Thermometer hits July 4 record high

From staff and wire reports
The thermometer yesterday hit a record Independence Day high, and a funnel cloud skirted Big Spring as dark skies producing natural fireworks threatened severe weather toward the end of the July 4 holiday. However, no rain was officially reported in the city, and the twister disappeared without causing any damage.

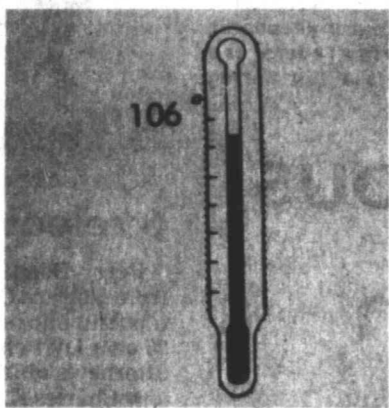

The funnel cloud was sighted at 8:30 p.m. about eight miles south of Big Spring moving in a northeasterly direction and kicking up a small dust storm. The cloud broke apart about 10 minutes after it formed.

Yesterday's high temperature of 106 degrees topped the previous high mark of 102 recorded on July 4, 1971.

Colorado City received a few sprinkles yesterday after recording a high temperature of 106 degrees.

The community of Carr near Westbrook in Mitchell County reportedly received five inches of rain last night as an isolated thunderstorm moved through the area.

Severe thunderstorm alerts were issued for Howard and Glasscock Counties for several hours last evening, but only sprinkles of rain were reported.

Skies Tuesday morning again threatened rain, but the National Weather Service in Midland gave the area only a 20 percent chance at precipitation.

High winds triggered by a heavy thunderstorm blew a house off its foundation early today in the small North Texas community of Weston.

The small frame house was damaged about 5 a.m. when a thunderstorm moved through the Collin County community, about 60 miles north of Dallas, according to a sheriff's department dispatcher. No injuries were reported.

The storm was one of a series of heavy thunderstorms that developed in North Texas early today as a weak cold front moved into the area and collided with warmer, unstable air.

Heavy rains and small hail were noted from Wichita Falls east to Paris.

Mostly cloudy skies were reported across South and South Central Texas, while the remainder of the state was under fair to partly cloudy skies.

Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 62 at Amarillo to 82 at Brownsville. Winds south of the front were southerly at 10 to 15 mph, while northeasterly winds near 10 mph prevailed north of the front.

The forecast called for fair to partly cloudy skies statewide with hot afternoon temperatures and scattered showers and thunderstorms through Wednesday.

AN AMERICAN GO-CART — These boys won second place in the motorized vehicle contest at the Highland South Independence Day Parade Monday morning. They are, from left, Mikael Balderach, 6, Stephan Balderach, 9, and Markus Balderach, 4. The boys' parents are Sharon Baldwin of 2601 Cindy and Tom Balderach of 7 Glenwick Cove.

Neighbors gather for Highland South parade

South Mountain was decorated with red, white and blue Monday morning.

It was the Highland South Independence Day parade, an annual event for the neighborhood and the only organized observance of the Fourth of July in Big Spring.

Over 150 youngsters, their parents and onlookers marched the length of Highland Drive at 10 a.m. Not all of them marched. Some rode tricycles, bicycles or gaudily decorated go-carts and golf carts.

This year's parade even had a float — a flat-bed truck covered with patriotic bunting.

Those who didn't march viewed the parade from their front lawns, waving and applauding as the youngsters went by.

There were more American flags than a person could count.

The parade ended at the intersection of Highland and Goliad.

There the parade listened as Royce Clay, minister of 14th and Main Church of Christ, asked that everyone be thankful for the freedom America enjoys. His speech ended with a plea for strong crime prevention and law enforcement to ensure that freedom.

Then Master of Ceremonies Hooper Sanders handed out awards to youngsters.

Blake Palmer won the prize for best costume. Amy Griffin came in second and John Collier was third.

Will Parker was awarded for the best tricycle. Taylor Johnson was second best and Kelly Hutch finished third.

Judges said Jessica Hamby's bicycle was the best decorated. Wendy Cox was second and Janet Johnston third.

The battle of the three-wheeled wagons was won by James Hester. Grinner Hester finished second, Jeffrey Johnson finished third.

And of the motor-driven vehicles, Chad Wash steered his way to first place. Stephan Balderach was second and Brandon Haney was third.

57 die on highways

AUSTIN (AP) — Highway patrol officials, predicting that tougher enforcement of drunken driving laws would curb holiday traffic deaths, reported that alcohol abuse helped push the death count over the forecasted number before most Texans had returned home.

The Texas Department of Public Safety had predicted 49 people would die in traffic related accidents during the three-day holiday period, but the final death toll Tuesday exceeded that grim prediction, with 57 roadway deaths reported as of midnight Monday. The count began at 6 p.m. Friday.

"We do think that alcohol and excessive speed were the two major (accident) factors," said DPS spokesman David Wells.

Wells said four out of five deaths resulted from "single fatality accidents," and that one of four people killed were pedestrians.

The DPS had said increased public awareness and stronger DWI enforcements would lower the rate from last year's Fourth of July, which had 64 people killed over the holiday. But they had also hoped this year's tally would be considerably lower than the one in 1982.

DPS spokesman Larry Todd anticipated the number would soar past the 49 count prediction, saying the most dangerous time of Independence Day weekend is on the last day, when people head home.

"We are disappointed that we have had so many accidents," Todd said. "We know that the end of any three-day holiday can be a dangerous time as motorists head home."

He said alcohol and speeding were a big reason for the higher death toll.

"It looks like some people insisted on speeding and driving drunk. Those were the two biggest factors. We can't prove alcohol in all of them, but we believe alcohol was a big factor in many of them," he said.

Among the latest fatalities reported to the DPS: Velson Seldon, 17, of Schertz, a passenger in a three-car collision, was killed Monday afternoon on U.S. 90 in Hondo. Julie J. Floth, 15, of San Antonio, also a passenger in the vehicle, died from injuries sustained in the crash.

Clyde Lee, 24, of Waskom, was killed when his motorcycle crashed with a car last night in Harrison County.

Ronnie J. Dula, of Couington, La., was killed when his truck hit a fixed object and rolled over in Houston last night, and Alfred E. Hooper, 23, of Houston, was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle Monday night in Houston.

Mary Bolton Cannon, 33, of Jacksonville, was killed after she missed a curve one mile south of Jacksonville last night.

Thomas Ray Barnard, 49, of Mt. Pleasant, died early Tuesday morning from injuries sustained when his car ran off the road Monday night on U.S. 271 in Camp County.

Brian Donald Bouchelle, 20, of San Antonio, was killed as a pedestrian last night when a car hit him on Frontage Road on Interstate 10 in Bexar County.

West Texas rancher willing to lose money for air service

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — West Texas rancher N.M. Mitchell Jr. said last week Friday he is willing to lose up to $250,000 to launch twice-daily nonstop passenger air service between San Angelo and Midland-Odessa.

If losses approach that level, he told a Texas Aeronautics Commission hearing examiner, "we will take a long, hard look at it."

Mitchell, a Sanderson rancher and investor, wants commission approval to operate passenger service as Wise Airlines. The hearing examiner, Tom Butler, said an interim decision on the application could be made by the commission's executive director by mid-August. The commission, which does not meet again until October, would have to approve or disapprove that decision.

"We are prepared to invest a sizable sum in this operation," Mitchell, 43, said. "We think right now we will carry the operation until it has a net loss of

Under a "worst case" scenario outlined by Mitchell, such a loss theoretically could occur during the first 250 days of operation.

Records Mitchell filed with the commission indicated the company expects to lose $66,480 during its first six months of operation. After that, the company projects passenger levels to reach 50 percent occupancy levels and expects to begin earning a profit.

The application already has received the backing of San Angelo Mayor Tom Parrett and the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce's transportation committee. Officials with San Angelo's Mathis Field have agreed to lease ticketing space and terminal service to the air service.

Wise hopes to operate two flights daily from San Angelo to Midland-Odessa, one at 6:50 a.m. Monday through Saturday and one at 4 p.m. Sunday through Saturday. See WEST TEXAS, page 2A

Montford receives 'F' from teachers' group

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Federation of Teachers issued a report card Friday on the Texas Senate's 1983 votes on education issues, and Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, who represents Howard County, scored an "F."

Under the teacher group's rating system, that translates to "fail."

The teacher group, which claims 15,000 Texas members, analyzed 11 Senate votes. Senators' scores depended on whether they voted with or against the teacher group's viewpoint.

Other West Texas senators scored poorly in the federation's eyes as well. Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, received a "U" also, Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, scored an "F," while Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, received an "F."

A senator could have received any one of six grades:

- "A — Excellent, needs promotion to the 69th" legislative session in 1985.
- "B — Above average."

JOHN MONTFORD ...receives an 'F'

- "C — Average, needs more study on the issues."
- "D — Poor, needs remediation."
- "F — Fail, needs to be retained in district."
- "U, unsatisfactory, no attempt made to help on issues."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, called the Senate's class principal by the federation, received a "B." The federation, generally more liberal than its rival association, the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, made no attempt to grade Gov. Mark White's legislative performance on education.

"He's still in school," said John Cole, the federation's president.

White's call for a 24 percent, two-year teacher pay increase went unanswered during the Legislature's 140-day regular session that ended May 30.

