Murder defendant says witnesses lied

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

A Big Spring woman accused of shooting a 10-year-old girl said this morning prosecution witnesses lied yesterday at her murder trial in 118th District Court.

Nelta Thompson, 54, of 1609 Avion is charged in the May 17, 1980 shooting death of Michaela Marlene Reeves on Hilltop Road.

An eight-man, four-woman jury recessed at 9:55 a.m. today and was expected to hear more testimony at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Thompson was the first witness called by the defense today as the prosecution rested after three witnesses testified yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Thompson contradicted earlier testimony that she was arguing with her daughter-in-law, Patty Howell, the night in question.

The state contends she was planning on causing bodily harm to Mrs. Howell when the young girl was killed.

The defendant also disagreed with her 1980 statement made after the incident under questioning from assistant district attorney Don Richard. That statement said Mrs. Howell hit her; she fell across the car and the gun went off in her purse.

She testified today Mrs. Howell never hit her and was never near the car.

According to the witnesses called Wednesday by Assistant District Attorney Don Richard, the following events occurred:

Mrs. Thompson was arguing at the 1507 Hilltop Road house with Mrs. Howell the night of May 16, 1980. Mrs. Thompson's son, Woodrow, was also present during the argument. Mrs. Thompson contacted a friend, H.E. McMahan, to pick her up there around 12:45 a.m. McMahan arrived in a white Mercury with two juveniles, Michaela and 12-year-old Patsy Hulet. He was babysitting the two that night.

Mrs. Thompson walked to the car from the house as McMahan opened the passenger door. She placed her purse on the hood and was going through it. A gun in the purse went off, the shot piercing the windshield.

The bullet struck Michaela in the head, who was in the back seat with Miss Hulet.

The shot also wounded Mrs. Thompson. Howard County sheriff's deputy Gary Porter (the first state witness) then arrived to place her under arrest. Michaela died two days later at a Lubbock hospital. However, Mrs. Thompson testified that Mrs. Howell and her son were arguing when she called for McMahan to pick her up. She said she and Mrs. Howell were getting along well that night, even exchanging recipes and patterns.

"Woody was knocking Patty around...saying 'This is all that bitch understands,'" Mrs. Thompson said.

Linda Eggleston of Andrews testified Wednesday she heard Mrs. Thompson say she was trying to shoot her daughter-in-law when her gun went off. Mrs. Eggleston lived next door to the 1507 Hilltop house at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Eggleston said McMahan said "Nelta, you shot this little girl deader than hell."

She said Mrs. Thompson replied: "Well, god damn, I was trying to kill the bitch in the house."

Under cross-examination from defense attorney Roy Ford, Mrs. Eggleston said she did not see the shooting. She said she heard the exchange between McMahan and Mrs. Thompson from a bedroom window between 30 and 35 feet away.

However, McMahan testified yesterday he heard Mrs. Thompson only say she had shot herself after the gun went off. The retired truck driver told the jury Mrs. Thompson placed her purse on the fender of the car and said something about looking for her keys.

"Next thing I know there's an explosion... a shot come through the windshield... I saw Kay Lea (Michaela) slumped in Patsy's lap," McMahan said. "I hollered at

Area school districts to gain minimum aid

From staff and bureau reports AUSTIN — Two area school districts will gain in minimum state aid despite a report by the Texas Education Agency which says most Texas districts will suffer financially because of the Legislature's failure to update a school finance law.

The Big Spring Independent School District will lose about $180,000 during both years of the next biennium.

School districts that will gain money are: In Forsan ISD, 1983-84 — $4,800, 1984-85 — $4,500.

In Stanton ISD, $10,300, $11,000. Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum said Wednesday that previous reports saying 502 school districts would lose $110 million in state aid were wrong. However, he said 162 districts still will suffer from the Legislature's failure to update a law that would allow the money to be spent. He estimated $45 million would be

Face lifts planned for several streets

Streets in Kentwood, College Heights and Douglas additions will get a face lift this month as the city begins its annual street maintenance program.

Big Spring city councilmen contracted Price Construction Co. to seal coat about 214,100 square yards of city streets for 71 cents per square yard, costing an estimated $152,011.

Work begins at 8 a.m. Monday, June 20 and should be finished June 29.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said all vehicles, cars, trucks and trailers customarily parked in the streets should be relocated during the time the contractor is in that neighborhood. The contractor first sweeps the street, applies emulsion and then lays coated aggregate that is rolled before the streets are opened again for traffic.

Decell said Price Construction will be working on the following schedule:

June 20-21: Kentwood Addition — 25th from Birdwell to Larry; McDonald from Rebecca to Central; Merrily from Rebecca to Joshua; Ann from McDonald to Milborn; Central from McDonald to Merrily; and all of Rebecca, Carol, Lynn, Cindy and Larry streets.

June 22-25: Douglas Addition — Parkway from Wason to Vicky; Alamesa, from Wason to Parkway; Laurie, from Connally to Parkway; Dixon from Laurie to Alamesa; Hamilton from Laurie to Alamesa; Calvin from Alamesa to Wason; Connally from Alamesa to Wason; Cecilia from Connally to Tingle; and all of Caroline, Hatch and Adams.

June 27-29: College Heights Addition — Tulane from Kentucky to Fourth; Kentucky from Birdwell to Baylor; Rutgers from Tulane to Baylor; all of Baylor, Dartmouth, Bucknell, Colgate, Purdue, Yale and Harvard.

Rain-hungry farmers plan to begin planting season

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

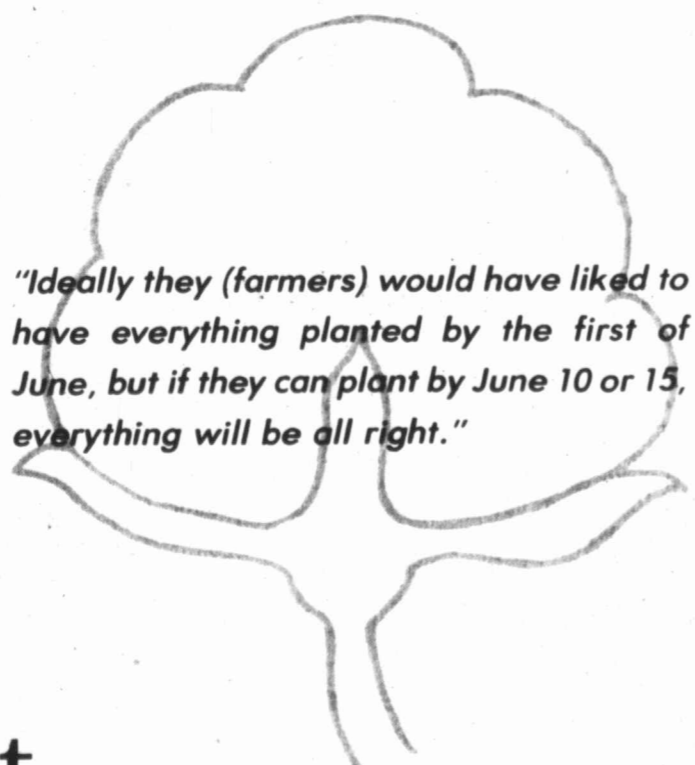

Howard County farmers who have held up planting cotton because of a lack of rain will probably be heading into the fields this week to start a crop.

Don Richardson, Howard County agriculture extension agent, said some farmers have already planted, gambling that it will rain, while others are "still scratching their heads" about when to plant.

He said farmers are more optimistic now that the area has gotten rain in recent weeks, but they are two to three weeks behind for optimum planting conditions.

"It's serious, but not critical," Richardson said. "Ideally they (farmers) would have liked to have everything planted by the first of June, but if they can plant by June 10 or 15, everything will be all right."

"Ideally they (farmers) would have liked to have everything planted by the first of June, but if they can plant by June 10 or 15, everything will be all right."

Cotton yields decline if not planted by the middle of June, according to Richardson.

He said rain in Howard County had been sporadic with some areas receiving more than others. He said the Luther and Knott areas remain fairly dry, while around Vincent and Coahoma the rains have been more generous.

According to the U.S. Experiment Station, rainfall in about 3 inches below normal for this year.

Richardson said about 50,000 acres were slated for cotton in Howard County, roughly half the acreage in recent years.

The reason for the cutback is the U.S. government's "Payment In Kind" program designed to lessen surpluses and eventually raise the price of crops.

Richardson said most farmers were planting grain sorghum as an alternate crop.

Q. Why don't they list programs for the Spanish Independent Network in the Herald Leisure TV guide?
A. Thanks to this question, the Herald Leisure section will begin listing SIN's programming in this Sunday's paper.

Calendar: LULAC meets

• The Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee meets at 5 p.m. at the chamber conference room.
• The Big Spring Christian Tennis Association will meet at 7 p.m. at the Figure 7 Tennis Center in Comanche Trail Park.

• Residents in these areas may see discolored water and water pressure fluctuations as city employees service fire hydrants: Anna, Lorilla, Creighton and Willia streets in Settles Heights Addition; near Southland Apartments and the rodeo grounds; and Chanute, Ent and Gunter streets in Capehart Addition.
• The Genealogical Society will meet at 7:15 p.m. at the Howard County Library.

FRIDAY

• The Howard County Library will host a Lunch and Learn program at noon. 4-H members will demonstrate projects.

Tops on TV: Claire and Bill

At 6:35 p.m. on channel 11 the Los Angeles Dodgers take on the Atlanta Braves. At 9 p.m. on channel 13 "Hill Street Blues" has an episode in which Renko learns that his old girlfriend is Joe Coffey's new flame, and officers recover the governor's dog stolen by a street gang.

Outside: Warm

Partly cloudy with warm temperatures today and Friday. High today expected near 90, while the low tonight should be in the mid 60s. Winds from the south at 10-20 miles per hour. High Friday expected in the lower 90s. Forecasters are also predicting a 20 percent chance of rain for today.

Congress tries to compromise budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional negotiators trying to piece together a compromise budget are grappling over a plan to limit the increase in military spending to 5 percent, half of what President Reagan has requested.

Conferees from the House and Senate began their bargaining Wednesday on separate budget blueprints passed by each chamber, and were continuing today with the focus on defense.

The $863.6 billion 1984 budget plan adopted by the Democrat-controlled House in March called for defense spending authority of $263.8 billion. House Democrats say this would be a 4 percent increase after inflation, but the Congressional Budget Office estimates it would be a 2.3 percent increase.

Reagan had asked in February for a 10 percent increase. The $849.7 billion budget adopted by the Senate last month calls for $270.6 billion for defense, or about a 6 percent increase.

Congressional sources who insisted that they not be quoted by name said it appeared likely that the negotiators would split the difference between the House and Senate figures and settle on a 5 percent increase, or between $267 billion and $268 billion.

However, it was expected there would be heated discussions over the volatile defense issue before the agreement is reached.

"We've got to argue (the) 4 percent (limitation) very strongly," Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., said of the House position.

As the talks began Wednesday, it was clear that the negotiations would be difficult and warnings that a failure to reach agreement on an overall spending plan could imperil the nation's economic recovery.

"I think we'll have chaos if we don't have a budget resolution," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. He added that "chaos will lead to abortion of the recovery."

"We'll need all the political skills and all the ability we can muster at statesmanship" to draft a plan that can pass both houses of Congress, said Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Meanwhile, the political bickering that accompanied the congressional budget process all year flared among the conferees Wednesday.

Rep. Ed Bethune, R-Ark., reflected the view of conservative Republicans in the House who say both the House and Senate budget plans are unacceptable and that they will have enough votes to sustain Reagan's vetoes of spending and tax bills he deems excessive.

"You might get a document out of here that would pass both houses," Bethune told the other conferees, but it will be rejected "at the White House."

Panetta replied, "Anybody who thinks that the game of veto and counterveto and override is a way to replace the budget process is asking for a scenario of chaos. And chaos is not going to be able to be a foundation for economic recovery."

British election winds down

LONDON (AP) — Conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, strongly favored to win a second term, asked voters for a landslide victory in British national elections today to "banish forever" extreme left-wing socialism.

"We are hopeful. I think we are going to win," Mrs. Thatcher said as she and her husband, Denis, went to vote 20 minutes after the polls opened this morning.

Four last-minute opinion polls released today gave the Conservatives a lead averaging 20 points over Labor.

But 69-year-old Michael Foot, leader of the socialist Labor Party, shrugged off the opinion surveys, saying, "We'll see what the real polls say today." He maintained throughout the month-long election campaign that the published polls did not reflect the degree of nationwide support for his opposition party.

Voting got off to a brisk start in hazy sunshine in London and most other parts of Britain, but a morning drizzle cut the turnout in northern England. A turnout of 75 to 80 percent of the 42.7 million eligible voters was predicted.

Turnout was reported heavy in Mrs. Thatcher's north London constituency of Finchley, and in the Hillside district of Glasgow, Scotland, where Social Democratic leader Roy Jenkins was in a tough battle to hold onto his parliamentary seat.

Liberal leader David Steel voted 20 yards from his home in the tiny Scottish border village of Ettrickbridge. "I indulged myself," he told reporters. "I voted for myself I can tell you."

Opinion polls showed the new centrist alliance of Jenkin's and Steel's parties jostling with Labor for second place. Some forecasts said the Conservatives could capture more than 400 seats in the House of Commons, the biggest landslide since Stanley Baldwin's Conservative victory in 1935.

A total of 2,579 candidates were contesting 650 seats, expanded from 635 in the last Parliament, due to boundary changes.

"I want as big a vote as possible," said the prime minister, who urged voters "to banish forever the dark, divisive clouds of extreme left-wing socialism."

Mrs. Thatcher voted in London's Chelsea and Westminster district, where Conservative Peter Brooke was seeking re-election. The district covers her 10 Downing St. official residence.

Crippled jet limps to landing

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A crippled airliner with 15 people aboard limped to a "pretty good" landing on two of four engines after an engine exploded, blowing loose a propeller that gashed the fuselage, authorities said.

Reeve Aleutian Airways Flight 8, a Lockheed Electra turboprop on a run from the Alaska Peninsula to Seattle, landed Wednesday night on its second approach to Anchorage International Airport after circling for about two hours to burn fuel, officials said. Dozens of spectators cheered as the plane touched down.

No injuries were reported among the five crew members or 10 passengers, who slid down emergency chutes after the plane rolled to a stop a few feet off the runway.

The pilot, Capt. Jim Gibson, "made a pretty good landing," said Andrew Laux, control tower supervisor. "There's a little fire around one of the wheels, but it's just a tire," he said after the plane landed. Firefighters quickly hosed down the smoking rubber.

The pilot had "very little control" over the plane and had to stand on the brakes to get the craft to stop, officials said.

During the tense period as the plane circled west of Anchorage before making its final approach, scores of observers gathered, including airport personnel, emergency crews and townspeople who had heard of the trouble.

As the plane touched down, they burst into cheers. Most passengers stayed calm during the incident, said Richard Krueger, 37, of Seattle, one of those on board. "I always think positive," he said.

