America celebrates 207th birthday

By The Associated Press

Americans waded through acres of picnic goodies and watched tons of fireworks go up in smoke as they celebrated the Fourth of July weekend at beaches, parks, parades, fairs, festivals, concerts, contests, speeches and protests.

Not to mention those who stayed in their own back yards for the nation's 207th birthday.

EARS WERE ASSAULTED with the explosions of fireworks, shrieks of low-flying jets, blares and thumps of marching bands and hours of jazz, rock, folk, country and classical music.

There was everything from small-town firemen's breakfasts and cow chip-throwing contests to events expected to draw hundreds of thousands of people.

And there were whimsical, madcap events like the Kennebec River Whatever Race at Augusta, Maine, which had boats disguised as such things as a hot dog with bun, a gigantic sneaker and a pink elephant. Sunday's fifth annual race celebrates the clean water of the Kennebec, which until the late 1970s was unswimmable.

Thousands of anglers lashed the water of 28-mile-long Elephant Butte Reservoir in New Mexico hoping to hook one 11-pound striped bass carrying a tag worth $100,000.

The people of Midland, Pa., waited to see if the anonymous woman known only as Mrs. Calabash — who has donated $18,000 to feed the unemployed over the past year — would reveal her identity and take her place as marshal of the city's Fourth of July parade Monday.

AND A GRATEFUL Calvin Jones planned to shower his home of Winfield, W.Va., with 1,000 $1 bills from a helicopter Monday. "I hope each adult who catches a dollar bill gives it to a child and tells him this country is worth working and fighting for," said Jones, a father of three and grandfather of six.

Korean-American residents planned to donate $30,000 to cover half the cost of the nation's largest fireworks show Monday night in Washington, D.C., according to the National Parks Service. Korean karate master Jhoon Rhee, who conceived the idea, said it was intended as a show of appreciation.

Across the nation, 253 traffic fatalities were reported between 6 p.m. Friday and 10 p.m. Sunday. The National Safety Council said between

Death toll expected to exceed prediction

DALLAS (AP) — The death toll on Texas roads and highways has already topped 47, and officials say they are disappointed that the grim count is well on its way to exceeding the grim prediction of 49 traffic deaths during the three-day Fourth of July weekend.

Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd in Austin said the worst may be yet to come. "It appears now we will exceed our estimate of 49," said Todd. "Obviously, we are disappointed that we have had so many accidents. We know that the end of any three-day holiday can be a dangerous time as motorists head home."

Fourteen of the at least 47 deaths were pedestrians — a number of officials did not expect when they began the count Friday evening. The death toll counting period expires tonight at midnight.

"I think we've seen slightly more vehicle-pedestrian accidents than we normally see during a holiday period," said DPS spokesman David Wells in Austin. "So far we've seen 14. That accounts for about two out of five of the fatalities."

Seven of the deaths occurred during the four-hour period between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m., said Wells.

Among the latest fatalities reported to the DPS:

Prince McKenzie, 53, of Waco, was killed Sunday night when his car went out of control, crossing the highway north of Taylor twice before plunging through a fence and into the home of Olga Bills, who was struck and thrown into her television set, investigators said.

Ms. Bills was hospitalized in good condition.

Latschia McCullough, 6, of Avenger, and Tracy McCullough, 12, of Jefferson, were killed Sunday in a two-car, head-on collision at the intersection of two farm-to-market roads in Marion County.

Pedestrian Billy Paul Morgan, 29, of Edna was killed when struck by a car at 11:45 a.m. Sunday on U.S. 59 two miles east of Edna.

An unidentified male, age 44, was struck on an El Paso street Sunday morning by a motorist who sped from the scene. The man died at about 8:20 a.m. at an El Paso hospital, Wells said.

THERE I AM — Four members of the Big Spring High School class of 1968 point to distant familiar faces on a class graduation photo adorning the

Whatever happened to the class of 1968?

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

What does the Big Spring High School Class of 1968 remember about the turbulent Sixties — the hippie movement, the Vietnam war, protest music, the draft?

Judy (Abbe) Martin says rock music "said more back then." Bobby Polk recalls Vietnam was something no one was aware of. Junior Mendoza felt education was more important than the war. Bobby Plowman remembers no one got involved in the social strife of the times.

Over 200 graduates from the Big Spring class of 1968 gathered for its 15th reunion and a night of reminiscing at Dora Roberts Community Center Saturday.

Polk said he came back because he missed the 10th anniversary of the class.

Now an optometrist in Temple, Polk says his classmates were "immune" to world problems until college — when he was drafted.

"Nam was just something on the radio and the news," Polk said.

Polk was a big fan of the Beach Boys, a love picked up from older friends. Paul Revere and the Raiders and Neil Sedaka were two other favorites.

What about the classmates he has not seen for 15 years?

"Some I recognized right off the bat. See that guy without much hair over there? I just knew he would own a paving company by now," Polk said, pointing. "Somebody told me he's a farmer in Evant."

Mrs. Martin remembers being "a little West Texas girl just having a good time and being a senior." Now she lives in Austin as a technical writer.

Only a handful of her classmates "knew what was going on with social issues," she recalls. An school assembly about Vietnam was all she remembers.

What about the Sixties' rock music, the outlandish

Shaw shrugs off Observer grade

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw last week shrugged off comments in the June 24 issue of the liberal Texas Observer magazine which called his performance in the recent legislative session "disappointing."

"You have to take these things with a grain of salt," the Big Spring Democrat said in a telephone interview. "Of course, I would have preferred a good rating. These kind of things are good for the career. They make you reflect on what you've done."

Texas Observer said Shaw "is said to have statewide ambitions and did not do much to alienate anyone..." Shaw defended himself against the report, saying he maintained a good consumer record and worked closely with House Speaker Gib Lewis.

"I felt like I represented the district, and the district is not as liberal as the Texas Observer," Shaw said. The sophomore legislator said he received a good review from the magazine during the 1981 Legislature when he introduced his bill to aid Vietnam War veterans suffering from exposure to Agent Orange, a chemical defoliant.

"The glory part was over; the hard-core work was done this year," he said. Shaw's Agent Orange bill passed the Legislature in the regular session this year.

Shaw said although he disagreed with the criteria by which the magazine judged his performance, he was not angry with the publication of the article.

"Maybe the people that think I'm so liberal will think different now," he said.

State eyes Midland for juvenile center

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State juvenile justice officials are discussing establishing a statewide network of regional juvenile detention facilities, including one in Midland, to keep juvenile offenders out of county jails.

The existing Midland County facility, under preliminary plans, would be asked to take juveniles from Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties.

State officials don't have much choice but to plan. Beginning in December 1985, new federal legislation goes into effect that will prohibit juveniles from being kept in facilities that also house adult offenders.

That law, by U.S. Rep. Ike Andrews, D-North Carolina, was passed three years ago with a five-year styles?

Reunion revives old memories

"I still have my Beach Boys records and some Beatles — the Doors were getting big then," Mrs. Martin said. "The music was pretty radical for that time. 'Louie, Louie' I remember singing on the bus coming back from a volleyball game."

How have the old classmates turned out?

"The men have changed the most — some became farmers and ranchers that I didn't expect to. More stayed in Big Spring than I thought would."

What about her own memories of the Sixties?

"You shouldn't be held responsible for what happened before you are 30," she said with a laugh.

Plowman recalls the class was very close in the Sixties, so he came back from Denver, Col., to see some old friends.

What about the protests, the drug movement, the political involvement?

"No one was getting involved in that — I didn't know about drugs till I was in the Navy after high school," Plowman said.

One particular memory of graduation night for Plowman was a black eye from a collision with a door at a "pre-graduation celebration," he said laughing.

Mendoza traveled from California to make the reunion, but pointed out his folks still live here.

"It's not a sacrifice; this is still home," Mendoza said. "I'll never forget those times and this town."

Now an insurance salesman, Mendoza chose education over the military in 1968.

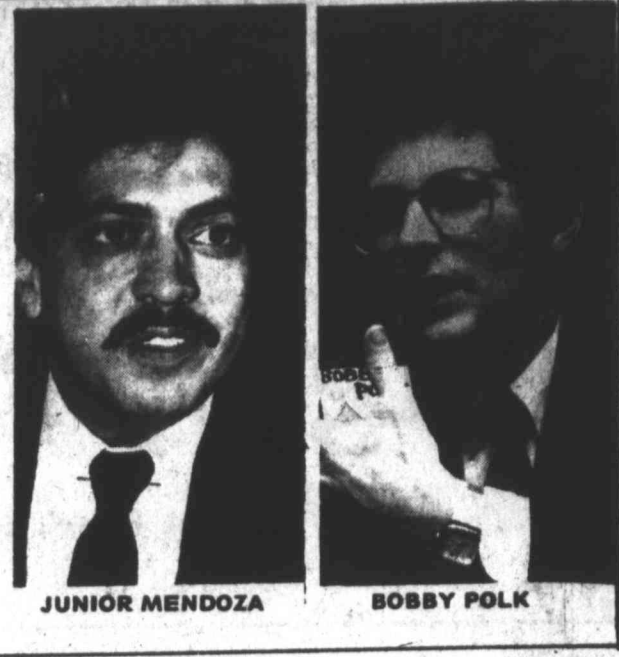

"In those years, I felt getting an education was the most important thing I could do for my country."

