

Senate panel OKs pay raise for 118th District judge

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature is expected to finalize legislation Sunday that would authorize the Howard County Commissioners Court to boost 118th District Court Judge James Gregg's salary.
That proposal won a Senate committee's approval Thursday and is on the Senate's local and uncontested calendar, reserved for noncontroversial bills. Final passage is expected Sunday.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, and Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, already has passed the House. Final Senate approval would send it to Gov. Mark White for his approval.
Gregg, according to Shaw aide Sally Wilson, is one of the few district judges in the state whose salary is not supplemented with county funds.

The Shaw-Montford bill would authorize the county to increase Gregg's salary up to $1,000 less than the salary currently paid by the state to associate justices of the 11th Court of Appeals that serves Howard County.
A House and Senate budget conference committee, in its 1983-85 state fiscal plan, set state district court judges salaries at $52,900 in the fiscal year that begins Sept. 1 and $54,500 the following year.

Associate justices for the 11th Court of Appeals, under that plan, would receive $66,870 during the first fiscal year and $68,850 the following year.
Ms. Wilson said Howard County commissioners have expressed an interest in hiking Judge Gregg's salary.

Group hopes to unite north side

Community center opens next week

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

In one week a new community center will open on the north side of Big Spring that a recently formed organization, named People and Community Development (PACD), hopes will become a social and information center for neighborhood residents.

Marianne Brown, president of PACD, said the idea for the community center surfaced while she and her husband, Chestnut Brown, campaigned this spring for his election to the Big Spring school board.

"We found that people had a mistrust, a misunderstanding of how the government works," Mrs. Brown said. "Most of all they needed a place to go for answers to their questions."

Of the 1,200 voters registered in Precinct 4, which encompasses the city's north and west sides, only about 100 voted in the last city election, Mrs. Brown said. Her husband was defeated.

"They could have made their man, but only 100 turned out to vote," Mrs. Brown said. "They have a voice; they just have to get off their duffs and not sit down and cry."

PACD's members believe one reason so few voted was apathy generated by not knowing or caring how "the system" works. They hope that by providing a center and a staff to answer questions and act as an intermediary between citizens and city organizations they can encourage more people to become civically involved.

Currently, the only places to congregate for north side residents are in churches or restaurants. PACD members decided they needed a neutral place in which to hold meetings.

church is the first thing they turn against," Mrs. Brown said. "They're asking 'Why God, why did he do this to me?' We needed some place neutral."

Brown, a federal prison industry foreman, asked the city council for the former Northside Day Care Center at N.E. Eighth and Runnels.

"Everyone said 'They'll never let you have it,'" Mrs. Brown said. "They (city council) were all for it. They were just wonderful." Council members said PACD could use the building rent free for six months if PACD pays for utilities and insurance. After six months they will renegotiate the contract based on how many persons participate in the center's programs.

Mrs. Brown said she is not sure how people will react to the center.
"I think it's going to be rough," she said. "But if two try, they spread the word. As one member said last Saturday, it's better to try and fail than to never try at all."

PACD is in the process of becoming a certified non-profit organization so that any donations will be tax deductible. Members also are asking for donations to furnish the building.

White plots for teacher salary raise

Special session possible

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White's next move to squeeze a teacher pay raise out of a reluctant Legislature might include a veto of the Railroad Commission, says a commission member.

The scenario features a special session forced by White's veto of a measure keeping the commission in business until 1991.

Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple, after meeting with White on Thursday, said the governor acknowledged considering vetoing the bill needed to keep the commission operating beyond Sept. 1.

Temple said White might veto the bill, then call a special session to push his 24 percent pay raise plan for teachers. The governor sets the agenda for special sessions, meaning he could force lawmakers to approve some version of his teacher pay raise and tax plan before considering legislation to continue the Railroad Commission.

A governor's veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote in each house. Because the Railroad Commission bill started in the House, lawmakers there would get first shot at an override.

Speaker Gib Lewis opposes overrides, but Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga said there were 110 votes in the 150-member House for an

Locals make Texas Monthly

It's called "The Battle of Big Spring."

Texas Monthly recently interviewed Big Spring political scribes D.A. Brazel and C.G. Gilstrap about the letter war they have waged the last few years in the Big Spring Herald.

The article, written by Peter Applebome, a former reporter for the Dallas Morning News and the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, appears in the Reporter section of the magazine's June issue.

Many subscribers have already received the magazine, but the June issue was not expected to be on any of the city's newsstands before this afternoon.

Two persons who have not seen the article yet are the subjects.

"They said they would send me a copy, but I haven't got one yet," Gilstrap said Wednesday. "I sure have heard a lot about it, though." Brazel said he was also told he would receive a complimentary copy.

"I used to take the magazine," he said. "They had good coverage of the Legislature for a while. But then it started getting taken over by ads and information about where to eat all over the state. I quit it."

Applebome visited Big Spring in March. He said he found out about the feud when he was shown an edition of the Herald which carried a letter from Gilstrap.

Bauer racial imbalance being corrected, school officials say

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Recent student registration for the new Bauer Magnet School shows the racial imbalance at the north side school will be corrected in the fall, according to Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Lynn Hise.

In a progress report to the school board, Hise said the magnet school's enriched extended-day program has drawn interest from 237 students from across the district. Due to limited space at Bauer, only 141 have been accepted at the school, with 93 being placed on a waiting list.

Hise said the new students, plus the fourth and fifth grade gifted and talented students who will be housed at Bauer in the fall, will give the school an acceptable racial balance.

Hise said preliminary reports show the school will have a 56 percent minority makeup and a 44 percent Anglo enrollment.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS said they were confident these figures would satisfy the recent agreement with the U.S. Justice Department to rid the district of traces of a dual school system.

"I would think the government would certainly be pleased with those figures," said board president

Charles Beil.

Hise said Bauer would have a total enrollment of 312 students in the fall with 214 signed up for extended-day classes.

In addition to the enrollment report, Hise also told board members that the Bauer computer lab will cost $33,500, which will be paid from state and federal funds.

THE LAB will consist of 22 terminals, 10 of which will be microcomputers complete with software for a variety of programs. The other 12 terminals will be for computer assisted instruction in basic subjects. Computer assisted instruction is already available at Goliad Middle School and Runnels Junior High.

Hise said the district has in storage 16 terminals left over from the Goliad and Runnels programs. This means the district will not have to buy the 12 terminals needed for the computer assisted instruction program. However, the district must purchase the 10 microcomputers.

The board yesterday rejected bids from four companies on the microcomputers because it said the bids were too high. The district will again advertise for bids in the near future.

Hise's report estimated that transportation for

Death toll hits 47 in Japanese quake

Victims swept away by tidal waves

NOSHIRO, Japan (AP) — Authorities counted 47 dead and 55 missing today after a full day of air and sea search operations along coastal areas battered by tidal waves that followed a major undersea earthquake.

The National Police Agency said almost all the victims in Akita, Aomori and Hokkaido prefectures were swept away by a series of tsunamis, or tidal waves, that pounded the shoreline of northwestern Honshu, Japan's main island, minutes after the tremor at noon Thursday.

The victims included at least 12 children washed away by a wave while on a school outing at a beach. The search continued for the body of a 13th child.

At least 88 people were injured in the disaster, which affected a 120-mile stretch of coastline, the police agency said.

With most of the missing victims feared dead, the earthquake-tidal wave disaster appeared certain to be the worst in Japan since 119 died from a tidal wave that was caused by a major quake off Chile in 1960.

OFFICIALS IN South Korea said three people were washed out to sea and about 180 were made homeless on the South Korean coastline, which also was struck by tidal waves from the quake, which was centered about 420 miles from Korea.

South Korean officials said waves of up to 12 feet struck the Korean coast, destroying 73 fishing boats and 28 houses. The three people washed out to sea were trying to save a fishing boat, the officials said.

Japan's Central Meteorological Agency said the quake's epicenter was in the Japan Sea about 96 miles west of Akita city, and measured 7.7 on the Richter scale, which records quake intensity as measured on seismographs. The reading showed the tremor was capable of tremendous damage.

The agency recorded 638 aftershocks in 24 hours and warned that another quake of moderate intensity was possible.

A construction worker in Noshiro, a port community of 60,000 located 40 miles north of Akita city, said the waves hit "with the sound of a jet engine."

