemen and ministers look like Boy Scouts? I'm certain they can cure me, protect me and help me to the hereafter, but they look so YOUNG.

SOMETHING terrible has happened to the "sixes" and "eights" in our numerical system — lately, they've begun to look exactly alike. Strangers answer when I dial the numbers of my friends. Once, I even received from a mail order service a 64-piece socket wrench set instead of a dress — all because I know — I KNOW the "six" in the ordering number was an "eight." Well, it LOOKED like an "eight."

Twenty-fifth anniversary college reunions are the worst reminders. Everybody rushes around, squealing at discovering changes in the campus and college plant, while the biggest discovery of all is that the sedate, gray-haired woman walking toward you in sensible low heels and support hose is not, in fact, yesteryear's Dean of Women, but your college roommate — the one who, in her junior year, sneaked out of the dorm at midnight and, on a dare, climbed the flagpole. It CAN'T be she. Oh, yes, it is — and rest assured she's thinking the same things about you.

It may not be nice to fool Mother Nature, but, at this point, I'm hoping Pete Rose will share his Grecian Formula.

Democracy and the mustache

Can a man with a mustache attain high government office in the United States? That, and not the future of arms control, is the fundamental question involved in the dispute over Kenneth Adelman.

Nominated to be head of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Adelman had several marks in his favor, along with a normal allotment of defects. But it cannot have escaped the notice of the clean-cut United States Senate that he also has foliage on his upper lip. That was his real problem all along.

Think about it. Mustaches can be found anywhere in this country, except Utah and the ranks of the U.S. Labor Party. Men in all walks of life sport them — from steelworkers to newspaper columnists. But are there any mustaches in the Reagan administration, or on Capitol Hill? Well, as President Eisenhower replied when asked about Richard Nixon's contributions to his administration, if you give me a week I might think of one.

The Reagan administration is often accused of excessive homogeneity. But though it has made at least token gestures toward representation of various groups, like women, blacks and Hispanics, the faces of its Cabinet officers are as naked as jaybirds. No beards, no mustaches — not even a decent pair of sideburns.

Now that's excessive homogeneity. If there were someone with a mustache around to provide the hirsute point of view, James Watt would have known better than to ban the Beach Boys.

Of course the administration can discriminate against mustachioed men with impunity, knowing their political self-consciousness is nonexistent. And those of us with hairy upper lips hardly can prefer the Democrats, since they're no more hospitable to mustaches than the Republicans.

Even a scruffy radical like Tom Hayden, once he got into politics, turned into a walking advertisement for Letric Shave. The conspiracy-minded might suspect a plot by the members of the Trilateral Commission (clean-shaven all).

Truth is, this society still harbors a prejudice against bewhiskered males. Anyone who wants to rise to the top in most professions had better shear his upper lip. If Lee Iacocca weren't clean-shaven, would he have ever gotten his federal bailout? Not a chance.

My younger brother, an assistant district attorney whose mere name causes weeping among the nation's criminal class, had to dispose of a handsome display of whiskers before being allowed to appear in front of jurors. Faced with a mustachioed prosecutor, I assume, a jury would have no choice but to acquit every rapist and axe murderer.

EVEN BEARDS are more acceptable than mustaches. One of the nation's most important federal judges, a sure bet for the Supreme Court, is Robert Bork, who wears a full set of red whiskers. President Reagan used to employ a bearded man (Lyn Nofziger) as his political adviser.

Beards, you see, are associated with intelligence and gravity. So they can be tolerated in jobs believed to require deep thought. A mustache, however, is considered a frivolous decoration, like a boutonniere — not the sign of a serious man.

At worst, mustaches are equated with villainy, as in the TV Westerns of my youth. Even a cowboy hero like Paladin, you recall ("Have Gun, Will Travel"), was a shady sort, a hired gun. Matt Dillon would no more have grown a mustache than he would have ravished Miss Kitty.

THE PREJUDICE is most noticeable in the highest echelons of government. The last important official I can remember who wore whiskers below his nose was Dean Acheson. That earned him the sobriquet "Dean Mustacheson" and led Joe McCarthy to suspect him of harboring Communists in the State Department. The Red Scare, I suspect, was only a cover for the Mustache Scare.

Of course there was Alfred Kahn, Jimmy Carter's anti-inflation czar, who if I recall grew his while on vacation "because I've tried everything else to stop inflation." But Kahn was known as a cutup. A mustache, in the popular mind, is OK for a court jester.

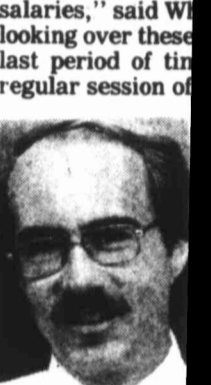

But as Adelman can tell you, it's nearly a disqualification from any weighty office. Other minorities have made gains in Washington, but for this group, the door to equality is still nailed shut. What Thomas Dewey once told a troop of Boy Scouts is still true today: "Just remember, fellows, any boy can grow up to be president — unless he has a mustache."

White promises teacher pay hike

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White told about 2,000 teachers who marched to the Capitol Saturday to take a conciliatory approach to lawmakers who have balked at White's proposal of increasing taxes to pay for a 24 percent teacher pay raise.

White received extended applause and cheers from the enthusiastic crowd of members of the Texas State Teachers Association when he reiterated his pledge to raise teacher salaries.

"We must devote ourselves, our energy and, to the extent that we must, increased taxes on alcohol and tobacco to make certain we keep our commitment," White said.

White has called on lawmakers to raise "luxury" taxes on liquor, tobacco, amusement games and computer software to pay for a teacher raise.

"Let's be very, very cautious that we present the case clearly and fairly," White told the teachers. "Let's not be abusive to any member of that Legislature. Let's make certain we express our case well. Let's be professional in the way that we handle ourselves over these last nine days."

The Legislature adjourns May 30. White has hinted he might call a special session to deal with teacher pay if no action is taken in the regular session.

"I'm persuaded they are dedicated to the principal of quality education and to improving teacher salaries," said White. "I think they're also going to be looking over these next nine days very seriously in this last period of time to get this job done during this regular session of this Legislature."

Mark White's commercial appeal

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — (Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 67)

Hello, I'm your governor, Mark White, as you probably know already. Yes, I'm here again, starting at you out of the tube and giving you one more chance to help me help the teachers.

I know some of you may be discouraged and maybe a little tired of writing letters to your legislators asking them to see things my way. But, hey, really, how long did it take you to write those other 66 letters? Probably not as long as your kids had to spend trying to learn math because their teacher wasn't top-notch...because that teacher wasn't paid enough!

Now doesn't that make you feel bad? Well, I feel bad too because the Legislature is still not paying any attention to what I want. So, I'm calling another special legislative session to give them another chance. Now you, please, get that pen and paper out again and write those letters.

(Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 68)

Hello, I'm Governor Mark White, and, yes, I'm here again seeking your help. I apologize for those other 67 tries. I had the wrong tactics. Having you write letters to your legislators didn't work worth a flip.

And now I know why. It's the leadership of the House that's blocking our efforts to tax your beer, cigarettes and video games to help the teachers. I thought the individual legislators would get a lot of mail and put pressure on the leadership, but after a couple of decades in state government I finally figured out that things don't work that way.

All those bozos in the House want to stay on the good side of the speaker's team so they can get their pet bills passed and receive the committee assignments they want.

Now that we know where to target our publicity campaign, we're sure to succeed, in this newest special session. Here's the plan:

Instead of writing your legislator, write Speaker Gib Lewis, Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga and Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter. Let them feel the groundswell of support that I know is out there.

(Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 69)

Hello, yes, it's me, the governor, in a quick 10-second spot to let you know it's working. Schlueter is really ticked off. The post office in his little hometown of Killen is swamped with letters for him. Keep 'em coming! Victory is at hand!

(Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 70)

Hi, OK, cut the letters. This isn't working. Because of the large load of letters to Killen the U.S. Postal Service has decided to build a new multi-million dollar facility there, and Stan Schlueter is a big local hero. And he still won't make his committee approve my tax bill in this newest special session. Boy, I never thought anyone from Baylor could be so dumb and so stubborn.

We need a new and brilliant strategy. I've been too busy making TV commercials to figure out one, but my media experts are working day and night on a new gimmick. See you soon with details.

(Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 71)

Hi, yeah, me, again...talking fast to save money...this TV time is really expensive...here's the gimmick...all you smokers, put a dime in an empty cigarette pack and mail it to Schlueter...you beer drinkers, put a dime in a beer can and do the same...you barflies, tape a dime to a swizzle stick. Let 'em know your willing to pay for a good education system in this state.

(Mark White Appeal to the Public TV Commercial No. 72)

Nix, nix, cut it out, quick! He's using the money to buy TV time to blast me and claim that the state should live within its means.

Analysts blast Reagan's El Salvador plan

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Liberal Washington analysts say that President Reagan is taking precisely the wrong track in trying to thwart Central American subversion.

By supporting governments in El Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala that they cite as violent and tyrannical, Reagan is only driving the bulk of impoverished residents into sympathy, if not outright alliance, with leftist guerrillas, they say.

The force of their argument, which would stress "butter" over "guns" in Central America, is at the base of a rift in the Democratic party over whether to side in bi-partisanship with Reagan or support a much different policy.

Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., outlined the case in part in his rebuttal to the president's speech on Central America. Leading Democrats on the other side of the issue have been Texas: House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, and Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Wright reacted strongly to the lack of military references in the speech by Dodd, who put the emphasis on giving economic rather than military aid to the Central American countries, and Bentsen gave a strong floor speech in a closed Senate session on the need for bi-partisan support of the Reagan plan.

Another Texas Democrat, Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, strongly condemned that liberal view: "They're just not satisfied with any third world country unless it's Marxist."

Some of the more liberal analysts downplay the influence of Cuba and the Soviet Union in Central America, and some of them (whether verifying the Wilson opinion or not) see no harm in a number of the countries having left-wing governments.

Joseph T. Eldridge, director of the Washington Office on Latin America, is one of many such analysts.

"Why do you have leftists?" asked Eldridge. "You have leftists because you have big chunks (of the population) excluded from the government, the press... everything," he said.

He used Honduras as an example of where the current administration is going wrong.

"Honduras is for sale on the open market and Reagan's buying it," said the former missionary in Central America. The money sent to Honduras, however, will not secure the country against leftist guerrillas, he said. It may do the opposite by strengthening a regime which has no intention of improving economic conditions within the country.

He said there is recent evidence of brutality toward political opponents that could engender such a new guerrilla movement in yet another of the Central American countries, he said.

In general, Eldridge would seek to stop all covert Central American military activity by the United States and side with the so-called "contradora" group of Latin American countries in encouraging a dialogue between the warring factions of guerrillas and governments.

"If you have Americans down there killing Latin Americans, the consequences of that are enormous," said Eldridge.

SAVE 20% ON A GAS GRILL

...JUST WHEN YOU WILL USE IT MOST!

Here's an opportunity to buy a gas grill at a big savings... and have the whole summer ahead to enjoy it. That's a real bargain! You will make the most of our great West Texas evenings and weekends cooking outdoors. Gas grills give food that wonderful outdoor flavor without the mess of charcoal or the bother of LP tanks. And, while you are having a hot time in the backyard, your kitchen stays cool. The money you save by buying now will put a lot of hamburgers and steaks on that grill. Now's the time to move up to gas grill cooking while prices are down.

Prices in this ad reflect corrections from those listed in Energas statement enclosure on gas grills.

Historian Kenneth Clark dies

KENNETH CLARK
...died Saturday

LONDON (AP) — Kenneth Clark, the aristocratic British art historian whose television special "Civilisation" brought Europe's great masterpieces into the homes of millions of Americans, died Saturday at the age of 79.

Clark died "peacefully after a short illness," at Hythe Nursing Home near his home in Kent, outside London, his family said. He entered the nursing home one week ago, the family said.

A distinguished writer, scholar and critic, Clark devoted his life to bringing art to the general public.

The 13-part television series "Civilisation," in which Clark guided viewers on a personal tour of Europe's great historical monuments and works of art, was first shown in Britain in 1969. In the same year, his book "Civilisation" was published and he was named a peer, giving him the title Lord Clark.

The TV series was relayed to the United States a year later and was an immediate success. "I'm very highly thought of in America," Clark said in a 1977 interview. "There's no denying that."

Friends described Clark as somewhat aloof, a fastidious man with impeccable taste in music, paintings, food and wine.

Judge accused of having second, secret family

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A retired judge known for frowning on divorce says he is "not guilty" of anything after a newspaper revealed that during a 49-year marriage he fathered nine children by another woman.

Former Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer was secretly divorced in 1979 from Dora Beer, who had borne him three sons. He then married Barbara Santimo, with whom he had conducted an affair for more than 30 years while fathering her nine children, according to the Oakland Press.

Beer has avoided reporters since his personal entanglements were made public in a story in the Press this week. Stopped outside a Macomb County courtroom Thursday, he would only say: "Tell them Judge Beer said he is 'not guilty.'"

In a letter responding to questions from the Press, Beer had written: "I have been married twice, and once divorced. All the children born of my marriages are legitimate. I have nothing further to say."

Beer, 74, has been an outspoken foe of "easy divorces" throughout his career, the Press said.

"Too many people are getting married today in the manner they go to a ball game," Beer said in an interview with the Oakland Press in 1969. "They seem to think they have an automatic rain check for divorce if trouble arises and they want out."

Last year while Beer drew criticism when, as visiting judge in Kalamazoo County Circuit Court, he delayed the sentencing of Mark Alexander, who had pleaded no contest to a charge of third-degree criminal sexual conduct.

Beer said he wanted to see how Alexander "will act in society." The victim later moved to Louisiana, saying she was in "constant fear" because Alexander remained free.

Dora Beer said she learned of her husband's second family in Detroit only after their divorce.

"It was so cleverly done," she said. "No one ever discovered it. He had such good alibis. He was busy with the Masons, he was busy with the Democrats. He was a busy man."

Mrs. Beer said she believed her former husband supported the second family by placing her on a tight budget and by borrowing money.

"I worked on a very small budget — always with the thought that he needed a lot of money for his political campaigns," she said.

But Matt Beer, a columnist for The Detroit News and one of the judge's children by Ms. Santimo, said it had been "an open secret and one of the worst-kept ones in town for some time."

"My brothers and sisters and I are all standing behind him," he said.

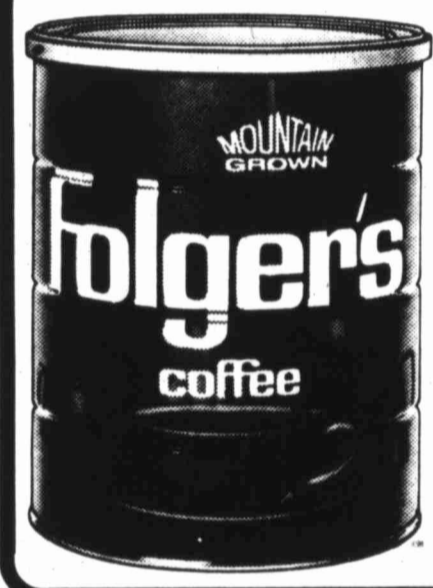

Beer's divorce file was suppressed until March by Circuit Judge James Thorburn, who said he kept it secret at the request of unspecified attorneys. Thorburn said he lifted the order because Beer had fallen behind in alimony payments.

