SOME KIND OF POT HOLE — Louise Whitaker was minding her own business driving down Monticello Street last week when the street collapsed beneath her car. With Mrs. Whitaker are patrolmen Rick Burt, who's trying to figure out what to say on the report, and Charlie Doan, giving a double-take at the size of the hole. The officers said a leaky water main probably caused the street to give way.

Larry Don Shaw 'Man of the Year'

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring has been named a "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture for 1983" by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

One of seven Texans selected for the honor, Shaw was nominated by county agents in the Far West District of the Texas Extension Service.

The awards are presented annually to outstanding leaders in agriculture and related industries to recognize contributions in improving levels of economic growth in their communities, counties, state and nation.

Shaw will receive his award at the annual TCAA meeting Aug. 7-10 in Wichita Falls. A cotton farmer and rancher, Shaw was elected to the Texas Legislature in 1980 and is currently in his second term.

As a freshman legislator, Shaw passed a landmark assistance program for Vietnam veterans suffering from Agent Orange. He is also credited with legislation to protect mineral rights of landowners and to fund a deaf infant screening program.

In the most recent session, Shaw was vice chairman of the Liquor Regulation Committee and served on the County Affairs Committee.

A Texas Tech University graduate, Shaw has been active in several agricultural and political groups for many years.

Gas plant attendant shoots father, son wanted for murder

BAKERSFIELD, Texas (AP) — A gas plant attendant who was "the wrong person to rob" shot a father and son wanted for capital murder in the slaying of a West Texas deputy sheriff, killing the father.

"They just picked the wrong person to rob," said Upton County Sheriff's Sg. George Willeford.

Richard Graham, 40, was fatally wounded in the chest and his son, Thomas, 18, was hit in the shoulder late Saturday by blasts from a shotgun wielded by the unidentified attendant of the Intratex Co. natural gas processing plant.

The younger Graham was in stable condition at an Odessa hospital, Willeford said.

Both men had been charged with capital murder in the early Friday morning killing of Upton County sheriff's deputy Charles A. "Chuck" Renfro, 45, who was shot when he answered a burglar alarm at a lumber and hardware store in nearby McCamey, about 50 miles south of Odessa.

"I know that they came in here trying to rob the attendant," Willeford said, "and everybody in this part of the country has been keeping an eye out for them."

The attendant "detected something moving around and was able to get them before they got him," Willeford said.

Willeford said the father and son apparently were carrying knives when they entered the plant and then stole a rifle inside.

The Intratex plant is about 20 miles south of McCamey and 20 miles east of Fort Stockton in Pecos County.

The elder Graham's 19-year-old daughter has also been charged with capital murder, but a prosecutor said he would ask a grand jury to drop the charge.

Terri Graham was charged Friday and released on $10,000 bond. But investigators learned later that she was at work when the deputy was killed, said District Attorney Aubrey Edwards.

Miss Graham had been arrested because authorities discovered a truck allegedly used as a getaway vehicle was registered to her, Edwards said.

Edwards said the charge against Miss Graham still will be presented to a grand jury Monday, but he said that he would ask the panel not to return an indictment.

"After investigating the case, I determined that she was not involved in this," Edwards said.

A former neighbor of the Grahams told The Odessa American that the family moved to a valley near Bakersfield in about 1977 or 1978. They worked a farm for about 3 1/2 years before moving into McCamey, the former neighbor said.

Sand Springs man, Stephen Calhoun, in serious condition

A Sand Springs man remains in serious condition at a Lubbock hospital after a car-truck accident Friday afternoon north of Big Spring.

Three other persons were injured in the accident that occurred near Vincent off Texas Highway 350.

Stephen Calhoun, 27, of Route 3 is in the Lubbock General Hospital surgical intensive care unit with a fractured pelvis, possible head injuries and numerous lacerations.

Calhoun was transferred there Saturday from Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Calhoun was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Kenneth Birmelin of Big Spring. Birmelin and Cosme Ramirez are in Malone-Hogan Hospital in stable condition. Bonnie Sue Birmelin was treated and released, according to hospital personnel.

The two-vehicle accident occurred 20 miles northeast of Big Spring on Texas Highway 350 near Vincent, according to Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon. Birmelin was traveling to Big Spring when his vehicle collided with a truck driven by Lee Garza of Snyder, Redmon said.

Calhoun was pinned for about an hour and was in

A NEW FRIEND — Lilah Waller, a resident of the Turner Geriatrics Center in Galveston, spends a sunny afternoon talking to a homeless puppy. The puppy was brought to the Center by local animal shelter volunteers as part of a "Companion Pet Program" for the home's residents.

Retirement center brings elderly, pets together

GALVESTON (AP) — Wet puppy kisses, caresses and hands — wrinkled and knarled with the passage of time — broad smiles and an occasional scolding or burst of laughter are all part of the scene.

It takes place in the sunny courtyard of the Moody House Retirement Center on every other Monday and involves the senior citizens living there and homeless pets from the Galveston Animal Shelter.

"People who live in a retirement or nursing home have usually suffered many losses," said Kim Mullaney, therapist at the Moody House. "They give up homes, loved ones, good health, and the last thing they had to do before coming here was find a place or home for their pet."

Recent reports show pets have tremendous therapeutic powers for everyone, but especially for elderly, heart patients and handicapped.

In Galveston, some of those powers are felt by those who participate in the "Companion Pet Program" at the Moody Retirement Center.

With the cooperation of people such as Margaret Love, Ned Donaldson, volunteers and Animal Shelter workers, several little furry friends are brought to the Moody House every second and fourth Monday of the month to get some of the tender loving care they have been needing — and residents of the Moody House seem to have in abundance.

In several recent statistical surveys it was found elderly people who have pets show a very strong tendency to get well faster when hospitalized, have a lower incidence of illness in general and have a much higher survival rate than non-pet owners.

Research with heart patients shows a lower heart-beat when a loved animal is present.

Stroking and talking to a pet lowers both the blood pressure of the pet and the person. Conversely, talking to another human being causes the blood pressure to rise, according to findings at the first international conference on the Human-Animal Bond.

Ms. Mulhaney is a strong believer in the fact that animals contribute to the well-being of elderly and handicapped. Her belief comes from first-hand experience with the success of such a program.

State searching for dioxin waste around 12 sites

DALLAS (AP) — Federal and state officials are inspecting chemical plants and collecting fish samples from at least half a dozen sites in Texas in a "safety" search for dioxin contamination in the state's coastal waterways and inland rivers, a Dallas newspaper reported today.

The Dallas Times Herald said the officials were taking the precautionary measures following the environmental mishaps of Love Canal in New York and Times Beach in Missouri.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is inspecting eight chemical plants along the Gulf Coast, from Freeport to Port Arthur, because their processes and products make them prime suspects as inadvertent producers of dioxin, the newspaper said.

"It wouldn't surprise me if we find trace concentrations of dioxin at a site or two," said Allyn Davis, director of the EPA's hazardous materials branch in Dallas. "I would be very surprised to find any significant concentrations. We are looking just to be on the safe side of safety."

Dioxin is a generic name for a family of 75 compounds that are produced as a byproduct in the manufacture of chlorophenoxy herbicides. The most potent form of the chemical is known as TCDD, an impurity found in Agent Orange.

John Latchford, assistant director of enforcement and field operations for the Texas Department of Water Resources, said the dioxin hunt was a "seek and search operation."

Dioxin was one of a host of toxic chemicals found in the Love Canal area of Niagara Falls, N.Y., in the late 1970s. Dioxin was also recently found at chemical plants in Kansas and New Jersey and in rivers in Michigan and Wisconsin, where officials warned residents against eating fish from certain waterways.

GRIM BATTLE — Dik Browne, creator of the "Hagar the Horrible" comic strip, works at his drawing board in his Wilton, Conn., condominium.

Browne suffers from severe eye problems that force him to wear special glasses and use extra lighting in order to see well enough to work.

Creator of 'Hagar' comic strip fighting battle with glaucoma

WILTON, Conn. (AP) — Most of the newspaper readers around the world who chuckle daily over the adventures of "Hagar the Horrible" don't know about the grim battle being fought by Dik Browne, who draws the comic strip.

Browne suffers from glaucoma in both eyes and a detached retina in his right eye. He has had cataracts in both eyes. He is almost blind.

Without contact lenses, he cannot see at all. "I guess Hagar is practically done by Braille," said the 65-year-old Browne, who has enjoyed a steady climb to commercial and artistic success since beginning Hagar 10 years ago. "But with a little help from my friends, I get by."

Since 1954, Browne also has done the drawing for the comic strip "Hi and Lois," for which Mort Walker provides the ideas. He came up with the idea for the ferocious but lovable Viking marauder when he decided to seek financial security beyond his work for Walker.

Now about 1,400 papers worldwide carry Hagar, ranking it among the funny pages' most popular strips. Hi and Lois appears in about 900.

As his vision has deteriorated over the past decade, Browne has found his work increasingly difficult. But acquaintances say he has retained his friendliness and sense of humor.

"Maybe this is the happiest period of my life now. At least, I can't think of any other time I was happier," he said.

"I've had the best medical help, so I can relax and say this is in God's hands. It's my own form of cowardice, I guess, but that's how I feel," he said recently. In addition to contact lenses, Browne must use special magnifying eyeglasses and extra bright lights when he is working at the drawing board in his southwestern Connecticut condominium.

