Cisco III, Dana Hiltbrunner, Mary Slaughter, Terry Dobson, Buffalo D. Brahma, David Justice, J.R. Stetsen, and Blaz Bailon. Jesse Rodriguez. The play is slated June 25 at the rodeo grounds.

Specially written play highlights rodeo fete

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

When Steve Baldwin, a history and drama instructor at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, was asked to write a western melodrama for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, he decided to get background for the play from a rodeo authority — charter rodeo board member Charlie Creighton.

The melodrama, "How to Break an Evil Bronco," will be staged in a tent on the Big Spring rodeo grounds June 25. The play, only one of several events to be presented during the rodeo's fiftieth anniversary celebration, will be presented several times during the day at no cost to spectators.

Baldwin, a native of Boston, Mass., said he interviewed Creighton prior to writing the western melodrama because "I was a history major in school and I'm a historian. I have a respect for local heritage." He said he blended historical facts with artistic license "without losing any of the family entertainment elements."

Members of the cast staged the play while Baldwin's two children watched and "that fact that they were attentive is indicative that the play is suitable for family entertainment," Baldwin said.

Baldwin had never talked with

STEVE BALDWIN
...writes rodeo play

Creighton before interviewing him for the melodrama, but "He met my expectations, and gave me enough ideas to begin with. And I wanted to feel him out about some ideas I had for the melodrama — just to be sure a bonafide cowboy would not be disappointed."

Baldwin also drew upon the experiences of SWCID staff member John Robertson who "is one of the few deaf cowboys in the country. I invited him to read the script and to provide input. He gave me the necessary background to build the play around."

After Baldwin interviewed Creighton and Robertson, he wrote the first draft of the rodeo play "in one weekend. In less than a week, I completed the final draft. It was a fun script to do because of some of the characters. The ending is a surprise, even to me," he said.

Basically, the play involves a rodeo cowboy named Charlie Cisco, who is competing in the Big Spring rodeo to get enough money to save the ranch of Mary Slaughter. Lending Cisco support with more than 50 years of rodeo background is the character of Buffalo D. Brahma, a 75-year-old cowpoke with a heart of gold. The always present melodrama villain is a character called J.R. Stetsen, a rich land baron hungry for Miss Slaughter's land. And Stetsen's henchman is a character called Jesse Rodriguez, another old-time cowboy with doubts about his boss's character.

Taking the role of Cisco is Greg Smith, who is also directing the melodrama. Mary Slaughter is played by Dana Hiltbrunner. Buffalo D. Brahma is played by Terry Dobson. J.R. Stetsen is David Justice, and Jesse Rodriguez is Blaz Bailon.

Smith said he hopes to invite real cowboys, such as Cowboy Hall of Famer Toots Mansfield, to take cameo roles in the melodrama.

Cattle quarantine halted by judge

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge at least temporarily halted a quarantine he said could cause immediate and irreparable damage to the Texas cattle industry by prohibiting the interstate shipment of breeder cattle.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture had scheduled the quarantine to begin at midnight Tuesday.

However, U.S. District Judge James Nowlin issued a temporary restraining order after a two-hour hearing Tuesday that stopped the quarantine at least until he can have a hearing on either June 13, or June 27.

"At the hearing I plan to take extensive testimony," the judge said.

The order for a temporary restraining order was requested in suits filed against the USDA by Frates Seeligson, president of the Texas and Southwest Cattlemen's Association, and Robert Mason, Harris County cattleman. Attorney General Jim Mattox joined in the request.

"Texas has a brucellosis program now that meets the federal standards," said Austin attorney Charles Herring, arguing for Seeligson. "The program has been in effect four years and nothing has happened recently to call for an emergency quarantine."

Herring said Seeligson had several herds of cattle that needed to be moved to New Mexico where grass was available but would not be able to do so if the quarantine was in effect.

Attorney Jerry Hammett said Mason had a sale of purebred Angus cattle scheduled in Burnet County Wednesday and could lose up to $800,000.

Dave Richards, first assistant attorney general, said brucellosis regulations were being enforced in Texas according to 1982 rules that had been approved by the federal government.

He said Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas have higher rates of the cattle disease but are not quarantined.

Robert Duffey, assistant U.S. District Attorney, San Antonio, argued the quarantine was needed principally because one Texas rancher, R.J. Nunnally, Uvalde, got a permanent injunction in 1979 that keeps the Texas Animal Health Commission from inspecting his herd for brucellosis, on grounds the program was unconstitutional.

"This order prohibits state inspectors from even going on his property," Duffey said, "and Nunnally ships cattle throughout the state although he is free of regulation."

Nowlin asked why the USDA had not decided on the quarantine earlier since it was issued in 1979. The USDA announced its quarantine on May 24.

Duffey said the USDA first considered the quarantine after defeat of a bill in the recent Legislature to place new new brucellosis controls on Texas "which could be applied to Mr. Nunnally."

DESTROYED HOME — Only part of the chimney remains of a Farmington, Utah home that was hit by a massive mudslide Tuesday. Several homes have been destroyed in the community 15 miles north of Salt Lake City and the slide continued to flow.

Cool weather, cloudy skies continue in West Texas area

From staff and wire reports

Unseasonably cool temperatures and overcast skies greeted Big Spring residents for the second straight day as scattered showers and thunderstorms dotted the Panhandle and South Plains.

A band of thunderstorms formed eight miles north of Big Spring early this morning and moved east, leaving a smattering of rain on Howard County totaling five-tenths of an inch, according to the U.S. Agricultural Research Service. The sprinkle brought rainfall this year to 3.91 inches, about half of this area's normal amount.

Pre-dawn readings for the first day of June in Howard County dipped to yesterday's low of 47 again and into the 40s and 50s over the northern half of the state, while temperatures in the 60s and 70s prevailed over the southern half. The high temperature in Howard County yesterday was 55.

Clouds covered the state, except in Northeast Texas, where partly cloudy skies were noted.

Winds were generally from the north at less than 10 mph in North and Central Texas, while easterly and southeasterly winds prevailed in West and South Texas.

The forecast called for showers and clouds to diminish through tonight. Warmer temperatures were expected tonight and Thursday.

Although temperatures were unseasonably cool in Texas, warmer temperatures were causing havoc in other parts of the nation.

A wall of mud and water crashed through sandbagged banks along a suburban creek near Salt Lake City, forcing hundreds of people to stay in shelters today after another bout of flooding in Utah, authorities said.

Damage from the overflowing Stone Creek in Bountiful, a suburb just north of Salt Lake City, still was being assessed today. But no serious injuries were reported from the flooding late Tuesday, except for a man who suffered a broken leg.

Dave Florence, local American Red Cross disaster director, said he knew of 600 people who were in shelters, although some were being told they could return home today.

The mud continued spreading today, but there were no plans to increase the evacuation area from 30 blocks, Bountiful police said.

Meanwhile, about 400 residents of Farmington, 15 miles north of Salt Lake City, were staying with friends and relatives as officials kept watch on a massive mudslide that smashed a dozen homes and damaged 30 others Monday and Tuesday.

Two hundred people were evacuated Tuesday from a trailer court along Big Cottonwood Creek in Salt Lake City.

TTY bill dies in last-minute jam

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A proposal for the state to buy special teletype phone devices for the deaf and speech impaired died in the last-minute log-jam of legislative proposals competing for consideration.

Sponsored by Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, the bill sustained a major delay in a House committee when chairwoman Mary Polk, D-El Paso, requested an attorney general's opinion on the proposal's constitutionality.

As originally drafted, the bill called for the devices to be paid for by a surcharge on monthly telephone bills statewide.

"The committee chair gave me a problem. She was against it. She was the main stumbling block for the whole thing," Cavazos said.

Cavazos, a freshman, earlier opposed a bill she favored, although he was warned not to vote against the chairwoman. "I vote against anybody I want to,"

he said.

After almost a three-week wait for the opinion, the bill was rewritten by a House subcommittee to meet several objections made by the attorney general's office. The changes included instituting a "user fee" for the people receiving the special devices, which would still be owned by the state.

Another modification made by the subcommittee was to reduce the maximum proposed surcharge from 25 cents to 10 cents per monthly statement. Cavazos has said he expected the surcharge to be no more than 5 cents a month, which would have produced about $6 million annually or enough money to buy some 10,000 machines.

The devices, which cost a minimum of $600 each, are teletype-like machines that can be hooked to telephones.

Action/reaction: Fair question

Q. When is the deadline for entries in the Howard County Fair Women's Division.

A. Entries will be accepted at the women's building Sept. 19 from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and no later. Fair officials are encouraging persons to get their entries prepared as soon as possible.

Calendar: Blood drive

- The Big Spring State Hospital will hold a blood drive from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the hospital's central supply.
- The Spring City Dance Club will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at 703 W. Third. Jim King and his Starlight Cowboys will play. All guests are welcome.

Tops on TV: Brahms and Buffalo

At 8:30 p.m. on channel 13 is the premiere of "Buffalo Bill" starring Dabney Coleman. Buffalo, N.Y. talk-show host Bill Bittinger, creates hilarious situations on the airwaves with his biting, sardonic wit as he struggles to attain top ratings and further his career. At 9 p.m. on channel 5 the Los Angeles Philharmonic performs Johannes Brahms' Symphony No. 1 from the Music Center in Los Angeles.

2 new channels begin on cable

Two new cable television channels will be broadcast beginning today as Mickey Mouse and that good ol' country music comes to Big Spring.

Big Spring Cable TV now has the Disney Channel as the newest premium service, according to manager Jim Lancaster. The Nashville Network will be offered at no additional charge to premium subscribers, Lancaster said.

The Disney Channel is a 16-hour service with family entertainment from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Programs will be backed by 50 years of Disney entertainment and will feature numerous old and new creative concepts.

The Disney service will be an additional $10.30 a month. All three premium services (Showtime, the Movie Channel and Disney Channel) can be purchased at a discount price of $27.80 a month which will include a remote control device.

The Nashville Network is an 18-hour per day service featuring country and western styled entertainment from music to game shows to situation comedies. Air time is 8 a.m. to 2 a.m.

Subscribers who have not yet exchanged their older converters should do so if they wish to receive any of the new services, Lancaster said. Bring the old device — with key — to exchange at the cable office for a one-time $10 fee, he said.

In addition to any of the three premium channels, subscribers receive MTV, a 24-hour rock music channel; Nickelodeon, a children's network; and the Nashville Channel.

Questions on cable service should be directed to Lancaster at 263-6302.

Rev. Bernard Gulley transferred to Sonora

Father Bernard Gulley of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church has been transferred to Saint Ann Catholic Church in Sonora, Texas.

Gulley, who has been in Big Spring for six years, said his assignment was made official today.

Gulley's position will be filled by Father Robert Bush from Saint Joseph's Church in Stanton.

"It came as a surprise," Gulley said of the transfer. "I had expected to be here a little longer, but it was about time to leave."

The Catholic priest said he was saddened to be leaving his parish and the people here. However, Gulley said he was looking forward to the new challenges in Sonora.

"I'll miss the friendliness of Big Spring here, the other pastors and ministers," Gulley said. "I was surprised six years ago at the friendliness here."

Gulley pointed to two accomplishments during his stay in Big Spring: serving as an "instrument of unity" for the church and seeing the growth of the Catholic school.

"It (the school) has become more stable, academically and religiously," Gulley said.

According to the Chancery Office of the Catholic Diocese in San Angelo, an official assignment has not been made to replace Bush at Stanton.

The new assignments become effective July 1, according to Gulley. However, he plans to leave within three weeks to vacation, he said.

The organizers of the 50th anniversary of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo are cooking up a special blend of events this year, and included is a contest featuring 100 cooks in a barbecue cook-off.

Under the direction of Police Chief Rick Turner, the contest will begin at noon Friday, June 24 on the rodeo grounds and judging will take place at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, June 25.

Turner said 1,000 invitations have been mailed out for the contest and entrants are limited to the first 100 persons responding.

Contestants must cook a minimum of 10 pounds of barbecue which may consist of beef, chicken, pork or lamb. The entrants will be cooking over wood fires exclusively without the help of pre-cooked,

CHEF OR CHIEF? — Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner is warming up his culinary skills for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Barbecue Contest set for June 24 and 25. Turner is coordinating the event which will feature 100 cooks, as well as an arts and crafts fair and a fiddlers contest.

The public will be allowed to view the methods of various cooks throughout Friday and Saturday. General admission to the cook-off is $2 per person with children under 12 getting in free.

As an added attraction the cook-off will feature an arts and crafts fair and an old-timers' fiddling contest.

"We're trying to make this into something special for the 50th anniversary of the rodeo," Turner said. "If it's a success it might become an annual event. Applications are available from Turner at P.O. Box 391, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Applications must be received no later than 5 p.m. June 22, 1983.

showers and thundershowers moved through northern Utah, but cooling temperatures were expected to reduce stream flows by as much as 30 percent.

The flow out of Mountain Dell Reservoir east of Salt Lake City was reported less than the flow coming in for the first time in days.

In neighboring Nevada, officials said three people originally believed missing after a 15-foot-wall of mud and water cascaded Monday down Slide Mountain near Carson City had been found unhurt. The slide killed one man, injured six other people, destroyed four homes, damaged four more and buried 12 to 15 cars and trucks.

The mountain runoff pouring through streams in Salt Lake City was being controlled by sandbag canals on three major streets, disrupting traffic. Police Chief Bud Willoughby urged employers to stagger working hours

County, but no flooding was imminent and many had moved back, said Terry Baker, county flood operations coordinator.

Gov. Scott Matheson on Tuesday declared four more counties disaster areas — Salt Lake, Willard, Weber and Davis — in the wake of record flooding and mudslides that have forced the evacuation of thousands.