His hair was longer then, and he has special memories of one music group.

"The Beatles — there's something that did a lot for me," Mendoza said.

His old friends from 1968?

"Basically, everybody is the same. If you knew them then, that person is still there."

C-City notes record youth rodeo turnout

By the way, C-CITY — A Fredonia girl and a Crandell boy were top honorees at the American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo Saturday.

Bonnie Stevens was named All-Around Cowgirl for her skills in the ribbon roping and barrel racing events. Brian Roberts won All-Around Cowboy honors for his skills in the ribbon roping and the tiedown events. A $100 prize money was given to contestants who placed in the top five. There were 404 entries, making it the largest youth rodeo ever for Colorado City.

phase-in period.

Currently, Texas law allows juvenile and adult offenders to be placed in the same facility as long as they cannot come in contact with each other.

But that practice, even absent the federal legislation, could be in jeopardy because of an Oregon federal judge's ruling a year ago that housing juveniles with adult offenders violates the juveniles' constitutional rights.

If Texas fails to comply with the new legislation, it could lose almost $3 million annually in federal juvenile justice funds.

The governor's Criminal Justice Division on Wednesday awarded a $200,000 grant to the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission to design a state program to comply with the more stringent federal legislation.

LULAC chooses new president

DETROIT (AP) — The newly elected president of the League of United Latin American Citizens promises to push for greater Hispanic voter registration, improved relations with Latin America and improved U.S. immigration laws.

Mario Obledo, 51, a native of San Antonio, Texas, was elected when three other candidates withdrew after the first round of voting on Sunday, the last day of LULAC's 55th annual convention in Detroit, league spokesman Duke Rodriguez said.

"We are going to build LULAC into an even greater organization which will more effectively address the socio-economic issues which face the Hispanic community in America," Obledo said in a telephone interview after his election.

"We will be giving priority to voter registration, to relations with Latin American countries, to the issues of immigration," the 28-year LULAC member said.

Obledo, a Sacramento, Calif., attorney, was LULAC's general counsel and national civil rights director for the past year. He joined the 100,000-member organization in 1955 and formerly served as state director in Texas.

He served as secretary of health and welfare in the administration of former California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Houston police search for arcade killer of 4

HOUSTON (AP) — Police continued their manhunt today for a 20-year-old parolee accused with two others in the stabbing deaths of four young employees of an arcade amusement center during a robbery.

Kenneth Ray Ransom was charged with capital murder in the slaying of Rod Harris, a 23-year-old music student at Houston Baptist University who was murdered after working only two nights at Malibu Grand Prix, a miniature race track and video game arcade.

Ransom, who was paroled from the Texas Department of Corrections last October after serving 19 months of a four-year sentence for auto theft, was spotted at his girlfriend's house in Wharton, about 80 miles southwest of Houston, but eluded officers.

Investigators said Ransom apparently spotted officers in the neighborhood and escaped before they got to the house.

"Eventually we're going to get him," homicide Lt. H.W. Kersten said today.

Detective Tom Ladd said Ransom, a former assistant manager and his cousin, each armed with a knife, allegedly entered the arcade early Friday morning.

Deaths

Lisa Thompson, 19, of Fountain, Colo., was killed when a car struck the stalled pickup truck she was helping push along a winding ranch road west of Austin, Wells said.

Wells said the young woman was pinned between the two vehicles, which left the road after the impact. The accident occurred at 1:45 a.m. Sunday, Wells said.

A 21-year-old Bergstrom Air Force Base airman was killed as he crossed Highway 71 in front of the base east of Austin late Saturday night. A witness said an early ambulance traveling behind the vehicle that struck William Allen Pasch took him immediately to the Bergstrom hospital.

Pasch died minutes after the accident, Wells said.

Mattie Mae Sariah, 37, of Beaumont, was killed in a three-car accident on U.S. Highway 69 in Beaumont, Wells said. He said eight other people were injured in that Saturday evening accident, and that one was in critical condition Sunday.

420 and 520 deaths were expected by midnight Monday.

In Renton, Wash., 28-year-old Randy Accettura lost four fingers and part of his lower right arm when a firecracker he was making in a 1 1/2-inch pipe exploded Saturday, King County Sgt. John Murphy said. Accettura was hospitalized in stable condition Sunday.

MANY OF THE U.S. sailors stationed on five ships off the coast of Lebanon celebrated Sunday with a decktop barbecue and rock music. Some took advantage of the rare opportunity to drink beer at the "Last Chance Saloon" — a makeshift cafe set up on a landing craft — while others watched a boat race by an underwater demolition team.

About 70,000 people jammed in and around Cougar Stadium at Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, Saturday night for three hours of patriotic music and pyrotechnics in an extravaganza produced by and starring the singing Osmond family.

About 5,000 people participated, including the Osmond family, seven high school bands, 2,500 boy and girl scouts carrying flags, 800 square dancers and 900 members of a precision dance group. The program included flying by two Air Force jets, fireworks synchronized by computer and the release of about 50,000 red, white and blue balloons.

Some places spread the festivities over a wider area.

New York City started out small Sunday with a 10-kilometer foot race, a parade of sail and power boats on the Hudson River and a flyby of World War I and II planes. Monday's festivities were to start with a 50-gun salute at the lower tip of Manhattan, followed by two street fairs in lower Manhattan, a harbor festival, parades, a demonstration by an Air Force parachute team, an annual hot dog eating contest at Coney Island and an enormous fireworks display along the East River.

LOS ANGELES AND its many suburbs had festivals and parades. A Great American Picnic at Long Beach on Sunday included seven hours of swing, Dixieland and jazz music; fireworks; and the release of hundreds of balloons in Hollywood Hills carrying patriotic messages written by children.

Man drowns in lake swim

ARLINGTON (AP) — The body of a 19-year-old man was recovered from Lake Arlington after he dived from a boat in an attempt to swim to shore.

Friends said Anthony Vonzell, address unknown, drowned about 30 yards from shore.

Authorities recovered the body Sunday afternoon after a brief search.

Police Beat

There may not be an organized Fourth of July fireworks display in Big Spring, but some residents have heard the bombs bursting in air anyway.

Big Spring police have received 14 reports of fireworks disturbances since Saturday night. Police have investigated each report, but no suspects were found and no arrests have been made.

There was a small grass fire on South Mountain at 11:31 p.m. Sunday night that may have been started by fireworks, according to police reports.

Police said the number of fireworks reports was not unusual for the July 4th weekend.

Police reports also showed the following:

- A Big Spring woman and two Dallas-area women were arrested Sunday night on prostitution-related charges at the Melba Hotel at 813 E. Third.
- Evelyn Tucker Young, 56, of 813 E. Third was charged with promotion of prostitution. She was released on $1,500 bond set by Howard County Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.
- Shelia Lisenby, 21, of Arlington and Monk S. Bevely, 35, of Dallas were charged with prostitution and later released on $500 bonds set by Heflin.
- Approximately $900 worth of tools was reported stolen from Bruce's Auto Repair at 102 Lancaster between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 8:20 p.m. Saturday.
- A television set, two air wrenches and a fully stocked tool box were among the items reported stolen.

Burglaries on rise

QUESTION: WHAT IS THE SITUATION CONCERNING BURGLARY IN BIG SPRING?

ANSWER: The crime rate goes ever upward and burglary is the fastest growing felony. A burglar enters someone's home every 15 seconds. Of the $400 million worth of good stolen each year only about 5percent is ever recovered. Serious crime against the person also results from failure of people to protect their homes and businesses against illegal entry.

BURGLARY: A person commits an offense if, without the effective consent of the owner he enters a habitation, or a building or any part of a building not then open to the public, with intent to commit a felony or theft, or remains concealed, with intent to commit a felony or theft, in a building or habitation, or enters a building or habitation and commits or attempts to commit a felony or theft.

ENTER means intrude: any part of the body, or any physical object connected to the body. An offense under this section is a felony if the offender enters a habitation (residence) or any part of the offense is armed with explosives of a deadly weapon, or any party to the offense injures or attempts to injure anyone in effecting entry or while in the building or in immediate flight from the building.