According to the Press, Ms. Santimo, whom Beer married after his divorce, had begun working for him as a secretary in 1946, when she was 19. The newspaper said their first child was born in 1948.

The Press also reported that a complaint about Beer's conduct, stemming in part from the Alexander case, was filed with the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission and resulted in a recommendation that Beer no longer be assigned as a visiting judge.

Howard County rancher Lorin S. McDowell III received the Outstanding Conservation Rancher Award at the Howard Soil and Water Conservation District banquet last month.

McDowell was awarded the honor for his accomplishments in protecting his land. The Howard County rancher installed miles of cross fencing, acres of mesquite control and range seeding and numerous grazing systems.

The annual awards banquet recognizes individuals who have aided the district in its conservation activities.

Also honored at the banquet were the school conservation essay and poster winners. David Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw of Coahoma, was declared the essay winner. Poster contest winners were Kristie Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alexander; Amy Jeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jeter and Michelle New, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy New.

Ed Wright of Big Spring was one of 27 hunter safety instructors from across

West Texas to attend a recent Ethics/Hunter Responsibility workshop in San Angelo conducted by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's hunter education staff.

Sul Ross University is offering an Environmental Conservation Workshop July 7-22 for teachers. Six hours of graduate credit will be received on completion of the course.

The Howard County Soil and Water Conservation District will sponsor three teachers interested in attending the course.

Tax & financial planning

BAD CASH MANAGEMENT (You're Losing Money)

Since no one requires you to plan or to file a report, you may be paying too little attention to the proper use of your cash.

With interest rates for borrowing money at the level of 15-20%, good cash management is an essential part of any family's financial planning. The following are indications of bad cash management:

1. Prepaying contracts written as low as 8% when you are able to earn 12-18% with your money.
2. Keeping a larger balance in your checking account than is necessary.
3. Borrowing from your banker at 16% interest when you have savings and CD's earning only 8-10% interest.
4. Selling property on an installment sale and carrying a contract for 12% interest when you have the ability to invest and earn 16-18%.
5. Failure to tighten the credit policy on your business to reduce accounts receivable and accelerate cash flow. Not charging an adequate service charge or interest rate on your accounts receivable.
6. Failure to review investments to make sure that your return is as high as possible to serve as a hedge against inflation. If inflation exceeds your rate of return, your purchasing power is sliding.
7. Failure to have at least an annual review of all your insurance coverage to determine that you are not underinsured or overlapping your insurance and wasting premiums.

These items serve as indicators for areas in which you may be able to improve your financial wellbeing. Each of us should be knowledgeable enough about our own financial affairs to maximize the use of our cash. The more we know about our financial activities, the better equipped we are to consult with our tax, business, and investment advisors.

BACK HOME AGAIN — Willow Lynn Cramlet and her son, Eland, are all smiles as they are pictured in the living room of their Arvada, Colo., home Thursday. The mother and child were reunited after police arrested the boy's father, Wayne Ronald Anderson, in Tulsa, Okla., on Wednesday. According to police Anderson abducted the youngster on Jan. 1, 1980. Last Friday, Mrs. Cramlet won a $5.9 million lawsuit against the producers of the Phil Donahue TV show.

Mother reunited with 'little fugitive' son

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — Eland Cramlet, no longer a "little 6-year-old fugitive," is getting acquainted with the mother he had not seen since his father snatched him 3½ years ago in a custody dispute.

"I couldn't believe it was him," Willow Lynn Cramlet said Thursday after coming home from Tulsa, Okla., where the boy had been living. "He had gotten so big. Sometimes I really did give up hope."

She said she had already made a quick trip to a store to buy jeans, T-shirts and shoes to outfit Eland and was finding out as much as possible about his life.

"We went over some of the things he does in school, what he does in his spare time," she said.

Last week a federal jury in Denver awarded Mrs. Cramlet $5.9 million in a suit against television personality Phil Donahue's production company. The father, Wayne R. Anderson, had been interviewed by Donahue 1981 about the custody problem, and Mrs. Cramlet sued because the staff of the show babysat Eland but failed to turn him over to authorities.

The publicity she got from the lawsuit led to an anonymous tip that her son was in the Tulsa area. Police arrested Anderson on Wednesday.

Anderson, 39, posted $5,000 bond Thursday and said he would return to Colorado to face a felony charge alleging that the 1979 abduction interfered with a court order giving custody to his ex-wife.

"I want to be in Colorado, that's where my son is," Anderson said. "I'm not a mother, but I'm a parent and despite the prejudice against fathers as parents, I kissed my son every night."

Eland and his mother returned to Colorado on Thursday.

"I feel very lucky," Ms. Cramlet said, her son sitting beside her on a couch in the living room. "Eland is home, that's the important thing."

Billboard campers both win

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Two men camped on a billboard for eight months in an endurance contest were both declared winners by the contest sponsor Friday — but they will remain on their perch for a few more days to raise money for charity.

"We all are very relieved it's going to end. I thought it could go on two years," said Don Rutt, a spokesman for the sponsor, radio station WSN.

The station called a tie on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" Friday morning and offered identical prizes to the two sitters — Jim MacKay, 31, of Northampton and Ron Kistler, 25, of Coplay.

Each will receive an $18,000 mobile home, the prize that lured them 15 feet in the air to the platform Sept. 20. They also will receive a car, a wardrobe and trips to the Bahamas and Las Vegas, Rutt said.

A third contestant, Dalton Young of Bethlehem, was forced to drop out in March when he was arrested on charges of smoking marijuana while on the billboard. MacKay and Kistler came down for several hours to testify at Young's preliminary hearing, but they have not left the platform since.

The station hopes the list of prizes will grow even longer in the next week.

"The companies donate prizes for publicity, so we're asking that they each donate an equal amount in cash for charities," Rutt said.

"We want to get as much as we can" before ending the contest, and the bigger the response, the sooner the men will leave their perch, he said.

Q: We've found a house we really like. We are, however, a little strapped for the down payment. The seller has offered us a one-year lease-buy deal. He says he'll apply part of our rent to the purchase price. Is this sort of arrangement generally felt to be sound?

A: Many have benefited from a lease-by arrangement. However, before entering into any contract, be sure every question is answered, and everything is put down on paper — preferably by an attorney. Read the agreement carefully. Be sure and check shared responsibilities, if any, concerning the property's upkeep and maintenance, tax payments. Also, be certain the amount of the rental which will be applied to the purchase price is spelled out clearly, and that you have no questions about what will happen a year from now.

New large print books tell tales of the Wild West

By ROSE VON HASSELL Cataloguer

This past week the Howard County Library has received a new shipment of large print books, which we hope will please many of our patrons.

Dana Fuller Ross has written "The Wagons West Series" which consists of "Independence!", "Nebraska!", "Wyoming!", "Oregon!", "Texas!", "California!", and "Colorado!"

In "Independence!", the first of the series, Sam Brentwood, a mountain man is ordered by President Andrew Jackson to lead a wagon train across the country to the West.

The plan was to advertise in newspapers across the country telling people that there's rich free land available to them. Then a covered wagon train, the first of many, would be sent out and financial aid would be given to those who needed it.

In "Nebraska!", the pioneers have to cope with the British, Imperial Russia and Indians in order to continue the move West.

"Wyoming!" is the third in the series and the wagon train has 500 people traveling in it. When a beautiful young Indian woman joins the train, things become very tense.

"Oregon!" has the group stuck in the Rocky Mountains waiting for the spring thaw. Whip Holt, the wagon master is anxious to move on and the people are eager to finally arrive at their destination.

In "Texas!", the same brave Americans that rode to Oregon volunteer to go to Texas and defend her liberty. "California!" tells of the gold rush in the 1840's.

"Colorado!" is the seventh book and shows how our nation was gradually united through toil and teras of devoted Americans, but is now being torn apart by the Civil War. "A Walk Across America", by Peter Jenkins tells of a modern day pioneer. In 1973, Peter Jenkins decides to find out what Americans are really like. He sets out with his dog Cooper to walk the length and breadth of the continental United States.

"The Walk West, A Walk Across America 2", is by Peter and his wife Barbara. This journey starts in New Orleans where Peter meets and marries Barbara Jo Pennel. For the next two years they explore the bayous of Louisiana, the plains of Texas and walk through heat, rain and snow to the Pacific.

There are many other titles, and we hope you will find something you will enjoy.

Tax cheaters scared of IRS, report claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans cheat on their taxes year after year because they fear what will happen if they confess to the Internal Revenue Service, says a former IRS officer.

"Many non-filers are caught in a vicious web of delinquency they want to abandon but don't know how," says Jack W. Wade Jr. of Arlington, Va., a former IRS revenue officer. "Many of these people are truly afraid of the IRS and of going to jail."

His answer — one that is drawing increasing interest in Washington — is to temporarily grant amnesty from criminal prosecution to anyone who squares back accounts with the IRS.

IRS Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger Jr. told a Senate Finance subcommittee Friday that amnesty has considerable potential. But, he added, it also might be viewed by honest taxpayers as giving special treatment to dishonest people and might prompt new cheating by those who would expect another round of amnesty in the future.

Reagan plans to fight tax increase initiatives

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — White House Deputy Chief of Staff Michael K. Deaver said Saturday that President Reagan remains opposed to any budget compromise that would require a tax increase.

Deaver commented in response to story in Saturday's Washington Post which said that senior administration officials favor a compromise that would permit an increase of approximately $45 billion on Jan. 1, 1985.

Deaver said he showed Reagan the story. Asked for the president's reaction, Deaver said with a grin: "I can't repeat it." Deaver added, "He basically said, 'It may be someone in the administration's attitude, but it sure isn't mine.'"

Deputy White House press secretary Peter Rousset said the report "doesn't reflect the thinking of any White House aide involved in the legislative strategy group or any other White House decision-making group involved in the president's economic program."

"The president made it abundantly clear ... that he is opposed to any new taxes while we're coming out of a recession," Rousset said.

Asked if that meant no tax increases in fiscal 1984, which begins Oct. 1, or fiscal 1985, Rousset said that it did.

He made his comments while Reagan was flying to New Jersey aboard Air Force One. The president was delivering a commencement speech at Seton Hall University.

Shortly after Rousset made the comment, he checked by telephone with White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and told reporters that he was withdrawing the phrase "while we're coming out of a recession" from his comments about no new taxes.

He said he would make no other comments on the Post story.

Texas Rangers shoot bank robbery suspect

WICHTA FALLS (AP) — A man shot and killed during a shootout with Texas Rangers, Department of Public Safety troopers and city police has been tentatively identified as the man accused of robbing a savings and loan.

Police tentatively identified the dead man as Norman Jones, 30, who was named in an arrest warrant issued after a gunman wearing a ski mask took $4,500 from the United Savings and Loan of Texas office here last Friday.

The dead man tried to shoot it out with DPS troopers, Wichita Falls police officers and Texas Rangers after his pickup truck was forced off the road about 7:30 p.m., said Murray Mills, who witnessed the shooting from his front yard.

Mills said the gunman opened fire first on DPS troopers and was killed in the return fire from two Rangers.

Police said Texas Ranger Bill Gerth fired the shot that hit the gunman. Gerth declined to comment on the shootout.

One DPS trooper, Bill Gilbert, received minor head lacerations when a bullet shattered a window on his patrol car.

Police said the dead man was armed with a rifle, wore protective body armor, and had a knife and a pistol in his pickup truck.

Tuition increase bumped from bill

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, backed down Wednesday and agreed to take university tuition out of a bill allowing the Legislature to increase state fees during the state's routine appropriation process.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, who pushed through the change, called the original proposal co-sponsored by Jones as "a back-door plan to increase tuition at Texas state universities."

Doggett said his amendment keeping tuition out of the bill is similar to one that was narrowly defeated in the House. He and other opponents have prevented Jones from moving the bill to a vote in the Senate.

By keeping tuition out of the bill, however, any attempt to increase it still will have to be considered in the form of a separate bill, requiring public hearings before House and Senate committees and floor debate in both chambers.

As part of the state's appropriations process, it could be one of thousands of items lost in the crowd each biennium when the Senate Finance Committee and the House Appropriations Committee write spending bills.

Jones' Senate-passed bill now must go back to the House for a vote to concur with the amendment or for appointment of a conference committee to work out a possible compromise.

Jones, who is chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee which helps write the state's biennial spending bill, noted that his failure to suspend the rules and bring up the bill rested "principally on the tuition matter."

Doggett agreed later, saying he wanted to thank the 13 senators who sided with him and prevented consideration of Jones' bill two weeks ago. "Our commitment to fight the bill unless tuition was removed resulted in the adoption of today's amendment," he added.

Doggett also said the Texas Student Lobby was a big help in defeating the tuition portion of the bill.

His amendment notes that the bill "does not apply to tuition at state institutions of higher education," Jones said.

CRMWD to hold public meeting in Odessa

ODESSA — The Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors will hold a public meeting here May 26 to consider annexing territory in the Big Spring, Odessa and Midland areas.

CRMWD can annex territory annexed by its member cities in order to have coinciding boundaries with those cities.

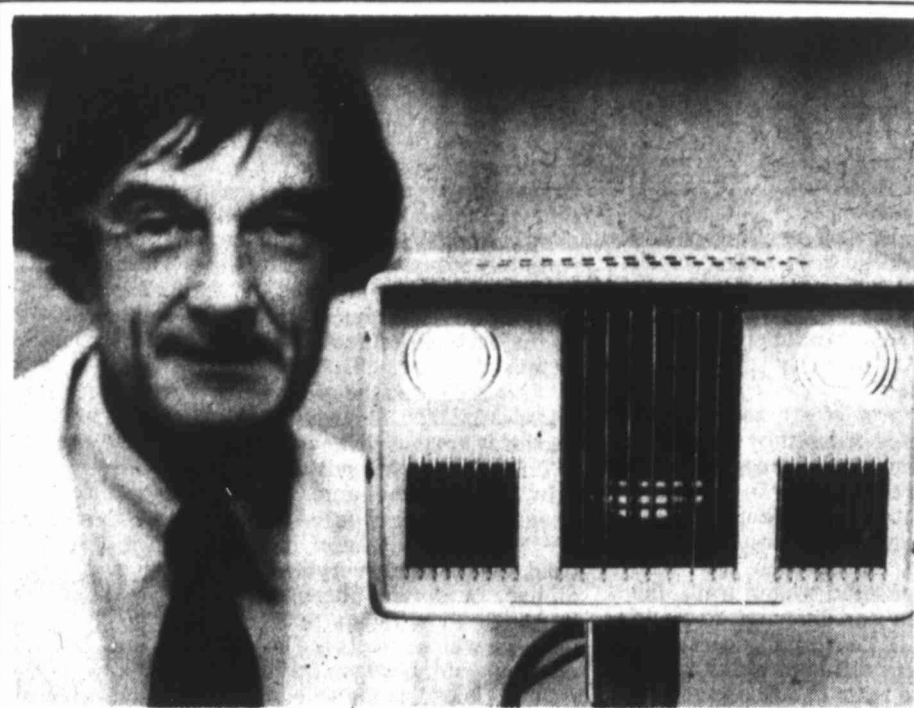

The CRMWD directors will also consider the purchase of a $35,000 standby transformer for the Lake Spence and Spade stations.

