

BACK FROM U.S.S.R. TRIP — Bernard Rains, a history teacher at Big Spring High School, recently returned from a week-long trip to Russia. Rains is

Teacher returns from Russia

By BOB CARPENTER

Staff Writer In Russia, the divorce rate is 56 percent, abortion is legal and costs only $7, there are no houses in the cities and the average woman shopper spends two days a week waiting in line.

Also divorce is free and usually handled by couples without aid of lawyers, there is a 40-hour work week, boys 18-20 years old serve two years in the army and students go to school six days a week.

These tidbits of information come from Big Spring High School history teacher Bernard Rains who recently spent seven days touring the Soviet Union. He was part of a group sponsored by the Institute of Research for the Free Enterprise System.

"My main interest was not as a tourist." Rains said. "I wanted to see how their system works because I teach about the Soviet Union and because they (Russians) are our main advisary.'

However, Rains did tour the typical Soviet Union highlights: Moscow, Leningrad, Lenin's Tomb, Red Square and others. He also went on excursions alone to see if he could catch a glimpse of Russians with their guards down - an experiment that didn't work as well as he would have liked.

"I guess I expected to learn everything I wanted to know in seven days inside Russia," Rains said. "But I think I have more questions now than when I went. One thing that greatly interested Rains was the reactions of the Russians people toward friendly advances.

"They did not appear to want to communicate with me," Rains said.

He made several deliberate attempts to smile at persons on the street and nod his head in greeting. However, the Russians simply looked away when he tried this maneuver.

"They almost never smile which tends to make you think they're unfriendly. However, I talked to some Germans who said Europeans think Americans are a bit dingy because we go around smiling. I suppose it's the culture difference.

Rains said Russians have little variety in the their lives. The people usually have about a half-dozen models or styles to choose from when buying an item. He said women have six styles of shoes to choose from, there are about six colors of cars available and

Proposal to discontinue bus service not viewed as problem in Coahoma

By RICHARD HORN

Staff Writer COAHOMA — Greyhound Lines Inc. has proposed discontinuing bus service to Interstate Highway 20's smaller towns like Coahoma

The proposal was denied last week by the Texas Railroad Commission, but Coahoma sent no indignant delegates to Austin to fight the corporation.

"We didn't care anyway," said Cindy Bobo, Coahoma city secretary. "I didn't even know it stopped here until we got a petition in the mail."

The petition sent by Greyhound was a copy of one given to the Texas Railroad Commission asking that the bus line be able to cancel service to 58 Texas cities. Residents say they've had to flag both the Greyhound and Trailways buses down for years. Today most bus passengers from Coahoma prefer to make the 10-mile trip to Big Spring, but during World War II several buses stopped daily at the 1,500-person

There was never a station, but both east and westbound buses pulled into Ted Fowler's Texaco station at the intesection of the I-20 north service road and First

Fowler moved his station around the corner and off the service road last June. "After that the bus quit stopping," said Fowler, who has worked at the station since the early 1940s. "But during wartime there were several stops a day and quite a few customers. "It's their (Greyhound's) business, I guess," he said. "They can stop where they please."

"We've stopped for years on a flag stop basis," said Jim Owens, manager of Greyhound's Big Spring terminal. "And we will continue to let passengers off if they want. But 90 percent — no, I'll go even higher — 98 percent of the customers would just as soon come on to Trailways says they operate a similar flag-down basis. No freight service is available to or from

According to the Associated Press, the commission voted 3-0 to deny the request last Monday, saying "substantial evidence in the record demonstrates a compelling public need for continuation of the

According to the commission, 235 witnesses testified at public hearings in Austin, Gonzales, Eagle Lake, Weimar, Flatonia, Anthony-Canutillo, Van Alystyne and Merkel that they needed Greyhound service.

Several kidney dialysis patients said they depend on Greyhound to travel to large cities for treatment, and the commission said the same problem was voiced by cancer patients who travel by bus to receive chemotherapy.

The commission said under the federal Bus Regulatory Reform Act, Greyhound may appeal the commission's decision to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Before passage of the federal law last year, the Railroad Commission had regulated bus service under the Texas Motor Bus Act since 1927.

The state commission said the 1982 federal law enables applicants to circumvent state regulatory agencies by appealing directly to the ICC.

Sylvia Hinojos, 15, of 1003 N. Runnels was killed at 2:24 a.m. after the pickup slid 436 feet and overturned three and a quarter times to come to rest on her, according to Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen

The teenager was thrown from the vehicle, the trooper said.

The driver of the vehicle was a 13-year-old Big Spring boy, Filameno Franco of 411 N.W. 11th Place, according to Redmon. He and two other passengers, Sylvia's sister, Lydia Hinojos, 13, and Ruben Trevino, 15, suffered only minor injuries in the wreck, the DPS trooper said.

The vehicle was traveling west on Chapparal Road, nicknamed "The Rollercoaster," when the driver lost control and went off the left side of the road, according

The case has been turned over to Juvenile Probation Officer Margy Thompson, Redmon said. Mrs. Thompson said today criminal charges probably could not be

Man shot in legs, suspect freed on $30,000 in bonds

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

A 19-year-old Big Spring man is free on bonds totaling $30,000 after his arrest Sunday morning on suspicion of shooting Bernard J. Robinson, 18, in the legs. Police say they arrested Samuel Johnston of 2107

Runnels at 1 a.m. Sunday on suspicion of aggravated assault, unlawful carrying of a weapon and attempted Donna Byerley, an 18-year-old waitress, told police that she and Robinson were visiting in a vacant lot across the street from Herman's Restaurant at 1601 S. Gregg about midnight Saturday when Johnston and another person drove up in a red 1982 Chevrolet

Ms. Byerley told police that the driver pointed a .357 magnum revolver at her and fired, but the bullet missed her and struck Robinson, police said.

Robinson was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital by private vehicle and treated for bullet holes in both calves, police reports said.

Using a description given by witnesses, a patrol officer found Robinson about an hour after the shooting and arrested him on the 1500 block of South Gregg. The officer found a Smith and Wesson .357 magnum and six bullets in the suspect's possession, reports said.

The Saturday shooting was the first since a nine-day series of six shootings that ended May 15.

Sex discrimination?