Appearing this morning on the NBC "Today" show, Matheson said that although it was too early to attach a dollar value to flood and mudslide damage across the state, the scale of the devastation was unprecedented.

"It's the worst we've ever had... a total disaster," Matheson said. "It looks as though we'll experience another two to three weeks (of flooding) before it's over."

A flash flood watch was in effect early today as

Police scooters cited for saving gas costs

The city saves 14 cents per mile by using two-wheeled scooters instead of cars to transport gas and water meter readers, according to a report by City Administrative Assistant Bill Hall.

A year ago today the city switched from driving a 1977 Ford LTD to three two-wheeled motor scooters to read meters, Hall said.

A three-wheeler purchased at the same time was not included in the report because it hasn't been used for the same period. City Manager Don Davis said yesterday that the three-wheeler probably will be replaced because employees prefer the two-wheeled scooter.

Data that reflect "a substantial savings" were compiled over seven months since the riders were trained and licensed, Hall said.

Hall said the city spent $126.18 for gas and oil and $402.04 for parts and labor on the three two-wheeled scooters in the past seven months. Over 7,236 miles have been driven for an average of seven cents per mile.

Hall said the expense was higher than it will be in the future because the scooters have had a large number of flat tires while traveling through alleys to read meters. Employees plan to use a tire sealant to prevent minor flats.

Hall estimates that the Ford car had cost the city 14 cents more per mile to operate than the three scooters do.

Police Beat

Three victims report assaults

Three persons reported to police that they were assaulted last night or this morning.

• A 66-year-old man was treated and released from the Malone-Hogan Hospital emergency room last night for injuries he said he received in an assault.

The victim told police that someone hit him with an undetermined object at 11:30 p.m. yesterday at the Palmer House Hotel on the 200 block of East Second. He said he doesn't know who or how many persons were involved in the attack.

The victim was treated for a gash on the head and cuts and scrapes on his left arm, police reports said.

• A 20-year-old woman told police a black male she knows entered her apartment at 2:40 a.m. today, struck her several times and then threatened her with a steak knife.

• A 30-year-old woman told police that, during an argument at 3 a.m. today with a black male she lives with, the man grabbed her, shoved her backwards and then hit her with his fists.

• A.L. Honey of 801 W. 17th told police someone stole $400 worth of equipment from his backyard during May. Stolen were a motor boat prop, a battery charger, a fertilizer spreader and a saber saw.

Sheriff's Log

3 receive sentences

Three persons received prison sentences in 118th District Court yesterday and seven persons were transferred from Howard County jail to the Texas Department of Corrections today.

• Jerry Dee Caudron, 34, no given address, received a 15-year sentence after pleading guilty to robbery. Michael J. Fox, 23, of 904 Abrams was assessed a six-year sentence after a revocation of probation hearing. Micheal Lee Huff, 19, of 1507 A Wood received a three-year prison term after his probation was revoked in 118th District Court.

• Joining the three in transfer to TDC were four county jail inmates who had already received prison terms.

They are David Lee Ayers, 28, of San Angelo, 15 and 10 years to run concurrently, burglary of habitation and revocation of probation on burglary conviction; Manuel Cera (Gonzalez), 45, of Hereford, 10 years, theft by appropriation; Ernest Saiz Jr., 21, 802 San Antonio, four years, revocation on burglary conviction and Thelman L. Cummings, 41, N.W. Fourth, parole violation.

• Alexis L. Shillinger, 30, no stated address, was released from county jail after robbery charges were dismissed against her by the district attorney's office. Ms. Shillinger had been jailed under $50,000 bond since her arrest in Austin on April 27 in connection with a Howard County robbery. She was indicted by the county grand jury May 12 for robbery.

Gay controversy tops discussions at Methodist meet

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Several major issues, including a nuclear arms freeze resolution, faced delegates to the annual meeting of the United Methodist Church's Southwest Texas Conference.

The issues were scheduled for discussion Tuesday, but were shoved back by a continuing, bitter controversy over the role of homosexuals in the church.

ON MONDAY, DELEGATES to the conference confronted the homosexual issue by passing an emergency ruling affirming the church's position that homosexuals were not to be considered as candidates for the ministry.

The debate started anew on Tuesday after the McAllen District delegation offered a petition calling for "fidelity in marriage and celibacy in singleness" by ordained ministers.

Then Jimmy Walker, a lay delegate from Seguin, offered an amendment that he said would make the same requirement of the Methodist laity.

The amendment won overwhelming approval. Then, questions and challenges from the floor soon ended the conference in confusion.

SOME WERE CONCERNED about the definition of "celibacy," saying complete dedication to abstinence of sex would disallow marriage.

The original petition said, "by celibacy is meant abstinence from sexual intercourse and its homosexual equivalent."

Then a delegate wanted an explanation of "the homosexual equivalency of sexual intercourse."

Finally, Bishop Ernest T. Dixon called for a vote, but the amended petition barely passed, 324 to 316.

Asked if the petition was intended to prevent homosexuals from holding official church posts, McAllen District Superintendent, the Rev. John W. Platt, said, "That will be the end result, but the main purpose was to clarify what we understand the Christian lifestyle to be. There has been confusion and unrest in the church arising out of the election of an avowed homosexual last year to the Church and Society Board."

That was a reference to Troy Stokes of Austin. He was not renominated to the board this year.

The petition, Platt said, would be sent to the worldwide general conference to let "them know what the people from the grass roots have to say."

The Rev. Paul Spellman of Kingsville saw the negative vote as a backlash against tying up the conference with what he called, "this paranoia about homosexuality."

Spellman added, "We've got a lot of other things we need to accomplish at this conference."

BUT, FORMER MINISTER Gene Leggett, removed from the ministry in 1971 after announcing his homosexuality, said that since the conference opened Sunday night, everything has revolved around the issue of sexual lifestyle, something, he said, "is not basic to belief in Jesus Christ."

"At least they offered heterosexuals two alternatives, marriage or celibacy, but they only offered us one," he said, referring to the petition.

Old chums to gather at Cannibal Draw No. 6

It's almost time for the sixth annual Cannibal Draw. No, it's not a pagan ritual, but rather a gathering of Big Spring's old-timers who were raised on the east side of the city in an area nicknamed "Cannibal Draw."

The reunion is the brainchild of H.M. Underwood who conceived the idea of uniting those who had lived in and around Cannibal Draw 50 years ago.

Throughout its five-year run the reunion has drawn almost 100 old-timers.

Persons eligible to attend are those who lived in the section of town roughly in the areas of Austin and East Fifth streets about 50 or more years ago.

The date for the gathering this year is Saturday, June 18 at 7 p.m. at the Brandin' Iron Restaurant. As in the past, the event is for men only. No wives are allowed. The dinner will be a Dutch-treat affair.

The reunion will have prizes this year for the oldest member in attendance and for the person coming the longest distance. Several surprise awards are also planned, according to Underwood. Those planning to attend should call Underwood at 263-0915.

Band takes 8 solo honors

AUSTIN — Several members of the Big Spring High School Steer Band attended the world's largest solo-ensemble competition May 28-30 at the University of Texas winning one Division I rating and seven Division II ratings.

Chris Williams received a Division I rating on his percussion solo.

Winning Division II awards were Melinda Corwin, Jimmy Olague and Ben Parham in percussion; Kerry Bothe, French horn; Alena Pyles, trumpet; Robert Smiley, tuba; and Ben Parham, Greg Williamson, Melinda Corwin and Chris Williams, percussion ensemble.

Other BSBS students participating in the contest were Teresa Alexander,

Assad says Israel planning new war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian President Hafez Assad said the Lebanese-Israeli troop withdrawal agreement "is in its death stage" and claimed Israel was planning a new war, Syria state radio reported today.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Menachem Begin told Parliament he had no plans to attack Syrian forces in Lebanon, and said Israeli troops were on alert last week only because it appeared that Syria was preparing for war.

Assad made a surprise visit to Libya and had two rounds of talks with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi on ways to derail the troop withdrawal agreement.

"We shall continuously struggle against and undermine this agreement of submission that was imposed on Lebanon by the United States and Israel," the radio quoted Assad as saying. He said the withdrawal accord was "in its death stage, in its collapsing stage."

Assad claimed Israel's buildup in Lebanon was a prelude for war because "Israel wants eventually to create a state stretching from (Iraq's) Euphrates River to (Egypt's) Nile," the radio said.

Begin said the buildup was a response to Syrian maneuvers that Israeli experts believed could have been a cover for war preparations.

"It doesn't even occur to us to attack the Syrian forces," Begin said. "There is a Syrian threat, although there is a certain easing (of tension). But we had to be on guard."

In Kuwait, a delegation of the Palestine Liberation Organization left for Moscow to ask Soviet leaders for more political and military aid.

Salaf Khalaf, second to Yasser Arafat in the command of the PLO's Fatah guerrillas, predicted that the Soviet Union would be firm in its support of Syria and the PLO in what he said was an "imminent" war with Israel in the Bekaa Valley. Khalaf led the delegation to Moscow.

Israel invaded Lebanon last June 6, forced PLO guerrillas to evacuate Beirut by late summer, and signed the U.S.-sponsored troop-withdrawal agreement with Lebanon in May. Under the pact, Israel will withdraw its troops when Syria and the PLO pull out their forces.

"There was an identity of Syrian and Libyan views about the dangers of the agreement and the need to coordinate all Arab efforts to confront this agreement and collapse it," Syrian radio said.

It said the talks also covered cooperation between the two Soviet-backed nations to face the Israeli military buildup along the 50-mile cease-fire line with Syria in east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley. The broadcast gave no details, but PLO sources have said a Libyan battalion is stationed in Syria.

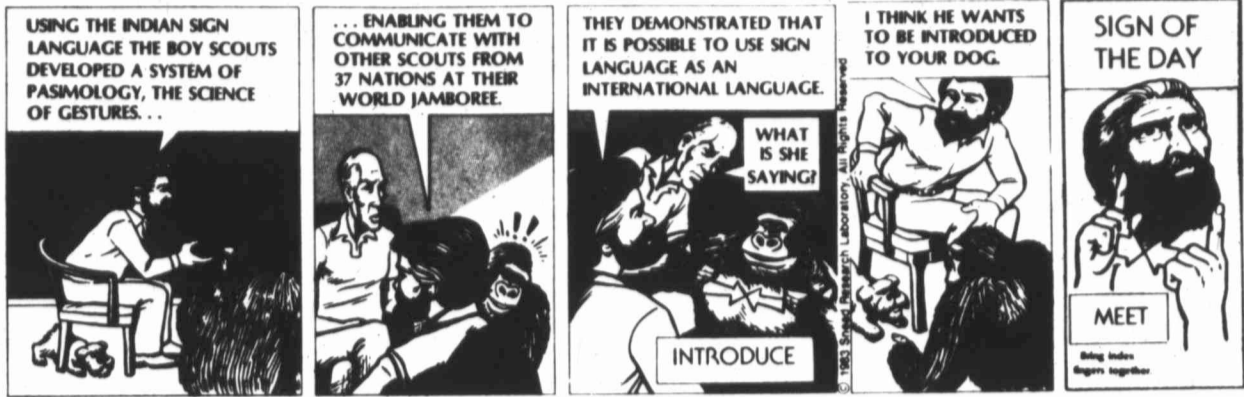

The Israelis are now believed to have about 35,000 soldiers in Lebanon. The Syrians, who entered Lebanon in 1976 to halt the Lebanese civil war, have an estimated 40,000. PLO guerrilla forces number between 8,000 and 12,000.

Buildups by both Syria and Israel along their line in eastern and central Lebanon raised the threat of war last week. Both nations stopped sending in reinforcements Monday, but Syria's ambassador to France, Youssef Chakkour, told a press luncheon in Paris on Tuesday that war was "imminent."

Assad traveled to Libya after his government announced it was intervening to resolve a two-week-old mutiny by officers in Arafat's Fatah faction.

Arafat has accused Khadafi of inciting the mutineers, who say Arafat is not militant enough and has appointed two unpopular commanders to lead the PLO forces in Lebanon.

Woman sentenced for killings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Calling the crimes cruel and vicious, a Superior Court judge has sentenced the confessed accomplice of multiple-murderer Douglas Daniel Clark to 27 years to life in prison for two killings.

Before handing down the sentence Tuesday against Carol Mary Bundy, Judge Ricardo Torres heard a plea from Jeannette Murray, whose 24-year-old husband was shot, stabbed and decapitated by Ms. Bundy.

Mrs. Murray asked that the woman be imprisoned as long as possible. "I fear for my children," said Mrs. Murray, who testified under a provision of the state's so-called "Victims' Bill of Rights" that permits crime victims to appear at sentencing hearings.

Ms. Bundy, a 41-year-old vocational nurse from Burbank, changed her plea May 2 from innocent by reason of insanity to guilty on two counts of first-degree murder in the slayings of John Murray and a prostitute known to police only as Jane Doe. But Ms. Bundy said she had been only a "reluctant partner." She received the maximum sentence — 27 years to life for Murray's murder and 25 years to life for the prostitute's death. The judge ordered the sentences to be served consecutively.

Prosecutors had claimed Ms. Bundy told Murray, her former boyfriend, about the so-called Sunset Strip murders committed by Clark, then killed him to keep him from from testifying against Clark. Murray's body was found in a van a few blocks from his Van Nuys, Calif., home on Aug. 9, 1980.

Prosecutors also claimed Ms. Bundy handed Clark a gun with which he killed the unidentified prostitute, whose skeletal remains were found in March 1981 in the Antelope Valley. Clark was sentenced in March to die for the sex murders of six prostitutes and young runaways who frequented the Sunset Strip area of Los Angeles. Ms. Bundy did not plead guilty to multiple murders or to charges that she murdered a witness, which would have made her eligible for the death penalty. Prosecutors had said they would not press for her execution because she testified against Clark.

