X-15 Space Craft To Carry Self-Contained Atmosphere

Washington, D. C.—The U. S. Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have announced that when the high-powered X-15 space craft rockets into areas beyond earth's atmosphere, it will carry its own atmosphere in the form of liquid nitrogen in a significantly advanced pressurization and air conditioning system for the pilot and vital equipment. Produced by The Garrett Corporation's AlResearch Manufacturing Division, Los Angeles, the nitrogen system is a radical departure from normal pressurization and cooling precedures pioneered by AlResearch Manufacturing Division, Los Angeles, the nitrogen system is a radical departure from normal pressurization and cooling precedures pioneered by AlResearch which utilize outside air surrounding an aircraft.

The change in systems became necessary because the release of the plane's activated system the nitrogen will be applied as a spray, as well as being converted to gaseous state to meet the separate requirements of this variety of functions.

Because of excessive acceleration leads likely to be imposed by the X-15 or possible changes of the plane's attitude, it was approximately "300" F., will take over on the X-15. It will be used in vital areas to maintain adequate environmental pressure and to act as a cooling deterrent to excessive temperatures.

Among the reasons for use of liquid nitrogen in the AlResearch system, in addition to its refriserant qualities, are its lack of lire or explosive charneteristics, and the relative ease of maintaining it in a liquid state (doesn't easily vaporize).

Applications include pressurizing and ventilating the cockpit and the pilot's flight suiinside of which he breathes as being converted to gaseous state to meet the separate requirements of this variety of functions.

Because of excessive acceleration loads likely to be imposed by the X-16 or possible changes of the plane's attitude, it was necessary to apply a positive method of expulsion for the mitrogen, assuring a constant flow to needed areas.

Pressurised helium gas is used to expell the nitrogen. The helium is contained in a spherical chamber at 4,000 lbs. per square inch pressure. Before being applied to its task, the gas flows through a regulator and is reduced to an operating pressure of 70 lbs. per square inch affecearch's part in pressuring and cooling this historymaking aircraft follows a pattern inaugurated 20 years ago when the company led the aircraft industry in the development of pressuriation and, subsequently, refrigeration equipment for high altitude, high speed flight.

City Purchases More Park Land

Realizing, if the City of Baird and vicinity is to have proper Park facilities, additional land would be required, the City Council voted in October to acquire from L. G. Barnhill the land East of and adjoining the existing park. Mr. and Mrs. Barnhill in the interest of the betterment of their community consented to sell the land for a consideration of $1,900.00. The transaction has been completed and the land was paid for from finds remaining in the Park Fund, requiring no additional axes. Realizing, if the City of Baird

About Your Health .

Better be extra wary of that chicken or turkey you buy for Sunday dinner. Unless it carry an inspection tag you might get one that isn't fit to eat.

For the vast majority of Texans, odds have probably increased since January 1, that the bird they select will not have been inspected for wholesomeness.

This state of affairs developed when the federal government, effective on the first day of this year, made it mandatory that all poultry products shipped across a state line must first be checked for wholesomeness by a federal inspector.

What this means is obvious:
Texas poultry products which are not of sufficient quality to pass federal inspection and subsequent out-of-state marketing are going to be marketed at home.

Texas has no mandatory state-wide inspection law for poultry. Rather, it has legal provisions whereby a poultry plant can voluntarily—and that's the key work — arrange for inspection services and thereby win the right to attach an official legend of approval on wholesome birds. You're lucky if you hay m to live in Houston, Pecos, Wichita Falls, Midland, or Brenham, Of the first of the proposition of the first of the being victimized is by spelling out in ordinance the fact that all poultry sold within city limits must have been examined by federal, state, or local officials.

So-called "spot checks" won't do. Adequate, health protecting inspection of poultry means having a trained, full-time man in the plant.

Housewives shopping for poultry can tell if the bird they choose has been inspected by looking for a tag showing "Inspected and Passed" by the agency which made the check.

Don't mistake the large wing tag reading "Grade A" to mean the bird has been inspected for wholesomeness. It may or it may not.

Always look for the "Inspected and Passed" legend. This is the statement that protects your health by insuring inspections for wholesomeness under condi-tions of good sanitation. (A weekly public service feature from the State Health Depart-ment's Health Education Divi-siion.)

Tuesday (the 13th) and 58th Legislature convenes, bringing hundreds of new residents to the Capital City for five or six Months or more. Their arrival steps up demand in many areas—for rent houses, hotel rooms, catering services, typewriters and stenographers.

A week later comes the Inauguration of Gov. Price Dantel, with a parade, swearing-in ceremony, Capital reception and a multitude of balls and special parties.

Thereafter, if the usual pattern continues, there'il be more social activities for and by the visitors. Lawmakers' wives, separated from home-town friends and, often, from their husbands by long hours of debate and committee hearings, form their own luncheon clubs.

I visited a while Friday afternoon with Mrs. Laura Jobe and Mrs. Mary Ramsey.
Good morning this cold Monday. It is still freezing weather. I did not mind Alaska joining us, but don't like this cold weather. Hope we did not take on this cold weather, if we did. I'm ready to give it back to them.

Guess everyone is ready to get down to work now that the holidays are over. Kinda' hard to settle down again. I figure the first thing will be fixing bursted pipes if and when the weather, water works are frozen as we are not fixed for this kind of cold weather. Hope all the rats froze but no, could not have that good luck. I have not been trapping them this cold weather so guess we will have a lot when they get thawed out.

Mark Burnam visited with Tom Butler Sunday night while Oilie, Gayle and I went to church. We came back by after church and visited a while. His chickens are doing pretty good despite the weather.

Don't work too hard this week and be good. I'll be seein' you.