The airline kept the crew from talking to reporters. The pilot initially reported problems at about 2 p.m. Alaska Standard Time (7 p.m. EDT), shortly after taking off for Seattle from Cold Bay, about 600 miles southwest of Anchorage, said Dave Jensen, airline vice president.

The plane's right, outboard engine "exploded" and its propeller blew loose, ripping a vertical gash in the fuselage about 8 feet high and 4 feet deep, said Jim Michelangelo, chief of the National Transportation Safety Board in Alaska.

In Washington, NTSB spokesman Ira Furman said investigators were being sent to the airport today to look at the aircraft's engines, cabin damage and controls.

Gibson had chosen to fly to Anchorage, instead of returning to Cold Bay, because of the Anchorage airport's fire and rescue facilities, Michelangelo said. The plane was escorted by military C-130 planes and helicopters, officials said.

'Cunning' housewife convicted

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — A "cunning" housewife was convicted of killing her husband and poisoning her daughter with arsenic for the insurance money, ending a bizarre saga in which she set up a new life in New Hampshire, then faked her death in Texas.

Audrey Marie Hilley, 50, had been a fugitive for more than three years, remarrying and establishing a comfortable life in New England before her capture.

She was convicted Wednesday of murder and attempted murder.

"We feel like it's probably the final chapter in a long saga that probably should be ended at this time," said Assistant District Attorney Joe Hubbard, who helped prosecute the case.

Hubbard had described Mrs. Hilley as a clever woman who would kill for financial gain from the insurance policies on her husband, Frank, and her daughter, Carol, that named her as beneficiary.

"You're not dealing with the average housewife," Hubbard said. "You are dealing with a cold, calculating, cunning killer."

Carol Hilley, age 19 when she was diagnosed as suffering from arsenic poisoning, showed no emotion when the jury foreman announced the verdicts against her mother, but later asked to see her.

Prosecutors accused Mrs. Hilley of slipping doses of arsenic to her husband, resulting in his death in 1975. Carol fell ill in the spring of 1979 and suffered from nausea, vomiting and paralysis in her arms and legs. She was diagnosed that September and recovered after months of physical therapy.

Mrs. Hilley, arrested after her daughter's diagnosis, fled a Birmingham motel in late 1979. She was captured Jan. 12, 1983, in Brattleboro, Vt.

CHURCH REJECTS MIRACLE CLAIM — A "weeping" madonna that drew thousands to a rural California church in Thornton, Calif., doesn't seem to be a miracle, Bishop Roger M. Mahony of the Diocese of Stockton, Calif., who had reviewed the results of the year-long study, said Wednesday.

Crying madonna labeled a hoax

STOCKTON, Calif. (A) — Angry believers denounced a panel of priests as "a bunch of devils" after the clergymen ruled that a "weeping" Madonna in a rural Roman Catholic church is probably a hoax, not a miracle.

One woman, LaVerne Pitta, burst into tears when the findings were announced Wednesday by the Diocese of Stockton.

Manuel Pitta protested that "these investigators are not investigators. They are a bunch of devils. How can they do this?"

And Antonio Usuna, whose wife says she was cured of asthma after praying to the statue of the Virgin Mary, dismissed the diocesan report, saying, "I believe in it (the statue)."

Reports that the 60-pound statue sheds real tears and can move as far as 30 feet from its niche in Mater Ecclesias Mission Church in Thornton began circulating two years ago.

Church attendance has tripled since then, with as many as 600 people visiting each week.

Last year, the diocese named a commission to study the reports. In announcing the panel's findings, Bishop Roger M. Mahony said the events connected with the statue "do not meet the criteria for an authenticated appearance of Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ."

The statue may have been moved by someone, and the tears may have been applied, he said. "No one has ever reported actually seeing the 'tears' flow from the eyes of the statue," he said. "Rather, it was reported that at a given time, liquid was on the face of the statue."

Mahony said one witness reported touching the liquid, which was oily and sticky, and "certainly not the texture or consistency of human tears."

Miracles validated by the Roman Catholic Church, he said, always have been accompanied by a clear, important message. But in this case, "there is no report of any clear and important message in the context of Christ's work of salvation," he said.

"One could rightfully question, therefore, the reason for the divine or supernatural phenomena alleged to have taken place," the bishop said.

Mater Ecclesias is an outpost of St. Anne's Catholic Church in Lodi. It should be kept "as a parish mission rather than a shrine," said the Rev. Harmon Skillin, pastor of St. Anne's.

'Not guilty' is not same as 'innocent'

In New York recently, a man who spent 24 years in prison for murder before his conviction was overturned on appeal was awarded $1 million in damages by the state Court of Claims. A prosecutor had withheld evidence and knowingly used perjured testimony.

Any story of this type gets great attention. A common feeling in this country is that it is better to let a thousand guilty men go free than to convict a single innocent man.

And yet, no human institution is perfect. There will always be one case, even if it is only one in a million, where an innocent man is found guilty.

And what about the guilty men who are not convicted? It happens far more often than an innocent man is sent to prison. It is not a big story and it results in no damage suits.

THE MERE FACT THAT a jury returns a verdict of not guilty does not prove that a defendant is innocent. Insufficient evidence does not amount to exoneration. There may be probable cause to believe the defendant guilty; there may even be a preponderance of the evidence against him. But if there is a reasonable doubt in the mind of even one juror, he must go free. In most cases, then, acquittal is not proof of innocence. Yet people often say and news reporters commonly report that a person has been found innocent when in fact he has only not been found guilty to a moral certainty.

Rarely, trial evidence may prove a person innocent. But there is no formal way for a jury to return a verdict to that effect.

Nor does an appeals court exculpate a defendant when it finds he was wrongly convicted because of legal error. Error is responsible for his release but does not change the fact of his guilt, if he is guilty. He is not vindicated, except under the legal doctrine that all men are innocent until proven guilty.

THAT DOCTRINE IS good law. But that is not the way people conduct their everyday affairs. Instead, many adopt the premise laid down by the Queen of Hearts in Alice: guilty until proven innocent.

Around the Rim

Gregg St. Blues

Since people are always moving in to Big Spring, many are probably not familiar with the rules of driving down Gregg Street. As a public service, today's column space will be devoted to newcomers in hopes they will soon enjoy traversing our town's favorite street.

First, a few basic facts. Where is Gregg Street? It's a four-lane thoroughfare running north and south through the heart of Big Spring. Outside the city limits, it's known as State Highway 87.

Where did it get its name? Fifteen months ago, City Councilmen voted unanimously to change the name from "Daffodil Lane" to "Gregg Street" in honor of a famous Big Spring sports writer. Unfortunately, when making the first stencil, Councilman Russ McEwen had his mind on a church league basketball game and misspelled the name as "Gregg."

WHY IS THERE a Gregg Street? Good question. Most fast-service operations are located on the street including food, gasoline and laundry businesses. Also, it provides the youth of the city a central location to cruise on weekend nights. This is also an aid to local police who don't have to chase the kids all over town.

When was Gregg Street established? According to the book "Very Obscure Facts About Howard County," Gregg Street began as a tree-lined dirt road bounded by ditches in 1893. Wild daffodils grew during the springtime in the ditches. At the turn of the century, armadillo herds were driven from the Big Bend regions to Abilene, Kan., right through, you guessed it, Gregg Street.

NOW YOU know a little about historic Gregg Street. Gone are the armadillos, horse-n-buggies and model-T's (did you know a B-52 once mistook Gregg Street for the Webb AFB runway in dense fog and pulled into the Gibson's parking lot?). So how do you drive a modern-day vehicle on Gregg Street?

Before you turn on to Gregg, clear all sense from your mind. It's no use fighting the traffic in a proper frame of mind, you'll just go bonkers.

Pull up at a cross-street. When the approaching car is within a half block of your vehicle, pull out. Don't accelerate. Just ease out and pretend you're daydreaming. Not only will this almost cause a huge wreck, it'll make the driver of the other car shout naughty things at you.

Now you're on Gregg Street. If you want to drive 15-20 mph, pull in to the left-hand lane in order to stifle the faster traffic. When they blast their horns or tail-gate you, don't look in your mirror; make them think you don't see them.

Perhaps you would like to turn off Gregg. Don't signal under any conditions. When you get to your turn-off, hit the brakes. This will surprise the person behind you and could cause a terrific pile-up. Makes great pictures in the newspaper.

Sometimes the drives get pretty boring. Why not try to run down a bicyclist? The best way is to zoom just a few feet past and then turn in front of him. This gives the young man a chance to see how well his hand-brakes work and if he can keep from tumbling over the front of his handlebars.

Better yet, when you are turning onto Gregg, pull out of the driveway just a foot or two and prevent the bicyclist from getting around you and force him to sit all day in the gutter.

Another fun game is seeing how slow you can go until the light in front of you turns yellow. Then put the pedal to the metal and make the light. Too bad for the guy behind you...he's stuck at the red light and waving his fist at you.

Some people don't know what to drive on Gregg Street. Folks, 280-Z's and Trans Ams are out. Low-riders are in vogue. Drive no more than 10 mph so everyone can check out the custom features of your ride. If you're a cowboy, get a pickup with those 18-foot tall tractor tires. Not only can you see Lubbock from your cab, you can floor it and zip from Long John's to Big Cheese in eight seconds.

UNLESS YOU drive Gregg Street like Gregg Street should be driven, stay on Lancaster or Scurry. These adjacent streets aren't quite as exciting but provide practice runs for the big time.

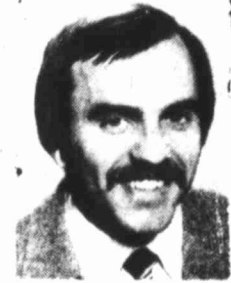

Well, that's about it for today, racing fans. It's 4 p.m. and if I want to get home by 5 going on Gregg Street, I better quit writing now.

And remember...be careful out there.

NEA: blocking better schools

The National Education Association's attack on President Reagan for his "disgraceful" criticism of public education and his "absurd responses" to its problems should be taken not as an indictment but as a high honor, rather like a district attorney's failure to win the endorsement of the Mafia. Any president who manages to infuriate this group is doing something right.

Many Americans still think of the NEA as an innocuous professional organization concerned purely with what is best for school-age children — which it once was. But it has become the largest and most malignant teachers' union, existing to advance the interests of its members, regardless of the cost. Any resemblance between its demands and the needs of American education is purely coincidental.

The NEA is also a highly partisan political organization. At the last Democratic convention, it accounted for nearly 10 percent of the delegates — more than any state. It was largely responsible for Jimmy Carter's 1976 nomination and election, as well as his renomination in 1980. During his term in office, the NEA's relation to Carter was that of the ventriloquist to the dummy. Its influence alone led to the creation of the Department of Education.

SO IT IS no surprise that the NEA is no fan of Carter's successor. It also differs with Reagan on nearly every point of federal education policy. Most important is federal spending on education, which in NEA portrayals has been subject to fearful brutalities.

Reagan has cut the education budget, but only by 13 percent over the last two years. The NEA rarely notes that the federal government historically pays only a small fraction of the cost for primary and secondary education — less than 10 percent. So these cuts have only a trivial impact. And most of Reagan's cuts have come out of other Education Department programs.

The NEA also takes no pains to publicize that total education expenditures by all levels of government have actually risen. In the 1981-82 school year, the sum was $112 billion. This year it is $117 billion, an increase of 4 percent. The shift in financing from Washington to states and local school districts also makes the spending more accountable to the parents whose children are being educated.

In any case, it isn't obvious that the problems of American public education are caused by inadequate funds. Budgets have soared in recent years, despite declining enrollments. This year, total spending on elementary and secondary education is 17 times higher than it was in 1950.

The NEA claims that better schooling can be achieved only through greater spending, but the evidence argues otherwise. The rising expenses of the recent past have been matched by deteriorating student performance. It may not be true, as the President suggests, that more money causes worse results. But it is certainly true that it doesn't necessarily lead to better ones.

TO GET better results, serious educational reforms are needed — the sort of reforms that are blocked at every turn by the NEA and its allies. Basing teachers' pay on merit rather than seniority; requiring them to pass competency tests; allowing school boards to dismiss inept ones; eliminating guild-style certification requirements — all are good ideas, and all are resisted bitterly by the NEA.

It might make sense to spend more on education if changes were made to ensure that the money would be spent well. But it makes no sense to pour more funds into a system that is failing for reasons that have nothing to do with money.

THE NEA also objects to Reagan's proposal for tuition tax credits. Contrary to its claim, these may be the last hope of public education, not its death sentence. The public schools' de facto monopoly ensures that they deliver education much like the Postal Service delivers mail — usually poorly, and sometimes not at all. Until they are forced to compete on an even footing with their private counterparts, either through tax credits or vouchers, they aren't likely to improve.

The NEA's criticism of Reagan should be interpreted much like the auto workers' demand for protection from imports. Though phrased in terms of the public interest, it serves only the interests of its sponsors. Reagan may not have all the remedies for America's failing schools, but he knows the first rule of good educational policy: Offend the NEA.

Drunk driver wonders why

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I just escaped without injury from a very bad car wreck. I was driving while I was drunk and didn't know what I was doing. The policeman said I should have been killed and God must have been with me. Why do you think God would do something like this? — W.P.F.

DEAR W.P.F.: I am glad not only that your life was spared, but that you are beginning to think seriously about God and your relationship with him. So far in life you have left him out of your plans and lived for yourself. The greatest thing that could happen to you would be for you to give your life to Jesus Christ and discover God's plan for your life.

Why did God spare you? Look carefully at what the Bible tells us in 2 Peter 3:9: "He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance." You see, God loves you and he wants you to be his child. He wants you to learn what it means to follow him every day and to know the joy of being able to walk each day with Christ in your heart. More than that, God does not want you to go to hell when you die and be separated forever from the happiness of Heaven. God has given you a second chance, and I hope you will take it seriously because it would be tragic for you to forget God's mercy to you.

That is why I urge you to turn to Jesus Christ and accept him into your life as your Lord and Savior. God has spared you — but he has made your salvation possible because Jesus Christ was willing to die in your place on the cross. None of us deserve to go to Heaven and to be God's children, because we have all sinned against God. But because God loves us, he has made it possible for us to have eternal life through his Son, Jesus Christ. Christ took upon himself the sin and punishment that we deserve, and when he died that he made it possible for us to have our sin and our punishment removed. God "did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all" (Romans 8:32).

You can accept Christ by a simple prayer of faith telling him you are sorry for your sins and you want him to come into your life and forgive you and lead you. Then you can begin to walk each day with Christ, knowing that he has a purpose for you and that he loves you.

The acre was originally the area a yoke of oxen could plow in a day.

FBI spied on Einstein

WASHINGTON — The FBI has been caught occasionally in the rear-view mirror. Here is another look backward, which I hope will help assure a better road ahead.

Albert Einstein, the exiled German physicist whose theories led to development of the atomic bomb, was under investigation for five years on charges that his Berlin office from 1929 to 1939 was a cable drop for a Soviet espionage ring operating out of the Far East.

According to FBI and Army intelligence documents, Einstein was unaware of the alleged spying.