Detectives had said that in early conversations with them, Ms. Bundy tried to explain her part in the grisly murders. "I don't know if you guys have ever in your life shot anybody," she said. "But it's really fun to do. ... It sounds terrible, but it is."

Airliner forced to land because of fuel supply

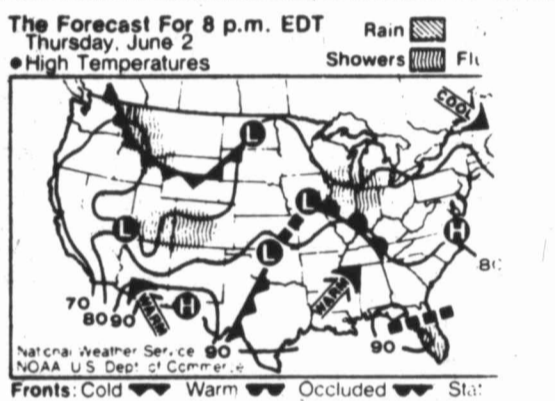

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Republic Airlines DC-9 carrying 86 people had less than five gallons of fuel remaining when it made an unscheduled landing at Luke Air Force Base, federal officials said.

Bob Buckhorn, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, said Tuesday the twin-engine aircraft had 4 5/8 gallons of fuel in its three tanks when checked after Saturday's landing at Luke, 18 1/2 miles west of the flight's destination — Sky Harbor International Airport in Phoenix.

The Arizona Republic today quoted an unidentified aviation source as saying that amount of fuel would have allowed about 30 seconds of flying time.

Airline officials said the crew of Flight 366 decided to land at Luke after a low-fuel warning light flashed on about 65 miles northwest of Phoenix. Republic officials had said over the weekend that it was not immediately known if the plane actually was low on fuel or if it was having trouble with its fuel-measuring equipment.

Showers continue

By The Associated Press
Unseasonably cool temperatures greeted Texans for the second straight day as scattered showers and thunderstorms dotted the Panhandle and South Plains.

Pre-dawn readings dipped into the 40s and 50s over the northern half of the state, while temperatures in the 60s and 70s prevailed over the southern half.

Clouds covered the state, except in Northeast Texas, where partly cloudy skies were noted.

Winds were generally from the north at less than 10 mph in North and Central Texas, while easterly and southeasterly winds prevailed in West and South Texas.

The forecast called for showers and clouds to diminish through tonight. Warmer temperatures were expected tonight and Thursday.

West Texas — Partly cloudy to fair with a warming trend through Thursday. High 75 Panhandle to near 80 Lower Pecos Valley and near 101 Big Bend. Low 55 Panhandle to 68 Big Bend. High Thursday near 80 Panhandle to 92 Lower Pecos Valley and near 104 along the Rio Grande.

Customs agents seize shipment of cocaine

MIAMI (AP) — U.S. Customs agents seized 1,065 pounds of cocaine worth an estimated $300 million on an island freighter that came to Miami from Costa Rica on Tuesday, officials said.

"I think it's probably the second largest (cocaine seizure) here in Miami," said Customs spokesman Dave Woods.

The cocaine was discovered in a trailer on the freighter Lion Heart, Woods said. He said agents came upon the cocaine during the "normal investigative process" after the Lion Heart docked at Dodge Island Tuesday afternoon. No arrests were made, Woods added.

The cocaine is worth about $300,000 per pound on the streets, Woods said, adding the shipment would be worth "a little better" than $300 million.

The vessel's cargo shipment and place of registry were not known late Tuesday, Wood said.

The largest cocaine seizure in the Miami area was a 3,906-pound haul confiscated from a cargo plane out of Bogota, Colombia, in March 1982, Wood said.

Ford recalls vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — Four separate recalls involving over 14,000 vehicles have been announced by the Ford Motor Co.

The automaker will install lamps on luggage compartment lids at no cost to owners of 11,719 1983-model Ford LTD and Mercury Marquis vehicles, John P. King, service engineer manager of Ford's Parts and Services Division, said in a statement Tuesday.

"These lamps, which are standard equipment on the LTD and Marquis, were inadvertently omitted during early 1983-model production at our Chicago Assembly Plant," King said.

Owners should contact their Lincoln-Mercury dealers to arrange appointments, King said.

Ford also is notifying owners of 1,923 1983-model trucks equipped with 6.9-liter diesel engines to have their vehicles taken to Ford dealers for replacement of bolts that attach sound insulation to the left front fender apron.

The affected models are F-250 and F-350 Series light trucks built at Ford's Kansas City Assembly Plant.

"The bolt is too long and could contact and damage the fuel line in a severe front-end collision," King said.

Ford is not aware of any collisions resulting in leakage of diesel fuel or a fire, King said. But dealers will replace the existing bolts with shorter bolts at no charge to owners, he said.

A Checking Account You Can Smile About.

Free Checking
Sure, everyone likes something free, and free checking is no exception. But there's a catch, right? Wrong. When we say free checking we mean there's No Monthly Service Charge. That's right, it wouldn't really be free if there was. And at First Federal, there isn't. Aha! Then there must be a minimum balance. Wrong again. At First Federal free checking means no monthly service charge and

No Minimum Balance
No Strings attached . . . there simply isn't a minimum balance of any kind. So what could be better than that? How about Free Checks. Right again, with First Federal's free checking you also receive a supply of imprinted checks at no cost.

Still smiling? Then you must already have a First Federal checking account!

Navy to the rescue in war on drugs

The use of military ships and planes to help stop drug smuggling into south Florida has worked so well that the 12,000 pounds of cocaine and 3 million pounds of marijuana seized under the program last year equaled the quantities confiscated on land by the Drug Enforcement Administration.

But the success of the Reagan administration's South Florida Drug Task Force has bred new problems. Drug traffickers driven out of Florida are beginning to concentrate around other locations in the United States, including Southern California.

WE WELCOME, THEREFORE, the announcement that a new National Narcotics Border Interdiction System under Vice President George Bush will use the ships, planes, and intelligence resources of San Diego area military installations to apprehend drug smugglers off the coast.

Utilizing Navy ships and planes on regular patrol from San Diego to track suspicious craft until the Coast Guard arrives to investigate makes a lot of sense. Eventually, Coast Guard personnel may be stationed aboard Navy vessels for quicker action against the smugglers. Authorities believe that so-called mother ships carrying thousands of tons of marijuana travel several hundred miles off San Diego as they move north to unload their cargoes.

THE INVOLVEMENT of the military should strengthen an expanded drug enforcement program already being implemented. The administration previously had announced creation of 12 regional drug task forces, including one headquartered in San Diego, to coordinate the battle against this illicit trade within the country.

The beefed-up interdiction system and the new regional task forces can't be expected to stop the narcotics traffic altogether. But such wise use of available resources ought to put a significant dent in what has become both a national peril and a national disgrace.

Simpler times

Wallowing in nostalgia and yearning for the past have become quite fashionable in these "not-so-good-old-days."

The main difference in the current crop of tales and the old standbys is too many of the newer versions hit close to home.

For example, do you know it has been 19 years since the Beatles were on "The Ed Sullivan Show"? Or that it has been 13 years since the group broke up? I remember both occasions, but I find people who do not remember the Beatles, much less Ed Sullivan.

DRIVING INTO a service station for a dollar's worth of gas was fairly common when that buck would yield three gallons or so. Today, you can barely fill up a lawn mower.

"Dragging main" used to be cheap or at least it seemed like it. My old college car was getting six miles to the gallon when I retired it from street life — fairly expensive to run even at 30 cents a gallon.

Candy bars should be a nickel, at the most, a dime. Nobody can get enough white sugar eating a shrunken candy slice that costs more than the Dallas Morning News.

A dollar's worth of candy would last the average porcine kid a week. Now a dollar might get two Hershey bars and some gum.

Movies were not the extravagant expense they are today. Saturday matinees at the Rancho were only 25 cents. You got three or four films (real Westerns!), a handful of great cartoons and uncensored previews of everything, including the racy films.

Now you need a bank loan to see all of the good films and the not-so-good films.

HAIR IS something else that seems to be going by the wayside. I spent my entire high school career fighting coaches, parents and peers to grow sideburns and hair that touched my ears.

Finally, I succeeded my first year in college to achieve shoulder-length majesty — just about the time punk/New Wave fashion dictated close-cropped hair again. Even now, I find it disturbing to cut my hair.

Terminology has changed somewhat in what seems like such a brief time: "Far out," "groovy," "cool," "stoned" and "wired" were just a few of the basic survival terms.

Today, the drug vernacular has altered somewhat (you just can't get good drugs these days — just kidding). Valley Girl gab has become "hip" — "gag me with a spoon," "for sure, for sure," "awesome" and "grody to the max."

However, by far the thing that most people miss the most about the past is lack of responsibility.

The desirable quality of those fun high school or college days is heightened by the added weight of current necessities: paying rent, buying groceries, making career decisions.

Naturally everything was better then because everybody could enjoy life without concern for the present or the future. Graduation, family and career were nebulous qualities that nobody cared about until later.

Of course, anyone who is not an airhead realizes the past was not that great. But as long as people keep the past in perspective, looking back is not so bad.

Into the immigration quagmire

The Senate has passed the most comprehensive immigration bill in 31 years, earning praise from Attorney General William French Smith for its "historic" action. It is historic in the same sense that the arrival of the first American soldiers in Vietnam was historic: It dooms us to pursuing goals that will be costly to attempt and almost impossible to achieve.

The act, sponsored by Sen. Alan Simpson (R-Wyo.) and Rep. Romano Mazzoli (D-Ky.) does two main things. It confers an amnesty on illegal aliens who arrived before 1980, and it provides tools intended to keep out any new ones. It accommodates itself to reality in the first respect, but defies it in the second.

THE AMNESTY is practically inevitable, in light of the millions of foreigners already living in the United States illegally and the enormous cost of finding and deporting them. Unfortunately, the effort to restrict it to one group is sure to fail. Most illegal aliens already rely on fake documents — driver's licenses, work permits, Social Security cards — to "prove" their legal status. Those not covered by the amnesty will have scant trouble producing evidence that they've been in the United States for the required time.

How is the Immigration and Naturalization Service, which is charged with policing the program, to know who's lying? Without a huge increase in its budget and employment, it has no way. The amnesty suffers from the same problem as our current laws — it is unenforceable.

Be careful at World's Fair

Dear Editor,
Read the article by Johnnie Lou Avery about the "1984 World's Fair" and decided to let the people who plan to go to the Fair in '84 know to be careful in making reservations.

Last year in January, I called (a motel) in Knoxville, Tenn., to make reservations for July. The person I talked to said that every motel and hotel in Knoxville was booked, and gave me a number to call and that they would find you a place to stay not far from Knoxville, and that they would contact me within 24 hours.

I did receive the call within the 24 hours all right, they told me the nearest available place would be Kodak, Tenn., which was about 25-30 miles from Knoxville, which was fine.

I made the reservation, the person I talked to asked how I was going to pay for the rooms. I said cash, upon arrival, he told me that in order to save us the rooms, I should give some kind of assurance that the rooms would be paid for.

Anyway, I gave him my Visa number and gave him instruction not to charge the rooms to my card because I intended to pay cash when we got there. He said fine. Three days later I receive a letter from Visa stating that I had overcharged. I called Visa and told them the situation and they said to send intended to stem the flow of illegal immigrants across our borders. The most important is a prohibition on the hiring of illegal aliens. Right now it is against the law for illegal aliens to accept jobs here, but not for employers to hire them — a contradiction that Sen. Simpson characterizes as "an extraordinary departure from sanity."

The status quo is contradictory, but the change in this bill only makes it consistently foolish. In the first place, employers can never be entirely sure if workers are legal or not. They can demand a birth certificate or a Social Security card, but they can't very well verify those documents. Employers who want to be safe may simply not hire anyone with an Hispanic name or appearance — which is why most Hispanic groups oppose the provision.

In the second place, employers should have no trouble evading the law. The $1,000 fine for the first offense is a small penalty for a firm that otherwise would go begging for workers. (Project Jobs, in which the INS arrested illegals working here to open up jobs for Americans, served only to prove that Americans wouldn't accept most of them.) The chance of being caught employing an illegal alien is minimal. The chance of being proved to have done so knowingly, as the bill requires, is almost zero.

OF COURSE, there are many Americans who would gladly spend as much money and manpower as needed to satisfy their xenophobic impulses. But the cost would be even greater in terms of the constitutional freedoms of all Americans.

One answer implied by the Simpson-Mazzoli bill, though denied by its sponsors, is a national identity card to make it simple for employers to verify their workers' legal status. This is likely to be either pointless or dangerous or both. Such cards, like other documents, can be forged, in which case they will be just one more weak link in the chain.

The only protection against such counterfeiting is a vast federal enforcement program, in which case every citizen would be forced to carry a domestic passport or face the penalty. That is already reality in many Western European countries, but it hasn't kept them from having their own problems with illegal aliens.

AT BEST, the Simpson-Mazzoli bill promises huge expenses to accomplish very little. At worst, it endangers the freedom of movement and privacy of all Americans. Sealing off our borders and emptying our cities of illegal aliens would require measures more appropriate to an Eastern bloc police state than to the freest country in the world. And the idea of turning our backs on those foreigners who want to come here is repugnant to our tradition of refuge to all.

Sen. Simpson declared last week that "the first duty of a sovereign nation is to control its borders." Nations whose sovereignty and stature are in doubt may need such tokens, but the United States should place greater importance on our noble traditions of freedom and openness. This bill is not only futile and dangerous, but unworthy of us.