They swamped fishing boats and engulfed workers atop a 28-foot-high breakwater. Police said they found bodies of seven workers and were looking for 27 more.

At Oga, a scenic peninsula between Noshiro and Akita City, police spokesman Hidenori Yuze said searchers found the bodies of nine schoolchildren but four others remained unaccounted for. The waves caught the children, part of a group of 49 pupils and teachers, as they picnicked on the beach.

THE WIFE of a Swiss businessman working in Tokyo, identified by the Swiss Embassy as Madeleine Brandenberger, 38, of Zurich, drowned as the huge waves smashed against the coast at Oga. Her husband, Walter, reached safety.

Authorities said more than 9,000 policemen using Agency patrol boats, planes and helicopters were mobilized to search.

THE HORROR CONTINUES — Japanese elementary school teachers and a mother of a pupil watch in horror Friday as authorities recover the bodies of youngsters washed out to sea in Oga Thursday when tidal waves spawned by a major earthquake struck a school outing. The waves killed nine children and others were reported missing and feared dead.

77-year-old gets college degree

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — At age 77, former U.S. Rep Charles Mosher is about to achieve a goal he set for himself 30 years ago.

On Monday, the former Republican state senator and congressman will earn a master's of government degree from Oberlin College. Officials believe he is the oldest person to receive such a degree in the college's 150-year history.

Mosher also will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree, becoming the only person to receive both an earned and an honorary degree at the same Oberlin commencement.

Weather

Storms possible over holiday

By The Associated Press

A few showers and thunderstorms dotted the Texas weather picture early today as forecasters warned of the possibility of scattered rains through the Memorial Day weekend.

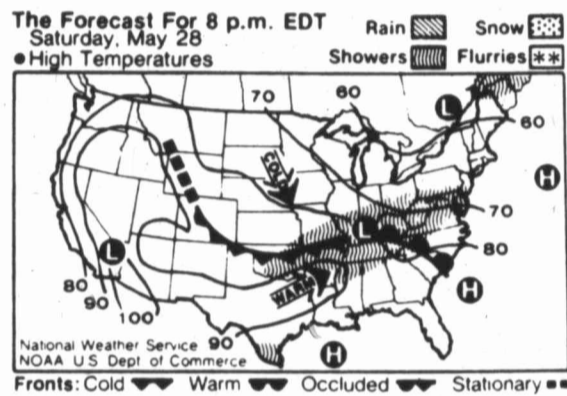

Showers lingered in North Texas behind a weak cold front before dawn. Thunderstorms were noted in portions of Northwest and West Texas.

Some fog formed along the coast. Skies were cloudy to partly cloudy over most of the state.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 53 at Marfa to 76 at Brownsville and at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Winds were generally variable at speeds of 10 mph or less.

The forecast called for fair to partly cloudy skies with warm afternoon temperatures and humid conditions through Saturday. Extended forecasts called for a chance of widespread showers and thunderstorms throughout the weekend.

TODAY AND SATURDAY
West Texas — Partly cloudy through tonight becoming mostly fair Saturday. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms tonight. Highs 82 Panhandle to near 102 Big Bend. Lows 53 Panhandle to near 70 Big Bend.
SUNDAY THROUGH TUESDAY
West Texas — Partly cloudy with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Thunderstorms more numerous north Tuesday. Little cooler north Monday and Tuesday. Highs Monday middle 80s in the Panhandle to near 105 in the Big Bend valleys cooling to near 80 in the Panhandle Monday and Tuesday with little change south. Lows Sunday morning middle 50s to near 70 cooling to near 50 in the Panhandle by Tuesday morning with little change south.

Communique says leftists killed American advisor

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A communique purporting to be from the main leftist guerrilla faction claimed responsibility for the first slaying of a U.S. military adviser in El Salvador.

The communique said the killing was in reprisal for "the criminal intervention of Yankee imperialism." But there was no confirmation of the claim, either from rebel radio stations or other sources.

The communique, broadcast by two private radio stations Thursday, claimed that urban commandos of the Popular Liberation Forces (FPL), the largest of five rebel bands fighting the U.S.-backed government, killed Navy Lt. Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger III on Wednesday evening.

But copies of the communique did not carry the official FPL emblem. The group's clandestine Radio Farabundo Marti, as well as Radio Venceremos, the official voice of the five rebel bands, reported the slaying without indicating who was responsible.

The message claimed guerrilla commandos "recovered" a pistol, a sub-machine gun and a radio transmitter that belonged to the slain American. It also said Schaufelberger, 33, of San Diego, Calif., was "executed" in reprisal for American intervention.

U.S. Ambassador Deane R. Hinton said Salvadoran police have begun an investigation and would likely receive FBI help to probe what he called the "shocking, cowardly murder" of Schaufelberger, who was deputy commander of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador.

Before the purported claim of responsibility, Hinton implied leftists were to blame.

Nurse charged with murder

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Murder and child injury indictments filed against a nurse in another county should convince some reluctant witnesses to aid investigators looking into infant deaths at a San Antonio hospital, a prosecutor says.

The nurse, 32-year-old Gene Jones, was employed at San Antonio's Medical Center Hospital before moving to Kerrville to work for a pediatrician.

She is scheduled to be arraigned at 1 p.m. today at the Kimble County Courthouse in Junction. District Attorney Ronald Sutton said she also will ask the court to reduce her bond and appoint a defense attorney.

She was transferred to Kerr County Jail in Kerrville from Ector County Jail in Odessa, where she had been held on bonds totaling $225,000.

Ms. Jones was indicted by a Kerr County grand jury Wednesday on charges she injected seven children with a powerful muscle relaxant or "unknown drug," causing one death and six serious seizures.

A Bexar County special grand jury has been investigating a series of suspicious infant deaths at Medical Center's pediatric intensive unit from 1978 to early 1982.

Ms. Jones, a licensed vocational nurse, worked at the hospital during that period, but has denied any wrongdoing.

Bexar County Assistant District Attorney Nick Rothe, who is heading the San Antonio inquiry, said Wednesday's indictments should provide a focus for his investigation.

"The return of indictments in a related investigation always helps," Rothe said Thursday. "I think this may turn some people around. A lot of people say this is a witch hunt and it's not."

"Gene Jones is certainly someone we want to look very closely at," he said. "The continuation of the San Antonio scenario in Kerrville obviously is interesting."

Ms. Jones appeared before the Bexar County grand jury in February, but Rothe said it "would be futile to recall her while she's under indictment."

Hospital records show 122 infants died during the period being investigated, but prosecutors won't say how many deaths are considered suspicious.

The Kerr County investigation began about nine months ago, after the Sept. 17 death of 15-month-old Chelsea Ann McClellan.

Ms. Jones is charged with Chelsea Ann's death, which was attributed to respiratory failure, and injuring six other children ranging in age from one month to seven years.

She spent about 3 1/2 hours Wednesday with grand jurors in Kerrville, but declined to make any comment after her appearance.

Who needs to deal with thugs?

Muslim fanatics are believed to be responsible for the April 18 bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut which cost 63 lives. The terrorist operation apparently had its roots in Iran. Now comes a report from CBS news the Iranian government not only condoned the bombing but helped carry it out.

CBS says U.S. intelligence intercepted cables from the Iranian foreign ministry in Tehran to the Iranian Embassy in Damascus, the capital of Syria, setting up payment for a terrorist operation against an unidentified target in Lebanon. The cables directed the Iranian Embassy in Damascus to assist 12 Iranians passing through en route to Beirut shortly before the April 18 bombing. The same 12 Iranians reappeared in Damascus several hours after the bombing.

The Defense Department and the Department of State have neither confirmed or denied the CBS report. They will go no further than to say that the bombing involved Iranians.

IF THE EVIDENCE on which the CBS story is based is substantial enough, the U.S. government should not hesitate to speak out against the Iranian government and to take whatever steps are in our power to bring pressure against it. We have no formal diplomatic relations with Tehran, but we do have something the Iranians would not want to lose: Purchase orders for Iranian oil.

Oil traffic between Iran and the United States collapsed with the seizure of hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in 1979. It resumed last summer. U.S. imports from Iran averaged 60,000 barrels a day during the last seven months of 1982. That's nearly $1.8 million a day which Americans are contributing to Iran to help finance its war against neighboring Iraq — and, who knows, such terrorist operations as the Beirut bombing.