Issues used to develop the report card did not deal strictly with education. Three concerned the extension of worker's compensation benefits to farmworkers, and two votes were on a partisan political fight that resulted in the rejection of former House Speaker Bill Clayton's appointment as a Texas A&M University Regent and former Gov. John Connally as a University

Fireworks, parades highlight 4th bash

By The Associated Press
Fireworks illuminated the sky in all corners of Texas Monday night as the Lone Star State paraded and partied its way through another Independence Day.
In Dallas, some spectators had to watch the fireworks display from their cars — stuck in a traffic jam leading to the Cotton Bowl.
Texans in small towns and large cities lined streets to cheer parades and crowded beaches to soak up some sun.
In Houston, several thousand people gathered for an old-fashioned celebration at Sam Houston Park. The festival featured people dressed up as George and Martha Washington, and hotdogs and chicken sold for 25 cents.
In Fort Worth, House Majority Leader Jim Wright rode on horseback in his hometown's annual Independence Day parade, and said the occasion showed the strength of America.
"We have sort of a tensile strength in this country that is made up of many alloys," Wright said. "We're going to survive the problems of today."
Nearby, about 30 marchers paraded to Carswell Air Force Base and called for a freeze on nuclear weapons.
"We have to create a new economy," said anti-nuclear marcher Linda Hajek. "We have to create instruments of peace for nurturing and caring rather than instruments of death."
Tens of thousands of sun-lovers flocked to the beaches of Galveston over the sunny holiday weekend. The beaches generally were quiet, but four drownings were reported Saturday and Sunday, said a spokeswoman for the Galveston police.
Sunbathers packed the beaches of South Padre Island Monday, officials said, and an estimated 80,000 people were treated to an early fireworks display Sunday night in Dallas.

MISS TEXAS HOPEFULS — Six of the 82 contestants in the 1983 Miss Texas Pageant pose in Fort Worth Monday. Left to right, they are Miss Lubbock, Sonoma Marvelli; Miss Amarillo, Andrea Lamb; Miss San Angelo, Felicia Ford; Miss West Texas, Stephanie Cates; Miss Wayland University, Charmy Tellers; and Miss Pampa, Brandi Huff. Felicia is a Big Spring resident.

Pageant chairman serious about duties of position

FORT WORTH (AP) — B. Don Magness takes his job seriously.
That's why he keeps up on the latest issues of Women's Wear Daily, Vogue and Glamour, and why he tells women not to wear white nylon stockings.
Magness, 55, is chairman of the Miss Texas pageant. It is his job to tell more than 40 women aspiring to be the next Miss Texas how to best show off their bodies and their talents.
Magness has been working since January on this year's pageant, which begins today at the Tarrant County Convention Center and ends Saturday night. For the first time, the competition will be shown on network television. In the past, independent stations aired the show on a delayed basis.
Magness is hardly a rank amateur at the beauty-and-talent business. His involvement with the pageant goes back more than 20 years, when he first helped organize a local pageant in Haltom City.
In the meantime, he has been chairman of the Texas pageant for 13 years. He also has helped coach two Texans who went on to become Miss America:

B. DON MAGNESS

coaching the contestants, which isn't all beauty, fun and games.
He told Ms. Cothran to give up her singing routine and play the flute in the Miss America talent competition.
He advised Gloria Gilbert, reigning Miss Texas, to shape her upper body if she planned to win.
And he keeps telling Cindy Green, in her third bid for Miss Texas, to talk slower and "tone down the hair."
"He doesn't miss a thing — down to the toenails. But isn't it wonderful to have someone tell you the truth?" beams Miss Green, the current Miss Duncanville.
Shirley Cothran — now Dr. Shirley Cothran Barrett of Denton, mother of two — also appreciated Magness' advice. She called him "a rock of Gibraltar."
"I think I'm still in awe of B. Don," she said. "Whenever his name was mentioned it was said with great respect." In terms of image, he chose a feminine look for her — a wardrobe of fullness, ribbons and ruffles.
This year, Magness has advised women in the pageant not to wear white nylon stockings.

"It makes their legs look larger and draws attention," he said. He also has told them not to wear "fadish" clothes, and dresses that go past the knee.
Magness, who sports a "B. Don" diamond tie clip and ring, looks like a power broker except for the pile of stuffed animals in his office at Will Rogers Auditorium, where he is the city's $55,000-a-year director of public events. The toys are gifts from former contestants.
He runs the well-oiled institution like any "typical chairman of the board," says president Barry Hall, who considers Magness easy-going but emphatic when he needs be.
Magness' son Scott says the pageant is "No. 1 things he lives for."
"He gets things done without you really knowing he's doing it," says executive director June Mirike, calling herself a Magness protegee.
Two years ago Magness announced his retirement but chose to stay on after his marriage of 25 years broke up. Losing "a wife of 25 years and a pageant of 22 years, I'm sure you go into some kind of a shock," he says dryly.

In the Dallas suburb of University Park, the 20th annual Independence Day parade sparked a brief controversy over whether a Bull Dog tank should be allowed to parade through the streets, despite its weight. Officials who feared street damage were pleased to announce after the two-mile procession that there was no damage.

In Stamford, cowboys converged on West Texas for the Texas Cowboy Reunion, highlighted by an old-time fiddlers' contest.
Fireworks were planned, wind permitting, in many cities and towns, including Amarillo, Abilene, El Paso, Austin, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Autopsy: sisters beaten

MINERAL WELLS (AP) — Preliminary autopsy results show two elderly sisters found slain in their home died from cerebral hemorrhages inflicted by beatings, authorities said.

The bodies of Emma Mae London, 80, and Francis Pickard Hodges, 75, were found lying on the kitchen floor of Ms. London's home Thursday, police said.
Officers found a four-foot length of blood-stained metal pipe in the living room.

Police Chief Don Fairrel said Monday that police are investigating leads, but need more information from a crime lab analysis before they can be pursued.

Robbery is believed to be the motive in the killings, Fairrel said.
Two purses with their contents dumped out were found in the living room, but Fairrel said police do not know how much money was taken.

Air service

Friday.
Return flights from Midland-Odessa, under the company's proposal, would depart at 9:15 a.m. Monday through Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday through Friday.
Fares, under the company proposal, would be $45 one-way and $85 round trip.
With assistance from Southwest Bank of San Angelo, the company plans to purchase a 19-seat De Havilland turbo-prop valued at approximately $710,000. A six-seat Cessna owned by Mitchell would be used as backup.

The company estimates that 18 to 20 percent of the airline tickets purchased in San Angelo are sold to passengers who then drive about 130 miles to board planes at the Midland-Odessa airport.
In addition, the company said that all current flights from Mathis Field stop at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. Flights to Midland-Odessa would connect with Southwest Airlines and allow passengers take advantage of economy fares offered by Southwest and Muse Air, which use Dallas' Love Field.

Vietnamese suffer from stress

LUBBOCK (AP) — The Vietnamese people who have flocked to this country in the past 10 years have adjusted successfully as a rule, but also have suffered much stress, partly because of perceived hostility from some Americans, according to a recent study.
More than 300,000 Indochinese immigrated to the United States in 1975 alone, following communist takeover of what formerly was South Vietnam.
The Vietnamese in the U.S. have been successful partly because most were highly educated, young, urban, and from a high social class, said Texas Tech University sociologist Alden Roberts, who conducted a three-year study of 350 Vietnamese who resettled in this country.

The immigrants "were not a random cross-section of the people in Vietnam," Roberts said.
Of those surveyed, 87 percent listed themselves as lower middle class or higher in South Vietnam's social structure. The average refugee had at least a high school education. Some 40 percent were under age 17 while only 5 percent were over 63.
"They had already known a middle-class lifestyle and the advantages of literacy and education," Roberts said.
"When they came over to this country, even though they had a number of burdens, they also had an advantage over the average Vietnamese."
"This allowed them to advance as fast as they did. If they had been some of the boat people, immigrants mostly illiterate in their own language, there would have been an incredible handicap," he said.
But Roberts said there also is a darker side to American life for many Vietnamese immigrants — high stress.
The stress of the group as a whole "goes off the end of the scale," Roberts said.

Police Beat

Fourth passes quietly

Police spent the Fourth of July investigating fireworks disturbances — 27 in all — but no arrests were made for violating the city ordinance prohibiting use of the fiery and loud devices.
● The Fourth was not a happy occasion for one youngster as his grandmother, Harriett Talbott of 703 W. 16th, told police someone stole her grandson's bicycle from their residence Monday night.
● Randy's Fina Service on 3101 West Highway 80 was the victim of criminal mischief between Saturday and Monday as someone broke a $300 window at the front of the station.
● J.B. Hardeman of 104 N.E. 9th told police the back window of his car was broken June 20 by an unknown person. He valued the loss at $175.
● The Department of Public Safety arrested Jack Elbert Walker, 66, of 1900 Main, for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Walker posted $1,500 bond to be released after arraignment before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Mercy killing trial begins

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who told police he killed his comatose father because he couldn't stand to see him suffer has no defense under the state penal code, a prosecutor said today.
Jury selection in the murder trial of Billy Ray Clow, 25, was to begin today. He is charged in the March 21 shooting of his father, 65-year-old Robert Clow, in a north Harris County nursing home. The father died without regaining consciousness.

Andropov meets with Kohl today

MOSCOW (AP) — Yuri V. Andropov met with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl today, 24 hours after the Soviet leader's sudden cancellation of two meetings with his guest raised questions about his health.

The meeting, announced by the official news agency Tass, is the first Andropov has held with the head of a NATO government since becoming Communist Party leader last November following the death of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Tass gave no details of the morning meeting, saying only that the two leaders "have had a conversation at the Kremlin today."

Andropov, 69, has seemed frail in recent public appearances and his abrupt cancellation of his meetings with Kohl on Monday "for personal reasons" led Western observers to believe he was ill.

The Foreign Ministry summoned West German Ambassador Andreas Mayer-Landruh early Monday and told him Andropov would forego Monday's scheduled talks and a state banquet at the Kremlin.

Monday's cancellation was so sudden that there was barely time to telephone Kohl with the change of plans before he boarded his plane for Moscow, West German sources said.

The chancellor told journalists with him on the plane that he did not see the cancellation as a snub and accepted Andropov's excuse of personal reasons.

West German officials were unwilling to speculate about reasons for the cancellation, though they did little to quash theories among the 120 journalists accompanying Kohl that Andropov's health was to blame.

