BOOKS AND MORE BOOKS — During the months of June and July Big Spring Superintendent Lynn Hise (inset) and a team of advisors will be examining books for possible inclusion on the state's textbook adoption list. Hise is a member of the State Textbook Committee. Shown are the stacks of 500 books under consideration.

Getting on Texas' adopted textbook list is a coveted goal among publishers nationwide. Not only does inclusion on the Lone Star state's slate guarantee good revenue; it also helps in marketing textbooks in other states swayed by Texas' decisions.

This year, the State Textbook Committee will receive input from Big Spring school district Superintendent Lynn Hise and a team of local advisors. Hise is one of 27 members appointed to the textbook committee by the State Board of Education.

After local meetings with publishers, Hise will travel to Austin in August along with his fellow committeemen to vote on recommendations for the state adoption list.

"It's a great honor to be selected," Hise said. "It's a lot of work because committee members must have a global view of the process. That is to say, I can't just recommend books that are best for Big Spring, I have to think of the students across Texas."

Texas will buy about $64 million worth of textbooks in its yearly adoption process, which means the State Textbook Committee is deluged by publishers hawking textbooks.

To help committee members with the task, the state board allows each member to choose up to six advisors for each subject up on the adoption block. Hise has chosen 28 advisors from local educators and members of the public to help him with recommendations.

The advisors are divided according to their expertise into teams which meet with publishers' representatives promoting a book in the team's field of knowledge.

The advisors have been meeting most of June and will continue until July 15, Hise said.

The group follows guidelines set up by the state board and grades each textbook against the state criteria.

The group then decides on five choices and two alternates in each subject area up for adoption. These choices dictate what Hise will vote for when the state committee convenes in August.

"I've had very competent input from the advisory board and it will be very useful when it gets down to balloting time," Hise said.

The committee is deciding on the following subjects for the 1984-85 school year: language composition grades 1 through 8; mathematics, including algebra I, algebra II, geometry and trigonometry; world history; English as a second language; Latin I, II and III; French I and II; vocational agriculture and vocational industrial education courses in building construction and metal trades; and marketing and distributive education.

After assimilating the local choices, Hise will head to Austin in August and attend hearings designed to receive input from protestors and supporters of the various textbooks up for adoption.

After this step, the textbook committee votes on the books submitted for adoption. A book must receive two-thirds or 18 votes before being recommended to the state Board of Education.

Butter, cheese contract to be canceled July 15

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The local Salvation Army's contract for butter and cheese distribution to needy families will be canceled July 15 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

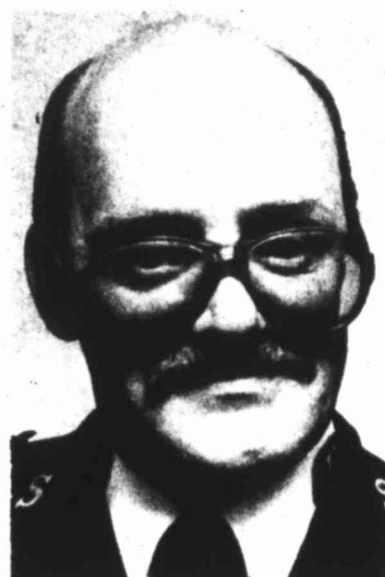

The Big Spring office was informed of the change following Congress' passage of Public Law 98-8 which provides for the establishment of an emergency food assistance program for persons in high-unemployment areas.

Lt. Carroll Braun of the local chapter said he was told the law was passed because of general "abuses" in the butter and cheese program.

"The Texas Department of Human Resources said the government felt that the items were not going to those that needed it most," Braun said. "They (federal government) seemed to feel that areas of high unemployment needed the items worse than other places."

Bob Glosson, an official of the Texas Department of Human Resources, said the department will enter into a contract with the USDA to replace the butter and cheese program where possible with a similar program, but that "all areas and persons will not be served to the previous extent."

Braun said this could mean the 600 individuals who stand in line each month to receive free butter and cheese from the local Salvation Army chapter won't be getting the items any longer unless the office can show there is a need for the

them in Big Spring.

Braun said the Human Resources department is now accepting applications to determine which organizations will be allowed to participate in the new program that provides commodities for "soup kitchen" and home use.

The program, targeted for areas of high employment and low income, will provide canned beef, poultry, tuna and other staples for in-house feeding by organizations such as the Salvation Army.

The program will also provide for home use of butter, cheese, rice, powdered milk, cornmeal, flour and

Frozen vegetables to be distributed

The Salvation Army will be distributing frozen vegetables starting at 1 p.m. today at 308 Aylford.

These vegetables are being donated by Gibson Discount Center and are in limited supply. Once the items are dispensed, there will be no more available.

Applicants should be local residents, and a driver's license or other identification is needed to receive the vegetables.

Salvation Army officials are suggesting the vegetables be used as soon as possible.

"I'll be turning in an application to our headquarters on Wednesday," Braun said. "We're trying to show them that we are the crossroads of this area and have a lot of people coming through that never show up on our unemployment roles."

In addition to the application submitted by Braun, the chapter's board of directors is sending a letter appealing the USDA's decision to cancel the butter and cheese contracts.

"Anyone who's ever driven by the SA when we're handing out cheese and seen the lines knows there is a definite need for these items in our See CONTRACT, page 2A

Area voices opposition to nuclear dump site

•County commissioners approve resolution protesting dump site

•Colorado City residents gather to plan opposition to dump site plan

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners approved a resolution in emergency session yesterday that protests the consideration of the county as a potential nuclear waste dump site.

Commissioner Louis Brown had requested the nuclear waste issue be on Monday's regular agenda, but it was omitted. The emergency meeting, which only requires three hours notice, was called for the afternoon.

Brown urged the other commissioners to act now in protesting a possible disposal site for nuclear waste in the county. A letter of protest should be sent to state and national representatives to oppose the measure, Brown said.

A report released in early June for the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority indicated Howard County as one of the best sites for nuclear waste. Other possible sites included Dawson, Borden, Mitchell, Martin and Glasscock Counties.

"The term 'dump site' has such a bad connotation," Commissioner Bill Crooker said.

Brown questioned the safety of the waste material.

"If it's so safe, why bring it here?" Brown said. "Why not leave it where it comes from?"

The final site selection is expected to take place in July, with a definite area picked no later than October, according to state officials. The federal government is requiring states to store their own nuclear waste. Previously, Texas

COLORADO CITY — Over 100 persons met Monday night to plan opposition to the possible location of a low-level radiation dump in Mitchell County.

The group, which included the mayors of Colorado City, Loraine and Westbrook, agreed to take any action necessary to dissuade Texas officials from selecting Mitchell or any surrounding counties as a dump site.

Rita Latimer, a Colorado City real estate agent and leader of the group, said she and other residents chose to live in Mitchell County to escape the pollution of the big cities.

"Now they're bringing it to us," she said.

"The dump site will lower the value of every acre in this county," said rancher Harold Brennand.

Mitchell is one of 105 Texas counties the state is considering for disposal of industrial materials contaminated with low-level radiation.

The Red Bed Plain Region, which includes Mitchell, Howard, Martin, Sterling, Glasscock, Dawson, Borden, Scurry and Kent counties, is among the top eight of 15 areas being reviewed by the state.

Mrs. Latimer said the task force plans to circulate petitions to show public opposition to the state's plans. Petitions were handed out at the meeting, and members were asked to solicit 25 signatures each.

"The volume of public opposition will play a large part in the selection of the site," attorney Clay Strange said. He suggested the county hire a geologist to testify to the state that Mitchell County would be an unsuitable waste site.

Action/reaction: Powdered pomp

Q. Where did the term "bigwig" originate?
A. As might be expected, the term comes from the old European custom of judges, bishops and other important personages wearing big wigs. British judges still wear big wigs during trials.

TRUCKS IN COLLAPSE — Two trailer trucks and a car fell into the Mianus River in Greenwich, Conn., early Tuesday morning when a 100-foot-long section of Interstate 95 bridging the river collapsed. Authorities said that three people were killed and three injured in the collapse.

Three die when bridge collapses

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — A 100-foot section of an interstate highway bridge collapsed before dawn today, hurling trucks and cars 70 feet into the Mianus River. Three people were killed and at least three others were critically injured, authorities said.

The three eastbound lanes of the bridge dropped into the river at about 1:30 a.m. on Interstate 95, Connecticut's main highway into New York City some 20 miles to the southwest.

Two tractor-trailer trucks and two cars fell into the water, and Coast Guard and Greenwich police boats searched the river for more motorists who may have been trapped in their cars.

State police spokesman John McLeod confirmed three people died. In addition, two women and one man were taken to the emergency room of Greenwich Hospital in critical condition.

Authorities said they had no idea why the bridge fell apart. The 100-foot section made a clean break with the rest of the bridge.

The 25-year-old bridge on the Connecticut Turnpike was last inspected in September, said state Transportation Commissioner J. William Burns. "There were problems with the bridge deck, but not with the structure," he said.

The National Transportation Safety Board was sending a team of investigators and Gov. William O'Neill was awakened about 2:30 a.m. and went to the scene.

The accident happened at high tide, when the water is about eight to 10 feet deep, said Lt. Joe Orrico of the Cos Cob Fire Department.

"The bridge is an old bridge. Many people have talked about it needing work for a long time," Orrico said. "I guess it looks like something might get done now."

Gordon Gillman, who lives next to the bridge, said that in recent weeks it had been making "some squeaking noises," which he had reported to the state Transportation Department.

"They said they had been contacted — they'd had people call — and that regular maintenance needed to be done," Gillman said.

Emilio Alvarez said he was sitting with friends on his parents' boat in a slip next to the bridge "when I heard an enormous metal crunching sound."

"The splash was incredible. The whole thing was like an explosion," Alvarez said. "That's when we saw a car going over. Almost immediately, I heard a man and a woman screaming for help. I tried to call to them, but they seemed to be too far away."

