Downtown fire guts building

ROOF CAVED IN — This picture was taken on the inside of the building looking out onto Main. The roof collapsed at 1:30 a.m. and firemen brought the fire under control less than hour later, according to Fire Chief Jim Ryals.

DOWNTOWN STORE DESTROYED — Big Spring firemen check for remaining small fires in what remains of Hudson Furniture Store at 315 Main. The store was destroyed by a fire that began late Wednesday night. The two-story building formerly housed J.C. Penney's department store.

Three-hour blaze threatens Main Street business block

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

An overnight fire in downtown Big Spring destroyed a newly opened furniture store and threatened the entire 300 block of Main Street on the east side of the square.

The Big Spring Fire Department responded to the fire at 11:30 p.m. yesterday and had it under control 2 1/2 to three hours later, Fire Chief Jim Ryals said this morning. He said Hudson Furniture store — which held its grand opening two weeks ago — was completely guttled.

Ryals said one fireman suffered a minor injury, but did not require hospital care.

The building at 315 Main was still smoldering this morning, and several firemen were "spotting" for small fires.

Firemen on the scene said it was possible the fire had started in the basement of the building, but Ryals said the fire's cause and starting point had not been determined.

Jobless rate in Big Spring climbs 9.4 percent in June, figures show

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

After three months of holding at 8.7 percent, the jobless rate in Big Spring climbed to 9.4 percent in June as students flooded the job market searching for work.

According to local Texas Employment Commission supervisor Joe Wallis, the ranks of the labor force grew from 17,963 in May to 18,279 in June — an increase of 316 persons.

The number employed, however, could not keep pace with the number entering the market. Figures show 16,562 persons were employed in June compared to 16,392 in May, an increase of 170.

The number of unemployed rose from 1,561 in May to 1,717 in June, according to Wallis.

The rise in the jobless rate in Big Spring follows a statewide trend of increases. Almost every major city in Texas experienced some sort of increase, according to TEC figures.

"Most of the rise can be attributed to students out of school," Wallis said. "We almost always get a jump between May and June when we get the senior class in."

Book seller sentenced to jail

ODESSA (AP) — A 38-year-old bookstore owner has been sentenced to six months in jail and fined $2,000 for selling obscene material to undercover officers.

Jimmy Wright was sentenced Wednesday hours after Ector County court-at-law jurors convicted him, saying Wright's B&L Bookstore violated community standards of decency. He is free on a $2,500 bond pending appeal.

Minutes before his sentencing, Wright said he did not fear spending time at the Ector County Jail and said his bookstore would remain in operation regardless of the outcome.

"It's going to be bigger and better," he said. "I'm not afraid," said Wright, a former sheet metal worker and Odessa resident since 1944. "If I was afraid, I wouldn't be in this business."

County Attorney Steve Groh called Wright's conviction and sentencing a "confirmation that we were not completely out of line as far as what the majority of the people in this community feel about this kind of offense."

During deliberations, jurors were asked to apply community standards in deciding whether the magazine "Swedish Erotica No. 26" was obscene.

After viewing the magazine, purchased by undercover officers from Wright's store, the panel decided "we had to draw the line somewhere," one juror said.

"We wanted him to realize what he had in his store was against the law," the juror said. "It (the magazine) had nothing but sex. That's all it was."

Stenholm recommends strong punishment

CHARLES STENHOLM ...recommends punishment

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, said Wednesday that two congressmen who admitted having sex with 17-year-old pages should either resign or be expelled from the U.S. House of Representatives.

The House voted on Wednesday to censure the two congressmen, Reps. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., and Daniel Crane, R-Ill. One House member said he may move to expel the two congressmen in September after the Labor Day recess, but that now seems unlikely.

Studds, a liberal Democrat, admitted to having sex with a 17-year-old male page in 1972. Crane, a conservative Republican, confessed to sexual relations with a 17-year-old female page in 1980.

Critic's choice

Melodrama a performance to cheer and boo

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Fifth Annual Spring City Theatre Summer Melodrama offers 15 offbeat comic characters, eight wonderfully-sloppy dancers, a simple good guy-bad guy plot and an inexplicable celebration of Sanskrit Day.

...Your wife left you...your kids hate you...your mother won't speak to you...Have a nice day! opens tonight at 8 p.m. and runs through Saturday at the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre.

The homegrown play (written by Big Springers Carol Hart and Cecelia McKenzie) depends on a spirited group of amateur players who delightfully overplay their characters in the full spirit of melodrama (that's exaggeration of emotion for the non-theatrical types).

Let's look at some of this group — villainess Carrie (Lida Boland) has the Wicked Witch of the West's evil cackle down perfect; Wary (Scott Boland) resembles Don Knotts playing Barney Fife at 55.

Merry (Danielle Clere) plays a classic gushingly-cheerful dumb blonde and Very (Gordon Grinnan) excels as the proverbial whiny-voiced nerd who is such a loser his coke money is stolen by a bank robber.

Kristen Worms is particularly effective in her role as Mary. She is able to shift from the straightforward intelligence of a bank teller to the funny sappiness of a lovesick blonde with ease.

And when was the last time you saw live tap dancing (courtesy of little Marc Weaver)? A mishmash of lightheartedly-sloppy dancers poke fun at serious drama in an early number ("We invited the best... but they wanted pay so you'll just have to settle for us.")

Briefly, the story revolves around the employees of the Republic Oasis Bank (sneeringly referred to as Republic Obnoxious by its employees). Bad-guy-girl Carrie is embezzling the place blind and plans a final coup of a bank robbery with the aid of a bumbling former employee named George Phoolish, pronounced "P-who-lish" (Terry Dobson).

Intermixed in the dastardly going-ons are two icky love stories featuring the villainess, the nerd, the smart blonde and the custodian (Ken Facazio) and plenty of general rambunctiousness by the cast.

Teresa Burke as Mrs. Martin has a short, but memorable, part toward the end of the play. Her high-pitched and squeaky-voiced tirade against Wary has dogs howling for blocks and broke glass at 200 yards.

As participatory theater, this melodrama offers several chances for the audience to cast aspersions (along with popcorn, hisses, boos and moans) at the cast as they frequently wander among the crowd during the course of the action.

The orchestral accompaniment (actually Donnie Wheeler on piano) successfully punctuates the action with ripples of familiar chords, even the theme songs from The Andy Griffith Show and The Twilight Zone.

"...Your wife left you..." is simply a good time — a chance to make all the noise you always wanted to make in a movie theater. Also, the play is an opportunity to share some of the community of original theater dating back to Shakespeare's age.

One — no, two — last points: bring a cushion or blanket to sit on at the amphitheater. Although the play breaks often, the stone seats go to the bone quickly. Jerry (Linda Abrego) delivers the funniest line of the play in the last act, but it would be too cruel to reveal it — go see for yourself.

Fire

Arson is not suspected "at this time," but a full investigation is under way, Ryals said.

The building, which housed a J.C. Penney store until early 1982, is owned by Horace Tubb, owner of several stores in the downtown area and land holdings in other parts of the city.

The store is rented to Jerry Hudson, 29, of Big Spring. He could not be reached this morning, but his wife, Verna, said they were called to the fire after midnight. She said the store had been open since May 31.

"We're both just really shaken," she said. "The fire department said they would call us when they found out anything."

She said the store's contents were insured, but she had "no idea" what their loss would be.

Tubb, who said he has owned the building for over 10 years, said he believed the structure was worth about $200,000.

"It would cost a lot more if you rebuilt it now. I've got some insurance, but not nearly enough to cover the loss. You never have enough insurance," he said.

Heat from the blaze melted two aerial telephone cables, cutting off phone service to parts of the downtown area. Service should be restored by 8 p.m. today, according to Bell Telephone spokesman Jay Allen.

Thick smoke was pouring out of the 50-foot by 140-foot two-story building when firefighters arrived, Ryals said.

"Everything in that store presented a problem. The cotton in the furniture and all the material put out very thick smoke," he said.

Only smoke was visible when firefighters arrived, but the fire was fully under way inside, according to Ryals.

Employment

to the work force." Wallis said between May and June of last year the jobless rate rose from 6.2 percent to 7.2 percent — a full percentage point.

Wallis also said farm operations had slowed along with the already ailing oil economy. On the subject of next month's jobless rate, Wallis said, "It'll probably come down a little next month, but

He said the building's roof caved in about 1:30 a.m. That eventually helped to smother the fire, but Ryals said at the time the collapse threatened the entire block. The department's snorkel, which enabled firemen to fight the blaze from the air, saved the surrounding buildings, he said.

"When the ceiling fell in, there was a mushroom cloud of fire that went as high as the (hotel) Settles," said John Arnold, one of the firemen on the scene.

"We were afraid we were going to lose the whole block when the roof caved in," Ryals said. "We had the snorkel and could get water on the fire from the front to the back."

The fire also threatened electrical transformers in the back of the building. If they had been damaged, Ryals said, electricity in much of the downtown area would have been temporarily lost.