Since January 1, 1983 there has been 102 home burglaries and 112 business burglaries for a total of 214 burglaries in Big Spring.

Burglars who have been arrested range from 6 years of age to 80 years of age. A burglar need not look scruffy or act like a TV portrayal of a burglar. He or she may be dressed in a suit, jogging clothes, or a nurse's uniform. In reality they look like and can be your next door neighbor. He may drive a truck and look like a service repair man. He may knock at your door, using various pretenses, to appraise your house for valuable items. He may want to use your phone saying he wants to call his wife because his car broke down. Another favorite trick is the wrong number call to find out if the owner is home before attempting to enter a residence.

A large part of the goods from burglaries is used to buy illegal drugs. There is a marked increase in the number of drug users in Big Spring involved in burglaries.

Citizens of Big Spring can do a lot to combat burglaries.

- Don't buy an expensive item for much less than it's worth. Example: an $800 TV for $50. If you are offered such a bargain, try to get a good description of the person, his vehicle and direction of travel and notify the police.

- Know your neighbors and try to keep an eye on their homes in their absence.

- Secure your own home and business by locking doors and windows and having good locks, doors and windows.

- Never try to apprehend the person yourself as such persons could be armed and could attack you if cornered.

- Mark all valuables with your Texas driver's license number and record all serial numbers. Jewelry and other hard items should be color photographed and the photographs kept in a safe place.

If you know of some who has committed a burglary contact the Police or Crimestoppers, 263-1151.

Lions Club installs new president, Welch

James A. Welch was installed last week as the newest president of the Big Spring Lions Club.

Welch headed a list of nine new officers installed at a club meeting on the Howard College campus. Past district governor Ewart Phillips was the installer.

Special awards for 30 years of service went to Joe Pickle, Joe Pond and Dr. P.W. Malone. Laurence Snively received a 30-year pin while Dr. R. Gage Lloyd was given a 15-year pin.

Other special awards included Bill Harlin, program chairman for 1982; Jimmy C. Holmes, past president and Dee Elrod, lightbulb chairman. Lightbulb team captains were also given special caps: John F. Smith, Frank Wentz, Royce Clay, Dan Conley and Lynn Barnett.

New officers include Dick Helms, first vice president; Dr. James Cave, second vice president; Royce Clay, third vice president; Doug Morris, secretary-treasurer; Dee Elrod, honortamer; Larson Lloyd Jr. and Lynn Barnett, taitwisters; and directors Tom Arcand, M.A. Barber and John Reece.

Virginia Temte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Adkins, and her husband, Bill, and daughter, Rachael, of LaCrosse, Wisc., presented excerpts from Broadway musicals for the program.

Academia

Karen S. Kelley of Big Spring has earned the Distinguished Student recognition at Texas A&M University.

She is a senior majoring in civil engineering. For the honor, she maintained at least a 3.25 grade point average on 15 or more hours of instruction during the spring semester.

Barbara L. Kothmann and Kim D. Richardson, both of Big Spring, were named to the Dean's Honor Roll at Texas A&M University for the spring semester.

Barbara is a spring graduate in health education, and Kim is a junior mechanical engineering major.

Two students from Big Spring received degrees from Abilene Christian University.

Donna Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Moore Jr., received a bachelor's degree in speech and hearing therapy.

Rhonda Willbanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maberry Willbanks, received a bachelor's degree in food, nutrition and dietetics.

Clear skies with temperatures in the 90s were on tap for most of Texas today for its Fourth of July picnics and celebrations.

However, southerly winds were gusty across the High Plains and North Central Texas, with speeds near 20 mph.

Most of the state reported temperatures in the 70s on this morning's predawn hours. Temperature extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from 73 degrees at Amarillo to 83 at Brownsville.

West Texas: Mostly sunny today and Tuesday. Fair tonight, not so hot north today. A little cooler most sections tonight, not so hot south Tuesday. Highs today in the lower 90s in the Panhandle to near 110 in the Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight in the upper 50s in the Panhandle to the middle 70s extreme south. High Tuesday in the lower 90s in the Panhandle to near 100 in the Big Bend.

North Texas: Partly cloudy skies. A slight chance of thunderstorms late this afternoon in the northwest and then areawide tonight. A slight chance of thunderstorms southeast Tuesday. High temperatures in the middle 90s east to near 100 west today and low 90s east to mid 90s west Tuesday. Lows in the 70s.

A preview of the future

Much of the interest in the space shuttle Challenger is obviously due to astronaut and physicist Sally Ride, who recently became the first American woman in space. But the significance of the six-day flight that ended with a flawless landing at Edwards Air Force Base has more to do with Challenger's mission than the gender of one crew member.

The successful operation of Challenger's 50-foot mechanical arm to launch and retrieve an experimental West German satellite provided a preview of things to come. In the not-too-distant future, shuttles will be launched regularly to repair or refuel satellites and perhaps haul them out of orbit for a trip back to earth.

Equally important is the scientific research conducted aboard the spacecraft. The zero-gravity experiments with proteins may ultimately lead to major pharmaceutical advances. The flight also provided the first opportunity to study space sickness in orbit.

Then too, the commercial value of the shuttle program was again demonstrated in the launching of one communications satellite for Indonesia and another for Canada.

The near-perfect mission is one more reason to believe that the shuttle program will one day provide what a NASA official once called, "a railroad into space." The potential benefits from that achievement stagger the imagination.

Mayor Koch and Israel's critics

Mayor Ed Koch of New York, who is to careful thought as Times Square is to high culture, has attacked all American Jews who question the policies of the Israeli government. In a June 15 speech to Emunah, a Jewish women's group, he accused such critics of being blinded by a "shtetl" mentality and embarrassed by "Israel's emergence as a strong, proud, independent state." This is the McCarthyism of the Zionists.

Koch made no distinctions among different critics; he suggested that all criticism of Israel by American Jews is the product of craven motives. Aside from self-hatred and embarrassment at Israeli independence, he claimed, they "have knuckled under to the pressures of the State Department" and "are comfortable only in the role of underdogs." Or they are motivated by "self-hatred."

WELL NOW. Critics of Israeli policy in Lebanon and in the West Bank include some of the most devoted Zionists in American Jewry. Does Koch believe that Saul Bellow is a "self-hater"? Does he think Irving Howe, a socialist activist, customarily regurgitates the views of the Reagan State Department? Does he imagine that Nora Levin, author of a distinguished history of the Holocaust, prefers Israel to be weak?

Maybe not. But all three signed a statement last summer protesting Israel's invasion of Lebanon and its steps toward annexing the West Bank. So did Nathan Glazer, Daniel Bell, Alfred Kazin and dozens of others. They have plenty of allies in Israel — like former foreign minister Abba Eban, who calls the war in Lebanon "a dark age in the moral history" of the Jewish people.

Koch also used the opportunity to indulge one of his favorite pastimes, badgering the Reagan administration (and particularly Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger) for insufficient servility to Menachem Begin. "Can we believe our government when it tells us that it has 'no animus' toward the state of Israel?" he asked rhetorically. In his view, anything less than perfect agreement with one of our least cooperative allies constitutes outright hostility.

How dare the U.S. criticize Israeli policies! Israel, he said, has "never asked us for a single U.S. soldier to help it defend the Jewish homeland. All it asks us to do is not jeopardize its survival." That, and a couple of billion dollars a year in aid.

BUT KOCH'S loudest complaint concerned the Israeli commission which investigated the massacre of Palestinians in the Sabra and Shatila refugee camps. This commission, he declared, was "imposed upon Israel by 'enlightened' world public opinion and many of our Jewish 'liberals'" — ignoring the widespread outrage in Israel itself.

Koch didn't examine the commission's findings, because it would have damaged his case. Instead he boasted of how well Israel treats "guerrillas," how respectful it is of religious minorities, how free its press is. He also expressed disbelief that Israel "is forced to sacrifice its most competent military leader and to embarrass its field commanders before people will say: 'Now we know that Israel is a democracy.'"

Here again the mayor finds a straw man the best target. No one ever doubted that Israel is a democracy (at least for Jews). What is in question is what sort of democracy — one committed to personal rights and humane ideas, or one prepared to sacrifice those to its own power.

Koch also ignored the case against Defense Minister Ariel Sharon. It was he who decided to send Phalangists into the camps on Sept. 16, knowing well the likely outcome — and did nothing when he learned the next evening that they were killing civilians. One "embarrassed" field commander was Gen. Amos Yaron, who got the news a full day before Sharon and also did nothing.

