Local assault rate climbs

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Property-related crimes are an increasing problem in Big Spring, but the largest crime boom here is in aggravated assaults, according to statistics gathered over the past 10 years by the local police department. From 1972 to 1982, aggravated assaults increased 89 percent. Graphs show a steady increase from 44 cases in 1972 to 409 in 1982.

The number of assaults seems to be growing even more this year. Reports show there have been 28 more assaults in the first five months this year than the same period last year, from 156 to 184.

Police Chief Rick Turner says the increases in motor vehicle thefts (61 percent), burglary (42 percent), theft (46 percent) and aggravated assaults in the past decade seem to contradict his department's increasing success in clearing those cases.

Turner said the BSPD cleared 54 percent of its cases in May and 40 percent the two months before that. The national average is 20 percent, he said.

"That's a phenomenal clearance rate," Turner said. "We're clearing more than ever before. I don't understand why crime is going up."

"Maybe people are seeing that we're doing something and are reporting more," he said. "It's not that the population is going up that much. If current trends continue we'll have some problems."

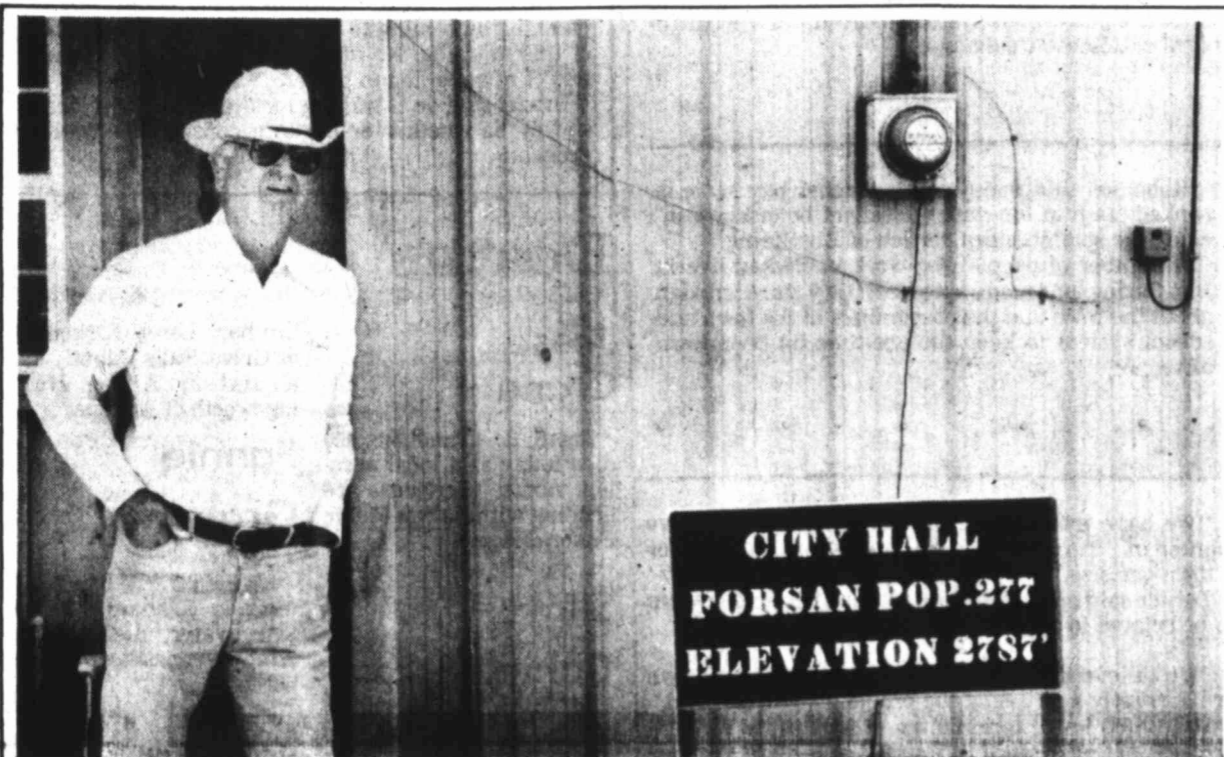

Turner said the department is gathering statistics and charting graphs to aid in crime analysis. By using monthly charts, they observe trends like assaults rising with the temperature in summer.

"We're trying to do some crime analysis and know what we'll be facing rather than telling an officer to just go out there and do a good job," Turner said.

In other crime areas, such as robbery, forcible rape and criminal homicide, statistics do not show an appreciable trend up or down since 1972.

Robbery reached a peak of 27 in 1982, three more than in 1981. There were 22 robberies reported in 1976 and 1979 and 19 in 1973. Robberies seem to peak in the

THE MAYOR — Woodrow Scudday, 72, stands in front of the Forsan City Hall. He has been mayor since 1982 and is the town's third top official since its incorporation. His wife, Nova, 63, is city secretary.

A little of everything

Forsan mayor's position is 'catch-all'

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

FORSAN — The position of mayor in Forsan is not considered a glamor job. It doesn't involve making proclamations and kissing babies; most of the work is in maintaining the city-owned property.

"It's sort of a catch-all," said Bob Roberson, business manager of the Forsan Independent School District. "It becomes a pretty big headache."

Forsan has had only three mayors since its incorporation in 1962. Woodrow Scudday, the officeholder since 1982, would like to have people believe he is miserable in the post. He says this first term will probably be his only one.

Why did he run for the job? "A couple of three so-called friends talked me into it," he said, smiling as he settled back in his chair at city hall. His wife and city secretary, Nova, shook her head and smiled as though she had heard it before.

The Scuddays have lived in the town since the 1930s, and their affection for the area and its people is evident. The mayor's job does involve some manual labor that larger towns hire crews to do. Most evident is maintenance of the town's fire trucks and water system.

But Scudday, 70, has his share of administrative accomplishments. The widening and improvement of the road leading to Forsan from U.S. Highway 87 has been a need for years.

"We finally got to the state," Scudday said. "All you have to do is be patient."

One item on the long-term agenda is finding the owners of a number of lots in town. Much of the property was sold during the oil boom that created Forsan in the mid-1920s. Record-keeping was not as thorough then, and taxing officials have difficulty locating heirs to the land and collecting back taxes.

There are approximately 1,400 lots measuring 25 by 100 feet. Roberson estimates that 10-15 percent of those are of unknown ownership.

So the lots remain unsettled, and there is not the staff or funds for the city to maintain them regularly, Scudday said.

Scudday said he remembers when Forsan was a major oil town before the Depression. He and his wife spent part of their childhood in Forsan.

They list the biggest landmarks in Forsan's history as the arrival of water and paved roads during the 1960s.

When asked why he stays in Forsan and what the town has to offer, Scudday stared in disbelief and surprised a smile.

"Now don't get cynical," Mrs. Scudday said. "We just like it here. There is a very good school system — I think that is a draw for a lot of people."

The Forsan Independent School District was established in the 1930s, Roberson said. It has a current enrollment of 500 students. The junior and senior high schools are located together in Forsan, but the elementary school is in nearby Elbow.

"The school is really the center of town," Mrs. Scudday said. During summer months, the swim-

Students' scores up in basic skills tests

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Results from the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test show Big Spring students fared better than their counterparts in 1982.

The TABS test, established by the state's 66th Legislature, has been administered to third, fifth and ninth graders in the state since 1979. The fourth edition of the test was given this spring in the Big Spring Independent School District.

The test results were presented to the school board last night by Janice Rosson, secondary curriculum coordinator, and Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator.

The test measures basic skills in the areas of mathematics, reading and writing.

Overall, the students taking the 1983 version of the test had higher mastery scores in the three subjects except for ninth graders who scored lower than last year's class on the math portion of the test.

The state mastery level is 85 percent on each subject. The third grade scored above that level in reading and writing, and the fifth and ninth graders scored above 85 percent on the writing portion.

Statewide results are not available yet, so officials don't know how the BSISD students stand in relation to students in other districts, according to Mrs. Gladden.

The third grade scored 84.2 percent in math, 86.1 in reading and 89 percent in total writing. The class scored higher on all subjects than the classes of 1981 and '82.

The third grade had difficulty with putting whole numbers in order, working with units of measure, identifying the main idea in reading and using punctuation, according to Mrs. Gladden.

The fifth graders scored 81.9 in math, 75.9 in reading and 87 percent in writing. These scores are also higher than in '81 and '82.

Mrs. Gladden said the fifth grade had trouble with place values, solving word problems in multiplication and division, fractions, predicting outcomes in reading stories and punctuation.

The ninth grade scored 68 percent in math, 74 percent in reading and 88 percent in writing. This class fell two points under last year's class in math.

The ninth graders had trouble with solving problems in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, personal finance, ratio, proportion and percentages.

"The most important part of the TABS test is that it allows us the pick up on the strengths and weaknesses in our system," Mrs. Gladden said. "Then it's up to us as teachers and administrators to get together and see how we can benefit our students."

Mrs. Gladden said efforts are made each year to bridge gaps in weaknesses by adjusting curriculum to strengthen those areas while not losing ground in other areas.

Magazine sings Montford's praises

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Calling him a member of a first-year class in the Texas Senate that was "astonishingly good," Texas Monthly magazine named freshman Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, as the "best new legislator" for the 1983 session.

Montford's honor came in the July issue that reveals the famous "Ten Best" and "Ten Worst" legislators, a grading issued after each regular biennial session.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, whose district included Howard County until redistricting two years ago, was named to the "Best" list and praised as "the most respected member of the Legislature." The only other West Texan to make the "Best" list was Rep. Jay Gibson, D-Odessa, for his leadership in cutting the higher education budget sufficiently to avoid a tax increase.

No West Texans made the "Ten Worst" list.

The magazine apparently graded Montford higher on his attempts than on the results. The only explanation for his designation as "best new legislator" was that

RAZZY BAILEY ...varied performance

Dance master

Razy Bailey works crowd into frenzy

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Playing a mixture of two-steps and ballads, Razy Bailey gradually worked his audience into a dancing frenzy Thursday night during a two-show concert at the Brass Nail.

THE RCA RECORDING ARTIST came out on stage wearing a light-colored coat and tie but shucked both three songs into his first set. "It's just too hot in here, yall," the Alabama native hollered. He then launched into a 15-song performance that brought a strong response from a full house.

Music review

Bailey, who's touring on the heels of a greatest hits album, had to work hardest in getting his appreciated audience off its chairs and onto the dance floor. "Y'all are a conservative crowd," he teased midway through his early show. "Y'all will have to dance during the next set...if you don't, I'll get my pistol out and shoot at your feet."

THE FORMER RESIDENT of San Angelo and Corpus Christi played many of his favorites, including his new hit "After the Great Depression." His show consisted of songs by other country artists, including Willie Nelson and Kenny Rogers.

The crowd's favorite was a take-off of Rogers' No. 1 hit "Lucille." Not only did he continue the story where the original song ended, he added new lyrics to sing "You picked a fine time, to come back Lucille."

Other hit songs Bailey and his five-man band performed were their first No. 1 hit, "Loving Up a Storm," "Friends," "Anywhere There's a Jukebox," "Midnight Hauler" and "She Left Love All Over Me."

SOFT BALLADS SUCH as "Your Memory" and Nelson's bluesy "The Nightlife" provided welcomed changes of pace through the set.

The band, consisting of rhythm guitarist Royce Porter of Sweetwater, played well with Bailey and did a few numbers between their leader's shows. Other group members were Milton Cavender (Nashville) on bass, Kerry Marx (Aiken, S.C.) on lead guitar, Doc Martin (Bishop) on keyboards and Dick Munnett (Syracuse, N.Y.) on drums.

Club owner Dale Austin was pleased with the large turnout, calling it the best since last year's Charly McLain show. He is working on an upcoming show which he says could be the biggest yet.

District buys computer items

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Bids for computer lab equipment at Bauer Magnet School were examined by the Big Spring school board last night, with Gordon's Business Machines getting the nod for the bulk of the hardware.

The district advertised for bids on 14 items of hardware; the largest purchase is 10 micro-computers for the school's enrichment and extended day program.

The district accepted Gordon's bid of $14,393 for 10 Franklin micro-computers. Gordon's bids of $149.25 for a text card, $13.50 for an instruction manual and $400 for training also were accepted.

Computer Tutor, Inc.'s bid of $296 for a computer disk was approved, as were Agriplex Computer's bids of $662 for a printer, $294 for a microbuffer and $250 for 10 pairs of game paddles.

The total purchase was $16,459, according to Superintendent for Business Don Crockett.