The data gathered by U.S. intelligence — even the allegations themselves — remained classified "secret" after the Nobel Prize-winning physicist's death in 1955, because they involved a "usually reliable" source in Berlin who gave surprisingly explicit details to the Army's intelligence people in 1950. The source had to be protected.

Hundred of pages of documents lay out the story. They were declassified between 1981 and 1983 in response to a Freedom of Information Act request by my associate Dale Van Atta. Here's the story chronologically:

— March 13, 1950: An Army G-2

memo shared with the FBI explained that Soviet spies in Shanghai and Canton would send coded messages to counties "such as Egypt or France." Then these surreptitious messages would be forwarded to cable addresses in Berlin. Among the addresses, the Army informant said, were a watchmaker's shop, a box factory — and Einstein's office. One of his secretaries would give the reports to a courier, who would send them to Moscow, the tipster said.

The G-2 report acknowledged that "since these telegrams from the Soviet spies were in code, Einstein didn't know their contents." But it added: "However, it is reasonable to believe that Einstein did know that his office was being used by the Soviets as a telegram cover address."

— October 23, 1950: A follow-up G-2 report postulated that the alleged Soviet espionage contact was Helen Dukas, who was the Einstein's secretary-housekeeper in Princeton, N.J.

— May 1951: The FBI began combing through Einstein's writings and biographies.

— Nov. 2, 1951: Dukas was interviewed by the FBI on an unrelated matter.

— Nov. 28, 1952: The Army completed its investigation in Europe and forwarded the results to Washington.

— Oct. 14, 1953: FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover asked the Army to "complete its investigation at the earliest possible time and forward the results to this Bureau." The Army dispatched a courier form Heidelberg, Germany, with a letter stating that the investigation had been completed 11 months before and a copy had already been sent to the FBI.

— June 24, 1954: The Army reported to Hoover — who evidently had asked G-2 to reopen the case — that its agents were trying to interview a doctor who might have information.

— Oct. 23, 1954: The Army reported to Hoover that the doctor had been interviewed with no useful results.

— Nov. 9, 1954: The FBI concluded that there were no "outstanding leads... and the most logical remaining lead... is to interview Helen Dukas.

— Jan. 3, 1955: Though leery about approaching Dukas "because of her close association with Einstein... and his known tendency to make public statements concerning matters with which he personally disagrees," top FBI officials decided Dukas had to be interviewed before the investigation could be considered complete.

— Feb. 23, 1955: Two FBI agents interviewed Dukas at Einstein's home, having asked for her help in an investigation of espionage activities in Berlin a quarter of a century earlier. "She did not appear to be evasive in any manner," the G-men reported, "but spoke quite freely... At no time did she give any hints or indication that she was aware the investigation concerned her in any way."

The Army informant's story fell apart. The FBI concluded, after five years of digging, that "additional investigation is not warranted in view of the long lapse of time since Einstein's office was allegedly used by the Soviets, the lack of corroborating information, and the fact that personnel involved are scattered in many countries and in many cases are deceased."

— April 18, 1955: Einstein died.

— July 27, 1955: A top FBI official recommended that the Einstein espionage case be closed.

Aging process deadly for Sierra

RENO, Nev. (AP) — As mountain ranges go, the Sierra Nevada is a relative youngster — probably under 10 million years old, and tens of millions of years younger than its eastern relation, the Appalachians.

That youthfulness is what gives the Sierra its distinctive charm — the craggy granite peaks, the spectacular canyons and the towering waterfalls. It also can make the mountains deadly.

As the Sierra grows older, its rugged features are gradually wearing away. What happened in the Washoe Valley on Memorial Day, when 40 acres of Slide Mountain slid into the valley floor, is part of that aging process.

And this year, a once-in-a-century accumulation of snow is likely to contribute significantly to that process. Millions of years from now, the Sierra Nevada may be more like the Appalachians, softly rounded and gently tiered. Until then, geologists say, people living in the Sierra can expect periodic reminders that the mountains are constantly changing, sometimes in violent ways.

"What we saw on Memorial Day) was just one little blip in the history of this mountain range," said John Bell, a geologist with the Nevada Division of Mines and Geology. "That's what's taken place here for millions of years and will probably take place for a few more million until the mountains are eroded and the valleys are more or less filled in."

Slide Mountain, as the name suggests, is a particularly unstable peak, and geologists can count at least nine times in the past 100,000 years that it let loose with rock or debris slides. The Memorial Day slide, which killed one person and destroyed four homes, was the tenth.

It "was a relatively small event on a geologic scale, but fairly significant in terms of what has taken place in historic times around here," Bell said.

What happened at Slide Mountain is in dispute. Some experts say infrared heating of the earth on the mountain caused snow to melt from underneath and give way, triggering the landslide. Others say the land itself gave way first.

But all agree on the two necessary ingredients for the slide — water, which acts as a lubricant, and gravity, which sets things in motion.

"If you take steep slopes and saturate them like they were saturated this year, they're going to start moving," Bell said.

Or, as Terry Katzer, a hydrologist with the U.S. Geologic Survey, put it, "Gravity overcame the friction coefficient and it just let go."

Katzer, like other experts, said the potential for similar mudslides in the Sierra this year "remains rather high."

"I'm really amazed that there haven't been more slides, because everything is just super saturated," he said.

This was the snowiest year in Sierra history, with 796 inches — close to 70 feet — of snow falling at Donner Summit during the winter. The latest survey by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service said there was still 60 percent as much snow on the ground at the end of May as there was at the peak of the winter, according to Jon Lea of the agency's snow survey crew.

Robert Clark, director of the National Weather Service's office of hydrology, said that's about triple the average for this time of year. Clark called the snow situation in the West "unbelievable," and singled out Nevada as a state that could be headed for trouble in coming weeks.

There's no consensus on how long the danger will remain this year, but estimates seem to range from two weeks to a month — depending on the weather.

Bob Crittenden of the National Forest Service said that while slides can't be predicted, certain areas can be identified as slide-prone. Slide Mountain is an extreme case, experts agree, but other places also exhibit signs of danger.

"The trouble spots are geologically known from history," Crittenden said.

"We can really expect that sometime these things are going to happen on the east side of the Sierra, where you have the deep snowpack and steep face and narrow canyons."

The Forest Service is warning hikers and others to use caution in the Sierra in the coming weeks, and is surveying the range for more signs of trouble.

The USGS is taking advantage of the Washoe Valley slide to study the phenomenon, in hopes of learning to forecast slides in the future.

Meanwhile, Crittenden said, "We're going to watch it (the Sierra Nevada) day by day. And people in the vicinity (of the mountains) should watch it hour by hour."

BURN VICTIM — David Rothenberg is escorted to the hospital by a volunteer. The youngster was severely burned when his father allegedly set fire to the motel room the youth was staying in.

Burned youngster arrives in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — David Rothenberg, a 6-year-old boy whose father is charged with dousing his motel room with gasoline and setting it ablaze, has arrived for treatment of burns that cover 90 percent of his body.

Wrapped in bandages and wearing a jauntily cocked baseball cap, David arrived at Logan International Airport on Tuesday along with his mother, Marie Rothenberg, and was rushed by ambulance to Shriners Burn Institute.

"He's really coping very well," said Mrs. Rothenberg, adding there were no problems during the trip.

But she said she was still unsure about doctors' plans for David at the burn center. "I just don't know how long it will be," she said.

The youngster, his mother and a nurse entered the ambulance and shut the doors to reporters and cameramen. Airport officials said they wanted to protect the boy from possible infection.

The institute reported Tuesday night it was too early to give a condition report on David.

The youngster, his face covered with a surgical mask to prevent scarring, was flown to Boston from Los Angeles where he was treated at the University of California-Irvine Hospital for massive burns suffered March 3.

The boy's father, Charles Rothenberg, 42, who is divorced from his wife, has been charged with dousing the boy's Buena Park, Calif., motel room with gasoline and setting it on fire, claiming he feared his ex-wife wouldn't let him see the boy again.

Rothenberg is being held on charges of attempted murder, arson, assault with a deadly weapon and causing great bodily harm to his son.

David and his father had driven to California from the boy's home in Brooklyn, N.Y., for a visit to Disneyland.

Earlier, Mrs. Rothenberg said the boy knows his father's alleged part in the fire.

Traveling with the boy and his mother was John Cirillo, a New York City policeman who said he was engaged to Mrs. Rothenberg.

"I'm sure he's exhausted by this trip," Cirillo said of the boy. "He is not able to stay in one position for any length of time" because of the burn injuries.

He said the boy slept a bit on the five-hour flight, but ate little except for a soft drink.

Goose returned home

CHICAGO (AP) — Janie the Goose, a web-footed fireman's friend who was just "too cute" to eat, has returned to the firehouse after a harrowing two-day goosening.

"Whoever snatched our pet must have had second thoughts and turned her over to the police, who took her to the shelter," Lt. Walter Budde said Tuesday after Janie turned up at an animal shelter. "We are glad to have her back." Janie — named for ex-Mayor Jane Byrne — was making a routine waddle into the outside world Sunday when she was goosened, Budde said.

The young son of Bruno Kopec, who owns the next-door tavern, said he saw a woman grab Janie by the neck, run down the block and hop into a getaway car driven by an older man.

Sunday night, a sack full of chicken bones — at least the firefighters hoped they were chicken bones — were found outside the firehouse door.

Marie Ragghianti 'woman of principle'

NEW YORK (AP) — A People magazine photographer is waiting for her. Newsweek has her picture in this week's pages. And she just squeezed in a quick appearance on the "Today" show.

Who is this woman?
"Barbara Walters asked me that only a few days ago," she begins in a soft accent of the South. "I am a strong mother, a good daughter, a patriot and I struggle to be a good Catholic."

She is Marie Ragghianti, a woman of principle. While chairman of the Tennessee Board of Pardons and Paroles in 1976, she saw evidence that paroles and clemency were for sale. She could have ignored it. She was urged to ignore it. But she didn't.

Her efforts helped topple the Democratic administration of Gov. Ray Blanton. Politicians fell because they never thought this mother of three, a former beauty queen with raven hair and an enchanting smile, would risk her high government post, her handsome salary and her reputation to fight them. They were wrong.

Blanton escaped that scandal, but two of his aides were caught. They are serving five-year terms in prison. Two years after he left office, Blanton was convicted on unrelated charges stemming from the issuance of liquor licenses. He is appealing.

Despite Mrs. Ragghianti's widely publicized travails in Tennessee, the rest of the country had scarcely heard her name. Now, with the publication of "Marie, A True Story," she has become a national celebrity.

"Marie" is the work of Peter Maas, who wrote about another whistleblower, Frank Serpico, an honest cop who refused to look the other way when he found graft in the New York City Police Department.

Film rights for "Marie," have already been sold to Dino de Laurentiis for $650,000, and Mrs. Ragghianti is off on a 20-city tour to promote the book.

At a stop in Serpico territory Tuesday, Mrs. Ragghianti (ri-JAN-ti) talked proudly about her experience in Tennessee and the message she believes her story has for the country.

"The message is that one person really can make a difference and our system really does work — I'm living proof of that," she said.

Mrs. Ragghianti, 40, lives in Sarasota, Fla., where she moved to be close to a drug rehabilitation center. All three of her teen-age children have had trouble with drugs, but she said they have told her drug use resulted from peer pressure, not from their mother's very public difficulties in Tennessee.

Marie Ragghianti's life has been rough. She was married at 19 to a man who she says beat her. Divorced, she worked as a cocktail waitress and ran a church library to support her children and put herself through Vanderbilt University.

Blanton hired her as an extradition officer, then appointed her chairman of the parole board in 1976 — a dream job, she thought at the time. But soon she balked at pressure from the governor's legal counsel to parole prisoners she felt were unqualified.

The administration circulated rumors that she had slept her way to the top. She was followed. Her records were altered by her bosses, and she was twice arrested for driving violations after leaving political functions.

After 18 months on the job, Blanton fired her, calling her a liar and a cheat. She sued over her dismissal, won the case and collected $38,000 from the state.

Blanton, elected governor in 1974 and choosing not to run for a second term, was ousted from office three days early, on Jan. 17, 1979, after he pardoned three people and granted executive clemency to 49 inmates in the waning days of his administration. Leaders of Blanton's own party agreed to the swearing-in of his successor early.

Mrs. Ragghianti taught at a Florida community college last year. Now she is eyeing the college lecture circuit and law school.

She had no control over the content of Maas' book but is getting a share of the profits, well over $100,000, plus royalties, she said.

"Having enough money to pay the rent or mortgage is nice," she said. "But if money were a big motivating factor for me, I'd probably be chairing the Tennessee parole board right now."

Officials say child killer could easily be stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once every 10 seconds, somewhere in the developing world, a child dies of dehydrating diarrhea. And this could be stopped with a simple solution of water, sugar and salt, world health authorities say.

More than 500 public health experts from 50 countries gathered Tuesday in Washington for the beginning of a four-day conference on the world's leading killer of children — dehydration from diarrhea.

"What is so sad about this is that the solution to the problem is so simple," Dr. Halfdan Mahler, director general of the World Health Organization, said in an interview. "If there was a will to do it, we could end this problem."

The conference, sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development, was to attempt to find better ways to teach people how to use a 20-year-old solution that experts say could reverse a condition that kills 5 million children a year.

The treatment is called oral rehydration therapy and involves giving diarrhea victims a solution of salts, sugar and water prepared at home. The solution replaces water and vital chemicals drained from the body by runny bowel movements and prevents death from dehydration, the loss of body fluids, experts say.

The simple treatment, developed in the 1960s in Bangladesh, is being used effectively in several developing countries but has not reached many who need it, experts say.

Part of the problem has been with health professionals who prefer to use the standard treatment for dehydration, which is the intravenous infusion of fluids, they add. This method is expensive and requires trained personnel and hospital facilities which are not widely available.

Dr. William Greenough, director of the International Center for Diarrhoeal Disease Research in Bangladesh, said infections by bacteria, viruses and other organisms from poor drinking water trigger the problem by causing diarrhea.

"You lose fluid in diarrhea because germs cause secretions that block the absorption of salts," Greenough told a news briefing. "Oral rehydration depends upon glucose (sugar) or amino acids to carry salts and water to the bloodstream without it being thrown out of the body."

The child can be spoon-fed the hydration solution which can be made by mixing a measured pack of ingredients in water or using common household food items, if available, he said.

The packets, which cost less than 10 cents each, are available through the World Health Organization, United Nations health organizations and the Agency for International Development. The packets contain sugar, salt, bicarbonate of soda and potassium chloride.

But if parents of sick children don't have access to the prepackaged mixtures or can't afford them, they can make their own. The recipe calls for adding four heaping teaspoons of sugar and a level teaspoon of salt to a liter of water, which makes slightly more than a quart of solution.

Mahler noted that parents may have to use the same infected water that made their children sick in the first place to make the solution. But the treatment still is beneficial because it stops the immediate crisis and allows the child to recover.

"There is less diarrhea in the long-term if you clean up the water," Mahler said. "So it is helpful if you can teach about clean water and sanitation at the same time you introduce rehydration. You can cut diarrhea by 40 percent by just learning to wash your hands."