Sharon was dismissed as defense minister but allowed to remain in the cabinet, and Yaron is to be relieved of field command for three years — mild penalties considering the consequences of their actions. Koch is outraged at their "embarrassment," but indifferent to the murder of several hundred Palestinians.

That is a repulsive position, but then this was a repulsive speech. Lacking persuasive facts and arguments to support his views, Koch can only slander those who disagree.

When it comes to the subject of Israel, the mayor follows Mark Twain's advice: "Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it." By that definition, Koch is a man of extreme frugality.

Billy Graham

What others think worries her

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How much do you think we ought to be concerned about what other people think about us? Sometimes I think I'm too concerned about other people's opinion of me. — Mrs. F.T.

DEAR MRS. F.T.: I am firmly convinced that most of us spend far too much time worrying about what other people think about us. Furthermore, this preoccupation with what others think about us leads us often to do things that are wrong, because we want the approval of the crowd. But the crowd can often be wrong. Peter gave in to the pressure of a little servant girl who accused him of being a disciple of Jesus, and ended up denying his Lord by saying, "Woman, I don't know him" (Luke 22:57).

Why are we so concerned about what others think of us? One reason is that we want people to like us, and we want to behave in such a way that others will be impressed with us and will admire us. We also know that if we win the respect of others we may be able to persuade them to do things for us, or we can exercise power over them. This concern about what others think of us is dangerous, therefore, for two reasons: it can keep us from doing things that we know are right (even if they aren't popular), and it can make us end up doing things that we know are wrong.

This is why the Bible constantly tells us to seek God's approval, and not necessarily the approval of others. Let me ask you honestly: are you concerned above all else with how God looks on you? Does God see in you a heart that wants to serve him above all else? Do you try to examine your own life, and your own relationship to Jesus Christ, "Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a workman who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:15).

The interesting thing is that when we seek to serve Christ, we may find that others admire us and respect us far more than they did when we spent all our time trying to get their approval by compromising our beliefs. Put Christ first in your life, "because anyone who serves Christ in this way is pleasing to God and approved by men" (Romans 14:18).

Around the Rim

By BOB CARPENTER

Special sessions

Irresponsibility. Either I've had a bad week or people are starting to become less responsible for their actions.

Within the last few days I've encountered the tired excuses of "it's not my job," "that's out of my area of expertise," "let me transfer you to someone else," "it's not my fault," "call back later," and "I don't know." Although many times these excuses for action are sincere, I'm starting to feel they are a translation of "I don't care."

RECENTLY, I called the state government for some information and went through nine, count 'em, nine bureaucrats before I could find one who would take a stand and volunteer some information. And he told me the only reason he gave me was that I needed because there was no one else in the office.

Sure there are many responsible people in the world, but after the side-stepping I've seen lately, a lot of people don't want to walk the line anymore.

Dodging and weaving to avoid accountability is everywhere. In the educational system, everyone blames everybody else: students blame teachers who blame parents and around the circle goes. President Reagan blames ex-President Carter for the country's problems.

Store clerks claim amnesia when a problem is presented.

PLEASE, WON'T someone have the courage to stand behind what he does and who he is?

We've all had a problem in which we battle the faceless enemy. Passed along from department to department and person to person we are met with nothing but blank stares as we are delegated along until we give up or get so tired we can't go on.

Nobody seems to be in charge and no one wants to be. Wouldn't it be nice if someone actually smiled and took out time to help you solve your problem. If someone would just make the effort to lend a hand a person might begin to feel like he wasn't fighting the battle alone.

We have the responsibility as individuals to help one another by being accountable for our actions. Just taking pride in our work and discovering the smile and words like "thank you" and "please" would be nice.

It's time for you and I to own up to our individuality. Take a good look at who you are and the way you conduct business. How would you feel if someone treated you the way you treat others? Don't like results? Well, it's not too late to change. Be responsible for yourself.

Watt's giveaway may be invalid

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt has been catching it for leasing federal coal lands at "fire sale" prices. Watt denied granting any bargains, and both sides have marshaled facts and figures to support their claims.

The amazing thing, though, is that Watt's efforts to give away — that's right, give away free of charge — coal leases on nearly 300,000 acres of Western land have gone virtually unnoticed. The land includes proposed wilderness areas, wildlife refuges and priceless archaeological sites.

Destruction of these environmentally sensitive areas would be bad enough in itself. What makes Watt's intended giveaways outrageous is that there is strong evidence the lease applications are invalid under the law. Here's the story:

A loophole in the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920 allowed prospectors who stumbled across undiscovered coal deposits on federal land to claim the coal as their reward. They could submit Preference Right Lease Applications and extract the coal for free.

When Congress voted a moratorium on coal leases in 1970, there were more than 180 of these preference-right applications pending. Since then, environmental legislation has been enacted that protects certain areas from mining.

What the big coal companies are trying to do is push through old lease applications made before the current protections were passed — and Watt is going along with the idea. He plans to grant all but five of the remaining 134 pending applications by the end of next year. But evidence submitted by government agencies and environmental groups suggests that the applications are invalid. For example:

— A study by the Powder River Basin Resource Council found that coal companies "discovered" deposits that had been shown on U.S. Geological Survey maps dating back to 1909 — years before the claims were filed. The findings, supported by the Office of Technology Assessment, show that applications for 90,000 of the 138,000 acres Watt wants to lease in Wyoming are invalid.

— A similar study by the Colorado Open Space Council found that "nearly all" the 82,000 acres claimed for free leasing in Colorado were in "areas where the existence and workability of the coal were well known."

— The Natural Resources Defense Council submitted a study to the Interior Department that identified dozens of environmentally sensitive areas that would be destroyed by Watt's gifts to the coal industry.

They include land in the San Juan Basin of New Mexico that contains the last archaeological remains of the 10,000-year-old Anasazi Indian culture, as well as 54,000 acres of proposed wilderness that is the habitat of the golden eagle and other endangered species. The council's study concluded that environmental impact statements were either non-existent or inadequate.

Sources told my associate Jock Hatfield that Watt, in his rush to approve the coal leases, has effectively eliminated all environmental restrictions.

Interestingly, three of the corporations that stand to make a bundle if the free leases are granted — Kemmerer Coal Co., Utah Power and Light, and Fluor Oil and Gas Co. — have been major contributors to the Mountains States Legal Foundation, which Watt headed before joining the Reagan administration.

These three companies have applied for free leases on more than 56,000 acres of federal land, and will get a lion's share of the 6 billion tons of government-owned coal Watt proposes to give away.

Footnote: Watt has severed his connection with the foundation, and he owns no stock in the three companies. An Interior Department spokesman denied that the agency favored the coal companies and insisted that the secretary's actions are entirely appropriate.

FONDA'S FBI FILE: The late Henry Fonda was regarded by the FBI as a possible embarrassment at the official reopening of Ford's Theater in 1968. "In view of the backgrounds of some of the individuals, there exists a potential for embarrassment during the ceremony," an FBI letter to the White House warned.

It wasn't Fonda's social graces that worried the G-men, but a 21-year-old congressional accusation that Fonda was either a communist or a Kremlin dupe.

When the reckless Red-hunters of the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) were looking for pinakes and headlines in Hollywood, 35 movie celebrities signed a protest saying there were "disgusted and outraged" by the committee's attacks. Fonda was a member of the group, Committee for the First Amendment, which HUAC promptly labeled a communist organization.

According to Fonda's 124-page FBI file, reviewed by my reporter Laurie Siegel, Fonda's signature on that 1947 protest dogged him for decades; it was apparently the main basis for suspicion that he was a closet commie. In 1960, for example, he was among 160 movie people listed in a HUAC pamphlet, "Red Stars in Hollywood," which was included in his FBI file.

The HUAC hysteria is evidenced by the pamphlet's identification of Lauren Bacall, Marlon Brando, Lucille Ball and Frank Sinatra as other Hollywood pinakes — and by such Henry Penny alarms as this: "Today the Reds are back in Hollywood stronger and more brazen than ever — even the Charlie Chaplin pictures are on the screen again!"

The FBI did have one additional cause for suspicion against Fonda. In response to White House inquiries in 1961 and 1970, the FBI seemed to think it ominous that Fonda had always defended himself against accusations that he was a communist.

Couch receives plaque from 4-H

Dr. Martha Couch, a Big Spring native who works for the state agriculture extension program as a 4-H and youth specialist based in Lubbock, received a special plaque from the 4-H Volunteer Leaders Association of Texas.

The association annually makes an award to an extension specialist for meritorious service to the state 4-H program over the past five years.

"Dr. Couch has given strong support to county staffs throughout two districts, with special emphasis on leadership and innovative programs," said Margaret Berry of McAdoo, president of the association. "She has also worked closely with newly employed extension agents to assist them in understanding the youth program of the extension service."