In other business the board:

- Approved the hiring of eight teachers for the 1983-84 school year.
- Accepted the resignations of 10 teachers.
- Endorsed Charles Wade of Monahans for appointment to the Texas Association of School Boards.
- Granted the city an easement and right-of-way to allow moving electrical service on the east side of Birdwell Lane to Washington Elementary School property. The request was in relation to the city's project to widen Birdwell Lane.
- Appointed board president Charles Bell as delegate and Vice President Dwayne Fraser as alternate to the Texas Association of School Boards' annual assembly in San Antonio Sept. 17-19, 1983.
- Awarded a bid to Stadiums Unlimited, Inc. of $18,817 to replace three sections of seating at Memorial Stadium. The bid is for aluminum seating. The board also gave Business Superintendent Don Crockett the authority to negotiate for one more section of seating to be replaced.
- Accepted a bid of $5,325 from L.H. Office Center of

Minority transfer offered

As part of the 1982 agreement with the U.S. Justice Department creating the Bauer Magnet School, the Big Spring Independent School District is offering voluntary transfer to minority students at Bauer.

Any minority student in the Bauer attendance area has the option of transferring to any other elementary school of his choice subject to available space at the school. Pupil transportation will be provided by the district.

Requests for transfer must be made by July 30, 1983 at the district's administration office at 708 11th Place. Questions about the process can be answered by calling 267-8245.

The Bauer Magnet School was created to satisfy a suit filed by the federal government charging the district with running a dual school system. The voluntary transfer for minority students at Bauer was part of the agreement struck by the district and the Justice Department.

Big Spring for 15 Sierra 3300 typewriters for the high school typing lab.

- Accepted a bid from Matara Paper Co. of $22,602 for white ream paper needs for the district next year.

- Accepted a $3,906 bid from Watson Food, Inc. for toilet tissue, and a bid of $4,000 from Clayton Chemical for paper towels.

- Heard a report from Secondary Curriculum Coordinator Janice Rosson and Elementary Curriculum Coordinator Helen Gladden concerning a priority plan for improving mathematics and communication skills in the district.

The plan is a five-year project in conjunction with the Texas Education Agency in which a school district picks weak points in its system and initiates a program to deal with those weaknesses.

ing pool and tennis courts are opened and are the busiest spots in town.

Like many small communities in the Permian Basin, Forsan puts the benefits of oil wealth into its education system. In 1982, the district had a tax base of $422 million. Ninety-two percent of the taxes are from mineral interests.

Roberson said the system's teacher pay scale is ranked sixth in the nation. District boundaries include the southwestern portion of Big Spring.

A number of people who work in Forsan live in Big Spring and commute, but they care enough about the town and the possibilities of the town and school system to keep the one-time oil boomtown alive.

spring and winter months.

Forcible rapes declined from 13 in 1981 to eight in 1982. Four rapes have been reported this year.

"There's been more than four rapes this year," Turner said. "The victims wanted to let us know about it, but wouldn't press charges."

Murders have dropped in the past three years from eight in 1980 to six in 1982. Four criminal homicides occurred here from January to May, one less than in the same period last year.

More homicides have been committed in May in the past two years than any other month. Three persons were murdered in Big Spring in May 1982 and two in May 1983.

"We have more homicides here than any city I've worked in," Turner said. "We have a lot of murders for a town our size."

Turner said most of the assaults and homicides seem to be related to alcohol, rather than drugs.

"We believe a lot of offenses are drug-related and we are currently addressing the problem," Turner said. The BSPD keeps a minimum of four patrol officers and one sergeant on duty during each shift, Turner said.

The department currently is short one patrolman, but it has four graduating from the Midland police academy who will soon enter the department's training program, he said. There are 50 officers in the BSPD.

Montford

Montford "guided the ill-fated water plan through the Senate, played hardball to get an amendment on the ill-fated horse-racing bill, and persuaded senators to add some ill-fated appropriations for Texas Tech to the state budget. Oh, well, you can't win them all."

Texas Monthly said the selection for the lists was based on personal observations of its staff and interviews with legislators, lobbyists and others associated with the Legislature.

Early editions of the magazine's July issue, which described the 1983 Legislature as establishing "a pretty good record" and cited Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby as the session's big winner, were made available to the news media Thursday. They will be delivered by mail to subscribers next week and will be on newsstands on Thursday.

Others on the "Best" list were: Sens. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, and Bob McFarland, R-Arlington; Reps. Bill Coody, D-Weatherford, Gerald Hill, D-Austin; Lee Jackson, R-Dallas; Ray Keller, R-Duncanville; Bill Messer, D-Belton; and Steve Wolens, D-Dallas.

The "Worst" list makeup: Sens. Glenn Kothmann and Bob Vale, both San Antonio Democrats; Reps. Al Edwards, D-Houston; Frank Eikenburg, R-Plano; Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline; Sam Hudson, D-Dallas; Jan McKenna, R-Arlington; Randy Pennington, R-Houston; Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie; and Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont.

Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, won a "special award" as "Flop of the Year." Washington won a spot on the "Ten Best" list two years ago as a member of the Texas House but didn't adopt to the ways of the Senate after winning election there last year, the article said.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, won a special "Best Single Performance" award for singlehandedly "pulling Houston out of the recession with his raids on the state treasury during the final budget negotiations."

House Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, won the "Best One-Liner" award for his remark to Rep. Joe Gamez, D-San Antonio, during debate on the bill to allow a statewide election on parimutuel betting on horse races. Berlanga, the proposal's sponsor, quipped to Gamez, who had been arrested for driving while intoxicated and without a license, "Don't flake on me, Gamez. It may be your only means of transportation."

Burglary suspect held

John P. Command, 20, of 1010 Baylor is being held in city jail in lieu of a $15,000 bond after his arrest yesterday on suspicion of burglary of a habitation.

Command was arrested about an hour after Dawn M. Ditto of 1010 Baylor told police someone stole a $75 rifle, a $100 pair of binoculars and shotgun shells from her residence between 10 a.m. and noon yesterday, police reports said.

Peace Justice Lewis Heflin set the bond. Police reports also show the following:

- Efrain Arroyo, 21, of 1201 E. Third was arrested at 12:54 a.m. today in connection with the theft of two rodeo banners.

The reporting officer said he arrested Arroyo in the 400 block of East Third. The suspect was intoxicated, reports said.

- Elizabeth H. Mindling, 26, of Southland Apartments was arrested last night on suspicion of driving while license suspended.
- Shirley a. Hawkins of 403 N.E. Trades told police someone driving a vehicle tried to run over her at 1:55 p.m. yesterday on the 400 block of Northwest Fifth.
- Jan Farnell of 7-Eleven at 300 E. 11th Place told police four black males stole four 12-packs of beer and four cartons of cigarettes from the store at 1:25 a.m. today.

- Linda Hernandez of 606 N.W. Seventh told police someone stole $2 and a checkbook from her purse which she left in the Big Spring Mall maintenance room between 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Sheriff's Log

Two remain in jail

Two persons are in Howard County jail after receiving prison sentences in 118th District Court yesterday. Jimmy Carl Young, 29, of 509 E. 17th pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was given four years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Tim Bruce, 27, of Garden City Route had his probation revoked on a burglary conviction and was assessed a five-year term in TDC.

- Ricky Wilson, 17, of Midland pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to theft by appropriation and received a four-year probated sentence.

- John Raymond Elrod, 32, of 403 Washington pleaded guilty to felony driving while intoxicated and received a three-year probated sentence.

- Jim Bob Carter, 27, of 1509 Main pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance and received a 10-year probated sentence.

The philosophy feud and why no TV show

The gauntlet has been thrown again in the Gilstrap-Brazel feud.

The cancellation of the national television appearance for Big Spring's ideological tussle was because D.A. Brazel has "nothing to offer," according to Cecil Gilstrap.

The local oilman and the Democratic leader were to be interviewed for NBC's "Today" show this weekend. However, Brazel rejected the offer, saying Gilstrap would "bloat with envy and ego" and believe he was gaining in importance in the community.

Gilstrap said today in a telephone interview the TV appearance was canceled before he even knew about it.

"I read it in the paper. They ain't called me or nothing -- I was expecting them people in here Sunday," Gilstrap said. "I was excited about it. It'll help Big Spring."

Gilstrap said "them old socialist liberals" don't have anything to say once you pen them down, "just that same old socialist hogwash." He said Brazel turned down the television appearance because he does not have any answers.

Brazel called Gilstrap's remarks a "100 percent lie" and pointed out that is the reason he declined to do the program.

But Gilstrap claims he has something to say that is good, but nobody wants to allow it to be said.

"Anytime people have good ideas, they don't want to put it on the air," Gilstrap said. "He (Brazel) says he loves Big Spring, but when it's got a chance for national coverage, he's running scared."

However, Brazel said he turned the TV show down after contacting several community leaders including school and city officials. The consensus was that allowing Gilstrap on television would hurt the city more than it could ever help, Brazel said.

Brazel said "Today" producer Bert Medley is still planning on coming to Big Spring to do the show as of this morning. No final decision has been made, but "I'm not going to be here," Brazel said.

Brazel said he is waiting for the results of a local survey on whether or not to reconsider doing the program.

First suit filed in Fort Worth hotel fire

FORT WORTH (AP) — The widow of a Kansas man has filed the first lawsuit in connection with a blaze at the Ramada Inn Central that killed her husband and four other people earlier this week.

Attorneys for Pauline Young filed suit in state district court here Thursday seeking $2.2 million in actual damages and $500,000 in punitive damages from the hotel chain and Barker Enterprises, the owners of the franchise.

Her husband, Randy Lynn Young, 26, of Liberal, Kan., died of smoke inhalation, medical examiners said.

The suit alleges "gross negligence" on the part of motel employees.

Glenn Schaeffer, Ramada vice president for public affairs, said company officials had not seen the suit and had no comment.

Five people died and 34 were injured in the early morning blaze Tuesday at the 10-year-old hotel just off Interstate 30 on the city's east side.

Officials were still trying to determine the cause of the fire today. Fire Chief Larry McMillen said he expects test results by Monday on pieces of charred carpet taken from the area where the blaze started.

But authorities eliminated the possibility that a smoldering cigarette triggered the blaze after officials tried unsuccessfully to burn remnants of the carpet with cigarettes, said fire department spokesman Jim

Noah.

Because the remnants could be burned with matches, Noah said, investigators suspect the blaze could have been the work of an arsonist.

"We're just in the process of eliminating possible causes," Noah said Thursday. "But when you eliminate one more possibility that it was accidental, then that lends a little more weight to the possibility of it being arson."

But Noah also said, "Somebody could have accidentally thrown a match into the carpet."

Firefighters said the blaze began in stacked rolls of carpet stored inside a lower-level entranceway and spread rapidly through the hallways to the 300-foot wing, one of four at the 303-room hotel. Damage was estimated at $1 million.

There were neither smoke alarms nor sprinkler systems in the two-story, 86-room wing where the fire occurred and many of the survivors were awakened by the sound of honking horns and breaking glass.

Medical examiners said the victims died of asphyxiation from smoke and carbon monoxide. Fire officials contend a smoke alarm system would have reduced the death toll.

"There's no doubt in my mind that it would have saved lives," said McMillen.

Pope demands trade unions be restored to Polish workers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Pope John Paul II urged Communist Party chief Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski today to restore free trade unions and delivered a tough lecture during a televised meeting the Polish government had hoped would lend papal legitimacy to martial law rule.

A government source said the regime was surprised by the pope's bluntness and feared it might touch off further mass demonstrations. Authorities deployed extra police and parked water cannon on side streets in Warsaw today, where more than 50,000 Poles marched in protest Thursday night chanting "Solidarity! Solidarity!"

Police guards stopped shadowing Lech Walesa, the leader of the outlawed union, and his wife vowed she and her husband would see the pope "unless they tie us up or put us in jail."

At a meeting televised nationwide, the pontiff told Jaruzelski he wanted the 1980 Gdansk accords that gave birth to Solidarity "gradually put into effect." The union was the Soviet bloc's first free trade union.

He lectured the general on "the important share of responsibility that lies upon each one of you before history and before your consciences," and called for a return to the "principles so painstakingly worked out in the critical days of August 1980" in Gdansk.

The pope coupled his call for a return to the pre-martial law union accords with an expression of hope that "conditions can be created" under which the West could lift trade sanctions against Poland, imposed in response to martial law.

But he pointedly avoided any direct appeal to Western governments, which the Polish government had sought.

The pope's remarks followed a night of demonstrations in support of the now-outlawed union that included a march by more than 50,000 people past Communist Party headquarters — the largest anti-government demonstration since martial law was declared Dec. 13, 1981.

A government source, speaking on condition his name was not disclosed, said authorities were surprised by the bluntness of the pope's remarks since arriving in Poland Thursday at the start of an eight-day tour of his homeland, his second since becoming pope in 1978. The demonstrations the visit has unleashed were also unexpected, he said.

"We are scared," said the official. "We thought it would be tranquil. Now we don't know what will happen."

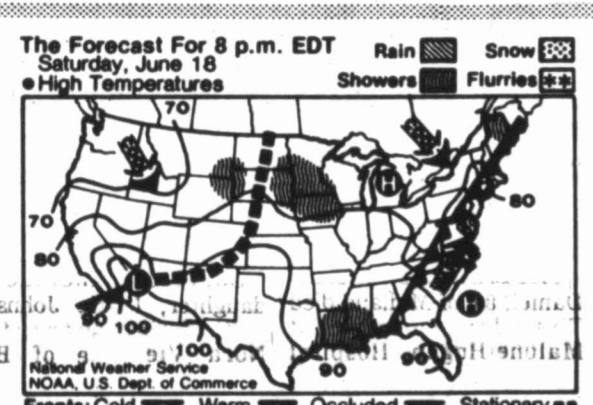

Both church officials and Walesa had called for calm during the papal tour.