Parents, students question rankings

By RICHARD HORN Staff Writer

Is the high school being sexist? Are girls better students than boys, or what?

Some students and parents are asking those questions after Big Spring High School recently recognized its top graduating seniors

The highest ranking student for the year is Valedictorian Stacey Bott (GPA 97.99). The second highest ranking student is Salutatorian Patricia Jones (97.21). The highest ranking boy is Speight Grimes (94.91).

But the highest ranking boy graduated seventh in the class. Why, people want to know, were the third, fourth, fifth and sixth ranking students - all girls - not singled out for recognition?

"Isn't this sex discrimination when you skip over the higher ranking students just to give credit to the opposite sex?" asked Peggy Grant, mother of third-ranked Kimberly Grant (GPA 96.81), in a letter to the Herald

"No, I'll tell you why we do it," said Big Spring High School Principal Bill McQueary. "There are a number of independent colleges in Texas that give scholarships for the highest ranking student and the second highest ranking student.

"If both of those are boys, then there is also a scholarship or other award for the highest ranking girl and vice versa." he said.

"I think it is sex discrimination," said Kimberly. "The other schools in the area don't do it this way. A lot of students are upset. They think the school should recognize the top two students and that's it. Speight, the highest ranking boy, said he understood the protests, but didn't think the fuss was justified. "It's pretty much an accepted practice everywhere, I think," he said. "But if I'd known there'd be this much trouble, I'd have asked the school not to publish it."

Speight said it was necessary to recognize the highest ranking boy in "How can I put this? I think there is a difference between the girl

students and boy students at the school," he said. "I'm not saying they're smarter, but I think the girls are often more mature and harder-working.

Despite the fuss, McQueary said he sees no reason to change the practice.

"When I came to Big Spring High School, they were already doing it this way," McQueary said. "It's a tradition, I guess. The schools I came from did it this way. Recognition is given to the highest ranking student of his or her sex regardless of the overall ranking. "I don't know how people can say that's sex discrimination," he said.

CAROL PAYNE ...ranks fourth

KIMBERLY GRANT

...ranks third

TERESA ALEXANDER ...ranks fifth

LOANN BIDDISON ...ranks sixth

"Maybe it's discrimination by grade, but I don't see it." In this year's rankings, Carol Payne (GPA 96.44) was fourth, Teresa Alexander (96.17) was fifth and LoAnn Biddison (95.76) was

LoAnn said she felt that if the school was going to recognize the seventh-ranked student, then the top 10 students should be mentioned

Carol declined to comment on the matter. Teresa could not be reached for her comments.

The remainder of the top 10 consisted of two girls and a boy. Lisa Price (94.78) was eighth, Bret See DISCRIMINATION?, page 2A

Senator wants papers in class

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A bill that would have required state officials to put newspapers in Texas classrooms is slated to be amended so that project can be put on the back burner or funded with money designated for other educational purposes.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, plans to make that change because his colleagues refused to let him bring the bill as written to the Senate floor. The original proposal already has won House approval.

A Brooks aide said the amendment will change the wording so that the State Board of Education "may" rather than "shall" funnel morey to all school districts for the project. Budget officials estimated the project would cost $250,000 annually.

House author Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, said the change would mean that the state board would have to dip into other education funds to pay for the newspapers rather than seeking additional state revenue for the project.

"I think it does not do any harm to the bill because the state board is committed to doing this," Ms. Glossbrenner said. The board needed the legal authorization to spend state money for that purpose, she said.

Suspects arrested for car theft

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested two Lamesa teen-agers last night on Anderson Road after they were found walking near a wrecked $12,430 car that had been stolen from Pollard Chevrolet dealership.

Daniel Marquez, 19, and Joseph Magallen, 18, were arrested about 10 p.m. on suspicion of theft over $10,000. They were being held this morning in Big Spring city jail for further questioning.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon said the stolen Camaro Z-28 had been involved earlier that night in a two-vehicle accident in Highland Shopping Center parking lot. Apparently, the two suspects drove the car to the intersection of North FM 700 and Anderson Road and abandoned it.

Redmon said he recovered the car — which he said suffered about $1,000 damage — and deputies arrested the two men who were walking along Anderson Road. Redmon said he has been unable to locate the other person involved in the accident at the shopping center. The Camaro was one of two cars stolen from Pollard Chevrolet between 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 p.m. Sunday. The second car, a $12,000 Camaro Berlinette, has not been recovered, police said.

Chief Turner asks for police radios

Police Chief Rick Turner has asked the Big Spring city council to approve bid advertising for six two-way radios that will cost an estimated $2,000 each.

Big Spring city council members will meet in regular session tomorrow at 2 p.m. in City Hall at Fourth and Nolan. The council meets early because of high school graduation tomorrow night.

The radios would outfit six of the seven new police cars that the council agreed May 9 to purchase for a program in which police officers will be assigned their own patrol cars to use 24 hours a day. The police department already has one radio to equip the seventh car, Turner said.

Turner requests that the council specify the two-way radios be walkie-talkie types that convert to mobile radios by sliding them into adapters mounted in the

Turner said that type of radio would provide both a personal walkie-talkie radio and a mobile radio for each officer in the program and allow each officer to maintain almost constant communication with the police department.

The estimated $2,000 per radio cost was determined by consulting a radio supplier, Turner said.

Also, Big Spring Mall Manager Jane Medahl has applied for a permit to operate a carnival June 7-12 on the mall parking lot. The council will consider the application at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

Storms kill 11 in Texas

About 1 million acres of farmland lay under water today in Mississippi, where 6,100 people fled their homes after up to 15 inches of rain and swarms of tornadoes plowed through the South, leaving 11 people dead in Texas alone.

The large system of thunderstorms that rolled across the Gulf Coast states with successive salvoes of tornadoes, hail and heavy rain finally moved East today, but not before killing 33 people and leaving behind damage expected to exceed hundreds of millions of dollars.

Tornadoes were blamed for 11 deaths in Texas since Friday, including one Sunday night near Mineral Wells when a twister churned through a trailer park, killing one woman and injuring another.

More than 100 Texans have been injured and about 1,000 families left homeless - most in a six-county area surrounding Houston - because of violent weather since Friday, authorities said.