Saying no to premarital sex

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know it is supposed to be wrong to have sex before marriage, but I just can't seem to say no to the boys I date. I'm afraid no one will like me if I refuse to give in. Please help me get out of this rut. — D.R.

DEAR D.R.: There are several ways of answering your letter, but first of all has it ever occurred to you that rather than having people really like you because of what you are doing, they instead probably only lose their respect for you. In addition, you are only hurting yourself because as long as you try to buy friendship in this way, you will never learn what it means to have a lasting, fulfilling, and loving relationship with others.

God did not make a mistake when he commanded, "You shall not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14). Why did he give us this command? (The command, incidentally, covers all types of sexual immorality.) He gave us this command not because he wanted to restrict us and make us unhappy, but because he loves us. And because he loves us and created us, he knows what is best for us. God has restricted the exercise of his gift of sex to marriage, because it is only within the commitment of marriage that true love can be fully expressed between a man and a woman.

There is no shortcut for your problem. You need to turn from what you are doing, and you need to turn to God. God loves you — you don't need to buy his love for you. All you need to do is accept it, and you can do that by a simple act of faith, turning to Jesus Christ. How do I know that God loves you? I know it because Christ died on the cross to take away our sins. If you had been the only person on earth who needed forgiveness, Jesus Christ would still have been willing to go to the cross and die for you so you could become God's child. "This is how God showed his love among us: He sent his one and only Son into the world that we might live through him" (1 John 4:9). Receive Christ right now — get a new set of friends — and let Christ set you on the right path each day.

STEAKE CASSEOLE WITH BUTTER CRUMB DUMPLINGS

Darlene Dickson
Slaton, Texas

2 pounds round or sirloin steak
1/2 cup flour
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 cup oil
1/2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1 cup water and onion juice
3/4 cup small cooked onions
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup water

Dumplings:
2 cups biscuit mix
1 tsp. poultry seasoning
1 tsp. celery seed
1 tsp. poppy seed
1/4 cup oil
3/4 milk
1/4 cup melted butter
1 cup bread crumbs

Sauce:
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
Cut meat into 2 inch pieces and dredge in flour and paprika. Brown thoroughly in oil, add salt, pepper, water and onion juice, then cover and simmer until tender (30 minutes). Transfer to a large baking dish. In the same skillet, combine and heat cream of chicken soup and water. Add to the mixture in casserole, add cooked onion, and top with Butter Crumb Dumplings.

To make the dumplings, combine first four ingredients. Add, stirring until moistened, oil and milk. Combine melted butter and bread crumbs. Drop dumpling mixture by rounded tablespoonfuls into butter crumb mixture. Roll until coated. Place on top of casserole and bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

For sauce, heat soup and sour cream. Pour over casserole and serve immediately. Serves 8.

BUSY DAY BEEF-STUFFED ZUCCHINI BOATS

Janet M. Luttrell
Denton, Texas

3-4 zucchini squash (5-6 inches)
1-32 ounce jar spaghetti sauce

BEEF AS A DISH — When planning a meal for a dinner party or just for the family, an important step is planning the main course. A delicious dish such as Saucy Stuffed Steak could be the hit of the evening.

2 pounds ground beef, chuck
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. parsley
2 Tbsps. freeze-dried minced onion
1-8 ounce pkg. mozzarella cheese
1 cup beef consommé
Parmesan cheese
Slice zucchini in half lengthwise and scoop out the center, being careful not to cut the shell. Parboil zucchini shells for 3-4 minutes and drain. Place zucchini close together in a greased 8 by 12 inch baking dish. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Brown and crumble ground chuck in a heavy skillet. Drain any excess fat and add spices. Cook a few minutes to blend flavors. Slice mozzarella cheese into long strips, about 1/2 inch thick. Place cheese strips in the zucchini cavity to cover the bottom. Spoon the ground chuck over the cheese and heap it up in the zucchini boat.

Place any remaining meat mixture in the bottom of the casserole. Spoon prepared spaghetti sauce over each boat and pour the remaining sauce in the bottom of the casserole. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Pour just enough consommé into the baking dish to come to a 1/4 inch depth. Cover and bake at 350 degrees about 40 minutes. Uncover and place a strip of mozzarella cheese on each boat and return to the oven for 5-10 minutes to melt the cheese. Serve hot, spooning extra sauce over the top. Serves 6 to 8.

SPICES ISLANDS BEEF and YELLOW RICE

Loanne Chiu
Arlington, Texas

2 1/2 pounds boneless beef rump roast
2 Tbsps. fresh lemon juice
1/2 cup water
1 onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, grated
1 Tbsp. brown sugar
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. ground coriander
1 tsp. ground pepper
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
3 bay leaves
4 ounces cream
1/4 cup oil

Yellow Rice:
1 1/2 cups raw rice
1-10 3/4 ounce can condensed chicken broth
1 cup water
2 Tbsps. butter
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground turmeric
1/2 tsp. ground orange peel

Garnish:
1 head Boston lettuce
2 small sweet red peppers, sliced in rings
Cut beef into 12 1/2 inch slices. Pound each slice with a meat mallet. Place beef with all ingredients except cream and oil in a Dutch oven or other heavy pan. Bring to a boil, then simmer, covered, over medium high heat for 1 hour. Stir occasionally. Add cream, simmer uncovered, while stirring often until most liquid is evaporated (about 15 minutes). Discard bay leaves.

To make rice, use a teflon coated pan. Place rice with all ingredients in pan. Bring to a boil, stir once, then immediately reduce heat to low. Cook covered, for about 30 minutes or until rice is done. Take a 12 inch frying pan, heat oil. Drain and brown beef slices on both sides very briefly. Line serving platter with lettuce leaves. Place rice on one half of platter and place beef on other half. Garnish with pepper rings. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

SUN BELT BEEF ROUND BURGERS

Joet Allard
San Marcos, Texas

2 pounds lean ground beef round
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2 cups tomato juice
2 eggs, beaten
1 onion, minced
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cumin
1/2 tsp. oregano
2 Tbsps. worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. tabasco sauce
2 ripe avocados, peeled, seeded and thinly sliced
1 1/2 cups grated Monterey Jack cheese
1-4 ounce can mild green chilies, chopped
1/4 tsp. seasoning salt
2 Tbsps. flour dissolved in 1 Tbsp. water
6 sesame buns, toasted
Fresh Parsley, Sliced
Onion and 1/4 cup grated cheese for garnish

Combine ground beef round with crumbs, 1/2 cup tomato juice, eggs, onion, salt, oregano, cumin, worcestershire sauce and tabasco. Mix lightly to blend. Shape into twelve equal size patties, about 3/4 inch thick. Arrange six beef patties in oiled baking pan. Cover with avocado, cheese and 1/2 tsp. green chilies on each patty in pan. Top remaining beef patties, pressing edges to seal. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

Combine tomato juice with remaining green chilies, seasoning salt and flour mixture. Heat. Lower heat and simmer until thickened. Spoon over beef patties. Reduce heat to 325 degrees. Cover and bake for 20 minutes or until desired doneness is reached. Uncover last five minutes of baking time. Serve on sesame bun, topped with garnish. Serves six.

FIESTA STEW

Pat Jean
Austin, Texas

2 pounds lean beef stew meat (chuck or shank), cut into 1 inch cubes
1/2 cup flour
3 Tbsps. vegetable oil or shortening
2 cups hot water
1 can (6 ounce) tomato paste
1/2 tsp. oregano leaves
2 tps. chili powder
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
3 medium onions, chopped
3 bell peppers, sliced
6 flour tortillas

Heat the oil in a Dutch oven. Dredge the meat in flour, and brown in the hot oil. Add the hot water, tomato paste, and seasonings. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer over low heat for about 2 1/4 hours. Add the onions and peppers. Cook 45 minutes longer. Cut the tortillas into strips, 1 inch wide, and drop into stew. Cover and cook for 15 minutes. Serves six.

SAUCY STUFFED STEAK

1 two pound flank steak
1 cup cooked fresh or frozen spinach, drained
1 cup pitted California ripe olives, sliced
1 Tbsp. instant minced onion
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 egg, beaten

BEEF TERIYAKI

1/2 cup reconstituted lemon

1 Tbsp. oil
1/2 cup sherry
1 cup sour cream
Combine spinach, 1/2 cup olives, onion, seasonings and egg; spread on steak. Roll up lengthwise and tie with string. Brown in oil; pour sherry over meat. Cover and simmer 15 to 20 minutes; remove to warm platter. Add sour cream and remaining olives to pan; heat gently. Serve over sliced meat. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SMOKED SAUSAGE JARDINIERE

1/2 pound beef smoked sausage
2 medium potatoes, pared, cut into 1 inch chunks (1 cup)
3 medium carrots, pared, cut into 3/4 inch pieces (1 cup)
1 medium onion, cut into 1/2 inch wedges (1 cup)
1/2 cup beef bouillon
1/4 cup tomato sauce
1 tsp. worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 celery salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1/8 tsp. crushed dried thyme
1/8 tsp. crushed dried basil
3/4 cup frozen peas, defrosted
1/4 cup burgundy wine
1 1/2 Tbsps. all-purpose flour

Cut sausage into eight equal pieces, set aside. Put potatoes, carrots, and onions in two quart saucepan. Combine bouillon, tomato juice, worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, and seasonings; pour over vegetables. Cover; cook until vegetables are almost tender, about 25 minutes. Add peas and sausage; simmer five minutes. Combine wine and flour; gradually stir into stew. Continue to simmer until sauce is slightly thickened, about five minutes, stirring constantly. Serves four.

juice
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup vegetable oil
3 Tbsps. chili sauce
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1 (2 to 3 pound) chuck steak, about 1 inch thick

To make marinade, in medium bowl, combine lemon juice, soy sauce, oil, chili sauce, garlic, pepper and ginger. Place steak in shallow baking dish. Pour marinade over steak; cover and marinate in refrigerator four hours or overnight, turning occasionally. Place steak on broiler tray, reserving marinade. Broil to desired doneness, brushing occasionally with marinade. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes four to six servings.

DEEP DISH MEAT PIE

1 1/4 cups biscuit baking mix
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. oregano leaves
1/2 pound lean ground beef
1/3 cup chopped onion
2 tps. beef-flavored instant bouillon or

2 beef-flavored bouillon cubes
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 (4 ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup (2 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In medium bowl combine biscuit mix, water and 1/2 tsp. oregano; mix well. With floured hands, pat into bottom of lightly greased 13 by 9 inch baking dish. In skillet, combine meat, onion, bouillon, garlic and remaining oregano; cook and stir until meat browns and bouillon dissolves. Spread tomato sauce evenly over prepared crust; top with green pepper. Spoon meat mixture evenly over sauce; top with mushrooms. Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until golden. Sprinkle with cheese; return to oven two to three minutes or until cheese begins to melt.

Dear Abby

Overheated husband chills wife

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband. He has become obsessed with sex. He's started to bring home every girlie magazine he can find. He also buys books that show pictures of all the different positions to make love.

When we were married 10 years ago, he was a normal, decent man. Then about a year ago he started to get sex crazy. Thank God I can't have any children.

Last Sunday he insisted on making love to me four times. By nightfall I was physically and mentally abused. The next morning he woke me up at 4 a.m. wanting sex again. I told him I just couldn't — I was still exhausted from Sunday. He got rough and tried to force me against my will, so I jumped out of bed and ran to the guest room and locked the door. He screamed at me, pounded on the door and called me a "frigid b....." I thought he was going to break the door down. He finally gave up, and I stayed in that room until after he left for work.

Abby, I want out of this marriage. I am afraid to stay with this sex maniac. We just moved here and I don't know anybody. Please help me.

DESPERATE IN DENVER

DEAR DESPERATE: Call "Gateway" or "Safehouse." Each provides temporary shelter for battered women. In the meantime you should absolutely not live with him. His sudden preoccupation with sex and his abusive behavior could be symptoms of a mental disorder. Run for your life! But first leave a note telling him that you refuse to live with him unless he is examined by a psychiatrist and treated for whatever caused the sudden change in his behavior.

Women in other areas with similar problems should call their rape-crisis hotline for emergency help.

DEAR ABBY: This is probably the stupidest hang-up you've ever heard about. We have a son, 13 months old. When he was born, we debated between two names, Daniel and Patrick. We decided on Daniel because my brother, whom I love dearly, is named Patrick and I didn't like "Big Pat" and "Little Pat."

So the problem? As Daniel grew older, he became the image of my brother Patrick, and now I regret not naming him Patrick. It is driving me crazy.

My husband says at this stage of the game we can't change the kid's name. Why can't we?

KICKING MYSELF IN BOSTON

DEAR KICKING: You can if you want to. If you want to change his name legally, you should consult a lawyer. Otherwise, you can just start calling "the kid" Patrick.

***

DEAR ABBY: I need a lawyer and I need one fast. How do I find one who won't charge me an arm and a leg?

TEMPUS FUGIT

DEAR TEMPUS: First ask your friends and associates for their recommendations.

For helpful, detailed information about a lawyer's credentials, consult the Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory. It's the "Who's Who" of lawyers and can be found at your public library.

Don't be shy about "shopping" for a lawyer. For routine legal work such as drawing up a will, closing a real estate deal or checking a lease or contract, a low-cost legal clinic may suit your needs, but for trusts, tax work, divorce or trial cases, consult a lawyer who specializes in that field.

Find out in advance how much you will be charged. Some lawyers expect a retainer fee paid in advance, others charge by the hour, and in personal injury suits, a lawyer may take the case for a percentage of your recovery.

The local bar association referral service may be able to help you, but it only lists lawyers — it doesn't evaluate them.

