Crowds test fitness at mall's exhibits

What was it like at the Second Annual Big Spring Health Fair Saturday in the Big Spring Mall?

A line of people waiting to get their fingers pricked, a shy three-year-old talking to a robot, a crowd gathered outside to watch firemen rappel down a snorkel ladder, a talking computer defining oncologist, a man learning he needs more exercise.

A sizable crowd of people roamed through the mall Saturday, partaking of numerous tests designed to tell persons a little bit more about health and health-related items. The various booths ranged from the simple blood pressure test to a sonar X-Ray machine to information on rabies.

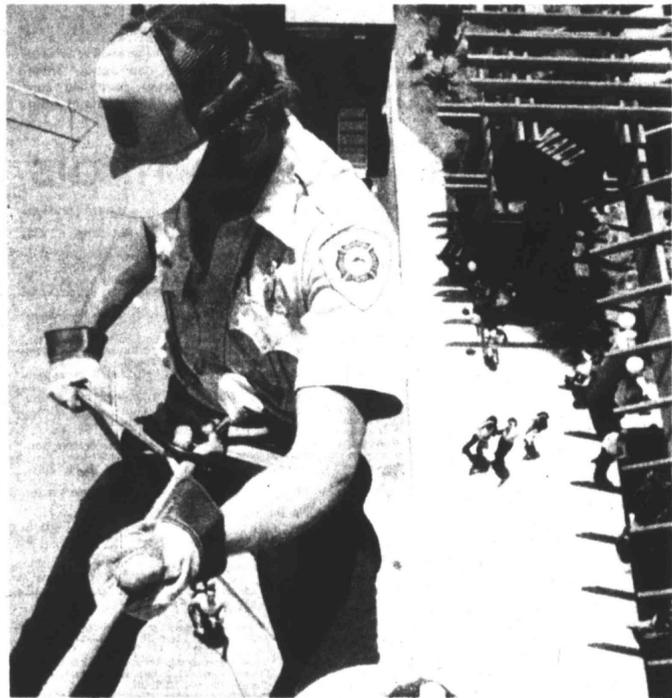

Fair Co-Chairman Barbara Holdampf said people were lining up at 7:30 a.m. Saturday for an opportunity to undergo some of the simple medical tests. She estimated the crowd as "considerably larger" than last year's event — the first time the fair was held.

Drawing noticeably-long crowds were the anemia, hearing and isometric tests. The anemia test required a small sample of blood, taken from the finger with reactions varying from stoic acceptance to visibly-surprised expressions of pain.

The isometric test involved checking the strength of a person's leg on an isometric dynamometer. After the test, Big Springer Archie Bacon said he learned some of his muscles were about half the size they should be.

"I need to exercise more," Bacon said, laughing. "I wish I had waited; I just paid $500 for a physical."

Mrs. Holdampf emphasized none of the tests were supposed to take the place of a doctor's visit.

Estes sues U.S. prison officials

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Billie Sol Estes, currently serving a ten-year prison term at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, has filed a $52 million lawsuit against federal prison officials, including camp superintendent John Allman.

Estes, 58, filed the suit himself, mailing it to the U.S. District Court in Abilene Thursday from the Big Spring camp.

He is due to be released on Dec. 15. He was convicted in 1979 of mail fraud and concealing his assets from the government. He received 10 years in prison for those charges.

In the suit, Estes claims federal prison officials prolonged his stay in prison. He said he requested release to a halfway house in Abilene, and cited prison policy that allows inmates to spend three to six months prior to release in a halfway house.

The suit says John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring facility, requested a 60 to 90-day

Council says pickup service needed

Coahoma trash policy 'stink' explained

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The city's new trash-hauling policy — under fire by some citizens — was the only alternative short of "telling everyone in town to haul trash to Big Spring," say members of the Coahoma City Council.

City officials last month installed the city's first-ever sanitation service. Meeting in emergency session Thursday, they pointed to a rapidly-filling city landfill that will be closed within two months as the reason for the trash-hauling service.

But Coahoma resident Lee Hogg says the council pushed the item through without the townspeople's knowledge. The 73-year-old Hogg, who says he represents several people, wants the matter voted upon by the city.

"If there ain't a change made, this town's gonna bust wide open," Hogg said. The council admitted receiving complaints from a number of residents.

Councilman Ronnie Dodson said the people of Coahoma elected the council to deal with these items. An election would only be additional cost, he said.

"The city was in no financial shape to buy a truck and do it ourselves," Councilman Steve New said.

Buying a garbage truck and hiring extra employees would mean the city would have to raise taxes, Dodson said.

New said a special council meeting to hear complaints about the new sanitation service drew only two people.

"This is nothing we snuck around and did," New said.

The council awarded the contract on June 9 after receiving bids from four companies and individuals. Gerald King was given the contract because he agreed to purchase a sanitation truck to collect trash and haul it to the Big Spring landfill, Dodson said.

Councilman Jim Rackley says the city is unable to purchase additional land for a dump-ground due to land costs and money shortages. An offer made at Thursday's meeting of land to lease for a landfill was over $15,000.

"We don't like it either, but we were looking at hauling trash to Big Spring," Rackley said.

Hogg says Dodson pushed the trash hauling through the council because King is Dodson's cousin.

"It's a crime the way the city is ramming this down people's throats," Hogg said.

However, Dodson said he did not even make the motion to accept King's bid. Dodson said he knew people would question a cousin of a council member being awarded a city contract.

Councilman Billy Sullivan said the other bids were higher and would have required people to purchase new trashcans or the city to place dumpsters in alleys.

Between 5:30 p.m. April 10 and 4:30 a.m. April 11 persons unknown stole a 1982 brown Chevrolet 2-door (Texas license plate 873 AFX) from 600 Lina Lane. The suspects then drove the vehicle to Mitchell County and abandoned it 18 miles out of Colorado City on Highway 208.

Between 8 p.m. May 17 and 8 a.m. May 18 someone stole a 1982 white Ford F100 pickup truck (Texas license plate SV 1813) from Bob Brock Ford at 500 W. 4th.

Between 5 p.m. June 14 and 6:50 a.m. June 15 someone broke into the Texas Highway Department's fenced-in parking lot on the Snyder Highway and stole a 1981 Chevrolet Malibu station wagon (Texas license plate 397930). The suspects then drove the vehicle through the fence. At 11:59 p.m. June 15 the vehicle was recovered on County Road 1118 in Johnson County.

If you have any information that may lead to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible for these crimes, call CRIME STOPPERS at 263-1151.

CRIME STOPPERS will pay up to $1,000 for information leading to an arrest and indictment on any felony crime.

Jury selection Monday in Arista murder trial

Jury selection in 118th District Court is expected to begin Monday for the murder trial of 22-year-old Bobby Arista.

Arista of 1511 1/2 S. Scurry is charged in the death of Kim Alexander, 27, at her 1303 Elm home on Dec. 9, 1982. Arista was indicted by a Howard County grand jury March 1, 1983.

According to police reports, Ms. Alexander, an employee of Big Spring Prison Camp, was found beaten to death in her Big Spring home. Pathology reports showed she died of injuries resulting from multiple blows to the head.

Big Spring rodeo cowboy Wacey Cathey grabbed a $50,000 bonus check during bull riding competition at the Calgary Stampede and Rodeo in Canada July 17.

Cathey, 29, was among 10 competitors who gained the finals in the bull riding event, according to the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association office in Colorado.

Although seventh in the preliminaries, Cathey had the highest score after riding three bulls in final competition to take the $50,000 prize. The Canadian event is among the top 10 in PRCA rodeos in prize money, according to the national office.

Wacey specializes in bullriding and has gained the National Finals four times in his career.

A seven-year veteran of the pro rodeo circuit, Cathey is expected to compete in the Cheyenne, Wyo., rodeo this weekend.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cathey of Luther.

Lamesa plans art exhibit

LAMESA — Almost a dozen Texas artists will display their works Aug. 4 at an exhibit and sale benefiting the Panhandle's West Texas Boys Ranch.

The exhibit, held in conjunction with the Lamesa rodeo, will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the First National Bank in Lamesa.

Artists include Jody Boren of Abilene, Ben Miller of Fluvanna, Terrell O'Brien of Lamesa, Charles Sawyer of Blackwell, Robert Taylor of Snyder, Ronald Thomason of Weatherford, Gary Ward of Canyon, Garland Weeks of San Angelo, Justin Wells of Amarillo, Paul Wylie of Lubbock and Jim Ward of Canyon.

The Lamesa rodeo is scheduled Aug. 4-6 at 7:30 p.m. at the rodeo grounds.

Commissioners to hear citizens

Howard County commissioners have scheduled four conferences with citizens Monday including one commissioner and an ex-county employee.

Commissioner Bill Crocker has requested a discussion on an undisclosed topic. Another meeting is set with former employee Linda Arsiaga, who was fired from her secretarial position by Justice of the Peace Bobby West July 12.

Mary W. Brown and Mary Sanchez are scheduled to meet with commissioners also.

In other agenda items, commissioners will meet with County Librarian Judith Gray and Treasurer Bonnie Franklin concerning personnel. County Engineer Bill Mims is also expected to discuss personnel in addition to courthouse and fairbarns repairs.

County Auditor Jackie Olson will discuss a blood drive by United Blood Services of San Angelo. A proposed use hearing on revenue sharing funds and a budget workshop are also planned.

Commissioners are expected to name three members to the Crime Stoppers board. A 10 a.m. public hearing with John Gaskin is planned concerning abandonment of a county road.

I GOT 'EM! I GOT 'EM! — Bobby Flores of McGregor, Texas, neatly lassoes his calf during competition Saturday night at the Howard County 38th Annual 4-H Junior Rodeo. Flores was competing in tiedown roping for boys, ages 13-15. The American Junior Rodeo Association-sanctioned event drew over 400 competitors from across the state for four nights of riding and roping.

Riders compete in rodeo finals

The 38th edition of Howard County's 4-H Junior Rodeo came to a close late Saturday night under a bright full moon before a small crowd.

It was the fourth performance for the American Junior Rodeo Association event which drew almost 400 contestants. Some $17,000 in prize money and belt buckles were to be awarded after the last performance.

The rodeo's close also ends a week of labor for the local 4-H club members and adult leaders. The annual rodeo is the major fundraiser for the four county 4-H clubs.

Final results from the rodeo were not available at press time Saturday. A complete tally will be in Monday's paper.

Estes

proved only 30 days.

The action violated prison policy and violated his civil rights, Estes charged.

In addition to Allman, the suit names the director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, Norman Carlson; the chairman of the U.S. Parole Commission, Benjamin Baer and two other prison and parole officials.

Allman is not named in the damages part of the suit which totals over $52 million.

However, Allman said today from his home the 30-day halfway house unusual thing as far as I'm concerned." The prison official said each prisoner is evaluated separately for the halfway house stays prior to release.

The length of stay varies from 30 to 90 days, Allman said. The time granted depends on the needs of the individual: finances, family, education and so forth, he said.

"Typically, a white collar criminal gets 30 days," Allman said. "Personally, I see no violation of policy."

The halfway house stay before release helps the inmate make an easier transition from institutional life to community life, Allman said.

Estes headed a huge financial empire in the 1960s that fell due to federal fraud charges involving the sale of non-existent fertilizer tanks. Estes was convicted in 1963 and served six years of a 15-year prison sentence.

He was paroled in 1971 on the condition that he not engage in any type of promotional business activity. He was convicted again in 1979.

Estes sought early release due to failing health in December of 1982, but was turned down by parole officials.

Police Beat

Man reports shots fired

A Big Spring man reported to police an unknown person had twice fired shots at his house early Saturday morning.

Carl Merworth of 1103 N. Nolan told police the shots were fired at his house on different occasions around 12:58 a.m. Saturday.

The Department of Public Safety arrested three persons on separate charges of suspicion of driving while intoxicated Friday. David Canale, 20, of 1206 E. 5th, Johnny Merrick, 37, of 2520 Chaute and Antonio Gonzales, 25, of 1406 Virginia were processed and released.

Big Spring police arrested David Buendia, 20, of 2508 Dow for suspicion of DWI Friday.

What was first reported as a car-pedestrian accident at the 1600 block of W. 4th Street turned into two boys on a bicycle with the toes of one unfortunate youngster caught in the wheel spokes. Police say he was treated and released at a local hospital.

Police reported a fire Friday evening at the West-A-Go convenience store on 18th and Gregg was extinguished by the fire department.

According to police reports, a customer pulled away from the a gasoline pump without taking the hose from his gas tank. No one was injured in the blaze.

Ex-Coahoma councilman dies

Clifton (Big Boy) Harrison, 63, a former Coahoma city councilman and an employee of Cosden Oil and Chemical Refinery for 35 years, died at 6:45 a.m. Friday in a local hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Allen Blanks of Long Island, Va., officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Danny Curry of Coahoma.

One lower bid promised to haul trash in an uncovered pickup and would not have included discounts for Social Security recipients, Sullivan added.

"People are saying 'I've done it this way for 40 years,' but we don't live in 1940 anymore," Sullivan said.

Councilmen say only 400 residents will be billed for the sanitation service at $7.50 a month. However, people on Social Security will receive a discount, Rackley said.

Rackley said this month's trash hauling bills — the first — were "messed up," but next month's would be correct.

"This is the cheapest way for the city," Rackley said.

Death toll hits 88 in heat wave

By The Associated Press
The Midwest and South were baked by a heat wave for the 15th consecutive day Saturday, pushing the nationwide death toll to 88 and causing emergency shelters and shopping malls to fill with people seeking cool surroundings.

"People seem to be enjoying our air conditioning, which we have kept on full blast throughout this hot spell," said spokesman Dan Burns of Northlake Mall near Atlanta, which was mobbed Saturday.

The heat caused a rash of air conditioner thefts in Louisville, Ky., and prompted some Georgia horse trainers to turn on fans in stalls.

Four elderly residents of a Chicago nursing home died after the building's air conditioning system failed in Friday's 100-degree temperatures, and deputy health commissioner Phillip Davis said it was "a reasonable assumption" that the deaths were heat-related.

Three people were found dead in their beds Saturday at the Center for Human Development and a fourth died shortly after City Health Department investigators arrived, according to William Ware, chief aide to Mayor Harold Washington.

Three other patients in the 225-bed facility were hospitalized and "critically ill," and about 200 patients were evacuated from the home, Ware said. St. Louis was punished Saturday by a fifth day of temperatures above 100 degrees and the metropolitan death toll rose to 38.

In Dayton, Ohio, officials at St. Elizabeth's Hospital said a man who lived at the downtown YMCA — which has no air conditioning — died after his body temperature rose to 108.

The heat wave is the worst since 1960, when nearly 1,300 deaths were attributed to high temperatures, most of them in Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

St. Louis and St. Louis County remained under a heat emergency Saturday and 18 air-conditioned resting spots — dubbed "cooling-off centers" — stayed open around the clock.

The Rev. Larry Rice of the New Life Evangelistic Center in St. Louis said he had about 700 more electric fans to distribute. He already has given away more than 1,000 fans. The St. Louis Rabbinical Association started a drive to buy fans and air conditioners to be distributed by city relief officials.

Thirty-eight people were treated for heat-related illnesses at St. Louis hospitals Friday night and Saturday.

Youngsters trying to cool off continued to open fire hydrants at the rate of about 200 a day, causing water pressure to plunge in some St. Louis neighborhoods.

In Georgia, where the heat wave has claimed 11 lives, highs hit 100 again Saturday. Electricity demand surged so much that the Georgia Power Co. did what most utilities do in winter — instituted emergency bill-paying plans to stretch out payments.

Dallas man shot dead in Los Angeles

Texas may hold clue to movie executive's death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say no one has been ruled out as the potential murderer of a movie studio executive from Texas whose son, injured in the same incident at their Bel-Air mansion, was recovering from a bullet wound Saturday.

Henry Harrison Kyle, 60, was killed before dawn Friday in the old Mediterranean-style house he was renovating with his two sons and two friends. His younger son and the friends weren't injured.

Autopsy results on the elder Kyle were pending Saturday. "It could be a robbery, but we really have no idea at this point," police detective John Rockwood said Saturday. "Most of his connections are back in Texas, so if there are no leads here, we'll go there."

Kyle was moving from Dallas, where he was a banker and investment tycoon, after becoming president and chief executive officer of Four Star Productions.

The film and TV distribution company was founded in 1952 by Dick Powell, David Niven, Charles Boyer and Ida Lupino. Kyle took over last Sept. 20, Four Star chairman David Charnay said. Each owned 30 percent of the stock.

Rockwood said that was "difficult" to conclude this soon, but added nothing yet indicated that Kyle died in a business-related vendetta.

His 20-year-old son, also named Henry Harrison Kyle but known as Rick Kyle, was in good condition at UCLA Medical Center following surgery on his left elbow, which a bullet fractured.