In Gdansk, the Baltic seaport where Solidarity was born, Walesa's wife Danuta said plainclothes police shadowing him since Wednesday had disappeared.

POPE IN POLAND — Pope John Paul II drives through Warsaw streets on the first day of his visit to Poland Thursday.

Weather

Showers move through Panhandle

Showers and heavy thunderstorms were scattered from the central and northern Plains to the mid-Mississippi Valley and from Pennsylvania to Maine today following another bout of tornado activity in the nation's midsection.

Scattered thundershowers also stretched from the Tennessee Valley south to the Florida Panhandle and west along the Gulf Coast into southern Texas. Rain showers dampened areas from the northern Pacific Coast into the northern Rockies.

The National Weather Service said nearly a dozen tornadoes, some with marble- to golf ball-size hail, skipped across the South and Midwest on Thursday.

Two mobile homes were overturned by a tornado at Gadsden, Ala., injuring at least one person. The same twister also destroyed a boat and uprooted trees. Winds downed several trees at Nettleton, Miss., and gusted to 60 mph at Houston.

Heavy rain accompanied the storm system, dumping from 2 to 3 inches over parts of central Nebraska, prompting a flash flood warning. Another warning was issued for southeast Texas.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 37 degrees in Hibbing, Mont., to 90 degrees in Phoenix, Ariz.

TODAY AND SATURDAY
West Texas — Fair to partly cloudy with widely scattered thundershowers this evening. Fair entire area Saturday. Highs 86 Panhandle to 90 southwest and near 103 Big Bend. Lows 61 Panhandle and mountains to 70 south. Highs Saturday 90 Panhandle to 101 southwest and near 106 Big Bend.

SUNDAY THROUGH TUESDAY
West Texas — Widely scattered afternoon and early nighttime thundershowers, otherwise mostly fair. No important temperature changes. Highs upper 80s Panhandle to mid 90s south except near 104 Big Bend valleys. Lows near 60 Panhandle to lower 70s southeast and extreme south.

Treasury puts limits on tax proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department is delaying for one month the scheduled July 1 start of withholding of taxes from interest and dividends, and Congress is about to ensure that the law never goes in effect.

The Senate voted 86-4 Thursday to repeal the 9-month-old law requiring withholding and to stiffen penalties and income-reporting requirements to catch some of the 20 million couples and individuals who cheat the tax collector on interest and dividends.

Instead of the $13.4 billion that withholding was expected to produce over the next five years, the substitute would bring in only about $4.9 billion. Much of that would be spent by the Internal Revenue Service to beef up its force.

A few hours before the Senate acted, the House Ways and Means Committee did. Reagan said that inflation has lowered the value of incomes and that limiting the amount of the tax cut for those making more than $50,000 would be "clobbering an awful lot of people who are out there in the middle-income and lower-income brackets." Reagan's comments came at a fund-raiser for Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

The Senate vote on withholding shifts that fight back to the House, which last month voted 382-41 for repeal without any substitute tax-compliance measures. House passage of the new package would send the repeal bill to Reagan, who, Senate officials say, is likely to accept it.

However, the process will be a bit more complicated because the Senate attached unrelated amendments to the repeal bill. A conference committee of Senate and House members probably will have to hammer out a compromise.

Those amendments include two major Reagan initiatives — tax and tariff concessions to aid the Caribbean nations and some tax and regulatory relief for businesses that locate in inner cities and other economically depressed areas.

A third amendment is opposed by Reagan but that probably won't make much difference because lopsided majorities in the House and Senate favor it. It would make permanent a tax exemption for bonds used to subsidize mortgages for first-time homebuyers.

The fight against withholding was fueled by the banking industry, whose opposition was partially responsible for a record flood of 22 million letters to Congress calling for repeal.

Young scholar argues weapons with Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — She did not make a convert in the Oval Office, but 17-year-old Ariela Gross emerged from a 20-minute debate with President Reagan with her views about a nuclear weapons freeze unchanged.

The Princeton, N.J., high school senior, a winner of the prestigious Presidential Scholar award, had planned to give the president, at a White House ceremony Thursday, a letter signed by 14 scholarship winners urging a weapons freeze.

But administration officials, who knew of her plans, defused the gesture by inviting her to a session with the president two hours before the noon presentation.

Miss Gross, nonetheless, remained an adamant critic of the president's nuclear weapons policies.

"He said here today that we should be proud of a country that wants to remain strong," she said, referring to Reagan's remarks at the South Lawn ceremony for the students.

"But I say I'm ashamed of the leaders of this country who can vote for a new freeze, and then turn around and vote for the most dangerous and expensive missile system that this country has ever suggested, the MX missile," she added.

Miss Gross said that even though Reagan disputed her argument and dominated their conversation, she believes she accomplished her goal.

"I felt satisfied that I spoke my views and I hope he considers them seriously, rather than as just coming from someone else who is misinformed," she said. "I didn't expect to change anybody's mind."

During their talk, Miss Gross said, the two discussed Reagan's defense policies and her worries about nuclear war and the MX missile.

"I didn't hear anything I didn't already know about his policies, but it was more knowing to hear in person that he so firmly believes that building is a way to reduce," she told reporters.

"I just expressed my fears that if we continue that way, that I wouldn't have a future in which I can fulfill the potential that he believes I have."

Miss Gross said Reagan characterized as "phony" the figures she cited as evidence of nuclear parity between the United States and the Soviet Union, she said.

Reagan referred to his differences with Miss Gross in his remarks to the 140 young people honored at the scholarship ceremony later. Each was presented with a $1,000 scholarship and a presidential medallion by Education Secretary T.H. Bell.

"You have a responsibility and right to speak out about your concerns," Reagan told the audience. "Here, as well as back home, we have that right because we're Americans. But let us always remember with that privilege goes a responsibility to be right."

"I pray for the day when nuclear weapons will no longer exist anywhere on earth," Reagan told the scholars and their families.

He added, "We're keeping our military strong for only one reason — to deter any adversary from thinking it can achieve its goals through war."

Miss Gross, who attends Princeton High School and will study at Harvard this fall, learned of her award in April.

Gambling with people's lives

Most people who use drugs are risking their health, careers, and families. Air traffic controllers who use drugs are risking the lives of thousands of innocent airline passengers every day. One might imagine then that the Federal Aviation Administration, the agency that employs the nation's 12,000 civilian air traffic controllers, would be utterly ruthless in ferreting out drug users in its ranks and getting them out of control towers. Not so, according to a recent report in the Wall Street Journal.

OFFICIALLY, THE FAA forbids drug use by controllers. And the agency has dismissed controllers in cases where drug abuse was obviously affecting job performance. But what seems to be lacking is both a proper sense of urgency and a willingness to recognize the apparent extent of drug use by controllers.

Some former students at the FAA's air traffic control academy in Oklahoma City estimate that perhaps 24 percent of recent trainees there use marijuana or cocaine. Not all of these trainees graduate, of course, but the FAA is undoubtedly kidding itself if it believes that its haphazard screening process weeds out all drug abusers.

THE MOST EFFECTIVE check against drug use by controllers would probably be some sort of mandatory urinalysis or blood sample program with air traffic controllers subject to periodic, unannounced testing. Similar measures have already proved effective in curbing drug use within the armed forces.

Civil libertarians would scream, and many controllers might object as well. But the alternative is to wait until a drug-impaired controller makes a mistake that results in disaster for an airliner full of passengers. Subsequent public outrage would force the FAA to adopt sterner anti-drug measures, no doubt including mandatory urine and blood testing. Why wait until the FAA's drug problem costs the lives of 100 or more innocent persons?

No fear of fire

Fire may be one of the most ignored tragedies in America. Too many people hide behind the deadly hope that fire happens to someone else.

Recent news has been filled with fire stories — such as the one aboard the Air Canada jet, and Tuesday's fire at the Ramada Inn in Fort Worth. People who have surveyed the situation beforehand hold the better chance of coming out of a blaze alive. People who ignore the possibility of fire and never give survival tactics a second thought cannot be prepared to take the best escape route.

Most Americans are unprepared for fire. There are too many potential fire victims out there — people who really don't have the slightest idea what they would do if they opened a door and were greeted by flames.

OTHER PEOPLE, who are operating hotels, motels, dormitories and other facilities which house a large number of people, are taking chances with our lives. In several fires lately, carelessness was the real culprit in the cause of the fire.

An example: carpet, when it burns, emits choking black smoke. But carpet had been piled in the exits. The management of the hotel, responsible for the safety of guests, took a chance with people's lives and lost.

People often don't take the time to study safety rules which could give them a little edge in case of fire. Maybe we're too lazy or too optimistic that a fire will never occur.

I REMEMBER in college, late at night, huddled in my dorm room on cold winter nights, worrying about the possibility of a fire drill. A fire drill — not a fire. After all, temperatures were frigid on winter nights in Lubbock, and I didn't want to leave the warmth of a dorm for any reason. Our dorm supervisors told us to be ready for a fire drill but I don't remember ever leaving the dorm for such a drill.

There also were little black-and-white posters scattered around the dorm — behind the kitchen door and laundry room door — telling us about fire exits. I don't think we took much time to read them.

In a story on the Fort Worth fire, one politician said nothing will be done to enforce better fire alarm systems until people demand better fire alarm systems. In light of all the recent fires which have claimed many lives, maybe it's time to start our demands for systems which work.

Anyone for camp?

"What do you want to do this summer, son?"
 "Go to camp."
 "What kind of camp?"
 "Just camp."
 "You have to be more specific than that. Do you want to go to arts and crafts camp, music camp, baseball camp, or weight-reduction camp?"
 "I just want to go to a regular camp."
 "What do you mean by a regular camp?"
 "You know, one that has canoeing, and volleyball, and campfires and stuff like that."
 "And what do you expect to learn at a camp like that?"
 "I wasn't thinking about learning anything at all."
 "That's the darndest thing I ever heard. What do you know today when you just goes to camp to have a good time? I'm willing to send you to a math camp, so you can pick up your grades, and I'll even send you to a tennis camp, so you can make the school team next year. If you don't want to do that I'll even send you to a camp where they only speak Spanish. It will be great for you to learn a second language."
 "I don't want to go to a camp where you have to learn something."
 "That's a rotten attitude. Let's go through the ads in the back of the Sunday magazine section. This one sounds interesting, an astronaut camp. You go through the same program the astronauts do and even simulate a space lab voyage."

 "I don't want to be an astronaut camper."
 "All right then, what about a theater camp. You put on your own plays and musical productions and build your own scenery."
 "What kind of camp did you go to when you were a kid, Dad?"
 "Camp Wakitan."
 "What did they specialize in?"
 "They didn't specialize in anything. In my day we didn't have the opportunities you kids have of perfecting your soccer game, or learning how to build a robot, or studying the mating habits of clams. We didn't come back any smarter than when we went."
 "That's the kind of camp I want to go to."
 "I refuse to send you to one like that. You've got a good mind and I'm not going to allow it to go dead in the summertime. Besides, what am I going to say to my friends when they ask me what kind of camp you're specializing in?"
 "I don't care what you say. I just want to go to a place where you live in a cabin and cook marshmallows outside and have pillow fights at night."
 "That's enough of that kind of talk. Let's get serious. Here's a camp where you learn how to be a computer programmer in BASIC, COBOL, and PASCAL languages. In the last week you can build your own microchip. Don't shake your head — computer knowledge is essential to your generation. Okay, what about this one? It's an auto repair camp. They supply all the tools and parts and you get a mechanic's certificate at the end of the summer. That doesn't appeal to you? What about a farm camp where you kill hogs and learn all about salting pork and making bacon?"

 "I don't want to know how to make bacon."
 "Here's one that should grab you. It's a geology camp. You gather rocks and learn the history of the earth from them."
 "No way."
 "What if you know what it costs to send a kid away in the summer these days? It's almost as much as tuition to a private school. I'm not going to finance sending you to a camp unless it enriches your life."
 "Then forget it, I don't want to go to camp."
 "Wait a minute. Here's a camp for kids who don't go to camp."
 "What does it specialize in?"
 "It doesn't say. All the ads say is that the camp director was a former Green Beret, who trained mountain tribes to shoot poison darts at anyone who tried to use the Ho Chi Minh Trail at night."

A half-hearted war on drugs

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has pronounced his war on drugs a raging success. But the truth is the war has been long on ballyhoo and short on performance. The price of illegal drugs is down across the country — a sure sign that the supply is up. Confidential Drug Enforcement Agency reports disclose that farmers in Columbia have 10 times as much acreage in cocaine production as they had two years ago, when the administration began its much-publicized crackdown. The United States is virtually the sole market for Colombian cocaine producers.

Last October, at a cost of over $120 million, 12 new task forces were created to go after smugglers and dealers, modeled after the federal-state South Florida Task Force. More recently, attempts have been made to coordinate the interdiction activities of various government agencies.

