Gibson's to close; heavy losses cited

Wal-Mart to open new store later this month

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Big Spring is gaining a major discount merchant and losing another. While Wal-Mart Discount City prepares for its August opening in a newly renovated building at Coronado Plaza, Gibson Discount City on Scurry Street announced yesterday it will be closing within the next 45 days.

According to a Gibson's press release, the company has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code because of "sustained significant losses" and the inability to meet its debts with First National Bank of Midland and the First National Bank of Chicago.

The release said the reorganization will mean six out of the chain's 11 stores will be closed. Targeted for closure are stores in Big Spring, Plainview and San Angelo and three in El Paso. The company plans to retain five stores in the Midland-Odessa area.

The company will immediately begin to phase out the stores by liquidating inventory currently on hand, according to the statement. No major changes in operations are anticipated in the Midland-Odessa stores.

Mario Zamora, manager of the local Gibson's store, said the closure will affect 50 employees plus three managers. Zamora said the company would try to relocate some of the workers at other stores.

In March of this year, Gibson's Distributing Co., Inc. brought in a new management team in order to streamline the business and fend off rumors that certain stores would be closed.

Yesterday, however, former managers and owners were called back in an effort to reorganize the operations of the company. The press release said the former management team would guide the company's regrouping.

While the Big Spring Gibson's store begins its shutdown, Wal-Mart managers and employees are busting a few blocks away to stock a renovated 20,000 square-foot building with a wide selection of ning the opening of the Wal-Mart store had no effect on the company's decision to close its Big Spring outlet.

He also said he knew of no possibility of another business moving into the Gibson's store here.

5-year-old awaits open heart surgery

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Kimberly Massey, 5, is finally old enough for open heart surgery.

She will undergo the 4½-hour operation at Children's Medical Center of Dallas on Aug. 25. Her parents, Fred and Cathy Massey of 1310 Ridgeroad, say she may start kindergarten later in the fall.

Kimberly is fully aware of the birth defect that keeps oxygen from properly flowing through her bloodstream. It has already led to three operations, heart failure and a stroke.

She will show her scars if someone asks. Her frequent smiles draw attention to the blue color around her lips, mouth and eyes. "Kimmy's been through so much," said Mrs. Massey, 30. "She'll keep going though it, I guess. But she doesn't really talk about it."

The surgeon, Hisashi Nikaidoh of Dallas, told the Masseys that Kimberly has a 90 percent chance of survival, but he offered no guarantee that the surgery will completely solve her problems.

The Masseys were unaware of Kimberly's health condition until she was 2 months old. "She kept having colds, and our doctor kept treating her for that. Nothing helped," Mrs. Massey said. "Finally, I took her to another doctor (Dr. R.M. Schwarz of Big Spring) and he looked at her and knew right away what was wrong. He told us to get her to Dallas fast."

They did. That night Kimberly had heart failure and almost died.

Schwarz said Kimberly was purple when Mrs. Massey brought her to his office.

An operation in Dallas revealed a hole in the wall of her heart. There is also a defect affecting her aorta that prevents the proper amount of oxygen from traveling through her body. As she grows, the heart has to work harder and has become enlarged. Her doctors have been waiting for Kimberly to reach the proper size and weight to make surgery feasible and safe.

She has been making trips to hospitals most of her life and travels to Dallas with her parents by car.

"She has a lot of friends there — the other patients and the nurses," Mrs. Massey said. "But she doesn't like it when the doctors in the green come."

In earlier operations for cardiac catheterization to prepare her for surgery, Kimberly was given a coloring book explaining the problems and the operation in terms she can understand. "She knows all about it," Mrs. Massey said.

Laid off hero Ex-employee foils Pan-Am hijack

HOUSTON (AP) — A laid off Pan Am employee and his teen-age son thwarted the hijacking of a Miami-to-Houston jetliner, leaping from their seats and overpowering an unarmed Cuban who tried to commandeer the flight back to his homeland.

The hijacker, who had a one-way ticket to Houston, moved from the coach class to first class Tuesday night, squeezed past a bar cart and told a stewardess in Spanish that he was going to take control of Pan Am Flight 925, said Joe McGuinness, director of sales for Pan Am.

The man, identified by FBI agents as Alfredo Ayala, 32, then moved toward the cockpit and repeated the statement, McGuinness said.

"He used a word that would mean commandeer. The word hijack was never mentioned. But it was a word that everyone took seriously," McGuinness said.

Passenger Spicer Lung, 45, who had worked as the catering manager until three weeks ago, overheard the statement. Understanding what the hijacker had said, Lung and his 15-year-old son, Spicer Lung Jr., leaped from their seats and grappled with the man, McGuinness said.

A flight attendant identified as Fernando Viollas Lobos, of Houston, and another passenger, Ralph Symons, joined the fray and subdued the man.

Using some hemp material from the cockpit, a pair of plastic handcuffs and a seat belt, Lung tied the hijacker into a first class seat where he sat quietly for the rest of the flight.

"I didn't realize at first what was happening," said Symons, a Miami attorney and a passenger in first class. "By the time I got out of the seat... Spicer had his arm behind his back, the kid had him by the throat and pushed him up against the wall and I grabbed him."

"I tell you, he (the suspect) lost all his desire by then," Symons said. "He wanted to go to the bathroom, but we said, 'No way, buddy.'"

The jetliner, carrying 121 passengers and a crew of seven, safely landed at 7:36 p.m. at Houston Intercontinental Airport, where police and FBI agents arrested Ayala, said John Guido, assistant special-agent-in-charge of the FBI's office here.

No weapon was used in the attempted hijacking, Guido said.

The Boeing 727-200 left Miami at 6:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday. The pilot radioed at 7:10 p.m. that the aircraft was being hijacked. Six minutes later the pilot said that a passenger had subdued and that the flight would continue to Houston.

"We heard a rumble in the first-class section and didn't know what to think," said Lulu Evans, 37, who was returning to Houston from a vacation. "Then a few

Chicken Ranch anniversary goes unmarked in La Grange

LA GRANGE, Texas (AP) — The 10th anniversary of the closing of Texas' most famous broddello, the Chicken Ranch, went unmarked by townspeople.

Fayette County Sheriff T.J. Flounoy reluctantly shut down the house only on direct orders from the governor Aug. 1, 1973. Television personality Marvin Zindler had succeeded in his efforts to save this quiet town from its bawdy house.

The incident made Zindler famous and writer Larry King wealthier. It left the citizens here annoyed with their newfound national image.

King's play and a subsequent movie, both titled "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," have kept attention on the white shack outside town which reportedly began operations in 1844. "I'll bet Marvin thinks he still cut a cancer out of that little town," King said Tuesday in a phone interview from his home in Washington. "I told him the last time I saw him I thank God for him three times a day and if I had any decency I'd thank Him half a dozen times."

Lloyd Kolbe, owner of a local soft drink bottling franchise, said the townspeople are generally apathetic about the results wrought by the crusading Zindler.

Zindler's indignant news reports prompted Gov. Dolph Briscoe to declare himself officially astounded that Texas contained a whorehouse and order it closed.

"I'm going to be honest with you," Kolbe said. "The people out-

Vandals strike car

A 1965 Mustang belonging to a Big Spring man was the target of vandals last night as nearly $1,200 in damage was done.

Tom Guess of No. 3 September Circle told police the windshield and right passenger window were shattered. The convertible top and rear plastic window were slashed as well, Guess said.

Thomas R. Payne of 902 S. Bell complained to police last night he attempted to cash a paycheck at Kwikie's Drive-In Grocery at 510 Lamesa Highway, but only received part of his money. Payne said he was given $129.22 of his $329.22 check. The rest was kept by the clerk because of a previous hot check at the store, Payne said.

Carroll A. Trantham of 705 Willow and his dog were shot at by unknown marksmen last night, according to police reports. Trantham said he was walking his dog at 9 p.m. when he heard two shots and his dog yelp. The dog was treated for injuries, police said.

Highland Texaco of 2501 Gregg was the victim of a robbery between Saturday and Monday, according to police. Liz Shipman told police an envelope containing $640 was stolen from the station.

Ethel Coats of 604 1/2 W. 3rd told police a person known to her stole a $500 pair of earrings, a $325 neuromedic instrument and $118 worth of nurses' uniforms between Sunday and Monday.

The houseparent at the Rainbow Project at 2906 W. 13th told police someone threw a rock through a front window sometime after 9:45 p.m. Tuesday. The damage was valued at $20, according to police reports.

Sheriff's Log

2 arrested in burglaries

The Howard County sheriff's office has arrested two men in connection with the burglary of Stuckey's July 29 as well as three other offenses in the county the same night.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said the two men, one in custody in Midland and one in the county jail here, have given statements in connection with burglaries at Fiscus Drilling, D & H Transport and Stuckey's on July 29.

A forgery charge at Gibson Discount Store the same day was also connected to the pair, Standard said.

The investigation into a fire which destroyed Stuckey's continues, the sheriff said.

Rodney Wayne Murphy, 18, of 1304 Michael posted $1,500 bond to be released after his transfer from police custody to county jail. Murphy was arraigned before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt for suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Richard T. Coffey, 49, of Route 1 was released from county jail yesterday on the authority of Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin, according to sheriff's office records. Coffey had been jailed since July 28 following his arrest on a peace bond and bondsman off bond.

Psychiatrist falls out of favor

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County district attorney has ordered his staff to sever its 15-year relationship with a psychiatrist who "switched sides" last week and testified in behalf of a defendant, Sheriff Don Byrd.

District Attorney Henry Wade, in an office memorandum, said psychiatrist James P. Grigson's credibility to juries has been damaged. Wade said Tuesday that recent appeals court decisions have criticized Grigson's testimony.

Grigson, nicknamed "Dr. Death" for his staunch support of the death penalty, earned $75,000 from Dallas County last year for examinations and testimony for the prosecution.

Wade's assistants were angered last week when Grigson testified that he believed Byrd suffered a mild stroke the night the sheriff crashed his car into a traffic signal light in University Park. Byrd was acquitted after the trial judge ruled an incriminating blood-alcohol test was inadmissible.

"I guess you could say that was the straw that broke the camel's back when he started to testify on strokes," Wade said.

He acknowledged that he and Jim Burnham, the chief prosecutor against Byrd, discussed Grigson's role in the trial.

"It wasn't the primary factor (in his decision) but I'm sure it contributed," Wade said by telephone from his home Tuesday night.

Wade said his decision stemmed from appeals court decisions critical of Grigson's testimony, complaints from jurors and "15 or 20" of Wade's assistants, and his own skepticism about the value of psychiatric testimony.

FEEDLOT PRODUCT — Jim, Harding, assistant of the Hereford, Texas feedyards, poses in the foreground as a bulldozer works a mountain of cattle manure in the background. Feedyards have a difficult time of disposing of their byproduct, but in the case here, officials say they plan to build a $6 million plant to turn the manure into a feed supplement and methane gas.

Manure marketed for money

HEREFORD, Texas (AP) — It can make some of the best fertilizer around and doesn't cost a penny. Shoot, Jim Harding will even pay you to take it off his hands.

So it isn't surprising that a smile crosses his face at the mention of an Oklahoma City company that says it stumbled over a process of making methane gas that could solve a problem that has annoyed Harding and other feedyard operators for years.

Thermonetics Inc. is building a $6 million plant in this Texas Panhandle community that officials say will turn cattle manure — mountains of it — into both an inexpensive feed supplement and the methane gas needed to power the plant.

The prospect of selling the manure to the Calfeed Protein Meal plant pleases Harding, assistant manager of Hereford Feedyards.

"We'd love to," Harding says.

Feedyards literally cannot give the manure away and sometimes pay to have it hauled off. But with fertilizer prices down and farmers planting less acreage because of government programs this year, Harding's and other feedyards have been forced to stockpile it.

"We think we're the best solution to a very great problem," says Ron Jones, vice president of Thermonetics, a firm that develops alternative energy sources.

Thermonetics decided to build its plant in Hereford for the obvious reason that Deaf Smith County has more cattle in commercial feedlots — 638,000 in 1982 — than any other county in the nation.

"There is an obvious abundance of manure," Jones said.

The Calfeed plant will turn about 650 tons of manure into 200 tons of meal every day and use about half the annual manure production of the Hereford feedlots, he said.

Thermonetics chemists discovered their patented process for converting manure into protein meal while searching for an economical process of producing methane gas.

A Thermonetics plant in Guyton, Okla., began converting manure into methane gas in the early 1970s for sale to area industries. But that didn't prove economical.

"Feed didn't really enter into the design of the plant," said Jones. "As we got to know the process better we recognized the feed production potential. We redesigned and rebuilt the Guyton facility in 1981 and it was put into production in 1982. We've been producing feed there for about a year now."

The process involves mixing manure with water to make a slurry that is then pumped into fermentation tanks where bacteria produces the gas and protein.

The protein meal, which sells for up to half the cost of conventional feed supplements, has proved satisfactory, said Charles Hoover, manager of Southwest Feedyards.

Nutritionists and feed manufacturers are beginning to recognize the meal for the protein, phosphorus, potassium and calcium it can add to cattle diet, Jones said.

But Harding will just be happy to get rid of some of the accumulating manure that continually damages fencing around his feedlot pens.

Front-end loaders and dump trucks have been working through the summer at the feedlot and have filled two silage trenches, each 400 feet long by 18 feet deep by 40 feet wide, and created a long, 40-foot-high hill with the manure.

"There may come a time," Harding says, gesturing at one of the trenches, "that people may mine a place like this."

Massey said. "But she still plays with kids here. You'd never know she was sick, sometimes."

The Masseys have another daughter, April, 11, and a 1-year-old son, Rodney.

But the insurance has run out on Kimberly, and she is such a high risk that she is no longer covered at all, Mrs. Massey said.

"We get some help from the Crippled Children's Fund, but the bills just keep stacking up. The pharmacy bills will eat you alive. We pay what we can each month and the doctor keeps seeing us," she said.

"We do what we can. She's got problems with her legs, too, but we just have to put that off."

Mrs. Massey keeps a photo album and scrapbook about Kimberly, but most of the pictures show Kimberly in hospitals. The scrapbook contains hospital bracelets.

She says she tries to stay cheerful by talking with friends, but her eyes fill with tears when talking about the upcoming operation.

"I just know that if the Lord was gonna take her he would have already done it," she said. "She's been through so much. But she won't die. She's a fighter — that's what the doctors say."

side Fayette County have a lot more interest in the Chicken Ranch than the people in the county."

Kolbe said the house, which got its name from the practice of bartering poultry for its services in the Depression, was more a convenience for residents of San Antonio and Austin than to townspersons.

King said except for the money he made from the house's closing, he shares La Grange residents' feelings about the place.

"I don't think that the commodity they prevented them from selling there is in short supply anywhere in the world," he said.

Nonetheless, Zindler said he'd do the whole thing again.

"I thought I was right," he said. "I did it because (former) Attorney General John Hill contacted me and asked me to do the story."

Zindler is one of the few characters from the original cast of characters still in the public eye. He said he still skirts Fayette County when he drives to Austin.

Edna Melton, the house's long-time madam, resurfaced for about six weeks several years ago to play an earlier proprietress in the Broadway play. She then moved back to Texas. Kolbe said the last he heard, which was several years ago, she was living quietly in the Panhandle.

The 6-foot-5-inch Flournoy, who settled out of court with Zindler after breaking the newsman's ribs when he returned to town a year after the closing, died last year, aged 81.

"I don't want to hear that name again," Flournoy said of the Chicken Ranch when he retired in 1980. "My wife is sick of hearing about it and so am I."

Even part of the building has disappeared. The front of the white house was moved to Dallas and used briefly as a fried chicken restaurant.

Kolbe said the remains of the house are in disrepair.

Some people feel the town's image is in much the same state, he said.

"I saw the play and I saw the movie and they're very entertaining if you're a Yankee that didn't know anything about the Chicken Ranch," he said. "But they didn't have any similarities to real life."

Guards bar doors during trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge who aid he wanted to protect the identity of an undercover agent posted guards who turned away people arriving to observe the drug possession trial of a former lawyer.

State District Judge Ted Poe complied Tuesday with a prosecutor's request during the trial of Vernon "Smookey" Fewell, 51, who is charged with possessing 28 pounds of cocaine in 1978.

State law requires that trials be kept open to the public.