April revenues for CRMWD were under budget projections at $907,178 with expenses topping $556,531 in April.

Expenses for the first four months totalled $1,981,559 with revenues reaching $2,648,910 — both under budget.

The largest expense for April was electricity at $378,554; $1,295,734 for four months. The four-month total is $155,000 higher than a year ago.

The additional cost was credited to pumping patterns taking more water from the lakes than other sources.

RUSSIAN DEVICE — Dr. Ross Adey is shown with a behavioral modification device invented by Russians which emits low frequency radio waves. The machine, which is being used only on test animals in this country, is supposed to act as a tranquilizer when the subject is exposed to the radio waves.

Tranquilizers may be replaced by machine

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — A Soviet device that bombards brains with low-frequency radio waves may be a replacement for tranquilizers and their unwanted side effects, says a researcher, but its use on humans poses ethical and political questions.

The machine, known as the Lida, is on loan to the Jerry L. Pettis Memorial Veterans Hospital through a medical exchange program between the Soviet Union and the United States. Hospital researchers have found it changes behavior in animals.

"It looks as though instead of taking a Valium when you want to relax yourself it would be possible to achieve a similar result, probably in a safer way, by the use of a radio field that will relax you," said Dr. Ross Adey, chief of research at the hospital.

The Lida's Russian-language manual shows it being used on a human in a clinical setting, Adey said. The manual says it is a "distant pulse treatment apparatus" for psychological problems including sleeplessness, hypertension and neurotic disturbances.

The device has not been approved for use with humans in this country, although the Soviets have used it on people since at least 1960, Adey said in a recent interview.

Low-frequency radio waves simulate the brain's own electromagnetic current and produce a trance-like state. Adey said he put a cat in the box and turned on the Lida.

"Within a matter of two or three minutes, it is sitting there very quietly ... it stays almost as though it were transfixed," he said, adding that the animal remains uninterested in its surroundings for 20 to 30 minutes after the machine is turned off.

The machine generates 40 megahertz radio waves, which are slightly higher than the citizens band frequency. Designed using World War II technology, it has glass electron tubes instead of more modern transistors, Adey said.

During a testing session, the animals' brain waves, heart beat and respiration are measured. "The pattern of brain waves suggests that we (can) cause ... deep sleep as a result of these combined stimulations," he said.

The hospital's experiment with the machine has been under way for three months and should be completed within a year, Adey said.

A related experiment by Dr. Suzanne Bavin at the University of California-Los Angeles has shown that the brain can receive a machine-generated electromagnetic field, Adey said. She also works with Adey at the hospital in Loma Linda, 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

84-year-old's home firebombed

DETROIT (AP) — An 84-year-old woman whose house was firebombed only hours after her testimony helped convict a youth of earlier vandalizing the home says she is "afraid to live here ... (but) too old to move."

Neither Isabella Farnen nor her 86-year-old sister, Lily Hansen, was hurt when someone threw a gasoline-filled beer bottle into their home while they slept early Friday morning.

Fire investigators said they had no suspects but believe the bomb may have been tossed by an acquaintance of the 16-year-old boy who was convicted Thursday of breaking three windows of the home last December.

"We have nowhere else to go. We're just two poor, old women," said Mrs. Farnen. "Our lives are almost over and what they do to us doesn't matter much."

Mrs. Farnen, a native of Scotland, moved into the home on the city's northwest side in 1980 to care for her sister, who was knocked down and crippled during a robbery attempt several years ago. Mrs.

A resounding success

The 1983 Shriner's Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

What a success. The celebrities enjoyed their stops in Big Spring, Russell Erxleben commenting, "The people here remind of the folks from my home town (Seguin)."

The club pros remarked how nice the Big Spring Country Club course was looking...all said, barring scheduling conflicts, they would be back next spring.

The amateurs had a blast, playing for fun and for prizes in the biggest tournament ever organized locally.

Success meant the most to the Shriners. A check from $15-20,000 will go to the work of Shriner hospitals and burn centers around the nation.

Despite last minutes changes and those little hassles that seem to pop up when least expected, tournament officials pulled off an event which will spread the name of Big Spring in good light around the state.

Perhaps the man who most characterizes the type of effort put into the tournament was Country Club pro Gary Hammer. By late Friday night, earlier in the week in fact, Hammer looked the part of a zombie. Not only had he worked long hours in the weeks preceding the tournament to bring in the top pros from Texas and New Mexico, he was keeping the tourney going and playing 36 holes of golf each day.

But there was Hammer playing the part of the pro for two teams with the knowledge he wouldn't get any money out of the deal. He had already declared himself ineligible for winnings. So what happens, his team finishes third among 64.

The type of pros Hammer brought to Big Spring included guys like Dick Weston who donated part of his almost $1,700 in earnings back to the Shriners. There were also pros like David McCullough of Dallas who took time to give pointers to novice golfers like myself while competing for cash prizes.

Lloyd's of London might not be too thrilled but an extra bonus in this tournament was Jimmy Welch's hole-in-one Thursday afternoon. Another odds-beater was the weather. Sure the winds blew hard Thursday but Big Spring was spared the terrible weather that hit east and southeast Texas.

One of Hammer's worst nightmares prior to Wednesday had been a rain-out of the two-day tournament.

Tournament chairman Don Cook dares not try to make a list of people to thank because someone, somewhere who put extra time would be left off. But he cornered me in Friday's dusk and asked for a line of thanks to everyone. No problem, Don.

If you had a part, big or small, in the first Shriner's Pro-Am Golf Tournament, thanks for your help. From putting together the parade and VIP party to cleaning up the mess at the conclusion of the tournament, everyone's part made this an event to remember.

Gordon Myrick and his associates, however, deserve my thanks for providing quick results as does Richard Horn, my partner in crime at the Herald, who helped get the scores into the newspaper and run the sports show while I hacked away on the course.

You may get the feeling this tournament was a team effort. It was. Tired as some people were Saturday morning, just knowing the benefit event had come off as a success was like a slap of Aqua Velva in the face.

Perhaps the wind won't blow so much next year. Either that or Hammer needs to invite only pros from places like Kermit, Levelland and the Big Spring area. Those guys from East Texas were going nuts trying to compensate for it. But ask them if the wind had any effect on their game, and they'd shrug it off.

Also, they need to get the Derrick Dolls in a foursome and let some lucky sports writer to play a round with them. I said "a round," not "around."

And please, have the concession stands stock up on suntan lotion. My face, along with Janene Cook's nose, was wind-whipped to a crisp.

Congratulations on a great tournament Big Spring. Of course next year's will be better but for a bunch of rookies, it was quite an effort.

Pro-Am's handicappers star

Rogers, C. Small stroke teams to championship tie

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

"It's the handicap players that win these tournaments for you" was a quote heard more than once at the Shriner's Pro-Am Golf Tournament. Jimmy Rogers and Carl Small are living proof of that fact.

Rogers' team (with pro Charles Bishop, Joe Sharpnack and Dale Austin) made up a one-shot deficit to tie the Small's foursome (pro Ray Hardy, Ronnie Broadrick and Brad Small) to deadlock the two teams at 25-under-par 117 and championship honors at the first-ever benefit Friday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The team of pro Gary Hammer, Jimmy Welch (Thursday's hole-in-one winner), Mike Scarbrough and Bob Bell took third place with a 123 while pros Dick Weston of Kermit and Bill Gulley of Levelland shared top prize money with 3-under-par 139 totals for 36 holes.

For their winning efforts, the amateurs on the Bishop and Hardy teams took home $332.50 in merchandise each while Hammer's teammates collected $285.00 in merchandise. Gulley and Weston won $1,350 each for leading the club pro field.

"It was certainly a better day for golf," Broadrick said. Despite gusty winds Thursday, his team fired a 14-under-par 57 to lead the 64 teams entered in the tournament. With the help of six consecutive birdies on the back nine, his foursome rolled into the clubhouse with a commanding lead early Friday afternoon.

"It was the Smalls," Broadrick explained. "They both played good golf...above their heads in this tournament."

The Smalls — father Carl and son Brad — played well in their roles as the handicap golfers on the team. Carl Small pared three holes on the back nine, giving his team birdies through his handicap.

The string helped turn an ordinary 4-under-par round into an 11-under-par 58 and almost wrapped up a team championship before half the teams had completed tournament play.

But as Broadrick's team was putting away their clubs for the day, Rogers' group was teeing off in hopes of catching the first-day leaders.

Using Bishop's even-par 71 score from that morning, the foursome knew which holes they had to convert if they wanted to make up 12 shots.

"I liked our situation, I really did," Sharpnack said. "I definitely thought we had a chance."

The foursome toured the front side at five-under par, getting a big break on No. 6 when Rogers birdied, giving the team an eagle with his handicap.

Three birdies began the back side for Rogers' team and they were within four shots of the leaders. On No. 14, a par four hole, Rogers pushed his golfmates much closer to the championship when his chip shot from the left side of the green rammed into the cup for a birdie, giving his team another two.

Sharpnack contributed on the next hole, paring No. 15 for a team birdie that brought his team within a shot of the leaders. Knowing that Bishop had birdied No. 18, Roger's foursome needed one more stroke to win an outright title.

It never came. They pared No. 16, a par 3 hole which left only the par 4 No. 17. In two shots, Rogers was on the green, laying 10 feet from the cup. If he sank the shot, championship.

The ball rolled to the cup but died short and rolled right. Rogers settled for a par and the team settled for the co-championship.

"I didn't hit it quite hard enough...sorry guys," Rogers said.

"We slipped on those last couple of holes," Sharpnack said in retrospect, "but I'd still be a whole set of

Saints punter getting kick out of career

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Russell Erxleben definitely breaks the mold of the short, pudgy, mustachioed, heavy-accented East European placekickers who seem to rule the National Football League.

Especially now that his only job is handling the punting chores for the New Orleans Saints.

The former University of Texas all-American was in town this past week for the Shriner's Pro-Am Golf Tournament and reported that life is heavenly with Bum Phillips under the Superdome.

"We've definitely got the right coach, now," the fifth year pro said. "We believe in Bum Phillips. It's going to take awhile but he's the greatest thing that's happened to me."

"It's so easy now to walk into practice," he continued. "He treats you like a player." How does that work?

"He doesn't try to discipline you. If you're in the NFL, you've done something good to get there. I rate him on the level with Darrell Royal, Fred Akers and Dick Nolan. I guess I've really never had a bad coach, huh?"

The hardest thing for the 26-year-old punter was surviving outside the Lone Star State.

"I'll always be a Texan," the part-time Louisiana said proudly. "I look at it this way. Not a lot of the guys playing for Houston or Dallas are Texans anyway. New Orleans is as close as I can be." Erxleben won his fame in college as a long distance placekicker even at a time when Texas A&M's Tony Franklin and Arkansas' Steve Little were making the Southwest Conference the kicking capital of the nation.

He once kicked a 67-yard field goal against Rice, giving him a share of the NCAA record and booted three 60-yard plus field goals as a Longhorn. At the same time, he was punting the football and his 46.6 average in 1976 led the nation.

But for all his kicking talents, the Seguin native went to Austin as a quarterback.

"I've always done it (kicking)," he said, "but I was a quarterback for three years at Seguin. I was a quarterback that turned into a kicker. I went to Texas as a blue-chipper but they weren't real sure where I'd play. I kept on kicking and coach Royal said 'I found you a spot.'"

"I wanted to play a position but coach told me that if I stuck with kicking, I could wind up as a high draft choice. He was right. He told me that as a freshman and I said that if I couldn't play a position I'd go to Baylor. But he was right. I never thought in my wildest dreams I'd make it as a kicker."

The Dallas Cowboys have had no luck in recent years trying to find a punter to relieve quarterback Danny White of the responsibilities. "When they put a rush on you and put people in the stands," Erxleben explained, "it's a whole new ballgame. There

Longshot sashes to Preakness win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Deputed Testamony overtook Desert Wine with an eighth of a mile to go and coasted to victory in the $346,200 Preakness Stakes Saturday as Kentucky Derby winner Sunny's Halo finished sixth, dashing chances for a Triple Crown winner in thoroughbred racing this year.

Desert Wine, finished second, 2 3/4 lengths behind, while High Honors, a 15-1 shot, finished third, another four lengths back in the field of 12 assembled for the 1 3/16-mile event at Pimlico Race Track.

Donald Miller Jr. rode the winner home in 1:55 2/5 over a sloppy track, which had been hit by afternoon rain, beginning with a heavy downpour and clearing about 40 minutes before post time.

Marfa finished fourth, a head behind High Honors, followed by Play Fellow, Sunny's Halo, Bet Big, Parfaitement, Common Sense, Flag Admiral, Chas Conery and Paris Prince.

It was the richest-ever Preakness, the second jewel in racing's Triple Crown, with Deputed Testamony collecting a record $251,200, boosting his lifetime earnings to $398,789.

And it was the second straight victory for the lightly regarded Deputed Testamony, who tuned up for the 108th Preakness by romping to victory in the Keystone Stakes May 14 at Keystone Race Track outside Philadelphia.

Deputed Testamony, a Maryland-bred son of Traffic Cop-Proof Requested, was coupled in the wagering with Parfaitement as a Bill Boniface-trained entry.

Owned by Francis P. Sears, a Boston stockbroker, the winner paid $31, $10 and $6.40. Desert Wine, second in the Derby, paid $4.80 and $4.20, while High Honors returned $9.60 to show.

The exacta of the entry and Desert Wine paid $174.60.

Desert Wine, whose owners won a court battle Friday permitting him to race with the medication called Lasix, grabbed the lead on the clubhouse turn after Parfaitement had set the early pace.

As he came out of the gate, Sunny's

Halo bumped Common Sense, but jockey Eddie Delahoussaye moved the colt into second place and the Canadian-bred followed Desert Wine through the backstretch. Sunny's Halo ran with him until the top of the stretch, and then faded.

Desert Wine still led by a neck over Deputed Testamony with a quarter-mile to go. But Deputed Testamony then unleashed a powerful stretch run and coasted home.

All starters carried 126 pounds.

Trainer David Cross now will not be forced to run Sunny's Halo in the June 11 Belmont Stakes, third leg of the Triple Crown. He was opposed to entering the horse because he felt it was too early in the season for 3-year-olds to run a mile and a half, but expected to be overruled by his owner.