A UCLA spokeswoman who requested anonymity said Kyle was "resting very comfortably" but would remain hospitalized for at least three days.

Rockwood said police planned to question the other son, Scott Kyle, 19, on Saturday, along with the two men in the house. The detective wouldn't identify them.

Police estimated the attack occurred between 3:30 a.m. and 4 a.m.

They found a sliding glass door open in the run-down mansion at the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Stone Canyon Road, but Rockwood said it was not certain that intruders entered there.

"It's a huge place," he said. "We found the door open but there are so many (entrances) it's hard to tell whether any were left open accidentally."

A neighbor called police after hearing shots in the wealthy enclave, set off by gates on Los Angeles' west side. Rockwood said police got "quick statements" from the three unharmed men but planned more questioning Saturday. "We haven't ruled anybody out" as potential suspects, he said.

The Kyles were shot with a small-caliber gun, Capt. John Wilbanks said. Two guns were found in the house — one near Kyle's body and one on a nearby table — but police wouldn't say whether either was the murder weapon.

Kyle was on Four Star's board of directors since 1970.

"He loved the business," Charnay said. "This was the high time of his life. He was putting in a lot of time, a lot of hours, about 12 hours a day" trying to restore Four Star to its stature as the company that once produced hit TV shows such as "Big Valley," "Wanted: Dead or Alive," and "Burke's Law."

"He had no enemies," Charnay added. "He was not the kind to get involved with enemies. He lived a high-type life. He had friends in the football fraternity and played tennis with O.J. Simpson."

Kyle played college football at the University of Tennessee. His business interests included a mineral exploration company he ran with Jerry Kramer, a former Green Bay Packers guard.

Kyle had extensive real estate holdings in Los Angeles and Texas. He was on the board of directors of W.R. Berkley Corp., a holding company for insurance firms, Sheldon Petroleum of Lubbock, Texas, and Allied First National Bank of Mesquite, a Dallas suburb, where he previously was president.

Kyle, who built homes, apartments and restaurants in Dallas and country clubs and shopping centers in other parts of the country, sold his controlling interest in the bank before coming to California.

Soviets: U.S. Mideast policy 'doomed'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union charged Saturday that Philip Habib's resignation as U.S. special envoy in the Middle East was caused by "bankrupt" American policies that are "doomed to failure."

"The dismissal of the President's faithful servant" resulted from a "new maneuver aimed at revitalizing U.S. imperialism's bankrupt Middle East course," the official news agency Tass said, citing unspecified reports in the Western press.

Echoing earlier Soviet criticism, Tass charged that

Washington "sought to create a semblance of 'concern' for Arab interests while in actual fact it did not depart an inch from its previous stand of unreserved support for Israel."

Habib's shuttle diplomacy and efforts to negotiate with individual Arab leaders and states failed to make that policy any more popular in the Middle East, Tass said.

It was Syria's refusal to negotiate with Habib that prompted the envoy to resign his post.

Judge should follow the system

This week it was reported that a Big Spring man sentenced to county jail received a second trial and a new jail sentence without the knowledge of the county attorney's office.

The Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, Article 40.06, says the state should have a chance to oppose any motion for a new trial. A copy of the motion for new trial should have been delivered to the state, in this case, the county attorney.

The county sheriff says the new judgments were part of a bargaining arrangement with the prisoner. A deputy approached Howard County Judge Milton Kirby to have the man's sentence commuted in exchange for information on four burglaries in the county. The sheriff reported that after the prisoner's release, three juveniles were taken into custody and goods recovered. The sheriff said the judge was "acting in good faith" to help solve the burglaries, and that the bargaining process is "nothing new."

Judge Kirby said that "judgment is my job" in explaining why he had bypassed the county attorney's office. "I didn't feel it was necessary for him (County Attorney Bob Miller) to be here," Kirby said. "This needed to get done, so I had it done."

We believe the judge's motives were pure. But the county attorney should have been informed. The county attorney has indicated he would not have objected to any action taken in the case. However, he thinks new trials and judgments should be handled systematically.

We agree. A judge must be impartial. And a judge called upon to dispense justice should not bend the law, even for convenience.

Around the Rim

By KEITH BRISCOE

What's up, Doc?

I finally understand why my mother was always so adamant that I become a doctor or lawyer.

They're rolling in dough! Doctors possess the knowledge to cure our illnesses, comfort our bodies in daily travails and save our lives when death threatens. Lawyers have the keys to guide us through the maze of jurisprudence our bureaucratic democracy has established, to keep us from pauperism and preserve us from imprisonment.

They are invaluable skills, and our society could not exist without them. These are special people, this I understand. What I can't quite grasp, though, is how their skills enable them to wallow in such excessive wealth.

Doctors, if ever pressed on the subject, defend their exorbitant fees by pointing to long, lean years of medical school during which they had to sacrifice much to dedicate themselves to studies. This, they argue, entitles them to a healthy compensation.

The lawyers' excuse follows much the same line, although their defense always seems to carry less weight.

There is an insidious formula here which has allowed these two professionals to blitz our pocketbooks: Education plus sacrifice plus profession's indispensable nature equals megabucks.

In rebuttal, I offer two professions for which the formula just does not hold.

THE PRIEST: Probably no other professional sacrifices more, studies more than the cleric. And for his dedication, he receives but a pittance.

Priests spend more years in college and graduate school than doctors (and certainly lawyers). The material they must master is massive, and the range of their services is broad. The sacrifices they endure to enter their profession are legion. For all this, they are rewarded with a life of poverty.

THE SOLDIER: Professional soldiers, even if they are not officers, undergo continuous and rigorous training to master their profession. In peace, soldiers sacrifice the comforts of civilian life for the military routine. In war, their sacrifices are legendary and often ultimate. In return, they receive a meager salary.

These last two professions are equally as indispensable to society as the doctor and lawyer. And there are others: the fireman, the policeman and the garbage man. I mention especially the garbage man. Without him, we all would have perished long ago, no matter how many doctors were around to tap our savings. And how much is he paid?

For some reason doctors, and to a lesser extent lawyers, have become sacrosanct, beyond reproach or questioning. Few people think twice about laying out a small fortune to get cured of a disease or to keep their house off the auction block. It's the equivalent of sacrificing to a god. Spill the blood lest the magical powers disappear.

Americans are a not a particularly peculiar people, so there must be a universal rationale for the exalted position of doctors and lawyers.

Wrong. Most countries are barbaric enough to consider the two professionals as servants of the people, enduring their training and sacrifices out of duty to the community.

The Soviet Union, Israel and Cuba (to name just a few of the more obvious examples) have very excellent medical services, in most cases on par with our own. Yet their doctors are socialized, meaning they are employed by the government and paid very ordinary salaries. There seems to be no shortage of doctors in these countries, and their professionalism and dedication are unquestioned.

We have socialized our policemen, firemen, garbage men and soldiers. We had the sense somewhere along the line not to trust these professions to the vagaries and excesses of the private sector. Why doctors and lawyers remain outside this system is beyond any explanation.

All this leads me to one of two conclusions: 1. Doctors and lawyers are highly dedicated servants who just happen to make a lot of money; or 2. Some persons may enroll in medical or law school because these fields offer a lot of money.

I offer a new formula: Education plus sacrifice plus indispensable nature of profession equals service to mankind.

Besides, who can afford to get sick or in trouble with the law these days?

My most unforgettable cousin

Does everyone have a Wade Elliott in the family?

Wade Elliott was my most unforgettable cousin. He had red hair and freckles, a gold tooth and a scheming mind. When we spilled milk on the kitchen floor, he said, "Don't worry, it'll evaporate." That seemed logical to me, and we nonchalantly skipped outside to play.

The inevitable scream came later. "WADE ELLIOTT!!!!" Those two words shrieked by his mother were an indictment, trial, conviction and punishment all rolled into one. "WADE ELLIOTT!!!!" By this time we were far away and hidden, and after a while the charges were dismissed.

Later that evening, his brothers and my sisters and I would sit in a circle in a dark room with a blanket over our heads. Wade Elliott, holding a flashlight under his chin for effect, would tell stories about B-I-O-O-D-y Bones and S-k-a-r-y Eyeballs. The young girl would be creeping down into the cellar to get a jar of tomatoes...the suspense would grow and grow until "GOTCHA!!!" sent everyone scrambling.

Wade Elliott was always the captain, the general, the inventor, the director. He staged "Laugh-ins" long before Rowan and Martin made the scene.

Our parents would be seated in the dining room. The curtains dividing the dining room from the living room would open with fanfare. Wade Elliott, the doctor, accompanied by Nurse Linda et al, would operate on the patient who was groaning and moaning and stifling his giggles. Suddenly all was quiet. The doctor pulled off his cap, faced the audience and said, "The operation was a success, but the patient died."

Singing and dancing acts followed, interspersed with my bathing suit walk. I must have been all of 8 years old, but I can still see Wade Elliott coaching me on how to walk. "No, no, no. Here, like this. Put your hand on your hip, your other in your hair. Swivel your hips. And here, stick this toilet paper in the top of your suit." He must have been a good director, because when I strutted across the stage, followed by my male cousins with eyes protruding, the audience cracked up.

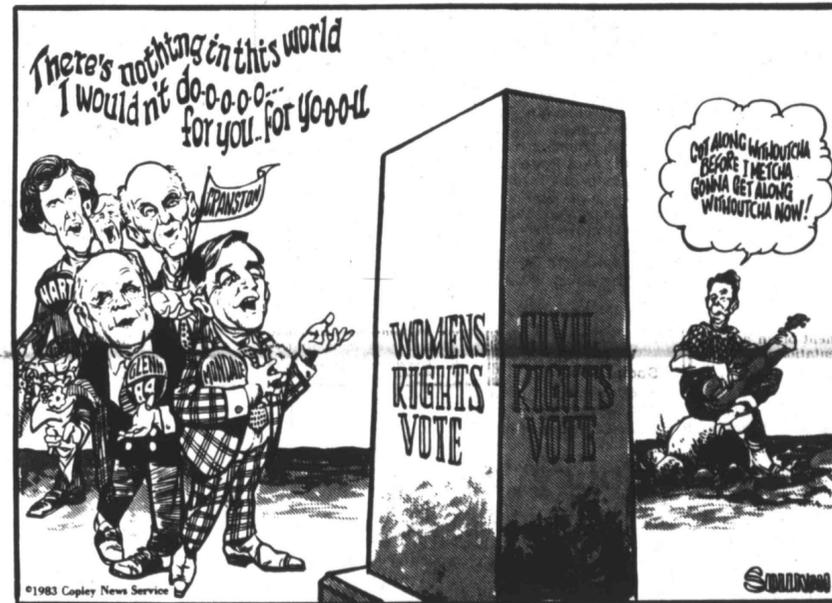

Stealing the chocolates was another matter. Wade Elliott's older sister had been given a box of candy about the size of a Monopoly game and twice as thick. She put it in her closet. Wade Elliott, secret agent, huddled and plotted with us. Sentries were posted up and down the hall. Wade Elliott crawled, hid behind the door, snuck to the closet. Whistles and signals were exchanged, and one by one others of us worked our way down the hall to the closet to the box of chocolates, and there we feasted. Later we heard her footsteps coming. Quick! Hide! Some of us were in the closet, others dove under the bed. She combed her hair, put on lipstick, lay on the bed for a while. We were breathless, quiet as Indians. Soon she left, and we made our escape.

Later that night—"Mother! Someone's eaten my chocolates!!!" You've probably never seen such innocent-looking angel faces in your life. "What chocolates? Did you see any chocolates?" "No, I didn't see any chocolates, what are you talking about?" "Chocolates? Beats me."

Even as a teen-ager Wade Elliott had his tricks. One night he drove his impressionable cousins to a graveyard, stopped the car, told a story, then told everyone to look behind the car. The tombstones took on reddish glow, and then the glow began to flash. I can't remember now if I realized then that he was pumping the brakes, but I do remember everyone screaming and him peeling out of there fast.

I haven't seen my cousin in a long time. I understand he lives in Wyoming and has a computer genius for a kid. But when I retire from the newspaper business, I think I'll write a novel. Wade Elliott, Private Eye. The main character will have red hair, faded freckles, and a gold tooth. It will be purely fiction, of course.

Enter the Democrats, kowtowing

There are few spectacles that tell more about politics in the modern welfare state than that of Democratic presidential candidates seeking votes among organized interest groups. These appearances, like recent ones before the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Women's Political Caucus and the National Education Association, suggest that voters looking for courage, or even minimal dignity, should look elsewhere.

AT LAST COUNT, the number of Democratic presidential candidates exceeded the population of Nebraska. Most have paid tribute to every group of conventioners, each vowing to make their smallest wish his command. The exercises resemble catechism recitations: The point is to demonstrate a precise recollection of settled doctrine, not a capacity for thought.

The conventions had their absurd moments. There was John Glenn, groveling before the NWPC for using the verboten term "man and wife." There was Gary Hart apologizing to the same group for exceeding his time limit, which politicians normally regard as made to be ignored.

More revealing is the willingness of each candidate to prostrate himself before each group, like medieval supplicants kowtowing before the emperor of China. There is no record of any candidate telling the delegates anything they didn't want to hear.

Even the rare instances of bravery have led to retreats or contradictions. Ernest Hollings, for example, has endorsed competency testing for teachers — which is to the NEA as Two Fingers Tequila is to the Women's Christian Temperance Union — but is making amends by proposing to raise federal education spending by $14 billion.

This trimming doesn't occur only at conventions. Reubin Askew, once counted as a friend by anti-abortion groups, now says he only wants to overturn the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe v. Wade decision — in effect letting each state decide for itself. Alan Cranston may be the candidate of the doves on nuclear weapons, but on the subject of Israel he sounds like Gen. Ariel Sharon.

THE BRAVERY, in any case, is rare. A more common approach is simply embracing the group's platform as the candidate's own, no questions asked.

Walter Mondale is understandably defensive about his flagrant reliance on special interests. At a recent appearance before the Democratic National Committee, he demanded, "Since when is it a special interest of the Democratic Party to stand up for organized labor?" Answer: since the first time Mondale attacked Republicans for catering to the rich.

Mondale's rivals aren't much better. Despite his many differences with the NAACP (reflected in his 40 percent rating), Hollings didn't use his appearance at its convention to argue for his views. Instead, he portrayed himself as in perfect agreement with the group on all important issues.

This is cowardice on an unusual scale. No one associates Jimmy Carter with Churchillian resolve, but in 1976 he went before the American Legion to call for an amnesty for draft evaders. Once in office, he kept his word, despite the potential for political damage. That is the sort of gesture that none of these men would make.

RONALD REAGAN showed some nerve recently by addressing a hostile convention of the American Federation of Teachers. And he doesn't flinch from scolding his usual allies — business groups, bankers or Wall Street investors — when they take positions he doesn't like. It's hard to imagine these Democrats treating any of their interest groups so shabbily.

It may be said that politics is the art of pleasing as many people as possible, and that it makes no sense for a candidate to confront powerful groups with his disagreements. But politics also involves leadership, which often requires informing large groups of people that their

Good luck to the Cyperts

Dear Editor,

It was exuberating to find out how much money was raised at the Knott Fun Festival. Y'all are in my prayers. I know that the Lord will do what is best, and with him on y'all's side you cannot be beat. I recently lost my father, but when I learned of y'all's predicament my sorrow was lessened.

I was not able to attend the festival, but I am willing to lend a helping hand. The success of the festival goes to show that there are still caring, loving, Christian people. I want to share this poem with you and the other readers. The poem is by Helen Stiener Rice.

Let Go...Let God
When you are troubled and worried and sick at heart, and your plans are upset, and your world falls apart,
Remember God is ready and waiting to share the burden you find much too heavy to bear.
Go with faith; Let go and Let God lead the way into brighter and less troubled days.

In closing I want to let you know that you are in my thoughts. May the Lord's blessing shine upon y'all each and every day. Have sweet Jesus days forever. God bless y'all.

Agent Orange still problem

In recent months, the controversy surrounding the chemical compound known as dioxin has gained momentum around the country. Due to studies indicating that dioxin may pose a serious risk to our health, the federal government has begun to seriously investigate the matter.

As you may recall, the federal government recently bought the entire town of Times Beach, Mo., because of the possible dangers associated with the chemical. Although government officials appear eager to begin cleaning up cities contaminated by dioxin, which has been called by Environmental Protection Agency officials "one of the deadliest chemicals known to man," they seem less eager to help the thousands of Vietnam veterans who were exposed to dioxin in the form of a chemical herbicide — Agent Orange.

Last session, I became aware of the plight of these veterans, and I was proud to author our state's landmark Agent Orange legislation in 1981. Since that time, I have been gratified by the response of state legislators from across the country who have used this legislation as a reference from which to draw their own program of aid for veterans.