Ryals said 32 firemen fought the blaze, including 16 off-duty firefighters. More than 100 "sightseers" watched the fire from the Howard County Courthouse lawn, he said.

K-Wolens and Woolworths — stores on either side of Hudson's — received smoke damage, but their managers could not estimate the loss.

The wind was from the south at the time of the fire, so K-Wolens, on the north side of Hudson's, received the worst smoke damage.

"It's all over in there," said K-Wolens manager George Montgomery. "Everything's about covered. I've never had a fire before or been close to one. I don't know what it's going to take to get cleaned up. But I thought the whole downtown area was going to go up in flames."

Ryals said buildings in that block have fire walls which kept the blaze from spreading. All of the stores in the block received some smoke damage, but most managers said they expected to be open later in the day.

we'll have to wait and see.

The state unemployment rate stands at 8.5 percent, while the national rate is at 10.2 percent.

gressmen is a disgrace to the House of Representatives, to their colleagues and is the most serious affront to decency I can imagine," Stenholm said. In my opinion, they should resign or be expelled by their colleagues."

Studs and Crane have said they will not resign. We cannot ignore the fact that the U.S. House of Representatives is responsible for the pages who come to Washington and that that responsibility includes, to some degree, a parental role," Stenholm said.

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, on Wednesday also urged expulsion of the two congressmen.

We are in the position of special guardians," Hightower said. There is no question but what there exists a special responsibility between members of Congress and the young people they employ."

Truck driver killed in N. Mexico crash

A Big Spring man was killed early Wednesday morning in a one-vehicle accident near Lovington, N.M., when a truck he was driving turned over, pinning him beneath the wreckage.

Donnie Joe Hare, 36, a Chemical Express Carriers, Inc. employee, was pronounced dead at the scene by medical investigators, according to a New Mexico State Police spokeswoman.

Hare apparently fell asleep at the wheel about 6 a.m. yesterday as he traveled west on U.S. Highway 380, police said.

State police said his truck went off the shoulder — a six-foot slant — and turned over. Hare was found pinned under the truck, which was resting on its side. Cause of death was ruled due to massive head injuries, according to New Mexico state police.

Hare, an experienced driver of several years, had worked for Chemical Express in Big Spring only a short time, according to a company spokesman. He called the accident "the first bad one we've had in a long time."

Ex-Odessa councilman dies in mobile home

ODESSA (AP) — A 23-year-old woman was hospitalized in critical condition today after apparently inhaling carbon monoxide fumes that invaded a motor home and killed former city councilman Houston Seabolt, authorities said.

Investigators had "no indication of foul play," but an autopsy was ordered, said Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris.

Seabolt, 30, and Norma Mattingly were discovered about 7 a.m. Wednesday inside a motor home at the Basin Packers plant, according to an Ector County sheriff's deputy, who asked not to be identified.

The motor home's engine was running, the deputy said.

Ms. Mattingly, who was unconscious when the pair was found by plant employees, was listed in critical condition at Medical Center Hospital today, officials said.

Seabolt was pronounced dead at the scene by Harris. Harris, who ordered an autopsy, said there was "no indication of foul play whatsoever... There's no bruises or anything like that."

Harris estimated that when Seabolt was found, he "hadn't been dead over an hour, if that long."

He said Seabolt was living in the recreational vehicle while his house was for sale.

Action, enthusiasm high at Junior Rodeo

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The crowd at the opening performance of the 4-H Junior Rodeo was sparse, but action and enthusiasm weren't as about 100 young wranglers put their hearts into the tasks of roping and riding.

The rodeo is part of the American Junior Rodeo Association circuit. The crowd cheered tiny barrel racers on huge, thundering horses as they whipped their steeds around the course racing the competition — the clock.

Rodeo fans enjoyed the duel in the 16 to 19 age category between Paula Kiefer of Hamilton and Big Springer Kristy Taylor in this event. Miss Kiefer edged Miss Taylor by 26-hundredths of a second to take the lead time in the first round with a 17.815 run.

The crowd also received a scare during the barrel racing when Kelly Jo Ogden of Gail tumbled from her horse on attempting the first barrel turn. However, Miss Ogden was uninjured except for a bruise on her pride.

In tiedown roping, Marty Jones of Hobbs, N.M., turned in a performance the top professional cowboys would have been proud of as he lassoed, threw and tied his calf in 8.72 seconds. Jones' nearest competitor was Mike Clark of Hewitt with a 10.39 second run.

The crowd's biggest thrill last night probably was 12-year-old Heath Hamilton's steer ride.

The Andrews' cowboy came out of the chute riding fine, but the steer jolted the youngster up into the air causing him to land standing beside the animal.

However, the boy's hand was caught in the steer's rigging and young Hamilton seemed helpless as he was dragged through the dust by the runaway animal. It looked as though Hamilton's arm would be torn away.

Then the crowd witnessed an act of heroism as rodeo clown Stan Ham leaped to the other side of the steer and, while avoiding the animal's kicks, freed Hamilton's hand. Ham was treated to a warm round of applause for his quick thinking and courage.

Here are the leaders after one round of competition:

Hometown awaits Samantha's arrival

MANCHESTER, Maine (AP) — Samantha Smith, the globetrotting 11-year-old whose Soviet trip captured world attention, is "a good representation of what Manchester is all about," says the owner of a general store on the town's main street.

"But we can't help but wonder," says Lloyd Smith at Daggett's Country Market, "has all this attention changed this little girl?"

Smith is not related to Samantha, who has been touring the Soviet Union with her parents, Arthur and Jane, since July 8 at the invitation of President Yuri V. Andropov.

Samantha received a "formal apology" in Moscow on Wednesday that Andropov himself had been too busy to meet with her during the two-week visit. The tired and overwhelmed girl told reporters: "I can't wait to get back home. I'm so ready."

She left the Soviet Union this morning for Montreal, where she was to stay overnight before returning home.

Andropov invited her to visit the Soviet Union after she wrote him expressing her concern that the Soviets want to conquer the world.

Manchester residents appeared eager to welcome her back. "We're all tickled to death over this," said Smith. "Everybody's particularly happy with the way she is. Speaking for the majority, we feel she's a pretty composed girl who handles herself with dignity."

Killer heat wave blamed for deaths of 21 people

By The Associated Press

A triple-digit, crop-wilting heat wave blamed in 21 deaths baked the nation with no relief in sight today, prompting sweltering Americans to stock up on dry ice, splash in city fountains and line up for free fans.

With temperatures Wednesday hitting 107 in Pierre, S.D., 104 in Des Moines, Iowa, 103 in Palm Beach, Calif., and 101 in St. Louis, the operative principle was to try to stay cool.

A St. Louis minister offered free electric fans to help people suffering from the blistering sun.

"We're going to give away 1,000 before the week is out," said the Rev. Larry Rice, of the New Life Evangelistic Center.

Philadelphians strolled down to the Logan Circle fountain for a free splash.

"It's the low-income way out," said 29-year-old Kevin Jester, a fountain regular. "The hotter it gets, the more you enjoy it."

In Minnesota, the heat was made worse for thousands by storm-caused power outages that had shut off freezers and air conditioners. A St. Paul distributor said it sold 60,000 pounds of dry ice, with up to 200 people lining up to buy dry ice for their thawing refrigerators.

In Missouri, the heat was blamed in the deaths of two elderly men and one woman Wednesday, bringing the state toll to eight.

St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary declared a heat emergency and social agencies prepared 50 air-conditioned shelters to help to help the elderly cope with the soaring temperatures.

Eight people have died in Georgia from the weather, including a Connecticut National Guardsman who collapsed during a training exercise. North Carolina had two heat deaths and Illinois, New York and Maryland one each.

The heat wave will last through the weekend, said Joan Murray of the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo. The chief reason for the muggy misery is a high pressure system stalled from the Tennessee Valley to the Gulf Coast, blocking out cooler air to the north, she said.

Dr. Keith Sikes, of the Georgia Department of Human Services' epidemiology section, gave this advice for coping with the heat: drink lots of water, stay in the shade, wear light clothing and limit exercise to the coolest time of day.

The muggy air has given rise to dozens of thunderstorms through the Midwest. High winds uprooted trees near Hinton, W.Va., today, while Custer, S.D., was raked by 90 mph winds. Minnesota was hit by hurricane-force winds Tuesday which destroyed buildings and caused damages in the millions of dollars.

Samantha as pawn

"Ms. Smith Goes to Moscow," probably strikes most Americans as a charming East-West vignette or at least a refreshing change from "Cold War" confrontation. What could be more endearing than the story of a winsome 11-year-old from Maine who worries about nuclear war, becomes a "pen-pal" of Soviet leader Yuri Andropov, and then tours the Soviet Union as his personal guest?

The truth, of course, is a little less dewy-eyed. Hundreds of Americans have written letters to Mr. Andropov. Someone in the Kremlin seized upon Samantha Smith's letter because it offered a world-class propaganda opportunity.