But diplomats said they could not explain how, if Andropov were sick, he could cancel meetings — provoking a diplomatic incident and a scare about leadership health usually most unwelcome to Moscow officials — and yet schedule a meeting for today.

Some diplomats said Andropov may have been affected by the 82-degree heat and high humidity in Moscow on Sunday.

The concern caused by Monday's sudden move displaced what had been the main focus of Kohl's trip — the East-West quarrel over nuclear arms in Europe.

At the Kremlin dinner Monday, Kohl and Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov, substituting for Andropov, said they believed there still is time to reach agreement at the U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva on limiting nuclear missiles in Europe.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has pledged to start installing 572 U.S.-made medium-range missiles in Western Europe by year-end if the Geneva talks fail. NATO says the missiles are meant to counter a Soviet buildup of more than 350 SS-20 medium-range missiles aimed at West European targets.

"I appeal to the Soviet Union to make possible a balanced result at the talks," Kohl said. "I agree with the Soviet government that it is not too late."

Tikhonov said "there is still a possibility for...an agreement at Geneva and we call for making use of it."

He dwelt on what he called the need for agreement and for equal levels of nuclear arms between East and West, but coupled this with a warning that the Soviet bloc would take measures "without delay" to respond to any NATO deployment of the new missiles.

Like previous Soviet statements, Tikhonov's speech — reportedly the text Andropov would have read if he had been present at the banquet — did not say what the Soviets plan to do if new U.S. missiles are stationed.

West German officials familiar with the talks held Monday between Kohl and Tikhonov indicated they amounted to little more than a restatement of positions on the missiles issue.

The Soviets' most influential newspaper, the Communist Party daily Pravda, indicated there would be little progress on the missiles issue in an article today that reiterated Moscow's objections to U.S. disarmament proposals.

U.S. offers amounted to "no more than a mirage" of reasonableness and are part of a "pre-planned deadlock" Washington has arranged to install the Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe, Pravda said.

A Soviet source said prior to Kohl's arrival that the Kremlin was now resigned to at least the initial deployment of Pershing 2s in West Germany and cruise missiles in Britain and Italy, scheduled for this fall.

Showers soak nation

By The Associated Press
Showers soaked widely scattered areas from New Mexico to the Atlantic Coast today after a sultry Independence Day that saw thunderstorms with hail and deadly lightning pummel some sections.

A massive cold front extending Monday from southwest Texas to the lower Great Lakes was responsible for a system of severe thunderstorms that moved through New York state.

One girl was killed and another injured by lightning at a camp in Warren County, officials said. Lightning also killed a man on an island at nearby Lake George, authorities said.

A woman died and a 9-year-old boy was hurt at a Lake George campground when high winds dropped a tree branch on their tent, collapsing it, officials said.

Wind gusts also sent the top of a tree crashing down on spectators at a fireworks display in Sylvan Beach, N.Y., near Syracuse, killing one person and sending six others to a hospital, authorities said.

Storms sweeping across the Great Lakes and upper Ohio River Valley pushed winds to 70 mph at Cambridge, Ohio. Trees and power lines were reported flattened Monday in portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, North Carolina and New York.

In Texas, a tornado was sighted southwest of Big Spring and hail that cracked car windshields was reported in southern Scurry County.

Aside from showers and thunderstorms today along a line from upper New York state to southwest Texas, and rain along the mid-Atlantic Coast, fair weather was predicted for the rest of the nation with cooler air flowing into the Upper Midwest.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 41 degrees in Copper Harbor, Mich., to 90 at Phoenix, Ariz.

West Texas — Partly cloudy with widely scattered thunderstorms central and west through tonight. Partly cloudy most sections Wednesday. Highs 85 Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend. Lows 62 Panhandle to 78 extreme south. Highs Wednesday 92 mountains and Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend.

Chemical fumes overcome 14 firemen

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Fourteen firefighters called in to unload leaking containers of chemicals from a tractor-trailer were overcome by fumes today and required hospital treatment, authorities said.

When the company notified the township, firefighters arrived to remove the chemicals, Hauss said. After the men began complaining of nausea and dizziness, a Bucks County hazardous materials team was called in, the chief said.

Bristol Township Fire Chief James Hauss said workers at the Helms Express Inc. truck terminal smelled fumes from containers of what appeared to be pesticides, insecticides and fungicides when they opened the doors of a rig shortly after midnight.

When the company notified the township, firefighters arrived to remove the chemicals, Hauss said. After the men began complaining of nausea and dizziness, a Bucks County hazardous materials team was called in, the chief said.

Detroit pair displays their 'independence' during climb

DETROIT (AP) — A Hollywood stuntman and his daredevil buddy say they showed their "independence" with a dual Fourth of July ascent of the 73-story Westin Hotel, which they claimed was the first double climb of a major building.

Police arrested the two — who made the climb despite a tornado watch — when they pulled themselves over the top of Detroit's tallest building after a 6 1/2-hour climb Monday.

A third man who maintained radio contact with them from the ground also was arrested.

"You can't control the weather," 29-year-old Ron Broyles of Los Angeles radioed back when told of the tornado watch shortly before they reached the top at 2 p.m.

"I've been rained on" in previous climbs, he said. "This is nothing at all."

Two people die when bus skids off Kentucky road

CARROLLTON, Ky. (AP) — Passengers on a church bus begged the driver to reduce his speed just before the vehicle plunged down a 300-foot embankment, killing two people and injuring about 20 others, officials say.

The bus skidded off Interstate 71 about 4 p.m. Monday, broke through a guard rail and flipped several times while diving down the bank near Carrollton, about 45 miles northeast of Louisville, said Carroll County Coroner James Dunn.

James E. Montgomery, assistant director of the Disaster and Emergency Services office in Carroll County, said the bus may have been speeding.

"One of the passengers said they kept begging the driver to slow down and he wouldn't do it," Montgomery said.

Driving conditions also may have been hampered by thunderstorms packing heavy rains and wind, said state Trooper James Mudd.

Mudd said the passengers he interviewed "were not coherent enough to provide much information." He said only that the bus left the road "for reasons

Time running out for boy who wandered from camp

ROAN MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — Worried searchers said time might be running out for a "pretty scared" 8-year-old boy who wandered away from a mountain campsite three days ago and may be afraid of his would-be rescuers.

Michael Eugene Reel, of Hickory, N.C., has been missing since Saturday, when he left his family's campsite on Roan Mountain. Sheriff's officials said a search by more than 100 law enforcement officers and volunteers using dogs and helicopters has been hampered by the boy's apparent fear of responding to rescuers.

The boy's father, Ernie Reel, was calling for him with a bullhorn Sunday when another searcher heard the boy yell, "Daddy, I'm coming out," law enforcement officials said. They waited, but never saw the boy emerge from the woods.

"He just won't come to the people that see him," said Avery County sheriff's dispatcher Mark Phillips. "Evidently he's pretty scared and won't come to them."

Hamlet's 4 churches torched by arsonist

GAUSE, Texas (AP) — The pastor of one of four small churches in or near this tiny agriculture town hit by an arsonist armed with Molotov cocktails says he feels no animosity toward the man described as "a nut with a flame in his hand."

Two churches, including one serving 11 members, were destroyed and two others were damaged extensively in the attacks early Monday in and near this east Central Texas town. No one was injured, authorities said.

"Nothing worthwhile was left. It was a total loss," said the Rev. Cleophus Swain, pastor of the Perry Memorial Church of God in Christ, a 64-by-24-foot structure that served a congregation of 11.

THE ZION HILL Missionary Baptist Church sustained several thousand dollars in smoke, fire and water damage and may be beyond repair, the Rev. J.H. Chapman said.

"The building is just about gone. There's a lot to be done, from what I could just see," Chapman said.

"We certainly feel sorry for someone like that," Chapman said of the arsonist. "We have no feelings of animosity."

The congregation's piano also was destroyed, Chapman said.

Fire also damaged the Stevens Chapel A.M.E. Church and the Hoyte Church of Christ, which is just north of Gause, said Milam County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Harris.

"We had just done about $5,000 in repairs," said Swain. "There have been church services in that old building for more than 50 years. Now it's gone. There's nothing we can do about it. It's just God's will, I guess."

MILAM COUNTY JUDGE Phil Smith called a special commissioner's court meeting today to discuss offering a reward for information about the fires.

Harris said authorities had no suspects and no motive for the fire bombings, which sheriff's deputies believe were started by the same person or group of people.

"It was definitely arson — no question about it," said Tommy Chamberlain, fire marshal in nearby Cameron. "All of the fires were caused by a nut with a flame in his hand."

Bottles were found at each fire, he said.

The first fire was reported at 3 a.m. Monday. Volunteer firefighters from Gause, aided by personnel from the Cameron and Hearne fire departments, extinguished the fires by about 6 a.m.

GAUSE IS ABOUT 20 miles northwest of College Station and 90 miles northwest of Houston.

"I didn't believe that we had those kind of enemies in Gause," said Sampson Standiford, chairman of the deacons of the Zion Hill church. "Everyone here works together and lives together and we've never had any problems like this. It's hard to believe."

REMAINS OF CHURCH — Ann Swain, left, and Mary Smith of Gause look over the remains of the Perry Memorial Church of God in Christ, one of four churches in the tiny Central Texas hamlet that were burned by an arsonist Monday.

Woman abducted by 4 men is raped, beaten

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police arrested two men and hunted for three others after an El Paso woman was abducted, held at knife-point and repeatedly raped both in a car and an apartment during a 6-hour attack.

The 32-year-old woman managed to sneak away from her abductors after the raping, and summoned police, authorities said. She was treated and released from a San Antonio hospital, police said.

The woman told officers she had stopped at a 24-hour northwest side supermarket near Interstate 10 shortly before midnight Sunday. A man jumped out of a nearby car, grabbed her by the neck and threw her inside a car containing four other men, police said.