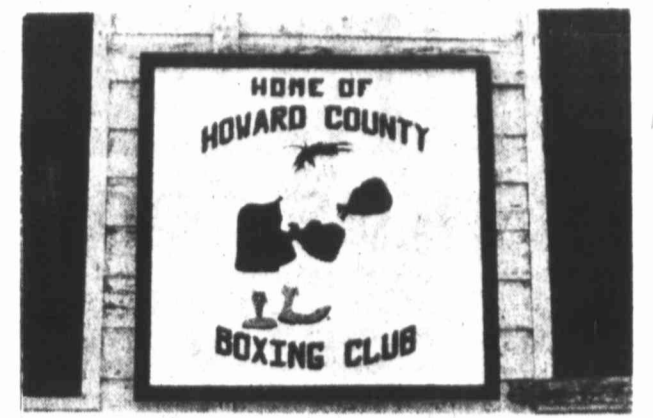

One car stopped 10 feet short of the edge, McLeod said. William Anderson, 30, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Shana Kelly, 20, of Atlanta, were en route to Maine when they saw a tractor-trailer jack-knife and disappear from the crest of the bridge. They hit the brakes.

The westbound section of the highway was intact, but the road was closed in both directions and traffic was rerouted, McLeod said. State police said morning rush-hour traffic on alternate routes was moderately heavy, but was expected to be worse during the evening rush.

The three injured people were identified as David Pace, 27, and his wife, Helen, 23, of Warner Robins, Ga., and Eileen Welden, age unknown, of Darien, Conn.

Greenwich Fire Chief John Titsworth said one car was submerged 40 feet from the east embankment of Riverside, a section of Greenwich. Another was found 30 feet from the east bank on the shore, according to Cos Cob volunteer fireman Michael O'Connor.

One truck, its cab submerged in the river, was resting vertically against a bridge abutment, he said. Another truck was nearby, on its side, partially under water on the east side of the bridge.

BUILDING MAY BE SOLD — Members of the Howard County Boxing Club are fighting to retain their building. Representatives of the group met with Howard County Commissioners Monday and asked that the county purchase the building from the Big Spring school district.

Boxers battle to keep building

The Howard County Boxing Club went to its corner yesterday to ask the county commissioners for help in avoiding a knockout from the Big Spring Independent School District.

The school district plans to sell the old YMCA building on 1005 N.W. 4th where the boxing club has been housed for several months.

Boxing coach J.V. Martinez and his wife, Helen, appealed to the commissioners to purchase the building for the club. Mrs. Martinez said the club has worked hard to repair the building for the young boxers.

"We want the county to make a bid for it for us," Martinez said. "All we're asking is to leave us a roof."

Commissioner Louis Brown, who has been an avid supporter of the boxing club since its inception, asked why the school district suddenly wanted to sell the admittedly rundown building. Martinez said the building is probably worth only the value of scrap lumber.

"Most of them (school personnel) don't even know where it is," Martinez said. "The place doesn't have any value except to us."

The boxing coach said the school district indicated it has someone who wants to buy the building. Brown said he has been unable to discover who is interested in the northside facility.

Coach Ed Garza pointed out the recent boxing tournament (June 3-4) in Big Spring that drew numerous boxers to town benefitted motels and restaurants. The tournament was held here because of the local club's winning record, Garza said. Only about 300 local residents went to the two-day event, he said.

"This tournament did a lot of business for the town," Garza said. "The thanks we got was the news they're selling the place."

New parks, recreation superintendent hired

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Gary Tabor of Odessa has been hired as Big Spring parks and recreation superintendent, a position created recently by the city council.

Tabor, who has 10 years of experience and served as Ector County parks superintendent, will begin employment here Friday for $21,000 a year.

Tabor will oversee parks maintenance, Moss Creek Lake, Mount Olive cemetery, the golf course, swimming pools, tennis courts and Dora Roberts Community Center.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said Tabor designed and built the exercise trail at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. Tabor said he will investigate a similar project on the hike and bike trail at Comanche Trail Park.

"I have a lot of ideas I want to get started on soon,"

Tabor told a board meeting last night.

The Texas Tech University graduate suggested the board hold its meetings at city parks to build closer ties between the parks and board members.

Tabor graduated from Texas Tech University in 1973 with a degree in parks administration and horticulture. He, his wife and three children will move to Big Spring from Odessa where he worked in the oil business.

Decell also said a new golf course manager, Al Patterson, started work last week at a salary of $1,000 per month plus all profits from the food, golf cart and pro shop concessions.

Patterson has 20 years experience managing two municipal golf courses at Fort Myers, Fla. He and his son moved here from Hobbs, N.M.

"He had 10 (golf) carts delivered Wednesday afternoon and hopes to have 10 more by Friday," Decell said. "He's made a number of changes already."

Decell said Tabor has begun renovating the tee boxes and changed the maintenance workers' hours to take advantage of cooler morning hours.

Also, the board objected to the city council not stipulating in the new Moss Creek Lake fee ordinance that half of the revenue be designated for improvements at the lake.

The council passed the ordinance which raises fees from 50 cents to $1 at its last meeting, but excluded the parks and recreation board's recommendation that half the fees be used exclusively for the lake. The council is scheduled to vote on the third and final reading of the ordinance tonight.

Board member Tina Arguello said she will attend the council meeting and voice the board's objection.

Maxie Anderson, Don Ida die when balloon crashes

SCHWEINFURT, West Germany (AP) — Balloonists Maxie Anderson and Don Ida were killed when ropes holding the basket of their helium-filled balloon apparently snapped, sending the men plunging to earth, West German police said today.

Police officers watching the balloon through fieldglasses said ropes holding the basket appeared to break. There was no explanation as to why the lines snapped.

The two men were taking part in the Gordon Bennett cup balloon race, which began in Paris on Sunday. French officials announced that two Poles — Stefan Makne and Ireneusz Cieclak — won the race, traveling 435 miles and landing in Bavaria.

Several policemen watched Anderson's America 3 with binoculars before its basket crashed Monday in a forest near the north Bavarian spa of Bad Kissinger, a police spokesman said.

The basket dropped while the balloon drifted on in the direction of Coburg, a north Bavarian town near the East German border, police said.

Weather conditions were near perfect when the basket crashed. It was a clear summer day, with no strong winds.

Anderson, 48, of Albuquerque, N.M., was one of a trio to cross the Atlantic in the Double Eagle II, the first balloon flight across the ocean, in 1978. He made the first balloon crossing of the United States, with his son, in 1980, and nearly died, in waters off Iceland, in an earlier trans-Atlantic challenge.

Ida, 49, a Colorado tree farm owner, had been Anderson's partner in two futile attempts to circle the globe in a balloon.

After Monday's crash, witnesses told police the helium balloon seemed to rip apart just before it crashed into a Bavarian forest about 25 miles from the border with East Germany.

Schweinfurt police rushed to catch up with the balloon after the balloonists notified Frankfurt authorities that they were going to bring the craft down just before they reached the border with East Germany, which forbids such flights in its air space.

"We could see there were lines hanging down from the balloon," police spokesman Siegfried Brendel said. "Then it crashed in the woods, and police had to seek it out in helicopters."

Police initially suspected the two men may have been trying to avoid crossing into East Germany.

The balloonists had lifted off from Paris 21 hours earlier in the balloon race.

"Preliminary information indicates that the nacelle (basket) separated from the envelope of the balloon, which was of a modern design and different to the other balloons."

Ex-presidents are costly

Last year the American people spent $12,074,720 to support their ex-presidents.

In addition, some $14 million was spent to maintain seven commemorative libraries housing presidential papers and memorabilia.

Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter each are paid $70,000 a year in pensions. This is reasonable, for ex-presidents should be able to maintain a high level of living.

For office expenses, Carter received $292,800, Nixon $236,902 and Ford $249,200. In addition, their phone bills came to $24,800, $31,000 and $34,549 respectively.

This does not include travel expenses or the cost of maintaining Secret Service protection.

Former presidents must answer a lot of mail and must maintain offices. And they are entitled to protection. But it does seem that the cost of maintaining them has gotten out of hand.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., has introduced a bill to gradually diminish staff and office expenses for ex-presidents. It has much merit and should receive serious consideration as one small way to reduce the federal budget.

Around the Rim

Playing the game

Voices have cried out against Little League baseball for so many years that it's amazing the organization is still here for us to kick around.

Little League survives, with a somewhat wrinkled reputation, because it is basically a very good idea; there are just a few things that everyone says get in the way.

My last Little League involvement was 15 years ago, when I was a right fielder of sorts for the West University Tigers in Houston.

Back then the big complaints were:

- Coaches who didn't care.
- Parents who cared too much.
- Kids who never got to play.
- Kids who always fought.

I dare say nothing has been added to those problems, and one or two problems may have been taken away. Many teams now have only one or two more than the needed nine players; every kid has a chance to play a key role in every game.

Better management of local leagues has helped free the kids from coaches who worked with teams just for exercise or boredom-relief.

Some parents probably still care too much and get too involved, but that is unsolvable unless you ban parents from games. This solution has often been suggested, but to my knowledge no soul has tried to put it into practice.

SATURDAY'S championship of the Big Spring City Little League Tournament ended disappointingly in the second inning. The third base umpire ended the game because of profanity from one of the players.

Kids, fans, parents and onlookers were very unhappy. Who can blame them? Many people had spent long hours planning and executing the tournament and the kids had invested much heart and soul.

In finest baseball tradition, everybody blamed the umpires who ended the game. Whether the umpires should have ended it, or whether they were even allowed to makes no difference because the league presidents voted to back the official decision.

Apparently one or two of them had heard the obscenity and didn't want to let that kind of thing continue.

Nobody asked me but I feel it was the right decision. Yes it would be thrilling to be Big Spring champions and when you're 12 years old certainly nothing seems more important.

BUT THERE are a lot of things more important. It's a boring cliché, I know, but what matters is how the game is played. It makes no difference who was to blame for Saturday's incident and, having been a kid I know that "those things happen." But they don't have to happen and they don't have to be put up with.

What is sad, however, is that loud cursing and similar behavior does not begin with young people and is not a "childhood problem." As we get older, often the behavior gets worse — and more accepted.

Road showing the president

I don't know if President Reagan is going to run for another term or not. But if he isn't, his staff is certainly working on playing catch-up with the minorities and other groups who feel they have been ignored by his administration.

"The perception of the president, gentleman, is that he doesn't care about women, blacks, schoolchildren and senior citizens. We now must devote ourselves to changing that perception, particularly since we all know it's untrue. Does anyone have any suggestions?"

"We're going to have to send him on the road more. But let's not book him at Jerry Falwell's and Senator Jesse Helms' fund raisers any more."

"We have no perception problems with their people. I think we have to arrange more photo opportunities with the unemployed, disenfranchised and female gender types."