Dr. Couch, who received her doctoral degree in home economics from Texas Tech University, is a 1968 graduate of Borden High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of Gail Route. She has worked for the extension service since 1972. The award was presented during the 4-H Round-up June 1-9.

Report about field trip given at meeting

A report was given about the field trip to Robert Lee during the June meeting of the Big Spring Prospectors Club.

Findings on the trip also were shown at the meeting. Findings included Indian arrowheads, petrified wood and stone scrapers used by Indians to prepare and scrape animal hides.

Two upcoming classes were announced. A series of six beginning lapidary classes will be taught by Nora Nixon. A gem tree class will be taught in mid-July by Barbara McCasland of Henrietta.

During the meeting, Mt. St. Helens volcanic ash was displayed and a description was given on a crystal ball displayed at the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Slides were also shown of field trips of the South Central Federation of Mineral Societies.

President Vergil Perkins and other club members attended the Rocky Mountain Federation Gem and Mineral Show in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Charles Leek, Ralph Mattison and Chester Fought were appointed to plan field trips for the remainder of the year.

Richard Thomas and Lonnie Griffith won the door prizes.

The July meeting will be an ice cream social at the home of Mary and Charles Leek.

RUNNER-UP — Allison Kathleen Ingram, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brad Ingram of Ackery, was chosen as first runner-up in the Texas State Cinderella Tot pageant, held in Denton, June 22-26. Allison competed against 53 other girls in the three to six year old division.

Dr. Donohue Angina

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can angina pectoris be cured today? Or does a person with it have it all his life? Yes, I've been informed that I have it, and that it is the cause of my pains in the chest. What else do we know about angina today, besides just medicine? — S.L.

We know a lot about angina pectoris. But I think you are asking me if there is a way to reverse the process that causes it, the fatty deposits in the heart that deprive the heart of sufficient oxygen for the work it has to do. We're not sure about that.

Most of what we've learned about angina pectoris falls into the control or correction areas. We've learned, too, that there is much the patient can do himself, things beyond use of control medicine. For example, physical exercise prescribed by the doctor and tailored to the patient's tolerance can improve circulation generally and lessen the affects of the clogged arteries. Getting weight under control is another important part of angina treatment. Quitting cigarettes is another very important step to take.

However, for most drugs will continue to be needed, the kind that make it easier for the heart to pump — nitroglycerine, the beta blockers, the calcium channel blockers. And, of course, the widely-publicized surgery to bypass the clogged arteries is well-known. Newer surgical techniques for easing the clogged artery problem are emerging. For example, on one procedure a tiny balloon is inserted into the artery to try to break up some of the deposits and improve blood flow.

However, most angina patients will show satisfactory improvement with the medicines I've mentioned along with attention to those control factors I mentioned. And I didn't mention a very important one — decreasing the concentrations of fats with a diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol.

FOR MRS. S.B.: — I wish I could be more definite for you, but along with your doctor all I can offer is a wait-and-see attitude. At 28 weeks an infant rolls over, lifts its head, reaches out for objects and sits with support. Your grandson seems to be doing all these things, and that's very encouraging. I can understand your concern about microcephaly (small head size). At six months, the head size should be between 16 1/4 and 18 1/4 inches around. I can only repeat what your pediatrician has said about taking each day as it comes.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Abby Mother counts her blessings

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of 22-month-old twin boys. When we're out shopping, someone will say, "Look, twins!" Then someone else says, "cute to look at, but not to have."

I've been stopped by people who ask, "Are they twins?" (What a question! They're identical.) And when I say (proudly), "Yes," they say, "Well, I'm sure glad they're yours, not mine!" Abby, I'm glad they're mine, and it angers me to hear such unkind remarks. Of course, I had no say in the matter, but I consider myself lucky to be the mother of twins. And my husband feels lucky, too. As for the double trouble and expense of raising two instead of one, they're well worth it.

Please, Abby, ask people not to feel sorry for me. And if you can put in a good word for twins, I'd appreciate it.

TWICE-BLESSED IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR TWICE-BLESSED: Not only are you "twice-blessed," your twins are. Being a twin offered countless advantages to me. I was never lonely. I always had a best friend — someone to lay with, to sing with, to dance with. Someone to laugh (and cry) with, to share my most intimate secrets.

Parents of twins worry less because they feel that there's safety in numbers. (There is.)

Twins get the usual teasing: "What are your names? Kate and Duplicate? Pete and Repeat? Me and My Shadow? Or Double Trouble?" And silly questions: "Do you ever get yourselves mixed up? How do you know which one you are?"

Twins share a very special relationship — so aptly described by Lord Byron:

"All who joy would win
"Must share it.
"Happiness was born a twin."

DEAR ABBY: Someone told me that you had an item in your column some years back mentioning "Fat Fannie Pantyhose." Is the company that makes them still in business? If so, where? I could sure use some.

New books to enchant the reader

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

Any book that begins: "I stopped when I smelled the magic. It was strong magic. Old magic." has the power to enchant the reader and carry her or him into a land of fantasy. Lawrence Yep's Dragon of the Lost Sea is one that will appeal to the growing number of fantasy fans as it tells the story of a boy who helps a dragon rescue her homeland.

In The Road to Camlaan, third in a trilogy of Arthurian legends which began with The Sword and the Circle and continued in The Light Beyond the Forest, Rosemary Sutcliff concludes the tragic story. Smooth, easy writing makes this trilogy very readable for junior high age and up.

From the 16th century comes tales of Long Meg, a woman who, disguised as a man, joined the British army's invasion of France. Rosemary Minard retells some of the legends that surround Long Meg's exciting life including her determination to join Henry VIII and her part in saving Boulogne from French attack.

Young readers drawn to mysteries may want to try one of the new Doris Fein series by T. Ernesto Bethancourt. The heroine, a modern, confident young woman who prefers being addressed as Ms. is featured in a series written with humor, suspense and colorful characters.

A hobby that demands no expensive, special equipment is yo-yo spinning and it can be enjoyed at many different skill levels. The first record of a yo-yo can be found in ancient Greece. This bit of trivia, along with a comprehensive history, basic instructions, easy, intermediate and difficult tricks, is well illustrated with detailed photographs in The Amazing Yo-Yo by Ross R. Olney.

Until we are scratched or sunburned we don't pay much attention to our body's largest organ, our skin. Herbert S. Zim's The Skin is comprehensive, easy to read and extremely well illustrated. Common skin problems and information on how the skin works to protect the body are included.

Come on in to check out these or any of the other new books we have received recently.

Have you noticed how crowded the library is? Have you seen the books on the floor? Have you been in the library during activity day for the Summer Reading Program? Or during a class visit? We will soon be making some changes to accommodate more books but it is only a temporary, incomplete solution to a serious space problem. This building can no longer house the collection and unless the library continues to grow and include necessary new information, it can not serve the community adequately. It is time for Howard County to be thinking of a new library. Public support and interest is necessary before that can happen.

Meldorama staged July 21-23

Cast and crew members of Spring City Theatre's summer melodrama are in rehearsal now preparing for July 21-23 performances.

The melodrama, "Your wife left you...your kids hate you...and your mother won't speak to you?...Have a nice day," was written by theater director Cecelia McKenzie and Carol Hart. The melodrama will be presented at the Big Spring Amphitheatre in Comanche Trail Park. Admission will be $4 for adults and $2 for children.

The play will feature Donnie Wheeler as pianist. Wheeler is working on musical adaptations of melodrama tunes for the show, he said.

Taking roles in the production are Kristen Worms, Mary; Lida Boland, Carrie; Mary Owens, Mrs. McMurray; Danielle Clere, Merry; and Mary Grin-nan, Sherry. Others are Teresa Burke, Mrs. Martin; Julie Bramblett, Terry; Laurie Churchwell, Mrs. Tightwad; Ken Facazio, Gary; Scott Boland, Wary; Gordon Grinnan, Veri; Terry Dobson, George; Linda Abrego, Jerri; and Steve Davis, Mr. Martin.

The comedy "is about a financial institution," Mrs. McKenzie said. It was written specifically for Spring City Theatre to stage this summer.

The melodrama will feature its annual "Dinner on the rocks" this year, with the Gold Mine catering the event.

Another new twist to this year's melodrama will be an olio with students from Laurie Churchwell's dance classes. The dancers will also be featured throughout the play.

Wimbledon McEnroe blasts Lewis

Men's singles champion John McEnroe

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A soft backhand cross-court drop volley fell gently to the grass on center court, and John McEnroe had captured his second Wimbledon men's singles title.

He had, at the same time, given his opponent a tennis lesson and swept the English crowd firmly into his corner.