Kids learn three Rs in four day week

DAYS CREEK, Ore. (AP) — The last bell rings at 4 o'clock and kids come tumbling out of classrooms, eager to be free for the weekend.

As lockers bang shut and chatter fades out the front door, one teacher sighs, "Thank God it's Thursday."

For the 250 students and 16 teachers in this southwestern Oregon farming community, Thursday marks the end of the school week in an experimental program that packs the three R's into four days.

Started last fall to save money on heating, lighting and busing, the four-day school week appeals to teachers who enjoy long weekends and parents who say their children are more enthusiastic about school.

"We're still on a trial basis," said Bob Brown, chairman of the Days Creek school board. "But we haven't had one complaint to the board against it. Basically, we figure everyone must be satisfied."

The four-day school week is gaining acceptance in rural school districts, as administrators search for ways to cut budgets without cutting staff.

Scattered districts in 13 states now operate on an abbreviated week, with the largest number in Colorado, said Paul Bauman, policy analyst for the Denver-based Education Commission of the States. In at least two other states, legislation has been introduced to permit four-day school weeks, he said.

There have been no major studies analyzing the success of the four-day school week nationwide, said Bauman. A 1981 study of Colorado schools concluded that the system needed more time before it could be fairly evaluated, he said.

Nationwide, the four-day week is limited to rural school districts, where many students spend their days off helping on the family ranch or farm, Bauman said.

The grandfather of the four-day week is the 400-student Cimarron, N.M., school district, where a Tuesday-through-Friday schedule has been in effect for 10 years. Superintendent Joe Pompeo says that community would fire him if he switched back to a five-day week.

In Oregon, Days Creek and Prospect, about 45 miles northeast of Medford, are winding up a one-year trial program approved by state school Superintendent Verne Duncan. Both districts want to keep the schedule and officials in Rogue River say they are considering a four-day week next fall.

Shifting to a shorter week required the Oregon school districts to get a one-year waiver from a state regulation that students spend 175 days a year in the classroom. The Days Creek school year is 147 days. In Prospect, it is 145 days.

Fewer classroom days doesn't mean less time in school, however.

In Days Creek, students go to school an extra 50 minutes Monday through Thursday. The school day was extended by 70 minutes in Prospect. Teachers work every other Friday.

In addition, sports events, parent-teacher conferences and other extracurricular activities are held Fridays, minimizing distractions during the rest of the week.

Since kids are only in school four days, "they have a little bit more motivation to work harder when they are there," said Terry Gail, superintendent of schools in Prospect.

"It's long some days, I won't kid you," said Karen Pickett, who teaches third and fourth grade in Days Creek. "We have to push really hard, but the days go real fast."

In a recent survey of parents, 92 percent said the four-day week was a very good or generally good idea, said Roger Rada, superintendent of schools in Days Creek.

"Just having the kids home an extra day really helps the family," Rada said. "Another big plus is that families can go to the doctor, the dentist, do their shopping on Fridays. Before, we'd lose a lot of kids during the week."

Girls learn clothing tips

by DANA DOLAN
4-H Reporter
Howard County 4-Hers hosted the "Clothing Classics—Over the Rainbow", June 2, under the directions of Peggy Kalina and Naomi Hunt, Howard County agents. It was the kick-off program for the upcoming clothing project.

The "Clothing Classics" was attended by 125 girls from Andrews, Ector, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Reagan and Upton counties. The girls were assigned to groups under junior leaders. Junior leaders were Janet Anderson of Lucky Acres, Robbie Dolan of Forsan, Tessa Garrett of Knott, Jeannie Robertson of Coahoma, and Dawn Underwood and Tessa Underwood of Gay Hill.

Jack Wilson presented a magic show while the 4-Hers registered. The girls participated in mini-workshops. The first workshop was "Soap, Suds and Science" by Ms. Fern Alexander, assisted by 4-H leader Joan Rock. They learned the laundry care for different fabrics and different types of spot removers.

Another workshop was "Pattern Puzzles" by Barbara Donelson of Sew What, assisted by 4-H leader Jan Wallace. The girls were shown different pattern lay-outs, and given sewing tips.

"Machine Operations" by Howard Stevens and Stevens Sewing Machines, assisted by 4-H adult leader Judy Staggs, was another workshop. The girls were taught how to thread a sewing machine, sew straight seams, and the use of decorative stitching.

"Braided Belts" by Naomi Hunt, assisted by Ken Hunt, was a workshop where the girls were taught how to braid belts. The girls were given cords, sticks and instructions.

Another workshop was "The Rainbow Clothing

Store" by Joyce Elliot of J.C. Penneys, assisted by 4-H leader, Lois Rhoton. The girls learned how to buy properly, money management and what clothing characteristics to look for.

Another workshop, "Mirror, Mirror", was presented by Dene Sheppard, beauty consultant for Mary Kay, and Gary Don Carey from LaContesa Beauty Salon, assisted by 4-H adult leader Virginia Allen. Ms. Sheppard demonstrated skin care, proper methods for applying make-up, and the matching of colors to the individual skin types.

Carey explained and demonstrated hair care styles, and the proper ways to use a blow dryer and curling iron. He trimmed and styled some of the girls' hair in his demonstrations.

Dear Abby

Battered woman's mental scars not healed

DEAR ABBY: I can't get the letter from "Worried Father" out of my mind. His 19-year-old daughter, "Judy," stopped seeing her boyfriend because he had slapped her on a few occasions, but she went back with him. Her father then barred him from their home, and asked you if he had done the right thing. (You said he had not.)

How I wish I had read that in your column when I was 19. I was in similar circumstances at that age (I am now 25), and I can tell you that when my parents barred my boyfriend from our home, it drove us (him and me) closer together.

You were also correct when you said slapping eventually turns into beating. It happened to me. The more he abused me, the less my family thought of me, and the less I thought of myself, until I was convinced that I wasn't good enough for any man. (I felt lucky he would have me, no matter how he abused me.) Thank God I finally got the strength to break up the relationship.

I am now happily married to a wonderful, non-violent man, but it will take years to overcome the humiliation and degradation of having been battered and abused.

OVER IT IN OREGON
DEAR OVER IT: There is not sufficient space to print all the letters I received in response to the one from "Worried Father."

This one says it all:
DEAR ABBY: I stupidly married not one, but two men who "slapped" me before we were married. Your advice was excellent, but I would like to add this: Judy should visit the local spouse abuse center. One visit will convince her that a slap soon becomes a punch, and then an outright brutal beating. Unfortunately, it rarely stops there. The abuser soon learns that he can hurt a woman even more by extending the abuse to her children. Any individual who lays a hand to another in violence has no respect for either that person or himself.

Please advise Judy to run as fast as she can from this lunatic. It will not get better — only worse.
BEEN THERE IN COCOA, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: There are three children in our family (all boys). We want to ask you if you think it is rougher being the youngest, oldest or middle child?

DOUG IN DURHAM, N.C.
DEAR DOUG: As I've said before, if you ask the eldest, he'll say, "The eldest, because you're expected to set a good example for the younger ones. And if a fight breaks out, I get blamed because I'm the oldest and should know better."

Ask the middle child, and he'll say, "Being the middle child is the hardest because you get none of the advantages of being the youngest or the oldest."

Ask the youngest child, and he'll tell you that being the youngest is hardest because "your parents try to keep you 'a baby' as long as possible, and you're the one who has to wear all the hand-me-downs."

In other words, it all depends where you're coming from.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Johnny on the Spot," whose ladyfriend is never on time for a date. I have a solution to this problem, and it's been working like a charm for years.

My husband has never been on time for anything, so when we have to be someplace at 7 p.m., I tell him we have to be there at 6 p.m.

This way we are only 15 minutes late, but it sure beats an hour!

Edna Malone installed as worthy matron

Mrs. Edna Malone was installed as Worthy Matron of Laura B. Hart Chapter No. 1019, Order of the Eastern Star, during formal ceremonies in the Masonic Lodge, June 4. Serving with Mrs. Malone as worthy patron will be Paul Sweatt.

Mrs. Marzee Wright, the first worthy matron of the chapter, conducted the installation. Assisting her were Mrs. Lloyd Duncan, installing marshal, Mrs. Elmo Martin, installing chaplain, Mrs. Charles Boland, installing organist, and Mrs. E.A. Fiveash, installing secretary pro-tem.

Officers installed were Mrs. Nathan Dalton, associate matron, Richard Knous, associate patron, Mrs. Wright, conductress, Mrs. Richard Sayers, associate conductress, Mrs. Marvin Steen, secretary, and Mrs. O.G. Hughes, treasurer.

Other officers were Mrs. Evie Easham, chaplain, Mrs. Carol Huff, marshal, Mrs. Noel Reed, organist, Mrs. Tom Allen, Adah, Mrs. Paul Sweatt, Ruth, Mrs. Richard Mitchell, Esther, Mrs. Roy McKendree, Martha, Mrs. W.H. Bain, Electra, Mrs. Verlin Knous, warder, and Verlin Knous, sentinel.

Mrs. Boland played background music as candles were lighted by Mrs. Ronnie Malone. The Bible was by Ronnie Malone and the squares and compasses by Adali Murchison. The Rev. Martin Landers gave the invocation. Mrs. Malone, accompanied by Mrs. Boland, sang.

Mrs. Malone's theme is "Kindness". Her emblem is the olive tree, and the scripture is Deuteronomy 24:20. Her motto is "Love One Another". Red is her color, and the red rose is her flower.

Mrs. Wright explained the olive tree.

Mrs. Fiveash and Roy McKendree pinned past patron's and past matron's pins on E.A. Fiveash and Jean McKendree. Mrs. Vera Gandy of the Midland Chapter 253 pinned the traveling O.E.S. pin on Mrs. Malone.

The Past Matron's Gavel

Club presented Mrs. Malone with her workbook. Installing officers gave her her gavel. Officers presented her with a red corsage and sweat with an O.E.S. key ring and hankers.

All officers wore corsages which were gifts from the worthy matron. Mrs. Malone was official photographer for the evening. Following the benediction, refreshments were served by members of the Past Matron's Gavel Club.

Hospital, college schedule seminar

The Big Spring State Hospital in conjunction with Howard College will conduct a substance abuse seminar, Friday, in the Auditorium of the Allred Building at the Big Spring State Hospital. The theme for the seminar will be "Adlerian Psychology—Theory and Practice With Addicted Patients."

Richard Stafford, Ph.D., a assistant chief psychologist at BSSH, will be the consultant for the day-long seminar. He did his master's internship in alcoholism and is a founding member of the Hale County Council on Alcoholism, having served as treasurer and president. He has also served as consultant for the South Plains Association of Governments. Dr. Stafford has worked in the field of Alcoholism for 11 years.

The goal of the seminar is to share practical, useful skills and experience with people who work in this field. The seminar will be of interest to those working in the chemical abuse field and members of the general public who are interested in learning more about chemical abuse and its treatment. The seminar is directed toward understanding the theory, practice and intervention strategies.

Registration will be at 8 a.m. with a fee of $1 charge.

ed for those wanting to receive continuing education units from Howard College. Persons wanting to receive full credit for attendance will be expected to remain the full day. The general session will begin at 9 a.m.

Dr. Donohue

Palate growth can be annoying

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have excess bone growth in the roof of my mouth. It does not bother me at all and my dentist told me to leave it alone unless it did. However, I am wondering if taking calcium will cause it to grow more. Do you have any recommendations?—R.C.Q.

I am surmising you mean you have a torus palatinus. That's a bony nubbin in the middle of the palate. It's present in a lot of people and is not a sign of illness, although it can be an annoying thing for some. I agree with your dentist. Only if a torus palatinus is so large as to interfere with eating or speaking does it have to be removed. And calcium will not cause it to grow.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Regarding the herpes 2 infection (genital kind), is there any way to tell how many people are actually infected with it? How many people have had it at one time or another?—D.L.

Herpes 2 (genital herpes) infection has become so common in the past decade that at this point your guess is as good as mine as to how many people have it now (as this is written) or have had it at some time in the past. We are talking about a very large figure, for sure.

In a study conducted in a public clinic it was found that 25 percent of people examined had blood-test evidence of prior herpes infection. At the same time in a study done involving private-practice patients there was evidence of prior infection in 10 percent. Your other questions about herpes are covered in my new booklet, "Herpes: Don't Panic," which other readers may order by writing me care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it common to develop diarrhea when taking antibiotics? This happened to me. My doctor referred to it as a "superinfection." This frightened me. However, I was successfully treated with another, stronger antibiotic and my diarrhea disappeared. Is it common for people to react this way to some antibiotics?—Mrs. V.R.

It's not that common a thing. Superinfection can occur, however, especially in some people who have to be given antibiotics in large doses, or when several antibiotics have to be used at once, or when so-called broad-spectrum types are given. In these relatively rare cases the drug has permitted growth of a bacteria already present but in small enough numbers to cause no harm. That's what superinfection means; one infection superimposed over another one. Perhaps 2 percent of people using antibiotics will develop such a problem.

The treatment is as you describe—use of another antibiotic to kill the new troublemaker bacteria. It can happen with just about any antibiotic, but most people can withstand antibiotic treatment without superinfection. Patients should be aware of the problem and report such symptoms as diarrhea. In these cases the resistant bacteria resides in the intestinal tract.

FOR H.H.—The THS referred to is shorthand for thyroid stimulating hormone. An elevation can mean low thyroid activity. THS is produced by the pituitary gland and it has the effect of stimulating the thyroid to produce its own hormone. If the thyroid gland is underactive, the pituitary begins sending out more of its "produce" signals and that's why the THS blood level rises. The answer is to supply outside thyroid hormone in medicine form, as you are doing.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role—in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland. To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Tanning under artificial lights can be harmful to skin

The tanning season has arrived and you may find yourself complaining about not having enough time to lie out in the sun. You may have even considered buying a membership to a tanning salon.

Before you do, the Texas Medical Association warns that these salons can be harmful to your skin and eyes. So can excessive exposure to the sun.

Tanning salons use ultraviolet light, the same as that emitted by the sun. Ultraviolet light may either be short-wave (UVB) or long-wave (UVA).

Experiments on animals have linked artificial tanning with UVB to sunburn and long-term skin damage. UVB also can damage the cornea and lens of the eye, so protective goggles should be worn.

Artificial tanning with UVA has been found to be more suitable and safer than UVB, but this does not mean it is safe. UVA also may damage the eyes if protective goggles are not worn. It has damaged retinas and produced cataracts in laboratory mice.

In addition, your skin may be overly sensitive to UVA if you are taking medication such as antidepressants, oral contraceptives, antihistamines and a variety of other sensitizing drugs.

Both ultraviolet types can damage the skin. Three common types of skin cancer that can occur are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and the worst kind, malignant melanoma. These occur most frequently on continuously exposed parts of the body such as hands, face and neck.

In basal cell carcinoma, cells just below the skin's surface become cancerous. A tumor may develop and become ulcerated. Caused by long-term exposure to ultraviolet light, this cancer will not spread to other parts of the body. Basal cell carcinoma usually occurs on the face, especially near the eyes or on the nose.

