Park land sale vote slated

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

If approved Saturday by voters, the future sale of 25½ acres of city land will pump money into local park development, Big Spring city councilmen say.

Polls open at 7 a.m. tomorrow for a citywide election on the sale of park land in south Big Spring. Ballots can be cast at the Northside Fire Station and Dorothy Garrett Coliseum until 7 p.m.

Voters will have two propositions before them:

PROPOSITION 1 — For the sale of ½-acre off Driver Road east of Comanche Trail Golf Course.

PROPOSITION 2 — For the sale of 25 acres near the corner of Parkway Drive and Vicky adjoining the southwest corner of Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Councilmen consider the 25 acres a good prospect for development because of its proximity to the city golf course and its natural setting. See ELECTION, page 2A

$500 cash, watch taken in robbery

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

A local insurance agency owner was robbed of $500 cash and his $600 watch Thursday by four men, one of whom was armed with a .22 caliber rifle, Big Spring police said.

The daylight robbery occurred at the office of the Gossett Insurance Agency at 4300 W. Highway 80. The owner, Ralph Gossett of 545 Hillside, was not injured in the incident.

Police Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat said this morning no arrests have been made in the case.

"There are some people we're checking into, but no sure suspects," he said.

Gossett was the only person in the office when the robbery occurred shortly after 2 p.m., according to David Glenn, his associate who works in the adjoining office.

"I had gone out for a while, and when I came back I saw that my telephone was on the floor," Glenn said Thursday afternoon. "I figured it had just been knocked over somehow, and I thought Ralph had gone out for coffee. He came back in and said he'd been robbed."

Glenn said both his and Gossett's telephone cords had been pulled out of the wall and cut.

"Apparently, they came into my office and were rummaging around the desk. It was locked, but all the commotion brought Ralph in," he said.

Jeffcoat said the suspects ran south of the building, across Highway 80 and onto Lindbergh Street before disappearing.

'Dangerous highway' viewed

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Citing dangers to Klondike school district students who must travel along the narrow Farm Road 828, Dawson County officials got the attention of the state highway commission Thursday, but little else.

County Judge Glenn R. White said the road near the high school is only 18 feet wide with no shoulders, and any car straying from the pavement hits deep, soft sand. The sand can cause a car to flip, he said.

Officials say Klondike students endangered

"We are here to bring to your attention a dangerous highway situation — a situation we feel can and should be corrected, a situation that has been the direct cause of six accidents the past 22 months," White told the three commissioners.

He said eight buses carrying up to 59 students each travel the road twice a day.

"These buses encounter each other, oil field traffic and farm equipment along with the other school traffic," he added. "So far, there has not been an accident involving a school bus, but do we have to wait until that happens before we do something about the situation?"

JUST CHECKING — Dorothy Thomason checks E.W. Richardson's blood pressure at the Medicine Shoppe. Mrs. Thomason is always on the look-out for people who should seek medical attention. She also adds an air of friendliness to her work.

They gather to visit, laugh, talk over ailments and be with friends. The place is the Medicine Shoppe on Gregg Street. The reason they are there is the free blood pressure screening test held once a month.

It seems strange that a test for high blood pressure could be swathed in such a friendly atmosphere, but it is.

Possibly, the atmosphere of friendliness and caring is brought about by Dorothy Thomason, a retired licensed vocational nurse who runs the screening for the American Heart Association.

"Good morning, young lady," she says to an elderly woman who seats herself by the blood pressure instrument. "How are you feeling today?"

And with that simple greeting, Dorothy has most people telling her about their aches and pains as she skillfully takes their pressure.

"Isn't that wonderful?" Dorothy exclaims as the pressure is found to be lower than last time. "That's See NURSE, page 2A

Author says he's optimistic

RIO DE JANEIRO — Nobel Prize-winning author Gabriel Garcia Marquez says he's optimistic about the future of Latin America and describes the region's problems as simply "childhood diseases."

"I truly believe we are the world of the future," the 1982 Nobel Laureate said in a television interview, "and all these cases of 'measles' and 'bronchitis' we are going through are just childhood diseases."

The Colombian author also had some comments on critics, whom he described as "an intermediary between the creator and the reader."

Admitting he "probably was unjust with critics," he said he still finds it interesting to read what they have to say because they "discover things one never imagined existed."

Winger, Gov. houseshopping

OMAHA — Actress Debra Winger and Gov. Bob Kerrey have been looking at residential property, but have not yet made a purchase, an Omaha newspaper reports.

The couple has been shown at least two properties in Lincoln, a real estate man told the Omaha World-Herald, according to an account published Thursday.

"But as of yesterday they hadn't bought," the realtor said.

Kerrey and Miss Winger have been frequent companions on several trips. The governor said last week "We're dating. We're trying not to be too serious; we're trying to have a good time."

Astrowoman rides circuit

LEXINGTON — Riding the banquet circuit instead of earth orbit, America's first woman in space, Sally Ride, says there could be a shuttle flight with two women aboard within a year.