"She was stripped of her clothing by all the male actors," San Antonio Police Patrolman Abel Hernandez said.

The men drove around the city and forced the woman to perform sexual acts with four of the men in the car, Hernandez said.

One of the five men wanted in connection with the attack is believed to have driven the attackers' car and did not participate in the sexual assaults, authorities said.

One of the men held a knife to her throat and threatened to kill her, the officer said. Everytime she screamed, one of the men struck her in the face with his fist, the woman told officers.

Gray's execution sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mississippi authorities were expected today to ask Chief Justice Warren E. Burger to lift a federal appeals court order that is blocking Wednesday's scheduled execution of convicted child killer Jimmy Lee Gray.

Mississippi Attorney General Bill Allain said he would ask Burger to overturn the stay of execution of bring the bring the issue before the full Supreme Court.

Over the holiday weekend, two other

Supreme Court justices, Byron White and William Rehnquist, turned down the state's request.

Mississippi authorities want to proceed with the execution of Gray, 34, who was sentenced to die for the kidnap, rape and slaying of 3-year-old Deressa Jean Scales of near Pascagoula. The killing occurred while Gray was on parole after serving seven years of a 20-year life term for murdering his 16-year-old girlfriend in Parker, Ariz.

Dear Dr. Bowen,
I have been suffering from hemorrhoids for several years. I have tried many treatments, but nothing seems to work. I am very embarrassed and would like to know if there is anything I can do to get rid of them. I have heard that you are a specialist in this area and I would like to see you if possible. Dr. Donohue

Nail fungus

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am very concerned about my toenails. There seems to be hard substance growing under them, like a fungus of some kind. Could you tell me if there is some medicine in a drugstore that I could get for this? I am so afraid of going to a foot specialist because my friends tell me that he will just remove my toenails. I've had this condition for about seven months and I'm starting to get ingrown nails. — L.C.

There are many anti-fungal medicines, and a drug-gist can suggest one of them. But your answer may not be in those kinds of medicines. There is a good oral medicine available for deep-seated infections of the nails. It's called griseofulvin. And for toenail infection you have to take it for a long time, six or more months. That time is needed to allow the medicine to get into the base of the nail, where fungus growth begins. As the nail grows out, the medicine stays with it and when it gets to the point of infection, it starts working on the fungus there.

I don't know why your friend insists that the doctor is going to remove your toenails. See the specialist and ask him about the medicine I mentioned. It may take some time, but it can be worthwhile if you can tolerate it. I don't think your friend has given you good advice.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Years ago, I read about the use of rubber bands to remove hemorrhoids. Is this still being done, and does it work? — G.G.

Sure, this procedure is still being done. You are referring to the use of bands to tie off the hemorrhoid tissue so that it will dry up and slough off. It's only one of several methods from which to choose for removing hemorrhoids. Your own physician will want to use the particular method with which he is most familiar and in which he has the greatest confidence. It won't always be the rubber band method, but if it is, fine.

And in response to J.T.'s related question, yes, this procedure is sometimes done without anesthetic and on an out-patient basis. The booklet "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids" will fill you in on the various procedures. Other readers may order a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

If afflicted with problem fingernails or toenails, learn about the practical, medically correct form of treatment. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

NOTE TO READERS — I stated in a recent column that Bowen's disease of the skin was restricted to the genital area. I omitted "not". It should have said that "Bowen's disease of the skin is not restricted to the genital area."

Dear Abby

Drinking tests families' patience

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you printed a list of test questions for the excessive drinker. My husband took the test, found he needed help and started going to Alcoholics Anonymous. He hasn't had a drink in five months and he can thank A.A. for that.

At the same time, I started attending Al-Anon meetings. It certainly helped me to cope with my home situation regardless of whether my husband was drinking or not.

Please print a list of test questions to help people decide whether they need Al-Anon.

GRATEFUL TO AL-ANON DEAR GRATEFUL: All right. Here are the questions:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drink?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that drinking is more important to your loved one than you are?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are mealtimes frequently delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?

10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?

11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?

12. Have you considered calling the police because of drinking behavior?

If the answer to five or more of the above questions is "Yes", you need Al-Anon. Look for its phone number in your telephone book. Or write to Al-Anon Family Group, Inc., P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010, for information. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man, 74, very active and in good health. I have been a widower for five years. About 10 days ago I had surgery and was in the hospital for eight days. (Nothing serious.)

I had a middle-aged nurse taking of me. She went out of her way to be nice to me and was extremely patient and good-natured. Just before leaving the hospital I told her how much I appreciated her, and I tried to give her a $20 bill. She refused to accept it. In fact she acted a bit insulted.

Abby, was I out of line by offering her a little tip for her service.

GRATEFUL PATIENT DEAR GRATEFUL: Although you meant well, nurses do not as a rule accept tips. But it would not be out of line to send her a thank-you card of a small gift.

Supermarket prices down for first half of 1983

By The Associated Press
The first half of 1983 ended with supermarket prices almost 1 percent below what they were at the start of the year, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The sharpest decline of the year — and the biggest monthly drop in over two years — came in June, when grocery bills dipped by 1.2 percent, offsetting increases earlier in 1983.

The AP survey is based on a list of 14 food and non-food items, selected at random. The items were priced at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and have been repriced on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the latest findings:
—The marketbasket bill rose at the checklist store in six cities during June, up an average of 1.6 percent. The bill decreased in seven cities, down an average of 3.7 percent. The overall change — a drop of 1.2 percent — was the biggest since a 2.7 percent decrease in May 1981. During May 1983, the marketbasket bill also was up in six cities and down in seven for an average drop of nearly two-tenths of 1 percent.

—Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the marketbasket at the start of July was higher in six cities — up an average of 3.8 percent — and lower in seven cities — down an average of 5.8 percent. Overall, there was an average drop of nine-tenths of 1 percent in the marketbasket bills at the checklist stores in the first half of this year. The marketbasket bills increased by an average of 3.5 percent in the same period of 1982.

—More items decreased in price during June than increased. One-fourth of all the items surveyed were lower at the checklist stores at the start of July than they were a month earlier and only one-fifth were higher.

—Savings at the meat counter helped cut the bills during June. Meats accounted for 21 percent of the items on the AP checklist, but represented 33 percent of the decreases. All-beef frankfurters declined last month at the checklist store in eight cities and center-cut pork chops went down in seven cities. The only meat item to show more increases than decreases was chopped chuck, which rose last month at the checklist store in eight cities.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed fewer increases and more decreases during June than during May. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	May	June
Up	25.8	21.4
Down	18.1	25.3
Unchanged	53.3	48.4
Unavailable	2.8	4.9

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes were used. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was removed from the list when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

City	Mar 1	Apr 1	May 1	June 1	Change
Albuquerque	2.26	2.26	0	2.00	2.25 + 8
Atlanta	1.79	2.50	+45	2.19	1.79 - 18

HOLIDAY SHOWS — The Beach Boys perform for some 200,000 cheering spectators on the beach of Atlantic City late Monday. A local casino brought the group here for the free concert after James Watt would not let the group appear in Washington. In the lower photo, singer Wayne Newton sings for a crowd of about 215,000 outside the Washington Monument. The performance and fireworks which followed were delayed by more than an hour because of rain.

Man loses arms in cannon accident

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A cannon misfired during a Civil War reenactment, severing the arms of a 39-year-old man and injuring another man, police said. Kenneth Huff of Orem was in critical condition following surgery at Utah Valley Hospital late Monday.

A nursing supervisor said Huff lost an eye and his arms were amputated below the elbows by the blast Monday afternoon at the Kiwanis Park in Provo.

The cannon discharged prematurely during reloading during a Fourth of July observance. The cause of the accident was not immediately known, police said.

Joel Clements, 28, of Pleasant Grove, was in stable condition and in surgery late Monday for an injured hand.

Beach Boys, Wayne Newton lead holiday celebrations

By The Associated Press
Fireworks exploded over the Capitol and scores of U.S. cities, the Beach Boys and Wayne Newton played to separate but almost equal crowds, and millions flocked to beaches, parks and backyards in a bang-up Fourth of July party.

James Watt watched from his office balcony in Washington as pop singer Newton gave a rainy concert around the Washington Monument for a crowd of 215,000, well below the 350,000 who attended the Beach Boys' concert there last year.

Later, 95,000 people sat through two thunderstorms to hear the National Symphony Orchestra play before the traditional fireworks display. Music director Mstislav Rostropovich worried about calling off the concert, but eventually joined dozens of spectators in a barefoot bunny-hop through the mud in front of the orchestra.

In April, Watt banished rock groups such as the Beach Boys from the Mall concert, claiming they attracted the "wrong element." Outcry from the group's fans, including Nancy Reagan, made him regret the decision.

The Beach Boys ended up taking their act to Atlantic City, N.J., where they played a seaside concert for more than 200,000 fans, police said.

"It's nice to see that everybody didn't go to the Wayne Newton show," joked vocalist Mike Love as the group kicked off their performance at 7:45 p.m., singing "California Girls." Five concert-goers were treated at a hospital, including one near-drowning, three alcohol or drug related cases and one woman who suffered a miscarriage, police said. An additional 300 people were treated for sun exposure, heat exhaustion and other injuries.

In Provo, Utah, two men were injured, one critically, when a cannon discharged early during a Civil War re-enactment.

NO HITS

Yanks' Righetti celebrates Fourth by acing Red Sox, 4-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Righetti was one out away from a no-hitter. At the plate was Wade Boggs with 101 hits — the first player in the majors to reach 100 — and a .357 batting average, second best in the American League.

In the stands at Yankee Stadium, 41,077 fans were standing, screaming and applauding.

"I could see everybody was nervous and they were making me nervous. I couldn't even look in the dugout," Righetti said. "I said, 'Great, I have the best hitter in the league in that situation.'"

But Righetti had something to prove.