It was pure genius, the game that McEnroe displayed Sunday as he quickly disposed of New Zealand's Chris Lewis 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

"There was nothing I could do," Lewis said. "He was just too good."

"He's an artist with the racket. He plays so unlike anyone else in the game today," Lewis depends on quickness. McEnroe was quicker. Lewis plays a serve-and-volley game. McEnroe plays it better.

"Not only is he extremely quick, he has extremely good anticipation," Lewis said of his conquerer, the left-hander from New York. "Some players are quick and some have good anticipation. He has both."

"He reads your shot so well so you always feel rushed to hit a winner."

There were very few winners struck by Lewis on Sunday as McEnroe dominated the men's final in much the same way Martina Navratilova had dominated Andrea Jaeger in the all-American women's final on Saturday.

Navratilova, top-seeded in the women's singles, took just 53 minutes to demolish Jaeger, the No. 3 seed, 6-0, 6-3.

"I was not nervous at all out there," Jaeger said, "it was just that I didn't start out very well and she did. Therefore, she trounced me in the first set and there was not too much I could do."

Lewis, the first unseeded player to reach the men's final on the famed grass courts at the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club since West Germany's Wilhelm Bungert did it in 1967, found himself in the same spot.

"Obviously it's disappointing," he said of his loss, "but I don't think there are very many players who could have beaten John today. I played as well as he let me play."

The first New Zealander since 1914 to play in the men's final, Lewis won the coin toss, elected to serve and took the opening game at 15. It was all downhill for him after that.

McEnroe took the next 12 points, breaking Lewis in the third game at love enroute to a 3-1 lead. In the seventh game, the talented left-hander, making his fourth consecutive appearance in the final, broke Lewis again, winning the last two points on a forehand cross-court pass and then pull-played well and played my game, I would have a chance of winning easily."

The way he play Sunday, "I would have been pretty tough to beat," McEnroe said when asked how he might have fared if the opponent was Sweden's Bjorn Borg, whom he beat here in 1981, or Jimmy Connors, whom he lost to last year. "But I didn't play Borg or Connors."

In the opening game of the match, on the third point, actually, McEnroe caught Lewis at the net and sent a blistering forehand volley right at the New Zealander. Lewis' reflex volley rocketed the ball back for a winner, but he broke his racket on the point.

"It was the racket that I played every match in the tournament with," he said. "But the loss of his favorite racket really had no bearing on the outcome."

Lewis won only nine points on McEnroe's 12 service games, while McEnroe seemed to break Lewis whenever he felt like it. In the third set, he ran off another string, winning 13 consecutive points to go up 5-1. Two games later, McEnroe had his second Wimbledon singles crown.

Navratilova's title was her second straight and the fourth of her career.

With her powerful serve-and-volley game, she rolled through the 18-year-old Jaeger in 16 minutes to take the first set. The second took a little longer as the Czechoslovakian-born American went through the tournament without dropping a set.

"It has been an easy Wimbledon for me match-wise," Navratilova said. "I spent more time on the practice courts than in the matches, but that is what you work for in practice."

"I have been in four finals and won them all, and that is pretty special. It has not been done many times."

"It all seemed too easy at first, and after that first set I knew it was going to be a tighter second. Andrea started to produce some great passing shots and I had no answer to them."

"There was nothing I could do. He was just too good. He plays so unlike anyone else in the game today."

Chris Lewis

ing a backhand service return down the line.

Another love game on his own service and McEnroe had wrapped up the first set in 27 minutes.

The pattern would become repetitive. Lewis held his own service to begin every set. Then McEnroe, using pin-point volleys, delicate drops, topspin lobs, blistering service returns and deadly accurate passing shots, demonstrated to Lewis and the 14,500 fans packed into the center court just how tennis should be played.

"Everything went the way I wanted it to today," McEnroe said. "I felt that if I

Watson's lead up to 4 strokes

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Tom Watson, eager for his first 1983 tournament win and a spot on America's Ryder Cup team, holds a four-stroke lead with 36 holes to go in the storm-plagued 80th Western Open.

After two days of rainouts, the Butler National Course became playable Sunday in steamy, windy conditions, and Watson fired a 71 to go with his opening 67 on Thursday for a 6-under-par 138.

A 36-hole windup is planned for today, the Fourth of July, if weather permits.

"The flow of adrenalin will more than make up for any tiredness you might have on a double-round day," said Watson. His first tournament victory as a pro was the 1974 Western over the same demanding par 36-36-72 course that stretches more than 7,000 yards.

Four strokes off the pace at 142 were Dave Edwards, who teamed with brother, Danny, to win the 1980 Walt Disney World National Team Championship; John Fought, who has not won since back-to-back victories en route to Rookie of the Year honors in 1979, and Andy Bean, 1978 Western winner.

"I'm playing about as well as I can on this golf course and in shooting a pair of 71s I hit 31 greens in regulation," said Bean. "I think I'm in pretty good shape. I certainly would rather be four strokes behind with 36 holes to go than with 18 holes to go."

Amateur Woodie Wood, son of a McAlester, Okla., country club pro, was within striking distance at 143. The bracket of six players also included Bruce Fleisher and Australian Greg Norman. Each skidded to 74 after opening 69s.

Stacy doesn't let victory slip away

POINTE CLAIRE, Quebec (AP) — Hollis Stacy wasn't about to let the $250,000 Peter Jackson Classic slip from her grasp a second time.

Stacy thought she had things under control during the third round Saturday, when she moved ahead by three strokes heading into the 15th hole. But the Savannah, Ga., golfer proceeded to bogey three of the last four holes and entered Sunday's final round in a four-way tie for second place at 7 under par, one stroke behind M.J. Smith.

"I went out there determined I was going to play good golf," said Stacy, who reeled off five birdies and played with impressive poise on the way to a 4-under-par 68 for a two-stroke victory over veteran JoAnne Carner and Alice Miller on the par-72, 6,033-yard Beaconsfield Golf Club course.

Stacy finished with a 72-hole total of 277, 11 under par, after rounds of 68, 68, 73 and 68.

It was the third victory on this year's LPGA tour for Stacy, but her first triumph in the Peter Jackson, which offers a top prize of $37,500, and is one of four major events on the circuit. The last time Stacy won a major tournament was the U.S. Women's Open in 1978.

Miller and Carner each pocketed $21,000, while Rosie Jones was fourth at 281. She received a $1,000 award as the tournament's top rookie besides her $12,500 pay day.

January scores sweaty win in July

MARLBORO, Mass. (AP) — After playing in grueling near 90-degree temperatures, Don January was grateful for the end of the $25,000 Marlboro PGA Senior Classic, which he won by three strokes.

"Thank God for the cart. I'm pretty tired. I play one more week and then take some time off for the first time since May 27," January said Sunday after he roared from two strokes off the pace with a string of six straight birdies and set a hatful of records.

The 53-year-old pushed his career tour earnings close to the $1.5 million mark with his fourth tournament victory of the year and his ninth as a senior tourist. His official tour earnings for both regular and senior tours are now $1,484,998.

January shot a 7-under-par 64 over the par-71, 6,174-yard Marlboro Country Club course.

SECOND ROUND LEADER TOM WATSON ...battling for place on Ryder Cup team

Buddy Gardner, who was in second place after a first-round 68, ballooned to 76.

"It was windy and I misjudged a number of shots," said Watson, who birdied the first three holes in a torrid start and also birdied the first three holes on the backside. By the 12th hole, he was cruising at 9 under par for the tournament, then bogeyed three of the last five holes.

Sprint marks smashed

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Evelyn Ashford has taken the edge in her psychological and physical battle against East Germany's Marlies Gohr, and Calvin Smith has proven that Carl Lewis is not the only great sprinter in the United States.

The 26-year-old Ashford, winner over Gohr in the 1979 and 1981 World Cup 100-meter dashes, seized the women's world record in the sprint from the East German with a clocking of 10.79 seconds Sunday in the National Sports Festival. Gohr, who had held the world record since 1977, had lowered her time to 10.81 last month in Berlin.

Smith, 22, from Bolton, Miss., became the world record-holder in the men's 100 with a sizzling time of 9.93 seconds, breaking the mark of 9.95 set by Jim Hines of the United States in 1968.

The times by Hines and Smith were set at altitude. Hines' was in Mexico City, where the altitude is some 7,500 feet. Smith was running in the 7,200-foot altitude at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Lewis, meanwhile, ran a 9.97 at sea level last month at Indianapolis, and it was thought that he — rather than Smith — would be the first to break Hines' long-standing mark.

CALVIN SMITH ...world's fastest human

First, Ashford broke the women's record, about an hour after she had anchored the national women's 400-meter relay team to an American record of 41.61 — only .01 of a second off the world record set by East Germany in the 1980 Olympics at Moscow.

