Wal-Mart opens officially today

With almost 150 Big Spring shoppers crowding in to the entrance, Wal-Mart Discount City officials cut the big red ribbon this morning to officially open the 70,000 square-foot store in Coronado Plaza.

"On behalf of the city, I'd like to welcome you to Big Spring," Mayor Clyde Angel said at the 9 a.m. ceremony. "We're very pleased to have you."

City and Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce officials, local business leaders and representatives of the local news media were present for the opening. Miss West Texas — Big Spring's Tracy Estes — presented the store management with red roses for the occasion.

The ribbon was cut by Aida Peters, wife of store manager David Peters.

Sam Walton, board chairman and founder of Wal-Mart Stores Inc., was not present for the opening because of a board meeting in Bentonville, Ark. He expects to visit Big Spring later in the week, Peters said.

But Wayne Berg, district manager, and Dwayne Naccarto, vice president for store planning, were among the corporate officials present.

"You've all done a marvelous job," Naccarto said to the 100 store employees. "You know, sometimes we complicate this business. If we have quality merchandise and treat our customers well, then we can't go wrong."

Naccarto said later that he was pleased with the store's conversion. It was originally Thornton's. See WAL-MART, page 2A

Loans may be farmers' oasis from the drought

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today it would begin emergency loans for farmers and ranchers in 20 drought-stricken West Texas counties including Howard, Martin and Midland counties.

The emergency loans, which could reach millions of dollars, will go through the Farmers Home Administration office, according to local FHA supervisor Steve Kelley.

Counties slated for the loans are Andrews, Brewster, Crane, Culberson, Coke, Ector, Howard, Jeff Davis, Martin, Midland, Mitchell, Nolan, Presidio, Pecos, Reagan, Sutton, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

Farmers and ranchers will be able to borrow up to 80 percent of their losses suffered during the disaster based on a formula of their five-year crop average, Kelley said.

He said the loan rate would be 8 percent. Kelley said only farmers who have extended their limit of credit with other institutions will be eligible for the relief.

Normally, the loans do not begin until the end of the crop year following harvest, he said.

"It's over here for many farmers," Kelley said. "It's the first time so many have been involved. Farmers had a real crunch last year."

More details on implementing the program are expected, Kelley said.

Requests for the emergency loans were made Aug. 10 by Sen. John Tower and Rep. Tom Loeffler.

Field station employees note 75 years of government service

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

They don't look like they have worked for the government for 75 years, but Nell Rogers, J.D. Bilbro and Bill Fryrear have ... but only 25 years each.

Relaxing in Fryrear's office at the U.S. Big Spring Field Station north of town, the three touch on the past and present after being honored recently for their years of service.

Mrs. Rogers worked 19 years in the finance department at Webb Air Force Base before moving into the secretarial position at the USDA experiment station in 1977. She says this job is better by far.

"This is the best job in the world," Bilbro declares. "I started in May of 1957 in Lubbock with the same group of guys I'm with now ... as good a bunch of people you've ever worked with."

Bilbro, a Ph.D. who specializes in wind erosion, is credited with early testing on a process to improve yields and ease wind erosion — furrow diking — now in use on nearly three million acres in Texas.

Fryrear, an internationally-known wind erosion expert, has designed a wind tunnel for gauging wind erosion, one which he erected in Tunsania earlier this year.

Asked why he has stayed with the government for 25 years, Fryrear jokingly responds "I've been asking myself that question."

Seriously, he points to the freedom to pursue any area of research, something unique in research agencies worldwide.

The two scientists kid Mrs. Rogers about keeping the station running through her expertise at straightening out their correspondence. "I went to college, but I never learned to spell," Fryrear says.

75 YEARS OF SERVICE ...Bill Fryrear, Nell Rogers, J.D. Bilbro

Bilbro chips in: "She makes sense out of my sentences ... picks up the messes."

Ignoring their comments, Mrs. Rogers says the field station office will become computerized shortly — a See FIELD STATION, page 2A

Bible Fund donations still growing

More than $3,497.25 has been collected for the Bible Fund. The money will be used to fund a class in Bible at Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan high schools, according to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, minister of the First Baptist Church of Big Spring, and director of the Big Spring Bible Fund.

The Bible Fund will help provide for this teaching. It is estimated that $14,000 is needed for the programs.

Contributions should be sent to the First Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy, or the Big Spring Herald at 710 Scurry.

Those contributing will be listed in the Herald.

Lamesa, Martin County to receive money from criminal justice grants

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — More than $19 million in state criminal justice grants were approved Monday by the executive committee of the Governor's Criminal Justice Division, including a $20,670 for a management information system.

In all, the three-member executive committee approved 576 grant requests. Generally, the grant period runs from Oct. 1, 1983 to Sept. 31, 1984.

Grants were approved for the city of Lamesa and for Martin County.

Members of the executive committee are Gov. Mark White and representatives of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Money for the grant program comes from a fees imposed at the disposition of county and district court cases, known as "cost of court" fees. That fee is $10 in county court cases and $20 in district court cases.

Among grants approved were:

- $8,000 to city of Lamesa for a data processing information system.
- $2,650 to Martin County for an upgrade of law enforcement radios.
- $14,061 to city of Lamesa for the juvenile division.
- $6,000 to Dawson County for assistant prosecutor.
- $11,144 to Dawson County for a court coordinator for the 106th Judicial District Court.
- $27,355 to the West Texas Council of Governments' criminal justice administration project.
- $21,769 to the West Central Texas Council of Governments' criminal justice planning project.

Police Beat

Woman tries to elude police

Big Spring police say a 19-year-old female briefly escaped from custody as she was being taken into the police station after her arrest for suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Debra Ann Sisco, 19, of 811 Alyford remains in police custody under charges of DWI, fleeing and eluding and attempted escape.

According to arresting officer Pam Jordan, Ms. Sisco had allegedly fled from police in her vehicle despite use of flashing lights and siren as officers attempted to stop her for suspicion of DWI.

After being transported to the police station, Ms. Sisco freed one hand from handcuffs at the rear of the station and ran west of the building, according to the officer's report. She was apprehended again, booked and jailed, reports show.

A major accident yesterday in the 2200 block of Gregg and W. 22nd sent two persons to Malone-Hogan Hospital emergency room where they were treated and released. Vehicles driven by Christene Armstrong of 1304 Mobile and Many Yanez of 1510 Robin were in collision at 1:17 p.m. Monday, according to police.

Both were transported to the hospital for treatment and released, according to a hospital spokeswoman. A third passenger, Mrs. Armstrong's nine-month-old baby, was not injured. Police say Mrs. Armstrong was ticketed for failure to control speed.

Police say they arrested Lawrence E. McElwee of Air Base Road in Big Spring for suspicion of DWI.

Police said a Missouri man reported he had his radar speed detector, a citizens' band radio and an eight-track tape player stolen from his car between Sunday and Monday. Ronald Sandbothe valued the loss at $453.

Ralph Clarke of 2512 Larry told police yesterday wire hubcaps valued at $302 were stolen from his vehicle last week.

A Mabank, Texas man told police $565 worth of items were stolen from his truck Monday morning. The items included a toolbox, a jack, a ratchet and a CB radio, Danny Doid told police.

Buddy Mulvihill of 803 Willia told police his $1,500 car was stolen last week between Monday and Sunday.

A juvenile shot a BB through a living room window, causing $20 damage, according to Murriel Johnson of 3702 Connally. The alleged incident occurred at 5:30 p.m. Monday, she said.

Local hospital begins 'better breathing' club

A struggle for every breath is a way of life for thousands of people.

The simple act of breathing, which most people take for granted, requires a constant effort for someone who has chronic lung disease. And more than 800,000 Texans and 45 million Americans suffer from one or more of respiratory problems such as bronchitis or emphysema.

The American Lung Association of Texas is reactivating in cooperation with Malone-Hogan Hospital and local volunteers, a free "better living, better breathing" club in Big Spring for persons with breathing problems.

The breathing club is an ongoing program which will hold its first meeting Aug. 16 at 7 p.m. in the first floor classroom at Malone Hogan. Thereafter, meetings will be one the third Tuesday of each month.

Each meeting will feature a health professional discussing respiratory disease to give a better understanding of breathing problems and health care.

Brenda Kline, assistant director of respiratory therapy at Malone Hogan said the club is open to anyone in the Big Spring area.

For further information call 263-1211, ext. 145 or 267-4235.

Continental Singers to appear

The Continental Singers and Orchestra, currently on their yearly 75-day summer tour, will present a live concert of contemporary Christian music at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 FM 700.

This year's presentation, "Praise His Name and See It Happen," will feature portions of a new musical "Dreamer," based on the life of Joseph. The program will include contemporary music, a medley of hymns and gospel songs. Also featured will be songs from writers such as Michael and Stormie Omartian, Steve Taylor, Georgian Banov and Don Francisco.

The group is composed of 25 vocalists and an 11-piece orchestra selected from auditions of thousands of high school and college-age young people. Auditions are held after each local concert for singers, instrumentalists and technical staff.

The group appearing locally is directed by Wayne Fancher.

Running start

10-year-old wants to go to Olympics

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) — Tom Witherspoon used to run in his neighborhood to help his knee recuperate from surgery. One day, he looked back and found his daughter, Mary Jac, chasing him.

Five years later, 10-year-old Mary Jac (short for Mary Jacqueline) holds a record for being the youngest female to complete the 26-mile Dallas White Rock Marathon.

She even appeared with Johnny Carson on the "Tonight Show" Aug. 2 to talk about running.

"I want to make it to the Olympics before I get old," Mary Jac said Sunday.

Old to Mary Jac is 19. That's when she wants to run in the 1992 Olympics. She hopes to run in the Boston Marathon by the time she's 14.

Mary Jac, a vibrant girl with long tanned legs and brunette pigtails, is 4 feet 5 and weighs 58 pounds. But she finished the White Rock Marathon, her first, in November in 5 hours, 3 minutes and 40 seconds. She was 9 at the time.

Mary Jac said her finish was a surprise to her and her parents. She spent the night before the race at a slumber party with friends.

"I used to not be able to make it around the block," said Mary Jac, who will start the 5th grade this month at Richardson Terrace Elementary School in this Dallas suburb. "But now it's easy."

She hadn't decided she would run in the marathon until the Thursday before the race, said Mary Jac's father, who is vice president of Wynn Oil Co.

"She begged me to let her run with her friend," Witherspoon said. "So I told her she could run half the race and I'd take my bike just in case she needed help."

But halfway through, Mary Jac came by smiling and waving to her father to jump on his bicycle and join her, he said.

"I kept going by telling her to hurry up because the bicycle seat was hurting my bottom," Witherspoon said.

Witherspoon said most marathon runners run about 10 miles a day, six days a week. Mary Jac runs only about 2 miles a day, four days a week.