On some days, even that is not enough, and Browne's vision fades until he cannot work. "So I just go to bed for a couple of days, put compresses on the eyes. But my sight is not as good this year as last," he said.

Browne also has been concerned about the failing health of his wife of 40 years, Joan, who suffers from emphysema.

But he remains gregarious and good-spirited, joking about his health. "It takes a lot of time to be this sick. If I'm this sick, I can't be responsible," he said.

But Walker, who is best known for "Beetle Bailey," said he suspects Browne isn't telling all. "Underneath, I think, he's scared and angry. He's had a big piece of bad luck with his eyes, and he also has diabetes. He's got lots of money now and he could travel, do anything he wants, and he can't do any of them," Walker said.

But while confined to home, Browne finds time to serve as sight-saving chairman of the Connecticut Society to Prevent Blindness.

"He's doing television spots and radio spots and cartoons for us, offering us assistance in anything we do and volunteering," said Jan Gwutz, a society spokeswoman. "He's just super. He's just such a lovable man."

shock by the time medical personnel arrived, Redmon said. Garza was not injured.

In another accident near Big Spring, two Midland residents were killed Saturday afternoon when their 1972 Toyota ran into the rear of a flatbed trailer 12 miles west of Garden City on U.S. Highway 158.

Killed were Gary Patterson, 32, the driver of the car, and Randy Hungerford, 26, a passenger.

The DPS said the driver of the truck had legally parked the vehicle by the side of the road while he rested. The truck driver was not injured.

Louise Guerrero, 56, of Pecos was killed in a one-car accident Sunday morning near Barstow in Ward County.

The DPS said the man's pickup truck ran off the road traveling east on U.S. Highway 80. Guerrero was thrown from the truck and dragged almost 50 feet, the DPS said. He died of massive internal injuries, officers said.

Puppy love

"One resident who is blind, has never responded well to other kinds of therapy, but when given a pet to hold, will fondle, stroke and relate to it for a long period of time," she said.

Holding very tightly to a puppy one sunny afternoon, Ethel Hilton occasionally leans over to give the furry fellow a kiss, or caress his soft fur with her cheek.

That same afternoon, Lila Waller sat closely by watching Ms. Hilton and the pup, suggesting somewhat enviously that indeed, "this must be the best little puppy here."

Anxious to get her turn, Ms. Waller was content only when an identical little brother pup was produced to get its share of attention from her.

While many were busy coaxing the little ones to remain still in their laps, others were occupied by the larger dogs frolicking around the courtyard. Other residents were happy just to sit and watch, enjoying the sunshine and reaching down to give an affectionate pat on the head to one of the larger animals as they passed by.

One woman confessed that "furry friends time" was the only time she could hug someone as much as she wanted.

"When you deal with animals, they show unbiased acceptance," Ms. Mullaney said. "They know they are getting much-needed TLC and they respond accordingly. They don't notice that someone is 90 years old, has arthritic hands or can no longer see."

"Families and friends have a tendency to look at older people and not see them at all, or remember them as they used to be. They are loved and tolerated because of what they were in the past.

"Animals give automatic acceptance."

State's birthday fete to be big bash

DALLAS (AP) — When Texans sing "Happy 150th Birthday" to their state in 1986, they plan to do it in style.

At least the Texas Sesquicentennial Commission is planning to do it in style.

After three years of preliminary planning, the commission is now shifting into high gear for the next 2 1/2 years, trying to make the state's 150th anniversary in 1986 a year-long extravaganza.

The commission says it is planning a Texas-sized birthday bash with activities ranging from a Tall Ships parade to a traveling train museum to animal exhibits from Australia.

"The Texas centennial celebration in 1936 was a really big deal, and we hope this will be just as big, if not bigger," said Thad Sitton, public affairs spokesman for the commission.

Sitton said the job of preparing for the state's 150th anniversary of independence from Mexico is growing increasingly hectic.

"Participation is starting to multiply geometrical-ly," he said. "And by next year we expect the phone will start ringing off the hook."

Although the celebration is still 2 1/2 years away, about 100 citizens' committees have been approved by the commission or are being organized, Sitton said. By September, the agency with the tongue-twisting name plans to nearly double its staff of full- and part-time employees to about a dozen, Sitton told the Dallas Times Herald.

Despite a close brush with the Legislature's budget ax, the commission's current operating budget of $154,221 will nearly triple to $477,056 in fiscal 1984, and jump again to $677,209 in fiscal 1985, according to Legislative Budget Board figures.

The commission will act as a consulting and coordinating agency for the committee, which will plan an assortment of events at the local and state level and secure funding for them.

About 500 Texas towns — 40 percent of the state's communities — participated in the nation's bicentennial celebration in 1976. The commission "hopes to do better than that" for Texas' 150th birthday, Sitton said. "This is a Texas celebration and Texans have a very strong regional sense," he said.

Teacher fired after students steal shop car

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston shop teacher, fired because three of his students stole and wrecked a car during class, says he "got all the kids that no one else wants" but enjoyed his job because "I know where they're coming from."

The teacher, John Rauch, said in a Sunday interview he felt a Saturday school board vote to dismiss him was "fixed."

Rauch, 33, was fired for "gross negligence" from his job at Clifton Middle School after the March 10 incident in which three of his students took a car they were washing on a joy ride, then crashed it on a freeway.

"The safety of these children rests in the hands of the teachers in charge of them," said Bob Watts, an attorney representing the Houston Independent School District. "The car was totaled and the boys could have been seriously injured. Thank God that did not happen."

Rauch said Sunday his 6 1/2-hour hearing was "a waste of taxpayer's money." School district board members voted 5-3 to sack him.

The firing cannot be appealed because Rauch was in his first year and on probation.

Rauch said he thought he thought his dismissal had been "fixed" by administrators who felt pressured to fire him. The auto mechanics teacher added he thought the incident should have been dealt with within the school and not brought before the district board.

State Digest

Texas aims for No. 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the year 2000, Texas will pass New York as the nation's second largest state — both in population and number of jobs — according to a nonprofit research organization.

The National Planning Association says that by 2000, Texas will have a population of 18.8 million, or 4.5 million more than in 1980. Only California, with a projected population of 29 million, will be more populous, say the researchers.

At the same time Texas will boast 10.2 million jobs, an increase of 47 percent over 1980, the foundation said. It said over half the new jobs in Texas would be in the services, trade and financial sectors.

Per capita income in Texas should climb to $9,882 in the year 2000, compared with $5,326 in 1980, the foundation estimated.

The foundation also forecast continued dramatic growth for the Houston and Dallas metropolitan areas.

In the 20 years between 1980 and 2000, the Houston area's population will grow by 1.3 million and its employment by 1.1 million, the largest increases of any metropolitan area, the foundation said.

It projected that during the same period the Dallas area's population will expand by 800,000 and its employment by 700,000.

Youth choir returns home

DALLAS (AP) — Some just wanted to sink their teeth into a juicy American hamburger, while others simply wanted to wrap their arms around their parents.

Members of the Lincoln High School Maurine F. Bailey Concert Choir returned Sunday after spending two weeks in Europe, where they competed in the 12th International Youth and Music Festival.

"What I'd really like right now is a big piece of ice and juicy hamburger," Tonya Macon, 18, told the Dallas Morning News as she was greeted by her family at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The 50 teenage members of the Lincoln choir, who left on the tour July 5, were the only youth choir from Texas invited to the Vienna festival. They won a second division rating in the competition against 17 choirs from throughout the world, including 10 from the United States.

"It was my first time away from home, my first time out of the country, my first time on an airplane — and the first time I ever saw a mountain," said 18-year-old Cleo Miller. "Boy am I glad to be home."

Lisa Booker said the first thing she did when she got home was apologize to her mother for calling her collect three times — at $5 a minute.

"I loved it when we were there, but I think I'll turn 40 before I ever go back," she said.

Not everybody shared that sentiment, though. "They could have left me in Germany," said Charlie Nelson, 17. "I loved it. There was no speed limit or limit on the drinking age. The people were really friendly."

SYMPHONY GUILD SALES — Mary Kenny, left, and Suzanne Haney, president of the Big Spring Symphony Guild, check the cards of businesses who have not yet been approached to buy an advertisement in the symphony program. The Guild met Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce office where it was reported that approximately $1,800 worth of advertising has been sold so far. Because many Guild members are on vacation, the sales campaign has been extended until July 29.

Medicare tips designed to save money

If you're over 65, you probably know about Medicare, the federal health insurance program for the elderly.

But unless you know exactly how Medicare works, you may be paying more than you have to for health care.

Does your doctor accept "assignment," for example? What is an approved charge? How much will Medicare actually pay?

There are two parts of Medicare, one for doctors' bills and one for hospital charges.

When it comes to doctors' bills, Medicare generally will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for covered services above a fixed annual deductible, currently $75.

The approved charge — sometimes referred to as the reasonable charge — is not necessarily the same amount your doctor charges you. It is based on a formula involving all the fees charged by all the doctors in your area for a particular service.

The Health Care Financing Administration of the Department of Health and Human Services says that "because of the way approved charges are determined and because of the high rates of inflation in medical care prices, the approved charges are often less than doctors' and suppliers' actual charges."

You are protected against the difference between approved and actual charges if your doctor agrees to accept assignment. When a doctor agrees to accept assignment, he or she agrees to accept the amount approved by Medicare as payment in full — even if he normally charges more.

Here's what it means: Suppose you go to your doctor for a cardiogram. The regular charge is $50. The approved charge, according to Medicare, is $35.