A hearing on the legality of Fewell's arrest and the confiscation of the drug was in progress when the guards were posted. Poe allowed observers already in the courtroom to remain.

Poe said he did not consider the episode a closed hearing. He said he knows closed trials are illegal and added he would have sought another method of protecting the witness if the attorneys had not brought up the matter suddenly.

Assistant District Attorney Bill Taylor said he was afraid someone under investigation by the Drug Enforcement Administration agent would drop in at the trial. One such person had been seen in the courthouse that morning, Taylor said.

Defense attorney Robert Turner did not object when the guards were posted.

Harris County District Attorney John Holmes said he does not approve of the request for a closed hearing.

minutes later the pilot came on (the intercom) and said that a passenger had expressed a desire to go to Cuba, but that he had been restrained and we were on our way to Houston.

"It was all very calm," Ms. Evans said.

Lung, described as "a typical shy hero," slipped out of the airport without talking to reporters.

"The incident was over and he doesn't want to talk about it," McGuinness said.

Frank Ward, the assistant director of Houston's aviation department, said Lung was "very sincere and very proud of the fact that not only had he done something good for the passengers, but he had also done something positive for Pan Am."

Joe Ramirez, a Pan Am employee who worked with Lung, said the Houston man worked for Pan Am for 18 years, mostly in Nicaragua. Lung came to Houston about five years ago, Ramirez said, and was named catering manager a year ago. Then, three weeks ago, he was laid off.

"Without him (Lung), I don't know what would have happened. He was really wonderful to help us," said Teresa Negreg, a passenger from Mexico City.

"We couldn't believe it. It was something everybody probably jokes about but never expects to happen. But because of them (Lung and Lobos), we were never afraid. He (the hijacker) never had a chance to do anything," said Mrs. Negreg.

The hijacking attempt came on the same day Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole visited Miami International Airport to inspect stepped-up security measures.

On July 21, an attempted hijacking was foiled when two businessmen on a Tampa to Miami flight overpowered a knife-wielding Cuban exile who demanded to go to Havana. Northwest Airlines Flight 714 came to within 60 miles of the island before the suspect was tied into a seat.

The jet turned back to Miami where the FBI arrested Rodolfo Bueno Cruz, 42, identified a former political prisoner in Cuba, and charged him with air piracy.

That same week, two other flights were commandeered to Havana. Eight flights have been hijacked to Cuba this year.

Frustrated federal officials vowed after the eighth diversion that "we will stop the hijackings" and announced stepped-up security measures.

History textbooks blasted by atheists at state review

AUSTIN (AP) — The president of American Atheists says she reviewed 11 world history textbooks proposed for use in Texas' public schools, and there's not a "good one" in the bunch.

Madalyn Murray O'Hair said Tuesday that American Atheists would pull the books out of the curriculum until they are changed, but she will not offend anyone with a "reasoning mind."

The State Textbook Committee resumed its hearing today on $36.3 million in new materials. Replacements for books already adopted for statewide use, Braille books and freight and other costs will increase Texas' textbook bill to $65.5 million.

The committee will meet Aug. 29 to make textbook recommendations, which will be voted on by the State Board of Education in November.

"The textbooks include language and illustrations of biblical nonsense which are blatantly offensive especially to atheists but also to agnostics and humanists who, together, make up one-third of our nation," Ms. O'Hair told the 27-member committee.

She said she was "appalled" at the books proposed for Texas, and atheists in Denver had reviewed another group "which are equally as bad."

Ms. O'Hair said the history books are "apologetic" for mass religious slaughters, demand that the science of evolution "be treated as mere theory" and fail to present economic, political and cultural contributions of such American atheists as Abraham Lincoln, Albert Einstein and Henry Ford.

Ms. O'Hair said the textbook proclamation requires books to trace the development and influence of Judaism, Christianity and Islam, and she added, "This must be changed to include a study of the development of atheism and its influence."

She also said experts — not just citizens interested in textbooks — should review proposed texts. She was asked if she considered herself an expert, and she replied, "On atheism, I am the single expert in the world, sir."

Texas coordinator Michael Hudson of People for the American Way said his organization had argued for "bias-free books," and in general publishers had done a good job.

He said some textbook complaints reflect an "anti-public education attitude."

"These protests suggest that books should avoid mention of negative aspects of United States history — regardless of accuracy, ignore the changing roles of women and exclude accepted scientific theory," Hudson said.

He said one group of textbook critics, which he had identified earlier as Mel and Norma Gabler of Longview, complained that a text "omits one of the best legally attested facts of history — that Jesus arose from the dead."

Hudson also said the Gablers had objected to a question about areas where women still lack equality with men by asking "Was this page added to placate the women's lib movement?"

Gabler said American Way had taken some of its objections "out of context."

He said publishers had acknowledged numerous errors detected by the Gablers and their researchers, but most publishers want to wait until a second printing to make corrections.

"Well, that's not good enough," said Gabler. "Suppose the publisher has quite a few copies of the book on hand and wants to use the erroneous books in the classroom."

Gabler asked the textbook committee to require corrections before the books are distributed to Texas schools.

POLICE CANINE FIRED — Fired Pasadena police officer Chris Mylette pauses with his trained police dog Duke, who along with Mylette was recently dismissed from the Pasadena, Texas, police force.

Looking for a job

Dog, owner ousted from police K-9 corps

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — An attorney plans to file an appeal for a prize-winning dog who was removed last week from the Pasadena Police Department's K-9 Division.

The dog, registered as zuWenderhan's Pyewacket, but better known as Duke, was removed from the K-9 Division after his owner, Patrolman Chris Mylette, was transferred as the result of a disciplinary action.

Now Mylette also is out of work. The officer was suspended indefinitely Tuesday because a local television station showed a film of Duke and Mylette strolling along a Pasadena sidewalk.

Dick Psenda, Duke's attorney, said he will file an appeal for the dog before the Pasadena Civil Service Commission. The lawyer said he was hired to represent the dog by two Pasadena citizens whom he said he could not identify.

Duke's case, said Psenda, will be appealed to state district court if the Civil Service Commission doesn't put the dog back on the police force.

Mylette also has hired a lawyer, Ted Sherman, and is planning to appeal his firing.

The officer said he is charged with violating a rule that forbids soliciting outside help — the television news story — in a personnel matter. But the officer said he didn't solicit the television coverage.

"The cameraman caught me as I was walking my dog," said Mylette. "I have no control over the TV camera and I don't know how I could have prevented them from running it."

Sherman called Mylette's firing "totally unfair and unwarranted" and said it will be challenged, if necessary, in court.

Pasadena Police Chief David Mullican was not available for comment, but a deputy chief, Jerry Alpaw, confirmed that both Duke and Mylette were no longer working for the department. Asked why, he said, "I can't tell you."

Mylette purchased Duke as a pup and Psenda said Pasadena spent $20,000 to have the dog trained at a special school. The 3-year-old dog is used to sniff out drugs and to assist officers on patrol, said Psenda.

Last year, in competition with dogs from all over the state at the Texas Police Olympics, Duke placed second in drug detection and sixth in patrol competition.

Mylette said he was transferred from the K-9 division, putting Duke out of work, because the officer's home telephone number was allegedly changed without the Police Department being notified. Mylette denies that the number was ever changed.

Showers dot E. Texas

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thundershowers developed today over East Texas, along the upper Texas coast and in the northwest corner of the Panhandle, breaking a long dry spell for some areas.

The shower activity was triggered by a system of low pressure that was moving slowly westward into Southeast Texas.

In addition to the areas where rain was noted, cloudy skies also covered portions of the Trans Pecos and the Edwards Plateau before dawn.

Fair skies were reported across the rest of Texas. Temperatures were in the 70s, along with light and variable winds.

The forecast called for fair to partly cloudy skies through Thursday. Showers and thundershowers were expected to continue in Southeast Texas and along the coast, before moving slowly westward.

West Texas — Fair to partly cloudy, with widely scattered thundershowers northwest and extreme southwest into tonight. Fair to partly cloudy Thursday. Highs 86 north to near 103 Big Bend valleys, except near 90 mountains. Lows 65 north to 75 extreme south, except 55 mountains. Highs Thursday 92 north to near 102 Big Bend valleys, except near 90 mountains.

North Texas — Fair to partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers central and east Thursday. Highs near 90 southeast to near 100 northwest. Lows near 72.

East Texas — Mostly clear to partly cloudy with a chance of thundershowers and thundershowers decreasing Thursday. Highs 92 to 95. Lows near 72.

South Texas — Fair to partly cloudy through Thursday with scattered thundershowers coastal plains and southeast. Highs 96 most sections to near 100 southwest and Hill Country. Lows mostly in the 70s, except near 82 along the Coastal Plains.

Rent-free apartments closed over mortgage

HOUSTON (AP) — A former apartment complex owner whose complex was foreclosed on after he provided free housing for the needy says he now plans to "build a new city with rent-free apartments."

The 64-unit Severne Apartments were purchased Tuesday by Med Properties for $525,000.

Former owner Walter Rode said last week he had been providing rent-free housing to the needy since last May on instructions from God. He also said he stopped mortgage payments on the complex and was not paying the utility bills.

"God will provide," he predicted last week after the electric company turned off power to the complex.

But Rode, 43, did not receive the donations he expected, and the complex was sold Tuesday after a lively round of bidding at the Harris County courthouse.

Rode said he was not disappointed that his charity housing project had failed.

"When an old door is closed, a new one is opened," said Rode, 43, a native of Germany. "A man has to go on."

He added, "This is the beginning of something new. I will build a new city with rent-free apartments."

Rode said he has other problems to settle: a foreclosure on his house in Sugar Land, a town near Houston; a threatened repossession of his Mercedes Benz automobile, and a pending divorce.

Rode said he bought the apartment complex with money he saved from working as a welder, a ship engineer and an offshore oil platform technician.

The apartment was a success, but last May Rode said he received a message from God that instructed him to provide rent-free housing for the poor. He also stopped paying the apartment bills and last week said he owed about $440,000, including the mortgage payments and utilities.

A spokesman for the new owners said the complex will be renovated and that the remaining residents, many of whom are out of work or were left homeless by a tornado, will have to move.

FREE HEARING TEST SET FOR BIG SPRING THIS WEEK

Free Electronic Hearing tests will be given at Bellone Hearing Aid Office Thursday thru Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m., August 4th & 5th.

A factory-trained hearing aid specialist will be at the Bellone office to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using the current electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown. Audiograms available for your medical records. Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly.

Now hearing better? — Sure! — When you've never had anything tested, be sure to have a hearing test and find out whether the modern methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing test will be given at the Bellone Hearing Aid Center — 600 Johnson, Big Spring, Texas.

Up and down inflation

Inflation has bounced up and down like a yo-yo during the administration of conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain.

Now her tight-money policies are paying off handsomely. It wasn't easy, however. When Thatcher came into power in mid-1979, she was greeted by a 10.3 percent inflation rate. Within a year, it hit 21.9 percent but has been wending its way downward ever since.

For the 12-month period ending in June, inflation in Britain averaged a mere 3.7 percent, making it the lowest in 15 years. That's good enough to make it one of the lowest inflation rates in the world.

Countries that are faring better currently include Japan, 2.7 percent; West Germany, 3 percent; and the United States, 3.5 percent. In contrast, the average inflation rate in the European Common Market is 7.2 percent.

Many people believe it's a choice between inflation or recession. That's nonsense. If it were a fact, Italy and France, which are rocked by double-digit inflation, would have booming economies today. Instead, both of those nations are saddled with a double dose of misery — soaring prices and high unemployment.

The only sensible answer is to keep inflation constantly in check with a firm grip on government spending and sound fiscal policies in both good and bad economic times.

"I know it's a blind date but don't worry, you'll love her... she has a very nice personality!"

Filling Habib's shoes

Phil Habib had to step down as the president's special representative in the Middle East. But Robert McFarlane didn't have to succeed him — especially since Henry Kissinger was probably available.

So there are deep riddles in the latest personnel shuffle in the administration. The reading of the riddles shows once again how much the Reagan White House is showbiz at the top, sharp elbows underneath, and putting out fires all the way.

Large, impersonal developments in the Middle East doomed the Habib mission. The ambassador committed himself to full withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon, leaving behind a sovereign government in complete control of the country. But the regime of President Amin Gemayel lacks the cohesion for such a role. Indeed, the Gemayel government cannot even make its writ run to the Shouf mountains half an hour outside Beirut, where the Druse sect is in open revolt.

With Gemayel unable to maintain order, Israel was not prepared to withdraw from parts of southern Lebanon fringing its northern border. Israeli stickiness gave a pretext to Syria to maintain its occupation of northern and central Lebanon.

In those conditions, Habib became a liability. When his Lebanese base crumbled, his relations with Israel soured and the Syrians refused to receive him. Not only did he have to leave, but State Department officials were pushing for a replacement months ago.

McFARLANE knows the Middle East fairly well. He managed the account for the State Department while serving as counselor to Secretary Haig. As deputy to National Security Adviser William Clark, he has the prestige to make the Israelis and Syrians take notice. Still, unless there were reasons for getting him out of the White House quietly, three considerations militated absolutely against giving him the Habib job.

Negotiations of a particularly subtle kind, for one thing, lie at the heart of the position. But McFarlane has almost no experience in diplomatic negotiations.

In arms control, an area more critical than the Middle East, moreover, McFarlane played a central role. He is a weapons expert himself. He has been almost alone in the National Security Council staff in sensing the full interplay between a flexible arms control policy and relations with Russia, with the allies and with the Congress. He had been an aide, and continued to be a chief point of contact, for Brent Scowcroft, chairman of the President's Commission on Strategic Forces. The Scowcroft commission, and especially its heavyweight members, had conceived, and sold to the Congress, an MX basing scheme as a track to flexibility on arms control.

Lastly, a figure far more suited to the Middle East job than McFarlane was probably available. Henry Kissinger knows the area well, and has personal ties of long standing with both the leading Israelis and President Hafez Assad of Syria. Far from being, like Habib, a partisan of an all-out Lebanese solution, he has always understood that a solution would have to come bit by bit.

TO BE SURE, Kissinger said he would not take the job in the Middle East. But he also resisted — in his own mind at least — the task of heading the commission on Central America, which he accepted when the president asked him point blank on July 17. It is hard to believe he would not have accepted, if asked by the president, the Habib position, which fell vacant only five days later. So how come he wasn't asked?

White House personalities come into play at that point. Ronald Reagan is sensitive to the importance of being center stage. National Security Adviser William Clark is adept at clearing the stage for the star — witness the firing of Haig last year. This year arms control is the hot subject. Clark has recently made himself head of a new, senior group that draws arms control out of the departments and into the White House. So, presumably, he and the president don't mind pushing McFarlane, and with him Scowcroft and company, out of the arms control game.

Both Reagan and Clark are ex-Democrats, adept at dividing their old party. Giving Kissinger the Central American commission works to polarize the Democrats — especially since he brings with him to the commission such politically important figures as former party secretary Robert Strauss and Lane Kirkland, head of the AFL-CIO.

These machinations, unfortunately, are not subordinated to a longheaded sense of international strategy. The Reagan White House moves from fire to fire, unconstrained by any sense that words spoken and positions taken one day engage what happens on future days. It is perfectly capable of tapping Kissinger for a post on July 17 and McFarlane for a job on July 22 without sensing an inner tension. Nor does the president seem to see, since for him it is only changing one script for another, that dividing the Democrats on Central America is bound to wither their support on arms control.

One man who does see the connection is Secretary of State George Shultz. So hope for a decent outcome in all these critical matters seems more and more to depend upon him.

Living with another cheapens relationship

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been living with my boyfriend for over a year. I know this is wrong, but I get scared whenever I think of leaving him because I'm afraid to be alone. Pray that I'll have wisdom to know what is right. — L.F.

DEAR L.F.: Yes, I will pray that you will know what is right — but more than that I will pray that you will do what is right. I think you have come to realize that what you are doing is wrong in God's eyes, since you admit that you know it is wrong. But the problem for you is not so much what is wrong, but acting upon that knowledge.

God's Word, the Bible, makes it clear that sex outside the commitment of marriage is wrong. One of the Ten Commandments declares simply: "You shall not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14). The reason is because God has given marriage to us for our good, and the sexual relationship is to be confined to marriage. Ultimately if sexual relationships are treated casually, marriage itself — and therefore the family — is endangered. I stress this because I want you to realize that what you are doing is wrong in the eyes of God.