"Excellent. How do we do it?"

"We could get him to visit a poor school in the ghetto to show he is seriously interested in educational problems of the nation."

"And arrange for him to share a desk with a black kid where he could explain why he wants to give tax rebates to parents who want to send their children to private schools."

"Let's not go overboard on this. Forget the private school tuition deal. The black kid might start asking questions."

"Okay, he could discuss with the class how important it is that the federal government stay out of education and leave the problems to the local communities."

"Maybe he could talk about merit raises for teachers?"

"Someone might ask where the money is coming from. Scrub the merit raise part of it."

"Now since we don't have much time, I suggest he sit with a little black girl, instead of a little black boy. That way we cover the education gap and the gender gap at the same time."

"I like it. But why not go one step further and have him sit next to a little black girl who is handicapped, speaks Spanish and is confused about the nuclear freeze?"

"Her father could be unemployed, and the president could tell her about the retraining program he signed, which will help her dad find a job again."

"Great idea. How do we work the senior citizens in?"

"Maybe we can find a teacher who is just about to retire on Social Security, and the president could assure her that he will never see her hard-won benefits taken away from her."

"It could work, and save the president time from visiting a senior citizens home."

"Wait a minute. I just thought of something. Why don't we do the scene in the school cafeteria instead of a classroom? The president could eat the same food the kids eat to show he is committed to the free lunch program."

"The Secret Service would never let him eat school cafeteria food."

"He could fake it. You don't think he ate the food in the Warner Brothers film he was in, do you?"

"The school cafeteria idea makes sense. Then he doesn't have to get into the prayers in school issues. The polls show that isn't a priority with the poor."

"Okay, so how many things have we taken care of?"

"The education situation, the minority problem, the gender gap, the school lunch issue, the Social Security question, nuclear freeze and the fact that the president cares about the unemployed and the handicapped. That's not bad for one photo opportunity."

"I have a feeling we left something out."

"The environment. The polls show the people don't think the president cares enough about clean air and water."

"Why don't we have him plant a tree in front of the school?"

"With an American Indian kid handing him the gold shovel."

"Good thinking, Mike. We almost forgot about the American Indians."

Foot-dragging may have cost lives

WASHINGTON — Critics of overzealous government regulation often state their case in terms of the cost in dollars and cents. But reluctant regulation often has a cost measured in human lives.

A grim example of regularity foot-dragging is the 18 months it took the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to announce that there was a rear-brake problem with 320,000 General Motors' 1980 X-Cars. During that long stretch of bureaucratic dilly-dallying, NHTSA recorded 10 deaths and at least one crippling injury in X-Cars.

Here's a partial chronology of death and delay:

— July 1, 1981: NHTSA safety engineers decided to begin an investigation after receiving 212 owner complaints of brake lockups, involving 58 accidents. GM was notified privately; no press release written, though this is customary.

A week later, initial tests that "gripping" brake linings were causing lockups. GM was notified; the public was not.

— Aug. 2, 1981: Kim Sutton, 18, of Maryville, Tenn., lost control of her Buick Skylark after applying the brakes on a rain-slick road, spun into the opposite lane and was hit by an oncoming jeep. She died 12 days later.

Robert Olive, the Sutton family's attorney, told my associate Tony Capaccio the accident "sure looked like brake lockup."

— Aug. 5, 1981: GM voluntarily recalled 45,000 X-Cars (though not the model Kim Sutton had been driving). NHTSA had evidence linking the linings to the brake lockups, yet the agency allowed GM to replace only the valves that control the rear-brake hydraulic pressure.

— November 1981 to June 1982:

Further NHTSA tests confirmed that the brake linings, not the hydraulic valves, were at fault. The raw data lay in the files for seven months before it was collated, and even then was not made public.

During those months, three more people died and one person was permanently crippled in X-Cars suspected of brake lockup.

— June 1982 to December 1982: After the brake-lining report was prepared, NHTSA inexplicably sat on it.

— Dec. 15, 1982: Kathryn Tapp, 17, of Teton, Wyo., was driving her Citation in a light snow when its front end went into a slight fishtail. According to witnesses, when Tapp put on the brakes, the car swerved violently into an oncoming vehicle. She died of her injuries.

Robert Tapp, Kathryn's father, said he "didn't know about the X-Car problem," and added: "Had we known about it, my wife would have taken the car in, or she would not allowed it to be driven until it was fixed."

— Dec. 17, 1982: NHTSA sent GM a stern letter demanding more information on the brake problem and implying that a recall might be necessary.

— Jan. 12, 1983: Dorothy Belt of Elmhurst, Ill., was driving her Phoenix on a slippery road, applied the brakes and spun across the center line into the path of an oncoming car. Mrs. Belt and a passenger died.

— Jan. 13, 1983: NHTSA's safety engineers recommended a formal "defect finding."

DUTCH TREAT: The CIA cynically suspects that officials in the Netherlands are secretly rejoicing at the leftist direction taken by their former colony, Surinam. Ever since they granted the South American nation independence in 1975, the Dutch have been trying — in the CIA's view — to find an excuse to cut off the 10-year, $1.5 billion aid program that was part of the deal.

A secret CIA report notes the blinding speed with which the Hague suspended further aid after 15 prominent Surinamese citizens were executed by the leftist regime last December. The aid has not been renewed since then.

The main reason the Dutch wanted to get rid of Surinam, the CIA concluded, was "domestic pressure to end the influx of poor Surinamers into Holland's urban slums." Since the early 1970s, about one-fourth of Surinam's population moved to the Netherlands.

The Dutch stipulated that the $1.5 billion in aid must be spent on development and other useful projects. The CIA deduced that the Hague was "betting" (the Surinamers would) be unable to fulfill this condition, and expected total financial support (to) be much lower."

As things turned out, the executions gave the Dutch government all the excuse it needed to wish on the aid promise.

Prison camp is commended

Dear Editor,

Your article about the "Outlaw" band was perfect timing for my own letter of appreciation. Mr. John Allman, camp superintendent and Mr. Jerry Edwards, assistant camp superintendent have proven the worth of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to our city.

I have attended several functions at which inmates have been involved such as at the Rattlesnake Round-Up, the Heritage Museum Centennial Celebration, a Thanksgiving Dinner at the Senior Citizen's Nutritional Site and most recently at the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

Currently, two gentlemen are helping SWCID to improve its media capabilities. These men have saved the college thousands of dollars and equipment maintenance and repair costs. In addition, they are teaching a few SWCID staff members the potential and proper use of some equipment. (Due to a lack of funds, SWCID has been unable to hire a professional Media Technician). Their expertise in media has assisted SWCID in better utilization of this equipment.

I realize that many readers may feel as I did about the prison — a fear of the unknown. My own fear subsided when I was asked to teach a sign language course at the camp. I found, to my own embarrassment, that many of these men were no different than my own father or husband. (I had once pictured villains with scars and pitchblades). I also discovered that behind those walls are a great number of men with tremendous knowledge and a variety of skills — many of which are ready to help our community in any way possible.

In closing, I would like to thank Mr. Allman and Mr. Edwards for allowing these men to work outside of the camp — to the benefit of many of us. Their confidence in their own men has proven that a minimum security facilities does in fact serve as a stepping stone to final release for these men.

Thank you.

Little League decision illegal

Dear Sir:

I think a follow-up letter is in order to further explain the situation of the Little League play-offs.

The first question is, was the decision Little League rules, or to and for the cover-up of an improper action of the umpire? It has been known that rules have been bent on several occasions.

I am sorry that Mr. Griffin has umpired for thirty years, and apparently has not read the rule book. Quote: on page 47 and 48, Rule 9.00.904 (a) the umpire-in-chief shall stand behind the catcher to:

- (1) take full charge of, and be responsible for, the proper conduct of the game;
- (6) decide when a game shall be forfeited; unquote.

The next question is, why the umpires that officiated all season for the International League, were not officiating for this game. It was very unwise to pay umpires when we had our own available.

The next question, did the altercation on Friday, between the Indians and the Red Sox intimidate the decision of the umpires of this game? Friday spectators jumped the fence and a brawl ensued.

In now way does any spectator, or myself, condone the activity of the Royal player involved, but it was inhuman and cruel punishment for the rest of the Royal team. There has been friction between these two teams all this season, there — for it is compulsory to get the story of this incident straight. The Royal player was tagged out at second base, and in the process was kicked in the ribs, and the slugging started. It was a proper call to eject the Royal player from the field, but the Indian player should have been ejected also. The only logical solution to this error of judgment, is to play this game in the near future and to expel both players that caused this complete farce of an illegal cancellation.

The only excuse I heard from the elected officials were, it was the fault of the coach and manager, that they were unqualified and responsible for the action of the player involved.

The individual covering this game from the Big Spring Herald was told not to scandalize the people involved, but to smooth it over in his report. That was acceptable as long as the facts were told concerning the illegal calling of the game.

I think the decision on this game will be felt next year by the lack of players signing up for Little League Baseball.

Shoe exchange supplies odd sizes

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — Jeanne L. Sallman has just the merchandise for people in a pinch — thousands of shoes, no two alike, collected over the years for the National Odd Shoe Exchange.

"I think the foot-handicapped person is among the most neglected in our society," said Ms. Sallman, whose customers include amputees needing only one shoe, people with feet of two different sizes and those with unusually large or small lower extremities.

The 40-year-old NOSE, which Ms. Sallman took over last year, is known to thousands of people nationwide, including doctors, manufacturers and distributors. Bags of mail nestle among the piles of shoe boxes in her basement headquarters.

Many requests are met via the 14,000 file cards that Ms. Sallman uses to match those who need and those who can provide unusual footwear or single shoes.

"We have a lot of people

who wear a size 6 on one foot and a size 1 on the other foot," Ms. Sallman said in a recent interview. "To make them look good and feel good about themselves is what we're after."

But it's not always as simple as matching people with the same shoe size.

"If they're a nurse, like myself, they may need white shoes," said Ms. Sallman, who, because of a birth defect, has a size 6 left foot and a size 4 right foot. "We ask about their hobbies and interests, so we can match people who will be buying the same type of shoes. There's a lot of problems we have to consider."

Some requests require shoes not available on the market. Then, Ms. Sallman turns to her personal catalog of small manufacturers who, using only the paper outline of a foot, will make a shoe to order.