Assume you've already paid the $75 deductible for this year. (If you haven't, you'll have to pay the full bill yourself because the deductible means you're responsible for the first $75 in charges you incur.)

Medicare will pay 80 percent of the approved $35 charge for your cardiogram or $28. If your doctor agrees to accept assignment, all you must pay is the remaining $7. If he or she does not, you must pay $22 — 20 percent of the approved charge, plus the difference between the approved charge and the actual one.

Those extra charges can add up. According to a 1981 study by the Public Citizen Health Research Group, a consumer activist organization in Washington, D.C., a government survey showed that doctors billed Medicare beneficiaries more than $1 billion in excess fees in 1979.

You can save money by asking your doctor, in advance, if he or she will accept assignment. If not — and if you do not want to change doctors — try to find out ahead of time the difference between Medicare's approved charges and your doctor's fee schedule so at least you will be prepared for the bills.

Hospital coverage is different. There is an initial deductible and there are different payment schedules, depending on how long you stay in the hospital.

Here's how it works: When you are hospitalized, Medicare will pay 100 percent of the bills for all covered services for the first 60 days except for the first $304 — about equal to the cost of one day's stay. For the next 30 days, Medicare will pay all bills beyond the first $76 a day.

You have 90 days coverage for each benefit period — which begins when you enter a hospital and ends when you have been out of the hospital, or other facility providing skilled nursing care or rehabilitation services, for 60 days.

Weather

Rain predicted

By The Associated Press
A high-pressure ridge pumped warm, moist air over Texas, creating thundershowers along the Gulf coast and offshore early today, and more scattered rain should fall.

Patchy low cloudiness covered parts of South Texas while some higher clouds developed over northern areas. Skies in the west were generally clear. Low temperatures ranged from 65 degrees at Marfa in Southwest Texas to 81 degrees at Galveston. Readings elsewhere were generally in the 70s. Winds were south to southeasterly at speeds less than 10 mph.

Skies across the state should be partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers. Afternoon temperatures are expected from the upper 80s along the coast to near 105 in the Big Bend.

Thundershowers continued to rumble across the High Plains early today, from northeastern Colorado through Nebraska, the Dakotas, portions of Minnesota and Iowa.

While temperatures in the mid- to upper-90s persisted Sunday in sections of the East, thundershowers accompanied by hail and winds gusting to 110 mph were causing damage across the Upper Midwest.

High winds destroyed a barn and mobile home near Ogallala, Neb., when a thunderstorm blew through the area, the National Weather Service said. Winds of nearly 110 mph were reported at Mullen, Neb., where many homes were damaged by fallen trees, officials said.

Hail three-inches deep coated the ground at Marshall, N.D., while hail also was reported at Wilton, Garrison, Hazelton, and New Salem, N.D., where some barn windows were shattered.

New temperature highs were set in Charleston, S.C., with 99 degrees, edging the 97-degree top posted in 1944. Raleigh, N.C., and Youngstown, Ohio, also set new records, officials said.

Thundershowers were forecast for an area stretching from the middle and southern Atlantic Coast to the Ohio and Tennessee valleys and across the Gulf Coast.

Thunderstorms also were predicted to stretch later today from the southern and central Rockies to the Northern Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley. Showers were expected over Washington and Oregon.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 48 degrees at Klamath Falls, Ore., to 90 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Some other reports:
—East: Atlanta 70 foggy; Boston 81 fair; Buffalo 74 fair; Charleston, S.C., 78 hazy; Cincinnati 73 fair; Cleveland 71 partly cloudy; Detroit 70 fair; Miami 81 fair; New York 76 fair; Philadelphia 73 foggy.

West Texas: Partly cloudy today and tonight and mostly fair Tuesday. Widely scattered late afternoon and evening thundershowers today and tonight and over the south Tuesday. Highs today and Tuesday 90s most areas except near 105 Big Bend. Lows mid 60s extreme north and mountains to mid 70s extreme south.

Walesa returns to workplace

WARSA, Poland (AP) — A jubilant Lech Walesa returned to his Gdansk shipyard workplace today, receiving a hero's welcome from 5,000 workers and official approval for a previously unauthorized vacation.

"If I fight I always win," Walesa told The Associated Press by telephone from his Gdansk home. "It is necessary to fight for yourself and others."

Walesa, who said he had received a "vacation card" legitimizing the two weeks of leave he has already taken and giving him two weeks more, plans to leave Gdansk in a few days for another round of holidays.

The Solidarity union leader said Sunday he would prefer martial law to a set of tough new regulations the authorities are expected to adopt in its place later this week.

"It's something I just cannot accept," he said. "I looked at the proposals of the government and the new laws and I just hope they will be rejected. I would prefer martial law than that."

Walesa has hinted that he is using his vacation time to plan new strategies, telling U.S. television reporters he had "elaborated some ideas," but had yet to put them into final form.

Walesa said today that about 5,000 workers chanted his name and roared their approval when he entered the shipyards where Solidarity was formed during the August 1980 strikes.

"It was a very nice celebration," he said. Walesa had risked being fired and classified a "social parasite" subject to fines and mandatory labor by taking the unauthorized leave earlier this month.

He first asked for a July or September vacation, and refused to accept the August date offered by the shipyard management.

The management apparently tried to maneuver him into taking vacation during August because of his symbolic role in the upcoming Solidarity anniversary.

"I will never forget August and I just hope that society will never forget it," he said Sunday, referring to the August 1980 shipyard strikes that led to the creation of Solidarity. "The ideas of Solidarity will never die. They must win some day."

His comments indicated he was pessimistic that a labor law passed last year could serve as a starting point for rebuilding independent unions.

The Communist government is widely expected to end military rule Friday, but it has been drafting laws and regulations incorporating many of the tough martial law restrictions into Poland's regular criminal code.

Martial law was imposed Dec. 13, 1981, then eased a year later. Solidarity, the first independent trade union in the Soviet bloc, was suspended when the military rule was declared and was outlawed by Parliament last October.

Parliamentary sources said Henryk Jablonski, president of the Council of State, will propose lifting martial law Wednesday.

They said Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, Poland's premier and Communist Party chief, then will present the proposal in a speech on political amnesty scheduled Thursday.

The government is preparing to declare an amnesty for all but 40 of about 450 Solidarity members and advisers imprisoned for martial law violations, the sources said.

Cuban authorities seize group involved in hijack

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Authorities in Cuba seized seven people, including an unwilling girl carrying a large doll, after members of what had seemed to be a "family on a vacation trip" hijacked a Delta Air Lines flight.

The commandeering of the Miami-to-Tampa flight carrying 107 people Sunday was the third hijacking to Havana this month and the seventh since May 1, despite increased federal vigilance.

Passengers said the hijackers — three Spanish-speaking men, two women, a boy about 16 and a girl about 12 or 13 — waited until the plane was on its final approach to the Tampa airport.

They said one of the men then went into the plane's galley and held a stewardess hostage at knifepoint, while a second man threatened to ignite an aerosol spray can with a lighter.

After the plane landed in Cuba, Cuban officers boarded and the men pointed to the two women, the boy and the girl carrying a big doll, passengers said.

The youngsters had to be forced off the plane, one passenger said.

"The older man forced them," said Renaldo Begerano. "The Cuban soldiers grabbed the man by the collar and said, 'Why did you come back? You are going to jail.'"

The group looked "like a classical Cuban family on a vacation trip," said Dr. Barry Blass, a Tampa doctor who was on the plane.

No one was injured. The plane landed at Jose Marti International Airport in Havana about 12:30 p.m. and returned to Tampa at 4:40 p.m.

Robert Butler, agent in charge of the FBI office in Tampa, said that during the flight one of the hijackers mentioned he was not happy with his life in the United States. Another said he was trying to keep the family together and "was asked by yet another of the individuals to please keep quiet."

Delta spokesman Jim Ewing said from Atlanta that officials confirmed passengers' reports that one of the hijackers carried a knife and another had an aerosol can. But he said the spray was not ignited.

But one passenger, Linda Mahy of Oldsmar said, "He lit it. We saw a few flashes of fire. It petrified all of us. We thought we were all going to be torched."

Some of the passengers, including Begerano, were Cuban exiles who fled Cuba during the 1960 boatlift from Mariel and said they were afraid to land in Cuba.

More silver than gold...

The United States passed a population milestone the other day. For the first time there are more persons over age 65 than there are teenagers.

Like it or not we no longer are a rollicking young people. In fact, we have become middle-aged and maybe a bit stodgy.

Future young people will have greater job opportunities. At the same time, they will have to support more older persons. Since they were protected and nurtured by parents and grandparents, turnabout is only fair.

Older Americans may find that there will be less age discrimination. And they will have much more political clout in the future.

The aging of our population will require new emphasis on government policies, medical services, business practices, housing design, recreation and many other aspects of life.

Nineteen months ago these subjects were discussed at a White House Conference on Aging. Several thousand persons participated and many excellent programs were suggested. To date the administration has done little to implement them, and many senior citizen groups are disillusioned. Perhaps now that there are more senior citizens than teenagers the conference recommendations will be given proper attention.

Around the Rim

BY BOB CARPENTER

A new age

Computers. A few months ago I accompanied my wife to a computer seminar for teachers. After hearing education and computer experts explain and demonstrate a variety of computers, I knew the days of the "Industrial Age" were getting shorter. Computers are too handy, efficient and easy to use not to be a societal fixture. It's time to retool our knowledge or be deleted.