There is no shortcut to doing the right thing. God's will — which is perfect and best for you in the long run — is for you to break off this relationship. It will not be easy, I know, but I pray that you will have the courage to do what is right.

But beyond that, my prayer for you is that you will not only do what is right in this situation, but that you will come to see your own need of God and yield your life totally and without reserve to Jesus Christ. You need God's forgiveness, and you need his guidance in your life every day. You need strength to do what is right, and you need to discover God's perfect will for your life.

Turn to Christ. You are never alone when Christ is with you, and you can experience the joy that comes from knowing that you are a child of God and he is with you every day.

An old belief is that if your right ear rings, someone is saying good things about you. If your left ear rings, you are not being flattered.

Modern postage stamps came into use in 1840.

Tracks of my tiers

For whatever reason, society has decided an individual's life must exist on certain levels during a lifetime. These levels vary somewhat in socio-economic-geographic sections and subsections. But, for the most part, everyone is expected to hit them all.

Early in life, the plateau is the one of parental expectations: school, sports, walking without stumbling. Woven in as well are those tiers of peers, relatives, teachers and the faceless masses known as the world.

Those platforms continue into the phases of later life, usually in the form of education, career, family and finances. Some of the decorations include the basic financial independence, own-your-own-home and 2.3 kids.

Like the first plateaus, they are supported by a myriad of forces from casual friends to employers to close buddies to indifferent passer-bys. One looks for a certain job at this time in life; another expects a particular hair cut; still another looks for predictable middle-class behavior.

THE OUTSIDE pressure to achieve these goals is often subtle, sometimes soul-crushing. The push comes from those who care and those who merely demand. Regretfully, some bad tugs and wrenches come from the ones who mean the most.

"How much do you make? When are you getting a house? Where are those kids? Are you using that schooling? When are you settling down? What do you want to do? It's time you did this..."

It is time to reach another level, essay another tier, succumb to another's pressure.

As hard as civilization tries to fit us all into easily-labeled niches, not everyone fits the right ones on the same timetable as those passed.

OFFERING challenges and suggestions to others is easy, especially if one is totally ignorant of their desires, wishes and dreams. It is so much harder to help them climb at their own speed.

Like the mountain climber who pauses to enjoy the view, some people need the time to enjoy their living. And like the climber, they may decide to stay somewhere other than expected.

Briscoe headed in wrong direction

Dear Editor, In response to the "Around the Rim" of July 28, 1983, "Give Me Liberty" by Keith Briscoe, I would like to ask Mr. Briscoe how he feels his rights have been violated. Does he think that just because he is a part of a small minority that the majority of the people should give up their rights?

If Mr. Briscoe would be as kind as to look up and read our own American Pledge, he would find that yes, our nation was founded under certain basic rights but that it was also a "nation founded under God, indivisible for all." It is people like Mr. Briscoe that has helped create so much disparity within our country so that today we are so morally weak should we ever be attacked by a foreign power, the safety of our country is not an assured promise.

If we were under an atheistic rule such as Mr. Briscoe would prefer us to be under, his own opinions would be subject to censorship before being allowed to be printed.

Mr. Briscoe, I pray that God will enlighten you so that you may not have to endure the fires of Hell your opinions suggest you are assuredly headed for.

Thank you. DALE R.M. NELLES Knott, Texas

From Main Street to Wall Street

WASHINGTON — When E.F. Hutton talks, President Reagan listens — even at the risk of considerable political embarrassment.

In his 10 years as a Securities and Exchange commissioner, conservative Utah Republican John Evans has been the embodiment of Reagan's campaign pledge to return the nation to Main Street, U.S.A. He has been a champion of small business and the small investor's rights, an avid deregulator who has fought to break up the Wall Street securities cartel.

But instead of appointing Evans to a new five-year term, the president has been persuaded to replace him with Charles Cox, the SEC's chief economist and a man who's in solid with Wall Street. Cox's most ardent supporter is SEC Chairman John Shad, a former E.F. Hutton executive.

Conservative critics of the Cox appointment fear it signals the president's shift from Main Street to Wall Street Republicanism. My associates Indy Badwar and Donald Goldberg obtained internal SEC documents that seem to demonstrate that Cox favors big business over the small investor — though Cox denies such a bias.

Last November, Cox penned a lengthy memo that attacked a proposed SEC rule on corporate takeovers. The rule was designed primarily to take away the big investors' advantage when one corporation buys out another.

Cox complained that the rule would slow down the takeover process and, therefore, might deter some takeovers. "This will cause a net social loss," he wrote, "because the evidence clearly shows that takeovers are productive."

Many economists disagree, having concluded that takeovers by big corporations do less to spur the economy than investment of the same amount of money in a new enterprise.

As for the edge that big investors have during a takeover, Cox wrote: "The comment that professional investors have an advantage in the present system is correct. Professionals will have an advantage in any system. Professionals invest the time and resources to continually operate in the market... That is no problem, it is the way markets work in all lines of endeavor."

Economic ideology aside, Reagan's appointment of Cox is astonishing in light of the staunch Reaganites who wrote the White House in support of a third team for Evans. They include Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and hotel tycoon J. Willard Marriott Jr.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan urged Evans to seek reappointment, and for a while Utah's other Republican senator, Jake Garn, also appeared to favor Evans. But SEC Chairman Shad went to Garn's office and made an impassioned plea for Cox's nomination. Garn flip-flopped, and his position as chairman of the Senate Banking Committee assures that Cox will be confirmed.

WALL STREET CASTRO: While the world spotlight has focused on U.S. military moves in Central America, Cuba's Fidel Castro has been playing his own war games in the shadows. U.S. photo-reconnaissance cameras have photographed the unloading of 11 shiploads of heavy weapons in Nicaragua this year. Hi-tech intelligence has also verified the arrival of 1,200 Cuban military advisers on the scene. According to intelligence reports, one is a top Cuban general with combat experience in Angola.

— The U.S. show of force was requested by Honduras, whose leaders are disturbed over the Cuban intervention across the border. The Hondurans hope that the U.S. military presence will persuade the Cubans not to meddle in Central America.

— Castro has urged the Sandinista leaders to make concessions with democracy in Nicaragua. His secret advice, intercepted by U.S. intelligence, cited the late Salvador Allende, who was gunned down during a coup against his Marxist government in Chile. Allende's mistake, said Castro, was to continue democratic traditions rather than impose the left-wing dictatorship on the country.

— In private conversation, President Reagan has blamed Castro for precipitating the crisis in Central America. Castro was turning Nicaragua into a base for the subversion of El Salvador and a possible attack against Honduras, the president said.

New businesses opening soon

A Strike-It-Rich store will open in the old Prager Men's and Boy's Wear Store location in downtown Big Spring very shortly. They intend to be operating before school starts.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies will be held soon for the new Wal-Mart in Coronado Plaza. They will open with 120 employees! David Peter is the new manager and he has expressed pleasure with the caliber of applicants for the various jobs.

Round-Up Tank Lines Co. is being forced to new facilities at the Big Spring Industrial Park to take care of the growing demands for the company's products and new larger sized tanks. When the relocation is completed several months down the road, it will require additional employees.

Monday marked the grand opening of the new Swartz Women's Furs and Fashions in Midland. The sumptuous store is located at 4410 North Midkiff in the Courtyard Mall which is adjacent to the Midland Park Mall. The grand opening was celebrated with a champagne reception which was attended by many longtime Big Spring customers. The crowd far exceeded the expectations.

It would be worth your drive to Midland just to see this store with its mauve and grey door, brass columns, crystal chandeliers, marble floors and counters, spacious, elegant dressing rooms, and stunning appointments.

The opening of the Midland store will not diminish the stock or service of the Big Spring store. Both will have the usual full selection of furs and clothes of best quality, according to Andrew Swartz.

Jack Y. Smith is currently vice president of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, which means he will probably be the next president of this group. In the meantime, he is one of 26 people who have been nominated to serve on the review committee which will be appointed by the governor to make final recommendations on Block Grant funding. The governor will appoint 12 of the 26 to serve, and we need Jack on this committee!

The Domino Tournament finished on a high note again this year. The Jaycees did a good job of putting it together and getting three television stations to cover it. Bill Nehls and Dr. John Myers headed up the efforts to put on this project.

The 59th Annual Heward-Glasscock County Old Settlers Reunion will get underway Aug. 5 at 9 a.m. in Comanche Trail Park. Sy Roberts will serve as emcee. At 10 a.m. there will be a horseshoe pitching, washer throwing and tobacco spitting contests, and entertainment by the Federal Prison "Outlaw Band." At noon there will be a meal in which the whole community is invited. Those over 70 eat free.

In the afternoon, special recognition and awards will be given to the eldest lady and man, native coming the greatest distance, and many other categories. Following that will be a fiddlers contest.

In the evening, a dance will be held in the Dora Roberts Community Center.

All these events are open to the public.

There's been some interest in getting an active UT alumni association going in the Big Spring area. A representative from the UT exes office will come and help get one started if there is enough interest. Call this office and leave your name and phone number if you would like to be involved in an endeavor of this nature.

A free seminar on financial planning will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in the Permian Building, Conference Room 210. The purpose is to give basic information in investments and family financial planning. If interested, call 263-1451 for more information and reservations.

Junior rodeo a great success

The Howard County Junior Rodeo turned out a big success. Approximately 350 contestants entered 500 events. A big thanks for such a great rodeo goes to Don Richardson, Dennis Poole, Naomi Hunt and Peggy Kalina, our extension agents. Also to our adult leaders, 4-H Council members, 4-H members and friends of 4-H.

The District 6 Fashion Review was held Friday, July 29 at Rankin High School. Five local girls competed in this. The girls and their winnings are: Dana Dolan, Junior I, blue ribbon; Shauna Richardson, Junior II, red ribbon; Sherry Perry, Senior Day-Time Tailored, red ribbon; Dawn Underwood, Senior Day-Time Non-Tailored, blue ribbon; and Robbie Dolan, Senior Active Sportswear, blue ribbon. Robbie and Dawn were also selected as first alternates to state competition to be held in September in College Station.

Capon raisers, are you ready for your birds? The time is drawing very near for the birds to be here. Dennis Poole will let us know as soon as possible when the birds will arrive. Don't wait until the last minute to have your pens ready. Here are some suggestions you may find helpful in preparing your pens.

For your birds to do their best, they must be raised in confinement. Experience has shown that confinement-reared birds grow faster, tend to be more uniform in size, are of better quality, and are safer from predators than capons which are allowed to run loose. However, if you have nice green grass, it would be an excellent idea for you to turn your birds out to graze for a couple of hours late in the afternoon, and return them to their pens for the night.

Be sure to provide: 1. Ample floor space within the pen, three to four square feet per bird. 2. Adequate ventilation — after birds are 8 weeks of age, leave their pen or house wide open. If the water in the pen is not freezing, it is not too cold for the birds. The cooler the weather, the more your capons will eat, and the better they will grow. Cooler weather also improves their feather quality. 3. Provide three to six inches of clean soft, absorbent litter for the pen floor — pine shavings, pine sawdust (obtained from local cabinet shops), peat moss, cane fiber, peanut hulls or bird sand. Do not use hay or newspapers. These litters need to be turned once per week, but cleaned daily, to keep the soft, dry and absorbent. This is especially true during the winter months.

Blow sand (which incidentally, shouldn't be hard to find) works real well because the wet matter will leach through the sand much faster and can be raked daily to remove any manure.

Remove any and all hard objects, (boards, bricks, rocks, sticks, etc.) or any other material on which birds may injure themselves. Do not provide roosts for your capons. This is just another source for the birds to bruise or rub a blister on their breasts.

Have your pens ready and also your feed and water. Don't wait until the birds arrive to get started.

As I am writing this, I am also getting ready to attend 4-H Camp held at the Texas 4-H Center on Brownwood Lake. I wish more of our Local 4-Hers were planning to attend. I have heard this is a great place and am looking forward to it. I will share with you all the greatness of it when I return.

Shy, country girl makes record bid

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Once upon a time, there was a young girl who sang gospel music on Sunday mornings in the First Baptist Church in Diboll and worked as a bookkeeper 47 hours a week.

Because she was so shy, she never really told anyone that she really wanted to become a country music star. Her knees shook at the thought of performing in front of large audiences.

But one day, the girl was whisked out of the backwoods country town and transformed into a country singer called "Debra Lynn," singing her heart out in Nashville, the hub of the country music business.

It was the story book beginning of a tale that Debra Lynn Breazeale hopes will have a story book ending in country and gospel music and fame and fortune. She is 18 years old and is thinking about that. Her mind is on singing, recording and her good fortune. "You'd think this is only something that could happen in a story," she said.

Two weeks ago, the fairy tale took her to Nashville, where she cut her first 45 record as Debra Lynn.

"You should just go see somebody record to see what all goes into the making of a record," she said. "They told me I would be very, very lucky if my song charts. It's very difficult for new artists. But I will try to. It would let me down if it doesn't chart."

Charting and hitting are the optimistic action verbs here. The hit chart she and her mother talk about is the list of the top 100 country-western tunes. They are hoping that one side of the Stargem label recording with "Lonely Love Songs" and "My Daddy Raised Me Up (To Put My Foot Down)" makes it into the magical 100.

Mrs. Breazeale (pronounced like the country) has high hopes for her daughter.

"She's been told 'My Daddy Raised Me Up' would make it to the top. We backed her in this all the way," the mother said.

Mrs. Breazeale won't say just how much that backing cost. But she will admit that the five-hour studio session cost more than $5,000.

She and her husband, a self-employed logging contractor, have paid for their only daughter's record. It was something no one in the family had given a thought to until last Oct. 30, when Debra won the American Sweetheart Beauty Pageant in Lufkin.

"Until then, the only place she'd really ever sung was in church," said Mrs. Breazeale. Wearing a party dress she'd borrowed the night before, she won in modeling, beauty and talent.

A friend who convinced her to enter the Lufkin pageant also convinced her to enter the National Valentine Sweetheart Pageant in Baldwin, Miss., in February. Debra had one week to learn her song and to record a "demo" with background players for the contest.

When they made the 10-hour drive home, Debra had earned fourth place in beauty, third in talent, and the confidence of a talent manager who promised to find her a recording contract.

"She was very honest about the facts, and she told me how hard it was to make it," Debra said. "She saw potential in me. And she's a Christian lady. That makes all the difference in the world."

By March, Debra had a contract. She and her family spent several days in Nashville. There, she recorded her numbers with a group of professional back-up musicians, who offered to stand her up on a Coke box to reach the microphone. Debra stands five feet tall.

Soon she will begin traveling to a number of radio stations to promote her record, which should be released within the next six weeks. She's quit her bookkeeping job and is concentrating on her career, practicing music and, for the first time, taking singing lessons.

"This has all happened so fast. I really want to become a singer that can inspire people, to just pour my feelings out through them. Everybody tells me my voice is different. And it's strong," she said.

"If this record doesn't make it, I'm going to try again. I'm going to make it one day."

4-H leader honored by Gov. Mark White

Howard Armstrong of Ackerly was recognized by Governor Mark White recently for his outstanding services as a Volunteer Leader in his community. The award is presented annually to deserving persons and groups by the Governor's committee on volunteerism.

Armstrong received this recognition for services in agricultural for youth, in particular. He has served as a volunteer adult leader in Howard County 4-H program for more than 10 years, and was recognized in 1980 as the Outstanding Adult Leader, a director of the Howard County Livestock Show and the Howard County Fair.

Armstrong was instrumental in strengthening the youth livestock shows at the Howard County Fair and has received state-wide recognition for his support and work in the 4-H and F.F.A. junior steer program.

He is director of the Texas Club Calf Association which sponsors several junior prospect steer and heifer shows in Texas each summer.

Armstrong and wife, Pearl, have assisted several youths in their beef cattle project work, often caring and for them and transporting their steers to shows when their parents were unable to do so. They also help in selecting and securing projects for the youths.

Dear Abby

Organization formed to help the incontinent

DEAR READERS: If you don't have a bladder control problem you're lucky. But if you are among the estimated 10 million Americans (or Canadians) who are incontinent to an annoying degree — or know someone who is — read on:

When you sneeze, cough or laugh, do you feel a wetness on your clothing? When you come home, do you find that you can't get your key in the door fast enough to make it to the bathroom in time?