Check safety seats for defects before buying

Parents who believe they cannot afford the $30 to $40 cost of a new child safety seat may be tempted to search the garage sales and want ads looking for a bargain.

"But a used child safety seat that is defective is no bargain," says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Look first for a label stating that the device "meets or exceeds all federal safety standards," says Shirer. A torn harness or padding can be repaired with replacements ordered from the manufacturer. But twisted, bent, or loose metal frames and seat bars mean the seat is unsafe. Parents should ask the owner for the manufacturer's directions and try the seat in their car before making the purchase.

"Some months my classified ad budget equals that of my other advertising expenditures."

Katherine Morris Prater
Unlimited Gifts

Katherine includes classifieds in her advertising plan for Unlimited Gifts because they produce sales. Sometimes she runs as many as 4 or 5 classifieds in one day, often in conjunction with other Herald ads. "For a very low cost, classified ads reinforce my other advertising and reach other customers we might miss." Later deadlines make classified ads flexible and very current — buyer and seller can move quickly. What Herald Classifieds have done for Katherine and Unlimited Gifts, they can do for your business.

DEAR DR. DONOFRIO: I am writing with regard to your recent article dealing with triglycerides. You stated that they were related to cholesterol. I have been given to understand that alcohol sugars would raise triglyceride levels in the body — sometimes as high as hyperlipid. You did not mention alcohol or sugar in your article and I would like to hear your comments on that. Also, I am 70 years old and would like to know what a good triglyceride level would be for me. I am 125, 150, 250? What can I eat to keep my triglycerides level low?

Triglycerides are a kind of fat carried in the blood. Another kind is cholesterol. We know high blood cholesterol levels are involved in the development of atherosclerosis, heart disease, and stroke. We're not sure of the relationship between triglycerides, but we do know that high triglyceride levels can keep all blood fats in the normal range.

You use the term hyperlipidemia, which means high levels of fats. All blood fats are carried in the blood by lipoproteins to which they are attached. That's why the term lipoprotein. Lipo means fat. Lipoproteins are normal value triglyceride levels. 70-year-old persons average level is 131. Upper level of normal is given as 235.

I think this is all meaningless for you. It is important to know in our society "average" blood fat levels are not necessarily mean. So we want to emphasize things that help us to keep such levels, and things that help us to return to normal if we are high. A definite factor is diet. You mention Diabetes seems another factor in high triglycerides. Sugar intake should be reduced. And you are suggesting that if people alcohol can cause a great rise in triglyceride levels.

To help get your levels in normal range, these things: reduce weight to normal height and build, reduce amount of carbohydrate food you eat, go for foods high in cholesterol and saturated fat. Take little to no alcohol. Exercise. Any kind of exercise you can do, walking, can bring blood triglyceride levels down some as much as 20 percent.

DEAR DR. DO: If a person is allergic to aspirin, can he develop new allergies? My reason for asking is that I have lived most of my life with a parent who is allergic to animals. Our son dearly loves a pet dog. We are wise to bring our dog home with my allergies? — N.N.

I would not advise a person who is allergic to aspirin to take any substance that will develop new allergies as time goes on. Since animal dander is the prime allergen, it is always a threat. Why it would be difficult to get the animal home then have away from the allergen?

All blood fats are cause of concern

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing with regard to a recent article dealing with triglycerides. You mentioned that they were closely related to cholesterol. I had been given to understand that alcohol and sugars would raise the triglyceride levels in the body — sometimes referred to as hyperlipidemia. You did not mention alcohol or sugar in your article and I would like to hear your comments about that. Also, I am 76 years old and would like to know what a good triglyceride level would be for me — 125, 150, 250? What foods can I eat to keep my triglycerides level low? — A.G.

Triglycerides are one kind of fat carried in the blood. Another kind is cholesterol. We know that high blood cholesterol levels are involved with development of artery hardening, heart attack and stroke. We're not quite that sure of the role of triglycerides, but we want to keep all blood fats in normal ranges.

You use the term hyperlipidemia; that means high levels of blood fats. All blood fats are carried in the blood by proteins to which they are attached. That's where the term lipoprotein comes from. Lipo means fat. If you want some suggested normal values for triglyceride levels for a 70-year-old person, the average level is 131 and the upper level of normal is given as 235.

I think this is all rather meaningless for you. What is important to know is that in our society "average" blood fat levels may not necessarily mean one is healthy. So we want to emphasize things that lower such levels, and certain things help us do that. Blood triglyceride levels return to normal if a person loses weight. Obesity is a definite factor here.

You mention sugar. Diabetes seems to be another factor in increased triglycerides levels, so sugar intake should be watched. And you are right in suggesting that in some people alcohol can cause a great rise in triglyceride levels.

To help get your fat levels in normal ranges do these things: reduce your weight to normal for your height and build, watch the amount of carbohydrate food you eat, go easy on foods high in cholesterol and saturated fats, and take little to no alcohol. Incidentally, any kind of exercise you can do, like walking, can bring down blood triglyceride levels, in some as much as 25 percent.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: If a person is allergic and has asthma, can he suddenly develop new allergies? My reason for asking is that I have lived near pets most of my life and apparently never was allergic to animal dander. Our son dearly wishes to have a pet dog. Would it be wise to bring one into our house with my asthma condition? — N.N.

I would not advise this. A person who is allergic to one substance frequently will develop new allergies to others as time goes on. Since animal dander is one of the prime allergy triggers, it is always a potential threat. Why risk this? It would be difficult to bring the animal into the house then have to take it away from the child. Better to explain at this point why he cannot have the animal.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had a spinal anesthetic for my surgery. For about a week afterward I had headaches. They went away eventually. I know of other people who have had that kind of anesthetic and didn't have the symptoms afterward. Why me? — G.V.

A very small percentage of people may have this experience with spinal. When it happens, the reason usually is a tiny leaking of spinal fluid into the tissue of the back at the point where the injection was given. The headaches usually linger for a few days, then disappear, as they did for you. Most people do not react this way to spinal.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Open for Business

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

The Texas Employment Commission will be 50 years old next Monday, June 6. It was in 1933 that the Wagner-Peyser Act was enacted creating a nationwide system of public employment offices in a federal-state partnership. Our local Commission, headed by Joe Wallis, is not only a service bureau for employers and employees but also a repository for statistical data as well as a job development agency. It has played an important role in our industrial development efforts, helping with labor surveys, market projections and pre-employment questionnaires. Plan to go by at 8:30 a.m. Monday morning for the brief commemorative ceremony and open house for employers.

The Toastmasters Club, which is made up of business and professional people who want to develop and polish speaking and leadership skills, meets every Wednesday night at 7 p.m. in the Permian Building. Officers are Jim Powell, president; Sonny Choate, educational vice president; Lea Whitehead, administrative vice president; Max Green, secretary; Eldred Gray, treasurer; and Kirk Kirkham, sergeant at arms. Call if you would like to join this group or come as a guest to any Wednesday night meeting.

Another group made up of young businessmen that is re-forming is the Jaycees. They have embarked on an ambitious program of community service. Last weekend was one of their first major projects and it netted almost $2,000 from barbecue and crane lift of Joey Benson. From this event the Big Spring High School band received $412 for their help with ticket sales. The Muscular Dystrophy Association received $1,500, and the Jaycees kept $400 to go toward implementing future projects. The Jaycees nationally sponsor the MDA; therefore, the local Jaycees will be the organizers for the Labor Day Jerry Lewis Telethon. They have also taken on the job of sponsoring the Domino Tournament begun by the Chamber of Commerce and held in July every year. Officers of the Jaycees are: Bill Nehls, president; Jerry Hudson, community development vice president; Tommy Churchwell, internal operations vice president; David Trusty, club management vice president; Gary Steffen, treasurer; Keith Hall, secretary; Shelly Hacker, director; Dr. John Myers, director; and Mike Harris, director.

In a recent ad by United Technologies Corp. in the Wall Street Journal was the following optimistic message: "If you sometimes think the front page of the news brings nothing but doom and gloom, here's something to make you feel good about America: in a worldwide survey, it was found that 84 percent of Americans take great pride in their work versus 36 percent of Europeans and 37 percent of Japanese. Of Americans, 71 percent would be willing to fight for their country versus 43 percent of Europeans and 22 percent Japanese. Americans also lead in national pride (80 percent)."

For those of you planning a trip to Washington, D.C., this summer, you can do two things that will make your trip much smoother and better: contact your congressional office for free guides and information; and write for a new guide to the city of Washington. The new paperback book, entitled "Washington Past and Present," costs $4.50 through the U.S. Capitol Historical Society, 200 Maryland Avenue, NE, Washington, D.C. 20002.

As we get into the summer heavy tourist season, it might be well to review some facts that will make you appreciate and cultivate the tourists and visitors to our community. The $12.5 billion that we realized in travel receipts in 1981, the most recent year for which data is available, was surpassed by only two states, California and Florida. We've moved ahead of New York by $100 million.

To put things into perspective, the market value of all Texas crops and livestock in 1981 was $10 billion. Thus, travel now exceeds by $2.5 billion one of this state's most historic and vital economic underpinnings: agriculture.

And, although oil and gas are by far the leading assets in our richly diversified economy, both are no longer as robust as they once were.

While travelers were spending that $12.5 billion across Texas, they also paid $423 million in taxes — $290 million to the State and $133 million to cities and counties. They also were providing jobs for 270,000 Texans and paying them nearly $2.7 billion in wages.

Travel has become big business in Texas and is growing at a faster clip than in the nation as a whole. In 1981, for example, receipts were 15 percent higher than they were a year earlier but for the entire United States the rate of growth was only 10 percent. We must wake up to and take advantage of the benefits from the travel industry!

4-H camp nearing

School is out and summer is coming and along with it is 4-H camp. If interested turn in an application and $10 deposit as soon as possible. It will be held at Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood.

The 4-H Clothing Classic will be held June 2 at Dora Roberts Fair Barns. Cost for the workshop is $5, which will include all workshop materials and lunch. The clothing project will be completed in one day. Thirteen surrounding counties will be there. Registration is at 8 a.m. and workshop is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Come out and join the fun.

The 4-H Council met May 16 and elected new officers. They are: president, Blair Richardson; vice president, Kevin Hamlin; secretary, Greg Miller; treasurer, Frances Camp. New officers will take up at the next meeting. The 4-H Council will meet Friday, June 3 at 10 a.m. in the County Extension Office. Rodeo plans will be made at the meeting.

A 4-H Extravaganza will be held to celebrate the 75th Anniversary of 4-H in Texas. The event will be held on June 11 at the South Plains Fairgrounds. Festivities begin at 10 a.m. and will conclude at midnight. If you are interested, contact the Extension Office by June 3 at 267-1821. Games and races will be held and the festivities will end with a dance.

LABO 4-H exchange students are to arrive July 22 and return Aug. 22. There will be five students staying in Howard County.

The summer is filled with 4-H projects; remember, 4-H is a Family Affair.

Hijacking attempt fails when suspect takes nap

BOSTON (AP) — A man wielding an airline dinner knife tried to hijack a jumbo jet bound from Saudi Arabia to New York Tuesday, but he fell asleep during the long flight and was arrested when the jetliner landed in Boston because of bad weather, authorities said.

There were no injuries among the 145 passengers or 25 crew members.

"It was only a knife that came with the dinner," Massachusetts State Police Cpl. James Colburn said. "There was no terror involved."

The pilot of the plane, an American, at one point left the controls, walked to the passenger section and took away the man's knife, Colburn said, but the man continued to threaten the crew.

Authorities identified the man as Said Ali, 39, a native of Iraq who had been teaching at Loyola University in Chicago.

He apparently had been ejected from Saudi Arabia after a job there failed to materialize when authorities discovered he is a Shiite Moslem, a religious order unpopular in that country. Most Saudis are Sunni Moslems.

"He was asleep when we came on the plane," said state police trooper Tom Chamberlain, one of five officers who arrested the man.

"The ruckus took place about three hours into the flight and then the individual went to sleep," Chamberlain said. "They were afraid when he woke up in Boston that he'd start up again."

Ali was traveling with his 13-year-old daughter, said Phil Orlandella, spokesman for the Massachusetts Port Authority which operates Logan International Airport. The daughter was identified in court records as Soussan Said.

Orlandella said Ali grabbed his dinnerware and demanded that the plane head for Lebanon.

But the plane was diverted to Boston because of bad weather, landing at 6:06 a.m. The flight continued to New York at 9:30 a.m., Orlandella said. It was not clear where in Saudi Arabia the flight, Saudi Airlines SV021, originated.

Police said the man told the crew he felt ill and wanted to go to Europe or Lebanon, but the crew paid no attention to him. Colburn said the unidentified pilot went to the passenger compartment, took a knife from the man and returned to the cockpit and the man then sent up a threatening note in Arabic.

The pilot, Colburn said, "didn't read Arabic, but he had it deciphered by an Arab co-pilot. It threatened the crew and stated that he wanted to be taken to an airport in Europe. The captain went down to talk to the man again. It was never physical. He was never restrained."

Orlandella and Colburn said the man was charged with attempted hijacking and interfering with a flight crew.

However, at East Boston District Court, where the man was arraigned, Chamberlain said state police were not filing a hijacking charge because state law contains no such violation. He said he was unsure what federal authorities intended to do.

Ali pleaded innocent to interfering with the operation of an aircraft and was ordered held on $50,000 bond.

Chamberlain said Ali had been teaching Arabic studies at Loyola and had been in the United States six years. He said the man had gone to Saudi Arabia for a teaching job at the University of Jeddah but was ejected when the Saudis discovered he was a Shiite.