"There was a lot of emotion, a lot of buildup in my mind. I wanted to prove to people that I'm an All-Star," he said.

So the New York Yankees' 24-year-old left-hander fired a sharp slider past Boggs for his ninth strikeout, completing a 4-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox and the first no-hitter by a Yankee since Don Larsen's perfect game in the 1956 World Series.

But his next outing will come in Kansas City next weekend rather than in the All-Star Game Wednesday night in Chicago. The Yankees had recommended the AL take Righetti as a replacement for injured teammate Ron Guidry, who had to be off, but the nod went to Baltimore's Tippy Martinez.

"I wanted to go and represent Ronnie," Righetti said. "My pitching shows I deserve it. I'm not complaining. The guys who were picked deserve it. I was 8-3 at the time and maybe that wasn't good enough."

Righetti is 10-3 now, the no-hitter coming on the heels of his first major league shutout, a five-hitter against Baltimore last Wednesday night.

"I tried to stay calm all the way, but when there were two outs in the ninth I got real nervous. I didn't know what to call on that last pitch. At first, I thought fastball. That's his best pitch. But at the last second, I changed my mind. I don't know why."

"And Rags didn't shake me off. I would have kicked

"I didn't talk to him but once the whole game," said catcher Butch Wynegar. "I didn't want to break his concentration. When I hugged him, he had tears in his eyes. Then I had tears in my eyes. It was a big thrill."

"Not one ball came close to a hit, not a one. We weren't very tricky, just fastball-slider, fastball-slider. Rags maybe threw five or six changeups. He had outstanding stuff. He was real pumped up at the beginning. But as the game went on, he went to more breaking balls. He began spotting his pitches more myself if he had lost his no-hitter on the slider. But I'll tell you, that was some great slider. It exploded down low and kept going."

The Red Sox had pounded Yankee pitching for 37 runs and 54 hits — including nine doubles, a triple and 10 homers — in the last four meetings, but Righetti was hotter than the 94-degree heat.

"I was hoping it was going to get to him and we'd catch up to him, but we never did," said Boston's Dave Stapleton. "We've been swinging the bats very good. To no-hit us the way we've been hitting the ball is especially something."

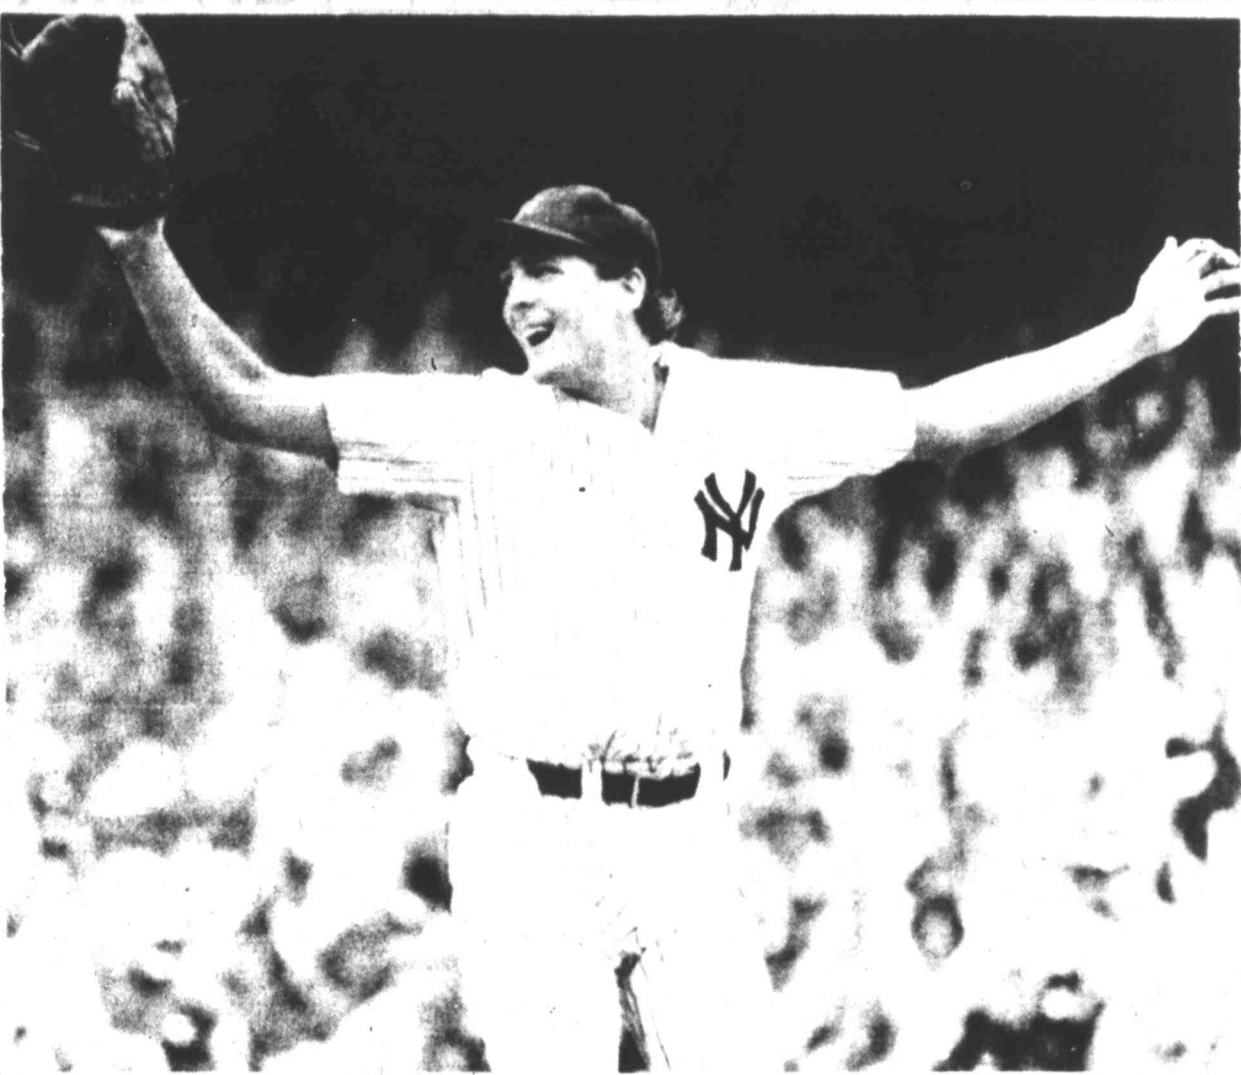

Righetti had watched the Boston bats at work all weekend hitting one king-sized home run after another.

"I could have gone out there and had in my mind to knock a few guys down," he said, "but they had to hit me and I just went out and shut them down. I was determined the first two or three innings to set a pattern and take the bats out of their hands. I couldn't let them do what they did the last few days."

"I didn't have great control, that's why I walked four. But I had effective wildness. I had a pretty good fastball to begin with and I kept a pretty good fastball throughout the day and I changed locations. I kept my slider in on them all day; it was down or in every time."

Boggs' routine liner to center in the fourth was the hardest ball the Red Sox hit. The best defensive play came in the eighth when right fielder Steve Kemp jumped and reached into the stands to grab Dwight Evans' foul fly.

The no-hitter was the first in the majors since Houston's Nolan Ryan pitched his record fifth one against Los Angeles on Sept. 28, 1974. It was the first regular-season no-hitter by a Yankee since Allie Reynolds hurled a pair in 1951, the second coming on Sept. 28 against Boston. The last no-hitter against the Red Sox was pitched by Baltimore's Tom Phoebus on April 27, 1968.

HAPPY FOURTH — New York Yankees' pitcher Dave Righetti raises his arms in victory after the last out in his no-hitter against the Boston Red Sox Monday. It was the first no-hitter by a New York Yankee since Don Larsen pitched a perfect game in the 1956 World Series.

McCumber rallies, Watson falls

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Mark McCumber won the Western Open with a hot putter and Tom Watson lost it with a cold one.

In a rain-forced 36-hole windup Monday over the Butler National course, Watson let another tournament slip away.

Two weeks ago, he lost the U.S. Open by a stroke and the same thing happened again.

McCumber rolled in an 18-foot birdie putt on the last green to finish with a 71 for a 4-under-par 284.

Watson missed a six footer for a birdie on the 17th for a tie, and closed with an even-par 72 for 285.

The victory was worth $78,000 to McCumber, whose only other triumph on the PGA tour was the 1979 Doral Open.

Watson, still without a victory this year as he prepares to defend his British Open crown at the Royal Birkdale course in England next week, blew a four-stroke lead with a 75 in Monday's morning round.

McCumber came from nowhere with a 68 to tie him entering the final round.

Watson failed to get a birdie in the morning.

"It's been year's since I played around without getting a birdie," Watson said. "It was just a sloppy round and my putter wasn't working well."

He three-putted two greens. Meanwhile, McCumber's 68 on birdie putts ranging from 3 to 20 feet melted Watson's four-stroke lead he held going into Monday's play and tied him with 18 to go.

Watson three-putted the first afternoon hole, then made two successive birdies to pull away. But he bogeyed the ninth and although he chipped in from 60 feet for a birdie on the 10th, he couldn't make a charge.

Trees and a bunker cost him a bogey six on the 15th and he failed to pull out a needed birdie on the last three holes.

"I had no feel on the greens and maybe it's time to try a new putter, one with new lines on it," Watson said. "I've been using the same putter since 1978. That six-foot miss on 17 was just a lousy putt. I wish I could have a Mulligan on it."

Lefty looks back at first All-Stars

Gomez to help celebrate 50th game

CHICAGO (AP) — The year was 1933 and baseball decided it would help Chicago celebrate its World's Fair with a unique idea, an All-Star Game matching the best players in the two leagues against each other.

The starting pitcher for the American League was Lefty Gomez, who had a distinctly southpaw view of the world. He reflected on that first game assignment on the eve of Wednesday night's 50th anniversary game in Comiskey Park.