"We don't want her to wear herself out too fast," said Mary Jac's mother, Sandy. "A lot of adults who run the marathon took off work the next day because they could hardly move. But Mary Jac was playing basketball and doing splits the next day."

Mrs. Witherspoon said Mary Jac doesn't win every race she runs.

"Some adults at the races look at me like I'm crazy for letting such a little girl run against more experienced runners," she said. "But to really win big, Mary Jac has to learn first how to lose."

Mary Jac also has won several trophies for her piano performances. She has taken lessons for only a year.

"She probably practices piano more than she runs," Mrs. Witherspoon said.

And when she's not running or practicing piano, Mary Jac is grooming her 4 1/2-month-old brother, Stephen, as her running partner.

"He's already got a jogging suit. And now I'm teaching him how to crawl," she said.

department store. "You don't always know how it's going to work because the store wasn't built for your merchandise," he said. "This is the first time we've used this kind of configuration. I think it's one of our better stores."

"Big Spring is very attractive to Wal-Mart because of its size and location," he said. "We like to think of ourselves as a store for small-town America."

Wal-Mart has been open to customers for several days, but that didn't stop many shoppers from waiting in line to take advantage of today's festivities.

"I love this store," said Tina Bradley of 2508 Ent while shopping with her daughter Sandra, age 2. "I'm originally from Austin. It's nice to have another store like this in town."

The store, one of 552 in operation, has 12 major departments including hardware, housewares, clothing, sporting goods, records and electronics. It is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Asked if the three remember any humorous moments about their six years together in Big Spring, Fryrear says he seems to be responsible "for doing funny things to people" like running over their feet with a pickup.

"It was so funny when Charles' (Yates) told us — 'Bill just ran over my foot,'" Mrs. Rogers said laughing.

Fryrear hastened to add Yates was standing in soft mulch and was not injured seriously.

Alicia heading for the coast

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Several Texas cities braced for Tropical Storm Alicia, which forecasters said could drift ashore anywhere from the Mississippi River to the Rio Grande.

Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were issued at 11 a.m. for the coast from Grand Isle, La. to Corpus Christi.

According to probability tables issued this morning by the National Hurricane Center in Miami, there was a 21 percent chance that the center of the storm would pass within 65 miles of Galveston by Friday and a 19 percent chance that it would hit near Port O'Connor.

Sheriff's Log

Deputies arrest 2 suspects

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested two persons yesterday in connection with separate charges of revocation of probation.

John M. Lister, 56, of 2911 W. Highway 80 remains in county jail without bond. Rene Joseph Fernandez, 19, of Air Base Road posted $1,000 bond to be released after arraignment before Howard County Judge Milton Kirby.

Sheriff's deputies also arrested Kevin J. Patterson, 24, of 601 Circle in connection with a bondsman off bond charge. Patterson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin and released after posting a new bond of $200.

Antonio V. Fuentes, 29, of Old Mexico was transferred from sheriff's office custody to the Texas border patrol. Fuentes had been jailed since his arrest July 29 for suspicion of aggravated assault on a police officer.

Lonnie D. Martin, 27, of Tarzan posted $1,500 bond to be released after his arrest by police for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Bond was set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

John Garcia, 17, of Route 1 posted $500 to be released after his arrest by police for suspicion of criminal mischief over $200. Garcia was arraigned before Daratt.

Juries prepare for trials

At least three six-man juries were expected to be selected in Howard County Court today while a 12-member jury in 118th District Court awaits testimony tomorrow.

Jury selection began this morning in Howard County Court in the theft trial of Lennie Douglas Smith, 23; the driving while intoxicated trial of Travis Edwin Brackeen, 20, and the theft trial of Jeffrey Paul Carter.

Smith is charged with two counts of theft under $200 on June 3 although he is expected to be tried on only one charge, according to the county attorney's office.

Smith is accused of stealing beer from two 7-11 Stores located at 2310 Wasson Road and 902 Willa, police say. Carter is accused of being an accomplice in the thefts, but will be tried separately, says a county attorney's office spokeswoman.

County Attorney Bob Miller will prosecute. Elliott Mitchell is representing Smith.

In 118th District Court, a six-man, six-woman jury was selected yesterday in the divorce trial of Stacy and Shell Williams. Each party is seeking custody of the couple's three children. Testimony is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday with Judge Jim Gregg presiding.

Hudson named in rent suit

Jerry Hudson, who had one store he was leasing burned out recently, is being sued in 118th District Court for not paying rent on another store.

The suit, filed by J. Weaver and Margaret McDonald Brown, names Hudson, Von Marr and Larry Sheppard in connection with a building located at 218 Main in Big Spring.

Hudson Furniture, located at 315 Main, was destroyed by fire July 20. Hudson was renting the building from Horace Tubbs.

According to the suit, the 218 Main building was rented to the trio in April of 1982 at $300 a month. The suit says they refused to pay rent or taxes on the building.

A total of $1,800 in unpaid rental fees and $834.65 in back taxes is being sought in the suit. Robert Miller is representing the Browns.

Singer weds movie princess

NEW YORK (AP) — Songwriter Paul Simon finally captured his princess charming and is marrying actress Carrie Fisher in New York City, the Daily News reported today.

Simon and Miss Fisher, who has won fame as Princess Leia in the "Star Wars" trilogy, were to marry today "in a very private ceremony," the News said.

The paper said the wedding would be performed by a rabbi with Miss Fisher's divorced parents, actress Debbie Reynolds and singer Eddie Fisher, and her brother, Todd Fisher, attending.

The News said Simon had asked Miss Fisher to marry him a few days ago and obtained the marriage license Monday.

The News said Fisher will give the bride away. Also expected at the wedding were Simon's 10-year-old son, Harper, from his first marriage to Peggy Harper, the News said, and a small group of close friends.

A small reception was to be held at a private apartment here, the News said.

Fans file past Presley's grave

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Joyce Rosenzweig clutched an artificial pink rose wrapped in a picture of two pink teddy bears as she stood with about 5,000 other Elvis Presley fans today to mark the sixth anniversary of the star's death.

"I love him," she said, pulling out a stack of pictures of the 1962 pink Cadillac she had painted in Presley's memory.

The car is decorated with 13 air-brushed pictures of Presley, including a portrait on its chrome air-filter cover.

"He's singing on the motor," said Ms. Rosenzweig, of York, Pa.

She waited in line with three friends to walk past Presley's grave in a candlelight procession that began at 11 p.m. Monday.

Presley died of heart disease on Aug. 16, 1977, and the faithful assemble at Graceland Mansion, his former residence, each year on the anniversary of his death.

As Presley songs played over a loudspeaker, the crowd milled about front of Graceland. Police blocked off Elvis Presley Boulevard, also U.S. Highway 51, for several blocks on either side of the procession.

"I miss you and I wish you were here," Presley's voice sang as the fans filed through the mansion's front gates and formed a line two abreast.

Some fans delivered flowers arrangements molded in shapes such as teddy bears, referring to the Presley hit, "Let Me Be Your Teddy Bear."

"This whole week has been very emotional," said Teresa Ruhl of Lancaster, Pa. "No matter how many times you visit Graceland, the pain never goes away."

No progress made in case of Soviet's son

WASHINGTON (AP) — The acting Soviet ambassador, Oleg Sokolov, says there has been "no progress whatsoever" toward resolving the case of a Soviet diplomat's son who allegedly wants asylum in the United States.

Sokolov met Monday with Richard Burt, an assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and told reporters afterward the Soviets would not yield in their refusal to allow U.S. officials to meet with Andrei Berezhkov, the 16-year-old son of an embassy first secretary.

"We insist and continue to insist on an unhindered departure of Andrei Berezhkov and his family to the Soviet Union from the United States without any prior interviewing by anybody from the U.S. authorities," Sokolov said. "This is our position of principle."

The State Department had no comment on the meeting between Burt and Sokolov, who is in charge of the Soviet Embassy in the absence of Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, who is in the Soviet Union. Sokolov and Burt also conferred on Saturday.

But a department spokesman, Alan Romberg, indicated the Reagan administration will be just as unyielding in wanting to interview Berezhkov, who allegedly wrote a letter to President Reagan last week saying he wants to remain in the United States. He is the son of Valentin Berezhkov, a top-ranking Soviet diplomat.

"It remains our desire to ascertain the young man's intentions and our position on it hasn't changed," said Romberg.

Romberg said one purpose of a meeting would be to determine the authenticity of the letter Berezhkov purportedly sent to Reagan. The Soviets have dubbed the letter a forgery.

"One reason we want to talk with him is to see if the letter represents his own view," Romberg said. While he insisted that meeting would be held, Romberg said, "I can't tell you when it will occur."

A State Department official, who insisted on anonymity, said the youth is believed to be in the Soviet compound and that no attempt has been made to move him.

"He is with his family — with his father and his mother," said Vladimir Mikoyan, a Soviet press officer. He insisted in a telephone interview that Berezhkov would return to the Soviet Union without first talking to U.S. officials. "The situation is perfectly clear," he said. "There is no legitimate right to keep the boy in this country."

The Soviets insist that U.S. officials are acting illegally in insisting on talking with young Berezhkov, but Romberg said State Department lawyers "have advised us that the actions we are talking about are consistent with the law."

But he refused to cite specific legal justification and State Department lawyers refused to discuss the legal issues with reporters.

FBI agents have been watching the Soviet compound in Northwest Washington and the suburban Bethesda, Md., apartment complex where the Berezhkov family lives. Apparently the Soviets decided to keep the youth at the compound, where most Soviet Embassy personnel live, because the security is better there.

'El Nino' blamed for unusual summer woes

By The Associated Press

Unusual weather patterns that hurled storms, floods and record-breaking heat at the nation are now being blamed for more suffering: rattlesnake bites, surfing accidents, death-dealing mosquitoes, hay fever and even the plague.

Dry weather coaxed rattlers out of the Rockies and damp heat made a perfect breeding ground for encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes in the East.

Storms and high tides changed the shape of beaches in California, sending surfers crashing into newly formed sandbars, resulting in broken backs. And wet, cool weather in New Mexico fostered plague-carrying rodents.

El Nino, a recurring phenomenon involving Pacific sea temperatures, currents and trade winds, has been blamed for the unusual weather.

Long known to South American fishermen, El Nino refers to the Christ child, because it usually occurs around Christmas time. This year, the child stayed until July, spreading unseasonal rains, killing heat and storms across the land.

Meteorologists declared the 1983 edition of El Nino dead last month, but the aftermath continues.

In the East, hay fever sufferers will face higher pollen counts and a longer season of wheezing, sneezing and sniffing.

"People are really going to get it around Labor Day," said Walter Jinotti, a medical technologist at Middlesex General Hospital in New Brunswick, N.J., and president of the National Association of Allergies. "In an average year, you'll get three weeks of irritating pollen levels and it'll peak at 150. This year, the irritation should go on longer and the count will peak at 200."