Mr. Andropov, who spent 15 years as head of the world's most feared secret police organization, would rather be known in the West as kindly Uncle Yuri, a man whose love of peace is matched only by his affectionate weakness for children.

Better yet if the correspondence with Samantha and her subsequent visit could be tied into the Kremlin's global disinformation campaign casting the Soviet as just aching to beat its nuclear swords into plowshares.

What Samantha and her parents are seeing in the Soviet Union is a facade, a Potemkin peace village. And whether Mr. Andropov and company get their money's worth out of Samantha's visit will depend in part on how willing the rest of us are to suspend prudent disbelief and embrace, even for a moment, the preposterous image of "Uncle Yuri."

'Gate' is a four-letter word

All of Washington and much of the area to the north, south and west of it is in an unholy uproar about the latest capital scandal, which as near as I can tell has to do with some presidential debate. Since my inattention disqualifies me to comment on the dark implications of this saga of corruption, let me raise a still more ominous prospect: that Americans will never again have a scandal whose name does not end in the suffix "gate."

Of all the unpleasant ramifications of the Watergate scandal, there is surely none less agreeable than this. (Except for Mo Dean's autobiography, I mean.) It takes all the fun out of scandal-mongering, which is one of the few pleasurable habits that don't cause cancer. You might think of it as Nixon's revenge.

Since the unscheduled departure of our 37th president, we have had Koreagate, Lancegate, Billygate and now Debategate (sometimes known as Briefingate), not to mention a dozen others which memory mercifully omits. Abscam escaped this indignity, but only because the FBI dreamed up a jazzy name before the press got its grubby typewriter keys on the story. So far no one has adapted the form to the sex scandal on Capitol Hill ("Tailgate"?), but believe me — it's only a matter of time.

WHY EVERY reporter in Washington should be seized by an uncontrollable urge to slap those fatal four letters onto the operative word of any official impropriety is a matter for the psychiatrists. Unfortunately, like most Americans, they customarily dismiss the entire journalistic profession as sadly beyond help.

Worse still is that journalists race to be the first to name each new scandal. My friend Morton Kondracke of the New Republic, ordinarily a decent, sober type, is actually proud to claim credit for coining "Debategate," which in my book is like claiming credit for the eruption of Mount St. Helens.

Certainly there is no historical precedent for this phenomenon. We had Teapot Dome, a memorable name for a forgotten episode, but no one felt obliged to add the latter word to succeeding scandals. Otherwise, we would have had "Watergateone," which sounds like one of those new football stadiums.

Before that, there were dozens of other sordid events, like President Grant's Black Friday scandal, when Jay Gould and James Fish tried to corner the gold market. But nobody automatically equates the sixth day of the week with graft. (Vice, maybe, but not graft.)

Of course, this practice reflects badly on my own trade. Whatever the Reagan campaign did to the Carter campaign, it can't be blamed for inflicting the name of this scandal on an innocent populace.

Having once been a Washington journalist, I hesitate to single out that particular breed for censure. But the "gate" phenomenon does betray the lack of imagination found in the corridors of the National Press Club. Washington reporters, as a rule, are to original thinking as Sam Donaldson is to Emily Post.

ANOTHER REASON for journalists' addiction to this form is that it brings back blissful memories of a time when we could regard ourselves as stalwart heroes, guarding the public against a gang of White House felons. But if the 1970s' image of reporters was Robert Redford in "All the President's Men" — noble, fearless and, above all, handsome — the current one is Sally Field in "Absence of Malice" — irresponsible and dangerous. Personally, I never objected to the prospect of being confused with Robert Redford. But keeping the "gate" construction hasn't been enough to bring back the good old days.

Besides the annoyance of having to hear this construction repeated ad nauseam, I can also foresee problems down the line. Twenty years from now, teenagers studying American history will inevitably assume that Watergate was related to matters aquatic. If there's ever an unsavory incident that does in fact involve that particular clear liquid, how will the press distinguish it from the original?

And that's not even the worst of it. Would chicanery at a certain prestigious golf tournament be "Opengate"? Would impropriety involving Krugerrands be "Goldengate"? What if we have a scandal involving agate, or grates, or gaits, or gates? Things could get ridiculous in a hurry. As you can see, they already have. This, I warn you, is just the beginning.

Son burned out on LSD

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Will you please pray for our son? He burned himself out years ago on the drug LSD, and he still has flashbacks and is unable to work. What can we do for him? — Mrs. B.A.Y.

DEAR MRS. B.A.Y.: First of all, I am deeply sorry for what has happened to your son, and I pray that some who will be reading this will be alerted to the dangers of drug usage. Some people contend that taking drugs — such as marijuana, cocaine, LSD, or any of the other popular drugs — is a harmless habit that brings inner happiness. But that is not true.

What can you do for your son? (I assume you have done as much as possible to get him whatever medical help he needs.) The most important thing you can do is to pray for him. At first that may not sound like very much to you — but I put it first because it could be the most significant thing possible to bring encouragement and healing to your son. That does not mean that your son will be automatically restored to complete health once you pray. But God wants to help him and strengthen him, and you should pray that God will work in his life — not only to help him overcome the effects of his drug-taking, but to help him come to a personal faith and trust in Jesus Christ. Often a person becomes involved in drugs because he (or she) is searching for meaning and purpose in life. But God is the only one who can give us true meaning and inner peace. My prayer is that your son would turn to Christ in faith and trust, and learn the joy of walking with him every day.

Then do all you can to encourage your son and assure him of your love. I also hope you will be able to direct him to other Christian young people (perhaps in your church) who can encourage him. You may be surprised how many young people today have been involved in drugs, and then have renounced them and turned to Jesus Christ. They can be a source of real strength to your son. They also can help him gain confidence in himself — something that needs to happen before he will feel able to handle a job. God loves your son, and you can take hope from that fact.

Still time to practice before the Open. And, hey, try going to the net more, okay? PW

Yo, Perry: Say, dude, I got some heavy stuff coming down on me, man. You see, when I was at Grambling, I led the nation in interceptions...when I was a rookie with the Cowboys I did it again, man. No one could believe it. Hey, I led the league for two years, baby, and all I get is $37,000. We're talking poverty, jack. Yeah, they said we'll get you more. $175,000 a year, can you dig on that? I just bought a Mercedes and a condo in North Dallas. Can't make no payments on that jive. So I threaten to retire but they don't buy that. If I don't make training camp, it's 1000 bills a day. I got some other plans, too...meet me for cocktails at Cafe Dallas Friday and we'll talk. PW

Dear Perry: I don't think you know me but my name is Doug Rader and I'm the manager of the Texas Rangers. They play professional baseball in the American League West. My problem is keeping my team in first place. You know, we were supposed to fight it out with the Twins for last place but, gee, we ended up in first at the all-star break. Since then, though, it has been downhill. No pitching, no hitting, no relief pitching, no clutch hitting. Pat Corrales had his team in first and then got fired. I don't want that to happen to me. What should I do?

Doug Rader
Arlington, Tx.
Doug, you came to the right man. Who did Billy Martin talk to when he won all those pennants with the Yanks? Perry, baby, right. Okay, here's what we would. Move Wright to catcher, put Sundberg at second and get Hough in the outfield. Try pitching Hostetter. You're only 38, pinch-hit every once in a while. Cut the price of nachos and have a beer-bust night at the ballpark to get in some fans for the Toronto series. That ought to be a start. And, hey, could you get me and my girlfriend a couple of free passes? PW

Hey sports stars...got a hassle that got you down. No prob. Just write "Ask Perry About Sports," P.O. Box 007, New York, New York, 10083. The biggest digs get printed in my column. Slip in a few greenbacks and I'll get you in, too. Until later on, later on. PW

U.S. about-face on Poland

WASHINGTON — Is the Reagan administration going "soft" on the Polish communist regime? This may seem out of character for President Reagan, but our European allies are worried about just that.

The issue is whether to lift the economic sanctions imposed on Poland after Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski promulgated martial law in December 1981. Administration sources say that for months the West Europeans have been urging the U.S. government to go slow in resuming friendlier relations with the Polish military regime.

Then last week, as a result of judicious leaks to the press, it was disclosed that the United States had unilaterally negotiated a secret deal with the Poles that would thaw the chilly relations of the past year-and-a-half. Undersecretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger and Polish Charge d'Affaires Zdzislaw Ludwick were trying to work out a quick pro quo: lifting of some U.S. sanctions in return for release of Polish political prisoners.

Eagleburger is a leader of the so-called "detentist" group in the administration, which has been pushing for normalization of U.S.-Polish relations. The detentists were devastated by the premature revelation of the secret negotiations; the result may be that the deal will fall through — to the immense satisfaction of administration hardliners.

The hardline vs. detente argument within the Reagan administration has its counterpart in discussions with the West Europeans. Though our allies were initially slow to heed the U.S. call for sanctions against Poland, they are now showing the true convert's zeal and opposing what they see as the Reagan administration's sudden about-face.