WE ARE REMINDED daily that there is a surplus of oil on the world market. Why is it necessary, then, for the United States to be importing oil from Iran? Denouncing Americans as "foreign devils" remains a favorite sport of Iranians and there is now a reason to suspect that the crackpot government in Tehran is up to something worse.

The Iranians need oil revenue, but we don't need their oil. Let's leave Iran to oil merchants who don't mind doing business with thugs.

Changing times

The uproar triggered by naming the top ranking students at Big Spring High School caused people to stop and think.

An article in the Herald listed the valedictorian and salutatorian, both of whom happened to be women, and the top-ranking male. It never occurred to me, in all the years I've read stories about top-ranking students, that this could be derived as sexist.

Stacey Bott and Patricia Jones took top honors with grade point averages of 97.99 and 97.21 respectively. Speight Grimes was the highest ranking male with a stellar grade point average of 94.91. For the first time that I can recall someone pointed out that there were four women who ranked in between the valedictorian, salutatorian and top ranking male.

I agree with the point made that the four women in between should not have been overlooked. But I don't think any conniving sexist (male or female) years ago sat down and decided that this would be a good way to goad the other side. I think, rather, that naming the top ranking boy or girl if the valedictorian and salutatorian happened to be the same sex was just another way of recognizing another student for a job well done.

WHEN THIS practice originated (and it must have originated years ago because I've seen it done for years), times were different. Things are changing. As the world progresses we begin to make less of a person's sex and more of his or her abilities.

Today, more so than a decade or two ago, men and women can pretty much tackle anything they want to tackle. We've seen women take stronger roles in situations once dominated by men. Women are astronauts, scientists, ministers, welders, car mechanics, you name it. And men are doing the same thing. They're taking jobs in day care centers, home economics, research laboratories and nursing. As we become less sexist and more open to letting each other do what we want instead of what other people think we should do, old standards are bound to fall. One is the naming of the top ranking boy or girl. We're bound to run across others as we progress.

I'VE KNOWN Speight Grimes and his family since he was a tiny kid, and I think he's terrific. Now he can say he's a precedent setter. I hope none of the students involved were embarrassed by the situation. All they did was achieve outstanding grade-point averages. They all deserve to be commended.

Making of a best seller

I was walking by my son's room the other day and heard him typing. "What are you up to?" I asked him.

"I'm writing my memoirs on what it was like to be your son."

This pleased me, and I said, "I hope I come out all right in the book."

"I'm sure you will," he said. "Hey, Dad, how many times should I say you took me out in the barn and whipped me with your belt?"

"I never took you out in the barn and beat you with a belt! We don't even have a barn."

"My editor said in order for the book to sell I'm going to have to write a lot of stuff about how you beat me up and locked me in my closet when I did something wrong."

"I didn't lock you up when you did anything wrong."

"I know that, but he wants a story like the ones Gary Crosby and Christina Crawford wrote about their parents. He says the reading public wants to know about the private life you lead, as opposed to the public image you have. All the kids are writing one now and they're best sellers. Would you mind if I portrayed you as a rotten father?"

"Do you have to?"

"Of course I have to. I got a $10,000 advance and they don't put up that kind of money unless you really blow the whistle on your parents. You should read chapter two. I tell how you made everyone laugh at a speaking engagement, and then you came home drunk and dumped us all out of our beds and made us scrub the floor."

"I never did that and you know it."

"Gosh, Dad, it's only a book. My editor loves it — almost as much as chapter three where I have you beating up Mom."

"You've got me beating up your mother?"

"I don't say you really hurt her. But I tell how we kids used to hide under the blankets so we couldn't hear her screaming."

"I never laid a hand on your mother."

"I can't say that. My editor said people are not going to plunk down $15.95 for 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.'"

"Okay, so I strapped you with a belt and beat up your mother. What else did I do to you?"

"I'm just getting into the sex stuff in chapter four. Do you think if I wrote you used to bring show girls home at 3 o'clock in the morning people would believe it?"

"I'm sure they would. But don't think that's going a bit far, even for a best seller."

"My editor suggested the idea. You don't have a big reputation for messing around, and this would really come as a surprise to the reader. It can't hurt."

"It can't hurt you, but it sure as hell can hurt me," I yelled at him. Don't you have anything good to say about me in the book?"

"I had a chapter on how you brought me my first bicycle, but my editor made me take it out. He said people might get confused after the stuff I wrote about you dumping a bowl of mashed potatoes on my head at Christmas time because I gave you some lip."

"Why didn't you write I threw you in a cold shower with all your clothes on because you only got a B in math?"

"Hey, that's good. I'll say I got pneumonia and you never even bothered to visit me in the hospital."

"You'd sell out your own father for $10,000?"

"It's not just the money, Dad. My editor says if I let it all hang out Barbara Walters might even interview me on 20/20. I wouldn't have to live in your shadow any more."

"Well, if it means that much to you, go right ahead with the book. Is there any way I can help?"

"Yeh. There is one thing. Could you buy me a word processor? If I could speed up my typing I could have it out by Christmas. I'll pay you back as soon as my agent sells the book rights to the movies."

Soviet savvy and CIA blundering

WASHINGTON — When President Reagan meets allied leaders this weekend in Williamsburg, Va., he may discover in a very personal way that he was snookered into dropping the Soviet pipeline sanctions — by a combination of friends and enemies. Some of the culprits will be sitting right in the conference room with him.

As I reported last November — when Reagan announced the end of the sanctions he had imposed in January 1982 — the Soviet leadership had outguessed the White House at every step of the game. Probably with the aid of the KGB's intelligence network, the Kremlin leaders anticipated Reagan's moves and checkmated him with the skill of chess grandmasters.

The CIA played into the Kremlin's hands by producing two shoddy intelligence estimates on the likely effects of the sanctions. Then the agency compounded its errors of judgment by following the recommendations of an American company that stood to gain millions if the sanctions were lifted.

Finally, the State Department was evidently persuaded by our European allies that if the sanctions were lifted they would join the United States in a broad agreement on trade with the Soviet bloc. Secretary of State George Shultz convinced Reagan this was the case. The president will find out this weekend just how empty the allied leaders' assurances were.

My associate Dale Van Atta has pieced together a story of guile, greed and incompetence from secret documents and interviews over the past six months. Here are the details:

As I reported in November, the Kremlin figured — correctly — that Reagan would impose sanctions on pipeline technology if the Russians cracked down on rebellious Poles. Knowing their own timetable for the crackdown, the Soviets rushed to nail down contracts for pipeline equipment with Western suppliers.

The final contract was signed in Moscow on Dec. 14, 1981 — the day after martial law had been declared in Poland, and two weeks before Reagan announced the sanctions.

The one U.S. company whose products were considered by the Soviets to be vital to their pipeline was General Electric. And GE obviously stood to make a bundle if the sanctions were lifted. Knowing this, the CIA relied heavily on GE for information on how the sanctions were working — or not working.

A GE representative, in fact, coordinated and controlled a two-hour CIA briefing for White House and State Department officials in early 1982. His presentation naturally favored dropping the sanctions and it went substantially unchallenged by the CIA.

In August 1982, the CIA produced an intelligence estimate that dumped all over the sanctions. Upset by the report, National Security Adviser William Clark wrote CIA Director William Casey in September and asked him to reconsider.

Examination of the CIA's August estimate shows it was a poor effort. It shows complete ignorance of the terms of the contracts the Soviets were then rushing to completion.

The CIA also drastically underestimated the value to the Soviets of their gas pipeline to Western Europe — obviously a vital consideration in assessing the degree of punishment inflicted by the sanctions. The CIA figured the Russians stood to make about $5 billion a year after completion of the first pipeline segment. But other intelligence estimates put the figure at $8 billion-$10 billion a year.

Even worse, the CIA didn't even address the question of Soviet gas sales when two more stands of the pipeline are in place — estimated by others at $30 billion to $40 billion a year in badly needed hard currency.

In October, the CIA gave Clark the second estimate he had asked for. It was essentially a justification of the first one. With the CIA firmly against the sanctions, Shultz was able to persuade Reagan they should be lifted. As a face-saving gesture, it was announced that the European allies would join in a tough general agreement on trade with the Soviets. The president will try to hold the allies to their promise this weekend.