As you probably know, between 1962 and 1971 the United States government sprayed vast areas of Vietnam with Agent Orange to defoliate the jungles. Many Vietnam veterans who were exposed to the chemical in massive doses have developed numerous health problems, including rare cancers and genetic problems leading to birth defects in their children. These veterans believe their problems originate from the exposure to Agent Orange, but to date, the Veterans Administration and government officials do not officially acknowledge the correlation. The VA maintains the belief that there is not conclusive evidence to prove that ailments ranging from the dreaded skin disease, Chloracne, and liver disorders to genetic disease and cancer are a direct result of veterans' exposure to Agent Orange.

This session, I passed a bill which expands my legislation of last session. The measure passed in 1981 set out methods for a physician or hospital to provide a full report to the Texas Department of Health on any veterans treated for symptoms normally associated with exposure to Agent Orange. It also established assistance programs to aid veterans in filing claims and in getting genetic testing.

My additional legislation, which the governor has recently signed into law, provides a mechanism for a veteran not treated by a physician or hospital to report directly to the Department of Health as well as a provision allowing a report on behalf of a deceased veteran. The new law will require the Department of Health to compile statistical information, to conduct studies, to report to veterans about laboratory evaluations, to do genetic counseling, and to provide evaluation and treatment to any child with a birth defect which might have been caused by the veteran's exposure to dioxin. Another major provision of the new law is the establishment of an advisory committee to oversee implementation of the Texas Department of Health's Agent Orange program.

I am pleased that my colleagues approved this legislation, as it will serve to reaffirm our state's commitment to the 152,000 Texas Vietnam veterans believed to have been exposed to Agent Orange. Our leadership in pledging assistance to our nation's veterans has encouraged many state legislatures to take an active part on behalf of our veterans. My hope is that the federal government will soon follow in our footsteps.

As always, I am interested in your thoughts and comments, or if you would like more information on the Agent Orange issue, please write: Larry Don Shaw, State Representative, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78769. You can also call my toll-free number, 1-800-592-4731.

Veterans and jobs

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Statistics on the unemployment of Vietnam-era veterans in Texas and four other states show, in part, that the plight of the Vietnam veteran has been overstated by the media, according to a U.S. Veterans Administration spokesman.

The statistics, previously unreleased, show that Texas has a lower unemployment rate among Vietnam veterans than the four other heavily populated states of California, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

They also show that unemployment among Vietnam vets is lower than the general rate of unemployment in the states of Texas, New York and California. The rate for Vietnam veterans is slightly higher for the economically-troubled states of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

"The Vietnam-era veteran is better-educated and has adapted better than veterans from other wars," said John Hickman, a spokesman for the Veterans Administration, referring to the statistics and contradicting popular opinion about Vietnam veterans. "The media over the years has portrayed the Vietnam veteran as a time bomb about to go off. The facts (including the statistics) back us up that the Vietnam veteran has readjusted."

The unemployment figures were drafted by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The labor bureau usually does not release statistics on unemployment among Vietnam veterans because the statistics are considered less reliable than other data produced by the agency, a branch of the U.S. Department of Labor. The bureau drafted the statistics at the request of a Labor Department official, who gave a copy of the statistics to the Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau this week.

Several government analysts said a major reason for the higher degree of employment in Texas is the state's healthier economy.

"You're looking at cities like Cleveland, Los Angeles and New York (and) you're looking at a lot of disadvantaged types on the unemployment rolls," said Hickman.

According to the statistics, unemployment among Vietnam veterans in Texas is 5 percent, compared to a rate of 8 percent for the state's general population in May.

The unemployment rate for Vietnam veterans was 8.8 percent in California, 6.4 percent in New York, 13.6 percent in Ohio and 12.7 percent in Pennsylvania. Overall unemployment nationally for Vietnam veterans was charted at 8.6 percent.

A spokesman for a Texas member of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee said the rate of unemployment might also be lower in Texas because there are so many military installations in the state. Texas has "a very large veteran population and veterans may be sympathetic to other (other) veterans," said Charles Holmes, spokesman for Rep. Marvin Leath, D-Marlin.

Leath has taken a lead in the House on the issue of unemployed Vietnam veterans. His $150 million jobs bill passed the House in June and a similar bill already has passed the Senate. House and Senate staff are ironing out differences between the House and Senate bills, which would provide on-the-job training for unemployed Vietnam veterans.

In spite of the relatively favorable statistics for Vietnam veterans compared to the overall unemployment rate, the labor bureau's statistics showed that those veterans still have a lower rate of employment than the average for all veterans. The Vietnam era is defined as between August 1964 and May 1975, a period during which almost 9 million veterans served. Included are all veterans, regardless of whether they actually went to Vietnam.

Overall unemployment for all veterans was set by the labor bureau at 7.2 percent. General unemployment among all veterans in Texas was 4.2 percent, eight-tenths of a percent lower than the rate for veterans of Vietnam.

The statistics also indicate that Texas has more Vietnam-era veterans than any of the four other states except California. Texas had 612,000 Vietnam veterans, compared to 989,000 for California.

Out of that total, 29,000 Vietnam veterans were unemployed in Texas.

Q: Besides my earnest money and my signature, is there anything else to include in an offer to buy?
A: There are several things to include before you sign an offer to buy a home. Among these are, of course, the date, and the names and addresses of the buyer and seller. There must be a legal description of the property, as well as the purchase price, the size of the down payment you intend to make, and a statement as to how you intend to finance the balance of the purchase price. This should include the maximum interest rate you are willing to pay, and provision for cancelling the offer if that rate cannot be obtained. There should be a stated time limit for acceptance of the offer, a complete list of items included in the sale, closing and occupancy dates and a stipulation that title to the property be insured.

Where to report welfare fraud

The Texas Department of Human Resources recently unveiled new weapons to combat welfare fraud. Department Commissioner Marlin Johnston said the agency is expanding the public's ability to report suspected fraud and that the department will have simplified reporting techniques for fraud referrals. Johnston said a toll-free hotline has been installed so the public can make calls to the department regarding alleged fraud or abuse of agency programs. The number is 1-800-222-2526. Johnston said the department's Office of Investigator-General will be responsible for receiving hotline fraud reports and will ensure appropriate action on each report. Investigations will be initiated on all reports of suspected criminal activity.

Services held for Frank Reynolds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television anchorman Frank Reynolds was buried Saturday in a cemetery of American heroes, with the president of the United States among the mourners. From the Vatican, Pope John Paul II sent condolences to Reynolds' widow and five sons. Reynolds, who died Wednesday of viral hepatitis complicated by bone cancer, was eulogized by a priest at St. Matthews' Cathedral as a man of deep convictions who had "a refreshing consistency about application of his values." President and Mrs. Reagan were in a front row seat in the crowded cathedral. At the end of the 1 1/2-hour Roman Catholic Mass of Christian Burial, Mrs. Reagan embraced Reynolds' widow, Henrietta. They then went to Arlington National Cemetery for the burial. There, riflemen fired three volleys and a bugler blew taps. Mrs. Reynolds walked up to the coffin, touched it, then turned and walked down the hillside, with her sons.

Statesman's legacy disputed

By The Associated Press
Simon Bolivar, the soldier-statesman who freed much of South America from Spain, was a hero to generations of patriots, but as Latin America prepares for the 200th anniversary of his birth, scholars say he left a mixed legacy. They disagree sharply whether he foreshadowed democracy or dictatorship. And Latin America has yet to achieve the unity he sought.

Along with Argentina's Jose de San Martin, Bolivar built the foundation of South American independence and helped end slavery. But he also advocated strong government and dealt ruthlessly with enemies. He spoke of liberty and social justice. But he demonstrated little faith in the masses' ability to govern themselves.

He forcefully called for regional unity. But he kept at arm's length his then young northern neighbor, the United States.

For ideological reasons or for lack of documentation, scholars have trouble agreeing on basic historical facts about Bolivar and his legacy, a dispute that parallels the discord among Latin nations.

Of six countries in the territory Bolivar liberated from Spain, four of them — Venezuela, Colombia, Panama and Ecuador — glorify the man.

But Peruvian scholar Luis Alberto Sanchez says Bolivar is considered "something of an enemy of Peru" because he carved Bolivia out of it.

And in Bolivia, the coordinator of the Bolivar bicentennial says Bolivar's reputation is tarnished there for the opposite reason.

"Bolivia was born against Bolivar's will. He wanted Peru and Bolivia to become one nation," according to Guillermo Cespedes.

In interviews with The Associated Press, scholars concurred, however, that Bolivar was a patriot and unifier to whom a continent owes an incalculable debt.

"Bolivar was a statesman and a general with the soul of a poet. But more than that he was a political visionary and analyst who is still relevant to Latin America," said Robert P. Matthews, a U.S. historian specializing in Latin America.

To mark his 200th anniversary, the presidents of the six liberated countries, as well as King Juan Carlos of Spain, are to gather in Caracas, capital of Bolivar's Venezuelan homeland, for July 24 celebrations. U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar and representatives from the rest of Latin America are expected to attend.

Bolivar was born July 24, 1783, the son of a landed aristocrat. At that time, Spain's control reached from California to the southern tip of South America.

Orphaned at 8 and educated in Europe and Venezuela, young Bolivar was deeply affected by the American and French revolutions and became an admirer of French philosopher Jean Jacques Rousseau, who argued that government should serve the common good.

In 1810, Bolivar joined an incipient Venezuelan independence movement. He fought intermittently until the decisive Battle of Boyaca, Colombia, in 1819. Two years later, he secured a hold over Venezuela. By mid-1825, he had defeated the Spanish in Peru and Bolivia.

Within 16 years, Bolivar was leader of almost a third of South America. Venezuela, Panama, Colombia and Ecuador were then one country — Gran Colombia. He dreamed of a confederation of independent Latin American states that could fend off foreign intervention and be the equal of the world's great nations. The United States was to be excluded. Bolivar feared it would dominate his fledgling nations, and he claimed the United States had ignored South America during its struggle for independence.

"What he advocated was the unity of Spanish America with Brazil and the Caribbean," said Venezuelan historian Jose Salcedo-Bastardo. "Only after that could a fruitful understanding with the other America be thought of."

Eventually, however, he also tried to bring Latin America into a wider group, organizing the Panama Conference to include the United States and Great Britain.

But even his modest dream of a Latin America confederation failed. By 1828, regional wars started erupting, and the people he had struggled to unite turned against him. In 1830, he was driven from power in Venezuela. He died that year in self-imposed exile in Colombia.

Despite failure to achieve unity, Bolivar's hope for regional integration remained. One part of his legacy today is the Andean Pact, formed in 1969, comprising Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia.

Elderly drug misuse studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug misuse is an increasing problem among the elderly which Congress should devise ways to prevent, the House Aging Committee says.

The committee said in a report released recently that older Americans are especially vulnerable to bad reactions to perfectly legal drugs.

Many elderly people take drugs in larger quantities than recommended, take them too often, ignore doctors' advice, or confuse one drug with another, the report said.

Some think that if "one pill is good, two is better," it said.

About 300,000 people are hospitalized each year because of bad drug reactions, a number that is increasing, the report said.

People over 65 commonly purchase drugs that do not require a doctor's prescription. The committee said there are about 300,000 over-the-counter drugs available and almost 70 percent of the elderly use them.

Expenditures for health care were projected to more than double between this year and 1993.

The report said it is very common for the aged to be taking many different drugs. "In patients aged 60 to 70 years, adverse drug reactions occur at twice the rate of their occurrence in patients aged 30 to 40,"

Peter Lamy, chairman of the department of pharmacy at the University of Maryland, told the committee in a quotation used in the report.

The committee urged Congress to devise and promote means that will ensure that elderly patients receive enough drugs they need without providing the potential for abuse.

It said physicians should make sure that their elderly patients know how to take medication. Sometimes directions are illegible to the vision-impaired patient, it said.

One elderly woman, told by her doctor to take vitamin B12, struggled all morning to open the metal container to drink the enclosed liquid. The liquid, however, was not intended to be imbibed, but rather to be injected, the report said.

It said most drug containers still say only, "Take as directed."

It also criticized doctors' failure to adjust drug dosages to elderly patients. It noted that most dosages are designed for a 25-year-old, 170-pound man. It said the physiological changes that occur with aging make it necessary to change these dosages for an elderly woman.

BORROWING FROM YOUR COMPANY

When you and your family own all of the stock of an incorporated business, it's natural to think of all the company as yours. Keep in mind, however, that there is a legal distinction between what belongs to you and what belongs to the corporation.

There can be tax consequences for short-cutting the transfer of assets between you and your company.

The biggest problem area concerns "borrowing" cash from your corporation. A transfer you consider to be a loan may be considered by the IRS as a dividend or as compensation to you. If labeled as a dividend, it is non-deductible by the corporation but taxable to you. If labeled as compensation, it is deductible by the corporation and taxable to you. In either event, you're going to have an unwelcome increase in your personal income tax as well as interest charged by the IRS.

There are a few steps you can take to help ward off the problem. If you intend to borrow from your corporation, make sure there is a note signed by you to the corporation. Provide collateral if possible and have the corporate books reflect the loan to you. Have the minutes of the Board of Directors' meeting approve your loans.

You may have a false sense of comfort since your past "loans" are reflected in the corporation tax return and the IRS has said nothing about them. The IRS will generally make comment only after an "audit" of the corporation.

If you intend to sell or liquidate your corporation, you will have to deal with the "loans" at that time.

Check with your attorney to determine that state statutes and your corporate charter do not prohibit loans to corporate shareholders or directors.

Saddle shop recalls the past

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP) — On a side street near the railroad tracks just off Oak Avenue, there's a small shop in a sheet metal building set among tanks and brick buildings of the last century.

Step inside and the smell of leather, oil, horses and men takes the visitor into the 1880s.

The Frontier Saddlery is a saddle shop and the work place of two craftsmen, or rather, craftspeople — Inez Garcia and Faye Geiger. It is also a place where an item for everyday use is made lovingly by hand.

Garcia is a saddlemaker and Ms. Geiger is a leather-tooler. The only piece of powered machinery in the place is a sewing machine.

Garcia and Geiger pooled their resources — which consisted mostly of their talents, experience and a shared dream — just over a year ago.

"We didn't have any money, either one of us, but we had thought about it for a long time, and the time came when we had to do it," Garcia said.

They had worked for a well-known saddlery for a number of years — Garcia for 16 years and Ms. Geiger for 10.

Garcia said he kept thinking about making something that carried his stamp and his ideas. He wanted to create something that was uniquely his own that would be recognized by men and women who use saddles as a quality saddle, and maybe even become one of the legends among saddlemakers whose names are mentioned with near reverence by horsemen.

SADDLEMAKER — Inez Garcia shapes a piece of leather for a custom saddle that he is making in his shop in Sulphur Springs. Garcia and his partner opened the saddle shop more than a year ago.

"But it's hard to walk away from a paycheck," Garcia said of the years spent "just thinking about it."

"Making it" as custom saddlemakers hasn't been easy, Garcia said that at times they were so "broke" that a shared Coke was a luxury. "We could only buy one Coke and split it," Garcia recalls with a small smile. The business is growing as their reputation has spread.

"We're not getting rich. Never will," Garcia said. "But that's not what is important. Don't get me wrong; I like money and want to make money. But making something that is really good — a quality product, that is respected — is what is important to me," he said.

The designs for the saddles are the result of collaboration between saddlemaker and saddleman, Garcia said.

"I like to try new ideas, but if the customer wants something different to try their ideas, we work on it until we get something that suits the customer," he explained.

The craftsmen said that much of their knowledge comes not only from their years of building saddles, but from learning from the work of older saddlemakers whose saddles they tear down to repair or rebuild.

"I learn something new with almost every saddle we make or repair," Garcia said. "I don't think anyone can ever know everything about this business."

Suiting the customer is the primary goal of their craft. It has to suit the man and the horse.

Garcia says that the heart of a good saddle is the "tree." The ones he uses are made of carefully cured Ponderosa pine and wrapped in raw hide.

"Still, you can buy the best tree made, but there is no way to know if it will warp. If it does, it will make a sore on the horse or cause the rigging to come lose if it breaks," Garcia said.

"If the tree warps or breaks, I tell my customers to bring the saddle back. We will replace the tree," he added.

"To me, it is just as important to make a saddle that doesn't hurt some kid's $200 horse as it is some man's $10,000 cutting horse. It is also important to make saddles that are safe, whether they are used for work or just for pleasure. Then it's beautiful," the craftsman said.

Risk of cervical cancer said higher in smokers

CHICAGO (AP) — New research indicates female smokers run a higher risk than non-smoking women of developing cervical cancer or other reproductive disorders, the Journal of the American Medical Association reported recently.