But the agencies don't seem committed to the interdiction program. For example:

- The Pentagon promised aircraft radar coverage for 17 days per month over South Florida. Yet the records show that this vital service was provided on only five days last October, nine days in November and three days in December.
- Radar surveillance out of New Orleans, covering the Gulf of Mexico, spotted 64 aircraft that fit the smuggling "profile" during a two-month period. Only 14 were even chased by law-enforcement planes, and only three of those were actually caught when they landed. All three were loaded with dope.
- Along the Mexican border, penetration by suspected smuggler aircraft has reached the proportions of nine years ago, when the overland route was the principal entry point for drug traffickers.

The reasons for this lack of serious effort are hard to pinpoint. The use of Pentagon resources is restricted by law. Customs Service and DEA officials are jealously guarding their own administrative turf. And nobody is cracking heads together and insisting the job get done.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., chairman of a subcommittee on justice, offered a typical example to my associate Donald Goldberg. The Pentagon promised English in April 1982 that, within 30 days, it would give Customs information on possible drug shipments picked up by radar balloon at Cudjoe Key, Fla.

But during an inspection 10 months later, English learned the truth: The balloon was still unable to provide intelligence on suspicious-looking aircraft. Now, more than a year after it was promised, the information is finally being given to Customs.

Interdiction efforts — actually catching smugglers — are being given short shrift, English feels, as most of the money and man-hours are devoted to investigations. English, who will hold hearings on the drug crackdown next month, characterizes the 12 new task forces as "business as usual."

Meanwhile, the White House announced in March yet another bureaucratic weapon it was unleashing on dope traffickers: A Cabinet level executive board, headed by Vice President Bush, to coordinate and supervise the smuggler-catching operations. But White House officials admit that the board is still in the planning stage.

SICK BUILDINGS: If work makes you sick, the fault may be in the building where you work. James Repace, an air specialist at the Environmental Protection Agency, has identified pollutants in "sick buildings." These range from bad breath to deadly radioactive gases that seep up from the soil beneath the structure.

The EPA has been getting complaints from individuals across the country who claim something in their buildings is making them ill. But the agency has been concentrating its think resources on pollution in outside air. Indoor air pollution is so under-funded there isn't even an EPA roster of buildings in which people have come down with airborne diseases.

There are powerful forces that resist any research on indoor air pollution: builders, landlords, construction material manufacturers, chemical companies, cigarette makers — even some workers' compensation officials, who fear a flood of claims.

Reader upset about bad meat

Dear Editor,
 Everyone is talking about the sorry meat we have. The beef has synthetic hormones in it. And that makes the beef tough and full of gristle.

In the paper not long ago the Government wanted the ranchers to stop feeding the DES to cattle. It also said the DES became illegal Nov. 1, 1979.

And I have heard the people that dress the fryer chickens puts an embalming drug in them and that's why the fryers are no good. They all have an old taste.

We pay a high price for the no-good meat.

Ex-patient is thankful

Dear Editor,
 This is perhaps the most difficult letter that I will ever write because I have so many nice people to thank, that I fear I might leave someone unmentioned.

Anyway, I want to say "thanks and God bless" to any and all of you who have had any part of any of the following events:

So many personal visits, so many prayers, so many personal gifts, so many offers of help in so many ways.

The beautiful prayers that I had with my pastor and with my beloved family and friends, the sweet words of love and encouragement that came from my beloved wife.

The professional comfort that comes from my doctor and all that TLC (tender, loving care) that I received from every employee in every part of the hospital.

Again, I say, "It is great to know that people do love and care."

Except for three days on my starvation diet at the hospital, made necessary by the tests given me, the food at Hall-Bennett Hospital has been gourmet all the way. Sincere gratitude.

'Natural man' Shoeshiner is master of his art

KERRVILLE (AP) — Charles Kylandezes is a "natural man." In seven decades of experience, he has become a master of a disappearing craft — shoeshining.

Since he learned to clean his own shoes as a boy in San Antonio, Kylandezes has spent many of his days bent in concentrated dignity at the feet of his customers in barbershops and at his little stand.

Kylandezes considers himself a "natural" because much of what he has learned in life "came" to him.

"That's how I learned to play the saxophone," he said. "I have rhythm and timing and if I hear a piece, I can play it my way."

Kylandezes explained he blows as well as ever, but the cigarettes he started smoking a few years back have robbed him of strength. He is 77.

Being a barber "came" to Kylandezes, too. In the years he worked at barbershops, he observed the cutting, taking in every technique used.

Later, while working as a porter at old Kerrville State Hospital, Kylandezes was asked to be a barber.

"They didn't have no barber for Negroes there and they sent me along to the hospital shop to learn how," he said. "In three days, the barber told them he couldn't teach me nothing because I already knew all there was to know."

Kylandezes has the highest praise for his customers over the years. They have been kind to him. One gave him a saxophone when his was stolen and another helped him buy a car.

But not all his customers have been polite and Kylandezes turned his sense of humor on one man who didn't believe in Kylandezes' restorative powers on leather.

"This man come in the shop and I asked him if he wanted a shine," Kylandezes explained. "He said they was his work boots and I couldn't do nothing for them. I said I could and he just said 'No,' so I told him I'd give him a free shine. He got right up in the chair then."

Kylandezes went to work. Shortly, the man's left work boot was gleaming. Kylandezes stopped and told the man he was through.

The incensed customer left, but another man coming in saw the departing man and compared the shined and unshined boots. He then wanted

Kylandezes to work on his shoes.

A bad accident in 1969 helped develop Kylandezes' stronger "faith in the Lord," he said.

Kylandezes' dog, Visitor, also "came" to him. He opened the door of his closet-sized shop one evening a few months ago and found a tiny ball of fur on the step.

"You know if you open your door and look down and see that you might say, 'I've got a visitor.' That's how I come to name him."

The companionship is worth more than money to Kylandezes.

His wife is dead. He says he hasn't heard from his son in a long time. His daughter lives in Houston with her husband and children. They come to visit sometimes.

His life is focused on leather. He said he likes his quiet spot because he can concentrate on refurbishing shoes and boots people bring to him.

Kylandezes ran his long, brown fingertips over a superlative shine on a pair of antique boots as he talked about his standards of quality.

"Sometimes people come in and give me some boots or shoes to work on and tell me to do what I think needs to be done," he said. "When they come back, I tell them their boots are out on the rack."

"They say they can't find them. I'll go out and show them their shoes and they'll be pleased," she said. "I like to please them, but mostly I'm worried about pleasing me when I work."

Living lawnmowers up for highest bid

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Amid the surplus dump trucks, cars and office equipment auctioned off by Richland County was a herd of 10 goats — the county's living lawnmowers — being offered to the highest bidder.

The 10 goats, surplus from a rapidly multiplying grass-trimming herd, were sold Wednesday for $158 to Bob Garrison, a self-described animal lover who said he had no plans to eat his acquisitions.

"I plan to put the goats to eating grass on a lot I own out on Highway 21," said Garrison. "When they get that cleaned out, I'll put 'em back at my pond. They keep down the snakes and rodents. I sure wouldn't eat no goats."

Garrison's chief opponent in the bidding, Reuben Suber, said he had planned to "keep a couple to eat grass and give the rest to my uncle. He eats 'em."

The county bought 15 goats several years ago to keep the grass trimmed around two sewer lagoons.

Terrier inspiration for new spice

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Morris the Cat has nothing on finicky Sadie the Terrier the inspiration for a new spice designed to perk up pet food.

Sadie's owner, Steve Danzig, developed "Sadie's Pet Food Seasoning," a powder that comes in seven flavors ranging from cheese to salmon and is made to be sprinkled on pet food.

The product, manufactured by Crescent Spice Co. in Seattle, has been on the shelves in eastern Washington, northern Idaho and parts of Montana for just over a month, Danzig said. He said Wednesday he hopes to expand to Seattle and Portland, Ore., later this year.

"When I got the first samples in, to test market it I had 25 or 30 friends — good friends — over and had them taste it," said Danzig. "They said it was pretty good."

He also said Sadie doesn't turn up her nose at food anymore.

Low heart rate can be significant

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like your opinion on my heart rate of 47 beats a minute. I am a man of 67 years and never had any problems. Does a low heart rate, like 47 or 48, indicate a heart condition? — H.F.B.

What can I say about your heart rate of 47? Let's first put it in the normal setting. The heart usually beats between 60 to 100 times every minute. Yet rates as low have been found in superbly-trained athletes. That because their heart muscle is so strong it can get the blood circulation job done in fewer beats. No problem there, for sure.

But your 47 heart rate probably cannot be explained that way. I'd really have to talk to you in person and examine you to give a good answer. I'd want to know if you were having any symptoms from such a low rate — like dizziness, palpitations, etc. Then, if you told me you had those symptoms, I'd very likely lay the case to your low heart rate.

After that, I'd want to listen carefully to your heart. I'd want to use an ECG to see if there were any peculiarities of heart activity that might be a clue to the low rate.

Since I cannot do these things for you, and since your age would seem to indicate factors other than a superbly-trained heart, I want you to see a doctor. I am a little suspicious of such a low rate in a person your age. I could mean that you have a potential problem that can be averted with a heart pacemaker.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I mentioned that a man suffers from longstanding pulmonary hypertension, what do they mean? What is pulmonary hypertension? I don't quite understand. — J.C.

They mean that blood pressure in the lung arteries is too high. It has no connection to the ordinary kind of high blood pressure, the kind that is measured with the cuff on the arm. The two conditions are not the same.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why does blood pressure rise in the arteries serving the lungs and not the rest of the body? A heart valve problem may cause it, or there may be little pulmonary emboli — tiny clots within the lung arteries. Or it may be idiopathic, which means the cause is not evident.

If a cause is found and treated the lung blood pressure falls. For example, if a heart valve is the reason, correcting that abnormality will cure the pulmonary hypertension. I don't think the term, longstanding, requires comment except to say that such hypertension can exist without being detected in normal ways, as with the arm cuff device. Special methods for measuring pulmonary hypertension are available, however.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In the skinfold test for obesity, which arm is the best one to pinch? — G.L.

The dominant arm.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Practical Tips on Blood Pressure Control." Write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dear Abby

Noble family feels need for lost title

DEAR ABBY: My problem is rather complicated. My family is (or rather was) an old established Italian family of nobility. Because of some legal misunderstandings, we are no longer titled. I understand that it is possible to buy a title, and that is what I want to do. How do I go about it?

Although we no longer belong to the ultra-rich, we are by no means poor. Having a title is not very important to me, but it would mean a great deal to my mother, who is gravely ill, so please hurry your answer.

NEEDS A TITLE

DEAR NEEDS: I contacted my Italian connection, who responded:

"Dear Abby: All Italian

titles of nobility were abolished following World War II. In 1946, when the Italian people voted Umberto II out of office, he went to Portugal to live in exile. While there, from time to time, he reportedly sold titles of nobility to those of merit.

"Unfortunately for 'Needs a Title,' Umberto recently died in a Swiss clinic.

"However, if 'Needs a Title' is determined to buy one, have him get in touch with me, and for free I will have an appropriate 'title' and official-looking document prepared, complete with medal and ribbon.

"Meaningless? Of course! But so is the title he seeks."

LEONARD W. MOSS,

WAYNE STATE UNIVERSITY, DETROIT, MICH.

DEAR ABBY: I hope "Lopsided and Miserable," the 18-year-old girl with one breast noticeably smaller than the other, takes your advice and seeks out a plastic surgeon. I'm 19, and up until two years ago I had the same problem, so I know how she feels.

I went into the hospital on Thursday evening, had the operation on Friday morning and was home by noon on Saturday.

I looked and felt wonderful! And the best part was that my insurance paid for 75 percent of the bill because my doctor testified that the surgery was not for cosmetic reasons — it was necessary for my mental and physical health. And it most certainly was!

Edie Fryar installed as OES worthy matron

Mrs. Edie Fryar was installed as Order of Eastern Star's worthy matron during an open installation at the Masonic Temple, June 10.

Candy Andrews was installing officer. She was assisted by Pyrie Bradshaw, installing marshal; Charlie Clay, installing chaplain; Mary Ann Hartin, installing organist; and Bernice Davis, installing secretary.

Other officers elected and installed were Alfred Tidwell, worthy patron; Odell LaLonde, associate matron; Byron Smith, associate patron; Grace Kinney, secretary; Viletta Ballou, treasurer; and Jaynet Smith, conductress. Additional officers are Sylvia Doty, associate conductress; Thelma Hilton, chaplain; Ocie Mason, organist; Ginger Cline, Adah; Ina Stewart, Ruth; Bonnie Hicks, Esther; Dorothy Hull, Martha; Mary Ann Hartin, Electa; Bonnie Tidwell, warder; and Roger Foster, sentinel.

Candles were lit by Jim Fryar, the son of Mrs. Fryar. The Bible and square and compass were placed on the altar by Matt and Mark Fryar, grandsons of Mrs. Fryar.