What can a man wear after a prostate operation for the days (or weeks) he has a little "dribbling"?

These are kinds of questions and concerns that have brought a few men and women together to form a self-help group for people with urinary or bladder control problems. They named their new organization HIP — for Help for Incontinent People.

For a copy of the organization's helpful newsletter send a long, stamped (20 cents), self-addressed envelope to HIP, Box 544, Union, S.C. 29379. The newsletters are published four times a year. They are free, but because this is a non-profit group, contributions are welcome. I have seen the newsletter and assure you it is well worth sending for.

DEAR ABBY: For four years now I've been desperately trying to please my husband. I've had long hair, short hair, blond hair, dark hair; lost weight, gained weight — you name it. He's never satisfied.

It's not just my personal appearance. I always seem to have the wrong dinner ready, the wrong clothes picked out for him, etc. I'm basically an insecure person and, needless to say, I don't need this kind of pressure. I've talked to him about it and he says, "Oh, don't worry about it. I love you."

My question is this, how can he possibly "love" someone who apparently doesn't make him happy? And why did he marry me?

DEAR ERROR: These are questions you should ask your husband. My question to you is: Why are you putting up with someone who apparently isn't making you happy? Complaining to me will not improve your marriage. Counseling — for both of you — might. And a course in self-assertiveness might build your self-esteem and give you the security and confidence you need to demand respect and appreciation.

Please take these suggestions seriously and let me hear from you again.

DEAR ABBY: A girlfriend of mine is planning a big church wedding, and she's asked if my 4-year-old son would be the ring bearer. My answer was yes.

My question: Who pays for my son's tuxedo? Nothing was said about it. Answer soon, as this is very important.

TIGHT BUDGET DEAR TIGHT: The attendants are expected to pay for their own wedding attire unless the bride's family is very well-to-do and offers to pick up the tab.

Dr. Donohue

Surgery leads to anemia

Dear Dr. Donohue: Years ago I had stomach surgery done. Since then I have been tired and felt anemic. In a recent visit to my doctor, he mentioned that I should be getting vitamin B-12 injections. Does having part of one's stomach removed have an effect on the blood? Can one get anemia from that? Why B-12 by injection rather than by mouth? — Mrs. E.T.F.

Your digestive tract plays a major part in vitamin B-12 metabolism. And the substance it uses for this called the intrinsic factor. When you eat foods containing B-12, like meats, that vitamin has to get from the stomach into the bloodstream to be transported to the rest of the body. The intrinsic factor is like an usher. It takes B-12 by the hand and leads it across the intestinal wall and safely into the bloodstream.

Many things happen to disturb this nice relationship. Some people lack the intrinsic factor altogether. So the vitamin does not get into the blood. They have what you have seen referred to here before, I'm sure, as pernicious anemia. The answer, then, is to provide the vitamin by injection.

But your case is different. You have the intrinsic factor, but because of your stomach surgery you may not have normal amounts of it, not enough to do the ushering job for the amount of B-12 you need. There is a relative lack of intrinsic factor, more or less proportional to the amount of your stomach removed in surgery. Patients usually don't develop a full-blown anemia, but may require B-12 booster injections from time to time. And with part of the stomach gone, they often don't absorb sufficient iron or folate (another B vitamin) quite so well and may become anemic from that situation.

I hope I've answered all your questions. If not, the booklet, "Vitamins: Facts You Need To Know" might. Other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Do you often have a "stomach ache". If so your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

250 home economists to meet in Amarillo

COLLEGE STATION — The progressing image and future roles of home economists will be the major theme as about 250 county Extension home agents gather in Amarillo for the annual meeting of the Texas Association of Extension Home Economists, August 1-3.

Featured speakers during the three day program will include Earl Younts, Director of Field Services for the Cotton Board, of Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Zerle Carpenter, Director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service; and Dr. Elizabeth Haley, Dean of Home Economics at Texas Tech University.

In a special session open to the public, Susie Woodward, Executive Director of Images by Susie of Palo Alto, California will make a presentation on "Progressing Images for Women." The session, which focuses on wardrobe coordination, cycles in clothing trends and image projection, is scheduled for Aug. 3.

Other speakers include Doung Manning, president of Insight Books of Hereford, who will speak on "People Need People;" and Ardis Draper, retired Deaf Smith county agent who will relate the "Heritage of Extension."

Educational tours are planned to the Amarillo Boys' Ranch and the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum where the home economists will get a behind the scenes look at the textile department.

Six agents who have been selected to receive the Distinguished Service Award, highest award given by the national Association of Extension Home Economists, will be recognized during ceremonies at the meeting, along with almost a dozen other award winners.

BBB offers advice on water softeners

MIDLAND — YUK! That's the reaction most persons have when they taste West Texas water. And because of the water's hardness and objectionable taste the Permian Basin sees its share of water softening and conditioning equipment — some of it good, some of it bad, according to the Midland Better Business Bureau.

"It's understandable that many people are persuaded to buy expensive water conditioning equipment when it is claimed the unit will produce water equivalent to bottled water," said Linda Truitt of the BBB. "The truth is a water softener is not designed to purify water, so before you're conned, study the facts."

Ms. Truitt said water is softened by the use of an appliance that removes sediment by filtration and invisible dissolved solids by a process called ion exchange.

She said the two most used methods of reducing water hardness are buying or renting equipment or by contracting a company to provide water conditioning service.

Ms. Truitt warned by some companies and businesses may promise more than they can deliver. She made these six suggestions for persons thinking about water conditioning equipment:

- One should be aware that no single type of water conditioning appliance will cure all water problems. Watch out for claims that promise the unit will produce water equivalent to bottled water. Although there is a purifier available that uses reverse osmosis to remove the solids found in water, it affects only the water channeled through one faucet — usually in the kitchen.

- If a person is not sure he wants to invest in equipment, he should look for a company that will rent a water conditioning unit. If a person is considering renting a unit, he should check to see if part of the rental cost can be applied toward the purchase.

- Since prices can vary dramatically from one company to another, shop around. If the company charges a flat fee that includes the appliance and installation a customer may be paying too much, particularly if his house is already plumbed for water conditioning equipment. The most reliable companies will send a qualified representative to review each particular situation, determine costs and provide a written estimate.

- Don't be pressured into buying a unit by a fast-talking salesman. Some salesmen will try to close a sale by claiming a customer is getting a special price today that won't be available tomorrow. One should do his homework by gathering manufacturer's pamphlets, reading consumer product testing magazines and talking to those who already own water conditioning equipment.

- Find out about service after the sale by asking about warranties and the availability of parts. In the past, a few companies claimed the appliance had a lifetime warranty, but were not around a few months later to honor that warranty.

- Look for equipment that bears the Gold Seal of the Water Quality Association.

Tax consolidation sought

FORT STOCKTON, Texas (AP) — Officials are working this week to try to consolidate the tax collections of Fort Stockton, Pecos County and the Fort Stockton, Iraan and Imperial school districts.

Pecos County Judge Charles Warnock said that attorneys for the city, county, school district and a group of concerned residents will attempt to work out a tax consolidation plan this week. He said it will then be discussed next Monday at a Pecos County Commissioners Court meeting.

Billy Moody, who leads the Taxpayers for Economy in Government, said the consolidation would save the school district $18,000 in tax roll preparation and mailing costs.

Fort Stockton Mayor Bruce McKenzie said the consolidation would save the city about $15,000 a year by eliminating a tax-collector position.

Moody's group was formed last January in an effort to accomplish the consolidation. More than 1,000 names were gathered on a petition in May asking for an election on the proposition, but not all the names were those of registered voters, and the petition fell seven names short of the needed 765 registered voters.

Rather than attempt another petition, the group has suggested that the county gather taxes for the city.

FBI starts investigation of failed Midland bank

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent said today his agency is looking into the possibility of alleged federal banking law violations at Metro Bank, which was closed by the Texas Banking Commission last week because of excessive loan losses.

An agent in the Midland FBI office, who asked to not be identified, told the Midland Reporter-Telegram that officials at the bank had asked the FBI to investigate the bank's records.

State Banking Commissioner Robert E. Stewart had said Metro Bank had lost $6.5 million to $7 million because of poor lending practices.

The banking commission said banks are declared insolvent when their loan losses far exceed equity capital.

Metro Bank, in a published statement of condition as of June 30, listed its total assets at $36.3 million, its equity capital at $1.95 million, its total liabilities at $32.6 million and its allowance for possible loan and investment loss at $1.7 million.

The bank was closed Friday and a new bank was chartered Sunday under the ownership of a group of Panhandle bankers who reopened it Monday under the name Mid-Cities National Bank.

The new owners of the bank were identified as Edgar G. Blair, David M. Warren Jr. and Billy D. Riley, all of Borger, and Jerry Powell and Roy Ryan, both of Lubbock.

Banking officials said the transition went smoothly.

The FBI is investigating employees at Metro Bank, "from the janitor on up to the highest levels," the agent said. He said the FBI also was considering the possibility that the bank was defrauded by customers.

"We don't know much yet. There are a lot of records to go through," he said. "You're dealing with a lot of documents and audit trails. At this point we don't know what we have or don't have."

Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. spokesman Alan Whitney told the Reporter-Telegram that as a matter of routine, the FDIC conducts an investigation into the reason for a bank failure, then turns the records over to the FBI if there are potential violations of banking laws involved.

Whitney said the new owners agreed to pay the government an $850,000 purchase premium.

Mid-Cities will assume about $29.9 million in deposits and other liabilities and buy the failed bank's securities.

BANK WITHDRAWAL — Tami Maggard of Midland waits outside the Mid-Cities National Bank. She said she intended to withdraw all of the money from her checking and savings accounts. The Mid-Cities National Bank received its charter July 31 and took over deposits of the recently closed Metro Bank of Midland. Maggard said she thought she would be better off banking with larger bank.

Interest-rate rise may slow economy

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — While some people are ooing and ahing at the economy's big comeback, many investors are feeling the pain of a new surge in interest rates.

A backlash from higher interest rates does not seem to have hit the overall economy. Not yet, anyway. Business sales are booming, more people are getting their jobs back, and the inflation rate is holding to a fairly moderate pace.

But some economists think it is only a matter of time before the effects of high interest rates slow the economy.

For investors the impact already is clear. In just the past three months:

—The value of publicly traded stocks has fallen $100 billion. That is one-eighth of the much-celebrated $800 billion gain for stocks since the market launched an historic rally last August. The rally began, incidentally, shortly after interest rates began falling and hopes arose for an end to the 1981-82 recession.

—Holders of long-term government bonds have lost about 13 percent of the value of their investment. A 30-year government bond with a face value of $1,000 now fetches only $881 in the secondary market, compared with $1,010 in early May.

—The government is being forced to pay 1.5 percentage points more interest on the six-month Treasury bills it auctions to the public. Since the government sells about $6 billion in such bills each week, the higher interest rate means big money. At this week's auction, the six-month bills were sold at an average yield of 9.56 percent, compared with just over 8 percent in early May.

—The value of the dollar has risen nearly 7 percent in relation to the currencies of other major industrial countries, according to the Federal Reserve Board. This week the dollar has soared to record levels in relation to the French franc, the Italian lira, the Norwegian kroner and the currencies of certain smaller countries.

While a stronger dollar is good news for Americans visiting abroad and for Americans buying imported goods in this country, it has hurt U.S. exporters, whose goods are less attractive to foreigners whose local currencies have lost value.

On a broader scale, the increase in U.S. interest rates since May has prompted the policy-makers of Britain, Canada and Japan to raise their rates, too, in order to slow the flow of money from their countries to the United States.

While that has helped their currencies' performance against the dollar, it has slowed those countries' economic improvement, since higher rates tend to depress business activity.

Business Analysis

Germany has taken a different tack, choosing to lower its interest rates in order to stimulate its economy. The consequence: the German mark has tumbled to an eight-year low in relation to the dollar.

So why doesn't the Federal Reserve Board, as master of the U.S. monetary policy, do something to stop interest rates from rising? The answers are not simple.

If the Federal Reserve Board made more money available in the banking system, thereby pushing interest rates lower in the short run, it might trigger fears among investors of a new round of high inflation. That, in turn, might lead to even higher interest rates in the long run.

The Federal Reserve seems to have chosen a different path. It has tightened the availability of money in the banking system as part of its strategy to hold down inflation. That is one of the reasons that interest rates have been on the rise.

Bad memories prompt

sale of Davis mansion

FOT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A friend says bad memories and the unhappiness in the house convinced Cullen Davis to sell the mansion that was a focal point in his murder trials and an issue in the divorce battle with the woman he built it for.

Chuck Wilson, president of Cambridge Companies of Dallas, and a spokesman for the Davis disclosed the sale Friday of the 16,000-square-foot mansion and the 181-acre estate that surrounds it.

Wilson would not disclose the price to be paid by the development firm, but a friend of Davis told the Dallas Morning News the figure was near $60 million.

Cambridge Companies plans a commercial and residential development on part of the estate.

"It's just a fabulous piece of property," said Wilson. "It has a lot of potential."

Davis was holding a prayer meeting at the estate Friday and could not be reached for comment.

But a Davis friend, who asked not to be identified, told the newspaper that Davis decided to sell the mansion "because of the bad memories and unhappiness in that house."

Davis was charged with murder in 1976 after his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, and Stan Farr, 31, the boyfriend of Davis' estranged wife Priscilla, were shot to death at the mansion.

Davis was acquitted of murder in 1977, and acquitted of murder-solicitation charges in 1979 that stemmed from an alleged plot to hire the killing of the presiding judge in his divorce trial.

The industrialist built the mansion for Priscilla in the late 1960s at a cost of $3.9 million. He moved out in 1974 during the couple's divorce. After the divorce he moved back in and has lived there with his third-wife, Karen, since 1979.

Savings rates climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting today, savings institution and commercial banks may pay as much as 9.81 percent interest on six-month savings certificates, up from 9.56 percent in the past week.

They may pay as much as 9.36 percent on three-month certificates, compared with 9.13 percent last week.

The new rates are a result of Monday's auction of Treasury bills in which yields on the six-month bills, which had risen for 11 straight weeks before falling back last week, rose to their highest level since last Sept. 13.

Yields on three-month bills, which had risen in eight of the previous 11 weeks before declining last week, are at their highest since last Aug. 9.

In rates that don't change for two weeks, savings institutions may pay as much as 10.70 percent and commercial banks as much as 10.45 percent on 1½-year certificates.

A minimum deposit of $2,500 is required for the three- and six-month certificates. There is no government-required minimum for the longer-term certificates.

Survey says mothers shouldn't work

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of employed people questioned by Working Woman magazine said they thought it was bad for children, especially those under age 6, to have a mother who works outside the home.

But most people surveyed also said a woman's need for self-fulfillment at work is "just as important as her children's need for the best child care."

In the survey, released Monday, 56 percent of the employed men and 43 percent of the employed women surveyed said career-oriented women should not be mothers.

The survey showed 63 percent of the employed men and 52 percent of the employed women questioned thought that having a mother who works outside the home is bad for children, especially those under age 6.

Blue-collar male workers and college-educated women are least opposed to mothers having jobs outside the home, according to the survey, which will appear in the magazine's August and September issues.

The survey found that 66 percent of the male college graduates and 52 percent of the male blue-collar workers who responded thought employed mothers weakened the family, compared with 46 percent of the female college graduates and 43 percent of the blue-collar women.

Both sexes strongly agreed on the need for improved day-care facilities. According to the survey, 78 percent of the men, 89 percent of the women and 91 percent of the working mothers with children under 12 said better day-care is needed.

Sixty percent of the men and 70 percent of the women said that "a woman's need for self-fulfillment through work is just as important as her children's need for the best child care."

The survey was taken by the Public Agenda Foundation, a non-profit research organization headed by pollster Daniel Yankelovich. It was based on personal interviews during August and September 1982 with 846 people nationwide who worked at least 20 hours a week.

The margin of error was plus or minus 6 percentage points.

New construction spending rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — New construction spending rose 2.6 percent in June, but the outlook for higher interest rates could cut long-term gains for the building industry, a government official says.

Robert Dederick, the Commerce Department's undersecretary for economic affairs, said the possibility of higher interest rates "poses a major risk" to the industry. And he said that the federal budget deficit must be pared to ease lending rates.