Tornadoes and floods have caused about $75 million in damage in Montgomery County, Texas, northwest of Houston, destroying or damaging about 2.000 homes and 200 businesses, County Judge Jimmy Edwards said.

Authorities in adjacent counties were still adding up the damage today, but predicted it would surpass the destruction caused in 1961 by Hurricane Carla, which left 34 people dead and $400 million in damage. Except for some thunderstorms reported in north Texas and southern Oklahoma, most of the violent weather had moved out of the country, Hugh Crowther, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo.

tional Weather Service in Jackson. "The problem is just dealing with what is on the ground now," Pfost said Sunday. "In the last three days, we've had 10 to 15 inches of rain in the Upper Pearl Basin and that's enough rainfall to cause problems anytime.'

Officials with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said more than 290,000 acres of farmland has been inundated along the Mississippi Delta and water has spilled over an estimated million acres of farmland across the state.

At least six deaths have been attributed to the storms that left much of Mississippi saturated, including four members of a family from Itta Bena, who drowned Saturday night when their car plunged into the backwaters of the Yazoo River near Greenwood, officials whose decade of development has been dogged by controversy over whether it is needed and how to base it, faces likely do-or-die decisions in Congress this week.

The House was beginning debate today on a resolution that would free $625 million for engineering and flight-testing of the MX. The money was appropriated last December but temporarily frozen because of uncertainly as to how the intercontinental missile would be Immediately after the vote on the resolution Tuesday, the House plans to take up the section of the 1984 defense authorization bill that includes more than $4.5 billion in procurement and development money for the MX. More than $5 billion already has been spent on the

The MX, whose future was in doubt a few months ago after Congress rejected a "dense pack," closely spaced basing method, was given new life last month by a presidential advisory commission.

MX facing 'do or die' choice

In a carefully drawn compromise, the bipartisan panel called for deploying 100 of the 10-warhead weapons in existing Minuteman silos while beginning research on a more politically poular small, mobile missile for the

The commission also called for new strategic arms control initiatives with the Soviet Union.

President Reagan has said production and deployment of the MX - a weapon he has dubbed "Peacekeeper" — is vital to modernize the U.S. land-based missile force and induce the Soviets to agree to significant arms reductions at the negotiating table in Geneva.

Congressional critics questioned Reagan's desire for arms control, but he apparently picked up some votes from wavering congressmen by giving them written and personal assurances of his commitment

As a result of that and the inclusion of the small missile in the defense program, MX advocates are optimistic they will be able to eke o it a victory and keep the weapon from being scrapped.

Oppone its, wno say the missile is not needed and also could heighten chances of a nuclear war, also predict a close vote.

'Congress is likely to pass the MX with condition.," former CIA Director Stansfield Turner predicted Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press." But Turner, who opposes the MX, said such action would be "irresponsible ... It's time for Congress to say to the president we want a deterrent strategy, not a warfighting strategy, and the MX only fits into a war-fighting strategy.'

Brent Scowcroft, a retired general who headed the MX commission, said on the same interview show that the MX program "should go forward on its merits.

Outmaneuvering plan aired Weather

The troop-withdrawal pact signed by Israel and Lebanon leaves the Israelis winners on paper, but Lebanon believes it can outmaneuver them to gain full control of its southern region for the first time in a decade. The 37-page agreement signed last week by the two countries puts severe restrictions on the power of Lebanese President Amin of his militia. Gemayel's government in

"If it wasn't that way, we wouldn't have an agreement," said one U.S. diplomat involved in the negotiations.

The main job the Lebanese face is convincing Syria that the pact gets 25,000 Israeli troops out at little actual cost to being convinced. They are demanding cancellation of the accord and are likely to increase pressure on the Gemayel government to undermine it. Without Syria's agreement, the pact means nothing because Israel won't even begin to withdraw its troops until the Syrians withdraw their 40,000 soldiers and the Palestinians pull out forces estimated at between 8,000 and 12,000.

Reagan tackles age issue with humor

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, gently poking fun at himself, is openly tackling the "age issue" that Democrats hope will hurt him if he decides to run for re-election.

Reagan, who turned 72 last February, is the oldest U.S. president in history. If he ran for a second term and won, he would be 78 within weeks of leaving office House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., in Buffalo,

N.Y., for a college commencement address at Canisius College last Saturday, suggested Reagan was too old to "My personal opinion - he couldn't win," the month, saying he couldn't imagine why someone as old as Reagan would want to put himself through a bruising and possibly losing campaign when he could enjoy life as an ex-president Yet Reagan, who looks younger than his years, seems to go out of his way to confront the age issue. In a recent talk to business executives, the president urged support for the MX intercontinental ballistic missile and modernization of U.S. strategic forces.

"We've begun retiring our Titan ICBMs because of their old age," Reagan said. Then he paused for a second or two, and cracked: "Don't think what I'm thinking.

EUFAULA, Ala. (AP) - Racial tensions are simmering in this historic southern town on the banks of Chattahoochee River where two black brothers were shot to death during an Easter weekend scuffle with two white policemen.

And a special grand jury's finding last week, exonerating the officer who did the shooting, has done nothing to satisfy civil rights leaders who say the incl dent was racially motivated.

A deal's a deal

When the Chrysler Corp. was on the verge of bankruptcy four years ago, the federal government agreed to guarantee $1.2 billion in loans to help save the company. It was a risky gamble with the taxpayers' money.

To persuade reluctant federal officials to go along, Chrysler agreed to give warrants to the government to buy 14.4 million shares of stock at $13 a share. This was double the price Chrysler stock was selling for at the time. If the company had gone under, the warrants would have been worthless.

Well, Chrysler turned itself around, and the company's future now looks so bright that its stock has been trading on Wall Street for more than $28 a share. If the government exercises its warrants, it can come out with a profit of some $220 million.

Now Chrysler is appealing to Washington for another big favor. It wants the government to forgo exercising its warrants to avoid an adverse effect on the financial health of the company. Chrysler officials argue that the company's recovery already has paid off for the government — through collection of income taxes, for instance, and through savings in unemployment benefits that did not have to be paid. That's reaching pretty far. Such a rationale could be given for bailing out any business that happens to be in trouble. This is a time for the government to be a hard-headed business partner. It set doubtful precedents in using public credit to shore up failing companies. It should not compound such questionable policy by excusing Chrysler from complying with the terms agreed on.