"When the Saudi people found out that he was a Shiite they put him under house arrest and took away his money and put him on a plane," Chamberlain said. "They didn't tell him where they were sending him."

CITY IN RED — Acting Mayor Elaris Robinson of Chesilhurst, N.M., said "We can't even write a check unless the State signs it." The borough is one of two municipalities in New Jersey under receivership. The state government has controlled the boroughs' finances since the depression.

New Jersey borough controlled by state

CHESILHURST, N.J. (AP) — Like many communities in America during the 1930s, Chesilhurst was going broke. But unlike most, this tiny southern New Jersey community still is.

The 1.72-square-mile borough in Camden County midway between Philadelphia and Atlantic City was one of 44 New Jersey municipalities on the verge of bankruptcy during the Great Depression.

Today Chesilhurst, pop. 1,600, is one of only two communities in the Garden State still under receivership, which means the state government handles its finances.

"We can't even write a check unless the state signs it," acting Mayor Elaris Robinson said.

Chesilhurst is an extremely poor community. They have some internal problems that need state advice. I don't think Chesilhurst wants the state to move away from them," said Barry Skokowski, director of the state Division of Government Services.

An unusual provision in New Jersey law calls for the state to take over a municipality's finances when it gets in trouble. "There aren't too many states where the state can step in when there's trouble," Skokowski said. "That's why the state's bond issue might after on Wall Street you can't go bankrupt anymore."

Located about 12 miles from Chesilhurst, also has been state-controlled since the Depression. But Skokowski said that borough will be ready to be on its own very soon.

Chesilhurst has remained under the state's thumb for a half-century because an above-average number of residents in the middle class cannot afford their property taxes. And the borough's financial reputation and lack of a sewer system and 24-hour police keeps revenue-producing businesses from moving in.

Officials say the problem has been aggravated by poor management. Councilmen fired the mayor last month after he missed eight consecutive meetings.

"We've laid dormant for so long," said mayoral candidate Edward Wanzler, who has made the borough's finances an issue in his campaign for his June 7 primary battle with Robinson. "Businesses and developers have a negative image of dealing with the town because it's in receivership."

Unless it gets new businesses that will provide necessary revenue, the borough must collect more than 90 percent of its property taxes for three consecutive years before the state will relinquish control of its finances, the acting mayor said.

Last year, the borough collected only 76 percent.

"Everybody works a part-time job here to make ends meet," said police Sgt. Milton Pinckney, who earns $12,700. "I've been here all my life. I plan to die here. I love the people. I love the community. So I suffer with the taxes."

"The town is growing and things are a little better now. When I came here, I was the dog catcher, census taker, ran a bulldozer, was in charge of streets and roads. I picked up trash and was a part-time policeman — most of it was volunteer work," he said.

Phoenix J. Edwards, 60, who has lived in Chesilhurst most of his life and been a borough councilman since 1963, said officials are trying to get the municipality to stand on its own.

Vietnamese teenagers net schools' top honors

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dung Nguyen knew only the word "no" when she arrived in the United States from Vietnam eight years ago. When Hai Vu immigrated a year later, he knew even less English.

But the two Vietnamese teenagers are the top graduates this spring at two Florida high schools.

Tuesday, Miss Nguyen, 17, graduated as Pensacola High School's valedictorian. Her grade point average of 4.578 on a 4.0 scale — she piled up the extra points by taking honors courses — helped her win a four-year scholarship to Baylor University.

Vu, 18, gave the valedictory address last week at Leesburg High School's commencement ceremonies.

Miss Nguyen said she planned a patriotic speech tonight to her 335-member class about the opportunities in her adopted land. "I'm going to tell them (her classmates) that this country is a great country and they should do their best to keep it that way," she said Monday.

The young woman was nearly 10 years old when she and her family left Vietnam by boat and headed to the Philippines. Once there, they flew to Guam and then to the United States, finally settling at Eglin Air Force Base east of Pensacola, in the Florida Panhandle.

The family learned some English at the base, but "it was pretty slow at first," she said. "I guess it took about six months before I could understand."

She later enrolled in a course that taught foreign students English.

Three weeks ago, she received awards at the high school's honor ceremony for excellence in mathematics, social studies, psychology and English.

"Ye Olde Swimming Hole"

By Johnny Rutherford

SUPERCHLORINATION

To be certain that the more resistant bacteria and organisms are destroyed, it is important to superchlorinate a pool. This is done by adding three times the amount of chlorine normally used. Swimmer wastes like perspiration, urine, suntan oil and hair sprays accumulate as a pool is used. They make eyes sting, irritate skin, dull water and give algae plenty of food to feast on. This makes powerful chlorines weak by forming chloramines. You may use more and more chlorine but get less and less protection. Superchlorination should be done every two weeks. After superchlorinating, let chlorine level drop to normal on test kit (1.5), then maintain at 1.5 until next superchlorination. Superchlorination should be done in the evening; no chlorine will be needed for several days.

US Festival scarred with violence

DEVORE, Calif. (AP) — The body of a young man who apparently died in his sleep was found today at a campsite where thousands spent the night near the violence-scarred US Festival where another person was killed and 145 were arrested earlier.

San Bernardino County Sheriff's Detective George Martin said the 25-year-old man, believed to be from Northern California, did not appear to have met with foul play, but the officer said he did not know the cause of death.

"He died during his sleep last night," Martin said. "We have no idea of the cause of death."

The man returned to the campsite about 1 1/2 miles from the concert bowl Monday night before his companions, who found him snoring when they returned this morning. When they awoke today, Martin said, the man was lying motionless on a mattress.

Up to a half-million music lovers gathered for the festival, which was capped late Monday by a rare U.S. appearance from singer David Bowie. The arrest total for a variety of misdemeanors and felonies was four times higher than the 38 of last year's event.

Rock and bottle throwing occurred early Monday after a concert by the Van Halen group. San Bernardino County Sheriff Floyd Tidwell said lead singer David Lee Roth inflamed the crowd.

"He (Roth) was totally wiped ... saying things like 'Let's show these cops what violence is, let's show these cops what fun is,'" Tidwell told a news conference Monday. "There's no call for that."

Tidwell said later in a telephone interview that Roth "excited" the crowd with four-letter words.

"I wouldn't say he was absolutely responsible. I think he contributed to it (the later violence)," Tidwell said, adding. "There are a couple of bands that never need to come back to our county. Van Halen, for example."

Roth and other performers in the band left the concert site Monday for Los Angeles and were not available for comment, according to members of their entourage.

The sheriff, however, praised the crowds for their behavior overall.

CREATION ON CANVAS — Lois the elephant lends her foot to animal technician Ernie Galbraith at the Kansas City Zoo to create artwork which was auctioned to raise money for expansion of the elephant quarters. Galbraith spread brown paint on Lois' foot and then had Lois step onto the poster and then off. He then smeared paint on Lois' trunk and used it to sign the masterpiece.

Animals lend talents to city zoo auction

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The animals lent a hand — and even a foot — to an auction at the Kansas City Zoo on Tuesday to raise money for expansion of the elephant quarters.

The "Zoo Gala" offered for sale footprints on poster board by the zoo's five-ton elephant, Casey, finger paintings by chimpanzees and scratched designs by birds, said Jan Armstrong, executive director of Friends of the Zoo. Admission to the event is $12.50.

"They just let Casey lift up his foot, then they put the paint on his foot and told him to step down. He put his weight on it so it would be a good print. He seemed to know what they wanted," Mrs. Armstrong said.

She said the elephant had made footprints on paper before for other zoo fundraisers. Casey's slightly oval print is at least 20 inches wide, she said. He imprinted three large poster boards, and two young female elephants, Lois and Lea, also let themselves be "footprinted."

"The pattern on the sole of an elephant's foot is very interesting," Mrs. Armstrong said.

She said the animals, aided by zoo employees, turned out at least 36 pieces of art. The birds were held and paint was applied to their feet before they minced across the paper. But a different tack was taken with the chimps.

"We put the paint on the paper and encouraged them to smear it. Some of them ate it and smeared it. They didn't get to select their colors," the director said.

She said one chimp, apparently trying for a more creative effect, sat in the paint, then scooted across the paper.

The Friends of the Zoo has already raised at least $100,000 and hopes to raise an additional $200,000 for the ongoing renovation of the round building that houses Casey and Penny, an adult female elephant.

The remodeling is aimed at giving Casey his own roomy area inside the elephant building. Last year, Casey attacked two keepers in separate incidents and chased two others from the stall he shares with Penny. They were the first attacks by the 32-year-old elephant since he came to the zoo in 1955.

Casey was moved into the new quarters May 11. Exterior changes still are being made. Zoo officials also want to remodel the building so Casey and Penny can share a stall in breeding season. Only a few zoos have buildings large enough to safely accommodate elephants when they mate, Mrs. Armstrong said.

"Some people feel they become more aggressive when they're breeding," she said.

Cheaters challenged in Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sophisticated surveillance cameras hidden in decorative bobbies or behind smoked glass sweep across plush casinos, picking up details as minute as the number of diamonds in a player's ring.

The unending war between the casino and the chiseler escalates daily, with a small army of surveillance people and elaborate electronic equipment constantly challenging the cheater.

The card sharks of the Wild West era would slip an ace up their sleeves. Today they count cards with the aid of toe-operated calculators concealed in their shoes.

The game is the same — the house vs. the cheater. But now the stakes are in the millions. James Avance, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Control Board, estimates cheaters take $20 million a year from the state's casinos.

Those same casinos spend millions more sorting out customer from cheater — and prosecuting the latter.

"If one man can invent it, another man can figure out how to beat it," Summa Corp. spokesman Fred Lewis says of the never-ending battle to design a cheat-proof slot machine.

With some slots paying jackpots of $1 million or more, the one-armed bandits have become an attractive lure to cheaters and a focal point for surveillance cameras which babysit them around the clock.

"We can tell when a winner began playing one of our progressive slots," says Dave Hull, chief of security at the Las Vegas Hilton. "If someone hits a big jackpot, we can tell when he started, how many coins he's put in. Five people look at a videotape of that jackpot win. We get a computer printout of everything that's gone into that machine. We check every mechanic who's worked on it."

The smart slot cheaters know the attention paid the big winners. They opt to hit quarter machines for less blatant jackpots.

"If they can empty the quarter slots and get repeated payoffs, they can get away with hundreds of dollars a day," says Ralph Wente, a former FBI agent who now heads security for Summa's six casinos.

Some slot cheaters tie a coin to a string, dipping it up and down in the coin slot like a yo-yo. Now there are devices that snip the string.

Some use drills so tiny they can be carried in a woman's purse. The drills quickly chew a tiny hole in the side of the machine, into which a wire is slipped to regulate the spinning reels. When manufacturers countered with hardened steel cases, the cheaters responded with diamond drill bits.

WARY EYE — Surveillance workers at a Las Vegas hotel watch control monitors showing action at the various casino tables. Casinos spend millions annually to combat gaming cheats who take an estimated $20 million annually.

Manufacturers responded with an electrical jolt for the cheater manning the drill or a shrill alarm to alert security guards.

Guards keep a wary eye for clusters of three or four people around a machine — a tell-tale sign that "blockers" are being used to hide the illegal activities of a cheater.

The Gaming Board provides casino security departments with training films detailing cheating operations and how to spot them.

If a cheater is caught,

Nevada law provides he can be detained by hotel security until Gaming Control officers and police arrive.

Wente is in charge of 250 security officers at the Summa properties while Hull heads a 109-member force at the sprawling 3,200-room Las Vegas Hilton.

On the second floor of the Hilton, surveillance specialists watch walls of television receivers. They can aim cameras to any corner of the casino, zeroing in on the action to detect the tiniest of spots on cards fanned out across the green felt.

At the card tables, dealers watch players. Floormen watch dealers. Pit bosses watch floormen. And the surveillance crews, in the "eye" above the casino, watch them all.

They watch for a cheater who might slip a dealer a "cold deck" — arranged in a certain order so the player would know the sequence of the cards.

Dealers have been known to work with cheaters, slipping such decks into the "shoe" from which cards are dealt.

"We had one case where we lost over $50,000 in half an hour because of a cold deck," Wente says. "If we can prove a dealer is involved, we'll prosecute him."

Dealers, floormen, pit bosses and surveillance crews pay strict attention to any markings on cards such as a tiny spot to identify a 10-card, a knick from a fingernail, a slight crease.

And they monitor the sequence of bets.

"If you have someone betting $2 and then they start betting $1,000, you know something may be wrong," says Wente.

"We pay strict attention to the control of the cards and dice from the time we get them from the company until they go on the table," says Wente. "They're not available to anyone except top trusted casino people."

Dice are checked with micrometers to prevent tampering and dealers must always separate the two cubes so a floorman or surveillance worker can see three sides of both cubes at any one time.

Oregon Pharmacist's Wrinkle Cream Great Success

By RICHARD MORRELL
Feature Writer

(Special). Remember when I wrote about the exciting new eb5 Wrinkle Cream discovered by an Oregon Pharmacist and how I described how successful it might become?

Well, not only have all sales records been broken in department stores across the country, but already women are coming in and telephoning and writing to report exciting results with eb5 Cream.

Cosmetic history is being made by a hard-working pharmacist. His dream since Pharmacy School has resulted in a cream which cosmeticians and customers are praising very highly. Reports flow in of how facial lines are being smoothed... many have said they are so pleased that not only does eb5 Wrinkle Cream aid frown-lines, eye-lines, throat-lines, and facial lines, but they are so pleased that eb5 is 5 creams in 1 jar... that is they need no other cream, for eb5 is a wrinkle cream, a night cream, a moisturizer, an eye-cream, and a makeup base all in one.