Sunny's Halo had been treated during the past two weeks for a ringworm rash, which came and went as trainer David Cross treated him with antibiotics. However, Cross said he did not expect the hives to affect Sunny's Halo performance in the Preakness.

Cross had said before the race: "These last two weeks have been the worst of my life and I'll be glad when Saturday night finally arrives."

Cross had expected to be in the winner's circle, but instead, David J. Foster's colt suffered his first loss of the year after winning the Rebel Handicap, the Arkansas Derby and Kentucky Derby.

Deputed Testamony, who is stabled at the Bonita Farm near Bel Aire, Md., was vanned to the track early Saturday. The bay colt finished sixth in the Blue Grass Stakes and Boniface passed up the Derby because Deputed Testamony developed a fever.

The victory in the mile and 70-yard Keystone Stakes earned him a starting berth in the Preakness.

Marfa also was allowed to use Lasix for the Preakness, benefiting from the court ruling on Desert Wine.

GALLOPING DOWN THE HOME STRETCH — Deputed Testamony leads the pack in the center spot as they head out of the fourth turn at the Pimlico Race Track Saturday in the 108th running of the Preakness Stakes.

Colbert, Pooley deadlocked at soggy Atlanta tourney

ATLANTA (AP) — Jim Colbert, who broke a three-year victory drought last weekend, converted a lucky break into a 5-under-par 67 that tied him with Don Pooley for the lead Saturday in the second round of the rain-shortened Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic.

Pooley birdied three of the last four holes to complete 66 in the mild, calm conditions of the afternoon and matched Colbert's 136 total for 36 holes, 8-under-par for two trips over the rain-slickened hills of the Atlanta Country Club course.

"My game is in good condition right now, close to being where I want it," Pooley said.

Colbert was considerably more enthusiastic about his performance.

"Unbelievable," said Colbert, who won six times in his first 17 years on the tour and now is bidding for two in a row.

He was quick to admit, however, that he had a piece of the lead only through a break.

Colbert drove into the water on the fourth hole, but the ball ricocheted off the surface of the pond and onto the bank. He got his next shot in a bunker, but one-potted for a hard-won par that he called "a good break for me."

Colbert, however, said he had an even better piece of luck.

"The best thing that happened to me," Colbert said, "was the rain-out on Thursday."

"I was very busy Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and Thursday I was kind of flat. With the day off, I was able to relax a little, get rested."

"You hate to see the rain-out, and the tournament reduced to 54 holes, but the day off was perfectly okay with me."

The tournament was cut to a three-day, 54-hole format when heavy, steady rains washed out Thursday's play. It will conclude Sunday, weather permitting, with a single round of 18 holes.

Jim Simpson, who had a 64 that ranked as the best round of the tournament, was a single shot off the lead at 137.

Simpson's roommate at the University of Georgia, Chip Beck, was another stroke back and tied at 138 with Bob Eastwood, who had a second-round 69. Beck, the first round leader, slipped to a 73.

"I bogeyed the 17th and 18th and that's not a very good way to finish," he said. "But I hung in there pretty good; didn't blow myself out of the tournament, and I'm proud of that."

Mick Soli, who had a second-round 68, was next at 139.

Quarterback turns to punting

(Continued from page 1-B) is also, unbelievable peer pressure. There's always someone younger who can take your place. I look at myself as one of the top 28 punters in the world. But No. 29 must be a helluva good punter, too."

Erxleben says punters live in the "fear of making a mistake. You go out there honestly thinking this could be your last game." He rarely practices punting, choosing instead to work as the quarterback of the scout team. "The more I kick, the worse I get," he said, laughing.

But don't think life is rough for the bearded Saint. "Yeah, we're the least paid group of players in the NFL," he says with a straight face. "I tell people I just can't hardly afford the two Mercedes I've got parked in my driveway. I've got two Mercedes, too."

Erxleben realizes a pro football career doesn't last too long these days. "I eventually want to play on the pro tour," he says of his interest in golf. He's played golf in high school and his senior year at Texas. "I've got my own tournament in Austin (June 13) to benefit Steve Little. He's still got tremendous medical bills."

Little, the former Razorback kicker, was paralyzed in an automobile accident two years ago. Little, Erxleben and Franklin (now with the Philadelphia Eagles) weren't buddies in college but came to know and respect each other in the NFL. "If that accident had happened to me," he says, "I know he'd do the same thing for me. It makes you realize what you have and how people take a lot for granted."

Playing in charity events such as the Shriner's Pro-Am is his main form of relaxation in the summer. "I like playing in these benefits...I guess it kind of ties things together," he said of helping the charity and improving his game.

Erxleben had his best season ever as a pro in 1981, punting for a 40.5 average and booting a career long punt of 60 yards. Then came the NFL strike.

"That was very stupid because they guys in pro football make a tremendous amount of money already. Some of the guys say 'football owes me something.' I say 'I owe everything I've gotten to football.' If we had been offered zero, I'd say strike. But we were offered something good going in."

"There is no place for a strike in pro football," he said. "But I'm just glad it's over."

The strike did give an indirect boost to the new United States Football League and Erxleben thinks the new league is surviving. "I think it's good...good for the players," he said. "It's created more jobs. Football is a game to most people but it's a business to the players. The only problem I see is the two leagues could hurt each other by over-saturating the market. But it's given the players more bargaining power."

But the native of Seguin isn't interested in the rival league at this time. Why should he? His career is booming along in the NFL.

Bandits bop Invaders

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mike Kelley, making his first professional start, passed for 307 yards and two touchdowns Saturday night to lead the Tampa Bay Bandits to a 29-9 United States Football League victory over the Oakland Invaders.

Kelley, elevated to the starting job because of injuries to John Reeves and Jimmy Jordan, completed 21 of 40 passes and also set up field goals of 25, 26 and 38 yards by Zenon Andrusyshyn.

The victory was Tampa Bay's second in 13 days over the 5-7 Invaders and boosted the Central Division leaders' record to 9-3. Oakland fell a half-game behind Los Angeles in the Pacific Division.

The Bandits led 23-3 by the time Oakland scored a touchdown on Fred Besana's quarterback sneak from the one-yard line with 8:38 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Stanton trio rules Spring Run

Veteran, 2 rookies highlight 2-mile, 10-kilometer races

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

Saturday's first-ever Spring Run could measure the experience of its participants in extremes.

There was Stephen Stallings, the defending 5-mile champ from San Angelo's 1982 "Run for Fun," who is approaching 20 years of competitive running.

And there were five-year-old Kirstie Moates and six-year-old Jeri Lynn Tucker, competing in the first race of their running careers.

All three runners were part of the two-race event sponsored by the Hillcrest Christian School and held in Big Spring's Industrial Park.

Stallings, a CPA from Stanton, won the 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) event with a time of 33:51.0 while two more Stanton residents, Tony and Tommy Ramos, finished 1-2 in the two-mile run.

"It was kinda windy," Stallings observed. His personal best in a 10-K race is 31:24.0, "so the time wasn't really so bad. I can run a 32 right now if I had a good day and good competition."

Stallings left his competition behind on this particular morning. Former Big Spring High 3,200 meter runner Karl Wolfe was second but was almost 800 meters behind the Stallings when the Stanton runner finished.

Running since he was in junior high, the 31-year-old Stallings ran one semester of track at Baylor before finishing college at Texas Tech. He runs 50-60 miles a week and tries to maintain a five minute mile pace in a 10-kilometer run.

The Ramos brothers will graduate from Stanton High Tuesday night. Tony ran the 3,200 meters at the Class AA regional meet earlier this spring in Lubbock while Tommy competed in the 1,600 meters. "We haven't worked out since regionals," Tony said. Tony ran an 11:17.0 while Tommy finished in 11:24.0. "This is the best thing for us to do," Tony said, "because everything else we're too short for."

Cheryl Hoyle of Colorado City was the top female finisher in the 10-kilometer run, cover-father, Mike, also competed. She is a student at Hillcrest, just finishing up her kindergarten year. "She's been practicing for it for two weeks," her mother explained. When asked if she would be a future competitor, she nodded her head up and down in agreement.

Jeri Lynn traveled to Big Spring from Westbrook and "out-ran" her father, Jerry, who is a 1962 graduate of Big Spring High.

"We've never done anything like this," he said. "We just wanted to see how we'd do." Son Tommy, 12, finished strong in the two-mile race.

Race organizer Craig Bailey said between 180-200 runners participated. "That's excellent for a first-year race," he reported. Julie, his wife, is a first grade teacher at Hillcrest. Bailey said the race was his idea, mainly to have one in Big Spring. "Most of the time, you have to go somewhere else to run," he explained. "And I knew about the needs of the school, too. It all worked out great."

Big Spring High runner John DeLeon won the 18 and under division of the 10-K while Lynn Todd of Littlefield won the 40-40 and Coahoma's Donald Webb the 50 and over age division. Donna Cherryhomes of Midland was the only runner in the women's 40 and over division and thus a first place finisher.

Here are the final results from the Spring Run:

- TWO-MILE RUN
Men — 1) Tony Ramos, Stanton, 11:17.0; 2) Tommy Ramos, Stanton, 11:24.0; 3) Jack Petty, Fort Stockton, 11:34.0
Women — 1) Anita Flores, Big Spring, 15:02.0; 2) Dora Dominguez, Big Spring, 15:19.0; 3) Christian Gribble, Big Spring, 15:34.0
- 10-KILOMETER RUN
Men
18 and under — 1) John DeLeon, Big Spring, 39:48.0; 2) Bret Crenwelge, Big Spring, 42:36; 3) Preston Harrison, Big Spring, 44:38.0
19-29 — 1) Karl Wolfe, Lubbock, 37:80; 2) Mark Vozar, Midland, 37:49.0; 3) Craig Neighbors, Big Spring, 38:14.0
30-39 — 1) Stephen Stallings, Stanton, 33:51.0; 2) Richard Kleinhaus, Midland, 37:06.0; 3) Norman Smith, Midland, 37:14.0
40-49 — 1) Lynn Todd, Littlefield, 39:22.0; 2) Francis Johns, Midland, 44:18.0; 3) Robert Fuller, Big Spring, 44:29
50 and over — 1) Donald Webb, Coahoma, 39:11.0; 2) Otto Seider, Odessa, 45:41.0; 3) Warren Thaxton, Abilene, 46:47.0
- Women
35-39 — 1) Cheryl Hoyle, Colorado City, 53:57.0; 2) Linda Davis, Big Spring, 56:09.0; 3) Melinda Green, Midland, 1:01:49
40 and over — 1) Donna Cherryhomes, Midland, 1:01:44

Tigers rally by Rangers

DETROIT (AP) — Chet Lemon and Alan Trammell stroke RBI singles in a three-run seventh inning Saturday to lift the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

With Texas leading 3-2, Lance Parrish and Glenn Wilson opened the Tiger seventh with singles. After an infield out advanced the runners, Lemon greeted reliever Odell Jones with a single, scoring Parrish. Center fielder George Wright bobbled the ball, allowing Wilson to score.

Lemon moved to second on a fly out and scored on Trammell's single.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead in the first on a double by Enos Cabell and Larry Herndon's single. They made it 2-0 in the sixth on Lou Whitaker's third home run of the year, which broke a string of 15 straight Tiger batters retired by loser Rick Honeycutt, 5-3.

Texas bounced back to take its 3-2 lead with three runs in the top of the seventh.

Dan Petry allowed six hits in seven innings to up his record to 4-2. Aurelio Lopez pitched the final two innings for his fourth save.

Royals 8, White Sox 4

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Hal McRae hit two of Kansas City's six doubles while Willie Wilson and Amos Otis had three hits each in leading the Royals past the Chicago White Sox 8-4 Saturday.

Steve Renko, 3-3, gave up seven hits in 7 1-3 innings before being relieved by Dan Quisenberry. Floyd Bannister, 2-5, was the loser.

Leon Roberts, Frank White, Pat Sheridan, and U.L. Washington also doubled to highlight Kansas City's 14-hit attack.

The White Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first on a two-run homer by Greg Luzinski. Otis singled and scored on Roberts' double in the second. Kansas City scored three runs in the third as Wilson singled and stole second. George Brett walked and both scored on McRae's two-run double. Otis singled home McRae for a 4-2 lead.

McRae doubled to lead off the fifth and scored when White doubled off reliever Dennis Lamp. White scored on Sheridan's double and John Wathan singled in Sheridan.

American League

Red Sox 11, Twins 4

BOSTON (AP) — Gary Allenson, Wade Boggs and Dave Stapleton drove in three runs apiece Saturday as the Boston Red Sox smashed the Minnesota Twins 11-4 behind the seven-hit pitching of left-hander Bob Ojeda.

The Red Sox nailed down the victory by scoring three runs in the second, third and fourth innings.

Ojeda, 2-1, went the distance for the first time since 1981. He gave up John Castino's eighth homer in the fourth and Gary Gaetti's sixth homer in the seventh inning. Gaetti extended his hitting streak to 13 games with his drive into the left field screen.

The Red Sox took advantage of Minnesota starter Brad Havens' wildness, scoring three times in the second on a pair of walks, a double by Allenson and a two-run double by Remy. Havens, 3-5, was the loser.

Blue Jays 6, Orioles 0

TORONTO (AP) — Dave Stieb silenced Baltimore's bats with a four-hitter and light-hitting shortstop Alfredo Griffin drove in a pair of runs Saturday, leading the Toronto Blue Jays to a 6-0 victory over the Orioles.

Stieb, who entered the game leading the league in earned run average, victories, innings pitched and strikeouts, improved his record to 8-2 with his fifth straight victory.

The right-hander struck out four and walked one in going the distance for the sixth time in 10 starts. It was Stieb's second shutout of the season and only the second time that the Orioles, the top-hitting club in the league, have been blanked this year.

Right-hander Sammy Stewart, 2-2, lasted four innings in his first start of the season after 13 relief appearances. He struck out four and walked three.