WHAT'S TO HIDE?: Last February, board members of the taxpayer-funded U.S. Synfuels Corp. held a meeting by long-distance telephone conference call. Chairman Ed Noble pointedly reminded the board members to be sure their office doors were closed, lest anyone eavesdrop on the board's business. Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., wants to know what the board didn't want the public to find out about. He asked for a transcript of the board's closed meetings. He also asked the board to explain why so many of its meetings are closed to the public.

JOLTING STATISTICS: The recent earthquake in Coalinga, Calif., was relatively moderate and occurred in a largely agricultural area. No one was killed.

But government scientists say the chances are 50-50 that a much powerful temblor will hit a heavily populated area, like Los Angeles, in the next 30 years. The death toll could easily reach 13,000.

The apparently inevitable quake will also have a serious impact on the nation's high-tech and defense industries centered in California. A recent National Security Council study of the 21 counties along California's geological fault lines notes that the area produces "about 57 percent of the national output of guided missiles and space vehicles, 40 percent of the semiconductors and related devices, (and) 32 percent of guided missile and space vehicle parts and auxiliary equipment."

Billy Graham

It was stupid to deny God

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it too late for me? All my life I deliberately kept God out of my life. Now realize how stupid this has been and I'm just not sure God would want anything to do with me after the way I have treated him. — N.R.

DEAR N.R.: No, it is not too late for you, and the reason I know that is because of the concern you have about your life and your relationship to God. The person who is in the gravest danger spiritually is the person who never thinks about God and feels no need of God. When we turn our backs on God repeatedly our hearts can become insensitive to his calling. This can eventually lead to what we might call complete spiritual deafness — and then it is too late. The Bible warns, "A man who remains stiff-necked after many rebukes will suddenly be destroyed — without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1).

But it also is not too late for you because God loves you. Yes, you have turned your back on him and kept him out of your life. This was wrong and has caused you much unhappiness — although at the time you thought it would bring you happiness. But God still loves you, and he wants to welcome you into his family and forgive you of your sins.

Do you remember the story Jesus told of the prodigal son? (You can read it in chapter 15 of the Gospel of Luke). This young man had turned his back on his father and left home wasting his life in wild living until he was broke and friendless. Eventually he decided his only hope was to return to his father, realizing how stupid he had been. But — like you — he was afraid his father would not welcome him. But when he came in sight, his father ran out greeted him, forgave him, and welcomed him back into the family.

This is a beautiful example of what God wants to do in your life. And he has made it possible by sending his only Son into the world to die on the cross as a perfect sacrifice for your sins. Jesus declared, "The Son of Man came to seek and to save what was lost" (Luke 19:10). He came to give you new life. What must you do? Turn to Christ in repentance and faith. Receive him into your life as you Lord and Savior. Then seek to follow him each day. You have wasted many years of your life — but Christ can make all the difference as you turn to him.

Senator Tower is appreciative

Dear Editor,

A copy of the Herald's April 17 editorial entitled "Budget resolution is critical issue" came across my desk, and I appreciated your newspaper's support for my views on the federal budget. As your editorial noted, the House budget resolution would result in increased taxes and a spending spree for domestic and social programs. Such an action does endanger the progress made by the Reagan Administration in controlling domestic spending, reducing the tax burden and rebuilding our national defense capability.

The Herald's editorial is a persuasive and well written argument on this very complex budget issue, and I only wish all my colleagues in Congress would accept its logic. I feel confident the Senate will adopt a more responsible set of priorities, and hopefully our view will prevail in the conference committee.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN TOWER

Man says roar may be dinosaur

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A growling roar captured on tape in a remote African jungle comes from a relic, dinosaur-like species, says the man who led the dinosaur hunt. But a sound analysis expert called the evidence inconclusive.

The sound analysis expert says such taped evidence could never be considered proof of a dinosaur, or even of a newly discovered animal.

Herman A. Regusters, an adventurer-engineer who made the recording and claims to have seen the creature, contends the animal looks very much like a dinosaur and may be 35 feet long.

Regusters said he and others saw the creature five times in 32 days during a 1981 expedition to the swampy, nearly inaccessible Lake Tele in the Republic of the Congo.

He insists he saw "an animal I can't identify. ... The only thing I can conclude at this point" is that it is a relic species — something similar to a dinosaur that somehow escaped the great extinction that wiped out the giant lizards 60 million years ago.

With no useful photographs taken, partly because of equipment failure, the recording is the only physical evidence of a mysterious creature local tribesmen call "mokele-membe," he said in an interview Wednesday.

At least one sound analyst is certain the sound was produced by a previously unknown animal.

"I am convinced in my own mind that it is an animal that has not been identified before," Kenneth W. Templin, manager of Borg-Warner Corp.'s Dynamics Research Facility at City of Commerce, said in an interview.

Templin, who said he uses similar analyses to diagnose problem in giant pumping systems the firm installs, said computers were used to filter out the heavy jungle noises and to break the low, growling roars into component parts.

Resulting graphs and spectrograms were compared with the sounds of other large African animals, including an elephant, rhinoceros, hippopotamus, wildebeest and gorilla, and "it's different from anything I've been able to compare it with," Templin said.

But Ian Maddieson, of the linguistics department at the University of California at Los Angeles, said such analysis, though procedurally sound, "is not very conclusive evidence by itself."

Transplant girl dies

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A 4-year-old Nebraska girl died during heart transplant surgery Wednesday night at University of Minnesota Hospitals.

Spokesman Ralph Heussner said Heidi Kahle of Lincoln died at 11 p.m., about 4½ hours after surgery began.

Heidi was admitted to the hospital Tuesday after her pediatrician, Dr. Eileen Vautravers of Lincoln, said the hospital's donor coordinator told her a potential donor had been found.

of the hospital's heart transplant team, said the donor was a young Minnesota child injured in an accident.

Heidi, daughter of Richard and Cheryl Kahle, was diagnosed as suffering from cardiomyopathy, a progressive deterioration of the heart muscle, since she was 2 years old. She had been given only a few months to live without a successful heart transplant.

Earlier this month, her doctor had appealed to the Nebraska Medical Association for help in locating a donor heart.

B&PW donates to child abuse center

Dixie Robertson spoke on the Rainbow Project and child abuse during the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting, Tuesday. The meeting was held at Wayne Henry's restaurant.

Ms. Robertson is associate pastor of First United Methodist Church and a member of the board of directors of the Rainbow Project, a project for the care of abused children and adults sponsored by the local Ministerial Fellowship Association.

Ms. Robertson said four types of child abuse exist: physical, emotional, verbal and sexual. The reasons given for child abuse were: high expectations of child by parent, child unable to live up to expectations, inability of parent to handle anger in situations, and immaturity of parents.

She emphasized that the center is to help keep families together, and the Department of Human Resources — with the help of local communities — is the tool with which the project works to accomplish its goals.

The center is the old fire station located on Wasson Road near Marcy School. The building is suited for the project because the facilities already in it to serve children and house parents.

Donations of furniture, kitchen wares and renovation funds are needed.

The club presented a donation to the Rainbow Project.

Guests were Leona Ebersole and Tommie Butler. The next meeting will be held June 14 at Wayne Henry's restaurant.

Spinal disc resembles a jelly donut

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please tell me what happens to the part of a ruptured spinal disc that protrudes after the pain subsides. Does it go back, or shrink, or what? Or does it just lay there to start up again? And also, is surgery the best treatment? — E.S.

Try to visualize a spinal disc as a jelly donut. It has a tough outer ring and a gelatinous inner core. It's that gelatinous core that protrudes through the outer rim in a rupture. Pain arises when the protrusion presses on spinal nerves. Muscles go into painful spasm in response to the nerve irritation.

Often, with rest, traction, and muscle-relaxing medicines, the pain disappears, but what happens to the protruding material that caused the problem? Most likely, it does shrink back into proper position, back into the interior of the disk, or at least retreats sufficiently so that spinal nerves are no longer irritated.

Once the rupture problem is resolved, the future usually depends on what one has learned from the episode. It may not come back if the person corrects the situation causing the rupture. If you learn to use your back properly, being careful about how you lift things, how you sit, how you stand, you can prevent recurrence. The Y.M.C.A. has an excellent back-strengthening program. Of course, any program should have the approval of your doctor.