The bad news is blamed on a moist spring which encouraged a large crop of pollen-producing ragweed, Jinotti said.

Spinal injuries, including broken necks, are more common this year along the California coast, as surfers deal with the weather-altered coastline.

"We've started to see kids running out into the water and doing a shallow surface dive and hitting the bottom," said Dr. John Skinner, 52, an internist at Newport Beach, Calif. "I really love to surf, and I have seen a lot of (spinal) cases in the hospital, so we've been trying to make the public aware of the hazard."

In New Mexico, bubonic plague — known as the Black Death in the Middle Ages — claimed this year's third victim Monday, one of a record 24 cases reported, said Dr. Jonathan Mann, state epidemiologist. The previous record of 16 was set in 1975, Mann said.

Officials speculated the unusually wet, cool spring produced ideal conditions for rodents that carry plague-bearing fleas.

The 1983 plague death rate, including the 13-year-old boy who perished Monday, is lower than in recent years — about 12.5 percent compared with the average 16 percent of all cases — because of prompt diagnosis, Mann said.

Another kind of pestilence, Eastern equine encephalitis, killed a man in a Boston hospital Thursday and authorities were spraying swamps to wipe out mosquitoes which carry the disease.

The rare brain infection also has killed one horse in Massachusetts, two in New Jersey and four in New York state this year, health officials said.

The risk of humans being infected is only about one in 10 million, but two consecutive wet springs preceded by mild winters have permitted the virus to spread, health officials said. Recent dry spells may be helping to control the problem.

"Dryness has dramatically reduced the number of mosquitoes, compared to what we were catching in June," said Herbert Maxfield, supervisor of the encephalitis field station in Lakeville. "I think the danger has been reduced."

Dry, hot weather has been no help in Montana, where rattlesnake bites are becoming more common as the reptiles come down from the mountains and into more populated areas, following mice who search the lower areas for food and water.

The snakes are likely to be around for the next few weeks, until cooler autumn weather arrives, said Vince Yannoni of the Fish, Wildlife and Parks Department. Three people in the Helena area have been bitten recently, officials said.

Critically ill child celebrates birthday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ashley Bailey, the little Texas girl who needs a new liver to survive, has celebrated her first birthday with cake and balloons at the University of Minnesota Hospitals.

Ashley, who has been waiting at the hospital for a donor liver for three months, wore a red-and-white dress and cheerfully "made a mess of herself" with her chocolate birthday cake Monday, according to her mother, Annette Gossett of Clyde, Texas.

"She got lots of gifts and attention. She's cheerful, happy," Mrs. Gossett said of her daughter, who remains in critical but stable condition while a nationwide search is conducted for a donor liver.

Among the gifts Ashley received were dresses, a doll and a pewter mug from the office of Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas. Stenholm's office sent mailgrams to hospital emergency rooms across the country last month in an effort to find a liver for Ashley, but without success.

Mrs. Gossett said there were no birthday greetings from President Reagan, who made a nationwide radio appeal three weeks ago to find a liver donor for Ashley.

Since Reagan made his appeal, thousands of callers have inquired about Ashley, but a suitable liver has not been found for her.

Her husband, Gregg Gossett, was at his new job — driving a truck in the Twin Cities — and was unable to attend Ashley's party.

Weighty subject

Gay '90s' chorus lines were known as the "beef trust" because the dancers were expected to be pleasingly plump. Tastes changed in the Roaring '20s when John Held's drawings depicted the ideal woman as pencil-thin.

Mae West returned the corpulent curves to popularity in the Terrible '30s, maybe because people enjoyed knowing that at least somebody was eating well during the Depression. Since then the ideal weight has shifted from one extreme to another, from gaunt Greta Garbo to full-figured Sophia Loren, back to the spare Twiggy and so on.

BUT WHO MADE the rules about human weight? No one yet has found any golden tables engraved with a commandment on how much to weigh. Aside from prizefighters, who contract to enter the ring at a specific weight, most people are held to no constraining covenants.

Peer pressure and medical tables tell us we're "too fat" or "too thin." Insurance company brochures chart ideal weight for height. For many people, that is the "golden tablet."

BUT THE DICTATORSHIP of the scales may soon be over. Reaching the ideal weight — the goal of health-conscious Americans — is a slippery concept based on inconsistent data, says Thomas R. Knapp of the University of Rochester in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Knapp said "conversions of weight-for-height measures into measures of obesity are highly controversial and the data will never be sufficiently clean to warrant the serious use of tables that satisfy both methodological and substantive concerns."

Knapp believes a person is not a statistic but an individual and that each individual functions best at his or her "fighting weight," the weight at which the most energy is combined with the most strength.

We commend Knapp for striking a blow for each person's uniqueness and against the impersonal, insolent and imperious weight table. Too long had that tyrant reigned unchallenged!

Around the Rim

Mama's boy

The hardest human relationship to figure out is the one between a man and his mother.

A man will discuss feelings about his father openly and with emotion, but in most cases the maternal side is left untouched, as though it were universally understood.

It is not. My own relationship with my mother will soon change. I am trying hard to label it.

According to popular culture — which unfortunately shapes our attitudes irrevocably — there is no relationship, at least not one worthy of serious consideration.

Television and movies give us these forms:

The Mrs. Cleaver Syndrome — She walks, she talks. She makes breakfast. She packs lunches and fixes cut fingers and is wonderful. But when something serious needs to be done, it's "Ward... maybe you should have a talk with the Beaver."

The Psycho Syndrome — She is domineering. Her son, who has stuck close to her for 20 years is crazy and brutally stabbed the 1979 Homecoming Queen in the shower. He was not indicted; it was the mother's fault, doctors said.

The Mama Syndrome — Television puts this kind of mother in comedies about black families. She is pleasantly plump, is so proud of her son's success, and wipes her tears on a white apron.

None of these has anything to do with life as we know it; the first and last are too good to be true, the second is too bad.

So what are we to feel? We have nannies making lunches while their boys travel life's highways and we have little Hitlers ruling lives like conquered countries.

I have seen relationships in which mothers and sons yell at each other as if in hatred, and I have seen them in which both are happily and lovingly devoted to each other. Most fall in between the two extremes.

I could have been fairer with my own mother — helped more, deceived less, expressed my feelings in different ways. The bad things I have done in the relationship cannot be cleared up by going to her now and saying "I'm sorry."

Maybe they can be cleared up by going back home and doing things differently. I don't think that's possible and I don't think either of us really wants that.

When you're in elementary school, it is "right" for a boy to go hunting and fishing with Dad. It is "wrong" for him to stay home with Mom. You get branded a Mama's Boy.

And then you grow up. You don't regret the time spent hunting and fishing, but you feel something is missing when you try to sit down and talk with your mother. You see a friend that you long ago decided you weren't going to get to know.

It is a perfect example of being locked into perceptions of how things should be.

Our perceptions are constantly wrong. So at this time in my life I wonder if it's any great crime to be a Mama's Boy. Maybe I could have been more of one.

Canceling insurance

There has been a rash of automobile insurance cancellations lately by the major companies, and everyone is very nervous about it. The other day my wife was notified that her auto insurance policy was being canceled. The notification gave no reason for the cancellation, and since my wife had not been in an accident nor had even made a claim, she was perplexed.

She asked me to get to the root of it, and I took the next plane to visit our insurance company. The company is housed in a 56-story aluminum and tinted-glass skyscraper on a 30-acre shopping plaza overlooking most of the state of Connecticut.

I arrived on the 35th floor where one made inquiries concerning the canceled insurance policies. After browsing through the company literature, which told how insurance was making American great, I was ushered into the office of Clyde Featherstone.

I gave Mr. Featherstone the cancellation notice, and he clucked once or twice and then disappeared. He returned in a few moments with the folder.

"What did my wife do wrong?" I demanded.

"Your wife didn't do anything wrong. Her records are all up to snuff."

"Then why did you cancel her insurance?"

"Because of Trembling and Trembling, her insurance agents."

"Trembling and Trembling?" I said.

"Yes," said Featherstone, going through the folder. "They've been very naughty boys, very naughty indeed."

"Did they steal any money?" I asked.

"Worse! They've written too many policies this year that people have made claims on. We've had to pay out $1,897 to Trembling and Trembling clients in the last 12 months."

"But what's that got to do with my wife's insurance policy? She didn't get any of the money."

"Ah, but since you are with Trembling and Trembling, you are now considered a bad risk. Their record is your record."

"That's nonsense. I hardly know Trembling and Trembling," I protested. "I wouldn't recognize them if I saw them on the street. This is guilt by association."

Featherstone smiled. "You came to us through Trembling and Trembling, and you will leave with Trembling and Trembling. This company will not put up with people who make insurance claims against it."

"But that's what you're here for," I said. "To pay people off when something happens."

"That's a foul lie," said Featherstone, losing his smile. "We're here to build buildings and real-estate developments, and finance ships and airplanes and ballparks. If we keep paying out claims, where would we get the money to construct this 56-story building, with its beautiful shopping plaza and underground computer center?"

"Do you realize," said Featherstone, "that every dollar we pay out in a claim is a dollar we have to take away from our advertising budget, which tells the public what wonderful insurance people we are?"

"I appreciate all that," I said, "but surely you have to pay some claims in order to stay in the insurance business."

"That's what Trembling and Trembling thought," Featherstone said as he tore up my wife's folder.

I thanked Featherstone for his kindness and understanding. He got up to shake my hand. "If you're staying in town for dinner, we have a great restaurant on the roof garden which is bringing us 15 percent profit a year."

GM failed to warn car buyers

WASHINGTON — When the average American buys a new car — kicks the tires, slams the doors and tries out the padding in the seats — the chances are pretty good that the salesman never mentions the camshaft. It's an integral part of the engine and is pretty much taken for granted.

But General Motors failed to warn 15 million car buyers that using a certain type of engine oil would cause premature wear in the camshafts of their V-8 engines, in use since 1974. The result of using the wrong oil could be a $400 repair bill, according to Federal Trade Commission documents.

The problem with the GM camshaft usually crops up after 25,000 miles on Chevrolets, Oldsmobiles, Buicks and GMC trucks. Normally, a well-lubricated camshaft should last the life of the vehicle.

To keep the magnitude of the camshaft problem from the car-buying public, GM arranged with the FTC to use local arbitration boards and handle complaints on an individual basis. The FTC has not given final approval to this. Meanwhile, the true extent of the camshaft problem has been hidden from the public under a 1980 court order sealing hundreds of documents.

My associate Tony Capaccio has obtained evidence of GM's cover-up from internal FTC documents turned up by Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., and interviews with industry insiders familiar with the case.

In the mid-1970s, according to these sources, GM learned that certain types of oil, classified for use in both gasoline and diesel vehicles, were causing camshaft failure because they lacked sufficient anti-wear protection.