Squamous cell carcinoma attacks underlying skin cells that have been damaged by continuous exposure to the sunlight. With this type of cancer, a malignant, or life-threatening, tumor will develop. The cancer will usually occur on any region constantly exposed to the sun.

Malignant melanoma is the most serious form of skin cancer because it may spread. A cancerous tumor develops from a mole present since birth, but sunlight also can play a part in the development of the disease.

Identification tag helps locate lost child

A small luggage tag tags are weatherproof, carrying important identification can be securely fastened to a child's belt loop or zipper pull. The

For these reasons, it is advisable to avoid long-term exposure to ultraviolet light whether in a tanning salon or on a beach.

Miss Cregar honored with lingerie shower

Annette Cregar, bride-elect of Ricky Godfrey, was honored with a lingerie shower in the Quail Run Apartments recreation room, May 28.

Hostesses were Mrs. Carrie Dunnam and Beth Boeker. They presented Miss Cregar with a peignoir set.

Corsages were presented to Miss Cregar, her mother, Mrs. W.R. Cregar, and Mrs. Charles Godfrey, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Special guests were Kim Godfrey, sister of the prospective bridegroom, Karla Cregar, sister of the bride-elect, and Mrs. W.T. McRee, grandmother of the honoree.

The refreshment table was covered with a cut-lace cloth. An arrangement of peach-colored flowers in a basket was the centerpiece.

PREMATURE BABY — Sandra Mayfield Maurer, at left, is mother of the 14-ounce baby girl being held by pediatrician Dr. Wadie El-Mahmoudi at Citizens Memorial Hospital in Victoria. The baby, born on June 1, was four and a half months premature. El-Mahmoudi said survival is "very, very rare" for infants born in the 20th week to 22nd week of development. The infant, Melissa, is surviving without machines but is tucked completely under an oxygen tent.

Tiny infant struggling to live

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — A week-old baby weighing just 14 ounces and born four to four-and-a-half months premature is waging a struggle for life her pediatrician calls a miracle.

Melissa Michelle Maurer weighed a pound and two ounces at birth a week ago today, but then lost more than five ounces by Monday, said Dr. Wadie El-Mahmoudi.

He said Tuesday that the girl, which he described as the world's smallest human, gained an ounce during the night after being given a blood transfusion Monday night.

The baby, he said, is in an incubator at a Victoria hospital and is fed through a catheter into her umbilical artery. The infant is surviving without machines, but is tucked completely under an oxygen hood.

El-Mahmoudi called the week-old girl's struggle to live "a miracle."

He said survival is "very, very rare" for infants born in the 20th to 22nd week of development. He said a fetus at that stage normally is considered "alive, but not viable."

Continued survival, and release from Citizens Memorial Hospital, will depend on the baby gaining enough weight to reach three or four pounds, El-Mahmoudi said.

The Guinness Book of World Records lists Marion Chapman as the smallest baby known to have survived. She weighed 10 ounces when she was born June 5, 1938, in South Shields, England. The smallest American baby was Jacquelin Benson, who weighed 12 ounces when she was born Feb. 20, 1936, in Palatine, Illinois.

The girl's mother is divorced and has been indicted on six counts that allege she delivered marijuana to undercover narcotics officers.

She said he was hopeful the baby could qualify for state or federal medical aid that would pay for the infant's lengthy hospital stay and medical fees.

Officials say no to robot's graduation speech

MIAMI (AP) — A talking robot named Hero who claims to have "a brain, just like you do" won't be allowed to sub for his creator and make a speech at commencement exercises, school officials say.

"You can't let a robot give a speech," said Nicholas Borota, principal of North Miami Senior High School. "What if you have a malfunction? What do you do then? That's embarrassing." Ming-Hang Ho, a 17-year-old Taiwanese immigrant who designed and built the 2-foot-high, 40-pound robot at home, had programmed it to give his speech as class salutatorian at commencement on June 14.

A precedent was set last month when "Robot Redford" was the commencement speaker at Anne Arundel Community College near Baltimore, Md. He got mixed reviews.

"I have a brain, just like you do," Hero said in an "interview" Tuesday. "My owner programs my computer for me and I always do as I'm programmed."

Ho did not speak English when he came to the United States from Taiwan four years ago with his parents and his older brother. Now Ho is teaching English to Hero.

Ho persuaded his parents to let him spend more than $2,000 to buy basic parts to build the robot, which he redesigned by modifying most of the circuit system. Hero is a modified version of the ET18 educational robot made by a Michigan company.

Then Ho began to tutor Hero. He said teaching a computer takes a lot of patience because a programmer must use about 500 digits to generate about one paragraph of speech.

Parakeet sings to opera fans

BALTIMORE (AP) — Not all the music at the Lyric Opera House these days is onstage. Fred the parakeet has mysteriously turned up in the lobby to serenade theatergoers.

"He's got the run of the place," Lyric spokeswoman Nancy Dugan said of the yellow and green bird, which has been nesting in a large potted tree in the lobby since May 13.

Ms. Dugan said the feathered virtuoso is at his musical best when the lobby is crowded.

"He loves company," Ms. Dugan said. "When we have a show going on and the lobby is filled with patrons, he sings at the top of his little lungs. He just loves it."

And when Fred sings, people listen. "They have no choice. When he starts singing, everybody looks around and thinks they're going crazy because they hear this bird," said Ms. Dugan.

On the other hand, when the lobby is quiet, so is Fred.

"You don't know there is a bird in there." No one knows how Fred got to the theater, but since he turned up he has been spending most of his time perched in the tree. Occasionally, he sits on a rafter in the sun.

Staff members said Fred was named for former Lyric manager Fred Huber.

Fred knows proper theater decorum. "He doesn't go into the theater," Ms. Dugan said. "He stays in the lobby." But that doesn't keep the parakeet from enjoying the shows.

During a recent performance of "Your Arms Too Short To Box With God," Fred sang along with the gospel music emanating into the lobby, Ms. Dugan noted.

She said staff members have considered trying to catch Fred and put him in a cage, but so far he has thwarted their efforts.

Thursday Notes

The notes for this Thursday have been piling up. Time to get out a shovel and toss them into the newspaper.

Coming up tonight is the first evening of tennis for the Big Spring Christian Tennis Association. Tonight's matches, which begin at 7 p.m. at Figure 7, count towards league play among the city's various churches.

If you are signed up to represent your church, get out to the courts. If you are not signed up, get out to the courts. Lenny Prudhomme or James Dunn will put you on a court and take care of things. Registration fee is $2 so trophies can be purchased with weekly fees — $1 for adults, 75 cents for kids — charged each Thursday.

Play will go on for 12 weeks from tonight. Matches will be determined by skill level; Joe Beginner will not face John McEnroe (he needs to go to church after the way he acted in Paris) on a given night.

It's all good fun and another effort to discount the idea that there's nothing to do in Big Spring.

Along the lines of things to do, how about golf this weekend?

•The annual two-man, low-ball partnership is scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the Big Spring Country Club. Entry fee is $80 per team and must be turned in by 12 noon Friday. Call or stop in the pro shop to enter.

There will be scratch and handicap play; handicaps must be attested. Shotgun starts will be at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. both days.

•There will be a Chicano Golf Association Louisiana Draw Sunday beginning at 10:30 a.m. at Comanche Trails. Entry is $5 plus $5 CGA membership. Entry deadline is 10 a.m.

Both events include barbecue dinners. Ladies? Are the ladies doing anything? Sure they are.

•The Comanche Trails Ladies Golf Association recently elected new officers: Patsy Sharpnack, president; Georgia Newom, vice president; Luan Touchstone, secretary; and Dana Wilkerson, treasurer.

The new golfing year has begun and the CTLGA is taking memberships. In their first event of the season, the foursome of the Newsom, Harriet Richardson, Roxie Belew and Ramona Harris fired a 75 to win a Louisiana Draw tournament.

From another envelope which got lost on my desk...

MELINDA BEARDEN ...signs with Dusters

Melinda Bearden of Sands High has signed a basketball scholarship with Western Texas College. She scored 16 points a game, grabbed seven rebounds and handed out six assists per game for the Mustangs this past season.

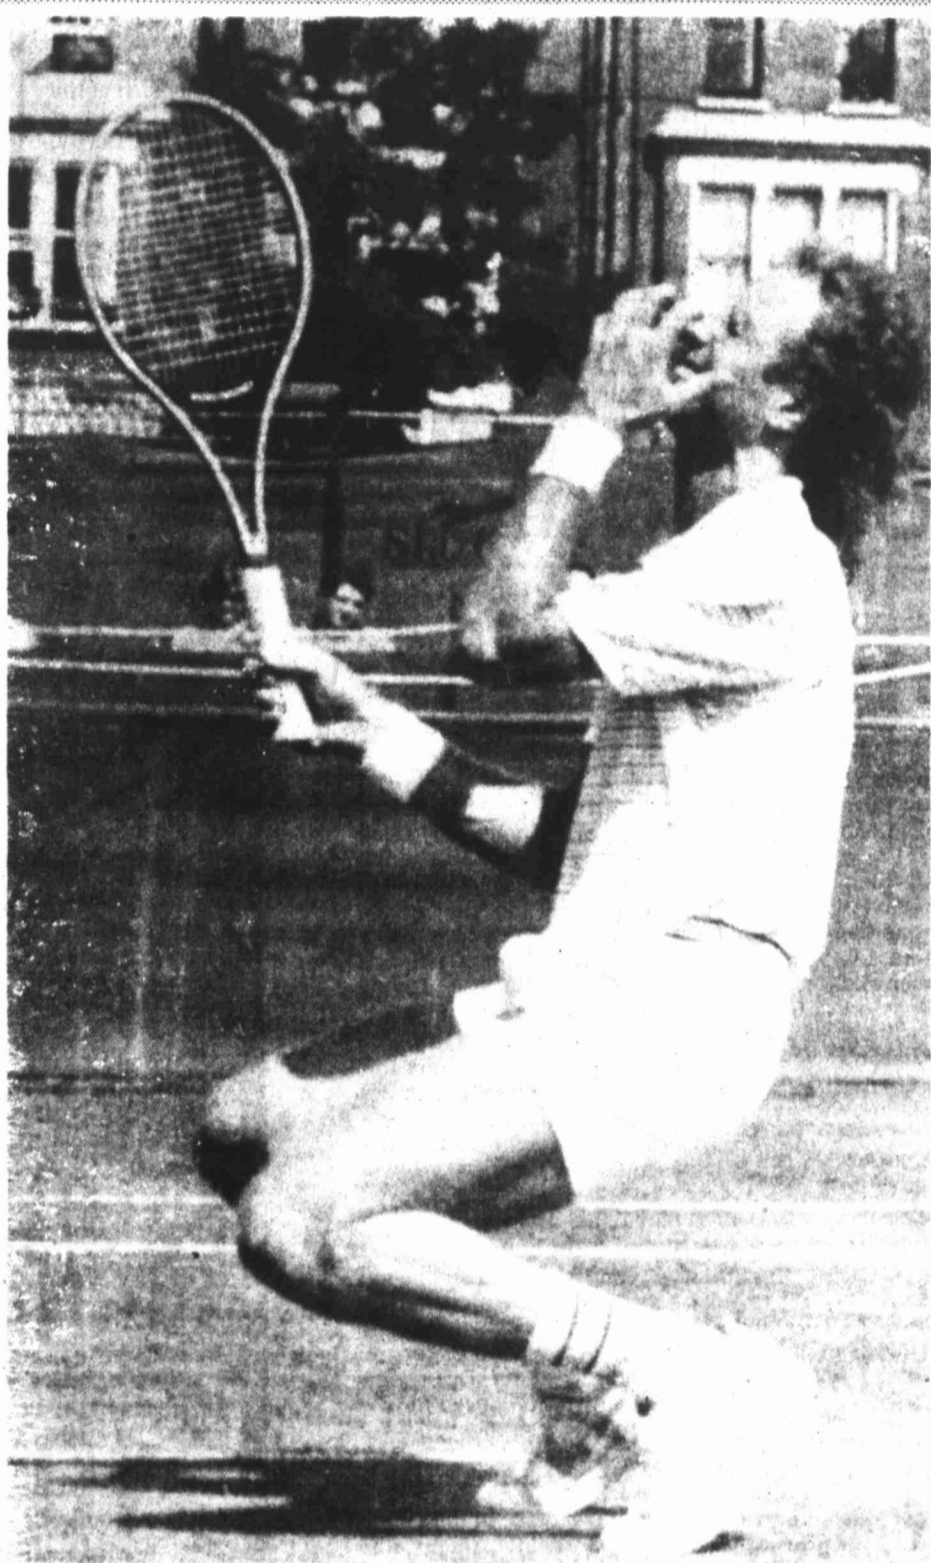

WTC won the regular season crown in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference and advanced to the Region V quarterfinals before losing to Howard College.

And finally, the hard luck story of the week.

Remember in the Pro-Am, a car was to given away to the first golfer to sink a hole-in-one on a par-3. Big Spring's Jimmy Welch took the tourney organizer's up on that challenge and aced No. 13 at the Country Club. Welch and wife Susie are currently driving around in their new prize.

So what happens? Part-time oil rig baron Mike Murphy scored a hole-in-one the two days after the tourney on the No. 3 hole using a 9-iron. Watching his feat were Bob Bell and Bill Chrane.

Sorry Mike. But you know, I was supposed to play on the team of Hammer-Welch-Scarbrough which finished third in the tourney. Instead, I switched with Bell and he had a part in third place prizes. All I got was a sunburn. — GREG JAKLEWICZ

I CAN'T BELIEVE I MISSED THAT SHOT — American Vitas Gerulaitis reacts after his misses a shot after a long rally against Australian teenager Pat Cash. The Aussie won the second match, upsetting the American 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 in the Stella Artois London Championships at the Queen's Club Wednesday.

Texas, 'Bama battle tonight

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The eyes of Texas will be on Alabama and college baseball's leading hitter tonight when the two square off for the first time in 61 years for a finals bid in the 37th annual College World Series.

Top-ranked Texas, 63-14, will be eyeing the Tide's David Magadan, who has already set two CWS hitting records and boasts a .538 batting average. Magadan, a junior from Tampa, Fla., entered the series at .523 and is now batting .535 after going five-for-five and setting a single game consecutive hits record against Arizona State.

In Alabama's 6-5 victory over Michigan Tuesday night, Magadan, a second round choice of the New York Mets in the major league free agent draft, went three-for-four and had his CWS record hitting streak stopped at eight with a seventh-inning fly out.

Texas has beaten James Madison, 12-0, and Oklahoma State in 11 innings, 6-5, to remain unbeaten in this double-elimination event. No. 6-ranked Alabama beat Arizona State in 11 innings, 6-5, and Michigan, 6-5, to go 2-0 in tournament play.

Alabama, 45-9, entered the CWS with a .340 batting average, the highest of any team here, with seven hitters above .300. But Tide batters will face a Longhorn bullpen that is filled with winners.