Fifteen minutes later, Smith, inspired by Ashford's dazzling performance, streaked to his record.

Both runners drew standing ovations from the appreciative crowd of 15,500.

It was the first time the two 100 records had been smashed on the same day and the first time Americans have held both records at the same time since 1972.

Ashford also became the first American woman to hold the world 100 mark since 1968, when Wyomia Tyus ran 11.08.

Ashford and Gohr probably will not face each other again until the inaugural World Championships at Helsinki, Finland, Aug. 7-14.

Ashford said she came to the Festival to break the world record in the relay and recover from the loss to Gohr.

Smith now has the unofficial title of "World's Fastest Human," generally accorded to the men's world record-holder in the 100, while Ashford can claim the title of "World's Fastest Woman."

Sunday's three record performances overshadowed Edwin Moses' 77th straight victory in a final of the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, Jeff Buckingham's victory in the pole vault at 18 feet, 7 1/4 inches, and an outstanding time of 2:59.91 in the men's 1,600-meter relay by a team of Laron Brown, Calvin Brooks, James Rolle and Walter McCoy.

U.S. hoop teams romp, Soviets rule swimming

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Villanova's Ed Pinkney, a member of the U.S. men's basketball team at the World University Games, admits it's hard keeping your concentration at times.

Especially when you're playing laughers.

The American men played their second laugh in a row Sunday, demolishing outmanned Lebanon 160-81 behind a 31-point performance by 6-foot-3 Colorado guard Jay Humphries. They previously trounced Peru 134-25.

Also Sunday, UCLA swimmer Bruce Hayes earned two silver medals to go with a gold medal he earned in a major surprise Saturday night in the 200-meter freestyle. He was runner-up to Canadian Alex Baumann in the 400 individual medley and swam a leg on the second-place U.S. men's 800 relay team.

Otherwise, it was almost a complete Soviet show Sunday night in the swimming. Soviet swimmers won four of five finals.

Stieb loses again

Glenn Abbott pitched a five-hitter and Pat Putnam hit a two-run homer to lead Seattle over Toronto.

Dave Stieb, 10-7, had set the Mariners down in order through the first four innings before walking Richie Zisk on a 3-2 pitch to lead off the fifth. Stieb worked Putnam to an 0-2 count, before the Seattle first baseman hit the next pitch for his eighth homer of the season.

Abbott, 3-0, struck out six and didn't walk a batter.

Tigers 10, Orioles 1
Lance Parrish keyed a four-run third inning with a two-run double and John Wockenfuss capped a five-run eighth with a grand slam homer as Detroit clubbed Baltimore.

Juan Berenguer, 4-1, pitched the first

Winner Bob Ojeda, 5-3, gave up eight hits, struck out five and did not walk a batter before getting relief help in the eighth from Mark Clear, who gained his second save after giving up an RBI grounder to Dave Winfield.

Twins 4, White Sox 3
Ron Washington's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning lifted Minnesota over Chicago. Before Washington came through, White Sox third baseman Lorenzo Gray made a diving stop on a grounder to get a forceout at the plate.

Ron Davis, 3-3, pitched 1 1-3 innings of hitless ball to get the victory. He relieved Bobby Castillo, who pitched 6 1-3 innings of no-hit ball until Greg Luzinski hit a home run. The two combined for a four-hitter.

The White Sox tied the score 3-3 in the eighth inning on Carlton Fisk's two-run triple to chase Crstillo.

Angels 5, Royals 2
Bobby Grich capped a three-run first inning with a two-run single and Ron Jackson blasted a two-run homer to carry California over Kansas City.

Rick Burleson's single triggered California's first-inning uprising off Bud Black, 3-3, that was capped by Grich's liner to center.

Willie Aikens cut into the lead with a solo homer in the Kansas City fourth, but Grich's leadoff single in the bottom of the inning was followed by Jackson's fourth homer of the season.

Indians 5, Brewers 2
Rick Sutcliffe scattered seven hits in 8 2-3 innings and Toby Harrah's two-run homer capped a three-run seventh as Cleveland beat Milwaukee.

Sutcliffe raised his record to 10-3 with last-out relief help from Bud Anderson, who recorded his first major league save. Sutcliffe struck out six and walked four as Cleveland won for only the second time in its last nine games.

Chuck Porter, 0-4, yielded four runs over the first 6 1-3 innings to take the loss.

American League

six innings for the Tigers, allowing only three hits, including Jim Dwyer's third-inning home run. Doug Bair pitched hitless ball over the final three innings to collect his first save as a Tiger.

The Tigers piled up 14 hits off four Baltimore pitchers, including Mike Boddicker, 4-4.

Red Sox 7, Yankees 3
Gary Allenson hit a three-run homer and Jim Rice continued his long-ball spree with his sixth homer in the last four games, powering Boston over New York. Allenson's homer capped Boston's four-run fourth inning. It was his first in 68 at-bats this season, while Rice hit his American League-leading 22nd with one out in the seventh.

Niekro stifles LA

HOUSTON (AP) — Astro pitcher Joe Niekro's fluttering knuckleballs must have seemed like brass knuckles to the Los Angeles Dodgers in an 8-1 Houston victory.

Niekro, 5-7, tossed a three-hit complete game for the Astros' second win over the Dodgers in a row after dropping eight of nine previous games to Los Angeles this year.

The Dodgers remained percentage points ahead of Atlanta for the top spot in the National League western division.

At 39-40, the Astros are flirting with the .500 mark before the all-star break, but must beat the Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela tonight to accomplish that.

"It's a big series for us," said Niekro. "To finish .500 before the all-star game is very important to us."

More important, the Astros reduced their deficit in the standings to the Dodgers to just nine games.

At 38, Niekro has been somewhat of a late bloomer in his 15-year major league career winning 20 games for the first time in 1979.

when he fanned eight in a row for the New York Yankees in 1981.

Schmidt, fighting one of the worst slumps in his career, drilled a solo homer in the bottom of eighth to snap a 4-4 tie.

Schmidt, voted to start at third base for the NL in Wednesday's All-Star game, batted just .171 between May 6 and June 28.

Schmidt's 15th homer of the season was the first allowed this year by Mets rookie reliever Doug Sisk, 2-2, in 58 2-3 innings. Schmidt now has five hits in his last 13 at-bats since sitting out a few games last week.

Padres 4, Giants 1
Dave Dravecky won his major league-leading 12th game as Steve Garvey blasted a grand slam for San Diego.

Dravecky, 12-5, pitched a five-hitter in recording his eighth complete game of the season. He allowed Jeff Leonard's seventh homer in the fourth inning.

Garvey's fifth career slam, and his 14th homer of the season, came in the fifth inning with two outs.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 3
Pinch hitter Steve Braun cracked a two-run homer in the seventh inning to snap a 2-2 tie. The loss was the fifth in six games for Pittsburgh following a nine-game winning streak.

Braun's second homer came off Manny Sarmineto, 1-3.

Cardinals starter Bob Forsch shut out the Pirates on three hits until Jason Thompson belted a two-run homer, his 10th, in the sixth inning. Reliever Bruce Sutter hurled the final two innings and got his seventh save, despite allowing Tony Pena's run-scoring single in the ninth.

Reds 2, Braves 1
Rookie Nick Esasky put Cincinnati ahead with a two-run homer and three relievers helped the Reds break their spell against Atlanta.

The Braves had beaten the Reds 10 straight times since losing to Cincinnati on opening day.

Esasky's second homer of the season came in the top of the sixth off Craig McMurtry, 8-5.

Cubs 7, Expos 4
Chicago continued to roll as the Cubs won their sixth straight game behind Keith Moreland.

The defeat was Montreal's fifth in a row, its longest losing streak of the season.

Moreland hit his 12th homer off Bill Gullickson, 7-4, in the fourth inning and then triggered a tie-breaking, three-run sixth with a wind-blown double.

National League

Omitting the strike-shortened 1981 season, this has been Niekro's slowest start in five years.

Five walks as well as five strikeouts didn't mar his performance. "I walked some, but I kept the number of hits down. Earlier, the hits and walks were both up."

Phillies 6, Mets 4
Willie Hernandez continues to dazzle the opposition from the mound for the Philadelphia Phillies, while Mike Schmidt continues to solidify his All-Star credentials at the plate.

The pair combined to give the Phillies a late-inning burst in Sunday's 6-4 triumph over the New York Mets.

Hernandez tied a National League record for relief pitchers by striking all six batters he faced in raising his record to 3-0. Hernandez struck out the side in the eighth inning and then mowed down the Mets in the ninth.