Ms. Ride, on a two-month public relations tour for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, also said Thursday that later flights could include equal complements of women and men.

Concerning the rigors of traveling in space, the 32-year-old physicist said she didn't have any unusual problems, noting as lifting heavy weights because there is no weight in space.

Bernstein's birthday bash

LAWRENCE — Conductor Leonard Bernstein says he could have celebrated his 65th birthday at the Hollywood Bowl or in New York at Radio City Music Hall with the New York Philharmonic — but he chose to return to the town where he was born.

And with his 85-year-old mother at his side, the maestro, wearing an elegant white suit and smoking a cigarette in a holder, was welcomed to this "Immigrant City" with "Happy Birthday" sung by a chorus of children wearing Spanish, Latvian and Irish dress.

"Everybody had a great idea how to celebrate this," Bernstein said Thursday, "and I didn't like any of them. It seemed kind of a pompous way to celebrate one's birthday, without any meaning to it."

Reagan's views in 'fog'

SAN DIEGO — President Reagan, defending himself against criticism from feminists, complained today that his efforts to protect the rights of women have become clouded by a "fog of demagoguery."

In the aftermath of charges that his administration has compiled a record of empty promises for women, Reagan said, "All of us are interested in one goal: insuring legal equity for women."

In his speech, on the 63rd anniversary of women's suffrage, Reagan tried to repair some of the political damage caused by charges from former Justice Department official Barbara Honigger. She has accused Reagan of reneging on a commitment to purge federal laws and regulations of provisions that discrimination against women.

Heat wave grips Midwest

The smothering blanket of heat which has claimed 17 lives offered no relief today for the Midwest, where farmers pleaded for federal disaster aid to rescue them from the "slow torture" of billion-dollar crop losses.

The nation's mid-section continued sweltering Thursday as temperatures climbed over 100 from Oklahoma to Iowa, while lightning from thunderstorms killed one person and injured two others in Alabama.

But the Deep South got a breather as thunder-showers bathed parts of Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas, touched off in part by sputtering tropical depression Barry.

The National Weather Service offered a hint of good news for the drought-stricken Midwest over the weekend, with a chance of scattered showers predicted for Saturday. But many discouraged farmers say their parched fields are beyond hope, regardless of nature's plans for the rest of the summer.

Studio fire destroys sets

HOLLYWOOD — "Star Trek" star William Shatner joined firefighters to battle a "solid sheet" of flame that raced through Paramount Studios, destroying vintage movie sets and damaging stages where the TV shows "Cheers" and "Happy Days" are shot.

Flames at the 50-acre studio Thursday afternoon shot 90 feet into the air and swept over six acres, demolishing the 56-year-old "New York Street" set where the movies "Going My Way" and "Bells of St. Mary's" were filmed.

All that remained of the outdoor sets were 30-foot-high telephone posts that had supported building facades.

Damage was estimated "in the millions," Fire Inspector Ed Reed said. Earl Lestz, vice president of studio operations for Paramount, said that while "New York Street" was "priceless," damage to the sound stages was "minor."

Walesa confronts official

WARSAW — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa confronted Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski about the need for free trade unions at a meeting with Lenin Shipyard workers in Gdansk, then, cheered by his colleagues, was carried off to a demonstration by about 2,000 people.

In his first face-to-face encounter with a senior government leader since the now-outlawed Solidarity was suspended Dec. 13, 1981, Walesa made a 10-minute ## speech Thursday urging the government to open talks on reviving free trade unions, witnesses reported.

Walesa's remarks were his longest, before the largest audience, since his release last November from an 11-month martial law internment.

The state-run Polish media today devoted heavy coverage to the stormy confrontation.

Marines land in Honduras

An additional 1,000 U.S. soldiers arrived in Honduras for joint U.S.-Honduran war games seen as a show of force by the Reagan administration, while in El Salvador there were reports of scattered fighting and rightist death squad murders.

The head of El Salvador's Peace Commission said he expects direct talks soon with leftist rebels waging a 46-month war against the U.S.-backed government.

The American amphibious assault ship Nassau arrived Thursday in Puerto Cortes, Honduras, with 36 helicopters and the additional troops, mostly from the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Ky., bringing the number of American soldiers there to 2,400.

The joint maneuvers, dubbed Big Pine II, may last as long as six months and eventually will involve about 5,000 U.S. troops and half of Honduras' 12,000-member army. American strength will be at its peak in November when 1,000 Marines from Camp Lejeune, N.C., make an amphibious landing with Honduran troops.

Druse meets U.S. envoy

BEIRUT — Lebanon's leftist Druse leader Walid Jumblatt flew to Paris from Syria today to meet with U.S. Middle East envoy Robert McFarlane, and the Israeli military command in Lebanon said its troops killed five of eight Arabs who attacked a mountain checkpoint.

Sources in Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party said in Damascus, Syria, the Paris meeting was to focus on the planned deployment of the Lebanese army in Lebanon's central mountains, where Druse and Christian militias have feuded for months.