The Federal Loan Guarantee board might well consider streching out its sales of Chrysler stock warrants over a period long enough to minimize the impact on the company's financial plans. Otherwise, a deal's a deal. Over the years the government has sunk billions into enterprises that brought no tangible return. It's about time the taxpayers got something back.

American gall

The recent lopsided vote by the House of Representatives to repeal a 1982 law establishing a 10 percent withholding tax on interest and dividends was largely caused by 22 million Americans expressing disgust with the measure.

Some congressmen along with the Reagan Administration seemed surprised that citizens would have the gall to actually express their opinion on the subject. They accused the banking industry of misleading people, of starting mass mailings against the law and of enerally fouling up Congress with all those concerned citizens' opinions. These instances of sour grapes reminded me of a scene in the film "Missing" where an American Embassy officials is helping a father find his son who is lost in the 1973 military coup of Chile. The embassy had been getting cables and inquiries from Washington about the case which prompted the official to ask the father, "What kind of pull do you have up there (Washington, D.C.)?' The father says "I'm an American citizen." The officials says nothing, but the message derived is "Oh yeah, an American citizen, why didn't I think of that."

THE RECENT uproar about the questionable withholding law also reacquainted Congress with the American citizen and not a second too late. It sounded as if some of them had almost forgotten we existed.

I didn't agree with the withholding law, but I wasn't afraid my savings were going to be looted by the government. The interest and savings withholding would have worked just like withholding from wages. What I owed them would be subtracted and if I qualified for a refund I'd get it. The cost to honest savers would only be 50 cents a year per $1,000 in savings, according to

The withholding law didn't bother me as much as the attitude of congressmen who felt put out by having to contend with the "peasants." They do not outrank us nor should they be allowed to think they do. There is no excuse for them to be offended because of a reaction to an unpopular measure.

Everything I've been taught shows that we elect our representatives and then they listen to our needs and try to legislate accordingly. I realize they cannot mirror the wishes of constituents entirely. I understand there are compromises to be made and in many cases a representative must rely on his judgment and knowledge because the electorate has little knowledge of issues being faced. However, our leaders shouldn't get miffed when an opinion is expressed by the people. It makes me think they've forgotten who elected them and why they were elected in the first place.

UNFORTUNATELY, the blame does not fall entirely on our elected officials. We seldom complain en masse about anything. We have become secondary concerns in some cases, crowded out by lobbyists, political action groups and other special interest groups. We should be ashamed of how little we know of government.

As for the law it is probably dead in the water. The 10 percent withholding on interest and dividends penalized everyone for a few who fail to report such income. In addition, the responsibility of collecting the withholding fell to the

What would have happened is the ones who faithfully reported such income before would have again paid their taxes faithfully. While the cheats would still have found a way to escape the law.

Now the government probably will come up with a measure to catch tax cheats - something it should have done in the first place.

And to think it took something as insignificant as 22 million American citizens to catch Congress' attention. Maybe we should remind them we're around a little more often.

Pastor says Briscoe confused

Dear Editor,

Keith Briscoe's lexical skills are in definite need of repair after incorrectly defining three out of three fairly simple words in his Sunday editorial. The words were Constitution, Christianity, and Communism.

Despite his sesquipedalian flare used to create a peremptory verisimilitude, his definitions completely lacked veridicalness and would hardly comport with any dictionary past or present. But then again, what use would a pseudointellectual pedant have for a dictionary in his schizophrenic world of autonomous arbitrary truth?

Let's compare the definitions from our New Briscoe's Dictionary of Relative Rhetoric with that old fashioned book by Webster that's been out of date for at least a week now. Just for laughs let's see what that poor misinformed Webster fellow thought these terms meant.

CONSTITUTION - "A document in which laws and principles are written down. The U.S. Constitution has been the Supreme law of the Federal Government since its adoption.

Supreme Court Chief Justice John Marshal in 1803 said, "The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws and not men." This meant that the state, its agencies and its officials (including its judges) were under the law (the Constitution) not above it. The whole concept of constitutionalism is limited government under the rule of law.

The New Briscoe Dictionary tells us the Constitution is an irrelevant document and is in essence whatever the Supreme Court judges say it is. That's a far cry from the "Constitution for the Ages," as the Father of the Constitution, James Madison called it. Nevertheless Mr. Briscoe tell us the courts' rulings are the Constitution. Then no longer is the Constitution the Supreme Law of the land (as Webster contends) but the Supreme Court is. Therefore, the Supreme Court is no longer under law but above it! If the men on the Supreme Court are above the law then certainly the President is (Tricky Dick would sure be proud of your good thinking here, Keith). Of all people, Jews should realize that law cannot be simply what a judge or a fuhrer says it is.

CHRISTIANITY - "A religion based on the teachings of Jesus. A Christian is a person professing belief in Jesus as Christ.

Again Webster must be extremely misinformed if Mr. Briscoe is right. He claims Christianity was founded by Saul of Tarsus. That's right folks; not God the Father, not Christ, not the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost, not even Peter, but Saul of Tarsus! That's akin to saying that Judaism was founded by a demented nomad named Abraham who was so confused that he not only started Judaism but Islam as well. Really, now Keith, anyone can play the game of being absurdly unfair towards the origins of another's religion.

COMMUNISM - "An economic theory or system of the ownership of all property by the community as a whole. The community or society owns all the means of production and distribution so that all members share in the work and the products." Webster goes on to say that "based on the doctrines of Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Stalin, it is characterized by state planning and control of the economy, ruthless supression of all opposition political parties, and the suppression of individual liberties under a dictatorship." Mr. Webster sure got carried away with his definition, didn't he! I'm sure glad we have Mr. Briscoe's New Dictionary to redefine it for us. Mr. Briscoe seems to think that "the workers" own the means of production and the produce. Then there must be an extremely wealthy class of people known as "workers" in the Soviet Union enjoying the fruit of their labor. Such a wealthy class cannot exist when there is "equity among consumers." That's freedom to never get ahead of anyone else regardless of your personal effort. The facts of history clearly reveal that every form of socialism (including communism) repeatedly fail. They are failure formulas. Mr. Briscoe should be informed that Communism was tried in America long before our Constitution.