Cleveland FTC files showed that camshaft failure occurred "in 70 percent of the reported cases at 20,000 miles or later, with an average failure at 28,000." The FTC staff was aware of 3,345 complaints of camshaft failure.

According to the documents, GM claimed only a 1 percent failure for its camshafts. Even accepting the company's estimate, that would mean a minimum of 150,000 defective camshafts. With an estimated average of $400 for each repair bill, that means GM car buyers have laid out $60 million for repairs that might have been avoided if the company had told its customers what it knew.

And it's a lead-pipe cinch that GM knew about the camshaft problem early on. Internal documents show that GM told its dealers about the oil problem between 1976 and 1978 — but waited till 1980 to tell its customers.

"It appears that significant consumer injury did occur due to GM's non-disclosure," stated one FTC analysis. "Consumer loss that did occur could have been easily avoided if GM had adequate oil-use instructions in its owners' manual once it learned, at least by 1975, of the problem... Absent such disclosure, GM owners were unlikely to learn of the problem."

Footnote: A GM spokesman said: "We feel we took responsible measures to protect our customers from the problem... We encouraged the oil companies to reformulate their oil." He also said the camshaft problem "had nothing to do with a defect inherent in the product."

PENTAGON PIPELINE: Stupid planning almost led the Army to spend $7.5 million on mess halls it didn't need in Germany. Fortunately, General Accounting Office auditors found out about it and four of the seven planned mess halls have been canceled. Auditors blamed the mess hall mess on the Army's faulty method of computing the number of personnel who will eat GI rations when off base options are available. The auditors said they have no idea how often the armed services build unnecessary messhalls; they only checked seven.

A contractor with inside knowledge bilked the Army on a furnace maintenance job at Fort Jackson, S.C. Knowing that the furnaces had recently been replaced, the contractor bid just $1 for furnace replacement, which normally costs about $1,000. Then the contractor charged from seven to nine times the going rate for the other services in the contract and still wound up the low bidder. The Army Audit Agency said this kind of sharp practice costs the taxpayer hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

The Defense Department's inspector general discovered that the Air Force has been skimping on testing of electronic weapons to meet production schedules. One high-speed missile, for example, was tested only half as many hours as specifications required, even though full testing was deemed necessary to establish reliability. In another case, an electronic jamming system lacked support equipment and a technical manual, without which proper testing was impossible. But the Air Force ran the tests anyway.

Billy Graham

She wants to start all over

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to start my life all over again. Can you give me a set of resolutions that would be good for me to live by? — L.T.

DEAR L.T.: The Bible certainly gives us a number of guidelines or spiritual principles by which we should be directed. But I think I would probably miss the real need you have if I were simply to list them for you, because I suspect your need is much deeper than that.

The Bible tells us that we can never start life over again in our own strength. I wonder, in fact, how many times you have decided to "turn over a new leaf" and have decided you would follow a new set of resolutions — only to fail to keep them. You see, the problem is not that we do not know what is wrong and what is right (at least in general terms). The problem is that we do not have the spiritual and moral strength to do what is right.

That is why the most important "resolution" I can give you is this: Turn from relying on your own strength, and turn instead to Jesus Christ and yield your life to him without reserve. You see, what each of us needs is not merely a new set of rules — but a new heart and new will. We need strength to live as we should, and only God can give that to us as we open our hearts to Christ. The Bible says, "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come!" (2 Corinthians 5:17). You need the new life that Christ alone can bring — and he will if you open your heart to him by faith.

But that will not necessarily be an easy step for you to take, because by turning to Christ you are admitting that you in yourself are not sufficient — and that is a blow at your pride. But don't let that stand in the way. Christ wants to remake your life as you become his disciple and follow him each day.

Mailbag

The Shadow lives in Big Spring

Dear Editor, Your Mailbag of August 14, 1983, contained a shocking news revelation. The Shadow, that infamous character from radio history, is alive and well in Big Spring. The Shadow, who can see into the hearts of men, is auspiciously residing in Big Spring as Geneva Rogers.

According to Ms. Rogers' letter, she can see through the false front that some people put up into their true being. Not only does she doubt the sincerity of Billy Sol Estes' profession of Christianity, but she also disbelieves that T. Cullen Davis is a born-again Christian.

If Ms. Rogers actually has the power to discern between a true Christian and a non-Christian and is correct in her assumptions, then we must also look back to Biblical days and question the validity of Paul's Christianity. Before being saved and changing his name to Paul, Saul was one of the most feared persecutors of Christians. Paul, however, later became a disciple of Jesus.

It is true that Mr. Estes broke the law, but that will never stop him from becoming a true believer thanks to the grace of God. This was the case with Paul. As for Cullen Davis, the harsh courts of our state, the ones that did not punish Mr. Estes, were convinced not once but twice that Mr. Davis was NOT GUILTY of any form of criminal activity. Ms. Rogers, like others in our community, is set on reversing the basis of our legal system that says a man is innocent until proven guilty.

The Bible tells us not to judge others unless we want to be judged in the same way. The truth is we will ALL be facing God someday, and that day will be sooner than any of us think. Why, then, should anyone waste his or her time questioning another's beliefs? What authority do any of us have to doubt a person's Christianity?

In conclusion, I'd like to say that I do not condone any sort of illegal activity, but I'm certainly not going to form any sort of opinions on a person because of their past. If that were the case, I could trust no one because we are all born sinners, and that is not an admirable past.

Sincerely,
CLARK JOHNSON

LOCAL DISCUSSION — Local town folks hold a discussion at the feed store in Holiday Lakes, a young town that struggles for roads. Poor roads led residents to incorporate this Brazoria County community about 2 1/2 years ago. Now that Holiday Lakes is a municipality it expects to get a little help with the dirt roads.

Town struggles to build roads

HOLIDAY LAKES, Texas (AP) — Poor roads led residents to incorporate this Brazoria County community about 2 1/2 years ago.

Most of the roads in the town were dirt, which turned into mud when hit by rain. The few blacktop roads in this former resort area flanked by five lakes were cracked and filled with potholes.

County crews did not repair the roads because the community, about 10 miles west of Angleton, was a private development. Federal and state aid were unavailable for the same reason.

Today, little has changed.

"Now that we're a municipality we expect to get a little help," said Norman Schroeder, the city's first mayor.

"If there is any chance to get a grant, we'll apply," Schroeder said. "I understand there are some road improvement grants available for distressed areas. We're pretty well distressed."

Schroeder, a foreman at a nearby chemical firm, moved to Holiday Lakes about 10 years ago because "it was a place where I could go hunting at the time, and there was nobody around."

Holiday Lakes then was called Club Alaska, owned by Holiday Lakes Inc. of Houston. The community was a private club.

Barbara Schattel, city secretary, tax assessor-collector and treasurer, said she and her husband, Louis, moved to Holiday Lakes from Houston in 1975 because it was secluded, but not too far from Houston.

"It would be a beautiful place if we could get it cleaned up," Mrs. Schattel told the Houston Chronicle.

Schroeder said the town has made progress since it incorporated.

"We haven't built any new roads, but we've improved on a lot," he said. "And we've done drainage work in places that haven't been touched in eight to 10 years."

But some residents aren't so happy with the state of affairs in the new city.

"We should have made some progress by now," said G.E. "Slick" Black, a retired longshoreman who is a former Holiday Lakes city councilman. "The people are getting disgusted. All the City Council does is sit there and talk."

Black said he resigned from the council because he wasn't able to carry out what he promised.

"All I wanted was good roads. That's why we incorporated to begin with," he said.

Soaring rates plague homebuilders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roger Werbel, a Monterey Park-based homebuilder, had hoped to begin construction this year of 300 homes in Newhall, but he won't now because of an old nemesis: soaring interest rates.

"We were going to start toward the end of the year, but with interest rates at this level, we won't," said Werbel, who also is president of the Building Industry Association of Southern California.

Real estate brokers and bankers say the recovery of the nation's housing industry has stalled as rising interest rates cause deals to fall apart and fixed-rate mortgage loan business to slump.

"We make a lot of loans in the $100,000 to $150,000 price range, and I think that market has effectively gone to the dogs," said Daniel Perl, head of the Irvine-based mortgage firm of Perl-Ashmore Ltd.

Tim and Irma Rockey agree. They were preparing to move when the buyer of their Pasadena home backed out of the deal because mortgage interest rates had risen to an unaffordable level.

"I had worried about it, but I just couldn't believe it would happen," said Rockey, who moved to his new house anyway and is now trying to sell or rent the old one.

The sale of the Rockeys' house is only one of dozens of deals Southern California brokers say fell apart in recent weeks, the Los Angeles Times said in Sunday's editions.

Interest on fixed-rate mortgages — those that don't vary with the money market — has reached 14 percent at many institutions, making it more difficult for prospective home buyers to afford or qualify for such loans.

"Compared to last month, loan application volume is off 40 percent," said Forrest A. LaValley, mortgage lending officer at Suffolk County Federal Savings on New York's Long Island. He said interest on a fixed-rate mortgage is now 14.25 percent, up from 12.25 percent in May.

Milton Thomas, vice chairman of Dallas

Federal Savings in Texas, said his mortgage business has dropped 50 percent and "I have no reason to believe it will be any better very soon."

Citizens join search for burglar

KISSMEE, Fla. (AP) — An elusive and often-violent burglar has been raiding homes and attacking women in this city for 2 1/2 years, frustrating detectives and leaving residents increasingly angry and fearful.

But a new citizens' group, called Get Him, is leading a campaign to find the attacker — proposing that the city offer a $2,500 reward to anyone who kills him while he is committing a crime.

The man has struck 110 times, including 14 assaults on women, police Lt. Ren Taylor said. Three victims have required extensive medical treatment, including the latest, raped and beaten with a pipe while her husband was away in June, he said.

To date, the burglar's take has been a mere $2,000 because he moves quickly and takes only whatever is at hand, police say.

One woman victimized twice said she doesn't remember much about the first attack. She came home from work one day and woke up in the hospital a week later with injuries that required plastic surgery.

The second attack left her with a broken wrist and a broken foot. She woke up to find the man standing by her bed with a broom handle.

"I said, 'Oh, my God, not again,'" she said. "I sat up and he swung at my head. I put my hand up and he broke my wrist."

Before leaving, the attacker told her he would return. The woman, in her 40s, hired a bodyguard and now keeps loaded guns in every room of the house.

"On her day off we go a hundred miles away so she can relax," her bodyguard said. "This isn't society. This isn't right."

At the Kissimmee Police Department, a map of the city hangs on the wall, dotted with dozens of yellow and red pins, one for each time the burglar has struck.

Police believe the attacks were carried out by the same man because all the victims' descriptions match. They say the man is black, tall and slim. Police say he usually strikes in the pre-dawn hours and probably lives in the neighborhood since he flees so quickly.