This means we have a great need to prepare the country's children for their high-technology futures.

UNFORTUNATELY, the present administration thinks that throwing any more money at an ailing educational system is not the answer. But cutting the funds isn't the answer when a tool like the computer is available.

Marc Tucker of the Carnegie Project on Information, Technology and Education has said, "If they were the right sort of machines, designed to be used in schools with trained teachers, we'd have an extraordinary improvement in reading and writing. Kids would be able to handle data, use it, analyze it, understand it, which would make an extraordinary contribution to our ability to compete with other countries."

However, to realize even a few of Tucker's ideals, it will take a vast amount of money — money the Reagan Administration is not willing to fork over.

Tucker estimates about $10 billion is needed for proper hardware and software to create a suitable student to computer ratio in public schools. Even if the states and school districts paid half the bill, $5 billion would still be needed, and that translates into significant federal funding.

Of course, the micro-computer is not the cure to all the ailments in education. But anyone who has seen what a computer can do knows it offers the classroom teacher an ingenious tool that is much better than a blackboard and chalk.

THE PRESENT administration thinks the best defense is a good offense in the nuclear arms race and doesn't seem to mind funneling money in that direction. Why not try the same for education in the direction of hi-tech literacy? It would give us good economic weapons with which to compete with other countries, as well as giving educators a tool to fix some of the problems in education.

The government used to believe in giving this country's children the best education possible. Does it owe them any less now, especially since a new age is upon us?

The Constitution and drunks

What would you do if a patrolman came to your door, told you he was searching (without warrants) every house on your block for illegal drugs and insisted on ransacking the premises. You might let him, but you certainly wouldn't like it. You'd probably ask yourself what gives the police the right to invade your home without some evidence that you've broken the law. You might even consider a lawsuit.

But what if you're driving along and arrive at a roadblock, where a patrolman informs you the police are looking for drunk drivers and then inspects you and the interior of your car? If you're like most of the drivers interviewed by TV reporters at these checkpoints, you'd think it's fine — anything to get those drunks off the road.

Police roadblocks set up to catch drunk drivers are the latest rage across the country, from Massachusetts to Illinois. In one month alone, New York City police stopped 185,000 cars. The New York City police commissioner claims the public response has been "extremely positive."

BUT NEITHER the popularity of such programs among law enforcement officials nor the willingness of motorists to tolerate them changes the reality: the roadblocks probably violate the constitution, they accomplish very little and they address a problem that Americans are not ready to solve. These checkpoints ignore the Fourth Amendment, which prohibits "unreasonable searches and seizures." It was intended to prevent government agents from detaining people or invading their homes without some reason to believe a crime has been committed. Though the Supreme Court has never ruled definitively on the legality of stopping groups of drivers at roadblocks, it has held that police can't single out a particular driver to be stopped without a good reason.

In these dragnets, people are stopped even if they have done nothing wrong. This is the highway equivalent of letting police search every house on a block just on the off-chance they might find something illegal. New York City's police commissioner, Robert McGuire, excuses the intrusion by claiming that "the program is purely voluntary." But if it is truly voluntary — if a drunk driver isn't required to stop or roll down his window — then it is pointless.

It is also monumentally ineffective. In one month, 100 full-time New York City police at checkpoints arrested only 210 people for drunken driving — just two arrests per officer, and only one arrest for every 880 who were stopped. To catch one drunk, 879 sober drivers had to be inconvenienced.

BUT THESE objections won't dissuade those who think no price is too high for getting drunks off the road. Though that is an admirable goal, there is no reason to believe Americans are as devoted to it as they claim.

Despite what they tell pollsters, writes Cornell University law Professor James Jacobs, Americans tend to identify with the drunk driver" and "reject draconian penalties." People on a jury, asked to imprison someone for a crime most of them have committed, frequently refuse. One reason is that low legal limits on blood alcohol levels make no distinction between the slightly tipsy driver and the falling-down drunk — even though the latter is far more dangerous.

Putting all convicted drunk drivers in jail, even briefly, requires freeing other criminals — burglars, rapists, armed robbers — to make room. And catching more of them means taking police away from combating those types of crime to patrol streets and highways. Drunk drivers are dangerous, but they shouldn't be our top law enforcement priority.

If we genuinely want to stop drunk driving, there is a reasonably simple way: require automakers to install devices that prevent cars from being operated by anyone with a certain level of alcohol in his blood. Assuming the gadgets would be hard to disable, this would do much to solve the problem. But it would also cause a lot of people a serious inconvenience — something Americans may detest more than drunk drivers.

In any case, we can no more afford to let the current sentiment against drunk drivers erode our Fourth Amendment (or other) rights than we could afford to let the anti-communist uproar of the 1950s deprive us of our freedom of speech and association. If we're serious about stopping drunken driving, there are better ways. If we're not, we ought to stop pretending.

Billy Graham

Parent worried about schoolbooks

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am concerned about some of the books my son is having to read in high school. I don't like the language of the philosophy they convey. Do you think I have a right to be concerned about this? — R.H.

DEAR R.H.: I know this is a common problem facing millions of parents today, and it also is an area of some controversy in the legal courts. However, if your children are in public schools they probably will confront this issue, and the first thing you should do is be able to talk candidly with your children about this — and listen to them as well.

Yes, you should be concerned about this, and perhaps there are ways in your community that you and other parents can express your concern to the school administration or school board. It especially concerns me that a child today often can come away from school with a thorough knowledge of various secular and even anti-religious points of view — and yet cannot pray or read the Bible in the classroom or be taught in any measure the basic beliefs of Christians.

This means that you need to make a special effort to train your son so that he realizes the difference between the truth of God's Word, the Bible, and various philosophies that are being presented through his reading assignments. I am convinced we need to do more to instruct our children in God's standards of right and wrong.

When the Law was given to the people of God in the Old Testament, they were commanded, "Love the Lord your God... These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road when you lie down and when you get up" (Deuteronomy 6:5-7).

Then realize too that God can use the experiences your son is facing to help him understand the way many people today think. If he is a Christian, he should be praying not only that he will not be affected in a wrong way, but that God will help him to reach out to his classmates who are searching for meaning in life.

The oldest written national constitution still in use is the United States Constitution, written in Philadelphia during the summer of 1787.

WASHINGTON — The bloodhounds of the press are in hot pursuit of the mole who slipped Jimmy Carter's political secrets to the opposition during the 1980 presidential election campaign. Let us suppose that President Reagan should become personally implicated in the scandal, that criminal charges should be laid before a grand jury, that an accused accomplice should be rewarded with a presidential appointment, that he should fail two lie-detector tests and that the president's personal attorney should counsel a witness against being "too open with the FBI." How the bloodhounds would bay!

Then let's say that incriminating documents should be withheld from the grand jury, that jurors should accuse the prosecutors of protecting White House witnesses and that the grand jury foreman should charge the Justice Department with "duplicitous," "manipulation" and "cover-up" to protect the Reagan administration. What a howl reporters would raise!

Finally, let's say that the grand jury should want to bring indictments but that the Justice Department should refuse to prosecute. Does anyone doubt that the news hounds would holler to high heaven?

Bloodhounds missed a scent

This startling scenario is not wild imagination; such events have already occurred. But the president who became entangled in this mess was Jimmy Carter, not Ronald Reagan. What happened to the vigilant press during those explosive events? Where were the banner headlines? In fact, there was scarcely a murmur from the press.

What are the details of this suppressed scandal?

Fugitive financier Robert Vesco, described in a biography as "the largest international swindler of our times," made a deal with some Georgians to fix the federal case against him. The Georgians had ties inside Carter's White House.

Vesco agreed to transfer a block of stock worth $10 million to the Georgia group. But first he demanded two signals that the Georgians really could pull the necessary strings inside the White House. He wanted the Justice Department to drop its attempts to extradite him from Costa Rica, and he insisted that President Carter himself telephone Costa Rican president Daniel Oduber about the Vesco case.

Not long afterward, Vesco became satisfied that both conditions had been met. He then transferred the $10 million stock through a complex financial maneuver to the Georgia group. Here is the incriminating sequence:

On Feb. 8, 1977, a small-town Georgia attorney, Spencer Lee IV, showed up at the White House after a visit with Vesco in Costa Rica. Lee had a 3 p.m. appointment with his boyhood buddy, Richard Harden, who was a trusted Carter aide. The two friends also had dinner together that evening. Both later admitted that Lee told Harden about Vesco's multi-million dollar offer.

The next day, at precisely 4:47 p.m., President Carter telephoned President Oduber in Costa Rica. This was an unlikely person for a president to be calling only 20 days after taking office. Carter told the FBI, according to a Justice Department memo, that he placed the call to congratulate Oduber for receiving "a conservation award." Vesco later confessed that Oduber told him Carter had spoken, as prearranged, about the Vesco case.

A week later — on Feb. 15, to be precise — Harden dropped by the Oval Office for a meeting with the president. The White House later admitted that Harden spoke to Carter about Vesco's offer to pay millions of dollars for a political fix. Recounts a Justice Department memo: "The president then proceeded to write a note to the Attorney General stating, 'Please see Spencer Lee from Albany when he requests an appointment.' The handwritten note was initialed J.C."

Lee never sought the appointment. It was unnecessary. Someone else arranged for the extradition proceedings against Vesco to be dropped. Former New York Times reporter Charles Kaiser says he was told that Carter himself made the decision to stop the extradition attempt.