The gain in new construction spending during June followed a climb of 3.1 percent the previous month and 1.5 percent in April, the Commerce Department said Monday.

It said work on buildings and other construction put in place during June was valued at an annual rate of $259.8 billion compared with a revised $253.2 billion in May, with a slight 1.2 percent decline in public construction more than offset by a 4 percent gain in private building.

That increase in private building included a 4.5 percent rise in housing construction, mainly single-family homes, and a 3.8 percent rise in spending on commercial, industrial and other non-residential buildings, the agency said.

It was the first advance in spending for business construction since the 3.2 percent gain in January, and was led by a 5.5 percent rise in spending for office units.

Files $7 million suit against government

Ex-Marine denies she was pregnant

EVA BRODINE
...hopes to restore honor

WEIRTON, W.Va. (AP) — A Marine who was kicked out of the service when officials said she was pregnant has filed a $7 million suit against the government, saying she hopes to restore her honor even though her dream of a military career is all but dead.

Eva Brodine, 19, was robust and athletic when she signed up for the Marine life two years ago. She loved the competitive spirit.

"I wanted everything about it," she said in a recent interview.

But five weeks later, her career ended when military doctors at Parris Island, S.C., said a urine test indicated she was pregnant. Her own doctors insisted she wasn't.

Her lawyer, James R. Fitzgerald of Pittsburgh, says the lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court July 13 could pave the way for women to seek justice in a military system whose statutes ignore them.

But Miss Brodine and her family say they wish it never had to come to that.

"The Marines wouldn't even talk to us," said Miss Brodine's mother, Ruth. "All we wanted was for them to sit down and talk to us and change her discharge."

Lt. Dennis Sawyer, a spokesman for the Navy at the Pentagon, said the government "declines to comment because of pending litigation."

A letter from the Navy's Office of the Judge Advocate General in Alexandria, Va., earlier informed the Brodines that their request for compensation was rejected, based on a 1960 court decision that those injured while serving in the armed forces can't sue the government for damages.

"The books haven't been updated to apply to women," Mrs. Brodine said.

Miss Brodine, who has lost 30 pounds and appears gaunt and nervous, said she is still shaken from the experience. She said she has taken business courses, but can't get up her nerve to get a job.

The summer after high school graduation, Miss Brodine went to Parris Island for basic training, under a program that promised her a college education upon completion.

"It's a tough one to get into, that's why I wanted to join," she said.

One test of physical ability involved hanging from a steel bar.

"By your third test, you have to hang on it for 70 seconds," she says. "On the first test you have to hang for 16. I did it for 70 on the first test."

Miss Brodine said her menstrual period was a month late when she arrived at boot camp, but she attributed it to the excitement of graduation and enlistment. Then, the urine test results came.

She said a follow-up examination was performed by a medical aide, and a doctor in the room did not examine her.

"The aide just touched my stomach and said 'Oh, she's six to eight weeks pregnant,'" she said.

"The doctor was just holding my hand and saying, 'It'll be OK.'"

Miss Brodine said she never underwent a blood test.

"I figured they knew what they were talking about," she said.

The Brodines made an appointment at an abortion clinic, but said it turned out an abortion wasn't necessary. Pregnancy tests by a private doctor and a clinic determined that she wasn't pregnant, and hadn't been in the last month.

Her initial discharge papers said she was let go "at the convenience of the United States government."

The family, which Mrs. Brodine described as "very pro-military," protested.

Six months ago, with the help of her congressmen, Miss Brodine got an amended honorable discharge notice.

But, "It was wrong," Miss Brodine said. "It said that the discharge was my fault."

Last month, Miss Brodine received another amendment. It said she was given an "erroneous enlistment," which was the military's fault. The Brodines say the papers still aren't good enough.

Miss Brodine said she hopes the suit will clear her name. And, she said, she still supports the military.

"If I could be 110 percent sure that I could go back in and not be hassled about this, I would go in," she said.

Newswomen says station won't give equal pay

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The woman who replaced Christine Craft as co-anchor at KMBC-TV testified Tuesday that the station's management gave her the clear impression they would never pay a woman newscaster as much as a man.

Brenda Williams, who replaced Ms. Craft as anchorwoman in August 1981, said station management indicated — without ever specifically saying so — that she would be paid substantially less than the male anchor, Scott Feldman.

"They left me with the impression that the position they had established was for a female co-anchor and that the person who filled that position was only going to get so much and it was substantially less than what the male anchor was getting," Miss Williams testified.

Miss Williams was the last witness for the plaintiffs in the $1.2 million sex discrimination suit filed by Ms. Craft, said Dennis Egan, the attorney for Ms. Craft.

Miss Williams, who still holds an anchor job at KMBC, testified she was offered the job Aug. 28 after she listed her qualifications in a memo to Ridge Shannon, the station news director.

Shannon told her in a meeting a few days later that she should ask for a salary "in the same ballpark" as what Ms. Craft had received, Ms. Williams said. She said she thought that was between $35,000 and $40,000.

Ms. Craft had testified earlier that she started at $37,500 in January 1981.

The pay issue is one of three allegations Ms. Craft makes in her suit against Metromedia Inc., former owners of KMBC. She also alleges that her removal from the co-anchor position was discrimination based on sex and that management fraudulently misrepresented the job.

Miss Williams said she told Shannon that the weeknight co-anchor job would effectively double her former responsibilities as weekend anchorwoman and reporter. She said she asked for between $70,000 and $80,000, based on her experience and qualifications.

Shannon told her that "wasn't even in the ballpark they were considering," Miss Williams said.

Iowa drops license plate slogan

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Worried that it would be misunderstood or even ridiculed, Iowa transportation commissioners reversed themselves Tuesday and voted not to put the slogan "Iowa: A State of Minds" on the state's license plates.

"What's a guy going to think, seeing an Iowa plate in a Chicago parking lot?" asked commissioner Austin Turner of Corning. "It isn't clear. Maybe it means we're a bunch of pompous asses."

The slogan was supposed to be a compliment to Iowa's education system and has been adopted by the Iowa Development Commission as its promotion theme to attract high technology industry.

"It wasn't sold," said Commissioner Del Van Horn of Jefferson in an interview after the 6-0 vote to drop the slogan. "And it wasn't our job to sell it, either." The IDC should have done a better marketing job, he said.

Until two weeks ago the commission had been set to keep Iowa's plates sloganless. But under last-minute pressure from Gov. Terry Branstad two weeks ago, the commission adopted the "Minds" phrase for Iowa's plates beginning in 1985.

Nearly all reaction was negative, however, and over the weekend, Branstad said the issue had gone past the stage of amusing banter and was undermining the state's promotional efforts. "I would not object," he said in a letter, if the commission changed its mind.

"We've proven that democracy works in Iowa," declared commission chairman Robert Rigler of New Hampton.

Commissioner Darrel Rensink, Sioux Center, said he never wanted a slogan in the first place. "I'm just not excited about license plate slogans," he said.

"I've never been to New Mexico because they've got 'Enchanted' and I don't buy Idaho potatoes because they've got 'Famous Potatoes' on their plates," he said.

Two decades ago, Iowa had "The Corn State" slogan on its plates, but that was removed when officials decided it gave the unwanted connotation of Iowa having nothing to offer but agriculture.

Organized labor and manufacturing concerns said they wanted "Quality and Productivity" on the plates and hundreds of other suggestions were entertained.

State lawmaker, wife seek secret divorce

ODESSA (AP) — State Rep. Jay Gibson said Tuesday he and his wife last week obtained a divorce they had sought under assumed names.

Gibson, D-Odesa, said he and his wife, Susan, filed the divorce petition in state district court here Sept. 27, 1982 under the names Henry and Susan Golson to avoid publicity while trying to reconcile.

State law requires a 60-day waiting period between the filing of a divorce petition and the granting of a divorce.

"My interests were in trying to reconcile," Gibson said. "It seemed more important to work on that than to work on publicity."

Gibson said that after the divorce decree was signed by a judge on July 25, he filed an amendment to the document changing the names to the couple's real names.

Gibson, 33, is an attorney. Mrs. Gibson, also 33, is a bank officer and a publisher. They had been married for 14 years and have two children.

Farm union boss lashes wheat policy

DENVER (AP) — National Farmers Union President George Stone said on Tuesday that it was a "disastrous decision" by Agriculture Secretary John Block to lower the 1984 loan rate for wheat to $3.30 per bushel.

"Lowering the loan will mean simply one thing for farmers, lower prices," Stone said in a news statement issued here. The National Farmers Union is based in Denver.

"Because of the record wheat carryover, prices will remain at or near the loan level for the marketing year," Stone said. "For taxpayers the secretary's proposals simply mean the potential for another round of unnecessarily large deficiency payments next year. If the secretary follows through and lowers the loan rate the wheat deficiency payment in 1984 could run as high as $1.15 per bushel."

Block last Friday announced plans to lower the government's loan rate to wheat farmers by 35 cents per bushel in 1984. He also said he would reduce the amount of acreage for which farmers are paid under the Payment In Kind program. The program compensates farmers for not planting crops when there is a surplus.

"For wheat producers, the incentives in the '84 program are so much poorer and the sacrifices so much greater than this year's program, there simply won't be enough participation," said Stone. "This is bound to re-ignite surplus production."

Stone, however, praised Block's announcement of a new long-term grain agreement with the Soviet Union. "This will provide some degree of market stability in an area where it is greatly needed," he said.

Bowie Kuhn
Baseball Commissioner
Feb. 4, 1969
Dec. 31, 1983

Commissioner Kuhn resigns

BOSTON (AP) — Bowie Kuhn resigned as baseball commissioner today, telling club owners he was giving up his fight to keep the job to spare the game "a terrible ordeal" that would have made it more difficult to find a successor.

Kuhn's resignation came as the owners opened their annual summer meeting, where a replacement for him was the top item on the agenda despite last-ditch maneuvering by his supporters to save his job.

He said club owners now have an opportunity to find a new commissioner who can "rally baseball together." He said he rejected a plan that would have retained him as an administrator but without the commissioner's title.

Kuhn, whose second, seven-year term was due to expire Aug. 12, did win a few extra months on the job, asking and getting unanimous approval to stay until Dec. 31 or until a successor is selected.

"My decision is final, irrevocable and emphatic," he said. "I will not review it."

Kuhn said he had considered resigning for some time, even though he had vowed when he was up for re-election last November to force a vote rather than quit.

But he failed to gain the 75 percent majority required from each league for re-election, winning enough American League votes but blocked by five "no" votes — two more than necessary — in the National League. The crucial NL votes against him were cast by the New York Mets, St. Louis Cardinals, Houston Astros, Atlanta Braves and Cincinnati Reds.

There were no indications this week that Kuhn or his supporters had been able to soften the opposition, and in fact anti-Kuhn forces expected to gain a sixth vote, from the Chicago Cubs.

Kuhn told a news conference he wanted to stay, but decided to drop the fight "because I felt the game would go through a terrible ordeal if I continued, and it would make it more difficult to find a new commissioner."

He said he had "always labored to serve the best interests of the game" and had concluded "that I can serve their (the club owners') best interests by withdrawing my name."

"This decision was not easy for me," he added. "I am proud of the accomplishments of professional baseball during my time as commissioner. But I make this decision without malice or rancor."

He said he told owners: "My love and affection for all of you will never change."

Kuhn's decision and the elimination of the Aug. 12 deadline gave the search committee headed by Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig more time to find a successor, while providing for a smooth transition of power.

"I have concluded now that I can serve their best interests by withdrawing my name. My decision is final, irrevocable and emphatic. I will not review it."

Bowie Kuhn

Kuhn said, "but I concluded on balance that it was not the way to go. I had some problems with it, but they were not legal. Legally, it would go. It goes back to what I said before, to what it would have done to the respect and dignity of the office."

Kuhn said he thought with him out of the way, the club owners now would be able to agree on a commissioner.

"It may still take some doing," he said. "It's possible it could come before Dec. 31. That depends on who comes forward. They (search committee) have some fine men under consideration. They might have some fine man come forward whom they had not considered, and that could also change the vote."

While the search committee has kept its recommendations secret, several names have been rumored as Kuhn's successor.

They include former Treasury Secretary William Simon, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee; Peter Ueberoth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee; Jack Valenti, former baseball TV executive who is now president of the Motion Picture Association of America, and Dr. A. Bartlett Giamatti, president of Yale University. All four reportedly have opted out of consideration, however.

Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins and a staunch Kuhn supporter, said the new commissioner should be "a man inside baseball who knows baseball."

Asked if he had any major misgivings about his decision, Kuhn smiled and said, "Well, there are still things to be done. The division between the players and the clubs has been one of my greatest concerns."

Kuhn, who reigned during the seven-week players strike in 1981, said, "I sense that we are on the threshold of change in that area. I think the players and the clubs see the necessity of improving relations. I would have loved to have taken part in that."

Franchise shot down

Council votes USFL Gunslingers out of stadium

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — In a move that virtually shot down the United States Football League Gunslingers, the City Council voted not to amend a 1939 deed restriction that prohibits pro sports at Alamo Stadium.

"From the city's point of view, the issue is over," Mayor Henry Cisneros said after Tuesday's closed-door council session.

Cisneros vowed, however, that he remains committed to having professional football in San Antonio.

Nevertheless, the council voted not to take up an amendment that would have cleared the way for the franchise to play in San Antonio.

"Don't buy your season tickets," an elated Councilman Van Archer said as he left the session at City Hall.

"It's dead," Councilman Joe Webb said.

The controversial deed centered around the terms of the San Antonio School District's 50-year lease of Alamo Stadium to Clinton Manges' South Texas Sports, the owner of the USFL franchise.

The city included the deed restriction in 1939 when it sold the land for the stadium to the school district for $10. That restriction bans profit-making activities and various professional sports at the stadium.

Cisneros said the terms of the lease would have given Manges, a millionaire rancher-banker, virtual control of Alamo Stadium.

In reinforcing the council's decision, the mayor threatened the city would go to court to enforce the deed restriction if the school district and USFL owners try to use the stadium for professional games.

"City resources will be committed to defend the deed restrictions," he said.

School Board President Dr. William Elizondo suggested Cisneros shifted his support to others who want to bring professional football to San Antonio, saying the mayor supported the USFL plan until about a week ago.

"They muffed it," Elizondo said.

"The mayor had urged us to try to get South Texas Sports to bring the franchise to San Antonio. He supported us all along until a week ago. I don't know why he changed. It may have been other people were interested in bringing other franchises to San Antonio," Elizondo said.

He said the district will contact all parties involved in the issue on Wednesday to see what legal action might in the wake of the council's action.

Manges had warned over the weekend that if the Council didn't remove the deed restriction by Thursday, the USFL franchise would be moved out of San Antonio.

Manges could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

There was some opposition to the council move.

Councilman Frank Wing criticized the council for not going along with a compromise that would have amended the deed restriction under certain conditions.

"A majority was asked to vote on a try for a compromise, but a majority voted not to do anything," he said.

A proposal circulated for review Tuesday evening called for amending the deed restriction. The conditions included limiting the seating capacity to 35,000 and a reverter clause stating that if the USFL didn't make it at Alamo Stadium, the restriction would be reinstated.

That would prevent South Texas Sports from using the stadium for other events, such as rock concerts.

Under the lease between the SASD and South Texas Sports, the stadium was to have Superturf installed and initially enlarged to 30,000 seats. Eventually, it would have 60,000 seats.

Cisneros said such an expansion would have made the area extremely congested.

Witness: Hill knew of shipment

DALLAS (AP) — A convicted cocaine dealer testified in the drug smuggling trial of Lauriberto Ignacio that Dallas Cowboy Tony Hill knew about a shipment of cocaine smuggled from Brazil to Dallas.

Elias Murback was the first witness to take the stand as Ignacio's trial began Tuesday in federal court here.

Ignacio, a former professional soccer player, is charged with conspiring to import and distribute South American cocaine in Dallas.

Seven people are charged in the case. Five have pleaded guilty and one remains at large in Brazil. Ignacio's case is the first to come to trial.

Ignacio's attorneys have subpoenaed Hill, a wide receiver, and Cowboys' defensive end Harvey Martin. But the players' attorneys asked U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter on Monday to quash their subpoenas.

Porter delayed a ruling, saying he first wanted to see if government witnesses implicated the players.