"Let's see," noted Gomez. "Fifty years ago, I must have been five."

He was, in fact, 24 at the time, a flame-thrower who was a natural for the All-Star starting assignment. Before the game, Gomez said, American League Manager Connie Mack went over the National League lineup with his pitcher.

"Paul Waner, fastball hitter; Wally Berger, fastball hitter; Bill Terry, fastball hitter; Their first five guys were fastball hitters and I was a fastball pitcher. I told Mr. Mack that would be tough."

Gomez survived the problem, pitching three shutout innings and even delivered a single, driving in the first run of the game.

"He set back the designated hitter 40 years," said teammate Joe Cronin.

Gomez frowned. "I only had one weakness at the plate," he said. "The pitched ball. When I got to first base, about 800 people fainted."

Cronin and Gomez were among 13 of the 15 survivors from the 1933 Game who accepted invitations to appear at the Golden Anniversary Game — Bill Terry and Woody English were unable to make it. The 13 spent their time telling tall tales on each other while the 1983 Stars prepared for this year's Game.

The current stars held workouts at Comiskey Park today after two oldtimers team spiced their reunion with a game of their own.

"I hope it doesn't go long," observed Gomez, "because rigor mortis might set in."

Dick Bartell, the National League shortstop, brought along his original glove, a beat-up model that looked like it had grabbed its share of ground balls. He pounded the pocket lovingly.

"The American Leaguers laughed when they saw it, but it was good to me," he said. "I caught more than I booted with with it and when it got in there, it wasn't easy to get out."

Ben Chapman, the AL left fielder and leadoff batter in 1933, glared at Cronin, who managed him for one year with Boston.

"They said I had a quick temper," Chapman said, "but he had a quick release. I batted .340 and he traded me the next year."

Prince Hal Schumacher, the only member of the four-man NL pitching staff who did not work in the 1933 Game, was asked what he remembered of the event.

The NL will have considerably more pitching help Wednesday night than it did in the first game.

Manager Whitey Herzog selected a 10-man staff and six of the hurlers — Jesse Orosco of the New York Mets, Bill Dawley of Houston, Dave Dravecky of San Diego, Alee Hammaker of San Francisco, Pascual Perez of Atlanta and Lee Smith of the Chicago Cubs — will be making their All-Star debuts. Montreal's Steve Rogers and Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles, the NL's starting pitchers in the last two All-Star Games, both worked on Monday.

Harvey Kuenn, manager of the AL Stars, made his second roster change Monday, naming Milwaukee outfielder Ben Oglivie to the AL squad as a replacement for injured Reggie Jackson of California. Oglivie had finished fourth in the fan balloting. Earlier, Kuenn had substituted Baltimore reliever Tippy Martinez for Ron Guidry of New York on his eight-man pitching staff. One AL pitcher, Matt Young of Seattle, worked on Monday.

The Americans will be trying to snap an 11-game losing streak. They trail in the series 34-18-1 after once leading it, 12-4. Gomez, the winning pitcher for the AL in the first game, was asked what the modern American Leaguers were doing wrong.

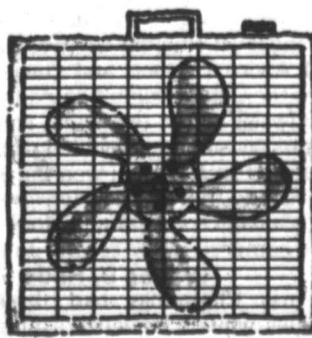

He paused for a moment and then offered an answer.

"We're not getting enough runs," he decided.

Bandleader Harry James dies today in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bandleader Harry James, one of the last great talents to emerge from the big band era of the 1930s and 1940s, died early Tuesday in Valley Hospital, a family spokesman said.

He was 67. Sal Monte, a family friend and brother of James' manager, Frank Monte, said the bandleader, once also known as the "world's greatest trumpeter," had suffered from lymph gland and lung cancer since April.

Despite the illness, James had continued to travel with his band, playing in Denver June 10-11 and a performance in Los Angeles June 26.

James' two sons and two daughters came to Las Vegas over the weekend to be with their father. He had entered the hospital Friday.

James, who toured several months a year with his band, was a resident of Las Vegas.

One of his four marriages was to pin-up star Betty Grable, who died July 2, 1973, of cancer. The famous couple had two daughters prior to their divorce.

James got his start with another big band star, Benny Goodman, and later launched careers for stars such as Frank Sinatra and Kitty Kallen.

In an Associated Press interview three years ago, James talked of old times and his revival of the sound to which other generations swayed.

"To me, there are no old times — there's only today," said James. "I don't like to talk about what we used to do, I like to talk about what we're going to do."

At the time of the 1980 interview he was touring the country with his band, presenting a musical revue

"The Big Broadcast of 1944."

The program also included disco and rock — which he said surprised many young people.

"They are just in shock, because they figured every tune we play their mother or father would have to tell them the name of it," James said. "If I like something I play it — I don't care when it was written."

James had five children from his four marriages. One of them, a minor son, was not at the hospital. Monte said his other four children were at his bedside when he died at 5:30 a.m. PDT.

James had a penchant for horse racing and owned several horses.

He left the Goodman band in 1939 to start his own group. After two lean years his band recorded "You Made Me Love You." It became the staple for the Beaumont, Texas, native.

The group toured the country for years, bringing the big band sound to major metropolitan areas and small towns. They later played Las Vegas lounges when they were a showcase of the nation's top talent.

James moved to Las Vegas, but continued to operate out of Los Angeles. In recent years, he had limited his touring to a few months a year and spent the rest of the time looking after two favorite sports — golf and baseball.

'Slow learner' beats stigma of label

HOUSTON (AP) — Guadalupe Quintanilla never doubted grade school teachers who labeled her a "slow learner" because she could not speak English. But she refused to believe her three children were.

"I had accepted the fact that I was, but I could never believe that of my children. To me, they were the brightest children in the world," Mrs. Quintanilla said.

Desperate to help them shake the stigma, Mrs. Quintanilla, a fourth grade dropout, enrolled in college. She made the Dean's List every semester, earned four degrees and now is a Spanish professor and assistant provost at the University of Houston.

Two weeks ago President Reagan appointed Mrs. Quintanilla, a Democrat, to the National Institute of Justice Advisory Board, a panel which informs the White House on new law enforcement procedures and techniques. The nomination was approved last week by the U.S. Senate.

But her biggest accomplishments are her children. Mrs. Quintanilla said. One son is a lawyer, the other a doctor and her daughter is halfway through law school.

One month after her birth 45 years ago in the small village of Ojinaga, Mexico, her parents crossed the Rio Grande to live with her grandfather near Brownsville.

But because she grew up in a Spanish-speaking family, she never learned to speak English and schoolwork was difficult. Test scores showed she had an I.Q. of 64.

She quit school, got married and within four years had three children.

PRESIDENT'S CHOICE — Guadalupe Quintanilla, a fourth-grade dropout, went to college at 30 to learn English. She now has four degrees, teaches college Spanish, is assistant provost at the University of Houston and recently was appointed to a White House advisory board.

When teachers started labeling her children as slow learners, Mrs. Quintanilla became angry.

"I started looking around and discovered that most of the children from Spanish-speaking families were considered slow learners. I just couldn't accept that so I asked the principal. He said it was because they never spoke English at home and were confused in the classroom," she said.

So at age 30, Mrs. Quintanilla decided to learn English.

She circled words in books and looked up the definitions in the dictionary. But she still could not speak the language.

She tried to enroll in a Brownsville high school. She asked administrators at a junior college to let her sit in the classroom and listen. She asked the hospital where she had worked as a volunteer to admit her to the nurses training program; and she applied as a telephone company trainee.

"I just wanted a place to practice," she said. She finally staked out the parking place of Henry L. Warren, registrar at Texas Southmost College. She sat on his car and waited until she could explain her problem to him in Spanish.

Warren finally agreed to admit her on an individual approval program, allowing her to take typing, basic English, math and speech.

"I made all As, except in math. That was my only C," she recalled.

Mrs. Quintanilla said she never would have made it without the help of her teen-age classmates.

"I was accepted as a grown-up in the middle of 18-year-old kids," she said. "They helped me by tutoring me in algebra. I thought at first that it was some kind of spaghetti. They showed me how to use a microscope and even where to get the Cokes — things so different from the environment I had known," she said.

Mrs. Quintanilla admitted she thought of quitting more than once.

"I felt guilty about neglecting my family, even though they were very supportive," she said. "And every time I walked out of algebra class I would be sick with fear that I would not succeed and tell myself, 'I'm never going back.' But when tomorrow came, I always went back. I loved my children and was determined to keep going.

In three years, Mrs. Quintanilla earned bachelor's degrees in biology and psychology. When the Quintanilla family moved to Houston in the early 1970s, she entered the University of Houston and earned a master's degree in literature and a doctorate in education.

In addition to her responsibilities at the university, she works as a consultant to the Houston Police Academy teaching officers Mexican culture and how to speak Spanish.

She also wrote a booklet, "Conversational Spanish for Police Officers," which has been used by federal authorities at Cuban refugee camps.

Last year, Reagan nominated Mrs. Quintanilla to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

However, her nomination and those of two others were returned to the White House without approval by the U.S. Senate.

At the time, several senators expressed concern that Reagan was replacing members of the commission for political reasons.

While her appointment to the Institute of Justice board may not be as influential, Mrs. Quintanilla said she believes she can make a contribution because of her law enforcement background.

"I appreciate his (Reagan) trust in my ability."

Prince discusses

'Outward Bound'

TORONTO (AP) — Monarchy fans cheered and others made a fuss, but England's Prince Philip reserved his highest enthusiasm for a wilderness program that has been part of his life for almost 40 years.