You ask about treatment. What is the best? If rest, traction, or physiotherapy will do the job, fine. If they won't and if pain persists, or if there is danger that serious never damage might result from continued nerve irritation, then surgery is considered. And now there is a new alternative — the use of the enzyme, chymopapain, which is very similar to our meat tenderizers. It is injected into the protruding disc area, and it digests the material.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please explain the meaning of the initials, HDL and LDH? I had a blood work-up, and HDL and LDH were both listed. I understand HDL is good. — Mrs. W.E.F.

Medicine has as many "alphabet soups" as the federal government has. I wonder if you got a couple of them confused.

HDL is the abbreviation for high density lipoprotein. That's good cholesterol, the kind that prevents artery hardening and heart attacks. I wonder if you meant to write LDL, not LDH. The LDL stands for low density lipoproteins. That's the bad kind of cholesterol, the kind that does portend artery hardening. Both kinds, HDLs and LDLs, are present in blood, but its better to have lots of the HDLs.

But you can find words to match just about any abbreviation, and it happens that LDH is no exception. It stands for lactic dehydrogenase, an enzyme found in many organs. If LDH levels are high, it can mean some damage done to an organ that contains the enzyme, like the liver. Just having such initials appear on a blood work-up does not necessarily mean the person has problems. High levels can be significant.

Herpes may be killing the sexual revolution, but having it doesn't mean the end of your life. Or the end of your sex life. In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the truth from the fiction about this controversial health problem. For your copy of "Herpes: Don't Panic," send one dollar and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Uncle Sam wants you or your dog

DEAR READERS: Just when I think I've heard everything, I get a letter from the Department of Defense Dog Center at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, asking me to help recruit dogs for a rewarding career in the military!

Dogs are needed to be trained for guard duty, narcotic detection and explosive detection work.

Some facts: The dog must be between the ages of 1-4, weigh a minimum of 50 pounds and can be either male or female. German shepherds and Rottweiler breeds are desired. The dog does not have to be purebred or registered, but it must have the predominant features of the breed it represents.

The Defense Department will pay $250 per dog. If you have a dog that you think qualifies, write to: D.O.D. Dog Center, Detachment 37, Lackland Air Force Base, Texas 78236.

You will receive a form to fill out. If your dog qualifies, take it to a local military veterinarian to be evaluated and examined. The examination is free. If you use a private veterinarian, you must pay the charges.

If your dog passes his physical, a large metal crate will be provided for shipping purposes. All you have to do is take the dog to the airport and put it in the crate. It is then flown to Texas at government expense.

So if you want to do something patriotic for your country, send your dog.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who worries me. When she is in a group, she either does all the talking or she is completely withdrawn. There is no conversing with her. She either talks non-stop without letting anyone else get a word in, or she just sits there and pays no attention to what's being said.

Every once in a while she will break into a conversation while others are talking and introduce an entirely different subject!

BRIDES REGISTER WITH US! KOPPER KETTLE BIG SPRING MALL

What on earth could be wrong with her? She is very intelligent and extremely well-read. I really care for her. A FRIEND DEAR FRIEND: Your friend's behavior is typical of one who has a serious hearing loss. If you "really care for her," tell her in a kind and gentle way what you have observed. Urge her to have her hearing checked. And if she is hard of hearing, encourage her to get the help she needs immediately.

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of a clergyman (please don't say which denomination or what town).

My husband visits members of his congregation for a variety of reasons. It's part of his job. He is a very busy man who is well-respected in the community. As a matter of policy he never telephones in advance to make an appointment for his visits. He doesn't want anyone to fuss or go to any special trouble for him, so he just drops in unexpectedly.

A few women have told me that while they appreciate my husband's visit, they would prefer that he call in advance to let them know he is coming.

What is your thinking on this, Abby?

MINISTER'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: I think everyone has the right to know when a visitor is coming regardless of who the visitor is.

A visitor is always more welcome when the host or hostess has had an opportunity to prepare. I could be wrong. And if I am, I'm sure to hear from those who take an opposing view.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Nation's first public TV station will note anniversary Saturday

HOUSTON (AP) — On May 28, 1953, engineers threw switches, lights blinked and suddenly television screens all over Houston showed a college professor lecturing on psychology. Public television was born.

Other non-commercial stations received their licenses earlier, but it was KUHT-TV in Houston that went on the air first, putting out a weak, 15,000-watt, black and white signal that was received as faint, fuzzy images on the primitive sets of that era.

Nearly all the programs were college courses and this non-commercial television system was called Educational Television. The station was on the air six hours daily, and shut down on weekends.

Only a few thousand households tuned in. Most viewers during those daylight hours watched the soap operas or old movies offered by the commercial stations. KUHT-TV, Channel 8, was a distant last in a growing market of four TV stations.

But experts forecast that this modest start would lead to a major change in American education.

Televized teaching, they predicted, would bring culture and knowledge into the living room and revolutionize the nation's enlightenment. In an era before the terms "boob tube" or "vast wasteland" gained currency, television was seen as the great educator.

It hasn't worked out.

In the three decades since that first public television broadcast, the non-commercial television station here, and scores of others like it across the country, are still struggling to solidify their place in the American scene.

Channel 8 has gone from a budget of $108,000 in 1953 to a 1983 budget of $3.8 million. It now televises in color, for 18 hours a day, including weekends. Six hours a day are programs of instruction for school children. On weekends, college courses are offered.

But public television has not revolutionized education here. Nor has it gained a much larger share of the local market. Where once it was the distant last of four stations, it is now the distant last of six. An average of 388,000 households watch Channel 8 at least once a week, almost 200,000 households behind the fifth place station in Houston.

And educators now no longer expect miracles from the magic tube.

"In all honesty," says Dr. Richard Evans, head of the University of Houston psychology department, "using public television for teaching has become only a minor thing."

Evans, who conducted that first college course on television back in 1953, said a series of studies have shown educational television has had no measurable effect on the teaching of Americans.

"You would be hard pressed to prove that it has had a significant mass effect," he said. "It was extremely naive to believe you can improve society on the basis of a TV series or two."

Studies at the University of Houston and at other colleges, said Evans, have shown that students do not learn more or faster from a television set than from a teacher lecturing in person. This finding, he said, has been a disappointment to educators who had such high expectations for TV teaching.

The euphoria of hope for education television died slowly, recalls Evans, who taught a TV course for 10 years. But eventually the industry began to realize that public television could not survive only with education courses.

IN THE BEGINNING — Dr. Richard Evans, head of the University of Houston psychology department, went on the air on May 23, 1953, lecturing on psychology. Public television was born. KUHT-TV Houston was the first of several non-commercial stations to hit the air. This picture from the stations historical files shows Evans during one of his early programs.

"The idea of teaching by television would never provide the support that public TV had to have to exist," says James Bauer, manager of Channel 8 and a 27-year employe of the station. "In order to effectively compete, you've got to have programs that will create audiences."

Big Spring. Reason to believe: No. 1.

1028 MORE WORKERS ARE EMPLOYED IN BIG SPRING NOW THAN TWO YEARS AGO.

IT'S A FACT: The number of employed workers in Big Spring in March of 1983 was greater than the entire local labor force in March of 1981. Statistics gathered from Texas Employment Commission show that 16,372 persons were employed here in March of this year. Compare this figure to the total labor force — 15,344 — two years earlier. The graph shows a continuous overall rise in the base of employed workers in Big Spring — an indication that our city's economy is stable and secure.

Court seeks taxes from Onassis

ATHENS Greece (AP) — A Greek tax court assessed Christina Onassis $50 million in inheritance taxes and fines on the $69 million estate it said her father, shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, left in Greece, judicial officials said Thursday.

Legal sources said Miss Onassis was expected to appeal the decision.

The court rejected her claim that she was exempt from the tax because the property belonged to companies registered in Panama that were not owned by her father.

Valuing the Onassis fortune in Greece at 5.5 billion drachmas, the court said Miss Onassis owed 2 billion drachmas ($25 million) in inheritance taxes. But it also fined her 2 billion drachmas because she failed to file an inheritance declaration.