"We had one request for a size 10 AAAAAA," she said. "I asked what size his foot was and he said it was 2 inches wide. We have a lot of extremes."

The merchandise comes in part from shoe stores that send mismatched pairs. Ms. Sallman once received from U.S. Customs a shoe shipment that somehow went awry when it entered the country. Customs officials were about to discard the whole lot until they heard about Ms. Sallman.

NOSE was begun in 1943 as a non-profit organization, and Ms. Sallman hopes to expand it soon by opening a shoe store where handicapped people can browse and find what they need.

She's got her eye on a $400,000 building in Indianola and is trying to raise the money to open the store.

"They just want a shoe store where they can go in and buy shoes and feel comfortable," she said. "Something like that is really needed."

She also dreams of sponsoring a national convention of the foot-handicapped.

"I want a convention so bad," she said. "I simply lay awake at night thinking of all the fun things we could do."

For the moment, however, she'll have to content herself with operating from her basement.

Cousin of Brooklyn Bridge still stands

LACKAWAXEN, Pa. (AP) — It is an older cousin of the celebrated Brooklyn Bridge. It is also the oldest suspension bridge in the United States.

Today, despite its rotting wooden deck timbers, the Delaware Aqueduct stands as a monument to its creator, John A. Roebling.

"People from New York call it the 'Little Brooklyn Bridge,'" George Hartman, a National Park ranger, said at a ceremony to mark its 135th birthday earlier this month. "We hope it will be here another 100 years."

Roebling, who built or designed nine bridges in his lifetime, died in 1869 from tetanus contracted after a ferry smashed his toes against pilings in the East River as he surveyed the pre-construction site of his masterpiece, the great stone and steel span that in 1883 finally linked Brooklyn to Manhattan.

The Delaware Aqueduct was built across the Delaware River in 1848 so anthracite coal could be hauled from northeastern Pennsylvania to the furnaces of New York City.

Its original three stone piers and two cables — each made of 2,150 strands of wrought iron wire — supported a six-foot-deep trough of water that permitted coal barges from the Delaware & Hudson Canal to cross the treacherous upper Delaware River without being unhitched.

"It is one of the nation's preeminent industrial monuments. It's a monument of America's early industrial age in terms of its materials and design," said Robert Vogel of the Smithsonian Institute's National Museum of America.

"It is, I'm convinced, the oldest suspension bridge standing in the Western Hemisphere and the oldest standing suspension bridge built by John Roebling," Vogel added at a recent symposium on Roebling and the Delaware Aqueduct held at Sparrow Bush, N.Y.

"It's one in a progressive sequence of structures designed by Roebling. It could be called an unwitting precursor of the Brooklyn Bridge," said Vogel.

The 535-foot, four-span bridge, its timber deck badly in need of repairs, has been closed to all but foot and bicycle traffic since 1979. In 1977, a truck carrying railroad ties crashed through the deck into the water. Basic repairs were made before the bridge was closed two years later.

The aqueduct, which served its original purpose for 50 years before one of its eight owners converted it to a conventional toll bridge, marked its birthday with much less fanfare than did the Brooklyn Bridge, whose May 24 centennial was attended by millions and included tons of fireworks.

At a quiet June 4 ceremony held by the National Park Service, the Delaware Aqueduct — locally known as the Roebling bridge — was rededicated as a national landmark and an engineering marvel by the American Society of Civil Engineers. The original plaques were stolen years ago.

Roebling built or designed nine bridges, three of which are still standing — the one at Lackawaxen, the Brooklyn Bridge and a suspension bridge over the Ohio River at Cincinnati.

His two earliest spans were in Pittsburgh, an aqueduct over the Allegheny River finished in 1844 and a suspension bridge of wire rope across the Monongahela River. Neither survives, but the Monongahela bridge caught the attention of Delaware & Hudson Canal officials, who asked him to build four aqueducts. Only the one at Lackawaxen survives.

He built a railroad suspension bridge over the Niagara River at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and in 1866, 10 years of construction were completed on the 1,057-foot span over the Ohio River that still links Cincinnati and Covington, Ky.

Dear Abby

Sexual myths

DEAR ABBY: Today my doctor destroyed two myths that I had always thought were facts:

1. A nursing mother cannot get pregnant.
2. A woman cannot get pregnant unless the male has an orgasm.

My doctor said that these two old wives tales, handed down from generation to generation, are responsible for an untold number of unplanned pregnancies.

Abby, please tell your readers that a nursing mother can become pregnant and that the fluid secreted by the male during foreplay is just as impregnating as the fluid released during orgasm. A man doesn't have to have an orgasm to get a woman pregnant!

My son was only 2 months old when I became pregnant again. I honestly believed that because I was a nursing mother I was doubly protected.

Your column reaches so many people, Abby, that if you print this, it may keep someone else from relying on these myths as a form of birth control. Thank you.

TWO BABIES IN 11 MONTHS

DEAR TWO: Thank you for a helpful letter that should do away with two misconceptions — no pun intended.

DEAR ABBY: I don't care how much flak you get for suggesting that the Johnsons should thank God their problem is so insignificant. (They complained that their son didn't give them enough respect because he addressed his letters to "The Johnsons" instead of to "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.")

You did right to tell them about some of the tragic letters you had received that day. It could help put their petty little problem into its proper perspective.

I am reminded of something I heard many years ago that is appropriate to this situation: "I complained because I had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet."

NO COMPLAINTS IN BOSTON

DEAR NO COMPLAINTS: Thanks, friend. I needed that.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my parents, who live in another state, came for a visit, and I have been upset since they left.

I have two children, a daughter, 18, and a son, 13. Lately they have been playing little games with each other. They try to see who can give the other one the biggest hickey. They also wrestle each other on the bed quite a bit.

My mother was appalled and said I had better do something quick since this type of behavior is not normal between a brother and sister. I never thought a thing about it until my mother got so "appalled" and put those terrible thoughts in my head. I just thought it was a part of growing up, and, after all, this is a new generation.

Nevertheless I am now upset. Please give me your opinion. We both read your column.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Many brothers and sisters roughhouse in the spirit of playfulness during adolescence. But at 18, your daughter is a young woman, and as such she would be well-advised to skip the hickies and wrestling on the bed with her kid brother.

Dr. Donohue

Psoriasis can have arthritis link

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband has psoriatic arthritis, and it is in both of his hands. Is this similar to rheumatoid arthritis? Have you any information on gold treatment? — D.M.

About 5 percent of people with psoriasis will also have arthritis. But it's not quite that simple because several varieties of arthritis can be involved.

First, there is the classic kind, the psoriatic arthritis your husband's doctor has diagnosed. That kind affects joints of the hands and feet, particularly the knuckle joints of the fingers; that seems to match your description.

You ask about rheumatoid arthritis. The kind of arthritis found in people with psoriasis is similar to the rheumatoid with this exception: The blood tests used to diagnose rheumatoid arthritis. The tests for it will be positive. That means the two illnesses are distinct and just happen to exist simultaneously in the same person. For many reasons it is important for doctors to make such fine distinctions.

Often, classic psoriatic arthritis (the first kind discussed) responds to drugs like aspirin, also to non-drug arthritis therapies, like heat and planned exercise during pain-free periods. Gold therapy, however, is rarely used. It can make the skin illness worse. Psoriatic arthritis is a destructive process only in a very few patients. The aspirin and other drugs used to control regular rheumatoid arthritis are usually effective for it.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know if vitamin E will hurt you. I am in menopause, at 52. It seems to help my hot flashes. How much of it is needed? — D.W.

The catalogue of cures effected by vitamin E grows and grows. Unfortunately, we can't document most of the cures. It has been touted as a treatment for fatigue, hypertension, phlebitis and you name it. And now your hot flashes have been cured by it.

We do know that, like other vitamins, E is important for our bodies. It is found in ample amounts in vegetable oils, margarines, whole-grain cereals, peanuts, liver, meats, eggs and milk. The recommended daily requirement for an adult female is 8 milligrams; and 10 milligrams for an adult male. Together with the mineral selenium, vitamin E keeps cell membranes from being broken down. And although it is one of the least toxic of vitamins, it can be stored in fat, so one has to be cautious in taking large doses.

It is harmless taken in recommended doses. I don't want to get into a numbers game here, but you have to take quite high doses to get into trouble. But don't try that, OK? The booklet "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know" will give you a little more background on the subject. Other readers may order a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: During recent tests, including an upper GI, it was mentioned that I had a Schatzki ring. I am very worried and confused. No one seems to know much about this problem. I am 62 and wonder what the prognosis is. Must it be corrected? And if so, should it be done immediately? I am very concerned and would appreciate your comments. —

You don't have to be worried, confused or concerned about your Schatzki ring. It is found in many people, but produces symptoms in only a few. It's a shelf of tissue in the lowermost part of the esophagus. X-rays show its presence.

Only on rare occasions will a Schatzki ring cause trouble, and that would include difficulty in swallowing. If that happens, the shelf of tissue can be removed. If you are not having any problem swallowing, you can forget about the finding. If you do have swallowing difficulty from this it can be taken care of rather easily.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Every now and then I come across the phrase "died of natural causes." It has always been my impression that people died of some cause — heart disease, stroke, etc. But what in the world is a natural cause? Please clear this up for me. — Mrs. H.G.M.

The expression means death was not due to an accident or a violent act. The cause of death was a process occurring naturally from within the person. I cannot add to this definition. It's just that simple.

Musgroves hold reunion

Decendants of the late Marcus and Susan Musgrove held a reunion June 10-12 at the Big Spring Holiday Inn. Family members visited their former hometown and family.

The Musgroves came to Howard County in the early 1900s. Musgrove was a farmer and stock raiser in the R-Bar Community many years. He served as county commissioner and was a Mason. The Musgroves deeded land to build a Methodist church about 1900. Many old timers hauled lumber to build the church, which later was moved to Coahoma.

Mrs. Musgrove was named "Mother of the Year" for Big Spring one year and also named "Good Neighbor" of Big Spring during World War II. She was active in the Methodist Church and Eastern Star.

Family members from Shreveport, La., Tulsa, Okla., Artesia, N.M., Belleville, Ill., Stephenville, Odessa, Mansfield, Fort Worth, Houston, Euless, Waco attended the reunion. Those attending from Big Spring were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wise and Lester Wise.

Colonial Dames win 2 membership awards

The Richard Hubbell Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the 17th Century won awards in membership and junior membership recently. The chapter met June 18 at Big Spring Country Club.