In 1620, both Jamestown and the Plymouth colonies tried what they called "Christian Communism" (voluntary collective ownership as opposed to forced collective ownership because the Christian ethic has always said, "What is mine is yours," while Communism says, 'What is yours is mine.'') William Bradford, the governor of the Plymouth colony, wrote of the complete failure of such a system. Simply put, when property was owned by the community, strong young men complained about working for other men's wives and children without pay. Men who worked harder thought it unjust that men who didn't work with the same zeal should receive the same amount of food and clothing. The result was want and famine. But when the governor assigned to every man a parcel of land for private ownership, everyone became industrious, and want and famine disappeared as harvest

Mr. Briscoe stated that his grandfather was a Jew first but also a socialist. It's near impossible to be a good Jew and a good socialist because those two idealogies are mutually incompatible. The Torah flatly commands "Thou shalt not steal Now unless things can be owned by people, stealing has no meaning. This commandment tactily recognizes the right of private ownership of property. On the other hand, stealing is the very basis of all socialistic implementation. In Socialism and Marxism the "Haves" are seen as the oppressors of the "Have-notes" so thus the eighth commandment is regarded as a source of evil. Thus Socialism and historic Judaism contradict each other. (If you care to read more concerning Yahweh's opinion of eminent domain by the state, read I Kings 21).

Yahweh ruled Israel by laws, not arbitrary rulers' opinions. Plato was the one who popularized the idea of government by rulers not by laws. So make up your mind, are you a good Jew or simply a Greek. If you choose Plato's idea of government by rulers, remember then that you have no standard by which to judge Hitler's Holocaust as wrong. So don't confuse those meanings,

God turned his back on me

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have many problems that I just feel like God has turned his back on me. I know that is not supposed to be true, but it's hard for me not to be angry at him. - G.T.

DEAR G.T.: Yes, I know it is often hard for us to face problems in our lives that are very difficult and not ask why God has allowed them. It is only a step from that to anger and bitterness, feeling somehow that God has abandoned us or is punishing us injustly. But that is not true, and we need to learn to look beyond the immediate problems we face to God himself, learning to trust him in every situation.

Let me give an example from the Bible. There came a time during Jeremiah's day when his nation was devastated by a foreign invader. In many ways the nation was not innocent, for the people had turned their backs on God. But it still came as as shock to Jeremiah, seeing the nation and its beautiful capital city Jerusalem destroyed. Yet in the midst of the pain he felt, he learned to look to God because he knew that God still loved his people and was near to them. Listen to what Jeremiah wrote: "Yet this I call to mind and therefore I have hope: because of the Lord's great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great us your faithfullness" (Lamentations

3:21-23) God loves you, in spite of the problems you may not be able to understand. And he has not abandoned you. How do I know he loves you? I know it because he was willing to let his only Son go to the cross and die as a sacrifice for your sins and mine. If he did not love you, Christ would never have died to make it possible for you to know God and go to Heaven when you die. thing that could happen to you right now would be for you to reach out in faith and accept God's love in Jesus

Don't let anger and bitterness eat away at you - they will never help you. Instead lift up your eyes and realize how much God loves you. No, you may not understand why some things happen to you — but you can learn to face each day with the certainly that Christ is with you even in the midst of the storms of

bean, not a

He spent a week inside Nicarague with a task force of 165 contras and went along on an ambush directed at the Sandinista militia. He picked up some evidence, impossible to confirm independently, of a Cuban presence in the combat zone of nor-> hern Nicaragua. One rebel group commander, who calls himself Comandante Sereno, said his men had killed two Cubans carrying Soviet-made AK-47 submachine guns and "some strange machines" that turned out to be television cameras.

"I didn't know what the contraptions were," Sereno recalled. "I was afraid they might be bombs. I fiddled with one until a green light came on. It scared me, so I sprayed them with my machine gun." The green light was the camera's "on" signal

How did he know they were Cubans? They were obviously not Nicaraguans, he said. They were tall, black and bearded. Sereno said he had fought with Cubans when he was with the legendary Commander Zero — Eden Pastora during the Sandinistas' revolution against Anastasio Somoza's national guard in 1979

Furthermore, Sereno said, "before the ambush we could hear them talking, and they had Cuban accents." The two cameramen, presumably filming the action for Cuban and Sandinista TV, had made the fata' mistake of carrying arms for protection.

The Cuban connection is a major worry for the young contras.

At present, the rebels said, they're doing well against the militia because it is largely made up of "cannon fodder" - untrained peasants forced into service by the Sandinistas. "But if the Cubans come in, things will be more difficult for us," a rebel leader acknowledged.

Dr. Donohue

Condition may call for C-section

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was diagnosed as having placenta previa. I was experiencing heavy bleeding during my pregnancy. Is there any specific cause fo this? - D.G.

To be sure everyone knows what we're talking about, I should explain that the placenta is a vascular (vesselrich) structure that develops during pregnancy and through which the fetus is nourished and its waste eliminated. Normally, the placenta attaches to the topmost part of the uterus, well away from the birth canal itself. If the placenta attaches low in the uterus, where it blocks the birth canal, that is called placenta previa. If the entire canal is blocked, then it's a total placenta previa; and it only a portion of the canal is covered, then it's a placenta previa.

Placenta previa is neither rare nor a terribly common condition. It happens in about one in every 200 pregnancies. Often the cause is not known, but it may occur in some women who have had multiple pregnancies or who have had multiple pregnancies or who have had surgery on the lower part of the uterus

Painless bleeding, usually in the last three months of pregnancy, is the hallmark of placenta previa, but it doesn't mean that in every single case. If the condition is diagnosed, the woman is hospitalized and preparations are made to deliver the baby by Cesarean section if the bleeding does not stop promptly

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please explain the disease called "malignant hyperthermia?" What causes it? What are the signs? I have never heard of it and cannot find it in my medical book. - Mrs. C.R.N.