This information assertedly came from Robert Fiske, a former U.S. attorney in New York City, who in an interview hedged on the question of Carter's personal involvement. All Fiske would confirm was that the ultimate decision to stop the extradition proceedings was made by the White House.

These facts were laid before the Justice Department, which was controlled, of course, by the White House. Lee failed two lie-detector tests. Harden refused to take a test; his testimony was described in Justice Department documents as "perjurious." Incriminating documents and testimony were withheld from the grand jury. The president's personal attorney, Charles Kirbo, was picked up on tape advising a witness, "I think it's a mistake to be too open with the Members of the grand jury claim that the prosecutors seemed to be protecting White House witnesses. One juror said the chief prosecutor "tried to lead the jury by the nose." The foreman, Ralph Ulmer, tried to resign, charging that "coverup activities are being orchestrated within the Department of Justice under the concept that the administration must be protected at all costs."

In the end, the Justice Department attorneys notified the grand jury that they would not prosecute anyone, so the juror considered it futile to issue any indictments. Explained the foreman in a report to the judge: "The Justice Department told the grand jury there would be no indictments because they would sign none... Jury was asked only to clear those involved... Jury neither indicted nor cleared anyone."

Footnote: What happened to Spencer Lee IV after he admitted to the White House that he was involved, at least temporarily, in a conspiracy to obstruct justice for a multi-million dollar payoff? President Carter appointed him to a judicial nominating committee that helped to select federal judges.

Dr. Donohue

Exercises helps muscles, bones

Dear Dr. Donohue: Discuss bone-thinning in males, please. Your discussion have leaned toward females. I am a woman and have it, but so does a male friend, who is in worse shape than I was at my peak of the problem. Surely, there must be some hormone pill a man can take to help him the way it does a woman.

— Mrs. M.W.

We do think of osteoporosis (bone-thinning) as strictly a female problem, but it isn't. Men get it too, although not to the same degree or as quickly as do women.

One reason osteo is so often associated with women after the menopause is that female hormones, which decline at that time, apparently play an important role in the way their bones rebuild themselves from day to day. Therefore, for some women hormones do help prevent osteoporosis. But there are other factors in-involved that have nothing to do with hormones, and so men get the problem.

One of those contributing factors involves exercise. Muscles tug on bones as they are used, and the tugging help stimulate bone growth. So men who have engaged in regular physical labor rarely get the bone problem. Now a word of warning is called for here: Whether male or female, once osteoporosis occurs, any exercise has to be modified. Too strenuous exercise can actually lead to bone breaks because of the thinning that has already taken place.

However, there is usually some form of exercise that won't pose such problems — gentle swimming, for example. The doctor must rule.

The second factor in bone-thinning is, of course, calcium. As we age, calcium is usually less well absorbed from the digestive tract into the bloodstream, so less of it get to bones. And because older people tend to forego the important calcium foods (dairy products, chiefly) they become osteoporosis prone.

So both you and your friend have to make sure you're getting enough calcium. You should get at least 800 milligrams a day, perhaps as much as 1,500 mgs.

Children attend library party

The Howard County Library ended its summer reading program (SRP) with a party, Thursday morning. The program began May 31.

Children checked out and read hundreds of books. When returning them the library staff listed the book titles under each child's name. More than three hundred children signed up for the program this summer.

If a child completed 10 books, he was awarded a "Reading Rodeo" certificate with his name on it from the Texas State Library, the sponsor of book clubs state-wide. 182 children received certificates and leather bookmarks with SRP on them.

Rodeo tickets were presented to 97 children who read 20 books each by rodeo time. They had about three weeks to accomplish this task. McDonalds also provided coupons for children who read a certain amount of books.

Between 70 and 150 children attended activity day each week. Speakers included Jack Wilson, magician; Wanda Driver, woman barrel racer; Speight Grimes, Indian Ceremonial Dancer with scout troop, Quail Dobbs, rodeo clown, and Bob Lewis known as Tumbleweed Smith.

Jennifer Blount, a 4th grader and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bount, was top reader with 380 books. When asked if she tried to win top reader, she said, "Mostly I wanted to win a rodeo ticket. I thought it was 50 books and it turned out to be 20" books I had to read.

Reading was something to do this summer for her as her family prepares to move out of the country. She went to the library daily to return books and check out new ones. She read every chance she got. Jennifer likes to read "thick books over 100 pages the best," she said.

Health Fair beat Guests on TV

Organizers of the Big Spring Health and Safety Fair will be guests on two area television talk shows this week, to promote the upcoming Fair, July 23.

Barbara Holdampf, director of allied health services at Howard College, and founding chairwoman of the health event, will be a guest on "Good Morning West Texas", KMID-TV, on July 21, at 8:25 a.m. She and Emily Ward, public relations chairwoman for the Fair and director of public relations at Malone-Hogan Hospital, will be guests on the "Noon Show", on July 22, at 12 noon.

New on the Big Spring Health & Safety Fair scene this year are the Veterinarians of Howard County. They'll be showing some audio visuals on pets and farm animals, and displaying x-rays of animals to teach visitors about animal diseases.

Akin Simpson, D.V.S., Scott Burt, D.V.S., Hank Thompson, D.V.S., and Sid Hanslik, D.V.S., will staff the veterinarians' Fair booth.

A special display on heart worms, a common problem in pets, will be shown.

Malone-Hogan Hospital's radiology department will demonstrate radiographs and answer questions of Fair visitors regarding the use of x-rays in diagnosing various illnesses. Hours of the booth are from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Ultrasound, a non-invasive procedure, used when an abnormal condition occurs during pregnancy to prescribe treatment, will be explained through use of dot-like printouts that picture for the doctor's information, the position and status of the fetus in pregnancies.

Visitors interested in learning about the hospital's radiology school should stop by the booth, too.

Dear Abby Grieving mom

DEAR ABBY: I sent for your booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," and although it contained some good "suggested letters" for many other purposes, I could not find the one I need at this time.

You see, three months ago my husband and I were blessed with our first child. We received many lovely baby gifts, but because I developed some serious complications during the baby's birth, I was in no condition to write any thank-you notes.

Unfortunately, we lost our little boy when he was only 6 weeks old.

My friends want me to keep the baby gifts for our next child, and that is what I've decided to do. However, I must write some kind of thank-you note, but I just can't seem to find the right words. Please help me.

LOST FOR WORDS

DEAR LOST: First, please accept my heartfelt sympathy at the loss of your beloved child.

A suggested thank-you note:

"Dear (): 'Thank you for the lovely () you sent for our baby. As you probably know, God called our angel home when he was only 6 weeks old.

'We are keeping your gift with the hope that we shall one day use it for 'the next one,' should we be so blessed.

'With love and gratitude. ()'"

* If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38823, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Reserve officers sought

QUESTION: Does the Big Spring Police Department have a Reserve Police program and what are the entry requirements?

ANSWER: The Big Spring Police Department is seeking persons interested in becoming a member of the Reserve officer Program. This program will offer qualified persons an opportunity to be an active participant in the enforcement of State and Municipal laws here in Big Spring. It would also be beneficial to both the person and the officers that they would be working with because it would show the person some of the problems that an officer must deal with in his daily duties. It would also help the officer to understand the Police image as it is perceived to be by the citizens. With these two understandings in mind it would help to make the Big Spring Police Department one that the entire community could be proud to have.

To become eligible for the program, a person must be 21 years old, a citizen of the United States, never been convicted of a felony, have a level of education that is acceptable to the screening board, of good moral character, be free of all physical defects, physically strong and well proportioned, and possess a valid driver's license with a good driving record. The person interested in volunteering his time for this program needs to contact the City personnel director, Emma Bogard, for an application for the position. After the application has been filled out and turned back into the personnel officer a date for a written test will be arranged. After successfully passing the written exam, the person will have to pass a physical agility test which is set up according to the various ages of the applicants. After passing this, the person goes before an oral interview board and his background references will have been checked out by this time. Then the person passing all the above tasks will be given a physiological examination and polygraph exam. The various tests and personal checks are the same as the ones that our full-time officers must complete and pass. The reason for all this being completed is because the Big Spring Police Department wants to have officers who demonstrate an ability to learn their various tasks as well as their desire to make being a member of the law enforcement profession as professional as possible. It is also required of the Reserves because when they are accepted as members of the Reserve Program that they will be representing the image of the Big Spring Police Department when they are working in the official capacity as an officer.

The Big Spring Police Department will in the future be having a Reserve Police Academy. The person accepted into the Reserve Police Program will have to attend this school. The courses taught will include training in the Texas Penal Code, Code of Criminal Procedure, mechanics of arrest, officer safety, Texas Traffic Laws, basic investigation of offenses, report writing, and firearms safety and qualification with a firearm. These are just some of the more important topics that will be taught. This training will be followed up with training films shown to the regular officers and with on-the-job training provided by the officers that they will be assigned to work with.

The duties that a Reserve officer will perform are the same duties that a regular officer performs. The only difference being the Reserve officer will have a regular officer with him. After a period of time and training, a Reserve officer might receive authorization to operate as a single officer patrol unit. At this time, the Big Spring Police Department utilizes Reserve officers in various functions such as assisting identification and records personnel, desk or jail personnel, assisting the Police dispatchers or furnishing Patrol division with a person to make two-man patrol units during the busy parts of the week. The Reserve officer is expected to put in an average of 20 hours a month at a designated Police function.