The State Board meeting will be held in Salado, Texas, Sept. 14.

A program on home interiors of the 1600s was presented by Mrs. Jack Lipscombe. Pictures of furniture from that period was presented. The most reliable source of furnishings are contained in inventories and wills, which have been kept in courthouse files.

Mrs. Lipscombe cited the inventory filed after the death of the governor of New Haven Colonies in 1657. The inventory listed each piece of furnishings and the room in which it was located.

The chapter's next meeting will be announced later.

Book profiles TV newspeople

WASHINGTON (AP) — CBS Evening News anchor Dan Rather is preoccupied with his looks. His predecessor, Walter Cronkite, has a "super-sized ego." And ABC added $400,000 to Barbara Walters' $1 million contract to cover her babysitting and home entertainment costs.

Such tidbits are offered in a yet-unpublished book, "The Evening Stars: The Rise of Network News Anchors," by free-lance writer Barbara Matusow.

Scheduled to be published later this summer by Houghton Mifflin, the book delves into the personalities and salaries of the nation's best-known network anchors. It also offers insight into the competitiveness between networks for star-quality journalists.

Ms. Matusow writes that besides the well-publicized $1 million salary, Ms. Walters' contract included such fringe benefits as a researcher to accompany her to any location, an additional secretary, a make-up consultant, a wardrobe person, first-class hotel accommodations when traveling out-of-town and a private office with "appropriate decorations."

"ABC could not accommodate some of her demands, such as paying for babysitters for her daughter when she was away on assignment or reimbursing her for the cost of entertaining ABC officials in her apartment because they violated the company's accounting procedures," Ms. Matusow writes. "So an extra lump sum was tacked on as a 'buy-out,' upping her salary to $1.4 million."

Laurie Straford, Ms. Walters' secretary, said Ms. Walters had not read the book and would have no comment.

Ms. Matusow says she interviewed all major network anchors for the book, as well as hundreds of behind-the-scenes executives, producers, reporters and agents.

She writes that Rather accepted a 10-year package deal close to $25 million to stay at CBS. The offer came after CBS learned that ABC president Roone Arledge was prepared to offer Rather a 10-year package deal close to $3 million a year.

ABC's offer, which included a guarantee of hiring "the 20 best producers in the country," was very tempting to Rather, Ms. Matusow writes. She quotes Arledge saying, "Dan got so turned on when we were talking that he started using 'we.' We could do this, or 'We could do that.'"

In a chapter called "Dan Rather's Dilemma," Ms. Matusow details the rivalry between Rather and former CBS political correspondent Roger Mudd, candidates to inherit the prestigious job of CBS evening news anchor upon Cronkite's retirement.

Mudd, who later left CBS for NBC, is described as an intellectual, "something of a patrician (who) moves comfortably among Washington's political and social elite"... a man "considerably less driven than Rather, putting home and family ahead of the demands of the job."

Mudd's secretary, Laura Donnelly, said Mudd had no comment on the book because he had not read it.

Rather is described by the author as excessively polite to colleagues, a "hard-driving tireless worker who has put almost everything in his life second to his career."

"The first thing that strikes most people about Rather is the care with which he has cultivated his image," Ms. Matusow writes. "His suits are tailor-made in London by the same house that used to outfit Edward R. Murrow. The silk ties and pocket handkerchiefs match. Preoccupied with his looks, he is always immaculately groomed and barbered, often trying out new hairstyles."

Ramona Dunn, a spokeswoman for CBS, said Rather had not read the book and had no comment.

Ms. Matusow described Walter Cronkite as a man with a "fanatical competitiveness" and a "super-sized ego." "He loved being on camera, so much so that his colleagues considered him an air-hog," she wrote.

She continued: "Yet he was an excellent leader... capable of inspiring great loyalty and affection. The people who worked for him felt privileged: like members of an elite military outfit, they knew they were the best."

Two efforts to reach Cronkite, who was away on vacation, were unsuccessful.

LONGHORN COLLECTION — Two women admire a display in the Heritage Museum while rows of longhorns tower over their heads. Museum board members negotiated with the longhorn owners to keep the unique display in Big Spring.

Longhorn Collection result of special deal by owners

The 54-set Longhorn Collection, recently added to the Howard County Heritage Museum in conjunction with the 50th Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, did not just fall into the museum's hands — the museum actively pursued acquisition of the collection.

Heritage Museum board President Wade Choate said the 54-year-old collection was on its way to a Fort Worth museum when museum directors here learned of the move.

"We wanted to try and keep them here," Choate said.

The horns were collected by the late H. C. Clay Read, a Howard County rancher, and his son Earle from 1929 through about 1965. The collection passed to Mr. and Mrs. Simon Terrazas who kept them in the Doll Museum at the corner of Gregg and Third Street.

"Due to bad health, they were selling out the museum," Choate said. "It came to our attention a Fort Worth museum was trying to buy the horns."

Choate and local historian Joe Pickle entered into three months of negotiations with the Terrazas for a gift purchase arrangement on the longhorns.

Since the couple also wanted to keep the horns in the county, a lowered price of $15,000 was agreed on by both parties. Choate pointed out a single set of good horns in 1965 sold for $250 — making the collection worth nearly $14,000 18 years ago.

The purchase of the longhorn collection — thought to be the largest in the nation — is part of the Heritage Museum board's move to expand and upgrade the facility's services, Choate said. The board is also seeking a full-time curator to run the museum.

"The longhorns should be quite a tourist attraction," Choate said.

CHANNELVIEW, Texas (AP) — A woman whose daughter was suspended twice from a high school drill team because of her weight is challenging the rule she says has driven some girls to make themselves sick.

Barbara Blackstock's 15-year-old daughter, Laura, exceeded the weight limit for her height three times in the past year. Laura is nearly 5-foot-6 inches tall and, under the team rules, may weigh no more than 130.

Mrs. Blackstock, who has another daughter on the Channelview High School drill team, has asked the Texas Board of Education to intervene with the school board in this southeastern Texas community. She has also asked the American Civil Liberties Union to challenge the rule.

Paralyzed doctor fights to hold on to practice

LORDSBURG, N.M. (AP) — Robert North is paralyzed from the neck down. He is also a practicing physician.

"I might even be the only practicing quadriplegic physician in the world, but what's the big deal?" the soft-spoken, 36-year-old family doctor said from his wheelchair after examining an infant suffering from tonsillitis.

North's car veered off a Southern California highway in November and pitched down a cliff. The accident broke a bone in North's neck, leaving him almost totally disabled. He can move only his head freely. He has limited arm movement and no use of his hands.

The thin, blue-eyed doctor has a way of talking about his ordeal that makes it seem as if he is doing nothing out of the ordinary. Fears, however, underlie his calm. Hard economic times for the local mines, along with his physical debilities, have the general practitioner scared.

"Depression is a problem. I've done a lot of crying," he said, taking a draw from a cigarette strapped to his right index finger by a plastic clothespin and rubber band. "My business now is borderline."

The economic downturn and some patients' doubts about his capabilities have cut his business in half, North said. "I used to treat 20, maybe 30 patients a day. Now, I'm lucky to get 10."

North's wife, Stephanie, 31, a registered nurse, helps him from the moment he awakens until night, when he is moved from his wheelchair into bed. She also fears that he may lose his practice.

"It's gotten worse, not better," she said.

When she heard about her husband's accident, Mrs. North was seven months pregnant with their second child and 600 miles from the San Diego hospital where North lay in critical condition.

Two church members drove her to San Diego. On the long ride Mrs. North, who had considered herself an agnostic, said she "converted to Christianity." By the time she arrived, her prayers were answered — North was alive, but preliminary tests indicated paralysis from the neck down.

North knew his prognosis was poor. "The first time I had my diagnosis, I didn't have trouble understanding it," he said. "I knew I wouldn't walk again and that it wasn't going to go away."

North and his wife had had a fairly-tale life until the accident. After his graduation in 1979 from the University of Southern California medical school, they moved to Taos, which turned out to have an over-supply of doctors. Liking New Mexico's sunshine, they settled in Lordsburg, a two-doctor town of 5,000 on the Southern Pacific railroad line.

North hung a shingle in Doc Baxter's office — Baxter had retired recently after a lifetime of serving Lordsburg — and attracted a stream of clients. The couple bought a home on 400 acres of scrubland and with their first child moved into their dream house.

"We really seemed to be living the American dream," Mrs. North said, clutching their 2-year-old daughter, Mia, whom North delivered.

The crash smashed the dream. Mrs. North said after they had returned home from the hospital, "it hit us, what we were up against.

North was uninsured. His bills after two weeks of hospitalization were $25,000. In January, their second daughter, Loren, was born at home. A midwife helped deliver the baby while North lay on the next bed.

Mounting debts and no income soon forced North to close his clinic in nearby Animas, sell their home and move into town.

But Lordsburg rallied around the Norths, and despite tough times, raised almost $4,000 to help buy a $7,000 electric wheelchair.

"We didn't even know some of these people, but they still gave from their heart for Robert," Mrs. North said.

The Norths work as a team, and two aides help run the office. North diagnoses patients but calls in a physician's assistant to do the tasks he can no longer perform.

"I can still accurately diagnose many problems. I can listen to anything, but because I can't do anything with my hands, I need someone else to hold the instruments," North said.

Midstate's troubles began in mid-May when a national airline computer misplaced a decimal point and listed the fare for a flight from LaCrosse, Wis., to Austin, Texas, via Minneapolis at one-tenth the actual price.

A travel agency in Neillsville, a central Wisconsin community of 2,700, began selling the fares at the bargain rate. A man stopped in one morning, heard employees discussing the fare, and by that afternoon the agency was swamped with reservations.

Liz Crusan, an airline spokeswoman, says Midstate will honor for one year the approximately 400 reservations made before the airline caught the mistake June 20.

In Austin, city officials are going to take advantage of the expected influx of Wisconsin visitors. Two teen-age girls — the first to make the trip — are to be greeted by Mayor Ron Mullen at the airport Thursday.

The girls will be given gifts and keys to the city before being escorted to their hotel, said Ted White, director of tourism for the Austin Chamber of Commerce.

"We're going to have a little fun with this," White said. "We think this is a very interesting thing, and we're going to do some things for them."