Roger Clemens, who boosted his record to 13-5 with a victory over Oklahoma State, was a first-round draft choice by the Boston Red Sox. Junior righthander Calvin Schiraldi also went in the first round to the New York Mets. Shortstop Mike Brumley was taken in the second round by the Red Sox.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson hasn't decided on a starter for the contest, but he has an arsenal of pitchers to use. Besides Clemens and Schiraldi, Kirk Killingsworth, 11-3, earned his team-leading eighth save over Oklahoma State. Mike Capel, who has a 3.07 ERA, is 12-1 and has a save. Steve Labay, who was drafted in the eighth round, is 7-2 with a 2.42 ERA.

NCAA World Series

The Longhorns are expected to start either Schiraldi or Labay. Dean Hayes, 11-2, will pitch for the Crimson Tide.

The winner of the 7:10 p.m. (CDT) Alabama-Texas game advances to a Friday night game and draws a bye in the finals, win or lose. The loser faces either Arizona State or Michigan.

ASU, Michigan still alive

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Michigan used a big inning Wednesday night to oust Stanford and Arizona State overcame a big inning from Oklahoma State to advance into Friday's NCAA College World Series baseball action.

On its 11-4 victory, Michigan advances to play Texas and Arizona State, a 6-5 winner over OSU, will meet Alabama Friday night. The winner of Thursday's Texas-Alabama game plays at 8:10 p.m. CDT Friday, and the loser plays at 5:10 p.m.

the game against a right-handed pitcher in Wednesday night's contest and Close responded with a grand slam home run to boost Michigan to a seven-run inning.

The seven-run ninth sent Stanford home with a 41-17 record. Michigan improved to 50-8 on the season.

OSU freshman Pete Incaviglia belted a grand slam homer on a two-out 3-2 pitch to pull the Cowboys from a 6-1 deficit to within 6-5 in the ninth.

The loss sent third-ranked Oklahoma State home with a 48-16 record, while the Devils continue with their 44-23.

Cash upsets Gerulaitis; McEnroe, Lendl win

LONDON (AP) — It was the Craig Wittus' turn today to try to stop Pat Cash, the 18-year-old Australian star in the making, in the $203,000 Stella Artois Tennis Tournament.

Wittus, 26, the United States' 67th ranked player, was aiming to succeed where Vitas Gerulaitis failed.

Cash, hailed as Australia's best young player since John Newcombe, drummed Gerulaitis out of the tournament 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 in the second round Wednesday at London's Queens Club.

Last year he won the junior titles at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open and was hailed as the best junior in the world.

"My aim this year was to get into the top 40, perhaps the top 30," Cash said. "Instead I am No. 61 in the rankings."

"Still, I have learned a lot. I have played a lot of matches on a lot of different surfaces."

Getting ready for Wimbledon is a treacherous exercise.

Ask the top three seeds at Queen's Club — Jimmy Connors, John McEnroe and Ivan Lendl. They have been slipping and sliding about the center court all this week.

McEnroe took one heavy tumble Wednesday in the process of beating Freddie Sauer of South Africa 6-1, 7-6.

Lendl gave Wimbledon a miss last year because he dislikes grass. This is his first tournament on grass since Wimbledon in 1981.

But he used good grass courts serve-and-volley technique to defeat Tim Wilkison 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Connors, defending champion and No. 1 seed, had a long struggle for supremacy before defeating Nduka Odizor of Nigeria 7-5, 6-1.

IPTC suspends Vilas, Ncah

PARIS (AP) — For the second time in 24 hours, a renowned tennis player has been suspended by the Men's International Professional Tennis Council.

On the heels of Yannick Noah's 42-day suspension Tuesday, Guillermo Vilas was hit with a harder slap Wednesday when the IPTC knocked the Argentine star out of competition for a year, along with fining him $20,000.

Vilas, the world's fifth-ranked player, was suspended and fined for accepting guaranteed appearance money to play in a tournament in Rotterdam.

The organizers of the Rotterdam tournament last March also were fined $10,000. The ban will keep Vilas out of all Grand Prix and Davis Cup events, although the tennis organization said that the Argentine player would be allowed to participate in "special events" such as exhibition matches and certain WCT events.

Vilas, who has denied the charges, became the first player ever suspended for allegedly accepting guarantee money, a practice reported to be common among the pros. Such guarantees, paid regardless of how a player performs, assures smaller tournaments of top-name participants who can generate big gate receipts.

Noah, winner of the French Open last weekend, was suspended 42 days and fined $20,000 by the council for refusing to participate in last May's Nation's Cup tournament.

New coaches NJ finally gets Albeck

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Stan Albeck, who coached the San Antonio Spurs for three seasons, was signed by the New Jersey Nets Wednesday.

"We felt Stan's style would best bring out the potential of our players," said Lou Schaffel, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Nets. "That's what makes him the best choice. We felt Stan's personality and way of coaching was best for us."

On Tuesday, the Nets were given permission to negotiate with Albeck, and the team agreed in return to give the Spurs a second-round draft choice, a reported $300,000 cash and the rights to forward Fred Roberts.

The settlement, announced by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien, follows a court battle over the rights to Albeck, whom the Nets want to replace Larry Brown. Brown left the Nets to become head coach at the University of Kansas shortly before the end of the regular NBA season.

Clippers hire Lyman

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Portland Trail Blazers assistant coach Jim Lynam was hired as head coach of the San Diego Clippers, a Portland television station reported today.

Lynam served two seasons as assistant to Jack Ramsay in Portland. Before that, he was head coach for three seasons at St. Joseph's in Philadelphia. He had a 65-28 record at the school, including an upset victory over DePaul in the 1981 NCAA tournament.

Slew O' Gold favored at Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Woody Stephens feels trainer Sidney Watters' Slew O' Gold should be favored in Saturday's 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes, but he also feels good about his chances with Caveat.

A field of 13 3-year-olds, including Preakness winner Deputed Testamony, is expected for the 115th Belmont. Missing will be Kentucky Derby winner Sunny's Halo, who finished sixth in the Preakness. It is the first time a Derby winner missed the Belmont since Dust Commander in 1970.

"I believe I'm the one to beat," said Stephens, who won the 1982 Belmont with Conquistador Cielo, who led most of the way in scoring by 14 lengths over a sloppy track.

Caveat, owned by Ryehill Farm, finished third in the Kentucky Derby, skipped the Preakness, then won a 1 1/2-mile allowance race on a muddy track at Belmont Memorial Day.

Slew O' Gold, owned by Equus Equity Stable, finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby. Stephens believes one reason the son of Seattle Slew, the 1977 Triple Crown champion, will be favored in the Belmont is his 12-length win in the 1 1/2-mile Peter Pan at Belmont May 29.

In 1979, Coastal, a half-brother of Slew O' Gold, won the Peter Pan, then won the Belmont over Golden Act and Spectacular Bid.

Post time is 5:35 p.m., EDT, for the $200,000-added Belmont, which will be televised live by CBS.

Slew O' Gold, who won two of three starts as a 2-year-old, failed to win in his first two starts as a 3-year-old — third in the Sam F. Davis and second in the Budweiser Tampa Bay Derby, both at Tampa Bay Downs. Then he won an allowance race and a division of the Wood Memorial April 23, both at Aqueduct, ran well in the Derby, then looked sensational in the Peter Pan.

Caveat, who won three of 11 starts last year, failed to win in his first six starts as a 3-year-old, but finished second in the Tropical Park Derby at Calder and was second to Sunny's Halo in the Arkansas Derby.

Caveat has no trouble winning his Belmont prep by three lengths.

Smithson blanks Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The American League baseball season is already turning out to be a long one for Rene Achemann.

His Seattle Mariners suffered their eighth shutout of the year Wednesday — and their second in two nights — as the Texas Rangers blanked the Mariners, 1-0, behind the pitching of Mike Smithson and Odell Jones.

Seattle was shut out just six times in the entire 1982 season, but a 232 time batting average is making the Mariners easy pickings for their American League counterparts this year.

Young fell to 7-4 for the season, but his ERA also dropped to 2.14 as he gave up only one earned run in nine innings.

Blue Jays 5, A's 2
 Stieb, 9-4, yielded just four hits before he left after Bob Kearney homered to lead off the eighth inning. Joey McLaughlin finished up for Stieb, earning his sixth save after striking out the side in the eighth, and Cliff Johnson supplied most of the punch with two RBI doubles.

Chris Codiroli, 4-5, was the loser, falling behind 2-0 after two innings.

Orioles 7, Brewers 3
 The Orioles launched their second comeback of the game with a pair of homers — by Cal Ripken and John Lowenstein — to score five runs in the eighth inning and beat Milwaukee. Both homers were two-run shots off Tom Telman, who relieved Don Sutton to start the inning.

Yankees 6, Indians 5
 Pinch-hitter Lou Piniella's one-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning rallied the Yankees over Cleveland, giving New York only its second victory in seven games. Dave Winfield, Graig Nettles and Steve Kemp all homered for the Yankees in the first two innings.

Royals 9, Twins 2
 The Royals scored three runs in the fourth inning and four more in the eighth to whip the Twins. Willie Aikens and Willie Wilson had three hits apiece for Kansas City, which was playing with only four regulars in the lineup because of injuries to catcher John Wathan, third baseman George Brett and right fielder Jerry Martin.

Angels 7, White Sox 4
 Rick Adams drove in three runs and Ron Jackson had two RBI to lead California over Chicago. Adams, a rookie, hit his first major league homer leading off the second inning, and his two-run single capped a three-run fifth inning that put the Angels up 7-3. Adams was hitting only .160 with one RBI coming into the game.

American League

While he got little help from his teammates, it was his own seventh-inning wild pitch with the bases loaded that allowed Larry Parrish to score the game's only run.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 3
 Lou Whitaker, the Detroit Tigers' leadoff man, has turned to a new page in his baseball career book. He's now a power hitter.

Garner's basehit lifts Astros in 11

HOUSTON (AP) — Phil Garner, who missed a bunt sign and blew the Houston Astros' chance at one run, redeemed himself by driving in the only score of the night, enhancing his reputation as the club's top hitter when it counts.

Garner's 11th-inning single scored center fielder Omar Moreno from third base as the Astros won their fourth straight game, beating San Francisco 1-0 Wednesday.

Garner could have been the goat as easily as he was the hero. He made no effort to bunt during a seventh-inning squeeze play, leaving Terry Puhl to be run down as he tried to score from third.

"I just missed a sign," Garner said. "The game-winner, a liner past Giants shortstop Joe Pettini, gave Garner his 38th RBI of the year and improved his chance to bat in 100 runs in a season for the first time of his career.

"It's been a goal of mine ever since I've been in pro ball. I've never had 100 RBIs and maybe I'm not capable of it, but I keep striving for it," Garner said.

Garner singled off reliever Gary Lavelle, who suffered the loss and dropped his record to 3-1. Houston rookie reliever Bill Dawley, 4-1, recorded the win after taking over from Joe Niekro.

Niekro toiled for 10 innings, scattering 10 hits, striking out seven and walking one. Dawley struck out two of the three batters he faced.

Giants starter Andy McGaffigan allowed four hits, striking out five and walking one, before giving way to Lavelle. The Giants, who have lost three in a row, were plagued by poor baserunning. Rookie Tom O'Malley doubled to lead off the seventh but tried to advance to third on Brad Wellman's routine ground ball to shortstop. He was thrown out easily.

Phillies 7, Cardinals 4
 It had been awhile since Tony Perez last faced Bruce Sutter. In fact, it was back in 1980 when Perez was with Montreal and Sutter was pitching for the Chicago Cubs.

On Wednesday night, Perez, now with the Philadelphia Phillies, and Sutter, with the St. Louis Cardinals, met again. This time it was in the bottom of the ninth inning of a tie game with two outs and runners on first and second.

Dodgers 11, Braves 5
 Fernando Valenzuela starred on the mound and at the plate for Los Angeles. The right-hander raised his record 7-2 and helped his own cause by smacking a solo home run — his first of the year and second of his career — as well delivering a run-scoring single and a deep bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Padres 5, Reds 3
 Dave Dravecky became the NL's first nine-game winner with some outstanding relief help from Sid Monge.

Dravecky, 9-3, went 7 2/3 innings and allowed just five hits. Monge replaced reliever Luis DeLeon in the ninth and pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out situation for his second save.

Rookie Kevin McReynolds slammed a two-run homer and Terry Kennedy and Sixto Lezcano added solo shots for the Padres. Gary Redus and Cesar Cedeno homered for the Reds.

Expos 5, Pirates 4
 Bill Gullickson pitched eight strong innings before running into trouble in the ninth, when reliever Jeff Reardon came in to put down Pittsburgh.

Gullickson, 6-6, had a six-hitter and a 5-1 lead after eight innings, but Dave Parker led off the Pittsburgh ninth with a single. Mike Easler then singled to right and scored when Terry Francona misplayed the ball for a three-base error. Dale Berra then cracked his sixth homer, chasing Gullickson and fetching Reardon.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is favorable for artistic endeavors. Avoid arguments or comments pertaining to associations of a usual or routine nature. Keep on an even keel.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact newcomers whose sense of humor is similar to yours and have a good time together. Do not drive recklessly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get your home in order and bring more harmony into it for the future. Steer clear of a family argument. Appreciate kin.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talking recreation over with regular partners can bring better understanding. Go after your personal aims with energy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have an opportunity to make improvements with the assistance of a co-worker. Don't be extravagant.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Join with outside partners and friends and make new plans for the future. Avoid a group meeting which will upset you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how you can be more consistent where your loved one is concerned. In this way, you will increase your happiness together.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Avoid people who think they can get away with taking advantage of you. Enjoy personal happiness this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Consult a financial expert and learn how to handle your responsibilities better. Take no risks with business associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Sit down and try to resolve differences with a co-worker. Look at it objectively and handle it intelligently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The work ahead of you is complicated so study it well before tackling it. Do whatever will relax you tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you do nothing that could test the patience of your loved one. Show that you are devoted and faithful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure that you join with kin in civic work. Be cooperative for best results. Take a fellow worker along.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be enthusiastic and ready to do things, have a lovely smile and be very popular. Be encouraging. Life flows smoothly at school, but upon reaching middle age, may become too businesslike and demanding. Teach patience.