The Reserve officers have an Association formed which they use to sponsor certain civic functions such as in the past they have sponsored various magic acts performed for the public at a certain fee. This money is put back in their fund for various things that the Reserve Board feels it needs to be used for.

The Big Spring Police Department will furnish the Reserve officer with the Police Uniform, badge, identification card and leather goods. The officer will be responsible for furnishing a duty weapon, ammunition, handcuffs and a holster. All items furnished by the Reserve will be in compliance with Department police. The officer is also responsible for the upkeep and care on all items of Department uniform.

'Reading rodeo' comes to end

By Donna Jackson
Children's Librarian
Howard County Library's Summer Reading Program, "Reading Rodeo," ended July 9 with the closing party on July 14. It was very successful thanks to the many volunteers and speakers who generously gave of their time. Thanks to Wanda Driver, Jack Wilson, Speight Grimes, Quail Dobbs and "Tumbleweed Smith" the activity days were very popular with attendance as high as 150 children.

Volunteers who helped record books read by club members include William Slagle (the mainstay on Thursday mornings), Barbara Webb, Sashi Rajogopalan, Kim Schaffer, Julie Fortner, Kathy Watson, Christy Alexander, Erin Kelly, Doug Logan, Dough Jackson, Victoria Logan, Danelle Castillo, Kim White, Julie Williams, Shawna Adams and Eli Stovall.

The Rodeo Association's support of the "Reading Rodeo" with almost 100 tickets for the children who read 20 books was particularly appreciated. The recipients were very pleased to earn those tickets.

McDonald's, for the third year, provided coupons for soft drinks and Big Macs. As in past years, the participants looked forward to earning those coupons so they could enjoy their french fries or breakfast at McDonald's. Many children were encouraged because of the coupons to read just a few more books to earn the next coupon, so we appreciated their support too.

The Ritz Theater provided 50 tickets for the Summer Kids Show, but by mistake there were not passed out when the prizes were awarded, so they may still be picked up at the library by participants who have read 50 or more books.

Many comments were made during the program about the attractive art work done by LaRue DeViney for the "Reading Rodeo". The rodeo theme had a real western flavor thanks to her decorations. The attendance at and interest in the program emphasized the crowded conditions at the library... as any patron who ws in the building Thursday mornings between 9-45 and 11:30 can attest to. Any time there are from 75 to 150 children plus assorted parents and sisters and brothers in a building the size of the library, there must be confusion and crowding. The children were well-mannered and the staff was efficient and patient with the tremendous increase in circulation.

Anyone seeing the juvenile collection with many shelves almost bare during the six weeks program would believe it was a rather small collection to serve a community this size.

Like most libraries, we could increase our collection easily to better serve the community if funds were available, but a larger problem is shortage of space. The collection has outgrown the building. By state library standards we should have about four times the space we now have for the size of the collection and the community.

There are 14,000 to 15,000 more volumes housed in the current building than American Library Association standards recommend. It would be easy to suggest that old books be withdrawn, but the information they provide is needed and used. At the same time, a library can't stop ordering new books, or it would become stagnant and would be unable to meet the changing needs of the community.

Some changes will be made soon to accommodate more books, but it will only alleviate the situation temporarily. To serve the community adequately, a new library building is needed with space for meetings, class visits and Summer Reading program and other activities.

It is time for Howard County to start thinking of a new library. Public support and interest is necessary before that can happen.

CHICAGO (AP) — Last year, John Matar complained his brother Sam's birthday gift to him "stunk." So this year Sam made sure it did.

John, who recently turned 43, came home from his job as a plant supervisor to find his front yard fenced in and 100 skunks nibbling on the shrubbery.

Sam, the younger brother who is an automobile dealer in Carmel, Calif., had left this note on the fence:

"John: You complained that last year's present stunk. How about these stinkers!!! Happy Birthday, Sam."

But Sam had done the decent thing. The skunks, brought in last Thursday from a Moran, Mich., pet farm, had been deodorized.

Last year Sam sent John 50 shaggy, smelly goats.

The brothers have been trying to outdo each other on their birthdays ever since Sam sent John 25 birthday cards 12 years ago.

In other years he has given John a load of manure that neighbors shoveled onto their lawns, a herd of cattle, an elephant and a 4,000-pound pet rock.

Watson captures British Open for fifth time

CONGRATULATIONS — Hemmed in by the crowd, Tom Watson and his wife Linda, embrace each other after he won the British Open Golf Championship yesterday for the fifth time.

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — After Tom Watson had been presented with the British Open golf trophy for the fifth time, he was handed a telegram.

It was from Peter Thomson, one-time Australian great. It said: "Delighted and thrilled to welcome you to the five times club."

That reminded the golfers and tournament officials raising champagne glasses in the Royal Birkdale clubhouse that Watson had truly joined the immortals. Only four other golfers have ever been British Open champion five times — old-timers J.H. Taylor, Harry Vardon and James Braid back in the 1890s and the early years of this century, and Thomson between 1954 and 1965.

"What a way to end a dry spell," said Watson, who had not won a tournament since last year's British Open at Troon.

His other victories were at Carnoustie in 1975, Turnberry in 1977 and Muirfield in 1980.

A record 142,894 attended the tournament. Some 30,000 watched a thrilling dog-fight between a dozen tightly-packed players in Sunday's final round.

Nobody could guess the winner until Watson came up the 18th fairway and hit a majestic iron shot from light rough into the middle of the green.

"It was probably the best iron shot of my life," Watson said.

The shot left him with two putts to spare for the title and he could not miss.

Watson finished with a four-round total of 275 — 9-under-par for the 6,968-yard, par 71 seaside links.

Hale Irwin and Andy Bean were one stroke back, tied for second place. Graham Marsh was at 277, Lee Trevino 278, Seve Ballesteros and Harold Henning 279 and Nick Faldo, Bill Rogers, Christy O'Connor Jr. and Britain's Denis Durnian bracketed at 280.

Other contenders like Craig Stadler, Mark McNulty and Fuzzy Zoeller faded in the excitement of the day's firing.

"Looking at the names on the leader board, and the way everybody was playing, it looked like a play-off all the way," Watson said.

At one stage he was tied with Marsh, Irwin and Bean.

Marsh, eight strokes behind Watson when the round began, surged with seven birdies between the 5th and 17th holes.

The Australian went to the clubhouse as co-leader and waited while his rivals played the home nine. And that where Watson took a stride ahead of the rest.

At the 16th he canned a putt from 20 feet for a birdie three.

"It was my best putt of the tournament," Watson said. "It just hit the middle of the hole."

Watson and Stadler were the last pair home. Watson drove into light rough, of the kind that had plagued many golfers these last few days.

The hole was 212 yards away. Watson took a 2-iron and planted the ball to 18 feet from the pin.

He had two putts to sink the ball and retain the title.

"I concentrated on getting the first one near to the cup," Watson said.

Then he knocked it in from a few inches.

The tournament was played in a heat wave and was packed with drama and dazzling golf.

Rogers shot a double eagle on the 542-yard 15th hole on the first day, holing with an iron from 228 yards.

Durnian, a little known English club professional, played the first nine in 6-under-par 28 on the second day and set an all-time record for the British Open, which was first played in 1860.

Rodger Davis of Australia hit a hole-in-one.

Stadler, the 1982 Masters champion, set a course record 64 in the first round and led the field going into the last day. His hopes began to disappear when he bogeyed the first two holes Sunday.

But this time it was not for Watson. The Jolly Good Fellow was Keith Mackenzie, retiring after 16 years as secretary of the Royal and Ancient Club, which runs the tournament. Watson proposed a toast to him and led the singing.

Watson won a first prize of $60,000 and said he would now prepare for a shot at next month's PGA championship — the one major he has never won.

Daniel wins McDonald's tourney

MALVERN, Pa. (AP) — Beth Daniel won the $350,000 McDonald's Kids Classic, but not before going through a "pretty scary experience" by being forced into a sudden-death playoff.

Daniel earned $52,500 after surviving a pair of double bogeys on the front nine of the final round Sunday in the 72-hole tournament at White Manor Country Club's 6,283-yard, par-72 course.

She started the last 18 holes two strokes ahead of defending champion JoAnne Carner, three in front of Patty Sheehan and four up on Kathy Whitworth and Sandra Haynie.

But before she could claim the first prize, Daniel, 26, lost her lead and needed an errant shot by Whitworth to tie Carner at a 2-under 286 for the playoff.

Then came Whitworth at 287, Haynie and Sheehan at 288, Kathy Martin at 290, JoAnn Washam, Janet Coles and Judy Clark at 291, and Hollis Stacy and Debbie Meisterlin at 292.

Only three of the original field of 143 finished under par.

Daniel, who won for the first time since last August in Denver, said she felt the tournament slipping away from her on the back nine Sunday.

"You can't go out and make double bogeys and expect to stay in there. And on the backside, JoAnne (Carner) was really getting fired up. I was afraid she would run off a string of birdies and get away from me."

But Carner cooled off, and a shot by Whitworth made all the difference during regulation play.

Daniel, Carner and Whitworth were tied at 2-under after 13 holes. When Daniel and Carner bogeyed the 15th, Whitworth took a one-stroke lead.

But on the 17th, Whitworth drove her tee shot into the water, took a double bogey and left Daniel and Carner tied.

Daniel and Carner matched par on the final two holes and then went back to the 16th for the sudden-death playoff.