Researchers say their studies show female smokers who average a pack of cigarettes a day for more than 12 years are more than 12 times more likely to develop cervical cancer than non-smokers. Women who give up smoking reduce their risks of cervical cancer, the studies showed.

"We can now add cervical cancer to the list of tobacco-caused diseases," said an accompanying editorial in the journal by Dr. Donald F. Austin of the Department of Health Services in Emeryville, Calif.

The new study focused on 74 women who were being treated for cervical cancer or for dysplasia — an abnormal change in cervical tissue that sometimes leads to malignancy — at Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta between July 1980 and January 1981.

There were 288 women who formed a healthy comparison group at the hospital's family-planning clinic, said the researchers, led by Dr. Edwin Trevathan, formerly of Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta and now at Yale Medical Center in New Haven, Conn.

Among long-time smokers, those who had smoked a pack a day for more than 12 years had a 12.7 times greater chance of cervical cancer than non-smokers, while their risk of severe dysplasia was 10.2 times higher and of mild dysplasia, 4.3 times higher.

SAVE 20% ON A GAS GRILL

...JUST WHEN YOU WILL USE IT MOST!

Here's an opportunity to buy a gas grill at a big savings... and have the whole summer ahead to enjoy it. That's a real bargain! You will make the most of our great West Texas evenings and weekends cooking outdoors. Gas grills give food that wonderful outdoor flavor without the mess of charcoal or the bother of LP tanks. And, while you are having a hot time in the backyard, your kitchen stays cool. The money you save by buying now will put a lot of hamburgers and steaks on that grill. Now's the time to move up to gas grill cooking while prices are down. Prices in this ad reflect corrections from those listed in Energas statement enclosure on gas grills.

Woman says beard caused firing

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., July 24, 1983 11-A

BUILDS NEW LIMBS — Luis Morera, director of prosthetics at the East Texas Treatment Center, poses with a few of the artificial legs he has built. Morera, 37, a native of Spain, has been at the Kilgore facility for more than 5 months.

Limb maker helps make life easier for his customers

KILGORE (AP) — The people who come to Luis Morera have been through a devastating experience. They've had an amputation or lost a limb in an accident, and it's up to him to make them a new one — one that will be functional and look good.

"It's a big responsibility," he said. "I can be very influential in a person's future because if they are uncomfortable with the leg, they won't be able to work as many hours as they could otherwise. If a person is not feeling good, it can create problems even with the people one lives with."

Morera, 37, is director of prosthetics at the East Texas Treatment Center in Kilgore, a service added to the Center three months ago. Before the center opened, people needing prostheses had to go to Dallas or Shreveport.

During the first three months of service, Morera has helped 19 amputees. Most have needed legs for below the knee.

To make a prosthesis, he first covers the person's stump with plaster, making a mold. Then he fills the mold with plaster, creating a replica of the stump. Next, he coats it with a liquid that hardens into a tough shell. That, basically, is the leg.

Before he's finished, he covers it with another liquid that, when hardened, can be carved and sanded to resemble the person's other leg.

It takes Morera four to six weeks to fill an order and costs the patient $1,400. Each must be made with precision, joining the foot at just the right angle and distributing the person's SEATTLE (AP) — A 23-year-old woman says she was fired from her job as a YMCA front desk clerk because she has a wispy black beard, but YMCA officials say her work was below standard and she quit.

"Facial hair has nothing to do with what's inside a person," Beverly Bonnell said Wednesday. "It has nothing to do with what's inside your mind, your heart or your soul."

Ms. Bonnell's work evaluation lists "excessive hair growth" as a flaw in her work performance, and supervisor Vivian Katagion said the beard was "unacceptable" to the YMCA.

Ms. Katagion also said Ms. Bonnell was not fired,

BEVERLY BONNELL ...beard dispute

but quit, and that her work was below standard.

"Basically, we're asking for good grooming," Ms. Katagion said. "But the issue here is that her work is below standard. We've been working with Bev as an individual. It's not only related to her hair."

Ms. Bonnell, who staged a protest outside the YMCA Wednesday, said she could "get 100 people who will say I do my job well." She said she was told she would be fired if she refused to shave her chin.

"This is a Christian organization and they don't understand the body God gives you," she said. "Our creator gave us the bodies we have and we should try to love them and take care of them the best we can."

She said she used to shave the beard, which began growing when she was 16, but about three months ago she stopped.

Rock may be cause of troubles

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Beware the curse of the pilfered rock, says Angie Davis, a teen-ager who filched a stone from the Petrified Forest.

"I honestly thought it wouldn't hurt to take just one tiny little rock," Miss Davis of Huntersville, N.C., wrote the National Park Service.

She explained that within hours after taking it on June 24 from the park east of Holbrook, she regretted her crime.

"Ever since we left the Petrified Forest, our Winnebago has had four flat tires," said Miss Davis. "In San Francisco, we hit a truck and busted out two windows, one just above my head."

She and 29 others on a youth tour also were delayed by a storm that knocked out power when they were at a laundromat.

"Now when anything bad happens, everyone says: 'It's Angie's rock.' I swear I think it is a curse."

She told the park service that she would be "much relieved if you will take this darn thing and throw it back in the Petrified Forest with the rest of those troublemakers."

"P.S. We just ran out of gas."

Cotton growers: save bucks and beneficials.

DIPEL® helps protect the high-yielding bottom crop from bollworms. And, because DIPEL leaves beneficials in the field, you reduce the chances of getting locked into a regular-interval spray program. Net result: your overall insecticide costs are likely to be reduced.

Since DIPEL costs less per acre than most conventional insecticides...and beneficials continue working your fields...bottom-line profits should be greater!

DIPEL is a natural, biological worm killer. One bite of treated foliage and worms stop feeding almost immediately...then die within a few days. DIPEL has not shown worm resistance build-up, won't affect boll maturity, and has not shown harmful effects on man or his environment.

DIPEL 4L is the only microbial insecticide which is registered for use with cotton seed oil. DIPEL may also be tank mixed with ovicides such as chlordimeform or methomyl if significant eggs are present at time of treatment.

Apply DIPEL when the majority of worms are less than 3/8" long, and scouting reports show light to moderate (up to 15,000 worms per acre) populations.

This is the year you need to save bucks and beneficials while controlling bollworms. DIPEL does it all!

'Glad to be home' Samantha gets red-carpet welcome after Soviet visit

MANCHESTER, Maine (AP) — As hundreds of neighbors cheered, 11-year-old Samantha Smith was congratulated by Maine's governor and accepted the honorary key to her hometown today after returning from a two-week trip to the Soviet Union.

"I think I must be dreaming," Samantha said before climbing into an open-top car for a ride as the guest of honor in the annual Old Manchester Day Parade.

Samantha, who was invited to meet the Soviets after she wrote to Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov about her fears of nuclear war, returned home Friday afternoon with her father, Arthur, and mother, Jane.

About 30 reporters had crowded around Samantha and her parents Friday as they made their way to a waiting limousine at the airport in Augusta. It was a scene that had grown familiar during the two-week tour.

"We won't miss the permanent entourage of the press," said Arthur Smith, Samantha's father. "The press was part of our baggage."

Samantha had little to say, except that it felt "terrific, absolutely," to be home.

She was chauffeured to the family's white, two-story house in rural Manchester in an antique limousine. Before entering, she paused on her doorstep to tap her heels together.

"There's no place like home," she said, imitating Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz."

Then Samantha and her parents walked through the door under a huge "Welcome Home" banner lettered in red, white and blue.

Gov. Joseph E. Brennan, whom Samantha met before her trip, honored her today in the parade in this rural central Maine town.

Samantha, who enters sixth grade in the fall, looked tired and on the verge of tears after arriving in Boston from Montreal, where she, her father and her mother, Jane, spent Thursday night on the first leg of their trip home.

She declined to answer questions, and just nodded when asked how she felt to be back.

"I don't think Samantha really wants to talk," her father told reporters at Boston's Logan International Airport.

"I'm sorry, but she needs a few days off from the crush."

Smith said he hopes his daughter's visit to the Soviet Union may somehow help ease international tensions.

"I would have hoped there'd be some positive benefit," Smith said. "There must be some reason for all this interest here and in the Soviet Union."

Four die in plane, 'copter crash

By The Associated Press
Divers dragged a wrecked seaplane from the bottom of New York City's East River today, recovering the bodies of two of four people killed when the plane collided with a police helicopter.

Meanwhile, searchers in New Jersey found the bodies of three of four people killed when a plane crashed into a marsh.

Police divers in New York today recovered the bodies of the seaplane's pilot and a passenger, who had been presumed dead since the plane and a police traffic helicopter collided at 8:45 a.m. Friday. Two other passengers were rescued from the river shortly after the accident, which occurred between Governors Island and the south Brooklyn shore, south of the tip of Manhattan.

The two officers in the helicopter died when it slammed into a vacant building after the collision.

Police tentatively identified the victims as pilot Dave Bolen, 48, of Little Ferry, N.J., and John Toolan, 50, of Rumson, N.J. The dead officers were identified as James Rowley, 39, of East Meadow, N.Y., and Charles J. Trojahn, 27, of West Babylon, N.Y.

1st test-tube baby goes to school

LONDON (AP) — Five years ago, the birth of Louise Joy Brown was hailed as a scientific miracle.

Today the world's first test-tube baby is a normal schoolgirl with pudgy cheeks and a blonde ponytail, and the technique that made her life possible is practiced around the world.

The first human ever conceived outside a mother's body, Louise was born in Oldham, England, on July 25, 1978.

For infertile couples, her arrival was a medical advance on the order of the first heart transplant. But it also raised moral and ethical questions.

While this debate continues, "in-vitro fertilization" — the scientific name for the technique — is producing babies at an increasing rate.

The British Medical Association says there have been at least 128 test-tube births worldwide since 1978.

Awards ceremony

The District III Little League all-star tournament completed play last night.

Finally, Even though the annual summer tourney is one of my favorite things to do, being at the ballpark 12 of the past 13 nights was getting a little tiring. Fortunately, the 1983 tournament was one of the best I've seen in the eight years I've covered Little League baseball.

Not many games will get better than the American-North Central showdown Friday night. Before John Dickinson of NC hit his game-winning home run with two out in the bottom of the sixth inning, pitchers Brent Hartfield (American) and Bobby Hopkins (Midland) had gone 35 2/3 innings without giving up a run.

Perhaps Seaver-Carlton in their primes, but seldom seen in Little League baseball. Definitely the winner of the "Game of the Tournament" award.

And now for other award-winners... The "Biggest Splash from the High Dive" award goes to my favorite player, Eastern's Nicky Villarreal. Short and squatty (5-5, 180 pounds), he looked like a cross between the Braves' Bob Horner and Dodger's Valenzuela. Slow as a low-rider cruising Gregg Street, he could pitch and man, he could hit.

Villarreal, teammate Charles Johnson and Hartfield share the "Bronx Bombers" award as the tourney's best hitters.

The "Fanatic Fan" award goes, hands down, to Shelane Roberts of the host American League. When she yelled for her all-stars, it sounded like the bird in the Flintstones that squawked quitting time. But she 100 per cent supportive of her team, even if the loudness needle on our radio equipment went into red every time she yelled.

For a group, you have to compliment the Midland Central and Tower fans. Thus they received the "Controlled Deterium" award. It's tough being visiting fans but they consistently cheered for their team and not against the umps or the opponents.

An example...when Tower pitcher Michael Pearson walked three batters in the bottom of the sixth inning against Big Spring National, his fans encouraged him to throw strikes and did not question the ump's calls.

After Tower finally won that game 6-5, I went to other ballpark. Mid-City was battling Lamesa in extra inning and when their pitcher walked a few, the fans blamed the ump. One pitch was letter-high but a foot outside and the "C'mon blue"-s came flying out of the stands.

As usual, the most unruly fans and players belonged to Big Spring International. Maybe one day they'll get straightened out over there and let the "Open Mouth, Insert Bar of Soap" award go to someone else.

The "Instant Replay" award goes to the best all-around ballplayer, Brent Hartfield. He was a fielding wizard a la Ozzie Smith, he was a hitter a la Carew and he was pitcher a la Steve Rogers. Someone better make sure his dad has a good job and stays around town long enough to get this guy into Big Spring High.

The "Name That Player" award, which goes to the ballplayer with the best name for announcers, was won by National's Juan Samora. When National needed runs, it was inevitable that someone would pun, "Hey, they need Sa-mora hits." I couldn't help it.

The "Player Most Likely to Succeed in Football Rather Than Baseball" award goes to American catcher Kevin Pirkle who flattened two runners trying to cross home plate. Both were clean plays but Pirkle should be the outstanding footballer his brother, Jay, is for Quinn Eudy's Steers.

The "I Hope You Manage Next Year So I Won't Go Deaf" award goes to Jerry Robinson. Not selected as an all-star manager this year, he tried to keep the official scorebook but spent more time yelling instructions out of the pressbox window.

And finally, no awards are complete without the unofficial all-tournament team. After intense voting and consultation, we, the czars of the pressbox voted to honor these players:

- First Team — 1B — John Covington (Am); 2B — Brad Roberts (Am); 3B — Curtis Hudson (Cochise); SS — Felix Reyes (East); LF — Kiley Jones (Tex); CF — Charles Johnson (East); RF — Nick Gasser (Isl); C — Greg Garrett (Tower); P's — Brent Hartfield (Am) and Bobby Hopkins (NC)
- Second Team — 1B — Dee Jeter (Cochise); 2B — Timmy Gutierrez (Nat); 3B — Juan Dominguez (East); SS — Darrel East (Am); LF — Allen Dodd (Odessa); CF — Jerry Dalk (Tower); RF — Kurt Henry (Am); C — Shawn Blount (Odessa); P's — Nicky Villarreal (East) and John Dickinson (NC)
- Utility Players — Darryl Thompson (Mid-City), Russell Ott and Cedric Mason (Lamesa), Tyrone Foster and Robert Evans (Isl), Blaine Coleman (NC) and Todd Overland (Tow)

Eastern's title anti-climatic

Down, but not out

NAILED, LITERALLY, AT THE PLATE — Midland North Central baserunner Jason Stone tried to score on a passed ball during Friday night's game with Big Spring American. Instead of giving his team a 1-0 lead, the North Central outfielder was tagged out by catcher Kevin Pirkle and had the wind knocked out of him. In the top photo, Stone is aided by home plate umpire Huck Doe. In the middle photo, Midland manager and father Terry Stone, left, American manager Alton Fields and tournament official Ken Sinclair, right, work with the injured player. Above, manager Stone and a groggy Stone head back to the dugout. Stone recovered from the collision and his team won the all-star game, 2-0.

After Friday night's North Central-American game, even the seventh game of the '68 Cardinals-Tigers Series would have been anti-climatic.

But the game had to play to determine the District III champion and DeWayne Robert's infield single in the third inning scored the one run Midland Eastern needed to blank Central 3-0 for the title.

North Central advanced into the championship when John Dickinson belted a dramatic two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the sixth inning to eliminate Big Spring American 2-0 in the best-played game of the tournament.

Eastern now meets the San Angelo district winner in a best-of-three series that starts Friday in the Concho City. Game two will be played at the American League park Saturday night.

North Central had the pitching and defense but Eastern boasted the top hitting team in the tournament. It was an infield chopper and three errors, however, that produced the Eastern runs last night.

Ray Soria singled and moved to third on Juan Dominguez's double beginning the third inning. Farris Strambler walked and the bases were loaded with two out. Roberts bounded an offering from Central pitcher John Dickinson in the hole that shortstop Kyle Greeley could only knock down and prevent more than one run from scoring.

Eastern added two more runs in the next inning as Central's defense broke down for three errors.

Eastern pitcher Nicky Villarreal had few problems, working his sweeping slow curve for nine strikeouts. Greeley got Central's first hit in the fourth inning while Blaine Coleman squibbed an infield hit in the fifth.

Villarreal's only tough inning was the fourth when Greeley got his hit and Bobby Hopkins walked with one out. He got the final two outs, however, to work out of the jam.

The North Central-American game was by far and away the dandy of the tournament. The contest pitted two pitchers — Brent Hartfield of American and Bobby Hopkins of NC — who brought in 2-0 tournament records and had fired 24 innings of scoreless baseball.

It was supposed to be a pitcher's duel and it was.

Hopkins was almost unhittable. Only Brad Roberts solved the stuff the Midland right-hander was throwing, lining a two-out single to left field in the fifth inning. That was all the hitting American could muster.

So tough was Hopkins, he fanned 10 of the first 12 men he faced. His only trouble came in the top of the sixth inning when he walked Leslie Robinson and Kurt Henry reached on an error with two out. Hartfield, his opponent, fouled out to catcher Ty Chambers for the last out.

Meanwhile, Hartfield wasn't bad either, although he had to work harder to pitch five shutout innings.