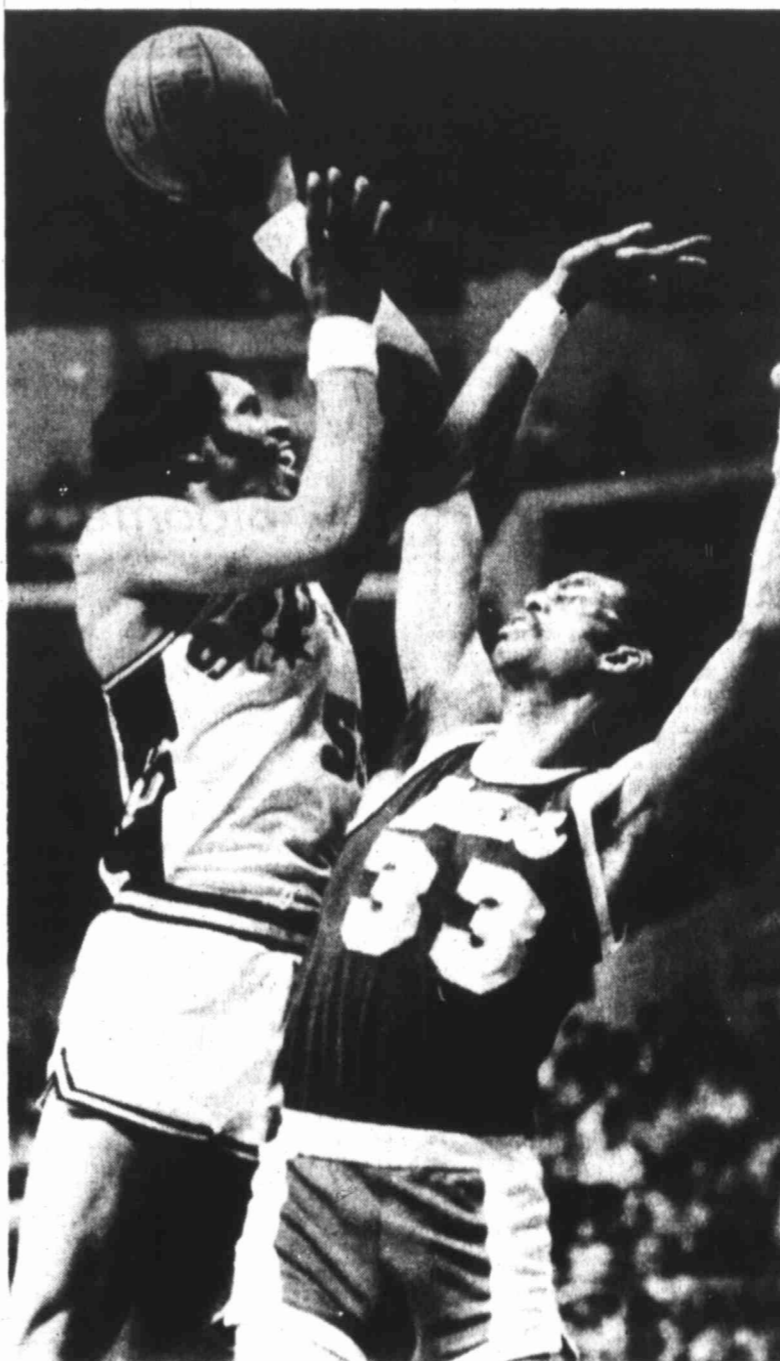

Yankees 1, A's 0

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dave Winfield's one-out single in the ninth inning drove in Willie Randolph with the game's only run as the New York Yankees beat the Oakland A's 1-0 Saturday behind the six-hit pitching of Shane Rawley and Rich Gossage.

Rawley, 5-3, allowed six hits, struck out three and walked two in 8 2-3 innings. It was Rawley's fifth career win against Oakland without a loss.

Gossage came on with two outs in the ninth and hit Dave Lopes with a pitch. With Wayne Gross batting, Lopes stole second and went to third on Rick Cerone's passed ball. Gossage then struck out Gross for his fifth save.

Randolph drew a walk from A's starter Mike Norris, 4-4, to lead off the ninth. Ken Griffey sacrificed Randolph to second and Winfield singled to right.

GILMORE GOES UP AND UP — Artis Gilmore (53) of the San Antonio Spurs shoots over the top of Los Angeles Laker Kareem Abdul Jabbar Friday night. Jabbar scored 28 points and blocked four shots to lead LA to a 101-100 victory over the Spurs.

LA Lakers oust Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers Coach Pat Riley said his team's 101-100 Western Conference championship win over San Antonio Friday night was a real "gut check."

But Lakers guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who got a hand on Mike Mitchell's first attempt at a game-winning basket in the final seconds, said, "I wasn't worried."

The defending National Basketball Association champion Lakers moved to the league championship series against the Philadelphia 76ers after holding off a late Spur rush.

The Lakers got their final field goal of the game with 2:01 to play when Michael Cooper hit a short shot off a quick pass from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the game's leading scorer with 28 points. Norm Nixon added a free throw 10 seconds later that proved to be the Lakers final and winning point.

It was the Spurs on offense and the Lakers on defense for most of the losing two minutes. A dunk by Artis Gilmore, who had 24 points, pulled the Spurs within three with 1:12 to play.

George Gervin split the Laker defense and tossed in a short, soft shot with 35 seconds to play to pull the Spurs to the one-point final margin and the 4-2 series win.

Jamaal Wilkes, smothered by Spur defenders, missed a jump shot with 11 seconds to play and San Antonio called a time out to set up a final play.

Riley said the Lakers knew what they wanted to do, but didn't have the time to set it up.

"We decided we weren't going to give them anything, but we didn't really have much time to discuss it. We wanted to keep it out of (Gervin's) hands," Riley said.

The ball wound up in the hands of Spur forward Mike Mitchell, who pestered the Lakers with his hot shooting throughout the series. But his second shot at a game-winner was tipped by Johnson, and wound up in Gilmore's hands, who couldn't control it in time to get off another shot.

Johnson said he hustled over to help out when Mitchell loaded up for the shot.

"I just ran to help out. You just don't know. Instinct is beautiful," he said. "It wasn't in the cards. I wasn't worried."

Spurs Coach Stan Albeck said he wanted guard Johnny Moore to try to penetrate and draw one of the Lakers' big men out of the middle.

"Mitchell thought the ball was going to go down," Albeck said of the game's final shot.

Mitchell agreed. Gilmore cleared 18 rebounds for the game high, pulling down eight more than Abdul-Jabbar.

Astros snap loss skein

ITTSBURGH (AP) — Phil Garner slammed a two-run homer as the Houston Astros ended a five-game losing streak with a 6-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

Houston scored five times in the first two innings against Randy Niemann, 0-1, who was making his first start since September 1980. Mike LaCoss, 3-3, got the victory although he needed help in the eighth inning after giving up a two-run homer to Jason Thompson.

In the Houston first, Tony Scott beat out an infield hit and scored when Dickie Thon's liner to right bounced over Dave Parker for a triple. Garner then hit Niemann's next pitch over the left field wall for his fifth home run of the year.

In the second, Luis Pujols and Omar Moreno singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Pujols scored on Scott's sacrifice fly and Thon followed with an RBI single that chased Niemann.

Houston added an unearned run against Lee Tunnell in the seventh when Moreno doubled, moved up on a passed ball and scored on Scott's second sacrifice fly.

Thompson doubled home Bill Madlock, who had singled, in the first, and the Pirates chased LaCoss in the eighth when Madlock singled home Jim Morrison and Thompson followed with his fifth homer of the year.

Dodgers, Mets (rain)

NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday night's game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Mets was postponed because of rain.

The game will be made up as part of a doubleheader on August 29.

Braves 4, Cardinals 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dale Murphy smashed a bases-loaded triple off reliever Bruce Sutter with one out in the eighth inning, snapping a tie and powering the Atlanta Braves to a 4-1 victory Saturday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

National League

Murphy's clout increased his major league-leading RBI total to 36 as Atlanta beat St. Louis for the second straight night. It was his fifth game-winning hit of the season.

Steve Bedrosian, 3-2, got the victory in relief of Phil Niekro. John Stuper, 4-2, absorbed the loss.

Phils, Padres (rain)

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Saturday afternoon game between the San Diego Padres and Philadelphia Phillies here was postponed because of rain.

The game will be made up as part of a two-night doubleheader on August 29.

Giants 5, Expos 2

MONTREAL (AP) — Tom O'Malley drove in three runs with a run-scoring double and a two-run single and Bill Laskey won his fifth straight game with five innings of one-hit ball as the San Francisco Giants earned a 5-2 National League victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

Laskey, 5-4, who lost his first four decisions, left after five innings when his right elbow stiffened. He was staked to a 3-0 lead in the first as the Giants jumped on Montreal starter Scott Sanderson, 3-4, who has lost four straight games.

The only hit off Laskey came in the fourth when Andre Dawson belted his sixth home run. Tim Raines, who had walked, scored ahead of him.

After Laskey left, Gary Lavelle pitched four innings of three-hit ball for his fifth save of the season and the 100th of his career.

Cubs 8, Reds 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Cey and Leon Durham slugged three-run homers Saturday to lead the Chicago Cubs 8-4 over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cey's fourth homer of the season capped a four-run fifth inning. Durham's sixth homer completed a four-run sixth. Paul Moskau, 2-2, was the winner, and Charlie Puleo, 0-1, was the loser.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the first on Dave Concepcion's run-scoring single. In the fourth, Ron Oester singled with two outs and scored when Paul Householder was credited with a triple after right fielder Keith Moreland and second baseman Ryne Sandberg collided chasing his pop fly to right.

Johnny Bench hit his fifth homer in the Cincinnati sixth, but the Cubs came right back with four runs. Gary Woods doubled and scored on a single by Junior Kennedy. Bill Buckner walked and Durham followed with his homer.

Cincinnati scored in the ninth on Wayne Krenchicki's groundout.

Sampson gets diploma

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Ralph Sampson, who turned down several million-dollar offers to leave college early for professional basketball, receives his diploma at University of Virginia graduation exercises Sunday.

The Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association won a coin toss Thursday with the Indiana Pacers for the first choice in the college draft and said they would select Sampson.

"He's so valuable that he will make the rest of the team better," Houston General Manager Ray Patterson said.

Sampson, a 7-foot-4 center from Harrisonburg, Va., earned his bachelor's degree in speech communications, with a C-plus grade average. He has said he wants to work as a director or producer when his pro basketball career ends.

In four seasons at Virginia, Sampson scored 2,228 points, a 16.9 point average, grabbed 1,511 rebounds, an 11.4 average, and blocked 463 shots. His 60.4 percent field goal percentage in the 1982-83 season was a school record.

He was the sixth player in NCAA history, and the first since Houston's Elvin Hayes in 1968, to score more than 2,000 points and grab more than 1,500 rebounds in his career.

Sampson, 22, led the Cavaliers to a 112-23 record over his four years, but his college career ended short of his goal — an NCAA championship for Virginia.

NFL suspends Schlichter indefinitely

Rozelle picks moderate punishment for Colts quarterback

ART SCHLICHTER ...suspended for '83 season

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Schlichter, the Baltimore Colts reserve quarterback, will have to sit out at least the 1983 National Football League season under a suspension imposed by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Meanwhile, the former Ohio State star is being treated for what psychiatrists have described as a gambling compulsion.

Schlichter, 23, received word of his suspension Friday as he was hospitalized, undergoing treatment for the compulsive gambling habit that caused him to run up $389,000 in debts.

Rozelle had many options in his decision to punish Schlichter, who admitted betting on at least 10 NFL games as well as other professional sports. The commissioner could have banned Schlichter for life, or simply fined him. He chose a middle road, a path he has taken before.

The indefinite suspension, which is subject to review after the season, was the first imposed by Rozelle for gambling since 1963. That year, Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Kar-ras of the Detroit Lions were suspended indefinitely — both missing one season — for gambling on NFL games.

Karras' bets did not even total $1,000 and Hornung's didn't amount to much more, nowhere near the total bet by Schlichter in the first 2½ months of 1983.

Jack Chester, Schlichter's attorney, would not disclose the location of the hospital where the former first-round selection is being treated, but he did tell a news conference Friday that Schlichter is under the care of Dr. Robert Custer of Washington, whom he described as "one of the pre-eminent experts in the country in the area of compulsive gambling."

Rozelle said that Schlichter could be reinstated as early as the 1984 season if he shows he has been rehabilitated when the case is reviewed.

Another football commissioner, Chet Simmons of the United States Football League, is also concerned about the rehabilitation shown by Schlichter.

Simmons said Friday his fledgling league is still interested in signing Schlichter, but he did not know the contractual obligations of the quarterback to the Colts and the NFL.

"I would have to make a determination if playing is as strong a rehabilitative force as just being rehabilitated and suspended," Simmons said. "If his inability to play would be a deterrent to his rehabilitations, then I would very seriously be interested in talking to him."

The announcement of Schlichter's suspension came one day after Bert Jones, the man whose trade made his selection by the Colts possible, retired. Jones was sent to the Los Angeles Rams for their first-round selection, which turned out to be Schlichter.

Neither quarterback saw much action last season as Schlichter was listed as the Colts' No.3 passer behind rookie Mike Pagel and journeyman David Humm, while Jones was sidelined with a neck injury and played in just four games for the Rams.

"Hi, Mom! Billy wants to know if I can eat here."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, MAY 22, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning finds you able to work out association conditions with other persons. Use care in your relationships with other persons for best planetary results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Come to a better understanding with allies. Outside situations arise that you don't like. Take them in stride.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Take it easy; schedule your activities nicely for the new week. Avoid arguments as much as you can. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Do whatever will give you relief from worry in the morning. Spend time at quiet activities the rest of the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Plan just how to please family members more in the morning. Exercise patience if something comes up unexpectedly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Get in touch with an individual with whom you want to arrange some new plan. Exercise caution in motion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Handle that financial affair early. Don't make an error where practical matters are concerned. Express happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You understand how to improve situations, but don't let a frustration get you off balance. Stress the important matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Daytime is fine for improving conditions around you, but don't let a frustration get you off balance. Stress the important matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): See a good friend who can provide the support you need. Improve your appearance, but don't socialize yet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Attend to some outside affair lest your esteem with the public in general be lessened. Use care in asking for credit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Delve into new interests that are appealing. Be sure you may get held up over small tasks. Avoid travel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Please your loved one and avoid arguments. Use the evening for reading, stressing informative material. Retire early.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...

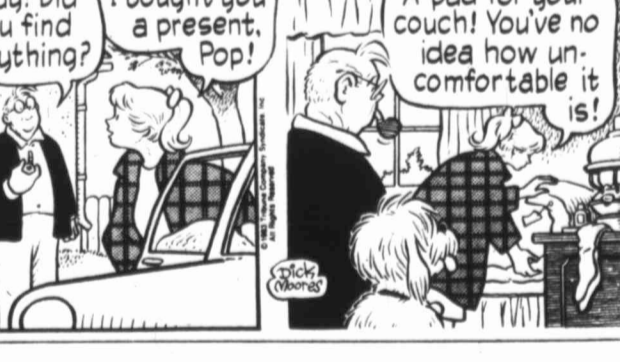

...he or she will have much charm and a very sweet quality that will delight others, to permit many worthwhile persons to come into this life early who can be helpful later in life. Teach to be objective.

Holmes, Dokes struggle heavily

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Larry Holmes and Michael Dokes remain the heavyweight champions of the world, but both sit on shaky thrones.

And, as far as challengers Tim Witherspoon and Mike Weaver are concerned, their victory margins Friday night are more than narrow — they are invisible.

Holmes retained his World Boxing Council crown with a 12-round split decision over the lightly-regarded Witherspoon, while Dokes got a 15-round draw against Weaver to hang on to the World Boxing Association version of the title.

There is a boxing axiom that if a challenger wants to win a title, he must go out and take it away from the champion. And both Weaver and Witherspoon tried their best to do that, carrying the fights to Dokes and Holmes.

"I came to fight," said Weaver, who had lost the crown in a controversial bout Dec. 10 when Referee Joey Curtis stopped it after just 63 seconds. "I was moving forward. Dokes was moving backwards."