Onassis died in Paris in 1975, leaving half his fortune to his daughter and the other half to a foundation he established in memory of his only son, who died in a plane accident in 1973.

The foundation gives scholarships to Greeks to study abroad and is building a $35 million heart surgery center in Athens.

Gifted siblings score high

BOSTON (AP) — Any youngster getting the highest math score in the state on a special Scholastic Aptitude Test search for gifted students has a reason to feel he's No. 1.

Except Anthony Loeser, 12, of Concord.

His 720 in mathematics in the test given last January by Johns Hopkins University was the highest score in Massachusetts. It also placed him among the 255 students considered gifted out of the total of 15,000 junior high pupils taking the exam all over the country.

But Anthony has a 16-year-old sister, Jennifer, who is graduating next month from Concord-Carlisle High School, bound for Harvard University in the fall.

"She scored a perfect 800," Anthony said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "We don't talk about No. 1 around here. Besides, I'm younger. I'm not supposed to score higher now."

Anthony, an eighth-grader at the Sanborn Middle School, was 20 math points ahead of Jason Fuller, 12, of Braintree, a seventh-grader at the South Junior High. Jason also scored 800 in the verbal section of the exam, for a total of 1,280. Anthony scored 490 in the verbal test for 1,210.

They were the only Massachusetts pupils in the gifted math group, which Johns Hopkins sought to identify. The test is the SAT taken by high school juniors and seniors applying for higher education.

Both boys have advanced beyond their years in math. Anthony spends each morning taking a ninth-grade geometry and algebra class at Concord-Carlisle High School, then returns to the middle school for the rest of his program.

Jason and his parents, Marie and William Fuller, went to school authorities last December to explain that their son was bored doing seventh-grade math.

"There wasn't any challenge," he explained. Now he attends eighth-grade math. "That's Algebra I," Jason said.

Anthony said he got bored, too, and since sixth grade, he's been a year ahead in math.

"I liked math, especially in first grade because it was the one thing that teachers would allow you to go ahead with," he said. "I like ninth-grade math. I have a bad teacher, and you have to figure him out."

Anthony will get his initial taste of college life this summer when he spends three weeks at Franklin and Marshall College, in Lancaster, Pa., taking a high school-level biology course.

Although they have never met, Anthony and Jason also share an interest in computers.

Anthony's father, Rudolf, is a computer programmer at the Harvard Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, where his mother, Page, also once worked. He also is interested in astronomy and meteorology, as well as whales. "My sixth-grade teacher was crazy about whales," he said.

So far, Jason hasn't decided what he wants to be when he grows up.

But Anthony says: "I really think it wouldn't be good idea to skip and get much farther ahead in school. I just want to finish high school and college and get a good job."

Confiscated liquor given to vets

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — There's a bunch of happy veterans at the Chelsea Soldiers' Home, thanks to a gift from the Worcester Police Department.

The law requires that any liquor or weapons confiscated by police be turned over to the state Department of Public Safety, says Lt. John L. Hackett, commander of the police license board investigation unit. So when officers seized 362 cases of beer which they said were being transported illegally from New York City last month, Hackett contacted the department.

Got somethin' ya don't want? We'll take it! List with Herald Classified 263-7331

And at the department's suggestion, the 8,688 bottles and cans of booze were given to patients at the home for former soldiers, sailors and marines.

Malone-less defense keys Philly win

BIG MEN BATTLE THE BOARDS — Philadelphia 76er Moses Malone, left, fights for rebound possession with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers during the fourth quarter Thursday night in the Spectrum. Philly won game two of the NBA Championship series, 103-93.

Sixers down Lakers 103-93, lead 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A sticky defense that shut off the Los Angeles Lakers for most of the fourth quarter saved the Philadelphia 76ers when Moses Malone, who had saved them many times before, was not around to do the job.

The 76ers beat the Lakers 103-93 Thursday night, rolling to a 2-0 advantage in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

Philadelphia held the Lakers to 12 points in the first 11 minutes of the fourth quarter, breaking open a close game to take a 103-90 lead with 23 seconds left.

With Malone on the bench with five fouls, 7-foot-2 Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 10 of those 12 points and finished with a team-high 23.

"We knew they would go to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar more, because it definitely was a mismatch with me giving up five inches," said Earl Cureton, the 76ers' 6-9 reserve center who was called to fill in for Malone.

"But I've played him before, and I knew my best bet would be to try and get in front of him and deny him the ball."

"We tried to make them beat us from the outside," added Sixers guard Maurice Cheeks. "We got some steals, and good weakside help."

Malone led all scorers with 24 points and hauled down 12 rebounds. Cheeks and Andrew Toney added 19 points apiece for Philadelphia and Julius Erving and Bobby Jones had 14 each.

Jamaal Wilkes scored 17 points for the Lakers while Michael Cooper and Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 12 apiece.

The Lakers held a 55-51 lead at halftime after outbounding Philadelphia 26-17. In the first quarter, Los Angeles got seven rebounds on its own end while the 76ers got just one.

"They were in the right place at the right time," said Cheeks. "In the second half, we stopped them from getting the offensive rebounds, and we stopped their transition game."

BATTLE FOR THE NBA WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

"I'd practiced that shot a lot. I just felt comfortable taking it," he said.

"It was sort of ironic that when Moses got his fifth foul, they opened up the game," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said.

"It wasn't a matter of who we were going to in the fourth quarter. You have to give them credit for being aggressive."

"We're going home now," the Lakers coach added. "We have to regroup. And I'll guarantee you this: They won't take our title from us the way they did tonight."

Los Angeles, which beat Philadelphia in the finals in 1980 and last year, wants to become the first NBA team to repeat as champion in 14 years.

And the 76ers, who haven't won a championship since 1967, know the title is not theirs yet.

"I know we have to go out to Los Angeles like we're two games down," Cureton said. "We'll have to come out playing harder than we did before."

Court ruling halts Albeck's signing

AN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Stan Albeck cannot sign a contract with another team and the New Jersey Nets cannot negotiate with the San Antonio Spurs head coach until a state district judge reviews the matter next month.

Judge Fred Biery issued a temporary injunction Thursday against Meadowlands Basketball Associates, which owns the Nets, and Xtazee Inc., of which Albeck is president.

The judge scheduled a June 3 hearing to decide if he should make the injunction banning Albeck from signing with another team and the Nets from negotiating with Albeck a permanent order.

The San Antonio Express reported Thursday that Albeck was to sign a contract this week with the New Jersey team. But a Nets spokesman said Albeck has not been offered the job.

"The immediate loss of Albeck's services could have a disastrous effect upon the Spurs' position in the upcoming National Basketball Association draft and negotiations with free agents," said the petition filed by Spurs attorney Larry Macon of San Antonio.

"The Spurs have reason to believe that if Meadowlands is not immediately restrained, it will continue to induce Albeck and Xtazee to breach their contract with the Spurs."

The Express said Albeck already has negotiated a salary of $250,000 a year with the New Jersey club.

But Lewis Schaffel, Nets executive vice-president and chief operating officer, Lewis Schaffel, said Thursday that he has not held any discussions with Albeck.

Team president Angelo Drossos said that Albeck, who has led the Spurs to three straight NBA Midwest Division titles, does not have a written contract with the Spurs.

"Stan Albeck is still the coach here," Drossos said, "and until he tells me otherwise, I'm going to take everything I hear with a dose of salt."

The San Antonio Light quoted the coach's wife, Phyllis, as saying that Albeck has coached his last Spurs game.

Want '84 Olympic tickets? Good luck

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Ticket applications for the 1984 Summer Olympic Games will be available next month, a Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee official says.

Harry Usher, executive vice president and general manager of the LAOOC, said Thursday the committee's mail-order procedure for tickets will begin in mid-June, that brochures with the applications will be available at that time through a national distributor whose name has not yet been made public.

The actual distribution of the tickets will not be made until about June of 1984, Usher said.

A lottery will determine who will be able to buy tickets for the most popular events in the July 28-Aug. 12 Games. More than seven million tickets will be distributed.

Foreign distributions will be handled through national Olympic committees in the various nations.

Usher also said the LAOOC is seeking to stop those who are illegally using Olympic symbols and claiming they already have tickets available.