In his testimony, Mur-back said Hill was aware of a cocaine smuggling trip, but he denied that he had told agents that Martin knew of the drug transaction.

Hill called Murback's testimony "utterly ridiculous."

"I don't know anything and I would swear to that on a stack of Bibles. I don't know anything because I am not affiliated with those people," Hill told the Dallas Times Herald in an interview from the Cowboys' training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Murback, who has pleaded guilty to distributing cocaine and to another drug charge, said he financed the cocaine smuggling operation in Dallas and convinced Ignacio to make trips to Brazil to bring the cocaine back.

Murback said Ignacio, 39, made the first trip to Brazil in September 1981. But he said Ignacio did not bring a shipment back because he was afraid "he was (being) watched."

However, Murback said he later found out that Ignacio had brought back the cocaine.

Ignacio's attorney,

COWBOYS' TONY HILL
...witness links him to deal

William McGarvey, said Monday that he had summoned Hill and Martin, anticipating they would be able to refute federal investigative reports linking Hill and Martin with Ignacio and three other government witnesses who have pleaded guilty to drug charges.

McGarvey later asked Murback if he had told federal drug agents that Martin and Hill were aware of that smuggling trip, referring to an investigative report.

The report states that Murback, along with Emilio Fares, Waldir Martins, and Martin and Hill knew about Ignacio's 1981 trip.

"I think I said some people were aware, but not all of those you mentioned," Murback said, and he denied that he had ever mentioned Martin.

"I didn't say he (Martin) was aware," Murback said.

"How about Tony Hill?" asked McGarvey.

"Yes," Murback replied. Both Martin and Hill have denied any involvement with cocaine.

Martin has said he does not know Ignacio, and his attorney, Dan Guthrie of Dallas, has called Martin's subpoena "frivolous." He said that by McGarvey's admission, Martin's testimony is unnecessary to Ignacio's defense.

The Times Herald reported Tuesday that Ignacio was offered a contract with the Cowboys in 1974, but that the deal fell through when the team learned Ignacio was under contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

Ignacio was a pro soccer player for seven years in Brazil and one season with the now-defunct Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League in 1971.

Sox slip by Texas

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Playing the fading Texas Rangers might be just the medicine the struggling Boston Red Sox need, but Manager Ralph Houk says it really doesn't make that much difference.

The Rangers, Houk said after the Red Sox beat Texas 6-5 Tuesday night, "are playing one (ballclub) that isn't very hot. That sort of makes things equal."

The loss was the Rangers seventh in a row and 21st in their last 26 games. The win ended a three-game losing skid for Boston.

Jim Rice and Gary Allenson each drove in a pair of runs and Glenn Hoffman's solo homerun broke a 4-4 tie to carry the Red Sox, who had trailed 3-0 after the first inning.

"We had some opportunities," said Texas rightfielder Larry Parrish, who hit two homers and drove in three of the Rangers five runs.

American League

Bob Stanley picked up his 20th save, but the ninth inning was almost a repeat of Boston's recent close losses.

Pinch-hitter Mickey Rivers led off with a single, moved to third on Bobby Jones' pinch-hit single and scored on Buddy Bell's fielder's choice. Parrish singled before Stanley struck out George Wright to end the game.

Indians 3-4, Orioles 1-3

Pat Corrales was sitting in first place in the National League East two weeks ago with the Philadelphia Phillies. For that, he was fired.

Now, Corrales is sitting on top of a four-game winning streak as manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Cleveland, the only team not in contention in the American League East race, swept first-place Baltimore 3-1 and 4-3 Tuesday night. Since Corrales replaced Mike Ferraro as the Indians' pilot on Sunday, the team hasn't lost.

Andre Thornton drove in three runs in the doubleheader and Bud Anderson got saves in both games. Bert Blyleven, out

Astros win in 12

SAN DIEGO (AP) — With the count 3-0 in the top of the 12th inning, Houston second baseman Bill Doran wasn't expecting the Astros' third base coach, Denis Menke, to flash him the hit sign.

"I had to blink," said Doran. "Hitting eighth in front of the pitcher, I never see the green light on 3-0."

But this time, Doran got the go-ahead. He responded by belting reliever Sid Monge's next pitch over the left field fence for a two-run homer, giving Houston a 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.

National League

The Padres scored twice in the bottom of the ninth to send the game into extra innings after Astros starter Mike Madden had shut them out on just two hits through eight innings. A leadoff single by Kurt Bevacqua in the ninth caused Astro Manager Bob Lillis to bring on Dave Smith, who recorded two outs before Tony Gwynn's run-scoring single broke up the shutout.

Frank DiPino relieved Smith, but his first pitch bounced to the back stop, allowing pinch-runner Luis DeLeon to score from third with the tying run.

Ray Knight's leadoff single in the 12th, his third hit, started the winning rally for Houston. Denny Walling ran for Knight and was moved to second on a sacrifice by Alan Ashby. Doran, batting .244, then came through with his fifth home run of the season.

Pirates 10, Phillies 3

Through the good times and bad times, the Pittsburgh Pirates are trying to keep everything in perspective.

"This is a loose club," Pirates' Manager Chuck Tanner said Tuesday night after his team clubbed the 19 days with a stiff right shoulder, pitched six shutout innings in the opener.

Blue Jays 10-13, Yankees 9-6

Before the largest crowd in Toronto's seven-year history, 45,102, the Jays stomped back from 6-2 and 9-7 deficits in the opener and broke open the nightcap with six runs in the fifth. Rookie Matt Williams, in his major-league debut, lasted five innings for the second-game victory.

In the first game, Roy Lee Jackson, 8-1, set a club-record with his seventh consecutive victory.

Brewers 5-3, Royals 1-2

Ted Simmons homered on Larry Gura's first pitch in the bottom of the ninth for Milwaukee's second victory. The Brewers, now 1 1/2 games out, won their first game as Ben Oglivie drove in four runs, three of them with a tie-breaking sixth-inning homer.

Angels 2, Twins 1

Ron Jackson, a former Twin, hit a two-run homer in the ninth to lift the Angels to victory in a game filled with controversy.

With no outs and the bases loaded in the eighth inning, Gary Ward hit what appeared to be a single up the middle. Darrell Brown was on second and took off for third. He and shortstop Rick Burleson collided and then Brown went for home after Houston Jimenez had scored, apparently making the score 3-0.

Umpire John Shulock called runner's interference on Brown. Brown was out and Ward's single became a fielder's choice and Jimenez had to return to third.

White Sox 7, Tigers 5

Greg Walker, who's been in a slump, and Greg Luzinski, who most certainly has not, led the White Sox, who are 5 1/2 games in front in the West.

Walker knocked in two runs, one with an opposite field homer, and Luzinski—who had two home runs Monday night—singled in two runs in a three-run first for Chicago.

Mariners 15, A's 12

The Hendersons, Dave and Steve, each had two homers, with Dave knocking in five runs in a wild shootout in Seattle.

Oakland's Carney Lansford matched Henderson's five RBI and two homers and a single, while teammate Dwayne Murphy drove in four runs.

Philadelphia Phillies 10-3. "We've come back from relative obscurity in the first half of the season. We're basically the same club we were then."

Only six weeks ago the Pirates were 13 games under .500 with a firm hold of fifth place in the National League East. But since the All-Star break, they have won 21 of 28 games to take the top spot.

Johnny Ray led the Pirates' attack, going 5-for-5 with three RBI. Dave Parker contributed a three-run triple.

Giants 7, Braves 3

Dave Bergman powered the Giants with a career-high four RBI on a double and two singles.

Mike Krukow, 7-6, gained the victory, but walked off the mound after throwing two warmup pitches in the sixth. He strained his back in the fifth when his spikes got caught on the mound rubber.

Greg Minton came on to earn his 13th save.

Mets 5, Expos 2

George Foster had three hits, including his 18th homer, and Craig Swan recorded his first victory since April 7 to lead the Mets.

Swan, 2-5, pitched seven innings and gave up both runs on five hits. Jesse Orosco went the final two innings, allowing one hit in picking up his 10th save.

Cubs 5, Cardinals 3

Steve Lake keyed a four-run spurt in the second inning with a two-run double that carried the Cubs over St. Louis.

Dickie Noel, 4-6, helped his own cause in the second when he followed with a run-scoring single. Ryne Sandberg then drove in Lake for the inning's final run.

Dodgers 3, Reds 1

Alejandro Pena, 9-5, gave the struggling Dodgers their first complete game since June 19 with a four-hitter over the Reds.

Mike Marshall, extending his hitting streak to 12 games, drove in the tying and go-ahead runs with a two-run single in the fourth. He later scored on Jack Fimple's groundout.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of those days that is not too important but you can work out matters connected with public relations, writings, delving into the difficulties facing you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be more careful with communications and know exactly what others expect of you. Be careful in handling machinery.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be more particular with property interests so that you gain and not have loss. Pay off debts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure you know what it is you want in personal affairs otherwise you can get very confused. Use tact at social affairs.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You want to renege where some responsibility is concerned but this would only bring you trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are forceful with a friend you will meet with stiff resistance. A sudden change of plans proves fruitful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You cannot understand why one in business cannot agree with your plans but respect the other person's views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care that one who thinks differently from you does not cause you to change any plans you have made.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you keep that agreement you made with your mate, even though you want to renege on it now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Carry-through with some agreement you made with a partner. Make necessary revisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although your work may seem annoying today, go ahead and do it just the same and gain the profits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you are looking forward to a good time, this may not come to fruition. Persevere and all will be well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You hope that the situation at home will rectify itself, but it will take more time because of complications.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will early in life understand the difficulties connected with making a living and who will have the feet firmly on the ground, so early plan for a fine education so that your progeny can become quite successful in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Due to Cathy Richardson's request for Peanut Butter Ice Box Pie we have had a tremendous response from readers. Many thanks go to all of you who submitted recipes for this dessert.

Cathy Richardson also submitted two of her favorite recipes.

Share your favorite recipes with Recipe Exchange readers. Send them, and any requests, to Herald Recipe Exchange, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. If you would like us to feature a particular cook you know tell us about the person. We would love to hear from you.

PEANUT BUTTER PIE
Nell Clark
and Donna Downing

1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup peanut butter
3 ounces cream cheese
10 ounces whipped dairy topping
Mix first three ingredients together then fold in dairy topping and pour into graham cracker pie crust. Chill.
Both ladies sent in the recipe separately. Mrs. Downing got the recipe from her aunt in Alabama.

PEANUT BUTTER CHIFFON PIE
Nell Clark

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs, separated
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
1 tsp. vanilla
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup whipping cream
Combine gelatin, sugar and salt. Add milk, slightly beaten egg yolks and peanut butter. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until gelatin is dissolved and mixture is smooth; add vanilla and chill until slightly thickened whip egg whites until foamy and gradually add brown sugar while continuing to beat until mixture will hold peaks. Fold into peanut butter mixture.
Whip 1/2 cup whipping cream and fold into mixture. Pour into graham cracker crust and chill until firm. Whip remaining whipping cream with 1 Tbsp. sugar. Spread over pie. Garnish with chocolate curls.

PEANUT BUTTER TREAT — Several peanut butter pie recipes were received by the Herald Recipe Exchange in response to a request by Cathy Richardson. One of the recipes is Peanut Butter Pudding Treat.

FLUFFY PEANUT BUTTER PIE
Charlotte White of Lenorah

1/2 cup peanut butter
8 ounce cream cheese, softened
9 ounce package prepared whipped topping
1 9-inch crust (crumb or pastry, as desired)
1/4 cup finely chopped peanuts (optional)
1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup milk
Whip cheese until soft and fluffy. Beat in peanut butter and sugar. Slowly add milk, blend thoroughly. Fold in topping. Pour into crust, sprinkle on nuts. Freeze until firm. Serve slightly softened.

PEANUT BUTTER PUDDING TREAT

3/4 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup chopped peanuts
3 Tbsp. melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
3 cups milk
3 beaten egg yolks
2/3 cup creamy peanut butter
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Stir together oats, 1/2 brown sugar, peanuts and butter or margarine. Spread mixture in bottom of 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool; crumble.
In saucepan, combine remaining brown sugar and flour. Blend in milk and egg yolks. Cook, stirring constantly, one minute more; remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter and vanilla. Cover surface with waxed paper or plastic wrap to prevent skin from forming. Chill.
In parfait glasses, alternate layers of pudding and oatmeal crunch mixture. Serves 5-6.

BEEF STROGANOFF
Cathy Richardson

2 pounds top round of beef, cut into 1/2 inch slices
4 Tbsp. butter
1 Tbsp. minced onion
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 cups sour cream
1 can cream of chicken soup, undiluted
Salt
Nutmeg
Pound meat with mallet until it is 1/4 inch thick. Cut in strips about 1 by 3 inches. Melt half of butter in heavy skillet. Sauté onion until yellow. Add meat strips to onion and cook over high heat about 5 minutes. Salt lightly during cooking.
Pour into casserole and leave over low heat to warm meat, remaining butter and saute sliced mushrooms. Add to beef. Stir in sour cream and undiluted cream of chicken soup. Season with a dash of nutmeg. Serve over buttered noodles or rice.

PRALINE & CREAM PIE
Cathy Richardson

Crust for 10 inch pie:
1/2 cup melted oleo
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Mix together and spread on cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Press into pie pan. Reserve about 1 Tbsp. for topping.

For filling, soften 1 quart of vanilla ice cream. Pour 1/2 jar of caramel ice cream topping onto crust. Top off caramel with chopped pecans. Spread softened ice cream on caramel-pecan layer. Pour rest of ice cream topping on top and sprinkle with crust crumbs.
Set in freezer for 6-8 hours before serving. Serve small portions.

CHOCOLATE ZUCCHINI CAKE
Donna Jackson

1/2 cup soft oleo (1 stick)
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
4 Tbsp. cocoa
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. cloves
1/2 cup sour milk
2 1/2 cup flour
2 cups grated zucchini
6 ounces of chocolate chips or mini chips
Cream oleo, oil and sugar. Add eggs, vanilla and sour milk. Mix in dry ingredients. Beat well for 2 minutes at medium speed. Stir in zucchini. Add chocolate chips to top of batter or stir in. Bake 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

RICOTTA COOKIES
or
ITALIAN WEDDING COOKIES
Donna Jackson

1/2 pound butter or oleo
2 cups Ricotta cheese (15 ounces)
2 cups sugar
2 tps. vanilla
4 cups flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
2 eggs
Cream butter and sugar. Add cheese, eggs and vanilla. Add dry ingredients and mix. Drop from teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet shape with floured fingers if desired.
Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes. May be light brown for cake-like texture or golden brown for crisp cookie. Frost with thin colored powdered sugar frosting. Cover and store in refrigerator.

'Real' seal makes selecting real cheese easy

Whether it's a sandwich, a salad or cheesecake, people like the taste of cheese. Increasingly, they are finding that along with cheese's delicious flavor come convenience (it melts in 5 minutes or less), high dollar value (no waste to trim), as well as high nutritional value (2 ounces of Cheddar provide 28% of the average adult's Recommended Dietary Allowance of protein and 51% of the calcium RDA). Because Americans are, for example, topping more tacos and ordering more cheeseburgers, both total and per capita commercial disappearance in the U.S. reached record levels in 1981.

The dairy industry sold almost 4 billion pounds of all types of cheese last year, for an average of 17.4 pounds per person. These figures are part of a consistent 30-year trend of increased cheese sales, total and per capita, that reflects cheese's steadily growing popularity.

Although people like and want real cheese, they don't always get it.

Use butter to keep flavor in cookies

If you want cookies to taste as good after storage as when freshly baked, use butter. In fact, butter cookies taste better when they are stored, because the butter flavor is allowed to develop.

Campaign

started to inform public

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is joining in a nationwide Food and Fitness campaign which is the joint effort of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the private sector. The year-long campaign is designed to provide the public with information about food, nutrition and exercise, and the effects on the health and well being of all segments of the population.

whether they are shopping at a foodstore or dining out. This often occurs because they are confused about the difference between genuine cheese and imitations and because packaging for the two products or prepared foods containing one or the other is frequently quite similar.

At the dairy case, shoppers may find a variety of real and imitation cheeses. The difference between the two foods is that real cheese is "from the cow," made only from real milk or milk products, while imitations are manufactured using vegetable oils and, in some cases, plant proteins. Pasteurized process American cheese and Mozzarella cheese are the most frequently imitated and two of the most popular real cheeses.