They started the hole the same way, by driving into the rough behind trees.

Daniel, who collected her 13th tour victory, was 110 yards from the pin.

"I decided to do or die," she said. "I wanted to end it there."

"So, I pulled out a wedge. I had branches in front of me to go under, and a tree 50 yards away to get over."

"I punched the ball so it started low and then rose over the tree."

The ball landed eight feet from the pin.

Daniel rolled in the putt for a birdie and the victory.

Daniel, who almost sat out the tournament because of "mental fatigue," said she was helped by lessons she took the previous week from her teaching pro, Derick Hardy.

"He changed my outlook, made me trust my swing again. The lessons finally gave me something positive to think about when on the course," Daniel said.

Sheehan, who made a charge in Saturday's third round, shot a 2-over-par 74 Sunday, failing in her bid for the special $450,000 bonus she would have earned with a victory.

Jane Blalock, who turned pro in 1969, earned $3,220 Sunday to become the LPGA's seventh winner of $1 million or more.

VICTORY CELEBRATION — Michigan Panthers Anthony Carter gives the number one sign after scoring the winning touchdown against the Philadelphia Stars in the USFL Championship game at Denver's Mile High Stadium Sunday.

Michigan reigns over USFL

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — The comparisons are inevitable and when they are made, the United States Football League's Nameless Bowl will have nothing to be ashamed of, thanks to Bobby Hebert and Anthony Carter, a passing battery that decided not to wait for the National Football League.

Together, they led the Michigan Panthers to the first USFL championship, a 24-22 victory over Philadelphia Sunday night that made the summertime Super Bowl a memorable first time around for the new league.

Hebert was the game's most valuable player, hitting 20 of 39 passes for 314 yards and three touchdowns. Nine of his passes were caught by Carter, who gained 179 yards, 48 of them on a touchdown with 3:01 to play that choked off a familiar-looking comeback by the Stars.

Hebert wasn't about to wring his hands over the Stars' recovery. Instead, he took the Panthers to midfield and then called an out route for Carter, who had been burning the Stars all night. He also warned his team in the huddle to stay alert for a change of play.

"I told them to get ready for an audible, that they would probably come with a free safety blitz," he said.

When Scott Woerner made his move out of the Stars' secondary, the Panthers were prepared. Hebert called his audible and Carter ran downfield, sprinting into the clear.

"I was wide open," he said. "It was still an out route with the audible and it was there."

"It's one of the greatest feelings ever," he said. "We have a bunch of men who would not say no. I'll tell you this. I could fly back to Detroit without an air plane. I feel like I'm three miles above sea level."

—Michigan coach Jim Stanley

Carter, the speedster out of Michigan who wears uniform No. 1 and would almost certainly have been a high NFL draft pick had he waited for the older league, took it for the TD. The cushion allowed the Panthers to surrender a final drive Philadelphia touchdown without harm.

The game started cautiously, much the way many Super Bowls have begun. Novo Bojovic of Michigan, who kicks with a clove of garlic in his shoe, and Philadelphia's David Trout, the league's leading scorer, traded field goals. Then, with seven minutes left in the first half, Hebert and Carter connected on completions of 27, 12 and 13 yards.

Then Hebert changed targets, pitching a 12-yarder to a wide open Derek Holloway for the game's first touchdown. Like the last one to Carter, the play was an audible.

"They tried to blitz us," Hebert said. "We expected them to and I think we were pretty effective against it most of the game."

The 10-3 lead ballooned to 14 points on the first possession of the second half. Hebert took the Panthers 80 yards in 15 plays — two of them 13-yard passes to Carter sandwiched around a 28-yard gain on a short pitch to running back Ken Lacy. Michigan scored when Holloway caught a 14-yarder.

Now the Stars started back. Kelvin Bryant, who rushed for a game-high 89 yards, gained 22 of them on a broken play, and Chuck Fusina hit Scott Fitzkee for 20 and 17 yards in a drive to the Michigan 17. But Trout missed a 34-yard field goal.

That did not deter the Stars. Before the period was over, they were on the 5-yard line following a 44-yard option pass from Allen Harvin to Rodney Parker. Philadelphia started the fourth quarter with a third and goal from the 5 but John Corker, who led the league with 2½ sacks, trapped Fusina for a six-yard loss and the Stars had to settle for a 28-yard field goal by Trout.

"We should have scored a touchdown on that series, instead of coming away with just a field goal," Fusina said.

Two plays later, Mike Lush intercepted an Hebert pass and Philadelphia charged downfield. Willie Collier kept the drive moving, catching a fourth-down pass and was leveled on the play. He was carried off the field by teammates, so imagine Michigan's surprise when, three plays later, he made a diving catch of Fusina's 21-yard pass for a touchdown. Then he grabbed a two-point conversion pass and suddenly the Stars were only a field goal behind with almost nine minutes to play.

Philadelphia got the ball back with 6:09 to play but the Panthers weren't giving ground this time. They forced the Stars to punt and on their next possession, Hebert and Carter hooked up on the clinching TD.

As time ran out, a number of fans in the crowd of 50,906 (46,535 paid) spilled on the field at Mile High Stadium and tried to tear down the goal posts. Denver police used mace to quell the disturbance. Twelve persons were arrested and two others were treated for minor injuries and released.

"It's one of the greatest feelings ever," he said. "We have a bunch of men who would not say no. I'll tell you this. I could fly back to Detroit without an air plane. I feel like I'm three miles above sea level."

Dorsett denies cocaine rumors

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Tony Dorsett says he hopes a federal cocaine investigation in which his name surfaced will be resolved soon.

Dorsett, the Dallas Cowboys' All-Pro running back, spoke openly for the first time Sunday, saying he wasn't guilty of cocaine usage and wishes the federal government would file charges if they have any evidence.

"It becomes frustrating and you wonder why, why are they doing these things," Dorsett told reporters upon his arrival at training camp. "If you want to sling the mud, sling the mud. Let's get it over with ... I'm not guilty of anything."

Dorsett said he was interviewed by federal agents a year ago in training camp and noted "I will do that again if they want."

Cowboy President Tex Schramm has confirmed that federal agents are reviewing information linking Dorsett, defensive end Harvey Martin, defensive end Larry Bethea, fullback Ron Springs and receiver Tony Hill with possible cocaine use. No charges have been filed.

"I mean to be honest. I have not been formally arrested or charged," Dorsett said. "Maybe this is one of the trials and tribulations that the Lord is going to put me through."

Springs and Hill both said they didn't want to discuss the federal investigation upon their arrival in camp.

"I don't know anything about it," said Springs.

Asked if he wanted to answer questions, Hill said "No, I don't."

Martin and Bethea were scheduled to arrive in camp Thursday.

Asked why he thought the players might be a target for a federal investigation, Dorsett said "My thinking is that there are some people who have been arrested and are possibly plea bargaining for themselves ... just throw out some names of some highly visible people and making things a little tough for ourselves for while."

"At this particular time I don't know what the motive is or what they're looking for. All I know it is not good for me."

Asked if he was personally involved with cocaine, Dorsett replied "No. Not at all."

Dorsett said companies he endorses have been in touch wanting more information about the situation.

"They (the companies) are concerned about it," Dorsett said. "I don't blame them for that. We are still under contract at this point with some pretty good companies. Hopefully they will understand the situation."

Dorsett added "enough damage has been done to my career as it is." Asked if he would be able to concentrate on football, Dorsett said "When I start to practice (Monday) it is over, man. You guys write your stories and get them done so we don't have to read about this. Get it all out in one day. Let the stories break tomorrow and let's forget about it the rest of the week, training camp, the season and the rest of my life."

Dorsett said he didn't think his career would be injured by the investigation.

"I don't think of anything that will jeopardize my career," he said. "I think enough damage has been done at this point. My career is not only on the field, it is off the field as well. There has been damage."

"Unfortunately, this is something that I don't have any control over right now."

Braves bash Twins, 10-6

By the Associated Press

Cecil Cooper is a player who can carry a team, and right now the Milwaukee Brewers are riding his bat. The resurgent Brewers have won 16 of their last 20 games to climb back into the American League East race, thanks to Cooper's eight home runs in that stretch. He hit two of them Sunday, driving in four runs, to key a 10-6 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Cooper's first two-run homer of the game keyed a three-run sixth that gave the Brewers an 8-4 lead. The Milwaukee outfielder slugged another two-run shot in the eighth, his 20th homer of the year, for the Brewers' final runs.

The Brewers picked up a game on first place Toronto and are 4½ games behind the Blue Jays in the American League East.

American League

Jim Gantner and Paul Molitor also slugged homers for the Brewers. Chuck Porter, 2-4, who pitched the first six innings, was the winner with relief help from Slaton.

Yanks 8, Rangers 6

In New York, Rick Cerone's run-scoring single snapped a sixth-inning tie and Dave Winfield drove in three runs with a double and single as New York defeated Texas, handing the American League West-leading Rangers their ninth loss in 11 games.

Odeil Jones, 3-4, walked pinch hitter Steve Kemp to open the sixth and then hit Don Baylor with a pitch. One out later, Cerone singled to score Kemp.

George Wright had a three-run homer and Wayne Tolleson also knocked in three runs for the Rangers, including a two-run single that tied the game 6-6 in the top of the sixth.

Mom helps son with contract decision

By The Associated Press

Viola Dickerson doesn't know her football, but she does know her son. And so far, she hasn't been wrong. If her success continues, owner Georgia Frontiere of the Los Angeles Rams owes her one huge Mother's Day present next May.