Computer foul-up lowers plane fare

NEILLSVILLE, Wis. (AP) — About 400 people landed a $64.80 roundtrip fare from Wisconsin to Texas on Midstate Airline before officials discovered that the price was the flight of computer fancy — a decimal point foul-up.

The price should have been $648.

Midstate's troubles began in mid-May when a national airline computer misplaced a decimal point and listed the fare for a flight from LaCrosse, Wis., to Austin, Texas, via Minneapolis at one-tenth the actual price.

A travel agency in Neillsville, a central Wisconsin community of 2,700, began selling the fares at the bargain rate. A man stopped in one morning, heard employees discussing the fare, and by that afternoon the agency was swamped with reservations.

Mother hopes new implant will allow daughter to hear

CLEVELAND, Texas (AP) — Patti McLelland has seen her name but never heard it.

The five-year-old girl was born with profound nerve deafness. But her mother hopes that in 10 days, an experimental procedure will bring her daughter out of silence.

Linda McLelland is a divorcee raising Patti and her 9-year-old brother, Preston, alone. For years, Mrs. McLelland feared Patti would never be able to hear, because she did not have the $12,000 necessary for the new surgical procedure.

Thanks to friends and relatives who sponsored a fund-raising drive for Patti, she will receive a cochlear implant — a dime-sized, experimental device in the bone behind her ear, which will be hooked up to a small box that contains a tiny microphone and signal processor.

"She writes and signs her name, but she has never heard it," said Mrs. McLelland, in an interview published in Sunday's Houston Chronicle. "She has never even heard her own voice, her own laughter."

"I want her to hear all that. But most of all, I want her to hear — not see — me say, 'I love you.'"

The sounds will not be distinct, but will resemble the sound of a radio that is not properly tuned. But it will be sound, something Patti never has experienced. She is the third Texas child to undergo the experimental procedure.

Mrs. McLelland said she tried to get funds for the operations, but her efforts were rejected by insurance carriers, banks and three major charities — the United Way, Easter Seals and the March of Dimes.

"I was told they just didn't have a program that would fit her. I was at a dead end," she said.

She finally turned to friends and family here in her hometown, and got a hearing from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, where her father, Denman Wilson, belongs.

He was the first person to discover Patti's illness, when she was 15 months old, and says he is thrilled that his VFW post can now help Patti hear.

Once the VFW post began to sponsor Patti's cause, Mrs. McLelland said, other civic groups and town members became aware of the problem and began chipping in, holding turkey shoots, barbecues, dances, auctions and a rodeo.

In less than four months, more than $16,000 was raised for Patti's operation.

"The town of Cleveland has worked together and pulled together for Patti," said VFW commander George E. Hughes, whose post won a national VFW award for its efforts.

And after the initial surgery, one of Mrs. McLelland's insurance companies also unexpectedly sent a check to cover part of the cost, she said.

If any funds remain, Mrs. McLelland said she will start a fund to help other children with her daughter's problem.

"I don't want anybody else to go through the agony that I went through," she said.

Dr. H. Edward Maddox III of Houston is the only surgeon in Texas who does the implant surgery, said Mrs. McLelland.

Rogers wins silver medal

EDMONTON, Alberta — Five birds and 20-year-old Russian Demetri Monakove were the only things that stood between Kelly Rogers and a gold medal here Sunday.

Monakove hit 182 of 200 targets, five more than Rogers, to win the junior men's title at the World Moving Targets Championships.

The former Big Spring High student recorded a 177x200 total for three days of competition to finish second among the juniors and 11th overall among 74 contestants from 19 nations.

Rogers hit 71 of his 75 targets during Friday's opening round to lead his Russian opponent by two birds. Under cold, rainy and windy (gusts up to 60 mph) condition Saturday morning, he could manage only a sub-par 61x75 which included two rounds of 19.

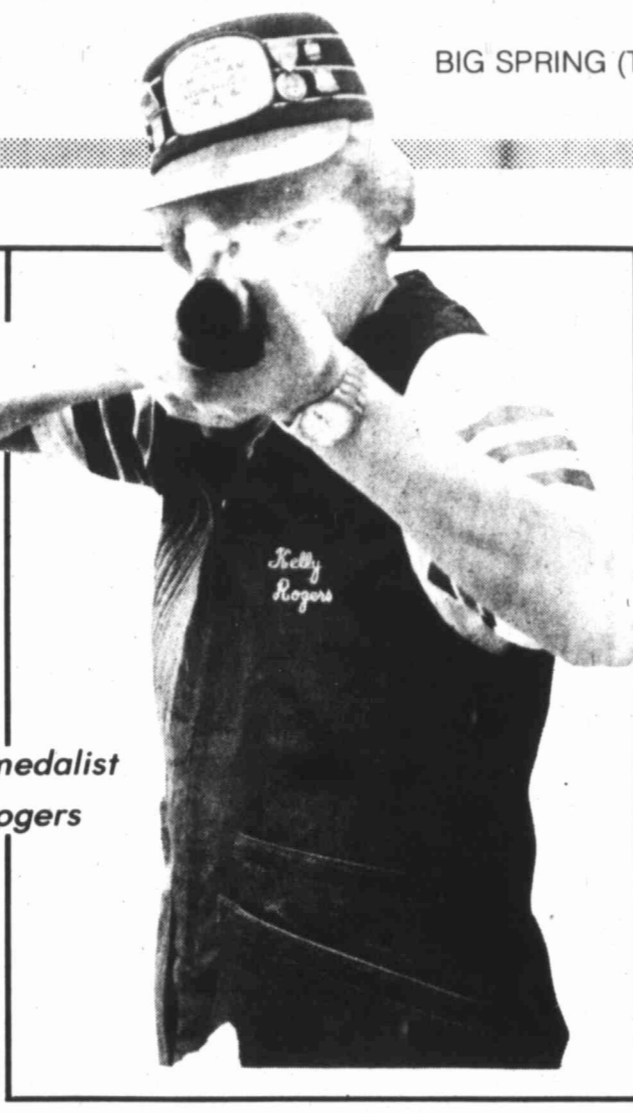

Monakove was able to make up four birds on Rogers and the Texan shooter was not able to recover on Sunday's final round of 75 targets. He hit 45 of 50 targets on the final day.

Frenchman Charles Guelpa was third among the 13 junior shooters with a 173x200 total.

The silver medal is the second such award for Rogers this year. Earlier he shot his way to a runner-up finish at the Benito Juarez Championships in Mexico City, also representing the United States.

Rogers earned his trip to Canada by winning the American junior title at the 23rd U.S. International Shooting Championships at Fort

Silver medalist Kelly Rogers

Benning, Ga. Washington's Jay Waldron, the second place finisher in Georgia, was fifth at the Edmonton world championships.

The United States and Russia battled throughout the three-day Canadian meet. Danny Carlisle, an Army sharpshooter from Fort Benning, recorded a 187x200 to finish behind Canada's John Primrose (188x200) in the men's division while Connie Tomsovik of San Diego hit 177 of 200 birds to capture the gold in the women's division. Finishing behind both Carlisle and Tomsovik were Russian shooters.

The United States men's and women's three-person teams won gold medals, edging their runner-up Russian counterparts for first place.

The Edmonton shoot was the last for Monakove as a junior — shooters 21 years of age and older must compete in the men's division. The 18-year-old Rogers, wrapping up his first full year of international style competition, has two more years to shoot as a junior.

Immediately after the shoot, Rogers flew to Colorado Springs for the annual Sports Festival in which he will be competing against other American trapshooters.

Shocker!

Hard-serving Curren stuns Connors

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — It has been a surprising Wimbledon Tennis Championships from the start. And the surprises keep coming.

It's been a Wimbledon full of sunshine for the most part, with only one day's play held up by rain. That contrasts completely with last year, when daily downpours put the tournament at one point more than 200 matches behind.

It's been a surprising Wimbledon for the "old folks" — 39-year-old Billie Jean King, making her second straight trip to the women's quarter-finals, and 37-year-old Virginia Wade, Britain's last winner here in 1977 and its last hope this year.

Wimbledon '83

And it's been a surprising Wimbledon for the 1974 champions — Chris Evert Lloyd and Jimmy Connors. Not a happy Wimbledon — just a surprising one.

"I am surprised that Connors was beaten," said John McEnroe, now strongly favored to capture his second Wimbledon crown. "But it does not make my path any easier, whatsoever."

While Connors, the defending men's champion and the No. 1 seed, was falling to the rocket-serving Kevin Curren of South Africa 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, 7-6 Monday, McEnroe moved into the quarters with a hard-fought 7-5, 7-6, 7-6 victory over Bill Scanlon.

McEnroe next faces Sandy Mayer, while Curren will take on 16th-seeded Tim Mayotte. Mayer stopped Mike Leach 6-1, 7-6, 6-1 and Mayotte eliminated "lucky loser" John McCurdy of Australia 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

In Monday's matches, played in autumn-like weather, seeded players fell like leaves on a September morn.

Besides Connors, No. 13 Brian Gottfried was victimized by Purcell 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 in men's play, while women's seeds to tumble were No. 7 Wendy Turnbull, No. 8 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, No. 12 Virginia Ruzici of Romania, No. 15 Kathy Rinaldi and No. 16 Claudia Kohde of West Germany.

King, who has won a record 20 Wimbledon titles in 21 years of play on these famed grass courts and who surprisingly reached the semi-finals a year ago, ousted Turnbull 7-5, 6-3; Navratilova defeated Kohde 6-1, 6-2; Mundel eliminated Mandlikova 5-7, 6-4, 6-4; Vermaak downed Ruzici 6-3, 6-2, and Jordan ousted Rinaldi 6-2, 6-4.

In other matches, Wade downed West Germany's Eva Pfaff 3-6, 7-6, 7-5; Potter stopped Lisa Bonder 7-5, 6-4 and Jaeger outlasted Canada's Carling Bassett in a baseline duel, 6-4, 6-3.

In men's singles, it was Lendl over Pat Cash of Australia 6-4, 7-6, 6-1; Tanner over Robert Van't Hof 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 and Lewis over Nigeria's Nduka Odizor 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

In 1974, Connors and Chris Evert captured the singles titles here and the hearts of tennis fans everywhere. They were dating and much was made of the "love match." But, later, Connors was to marry a former Playboy model and Chris married John Lloyd, then Britain's No. 1 player.

On Friday, Lloyd's streak of reaching the semi-finals of every Grand Slam tournament she had ever entered was snapped by Jordan. Then, on Monday, Curren's powerful serves snapped Connors' bid for a third Wimbledon crown.