He said suits have been settled against firms attempting to use official Olympic symbols without authorization. One of these was against Murray's, a ticket and travel broker. "Their brochure used the 'Star in Motion' and five rings symbols indicating they were affiliated with us," Usher said. "They claimed to have Olympic tickets, which have not yet been issued to anyone."

A spokesman for Murray's claimed it was a misunderstanding and the matter was settled out of court. The firm still holds it will have tickets for resale to the public, a claim also made by other brokers.

"We do not guarantee we can obtain tickets to Olympic events, but we feel that our clients have a much better chance of obtaining choice, hard-to-get Olympic tickets in dealing with us rather than in attempting to obtain tickets through the LAOOC ticketing procedures," said Jerry Adelman.

Ticket scalping — selling tickets above their face value — is legal in California.

"Our concern," Usher said, "is that tickets we sell get in the hands of the public in the fairest method that ever has been devised. It has drawn the opposition of special groups, naturally."

Top seed Connors wins

PARIS (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors of the United States beat Chile's Hans Gildemeister 6-3, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1 today and reached the round of 16 in the French Open Tennis Championships — the most elusive Grand Slam event for Americans.

No American man has won this event since Tony Trabert in 1955.

Connors faltered in the third set, but otherwise was in command. In the fourth set, he won 15 points in a row after the score was 1-1.

for the last six weeks. I don't complain about that. It's my fault — I'm too lazy to come over earlier."

John McEnroe of the United States, the No. 2 seed, was not scheduled to play today. Nor was defending champion Mats Wilander of Sweden.

American Andrea Jaeger, the third-seeded woman's player, defeated Beverly Mould of South Africa 6-0, 3-6, 6-2 and advanced to the round of 16.

The tempestuous McEnroe, whose temper tantrums have been very noticeable during the tournament, is facing additional fines and the continued wrath of Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia.

McEnroe moved into the third round Thursday with a 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 victory over Alberto Tous of Spain Thursday.

During the match, McEnroe unsuccessfully sought to have the umpire replaced, repeatedly argued over line calls, and at one point, screamed obscenities at the spectators when they whistled and booed him.

On Tuesday, McEnroe was fined $350 for "abusive use of balls" during his first-round match, during which he also shouted obscenities at a French linesman and kicked a photographer's camera.

Tennis officials said Thursday they would review a video cassette of McEnroe's first-round match to determine whether he also should be fined for obscenities.

French Open

"In the third set I lost my concentration a bit from 3-all," Connors said. "He hit some very good shots at that time, but I should have worked harder."

The Americans annually have been stymied by the slow red clay courts of Roland Garros stadium.

"You must remember the Europeans have a lot of experience on this kind of surface," Connors said.

"In the United States we are used to faster courts and faster balls. We have a heavy schedule of tournaments and exhibition matches, and it's difficult to get over here in time for tuning up on European clay.

"Some of the European players have been going around the clay court circuit

Crenshaw, Wadkins tied at Memorial

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Lanny Wadkins always knew he could play Muirfield Village Golf Club.

He proved it again Thursday, grabbing a share of the first-round lead in the Memorial Tournament.

However, Ben Crenshaw, matching Wadkins' 5-under-par 67, is just discovering the right way to master Jack Nicklaus' 7,116-yard layout.

"I love playing courses in good condition. It goes with my game. With good fairways and the greens holding, I can do what I want with the ball," said Wadkins, this year's leading money-winner bidding for his third 1983 title.

Wadkins has finished in the Memorial's top 10 three of the past four years. Twelve of his 21 rounds have matched or broken par on this course of swift, undulating greens.

"I have a history of putting well on faster greens. That's why I've done well here," said Wadkins, the winner of $251,000 this year.

Crenshaw and Wadkins both posted their best performances over Muirfield Village in the cool, sunny weather. However, it was only the fifth time in 25 rounds that Crenshaw had been under par here.

"I've hit too many bad shots," said Crenshaw, reflecting on the fact he's been no higher than 18th in seven Memorial at-homes.

Memorial Golf

tempts, missing the cut twice. "I wouldn't think my way around this course properly. You can't get upset with bogey or double bogey here. It's going to happen to everyone."

Thursday may have typified Crenshaw's 1983 comeback from last year's slump when he failed to win a tournament and earned only $54,000. Already he's earned $207,000 and won once this year.

"Jackie Burke told me he didn't have to turn the newspaper upside down to follow me anymore," Crenshaw said. "Life seems rosey again. I've been up and down my whole career. I'm not as consistent as other players."

Two shots off the first-round lead, each at 69, were Andy Bean, holing two chip shots from 40 and 54 feet for birdies, Gary Koch and Canadian Jim Nelford. Among the challengers at 70 were Tom Weiskopf, Gary Hallberg, Lu Liang Huan of Taiwan and Peter Jacobsen, second to champion Ray Floyd here last year.

In a logjam at 71 were Johnny Miller, off three weeks with a leg injury, and two-time U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin. Calvin Peete, last week's winner at Atlanta, and Floyd matched par of 72. Tom Watson and Arnold Palmer shot 73, Tom Kite 74 and Lee Trevino and Gary Player 75.

Nicklaus, the founder of this $400,000 tournament, struggled to a 76, nine shots off the lead. But he insisted: "By no means am I out of it. I just have my bad round behind me."

Honeycutt snaps 4-game Texas streak

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Doug Rader was full of quips Thursday night after his Texas Rangers had broken a four-game losing streak with a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"If his face holds up he's going to have a heckuva year," said Rader of outfielder Larry Parrish, who rapped out three hits, drove in the first run, scored what proved to be the winning run and crashed into the right field wall making a tremendous catch.

Of Rick Honeycutt's two-hitter in eight innings, Rader said: "He struggled the whole game, his location was less than perfect and frankly I don't know how he did it."

Honeycutt, 6-3, gave up a leadoff single to Rudy Law in the first inning and then didn't allow another hit until Marc Hill hit his first homer with one out in the eighth.

One of the best shots, hit by rookie Ron Kittle, sent Parrish crashing into the right field wall head first to make the catch.

Parrish singled to drive in Billy Sample with what proved to be the game-winning run in the third inning. He also singled and scored the first of two more Texas runs in the eighth inning and added another single in the ninth.

The loss went to Floyd Bannister, 2-6, who pitched well until he ran into trouble in the eighth, when Parrish, Pete O'Brien and George Wright all singled for one run and relief pitcher Dick Tidrow walked Bucky Dent with the bases loaded to force in another.

The White Sox now have had a total of five hits in their last two games and broke a string of 21 scoreless innings when Hill hit his homer.

American League

Red Sox 7, Blue Jays 2

About the only honor that has eluded Carl Yastrzemski in his 23-year major league career is a world championship. And in his last hurrah, the 43-year-old slugger is finally making his presence felt.

Playing in just his 19th game of what he said will be his final campaign, Yastrzemski hit his first home run of the season and 443rd of his career Thursday night and Dwight

Evans and Jim Rice also homered, powering Boston to a 7-2 victory over Toronto. It gave the Red Sox a one-game lead over the Blue Jays in the American League East.

With a .258 batting average entering the game, only three previous runs batted and a nagging back problem, Yastrzemski's final season seemed destined to be one to forget. But his two-run homer in the second inning gave the Red Sox a 3-0 lead against Toronto ace Dave Stieb and the old warhorse also singled for a 2-for-2 night.

Stieb, 8-3, who had allowed only three runs while winning his last five starts and hadn't surrendered a home run in 80 2-3 innings, lasted only three innings and gave up five runs on five hits.

Royals 8, Orioles 2

At Kansas City, Frank White's three-run homer capped a four-run third inning as the Royals extended the Orioles' skid to the longest of the season in the AL. Kansas City's Steve Renko survived a rocky start and scattered six hits through seven innings. Mike Armstrong pitched the final two.

Fast start leads Cards by Astros, 5-3

HOUSTON (AP) — It took St. Louis Cardinals reliever David Von Ohlen seven years, but the 24-year-old left-hander has a game ball for his trophy shelf.

Von Ohlen's momentous celebrates his first major league decision, a 5-3 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

He toiled seven years in the minor leagues before being called up from the Cardinals' Louisville farm club on May 12.

It was Von Ohlen's fourth appearance of the season. Von Ohlen pitched 5 1/3 innings after relieving starter Bob Forsch. He held the Astros scoreless and gave up only one hit before being lifted in favor of Bruce Sutter with two out in the eighth. Sutter picked up his fourth save of the season.