Administration sources told my associate Lucette Lagnado the Europeans feel the United States is naive if it believes Jaruzelski will do anything he doesn't have to, and would be foolish to give anything away without fundamental changes by the Polish regime — in advance.

Interestingly, it is France's Socialist president, Francois Mitterrand, not the more conservative British and West German leaders, who is urging caution. The old World War II underground fighter is worried about the effect that detente with the Polish military regime will have on the outlawed Solidarity movement. The French argue that Pope John Paul's visit to Poland last month revived the opposition.

They believe Solidarity leaders' morale and determination to persevere were bolstered by the pope's pointed references to "solidarity" in his speeches, and his not-so-subtle criticism of the military regime and the suffering it has caused the Polish people. They fear that any premature accommodation between Jaruzelski and the West could shatter the resistance movement's morale.

This isn't the first time the Europeans have tried to cool the administration's ardor. Even before the pope's visit, an interagency group headed by the State Department persuaded President Reagan to sign a secret options paper that would have allowed a conciliatory gesture toward Poland at that time. The Europeans persuaded the administration to wait at least until after the papal visit.

Now they're continuing to urge the White House not to rush into detente willy-nilly.

FOXY FRITZ: Ernest "Fritz" Hollings, D-S.C., is a shrewd businessman, no doubt about it. According to his income tax returns, which he made available to me, the Democratic presidential hopeful made more than $1 million in the stock market last year.

UNDER THE DOME: Capitol Architect George White laid out $71,578.26 for three marble and cherrywood "security desks" in the fancy-shmancy Hart Senate Office Building. A scandalized Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., demanded to know why, and got this gem of bafflegab from White: "The fundamental design principle for these security stations... was that they should provide a level of appearance, quality and durability commensurate with the stature of the building and the need to endure." Baucus isn't satisfied, he wants an investigation.

Dudley Moore escapes injury in fatal accident

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Dudley Moore escaped injury in a Santa Monica Freeway accident that killed a passenger in another car and led to the arrest of that car's driver for investigation of drunken driving, officers said.

Moore's 1979 Mercedes-Benz was traveling west-bound on the freeway Tuesday when it was rear-ended by a Datsun changing lanes, said Officer Jerry Skelton of the California Highway Patrol.

He said Stephen Sanders, 22, of Los Angeles apparently lost control of his Datsun, which hit an embankment and rolled twice, ejecting Sanders and a male passenger, 32, who died from his injuries.

Sanders was driving between 70 mph and 80 mph when the accident occurred, Skelton said.

The victim had yet to be identified by Tuesday evening, according to the coroner's office.

Sanders, who was taken to a hospital, was booked for investigation of felony manslaughter and drunken driving, Skelton said.

Moore, 48, who lives in the posh seaside community of Marina del Rey, was traveling at the legal speed when his car was struck, said Skelton. The Mercedes was severely damaged, he said.

Moore's box office popularity boomed with the movie "10," in which he pursued Bo Derek, and "Arthur," the tale of a rich, lovable drunk.

Brain disease victim's wife accepts illness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Metropolitan Opera star Dorothy Kirsten French says she was unwilling at first to believe that her husband, John Douglas French, 72, had Alzheimer's disease.

Douglas, retired director of the Brain Institute at the University of California-Los Angeles, devoted his life to studying that complex organ, only to be crippled by a brain disease which leaves its victims unable care for themselves.

Ms. Kirsten, 66, a New Jersey native who sang with the Metropolitan Opera for nearly four decades, refused to believe doctors' diagnoses, she said. Then, about a month ago, French had his first seizure.

APPETITE SURGERY — William Richardson Jr., 13, who weighs 312 pounds, sits on his bed at Jersey Shore Medical Center in Neptune, N.J., Tuesday, eating ice cream as his mother Pearl and surgeon Dr. Walter Judge look on. William had his stomach stapled Tuesday so most of the food he eats will pass through his body without being absorbed according to his doctors.

Doctors staple stomach of boy to battle weight

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP) — At 6, William Richardson Jr. tipped the scales at 100 pounds. His mother tried locking the refrigerator door and William wore a tag around his neck that read "Please do not feed."

But the 13-year-old now weighs 312 pounds, and doctors resorted to special surgery Tuesday to help him shed some of the unwanted fat — an operation to staple shut part of his stomach.

The family agreed to the surgery because doctors said the problem pounds eventually could be life-threatening for Richie, as he is nicknamed.

"I need it," the boy said just before the operation, which took nearly two hours.

But he said he expects to miss some of his favorite foods — meatball submarine sandwiches, ribs and, most of all, the fried chicken made by his sister, Valerie Johnson.

During the gastric bypass operation at Jersey Shore Medical Center, doctors partitioned Richie's stomach with two rows of stainless-steel staples so that most food he eats will pass through his system without being absorbed, hospital officials said.

"It's the only thing medicine has to offer," said Dr. Walter F. Judge, the hospital's director of endocrinology, who has been treating Richie for seven years.

The stomach-stapling surgery is fairly low-risk because it does not involve opening the intestinal tract, which could cause infection, Judge said.

Richie was reported awake and in stable condition today in the hospital's intensive care unit.

"He's had the operation and he's come through it fine," said Helen Aumack, a hospital spokeswoman.

Judge said that because the surgery reduced the size of Richie's stomach, the boy will be able to eat only soft and semi-soft food for the rest of his life and will have to take vitamin B-complex tablets every day.

Constant eating, rather than large individual meals, is to blame for Richie's obesity, according to his mother, Pearl, and doctors.

"At the clinic we have failed him in his eating problem. We have tried everything," said Judge, who said the boy's problem has been diagnosed as morbid and genetic obesity.

"He's 13 years old. If something isn't done, it will shorten his life span."

The doctor said he hopes Richie will be able to lose 100 pounds during the next year and 50 pounds the year after.

"We would be thrilled if he gets down to 150 pounds by the time he is 15," Judge said.

LET ME TELL YOU — Classmates of West Side Community Day Care Center watch on as Grant Stockford, 5, whispers an answer to HCA4U, the Hospital Corporation of America's robot from the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. The robot and the corporation's fair exhibit is in town this weekend for the Big Spring Health and Safety Fair, Saturday. Day Care students were introduced to the robot Wednesday at Malone and Hogan Hospital, sponsors of the exhibit.

Health Fair beat

World's Fair exhibit comes to Health Fair

The 1982 World's Fair hosted more than 11 million visitors from around the world. Yet, not everyone of those visitors saw all the exhibits during the six months exposition because there was not enough time to experience everything the Fair had to offer.

A good example was the Fair's Health Pavilion. For seven days a week, twelve hours a day for the entire six month run of the Fair, the Health Pavilion was packed with visitors. Yet it was possible for only three million visitors to see the Hospital Corporation of America's Health Care exhibit.

The exhibit served as the centerpiece for the Pavilion. It consisted of a 30-foot tall, 1,600 square foot satin black pyramid structure containing five interactive computers and a multi-image audio visual presentation.

Because the exhibit was so well accepted, HCA decided to make the exhibit into the HCA Healthcare Express and deliver health education to more than 200 communities in the U.S.

The HCA Healthcare Express is a 45 foot long tractor-trailer which has been modified with a 12 foot by 16 foot extension handicapped accessible ramps and a special, air filled tent, all of which enclose 1,000 square feet of educational experiences.

Interior components of the exhibit include five interactive "talking" computers which offer testing in the areas of self-care, primary care, medical terminology, healthcare statistics and one program designed especially for children.

Five wall displays offer visitor participation on the heart and circulatory system, the brain, the respiratory system, physical fitness and nutrition.

A talking robot answering to the name HCA4U will co-host each showing along with the sponsoring hospital.

Two exterior and four interior television monitors will highlight activities at the 1982 Knoxville World's Fair and showcase a program on the history of healthcare. "The Wish," a 15 projector-seven hexagonal screen slide presentation produced for the World's Fair by HCA, chronicles healthcare advances over the past 100 years.

Malone-Hogan Hospital is one of the hospitals to sponsor the exhibit. It will be part of the upcoming Big Spring Health and Safety Fair at Big Spring Mall, this weekend.

Dr. Donohue

Ear infection needs prompt treatment

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was told over a year ago by an ear specialist that I had cholesteatoma and that I had had trouble with my ear all my life. Could you explain more about this condition and should I have the surgery done? I am almost 59 years old and have lost a lot of hearing in the ear involved. Am I foolish to keep putting off this surgery? — J.S.

Yes, you're foolish to keep delaying surgery. And I have to add that it was not wise to have neglected your ear troubles.

When an infection of the middle ear (just outside the eardrum) lingers, a hole may develop in the drum so that infection material can drain. But if the infection continues long enough, skin cells from the outer ear canal get through the hole in the drum and begin to multiply inside the middle ear itself. These cells form a mass of whitish debris, and that is the cholesteatoma. That, together with the infectious process, may erode bone structure.