Mrs. Fryar chose Katherine Homan as the chapter mother and W.C. Fryar, Bonnie Tidwell and Ina Richardson as chapter sweethearts.

Amy Dwire presented Mrs. Fryar with her Rainbow Bible. The traveling jewel was presented by Bonnie Hicks.

Sharon Andrews, Holly Parham and Kim West sang. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Fryar from her officers. Charlie Clay gave the invocation and David Nowell gave the benediction.

Mrs. Fryar's theme is loving, caring and sharing. Her emblem is the heart, the rainbow, the cross, the dove and the sun which symbolize faith, hope, love, peace and light.

Her colors are shades of blue. The blue morning glory is her flower. Her scripture are 1 Cor. 13:1-13 and Luke 6:27-38. Her motto is "When life gives you lemons, make lemonade" or "Don't let other people's actions dictate your reactions and attitude".

A reception was given by the Rainbow advisory board members in the Temple's banquet room.

Mr. and Mrs. Fryar hosted a dinner in their home for the officers, and installing officers, June 9.

Home Cooking Is Specialty at Country Fare Restaurant

If you like home-style cooking — and plenty of it — you'll love Country Fare Restaurant at Rip Griffin's Truck Terminal. They're open 24 hours a day and the country cooking never quits coming. The full menu, including breakfast, is available all day, plus luncheon specials from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.; smoked brisket special from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m., and breakfast specials from 10 p.m. to 11 a.m.

Country Fare Restaurant has been undergoing changes since new manager, Herschel Carmichael came here about three months ago from Abilene. Herschel is probably not what you would picture as the typical manager of a truck terminal restaurant. He's handsome and affable, well trained in the food service business and spends much of his free time developing recipes. He has introduced Mesquite cookery to Big Spring, even designing the grill on which Country Fare steaks and hamburgers are cooked. He brought his favorite brand of coffee and tea with him; a brand which he purchases from a private label in Oklahoma. "Our tea is brewed fresh all day long," Herschel says, and it is delicious.

All the food at Country Fare is "cooked from scratch" under the supervision of Chef Travis Lowe. All pastries are cooked fresh daily including cinnamon rolls and donuts, blueberry and pecan pies, and German chocolate cake, just to name a few.

Another original idea for Big Spring is Herschel's shaped tortilla "bowl" in which all salads are served — with homemade dressings. You can eat the salad and the bowl, too!

Some of the menu items you'll find at Country Fare: Mesquite Burger with Herschel's secret barbecue sauce (it took him 10 years to perfect it), served with beans and fries, $2.65; Chicken Bits, breaded breast strips with cream gravy and fries, $4.70; Chicken Fried Steak with salad and fries, $4.95; All U Can Eat Sirloin, $7.95; Chile 'n Eggs, Homemade Burritos, Homemade Chili, and Old Fashioned Batter-Fried Liver & Onions.

A summer special is their regular $9.95 T-Bone Steak, served with baked potato, fries, salad and beans, for $8.99.

Country Fare's barbecue is smoked for 20 hours and features Herschel's exclusive original sauce.

As you would expect at a truck terminal restaurant, Country Fare's decor is rather utilitarian but the food creates its own atmosphere, and extravagant appointments would only get in the way of the enjoyment of some serious down-home eating.

The day your Dining Out Editor ate there she had the luncheon special, $3.99, with crisp fried catfish, home cooked scalloped potatoes and mixed vegetables, plus pineapple pudding, all heartily consumed, and washed down with lots of that iced tea.

Country Fare Restaurant is located on the east end of Rip Griffin's Truck Terminal at the junction of I-20 and the Lamesa Highway, north of Big Spring.

Soviet woman recalls space flight

RIDE READY FOR FLIGHT — Astronaut Sally K. Ride boards the rear cockpit of a T-38 jet early Thursday at Kennedy Space Center, Fla., where she continued to prepare for her upcoming role as part of the five-member crew of the space shuttle Challenger, which is scheduled for lift off Saturday.

MOSCOW (AP) — While U.S. attention focuses on Sally Ride's flight aboard the space shuttle Challenger this weekend, Valentina Tereshkova will be wrapping up some political chores and heading for a celebration of her space flight — launched 20 years ago today.

Mrs. Tereshkova, now 46, became the first woman in space on June 16, 1963. For 70 hours and 40 minutes, she piloted her Vostok-6 space capsule through 48 orbits of the earth and came down to a heroine's welcome.

At the time of her flight, she was 26 years old, six years younger than Ms. Ride, who on Saturday is scheduled to become America's first woman in space.

Five months after Mrs. Tereshkova's historic flight, she married Soviet cosmonaut Andrei Nikolaev in a ceremony attended by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and a host of other Soviet dignitaries. Today, their daughter Alyona is a 19-year-old medical student.

Mrs. Tereshkova has received plenty of Soviet press since her historic flight, but in the customary Soviet manner — describing her as a tireless worker for international peace through her leadership in Soviet and international women's groups, and as a loyal servant to the party and state. Only enough personal details are provided to portray her as a good wife and devoted mother.

Mrs. Tereshkova is one of the 300-plus members of the policy-setting Communist Party Central Committee and a deputy of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the national parliament.

Both bodies were meeting this week and her aides said she had no time for interviews, even by telephone.

The government announced this week that a one-ruble coin is being minted to commemorate the 20th anniversary of her flight. Otherwise, no major observances have been announced.

Mrs. Tereshkova, aides said, will go to her hometown of Yaroslavl, about 130 miles north of Moscow, where friends and "colleagues" will honor her. Details about the festivities were not reported.

The world's first woman in space was born in the village of Maslennikovo, near Yaroslavl in central Russia, in 1937. Her father, a tractor driver on a collective farm, was killed in 1940 in combat against Finnish troops.

One of three children, Mrs. Tereshkova went to work in a tire factory after school to help support her mother, sister and brother. Later, she worked at a textile mill along with the other family women while studying cotton-processing technology by correspondence.

When she was 22, she began sport parachuting, and three years later, in 1959, was named a trainee-cosmonaut and also admitted to the Communist party.

Soviet press stories about her have said she likes fishing, picnics and skiing.

She has been quoted as saying that motherhood is important but that every woman "must have her own big aim in life, her own calling."

"Space is my whole life," she said in a 1969 interview, expressing the hope she would make another space journey, or at least continue to be closely involved in space-related work.

At the time of her flight, some skeptical Western observers noted that an international women's congress was under way in Moscow, and that the Soviets may have been aiming primarily for a propaganda coup.

Last summer, 19 years after Tereshkova's flight, Svetlana Savitskaya became the second woman in space, spending nine days aboard an orbiting Soviet space station.

'Hamburguesa' popular in El Paso McDonald's

EL PASO (AP) — A Big Mac is a Big Mac in any language, but folks who want a hamburger and fries at the Golden Arches can order a "hamburguesa y papas fritas" as part of a trend toward bilingual restaurants in this Mexican border city.

"We consider the Hispanic market especially important to us as a business," said McDonald's Corp. spokesman Bob Keyser at company headquarters in Oak Brook, Ill.

With Hispanics making up 62 percent of El Paso's nearly half-million residents, it's little wonder that all 11 McDonald's restaurants offer menus in English and Spanish.

"In a market like El Paso that's fairly unique, it's not a hiring requirement, but most people who work for us also are bilingual," said Gail Burbank, McDonald's spokeswoman in El Paso.

Bilingual workers and English-Spanish menus are necessary are both found in the Mills Avenue McDonald's, just a half-mile from the muddy Rio Grande, which separates El Paso from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

"Hamburguesa con queso or cheeseburger? What's the difference? This is El Paso, so there's not much difference," said Manuela de la Esperanza, a maid who travels four days a week from her home in Juarez to work for an El Paso family.

Ms. de la Esperanza and fellow maid Roberta Ayala Gutierrez only speak Spanish, and said that after work they love to stop in McDonald's downtown restaurant near the bus stop to order a cool "barquillo" — vanilla ice cream cone.

Mexico's economic problems have spilled over into neighboring El Paso, where three 1982 peso devaluations sliced by one-sixth the Mexicans' purchasing power, and caused the closure of an estimated 35 El Paso stores that depended on cross-over business from Juarez shoppers.

Even McDonald's has been affected. "Problems across the border obviously have had sporadic effects on our walk-in business. The better the situation is in Mexico, the better we do," Keyser said. McDonald's El Paso stores stopped accepting pesos for payment last August.

"The peso was fluctuating too much (against the U.S. dollar). We lost $160 one day in the peso exchange," store manager Gordon Chamberlain said.

But many Mexicans changing their dollars for pesos — the rate is now 148 to the dollar — still think they get their money's worth at McDonald's. "Desayuno — breakfast — is a bargain at 99 cents for an Egg McMuffin," 18-year-old Juan Luis Alvarez said.

There is no Spanish translation for Egg McMuffin, so the menu name is the same in both languages. The same is true for Big Macs, hot cakes and McRib sandwiches.

The beauty of a noble land.

"West Texans have always felt a deep sense of pride for this land. The wide-open fields scattered with cotton and mesquites give us a feeling of freedom with plenty of room to roam. Yet, whether it is the awesome sunsets of purple and orange, or maybe the cool evening breezes that refresh us after spending the day in the heat of the brilliant, summer sun, there is something which holds us here. The beauty displayed by this unique terrain acts as a natural magnet, drawing every viewer a step closer to its marvelous creator."

Pope

KRAKOW, Poland — Pope John Paul II, now Pope John Paul II, is remembered as a man clothed in a white cassock and a white mitre, a man who was a man of winter's cold.

"He was a very said a priest who University and later a priest."

"He looked much like a priest. A threadbare pile of books under the arm of Karol Wojtyla was born in Krakow, the ancient city of Poland, before he became a priest, a cardinal, before he became Pope John Paul II in October 1978.

The pope is scheduled to arrive in Big Spring on June 22, the last stop on his path to the yellow church across the hills of the foothills of the Czechoslovakian mountains.

"He grew up just like any other boy in the town of Wadowice, Poland, where he was the son of a school teacher and a teacher of religious instruction. Zacher's reaction to the Polish pope: "I couldn't wait to burst with pride, but I couldn't wait to say Mass."

A student of the University at the time, he was propelled to the seminary in 1942, where he hid with his father and older brother during the war. He also took part in the Workers Movement, which led to his arrest and imprisonment in Poland, where he was the editor of the underground newspaper.

"He published a newspaper on the philosophy of life and matrimony, an interview."

After he became a priest, he was quiet about his private life, a chapter by contributors.

Wojtyla's philosophy was "difficult" by the attention of Pope Paul VI, who included him on the list of candidates for the papacy. Wojtyla's intellectual and spiritual life were a source of awe and admiration.

"One elderly priest said one long-time friend told him, 'Your old priest replied penance will be a long time coming. It's a long time coming.'"

Pope remembered as humble man

KRAKOW, Poland (AP) — Karol Wojtyla, who is now Pope John Paul II and wears gold-trimmed vestments, is remembered in this southern Polish city as a man clothed more humbly — shorts and a red bandana while on mountain hikes and a threadbare coat in winter's cold.

"He was a very straightforward and pious man," said a priest who studied ethics under him at Lublin University and later served with him in Krakow.

"He looked much worse off than anybody," said the priest. "A threadbare overcoat, matching shoes, and a pile of books under his half-frozen arm. That is my picture of Karol Wojtyla."

Wojtyla was born May 20, 1920, in the hills west of Krakow, the ancient Polish capital where he studied, became a priest, and served as archbishop, and later cardinal, before ascending the throne of St. Peter in October 1978.

The pope is scheduled to come back to Krakow June 22, the last stop on his visit to Poland.

His path to the Vatican began at a 14th century yellow church across the street from the house where he was born in Wadowice, a rural town of 9,000, in the foothills of the Beskid Mountains on the Czechoslovakian frontier, 25 miles west of Krakow.

"He grew up just like the rest of the kids," said the Rev. Edward Zacher, the priest at the yellow church, and the teacher who guided Wojtyla through six years of religious instruction at the Wadowice boys' high school. A cheerful man, Zacher says he is "80-and-a-half years old," as he proudly shows an interviewer photographs that Wojtyla inscribed to him over the years.

'He looked much worse off than anybody. A threadbare overcoat, matching shoes, and a pile of books under his half-frozen arm. That is my picture of Karol Wojtyla.'

Zacher's reaction to Wojtyla's election as the first Polish pope: "I could hardly hold back the tears. I was about to burst with joy. Our church was filled with people, but I couldn't speak a word. I asked another priest to say Mass."

A student of theater at Krakow's Jagiellonian University at the outbreak of World War II, Wojtyla was propelled to the priesthood by the death of his father and older brother. He joined an underground seminary in 1942, and spent the closing years of the war hiding with four other seminarians in the palace of Krakow's archbishop, Cardinal Adam Sapieha.

Ordained a priest in 1946, Wojtyla travelled to Rome, where he completed his doctorate, and then to France, where he served as chaplain to Poles displaced by the war. He also took part in the French "Young Christian Workers Movement," which sent priests to the factory lines to spread the faith. The movement, which helped spur him to rally workers to the church in Communist Poland, was the subject of one of his first articles in Krakow's independent Roman Catholic weekly newspaper.