Malignant hyperthermia is an inherited quirk some people have. When they are exposed to certain anesthetic gases (like halothane) or to certain muscles relaxants (like succinylcholine) used during surgery they have rapid rise in body temperature. The term malignant does not refer to tumors, but to the dangerous situation the temperature rise (hperthermia) can represent. For these people, the presence of those anesthetics and those muscle relaxants causes body cells to release large amounts of calcuim. That triggers the heat-producing reaction. Temperature may soar and a very dangerous emergency can present itself. The drug, dantrolene, is used to control to

Should a person with this condition require surgery, other anesthetics are available, ones that can be used safely without triggering the malignant hyperthermia. Once you know you have this, you should alert all your doctors so those drugs mentioned will not be used. It would be a good idea to carry some form of information to alert doctors to your quirk in future emergency situations

Brothers find money-maker

AMBRIDGE, Pa. (AP) — Forced from the steel mills where they thought they would work forever, Robert, Ike and Anthony Rocca have combined their parents' Old World recipes and taste for hard work into a new career: turning out homemade pasta.

The brothers operate a small market called Pasta World, producing a variety of noodles for customers in a three-state area.

"At least we're working. We're off the welfare rolls," said Robert, 38, while feeding soft, creamcolored dough into a rumbling pasta machine.

"All we want to do is earn a living. We're tired of being laid off," said Ike, 28, who lost his job at Colt Industries Inc.'s Crucible steel plant in Midland nearly two years ago.

The idea for the business came from their father, Vittorio, 68, who brought his family from Italy to the then-booming steel valley in the 1950s.

"We were sitting eating at our aunt's house one day and wondered how she had made those little tortellinis," said Anthony, 23, who was furloughed at the mills and then laid off at a local loan company. "She had never made them by hand, they were bought. So we started looking into how to make

"It is one of those things which Italians do best," chuckled Robert, who looked unsuccessfully for a job after being laid oft from the Crucible mill in April 1982, six months before it closed.

With money their father saved over the years to visit his homeland and with a little cash from odd jobs, the brothers rented an abandoned store in this Ohio River mill town near their Midland homes, then bought some second-hand pasta machines.

With some setting-up help from brothers Eddie, 34, an unemployed mechanic, Ambrose, 31, a Beaver County employee, and Victor, 17, a high school junior, the men painted walls, laid lino n floors, installed pipes and drains, then salvaged shelves and sinks from junkyards.

After months of scrubbing, plastering and pounding, the three brothers opened for business Jan. 1.

They've worked seven days a week ever since, mixing semolina flour and eggs into thousands of pounds of spaghetti, spaghettini, ravioli, fettuce, fettucine, lasagne, tortellini and canneloni. They've grated their own cheese to sell, too, while their mother, Mafalda, has cooked jars of tomato sauce.

Most of their orders come from churches, groceries and restaurants in western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and West Virginia. The brothers, dressed in long white aprons and bakers' hats, package and freeze the pasta, then deliver it themselves.

The rest of their business comes from customers who walk into the small, cheery corner market and make their selections from a refrigerated chest or

The brothers, particularly Robert, a father of four, wish they had opened the market years earlier.

"I didn't think of it. It wasn't necessary," Robert said. "When I graduated from high school in 1964, the steel industry was booming. I knew there was no money to go to college, but I knew there was a job at Crucible. It's where me and my classmates went."

The Roccas currently are working at capacity, but they're constantly seeking new customers and demonstrating pasta-making in grocery stores. They say they must start turning a respectable profit by fall if they hope to remain open.

So far, they've taken home no wages, instead pouring everything they earn back into the business. 'If it weren't for us being family, we couldn't have made it," Anthony said. "We have differences, but we put them aside. "We're working for our future," said Ike.

Silent Partners

Rangers watch for wild dogs

NEW YORK (AP) — They look like park rangers anywhere, in their Smokey the Bear hats and uniforms, but these naturalists of the South Bronx don't scan the woods for cougars and eagles, they watch for wild dogs

"They kind of fit into an urban ecosystem," ranger William Doerrler said of Crotona Park's four dog packs as he led 13 junior naturalists and a couple of adults on a wildlife walk through the park Saturday. A few hundred feet away lay the rubble of Charlotte Street, which became a national symbol of urban decay when President Carter visited in 1977.

The stray dogs took up residence in Crotona Park during years of neglect that ended last October, when a federal grant allowed the city to send an army of nearly two dozen urban rangers into the park.

The rangers are visible everywhere, carrying binoculars and radios as they police the park and teach visitors about the animals and plants that live there. The rangers say the people who live nearby love the attention their park is getting.

"People are grateful that something good is going on in the community," said ranger Steven Schoenhaus, whose father, a coach, grew up near the park and trained U.S. Olympic speed skating champion Irving Jaffee on its frozen lake.

The Urban Park Rangers program was started by New York City in 1979 and now has about 70 rangers. A $500,000 federal grant, approved during the Carter administration, and a state grant have given Crotona Park the biggest contingent of rangers in any of the city's parks. But the grant lasts only one year, until October, and the fate of the park's ranger program after that is unclear.

The park itself is also undergoing a transformation. The lake, which has been dry for several years, is being dredged and the dilapidated pool is being renovated

And nearby, a new development of 90 single-family homes surrounded by white picket fences is being built on Charlotte Street by the South Bronx Development Organization. Two of the factory-built, one-family homes are already standing, facing the park. They are being used as models for visits by prospective buyers.

76ers swamp Lakers

Richardson sparks Philly's 3rd period charge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Clint Richardson's change of shoes at halftime proved significant as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Los Angeles Lakers in the opening game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

Richardson, having made the switch to ease his aching feet, scored 10 points in the third period when the 76ers rallied and went on to beat the defending champion Lakers, 113-107.

The Lakers, who beat Philadelphia in the finals twice in the last three years, get a chance to even the best-of-seven series in the second game here Thursday night.

Moses Malone scored 27 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, while Andrew Toney contributed 25 points and Julius Erving 20, but Richardson appeared to receive most of the accolades. Richardson, a 6 foot, 3 guard from Seattle,

The Lakers, who are trying to become the first team to repeat as NBA champions since the Boston Celtics of 1968-69, kept coming back. They sliced the lead to 70-66, but Richardson hit a 17-foot jumper.

L.A. edged to within three at 74-71, and Richardson swished an 18-foot jumper, stole a pass and drove for a layup, widening the 76ers' lead to 78-71. The Lakers got to 80-75, and the man in the high shoes hit another long

"Clint Richardson played fantastic," said 76ers' coach Billy Cunningham.