In the first, Kyle Greeley doubled with out but was left stranded. In the second Jason Stone reached on a fielder's choice and later tried to score on a passed ball. He was tagged out three feet short of the plate by American catcher Kevin Pirkle. (See "Hopkins" on page 4-B)

Tall Cotton

Chippers, from near and far, travel to 28th state tournament

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

The last time Cotton Mize painted his house was in 1970. He then took his fastpitch softball team to the state tournament and won a championship. Just last week, Mize repainted his house — the first time in 13 years. Coincidentally, Cotton's Chippers leave Thursday for the state fastpitch tournament in Brenham.

Surely Mize doesn't think his summer paint-job will bring the Big Spring-based team another first place trophy?

"Really and truly," he confesses, smiling, "we should go on to regionals and then to nationals. Man for man, no one can match to us."

For the 28th consecutive year, the Chippers will be participating in the state tournament. The team primed up for the big event with a trio of two-hour workouts this weekend. "We got more actual work done this afternoon," Mize said Saturday, "than a lot of teams get in a week."

The Chippers stand 63-18 on the season and have won straight tournaments, winning in Lamesa last weekend after taking the Lion's Club Fourth of July tourney in Big Spring.

"Percentage-wise, this is one of our best records ever. We didn't get to play as many games this year but I think we're just now peaking. We are really playing well," he said.

The team batted .366 for the season, the best-ever their manager reported. Three players hit over .400: outfielder Bobby Doe at .473, outfielder Paul Spence at .419 and pitcher Johnny Mize at .404. (See "Chipper" on page 4-B)

...recruited from Graham

White the No. 1 man Landry says

By JERRY WAGGONER
Harte-Hanks News Service

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. — Ever since the National Conference playoff loss to Washington last season, in which Gary Hogeboom subbed for the injured Danny White, the word has been passed from lip to lip that there would be a torrid race for the starting quarterback job in summer camp this season.

There is no significance in such a report. When a player under coach Tom Landry is under contract, he'd better be trying to win the starting position.

There also is nothing significant about the fact that Hogeboom, from Central Michigan, is going to become the new Cowboy leader just because he had some good moments in the 31-17 loss to the Redskins.

With media building the upcoming battle for the job, Landry, a stickler for going with his most experienced player, has said matter-of-factly that, "There's no doubt who our quarterback is. And that's Danny White."

So much for the big buildup about the celebrated head-on collision for the job.

White, who understudied behind the legendary Roger Staubach and filled his shoes well, knows the frustration Hogeboom feels.

"Gary's a lot more anxious than I was," White said. "My priorities were a little different. I was more determined to play for a championship team than win a starting position."

"Really, our situations are a little different. Of course, I played in the World Football League. Also, there was a little bit bigger gap between Roger's age and mine than my age (31) and Gary's (25). I knew I was going to get my chance at some point. But Gary and I are much closer."

Hogeboom agrees with that. "That's right. Danny's got a long, long career ahead of him. But that really doesn't matter. If he had a long or short career ahead, I'd still be working to win the job."

COWBOYS' DANNY WHITE
...secure, for now, as No. 1 quarterback

Dallas fans are fickle and demand a winner. Not just a winner but a Super Bowl champion. Last year when White went down against the Redskins with a concussion, Hogeboom did a creditable job considering his inexperience. He threw two TD passes and got the Cowboys back into the game, but also threw the interception which was converted into a touchdown and the back-breaking play.

His performance brought on the cries for Landry to give the youngster a chance at the starting spot because White had carried the Cowboys to three straight NFC championship games, but not into the Super Bowl.

The possibility isn't likely to take place. But Hogeboom, under Landry's new theory to play backup players more this year and give them experience could satisfy Hogeboom.

Jim Shofner, the new offensive coordinator for the Cowboys, states it pretty clearly.

"You always strive for competitiveness," Shofner said, "so I think it's very good Gary wants to unseat Danny. But the only way I think Gary could succeed would be for Danny to fail miserably and that's just not going to happen."

Hogeboom talks of his experience and being ready to step in. However, he never has thrown a pass in a regular season game. He was 14-29 against the 'Skins in the playoff game and he's played in some exhibitions, but not in a regular season game.

Shofner asks Hogeboom to be a little more patient. "Hoge's shown the ability in this league," Shofner said, "but you look at the experience Danny has, the ability he has and all he's done, well, that means a great deal."

"I think Hoge's got it all, but he needs to be content right now. He'll get his chance and I think he'll be a star someday. But I've always believed that to become a great NFL quarterback you have to spend time studying behind another great NFL quarterback."

White has other interests. He has an album of country and western music out and has cut two more singles which he thinks are pretty good.

"I look seven years of piano and music is just important in my life," Danny said. "It's strictly a hobby, but I hope to be good one day."

"I don't get nervous facing a full blitz, but I've never been so nervous as I was last year doing a live show in Tulsa by myself for the first time. I'm sure Kenny Rogers would shake in his boots if he had to face some of the defensive linemen of this league."

A free tennis clinic is scheduled Monday and Tuesday at the Figure 7 Tennis Center.

Center director Lenny Prudhomme and Big Spring High tennis coach Allen Holliday will give instruction in the fundamentals of tennis from 7-9 p.m., utilizing ball machines and other equipment. All ages are welcome.

Tennis July 29-Aug. 2

An "Open and Closed" tennis tournament is scheduled July 29-Aug. 2 at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

The singles draws are limited to 16 players with doubles limited to the first eight teams to enter. Entry fee is $6 per event for members and $7 for non-members.

Tournament events are singles, doubles and a special triples event and open for pre-juniors (grades 0-7), juniors grades 8-10, closed adults and open adults. The open division is for players not having won a tournament in the past five years.

All matches will have a one hour time limit and participants are guaranteed two matches. There is no limit to the number of events a player may enter.

Awards will go to the top three finishers and consolation winners in each singles division and top two doubles teams.

Entry deadline for singles is Thursday, doubles Saturday and special events Aug. 1. Forms are available at the tennis center. Call the center at 267-7777 or Allen Holliday at 263-2060 for more information.

13-year-olds win tourney

SAN ANGELO — Jay Fryar tossed the complete-game win and four batters had two hits each as the Big Spring 13-year-old all-stars downed San Angelo West here Friday night.

The win gives the local team the District IV championship. Big Spring plays next in sectional competition beginning Monday night in Abilene.

Brant Nichols, Matt Burrow, Matt Garrett and Aaron Allen had two hits each as Big Spring evened the score with West. The San Angelo team won earlier in the week 10-9 after Big Spring had chalked up a win in its tournament opener.

Ozona tops Big Spring, 3-2

OZONA — Ozona scored all three of its runs in the fifth inning and clipped the Big Spring Senior all-stars 3-2 here Friday night.

David Gonzales delivered the key hit, singling with the bases loaded to tie the game. The runner at third base was picked off by pitcher Felix Olivas but Gonzales scored on an error to lift his team to the win in the championship game of the District IV tournament.

Both teams banged out five hits in the game. Big Spring had advanced into the title game by outscoring San Angelo West 10-5 earlier in the week.

Casper's lead at 3 over trio

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — Billy Casper emerged with a three-stroke lead despite shooting a 2-over-par 73 Saturday in the third round of the $175,000 fourth U.S. Senior Open Championship.

The weather and the scores both cooled down during the windy third round at Hazeltine National Golf Club.

Seniors

Casper, who opened the day one stroke off the lead at even-par and in a four-way tie for second place, finished the round with a three-day total of 215, 2 over par for the 6,625-yard course.

Roberto DeVicenzo, Jerry Barber and Rod Funseth all finished at 5-over-par 218, three strokes off the lead entering Sunday's final round.

DeVicenzo, the Argentinian who had entered the third round with a one-stroke lead, shot a 77 Saturday.

Barber carded a 73 and Funseth had a 74 for the day.

Winds gusting to 28 mph and sun-baked greens replaced heat and humidity as the major problems and contributed to the high scores.

The hottest shot of the tournament was a hole-in-one by Dean Lind of Sacramento, Calif. Lind, who used a six-iron on the par-3, 150-yard eighth hole, still wound up with 22-over-par 235 going into the final round.

Webb takes Colorado Open lead

EVERGREEN, Colo. (AP) — Flamboyant Larry Webb fired a 4-under-par 66 Saturday to move within five shots of leader Jim Blair as the second round of the rain-delayed Colorado Open golf championship was completed at Hiwan Golf Club.

Blair had posted a course-record 64 on Friday before heavy rain, lightning and hail forced a suspension of play with about half the field still on the course. Those players, including Webb, completed their second rounds Saturday. A 36-hole windup is scheduled for Sunday.

Thomsen shot ahead in Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jeff Thomsen became more aggressive after a couple of early bogies, shot a four-under par 66 and took the third round lead Saturday in the $200,000 Greater Baltimore Open.

Thomsen, who had 206 after three rounds, led by one stroke over Russ Cochran, a former winner in the Tournament Players Series who also had a 66, and Frank Conner, the leader at the halfway mark who fired a 69.

Veteran George Archer, a former winner of the Masters, stood alone at 208 after turning in a 65 that included an eagle, with Joey Sindelar, Terry Snodgrass and Bob Tway tied at 209.

Sutton 6 shots on top

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (A) — Hal Sutton chipped in for an eagle on his way to a 2-under-par 69 and retained a six-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $350,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Sutton, golf's Rookie of the Year last season and currently leading the PGA Tour in money-winnings, completed three rounds over the 6,746-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course in 201, 12 strokes under par.

With 18 holes to go in the chase for a $63,000 first prize, his leading margin matched the largest three-round lead of the season. His six-stroke advantage after two rounds also was the high for the year.

That big margin was cut to four shots at the turn, but Sutton birdied the 10th and 12th holes, then chipped in for the eagle on the 15th and pulled away again.

Defending champion Calvin Peete declined to concede, however.

"I never really count myself out until it's over," said Peete, who one-putted 10 times in a round of 66 that lifted him into a tie for second at 207 with Payne Stewart. "Too many things can happen in 18 holes of golf," Peete said, and pointed out he was seven shots behind going into the last round of the Atlanta Classic, which he won earlier this season.

Busch Classic

Stewart also shot a 66 in the hot, sunny weather to gain his share of the No. 2 spot.

Phil Hancock and Scott Simpson were next at 208, seven strokes off the pace. Hancock had a 68 and Simpson 70.

Leonard Thompson and Tim Norris, each of whom shot 68, were at 209.

Lanny Wadkins, a Virginia native, rewarded a big gallery of "old friends, a lot of people I used to play golf with," with a course-record, 8-under-par 63 that lifted him into a group at 210.

Wadkins, second to Sutton on the money-winning list, played the back nine in 29, scored an eagle and seven birdies, one-putted for a bogey and used only 24 strokes on the greens.

Birdies fly Permezel to top

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Australian Karen Permezel had seven birdies Saturday while shooting a 5-under-par 67 to take the lead after three rounds of the $200,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Mayflower Classic.

Permezel, currently 109th on the tour's money list, had a 9-under-par 207 for 54 holes to lead Donna Caponi and Lauren Howe by two strokes heading into Sunday's final round.

Howe, who shared the lead after the opening round and was alone at the top after 36 holes, fell from the top with four consecutive bogeys on the back nine. After two consecutive rounds of 67, the 24-year-old finished with a 76.

"I was consistent today, except for my putting," said Howe, who needed three putts on three consecutive bogey holes.

After three days of temperatures as high as 99, only seven women were under par on the 6,101-yard par 72 Country Club of Indianapolis course.

Jo Ann Washam, who shared the lead after the first day, was alone in fourth at 211, followed by Martha Nause, Vicki Tabor and Judy Clark at 215.

Permezel, a former Australian Amateur champion who qualified for the tour a year ago after leading the women's mini-tour, hasn't finished higher than a tie for 22nd this year.

The 25-year-old from Yackandandah — a community of about 1,000 located 200 miles northeast of Melbourne — moved into the lead by leaving a bunker shot about two feet from the cup and then making the birdie putt on the 426-yard, par 5, 16th hole.

Mayflower Classic

Permezel, who has missed the cut seven times this year and earned only $4,833 in 17 previous starts, then finished by making a 6-foot birdie putt on 18.

Howe, who qualified for the tour at 18 in 1978 and lost her LPGA card after only earning $1,965 in 24 events, had started the third round at 10-under and had two bogeys and seven pars on the front side.

"The longest putt I made on the front was two feet," said Howe, who had her first birdie of the day with a 12-foot putt on the 403-yard, par 4, 10th hole.

She bogeyed the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, but came back to post a birdie on the 17th.

COLLISION AT THE PLATE — Toronto Blue Jay Ernie Whitt bangs into Texas Ranger pitcher Charlie Hough in the ninth inning of Friday night's game in Arlington Stadium. Whitt tried to score from third on a wild pitch but Hough applied the tag for the out. The game went into extra innings before the Jays won 10-5 in the 11th inning.

Clancy stifles Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Ernie Whitt doubled home two runs and Jim Clancy scattered nine hits as the Toronto Blue Jays beat Texas 3-2 Saturday night and handed the skidding Rangers their 14th loss in 18 games.

Clancy, 10-6, struck out seven, walked two and allowed only one extra-base hit. He is 3-0 against Texas this year.

The Blue Jays reached Danny Darwin, 7-10, for all three runs in the fourth to wipe out a 2-0 Texas lead. Jorge Orta doubled in one run and Whitt followed with his double to score two more.

Texas had taken a 1-0 lead in the first when Billy Sample singled, took third on Pete O'Brien's single and scored on Buddy Bell's sacrifice fly.

The Rangers made it 2-0 in the third when O'Brien walked, went to second on a single by Bell, moved to third on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by George Wright.

Darwin has started four times against the Blue Jays this year and has lost all four games. A bat-night crowd of 43,709 set an attendance record at Arlington Stadium.

Twins 5, Indians 2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bobby Mitchell's two-run single snapped a seventh-inning tie and Al Williams and Ron Davis combined on a four-hitter to spark Minnesota to a 5-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday night, snapping the Twins' eight-game losing streak.

Yankees 5, Royals 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Guidry pitched a five-hitter and Steve Kemp went four-for-four to pace the New York Yankees to a 5-1 triumph over the Kansas City Royals Saturday night.

Guidry, 12-5, joined Texas' Rick Honeycutt and Cleveland's Rick Sutcliffe as the top winners in the American League.

American League

Orioles 7, A's 3

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Solo home runs by Eddie Murray and Cal Ripken Jr. and Jim Dwyer's two-run double backed Storm Davis' seven-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles snapped Oakland's three-game winning streak with a 7-3 victory Saturday.

Murray's 19th homer, a 400-foot leadoff shot to left-center field off Tim Conroy, 2-4, in the second inning, gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead. The A's tied it in the bottom of the inning when Dave Lopes singled and came around on Carney Lansford's single, Davis' wild pickoff throw and Bill Almon's grounder.

Conroy gave the Orioles the lead for good in the third inning when Rick Dempsey, who had doubled, went to third on a balk and scored on a wild pitch. Ripken stretched his hitting streak to 11 games when he hit his 16th homer leading off the sixth inning.

The Orioles added three runs in the eighth, two on the double by Dwyer, and Ripken added an RBI single in the ninth before Almon stroked an RBI single and Mike Heath a run-scoring double in the ninth. Davis, 9-4, struck out four and walked two as he won for the sixth time in his last seven decisions.

Brewers 8, White Sox 7

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ben Oglivie belted a three-run homer and hot-hitting Cecil Cooper lined a two-run single, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to an 8-7 victory Saturday night over the Chicago White Sox.

Bob McClure, 7-7 with his sixth successive victory, and two relievers combined to scatter 11 hits for the Brewers, who have won 11 of their last 13 games, and 21 of 27. Pete Ladd finished up for his ninth save.

The Brewers jumped to a 3-0 first-inning lead on Oglivie's ninth homer following singles by Paul Molitor and Cooper. The White Sox got a run back in the second on a homer by Ron Kittle, his 22nd.

Another single by Molitor, a fielder's-choice grounder by Jim Gantner, a double by Ted Simmons and Cooper's two-run single made it 5-1 in the Brewers' third. Cooper has 19 RBI in his last 13 games and leads the majors with 75 for the season.

National League

Padres 4, Cubs 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Terry Kennedy's home run and Luis Salazar's two-run triple led Eric Show on the San Diego Padres to a 4-2 victory Saturday over the Chicago Cubs.

Kennedy triggered a two-out, two-run burst against Dickie Noles, 3-6, in the fourth inning with his seventh homer of the season. Sixto Lezcano then walked and scored on a double by Garry Templeton.

Noles also was nailed for a pair of two-out runs in the seventh when Juan Bonilla walked, Show beat out an infield roller and Salazar tripled into the ivy in right-center field.

Show, 10-6, gave up four hits before being removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning.