"He published articles on different themes, mainly on the philosophy of ethics, and pertaining to the family and matrimony," one of the paper's editors said in an interview.

After he became archbishop, Wojtyla wrote in the quiet of his private chapel, circulating his manuscripts chapter by chapter among the editors and contributors.

Wojtyla's philosophical writings were considered "difficult" by many of his clerical peers, but they drew the attention of Popes John XXIII, and Paul VI, who included him on Vatican committees starting in 1963. Wojtyla's intellect and learning are the subject of both awe and jest among his compatriots.

"One elderly priest, known for his sharp wit, got carried away when Wojtyla was already archbishop," said one long-time associate of the pontiff. "Wojtyla told him, 'Your tongue will land you in purgatory.' The old priest replied, 'I can already tell you what my penance will be. I will have to read your book "The Acting Person." It's too hard.'"

First as a parish priest, and later as bishop and cardinal, Wojtyla supplemented his pastoral and scholarly work with vigorous exercise, skiing, kayaking and hiking with university students from his diocese.

He was kayaking in the Mazurian Lakes in northeastern Poland when he learned of his appointment in September, 1978, as the nation's youngest bishop, at age 58.

"He always carried his vestments and the sacraments with him to say Mass in the wilderness," said one old hiking companion. "In the woods, he would fashion an altar from fallen trees, and on the lakes use kayak paddles."

"Wojtyla took a 13-day skiing holiday every winter, and was very strict about it, making a point of spending 12 hours a day on the slopes," said a Krakow priest.

"But his equipment was outdated. He was not a man to spend a fortune on gear," the priest added.

On one ski holiday, friends report, he strayed across the border into Czechoslovakia, and was stopped by border guards who at first refused to believe they had nabbed the archbishop of Krakow. A telephone call to the Curia convinced them of his identity, and they released him with a warning to keep to the right path in the future.

86-year-old former policeman recalls highlights of the job

MIDLAND (AP) — His hearing may not be what it used to be. He might not hunt, fish or box much any more.

And maybe as an 86-year-old great-grandfather he can't get around like he did when he was stalking Bonnie and Clyde back when Al Capone was running the streets of Chicago.

But R.M. "Captain" Bob Hammett is still in pretty good shape for "an old speed cop" who says he misses police work yet wouldn't do it again under the restraints placed on police today.

"An officer now is more apt to get prosecuted than the criminal," he says, leaning back in a living room chair and lighting his pipe. "I couldn't do it. I'd probably be an electrician."

Before becoming city marshal of Gorman in 1921 — his first official job at what would become 50 years of law enforcement work that included 15 years as boxing and judo instructor for the Texas Department of Public Safety — he helped string the highline between Leon Lake and Ranger, where he later became chief of police.

From 1923 to 1932 he was with the Eastland County Sheriff's Department as a "speed cop" — back when sheriff's deputies worked traffic on Texas roads. In 1932, he went to work for the DPS, then known as the Highway Patrol, and retired with the rank of captain on Nov. 1, 1967.

Dec. 23, 1927 is a day Hammett will never forget. That's the day the so-called "Santa Claus" gang hit the First National Bank of Cisco, killing the chief of police and another police officer during a shootout that also left one of the four robbers dead.

The other three — including ringleader Marshall Ratliff, who wore a Santa Claus mask because his mother owned the cafe across the street from the bank — escaped with $30,000.

But not for long.

After a 10-day chase that "was a whole lot like Bonnie and Clyde" — a case Hammett would find himself working eight years later — the gang was captured following a shootout near Breckenridge.

Hammett was the third of 10 children raised on a farm near DeLeon. His father was a Comanche County deputy sheriff and it was from him that Hammett gained his early law enforcement training.

Noting a lifelong avocation as a boxer who once won $50 by knocking out former lightweight champion (1910-12) Ad Wolgast in the third round of a 1921 exhibition match at Gorman, Hammett said:

"I've been lucky. I never had to shoot anybody. I had quite a few guys jump on me — drunks — but I didn't have any trouble knocking 'em off. Every police officer should be a boxer. It saves havin' to kill people."

As good with a gun as he was with his fists, Hammett won a $20 gold piece for taking first-place honors in the 1928 state law enforcement pistol championship at Abilene. And he did it with a gun borrowed from the reigning champ, Ranger Chief of Police Jim Ingram, whom Hammett bested by two points.

Some 10 days earlier, Hammett, stationed in Austin with the DPS, was assigned to the case after the pair shot two troopers to death near Grapevine.

Hammett initially was to have been in on the ambush, but he wound up having to stay in Austin. "I'm glad I didn't go. I never did want to kill anybody. The back of their car looked like a pepper shaker. It had a hundred holes in it — at least."

Trio survives treacherous Oakmont

JOHN MAHAFFEY AMONG FIRST ROUND LEADERS ...tees off through the trees towards No. 12 green

Ballesteros heads threesome at 69

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — They're bowing to Oakmont. Not buckling, but bowing.

"The toughest, bar none," said Bob Murphy. "Absolutely toughest course we've ever played."

"Completely intimidating," said Bruce Devlin. "Absolutely awesome," Johnny Miller said.

The formula for winning at the Oakmont Country Club seems simple. Executing is something different. First, keep out of the scruffy, wiry rough. If you get in it, like Tom Weiskopf did at No. 7, the ball could disappear.

Second, strategically hit the ball to the green. Not to the pin, but to a point where the ball will roll, sometimes 10 or 15 feet right or left toward the hole.

Third, read the greens that are so fast that the second putt is often further than the first.

John Mahaffey, Seve Ballesteros and Murphy followed the formula better than anybody else on Thursday, scored 2-under par 69s and shared the lead at the U.S. Open Golf Championship after the first round.

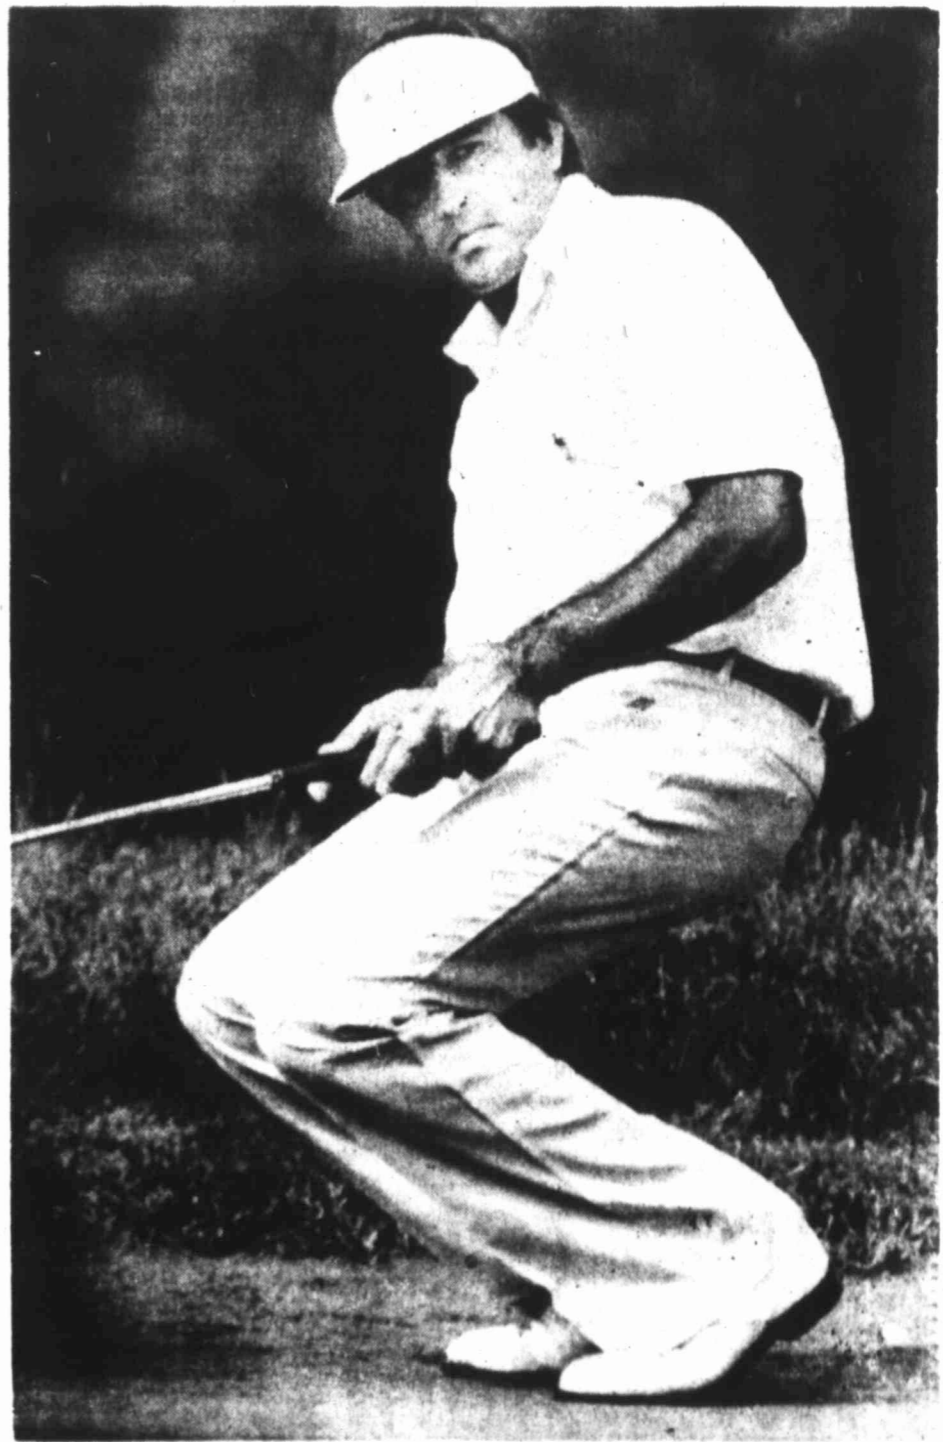

Devlin, the Australian who led the Open for two rounds last year, was one shot back at 70.

Bobby Wadkins, who got into the field only after Lee Trevino withdrew on Wednesday, Lou Graham, the Open champion in 1975, and D. I. Weibring were at even par 71 on the 6,972-yard course.

Nine golfers were at 72, including Jim Booros, Jim Nelford, Hale Irwin, Joey Rasset, Nick Price, Lanny Wadkins, Raymond Floyd, Frank Conner and Tom Watson, the defending champion.

Each of the leaders found a way to minimize his problems.

Ballesteros stayed in the fairway by relying on his

U.S. Open

one-iron and using his driver only three times. Incredibly, he hit a 5-iron off the tee at the 343-yard, No. 2 hole, a par 4, something he said he had never done before.

His second shot, with an 8 iron, landed 15 feet from the hole. He made the putt for a birdie.

"My confidence is very high," said Ballesteros, who won the Westchester Classic last Sunday on a rolling course with hard, fast greens like Oakmont.

Murphy returned to an old Arnie Palmer putter eight weeks ago and it's given him new life on the greens. "I'm just feeling the ball in now," he said. That, and hitting the tough rough just once also helped.

Mahaffey and Devlin said only luck had them in contention.

"I didn't play very well," said Mahaffey. "Places I drove the ball today, I could have shot 75."

Mahaffey, who has had two Opens in his hands but let them get away, won the PGA tournament here in 1978, and said the course is playing much more difficult this year.

"It's so much faster," he said.

"I have no explanation for sitting here right now," said Devlin, who said he played as poorly coming into this Open as he did last year when he led at Pebble Beach the first two rounds.

Ironically, Devlin's first round score last year was a 70. His second round score was a 69, but he is not expecting to match that.

"I think even par will win the tournament," he said, adding he would be delighted to "take three 71s the rest of the way."

Even the United States Golf Association bowed to the course, deciding after the first round to cut the rough because it had grown well above the "prescribed five inches."

The USGA said it was cutting certain areas of the drive zone — about 12 feet of the rough — to 4½ inches.

That probably was good news for Murphy, Devlin and Miller, and to most of the other players, but not to Mahaffey or Jack Nicklaus.

Nicklaus is poised four strokes back at 73 along with Gary Player, Scott Simpson, who scored a hole-in-one with a one-iron on the 228-yard par-3 No. 16, and six other players.

"I didn't think it was that tough," said Nicklaus. "I made it tough by misreading two putts for bogeys."

Nicklaus, who won the Open here in 1962 in a playoff with Palmer, said he was actually surprised the scores were not lower.

"I still think they'll break 280. That's where I've geared my thoughts."

The field of 156 averaged 77.1 in the first round, more than 6-over-par. Only 60 players shot 75 or better. Some found disaster.

George Burns, who lost to David Graham in the final round of the 1981 Open at Merion in Philadelphia, took a 10 on No. 18, refused to sign his scorecard which read 83 and was disqualified.