Witherspoon did the same thing against Holmes, boring in and often slugging toe-to-toe with the champion, who had his hands full with the challenger.

Witherspoon, who had not fought in 11 months, promised he would shock the world by winning Friday night and he very nearly pulled off the upset.

Holmes took the split decision, given a 118-111 nod by judge Chuck Hasset and a narrow 115-113 edge by Judge Chuck Minker. Judge Herb Santos saw it for Witherspoon, 115-114. The Associated Press' card had Holmes in front, 115-113.

The 33-year-old champion, who was defending his title for the 15th time, acknowledged that the fight had been close, almost too close.

"Maybe I'm going down a little bit," he said after going the distance for the third time in six months. Only once in the first 12 defenses of his title did Holmes fail to knock out his opponent.

"Two fights ago, this man wouldn't have been able to wear my socks," said Holmes, who weighed 213, the lightest he's been for a fight since he knocked out Leon Spinks two years ago.

But Witherspoon, 219½, gave Holmes all the fight the champion could handle.

"I proved I'm the uncrowned champion of the world," the 25-year-old said. "There's nothing more to be said."

But he said plenty more, anyway.

"He's disgusted," Witherspoon continued, nodding at Holmes, who was sitting nearby. "He lost."

"He's nothing, man, nothing. I hurt him in almost every round."

When Witherspoon was told that one of the judges, Hasset, had given nine rounds to Holmes, he seemed incredulous.

"Larry Holmes must have paid him some money before the fight," he said.

"There is no question who won," said the champion.

But Holmes sounded like a man who was less than thrilled with his performance.

Alcott moves into 3-way tie in LPGA

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Amy Alcott, who is $4,140 away from $1 million in earnings, moved into a three-way tie for the lead Saturday after the second round of the 54-hole LPGA Chrysler-Plymouth Charity Classic.

Rookie Stephanie Farwig and first-round co-leader Donna White tied for first place in the $125,000 golf tournament.

Each was 5-under par with totals of 141 at the Upper Montclair Country Club.

Lori Huxhold was three strokes back at 144, 2-under par. Debbie Austin, Lynn Adams, Alice Miller, Barbara Moxness, Becky Pearson were 1-under par at 145.

Austin shot a tournament course record 67, breaking the record established by Friday's coleaders, White and Chris Johnson at 68.

Johnson lost her share of the lead with a second-round 81 Saturday, giving her a total of 149.

Nancy Lopez was six strokes off the pace at 147; Jan Stephenson was nine strokes back at 150, Beth Daniel was 12 strokes back at 153, and Kathy Whitworth was 13 strokes back at 154.

For the final round Sunday, 73 players qualified at 153 or better.

Saturday's overcast weather failed to improve on the scores of Friday's play in the drizzling rain.

White, who won the Coca-Cola Tournament here in 1980 by coming from six strokes back in the final round, said, "The course is in super shape... You cannot play aggressive here, you have to be patient to score well."

Asked whether these were her best two rounds ever, White responded: "I don't keep stats, I just count my money."

She said, "I'd like to win it here because I have a lot of loyal fans in this area."

In 1973, White won the junior national title at Somerset Hills and in 1976 she took the LPGA tournament title at the Forsgate Country Club in Jamesburg.

Page's powerful left jabs turned Renaldo Snipes' left eye into the color and shape of swollen plum as he gained a 12-round unanimous decision to retain his U.S. Boxing Association title Friday night prior to Holmes' split decision victory over Tim Witherspoon.

The Page-Snipes fight also was designated as an elimination bout, with the winner supposedly guaranteed a fight with Holmes. Page is hoping it'll work out that way, especially with Holmes' speed apparently on the wane. But Page is worried that Holmes, 33, may retire rather than fight him.

"I'm sitting and waiting," Page said. "I don't go by verbal promises anymore. When I see it in black and white, I'll believe it."

"All I know is it hasn't happened. It could be politics, I don't know."

Snipes didn't think he was robbed, but he felt the fight was closer than the judges scored it. Judge Duane Ford had it 115-111, Doug Tucker scored it 116-112 and Dalby Shirley scored it 115-112.

"I think I deserve a rematch," Snipes said. A thin line of blood trickled down his cheek from under his dark glasses as he talked. "He had me dizzy in one round, but I was never hurt. I've been getting the shackles in the boxing world."

Page, though, turned down the idea of a rematch, or any other fight against a lower contender. He wants Holmes as soon as possible.

Page, slimmer down to 227 after fighting earlier bouts near 240, began to get to Snipes' eye in the fourth round. Page kept sticking his jab and moving, following up occasionally with four- or five-punch combinations. By the seventh round, Snipes' eye was almost closed and he was a fighting Cyclops the rest of the way.

But Snipes didn't retreat. Half-blind, bleeding from the mouth, the 216-pounder managed to rock Page with a four-punch flurry in the 10th and took the round on all three cards.

Oswaldo Ocasio of Puerto Rico retained his World Boxing Association Junior Heavyweight title with a 15-round unanimous decision over Randy Stephens of Warren, Ohio, in another prelim.

"I want Michael Spinks," Ocasio said in Spanish afterward. Spinks holds the WBC's light heavyweight title.

Ocasio had an easy time with Stephens, landing hard left leads to the head and left hooks to the body and head as he built up an early advantage.

"Maybe I didn't train hard enough," he said. "Maybe I trained too hard. I'm going to go home (Easton, Pa.) to spend some time with my family and take a look at the whole thing."

Holmes has said that he wants to retire after this year after one or possibly two more fights.

Greg Page scored a unanimous 12-round decision over Renaldo Snipes on Friday night's card in what was billed as an elimination bout to find a next opponent for Holmes.

There also has been talk of a heavyweight unification bout against WBA King Dokes but that may not come off because both men fight under the aegis of promoter Don King. Holmes had said he would fight Weaver had he beaten Dokes but was less specific about a possible bout against Dokes.

Of course, Witherspoon is also in King's stable managed, like Dokes, by the promoter's son, Carl.

King, who promoted Friday night's card which opened with Ossie Ocasio, defending his WBA junior heavyweight crown against Randy Stephens, said he said he would abide by Holmes' wishes.

"Whatever Larry Holmes decides, I stand by," said King. "But I have told him that if you go to the well once too often, you can lose it the same way you got it. The old have to always give way to the new."

In the other title fight, however, age almost prevailed with the 30-year-old Weaver throwing a scare into the 24-year-old Dokes.

Throughout their bout, Weaver, who weighed 218½, stalked the champion, paying for his aggressiveness when Dokes stung him with jab after jab. But the ex-champ kept coming.

"I did not hold once. I tried to make a fight of it and I thought I won 10 of the 15 rounds," Weaver said.

The judges did not agree. Two of them — Larry Hazzard and Harold Lederman — saw it as a deadlock, Hazzard scoring it 144-144 and Lederman 143-143 on the 10-point must system. That made it a draw with the third judge, Jerry Roth giving the nod to Dokes, 145-141. The Associated Press had Weaver ahead, 143-142.

HOUSTON (AP) — Tom Heinsohn says the Houston Rockets will have to come with money, and lots of it, to hire him as their head coach.

Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson met Friday with agent Phil McLaughlin and offered the former Boston Celtics player and coach a four-year contract worth almost $1 million, the Houston Chronicle reported.

But Heinsohn, who was in San Antonio to provide color commentary for the Lakers-Spurs National Basketball Association playoff game, said the Rockets will have to sweeten the pot.

"Quite frankly, by NBA coaching standards, they made me a very attractive offer," Heinsohn said. "But without trying to sound inflated, I am not your ordinary NBA coach."

"I've gone outside the game and carved myself a place in the world. I don't think I can be expected to give it up, even for the pleasure of coaching a Ralph Sampson," Heinsohn told the Chronicle in a story Saturday.

The Rockets won the right to draft the Virginia All-America in a coin flip with the Indiana Pacers Thursday.

Patterson said the club is not interested in extended negotiations.

"We have met Tommy and we've been impressed," he said. "And he came away from our meeting in Houston saying that he was impressed. It's now just a matter of seeing just how impressed he was and how much he wants to get back into coaching."

Heinsohn, who coached the Celtics to two world championships, has been out of basketball since Boston fired him at the end of the 1978 season. Since then, he has been successful in art, the insurance business and broadcasting.

"He's been a very successful businessman and he's going to have to weigh all of the alternatives and make his decision," Rockets owner Charlie Thomas said. "I would certainly want him to be the coach of the Rockets. But you've got to realize that I cannot offer unrealistic salaries to get everybody that I want."

Seniors begin new life at BSHS

Congratulations to the Class of '83! Graduation is scheduled for May 24 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The valedictorian and salutatorian for the class are Stacey Bott and Patricia Jones. The highest ranking boy in this class is Speight Grimes. The seniors were dismissed from school this past Thursday.

School will end for the rest of the high school students on Wednesday, May 25. The students will get out for a glorious summer at 2:45. Semester exams will be taken on Tuesday for classes 2, 4, and 6. On Wednesday, classes 1, 3, and 5 will take their exams. All students must take their exams to pass to the next grade.

The 1983-84 Student Council members were recently announced. The following people were chosen: Freshmen—Matt Garrett, Christy Malone, Eric Thompson, Shelly Carmichael, Mary Anita Trevino, Carey Fraser; Sophomores—Kim Anding, Anissa Barte, Suzanne Bowers, Kevin Freeman, Dana Haney, Rebecca Harter, Shawn Keyes, Tracey

Kilgore, Keri Myrick, Mark Slate; Juniors—Adrienne Allen, Michelle Basham, Stacy Bacham, Mark Corwin, Jim Cowan, Melissa Fuller, Derek Logback, Julie Miller, Jay Pirkle, Neasa Rhodes, and Blair Richardson; Seniors—Bronwyn Allen, Lupe Bihl, Tyomi Brooks, Pete Crabtree, Kim Jones, Tal Logback, Misti Meyers, Kay Pollard, Cecilia Rodriguez, and Billy Wegner.

FCA recently elected their officers for the 83-84 school year. The Presidents are Tal Logback and Debbie Donelson. The Secretary/Treasurer is Vickie Halfmann. The Historian is Adrienne Allen.

This week is the final week of the Megaphone. I would like to thank the support I have received from all the staff at the Big Spring Herald and from the community. Without that constant nudging, I would have probably given up. Although I will not be returning in the fall, the person that will take over the job will be just as good if the love and support is given as it was to me. Thank You!

Sara Backus was awarded one of seven Outstanding Soloist Awards presented in the contest.

NEW OFFICERS — The new Student Council officers are sitting: Marshall Long, Chris Wington, and Lisa Iden. Standing: Melissa Roberson and Michelle Bayes.

Study shows decontrol could cost consumers

AWARD WINNER — Katrina Thompson was awarded the "Sonia Lancaster" award Monday night at the Goliad Sports Banquet.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration's plan to decontrol natural gas will cost consumers in the Northeast and North Central states about $100 a year in higher heating bills by 1987, says a government study.

The long-awaited study by the Energy Information Administration says President Reagan's decontrol bill would raise consumer rates nationwide an average 6 percent above what they would otherwise be in 1985.

That sharply contradicts the administration's assertion that its package would reduce consumer natural gas prices by 7 percent to 11 percent in 1985 while at the same time stimulating new production.

It also provides new ammunition for a Congress reluctant to lift the government's existing price ceilings on natural gas amid voter complaints last winter about skyrocketing bills.

For the average American consumer, the annual natural gas bill in 1987 would be $672 a year under the current law compared with $757 under the administration's program, according to the study. The average annual bill this year under the existing partial controls system is expected to be $521.

AIRPORT ARRIVAL — Charlie Walker, country music singer from Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn., steps off an Oilfield Industrial Lines jet, Wednesday morning. Walker participated in the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament, Wednesday through Friday. Walker also performed for the tournament's VIP Party at the Brass Nail Club, Wednesday evening. Coming off the plane behind him was Gloria Gilbert, Miss Texas 1982.

Country music singer Charlie Walker says he's a "hacker" when it comes to golf.

As one of three amateurs, Walker played with pro golfer Charles Bridwell of Lakewood Country Club in Dallas, Jerry Foresyth and Woody Rutledge Thursday afternoon during the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Walker, who appears in the "Grand Ole Opry" in Nashville and has appeared on the television program "Hee-Haw," plays in about 15 pro-celebrity tournaments every year around the country. In addition to playing in the local tournament, he will play in the Danny White tournament Dallas June 1, a tournament that benefits the Boy Scouts.

"Of course this tournament here is my favorite philanthropy, which is crippled children's hospital," he said. "Being a Shriner myself, I really know how to appreciate the great job that they do around the world and around the United States and Canada as far as aid to crippled children."

"I've entertained at a lot of the Scottish Rite hospitals. And I've known a number of children that they just absolutely would not survive if it hadn't have been for the hospitals."

Walker is a Shriner at Al Menah Temple in Nashville. "I've been a Shriner since 1955." He has been a Mason since 1953. He became a Mason and Shriner while living in San Antonio.

"I do play in a lot of these (tournaments), and I always have a good time. I'm delighted to be in West Texas cause people around this part of the country really know how to have a good time."

WALKER WAS RAISED in Texas, north of Dallas, on a cotton farm in Collin County. He finished high school in Dallas where he went into the radio business. His first job at 17, singing in a Dallas honkytonk, soon led him to a position as featured vocalist with Bill Boyd's western swing band, "The Cowboy Ramblers." After a year with the band, he served in the military for two years and introduced country music to Japan over the Armed Forces Radio Network from Tokyo. "After I served some time in playing in golf tournaments he spends time with his family or one of his favorite hobbies — hunting. "I hunt — go on several deer hunts a year," he said. "Then we hunt ducks and geese and birds. I love to shoot doves and quail." One of his favorite hunting grounds is around the Hunt, Ingram, Kerrville area, where he hunted while living in San Antonio.

'Anything we can do for young people, especially for crippled kids, well that's great.'

—Charlie Walker

military, I lived in San Antonio for 15 years, and was in broadcasting there before I got hit records and moved to Nashville. I been with the Grand Ole Opry there since 1965."

His interest in country music developed during his youth. "Back when I was raised, on a Saturday night, well somebody would have a fiddle and one have a banjo, maybe a guitar. We'd just pick and sing on the back porch on Saturday night, sing hymns and cowboy songs and things that we had learned," he said.

He cut some records in the early 1950s, of which several did well. "But then 1958 I slipped up on a real big hit which was 'Pick Me Up on Your Way Down.'" Walker sang his hit song during the VIP party Thursday evening. "I've been doing it (recording songs) ever since. I've had 25 albums. And (I) have been lucky, I had 40-some-odd of those tunes in the Nashville Charts. When Walker is not working or

"I'M JUST AN all-around outdoorsman. I love football and baseball, most any sport," he said. "I love to go see the Dallas Cowboys play. Of course, that's my favorite team. And I have a son that graduated (from) University of Texas. So as far as college football goes, I always pull for Texas. Or if it's in Tennessee...well I have to pull for University of Tennessee in Vanderbilt, which is in Nashville too."