The Cardinals took that lead in the first inning after Astros starter Mike LaCoss, 3-4, suffered the loss, going six innings. LaCoss gave up four runs, all in the first inning. He settled down to retire the last 12 batters he faced before leaving the game for pinch hitter Tony Scott.

George Hendrick was the offensive hero for St. Louis. He drove in three runs with a first-inning double.

Forsch stayed ahead despite pitching badly. He gave up two runs, walked four and allowed five hits in 2 1/3 innings. Herzog lifted him after Astros first baseman Ray Knight doubled in two runs.

The Cardinals took that lead in the first inning after

"It really pumps me up," says the San Francisco pitcher of the Giants' rivalry with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jeff Leonard slugged two home runs and Jack Clark added a solo shot to power the Giants to their sixth straight victory in Los Angeles.

Pirates 6, Reds 4
 Mike Easler drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and two-run homer to lead Pittsburgh over Cincinnati.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 28, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening to concentrate upon whatever is of practical importance in your activities and to make plans to improve the quality of your life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Obtain the advice you need from business experts that will help you get ahead in the future. Avoid one who gossips.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Figure out what you most need that is personal in nature and go after it in a positive manner. Improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study personal business conditions and make plans for improvement. Handle routine tasks in an efficient manner.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put those ideas to work that will ingratiate you more into the good graces of new contacts of worth.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Become more involved in civic affairs and gain added prestige. Be sure to keep promises you have made to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Confer with allies who can help you advance in career activities. A special talent you have needs expression at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your responsibilities well and know how best to discharge them. An excellent evening to be with the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find out what a partner has in mind and join forces for greater success in the future. Spend your money wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Look over your environment and make plans for improvement. Be more willing to cooperate with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put those creative ideas to work early in the day and get excellent results. Engage in favorite hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan new ways to make your home more charming and comfortable. Discuss personal plans with trusted friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get together with those you want to be associated with the future and come to a meeting of minds with them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one with both feet on the ground and will have an interest in anything that is of a practical and workable nature, so direct the education in business management for best results in lifetime.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Church reorganizes education position for Sharon Andrews

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor
When First Christian Church opened a position for Christian Education director in February, Sharon Andrews was asked to apply for the job. She already held a part-time job as the church's music director.

Why did she take the job? "Because I love the Lord, and I dedicated my life to him. And this was an opportunity to serve him," Miss Andrews said. "Also, I believe in the importance of christian education for young people."

Miss Andrews is a resource person for all involved in christian education at the church. She advises, encourages, and assists all christian education programs.

Prior to taking the position, a committee was responsible for the program.

Miss Andrews, Victor Sedinger, the church's pastor, and the board are redefining the position's responsibilities. Miss Andrews answers to the minister and the board for her actions in the program.

One of her responsibilities is to encourage all the church members to be active by using their talents and skills to help others. Another responsibility is "to meet the needs of the church family by offering seminars and workshops to assist them with their problems and frustrations, and to help them grow in their Chris...tian lives."

Another responsibility, she said, is "helping people become the best person they want to be in their own spiritual life, in their work, in raising a family, and in helping a friend."

"I continue to grow with them (church members)," she said. "We never stop growing. I continue to grow and learn."

She also helps youth sponsors plan activities. Two activities plan for the summer are the Regional Youth Conference for Christian Youth Fellowship (CYF) at TCU, July 26-29, and CYF and Chi Rho will meet the first three Sundays in June for presentations in self-awareness, goal setting, and relationships. Johnny Lou Avery will lead the sessions. Miss Andrews also helped the sponsors plan the summer camps.

"I like working with people. I like helping make things happen in a positive direction," Miss Andrews said.

One of her goals for the program is to use what we learn on Sunday in everyday situations, Miss Andrews said.

The underlying goal of the program is to use what we learn on Sunday in everyday situations, Miss Andrews said.

While in school, Miss Andrews said, "I was very busy...always doing something or thinking of something to do."

"The First Christian Church Education program stresses studying the Bible and applying what you learn to your life," she said.

"This is a warm and accepting church. It's not large in numbers compare to some other churches, but it not because our doors are closed. Our (the church) doors are always open," she said.

While in school Miss Andrews spent her time on studying, sports, and civic and community activities. She attended Howard College for two years. At Howard College, she says, she developed her leadership skills, due to her participation in extracurricular activities.

the Christian Tennis She is Mother Adviser of League, Easter Seal Society and the Eastern Stars. She directs the church's choir.

Conference planned for Lubbock

The 1983 Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church will open May 31, in Lubbock's First United Methodist Church.

Two pre-conference events will be held May 30 at 6:30 p.m. in the St. Luke's United Methodist Church at 3717 44th St. in Lubbock. There will be a Fellowship Dinner sponsored by the Northwest Texas Good News Renewal Group with the Open Forum on Conference Issues immediately following.

Bishop Louis Schowengerdt of Northwest Texas conference will welcome Dr. James Heidinger, featured guest speaker.

Dr. Heidinger, an ordained United Methodist elder, began his professional association with the Methodist Church in Ohio in 1967. He earned his Doctor of Ministry degree from Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, D.C. Dr. Heidinger has been executive secretary and editor of the periodical, "Good News", in Wilmore, Ky. since 1981.

Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling (806) 637-6902 by today. The cost is $6 per person to pay for the meal and arrangements. The Open Forum is free.

"The Priority" of Lamesa will present the music. Vocalists are Layne Heald, Candy Smith, Sherry Gordon and Gary Barron accompany by Jackie Stogner at the piano. Rick Smith will direct the group.

The Open Forum On Conference Issues will convene in the sanctuary after the dinner. It is not connected with the Northwest Texas Good News Renewal Group.

The Open Forum is designed to give everyone the opportunity to receive information about the issues that will come before the Church Annual Conference. Everyone is given a chance to speak or listen to the debate before the official decision-making process begins Tuesday.

Topics to be discussed at the Open Forum are The Responsibilities of Lay and Clergy Delegates, Understanding the Voting Process in Delegate Elections for the 1984 General Conference, and Major Issues before the 1984 General Conference.

Ladies honored at tea

The Fifteenth Annual Friendship Tea, sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union of Salem Baptist Church, was held at Salem Baptist Church, May 12. The event is sponsored each May to honor elderly women of the community. Several ladies past 80 years of age were present. Mrs. Stella Walker, who will be 90 in June, was the oldest lady present.

Mrs. Jerrod Walker, WMU director, was in charge of the program. Guests were welcomed and introduced by Mrs. J. L. Baugh. Mrs. Stella Walker gave the devotional. Mrs. Ronnie Wood was in charge of the music. Chairman of the food and decoration committee was Mrs. Marty Brooks.

The refreshment table with a lace cloth with pink underlay held a centerpiece of pink and burgundy silk flowers accented with pink candles.

Students honored

Four outstanding Big Spring High School Bible students of the year were named at a recent meeting of the Bible Club.

Tammy Williams and Kevin Watson received the first semester awards. Stacey Smith and Troy Smith won the second semester awards. Robert Villalba and Rudy Eagleston were presented honorable mention awards.

The club's membership for this year was 40 students. Members took a two day trip to Six Flags. The students earned money for the trip by selling 8,000 candy bars. A swimming party and cook-out, tomorrow, will end the year's activities.

Church plans evening

The first "Spring City Super Summer Sunday Evening", sponsored by the First Church of Nazarene, will be at 6:30 p.m., May 29.

The musical extravaganza with solos, duets, trios, quartets and mixed groups will feature instrumental numbers and readings. The audience will participate in a sing-along directed by Jerry McGuire, music director. A fellowship and refreshments will follow in the church's fellowship hall.

The Super Sunday Evening on June 19 will feature Wade Burroughs in a special mini-concert. Two more Super Sunday Evenings are planned for July and August.

Church has program

The chancel choir of the First Christian Church presents "Jesus Last Promise", a musical adaptation of the promise of the Holy Spirit, May 29, at 10:50 a.m. at the First Christian Church, located at 10th and Goliad.

The narration for the service was compiled by the Rev. Victor Sedinger, pastor. Sharon Andrews, director of music, arranged the musical score.