On Monday, a day when the prince attended three receptions in his honor, the Duke of Edinburgh delivered a 10-minute, "emotional" luncheon speech about Outward Bound, an international program which tests the mettle of participants through a variety of activities ranging from mountain climbing to whitewater kayaking.

The organization has been under Prince Philip's patronage for nearly four decades.

Newsman is honored in hometown

HUMBOLDT, Iowa (AP) — CBS newsman Harry Reasoner presided over a Fourth of July parade instead of a newscast from this north-central Iowa town honored its favorite son.

Reasoner, born in Humboldt 60 years ago, served as grand marshal on Independence Day as thousands of people queued up to get a glimpse of him along the parade route.

There was also an old-fashioned picnic at the Humboldt County Fairgrounds in honor of Reasoner.

His reaction? "I never expected to see weather this nice in Iowa," he said. "I'm very proud to be here."

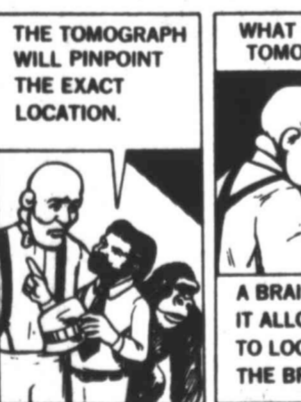

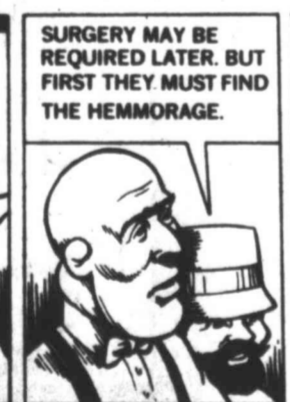

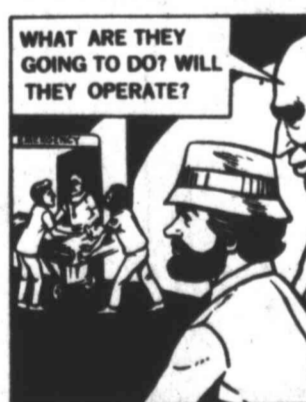

Singer lends talents to fundraiser

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Singer Brenda Lee lent her support to a center for the handicapped for the Fourth of July, but despite her good intentions, it didn't pay off.

Ms. Lee, who recorded the hit "I'm Sorry" in 1956, headlined a benefit Monday for the Montgomery Therapeutic Center for the handicapped. In an interview before her performance, she said it was a chance to help out "those less able" than herself.

But for the center, the event was disappointing.

Teacher made ham out of Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — An encouraging English teacher brought out the "ham" in Ronald Reagan and started him on a course that has brought education to the political forefront, the president says.

Reagan's concern over education is rooted in his own "deeply fulfilling" school days in Dixon, Ill., the president said in an interview in the July 3 issue of Time magazine.

He recalled that his high school English and drama teacher, B.J. Fraser, changed his life by urging him to read his humorous compositions aloud.

"I sometimes went way afield and did a humorous twist on what he asked for. I wasn't long in noticing he would have several of those read in class, and I was always called upon to read mine. Maybe that's where the ham began," Reagan said.

School board awards bids, picks broadcast

The Big Spring school board awarded bids for bank deposits, paving and painting at its meeting Thursday evening.

The board also designated local radio station KBST as the official station for varsity sports broadcasts.

First National Bank of Big Spring was awarded the district's bank depository for the next two-year period beginning Sept. 1, according to Don Crockett, assistant supervisor of business for the district.

Local banks were invited to bid on the amount of interest that would be paid on school district investments. First National Bank will pay 8 1/2 percent on $100,000 and over for 90-180 days, Crockett said.

Gage Painting Co. of Sweetwater was awarded a contract for portions of the interiors of Washington Elementary, College Heights Elementary, Baur Elementary and Goliad Middle School.

Gage bid $28,911 to win the contract over two other companies. Crockett said an agreement was made that work not completed before the beginning of the school year would be finished during school holidays.

Gross & Smidt Paving and Dirt Co. of Big Spring was awarded a contract for the paving of six school parking lots and a maintenance area for school buses. The company bid $28,911 to win the contract over two other firms.

The work will involve approximately 17,000 yards of paving, Crockett said.

Three local radio stations were scheduled to bid for the right to be the official radio station in broadcasts of varsity sports.

In the past, Crockett said, radio stations KBST and KBYG have been designated official stations for the broadcasts on a rotating basis. Radio station KWKI expressed an interest in broadcasting the Big Spring Steers football games this year, and the board scheduled a bid opening.

Smoke alarm bill becomes law

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Two Big Spring motels say they already are complying with a legislative bill signed yesterday by Texas Gov. Mark White that requires smoke alarms in rented sleeping quarters.

House Bill No. 7 — introduced by Rep. Doyle Willis (D-Fort Worth) in the wake of the Fort Worth Ramada Inn motel fire that killed five people and injured 34 — passed during last week's special session of the Texas legislature. It becomes effective Jan. 1, 1984.

Diane Welch, manager of the Mid-Continent Inn at Interstate Highway 20 and Highway 87, said her Best Western chain motel has ordered smoke alarms to be installed in all guest rooms in addition to the alarms now in laundries and store rooms.

Jill Jones of the chain-owned Holiday Inn on East Highway 80 said smoke alarms were installed in guest rooms there last summer when the motel was remodeled.

The independently owned Homestead Inn on West Interstate Highway 20 has smoke alarms in the kitchen and laundry areas, but not in guest rooms, said motel manager Joe Speckels.

Speckels said the alarms will be installed in guest rooms if law requires it.

"No, I don't have smoke alarms,"

Speckels said. "You have to realize that the legislators don't have to abide by their own rules. This law is no good; people will steal batteries out of the alarms and set the alarms off for laughs."

"We have them (smoke alarms) in areas like the kitchen and the laundry room, but the customers' rooms and most other rooms don't," he said. "Of course, we'll have to (install smoke alarms). The next thing, a zillion smoke alarm salesmen will move into Texas and try to sell $9.95 smoke alarms for $25."

Big Spring Fire Marshall Carl Dorton applauds the new legislation which affects rented sleeping quarters such as hotel, motel and boarding rooms. The law does not include apartments.

"Besides being a very, very good idea (smoke alarms), they probably saved more lives than firefighters have accomplished in the last 20 years," Dorton said last week. "I hope this (fire) opens the eyes of owners of larger motel and apartment buildings in town."

Violation of the law will be a class B misdemeanor and could incur a $1,000 fine and/or six months in jail, Rep. Willis said.

Dorton said the city council needs to pass an ordinance here that will strengthen enforcement of the state law locally.

Spirometry measures lung function

Dear Dr. Donohue: My question is about the breathing machine that is part of many physical examinations today. You blow into it and get a readout. The doctor then tells you if your lungs are normal, poor or whatever and prescribes necessary measures. Could you please tell me how it's all figured out and what would be a normal reading? What would be normal for me, a 64-year-old woman? Your column is the first thing I read every day. Your explanations are complete, concise and can be understood. — Mrs. J.E.

With that kind of an ending, I'd answer your letter even had I covered the subject twice in the last week, which I haven't I'm sure.

You are speaking of spirometry. It's a test, as you say, to find out how well your lungs are functioning. You take a deep breath, then blow it all out. Please let me spare our readers all the details about how the test works technically and get to your essential question.

About measurements: One is for vital capacity, how much air your lungs can hold. For a woman your age that would be about 2.7 to 3.7 liters. A second important measurement is of how much air you can blow out in one second. For a woman your age that would be from 1.3 to 2.5 liters.

If there is a condition like bronchitis present you would not be able to breathe out as much as you should because of the lung obstruction. The readings are bracketed for age, height, weight, and sex. And there are many other measurements done on a single blown-out breath. So you see it is a complicated subject. I'd need a book. Why didn't you tell me what your reading was?

Dear Dr. Donohue: What can you tell me about lichen planus? I am currently being treated for it. I would like to know all you can tell me about it. Hope I spelled it correctly. — L.M.

Lichen planus (if I'm wrong we're both in trouble) is glistening facets of purple patches that may appear almost anywhere on the skin, but especially on the wrists, inner thighs, backs of hands, shins, inside the mouth and on the genitals. The patches are dry, scaly and usually intensely itchy. It's thought to be another form of self-allergy. Steroids are useful in controlling lichen planus, and baths with Aveeno meal (oatmeal) may help alleviate the itch. That's really the extent of my knowledge of lichen planus.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am allergic to milk and dairy products, eggs, etc. I want to take calcium in some form. Are there other forms? — B.J.

I was going to list calcium preparations, but the list is so long that it would be prohibitive. There are, however, many calcium preparations available not made from egg shells or dairy products. It would be wise to check with your allergist to find out which of these poses no threat of a reaction. I'm sure he can come up with a dozen or more.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Rosalind Johansson of Nacogdoches was wedding and reception director. A rehearsal dinner hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Don Manley was held at Carol's Restaurant in Lufkin, June 10.

The bride is a graduate of Marshall High School in Marshall and attended Stephen F. Austin University at Nacogdoches. She was formerly employed as a radio broadcaster at KYKS at Lufkin.

Following a trip through the western United States, the couple will make their home at Vandenberg A.F.B. in California.

MRS. DOUGLAS ARTHUR BOYCE...formerly Dr. Cynthia Ann Cook

Cook-Boyce

Dr. Cynthia Ann Cook, Dallas and formerly of Big Spring, and Douglas Arthur Boyce of Idaho Falls, Idaho, were united in marriage June 18 at First United Methodist Church in Granbury.