The South African blasted an amazing 33 aces past Connors, considered the player with the best return of service in the game. The raw power of the former University of Texas star left Connors shell-shocked, and the world's No. 2 player immediately left the grounds of the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club, skipping the mandatory postmatch interview with the media.

Not once could Connors break Curren's serve, a feat not yet accomplished in the first four rounds of this fortnight-long tournament.

But even with Connors gone, McEnroe doesn't feel as if he has a lock on the title.

"Curren has always been a dangerous player on grass," McEnroe said. "Sandy Mayer has a good grass game. Tanner has proven himself here in the past and is a grass court player."

"Purcell is a bit of a surprise (and) no one ever expected (No. 4 Guillermo) Vilas or (No. 7 Jose Luis) Clerc to make it, so someone had to be in their place."

Sampson, ho-hum, goes first

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the 7-foot-4 All-American from the University of Virginia, became the No. 1 pick today in the National Basketball Association draft when he was taken by the Houston Rockets.

Sampson, a three-time collegiate Player of the Year, will be counted on to reverse the fortunes of the Rockets. They had the league's worst record last season, 14-68, after going to the NBA championship finals in 1981.

Sampson is believed to be on a par with top collegiate centers Bill Walton, who was drafted by Portland in 1974, and Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar), the first choice of Milwaukee in 1969.

The choice of Sampson, who averaged 19.0 points and 11 rebounds per game for Virginia last season, was no surprise. The Rockets were assured of the No. 1 pick — and immediately confirmed that he was their man — when they won a coin flip with the Indiana Pacers on May 19.

The Pacers, who had the second-worst record in the NBA after Houston, took 6-foot-11 Steve Stipanovich of Missouri with the second pick of the first round.

Stipanovich averaged 18.4 points and 8.8 rebounds per game in his senior season at Missouri.

RALPH SAMPSON ...first pick of Rockets

The Rockets also had the third pick, acquired in the trade that sent three-time NBA Most Valuable Player Moses Malone to Philadelphia. Houston used that selection to take 6-7½ forward Rodney McCray of Louisville.

McCray only averaged 11 points a game last season, but he was a rugged rebounder and defender and a top-notch passer. The Rockets hope he'll be able to get the ball inside to Sampson.

The San Diego Clippers, with the No. 4 pick in the opening round, selected Byron Scott, a 6-3 guard from Arizona State. Scott was the first undergraduate selected this year after seven of the first nine picks a year ago were early-entry players.

The Chicago Bulls took 6-9 forward Sidney Green of Nevada-Las Vegas, who averaged 22.1 points and 11.9 rebounds for the Runnin' Rebels.

The sixth pick belonged to Golden State and the Warriors took Purdue's 6-10 center, Russell Cross, projected as a forward in the pros.

The Utah Jazz had the seventh selection and went for Thurl Bailey, a 6-11 forward from 1983 NCAA champion North Carolina State.

Next to pick were the Detroit Pistons, who went for Antoine Carr, a high-scoring 6-9 forward from Wichita State.

The Dallas Mavericks, picking No. 9 in the first round, went for Dale Ellis, Tennessee's 6-7 forward.

The Washington Bullets used the first round's 10th pick to take Jeff Malone, a 6-4 guard from Mississippi State.

The Mavericks, with their second pick in the opening round, acquired from Cleveland in a trade several years ago, selected Derek Harper, a 6-4 Illinois guard.

Hu Na makes return to tennis

Former No. 1 Chinese player gains experience in defeat

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Hu Na, who wanted political freedom when she sought political asylum in the United States as China's No. 1 woman tennis player, got something else she wanted in losing her first competition since defecting.

"She came here just for getting experience and nothing but getting experience," said Bob Huang, her coach and interpreter. "Win or lose, as we know, you can get some experience and learn from your loss."

The slim, black-haired Miss Hu was eliminated from the U.S. Tennis Association Women's Circuit of Erie Monday night by 17-year-old Claudia Hernandez, who won 6-1, 1-6, 6-1.

In a joint interview with the two amateurs after their indoor match the Westwood Racquet Club, Hu apparently did not say what it was she learned from the loss.

Through her coach, however, the 5-foot-8, 125-pound athlete said that since she is not entered in doubles competition, she may leave the tournament early to resume practice, perhaps in Chicago.

Hernandez, ranked second among women in Mexico, advanced in the $10,000 stop on the USTA circuit.

Hu's defection last July at the Federation Cup in Santa Clara, Calif., was an embarrassment to China's Communist government, which canceled all sports and cultural exchanges with the United States for the rest of the year when the U.S. Justice Department granted her request for asylum in April.

After practicing in Bradenton, Fla., she chose to resume competition in Erie, hoping that press coverage of Wimbledon would lessen attention to herself.

But she has been hounded by reporters and photographers since arriving here Saturday.

"It didn't bother her. She likes the press," Huang said. "She did not have any excuse for her loss."

A LEARNING EXPERIENCE ...Hu Na loses in trial match Monday

Hernandez said she was wary of playing Hu because of the intense interest in her.

"When I arrived here and I saw all this press, I said maybe I hope not to play against her," said Hernandez, the seventh of eight seeded players for the tournament.

"Even if this is not pressure on me, it's pressure on (her), so I was the lucky one to play against her," she said.

"This is just great for the USTA's Women's Circuit. It calls attention to a whole class of players struggling just below the elite of tennis," said tournament director Frank Clark.

About 20 countries are represented in the tournament, which runs through Saturday.

Borg-Bush win tennis exhibition

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Vice President George Bush teamed with tennis star Bjorn Borg to defeat former Swedish Davis Cup anchor Jan-Erik Lundkvist and Sweden's Washington ambassador Wilhelm Wachtmeister 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 Tuesday.

Lundkvist and Wachtmeister broke the vice president's serve twice to take the first set. But Borg took command in the second set, hitting the ball harder and showing glimpses from his old arsenal of precise baseline shots that sizzled past the opponents.

For Bush, a dedicated tennis amateur who plays twice a week, it was a dream-come-true to play with the legendary Swede who quit tennis after winning Wimbledon five times. "The thrill of a lifetime," Bush told The Associated Press afterward. "You want me to analyze his game? In one word — fantastic. Anybody that can carry me has got to be good, I tell you."

But Bush was not bad either, considering his age. He is 59. "I think he played very well," the 27-year-old Borg said. "He was good at the net and after a while (my) ground strokes got going so in the three sets we played we had many good shots."

Bandits, rain wash away Gold, 26-23

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa Bay's rain-soaked victory over the Denver Gold kept the Bandits in the United States Football League playoff chase, but the club will still need outside help to reach post-season play.

"We're too good a team to be out of the playoffs," wide receiver Danny Buggs said Monday night after a 26-23 triumph kept Tampa Bay's hopes alive and boosted the team into a three-way tie for the Central Division lead.

But Coach Steve Spurrier's 11-6 troops have won only two of their last five games, and now must win at Birmingham on Saturday and hope division rivals Chicago and Michigan, both also 11-6, lose their regular season finales at home against Oakland and Arizona, respectively.

"We know now that all we can do is go out and win (against Birmingham). We can't control what the other teams do," said Tampa Bay linebacker Paul Piurowski. "If they don't help us, we're out of the picture. If that doesn't happen, then that's how people will remember it, and that's it."

The Bandits got some help in the form of the weather Monday night. Denver, which trailed 15-0 in the first quarter, led 23-18 with 8:32 left in the fourth when officials interrupted the game for 50 minutes because of a violent thunderstorm.

When play resumed, the scoreboard clock was inoperative but Tampa Bay wasted little time erasing their deficit — striking for the winning touchdown on the second play after the delay.

Jimmy Jordan, who replaced John Reaves at quarterback in the second half, teamed with wide receiver Eric Truvillion on a 44-yard scoring play. It was Truvillion's 14th touchdown reception — tops in the league.

Spurrier said he suggested a game official order the teams into the dressing room when it started thundering and lightning. But, he added, "it was the official who made the decision."

Tampa Bay, meanwhile, used the break to regroup and decided they'd try to burn the Gold secondary with one of four pass plays after the delay. A stop-and-go pattern involving Truvillion was at the top of the list.

The Gold, which lost for just the second time in five games since Morton replaced Red Miller, overcame their early deficit and built a 23-15 lead as Harry Sydney scored on runs of 1 and 2 yards.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good day for you to do those things of a talented nature which are original and progressive. You are able to express yourself far better than you have been for some time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take some time for recreation in the company of unusual persons today. Don't neglect paying bills and making collections.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch with those in authority who are progressive. Then get your career working along more modern trends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A fine day for going to new sites, meeting interesting people etc. Add new interests to present ones. Use good judgment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Confer with experts and learn about new systems to use in business. The one you love most is in a fine mood.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some outside situation is applicable to your own way of life. Be more confident in your business dealings with partners.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have a talk with co-workers and exchange good ideas with them. Make sure you rest after a rather hard day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Bring out more of your latent talents and express them well in the world of commerce. Spend money to make money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go over any problematical affairs at home with family and find the right solution for them. Entertain friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact those who can assist you and state your aims. Be ready to serve others as well for greater benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A brilliant person who uses fine strategy can be of assistance to you now. Be happy at home with your loved one tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are so dynamic and talented today that almost anything you tackle meets with success. Socialize this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into the privacy of your study and analyze annoying problems. Show much devotion for loved ones this evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will become very powerful and prominent in the emerging new Age provided that the education is adequate and is obtained at the most modern schools. Permit self-expression, even if radically different.