Dr. Donohue

Some foods contribute to body odor

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a very embarrassing body odor problem. When I perspire it's worse and it's making a nervous wreck out of me. I am very clean about my body. Please give this matter some attention. I am an avid reader. — Miss A.G.

Body odors usually arise from the secretions of sweat gland, especially the special kinds under the arm or in the pubic region. They would not cause body odor by themselves, but odors arise when their secretions are partially digested by skin bacteria. So keeping such areas dry is important.

There are many very effective commercial deodorants that usually will end such odor problems. Your doctor might be able to recommend a specific one he has found effective for his patients. You can take an important step by shaving under your arms carefully. Then scrub gently with an anti-bacterial soap, and perhaps try an anti-bacterial powder for a week or so.

Odors from other body areas may follow eating or aromatic foods and spices, like garlic or onions. Try avoiding those for awhile. And there is a third possibility, one involving your imagination. Some people are overly concerned about body odors that are natural and not really offensive. Are you convinced that you do have a problem? Ask a friend if it is so.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the best treatment for acne today? Our doctor feels that antibiotics applied will do the job for my daughter. But one of her friends is using antibiotic pills. Is there a difference? — Mrs. S.S.

Either form of the medicine will help. Some patients fare better with the topical (applied) medicines — creams, etc. But others may require oral forms. In very severe cases of acne, the oral medicine, isotreti-noin, is sometimes used with good results when other treatment has failed.

There's no universal or "best" treatment for acne. Each case is different and that's why each must be evaluated by a doctor, who can then arrange the best treatment for that specific case. The booklet "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples" may offer other tips. Other readers may order a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Someone I know takes antacid tablets every day. The directions on the bottle say how much one should take and for how long. I know she is overdoing both the amount used and the length of time. I know she is doing this without the recommendation of her doctor. What harm can this do? — M. P.S.

My first reaction to this is to ask what kind of symptoms she has had to cause this antacid use and abuse. It would seem, though, that the antacids are not doing the job that has to be done and are not the answer for her.

As their name implies, the antacids work by helping keep the stomach environment from becoming overly acidic. Keeping the fine balance is like rowing a boat. Your friend may be rowing with one oar out of the water and going around in a circle. She can make herself too alkalotic by taking excessive amounts of antacids. She also may be getting too much sodium or magnesium or one of the other common ingredients of antacid medicines. Be a real friend and pass this information on to her.

NOTE FOR READERS: For those interested in the subject of epilepsy, I have the address for the Epilepsy Foundation of America. It is: 1828 L. Street, NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Grieving mother leaves message

DEAR ABBY: Last Feb. 12, my dear friend Beverly called to tell me that Kurt, her 25-year-old son, had died of an overdose of cocaine. I was shocked!

At Kurt's funeral, the minister read a letter that Beverly had written and asked him to read at the service.

I have Beverly's permission to send it to you, Abby, because in her words, "If it saves just one life, it will be worthwhile."

KURT'S GODMOTHER DEAR READERS: Here's Beverly's letter (in part):

"All of us share a terrible grief, and now I want to share my feelings with you:

"Kurt died of an overdose of cocaine. At first I couldn't even say those words, but now I want to say them over and over again so you, his friends, will not forget them. Since Kurt's death, almost all of you have said to me, 'If there is anything I can do for you, please let me know.'"

"All right, I am letting you know what you can do, not only for me, but for yourselves. Please take care of your precious bodies and make a solemn promise that what happened to Kurt will never happen to you."

"Since this happened to Kurt, many of you have told me that you have used cocaine, but you won't use it anymore. I am not only asking you — I am begging you to stop! It's too late for Kurt, but it's not too late for you."

"Don't hurt yourself."

Don't hurt your family. Don't hurt your friends. We all loved Kurt so much we don't want to believe this nightmare. But it is true. It happened!

"Cocaine kills. "If Kurt's death can save just one of you, he will not have died in vain."

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon and have made arrangements to have our wedding videotaped.

I don't want to risk having our expensive video ruined by crying babies and unpredictable toddlers, so I have tried to make sure there will be no small children at the ceremony. That doesn't mean I don't like kids. I love them. But not at my wedding.

This is my wedding, my expense and my choice, so I wrote "No children, please," on all the invitations addressed to those with small children. Now I'm getting response cards back from these people with the names of their children written in!

Abby, what gives them the right to bring their children when I have asked them not to? Our church has no nursery. I checked.

What can be done to keep these kids out? UPSET IN UPLAND, CALIF.

DEAR UPSET: Short of posting guards at the door to prevent anyone from smuggling a child in, nothing can be done.

To ignore your request is inexcusably rude. Discuss this with your clergyman. ***

DEAR ABBY: To the 49-year-old divorced man who raised his kids, and now finds he is not willing to raise someone else's: Did it ever occur to him to look for someone his own age, someone whose kids are also grown and "out of the nest?"

He might even find a better bed partner in that age group because she doesn't have to worry about getting pregnant!

Sign me... SIXTY AND STILL SEXY IN BEND, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: Why would a woman retain her late husband's voice on her telephone-answering machine long after he has passed away?

"To each his own," is my philosophy, but it is a bit eerie to hear the voice of someone who has been long dead say, "Hi, we're not home right now," etc.

Has this problem ever crossed your desk before? And don't tell me this is none of my business because I already know it isn't.

CURIOUS IN L.A. DEAR CURIOUS: No, this problem has never crossed my desk before. But to answer your question: The widow may have forgotten that the late husband recorded the message on their answering machine. Or perhaps she is aware of it and is reluctant to "let go" of him.

S.L. Hull family meets at community center

The family of Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Hull met in Stanton Community Center for a reunion, Aug. 7.

The Hulls came to the Salem community in 1906. Seventy-nine family members were present. Three of the couple's 11 children are living and were present at the reunion. The three were Floyd Hull, Leona Baugh and Earl Hull, all of Big Spring.

In addition to them, 16 out of 21 grandchildren were present. The couple also has 58 great-grandchildren and a large number of great-great-grandchildren.

The reunion has been held yearly since the 1920s. Family members came from Odessa, Stamford, Deming, N.M., Lampasas, Stanton and Big Spring to attend the event.

Travel Talk

by Gayle Murphy

Today's air fares are subject to frequent dramatic changes. It is not unusual for a bargain price to appear that was unthinkable only two years ago. There are, however, two points to keep in mind when purchasing a ticket through the airlines or your travel agent. If you find that an air fare has been reduced after you have paid a higher price for your ticket, but before you fly, you are usually entitled to a refund of the difference. Secondly, with a confirmed reservation and ticket purchase, you are usually protected against any price increase before you fly. Your travel agent is knowledgeable in all such matters.

Keeping up to date with all the changes in air fares and regulations as well as hotel and package rates means that we can bring you the most for your travel dollar. Call our travel experts at PLACES AND PLEASURES for a free consultation before you finalize your travel plans. Let us help you get the best deal! Our phone number is 263-7803. Domestic auto sales skyrocket in August DETROIT (AP) — Domestic automakers' early August car sales skyrocketed 40.8 percent ahead of an abysmal year-ago period, to their best daily sales rate since 1979, the companies said Monday.

The six major U.S. carmakers reported 178,686 autos sold between Aug. 1-10, or 19,854 per day, compared with 112,839, or 14,105 per day, in early August last year.

The percentage gain was based upon daily sales because there was one more selling day in early August this year than last year.

It was the best daily sales rate for the period since 1979. It also compared with last year's daily rate which was the lowest for the period in 24 years.

All the automakers but Volkswagen of America Inc. posted increases, ranging from American Motors Corp.'s estimated 82.7 percent gain to General Motors

Corp.'s 35.8 percent improvement.

AMC sales have soared since introduction of the Renault Alliance last fall, and GM has been helped by consumers' return to large and luxury cars.

VW, which made a name for itself with fuel-efficient small autos, was off 35.5 percent because of increased competition in the subcompact market and consumers' flagging interest in fuel economy.

Lufkin stunt team serious while on the job

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Jimmy Williams has a unique goal he hopes to accomplish sometime in the near future — he wants to ride on the hood of his car through a tunnel of fire.

The obvious question here is simple. Why? "It's never been done," Williams said. "That's the only reason."

Williams is part of a four-man Lufkin stunt team known as the "Williams Thrill Show" made up of Williams, his father, Yank Williams, Mike Perryman and J.C. Coleman. All take the stunt team very seriously.

"We all realize that we really have to get serious when we are about to perform a stunt that could endanger one of our lives," Jimmy Williams said. "The thing that would give us the most satisfaction, the thing we really want to do, is pull off the tunnel stunt."

The "tunnel stunt" Williams refers to will call for him and his team to construct a plywood tunnel 20 feet long, complete with walls on both sides and a roof. Then the tunnel will be doused with 20 gallons of diesel fuel and 10 gallons of gasoline and set on fire. Williams will ride on the hood of his car, while his father drives him through it.

Williams said a similar trick was filmed by a crew from the ABC-TV program, "That's Incredible," when a man attempted the stunt on a motorcycle.

"He actually made it through the tunnel, but for some reason, he decided to turn around and ride back through it a second time," Williams said. "When he did, he got some pretty severe burns on 90 percent of his body."

Williams said he has contacted the producers of the show, but they were not interested because of the serious risk involved.

"We called and asked them to film us doing the stunt, but after what happened, they told us they didn't want to have anything to do with any stunts that involved fire," Williams said.

Williams said he has studied the stunt and feels that he can successfully complete it.

"The way I figure it, we would only be inside the tunnel for about four seconds, but if we are in there any longer than that, we've got problems," Williams said. "It's about 500 degrees inside, so it's kind of a like opening a hot oven door and sticking your head inside."

Williams got his start in the stunt business watching his father, who spent time racing sprint and stock cars professionally.

"He did a lot of stunt driving, so it really comes naturally to us, and Mike's father (the late Tom Perryman) drove together with him, so we've got some background in it," Williams said.

Williams is no stranger to playing with fire, as his stunt team makes driving through an 8-foot-high wall of fire a regular part of their show. But despite that, he's still somewhat apprehensive before he attempts the stunt.

"When you first start through, you're scared as hell," Williams said. "You want to back out when you start thinking of all the things that could possibly go wrong, you either want to hurry through it and get it over with, or back out altogether."

Williams said that the fear shifts to excitement, though, when the stunt is over.

"The minute you make it through and you realize that everything went okay, there's a big rush of excitement," Williams said. "Then the next thing you think about is a stunt that will top the one you just did."

The normal stunt show lasts about an hour, and usually consists of a parade introduction, a series of firewalls, a rollover contest (where cars are flipped upside down, then rightside up), controlled wheel driving (where cars are rapidly turned from heading in one direction to the opposite direction) and a popular trick called "instant air conditioning."

"That's where we drive a car up a ramp and crash it into the top of a parked car, hitting it just right, where the top is ripped off of the other car," Williams said.

Williams says that between the stunts, team member J.C. Coleman dresses in a clown costume and entertains the crowd.