Reds 7, Mets 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion and Gary Redus drove in two runs apiece Saturday night to spark the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Eddie Milner had four of Cincinnati's 10 hits, scored three runs and drove in one to help Bruce Berenyi, 5-10, pick up his first victory since June 9.

Berenyi struck out seven and walked five in 5 2-3 innings. One of the walks, to Tucker Ashford, came with the bases loaded in the fourth inning for the Mets' first run.

Tom Gorman, 0-4, was the losing pitcher.

Dodgers 10, Cardinals 5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Landreux hit a grand-slam home run and Steve Yeager added a two-run single in a seven-run eighth inning that powered the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 10-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday night.

Landreux hit his first career grand slam off reliever Gene Sutter, who walked in a run after replacing rookie Dave Rucker.

Alejandro Pena, the Dodgers' starting pitcher, hit his first major-league home run in the seventh inning. The Dodger pitcher allowed just three hits in seven innings. Steve Howe, 4-5, was the winner in relief.

Braves 6, Phillies 5

ATLANTA (AP) — Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt committed a pivotal throwing error in the ninth inning and Al Holland later walked Bob Watson with the bases loaded, giving the Atlanta Braves a 6-5 victory Saturday over the Phillies.

Schmidt drove in four runs, three with his second homer of the game and 21st of the season, a seventh-inning blast that pulled the Phils into a 5-5 tie.

Dawley is Astros' 'Superman'

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros relief pitcher Bill Dawley looks like actor Christopher Reeve, throws a fastball like Superman and pinches himself regularly to be certain it's not all just a dream.

Dawley started this season in the minor leagues and three months later earned a position on the National League All-Star roster, becoming only the third player in major league history to do so.

After spending seven long seasons in the Cincinnati Reds farm system eating cheap hamburgers and riding hot buses, it's all a bit dream-like and Dawley is still sorting out his feelings.

"I'd been waiting for so many years for that call (to go to the majors) that I couldn't believe it when it finally came," Dawley said.

But when Dawley's career finally started moving, it moved faster than a speeding bullet.

The Reds traded Dawley prior to the start of this season to the Astros, who sent him to their Class AAA affiliate at Tucson, Ariz.

When the Astros got off to a disastrous 0-9 start and the bull pen was in shambles, Manager Bob Lillis summoned Dawley on April 15.

Dawley arrived at the Astrodome later the same day and appeared in his first major league game. He got his first victory against the Montreal Expos.

Dawley went on to post a 5-2 record with seven saves going into the All-Star break, a dizzying height compared with where he started the season.

Dawley bears a striking resemblance to Reeve, who plays the part of Superman ("People are always telling me that."), and his fastball also has some super qualities.

Dawley realizes he's no longer an unknown factor. "Now they know me and I know them," he said. "What I hope to do the rest of the season is get eight or 10 more saves and help the team in every way possible."

Looking back on his struggles in the minor leagues, Dawley credits his wife for getting him out of the doldrums after the 1980 season and he thanks the Reds for trading him in 1983.

"I never really considered quitting but I did get kind of down in 1980," Dawley said. "I had been pitching in triple-A and not doing too well and they sent me to double A."

"I was starting to wonder if there was any justice in the game of baseball. But my wife talked to me. She said I had put five years into this game and I shouldn't call in quits on the basis of one day."

Dawley survived that low point but had to endure another indignity, he said, when the Reds didn't give him a chance last season while the team was on its worst losing streak.

"I didn't know what to expect when they traded me to the Astros but I knew it couldn't be any worse than Cincinnati," Dawley said. "They never were really honest with me. They just told me what they thought I wanted to hear."

"I will say that from Day One the Astros have been honest."

KERRY LINTZ ...airman huris for Chips

Chipper bats hit for record average

Other Chippers that saw action regularly are shortstop Tommy Rodriguez (.262), outfielder Ricky Myers (.391), second baseman Mike Ritchey (.349), outfielder-first baseman Phillip Ritchey (.357) and outfielder James Walker (.288).

Also third baseman Kenny Fowler (.346), catcher David Altom (.338), pitcher Danny Guinn of Graham (.300) and utility player Paul Miller of Odessa (.125).

The Chips have picked up several ballplayers from around the state including pitcher Kerry Lintz from Kelly AFB in San Antonio, shortstop Charles Lacy from Odessa, pitcher Norman Weatherford of San Angelo and utilityman Gary Martin of Corpus Christi. "Everybody in the state wants to play on this team," Mize explained his widespread lineup. "I could get 900 players tomorrow if I had to."

Also playing on the 17-man team will be catcher Roy New of Big Spring.

The ace of the pitching staff are Mize, Guinn and Lintz. Mize has a 17-3 record for the year. The team dropped starting pitcher Larry Smith recently because of a personality conflict.

"We take things seriously...perhaps too seriously," Mize said. "But I like to win. If we play and don't win, I don't have fun. If I don't have fun, I don't want to play. If you don't work hard, you may as well find another team."

Joining the Chips in Brenham will be Big 3 from Coahoma and a split team of Lamesa and Levelland players. The Chippers finished fifth in the state tournament last year.

The top two teams advance to the regional open tournament while the third and fourth place squads go to the regional Class A tournament. Winners there advance to their respective national tournaments.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY 7-24-83
GENERAL TENDENCIES: After some delays in the very early morning, this full MOON day and evening has every sort of opportunity for you. Take advantage of this great day.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have been concentrating on new outlets for the past two days and now you can take the initial steps.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are inspired anew how best to make progress and should make plans toward such ends. Take advantage of good aspects.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to a better understanding with your mate and know what is most desired at this time and be happier together.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A partner will tell you how it will be possible to have a more profitable relationship in the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) You have received a big favor and can now show your gratitude in some charming and impressive fashion.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) You have a fascinating new idea of a creative nature and can later study the details thereof so that it can work.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) You can view a family affair very clearly and will know just what has to be done in order to make home life more successful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) Morning is fine for getting your ideas organized in your mind, and let the afternoon be happy in the company of kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on new ideas in the morning that can bring you a greater abundance in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine ideas for advancing in your personal life but live to be more practical in order to gain your aims.

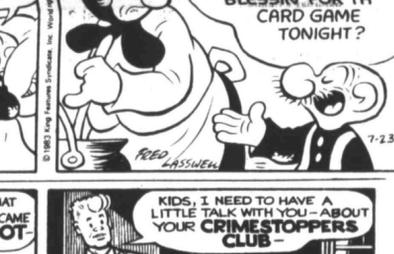

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure of what you ambitions are and then take steps in such directions. You know some very interesting personalities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Personal desires much delay must come first now and then handle those tasks ahead of you in a unique fashion.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early understand how to achieve benefits by applying one's self in an accepted manner, and thereby learn the habit of work, and can make a good deal of money early in life, if properly trained. Teach good health habits.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Walls rejects new Dallas offer

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Holdout cornerback Everson Walls has hauled the Dallas Cowboys' latest offer back into their faces, but club vice president Gil Brandt still is optimistic something else can be worked out.

"I'm not going to sign a five-year contract and that is final," Walls said in Dallas. "I'm retired. Nothing has changed."

Brandt said Saturday that he would continue to try to find a meeting ground with Walls and agent Steve Weinberg.

"Our past history is to get players signed and into training camp," Brandt said. "By being stubborn we penalize the coaches, fans and administrators."

"If there is a way we can still do it (get Walls to camp). Maybe Weinberg will have an alternate plan acceptable to both sides."

The Cowboys had offered their holdout All-Pro a renegotiated contract for five years at $1.2 million.

Brandt offered some incentives to be paid in 1987 including $6,000 a year for making All-National Conference, $10,000 a year for All-NFL, and $16,000 per year for making Defensive Player of the Year.

The bonus would be paid in addition to the $100,000 signing bonus to be paid in 1987.

Brandt also said the offer was protection for Walls in case contract negotiations break down after four years.

Walls wants a three-year contract at $900,000.

Weinberg encouraged Walls to accept the offer, but Walls said, "I'm still a private citizen. I may go into public relations."

Walls has been contacted by teammates Billy Joe DuPree, Drew Pearson, Robert Newhouse, Butch Johnson and Ed Jones trying to get him into camp.

USFL title game gets low rating

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's telecast of the United States Football League championship last Sunday had a rating of 11.9 and a 23 percent share of the television audience, placing it 27th on the list of last week's prime-time shows, according to this week's Nielsen ratings.

ABC's research department estimates that 36 million people were tuned into the game at one time or another during the four hours it was telecast.

The rating is the second highest for the USFL, eclipsed only by the 14.2 on the opening week of the season. The championship, however, was played in prime time; the opening week games were on Sunday afternoon.

One of the shows the USFL game was up against, "Trapper John, M.D." on CBS between 10-11 p.m. EDT, had the highest rating of the week, a 23.2. Another, NBC's "Voyagers," from 8-9 p.m. EDT, had the lowest, a 5.8.

The only other prime time USFL telecast, on a Friday night, had a 4.8 rating, the second lowest of all prime-time shows during the year.

Giants' Taylor wants big bucks

By The Associated Press

Lawrence Taylor thinks he deserves to earn as much as other National Football League linebackers. The New York Giants think he should honor the contract he signed two years ago.

Taylor, the two-time NFL Defensive Player of the Year, wants the Giants to renegotiate the five-year pact he signed after the Giants selected him second overall in the 1981 draft. He will earn approximately $120,000 this year.

So he failed to report to the Giants' training camp with other veterans Friday and said his holdout was "something I've got to do," when reached by telephone at Chapel Hill, N.C., where he went to college.

"I haven't talked to (General Manager) George Young or the coach," said Taylor. "This is just something I've got to do."

"There are guys making $300,000,

$400,000 and they haven't done what I've done. I'm looking at the (John) Elways, the Herschel Walkers, at Cris Collinsworth, Anthony Carter, Kelvin Bryant, (Tom) Cousineau. I'm at the top of my sport and I'm not being paid accordingly."

"I'm prepared to sit out the year."

"Here's the deal. Lawrence Taylor failed to report. He has a valid NFL contract. He will be disciplined within the framework of the Giants' fine schedule," said Bill Parcells, the Giants' head coach. "I have no further comment nor will anyone else in the organization."

Also threatening to sit out the season is Dallas Cowboys cornerback Everson Walls, another All-Pro. He received another contract offer from the Cowboys on Friday worth $1.2 million for five years.

Among other veterans who did not report to their respective training camps were wide receiver

Harold Carmichael of Philadelphia, tackle Anthony Munoz and fullback Pete Johnson of Cincinnati, offensive linemen R. C. Thielmann and Mike Kenn of Atlanta, tackle Shelby Jordan of New England, tight end David Hill of Detroit and wide receiver Roger Carr of Seattle. They're all seeking contract renegotiations.

Munoz and Johnson are being fined $1,000 a day by the Bengals.

Veterans who signed contracts Friday included linebacker Terry Tautolo with Detroit, New Orleans linebacker Rob Nairne; Philadelphia center Guy Morriss and San Francisco linebacker Mill McColl.

Morriss has been the starting center in 135 of the Eagles' last 142 games. Lynn Stiles, the Eagles' executive director of player personnel, said the team's offer would make Morriss the highest-paid center in the NFL.

Court ruling keeps Raiders in LA

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Oakland's city council will meet Monday to decide whether to appeal a judge's decision blocking the city's attempt to seize the National Football League's Los Angeles Raiders.

"If it were my decision, I would appeal," Mayor Lionel Wilson said after learning of Friday's decision by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Nat Agliano.

The decision prevents the city from using the power of eminent domain, and Wilson contended it "does not conform to the (state) Supreme Court's decision."

He said the judge allowed irrelevant evidence to be introduced and that much of the evidence he used to reach his decision had already been decided in Oakland's favor by the state's top court.

Wilson, who along with others in the case refused to say how much was spent on legal costs, said the appeal question would be decided in a closed session Monday.

Moving the team a step closer to making Los Angeles its permanent home, the decision by Agliano said Oakland does not have the right to claim the team under the law cities use to claim private property for public use.

His ruling invalidated a Superior Court ruling and preliminary injunction that would have forced the team to play in Oakland next season.

Among other things, the judge said seizing the team might scare other businesses thinking they could also be seized.

Raiders' attorney Joseph Alioto said the decision upheld "the American dream and free enterprise."

The team, which played out of Oakland since 1963, was moved to Los Angeles by owner Al Davis in time to play last season. Davis and Oakland couldn't agree on improvements for the 54,000-seat stadium, including additional seating. The Los Angeles Coliseum has 90,000 seats.

Meanwhile, lawyers say a decision may be forthcoming within 30 days on the NFL appeal of a U.S.

District Court jury decision that could be the final hurdle for the Raiders.

The jury decided an NFL rule controlling movement of franchises violated antitrust law.

The NFL also appealed the $16.4 million in damages the jury awarded to the Raiders and Los Angeles Coliseum Commission, which filed the suit. The award was tripled to $49.2 million in accordance with antitrust law.

RACCOON IN A BUCKET — This little character is Twinkie the raccoon. Twinkie is only one of Sandra Rogers' many pets. The raccoon received his name because he likes to eat twinkies.

THE THREE BEARS — Sandra Rogers plays with three of her chows, which she fondly refers to as the bears. Ms. Rogers enjoys animals. She has given each of her forty pet dogs its own name. Ms. Rogers' favorite dog is the chow.

Sandra Rogers opens her heart and home to animals, big and small

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

Sandra Rogers' backyard looks like a miniature zoo. It's a home for her pets — 40 dogs, about 100 birds, a ringtail cat, a raccoon and two armadillos.

"I've always been interested in animals," she said. "I grew up right in the middle of town in San Antonio, but I wish I could have grown up on a farm."

Ms. Rogers introduced to animals at 8 years old. I raised rabbits, pigeons and parakeets in my backyard. I always had dogs," she said.

In addition to raising pets, she also owns a kennel, hatchery and a taxidermy shop.

Ms. Rogers has seven kinds of dogs — chows, poodles, beagles, silky terriers, bloodhounds, chihuahuas and pomeranians. "I had pigs, sheep, horses and peacocks but I got rid of them to make room for the dogs," she said. "Everyone of the dogs have a name out here and they know their names."

WITH SOME MANY PETS, it would seem they don't get enough attention. Not so. Each dog receives special attention from its master.

"The main thing is to keep up with immunization shots," she said. "Next, worm them regularly. Worms can be so bad."

A worm disease, parvo is even worse than rabies, she said. "It is the number one killer of dogs in this area." Four types of worms can infest a dog, two of which can kill it, especially if the dog is a puppy.

Ms. Rogers keeps a file on her dogs which she checks every three or four weeks and writes dates for shots on the calendar.

"Next, dip them regularly, especially at this time of the year," she said. Their diet and treatment are also

By the time my grand kids are grown there probably won't be any rabbits, bobcats or foxes left.

important. "They demand attention. They are just like people. They need attention just as much as they need food and water."

Having a pet is a commitment, she says. "You've got to feed and water it everyday even if it's snowing or 100 degrees outside."

When choosing a pet, "don't buy a puppy and make a fuss over it for a week," she said. "A person has got to make up his mind that it's an everyday commitment."

"If I see (a buyer is) going to mistreat the dog I won't sell it to them. I can't stand to see animals mistreated," she said.

"A lot of people think you have to beat a dog to get him to mind, but you don't," she said. "That's the reason some dogs turn on their master."

"ANY DOG CAN TELL more about a person than people," she said. "A dog knows if a person is going to be good to it. If it turns it has its reasons."

Ms. Rogers likes all kinds of animals, but says her favorite dog is the chow.

She enjoys working with animals. "I never get away from here, but I don't ever want to be away," Ms. Rogers said. "If I had the money and the space I would probably have three zoos."

She feeds the animals early in the morning or evening. "In the afternoon, everything sleeps," she said. "They are smart enough to come in out of the sun."

She leaves water out for wild birds and rabbits that come into her yard. "Something nearly extinct or real rare I want to try to raise as many as possible," she said. "I've had badgers, foxes and coons. They can really tear up a person, but I've never been hurt."

"I'd love to have a bobcat," she said.

When she isn't out in her "zoo," Ms. Rogers is in her taxidermy shop. "The fur companies pay $7 for a ringtail cat hide, and $1 for a little coon hide," she said. "Can you believe that is all they are worth? Pretty soon there won't be any (animals) left," she said.

"That's why I got in the taxidermy business. However, I won't kill anything to mount it."

"By the time my grand kids are grown there probably won't be any rabbits, bobcats or foxes left," she said. "This way they can see what they were. What I figure is it is so pretty that rather than bury it, it's better to preserve it," she said. "That way, it will last for years and years. It will benefit my grandchildren and their grandchildren."

"I'VE ALWAYS BEEN interested in taxidermy," she said. "I've done this full-time for a year and a half, now. If not for a customer, for myself."