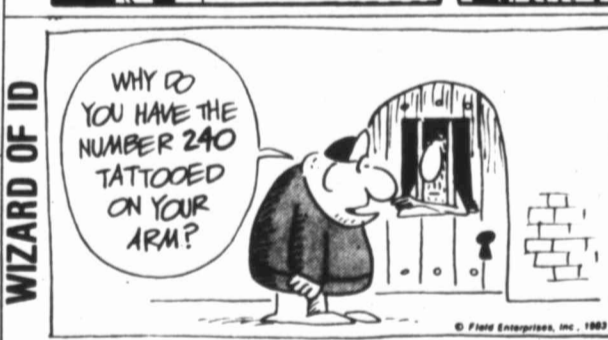

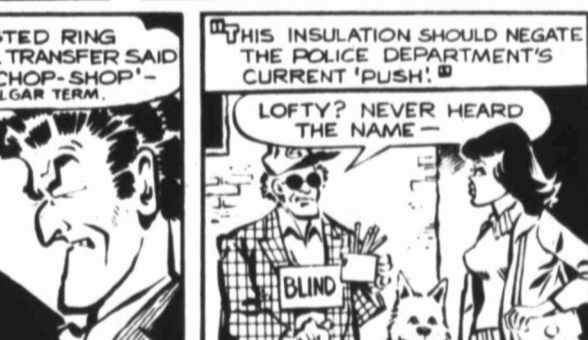

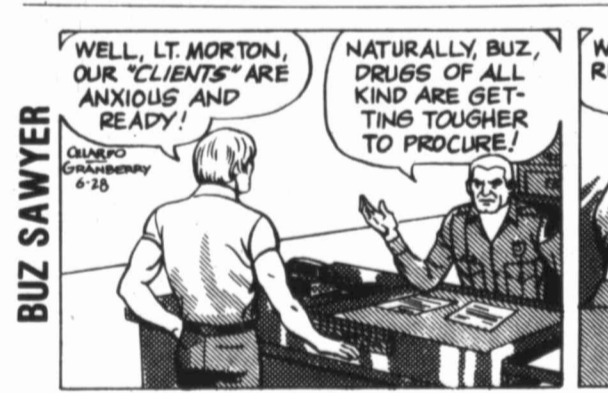

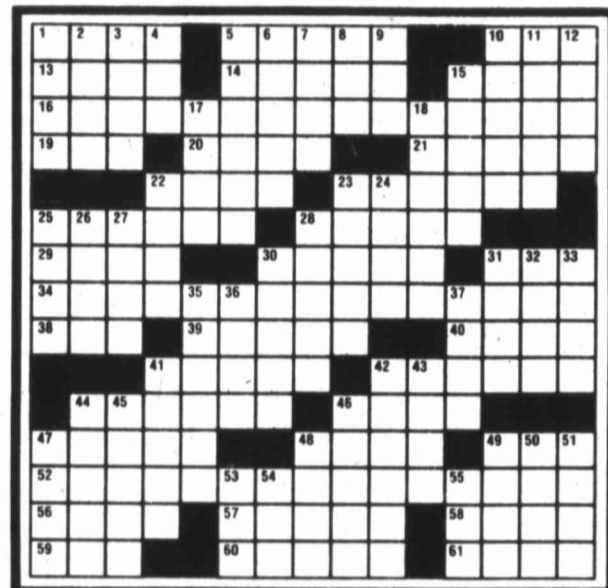

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Nation's top swimmers could skip Olympics

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Giant-killer Bill Barrett scored his second victory over a favored opponent and Michelle Richardson and Jeff Kostoff each won their third gold medals as swimming competition concluded at the National Sports Festival with upbeat performances and some downbeat prophecies.

Barrett became the third prominent U.S. swimmer to express a desire to retire before the 1984 Olympics. Steve Lundquist and Rowdy Gaines earlier said they had grave doubts about whether they wanted to continue training for another year.

But Barrett also conceded that his victory Monday night in the 100-meter freestyle — in a festival-record time of 51.30 seconds — might give him the momentum he needs to carry over into 1984.

Barrett, 23, of Los Angeles went out fast and held off Gaines, who finished a close second. Barrett's time shaved .28 seconds off the old record, and was all the more incredible since it came at the Air Force Academy's 7,250-foot elevation which generally places swimmers at a disadvantage.

Barrett, who won the 200 individual medley on Saturday, beating Lundquist, said he hopes to make the Pan American Team in August. "Then I'll decide whether to swim toward 1984," he said. "If I continue to progress as I have this year, I'll probably continue."

Sports Festival

Richardson, 14, of Miami, Fla., claimed her third festival gold medal by capturing the 1,500-meter freestyle, while Kostoff, 17, of Upland, Calif., also made it a triple by winning the men's event at the same distance. Kostoff was named the festival's outstanding swimmer.

Another meet record fell Monday night in speed skating. Bonnie Blair, a 21-year-old from Champaign, Ill., who is considered America's best bet for an Olympic speed-skating medal next winter, won the women's 500 meters in 50.99 seconds, blitzing the old mark set by Lydia Stephens at last year's festival.

Stephens won the women's 1,500 meters, while Patrick Moore of Niles, Ill., won the men's 1,500 and Dave Pavlicic of Florissant, Mo., took the men's 500.

The South, behind Tree McClain's game-high 16 points, assured itself of a berth in the women's basketball championship game with a 101-86 victory over the East. McClain, from Charleston, S.C., also had 10 rebounds for the unbeaten South. In the nightcap, the West, behind 20 points from Cindy Brown, upset the North, 107-90. Tina Hutchinson scored 25 for the losers.

EXPERTISE IN ENGINES AND ENGINE REPAIR
...Jerold Cox displays some of the stock

Let Hall's meet your engine needs

There are a great many repairs and a lot of maintenance that need to be made to an engine during its lifetime.

Owner Jerold Cox has over 25 years experience in engine repair, and he knows exactly what will work best for your engine.

Hall's Air-Cooled Engines, at 598 Gregg St., is the place to go with your needs. They work on all types of engines — for lawnmowers, garden tillers, riding mowers and many other types of small engine repair and other types of small gasoline engines.

Hall's is operated by Jerold and Betty Cox. They sell and service Briggs and Stratton, Tecumseh, Kohler, Snapper and Toro engines. You can also find chainsaws.

Hall's has been open since September. Their hours are 8-6 Monday through Friday and 8-noon on Saturday.

Angels win No. 1, tie Texas for first

By The Associated Press
All's well in California now that Bruce Kison is back.

Kison, who began the day on the disabled list, threw seven sparkling innings Monday night as the Angels blanked the Texas Rangers 8-0.

"I wanted to go and try to pick up where I had left off," said Kison, who allowed just two hits in his first outing in a month. Kison, 7-1, had won five straight games before he was shelved with back spasms. At that point, California was three games on top of the American League West.

Since that time, however, the Angels had meandered through a 13-14 month. With Monday night's victory, California moved into a tie with Texas for first place in the division.

American League

"He surprised me and certainly pleased me," said California catcher Bob Boone. "He went about it like he'd never been out."

Kison gave up a one-out double to Mickey Rivers in the first inning, a leadoff single to George Wright in the second and then pitched hitless ball for the rest of his stint.

California Manager John McNamara had planned on letting Kison throw 90 pitches, and the right-hander was pulled after issuing his only three walks of the game in the seventh inning, which gave him 94 pitches.

Luis Sanchez retired all six batters he faced to nail down the victory.

The Angels won by beating Rick Honeycutt, who came into the game with a five-game winning streak and was leading the AL with a 1.45 earned run average.

Ron Jackson, who had three singles, put California ahead 1-0 in the third inning with a run-scoring single. Boone's sacrifice fly drove in an unearned run in the fourth and chased Honeycutt, 10-4, in the fifth on Fred Lynn's RBI single and Bob Grich's run-producing groundout.

Grich singled in a seventh-inning run off reliever Jon Matlack and Ellis Valentine drilled a three-run homer, his sixth, in the eighth.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3

Butch Wynegar spent most of the day attending his father-in-law's funeral in Minnesota. He returned to Yankee Stadium at night and drove in the winning run with a single with two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning.

Wynegar, who was 0-for-4 and had grounded into two double plays, drove a full-count delivery from Tim Stoddard, 3-2, off the right-field wall to score Don Baylor, who was running from first base on the pitch.

New York had tied it in the ninth with an unearned run. Lou Piniella singled off Tippy Martinez and went to second when left fielder Al Bumbry misplayed the ball for an error. One out later, Steve Kemp singled in Piniella.

The loss allowed the idle Toronto Blue Jays to move into first place in the AL East, one-half game ahead of the Orioles.

White Sox 7, Mariners 4

Julio Cruz, making his first appearance in Seattle's Kingdome since being traded from the Mariners to Chicago earlier this month, cracked an RBI single in the seventh inning to snap a 4-4 tie.

Greg Walker added a two-run single later in the inning to insure the White Sox victory.

Ron Kittle's league-leading 18th homer, a three-run blast, gave Chicago a 4-1 lead in the third.

Richie Zisk doubled in a Seattle run in the first inning and belted a solo homer, his seventh, in the third.

A's 7, Royals 1

Ben Callahan, making his first start in the majors, pitched six strong innings as Oakland broke a six-game losing streak.

Chris Codiroli, knocked out of the starting rotation by Callahan, relieved the rookie and got his first save.

Don Slaught singled in Kansas City's run in the seventh, but the A's put the game away by scoring five times in the eighth, three on Lansford's double.

Bucs down Cards

By The Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals played one of those knock-down, drag-out baseball games, with even a long shower thrown in.

It finally came down to a rookie pitcher who could throw the ball over the plate — not at the batter's head.

National League

"He's outstanding. He's got good control. He throws them strikes, that's the main thing," said catcher Tony Pena of batterymate Cecilio Guante following Monday night's 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Guante entered the game after starter John Candelaria was ejected for sailing a pitch over the head of Joaquin Andujar, 3-11. The pitch by Candelaria was in apparent retaliation to a beanball thrown by Andujar at Pittsburgh's Marvella Wynne in the top of the third that triggered a flow of players from both benches onto the field. A thunderstorm in the top of the fifth inning suspended play for two hours and 20 minutes as the Pirates were handing the Cardinals their seventh straight setback.

Expos 3, Cubs 1

Warren Cromartie socked a tie-breaking single and Gary Carter added a run-scoring double as Montreal scored a pair of eighth-inning runs to defeat Chicago behind Charlie Lea's five-hitter. Cromartie singled to produce the go-ahead run and one out later, Cromartie scored as Carter doubled off reliever Warren Brusstar.

Lea, 6-3, completed his third straight game and fourth this season. He walked two batters and struck out six.

Braves 2, Reds 1

Pascual Perez hurled a five-hitter and Brett Butler and Rafael Ramirez slugged home runs as Atlanta nipped Cincinnati for a sweep of their five-game series.

Perez, 9-2, struck out six and walked only one to out-duel Mario Soto, 9-6. Soto gave up four hits and struck out 10 in eight innings, tying Steve Carlton for the major-league lead in strikeouts with 117.