Walker has a wife, Virginia, and four daughters and a son, all under 10 years old and living in Hendersonville, Tennessee. Walker and his wife are Mormons and share a sense of the importance of family life. He has a son and daughter in Dallas.

Walker does most of his traveling on the weekends and says, "It's usually not much worse than a lot of businessmen." Occasionally his wife accompanies him; however, with young children at home it's hard for her to get away.

Walker played in the local pro-am tournament basically for fun and fellowship. But he was here to help attract people to the tournament so it can raise money for the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospitals and Burn Centers.

"Most of the golf tournaments like this has a philanthropy...anything we can do for young people, especially crippled kids, well that's great."

Derrick Doll, Melanie, hosts Pro-Am tourney

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

When Melanie Williams, a Houston Oiler Derrick Doll, tried out for cheerleading in high school, her peers thought she was "too prissy." Apparently she wasn't for the Derrick Dolls because she is in her third year as one and was picked out of about 500 competitors each year.

Melanie flew into Big Spring Wednesday with three other Derrick Dolls and their "mother" Linda Shank. They were featured in the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Tournament and Parade as hostesses.

"I always wanted to be a cheerleader," Melanie said. "And when I was in high school, I was rejected as one because everybody thought I was too prissy." She had seen the Derrick Dolls in action and thought she could be a part of the group. "So I just tried out."

"I had a cousin that tried out a year earlier. And she said that the only reason that she would try out again is if I tried out with her. So I tried out and I made it."

Her cousin didn't make the squad and has never been jealous of Melanie's success. Everytime Melanie tried out for the squad, her cousin was with her to wish her luck and give moral support.

"I figured there's no way I could get out there and perform in those little uniforms before all those (people) at the football games. But I went to the first meeting and met all the girls, and I thought 'Gosh what a neat group of women.'"

Melanie said most members are either mothers or students. Some have their own businesses in addition to being a Derrick Doll.

"It was nice," she said about being selected. "It means you were picked among 500 girls. It was a great feeling. I always wanted to be a cheerleader."

When the Derrick Dolls are not performing for Houston Oiler games, they are busy making appearances, doing tournament work for golf and bowling tournaments, hosting conventions and oil company open houses. "We are there to greet the customer...mingle with the people. If they know some cheerleaders are going to be there, more people are apt to come," she said. "The client really makes more money off of it. We kind of bring in the crowd I guess you can say."

BEING A DERRICK DOLL has made Melanie a more responsible person, she says.

"I never really had that much responsibility. We do need to be responsible. We could get a call anytime about going to personal appearances. You have to get all the information, be there at a certain time. I treat it as a business. I don't take it very lightly when I need to meet someone at a certain time."

"I've met so many different types of people. The experience is really unlimited. This is my third year and

MELANIE WILLIAMS
...Houston Oiler Derrick Doll

I'm still finding new things and meeting people."

Melanie has a boyfriend she has dated for one year. "He is real nice and likes to come to some of my appearances with me," she said while riding in a motor home from Big Spring Airport to the hotel where celebrities were staying.

"(He) comes to all the games. He's been really, really supportive. However, I dated a guy for three years, much younger. He didn't understand. He didn't want me going to all the appearances. He gave me a really, really hard time. But I'm not with him anymore, and now my last year was pleasant."

When she had almost decided not to try-out for her third year, her boyfriend encouraged her to try for another year. She made the squad again; however, this will probably be her last year, she says. "Graduation is coming up, and I'm going to have to really start

Miss Texas 1982 performs ventriloquism act at party

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

"Big Spring seems to be a very friendly and warm town," says Gloria Gilbert, Miss Texas 1982. "All the people are so nice to me."

Miss Gilbert was in the Spring City to be featured in the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am Golf Tournament Parade, to perform at the VIP Party, and to be a hostess at the pro-am tournament Wednesday through Friday. "I think we'll have a great time," she said.

"My father used to work in Big Spring," she said. "He worked with Gulf Oil. I really don't know where he was located." Her father would be in Big Spring for five days and come home for weekends about 10 to 15 years ago. She visited him occasionally.

Miss Gilbert, of Millsap, Texas, was a preliminary swimsuit winner at the Miss Texas Pageant in 1982 prior to being named Miss Texas. She was a non-finalist Talent Award winner at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. in September 1982. She was among the top 18 competitors in the Miss America Pageant.

TO WIN THE TALENT AWARD, Miss Gilbert performed her ventriloquism act during the pageant. Her interest in Shari Lewis and Lamb Chops spawned her desire to learn and perform ventriloquism acts as her talent during pageants. "I saw her on TV and I thought it (ventriloquism) would be fun. It started as a hobby, and then I started entering the 'Little Miss Pageants.' You had to have a talent. Of course I took ballet, I took jazz, gymnastics and piano. And so did every other little girl in the world. But no one was a ventriloquist. So I use that as my talent."

"As I became a little bit more involved, I studied a little bit harder. I've been doing it 14 years now. She performed her act during the VIP Party at the Brass Nail Club Wednesday night and was so good at that she received a standing ovation. Her "dummie" is named Homer, and she carries him around with her to her appearances in a medium-sized brown suitcase, personalized with his name near the handle."

Miss Texas attended North Texas State University in Denton. She received a four-year scholarship during her reign as Miss Texas. "Then I go back to TCU (Texas Christian University) in Fort Worth this next year at mid-semester." While she is majoring in radio, TV and film, she is getting experience from her Miss Texas appearances and later appearances.

"And now I'm living with my pageant manager Elaine Carroll in Fort Worth because the pageant base is in Fort Worth. Millsap is not that far from

GLORIA GILBERT
...Miss Texas 1982

Fort Worth, about 50 miles."

Miss Gilbert plans to work in the Metroplex area of Dallas-Fort Worth following her graduation. She's not sure what field she would like to go into with her background in communications. "All of it is so nice, exciting, and different."

DURING HER REIGN as Miss Texas, Miss Gilbert doesn't have any spare time. "My time belongs to the state of Texas," she says. "I travel probably most of the week...probably 4 or 5 appearances, average of a week."

"I'm approaching 50,000 miles as far as my travels alone, on appearances since last July. When I do have a little free time, I love to play tennis."

"Recuperating, catching up with correspondence is a big thing because...children are into pictures. I love to write them back, because I was like that

Miss West Texas plays in Pro-Am

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Who was the only female — entered as "S. Oates" — to play in the First Annual Shriners Signal Peak Pro-Am Golf Tournament?

The answer is Miss West Texas Stephanie Oates. A promising young golfer? No. She had only played twice in her whole life.

"I'm terrible," Stephanie confessed Wednesday at a press conference before the pro-am parade. "They wanted me to play so I am. I'm going to be the only girl playing."

She became Miss West Texas July 3, 1982. Stephanie said she has really enjoyed her reign.

Asked why she was at the pro-am, Stephanie said the tournament organizers had been in touch with her business manager.

"This is great — gosh, getting to meet Golden Richards," Stephanie said as Richards conducted an interview across from her.

Most of her work as Miss West Texas has been limited to the Midland-Odessa area, the Odessa resident said. However, she has made trips to El Paso, Dallas and Lubbock as representative of those areas.

Presently an Odessa College student, Stephanie plans to attend Southern Methodist University and major in either pediatrics or dentistry.

"I haven't really decided yet," she said.

The Loop native plans to work toward the Miss Texas crown next. Other than her educational career, Stephanie said she was looking at one other accomplishment.

"My goal is to date a Dallas Cowboy," she said giggling.

MOONWALKER — Col. James B. Irwin rides on a float in the Signal Peak Pro-Am Parade with Big Spring High School student, Gary Jones, Wednesday afternoon. Behind them is a scale model of the lunar module Irwin went to the moon in. Jones won a blue ribbon in a state Vocational Opportunity Clubs of Texas (VOCT) meet for building a gasoline motor. Irwin was impressed with the boy's achievements, presented him with an autographed picture, and asked the boy to accompany him on the parade float. The meet was held in Corpus Christi, May 13-14.

with my career...start doing long term goals to work on."

"I want to be where the action is," she said. "I want to make some money. I can't be stagnant. I don't want to work for just one company. I want to do contract work for different stores, specialty stores or just individuals. I don't want to have to go into a 9-to-5 job every morning."

THE RELATIONSHIPS between the Derrick Dolls are close. They meet twice a week. "They are practically the only girls I really associate with, except at school — the people in my classes. You have to be (able) to work really close and together with trips, and get along," she said.

The squad members are chosen for each appearance on a rotation basis, depending upon who is available at the time to go on the trips.

Melanie is a senior merchandising major at the University of Houston — Central Campus. She plans to get a job in a Houston department store as an executive buyer for a couple of years' experience. "I'm really interested in (being a) consultant, fashion consultant." After working in Houston, she plans to move to Dallas where the market is good. After Dallas, she wants to go on to New York, Chicago or Los Angeles.

Miss Texas

when I was small. It takes a lot to keep up with your correspondence, more than I ever thought. I have a lot of thank you notes to write because people are so very nice."

In her travels throughout Texas, one of her most memorable experiences was in Del Rio at Laughlin Air Force Base.

"They allowed me to ride in a T-37 fighter jet," she said. "We would do acrobatic maneuvers. He (the pilot) would do one, and then he would give me the stick and he'd say, 'Okay, you do it.'"

"We'd turn loop-to-loops and turn flips. It was so fun, so exciting. It was a little scary flying upside down and doing nose dives. I'd go back and do it again. I loved it."

She also has performed for the children at many state hospitals and schools. "If anyone has never visited a hospital like that or school they should," she said. "Those kids are so funny. They love you."

"Also I visited the state capital, and we were introduced to the House and to the Senate. And we were also able to entertain the House of Representatives."

AFTER GIVING UP her Miss Texas crown, she has plans to appear at the Junior Olympics in Baton Rouge, La., in July and will tour the West Coast in September. While touring she will perform and represent a candy company promoting Halloween candy and trick-or-treating. The company wants to use her act with Homer to reach children.

Miss Gilbert has dated a boy for about a year. "(He's) great support and gives me lots of encouragement," she said. "It really helps having someone there pushing you, standing behind you."

Dating Miss Texas "really doesn't bother him," she said. "We dated before I was Miss Texas, so he knows me as Gloria Gilbert, the country girl. So he's really enjoyed watching the improvement and maturity take place during this year."

When Miss Gilbert is not making appearances, she is practicing her ventriloquism act with Homer. This means finding and learning new scripts and materials for her act and keeping polished on the ones she presents. "It's a lot of hard work."

"A lot of people think being Miss Texas is a lot of fun and glamour, but there's a behind-the-scenes you never see...the exercising and staying up on current events, in case you are interviewed. If you don't know, you aren't being a very good representative."

Officers were elected May 14 at a meeting of the WWI Barracks #1474 and its Auxiliary at Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Officers elected were Bernice Micallef, president, Lillian Patton, senior vice president, Fannie Kent, junior vice president, Cordelia Castle, treasurer, Eula Phillips, chaplain, Virginia Younger, conductor, and Viola Younger, guard. Virginia Bryant, district president, was installing officer, and Dorothy Hull was installing chaplain. The Barracks elected Marion B. Irland, commander, L.R. Mundt, quartermaster, and C.D. Phillips, chaplain.

Delegates and alternates were elected to attend the Department Convention at Fort Worth, July 5-8. A quilt block was made to be in a quilt presented to Hattie Box, department president, at the convention.

Plans were completed to participate in the Memorial Day services with other Veterans Organizations at the Howard County Courthouse, May 30 at 9 a.m.

By an unanimous vote, it was decided the Auxiliary would sell fruit cakes again this fall as its ways and means project.

Signal Peak Pro-Am reflections

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

What a week this has been for Big Spring. The FIRST ANNUAL SIGNAL PEAK SHRINERS PRO-AM TOURNAMENT AND PARADE was a great success, especially for a first attempt.

While reporting on all events involved, I didn't realize that COL. JAMES B. IRWIN was joking with me when he said the tournament officials never invited him to play golf. From what his friend BETTY RIFEY said, Irwin hasn't played golf in many years. My apologies go to the Apollo 15 astronaut for taking him too seriously and reporting his comment in a non-joking manner.

Irwin left for Miami, Fla., Thursday morning to speak at a friends commencement ceremony. This friend was valedictorian of her class.

Irwin is a fascinating man. And he seems to care so much for the youth in our society. Betty says, "He's a love. He's a doll." Irwin invited a local student, GARY JONES, to ride on the parade float with him during the parade Wednesday. He was impressed with the boy's achievement in building a motor for a state competition.

His love for the youth was shown in another way Wednesday. VERLIN KNOUS said Irwin called him and asked him to bring MICHAEL BESSENT, a former poster child for the March of Dimes, to the VIP Party Wednesday night. Irwin wanted to give the young boy an autographed picture and have his picture made with the boy.

Michael also had his picture made with several other celebrities present.

During the VIP Party an auction was held and more than $12,000 was earned for donation to the Shriners Hospitals. Just a few of the people I saw at the party were JOYCE AND CHARLES WASH, PEGGY PAYNE, BILL NEHLS, RUSS RUTLEDGE, GRADY CUNNINGHAM, CHRIS CHRISTOPHER, CLAUDENE COOPER, TOMMY RUTLEDGE, CAROLYN AND BILL FORSHEE, JERRY AND JAN FORESYTHE, MELBA AND SID SMITH, EDDIE AND MARY ARI, ROSE THOMAS, BILL HAMBREE, GAIL AND FLOYD EARLS.

Guard against high blood pressure

What is high blood pressure?
Your blood pushes against your blood vessels as your heart beats. Sometimes this push is too great. Then high blood pressure results.

High blood pressure can cause a stroke... or a heart attack... or kidney disease.

Who can get high blood pressure?
High blood pressure is a common problem. Anybody can have it. Young and old, men and women, relaxed people and tense people... anybody. If you are over 40, you have a bigger chance of having high blood pressure.

How can you tell if you have it?
You can't tell by yourself if you have it. You can feel good, or feel bad. But the way you feel does not tell you. There is only one way to find out. Have a doctor or nurse check your blood pressure.

Can you control high blood pressure?
High blood pressure usually cannot be cured. But you can control it. You can bring your blood pressure down to normal. How? By treatment — every day. Then you can lead a normal, active, healthy life.

If you have high blood pressure, see a doctor. The doctor can help you control your blood pressure. You may be given pills to take every day. The doctor may ask you to do other things. Like losing weight. And using less salt.

The doctor may also ask you to stop smoking. Or maybe to exercise more.

Be sure you know just what the doctor asks you to do. Ask questions to be sure. Millions of people control their blood pressure. You can, too.

High blood pressure can cause strokes, heart attacks, and kidney disease.

You usually cannot tell if you have high blood pressure. So have a doctor or nurse check for it. Anybody can have it.

You can control high blood pressure. When it is controlled, you can lead a normal, active, healthy life. Be sure you understand the doctor's treatment. Then follow the treatment every day. For life.