He became the eighth reliever in NL history to strike out six in a row. The last to do it was Bruce Sutter, then with the Chicago Cubs, in 1977.

Ron Davis set the major league record

Injury keeps Jackson out of all-stars

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — California Angels outfielder Reggie Jackson won't be playing in the All-Star game in Chicago Wednesday night because his ribs are still badly bruised, an Angels spokesman said Sunday.

Jackson has been sidelined since running into a fence while chasing a foul ball during a game with the Texas Rangers on June 21. He had to be carried from the field on a stretcher.

Seeberg said Jackson hopes to be back with California by July 8.

Those amazing Rangers

MAN, WE'RE HAVING SOME FUN — The Texas Rangers shattered a 35-year-old major league baseball mark when they scored 12 runs in the 15th inning to rout the Oakland A's 16-4 Sunday afternoon. Celebrating during the big inning are, from left, Rangers Pete O'Brien (9), George Wright and Larry Parrish.

Texas' 12-run inning is all-time best

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Texas Rangers wild, wild west show — a display of holiday fireworks that featured 12 runs in the 15th inning of a 16-4 rout of the Oakland A's — broke a 55-year-old major league record, tied another and set or tied six team marks.

"It was an extremely strange game," Larry Bittner understated after Sunday's five-hour, 19-minute marathon. "It gets to the point where you just want to get it over with. It kind of humbles you a little."

A's reliever Ben Callahan was shell-shocked after giving up six hits and seven runs in two-thirds of an inning following the five runs Dave Beard gave up on two hits and three walks. Callahan looked like he was ready to wave a white flag and surrender on the mound.

"I was just getting madder and madder," he said. Oakland's Carney Lansford sympathized, noting "everything they hit found a hole."

Texas' Bobby Jones triggered the rally with his second double of the game, a two-run shot, then doubled again later in the inning and wound up with five hits, four RBI and some records.

"I've never gotten more than two hits in a big league game before," said the nonplussed Jones, who wasn't even on Texas roster when the season started.

The big inning surpassed the 1928 New York Yankees' 11 runs in an extra-inning game against the Detroit Tigers. Jones' two doubles in an inning tied a major league record held by several players.

Jones' three doubles tied a club record and he tied another with his five hits. The 16 runs tied a club record for an extra inning game and the 21 hits in the game was one short of a club record set earlier this year. The 12 runs in an inning set another Texas record, as did the time of the game.

Texas sent 16 batters to the plate in the 15th and had eight hits and four walks.

The win was the Rangers' seventh victory without a loss this year against the A's.

Oakland reliever Dave Beard, 2-1, worked his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the 14th

"It was an extremely strange game. It kind of humbles you a little."

Ranger Larry Bittner

inning of the five-hour marathon, but got himself in trouble again in the 15th. Bucky Dent led off with a walk and Buddy Bell, who had homered earlier, followed with a single. Beard walked George Wright intentionally to load the bases one out later, and Jones followed with his fourth hit of the game, a line drive over the head of A's right fielder Bill Hancock.

Wright scored from third on a wild pitch to give Texas a 7-4 lead, and after another walk reliever Ben Callahan gave up a single to Larry Bittner that scored Jones. An error by second baseman Davey Lopes allowed two more runs to score, and Dent and Bell followed with RBI singles and Larry Parrish's smashed a two-run double to make the score 14-4. With two out, Jones doubled again to drive in Parrish, and Bobby Johnson singled in Jones to finish the scoring.

Odell Jones, 3-3, gained the victory for Texas with four strikeouts and only one hit in 3 2-3 innings.

The A's scored two runs in the ninth off reliever Dave Schmidt to tie the score at 4-4. Ricky Henderson led off with a single, stole his fourth base of the game and 39th of the season, and scored on a single by Wayne Gross. Carney Lansford singled to send Gross to second, and Bill Almon drove home Gross with a single for the tying run.

Buddy Bell and Larry Parrish stroked back-to-back homers in the fourth inning off Oakland starter Jeff Jones. Bell's 10th home run and Parrish's 13th homer off Oakland starter Jeff Jones landed in almost exactly the same spot in the left field bleachers to give Texas a 2-0 lead.

After the A's made it 2-1 on an unearned run in the seventh, Texas scored again in the eighth on a single by Mickey Rivers, an error, a single by Bucky Dent, and Bell's sacrifice fly.

After Carney Lansford's solo homer in the seventh off Texas starter Charlie Hough, the Rangers made it 4-2 in the ninth on an RBI single by Jones before the A's came back to tie the score in the ninth.

Panthers claim USFL's Central Division title

By The Associated Press
Defensive end John Banaszak, who has played football in Michigan as a collegiate at Eastern Michigan and as a professional with the Michigan Panthers, tried to put the moment into focus.

"If we win the playoffs we'll be the toast of this town," he suggested during a champagne-soaked celebration Sunday. The bubbly put an exclamation point on the Panthers' Central Division title clinching, which brought the Detroit area within two victories of its first major league sports championship since the Tigers' 1968 World Series victory.

Sunday's 33-7 victory over the Arizona Wranglers, on the final day of the United States Football League's first regular season, sent Michigan, 12-6, into a semifinal round playoff matchup next Sunday at the Pontiac Silverdome against Oakland. The Invaders, Pacific Division champs, take a .500 record into the contest.

The winner will play the winner of next Saturday's other semifinal game at Philadelphia between the Philadelphia and the Atlantic Division champion Stars and the Chicago Blitz, 12-6. The championship game will take place

Sunday night, July 17, at Denver's Mile High Stadium.

In the Panthers' victory, running back Ken Lacy threw for one touchdown and ran for another in the first quarter as Arizona, 4-14, matched the Washington Federals for the league's worst record.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 5, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you are able to reduce the ideas of the past two days and nights to a practical reality, and especially where anything connected with money is concerned.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you give your personal attention to any dealings in business that you may have, they can meet with real success.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your reflection in the mirror and then do whatever is necessary for self improvement. Contact one you admire.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have a secret plan that can bring you greater success, so get busy and start on it. Gain the help of one who understands your ideas.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Look to a dynamic and clever friend for the assistance you need in making your life more prosperous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have the opportunity to impress a bigwig with your charm and warmth and gain the support you need for some new venture.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have fine ideas for advancing in the days ahead and can now take the initial steps in such direction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to show gratitude to those who have done you favors in business, etc. in the past and gain more good will.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can easily convince a stubborn partner that your plan for mutual progress is worthwhile, and then put it in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You now know how to do your work more efficiently and gain more benefits in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can achieve both personal and creative aims quite easily today. Make sure you know what your mate wants most.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you are more practical with those who dwell with you, you can get far better response from them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You understand how to solve the problematical affairs of your everyday activities. Get together with allies.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very magnetic and will attract others but will also have decided ability for business and finances. Be sure to give as fine an education as you can. Permit to participate in healthful sports of own liking.

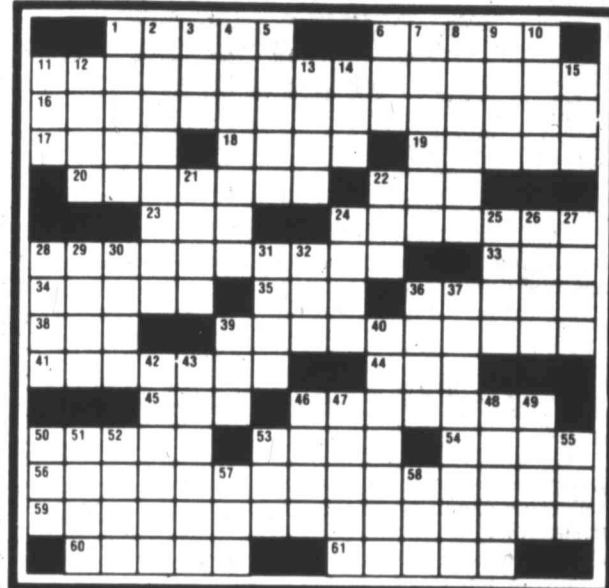

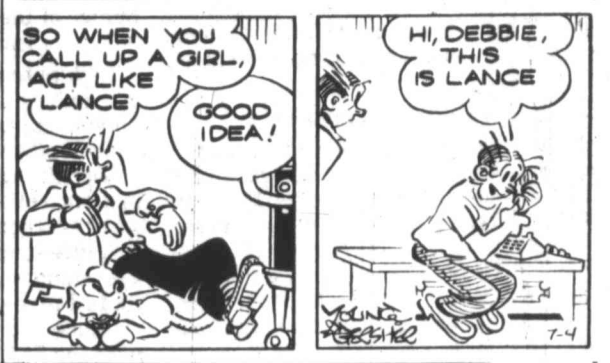

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