So you would be wise to give your doctor's recommendation serious consideration. The cholesteatoma, which can severely affect hearing, must be removed surgically.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes one to belch? There is no pain and I don't have ulcers. It just rumbles out.

Mrs. H.R.A. — Since you do not report any pain associated with your belching and since ulcer has been ruled out (and, assume, so have other more serious causes), I'll limit my answer to the more common causes.

Most belches come from air swallowed while eating. That's simple and pure. Probably next in order of importance are meals high in fat, which the stomach takes longer to empty. The combination of the fatty meals, air-swallowing and delayed stomach emptying can produce a great deal of belching. And if you add to all of this carbonated beverages, which lead to gas accumulation, you can brew up a noisy gastric storm.

Try chewing slowly with mouth closed. Don't gulp down food or liquid and cut down on fatty foods. For a further discussion of various related complaints, read the booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," which may offer other tips. Other readers may order a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

"Dear Dr. Donohue: My stepdaughter was told she has a lesion on her hand. She would like to know what a lesion is. — C.J.S.

I have no good definition for the word. It's like "tree" or "flower". Neither word tells you what kind. Lesion means a change that shouldn't be there. A pimple is a lesion. So is an ulcer. So are a lot of other things.

Dear Abby

Unwed mother's gratitude hasn't dimmed with time

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for publishing my letter concerning Booth Hospital for unwed mothers. We've received some lovely donations and even some inquiries from people wanting to adopt one of our 10-year-old pregnant girls. (Booth doesn't have a license for adoptions, so we had to discourage that.)

One woman who had been in Booth 54 years ago wrote:

"I came to your hospital in 1929, a young, unmarried girl, 8 months pregnant. Everyone was wonderful to me. I had no money, but was treated the same as those who could pay something. I decided to keep my baby and I'm glad I did, because two years later I fell in love with a gentleman who knew my story and said he loved me even more because I kept my baby. He married me, adopted my child and a year later we had another child.

"I had always wanted to send Booth Hospital at least $100 to show my gratitude, but times were tough, we were on welfare and lucky to feed ourselves.

"I am a 71-year-old widow and can finally send you $5 a month. I hope it helps. Except for a few close family members, nobody knows I am an unwed mother, so I beg you not to use my name.

"God bless you folks at the Salvation Army. May the Lord watch over, comfort and guide all of you always." Name Withheld.

We were very much touched by this letter, and I thought you might want to share it with your readers. ALICE GRAHAM WINTERS, BOOTH HOSPITAL, CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: For the last year or so, when I go into a store I take a few small things and put them in my purse or pocket. I have the money and could easily pay for them, but I still do it. Some of the items I have taken I throw away because I have no use for them.

Why am I doing this? I am a respectable 42-year-old married woman. Please tell me soon, as I'm very much ashamed.

Chuck Condray presented pamphlets containing a list of merit badges to those present so adults can make a selection to serve as counselors for Scouts.

George Walker, chairman for meeting room usage committee, said a calendar would be installed to avoid scheduling conflicts.

Tom Watson, Jack Guiley, Leroy Tillery, Don Wilson and Condray will work with the city in utilizing part of the golf course extension in Silver Heels for sponsored youth purposes.

Plans for an family overnight to train Cub leaders at Lake Colorado City was announced.

Arcade game boom flagging

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The video arcade business, which just a year ago seemed one of the best get-rich-quick opportunities of the '80s, is on a Donkey Kong slide, with entrepreneurs dropping out like Space Invaders from a video sky.

"People thought you could put a Pac-Man on every corner and turn into the Bank of America," said Ira Bettelman, vice president of C.R. Robinson Co., one of the nation's largest arcade game distributors.

"We've had more bankruptcies (among clients) in the past year than in the previous five," Bettelman added.

On Friday, Robinson's was the scene of a court-ordered auction of repossessed video arcade games — the third since January. Robinson had never held an auction before this year, Bettelman said.

Wall Street also appears to be turning bearish on video games. A report published this spring by Sanford C. Bernstein Co. says arcade income is down 25 percent to 50 percent from last year, and predicts arcades worldwide will take in $5.3 billion this year compared with $7 billion in 1982.

"When we were experiencing the boom, we were called night and day. We didn't need a marketing strategy," said Pamela Whishaw, marketing consultant to Games Unlimited, which puts video games in chain restaurants and other locations.

"Now we're consolidating," she said. "We can't afford to keep any game in a location that isn't earning at least $40 a week."

The bust does not appear to be affecting the home video market, which accounts for half of all computer software disk sales. But the Bernstein report predicted that one of every four arcades operating at the time of the study would close by year's end.

The losers appear to fall into two categories: the small operator who bought one or two games at the height of the craze, and the full-time entrepreneur who failed to follow what Bettelman described as "good business practices and principles."

"Some didn't know the overhead and costs involved. Some would go into a bad location. A lot of our customers who went bankrupt didn't own an arcade but placed the game in so-called street locations, liquor stores and the like," he said.

Part of the problem is the apparent saturation of the arcade market following last year's influx of newcomers who bought huge numbers of games and placed them in every conceivable location.

Another aspect is the all-important novelty factor. A new video game, which can cost up to $3,000, typically remains popular with its mostly youthful players for only two months. If it hasn't earned its cost by then, the operator is usually out of luck.

In addition, repairs are often necessary, and can be costly — especially for small operators.

Not everyone is pessimistic about the future. Sandy Bettelman, another Robinson vice president, said he believes the Bernstein study is old news.

"The bottom was really a year ago, and now it's crawling out of the valley," he said.

He said he believes the video game business is due for an upsurge as newly developed games using laser technology hit the market.

But Ira Bettelman maintains that the video game business is by nature a chancy one.

"We're part of the entertainment business," he said. "The entertainment business is in every aspect a high-risk business, like movies. We're a product-driven industry."

Two accused of fraud in alleged AIDS cure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men have been accused by the U.S. Postal Service of obtaining money by false representations in soliciting payments for a treatment that purportedly prevents spread of AIDS.

People responding to advertisements about the "R.E.V. Treatment" for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome were asked to send a $950 down payment and bring a $950 balance to the place of treatment, either in Germany or Mexico.

On Tuesday U.S. Magistrate James J. Penne issued a temporary restraining order and placed a hold on mail received at a Redondo Beach address following accusations against David Blanco and Gene Parcesep by Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger E. West.

Penne, emphasizing he was not trying to decide the merits of the case, set a hearing on a preliminary injunction for Aug. 4 before U.S. Magistrate John R. Kronenberg.

The two told Penne that they were not trying to deceive the public and said treatment consists of a vaccine developed in Germany and administered there and in Mexico.

The men said they receive a small commission. West produced a statement by Dr. William B. Klaustermeyer, chief of allergy and immunology at the UCLA School of Medicine, saying the treatment is hazardous as well as unacceptable.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective August 1, 1983, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission (PUC) at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell's rate application.

As a result of the settlement of a lawsuit brought by the U.S. Department of Justice against AT&T, Southwestern Bell, on January 1, 1984, (or as otherwise ordered by the United States District Court) will no longer be a part of the Bell System, but will be owned by public shareholders. Under the terms of the settlement, Southwestern Bell has identified 15 areas in the state within which it may provide service, and the federal court with jurisdiction of the settlement has tentatively approved these areas, called LATAs (Local Access and Transport Area). On or about January 1, 1984, Southwestern Bell can not provide service between these LATAs, and in addition, must transfer to AT&T customer premises equipment that it leases to customers.

Southwestern Bell has filed a proposed revised rate schedule with the PUC reflecting these changes. These rates would become effective August 1, 1983, if they are not suspended by the PUC; however, it is expected that they will be suspended and that the rates ultimately set by the PUC will become effective on or about January 1, 1984. If the rates were to become effective as filed, they would produce a 48.2% increase in Southwestern Bell's unadjusted test year revenues (or a 76.36% increase in Southwestern Bell's test year revenues adjusted to reflect the effect of Southwestern Bell's divestiture from AT&T). Any change in the rates for any interLATA services offered by AT&T or a subsidiary after January 1, 1984, could affect customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

While Southwestern Bell has proposed no increase in rates for intraLATA interexchange toll services, any change in those rates could also affect customers of other telephone companies. Southwestern Bell is proposing changes in the structure of the present private line and foreign exchange services. Changes in these rates may affect customers of other telephone companies. Any change in the rates for any interLATA services offered by AT&T or a subsidiary after January 1, 1984, could affect customers of other telephone companies.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel de tarifas para servicio de teléfono en Texas, con vigencia a partir del 1o de agosto de 1983, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel de tarifas se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission (PUC, ó Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y que es servida por Southwestern Bell, y dicho arancel está disponible para inspección pública en todas las oficinas de Southwestern Bell en Texas. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa está sujeta a cambios cada vez que Southwestern Bell solicite un cambio en dichas tarifas.