A taxidermist may spend a day preparing an armadillo, she said. "It's not hard but time consuming. But I like it because I can save everything that dies. It's a way to preserve nature." She has preserved ducks, fishes, possums, skunks, birds, elks and centipedes. She preserved centipedes so her grandchildren learn what they are and leave them alone.

Children, older adults bridge generation gap

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

Westside Community Day Care Center and United Health Care (UHC) are closing the generation gap with their adopt-a-grandparent program.

The program began June 7 with 17 Westside Day Care Center children visiting the home each Tuesday. They are accompanied by Maria Della Rocca.

The voluntary program allows interaction between children and senior citizens. "It's the best thing to happen for these patients," says Terry McNutt, UHC administrator. "The residents need more contact with children for reality orientation. They react much quicker to children than they can to the employees."

"I hope we can get more children to participate later on," he said. "I like the one-to-one contact the residents are getting. This is the only contact some of them get besides the employees. Most of them don't have any family. These people need outside relationships and most don't have it."

TWO PARTICIPANTS IN the program are Trochelle Baker, 5, and her adopted grandparent, Udell Fountain, 72. "We like to play with balloons and I like to take her gifts," Mrs. Fountain said. "I think they (the children) are wonderful. We need them."

"A friend picked her out for me and we get along wonderful. I love her and I think she has a lovely personality," Mrs. Fountain said. "She painted me a picture and I have it on the wall and that's important to me because I'm an artist."

Trochelle enjoys playing with her adopted grandmother and looks forward to visiting her. However, Tuesday was a sad day for another youngster, Lewis Bustamante, 8. He was worried about his adopted grandfather, George White, who had been in the hospital for a week. Ms. Grant said Lewis was upset last Tuesday and called two days to see how his adopted grandfather was. He spoke to White once on the phone.

Annie O'Keefe, 99, oldest in the program, said "I think they are beautiful children." She was put into the program because her daughter died recently and the program relieves her loneliness, Ms. Grant said. Her adopted grandchild is Dora Arnornelas, 9.

Another pair in the program are Alfonso Rivas, 74, and Steven Arnornelas, 6. "I like kids a lot and like to play with them," Rivas said. He liked Steven the first time he saw him.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD GRANT Stockford said, "I like to play with the ball when I visit. I like to visit my special grandparent and to help serve coffee." Grant is Linda Davidson's adopted grandchild.

Ms. Davidson, 38, said "I think they are cute, and I think he is a nice person." Grant fixes pictures for her. "The kids are at ease in the residents' rooms," Ms.

I like the one-to-one contact the residents are getting. This is the only contact some of them get besides the employees.

Grant said. "They all know their grandparents by name, and can pick them out of a group. They know who they belong to."

This month the children will attend the monthly birthday party for residents at UHC. Last month, the monthly party was held in lieu of the children's visit. Both the children and residents were upset so administrators decided to include them in the festivities.

Directors of the adopt-a-grandparent program plan to continue the program during the school year with the day care center. However, they wish the elementary schools would be part of the program as well. Plans for a junior volunteer program are underway. The Retired Senior Volunteer Program also helps with UHC activities.

LOVING HUG — Elizabeth Sells, 8, tells Adelle McCall, 75, about her daily activities. Elizabeth visits Mrs. McCall every Tuesday at the United Health Care.

They are both participants in the Adopt-A-Grandparent program sponsored by United Health Care and the Westside Community Day Care Center.

24 JULY 24

TAKING A TRIP — Tammy Marshall, (left to right) Ruth Oliver, Trisha Murley and Barbara Smallwood are on a trip sponsored by the West Texas Girl Scout Council. They left Saturday and will return July 31. The girls will see "Texas", visit museums in Lubbock and Amarillo and will go horseback riding in Ruidosa, N.M. They also will visit a missile site near Albuquerque, N.M., the Sante Fe Opera in Sante Fe, N.M., and the caverns in Carlsbad, N.M. The girls are part of a group of 15 girl scouts to go on the trip from this district. Three adults will accompany them.

Family holds two-day reunion

The Digby-Harper family held a two-day reunion, June 23-24 at Kentwood Center. About 140 attended. Lillie Digby, 90, was the oldest member attending. She and her husband, the late Ed Digby, settled in Howard County in 1914 and raised six children.

The Digby's children are Mr. and Mrs. W.W. (Raynell) Patterson of Goshen, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. R.L. (Irene) Myrick;

Mr. and Mrs. O.T. (Nollie) Teague, all of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Frank (Ollie) Stallcup of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott (Mary Lou) Digby of Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie (Carlene) Digby of Kingsville.

Since the reunion was held during Father's Day weekend, awards were presented to Jim Harper, the oldest father, and to Scott Stanton, the youngest father present.

Inus Bradley and Lillie Digby were presented corsages.

In order to finance the next reunion to be held the weekend of June 16, 1984, each member brought items for a family bazaar and baked goods for a sweet shoppe.

Handicrafts and canned goods sold at the bazaar at 2 p.m. What wasn't sold was auctioned off at 8 p.m. A jungle walk also was held.

A talent contest was held with Mendy Stanton winning 1st place for her singing. Jennifer Stanton took 2nd for singing and 3rd place went to Mindy Robertson for tap dancing and singing.

The group held a Sunday Service. Following the service a luncheon and business meeting was held. New officers elected were Raynell and Woodie Patterson and their children.

Gavel Club admits Jean McKendree

LaVera Mitchell initiated Mrs. Jean McKendree to the Past Matron's Gavel Club of Laura B. Hart No. 1019, Order of the Eastern Star meeting, July 14.

Mrs. McKendree was the junior past matron. The meeting was held at La Posada Restaurant. Mrs.

Mitchell initiated Mrs. McKendree with the following poem.

Since you've been a phone repair person you will find

That being a past matron is an easy task

Because we never make repairs of any kind,

Unless, of course, we're asked. We don't disturb the circuits when problems seem to arise;

We wait until we are called, to offer our advise.

We're here strictly for friendship and to help along the way,

Our love for our order and each other is really here to stay.

So welcome to our honored ranks — we're glad that we're all pasts.

And also glad to welcome you into our midst at last.

The club's next meeting will be held Aug. 11 at a place to be announced later. Carol Huff will host the meeting.

Fannie Kent host the Rook Club

Mrs. Fannie Kent entertained the Rook Club in her home, July 15. She celebrated her birthday by playing Rook with the members.

Mrs. Lois Singleton and Roberta Gay were the visiting players. Tylia Lomax and Mrs. Kent tied for high score.

The Rook Club's next meeting will be held in the home of Tylia Lomax, 1306 Runnels, Aug. 19.

The first annual dog show in America was held in 1877 at Gilmore's Garden in New York, sponsored by the Westminster Kennel Club.

On Turning Heads

Some women mistakenly use cheek color to the point where they look like kewpie dolls. The objective is to highlight cheekbones. This means that blush should be applied to the area beneath the prominent cheek bone, not on it. Just as artists highlight prominent areas of their work with light, so too, must the cheekbones be highlighted by applying contrasting blush coloring beneath them. If you have trouble finding the right area to apply your blush, go outside for some exercise. When you come back, look at your cheeks to see where nature puts the blush. You have only to follow, accentuate and slightly darken this area for the correct effect.

There are many different methods and techniques for applying makeup properly. The important consideration is learning to select and apply the makeup so it best flatters you personally. The same is true of your hair style. It should be one that is flattering to your looks and yet easy to maintain between visits. Let the professionals at LA CONTESSA suggest a hair style that is just right for you. You will find us located at 1508 Marcy. We are open Tues.-Sat. Tel. 267-2127.

It's the mosquito time of year

COLLEGE STATION — With Texas' heavy spring and summer rains, homeowners need to be on guard against a "bumper crop" of mosquitos and the health hazards they bring.

Encephalitis is spread by the bite of an infected mosquito, which receives the infection by first biting an infected animal, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Texas offers an ideal environment for encephalitis because of its large bird populations which can become infected with the virus and carry it great distances, she adds.

So far this year, the Texas Department of Health has reported no human cases of mosquito-borne encephalitis. But last year in Texas, 18 cases of St. Louis encephalitis in humans were reported.

In addition, infection from scratching mosquito bites and allergic reactions causing redness, swelling, and itching are other possible health hazards.

While many areas have mosquito control districts or local health programs for reducing mosquito populations, homeowners should still take measures to prevent infestations, declares Shirer.

Homeowners should keep doors and window screens in good repair and make sure they fit tightly to keep mosquitos outside. A commercial spray can eliminate mosquitos which get indoors.

The best practice, however, is to eliminate standing water, since mosquitos must have water in which to hatch their eggs. Shirer recommends periodic cleaning of roof gutters and all water holding containers such as bird baths, flower containers and pet's watering dishes.

Fowler-Gee

Andrea Starr Fowler became Mrs. Gary Gee during a Saturday afternoon ceremony at Midway Baptist Church. Dr. Rick Davis, pastor, performed the 5 p.m. rite before a brass archway entwined with greenery and pink and white carnations. Behind the archway was a brass arched candelabrum with spiral candelabra on either side.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Brown, Rt. 3. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jerrie Gee, Rt. 3, and the late Bobby Gee.

Kerry Wood of Tomball, vocalist, was accompanied by Patsy Grigg, organist, and Beverly Wood of Tomball, pianist.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a formal-length gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace and chiffon. The V-neckline featured scallops of matching lace and beads. The long shadow sleeves of matching lace with a chiffon overlay ended in Bishop cuffs. The full skirt fell into a chapel-length train. She wore a walk-length mantilla veil edged with matching lace and scattered with lace appliques accented with beads.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white and burgundy carnations accented with tiny pink flowers.

Terri Jo Newton was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Ronda Fowler and Shanna Fowler, sisters of the bride, and Kim Gee, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Flower girls were Amber Denning of Caldwell and Kelly Starr, both cousins of the bride.

Randy Gee, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Jay Hall, Gary Paige and Rodney Gee, brother of the bridegroom. Brock Gee, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Ushers were Steve Moore of Dallas, Steve Ray of Plano, both cousins of the bride, and Greg Kemp and Tim Kemp of Abilene, cousins of the bridegroom.

Lane-Jenkins

Wendi Kim Lane became the bride of Richard Paul Jenkins during a ceremony at the 14th and Main Church of Christ, Saturday. Royce Clay, minister, performed the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray Lane, 3235 Drexel. The bridegroom is the son of Linda Jenkins of Tow, and Paul Jenkins of Big Spring.

The couple was wed before an altar decorated with a 15-branch brass candelabrum accented with white gladioli and blue and yellow flowers. On each side of the candelabrum were two spiral candelabra and two floral arrangements on brass stands with two nine-branch trees on the floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Lee, Mrs. Dan Conely, Rona Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. David Elrod, and Leslye Overman, vocalists, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown of white chiffon and silk Venice lace. The Queen Anne neckline and Bishop sleeves of French net enhanced the natural waist bodice. The bodice was covered with Venice lace and accented with pearl and sequins. The A-line chiffon skirt, decorated with white satin ribbons and Venice lace, fell into a chapel-length train. She wore a lace-edged mantilla veil held by a Juliet cap accented with pearls and sequins.

She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis, Lily of the Valley and baby's breath.

Kerri Read of Amarillo was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Hollie Peurifoy, cousin of the bride, D'Carlton Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Valerie Stevens. Flower girl was Kenye Kay Butts of Midland, cousin of the bride. Candelighters were Julie Horton of Greenville and Shana Payne, both cousins of the bride.

Kevin McDaniel of Odessa was best man. Groomsmen were Brian Jenkins, brother of the bridegroom, Tony Kent Lane of Abilene, brother of the bride, and Mackie Vaughn. Ushers were Steve Cannon, Tony Lane of Abilene, brother of the bride, and Brian Jenkins, brother of the bridegroom. Ring bearers were Devin Butts of Midland, cousin of the bride.

MRS. RICHARD PAUL JENKINS
...formerly Wendi Kim Lane

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth. The three-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses and topped with the traditional bride and bridegroom had four smaller cakes at its base. The centerpiece for the table was a brass container filled with yellow and white roses.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a champagne lace cloth with a blue underlay. A chocolate oval cake with the bridegroom's monogram was served.

A bridemaid's luncheon was held Saturday at LaPosada. Hostesses were Mrs. Carl Coleman, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Howard Butts and Mrs. Kay Wilson, aunts of the bride. Special guests at the luncheon were bridesmaids and Linda Jenkins, mother of the bridegroom.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School. She was previously employed by the Big Spring Herald.

All Home Satellite Systems Are Not Created Equal!

A "real deal" isn't always a good bargain!

There's a lot of hullabaloo and advertising hype around now days about TV earth stations with claims like: the best, highest quality, lowest price, etc. You also see one company touting their antennas, others promoting their receivers, and still another pushing bits, parts, and pieces that add on or tie in to make up a satellite receiving system.

If you're getting a bit confused, (and you wouldn't be), consider these simple facts about a Birdview System.

1. It is highly advanced, but straight forward system, engineered and manufactured from the ground up entirely by Birdview as a totally matched system.
2. The antenna is a one piece, 9' spun aluminum dish with a simple, but very unique polar mount that sets on a single 6" pipe.
3. The use of a dual conversion LNC, with crystal synthesis tuning, comparable in design and construction to commercial quality units and enclosed in a solid weather proof housing.
4. The use of two low noise amplifiers that simplifies tuning and eliminates rotating devices usually found on other systems.
5. A small, compact receiver with 24 channel detente video tuning, variable audio tuning, LED digital readout, built-in modulator, and source selection that operates as simply as your television set.

6. The entire system may be purchased from a local authorized video retailer who is capable of installation and service.
7. The suggested retail price is only $2,995 and the entire system is backed by a one year warranty from a single source.

What it all means is engineered quality, a superb picture, and a whole new world of television enjoyment at a price you can afford.

There are cheaper systems and more expensive ones, but there's only one Birdview. Check it out carefully, we think you'll agree that all Home Satellite Systems are NOT CREATED EQUAL.

Wedding

MRS. ARTHUR R. WILLIAMS
...formerly Yolanda Bailon

Bailon-Williams

Yolanda A. Bailon and Arthur R. Williams were united in marriage during a double-ring ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, July 17. Bob West, Justice of the Peace, officiated the 2 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaz G. Bailon, 4103 Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. David R. Williams of Elyria, Ohio are the parents of the bridegroom.

The couple was wed before an altar, decorated with lace, and three latticed panels covered with Boston fern and springer fern. Two tree candelabra and two dogwood trees completed the setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown. The Victorian neckline and long sleeves enhanced the bodice. The waist-length veil was held by an azure crown decorated with hand embroidered flowers.

The bride carried a cascading Victorian bouquet of yellow roses, gardenias, cymbidiums, stephanotis, gypsophylla, springer fern, English ivy and Jack Frost poms. The bouquet decorated with white lace and picot ribbons was arranged by Blaz Bailon Jr., brother of the bride.

Rosie Bailon, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Flower girls were Melissa Bailon, niece of bride, and Angela Mullens. Kim Fullmer ushered guests.

Glen Scott was best man. Rudy Eggleston, nephew

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 267-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Mr., Mrs. Jim Kinsey

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kinsey were honored on their 55th anniversary with a dinner at the Brandin' Iron, July 16, and a luncheon in the home of their daughter, Jo Sledge, July 17.

Attending the events were their children Mollie and Bud Rush, Jo and Bobby Sledge, and Wanda Jones, all of Big Spring, and James and Pat Kinsey of Austin.

Grandchildren in attendance were Larry and Kelli Smith, Lisa and Mark Carter, Glenda and Frank Long, Jimmy Jones and Judy Jones, all of Big Spring, and Karen Nachlinger of Hermleigh and Bobby Wall of Snyder.

Great-grandchildren who came were Kerry and Kasey Nachlinger of Hermleigh, Kimberly and Tracy Long of Big Spring, and Russell Wall of Snyder.

The couple was married July 14, 1928 and have lived in Big Spring since 1938.

The couple's son James also celebrated his birthday, July 14. His sisters surprised him with a birthday cake during the dinner, Saturday.