The mother of Eric Dickerson, the Rams' No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft, is on a roll. She was instrumental in advising him to select Southern Methodist as his university and all Eric did there was rush for more than 4,400 yards in four seasons and finish third in the country in the voting for the Heisman Trophy in his senior year.

Last Monday, while entertaining offers from the Rams and the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League, Eric phoned his mother for advice.

"She said she'd sleep on it a night," Dickerson said. "Then she said she thought I should go with the Rams."

Following lengthy negotiations the NFL's overall No. 2 draftee took the advice although, he said, "She doesn't even know much about football," and signed for a smaller contract. Dickerson won't give details, but he was asking for $2.2 million over four years.

"The money was better in the USFL offer," Dickerson said Sunday, on his first day of practice at the Rams' Fullerton, Calif., training site. "It was very hard to turn down. But down deep, I always had a feeling I belonged here."

Another No. 1 pick whose appearance in training camp was delayed by stalled contract negotiations made his first appearance in Suwanee, Ga. But his Atlanta Falcons teammates left him alone regarding his contract, reported to be worth $1.2 million.

"We didn't talk about salaries or anything like that," defensive lineman Mike Pitts said. "There's a real nice atmosphere here."

"He had a hell of a day," line coach Dan Sekanovich said after watching the former Alabama lineman toss around a few offensive linemen and get in some solid hits against rookie offensive tackle Brett Miller, who checked in at 6-foot-7, 290 pounds.

Meanwhile, a disgruntled Tony Dorsett checked in to the Dallas Cowboys' camp, trying to concentrate on

Orioles 11, Angels 1

Jim Dwyer stroked four hits, including three doubles, and drove in four runs as the Baltimore Orioles walloped the California Angels 11-1 Sunday behind the four-hit pitching of Allan Ramirez.

A's 13, Red Sox 9

Jeff Burroughs drove in two runs with a base-loaded single in the eighth inning Sunday as the Oakland A's outlasted the Boston Red Sox for a 13-9 victory in a three-hour, 34-minute marathon.

The A's were out-hit 17-15 by the Red Sox, but capitalized on 11 walks, two Boston errors and seven stolen bases for a split in a four-game series.

Royals 7, Indians 2

Amos Otis drove home two runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth inning Sunday, breaking open a close game and giving the Kansas City Royals a 7-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

With the score tied 2-2 in the eighth, the Royals loaded the bases against reliever Dan Spillner, 1-6, on a leadoff double by U.L. Washington, John Wathan's misplayed bunt and a walk to George Brett.

Tigers 8, Mariners 1

Tom Brookens' two-run double and Enos Cabell's two-run single highlighted Detroit's seven-run 10th inning Sunday as the Tigers defeated the Seattle Mariners 8-1.

Reliever Bill Caudill, 2-6, walked Glenn Wilson, Kirk Gibson and Chet Lemon to load the bases in the 10th with none out. Ed Vande Berg took over and was greeted by Brookens' two-run double.

White Sox 3, Blue Jays 2

Harold Baines and Carlton Fisk blasted home runs Sunday in support of Floyd Bannister's two-hit pitching in seven innings to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 3-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Baines hit his sixth homer off loser Doyle Alexander, 0-3, in the second inning and Fisk hit his 14th to lead off the third inning.

football, rather than drug stories about him. Dorsett, who exploded for a record 99-yard touchdown run from scrimmage against Minnesota on the NFL's final weekend last season, is one of five Dallas Cowboys under investigation for possible cocaine use.

"I'm not guilty of anything," at the Cowboys' training site at Thousand Oaks, Calif.

"When I start to practice Monday, it's all over, man," Dorsett told the media, who wanted to talk about drugs instead of football. "Let the stories break tomorrow and let's forget about it the rest of the week, training camp, the season and the rest of my life."

New York trips Astros

HOUSTON (AP)— New York Mets rookies Darryl Strawberry and Walt Terrell handled the pitching and the offensive chores respectively as the Mets defeated the Houston Astros and pitcher Nolan Ryan 3-1.

Ryan's eight-game winning streak was snapped as well as Terrell's 4-game losing skein.

Terrell, 2-4, a 25-year-old righthander, pitched six innings with relief help from bullpen ace Jesse Orosco who gained his ninth save with four strikeouts and only one hit in three innings.

In the process the lefthander lowered his ERA to 1.10.

Speaking of Orosco, Terrell said "he's one of the best in the business. All you have to do is give him the ball and let him pitch."

Terrell earned his second major league victory because he was "just throwing strikes, getting them to hit the ball on the ground."

He did entice the Astros into eight groundouts. Strawberry, the heralded 21-year-old from Los earn the victory. Ken Tekulve came in with one out in the ninth and Tim Flannery on second. Pinch hitter Kurt Bevacqua singled Flannery to third and took second on the throw home.

Alan Wiggins was then intentionally walked to load the bases before Juan Bonilla grounded into a forceout at the plate.

Reds 5, Phillies 2

Frank Pastore was hot as the weather in Philadelphia Sunday, pitching a two-hitter and his first complete game of the season to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Dan Driessen continued his hot hitting for Cincinnati with two hits in four at-bats. He has gone 16-for-29 while hitting in eight straight games.

Expos 3, Braves 1

Montreal right-hander Greg Bargar made an impressive major-league debut to help the Expos end their six-game losing streak.

Bargar allowed five hits over seven innings to get the victory, which snapped Atlanta's four-game winning streak.

Jeff Reardon came in to start the eighth but ran into trouble in the bottom of the ninth. His error and two walks loaded the bases, and he then walked Dale Murphy with two outs to force in a run. But Reardon then got Bob Horner on a short fly ball for his 14th save.

Cubs 10, Dodgers 0

Dickie Noles pitched a seven-hitter and singled in two runs during the Chicago rout.

Noles, 3-5, struck out seven and walked two in winning his first game in three starts since serving a day in a Cincinnati jail for assaulting a policeman.

Jody Davis drove in three runs with three hits and Bill Buckner belted his 12th homer, singled twice and stole two bases.

Giants 3, Cards 1

Bill Laskey, making his 20th start of the season, scattered seven hits for his first complete game of the season.

Laskey, 11-8, struck out six and walked two.

Milt May slugged his fifth home run of the season to give homestanding San Francisco a 1-0 lead in the second inning and then delivered an RBI single in the fourth to snap a tie.

National League

Angeles, rocketed a Ryan fastball for a two-run triple to left center in the fourth inning.

The Mets extinguished Houston's five-game win streak and dropped the Astros to 10 victories in their last 12 outings.

Ryan, 9-2, exited after six innings, but the 16-year veteran managed to regain the all-time strikeout lead from Philadelphia's Steve Carlton with five strikeouts for a 3,583-3,582 advantage. It was Ryan's first career loss against the Mets, giving him a 5-1 career record against the New Yorkers.

Ryan was further disappointed though because he also issued five walks.

Pirates 4, Padres 3

Jason Thompson drove in three runs with the 13th homer and two singles and Marvell Wynne's RBI single broke a seventh-inning tie as the Pittsburgh Pirates extended their winning streak to seven games by defeating the San Diego Padres 4-3 Sunday.

Right-hander Lee Tunnell, 4-3, went five innings to

Hamsho shatters Benitez' dream

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — For Wilfred Benitez, the dream of being the first fighter to hold four different titles has faded.

"I would like to continue fighting as a junior middleweight," Benitez said Saturday after dropping a lopsided decision to Mustafa Hamsho in his second fight as a middleweight. "Maybe I can make a great comeback there."

Benitez, who won titles in three weight divisions by the age of 22, moved up into the middleweight ranks in pursuit of his fourth crown after losing his World Boxing Council super welterweight crown to Thomas Hearns.

His first fight as a middleweight, in May against Tony Cerda, was an uninspired decision win and against Hamsho he was never in the fight.

"I am now convinced after the last two fights that Wilfred should be fighting as a junior middleweight," said Benitez' manager Jimmy Jacobs. "I think this fight has dictated there is no question he will fight as a junior middleweight."

Hamsho, the World Boxing Council's top-ranked challenger, used his strength and brawling style to pin Benitez in his corner through much of the bout in taking a unanimous 12-round decision.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 19, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds you able to both extract the information you need in a specific situation as well as to immediately place the results of your activities into constructive execution.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your hunches are most accurate in the morning so make use of them in whatever you do. Please a loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your partners are very specific about stating how they want everything to trend in the days ahead. Be in agreement.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure to keep promises you have made and start a new trend at your activities so that you can become more successful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take a little time for recreation that relieves tensions, and then later get into the work awaiting your attention.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) First get home duties handled and then out to the creative tasks away from home at which you are very good.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure that your facts are correct and then sit down with kin and state how you want things to be at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more interested in building up your security for the future, and state your wants to one who is progressive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what it is you most want in life and go after such aims with a good probability of getting them. Be practical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make new plans for gaining personal aims and then full speed ahead in a most dramatic way. Listen to experts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are highly inspired as to how to gain your wishes so follow through with your ideas for good results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep focused on career work early and later you can enjoy interesting personalities. Contact a bigwig.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) By adopting a new attitude, you can advance far more quickly especially with the aid of an influential person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a very inquisitive mind and want to learn about everything that comes to his, or her attention, so have many books around early. Answer as many questions as possible and plan a fine education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