"He's out clowning around a lot, but he's also our safety man," Williams said. "He's always right there on the spot to make sure we're okay after a stunt is over, and he's always got a fire extinguisher standing by just in case."

The other two team members, Perryman and Williams' father, primarily serve as drivers.

"They are the only ones I'd really ever trust to be behind that wheel during some of these stunts," Williams said, "because one driving mistake could be the last."

Hot, dry weather driving snakes in Montana towns

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Hot, dry summer weather is luring rattlesnakes out of Montana's mountains and into populated areas, and snakebites are becoming more common, wildlife officials say.

At least three people in the Helena area have been bitten recently, and one, school official Mike Cummings, spent four days in a hospital — part of it because he is allergic to the anti-venom.

The snakes are likely to be around for the next few weeks, until cooler autumn weather arrives, said Vince Yannone of the Fish, Wildlife and Parks Department.

The rattlers are following mice that migrate from the hills in search of food and water, he said. Mid-day heat makes the snakes most active in the mornings and evenings.

Women at Clancy and Rimini, towns east and west of Helena, were bitten while working in their gardens, wildlife officials reported.

Cummings, principal at Helena's middle school, was bitten July 20 while fishing on the Dearborn River, about 40 miles north of Helena.

He said he stepped in a hole, heard a "quick, sharp thump" and felt a "fast, hard tap" on his shin.

A 2-foot and a 4 1/2-foot rattler were in the hole, and Cummings had stepped on both.

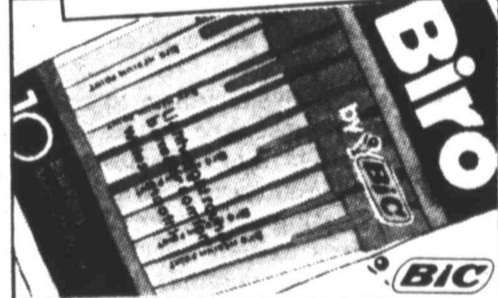

"The only sensation was in the bite itself," he recalled. "It was like a bee sting — hard and warm. There was no dramatic swelling until later."

He was a 35-minute walk from his car, and it took him an hour and a half to reach St. Peter's Hospital in Helena. "The only symptoms were tingling in my fingertips, eyebrows and lips," he said.

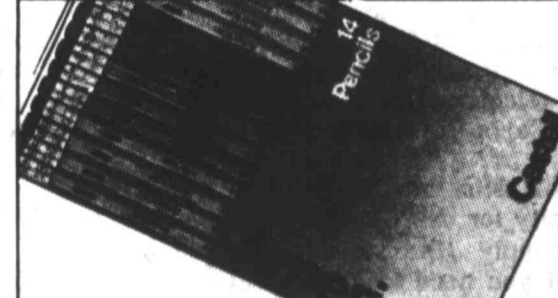

A skin test showed he is allergic to the antivenom, and hospital officials said the decision whether to use it was up to him.

"I chose to go with the antivenin," he said, and two hours later he began having allergic reactions — tremors, swelling, itching and hives. He spent a day in intensive care and was released from the hospital three days later.

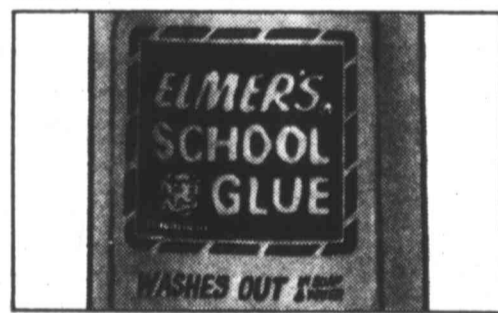

The allergic reactions continued almost three weeks. In addition, doctors had to remove a section of skin and fat around the bite a quarter-inch deep and four inches in diameter.

Baseball Roundup Orioles homer drops Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Time is running out for the Texas Rangers who have kept alive their fading hopes of still being in a pennant race next month.

The Rangers fell seven games behind Chicago Monday night after a 6-4 loss to the Baltimore Orioles, who have now won three in a row and remain on top of the American League East.

"We're running out of our allotted losses," said first baseman Pete O'Brien, whose three-run homer went for naught in the loss.

"We've got to win 10 or 11 ballgames on this homestand, regardless of who it's against," said O'Brien. "We kind of have our backs to the wall."

Texas is now 2-2 in the 13-game homestand, meaning the Rangers would have to win eight of nine against Baltimore, Chicago and Detroit to reach 10 wins.

Monday night, the damage was done by leftfielder John Lowenstein, who last year hit .400 against the Rangers and this year has hit at a .421 clip.

Four of his nine home runs and 11 of his 39 runs batted in this season have come against Texas.

American League

Brewers 2, Red Sox 0

Moose Haas pitched eight shutout innings for his seventh consecutive victory and stretched his string of scoreless innings to a club record 26 as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Boston Red Sox 2-0 Monday night on Ben Oglivie's two-run single in the first inning.

White Sox 1, Yankees 0

Britt Burns made his first start since July 31 after a stint in the bullpen and fired a three-hitter as the Chicago White Sox nipped the New York Yankees 1-0. In his last start, the Yankees routed him in the second inning.

Royals 6, Tigers 4

At Kansas City, Frank White drove in three runs with a second-inning single and a sixth-inning triple to help the Royals erase a four-run deficit.

Blue Jays 3, Indians 2

At Cleveland, Indians reliever Jamie Easterly walked Willie Upshaw with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Blue Jays their fourth consecutive victory. Dave Collins opened the ninth with a single off Dan Spillner. Easterly walked pinch hitter Damaso Garcia and Lloyd Moseby's bunt single loaded the bases with none out. Easterly then walked Upshaw on four pitches.

A's 8, Angels 0

At Oakland, rookie Gorman Heimueler pitched a four-hitter for his first major league shutout and complete game.

Twins 7, Mariners 4

At Seattle, Frank Viola survived a shaky start — he allowed two-run homers to Ron Roenicke in the second inning and Richie Zisk in the third — and combined with Ron Davis on a six-hitter. Scott Uliger's two-out single snapped a 4-4 tie in the fourth inning and Tom Brunansky homered in the seventh.

Cruz, Knepper Astros by Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Houston Astro pitcher Bob Knepper says National League hitters haven't given him many breaks this year, and his record shows it.

Knepper picked up just his fifth victory against 11 losses Monday night, riding the crest of a 14-hit outburst as the Astros pounded the Cincinnati Reds 9-1.

Knepper struck out nine and didn't walk a batter, but gave up 11 hits and struggled through the middle innings.

Jose Cruz let the attack, clubbing a pair of homers and driving in five runs.

National League

Padres 4, Braves 0

Losing hurt. But losing Bob Horner hurt more.

The Atlanta Braves who have lost three of their past four games, lost their slugging third baseman, Bob Horner, in the fourth inning of Monday night's 4-0 whitewashing by San Diego when he tried to break up a double play. He broke his right wrist in the process.

At game's end, most of his teammates had no idea they'd lost one of the main cogs in the Atlanta offense (a .303 batting average with 20 home runs and 68 runs batted in). When Horner was taken to a hospital, everyone thought he'd only sprained the wrist. It wasn't until later that the fracture was discovered.

Giants 7, Dodgers 3

In Los Angeles, Jeff Leonard drove in four runs with a homer and a triple and Darrell Evans had a homer and three singles and added two runs batted in as San Francisco ripped the Dodgers and kept them from gaining ground on the Braves.

Phillies 5, Cubs 0

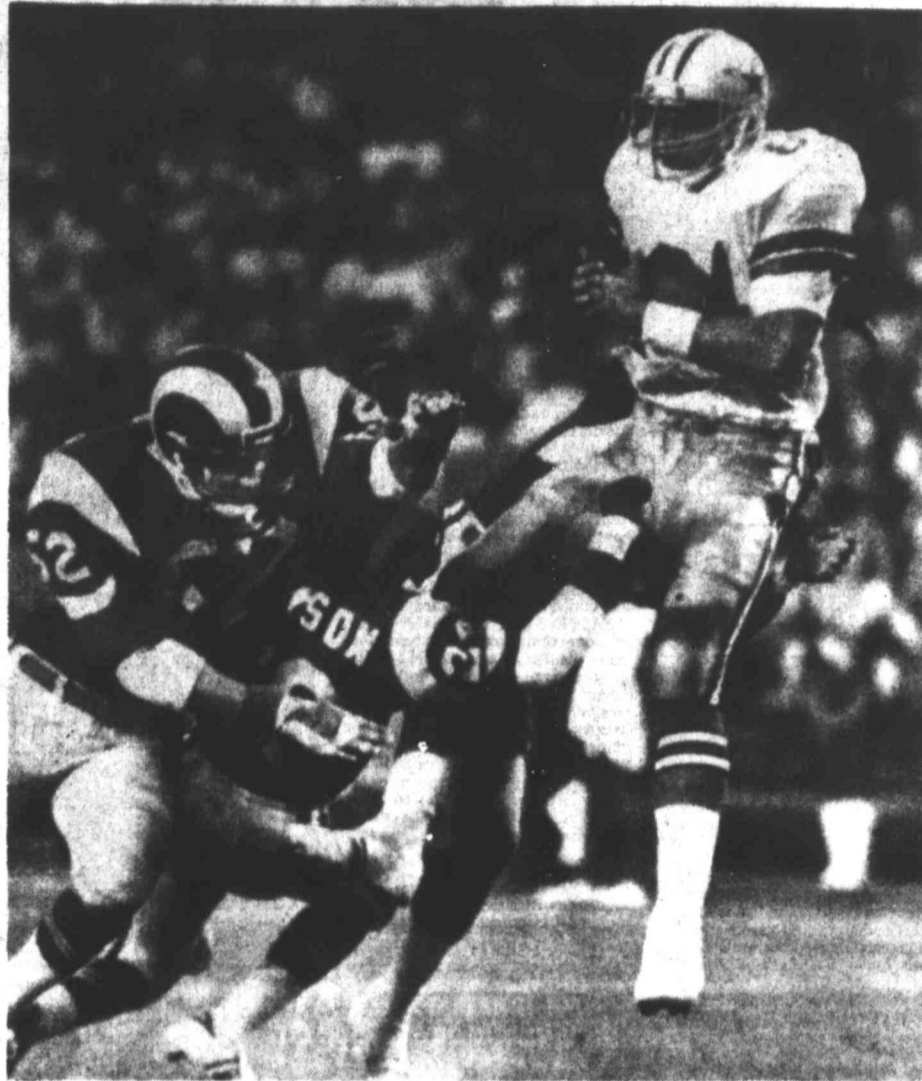

For seven innings in Chicago, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Steve Trout of the Cubs matched zeroes. Then the Phillies erupted for all five of their runs.