Los Angeles' Earvin "Magic Johnson, who had 19 points, nine rebounds and nine assists, said of Richardson, "Philadelphia is a better team when Clint is on the floor.

"That's a nice compliment," said Richardson. "But I only play within the team structure. Whoever has the shot takes it.

"I was just more aggressive in the second half I got some good passes.' Malone said he was happy with the victory because he felt the 76ers didn't play to their capability and still won.

'We have to get everything down pat to win again Thursday

The Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who scored 20 and took down just four rebounds, said his team was fatigued.

"WE DIDN'T have as much gas as we'd like," said the 7-2 center.

The Lakers played Friday night (eliminating San Antonio in the Western final), traveled most of Saturday, and played "That put more pressure on us. We couldn't sustain anything. I feel very confident we'll come back." said Jabbar. "We had no time to practice, just a brunch and a chalk talk."

Magic Johnson said the Lakers weren't as prepared as they wanted to be.

Cunningham alluded to the Lakers' travel difficulties, but he said he got big performances from everybody who played.

"Even though the Lakers just finished a rough series with San Antonio and had to hustle to get to Philadelphia, they came out and played great ball from start to finish. We're going to have our hands full Thursday, but we'll be ready.'

So will Los Angeles, predicted Coach Pat Riley, who said, "We will do better Thursday when we have a chance to sit down and prepare a little bit more.'

The Lakers are hopeful that Bob McAdoo, who has an injured thigh, will be able to play Thursday. Norm Nixon, who led the Lakers with 26 points, bruised his left shoulder, but Xrays showed no break, and he is expected to

The 76ers' Bobby Jones is suffering froma sore throat, and tired quickly, but also is expected to play Thursday.

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Memories of the last time Pat Bradiey played the final round of an LPGA tour nament at the Upper Montclair Country Club are etched in her mind

'That was a real devastating day,' she says of the 1980 tournament, when she lost a four-stroke lead and finished third. "If I had an automobile I would've found the nearest tree.

Bradley was clearly in the driver's seat Sunday when she birdied seven holes to shoot a course record 66 at Upper Montclair. The round powered her to a one-stroke victory at the $125,000 LPGA Chrysler-Plymouth Charity Classic with a 7-underpar 212 for the 54-hole event.

Bradley began the final round five strokes behind Amy Alcott, Donna White and rookie Stephanie Farwig, who were 5-under-par after two rounds. But Bradley got birdies on the first three holes and when White had a double-bogey on the 16th hole while she was in sole possession of the lead.

Farwig, the LPGA's leading candidate for rookieof-the-year honors, finished one stroke behind Bradley in second place, while Alcott finished two strokes off the lead and White was three behind. Alcott's consolation was becoming the sixth LPGA golfer to surpass $1 million in career earnings.

'You know the old saying, 'When you least expect something to happen' ... Little did I know when I was standing on the first tee that I'd make up five shots," Bradley said. "When I finished third (in 1980) I shot 7-over par. How ironic that I shot

Farwig missed a chance for a sudden-death playoff when she missed by a foot a 40-foot attempt for a birdie on the par-5, 504-yard 18th hole.

"I didn't expect someone who wasn't in our group to come in ahead of us. I thought if I stayed under par I'd tie or win," said Farwig, who played in the last threesome with Alcott and White.

Farwig, a 23-year-old from Milwaukee with two ties for second place and a tie for third already this season, shot a 6-under-par, 72-69-72-213.

Generals find ways to lose ... and Running back Kelvin Bryant led the Stars with 106 yards rushing and two touchdowns. He leads the USFL with 14 touchdowns and ranks second in rushing with 1,229 yards.

Arizona, losing its fourth straight game and dropping to 4-8 in the Pacific Division, got its only TD on Calvin Murray's 2-yard run in the second quarter.

Blitz 19, Generals 13

New Jersey, one of the ballyhooed teams in the league at the beginning of the season with its million-dollar rookie running back Herschel Walker, lost its second overtime game to the Blitz and fell to 3-9 in the Atlantic

The Blitz, 8-4 in the Central, tied the game 13-13 with 2:58 left in the fourth quarter on a Frank Corral's 35-yard field goal. The score came after the Blitz recovered a fumble by Walker, who had rushed for 141 yards on the day.

Quarterback Tim Koegel scored the winning touchdown at 3:53 of the overtime on a fake field goal, sweeping left for five yards. Koegel had replaced Greg Landry after the Chicago starter suffered a broken ankle 11 seconds into the fourth quarter. Landry will be lost for the remainder of the season.

USFL Roundup

Breakers 21, Federals 14

Johnnie Walton, who completed 27 of 46 passes for 326 yards, tossed 39-yard touchdown strike to Charlie Smith with 7:07 left to rally Boston, 7-5, past the hapless Federals, the worst team in the USFL with a 1-11 record and eightgame losing streak.

"We had a feeling coming in we had to throw," said Walton, who had thrown a league-high 426 passes. "We are a passing team, no way to hide it. We run to complement our passing game."

Washington led 14-7 at the half on Mike Hohensee's TD passes of 47 yards to Billy Taylor and 34 to Mike Holmes. Taylor turned in a 104-yard effort on the ground, the first Washington player to go over the 100-yard mark. Express 14, Gold 10

Los Angeles seems on the brink of breaking the logjam that has characterized the Pacific Division all season long. The victory over Denver gave the Express sole possession of first place with a 6-6 record while the Gold, losing its fifth straight game, is last at 4-8.

Rookie John Barnett paced the Express with two touchdowns, including the winner on a 1-yard plunge with 3:32 left in the game. LA Coach Hugh Campbell said his team's performance was "our best effort of the year. We played well both halves.

The loss spoiled the debut of interim head coach Charley Armey, who was appointed to the position after Red Miller was fired last Thursday.

Bandits 29, Invaders 9

In Saturday's game, Mike Kelley passed for 307 yards and two touchdowns in his first professional start to lead the Bandits over Oakland. Tampa Bay improved its Central Division-leading record to 9-3 while Oakland slumped to 5-7 in the Pacific.