The Rev. Stephen Tidwell, Dallas, officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with a bouquet of white gladioli, lavender mums, white spider mums and baby's breath. The altar was flanked by urns of fern, and crystal votive cups lighted the area.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton L. Cook of Granbury and formerly of Big Spring. She also is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Cook, 1611 Main. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William A. Boyce of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Nancy Cecil, organist, Kim Sherron, soloist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown. The gown was of white organza over taffeta. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, Peter Pan collar and rows of tiny buttons down the front. The skirt featured panels of matching lace insertions from the waist to the hem. A pearl and lace caplet held the imported metal-studded illusion veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of white, lavender throated orchids accented by baby's breath and seed pearls. The bouquet was carried on the white ivory Bible used by her mother in her wedding.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Norma Backs of Amarillo. Bridesmaid was Peggy Cook of Granbury, sister of the bride.

Best man was Dr. Boyce, the bridegroom's father. Groomsman was Stephen Boyce of Idaho Falls, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Clifton Cook of Granbury, brother of the bride, and Thomas Blackwell of Dallas.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception held at the home of the bride's parents. The patio was accented with potted lavender mums and white daisies. The bride's table featured a three-tiered cake decorated with lavender flowers and white doves. The table was centered with an arrangement of banana palm frowns, lavender and white spider mums.

The bridegroom's table held a chocolate mocha cake decorated with chocolate-covered grapes. An arrangement of greenery and lemon slices in a brass urn decorated the table.

Attending the wedding from Big Spring were the bride's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Cook, Messrs. and Mmes. Paul Shaffer, Jim Bill Little, Walter Wheat, Granvill Hahn, Hooper Sanders, Ralph McLaughlin, Harold Talbot and Guy Talbot.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at the Cuckoo's Nest Restaurant in Granbury, June 17.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech University. She received her D.D.S. degree from Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas and is practicing in Dallas. The bridegroom graduated high school in Idaho Falls, Idaho. He graduated from Idaho State University and is working toward his D.D.S. degree at Baylor School of Dentistry.

Foster parenting in Howard County

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Many people believe they can't be foster parents because they couldn't bear the ultimate separation. The Tim Winns would rather bear the pain than leave a child in danger.

Winn, 31, and his wife Beverly, 28, have fostered 29 children in seven years while starting their own family. They have had runaways, sexually abused children, emotionally abused children, neglected children and 'failure to thrive children' who were totally neglected, underweight and underdeveloped for the child's age.

"To some people, one child is all they could stand, but at least they've helped one child," Beverly said.

The Winns lived in Austin for two years and sponsored two boys from Texas Baptist Children's Home in Round Rock. They kept the boys on some weekends, vacations and holidays. The Winns' experiences with the boys spawned their desire to become foster parents.

"When we moved to Garden City, my first pastorate," Tim said, "the DHR (Department of Human Resources) ran ads looking for foster parents, and we responded. We saw the need." Tim pastors First Baptist Church at Knott.

"WE'VE ALWAYS ENJOYED working with children, especially teenagers," Beverly said. "Kids kind of get lost in the woodwork and nobody has time for them."

The Winns believe the Big Spring area cannot get enough foster parents to meet its needs. So few foster parents are in the area that Big Spring kids have been placed in Andrews, Lamesa, Kermit, Seminole.

The Rainbow Project will alleviate some problems by placing abused children in the shelter temporarily. Once a child is in the shelter, the DHR has 30 days to find foster homes, an institution or work the child back into the home.

"The primary goal is getting the child back in the home," Tim said. This can take months to accomplish. The parents are in counseling. The child is in counseling. Financial aid and other problems occur making the processing longer.

And not always does the story end happily. Some abusive parents learn to hide things and con people, including case workers, to get the child home. Some parents don't rehabilitate and the child goes home to die. "There's a travesty of justice. It happens but it doesn't always happen," he said.

Sometimes parents do respond and good results develop, or the child is adopted or goes to live with relatives. The situation works out.

MOST OF THE WINNS' FOSTER children have been bright, good-looking, outgoing, multi-talented and very abused children. "Kids are usually trained real well to say 'I fell down the stairs, fell off my bicycle, or ran through a door,'" Beverly said.

Once at a new home, most children come in and make themselves at home immediately. There is no "getting-used-to-period," especially if the child has been in the foster care system for years.

After about a six-week "honeymoon" period of exceptional behavior, the child begins to feel attached to the foster family. Getting attached to a family stirs up problems in the child, "because it's in a family relationship and a loving relationship that they've been hurt," Tim said.

The child tries to force the foster family to reject him. "They try you, intentionally ignore you, pretend they don't know the rules — just like your own child will do intentionally to see if you love them," Beverly said. After a few months of testing, the child begins to fit in.

"Children adapt well. That's what so great," Beverly said.

"They respond to love and attention," Tim said. The best advice Beverly was given on foster parenting was, "You cannot help that child until you've learned to accept their parents."

Most children love their parents and want to go home, the Winns said. If a foster parent has negative attitudes toward the parents and ridicules them, the child will reject the foster parent, find a reason for his abuse and usually blames and punishes himself for his problems.

"Even if the child can't go home, the child must come to grips with his problems and why he's abused," Tim said. "Many times one child in a family is abused. He's the scapegoat and others are treated fine. The child doesn't understand that and neither do some adults. So foster parents can't help the child face problems if they can't accept the child's parents."

THE MOST CHALLENGING aspect of foster parenting is teaching the child he is someone special. "Foster children think they are absolutely nobody," Tim said. "They have been mistreated for so long that they think absolutely nobody could love them. It's so important to make him feel like he can be somebody or have goals.

"That's one reason to report child abuse early.

Because the longer the child is abused, the lower his self-image becomes," he said.

"Most child abusers were abused as children," Tim said. "And when they get into a frustrating situation that is how they were taught to vent their frustrations, on a defenseless child or adult."

Another reason for child abuse is that "some people never had parent models to learn from," he said. "So they are ignorant — they simply don't know how to be a parent. We parent as we are parented. No matter how much we deny that, statistics prove it. "Child abuse is not thought out," he said. "It's a compulsive behavior learned from background."

THE WINNS INITIATE counseling as soon as a child comes to their home. And instead of sending a child alone to a counselor, which may add to the child's stigma, the Winns and the child go together as a family.

Self-satisfaction is the Winns' reward for foster parenting. "We may not have turned the course of their life around but at least we have altered the course of their life," Tim said.

Hot.

100-plus temps
top June mercury

Temperatures in Big Spring toward the end of last week got hot enough to melt the ice cream off anyone's cone.

The mercury topped the century mark at least three days — Sunday, Thursday and Friday — sending Spring City residents inside to the comfort of air conditioning or outside the relief of a well-provisioned swimming pool.

Rain promised to relieve the hot-weather onslaught Wednesday and Thursday, but no appreciable precipitation fell. Winds remained strong from the Southwest at 15-20 mph.

The lack of rain and the hot, windy weather continued to aggravate the region's drought, which is threatening major damage to fall crops.

One batch of thunderstorms, which completely missed Big Spring Thursday, raked sections of west Texas with winds, hail and tornadoes. Winds gusted to 60 mph at Abilene, while hail knocked out car windows at Whitney, about 40 miles south of Fort Worth, officials said.

Farther west, continued melting from a record snowpack raised the prospect of more flooding next week along the Colorado River.

California Gov. George Deukmejian on Wednesday asked President Reagan to make a federal disaster declaration for communities awash from a week of intentional flooding along the Colorado.

The request came a day after the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation said it intends next week to increase discharges from four dams along the river to the highest levels yet to try to prevent uncontrolled overflowing.

Deukmejian said floodwaters from the intentional releases have so far destroyed 32 homes and damaged 114 other homes and businesses.

Nevada Gov. Richard Bryan ordered the National Guard to help with increased flooding expected next week in the Laughlin area near Davis Dam, about 90 miles south of Las Vegas.

Bryan said he has been told to prepare for a 1½-foot river rise when increased flows begin. But he said the state is preparing for a "worst case scenario," in which the river would rise 3 feet.

At least seven people have died in floodwaters since the releases began, authorities said.

Council passes $1 admission fee to Moss Creek Lake

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

The Big Spring city council Tuesday passed on third and final reading an ordinance raising admission to Moss Creek Lake from 50 cents to $1.

Parks and Recreation board member Tina Arguello, who originated the board's recommendation to increase the fee, Tuesday voiced the board's opposition to the increase.

The board had recommended the increase on the provision that half the fee be designated for repair and improvements at the lake, Mrs. Arguello said. The council passed the increase, but excluded the stipulation because members said they did not want to designate collected park fees.

"I just hate to earmark funds because you never know what's going to happen," Councilman Robert Fuller said.

The council did agree that any fees collected over and above the cost of running the lake will be designated for improvements.

"We (the board) would rather the ordinance be rejected if the money isn't designated," Mrs. Arguello said. "We could not in good conscience raise it without that. We didn't think we needed the tremendous increase otherwise."

"We don't want to be blamed if there is a public outcry," she added. "If the funds were designated for improvements and repairs, it would justify the increase."

The council said it would take responsibility for the increase.

"We can take that responsibility if they (board members) don't want to shoulder the blame," Fuller said. "I don't think 50 cents (increase) is excessive. It addresses our needs."

The council also:
• Agreed to pay $998.02 to Geneva Morton for automobile damages received in a collision with a city fire truck. The council also agreed to pay $2,129.60 to the 11th and Birdwell Church of Christ for sewer damages to the church basement.
• Agreed to lease Big Spring Airpark building No. 327 to the Big Spring Christian Academy and release the school from its lease of building No. 484.
• Presented five-year city employee service awards to James Byers, Cheryl Burcham, Mike Burcham and Bill Hall.

Stabbing suspect arrested

A 23-year-old Big Spring man was arrested yesterday on an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon warrant in connection with Wednesday's stabbing of Jimmy Martinez, 20.

Ruben Juarez of 1507 Wood was released yesterday afternoon on a $15,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Police Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat said the Northeast Apartments manager discovered a pocket knife with a 4½-inch blade yesterday near the area where Martinez was found at 12:50 a.m. Wednesday. The weapon was confiscated as evidence, he said.