All I can tell you is this... eb5 appears to be the natural way to help aging skin. It contains

Holy Moses! Malone delivers Sixers

76ers' center, Erving shoot Philly to long-awaited title

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, an overpowering machine in the fourth quarter of every game in the National Basketball Association championship series, are champions at last.

The 76ers dominated the final 12 minutes for a fourth and final time Tuesday night as they rallied for a 115-108 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers to complete a sweep of the defending NBA champions.

The injury-riddled Lakers were trying to become the first team to win consecutive NBA crowns since the Boston Celtics accomplished the feat in 1967-68 and 1968-69.

Instead, they became only the fourth victim of a sweep in the championship series and the first since Golden State beat Washington in four games eight years ago.

Meanwhile, the 76ers have every right to stake their claim as one of the finest teams in the 37-year history of the NBA. They were 65-17 during the regular season, the fifth-best mark ever recorded, and became the first team ever to go through the playoffs with as few as one loss.

"We're going to have to be remembered," said a sweat-soaked Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham amidst a jubilant dressing room celebration. "When you win 12 out of 13 in the playoffs, that's something."

The 76ers, who swept the New York Knicks in four games and eliminated the Milwaukee Bucks in five to qualify for the championship series, trailed the Lakers 93-82 entering the fourth quarter Tuesday night.

But with Moses Malone and Julius Erving leading the way, it was, as Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Lakers likes to say, "winnin' time."

Only not for Los Angeles. Malone, a unanimous choice as the Most Valuable Player of the series, scored nine points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the final period.

And Erving, a member of the three Philadelphia teams that reached the NBA finals in the past six years only to come up empty, also had nine points in the period including seven in a row for the 76ers in the waning minutes.

The Lakers, playing without starting guard Norm Nixon and key reserve forward-center Bob McAdoo, both sidelined with injuries, nevertheless led most of the way.

They went on top 26-24 on a three-point goal by Michael Cooper as the first period ended and, after a couple of ties at the start of the second quarter, the Lakers led until Erving's steal and dunk with 2:02 left tied the game at 106-106.

Johnson, who played all 48 minutes, made a free throw with 1:44 to go, giving the Lakers a one-point lead. But after Kareem Abdul-Jabbar missed a skyhook, Malone rebounded and Erving scored on a fastbreak layup.

He was fouled on the play and made the free throw, giving the 76ers a 109-107 advantage with 59 seconds remaining.

Abdul-Jabbar made one of two free throws with 42 seconds left, drawing the Lakers to within one point, but Erving sank an 18-footer with 24 seconds to go making it 111-108.

After Cooper missed a three-point attempt, Bobby Jones stole the ball from Abdul-Jabbar and Malone scored on a dunk with 11 seconds left. Maurice Cheeks completed the scoring with another dunk with one second to go.

The 76ers scored 20 of the game's final 28 points and 33 in the fourth quarter to only 15 for the Lakers.

All told, Philadelphia outscored Los Angeles 124-79 in the fourth quarters of the four games after trailing at halftime in every game. It was 65-51 at the intermission Tuesday night.

Malone, who signed a six-year, $13 million contract with the 76ers before the 1982-83 season, finished with 24 points and 23 rebounds. In the four games, he averaged 25.8 points and 18.0 rebounds.

Erving finished with 21 points. Philadelphia's starting guards, Andrew Toney and Cheeks, added 23 and 20 points, respectively. Bobby Jones came off the bench to add 13 for the 76ers.

"I remember everybody crying last year in this building," said Erving, referring to Philadelphia's sixth-game defeat that gave the Lakers their second title in three years over the 76ers. "Seven years (before winning the championship) is a long time, but it was worth the wait."

It was his (Erving's) game, he said he was taking over, said Jones. "It's in his back pocket now."

Abdul-Jabbar led Los Angeles with 28 points. Johnson had 27 points and a game-high 13 assists while Wilkes added 21 points for the Lakers.

Wilander destroys McEnroe

Defending champ shatters U.S. hopes for men's crown

PARIS (AP) — Defending champion Mats Wilander of Sweden won 23 points in a row today as he bounced John McEnroe out of the French Open Tennis Championships 1-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0 and ended America's bid for the men's singles title in this clay court event.

After a brilliant first set in which he played a serve-and-volley game on the slow clay of Roland Garros stadium, McEnroe folded. And, in the end, he was completely humiliated as the left-hander won only seven of the last 47 points.

Wilander, the 18-year-old baseliner, will next play the winner of the remaining quarterfinal match, which pitted fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, the 1977 champion, against eighth-seeded Jose Higuera of Spain.

With McEnroe's defeat, once again the U.S. bid for this prestigious clay court title ended in disaster. An American has not won the French men's title since Tony Trabert did it 28 years ago.

The women have a day of rest today following the semifinal qualifications Tuesday by Americans Chris Evert Lloyd and Andrea Jaeger.

McEnroe had been seeded to meet Jimmy Connors in the final, but Connors was eliminated on Tuesday by Christophe Roger-Vasselin of France, who is ranked 130th in the world on the Atari-ATP computer.

Roger-Vasselin, an unseeded 25-year-old, upset the top-seeded Connors 6-4, 6-4, 7-6 to move into the semifinals where he will play fellow Frenchman Yannick Noah, a surprise 7-6, 6-2, 5-7, 6-0 winner over third-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia.

The semifinal pairing guarantees that a Frenchman will reach the final of the French Open, an event a Frenchman hasn't won since Marcel Bernard took the title 37 years ago in 1946.

Wilander's phenomenal run of 23 winning points turned the match just when he seemed about to lose the third set.

McEnroe led 4-2 and was at 40-15 in the seventh game. He had an easy forehand for a 5-2 lead, but missed — and that started it.

Wilander took the next four points to win that game. Then he won four love games in succession.

That took him to 1-0 in the fourth, and he went to 40-love in the next game before McEnroe finally broke the spell.

"It was terrible, the way I played," McEnroe said. "I should have won the third set, but I just missed the shots and lost my concentration."

McEnroe argued over one or two line calls. Wilander thought this disturbed the American's concentration.

"I think he should do this a bit less, and then he would play a bit better," the Swede said.

At the start of the match McEnroe threatened to wipe Wilander off the court. The Swede played his usual cautious game from his baseline, and McEnroe played a series of drop shots that left him flat-footed at the back of the court.

"It surprised me," Wilander said. "Other players have tried to drop shot me, but I had never seen John play shots like that and I didn't know he could do it."

"John showed in the first set, and again in the early part of the third, that he is a very good clay-court player."

THE LAST AMERICAN HOPEFUL TUMBLES HARD... John McEnroe loses in four sets to Mats Wilander

"Later he lost his concentration and did not seem able to get it back," Wilander said. "It is very different from the faster courts."

McEnroe, a three-time U.S. Open champion and a one-time Wimbledon winner, has never made it past the quarterfinals at the French Open.

small stroke and he been plagued by heart problems since then. He was hospitalized in April 1982 when a pacemaker was implanted.

Dempsey spent most of his later years enjoying a simple, private life with his fourth wife, the former Deanna Piatelli. Dempsey, who had two daughters from a previous marriage to singer Hannah Williams, his third wife, gradually limited his public activities to an occasional charity or civic-minded appearance and boxing functions.

"To me, Jack Dempsey was one of the greatest heavyweights that ever lived," said former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali. "He was fast, he had power, he kept coming, he could take a punch, he was controversial and he had personality."

"He was a natural fighter," said Ray Arzel, who has trained 19 world champions and knew Dempsey in the 1920s, "and a very decent man."

Jack Dempsey, boxer of bygone era, dead at 87

NEW YORK (AP) — He had the golden fists in the Golden Age of Sports.

He was an American hero, a man remembered as a great heavyweight boxing champion who achieved riches and worldwide popularity that lasted long after his ring career ended.

Jack Dempsey, who had been declining health in recent years, died Tuesday of natural causes at age 87 in his Manhattan East Side apartment. Dempsey's body will be at the Frank E. Campbell Funeral Home in New York today and Thursday. There will be a private funeral and burial.

"He was a legend," said Jack Sharkey, a Depression Era heavyweight champion who was knocked out by Dempsey in a 1927 fight at New York's Yankee Stadium. "It was universal with him. Wherever he went, people knew who he was."

Dempsey, who began fighting in 1914 as "Kid Blackie" for less than $2 per bout, went on to earn the nickname "The Manassa Mauler" — along with the biggest paydays in a bygone era of sports that included luminaries such as Babe Ruth, Red Grange, Knute Rockne and Bobby Jones.

"He put the sport of boxing into the American mainstream," said Harry Markson, head of boxing at Madison Square Garden from the 1940s through 1973, times when the arena was the mecca of the sport. "He was the first to bring in what was called the million-dollar gate."

Dempsey won the heavyweight title on July 4, 1919, by knocking out Jess Willard and held the crown through Sept. 23, 1926, when he lost to Gene Tunney. Ironically, Dempsey — who won 60 of his 80 bouts, 49 by knockout — defended his title just five times while manager Jack Kearns waited patiently for large purses.

Yet Dempsey did not disappoint his faithful fans during that time as he fought scores of exhibitions all over the country. During an eight-year span, his purses totaled more than $4 million.

Perhaps his most famous fight — and one of the most talked-about bouts in history — occurred when he lost a 10-round decision to Tunney in a second title bout in 1927.

In the seventh round of that fight, Dempsey knocked down Tunney but stood over the fallen champion for several seconds. The referee did not begin counting until Dempsey had moved away, and Tunney was able to get up in time to avoid a knockout. Tunney managed to hold for victory in what became known as "the long count" fight.

Despite the two losses, Dempsey and Tunney remained close friends. When Tunney died in 1978, Dempsey said: "I feel like a part of me is gone."

Dempsey retired from the ring in 1932, but came back to fight three exhibitions — he won all three with second-round knockouts — in 1940. He then went on to referee and promote fights and also worked the corners of several fighters he took an interest in, including Max Baer.

Four years ago, Dempsey suffered a

Philly fans go ultra-beserek as Sixers finally win crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The anticipation had been bottled inside them for many frustrating years, but when Philadelphia finally got a chance to celebrate a National Basketball Association championship, they knew how to let the world know how much they loved their 76ers.

They jumped in glee. They danced ecstatically in the streets. They guzzled and virtually bathed in beer, wine and liquor. They leaned on car horns. And they yelled and screamed until they were hoarse.

Sixers fans literally took over the city Tuesday night and this morning, turning the downtown area into a human zoo.

About 11:30 p.m., with a few minutes left in the 76ers' NBA championship game with the Los Angeles Lakers, the exterior of this city of some 1.6 million people was as quiet as a country hamlet.

But inside the houses and especially the bars, 76er fans were watching noisily and gleefully as their team whittled away at a Laker lead.

When local hero Julius Erving hit a layup to give the 76ers a 108-107 lead with 59 seconds left, several hundred people inside a Bellevue Stratford Hotel bar exploded in jubilation.

"We're No. 1," they began chanting. When Maurice Cheeks hit a layup to give the 76ers their final margin of 115-108, they pulled out all the stops. Dancing on the bar and on table tops, grinning patrons shook their fists at television cameras and hugged each other.

The once-quiet streets quickly became a scene of bedlam.

Traffic cops on horses were ignored, and dozens of people began running madly down Broad Street, one of the city's main thoroughfares.

The Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA) halted all bus and trolley service in the city at 1:40 a.m. today, when crowds made some streets impassable.

The difficulty of driving didn't deter many motorists.

Cars, station wagons and all sorts of vehicles cruised through the downtown area, and the honking of horns became so loud conversation was impossible.

Those who didn't have convertibles made do with sedans and hardtops, hanging out windows and clinging to bumpers and roofs. One young man sat in the middle of the windshield of a small car, waving a 76er pennant.

Mayor William J. Green lauded the 76ers for their "magnificent victory" and their "unparalleled sportsmanship and showmanship."

Pate returns for Kemper Open

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Jerry Pate will make an attempt to return to PGA Tour competition this week in the $400,000 Kemper Open golf tournament.

"The shoulder feels pretty good now. It's almost back to where I want it to be," the bright and breezy Pate said after a practice round over the 7,173 yard Congressional Country Club course.

"I still have to put ice on it after I play, but at least I can swing a club now," said Pate, who is scheduled to make his first start in more than two months Thursday.

Pate, a former U.S. Open champion, has been bothered for almost a year by a neck and shoulder injury he sustained while practicing for last year's British Open.

Pate, troubled by the injury, played poorly early this season and then was forced to withdraw before opening defense of his title in the important Tournament Players Championship in March. He has not played since — missing the Masters among other tournaments — and has only $1,765 in earnings for the year.

"The year's been a loss so far. I'm anxious to get back," said Pate, one of a field of 156 players who will be chasing a $72,000 first prize.

Leading the pack is defending champion Craig Stalder, who will be attempting to turn around a disappointing season on his most productive golf course.

Among his major challengers are David Graham, a winner at Houston and runnerup in the Memorial tournament last weekend, and Jim Colbert, who has finished first and second in his last two starts.

Other 1983 Tour title-winners in the field include Gil Morgan, Bob Gilder, Gary Hallberg, Tom Kite, Hal Sutton, Fuzzy Zoeller and Mike Nicolette.

Controversy mars British Amateur

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Frenchman Philippe Ploujoux, the 1981 British Amateur golf championship and American Joel Hirsch, the man he beat in the final at St. Andrew's that year, are out of this year's event.

Both failed to make the cut on the second day of medal play on the Arnan and Ailsa links of Turnberry and were eliminated from the match-play section beginning today.

Also out were Charlie Green, non-playing captain of the Britain and Ireland Walker Cup team beaten at Hoylake last week and Michael Bonalack, a five-time winner of the tournament.