Como resultado del arreglo judicial al cual se llegó tras el proceso legal entablado en contra de AT&T por el U.S. Department of Justice (Departamento de Justicia), Southwestern Bell dejará de formar parte del Bell System (Sistema Bell) a partir del 1o de enero de 1984 (ó en la fecha que disponga el United States District Court — Tribunal Federal de Distrito), y llegará a ser posesión de accionistas públicos. Bajo las condiciones de dicho arreglo, Southwestern Bell ha identificado 15 regiones dentro del Estado de Texas en las cuales puede proporcionar servicio, y el tribunal federal con jurisdicción en el arreglo ha dado su aprobación provisoria a éstas regiones, que se denominan "LATAs" (Local Access and Transport Area, ó Regiones Locales de Acceso y Transporte). A partir de fecha 1o de enero de 1984 aproximadamente, Southwestern Bell no podrá proporcionar servicio entre dichas LATAs, y además deberá ceder a AT&T todo equipo ubicado en premisas de clientes y alquilado a los mismos.

Estos cambios se han incluido en el propuesto arancel de tarifas de servicio revisado que Southwestern Bell ha archivado con la PUC. Dichas tarifas tendrían vigencia a partir del 1o de agosto de 1983, a menos que fueran suspendidas por la PUC; sin embargo, se espera que si seran suspendidas, y que las tarifas que en último caso establezca la PUC entrarán en vigor a partir de fecha 1o de enero de 1984 aproximadamente. Si las tarifas entrarán en vigor tal y como se han archivadas, aumentarían en un 48.2% los ingresos no-ajustados de Southwestern Bell para año de prueba (unadjusted test year revenues), ó sea un aumento de 76.36% en los ingresos de Southwestern Bell para año de prueba, ajustados para reflejar el efecto del despojeamiento entre Southwestern Bell y AT&T. Cualquier cambio en las tarifas para cualquier servicio tipo-interLATA que proporcione AT&T ó una compañía subsidiaria después del 1o de enero de 1984 podría afectar a los clientes de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

Aunque Southwestern Bell no ha propuesto un aumento en las tarifas para servicios tipo "intraLATA interexchange toll", cualquier cambio en dichas tarifas también podría afectar a los clientes de otras compañías de servicio telefónico. Southwestern Bell está proponiendo cambios en la estructuración de los servicios actuales de línea privada (private line) y de intercambio extranjero (foreign exchange). Cambios en las tarifas para dichos servicios podrían afectar a los clientes de otras compañías de servicio telefónico. Cualquier cambio en las tarifas para cualquier servicio tipo-interLATA que proporcione AT&T ó una compañía subsidiaria después del 1o de enero de 1984 podría afectar a los clientes de otras compañías de servicio telefónico.

TOGETHER AGAIN — Paul Simon, right, looks over at his partner, Art Garfunkel, as the duo open their 19 city concert tour recently before 37,000 fans at the University of Akron Rubber Bowl. The popular 60's duo is making their first American tour since they broke up at the height of their popularity in 1970.

Simon, Garfunkel fans cheer kickoff of tour

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A new generation of Simon and Garfunkel fans joined the grown-up children of the '60s to listen to the "Sounds of Silence" and other hits as the two launched their first American concert tour in 13 years.

"It's good to be home," Paul Simon told a near-capacity crowd of 37,000 at Tuesday's concert at the Rubber Bowl. Backed by a slick 11-piece band, Simon and Art Garfunkel performed 26 songs, mostly golden oldies, beginning with their 1970 single "Cecilia" and continuing for two hours before concluding with the "Sounds of Silence" as their third encore.

The enthusiastic opening-night crowd applauded all numbers, even when Simon backed away from the microphone laughing after muffing the words to "Old Friends."

"This is about as close as you can come to recapturing what we had in the '60s," said Mike Burton, 31. "The Beatles are gone. The Rolling Stones have changed. But Simon and Garfunkel still have some of that old feeling."

"I like them a lot. I've listened to them since 1967 or '68," said Brett Bille, 19, of Akron. "My older brother had their albums, and I'd listen to them."

Said Mimi Schafer, 24, of North Royalton, "I have older sisters who were Beatlemania and were into Simon and Garfunkel. A few of their songs sort of bring back memories."

The duo's mellow '60s sounds got a boost from a four-piece horn section, two keyboard players, two electric guitarists, a bassist, a percussionist and a drummer.

The presentation was similar to Simon and Garfunkel's 1981 reunion concert in New York's Central Park, which attracted nearly 500,000.

The duo introduced three new songs: "Song About the Moon," a slow, bluesy rock tune; "Allergies," with a steady, disco beat, and "Think Too Much," the title track of an album planned for release in September.

They also added a verse to "The Boxer," drawing applause when they concluded the song with the words, "... after changes, we are more or less the same."

The 19-city tour will take them to Toronto on Thursday and to the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich., on Friday, and ends Aug. 30 in Boulder, Colo.

At a news conference Monday, Simon said the success of the duo's Central Park show and their 1982 tour of Japan, Europe, Australia and New Zealand inspired them to put together the American tour.

The singers, both 41, were boyhood friends in Forest Hills, N.Y., when they made their first top 40 hit, "Hey School Girl," under the names of Tom and Jerry.

They separated as performers in 1970, but recorded the single "My Little Town" together in 1975.

Anita Bryant to back 'Silent Witness' glasses

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Singer Anita Bryant, out of the limelight since quitting her anti-homosexual crusade two years ago, will be back in the public eye as spokeswoman for "Silent Witness" glasses, a new line of "Christian market" eyewear.

The eyeglass frames will be marketed as sunglasses but can be adapted to prescription lenses, officials of Golden Eagle Enterprises said Tuesday. A 14-karat gold religious symbol, either a fish or a dove, will be visible on the earpiece.

Miss Bryant, 43, called the product "a quiet expression of faith."

The frames will be offered initially by mail order in a sales campaign directed at a "Christian market," said Bettye Coates, assistant to the vice president of Golden Eagle.

IRAN PERSECUTION — Saeid Eshraghi, of Nacogdoches, tells of the persecution of the Baha'i faith in his native country of Iran. Eshraghi's father, mother and sister were executed by the Islamic government of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for their refusal to recant their belief in the Baha'i faith.

Family executions recalled by Iranian

NACOGDOCHES (AP) — It was 5 a.m. on a Saturday morning when the young Nacogdoches man was shocked out of his sleep by a telephone call from his brother in Australia. The message was brief: "Dad has become a martyr." Their father had been executed by the fanatical Islamic government of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

At 5 a.m. the next morning the phone rang again. This time the news was even worse. Saeid Eshraghi learned that his mother and sister had been executed, too, for their refusal to recant their belief in the Baha'i faith.

Nearly a week after learning of his loss, the 34-year-old native of Iran reflected on life in his former country and on the death of his parents and sister.

The executions were carried out despite the pleadings of governments and organizations throughout the world. Khomeini allegedly pointed to the personal plea of Ronald Reagan as an indication of the Baha'is' guilt.

Eshraghi hopes his story will help ignite a global outcry loud enough to stop the executions and religious persecution of some 300,000 Baha'is in a country boiling with Islamic fervor.

Eshraghi is now co-owner of an Italian restaurant in Nacogdoches. When he left Iran for Boston in 1978 he had no inkling of the events that would soon rock his homeland. He planned to train as an architect and go home.

In a subdued voice, Eshraghi recalled arriving in Boston for language studies five years ago, about a year before Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was forced to flee Iran and Khomeini set up his Islamic Republic.

After studying language, Eshraghi went to Kilgore Junior College to begin architectural studies. But after the revolution, when he could not longer get money out of his homeland, he took a job in a local restaurant to support himself and his wife. Two months later he was manager.

He then took a job as manager in the restaurant that he now partly owns.

Eshraghi still has a sister in Iran, another sister in Nigeria and a brother in Australia.

Although he didn't expect the revolution, when it did occur, Eshraghi knew the Baha'is would suffer. Indeed, Baha'is were the target of persecution from the beginning. Members of the faith had their homes burned and religious gathering places destroyed.

The persecution didn't touch Eshraghi personally until 1980, when his family in Shiraz was arrested and held for three days on suspicion of counterrevolutionary activity.

Eshraghi explained that almost all members of the Baha'i faith in Iran are of the middle or upper-middle class. His father, for example, had been an executive for Iran's national oil company before the revolution.

"My family had lived in Shiraz for a long time and my dad was a very nice man. He never had an enemy in his life. He loved people and they had a lot of people come to the house," Eshraghi said.

In a letter to his son, Eshraghi's father said he had been arrested because of the number of people seen coming and going from the family home.

Middle Eastern experts say it was the middle class that was most responsible for ousting the shah, Eshraghi said.

So when Khomeini took power, he began undermining the economic clout and civil liberties of those who had brought down the shah, Eshraghi said.

The Baha'is took the brunt of the persecution, Eshraghi said.

Cantaloupe harvest faces good market

PECOS (AP) — A cantaloupe producer predicts this year's harvest could be sold in one of the best markets ever — but he may have to compete with imposters who claim their melons were grown in this West Texas community.