Pirates 4, Mets 2

Rookie Jose DeLeon, who pitched 1-1/3 innings of no-hit ball against the Mets July 31 in New York (they won that game 1-0 in 12 innings) hurled 8 1/3 innings of four-hit ball against them this time in Pittsburgh.

Expos 5, Cardinals 1

Tim Lincecum broke an eighth-inning tie with a sacrifice fly off the Cards' relief ace, Bruce Sutter, then Cary Carter homered to cap a three-run burst in the top of the ninth that ended Montreal's three-game tailspin and saddled St. Louis with its 12th loss in 14 games.

HE LEAPS TALL RAMS WITH A SINGLE BOUND — Dallas Cowboys tight end Doug Cosbie (84) goes above three Los Angeles defenders to catch a first quarter touchdown pass from Gary Hogeboom. Hogeboom and Danny White teamed for 200 yards in passing to lead the Cowboys to a 30-7 rout of the Rams in their exhibition game in Anaheim.

U.S. trips Mexico 74-63

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Sam Perkins wasn't worried at halftime, even if the heavily-favored United States men's basketball team did trail Mexico by 11 points in their Pan American Games debut.

"We weren't really concerned. We knew we had a lot of time. But we had to ease back into it. We couldn't score 10 points all at once. I think the defense did it for us," said the 6-foot-9 North Carolina forward, who scored 10 of his 16 points in the second half.

He proved to be a prophet. The Americans, relying on a zone defense in the final 20 minutes, outscored the Mexicans 39-16 for a 74-63 verdict.

In fact, all three of the men's basketball winners Monday night — Cuba and Puerto Rico won the others in overtime — came from behind before a spirited, whistling Poliedro crowd nearing capacity of 13,000.

Cuba, down by six points with 12 minutes left, stormed back for a 103-88 verdict over the Dominican Republic. Puerto Rico, thanks to Mario Morales' basket at the buzzer, stunned World University Games champion Canada 90-89.

Elsewhere, the United States collected three gold medals on the first 15 days of competition in these Western Hemisphere championships, still surrounded with controversy.

Eric Buljung, 39, a U.S. Army member from Fort Benning, Ga., captured the men's free pistol, the first medal of the games. Pat Spurgin, 18, from Billings, Mont., just up from the junior level, won the women's air rifle, a first-time event in the Pan Am competition. And the United States also reaped the team gold in the same event.

The fourth U.S. gold medal belonged to Margaret Castro. The New Yorker won the women's over-72 kilogram class in judo.

Controversy crowded the competition again.

A dozen Venezuelan swimmers were found residing in a downtown hotel, with a pool, instead of the oft-criticized athletes village. The village has no pool.

Pan Am Games

An American request to condense the women's basketball schedule from two weeks to nine days was denied for the second time in two days and Bill Wall, a U.S. basketball official, was still threatening to move the American basketball players out of the village, against the U.S. Olympic Committee's wishes.

In softball, the American women lost to Puerto Rico 6-5, the victory going to University of Southern California softball coach Donna Terry. She came in relief for the decision for the Puerto Ricans.

The U.S. baseball team fared better. Fresno State's John Hoover threw a five-hitter in an 8-0 rout of the Dominican Republic. The Americans had their ace, Minnesota Twins' No. 1 draft choice Tim Lincecum, ready to face Canada today.

Rams routed Dallas quarterbacks shine in 30-7 thrashing of Rams

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Reserve quarterback Gary Hogeboom drew his first start since joining the Dallas Cowboys and promptly started them rolling to a 30-7 preseason victory Monday night over the Los Angeles Rams.

His passes set up a field goal and he threw a touchdown pass as Dallas built a 10-0 lead in the first quarter of the National Football League exhibition contest.

"Sure, it felt good to start," Hogeboom said after the victory. "It was the first time I've started in four years — since college."

"I sure would like to start, but I will do whatever the coach wants."

The coach, Tom Landry, said, "It is reassuring to know that he is there if needed. It makes me feel good to know he is there."

Danny White remains the No. 1 quarterback for Dallas, facing the challenge by Hogeboom.

Asked if there was a sticky situation at quarterback, Landry answered, "It certainly is not sticky with me."

Coach John Robinson, in his first season with the Rams, said, "We did as many things wrong offensively as we could possibly do. It was my fault. I didn't have the team focused and ready to play."

"I thought we played hard, especially on defense. On offense, we didn't get a chance to play."

The Cowboys controlled the ball 36 minutes and 20 seconds and the Rams had it just 23:40, most after the issue had been decided.

Hogeboom's touchdown pass went 17 yards to Doug Cosbie. On that 64-yard advance, Hogeboom hit three passes for 50 yards.

On the opening drive, he connected on six passes for 52 yards to set up a 25-yard field goal by ex-Ram Rafael Septien.

The kicker later added scores on tries of 36 and 50 yards.

Shackled on offense, the Rams' only touchdown came on an 80-yard intercepted pass run back by LeRoy Irvin, who grabbed a throw by White.

The other Dallas touchdowns in the National Football League clash came on a pair of 1-yard runs — by George Peoples and Robert Newhouse.

Vince Ferragamo, the Rams' No. 1 quarterback, suffered a miserable first half, hitting only three of 16 passes for 29 yards with three of his throws intercepted.

Reserve Jeff Kemp came on to start the third quarter and finished up. He hit two

The Rams offense crossed midfield only twice in the game.

Hogeboom, a fourth-year pro from Central Michigan, hit eight of his first nine passes and finished with nine of 13 for 106 yards. White was nine of 14 for 98.

Dallas' third-string quarterback, Glenn Carano, came on late in the third quarter and played the rest of the game.

All-American Eric Dickerson, the Rams' top draft choice who watched the Cowboys while starting for SMU in Dallas, led the game's rushers with 67 yards on 14 carries.

But Dickerson fumbled and lost the ball when the Rams were at the Cowboys' six-yard line, losing the best chance of offense had for a touchdown.

Two of Ferragamo's interceptions led to Dallas scores. One was picked off by Rob Hill and the other by Benny Barnes. Larry Bethea intercepted a Kemp pass and, although the Cowboys didn't advance far, Septien then hit his 50-yarder.

A crowd of 54,268 watched on the warm night in Anaheim Stadium as the Cowboys put their preseason record at 2-0 and the Rams fell to 1-1.

Los Angeles lost starting left tackle Irv Pankey, who suffered a torn left Achilles tendon. A club spokesman said Pankey would be out for the 1983 season.

Dickerson runs for high yardage

ANAHEIM, Calif. (A) — The Dallas Cowboys dominated Los Angeles 30-7, yet a rookie from Dallas who plays for the Rams drew the most attention.

For as Gary Hogeboom and Danny White of the Cowboys controlled the airways Monday night in the National Football League preseason game, the leading rusher was Eric Dickerson, the 1982 All-American from Southern Methodist.

The Rams offense sputtered and might have died if it weren't for the 218-pound Dickerson, who gained 67 yards on 14 carries to lead all rushers. He did, however, fumble at the Dallas 6 when the Rams' offense had its best scoring chance.

At the end, the only Los Angeles touchdown was contributed by LeRoy Irvin, who intercepted a White pass and ran 80 yards for the score.

ATM Aggies feature new looks

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — When Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill assembled his coaching staff last season, he decided to play the hand he had been dealt, making as few personnel and alignment changes as possible.

"When we first got here we wanted to make as few changes as we could," defensive coordinator R.C. Slocum said. "We had a group that had already been here. We just tried to fit in with what had been done and it didn't work out."

The once-proud Aggie defense sank to the cellar in Southwest Conference team categories, yielding 403 total yards per game. The offense also struggled and the Aggies finished 5-6 in Sherrill's first season.

This season everything is new. The 4-3 defense has been sacked in favor of the 3-4 and the split-back offense is gone in favor of the I-formation.

John Mazur, a transfer from Southern Cal where he was a starter as a sophomore, will take over at quarterback for the graduated Gary Kubiak.

The Aggies also must replace running backs Johnny Hector and Earnest Jackson, both four-year letterman. The candidates are Joey Harris, Jimmie Hawkins, Thomas Sanders and Ira Valentine.

Slocum feels the 3-4 defense will be better suited to the talent the Aggies have assembled and will be more flexible in defending multiple offensive alignments.

"We didn't have many defensive linemen and we had more linebacker-type guys," Slocum said. "We had a couple of guys who could be pretty good inside backers but we didn't have the great middle linebacker."

"So, trying to sort it all out, we felt could come up with better starting backs with the 3-4."

A fit defense is needed to keep up with the varied offenses, Slocum said.

"Years ago there was so great a difference between the pro and college game and now there is very little difference," Slocum said. "Of the 28 pro teams, 23 or 24 are 3-4. The reason is the flexibility of adjusting out of the three-four where you got four linebacker types..."

Slocum has installed highly touted Ray Childress at one defensive end position and hopes he has a better year than 1982.

"I was a little disappointed in him and I know he was disappointed in himself," Slocum said. "But the biggest thing was he played on a sorry defense. He's a young kid. (Kenneth) Sims didn't even start at Texas his sophomore year because they had a good enough team that he didn't have to start."

"Everybody expected him to be so good and to dominate people. He was the best lineman in that bunch. We were expecting a young kid to do it all and that was unrealistic."

Slocum also plans to move free safety Billy Cannon to an outside linebacker position in the 3-4.

"Billy played pretty good last year when he was up close to the ball," Slocum said. "When he had short responsibility he played good. But he didn't play so well deep. Being a baseball player, you'd think he'd have the knack to break to the football, read angles and all that but that's one of his shortcomings."

Sixth in a series; coming next, a look at the Arkansas Razorbacks.

Kennedy 'obsessed' by death, made movie of assassination

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, "haunted" and "obsessed" by death, wrote and acted in a home movie two months before his assassination that showed him falling to the ground with red liquid gushing from his mouth, a new book says.

The movie was filmed in Newport, R.I., in September 1963, says author Ralph G. Martin.

Robert L. Knudsen, a former White House naval photographer who shot the movie, wondered after the president was gunned down while riding in a Dallas motorcade if the movie "was a premonition he had, or a quirk of fate."

The Kennedy movie is detailed in the book, "A Hero for Our Time," being published by Macmillan Publishing Co.

The book also says that Kennedy and the late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev carried on a private and secret correspondence that helped get the nuclear test ban treaty approved.

The two world leaders had "a wonderful dialogue in private letters — things they couldn't possibly say aloud," former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger says in the book.

In about 60 letters, Salinger says, "It was like a peasant writing to an intellectual — but they were on the same wavelength."

The passage about the home movie says: "The man with the binoculars watched President Kennedy as he got off the Honey Fitz (the Kennedy yacht) at Newport and walked down the long pier at Hammersmith Farm (the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, parents of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis).

"Suddenly Kennedy clutched his chest and fell flat on the ground. Walking behind him was the dignified Countess Crespi and her small son. Both simply stepped over the President's body — as if he were not there — and continued walking toward the shore.