Several people think that pasteurized process cheese, cheese food and cheese spread are not real dairy products. Some consumers also are confused about cold pack cheese and spreads. Although processed to varying degrees, they are all genuine dairy foods because their basis is 100% real cheese.

Process cheese, cheese food and cheese spread are made from one or more natural cheeses which are ground, mixed, melted and heated to pasteurizing temperature at which bacteria and molds that cause aging and spoilage are destroyed. According to the federal standards governing the composition of all genuine dairy foods, they may contain such ingredients as emulsifiers, spices and coloring.

Whether buying process American cheese slices or chunks of Monterey Jack, to be sure to get a package of real cheese, read the label. Labels on real cheese list dairy ingredients, such as milk and cream, and do not mention vegetable oils.

Reading the label, while strongly recommended by consumer experts when buying anything, can be time consuming. Because most shoppers want to make their food purchases in the shortest amount of time, American Dairy Association (ADA) has instituted a dairy identification program as a consumer service.
In cooperation with ADA, several dairy processors and food chains are placing ADA's "REAL" seal on their dairy foods to enable shoppers to tell the difference between real dairy foods and imitations. However, all real dairy products do not have the label yet.

NUMBERS DON'T LIE — Oklahoma educator John Saxon stands in his classroom at Oscar Rose Junior College in Midwest City, Okla., with his controversial textbook for algebra students. Even President Reagan has extolled the book, which is being considered for adoption in Texas schools.

It adds up

Algebra book gets good grade

AUSTIN (AP) — Three educators and a father with three children in public school say an algebra textbook proposed for statewide use is working wonders in the classroom.

The author himself, John Saxon, appeared before the State Textbook Committee on Monday to tout his book, which he said already is being used in California, Colorado, South Carolina and other states.

The 27-member committee switched its attention today to a showdown on world history textbooks between People for the American Way and textbook critics Mel and Norma Gabler of Longview.

The committee is reviewing $36.3 million in proposed texts for Texas, which is the single largest purchaser of textbooks in the nation. Replacements for books already adopted, Braille books, and freight and other costs will raise the total textbook bill to $65.5 million.

American Way, a national anti-censorship group, lobbied successfully during the 1983 Legislature for a bill to allow people to testify in favor of — as well as against — textbooks proposed for adoption.

Without the law, witnesses probably would have been prohibited from appearing on behalf of such books as Saxon's algebra text.

Houston real estate broker Gerald Robins, the father of three, said, "Scholarly research and the enormous variety of extremely positive test results have shown the Saxon format is virtually the Salk vaccine for math education."

Saxon, a retired Air Force colonel who teaches at an Oklahoma City junior college, told the committee he is preparing a special math text for Texas, and he added, "I'll put anything in it you want."

Sister Mary Magdalene Baca, a math teacher at Alamo High School in Amarillo, said the Saxon text is so good, "I don't even hear the normal complaints which accompany homework assignments."

Another teacher, Jane Andrajack of Sherman, said she had one class use a "popular, state-approved text" for algebra and another class of equal-ability students use the Saxon text, which is not in regular use in Texas schools.

She said on one 30-problem test, "Saxon" students averaged 21.26 correct answers, and the other students averaged 9.36. On a 168-problem test, "Saxon" students got 69 percent correct, the other students 55 percent.

Michael Metke of Texas State Technical Institute at Harlingen said students using the Saxon book had raised their algebra competency levels by three years within six months.

Asked later in an interview what was so unique about his textbook, Saxon said, "Algebra is not difficult, it is different. And time is required for things different to become familiar. The standard book presents a topic, has the topic test and moves to the next topic. I said what would happen if we had a book that reviewed everything every night for the entire year?"

Saxon was asked if the book makes the difference, not the teacher, and he replied, "Oh, certainly — the teachers will tell you that. Jane Andrajack, Sister Mary Magdalene ... they will tell you that an English teacher using my book can teach math just as well as they can using my book."

Textbook criticism Monday focused on alleged "sexism" in English, vocational agriculture, construction trades, geometry, trigonometry and algebra books.

Katherine Corneli of Richardson, a member of the Texas chapter of the National Organization for Women, objected to the use of "foreman," "deliveryman," "stockman" and "middleman" in a marketing textbook.

American Bar Association adopts new code of ethics

ATLANTA (AP) — The American Bar Association, ending six years of controversy and compromise, Tuesday adopted a model code of ethics that in most cases blocks lawyers from blowing the whistle on clients guilty of fraud or other white collar crimes.

The ABA's policy-making House of Delegates approved the new code by what sounded like a substantial majority in a voice vote, but some delegates predicted that individual states and the federal courts may choose to ignore part or all of the document.

The code, which replaces the ABA's 1969 ethics code, in itself carries no weight of law but will serve as a model for binding lawyer-conduct laws in the states and federal courts. Most states and the federal courts now follow the ABA's 1969 guidelines.

"What we've done today is destroy the national consensus that existed," said Frank Rosiny, a New York City lawyer who opposed adoption of the new code on behalf of the New York Bar Association. "Adoption by the states may not be easy ... there will be no rubber stamp," he said.

For varying reasons, adoption also was opposed by representatives of the California State Bar, the nation's largest state group of lawyers, and the Florida Bar.

Charles Kettlewell, a Columbus, Ohio, lawyer representing the National Organization of Bar Councils, told the ABA's 383 delegates that the new code "doesn't have strong support in this house (or) the states."

Rochester, N.Y., lawyer Anthony Palermo added: "We are dealing with something so fundamental to our profession that it requires a national consensus."

He said the new code, because it lacks such a consensus, "is not ready to be implemented."

The opposition lost out, much to the relief of some who have had to re-word and re-patch the new code numerous times.

"This represents a responsible piece of work," said Yale law professor Geoffrey Hazard, who worked with the commission that first proposed the new ethics rules. "I don't regard this as self-protective on the part of the legal profession," he said.

But the lawyer confidentiality provision, which allows whistle blowing only "to prevent the client from committing a criminal act that the lawyer believes is likely to result in imminent death or substantial bodily harm," has been criticized by lawyers and non-lawyers.

Gerald Richman of Miami said Florida lawyers decided to oppose the new code because of that "one problem." He said lawyers should be allowed to report a client's criminal conduct that would cause financial harm.

"The Florida Bar has lived with that for 13 or 14 years with no problem at all," Richman said.

As originally proposed in 1977, the new code was a much bolder document. But the ABA's policy-makers repeatedly insisted that it be watered down. A provision that would have allowed lawyers to turn in their clients to prevent fraud was rejected by the House of Delegates last February.

"This document is the result of a tremendous amount of compromise," said Boston lawyer Robert Meserve, who headed the drafting commission.

Trial ordered in death probe

GEORGETOWN, Texas (A) — Wandering handyman Henry Lee Lucas, who has claimed responsibility for about 100 slayings, appeared before a state district judge on Tuesday and was ordered to stand trial Oct. 17 in the 1979 murder of an unidentified woman hitchhiker.

A pre-trial hearing, at which Lucas, will enter a plea, will be held on Oct. 4.

The 46-year-old Lucas, handcuffed and with an armed guard standing nearby, had no comment on the court's proceedings. He wore a white shirt and blue denim trousers.

The five-minute court session before State District Judge John Carter included the appointment of Georgetown attorney Don Higginbotham as Lucas' attorney after Lucas signed an affidavit saying he could not afford to hire a lawyer.

After the hearing, Williamson County District Attorney Ed Walsh said he did not know if the murder charge here would be the first to be tried of the six murder cases Lucas is charged in.

"I don't know if we will go first. There's some others who have been ahead of us," Walsh said.

Lucas was transferred Monday to this Central Texas town to answer charges of killing an unidentified woman, believed to be in her mid-20s, whose nude body was found along Interstate 35 north of here.

Lucas talked with Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell after he was arrested in June in the slaying of 80-year-old Kate Rich of Ringgold.

Boutwell said Lucas told him that the Georgetown victim had been hitchhiking in Oklahoma City when Lucas picked her up.

The woman's body was found in a culvert beside the highway Oct. 31, 1979. Authorities said she was strangled and may have been raped after she was killed.

Boutwell drove Lucas from Montague to Georgetown for the arraignment. He said Lucas talked at length about the dangers faced by women hitchhikers.

DEATH RUMOR DENIED — President Hissene Habre of Chad was said by the Libyans to have been killed in a bombing raid near Faya Largeau in northern Chad. The government denied the president's death, but confirmed he had been at the front during fighting.

Military advisors en route to Chad; carrier delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, in a show of support for the government of Chad, is sending four military advisors to the Central African nation and ordering the aircraft carrier Coral Sea to delay its departure from the nearby Mediterranean. Pentagon sources said today the advisors will use French intermediaries to train the Chadian army in the use of 30 anti-aircraft missiles the United States is supplying to Chad, whose army is battling insurgents led by former President Goukouni Oueddei. The U.S. advisors are expected to return in a few days, the sources said. The Reagan administration and the government of Chad say Oueddei's forces are being aided by bombing missions flown by the air force of Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafy. Libya denies the charge. The advisors, dispatched on Tuesday, will train French advisors in using the shoulder-fired weapons. The French will in turn train the Chadians, who have no air defenses, the sources said. France has denied having any military advisors in Chad. Meanwhile, U.S. officials ordered the aircraft carrier Coral Sea, which had been expected to steam for the Caribbean Sea and U.S. naval maneuvers there, to delay its departure from the Mediterranean.

The sources said the delay was expected to last two or three days. Once in the Caribbean, the 62,000-ton carrier and its crew of 2,710 will take part in recently announced U.S. naval exercises off the coast of Central America. The four U.S. advisors left Tuesday for N'Djamena, the capital of Chad, to train the French in the use of the U.S.-supplied Redeye and Stinger missiles, according to the sources. N'Djamena is several hundred miles from the fighting in northern Chad. The advisors will return "in a few days," said the sources, who demanded anonymity. The sources also said U.S. officials are considering dispatching several sophisticated AWACS radar surveillance planes to Egypt to monitor Libyan air movements. The planes, equipped with radar that can monitor planes in flight 200 miles away, are scheduled to be in Egypt by Aug. 10 for Operation Bright Star, a joint exercise with Egypt. But the sources said today those planes may be dispatched before then because of the situation in Chad. Earlier this week, the State Department disclosed that the United States was sending Redeye missiles to Chad.

U.S., Libyan jets meet over Gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says two Libyan warplanes and two Navy F-14 jet fighters had a head-on encounter some 100 miles from the aircraft carrier Eisenhower over water claimed by Libya. Tuesday's incident over the Gulf of Sidra, which the United States considers international waters, involved two Libyan MiG-23s and two F-14s based on the Eisenhower. No weapons were fired, the Libyan MiG-23s turned to avoid collision, then descended and headed for shore, a Pentagon spokesman said. The Pentagon spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said Navy jets had spotted two Libyan planes one hour earlier — late Monday, Washington time — while operating over the gulf, but that no incidents occurred. He said that in the second encounter, somewhat north of the first, "the MiGs executed a turn, allowing the F-14s to establish themselves behind the MiGs. The MiGs then descended, accelerated and turned toward shore and the F-14s broke off pursuit." He said the interception took place more than 100 land miles from the carrier. On Aug. 19, 1981, two Navy jets shot down two Libyan SU-22 warplanes over the Gulf of Sidra. The Navy said its planes had been fired on. On June 29 of this year, Navy jets intercepted two Libyan MiG-23s as they approached the Eisenhower outside the gulf. The Libyan planes turned and went back to their base. Tuesday's incident comes the same week that Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy is helping rebel forces in an attempt to overthrow the government of President Hissene Habre of Chad, to the south of Libya.

Iran: Iraqi attack on post repulsed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said today that its forces repulsed an Iraqi assault on an Iranian outpost just inside Iraq's southeastern border and forced the attackers to flee, leaving 500 dead behind. Iraq reported the attack on Iran's Shalamcheh outpost just west of the disputed Shatt-al-Arab Waterway late Tuesday, claimed its fighters "completely wiped out" the Iranian defenders and mentioned nothing about casualties in its own forces. Shalamcheh is near Iran's strategic port city of Khorramshahr. "The Iraqi enemy failed to advance even on a small piece of land," Iran's state-run Islamic Republic News Agency counterclaimed in its version of the attack. "At present the Iranian forces are holding the upper hand and are fully dominant." It was impossible to confirm the rival accounts monitored in Nicosia because both warring nations ban foreign journalists from the front on a regular basis. On Tuesday, IRNA said Iranian soldiers captured Iraqi-held high country and border posts around Iran's frontier city of Mehran. The Iranian agency claimed that for the first time in the 47-month-old war, the area around Mehran no longer is threatened by Iraqi guns. Iraq's account, reported by state-run Baghdad radio, said major ground battles and air attacks flared in the Mehran area, 70 miles east of the Iraqi capital. It did not respond to the Iranian claims of victory but claimed Iraqi warplanes and choppers were "scoring direct and effective hits." Mehran is in the central sector of the battlefield where Iran launched its new offensive last Saturday.

Chad reports Libyan jets attacking with phosphorus

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — The government today claimed Libyan planes are dumping fragmentation and phosphorus bombs on northern Chad to rout President Hissene Habre's forces, and Pentagon sources said U.S. advisers have been sent to help his embattled army. Government officials in the capital said Libyan MiGs and Tupolev aircraft have continuously dropped the highly destructive bombs on Faya-Largeau, a northern oasis town that Habre's forces recaptured from the Libyan-backed rebels of former President Goukouni Oueddei last week. A French physician working in an N'Djamena hospital told reporters Tuesday that he had treated several people wounded in Faya-Largeau by the phosphorus bombs, which release tremendous amounts of heat. Fragmentation bombs are anti-personnel weapons that hurl shrapnel over a wide area. "Phosphorus burns are easy to recognize and the use of those bombs is truly horrible," said the doctor, who asked to remain anonymous. Libya has repeatedly denied any intention of intervening in the latest phase of Chad's 18-year civil war, and has denied that it has been bombing Faya-Largeau. In Washington, Pentagon sources said today the Reagan administration has sent four military advisers to Habre's forces to show them how to fire U.S.-supplied Redeye shoulder-fired, heat-seeking anti-aircraft missiles. The sources said the training will continue for "a few days." The Redeye missiles are part of a $10 million military aid package promised to Habre's forces. The Reagan administration has accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy of aiding Chadian rebels to extend Libya's influence through central Africa. Khadafy has accused Washington of backing Habre for the same reason. Chad's Information Minister Soumaila Mahamat today "categorically denied" rebel claims they had retaken Faya-Largeau. He said Tuesday that Habre's forces were driving Oueddei's rebels toward the small oasis of Kirdimi, 55 miles north of Faya-Largeau. He said large parts of the oasis were destroyed by Libyan bombs, and that casualties were heavy among the 10,000 residents and the combatants. It was impossible to verify the reports because journalists were not permitted to travel to Faya-Largeau. An N'Djamena government broadcast today said that three high-ranking aides to Goukouni had been killed near Faya-Largeau and 10 others captured. The broadcast gave no details. The Libyan news agency JANA, in a report from Tripoli, claimed Habre was killed in action near Faya-Largeau. Habre has been personally leading the anti-rebel drive. "It's part of Libya's psychological war against Chad. JANA has already killed President Habre several times before. Libya simply takes its hopes for reality," said Chad's charge d'affaires in Paris, Ahamt Allam-Mi, in denying the JANA report. French Defense Ministry sources in Paris said the first load of French anti-aircraft guns could reach Faya-Largeau today. Landlocked Chad is a former French colony which borders southern Libya. The French have refused the Habre government's pleas for troops. Habre drove Goukouni from N'Djamena last December and made himself president. Goukouni fled to Libya, reorganized his army with Libyan help and started a comeback that took him to Abeche, 400 miles east-northeast of the capital. In Washington, meanwhile, the Pentagon said Tuesday that two Libyan warplanes and two Navy F-14 jet fighters had a head-on encounter some 100 miles from the aircraft carrier Eisenhower over waters claimed by Libya. The incident over the Gulf of Sidra, which the United States considers international waters, involved two Libyan MiG-23s and two F-14s based on the Eisenhower. No weapons were fired, the Libyan MiG-23s turned to avoid collision, then descended and headed for shore, a Pentagon spokesman said.