He drove the ball out bounds, hit his next shot into a bunker, then another bunker and another bunker. Finally, he was on the fairway but his next shot went over the back of the green. He got on the green and two-putted.

Don Klien's troubles started earlier.

Birthday boy Duran decks Moore in 8th

NEW YORK (AP) — Never before had Davey Moore been in such a situation, and those closest to him could not bear to watch.

His right eye was swollen shut. His left eye was badly cut. His nose and mouth poured blood — all courtesy of the hands of stone of Roberto Duran.

As Moore slumped on his stool Thursday night, having suffered his first professional defeat and the loss of the World Boxing Association junior middleweight championship, a handful of women in his corner — his mother and young sister among them — sobbed. Security guards finally had to carry Moore's mother from ringside, as she collapsed with grief.

Blood and tears. The visible signs of Duran's eighth-round knockout and a war plan Moore's manager, Leon Washington, acknowledged afterward had been the wrong one.

"We feel we underestimated Duran," said Washington, who threw in the towel just seconds before referee Ernesto Magana stopped the fight at the 2:02 mark of the round.

Duran had no such problem in the weeks leading up to his eighth fight since the night in New Orleans 2½ years ago. That was when he stopped in the midst of his welterweight title defense against Sugar Ray Leonard and told a shocked fight world, "No mas, no mas."

"People were saying Davey Moore was too much for Roberto Duran," the new champion said through manager Luis Spada, who acted as his interpreter. "I wanted to prove them wrong and become champion of the world again. I wanted to show that I could still fight."

A HAPPY ROBERTO DURAN ...boxer gains third world title

By stopping Moore's 12-fight victory string, the Panamanian became only the seventh fighter to win championships in three weight divisions. He won the lightweight championship at Madison Square Garden by stopping Ken Buchanan in 13 rounds.

That was on June 26, 1972 — 17 days before Moore turned 13.

On Thursday, Duran celebrated his 32nd birthday. Throughout the sellout crowd of 20,061, banners proclaimed, "Happy Birthday, Roberto," in English and Spanish.

Healthier Austin on comeback

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Tracy Austin, plagued by injury over the last 18 months, is one match away from only her second major final this year.

On Friday, Austin meets Australia's Wendy Turnbull in the semifinals of the $150,000 BMW grass court championships at Eastbourne — the final tuneup before Wimbledon next week.

If she wins, Austin will reach her first final since losing to Martina Navratilova on clay in the Family Circle Cup at Hilton Head, S.C., in April.

This week at Eastbourne, Austin's impressive Wimbledon preparation — she has not dropped a single set in four matches — has indicated a return to full fitness.

And with it, renewed confidence

— the result, she says, of an association with her new coach, Tony Roche.

"Tony has been working me very hard," said Austin after defeating Beth Herr of the United States 7-5, 6-1 on Thursday. "We've been working on and off for several weeks and his grass court experience is a great help for Wimbledon. He doesn't waste words like some coaches. If he says something, he means it."

Roche won the Wimbledon doubles title five times with his Australian partner John Newcombe and reached the 1968 singles final where he lost to Rod Laver.

Roche said he had been trying to make Austin — a baseline specialist with a strong double-handed backhand — come to the net more often on grass.

"She is already a very good all-round player. I'm just giving her one or two tips, like being more aggressive," he said.

Friday's other semifinal features the world's No. 1 player, Martina Navratilova, against the emerging young player from Houston, Zina Garrison.

Navratilova has been in unstoppable form here in her bid to retain her Eastbourne and Wimbledon titles.

Her four opponents to date have won a total of 10 games and, on paper, Garrison has little chance.

But the 19-year-old former Wimbledon and U.S. junior champion has already eliminated two of the top nine players in the world this week.

Watson, Nicklaus near top, poised for run at leaders

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Their names, both synonymous with success, weren't atop the leader board in the 83rd annual U.S. Open Golf Championship at the storied Oakmont Country Club.

But Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus, among the most consistent major tournament players of their era, found themselves today in excellent position of challenging for the top prize in American golf.

"Before he retires, I think he'll win another big one," co-leader Seve Ballesteros said of Nicklaus.

A four-time champion who won his first Open at Oakmont 21 years ago, Nicklaus shot a 2-over-par 73 during Thursday's first round. Watson, the defending champion, was at even-par 72, three shots behind co-leaders Ballesteros, Bob Murphy and John Mahaffey.

There were no miracles for Watson like the chip shot he holed at the 17th at Pebble Beach to win last year's Open, but he said he was pleased with the round.

After all, it's not every Open that you can duplicate a shot many consider one of the greatest in the history of golf.

"I'm pretty happy with this score," he said. "Seventy-two is not a bad score at all. The rough was impossible, but then you are not supposed to be in the rough."

Oakmont may not have a single water hazard, but some consider it a course without peer for penalizing an errant golfer. The fairways are tight, the greens slick and the roughs are, well, rough, according to Nicklaus.

That's why Ballesteros said there are only 10 golfers in the 156-man field who are legitimate contenders, while Watson says there are only 20.

Nicklaus and Watson, masters of pressure golf, are assuredly among that group.

"I'm surprised scores aren't lower," said Nicklaus, a five-time Masters winner. "But, of course, it's so tough to get a flat putt on this course."

"There's no reason to think there won't be some good scores."

Some said there was no reason to think that Watson, who has had a sub-par 1983 season, would be a contender this week. A three-time tournament champion last year, he is without a win this year and is an uncharacteristic 26th

Ward's late blast nips Rangers, 4-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Gary Ward finally got his first game-winning RBI of the season Thursday night but wouldn't explain to the print media how he felt about it.

Ward, who leads the American League in RBIs with 46, drilled an opposite field solo shot in the top of the eighth inning to give the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

After the game, he was willing to be interviewed by television and radio reporters but unexplainably refused to talk to writers, including two from Minnesota newspapers.

"My choice," said Ward, doing his best imitation of Steve Carlton, the Philadelphia hurler who refuses to talk to the press.

leagues — to lift Milwaukee to a 2-1 victory Thursday night over the Baltimore Orioles.

"A home run was the last thing I was thinking of," said Manning, who connected with a 2-2 pitch from Tim Stoddard, who had relieved left-hander Scott McGregor to start the 11th.

Blue Jays 9, A's 1
Ernie Whitt, Alfredo Griffin and Willie Upshaw hit home runs, and Toronto scored six runs in the sixth inning to defeat Oakland. Whitt's homer was a two-run shot and backed right-hander Jim Gott to his fourth victory in ninth decisions.

Gott worked 81-3 innings, scattering nine hits and striking out seven, and left in favor of Joey McCloughlin after giving up a one-out homer to Wayne Gross in the ninth.

Yankees 6, Indians 1
Don Baylor hit his seventh career grand slam and drove in another run with a single to back Ron Guidry's six-hitter. Guidry, who joined Dave Stieb as the AL's only nine-game winners, did not yield a run until two were out in the ninth on Toby Harrah's double and a single by Mike Hargrove.

Guidry struck out three and walked two in hurling his sixth complete game.

Tigers 10, Red Sox 2
Juan Berenguer, making only his second start of the season, pitched 61-3 innings and combined on a seven-hitter with Larry Pashnick to beat the Red Sox. Lance Parrish and Enos Cabell homered for Detroit, and Glenn Wilson hit a three-run double.

Berenguer gave up six hits and one earned run in his stint and got five runs in support in the third inning, sparked by Wilson's bases-loaded double.

American League

"He hit a 3-2 fastball," said Ranger losing pitcher Danny Darwin, who is now 4-6.

Rick Lysander picked up the victory in relief, only his second against six losses.

Lysander pitched three and one-third innings of one-hit relief but needed Ron Davis to get the last five outs. For Davis, it was his eighth save of the year.

Brewers 2, Orioles 1
The Cleveland Indians traded Rick Manning to Milwaukee for Gorman Thomas last Monday because they needed a new source of power.

Manning was supposed to supply defense for the Brewers in center field.

Things got turned around somehow. Manning hit an 11th-inning homer — only the 37th of his 8½ seasons in the major

Astros regain tie, down Giants, 7-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Mike Scott had his worst moments at the best of times, it seems, on a windy night at Candlestick Park.

"They hit some balls pretty hard. I couldn't tell on the mound which way the wind was blowing, but it had to be blowing in hard for some of those balls to stay in the park," Scott said, thanking the elements after a 7-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Astros were back to .500, with a 32-32 record, and tied with the Giants (31-31) for third in the National League West. They have won 12 of their last 16 games and open a series in San Diego tonight. The Giants, 5-10 this month, take on the Atlanta Braves here tonight.

Darrell Evans, who belted three home runs in the Giants' 7-1 pasting of the Astros on Wednesday, had an 0-for-5 batting night against Scott, 2-3, and Astros reliever Frank DiPino. But the Giants' to a 6-1 victory over the Braves and into a 3½-game lead over the Braves in the National League's West Division.

He got last-out help from Joe Beckwith after surrendering Randy Johnson's sun-scoring single — but Pena, who speaks through an interpreter, suggested he felt he could have stuck around for the complete game.

The 23-year-old Pena said his headaches, which doctors have ascribed to tension or stress, have been a part of his life since he was 14. "They are so severe when they start that the left side of my body becomes numb and I get nauseous," he said.

"The headaches have never really worried me; I know when they begin that they will be over in two days. I have usually had them about once a week. I've never pitched when I had a headache."

Padres 3, Reds 1
Tim Lollar, who got the Padres off on the right foot at the start of the season, took a big step toward reviving San Diego's pitching staff by lasting into the eighth inning against the Reds.

He checked Cincinnati on four hits and struck out eight batters before being lifted after yielding his third walk. It was his first win since Opening Day. He had dropped four in a row since then and had missed most of May, sidelined with a sore elbow.

"I haven't been pitching that badly," he said. "The balls that have been hit against me never seem to be hit at people. Today they were...I'm just now getting myself back into a rhythm. I feel like my old self again. It's a lot easier to pitch when you don't have pain and I haven't had any pain the last two or three starts."

star hit one of those hard drives which died in the wind.

The Giants have won just two of their last six games. Evans carried the load in both, hitting two homers and collecting five RBIs in a 7-6 triumph at Atlanta last Saturday.

Alejandro Pena has been suffering from migraines lately.

On Thursday night he gave the Atlanta Braves a headache of his own.

The Los Angeles right-hander, who had missed his last two scheduled starts because of the throbbing headaches, bore down and pitched the first-place Dodgers

Slaughter leads Amateur
ABILENE, Texas (AP) — John Slaughter, runner-up last year in the State Amateur Golf Tournament, has an added advantage this year — he's playing on his home course.

So it came as little surprise Thursday when the University of Houston junior sank a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to take the first-round lead at the Fairway Oaks Golf & Racquet Club.

Slaughter had just 26 putts enroute to a 6-under par 66 for a 1-stroke advantage over Mark Brooks of Fort Worth.

Big Spring's Dan Wilkins fired a first-round 77 while former Big Spring High golfer John Basden withdrew from the tournament.

"John had a super putting round," said Brooks,

Oklahoma State freshman from Dallas, shot a 73 and was tied with nine others in 11th place.

The cut will be made after today's round with the top 50 players, plus ties and players within 10 shots of the lead, playing the final two days on the

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There will be all sorts of new arrangements and changes with people in your immediate circle. Go along with them because they provide unique opportunities for you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listen to what partners have to suggest since they could be the nucleus of a big success. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch with people who have put new inventions into their operations. Take it easy tonight and have some fun.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good idea to take in amusements with allies that give you surcease from tension. Find a nice gift for a loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Entertain at home and delight your guests in some novel way they will appreciate. Perfect a dormant talent.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are very dynamic today so be seen in places where you can charm others and have a delightful time doing so.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Add some color to your home and add art pieces that increase its value. Visit with old friends to make some new ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your reflection and see how you can improve your appearance. Stress your best points. See friends tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about what should be done to please a new love. A show of generosity almost never fails. Be yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Join a group meeting that will be enjoyable. Arrive on time and make a good impression on all.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle civic affairs in a different way for better results. Discuss your plans to get the support you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure to follow through on your personal philosophy. Travel to a new place and get some much-needed information.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Complete any work left unfinished. Handle whatever comes up in connection with your loved one. Be active today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will cooperate with others and be helpful to them. There is ability for a neat touch and a fine finish. A good education is necessary here in order to make success possible. Give good grounding in religious subjects and sports.