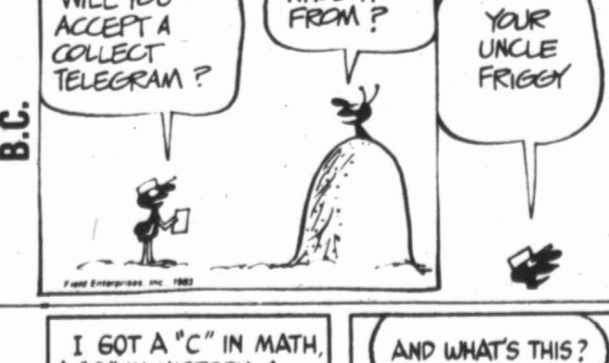

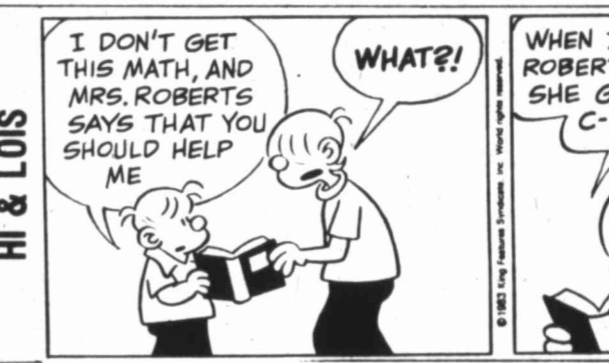

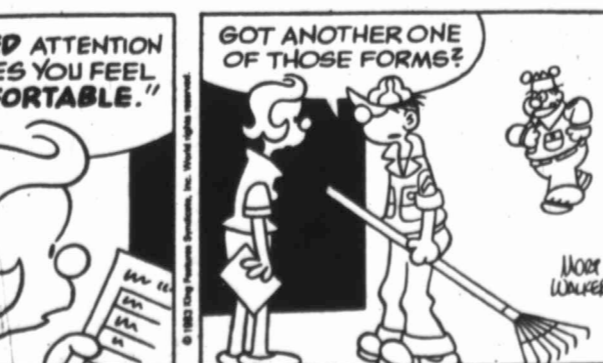

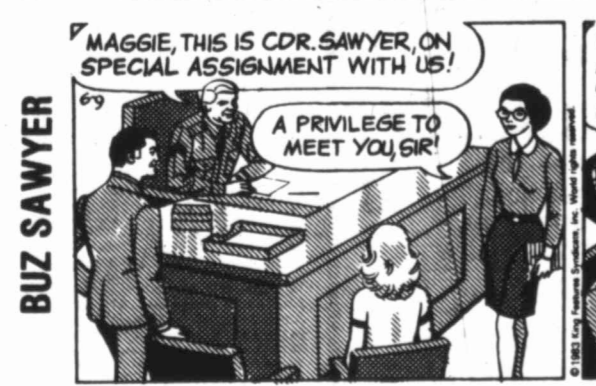

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Disney film is happy medium

The Walt Disney film Something Wicked This Way Comes is rated PG and is showing at the Ritz Twin downtown.

In the last few years, those creative folks at Walt Disney have stepped forward from kiddie-only films to more advanced topics. The nation as a whole drew in its breath when the first PG rating appeared on a film made the masters of animation.

There has been the disappointing Watcher in the Woods and the somewhat interesting Tron of last summer. This year's effort is Something Wicked This Way Comes, taken from Ray Bradbury's supernatural thriller of the same name.

The trouble Disney encounters is making a film everyone likes. People of all ages still go nuts over Bambi and other such timeless works. Today's audiences are more demanding and thus Walt Disney's successors are having a difficult time making a classic.

Something Wicked is a successful attempt at the happy medium.

The story concerns a traveling carnival that comes around, not in the summertime, but in the autumn. Arriving in the middle of the night, Dark's Pandemonium Show is a mystery from start to finish.

This is no fun-on-the-midway carnival. The traveling show's characters are people who once had a wish — youth, beauty, money — and were willing to do anything to satisfy their desire. Mr. Dark makes sure they pay a high price.

The story is told through the eyes of two sixth graders, Will Halloway and Jim Nightshade. Put yourself in their shoes and carnival leader Mr. Dark (Jonathan Pryce) is class A scary; his top hat, short coal-black beard, intense eyes and clever tongue are downright evil.

As the narrator states early in the movie, the story is more about Will's dad (Jason Robards) than the two boys. He's not young anymore and he's haunted by an accident from his earlier days. Mr. Halloway is the perfect target for Mr. Dark.

The film is old-fashioned scary movie fare: Mr. Dark represents evil; Jim, Will and his father are the good guys. The turn-of-the-century setting adds flavor to the film and playing on a young boy's fears — hairy creatures crawling into his bed at night — brings out the creeps even in the adults in the audience.

Something Wicked is rated PG for emotional intensity. Other than the fact it'll send shivers down your spine, it's suitable for kids of all ages. — GREG JAKLEWICZ.

Model bares much for promotion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "You have gorgeous skin. I can see plenty of it, too," Janet Scully told model Gary Nagle over the telephone.

And so could anyone else walking in downtown Pittsburgh.

Nagle, 34, is a model who was sitting half-naked in a brass bed with a powder-blue quilt pulled up to his waist in the window of Horne's department store. Women passing by stopped to talk with him over a closed-circuit telephone.

It was part of a promotion for a men's cologne.

Nagle, set up in what looked like a modern bachelor bedroom with paintings, a wine tray, and an oriental rug on the floor, flashed a big smile and waved at the women in the lunchtime crowd Wednesday. Several asked the handsome, bare-chested man what he was wearing under the covers.

"Just my Paco Rabanne," he answered, referring to the cologne. Nagle said he was being paid about $150 a day for the three-hour promotion Wednesday and today.

CBS soap wins Emmy for show

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC grabbed seven of eight daytime Emmys in the drama category, but CBS spoiled a clean sweep when "The Young and the Restless" was named the season's outstanding soap opera.

ABC dominated the star-packed awards ceremony Wednesday night, walking away with 11 of the 25 coveted statuettes presented in a half-dozen categories.

CBS and NBC each won three Emmys, the Public Broadcasting Service, two, and syndicated shows, five. A special Trustees Award went to Robert Short of the Procter & Gamble Co., a major creative force in daytime TV over the last quarter-century.

CBS' "The Young and the Restless," also had been named the best soap opera in the 1974-75 season.

Robert Woods, who plays Bo Buchanan in "One Life to Live" on ABC, was cited as the outstanding actor in daytime drama, and Dorothy Lyman, Opal Gardner in ABC's "All My Children," was honored as the season's outstanding female lead.

The 10th annual Daytime Emmy Award ceremonies was the first in recent years not broadcast live on television. NBC, which would have carried this year's program, declined, and the sponsoring National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences was unable to line up live coverage.

"Captain Kangaroo" on CBS and "Smurfs" on NBC shared an Emmy as the best children's entertainment series.

Rainstorms across state leave little rain locally

From staff and wire reports
Heavy rainstorms which brought flash flood watches to other parts of the state left only a trace of rain in the Big Spring area by noon Monday.

The U.S. Agriculture Experiment Station here said Monday morning it had measured .10 of an inch of rain in the last 24 hours.

Unseasonably cold temperatures accompanied the storm system as the mercury dropped into the 50s at midmorning today.

The area was under a severe thunderstorm and tornado alert last night for several hours as violent weather spawned in New Mexico moved eastward across the border.

Flash flood watches and warnings were posted today for parts of North and South Texas following a night of showers and thundershowers that dumped heavy downpours on wide areas of the state.

Rain covered much of the northern two-thirds of Texas before dawn.

Nearly six inches of rain fell overnight Brownwood, where a tornado or high winds tore off a church roof and street flooding seeped into some businesses and homes, police said.

The winds also overturned several mobile homes and shattered windows Sunday night, said Brownwood firefighter Bobby Jones. There were no reports of injuries.

Two inches of rain fell in about 45 minutes early today at the Lufkin airport, the Department of Public Safety.

Street flooding was reported before dawn in Nacogdoches, according to the Nacogdoches County sheriff's office.

There were no reports of injuries or damage from

Cyclist, 12, injured in collision with car

A 12-year-old Big Spring boy suffered head and possible spinal injuries yesterday afternoon when he pedaled his bicycle onto 11th Place in front of an oncoming car, police and ambulance personnel say.

Ronnie D. Sumruld, son of A.E. Sumruld of Gail Route, is listed in satisfactory condition today in a private room at Odessa Medical Center Hospital.

Police reports say the boy was riding his bicycle in a field on the 3200 block of 11th Place and rode out onto the street about 2:29 p.m. A Ford pickup driven east by Mark W. Garrett, 23, of Gail Route collided with the bicycle.

A skid mark test indicated the pickup was traveling about 37 mph at the time of the accident.

Shaffer Ambulance Service took Ronnie to Malone-Hogan Hospital and then transferred him to the Odessa hospital, hospital spokesman said.

Furnace fire at Cosden

controlled by employees

A furnace fire which "looked a lot worse than it was" was brought under control Saturday by Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. employees minutes after a heater tube ruptured.

Ross Westbrook, director of public relations at Cosden, said the ruptured tube allowed an abnormally high amount of gas into the furnace to be burned off. The gas flow was brought under control "about three minutes after the rupture," Westbrook said.

Deaths

Lonnie Awtrey

Lonnie Roosevelt Awtrey of Enid, Okla., son of a Big Spring man, died June 4 in Enid after a lengthy illness.

He was born May 12, 1932 in Ringling, Okla. He was a Baptist and a longtime employee of the postal service.

Survivors include his wife, Patsy; his father, Haskell Awtrey of Big Spring; his mother, Elsie Ellis of White Deer; and a son, three daughters and two sisters.

Big Spring native Betty Buckley wins Tony for 'Cats'

Betty Lynn Buckley, named best-supporting actress during the Tony awards ceremony Sunday for her role in the musical "Cats," is a Big Spring native. She was born in 1947 at Hall-Bennett Hospital and was delivered by Dr. Clyde Thomas.

Miss Buckley starred as Dick Van Patten's wife Abby in ABC's "Eight is Enough" for several years. She's also had roles in several other movies, including the gym teacher in "Carrie." She worked on Broadway several years ago in the musical "1776."

The role which won her the Tony was that of a cat in the musical based on poetry by T.S. Eliot. "Cats" won seven awards, including best musical.

Miss Buckley's mother, the former Betty Bob Dultz, was a longtime Big Spring resident and was employed for several years by the Big Spring Herald. She was a member of the High Heel Society, a social group in Big Spring.

She married Ernest Buckley, who was stationed at the Big Spring army bombardier school. Buckley is now a professor of civil engineering at Texas Christian University.

Shortly after Miss Buckley was born, her family moved to Fort Worth, where she attended Texas Christian University, majoring in journalism. She was named Miss Fort Worth and was a contestant in the Miss Texas pageant several years ago.

Her mother is currently manager of public relations at the Casa Manana theater in Fort Worth.

Last week, a group of Big Springers traveled to New York to view "Cats" on an invitation from the Buckleys. Attending were Jane Thomas, Dolores Hull, Katie Grimes, Kristi Grimes and Laura May Pollard. The group reported that they ate lunch with Miss Buckley and her mother at Luchows and also viewed the Broadway productions of Dream Girls and Private Lives.

Sheriff's Log

3 arrested on drug counts

Howard County sheriff's deputies report they arrested three persons Saturday for suspicion of making alcohol available to minors and possession of marijuana under 2 ounces.

Bruce A. Gilbert, 32, of Sandra Gale Apartments; Gregory J. Eggleston, 20, and Paula Alexander, 23, both of Sterling City Route, posted bonds totaling $900 each to be released after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

John T. Hangsleben, 26, of Dalhart was released from county jail after serving a 60-day jail sentence. He was jailed May 17 for revocation of probation on a driving while intoxicated conviction in county court.

Mark Garrity, 31, of El Paso remains in county jail after his arrest Saturday for suspicion of burglary of a habitation in Howard County. Sheriff's deputies had withheld his name until formal charges had been filed.

Garrity is also being held in connection with a Midland County warrant for burglary of a business.

Domingo Galaviz, 22, of 301 N.E. 7th posted $15,000 bond to be released after his arrest for suspicion of burglary of a building. Galaviz was arraigned before acting municipal judge John Stanley.

Perfecto Caudillo, 33, of Hillside Trailer Park posted $10,000 bond to be released after his arraignment before Heflin for suspicion of threats. He was not confined in county jail after transfer from city custody, according to sheriff's office reports.

Enrique Castrajon of Knott posted bonds totaling $2,700 to be released after his arrest by Department of Public Safety troopers for suspicion of DWI, no drivers license and no liability insurance. Bonds were set by Stanley.

William Carl Jenkins, 27, of 407 Owens posted $2,500 bond to be released after his arrest by police for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Bond was set by Stanley.

Hot check collection doubles

The Hot Check Department of the Howard County attorney's office collected $18,341.59 in hot checks and fees for the month of May, according to Melba Soles of the Hot Check Department.

The $18,000 total was an considerable increase over April's hot check total of $10,770, according to Mrs. Soles. The Hot Check Department normally collects between $13,000 and $15,000 a month.

Merchants should continue to inspect an individual's driver's license when accepting checks, Mrs. Soles said. She said to not rely on the printed information on personal checks since checkbook thefts were a possibility.

Altercation outside nightclub escalates into several fights

An altercation early Sunday morning outside of Mary's Disco in the 200 block of South Runnels escalated into several fights as five police units, the Department of Public Safety and Howard County sheriff's deputies were called to the scene.

Police report four persons were arrested at 2:18 a.m. Sunday as police attempted to quiet a crowd that gathered outside the South Runnels club.

DPS Trooper Jim Lasater said four or five fights were occurring at the same time when he arrived on the scene. He estimated 50 persons had collected outside the club screaming obscenities and fighting.

However, Police Chief Rick Turner said the situation was not as "out of hand" as it could have been. When arrests are made in a crowd, problems sometimes develop, Turner said.

According to arrest reports, two persons were placed in custody for shouting obscenities as officers attempted to calm the crowd. Another struck an officer with his fists as he tried to arrest him, Turner said.

Arrested were Albert Ybarra, 23, of 1203 Madison for resisting arrest; Johnny M. Ybarra of 1315 Mesa for disorderly conduct; Christoval Moreno Limon, 23, of 1105 N. Nolan for resisting arrest; and Raul Lara Paredes, 23, of 1301 Sycamore for disorderly conduct.

Albert Ybarra was released Sunday after posting $2,000 bond following arraignment before Justice of the Peace Bobby West. Limon posted $1,500 bond to be released after appearing before John Stanley, acting municipal judge.

The others remain in police custody, according to reports.

Police Beat

Girl, 10, assaulted with whip

A Big Spring man told police Saturday his 10-year-old daughter had been struck with a bullwhip by a man he knows.

Police report they received a call of an assault at 1508 B Wood at 8 p.m. Saturday. Upon arrival, George Davenport told police his daughter had been hit with a whip by a person known to him. The investigation continues into the incident, according to police.

Police report three separate arrests Sunday for suspicion of driving while intoxicated: Ray Allen Henry, 32, of 1000 E. 20th, William Carl Jenkins, 27, of 407 Owens and Beryl Ann Lovell, 24, of 102 Air Base Road.

The Department of Public Safety arrested Tom Gutierrez Jr., 22, of Stanton for suspicion of DWI. Gutierrez posted $2,500 bond to be released after arraignment before acting municipal judge John Stanley.

Joe Wood of 1710 Alabama reported to police his $200 motorcycle had been taken at 8:32 p.m. Sunday by a juvenile he knows. Police report the youth was apprehended shortly after the report.