"Right behind the countess came Jacqueline Kennedy, and she, too, daintily stepped over her husband's body. Behind her was (Paul Burgess Fay) Red Fay, undersecretary of the navy and Kennedy's PT-boat buddy. Fay stumbled and fell directly on the President's body. Just then, a gush of red surged from the President's mouth covering his sport shirt."

An Associated Press story dated Sept. 21, 1963, details a movie made in Newport, but says that it was Fay who lay down on the dock and Kennedy who stumbled over him. The movie was made over Labor Day weekend, the book says.

"We shot it two or three times," says Knudsen, who worked in the White House from the Truman administration until the Ford administration. "We shot a sequence, then turned around and reshot the sequence." Sometimes, he said, the "actors" changed roles.

Knudsen said he was "not at liberty to say" what became of the film, which he said was made in fun.

Martin said in the interview that Kennedy was preoccupied with death. "He had a feeling about death," Martin says. "He'd come back from a trip and say, 'Thank God I wasn't killed today.'"

"He always asked his friends how they'd like to die. Someone finally asked him and he said, 'airplane.' Why? He said, 'quick.'"

Martin said he traveled with Kennedy early in the 1960 presidential campaign on which he based the book, "Front Runner, Dark Horse." He said he spent five years compiling material for "A Hero for Our Time," and conducted hundreds of interviews.

According to the book, Mrs. Onassis once said of Kennedy: "The poignancy of men dying young haunted him."

Former Sen. George Smathers of Florida told Martin: "I don't know why it was but death became kind of an obsession with Jack."

Other highlights of "A Hero for Our Time" include:

—Kennedy confided to his friend, Larry Newman, that President Eisenhower was "a lying son of a bitch" because "he had told him that we wouldn't need any more people in Vietnam to handle the situation because most Vietnamese were pro-American."

—The former president also called the Vietnam conflict "a white man's war against the natives."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have the day and evening to project yourself and your views and to make the changes and new arrangements that you have been considering. Consider travel plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to communicate with those at a distance and state directly how you want conditions to be in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have come to new decisions in business, so carry through with them speedily. Be more understanding at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be more businesslike with your associates and come right to the point for best results in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your work done efficiently and be more co-operative with co-workers whose methods are different from yours.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact those who can give you succorance from worries and get into recreation that you really like. Please your loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you use words wisely at home, you can now come to a better understanding with kin. Entertain at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Communicate with those out of town and be direct so they know what you desire of them. Take a small trip.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan what should be done to increase abundance and take care you do not sign anything without studying it thoroughly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are fond of stating your views and today is fine for that and gaining cooperation for your ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget outside tasks and concentrate on a new plan so that you gain some secret wish. Happiness is in reach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Meeting with those who admire you can make them firm supporters of yours. Attend to personal affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get those duties done that are important and gain profits and prestige you desire. Take interest in a community affair.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to take a definite and straight course of action and get things done, but guard against constantly making changes just for the fun of it. There is a tendency to feel that he, or she is never wrong.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

ONE-HALF PRICE MEMBERSHIP SALE
Registration starts Aug. 15.

Aqua Babes

This program is meant for the child ages 6 months to 3 years. With the help of the parent, the child adjusts to the water with safety being stressed the entire time. The parent learns to handle emergencies and how to prevent water accidents. The beginning class is for parents and children who are taking the class for the first time. The advanced class covers more detailed rescue techniques for the parent and more skills for the child.

Pre-school swim instruction

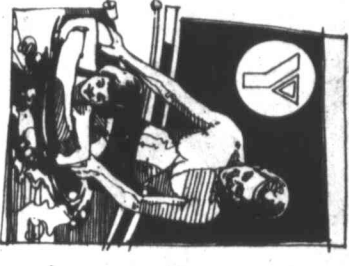

Can your pre-schooler swim? If the answer is no, there is no time like the present for your preschooler to begin. Under the direction of expert instructors, your child will learn to swim! We offer four pre-school levels through which your child can advance. Have your children learn to swim safely.

Aggressive swim instruction Grade school

Do your children know how to swim? Our progressive swim classes follow the nationally recognized Swim Program geared for the child 6 years of age and over. There are 6 levels of swimming which gives the child the opportunity to advance. Swimming is one of the best forms of exercise that can be used throughout an individual's life. Help your child to be safer in and around the water. Register at the "Y".

Adult swim instruction

If you're over 18 years of age and either don't know how to swim or your swimming skills are a little rusty, then this class is for you. Taught by qualified instructors, you will learn the basic swimming strokes along with your peers. The class is broken up according to ability so you learn with others who have the same skills. You're never too old to learn to swim!!

Youth soccer

Join the YMCA (North Texas Soccer Association) League play and learn about the fastest growing sport in the world. Games are scheduled for Saturday and Sundays so the whole family can enjoy the excitement. In YMCA sports, everyone plays, learns, and has fun.

Joining us soon will be Sport-Billy and his friend Under 10 Character through 14 Under Sports.

CONTEST FOR ALL BOYS' YEA'S MEMBERSHIP!! Just tell about Sport-Billy and Sport-Lilly. The boy and girl who comes closest in telling in 100 words or less who these special characters are will win a free year's membership. Mail or bring entries to the YMCA.

Racquetball Lessons

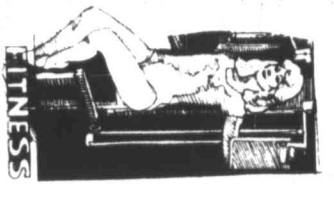

Youth racquetball lessons. Start playing one of the fastest games in the world, 6 weeks long. Each child must have their own racquet.

Dance classes

Mrs. Ora Burson teaches dance lessons for children, ages 3 years of age and older, along with classes for adults. Tap, Ballet, Acrobatic, and Modern Jazz lessons available by group or private lessons. Call Mrs. Burson at 267-7816 for class registration.

INDIAN GUIDES

YMCA/CACQUID INDIAN PROBLEMS are designed to foster understanding and companionship between parent and child. The Big Spring YMCA will be sponsoring organizational meetings for everyone interested. At the announced meetings, we invite you to attend with your son or daughter to learn more about these different programs:

Y-INDIAN GUIDES

K-3rd grade - Boys and their days.

Y-INDIAN PRINCESSSES

K-3rd grade - Girls and their days.

Y-INDIAN MAIDENS

K-3rd grade - Girls and their days.

Swim Team

For boys and girls 7 years and older. They must be able to swim a minimum of 1 length (20 yds.) of the springing pool. Swimmers will be taught in the swim team, learn the backstroke, breast stroke, and butterfly. The swim team is geared towards fun competition but low key meets. The team competes with other YMCA's in our league in dual meets. Children may qualify for District, State, and Regional meets.

Practice will begin August 22. For further information ask the front office and be sure to put your name on the swim team mailing list.

Team fees: $72.00 for 1st child ($6 per month) $36.00 for each additional child per family.

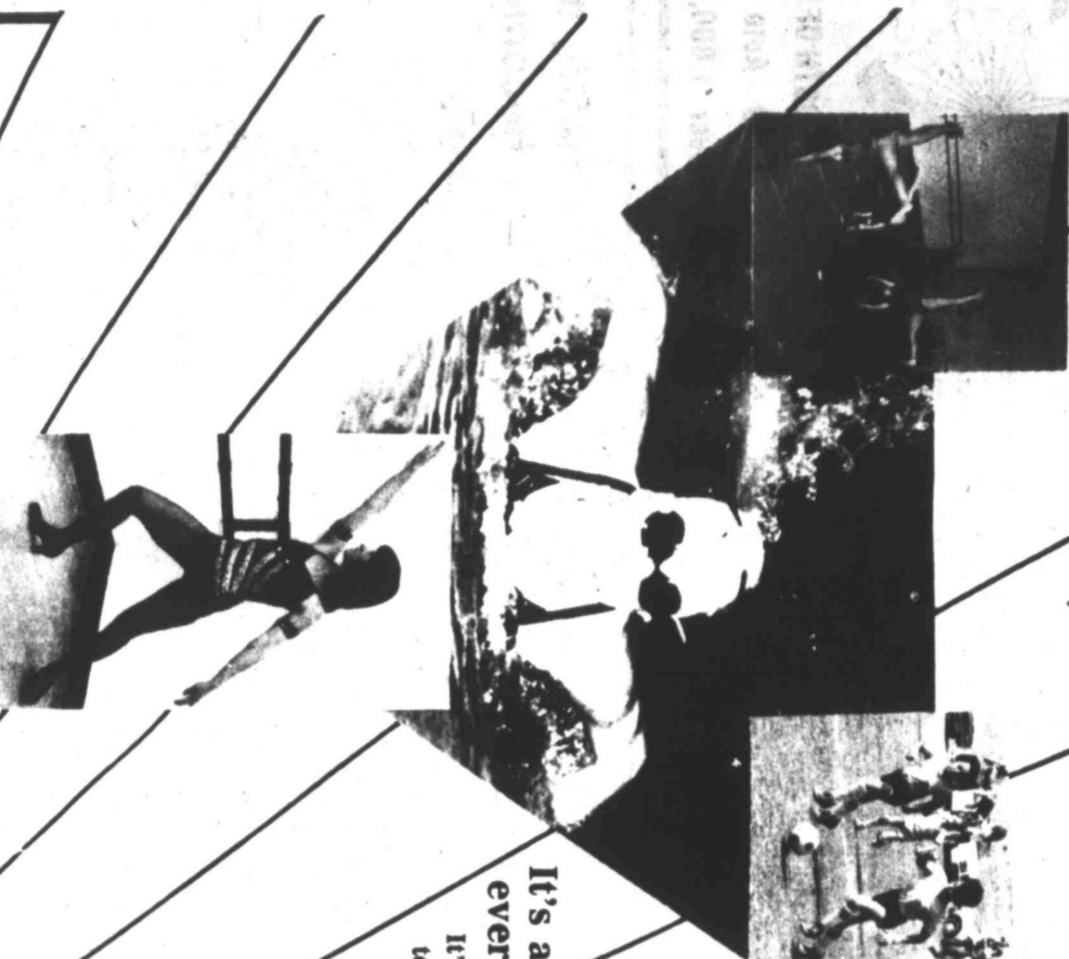

ALL SWIM TEAM MEMBERS MUST BE A YMCA MEMBER

YMCA

Parent/Child Programs... a great idea!

WERE PROUD TO HAVE THE YMCA IN OUR COMMUNITY!

It's a place to belong...for everyone...for all ages...

It's a place to meet friends, learn to dance, play racketball, soccer and basketball. Swim, take a sauna, exercise alone or in a group. You can treat your body to a whirlpool and a massage. You can even take a steam bath!

You'll enjoy banking with First National. We combine a Big drive-in facility for the convenience of our customers!