LIBYAN INFLUENCE — This map locates a few tiny, struggling islands in the Caribbean where Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy is spending millions of dollars to win friends and influence. The Libyan outreach to the Caribbean is making many American leaders uneasy, causing some to fear American overreaction to Libya's intervention in the Chad civil war.

E.B. Thorpe Sr.

E.B. Thorpe Sr., 77, of Tow died at 4:30 a.m. Sunday at a local hospital following a short illness. Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Nalley-Pickie Rosewood Chapel with Dr. Phillip McClendon, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiating.

Vassar-McReynolds

Melinda Gail Vassar and David Randall McReynolds were united in marriage during a Saturday evening ceremony at First Christian Church.

The Rev. M. Victor Sedinger, pastor, officiated the 7 p.m. rite before an archway centered between two pillars decorated with pastel blue, lavender, pink and white carnations. Two spiral candelabra, accented with the same colors, and a unity candle of delicately twisted wax completed the setting. The couple faced the congregation as they exchanged wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duffy Vassar, 3201 Drexel. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carol Harrell of Stanton, and Ron McReynolds of Midland.

Virginia Martin, pianist, the bridegroom, Steve Jenkins and Veronda Vassar, sister-in-law of the bride, all vocalists, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown of sheer mist organza and Chantilly lace, accented with seed pearls.

The gown featured a fitted bodice with a sheer yoke and high neckline. Sheer Bishop sleeves ended with deep lace cuffs. The skirt fell from the natural waistline into a chapel-length train with scalloped edges. To complete her ensemble, she wore a fingertip-length veil of illusion, accented and edged with lace.

She carried a bouquet of white silk carnations with baby blue, lavender and pink silk rosebuds.

Mindy Vassar, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Donna Mansfield and Michel Rudd of Wichita Falls.

John Henry Pinkerton of Stanton, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Johnny Carson and Rocky Barnes, both of Stanton, were groomsmen. Ushers were Mark Vassar of Lubbock, brother of the bride, and Robby Barnes of Stanton.

Kristy McReynolds and Keely McReynolds, both of Midland and step-sisters of the bridegroom, are candlelighters.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception in the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with a blue and white lace cloth. It was centered with a floral arrangement of pastel flowers in front of two small blue and pink candelabra, and blue and pink crystal glasses. The table featured a three-tiered cake decorated with small bouquets of blue, lavender and pink flowers. Servers were Gail Earls, Gayle Pittman, Tracy Becker, Sherri Roberts, Lori Bristow, Tina Daily and Sabrina Dennis.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School. She has an associate of arts degree from Howard College. She was employed by the Howard County Extension Service in Big Spring.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School in Stanton. He is employed by the Communications Corporation of America in Midland.

Fourth Street to be closed

A stretch of Fourth Street will be closed Monday through Wednesday for repairs, according to Big Spring City Hall. Only the north lane will remain open for traffic. The street closing will run from Circle Drive to Birdwell Lane.

Local man injured

A Big Spring man was injured in an assault incident early Friday morning, according to police reports.

Lee Smith, 32, of 1605 Cardinal told police four or five unknown men jumped him at his residence at 1:45 a.m. Friday. Smith was beaten about the head and chest and was treated for injuries to the face at Malone Hogan Hospital, police said.

Police reports also show the following:

• The manager of Dolphin Pools at 1001 E. Third said someone entered the business and took $185 between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 10:15 a.m. Saturday. An estimated $35 damage was done to the window and frame upon entry to the building, police reports show.

• A $21,250 van was taken from Highland Pontiac Datsun at FM 700 and Goliad while it was parked there Friday night, police reports said. The van belonged to Charles Copton of Stanton.

• Danny Crosby of 508 N. San Antonio told police that someone broke the windshield of his car with a hammer, doing an estimated $200 worth of damage.

He said the incident occurred at 1:15 a.m. Saturday while his car was parked in the 500 block of N.W. Fourth.

• The manager of the Fina station at 1100 N. Lamesa told police a person pumped 27 gallons of gasoline into his car's gas tank Friday afternoon then drove away without paying.

• The manager of Chuck's Automotive at 900 W. 5th told police someone "possibly known to him" entered the building and stole $425 worth of tools and a tape recorder valued at $54. The theft occurred between 6:15 p.m. Thursday and 9:05 a.m. Friday, police said.

• S.W. Ray of 1307 Runnels told police three tires were slashed and a citizens' band radio worth $112.95 was stolen while his car was parked at the Back Door Lounge at 1905 1/2 Gregg between 10:15 p.m. and 11:15 p.m. Thursday.

He valued the tires at $320.

• Jerry Allen Payne, 21, of 1321 Elm was arrested on a traffic warrant at 11:15 p.m. Friday.

Farmer awaits liver transplant

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Jacky Romine's pocket beeper isn't for business appointments, it's to help save his life.

If it sounds it will mean doctors have finally — after six months — found a liver to replace his own diseased one. It will mean he has five hours to get to Pittsburgh for a lifesaving liver transplant.

The 46-year-old Martin County farmer has a rare and incurable liver disease called sclerosing cholangitis. The cells in his bile ducts are hardening — "like bacon that's been cooked too long," Romine said — and his blood isn't being properly cleansed.

His skin and the normally white sclera of his eyes have the sickly yellow cast of jaundice — a sign of the intensity of his disease.

"I feel pretty good most of the time," Romine said. "I get a tired feeling and every few weeks I get sick. But I'm still able to get around."

Romine is a large man — 6'2" — but his weight has dropped from 230 to 190 pounds since the condition was diagnosed by a Massachusetts doctor in January.

Instead of letting the disease take its course and destroy his liver's blood-cleansing function, Romine and his wife, Donna, 42, decided that he should join the waiting list for liver donors.

He insists upon working while he waits. He and Donna farm cotton off the Andrews Highway between Knott and Grady.

There was a false alarm six weeks ago. The beeper sounded and Romine quickly called his doctor — liver transplant pioneer Thomas Starzl at Pittsburgh's Presbyterian University Hospital.

"They've got (the donor system) all on computers," he said. "They told me they may have one and said I should get a plane on standby. But the liver didn't match up. They called it off."

Part of the problem is Romine's large size. The organ must correspond almost perfectly to his body and must match his O-positive blood type.

But he's also just waiting in line. The Pittsburgh hospital is the largest transplant facility in the nation and spokesman Paulette Lee said about 100 patients are waiting for donors each week.

Not even his doctor's know how long he can wait.

"The liver is very peculiar. The doctors were predicting I could get one after six months," Romine said. "I send them a blood test and stay in touch. But unless they do the transplant there's not anything they can do until it gets real bad."

WAITING FOR A PHONE CALL

Romine had never been sick a day in his life until he had his gall bladder removed in 1980. A year ago he underwent surgery in Lubbock for what his doctor believed was a blocked bile duct.

But his health deteriorated. Then exploratory surgery revealed the liver condition and he was put through a series of physical and psychological tests to see if he could stand a transplant.

"Now we're waiting," Donna said. "We just have to stay packed and ready."

"I'm not having to do too much work, anyway," Romine said. "This year's not too good for cotton, you see."

They estimate the transplant will cost over $100,000. To help, the people of Knott and Grady are planning a weekend of fun activities and contests in August. Friends have also offered the use of their jet for the flight to Pittsburgh when the time comes.

"I feel like now he has a good chance," Donna said. "It's his attitude and sense of humor that keeps him going."

Romine nods.

Many children don't outgrow allergies

A widely held misconception is that most children with allergies outgrow them. The truth is that only about half will outgrow allergies at about age 15, and the rest stay the same or get worse, says the Texas Medical Association.

Neglecting treatment in hopes that the child will outgrow allergic reactions can make the youth's early years miserable. This is particularly true with asthma, a respiratory disease that often arises from allergies.

The child often is unable to get a good night's sleep, often misses school, and may be unable to take part in sports or have a normal social life. Parents should consider that their child's present and future physical and emotional health may be affected by not seeking treatment.

Allergies are abnormal responses to certain substances in the environment. The substance that produces the allergic response is called an allergen. It is not essentially a harmful substance since most people are not affected by it. Allergens can be something you touch (wool, animals, rugs) something you inhale (pollens, molds, house dust, animal hair), or something you eat or drink.

The allergic response may take many forms — skin inflammation, particularly in infancy; hay fever; chronic problems with sneezing and itching; a runny nose; and the coughing, wheezing, and congestion that characterize asthma.

The usual method of treating allergies in children is to identify the allergen and remove it from the child's environment. This calls for careful observation and cooperation by parents.

In some cases, the cause can be identified quickly and the allergen removed easily. Examples are when a child's attacks are worse when close to a pet or when a child sleeps on a feather pillow. In many cases, skin tests identify the allergen, especially if it is in the air.

In other cases, the allergy can be controlled with a series of injections of the specific allergen in hopes of building immunity. This method is about the only effective one for pollen allergies, although it is ineffective for food allergies.

Domino tourney winners crowned

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The championship of the Big Spring Texas-style partnership domino tournament was a Metroplex Matchup, of sorts, between a team from Dallas and a nephew-uncle team from Fort Worth.

Dallas was victorious. Ralph Foster and F.E. Studer took home $750 each and two large trophies Saturday night. Their Fort Worth opponents — E.A. Jackson and his nephew, Mark — settled for $500 each and two slightly smaller trophies.

The last domino was played at 5:06 p.m. Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The top teams played for roughly 30 hours since 53 pairings began competition Thursday.

It was tense, but not unfriendly. Many of the players had competed against each other before.

"Old Foster, he had to win," Lewis Kolos of Hallsville said of one of the champions. "I lucked out against him a couple of years back. It's his turn." Kolos said he's been playing dominoes all of his life in Hallsville — sight of the Texas State Championships.

"But that's elimination. This is round-robin and that's a lot better. You get to play more," he said. "Playing more" wasn't the intention of Travis Neusome, who with his brother, Jerry, came all the way from Kansas City, Mo. He said their minds were on the long trip back.

But they will take home $250 and a trophy for their trouble.

"I guess I've been playing for about 22 years,"

Travis said. "It was the only game our folks let us play."

The crowd that gathered around the championship game was small and made up entirely of domino enthusiasts. The game is not considered a spectator sport, but that didn't hurt the enthusiasm of the participants.

Each successive best-of-five game grew quieter and quieter. The players took more time looking over their dominoes, then slammed each one down in proud defiance.

"Don't be so sneaky, Studer," E.A. Jackson snapped. "I knew you were hiding that double all along."

In the end, Studer-Foster won by 10 points.

"It's mostly luck," Foster said. "It's what you get and knowing how to use what you got. That's all there is."

"This is how a domino tournament should be played — down to the last domino," he said.

Here are the final winners of the tournament sponsored by American Petrofina, the Big Spring Jaycees and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

FIRST — Ralph Foster and F.E. Struder of Dallas — $1,500 and trophies.

SECOND — Mark Jackson and E.A. Jackson of Fort Worth — $1,000 and trophies.

THIRD — I.E. Valenda and Lewis Kolos of Hallsville — $700 and trophies.

FOURTH — Travis Neusome and Jerry Neusome of Kansas City, Mo. — $500 and trophies.

CONSOLATION

FIRST — Jerry Tesch and Pat Henke of Hallsville — $200 and plaques.

SECOND — Anson Martin and M.L. Hayes of Rotan — $100 and plaques.

THIRD — K.W. Marsh and Bob Murry of San Angelo.

FOURTH — B.J. Mikeska of Eola and Clarence Tinkler of San Angelo.

Each of the 12 final teams received $100.

Cycle accident reported

Christopher J. White of Fort Bliss was reported to be in good condition today after he was involved in a one-vehicle accident one-half mile east of Coahoma at 12:40 a.m. Sunday.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Bill Lasater said White was westbound on Interstate 20 when his cycle ran off the road and struck a concrete culvert in the center median.

White was taken to the Veterans Administration Medical Center by Shaffer Ambulance.

Mack Madigan of Sterling City told sheriff's deputies that his motorcycle was stolen sometime between 10 p.m. Thursday and 6 a.m. Friday. He said he left it parked overnight at the Brass Nail on U.S. Highway 87 south, according to sheriff's office reports.

Luvan Flores was transferred to county jail from city jail Sunday. He is charged with driving while intoxicated and is being held under $2,500 bond set by Big Spring Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Deputies said they recovered a 1975 Ford Granada on East Interstate 20 yesterday. Deputies said the vehicle had been reported stolen from 1108 N. Aylford on July 28, 1983.

Melvin Johnson, 36, of 707 Wyoming was released on $1,500 bond after being arraigned before City Judge John Stanley on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Donny William Moore, 21, of Gail Route was released on $500 bond after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin on suspicion of fleeing and eluding.

Restaurant manager discourages robber

Katrina M. Pittman, assistant manager at the Burger King on FM 700, told police that at 12:40 a.m. Sunday she was approached on the parking lot of the business by a white male who appeared to be holding a weapon.

Ms. Pittman said the man asked her to go inside the business and open the safe. She said she told the subject she couldn't perform that task and the man then left.

Police reports also showed the following:
 • Police said the Big Spring Mall was broken into sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning. Officers said they received a report a skylight was broken and rope was hanging from the skylight Sunday afternoon by a store owner. Reports indicated that nothing was stolen or damaged.

Douglas Johnson of 710 W. Fourth told police that someone stole a gold ring and a cassette recorder from his home between 3 a.m. and 4 p.m. Friday.

Marie Letcher of 1701 Kentucky Way reported to police that someone stole her Doberman pinscher from her backyard sometime Sunday.

Mickie Stewart of 2205 S. Johnson told police that someone broke into her home between 10:15 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Sunday and stole between $30 and $50 in cash.

Marsha Sturdivant of 1600 Hardin reported to police that while she was at Cactus Jack's in the Industrial Park Saturday night, a subject known to her choked her with his hands.

Johnny Trevino of 801 B Willia complained to police that someone stole a stereo recorder-player from his backyard Saturday morning.

Melvin Johnson, 707 Wyoming, told police that at 9:50 p.m. Saturday a subject struck him in the head.

Coahoma hires dog catcher

The Coahoma city officials are reminding pet owners that animal vaccinations must be done annually to be effective.

The city has hired an animal warden who has been instructed to pick up all dogs running at large without rabies vaccination tags beginning Aug. 1.

All animals not having a tag will be impounded and a $7.50 will be charged for release of the animal. If no one claims the pet in 72 hours, it will be destroyed.

Also upon any written complaint against an animal, the owner will be warned to confine to animal. Failure to obey the warning will result in the animal being impounded at the owner fined.

Grand jury returns indictments

The Howard County grand jury returned indictments after three days of consideration of 59 cases presented by the 118th District attorney's office. A true bill was returned against Jeff Johnson of 902 N.W. 2nd, charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of Edward E. Banks on May 6, 1983. A murder indictment was also returned against Andres Varga Periera of 1317 Kindle. Two cases involving traffic fatalities resulted in one true bill and one no bill. Terry Don Gamble of Sterling City Route was no-billed in connection with involuntary manslaughter in the May 21 death of a New Mexico man south of Big Spring. Alvin Dever of New Mexico was indicted for involuntary manslaughter in the death of Margarita Chavez Korell of Big Spring following a grand jury investigation. The grand jury also indicted Manuel Puebla Artiaga of El Paso for aggravated robbery. Artiaga is charged in the May 23 armed robbery of Al's Trading Post on U.S. Highway 80. Owner Roy Lee Powell was kidnapped, tied up and taken 180 miles from Big Spring before being released, according to police reports. Eight aggravated assault indictments were returned. The following were true-billed: Sharon Crawford of Coahoma, two counts; Raul and Tony Flores, 304 N.E. 8th; Ricky Ornelas, 508 N.E. 10th; Lorenzo Juarez, 506 N. Lancaster; Rubeen Juarez, 1002 N. Main and Sammy Ben Johnston, 2107 Runnels. Twelve burglary indictments were returned against the following: Billy R. Bedwell, Sterling City Route; Jimmy Paul, Route 1; Marty Lane Nixon and Michael Shane Nixon, Coahoma; B.B. (Domingo) Galaviz, 301 N.E. 7th; Henry Hinojos, no address in Big Spring; Tony Martinez, 3rd and Birdwell.