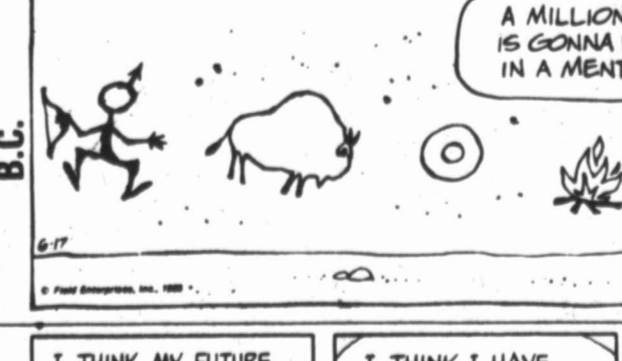

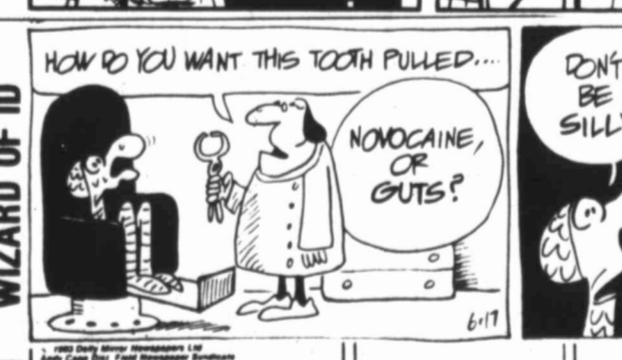

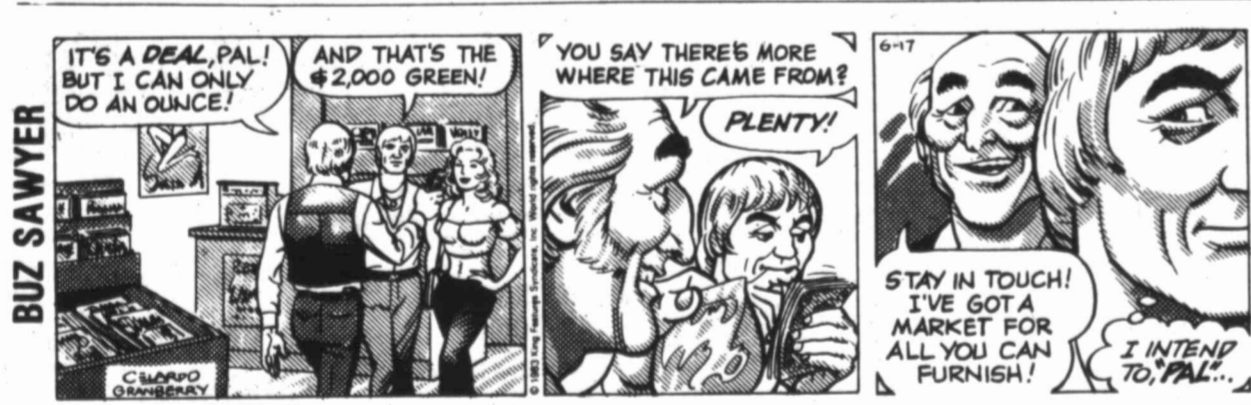

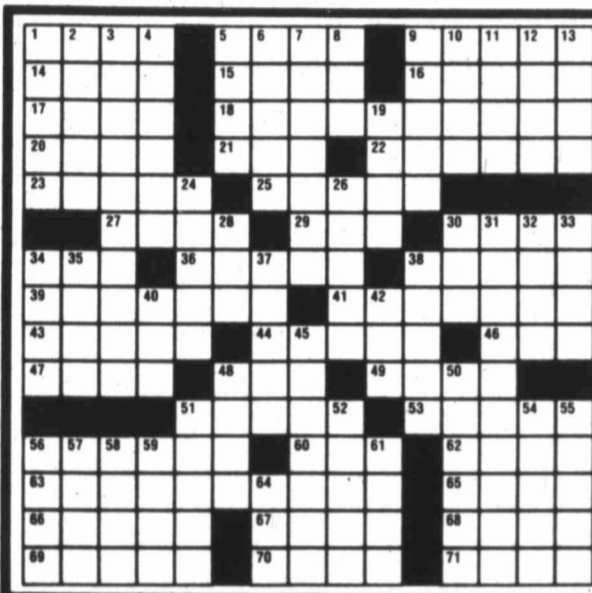

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Minister thinks he's on the right track now

By RHONDA WITT Lifestyle Writer
 "I thought I had everything," Logan Peterson said about his career as an railroad engineer. That was before he became a Christian. Peterson is pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church. "It's difficult when you are 40 years old with a family to support and are thinking about going back to school," Peterson said. "But I realized there was nothing else in life for me to do, but preach."

"First, I thought I was too old to start back to school, I felt I wouldn't be able to make it through school after being out so long," Peterson said.

"My family has been very supportive and have given up a lot for me. They suffered right along with me," he said. "It took a year for everything to fall in to place." Once it happened, however, he was able to go to seminary and pursue his goal of becoming a minister.

"One of the biggest problems I had to face was that I was prejudice against seminary. I was a little narrow-minded on the gospel and the teaching of the Bible," Peterson said. "Now, I feel that all preachers ought to go to seminary. There is no way I could stand at the pulpit and be comfortable and at ease with myself if I had not gone to seminary. Each time he steps into a pulpit it's special, he says. "But God makes it extra special when He helps someone come before you." Twenty-six young people professed their faith one evening before Peterson, and he baptized 16 of them. Goals helped Peterson achieve his dream. "We need to make goals," he said. "Then we need to make a commitment to those goals. Next, we must move on the goals. Without goals, you are going to go nowhere. However, you've got to be kind of flexible."

THE REV. LOGAN PETERSON
 ...pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church

One of the church's goal is to obtain an enrollment of 100 in the Sunday School through the visitation program. "Somehow society has got the church in the wrong role," he said. "Jesus says for us to go out and preach."

Church is the place where people go to worship and to have fellowship, Peterson said. Then, they are to take the love and worship back out into society. People are to go out and make disciples and bring them back to church, he said.

When Peterson became a pastor, he had a role model. "I tried to imitate someone and found that I wasn't happy. God uses you just as you are," he said. "It's through successes and failures that you learn you have to be yourself."

"The best thing about this church is that they understand," he said.

"They know I'm human. They know a preacher can make mistakes."

"Sometimes a preacher feels like he is a fixture, but I had something happen to me last Sunday that made me feel so good," he said.

A lady who had been ill for weeks and had not been able to attend church for awhile told him, "Oh, it's so good to hear my own preacher preach." She had watched television sermons during her illness and felt more comfortable hearing her own minister.

Peterson attended the Southwest Baptist Theological Center in Fort Worth. He is planning to take some courses this fall. He and his wife Judith have two sons Jason and Christofer.

Farewell receptions for Gully

FATHER BERNARD GULLY
 ...honored with farewell receptions

 Two farewell receptions for Father Bernard L. Gully, pastor of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church for the past six years, will be held Sunday.

The first reception will be a luncheon from noon to 3 p.m. given by his congregation for members of the parish only. The second reception is from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., and all friends of Father Gully are invited to attend it. Both receptions will be held in the cafeteria of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic School, 1009 Hearn St.

Father Gully said he is looking forward to seeing all his friends at the receptions. Father Gully is leaving Monday for his new assignment in Sonora. For more information, call Marie McClure at 7-6768 or Ruth Salazar at 7-5824.

Nine ministers retire

Nine United Methodist ministers were honored upon their retirement, May 31, by members of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference at the First United Methodist Church of Lubbock.

The retiring ministers were James Harold Cates of Levelland, Louis John Crenshaw of Lubbock, Ben R. Day, Joseph Carl Hudson of Lubbock, Nathaniel Johnson of Amarillo, Howard Quentin Marcom of Ralls, David Harry Pohl of Ropesville, Hendrix Atkinson Townsley of Baird and Lennis Elton Wyatt of Lubbock. The Rev. Wyatt's retirement will not become effective until Jan. 1, 1984.

The Rev. Pohl began his ministry in 1977 at North Birdwell Lane UMC and Garden City UMC.

Each of the retiring ministers was given some time to speak to the members of the Conference during ceremonies, May 31.

Festival announced

The Morning Star-Fest, Texas' first annual contemporary Christian music festival, will be July 2 at the Quiet Valley Ranch in Kerrville. The gates will open at noon with the festivities getting underway at 2 p.m. and ending at 9:30 p.m.

Gospel music's artists that will perform at the day long event include Kathy Troccoli, the Latinos, Michael James Murphy, Twija Paris, Carman and the Imperials.

The Imperials have won four Grammys, eleven Doves and numerous other awards during the eighteen year career. At the gospel awards in 1981, they were chosen as Artist of the Year, Group of the Year and Album of the Year. Their album, Priority, won the 1982 Grammy Award and Dove Award for the Album of the Year.

The concerts will take place at an outdoor amphitheatre. Those attending will need to bring lawn chairs or blankets to sit on, as no permanent seats are provided.

Plans and artists for next year's festival will be announced during this year's concert.

There will be food booths and a craft area during the day. The ranch campgrounds will be available to all ticketholders free of charge until 11 a.m., July 3. Reservations are required by most of the campgrounds. For more information on camping, hotels and other July 4th activities, contact the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce at (512) 896-1155.

There are only 6,000 tickets available for the first annual Morning Star-Fest. Tickets are $15 for adults and $7.50 for children ages 6-12. Children 5 and under get in free. A group discount is available. Tickets will be $2 higher at the door.

Tickets are available at the Abundant Life Christian Bookstore, 1305 Gregg St. For more information, call (501) 751-3947.

Burroughs to perform

The second Spring City Super Summer Sunday Evening will feature a mini-concert by Wade Burroughs, music director at Wesley Methodist Church. The mini-concert will be at 6 p.m. Sunday at the First Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Carl Powers, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, will give a sermon, then the audience will have fellowship and refreshments in the Fellowship Hall. The C.C.C. class will provide the refreshments.

Dr. Powers will present a Father's Day sermon at 10:50 a.m. Jerry McGuire will direct the music and sanctuary choir. Souvenirs will be presented to each father present.

Films to be shown

The St. Paul Lutheran Church will begin a film series, June 21 at 9 a.m. Every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. for the next four weeks (June 21 and 28, and July 5 and 12) films, including Christian-centered ones, cartoons and Walt Disney films, will be shown in the St. Paul Lutheran Church Fellowship Hall, 9th and Scurry.

Mrs. Suzanne Haney and Mrs. Helen Crandall are the chairmen of this project. The films are free and are for children ages 3 to junior high. Visitors are welcome.

Refreshments will be served and there will be a sing-a-long time.

Convention held

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York has announced the completion of plans for 104 conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States during June and July.

One of the conventions is being held at Chaparral Center in Midland. It began Thursday and will end Sunday. Ninety to a hundred people from Big Spring are expected to attend.

Frank R. Bartell, convention manager, said 4,500 Jehovah's Witnesses from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are expected to attend the convention.

The convention will stress looking in a new direction for the solution to these problems, the need

Paper says director indicted in deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A grand jury has secretly indicted "Twilight Zone" director John Landis and at least two others in connection with the deaths of actor Vic Morrow and two children, The Los Angeles Times reported today.

"I understand the charges are involuntary manslaughter," said Harland Braun, attorney for Landis.

Results of the grand jury inquiry are not scheduled to be officially released until June 24, when Wednesday's indictment is unsealed in court, the paper said. Indicted with Landis were George Folsey Jr., associate producer, and Dan Allingham, unit production manager, the paper said, adding that it was unable to ascertain if any other crew members were charged. Landis, Allingham and Folsey were told to report to court June 24 for their arraignments, at which time the district attorney's office will officially inform them of the charges they face, said Roger Rosen, Folsey's attorney.

Landis had testified Tuesday before the panel, and Braun said the director was "stunned and disappointed at the charges and is convinced that when all the facts are out he'll be exonerated."

The panel concluded four days of hearings Tuesday into the deaths of Morrow, 53, Renee Chen, 6, and Myca Dinh Le, 7, died last July 23 near Saugus, 40 miles north of Los Angeles, when a helicopter crashed on them as they waded across a stream in a mock-

Vietnamese village. The movie premiered Saturday in Binghamton N.Y., hometown of the late Rod Serling, creator of the "Twilight Zone" TV series on which the film is based. It includes no helicopter footage.

The helicopter plunged to the ground after its tail rotor was struck by debris from a special-effects explosion.

The district attorney's office, which asked the grand jury to conduct the hearings, could have sought involuntary manslaughter charges under the theory that evidence showed the deaths were the result of gross negligence and unlawful child endangering, the paper said.

State agencies have already imposed heavy fines against Landis and others, including Warner Bros., the studio making the picture, for violation of safety and child-labor laws.

The Federal Aviation Administration has moved to lift the license of the helicopter pilot Dorcey Wingo for allegedly "careless and reckless" flying, but Wingo is fighting that.

In addition, the parents of one of the slain children and Morrow's daughters have filed wrongful death suits.

The grand jury was asked to consider who was responsible for placing a special effects mortar, if the power of the mortar blast was greater than the film's special effects crew has claimed, and who was responsible for positioning the helicopter low over the hut.

Several witnesses claim to have heard Landis order Wingo to fly lower, but Landis has said the flight path was up to the pilot. Braun has said tape recordings of all Landis' orders during the sequence show no such command.

Landis has said the explosions were larger than he expected.

Besides "Twilight Zone," Landis had directed such films as "National Lampoon's Animal House," "The Blues Brothers," "An American Werewolf in London," "Schlock" and the current "Trading Places."