Eye disease

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 32 years old and have been told I have cataracts. I am told this is unusually young for this to happen, also that the condition can occur in people if they have diabetes or a thyroid gland problem. I have been tested for both conditions and have neither.

Is there anything else that could cause cataracts in a person my age? I was told that only surgery can help. I understand there are two types of cataract surgery. My knowledge of the kinds of surgery is rather dim. Can you discuss this problem? — Mrs. R.G.

It is unusual for cataracts to form in someone your age. The most common form of cataract is the one that occurs as we get older. However, the eye lens can become clouded (cataract) even from birth or in early adulthood. When that happens various diseases have to be considered — diabetes, hypoparathyroidism, for example. Wilson's disease, a copper storage problem leading to liver disturbance, is another. Doctors frequently have to abandon hope of finding a specific cause and move on to treatment.

Once a cataract has formed, for whatever reason, and when vision has become affected, then surgery is the only way to restore lost eyesight. The clouded lens is taken out and an artificial one substituted, either as a contact lens, spectacles, or by implanting a lens in place of the old one.

I don't know if this was your question, but there are two basic ways to actually remove the clouded lens. One is called an intracapsular extraction and the other, extracapsular. It depends on whether or not a thin membrane at the back of the lens holding it in place is removed. That membrane is called the lens capsule.

With an intracapsular extraction, both the lens and its capsule are taken out. In an extracapsular extraction the capsule is left in place. Leaving the capsule behind makes it easier to insert an artificial lens inside the eye, if that is desired. There are many procedures for the actual removal of the lens — use of enzymes to soften it to a liquid state, sound-wave use, etc. Your ophthalmologist will guide you to the best procedure.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why is measles vaccination required for children when the public health officials are always saying it is all but wiped out? Isn't it an added waste of health care dollar, which is already being stretched thin as it is? — J.A.

Now would be the absolutely wrong time to discontinue a program of immunization that has had such remarkable success. Recent figures I've seen indicate that the number of measles cases in the U.S. this year might dip below 2,000. Compare that with the 500,000-plus yearly cases in the U.S. just two decades ago and you must call the vaccination program an unqualified success.

Public health officials are justly proud of these figures, but they're not suggesting the program be scrapped. Discontinuing it would be costly, not only in suffering but in terms of

Baby born to Frysaks

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Frysak, Garden City, announce the birth of their second child, a son, Matthew Paul, at Midland Memorial Hospital, at 2:15 p.m. May 12. The infant weighed 8 pounds 11 ounces and measured 19 inches in length.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Schwartz, and Mrs. Jerline Frysak, all of St. Lawrence, and the late Mr. August Frysak. Great-grandparents are John Debus, Mrs. Ida Schwartz and Mrs. Mildred Glass, all of Wall.

Son's birth announced

Colt and Linda Walker, 21 Val Verde, announce the birth of their son, Caleb Wesley, at 6:30 a.m. May 30. Mrs. Faye Wilson, midwife, delivered the infant. He weighed 6 pounds 9 ounces.

Val Verde, Sandra Lucas of Redding, Calif., and George Lucas of Redwood City, Calif. Lela Butler of Abilene is the infant's great-grandmother.

Caleb Wesley was welcomed home by his sister, Heather, 3.

Dear Abby

Disease baffles family

DEAR ABBY: About two years ago, my father, who was only 55, started to forget the simplest things — such as his own telephone number. "I must be getting senile," he joked.

He grew increasingly confused and forgetful, which frustrated and depressed him. When he couldn't find his way home from work one evening, we knew something was terribly wrong.

We took him to a psychiatrist who immediately referred him to a neurologist. The diagnosis: Alzheimer's disease, for which there is no known cure! We had never heard of this disease and were surprised to learn that approximately 2 million Americans presently suffer from it.

Our father can no longer drive and, of course, he had to quit his job. He just stays home doing nothing. He has become childish and completely dependent on Mother. His physical health is fine, but he has the mentality of a 2-year-old. Mother must watch him day and night. She even has to diaper him, and she's about to crack under the strain.

We feel so helpless. Abby, I can't describe the heartbreak we're enduring. How do other families cope with this? Can you send some information about Alzheimer's disease? What is it, and what can be done about it? DESPERATE IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR DESPERATE: Alzheimer's disease (pronounced ALTZ-himers) is a disorder of the brain that causes loss of memory or serious mental deterioration.

Within the last few years, concerned friends and families of Alzheimer's disease victims have banded together to form a national support group. The prevention or cure of the disease is still unknown. However, medical care can relieve many of the symptoms, and proper guidance can help the patient and family cope with the illness.

Do you remember Rita Hayworth, the beautiful actrix who married Prince Aly Khan? She is a victim of Alzheimer's. Today she can no longer recognize her own name. Her daughter, Princess Yasmin, is a hard-working member of this organization, which provides help to families through education, research and a quarterly newsletter that contains valuable information. The organization wants to hear from the families of Alzheimer's disease victims in order to help them.

For a free packet of helpful information, write to: Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, 360 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

It is a non-profit organization, so please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (54 cents) envelope.

Rodeo reunion seeks pageant contestants

As part of the 50th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, a local Miss Rodeo Texas and Miss Rodeo Texas Teen will be chosen. These two winners will reign on the rodeo June 22-25 and then go on to compete at the state level.

The Big Spring Rodeo Association is looking for qualified contestants to represent it at the state pageant. The winner of the state pageant helps to promote the sport of rodeo by traveling to Texas Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association rodeos.

The state Miss Rodeo Texas and Miss Rodeo Texas Teen travel to about 80 rodeos a year and make other public appearances with all expenses paid.

Johnnie Lou Avery, chairwoman of the event, said the deadline for entering is June 12. She said the contest already has five entries.

Legal age for Miss Rodeo Texas is 18-24. She may be 17 now, but must be 18 by March 1, 1984. Miss Rodeo Texas Teen's age category is 13-17. Contestants must be a legal resident of Texas, single and without children.

Mrs. Avery said contestants will be judged on appearance and poise in modeling western attire, personality, horsemanship and knowledge of rodeoing.

Each night of the rodeo contestants will ride in the grand entry and be introduced. The winners will be named at the third performance on Friday, June 24.

All contestants must have a sponsor who pays a $100 entry fee. The sponsor may be a business, an organization, a friend or relative, or other interested parties.

For entry forms and more information contact Mrs. Avery at 263-1451 or pageant coordinator Gail Earls are 267-6671.

Lopez-Herrera
Diane Lopez and George S. Herrera were united in marriage during a ceremony Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Immaculate Heart of Mary's Church. The Rev. Bernardo Gulley, pastor, performed the ceremony.
The couple was wed before a kneeling bench decorated with white mums. Flanking the bench were two sixteen-branch spiral candelabra.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claudio Lopez, Route 1. Mr. and Mrs. Luis Herrera, Coahoma, are parents of the bridegroom.
A choir, "Sounds of Joy," accompanied by guitars and drums, provided music for the ceremony.
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown. The high neckline was enhanced by a fitted-silk organza bodice accented with pearls and sequins. The skirt fell from the waistline to a chapel-length train. To complete her ensemble, she wore a veil of Alencon lace and an underlay of taffeta held by a crown of spun glass flowers and spun glass pearl tips.
The bride carried a bouquet of spun glass flowers accented with pink rose petals and spun glass pearl tips.
Evelyn Flores was matron of honor. Letty Servin of San Antonio, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Ramirez, sister of the bride, Linda Romero, sister of the bridegroom, Teri Morales, Josie Rivera, Norma Garcia, Nancy Ruiz, cousin of the bride, Rose Alvarez, Lupe Gonzales, Margie Hill, Sandra Quintana, cousin of the bridegroom, Alisa Paredes, Jo Ann Hernandez and Maria Garcia. Amanda Herrera, niece of bridegroom, was flower girl. Cushion carriers were Michelle Ramirez, niece of the bride, and Mary Ann Herrera, cousin of the bridegroom.
Moses Flores was best man. Groomsmen were Claudio Lopez, brother of the bride, Gabriel Romero, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Raymond Gamez, Esiquio Paredes, Royce Islas, Gus Marquez, Roger Rivera, Robert Garcia, Richard Ruiz, cousin of the bride, Jesus Alvarez, Carmen Gonzales, Charlie Upton and Bill Quintana, cousin of the bridegroom. Anthony Ramirez, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Ushers were Jesse Martinez and John Garcia, both cousins of the bride. Altar boys were Larry Garcia, Dominic Martinez, Raymond Ramirez, nephew of the bride, and Joey Herrera, brother of the bridegroom.

Red Cross going broke; local campaign launched

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A tornado twists through Big Spring, shattering homes and wrecking normal life. Dozens need the basics just to survive: food, clothing, shelter.

Where do the people look for help? The American National Red Cross.

But what if that century-old succor can't afford to provide their needs?

That supposition is close to a possibility. Red Cross representatives say their disaster funds are depleted after spending more than $33 million to aid more than a million disaster victims in the past 10 months. They expect to spend much more as a potentially heavy disaster period looms on the horizon, including Texas hurricane season.

Thus the organization launched a nationwide campaign last month to raise money for the Red Cross disaster relief fund. Their goal is to collect $12,000,000.

Louise Nuckolls of Big Spring, a disaster relief volunteer, says the local Howard-Glasscock County Chapter's quota to help reach that goal is $1,400. Red Cross is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. Although Congress mandates that the Red Cross aid disaster victims, the government does not assist in the funding.

"We always tell the people — sometimes they almost bow to you — we tell them it comes from the American people," Mrs. Nuckolls said.

Red Cross emptied its disaster relief fund this year because weather pattern changes have launched storms, floods, mud slides and tornadoes all over the country, and an earthquake shook California.

"We've had plenty (disasters), but it's just beginning," said Mrs.

Nuckolls, disaster chairman of the local Red Cross Chapter. "Hurricane season began officially this (Wednesday) morning. You don't ever want to think about it happening, but it has happened before. We don't try to outguess Mother Nature, we just try to deal with it."

Red Cross operated at 26 major disasters sites in the past 10 months, spending more than a $1 million each in eight of them and about $5 million each in two others.

In Texas there have been eight tornadoes, five storms, four floods, an explosion and 206 fires since July 1, 1983, the start of the Red Cross fiscal year.

Mrs. Nuckolls, who calls herself a "volunteer person," helped in her first disaster relief program 13 months ago at Wichita Falls after a tornado and flood devastated that city.

"I'd rather not see devastation," she said. "They've lost everything but their birthday suit practically. After working a 10 to 14 hour day you just want to crawl into your hotel room and get off by yourself."

"I've seen them cry," she continued. "I'm going to say that without a doubt I've seen some of the biggest bunch of faith. Their house is four feet under water, the carpet or floors ruined, mildewed, and sometimes even have to kill snakes.

"We ask them, 'Are you going back?' 'Yeah, we have to,' they say. 'that's our home.' A lot of them were elderly people who have no other place to go. They may live on a river and may see it happen all over again, but it's the only home they have."

Contributions to the Red Cross will be sent by the local chapter directly to Washington for the disaster relief fund. Mail donations to: American Red Cross, Howard/Glasscock Chapter, P.O. Box 1970, Big Spring, 79720.

DEBBIE HALL
...all-district recruit

Howard signs player

Howard College signed a highly-touted prospect when Debbie Hall of Cypress-Fairbanks High School in Houston inked a scholarship agreement with coach Don Stevens.

The all-District 16-5A and honorable mention all-Greater Houston player guided her team to a 22-10 record this past season, scoring 19 points a game, pulling in 9.5 rebounds and hitting 51 per cent of her shots.

She was also named her district's most valuable player and earned considerable recognition despite playing in the shadow of 6-5 Monica Lamb of 5-A state champion Houston Yates. Lamb is regarded as the No. 1 college prospect in the nation, Stevens says.

"Debbie Hall will be a super college player," Stevens said. "She is a great shooter and will quickly make the change from post to wing. She is very strong and aggressive."

"She has to be one our top recruits for this year," he continued, "and will make her mark in this conference."

Hall was a varsity player all four years in high school, earning all-district honors beginning her sophomore season when she scored 12 points and grabbed 5.4 rebounds a game.

As a junior, she was also an all-league choice and led Cy-Fair to a 24-8 record and district co-championship. She was runner-up in balloting as 16-5A's most valuable player, scoring 18 points and collecting 9 rebounds a game.

Band takes 8 solo honors

AUSTIN — Several members of the Big Spring High School Steer Band attended the world's largest solo-ensemble competition May 28-30 at the University of Texas winning one Division I rating and seven Division II ratings.

Chris Williams received a Division I rating on his percussion solo. James Russell, Stacey Wood, Karen Crandall and John Turner.

The students earned the right to compete in the contest by receiving a Division I ratings in regional music competition sponsored by the University Interscholastic League.

Area schools may lose thousands

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Several Big Spring-area school districts may lose thousands of dollars in state minimum aid and be forced to hike local taxes or cut programs after state legislators failed to update the formula for distributing those funds.

The Big Spring Independent School District would lose an estimated $367,700 over the 1984-85 fiscal years, according to preliminary figures.

Almost half of the Texas school districts could miss out on $111 million in state funds earmarked to keep their state aid from sinking below previous funding levels.

A list of other affected districts in this area follows below. The list and is based on a preliminary computer analysis by the Texas Education Agency. Districts most affected by the failure to update the formula are those whose tax bases have increased.

AFFECTED SCHOOLS in the Big Spring area and the amount they could lose include:
 Dawson ISD, $13,000; Sands ISD, $11,700; Glasscock

ISD, $120,400; Coahoma ISD, $121,600; Forsan ISD, $122,200; Stanton ISD, $19,700; Grady ISD, $74,900; Colorado ISD, $29,400; and Westbrook ISD, $61,400.

A parliamentary maneuver on the next to the last day of the session kept legislators from changing the formula. Since the regular legislative session has closed, the subject has been mentioned as a possible topic for a special session. But House Speaker Gib Lewis has called the unspent funds a good cushion for the state in case of economic turbulence.

Johnny Veselka, representing the Texas Association of School Administrators, said districts that will lose state aid will have to turn to the local property tax base to offset the loss or cut programs. "With the 8 percent limitation (on increasing the effective tax rate) that could trigger a rollback election, the problem becomes even more significant," he said.

Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum said the minimum aid program is designed to keep the local districts from dipping further into their own tax bases when their property values increase.

He said that many school district officials will be upset to hear the news about minimum aid. The Texas Education Agency is reviewing the impact of recent legislative action on school finance and will release the final figures to the school districts in about two weeks, he said.

THE STATE minimum aid fund has been criticized for favoring the "haves" rather than the "have-nots." One legislator said if the Legislature had opted to hand out the minimum aid, the action could have provoked a lawsuit challenging the 8-year-old program as discriminatory.

As the law now stands, the formula is based on the 1980-81 school year. If the base year had been changed to 1982-83 as the Texas Education Agency expected, Texas schools would have received an additional $111 million in state minimum aid as opposed to the $9 million they will receive if the formula isn't recalculated, Bynum said. Texas school districts are expected to take $44 million in minimum aid in the 1982-83 fiscal years, Bynum said.