A.B. Foster, whose Pecos Cantaloupe Co. began harvesting last week, said his company probably will produce more than 250,000 cantaloupes this season, slightly more than last year. Because of adverse weather in California, however, he expects this year's market value to be exceptional.

Tom Hardwick, who has the only other cantaloupe farm in Pecos, said he usually gives his eight acres' worth of melons to senior citizens and friends, rather than shipping them to market.

Hardwick said he will not begin harvesting until August, but he noticed peddlers selling vine-ripe, "Pecos" cantaloupes a month ago.

"They just label them that because Pecos cantaloupe has always been a choice melon," Hardwick told the Odessa American Wednesday. "But it's not right because none of them were ripe in Pecos then. If there were, seems like someone in Pecos would know about them."

Foster said roadside cantaloupe vendors "feel like they sell them better" by using the name of this West Texas town. "They don't do it in the stores, but it's mostly peddlers. There's no way you can tell, except by the taste. And people know they're not Pecos cantaloupes if we haven't started harvesting yet."

About 350 pickers, packers and graders started harvesting 500 acres of "Pecosweet" cantaloupes at Pecos Cantaloupe Co. July 14. Foster said the season will last about six weeks.

Some of the workers live in the area, while migrant workers make a living going from farm to farm, grading and packing fruits and vegetables.

Conrad Hernandez of Pharr, in the Rio Grande Valley, held a pen between his teeth as he packed cantaloupes, quickly whipping the marker out to sign his boxes before tossing them on a conveyor belt.

Thursday Notes

The call of greener pastures has beckoned area sports broadcaster Bill Schoening away to Huntsville. That makes sense since Lamesa has very few pastures of the green variety.

Schoening, the guy with the Yankee-sounding voice from Philadelphia, will spend his final day behind the mic at radio station KPET Friday. Then it's off to KSAM where his duties include doing Lone Star Conference football and basketball play-by-play for Sam Houston State.

How in the world did a native of Philly wind up Lamesa, Texas, you ask? Journalists are a vagabond sort and we go where we can earn a paycheck. Especially when you're just starting out.

Bill's first job was in Pana, Illinois. The irony there is KBST's Chris Showalter hails from Taylorville, a town 15 miles from Pana. Both began their broadcast careers in that southern region of Illinois and then wound up in West Texas where they work 40 miles apart.

LAMESA SPORTS BROADCASTER BILL SCHOENING

And, get this, Schoening's wife's (Gerry) maiden name is... Showalter, but she's from Philly.

Bill has been the Herald's loyal sports correspondent in Lamesa and it was great having someone who knew a complete linescore from a one-and-one situation.

How this Yankee survived playing C&W at KPET I'll never know. He grew up listening to Philly soul and Springsteen, watching Chamberlain and Cunningham do magic for the Sixers and meeting girls on the Jersey beachfront. Then he came to Lamesa where none of the above can be found.

And so after 3 years, he's off to East Texas. Good luck Bill but don't forget us small-timers out here in the flats.

Fast-pitch softball news...

Cotton's Chippers are preparing for the state tournament next week in Brenham and the team will be practicing throughout this weekend at Johnny Stone.

Several players on the team are flying in from around the state. Workouts are scheduled from 1-3 and 8-10 p.m. Saturday and 9-11 a.m. Sunday.

The Chips have won two straight tournaments, the Lions Club and Lamesa events in recent weeks. Team leader Cotton Mize says the club should be among the four best in the state.

New for runners...

Robert "Bobby" Fuller is running for office again.

No, his city council seat isn't up for reelection. He's just into running these days and he keeps getting better and better.

Fuller, a high school runner who retired for about 20 years, has been running 10-kilometer races for about two months. Last weekend in Midland, he hoped to dip to 40 minutes for the first time. Instead, he ran a sizzling 38:47.

Stanton's Steve Stallings won the overall title.

The 3rd Annual Bill Easterling Memorial Run is slated Sept 10 in Coahoma. Two and nine miles races are scheduled and the event will be the West Texas Running Club's run of the month.

Let's get physical(s)...

Remember, physicals for all BSISD athletes, boys and girls, are scheduled Aug. 6 at Malone-Hogan. Cost is just $3. Mark that date on your calendar...if you miss this deal, the arrangements are all on you.

Athletes at Grady High will receive physicals at 1:30 p.m. next Wednesday in the school's training room. — GREG JAKLEWICZ

Cannon denied induction into Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Former teammates and members of the college football Hall of Fame were saddened by the announcement that Billy Cannon will not be inducted into the Hall because of his guilty plea in a recent counterfeiting scheme.

Cannon, 45, a two-time All-American running back from Louisiana State, was elected to the Hall last February and had been scheduled to be inducted in a ceremony here Dec. 6. But on Wednesday, Vincent Draddy, board chairman of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, issued a two-sentence announcement through a spokesman here.

"As a result of Dr. William Cannon's recent plea of guilty to a felony charge, he will not be inducted to the foundation's College Football Hall of Fame," the statement said. It also said the 10 other coaches and players elected would be inducted.

Cannon, the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner who became an orthodontist after 10 years in the pros, was supported by former teammates Warren Rabb and Tommy Neck.

"I feel like he deserved to be in the Hall of Fame and there may have been other ways to do things," said Rabb, the quarterback on LSU's 1958 national champions. "He's paying very dearly for his mistake. What are they going to do, make him pay more?"

Added Neck, a halfback for the '58 Tigers, "I thought it was judged on credentials as a player. Maybe at a later date, they'll reconsider."

Hank Lauricella, a Louisiana state representative and one-time All-American at Tennessee, was inducted into the Hall last year. He said, "I'm sad to see it come about that it was taken away from him. You have to show some responsibility and progress and Billy has shown all of it. He was a perfect candidate and then this comes along."

Paul Dietzel, who coached Cannon at Beach, Fla., said the vote of the foundation's 18-member board was unanimous.

"We never had it happen before," he said. "It is the first time in our whole history that a candidate before induction turned out to be troublesome."

Draddy said it is the foundation's practice to do a "very good research job before anyone is voted in," and there was nothing in Cannon's background to indicate a problem would arise.

Neither Cannon, who lives in Baton Rouge, La., nor his attorneys were immediately available for comment.

Cannon was arrested in Baton Rouge July 9 in connection with a $6-million counterfeiting operation. He pleaded guilty with the government a week later, pleading guilty Friday to a charge of conspiracy.

"He's paying very dearly for his mistake. What are they going to do, make him pay more."

LSU teammate
Warren Rabb

LSU, said, "One of the great tragedies in this type of situation is the youngsters who consider athletes heroes. It knocks down that pedestal."

Tower, Central stay alive thanks to pressure pitching

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Scoring runs was not the order of the night in the District III Little League all-star tournament.

Midland Tower needed Jerry Delks' infield chopper that caromed off second base to drive in its winning run in a 2-1 victory over Coahoma while Midland North Central put two of its four hits together in a two-run third inning to nip Mid-City 2-0.

The tournament has reached night No. 10 and the biggest game to date is scheduled this evening. Unbeaten Big Spring American and Midland Eastern collide in a winner's bracket finals matchup at American's ballpark. In an elimination game, Tower and North Central play to reduce the tourney field to three teams. Both games begin at 8 p.m. Radio station KBST will broadcast the American-Eastern game, beginning at 7:50 p.m.

Delks barely got the ball out of the infield Wednesday night but his two hits drove in the tying and winning runs for Tower.

In the second inning, his two-out bouncer appeared headed towards Coahoma shortstop Curtis Hudson. Instead, it had hopped to Hudson's left and rolled into left field. Zane Ledbetter, who opened the inning with a single, scored on the play.

That tied the game 1-1 and Tower waited until Delks was up again in the fourth to score the deciding run. With two out and Chris Kennedy on second, Delks bounded the ball over pitcher Carlos Cervantes. Second baseman David Molina had a beat on the ball only to see it hit the bag and evade his glove.

Kennedy was waved around third and scored the winning run as three Coahoma infielders tried to retrieve the loose ball.

Coahoma led 1-0 in the game, scoring its only run in the top of the first inning. Cervantes was hit in the batting helmet by Todd Overend's fourth pitch of the game and came around to score on a pair of Tower errors.

The only other time Coahoma came close to scoring was in the fourth. Hudson singled — the first hit of the game for Coahoma — to lead off and Ronnie Ruiz lined a basehit to left with one out. Overend fanned Jonathan Jones and got Thomas Hoggard to roll out to first to end the threat.

Little League

For the game, Overend allowed just three hits, struck out 12 and walked two.

Cervantes scattered six hits — working out of a bases-loaded, none out jam in the fifth — and struck out five.

Across town, North Central put two runs on the scoreboard in the third and pitcher Bobby Hopkins fired his second shutout of the tournament.

Matching American Brent Hartfield's scoreless record, Hopkins allowed only two hits and whiffed 11 to keep North Central alive in the tournament.