The five-game average attendance of 27,123 was ahead of the league's weekly goal of 25,000, despite a dismal showing of 7,303 for the Breakers-Federals game at Washington's RFK Stadium.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is advisable that you carefully consider the tasks facing you and that you make plans to gain your most cherished aims. Take positive steps to overcome obstacles.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) First consult with a trusted adviser and then come to a better agreement with associates. Strive for true rapport.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to good friends for the help you need to gain personal aims. Show that you have a cooperative spirit. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listening to the recommendations of officials is wise today. Take no risks where your reputation is concerned. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have new ideas and plans in mind that require more study before putting them in operation. Be wise. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have several ways of solving certain matters, so be sure to pick the right one. Try to please loved one more.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put your views across to associates and reach a better understanding. Strive to make the future brighter for all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make definite plans to improve your environment since it has long been on your mind. Avoid the expenditure of too much money. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more precise in the handling of an important financial matter and avoid possible trouble later. Safeguard your health. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Home and close ties need more attention now, so be willing to spend more time on just that. Be logical. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to garner that data you need at the right sources, so get an early start. Think along optimistic lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal time to go after personal goals since you can gain them very easily now. Take time for pleasure tonight.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Cultivate a friendship with one who can help you advance in career matters. Be sure not to lose your temper with anyone.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who is imaginative and inventive, so permit your progeny to work out ideas that could bring fame and fortune upon reaching maturity. Teach to live on the highest moral plane that is possible. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

HEADS FOR WORLD RECORD — Bruce Hamilton chases after his frog, Johnny Jumper at the Calaveras County Jumping Frog Jubilee at Angels Camp, Calif., as he broke the world record with a jump of 20 feet, 3 inches Sunday.

Calaveras County names frog champion

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — Cheered on by 2,000 spectators, Johnny Jumper leaped into froggy fame, bounding more than 20 feet to break a 7-year-old record at the 55th annual Calaveras County Frog Jumping Jubilee.

The speckled amphibian with a slick white belly, owned by Bruce Hamilton of Sacramento, beat out more than 100 other frog finalists Sunday to capture the $1,500 first prize.

Hamilton, one of a nine-member team which brought more than 300 frogs to the Calaveras County competition, was cheered by friends and spectators who drenched him in foaming beer and champagne, then emptied a five-gallon tub of ice water over his head. Hamilton, his teeth chattering, grinned and grasped an ornate trophy.

Two of Hamilton's teammates climbed onto the roof over the stage at the Angels Camp fairground and cut down the sign which proclaimed the earlier victory of Denny Matasci's E. Davey Croakett — the frog which jumped 20 feet, 3 inches in 1976 to set the previous record

Johnny Jumper, spurred on by Hamilton pounding the mat and shouting from behind, leaped 20 feet, 338 inches, beating Matasci's frog by less than half an

The distance jumped was determined by three successive hops. Contestants were allowed to touch the frogs to start them jumping, but not thereafter. "All I can say is that God watched over me," Hamilton said.

"We've been trapping frogs from Los Banos to Sacramento," said Brian Cummings, one of Hamilton's teammates. "We've been getting up at 5:30 a.m. and jumping them until dark. Second place went to Brent Bloom's Bozo Goes Jumping, which cleared more than 19 feet 8 inches, while third place went to Bill Guzules' Pennywise and Pond Foolish, which jumped more than 19 feet 3

The Calaveras County frog jump, inspired by Mark Twain's 1865 short story, "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," has been held in Angels Camp since 1928, when the citizens held a contest to celebrate their first paved street.

In Twain's humorous tale, an agile frog stalls on takeoff because a devious competitor filled its belly with buckshot.

More than 100 frogs qualified for Sunday's finals, culminating four days of competition at the fairgrounds in the Sierra Nevada foothills, about 75 miles southeast of Sacramento. The frog jump marks Angels Camp's biggest annual community event.

Matasci, owner of the former champion, entered Morgan Frogchild, which cleared 16 feet 2 inches, well down in Sunday's jumps.

town's image. People had warned there would be trouble. By the time the former soldiers in the SS First Panzer Division were dancing at their formal reunion ball Sunday night, the cost of Bad Hersfeld's decision to host them was adding up. The figures on the police blotter were simple: Five people wounded, seven youths arrested, one car damaged - all during a street brawl Saturday that involved anti-fascist punk rockers, neo-Nazis and riot But the harm done to the peaceful image of this resort community of 30,000 in the rolling green hills of central West Germany was tougher to calculate. One of the town's biggest moneymakers, the Bad Hersfeld annual arts festival slated to open July 2, appeared heading toward disaster.

Prominent stage director Imo Moszkowicz, who lost his family in the Holocaust, announced he was dropping out of the festival, saying "I will not sleep in the same bed where Nazis slept three weeks ago.

Several key performers also quit, saying they would not celebrate art in a town that welcomed Nazis. "Thousands of people come to the festival every year," said hotel proprietress Waltraud Kniese "It's our major event. The reunion stirred emotional debate among townspeople as well.Some, like Mrs. Kniese, said Bad Hersfeld had nothing to fear from the SS veterans. "There's no danger," she said. "They can't destroy anything anymore. Townsfolk described the old Nazis as "harmless old men." They emphasized the reunion had been held in Bad Hersfeld the previous four years without trouble. But liberal political factions, trade unions, Jewish and other religious organizations rallied against this year's reunion, arguing it would attract neo-Nazi

The opponents painted banners reading, "Help! The past wants to overtake us." They tacked up placards with pictures of concentration camp victims. About 5,000 strong, they marched through town as the reunion opened Saturday, chanting, "Nazis out!" and

"We've had enough fascism!" They also turned to the courts in a bid to bar the veterans

But the veterans' group is not banned in West Germany, and the local magistrate dismissed their petition to bar the veterans from leasing City Hall, ruling that they had a "democratic right" to assemble.

"How can the magistrate say these old Nazis have democratic rights when they want to use our City Hall to talk about how to take away democratic rights from everyone else?," demanded a 21-year-old student. He asked for anonymity.

Gunnar Zindler, a 20-year-old hospital worker, said he and friends feared "the Third Reich could happen here again."

"I really am afraid," he said. Neo-Nazis had smeared walls of his apartment building with racial slurs and painted "Jewish Pig" on a neighbor's door,