Of the 64 players through to the match-play stage, 18 were Americans including 39-year-old insurance executive Jay Sigel and five other members of his victorious U.S. Walker Cup squad.

For the second day running, the championship was marred by controversy.

Following Monday's attack by several players on the slowness of the greens and the new format of the 98-year-old tournament, Scottish golfer Stewart Smith walked out Tuesday in disgust at the slow play.

Already angered at spending 4 1/2 hours over his first-round total of 80, Smith retired after just two holes when he resumed Tuesday.

His playing partner Peter Deeble carried on playing, boosted by an impressive 68 on Monday but he was equally unhappy.

Meanwhile, the challenge of at least four Americans will end on Wednesday following the draw for the first round of matchplay.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEA INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning confusion can soon be dissipated by adopting a new attitude. New conditions later in the day make it possible for you to achieve much of value.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make those improvements at home that will bring more harmony and happiness. Study new worthwhile outlets.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make long-range plans to have more profitable days in the future. Adopt a more logical outlook on life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good time to engage in some new enterprise and gain more prestige. Maintain a cheerful manner at all times.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you pursue personal aims in a positive fashion, you can gain them easily. Take steps to improve your health.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Confer with influential persons who can give you the advice you need. Strive for more harmony with family members.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) After business matters are properly handled, get together with good friends and enjoy social pleasures. Be poised.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can communicate very well now with higher-ups and can easily advance in career activities. Use care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) New situations come up in which you can gain benefits if you handle them well. Express happiness with family members.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go through with whatever you have in mind in connection with a close tie and get excellent results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to make new deals in connection with associates with good results. Don't be too demanding of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Schedule your work well in the morning and then all works out smoothly the rest of the day. Use common sense.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use practical sense in all your business dealings at this time. You can realize a most cherished aim if you apply yourself more.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand what is needed to get ahead in any matter, be it of a personal or business nature and can bring harmony between arguing factions. This is a devoted and loving person here and will be happy in marriage.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Black pitches KC by Rangers, 6-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — When Bud Black pitches for the Kansas City Royals, Texas Manager Doug Rader sees red.

Black was called up from Omaha May 21 and has started twice. He's defeated the Rangers both times.

Black didn't feel well, had a poor fastball, and only lasted six innings Tuesday night but it was good enough to beat the Rangers 6-5.

Black scattered five hits over six innings before Mike Armstrong and Dan Quisenberry gave him relief help. Quisenberry earned his 12th save, tops in the American League.

American League

"I felt bad, I didn't feel 100 per cent," said Black. "I had a 100 degree fever."

It was Texas' fourth consecutive loss and ninth in their last 11 games.

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser said, "Bud wasn't sharp. He didn't feel good and his stuff was not as good. He pitched good enough to win, though."

Quisenberry got the last four outs and Howser said, "He did it all last year and this year has been no surprise. He has been great."

He's the guy you want out there. If he can't do it nobody else can."

Hal McRae's two-run double capped a four run fourth inning for the Royals to give them a 6-1 lead off eventual loser Danny Darwin, 3-5.

Indians 5, Mariners 2

Cleveland Stadium is 320 feet down the lines, 377 in left-center, 385 in right-center and 400 feet straightaway. It holds 74,208 spectators, but none of the fans who patronize the building had seen a home run hit by the Indians since April 9.

Until Tuesday night.

The Indians had sent 637 men to bat at Cleveland Stadium since George Zelevovich and Julio Franco hit consecutive homers in the Indians' home opener. Andre Thornton was No. 638.

Thornton lined his sixth homer of the season to lead off the second inning, and the Indians got some fine pitching from Juan Eichelberger and Dan Spillner to beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2.

Eichelberger, 2-3, worked 6 2-3 innings, giving up six hits, and Spillner retired the last seven Seattle hitters for his sixth save.

Dave Henderson hit a two-run homer for the Mariners.

Red Sox 2, White Sox 1

Boston pulled within a half-game of AL East-leading Toronto, which was idle, by ending Chicago's four-game winning streak with Ojeda and Bob Stanley combined on a seven-hitter to outduel White Sox left-hander Floyd Bannister, who went the distance.

Ojeda, 3-1, surrendered a first-inning homer to Carlton Fisk, one of four hits off the Boston lefty, and Stanley yielded the dither three hits while earning his 10th save.

Yankees 5, Angels 2

Ken Griffey ripped a two-run single to snap a 3-3 tie and cap New York's winning four-run rally in the eighth inning, giving the Yankees five straight victories.

The rally ruined the night for California starter Bill Travers, who hasn't pitched in two years and hasn't won a game since August, 1980. Travers took a 3-1 lead into the eighth, when he walked Roy Smalley.

Don Baylor's sacrifice fly and an RBI single by Lou Piniella tied the score 3-3 before Griffey delivered his two-run hit. The big inning was helped along by a double steal executed by Roy Smalley and Dave Winfield.

Brewers 5, A's 2

Robin Yount's two-run double sparked Milwaukee to four runs in the third inning, backing Moose Haas to his third victory in four decisions. Haas scattered eight hits for the Brewers, retiring 14 in a row at one point.

Yount sustained a cut leg in the inning and was taken to a Milwaukee hospital. He received nine stitches in his left shin.

Twins 10, Orioles 3

Randy Bush and Gary Gaetti drove in three runs apiece, and Kent Hrbek went 2-for-3 with three runs scored as the Twins pounded out 16 hits to beat Baltimore. Ken Schrom won his fourth game without a loss by scattering seven hits.

Schrom held together his perfect major league record with the victory. He is now 6-0 lifetime, including parts of two seasons with Toronto.

Eddie Murray hit a two-run homer for the Orioles.

Astros survive Cubs' grand slam

CHICAGO (AP) — How'd you like to give up a grand-slam homer and win?

"Big deal," said Houston reliever Frank LaCorte, who did just that Tuesday as his Astro teammates pounded out a 12-10 win over the Chicago Cubs. "I never want to pitch here (at Wrigley Field) again."

Sandwiched among Houston's 19 hits was a two-run homer from Alan Ashby, his fourth, and solo shots from Phil Garner — his seventh, one of four RBIs — and Tim Tolman — his second, both in pinch-hitting roles. Ray Knight added a quiet 4-for-5 with a pair of RBIs.

The ailing Cubs, who dropped their fourth straight, had to settle for 13 hits. Their only round-tripper came on Ryne Sandberg's first career grand slam, a sixth-inning drive off LaCorte that gave Chicago its last lead at 9-8.

A two-run double in the second-inning gave Sandberg six RBIs on the day.

National League

Tolman turned the tide for good in the bottom of the seventh with his one-out homer off Cub reliever Craig Lefferts, who proceeded to hit the next batter, Omar Moreno.

Moreno's subsequent stroll toward the mound, while still carrying his bat, earned him an ejection, but pinch-hitter Tony Scott singled and Lefferts walked Dickie Thon to load the bases.

"We're an optimistic club," said Garner, whose 35 RBIs put him within striking distance of the National League lead. "Even when we're getting beat."

Houston Manager Bob Lillis concurred.

"Games in this ballpark are always tough because you can never have enough runs," he said. "But it's OK when you come out on top."

Despite the loss, Elia managed a smile Tuesday for the same television camera crew he had shoved out of his office one day earlier.

The row was televised Monday night by WBBM-TV and earned Elia his second talking-to from General Manager Dallas Green within the last month.

"I forgot about it as soon as they left," said Elia. "It wasn't until 15 minutes later (apparently after seeing the incident on television) that I realized I'd been in a slugfest."

Last month, after a tough, boo-filled loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers, Elia lashed into the fans and caught his first rebuke from Green.

Giants 2, Mets 1

Just because Chili Davis isn't hitting doesn't mean he can't win games for you. Without a hit in his last 17 at-bats, Davis used his glove to help the hot San Francisco Giants beat the New York Mets 2-1 Tuesday night.

"Chili's catch was a gamesaver," said San Francisco's Darrell Evans after the Giants closed out May with a 19-7 record.

Hubie Brooks led off the Mets' eighth inning with a drive to the center field fence on a pitch from Giants starter Bill Laskey. Davis raced back and caught the ball as he leaped against the fence, tumbling to the ground.

Laskey, 7-4, won his seventh straight decision getting relief help in the eighth from Gary Lavelle, who gained his eighth save. Scott Holman, 0-3, was the loser.

Braves 10, Pirates 2

Claudell Washington and Brett Butler lined two-run triples, and Bob Horner belted a three-run homer as Atlanta routed Pittsburgh.

Winning pitcher Phil Niekro, 2-4, allowed just three hits over five innings before leaving because of strained hamstrings suffered when he slid into home plate in the fourth inning. Steve Bedrosian worked the final four innings for his sixth save.

Niekro also had an RBI single and struck out two to move past Cy Young into 11th place in the all-time major-league strikeout list with 2,813.

Reds 2, Cardinals 1

Alan Knicely and Paul Householder each knocked in a run, scoring Ron Oester both times, to lead Cincinnati over St. Louis.

Right-hander Charlie Puleo, 1-2, held the Cardinals to five hits before needing relief help in the eighth from Bill Scherrer, who posted his third save.

Padres 5, Expos 3

Steve Garvey hit a two-run homer with one out in the eighth inning to lead San Diego past Montreal.

Garvey's blow came off Expos reliever Jeff Reardon, 2-3, and was his ninth of the year.

John Montefusco, 3-1, the third San Diego hurler, worked the final two innings to gain the victory.

Dodgers 4, Phillies 1

Greg Brock hit a home run leading off the fifth inning to break a 1-1 tie, leading Los Angeles over Philadelphia behind Jerry Reuss' seven-hitter. Brock ended a long hitting slump with his first homer in two weeks.

Steve Yeager hit a two-run homer in the seventh to give winning pitcher Reuss, 6-3, some breathing room.

DOG-GONE IT, GUYS — Texas Rangers pinch hitter Larry Bittner takes a kick at his batting helmet after his fly ball was caught on the warning track for the final out Tuesday night against Kansas City. The Royals won the game, 6-5.

Zimmerman, Joyner win specialties

HOUSTON (AP) — The high jump and long jump events were stepping stones to NCAA titles for Indiana's Kerry Zimmerman and UCLA's Jackie Joyner in the heptathlon.

Zimmerman and Joyner won each event to give their schools an early edge in the NCAA Track and Field Championships that resume today at Robertson Stadium on the University of Houston campus.

But Zimmerman needed the two victories to overcome his deficiencies in the 400-meter dash and 1,500-meter run where he finished next to last and last, respectively.

HURDLES HELP OUT — Kerry Zimmerman of Indiana clears the hurdles during the decathlon event at the NCAA Track and Field Championships Tuesday in Houston. Zimmerman won the event as the annual spring meet opened at the University of Houston.

"I would say lower than average, below 50 percent," Zimmerman said when asked of his chances of winning the two-day event. "I haven't been training an awful lot because I'm a long jumper, high jumper for Indiana and at our conference meet, I had to score in those."

Zimmerman hopes to score more points in the events in competition later this week.

Zimmerman, 23, won the long jump in 25 feet, 3 1/4 inches and the high jump in a meet record tying 7-0 1/2 and tied for first in the pole vault with a leap of 14-9.

He finished 10th among 11 runners in the 400-meter dash and was last in the final event, the 1,500-meter run for a 7:81.0 winning total.

Orville Peterson of

Campbell, had second place finishes in the high jump and 110-meter hurdles and placed second to Zimmerman with 7,743.

Mike Ramos of Washington was third in the competition with 7,732 points.

Joyner, a 21-year-old all-around athlete from East St. Louis, Mo., broke her collegiate record for the second straight year in the event but failed in an attempt to break the American record of Jane Fredeick, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Joyner needed to run the final event, the 800 meters, in 2:08.5 to break the American record but she finished fourth with a 2:15.07 clocking, far below her personal record of 2:09.32.

Joyner finished 377 points ahead of Marlene Harmon, a freshman at California State-Northridge with 5,988 points. Houston's Patsy Walker, the 1981 Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women champion, finished third with 5,962 points.

Frederick holds the American record of 6,458 points, set last July 17-18 in a dual meet against the Soviet Union at Santa Barbara, Calif. Joyner finished fifth in that event.

Sox split again

SAN ANGELO — Home runs by John Morelion and Fernie Paradez in the eighth inning lifted the Big Spring Red Sox to a doubleheader split with the Lions here this past weekend.

San Angelo won the first game 5-2, erasing an early 2-0 Sox lead and handing Paradez his first loss of the season.

The second game began as a pitcher's duel but turned into a slugfest, ending in a 13-13 tie after seven innings. Morelion smashed a solo home run to give Big Spring the lead and following a single by Luis Rodriguez, Paradez added his second homer of the day to secure the victory.

Morelion, Rodriguez and Paradez had three hits each while Ernie Garcia and Jesse Olague had two for the Sox.

Pardee first Gamblers head coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack Pardee is throwing away his conservative tag to become a Gambler.

Pardee was named head coach Tuesday of the United States Football League Houston Gamblers, whose owners have promised a high-scoring, entertainment-oriented offense when the Gamblers open play next season.

Pardee gained a conservative reputation as head coach of the National Football League Chicago Bears and Washington Redskins, but he's ready to switch philosophies.

"What good coach isn't a gambler," Pardee said. "You don't want to shoot craps on every down but you want to come up with the odds and beat them."

"We want to win but in an entertaining way. We don't want to put the fans to sleep. We'll try to put on a good show. Football has gone that way."

Pardee, a former NFL coach of the year, signed a five-year contract with the Gamblers for an undisclosed sum.

Pardee's new style of coaching fits in with managing general partner Jerry Argovitz' plan.

"What I've said all along is that we'll have an exciting football team," Argovitz said.