Tell your family and friends about your treatment. They can help.

Remember, millions of people control their high blood pressure. You can, too.

picture of him when this happened.

Several participants and hostesses of the tournament had comments to say. "I think it's been wonderful," CAROLYN FORSHEE said. "It's been a great success. We are looking forward for a better one next year."

She also spoke to me about the problems the celebrities had in leaving Friday afternoon. Apparently the stars could not fly home Friday due to tornado damage in the Houston area and severe weather conditions in Houston and Dallas. Several of the celebrities had other engagements that night or Saturday, and thus, had difficulty getting to them on time.

But that was not a fault of anyone's except Mother Nature.

GARY DON CAREY played golf with BILL LASTER and against BOB GRIMES from Lubbock and pro-golfer LANNY TERRINTINE from Mesquite, Texas. Gary said he played badly but had fun. He had about four shots under par. Gary hit a trashcan once and the ball bounced over to the opposite green on the fairway. "All you can do is laugh and go on," he said. "I mean really."

"Overall, I think it was probably the best first effort I've seen in my life," said BILL HAMBREE, another player. He said he's ready to sign up for next year's tournament.

"I can't express enough thanks for all the people on the committees for the work the Shriners and the committee members (did). They have gone beyond the call of duty," said DON COOK, chairman of the event. "The pros have been super and the celebrities outstanding. I cannot express enough support of all the advertising media in Big Spring for their support and helping us to turn this out."

DICK WESTON was the winning pro. He received a check for $1,350, turned around, and handed the check back to Don for a donation to the Shriners. "The city is to be commended," he said.

DEL AUSTIN and CARL SMALL'S teams tied for first place. Both teams shot 25 under par. TERRY BRADSHAW, quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, tied for first place among the late bloomers.

Thirteen is a lucky number for JIMMY WELCH. About 7 p.m. Thursday the excitement thickened as an announcement about Jimmy's hole in one on the 13th hole won him a $15,000 car.

Dear Abby

Hospital is salvation for mothers

DEAR ABBY: Because of your longtime interest and support of the Salvation Army Booth Hospital for unwed mothers, I want to bring you up-to-date.

For two agonizing years we feared we would have to close our doors because our money was running out. In fact, a date was set and the hospital announced that no more girls could be admitted. Sick at heart, we all prayed a lot, and God heard our prayers because some generous people (and foundations) came to our rescue and now the Booth Hospital is safe for another three years!

We are filled to capacity, Abby, but I'm sad to report that our unwed mothers keep getting younger and younger. Presently we have one 10-year-old and three 11-year-olds.

Our Emergency Lodge has become a haven for homeless families — especially mothers and their fatherless children. It, too, is filled to capacity — 100-bed, family-style accommodations, 2,050 persons served annually, 74,825 meals served annually.

Every spring, just before Easter, our board purchases new clothing for each child in the lodge. The mothers and children select their new clothes with the help of the Salvation Army officer. A "fashion show" is held, and the children model their new clothing. (These are the first "new" clothes that some have ever had!). It's always the happiest, most touching affair of our year.

Sorry about the length of this, but I knew you'd like to know.

Alice Winters, President
Salvation Army Women's Auxiliary

CHICAGO, ILL. —

DEAR MS. WINTERS: Congratulations on keeping afloat for another three years. Now that the government has cut back so drastically on funding agencies that provide services to the public, let me remind those with money to give, and especially those who have foundations, that the Salvation Army has never asked "What religion are you, or what color are you?" It provides food, lodging and clothing to all in need.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old volunteer at a Baltimore hospital. Most of the patients on the 12th floor are on a weight-loss program so one of the doctors thought of an incentive to get them to lose weight. He suggested that each one put $25 in a pot, and the first one who loses 20 pounds will win the jackpot. There will be no second or third prizes; the winner gets it all! There's a lot of money in that pot, and believe me Abby, those fatties are losing weight faster than they put it on!

Please send me the "dieter's prayer" you published (It starts out like the 23rd Psalm. I want to post it on the scale the dieters use to weigh themselves on. It would really be encouraging. Thanks a lot.

ME IN MARYLAND

DEAR ME: The "dieters prayer" is on its way. None of those dieters can say they never had a prayer!

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Etiquette Notes

KEEPING TRACK
Paperwork may be the last thing you want to think of when you're in love, but there are many things the bride-to-be needs to keep track of. Here are some tips:

As soon as you begin planning your wedding, it's wise to start keeping a recordbook or file. Many brides-to-be find that an index card system works best.

Make out a separate index card for everyone invited to your wedding (one card per couple). This makes it easier for you to keep track of the responses when they trickle in.

On the same card, you can log gifts received — both shower and wedding. And don't forget to indicate when you've sent a thank-you gift — this helps answer the "did I or didn't I?" question.

You may think you'll never forget who attended your wedding and of course your photographs will help. But years from now, you'll be able to get nostalgic over these notes about your gifts.

Getting organized for your wedding? Let your Bridal Registry & Wedding Ring experts at Blum's Jewelers help.

Officers elected for auxiliary Senior volunteers receive awards

Officers were elected for the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary at a luncheon meeting at La Posada, May 18. Officers elected were Cheryl Cox, president, Jo Rember, vice president, Mary Ernesting, secretary, and Susan Conrace, treasurer. Outgoing president, Maureen Haddad, installed the officers. Dene Sheppard of Mary Kay Cosmetics presented a program on skin care.

The Annual Recognition banquet honoring all retired senior volunteers was held in the Howard College Cafeteria, May 17. Seventeen volunteer stations, where senior volunteers serve, were recognized by RSVP Project Director, Joy Decker. Johnny Lou Avery expressed the community's appreciation for the volunteer service of 285 RSVP volunteers, who served approximately 4000 hours at the volunteer stations.

Victor Sedinger, pastor of First Christian Church, gave the keynote address on the Rainbow Project, which will open soon. He spoke on the abused and neglected children and how volunteers can make a big difference in the lives of children. Awards were based on years enrolled in RSVP. Joe Dunn, Tom Castle, Arnold Loyd, Johnny Shortes, Billy Miles and Emily Whetsel provided the music for the banquet.

Wedding

Tolle-Beique

Leanna Marie Tolle became Mrs. Jean Michel Beique during a ceremony at 2 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church Chapel with Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tolle, 2104 Alabama. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beique, Midland.

MRS. JEAN MICHEL BEIQUE
...formerly Leanna Marie Tolle

The couple was wed before an arched candelabrum decorated with small white flowers, greenery and pink ribbons. At the altar were two pedestals with arrangements of gladioli accented with pink ribbons.

Joe Whitten, vocalist, was accompanied by Mrs. W.W. Grimes, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white silk organza with a Queen Anne neckline and Bishop sleeves. The sleeves ended in a cuff of Schiffl embroidery. The bodice was accented with appliques of Venice lace and seed pearls. The chapel-length train, which fell from the waistline, was enhanced with a center-flaired panel of Schiffl embroidery. It also was edged in Schiffl embroidery held by Venice lace. The fingertip-length veil of white bridal illusion, edged in Schiffl embroidery, was held by a Juliet cap of Venice lace.

She carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Maid of Honor was Stephanie Ausmus of Lubbock. Bridesmaids were Lisa Griffice of Midland and Kim Deel of Dallas. Janna Johnston of Tulsa, Okla., niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Dan Clader of Houston was best man. Groomsmen were Marc Beique of Houston and Paul Beique of Fort Stockton, both brother of the bridegroom. Jeff Johnston of Tulsa, Okla., nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Paul Beique, Marc Beique and Bobby Tolle, brother of the bride, were candlelighters.

Following the ceremony, the couple were honored with a reception in the parlor of First Baptist Church. A three-tiered cake trimmed with pink roses was served. A fresh strawberry cake was served at the bridegroom's table.

The bride is a graduate from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. The bridegroom is a graduate from Midland High School and Texas A&M University in College with a degree in Electrical Engineering and Petroleum Engineering. He is employed by Dinerco Operating.

Following a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands, the couple will make their home in Midland.

Deaf students say they can feel music

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Although they can't hear the music, three young girls from central Arkansas dance up a storm every Monday afternoon.

Christie Abrams, 10, of Greenbrier, her 6-year-old sister, Stacy, and their friend, Jessica Jones, 9, of Little Rock meet for 1½ hours once each week at the Little Rock School of Dance.

Christie and Stacy are congenitally deaf from causes unknown. Their mother, Betty Abrams, has normal hearing. With their hands, Christie, Stacy and Jessica chatter like any outgoing, animated little girls. They say they can hear a little of the music, but they can feel it better. As they dance, they keep their eyes on their instructor, Sheila Vaught, as she leads them through routines in preparation for their first recital this summer in Little Rock.

"They watch me, everything that I do," Mrs. Vaught said in a recent telephone interview. "They're all three very bright girls."

Sometimes they feel the vibration of the music, she said. For their tap classes, Mrs. Vaught uses a machine that produces no notes, just rhythmic beats. The girls also take ballet, jazz and gymnastics with their classmates. "They learn by watching us," says their teacher.

Jessica's parents are Johnny and Judy Jones. Both are deaf.

The girls also are members of the eight-member dance group at the Arkansas School for the Deaf, where they are students. The group performs for the elderly and ailing in homes and hospitals, doing dance routines and singing songs through sign language.

They dance, Mrs. Abrams said, "because they want to" and seldom look on deafness as a handicap. Mrs. Vaught communicates through gestures and speech and with the help of other students in the class. Some of them can converse in limited sign language.

Christie, Stacy and Jessica came to Mrs. Vaught's class in the Treasure Hills Shopping Center in western Little Rock last summer. "It just took one dance class for them to figure out what was going on," Mrs. Vaught said.

Their presence in the class hasn't hurt the progress of her other students, she said. "It's probably done more good. It's made them (the other students) aware of how lucky they are to be able to hear."

The girls' participation in the class has, perhaps, opened doors for others. After hearing about them, the mother of a girl who is blind has asked Mrs. Vaught to enroll her daughter in a class as well.

Baby born to Mr., Mrs. Jay Shaw

Jay and Audrey Shaw, 1502 Stadium, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Tiffany Michelle. The infant was born at 10:03 p.m. May 8 at Malone-Hogan Hospital. She weighed 6 pounds, 4¼ ounces and was 19 inches long.

Maternal grandparents are Johnnie and Betty Whitman, El Paso. Paternal grandparents are Roosevelt and Patsy Shaw, Rt. 1. Great-grandparents are Junius and Lizzie Whitman, Mt. Olive, N.C., J.V. and Thelma Bristow, Rt. 1, and Mrs. Angelina Shaw, 1803 Owens.

Dr. Donohue

Reaching anaerobic threshold

Dear Dr. Donohue: I've heard about aerobic energy. At what point does the body switch over from aerobic to anaerobic?—H.S.

You've been reading books on exercise physiology. Let me try to help you understand this without getting into any deep woods.

When exercise is moderate, your heart is able to pump enough oxygen in the blood. The muscles then get their energy predominately from aerobic metabolism. That involves the burning of sugar into carbon dioxide and water. You can easily blow off that energy waste and get a fresh supply of oxygen at the same time. This is why marathoners can run for many hours.

Now if at some point in his race the marathoner decides to run a 100-yard dash, the energy picture alters dramatically. Now he cannot burn sugar aerobically, simply because he cannot take in enough oxygen to support the process. To get the extra immediate energy needed to support this increased intensity, his muscles switch over to another energy cycle. Now they burn sugar anaerobically, without oxygen. It's a necessity.

That point represents the anaerobic threshold. The sugar burning now produces not carbon dioxide and water, but lactic acid. He can't blow that off. It accumulates. Muscles tire. He fatigues, and perhaps can't continue. He can't continue for very long after reaching the anaerobic threshold, perhaps only a few minutes.

So, if you are a distance runner, you have to know the pace that is best for you, the one that is going to keep you safely aerobic. You want to stay on this side of your anaerobic threshold, because once you reach it the race is just about over for you.

(With the above in mind, I can turn to a question from Mrs. G.K., which is closely related.)

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why does a sprinter always seem to keep on running after his event? To cool the body down?—F.M.

Not really. This seems to be my oxygen debt day, because this, too, relates to that subject.

If you've read the above, I don't have to go into detail. If the athlete's oxygen debt after an event is small, he usually can just remain quiet during recovery. But if the oxygen debt is large, he has to keep moving. He has to keep his blood circulating to get rid of the lactic acid that built up during his intense muscle use. If he doesn't do this, his recovery can take longer and he may get sore muscles.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Texas Gardener Tips

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., May 22, 1983 13-C

Insects may destroy squash

Have you even woken up to find dead squash plants where you thought there had been healthy plants the night before? If so, your plants were probably the victims of the squash vine borer.

The squash vine borer is the most serious pest of squash grown in Texas. It also attacks pumpkins and sometimes feeds on cucumbers, melons, and gourds.

The culprit that initiates the problem is a clear-winged, wasp-like moth that lays its oval, brown eggs singly on the leaves or stems near the base of the squash plant.

Within a few days the eggs hatch into small larvae which bore into the base of the stem and feed there for 4 to 6 weeks. Several larvae may be found in a single plant.

The first symptom of a squash borer infestation is usually a yellowish or greenish excrement pushed out of holes in the vine near the base of the plant. Heavily infested plants may turn yellow and die.

Late planted squash is more susceptible to borers than early planted squash. Gardeners should try to plant as early as possible. Once plants have been damaged severely they will no longer produce, even though they may live for a while. These plants should be removed and destroyed.

Successful control depends upon killing the young borers before they enter the plant. Once the borers have tunneled into the plant they are protected from insecticides and are difficult to control.

Gardeners should inspect young squash plants two to three times weekly for the small brown eggs.

When eggs are found, apply an appropriate insecticide to the base of the plant, following label instructions (there are several products available at your local nursery which will work.) Afterwards, keep looking out for new eggs.

Another approach for controlling the vine borer is to begin applications of Sevin or Thiodan as soon as the first squash blooms appear. This is the time that the egg-laying moth is attracted to the squash plants.

Again, insecticide applications should be directed toward the crown of the plant to be most effective, and must be made before the larvae enter the stem.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

Some people once believed that if a frog came to your door, you would soon be married.

See Cameo Energy Homes...

...before you decide to build or buy

If you're a land owner considering building, or if you're looking at mobile homes, you need to see Cameo Energy Homes before you decide.

Cameo site-delivered homes have 2" x 6" walls—50% thicker than most residential houses. They're stronger and better insulated with R-19 insulation instead of R-11 used in most conventional construction. In the roof, your Cameo will have an insulation factor of R-30—more than twice as efficient as the R-14 rating in conventional homes.

Ford Sunglas® windows block out 24% of the sun's heat for additional energy efficiency. Air conditioning/heating ducts are energy efficient fiberglass. At the entrance, an insulated steel door with dead bolt security lock.

Strong, energy efficient Cameo Energy Home construction from the floor up.

See for yourself. Visit the factory or a Cameo retailer.