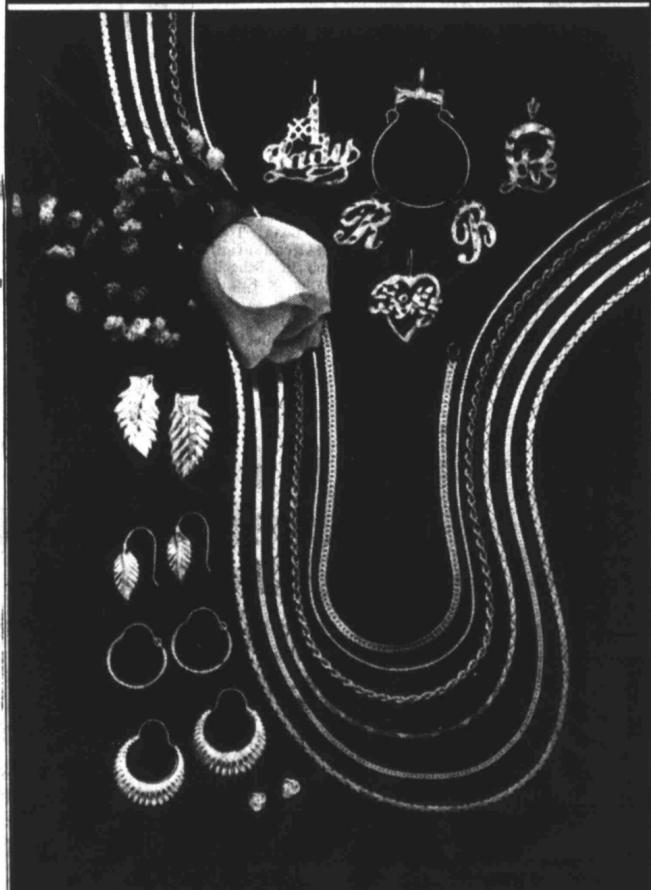

The Kinseys also have another daughter, Sarah Sweeten of Austin, who was unable to attend.

Cancer treatment proven effective against warts

An antibiotic mixture sometimes used against cancer appears to be a simple, effective and safe treatment for eradicating warts.

The mixture, bleomycin sulfate, is injected into the base of the wart. It requires no anesthesia, protective dressing or recovery period. What's more, citing a recent medical study, the drug leaves no scar.

Brilliant investments.

Engagements

PLANS ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Manning Cook of Fort Worth announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorrie, to Keith E. Hall, 2507 Barksdale. Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron E. Hall of Dallas. The couple will wed August 20 in the Botanic Gardens in Fort Worth with the Rev. Jerry Chisum, a Methodist minister, will officiate.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Fletcher Jr., 1402 Runnels, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mickie, to Johnny W. McGregor, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. McGregor of Knott. The couple will wed August 12 at First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Keith Wiseman, pastor, officiating.

AUGUST WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Salaiz of Daly City, Calif., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Valeri, to Ricky Moore. Moore is the son of Bobby Gene Moore, Rt. 1, and Mrs. LaNell Morgan, 602 Caylor Dr. The couple will wed August 15 at First Baptist Church of Cosmo with the Rev. Danny Curry, pastor, officiating.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. John Bingham, Rt. 1, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lori, to Larin Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wallace of Quinlan. The couple will wed August 20 in the Coahoma Church of Christ with Don Allen, Church of Christ elder, officiating.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

young Texans with heart-healthy programs, information, and guidance in leading lives of reduced cardiovascular disease risk. To this end, the Howard County Division will provide pre-natal programs to parents, pre-school programs to children, and elementary PTA programs to parents.

1983-84. The Division will also involve young people in several fund raising activities that emphasize the heart-health benefits of regular physical activity and exercise.

Walter Kirkendall, M.D., Houston, president of the Texas Affiliate, spoke to the delegate luncheon, July 9th. In his speech, Kirkendall revealed statistics that demonstrated the dramatic decline in premature deaths from cardiovascular diseases (CVD) in the U.S. during the last thirty years. This decline stood in stark contrast to the lack of change in CVD deaths in England during the same period. Dr. Kirkendall concluded that the U.S. had improved from a CVD death rate higher than England due to favorable changes in lifestyle, eating habits, and

Wacey Cathey to come home with prize money

Last Sunday, while talking to my parents somewhere off in Canada Land, my parents asked me if I knew Wacey Cathey. I said I had heard of some Catheys who were involved in the rodeo business and why were they asking about them. They said "this Cathey guy from Big Spring won the championship in a bullriding event at the Calgary Stampede in Canada." The Stampede is one of the world's most famous rodeos.

Well I passed the news on to Keith Briscoe, city editor, who had Mike Downey check into it. With Mike's help here is the story. Big Spring rodeo cowboy Wacey Cathey captured a $50,000 prize during a special bullriding competition at the Calgary Stampede and Rodeo in Canada last weekend. Mike also learned Cathey is expected to compete in a rodeo in Cheyenne, Wyoming this weekend.

Wacey's wife is anxious for his return home. And speaking of traveling to Canada and Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dirks Jr. traveled to this area, June 21-July 7. They visited Eskimo Land, Kotzebue, Nome, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Mount McKinley, Denali National Park, White Horse, all of Alaska, and Yukon Territory in Canada.

Henry said they were fortunate to see Mount McKinley without it being covered with clouds. The tour group attended several follies-type programs while in the area. Henry was at Frantic Follies at White Horse and was chosen by one of the singers to come up on stage. She teased him with songs in front of the audience and he went right along with it. When the group was in Nome, they visited another Follies performance. The same thing happened again. Henry was chosen to come up on stage by a singer. Henry says he's had enough of these follies shows.

The couple met an Eskimo girl by the name of Dirks. She was one of their tour guides. Her parents' names also were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dirks, but Henry assured me that she was of no relation.

Mrs. Ronald Dority and her son Allen, both of Ellsworth, Ma., are in town this week. They are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Covington, her brothers, friends and other relatives. The two will stay until the first of August.

Dr. Donohue

Year-around conditioning

Dear Dr. Donohue: My only sport is a summer one — baseball. Although I get good workouts with that sport, I don't do much the rest of the year until the next season rolls around. At the end of the baseball season I'm in very good shape, feel better and look better. What's happening to me the rest of the year? Is this sort of thing really helping me? — F.L.

Sure it's helping during the period you are getting your conditioning. But once you stop, deconditioning sets in pretty fast. The main point here is that you want to stay in shape for your year-around health, and to do that requires year-around conditioning.

As for the seasonal sport idea, I need only point out the stories that appear each spring from the major league training camps of injuries, of players reporting "out of shape." Because some players are in poor condition, they become more prone to injury. This is why teams have the gradual conditioning period each spring.

What happens otherwise during the deconditioning time of the year? Let's take an extreme example — a person forced into 20 days of bedrest because of some illness or injury. During that time his heart takes a rest right along with him. It begins pumping less blood with each beat. It has to beat faster to compensate for the loss of beating force. The same thing occurs in your body when you abandon exercise.

If you want a living testimonial to the value of a year-around conditioning, look at Nolan Ryan, who at 36 is still able to throw a baseball 100 miles per hour. He stays in shape all year long to accomplish this. What I have said applies to any sport, not baseball alone.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My right leg is nearly three-quarters of an inch shorter than my left. I have had muscle spasms resulting from this. I enjoy jogging very much. I wear a lift in my tennis shoes when I jog. Some of my friends have told me that jogging might not be good for me. I would like to know what you think. If you think that this is something I ought not to do, I'll quit. I am 5 to 9 inches and weight about 180 pounds. I am 32. — K.R.K.

You should use a proper running shoe or an insert. And you cannot rely on one that is mass-produced. You will have to have one specially designed. I'm sure your doctor can tell you where to go for that. You also should lose some of your 180 pounds — excessive for your height.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Widow's hello to stranger is also goodbye to grief

DEAR ABBY: My husband died suddenly three years ago. I grieved endlessly for him and have done only the necessary marketing, usually taking my dog with me. Only recently I realized I was very lonely.

Last week as I came out of the market into the parking lot, a stranger walking his dog on a leash struck up a conversation with me about my dog, who'd been barking in my car. I was quite taken by this man's looks and manner, but I was so insecure and surprised that I left abruptly.

However, I've been back every evening at 6 p.m. (the time I saw him) and I've left a card on the bulletin board at the market, I have even driven up and down the nearby streets hoping to see him.

Abby, why am I doing this? I feel demented. Please put this letter in your column. He may read it and come back to the parking lot.

L. IN WEST L.A.

DEAR L.: You are not demented. You are a very lonely woman who realizes that you've grieved enough and it's time to get on with your life. It's a healthy sign.

Start calling your old friends and begin to socialize a bit. You may never again see the man with who you were so taken; he was probably just a friendly stranger already "taken" anyway, so forget him. Good luck, lady. Think positive, and good things will happen.

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago I stopped by

Bride-elect feted at miscellaneous shower

Misty Sink, bride-elect of Kevin Rhoton, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower, in the Fellowship Hall of East Fourth St. Baptist Church, Tuesday.

Hostesses were Bettye Griffith, Shirley Darden, Beverly Norman, Latha Hill, Louise Curry, Kim Gee, Dianne Oliphant, Jeanette Mansfield, Lenora Willingham, Francys Plowman, Lena Macomber, Cletha Clayton, Frances Lee, Latrice Davis, Bertie Stocks, Marguerite Cooper, Edith Harrell and Ina Stewart. The hostesses presented the honoree with an electric skillet with lift-out serving dish. Silk daisies corsages were presented to the honoree, Andre Sink, mother of the bride-to-be, and Pat Rhoton, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Other special guests were Oneita Sledge, the honoree's grandmother, Canna Mae Rudd, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom, Mae Rudd, great-grandmother of the prospective bridegroom, Linda Rhoton, sister-in-law of the prospective bridegroom, Breann Rhoton, the prospective bridegroom's niece, and Gerre Rudd, aunt of the prospective bridegroom.

The couple will wed August 6 in the First Baptist Church Chapel with the Rev. Bob Webb, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Sterling City, officiating.

to see my sister and she looked ill. She said she had a terrible headache. She didn't talk right, and she bumped into things when she walked. I offered to take her to a doctor or the hospital, but she said she didn't have the time because she had to finish her daughter's prom gown.

When I got home I was still worried, so I called my sister's husband at work. He went right home and took her to the hospital and they found that she had had a stroke!

While she was in the hospital all she did was worry about "Joan's" prom gown. I told her I'd buy her one because I can't sew well enough to finish the one she had started, and it was too late to find somebody else to do it.

Well, the only dress Joan liked cost $250, which I couldn't afford, so I told her I would spend $100 and no more. Well, she got mad and refused to go to the prom because she couldn't have the dress she wanted!

Now my sister isn't speaking to me. She said I should have let her finish the dress instead of "interfering" and calling her husband. Also, since I did butt in, I should have bought Joan the dress she wanted. Abby, my whole family is mad at me.

Was I wrong? What would you have done?

Jewels & Gems
by Ralph and Lynette Brooks

Consumers frequently confuse the term "karat" and "solid gold" when buying jewelry. The "karat" marking will tell you what percentage of gold is mixed with other metals in the gold alloy. The term "solid gold" means only that the inside of the piece is not hollow. Solid gold is generally a mixture of pure gold and a base metal. The consumer must still look at the karat rating to determine the purity of the piece. A knowledgeable buyer, then, knows that a 14 karat gold ring, even if it is called "solid gold" actually contains only 58% gold. That is, 14 karat out of a possible 24, or 58%.

When it comes to fine jewelry and gift items we cordially invite you to come to BLUM'S JEWELERS, conveniently located at 222 Main, 267-6335. Rx for your gardens

Tomatoes are fun, but sometimes frustrating

Much satisfaction can be obtained by harvesting tasty, vine-ripe tomatoes from your garden. But nothing is more frustrating than to go out and find a dead or wilted plant.

Many gardeners recall some of those frustrating experiences they had last year. It's a sure bet that many gardeners this year — and there'll be lots more of them — will experience similar frustrations in 1983. What are some problems gardeners can expect to run into this year? And most of all, what can be done about them?

Here's a checklist of tomato problems, causes and cures:

— Young plants dying soon after planting. CAUSE: Fertilizer burn or damping off disease. CURE: Thoroughly mix fertilizer into soil; treat seed for diseases and don't overwater.

— Stunted plants that are pale to yellow. CAUSES AND CURES: Low soil fertility (Fertilize according to soil test); poor soil drainage (drain and add organic matter); shallow or compacted soil (Plow deeper); insects or diseases (identify and use control measures); and nematodes (soil test for treatment and recommendations.)

— Stunted plants with purplish color. CAUSES: Low temperature and lack of phosphorus. CURE: Plant at recommended time; add phosphorous fertilizer.

— Spots, mold, darkened areas on leaves and stems. CAUSES AND CURES: Diseases (identify, spray or dust and use resistant varieties); chemical burn (use recommended chemical at recommended rate); fertilizer burn (keep fertilizer off plants.)

— Wilting plants. CAUSES AND CURES: Dry soil (water); too much water in soil (drain); nematodes (soil test for treatment recommendations); diseases (use resistant varieties if possible.)

— Weak, spindly plants. CAUSES AND CURES: Too much shade (remove shade or quit gardening); too much water (hope for sunshine); plants too thick (seed at recommended rate or thin out plants); too much nitrogen (avoid excess fertilizer).

— Failure to set fruit. CAUSES AND CURES: High or low temperatures (follow recommended planting time); too much nitrogen (avoid excess fertilization); insects (identify and use control measures); cloudy weather (hope for sunshine).

— Tomato leaf curl. CAUSES AND CURES: Heavy pruning in hot weather (don't prune in hot weather); disease or insects (identify and use control measures).

— Dry and brown to black rot on blossom end of tomato. CAUSE: Low soil calcium and/or extremely dry or wet soil. CURE: Add calcium-containing material and water or improve drainage.

— Abnormal leaves and growth. CAUSES AND CURES: 2, 4-D weed killer (don't use sprayer that has previously applied 2,4-D and don't allow spray to drift to garden); virus diseases (remove infected plants to prevent spreading. Control insects that transmit.)

Blossom-end-rot is quite a common occurrence on tomatoes but also is a problem on other crops such as peppers and watermelons. Although it may occur anywhere on the fruit, it generally occurs at the blossom end or bottom.

It can occur at almost anytime during the development of the fruit. It generally begins with the appearance of small, irregular-shaped, water soaked areas near the base of the fruit which darkens and eventually can become leathery in appearance. When severe enough, it actually appears to wrinkle and deteriorate as the fruit matures.

Why does blossom-end-rot occur? Researchers are not quite sure of the exact cause, but most agree it is associated with a deficiency of calcium as well as excessive water loss. One thing is certain, and that is that there are no pathogens associated with its occurrence.

Fungus or other types of disease may infect the bottom of the fruit after the occurrence of blossom-end-rot, but these are secondary in nature.

Blossom-end-rot is a "physiological" disorder of tomato fruit. Conditions which favor its occurrence are those which result in water stress of the plant. These could be soils which are too wet, soils that are too dry, or drying winds which increase water loss from the foliage.

Whenever these conditions occur, the plants will lose more water to the atmosphere through its foliage than it can absorb through its roots. This will result in water loss from the plant and the fruit, resulting in a slight desiccation of the blossom end or the bottom of the tomato fruit. These cells die, resulting in the appearance of the blackened area.

The visual symptoms associated with blossom-end-rot often are the result of a condition which may have occurred several days or even weeks prior to the symptoms. Therefore, when homeowners begin to worry about the occurrence of blossom-end-rot, the cause may have been several weeks prior to the conditions causing the problem.

What can be done about blossom-end-rot? It's obvious that anything which will maintain uniform soil moisture will help. A garden located in a well-drained soil will go a long way toward preventing "BER" that is associated with soggy or overwet soil. A good mulching program also will help as it reduces water loss from the soil and makes it more available to the plant during dry periods. A uniform and consistent watering program is also vitally important.

Check financing before buying car

If you are in the market for a car, advertisements offering low-rate financing have probably caught your eye. Before buying on the basis of an ad, make sure you fully understand what is offered.

Read ads carefully, shop around and check with the dealer about any limitations or conditions on attractive offers. Take steps to determine whether a dealer's special offer provides genuine savings and gives you the car and financing you want.

If you intend to buy a car and use any financing, try to answer the following questions in comparing and evaluating choices:

1. Are you required to pay a higher price for the car to qualify for the low-rate financing? Would the price be lower if you paid cash, or supplied your own financing from a bank or credit union?
2. Does the financing require a larger-than-usual down payment in the range of 25 to 30 percent?
3. Are there limits on the duration of the loan offered? In other words, are you required to repay the loan in 12 to 24 months?
4. Do you have to buy extra merchandise or services, such as rustproofing, an extended warranty or a service contract to qualify for the loan?
5. Is the financing available for a limited time only? Some merchants limit these special deals to a few days or require that the buyer take delivery by a specified date.
6. Does the low rate apply only to certain merchandise, such as cars "in stock" or last year's models?
7. Does the dealer require you to return the manufacturer's rebate to qualify for financing?

As you see, the interest rate is just one part of the total financing package. Other terms, such as the size of the down payment, affect the overall cost of financing. Before you choose your car and make a deal, find out about all the terms or conditions of the financing and about any other special incentives being offered. After you have made the deal, read the purchase order and loan contract carefully before you sign. Check to see whether the advertised annual percentage rate is the same as the annual percentage rate on the loan contract. If they differ, get an explanation before you sign.