In the third, John Dickinson doubled and scored on a wild pitch. Hopkins added insurance by walking and scoring on Jason Stone's RBI single.

Mid-City loaded the bases in the fourth inning but Hopkins struck out catcher Pat Mowles for the third out to preserve his shutout.

Dallas' Walls serious on retirement threats

THOUSANDS OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The agent for Everson Walls says Dallas' All-Pro cornerback, unhappy with his contract negotiations, has announced his intention to retire in telegrams sent to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the Cowboys.

The Cowboys say Walls has made a big mistake and they don't plan to change their contract offer.

"He's a little young to be retiring, don't you think?" was the reaction of Tex Schramm, president of the team. "Our last offer stands."

Walls, who must report to training camp by Thursday at 7 p.m. or face a $1,000-a-day fine, wasn't returning reporters' telephone calls. He was scheduled to go on a radio talk show in Fort Worth Wednesday night.

The second-year pro who has led the National Football League in interceptions both years handled his announcement through agent Steve Weinberg.

"He sent letters to the Cowboys and Pete Rozelle," said Weinberg. "He has convinced me he is 100 percent sincere."

Cowboys, Rams rookies tie 6-6

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams scored a touchdown apiece Wednesday afternoon in a rookie scrimmage highlighted by the running of former SMU great Eric Dickerson.

Dickerson, the second player chosen in the 1983 National Football League draft, rushed seven times for 49 yards for Los Angeles, including a long gain of 25. He also had a 16-yard TD run called back.

Rookie Chuck McSwain led Cowboys rushers with 35 yards on eight carries.

He does not want to talk to the media at all right now."

Tex Schramm said the decision was "a mistake on his part. He's a victim of bad advice."

Teammate Drew Pearson said, "Walls is using the wrong ploy. He should come to camp. To retire is the wrong strategy."

Tight end Billy Joe DuFree said, "That kid is worth his weight in gold. Pay him whatever you have to. This team needs Everson."

Walls is being offered $175,000 this year as part of a five-year, $1.25 million package.

The former free agent from Grambling wants a three-year contract at $900,000.

He played for only $37,000 last year and has two years remaining on his current contract.

Walls would still have to play for the Cowboys should he decide to lay out a season and then come back.

Ron Fellows immediately becomes the No. 1 candidate for Walls' cornerback post along with second-year man Rod Hill.

Dallas coaches also were impressed with free agent quarterback Bryan Ransom, who hit the first six passes he threw, finishing with six of eight completions for 69 yards. Kenneth Gardner caught three passes for 23 yards and tight end Chris Faulkner had two catches for 19 yards before injuring his back.

Each club spiced its roster with young veterans. LA scored first on Barry Redden's 2-yard touchdown run after third-year quarterback Jeff Kemp threw a 45-yard pass to John Thompson.

GETTING THAT FIRST OUT — Midland Tower lead-off hitter Jerry Delk is thrown out at first during first inning action Wednesday night against Coahoma. First baseman Alonzo Ortega bends for the throw. Delk proved to be Tower's big stick later in the game, driving in two runs as Midland pulled out a 2-1 victory.

Cooper bops Rangers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper rarely has spoken for public record this season, but his bat is speaking loudly and clearly. Cooper slammed his 21st homer leading off the Milwaukee eighth inning Wednesday — his 13th hit in 21 times at bat — as the Brewers defeated the Texas Rangers 4-3 for their ninth victory in 10 games.

Cooper, who leads the major leagues in runs batted in with 73, has 17 in his last nine games and has raised his batting average from .230 on May 16 to .298.

Cooper declined to talk about his game-winning shot into the right center field bullpen off Mike Smithson, 6-9. Cooper's shot came after the Rangers, who have lost six of their last seven games, had tied at 3-3 in the seventh on George Wright's 10th homer, a single by Billy Sample and Dave Hostetler's fifth homer.

Smithson, who had retired the first seven hitters, walked Charlie Moore and Bill Schroeder in the third inning. The runners advanced on Paul Molitor's grounder and scored on a single by Jim Gantner.

The Brewers made it 3-0 in the fourth when Cooper singled and scored on a double by Manning to the right center field gap.

Perhaps as vital to the Brewers' surge as Cooper's hitting has been the development of their bullpen. Tom Tellmann, who had a recent slump, earned the victory for a 7-2 record. Pete Ladd, recently recalled from Vancouver, pitched the ninth inning and earned his eighth save of the season and third in four games.

Tellmann relieved Mike Caldwell after one-out singles by Wayne Tolleson and Pete O'Brien in the eighth. Buddy Bell hit a slow bouncer to third baseman Molitor, whose throw to the plate retired Tolleson. Tellmann then threw out Larry Parrish.

American League

Orioles 4, Mariners 2

The Seattle Mariners thought they could take advantage of Dan Ford's inactivity for the last month. Instead, Ford did a month's worth of work in one game.

Seattle starter Matt Young said he asked catcher Rick Sweet before Wednesday night's game at Baltimore how they should pitch to Ford, playing his first game since June 21 because of an injured knee.

Red Sox 6, Angels 4

At Anaheim, Wade Boggs hit a two-run triple to snap a ninth-inning tie and give Boston its victory over California.

Both teams scored three runs in the eighth inning.

A's 9, Tigers 2

At Detroit, Oakland got six runs in the seventh inning, highlighted by Bill Almon's three-run homer, to beat the Tigers.

Dwayne Murphy drove in three runs with a homer and a single for the A's, while Rickey Henderson stole his 55th base and also had a homer and a single to extend his hitting streak to 12 games.

Yankees 6, Twins 4

At Yankee Stadium, New York won its sixth straight game and Minnesota lost its seventh in a row as Don Baylor smashed a two-run homer in the 10th inning.

Steve Kemp opened the 10th with a double against loser Ron Davis, 3-4, and then Baylor ripped his third hit of the game and 11th home run of the year.

White Sox 8, Indians 2

At Cleveland, Tom Paciorek and Ron Kittle slugged two-run homers in Chicago's five-run fifth inning and Harold Baines also homered to power a 14-hit attack against Cleveland.

Royals 14, Blue Jays 8

At Toronto, Kansas City broke open a close game against Toronto with eight runs in the seventh inning, keyed by Pat Sheridan's two-run single and Don Slaught's two-run double.

National League

he looped the ball to center field, where it fell safely for a single, out of the reach of shortstop Ivan DeJesus, second baseman Kiko Garcia and center fielder Bob Dernier.

Hudson, a 24-year-old rookie right-hander for the Philadelphia Phillies breezed through the Houston lineup Wednesday night and had a no-hitter after eight innings.

As he trotted to the mound with a 10-0 lead to start the ninth, the crowd of 21,052 on a steamy Philadelphia night cheered. Third baseman Mike Schmidt stood near the young hurler as he warmed up, thrust the ball into Hudson's glove and wished him good luck.

Pinch hitter Harry Spilman was the first batter, and he struck out looking at a 1-2 pitch.

That brought up Reynolds, a reserve infielder who had entered the game in the seventh inning and had just 11 hits all season.

Hudson threw two strikes past Reynolds, and then missed with a ball. Then Reynolds fouled off a pitch.

And then Hudson threw a pitch down and in, and Reynolds broke his bat as and overshadowed Los Angeles' Ken Landreaux, who went 5-for-5.

Rick Rhoden, 7-8, gave up 12 hits before giving way to Kent Tekulve in the ninth.

Giants 4, Cubs 3

Jack Clark belted his 15th home run of the season with two outs in the top of the 10th inning to beat the Cubs in Chicago.

The blast came on the first pitch by reliever Lee Smith, 3-5, who had not served up a home run pitch in 69 2-3 innings, dating back last Sept. 12.

Mets 3, Braves 2

Mookie Wilson's RBI single with two outs in the eighth snapped a 2-2 tie.

Chris Chambliss led off the Brave ninth with a double off reliever Carlos Diaz. That brought in Doug Sisk, who got one out before Jerry Royster beat out a high chopper, sending pinch runner Randy Johnson to third.

But Sisk earned his eighth save by inducing pinch hitter Dale Murphy to ground into a double play.

Expos 6, Reds 4

In Montreal, the Expos continued to plague Cincinnati's Mario Soto.

Al Oliver and Gary Carter stroked run-scoring singles and Tim Wallach added an RBI double in the fifth inning against Soto, who is 10-9 this season but has a 1-7 lifetime mark against the Expos.

Charlie Lea, 7-6, took a five-hitter into the ninth, but left after Nick Esasky belted a two-run double.

Padres 5, Cardinals 4

Ruppert Jones slammed a three-run homer in the ninth inning to rally visiting San Diego past the Cardinals and reliever Bruce Sutter.

With St. Louis ahead 3-2, Sutter got one out before Terry Kennedy and Gary Templeton singled. Jones then unloaded his fifth home run of the season to pin the loss on Sutter, 7-6.

Luis DeLeon, 1-3, got the win and Sid Monge, San Diego's fifth pitcher, got his fifth save.