Jumblatt, 36, has ordered his comrades in the mountains to oppose the Lebanese soldiers when they replace Israeli troops planning a pullback south to the Awali River. The Druse fear the Lebanese regulars will side with the Christian militiamen.

French minister in Chad

N'DJAMENA — French Defense Minister Charles Hernu opened talks with President Hissene Habre today and diplomatic sources said the operations and objectives of the French forces facing Chad's Libyan-held northern desert were high on the agenda.

French President Francois Mitterrand, in an interview with the Paris daily Le Monde, said Thursday that his government intended to have a "profound discussion" about the military and political situation in the divided former French colony.

The diplomatic sources, requesting anonymity, said Hernu could expect serious difficulties in persuading Habre to accept the suggestion in Mitterrand's interview that a solution to the civil war might be a federation of the government-held southern half of Chad and the rebel and Libyan-held northern half.

Hernu, in an interview on Chad radio today and in a brief talk with French reporters, twice repeated a parallel he drew on arrival in N'Djamena Thursday between his current "inspection" of 3,000 French paratroopers and similar previous inspections of the French peacekeeping force in Lebanon.

Scattered showers linger

By The Associated Press

A high-pressure dome kept skies clear over Texas today, while scattered afternoon thunderstorms were expected to develop over southern and western sections of the state.

Scattered high level clouds were located along the lower coast, while portions of South Central and far West Texas observed low cloudiness. Elsewhere, clear skies prevailed.

Temperatures ranged from 70 degrees at El Paso to 81 degrees at Palacios. Winds were southerly at speeds of 5 to 10 mph across much of Northwest Texas and light and variable elsewhere.

Sunny and hot conditions were expected through Saturday. Afternoon highs should climb into the 90s, with temperatures in the lower 100s in the desert southwest and northwestern sections of North Texas.

Thunderstorms rumbled across North Dakota, spitting out several tornadoes that snapped trees and power lines and blew over a mobile home before moving on today into Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana.

Meanwhile, the Midwest remained under a stifling blanket of high temperatures Thursday, but the Southeast got some relief with scattered showers across Florida, Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas generated by a tropical depression, the remnants of Tropical Storm Barry.

Temperatures climbed over 100 from Oklahoma to Iowa on Thursday, with the nation's high of 110 set at Gila Bend, Ariz.

Lightning in Alabama killed one man and injured two others.

West Texas — Partly cloudy and warm to hot afternoons with fair and mild nights. Isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms most sections. Highs ranging from lower 90s Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend. Lows from mid 60s Panhandle to mid 70s Big Bend.

North Texas — Chance of thundershowers east. Thundershowers more likely central and west Monday and Tuesday. Otherwise partly cloudy. Highs middle 90s to near 100 Sunday becoming lower to middle 90s Monday and Tuesday. Lows 70s.

South Texas — Partly cloudy with scattered mainly daytime thundershowers most numerous eastern sections. Lows 70s except near 80 immediate coast. Highs 90s east and coast with 90s central sections and near 100 along the Rio Grande.

Science faces political woes

Frank Press, president of the National Academy of Sciences, charges that scientific excellence is threatened by political favoritism. He claims that not enough money is going for basic research and the bulk of federal research money is being spent on defense-related studies.

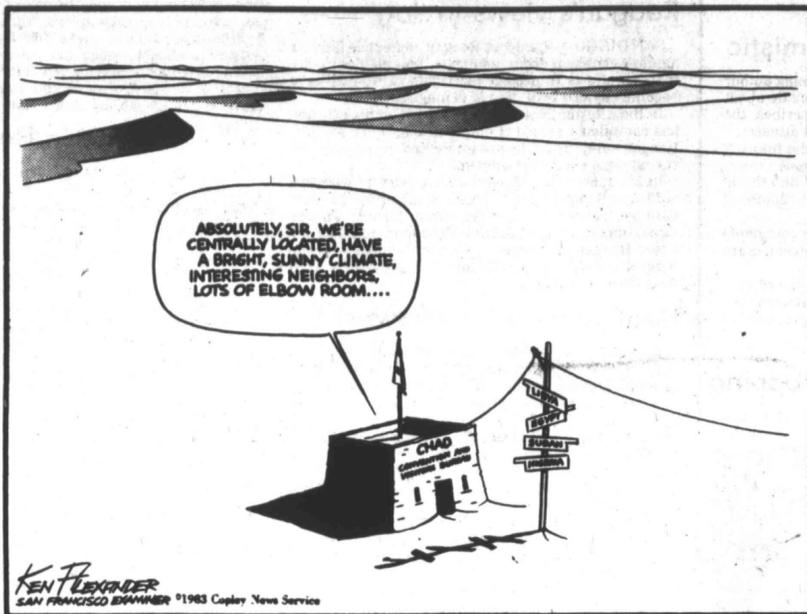

In his annual report, Press cites the fact that the U.S. Geological Survey "is gradually losing its historic position as world leader of research" because of budget cuts.

He also says that research funds for the National Bureau of Standards and the Environmental Protection Agency have been cut back dangerously.

On the other hand, Press charges that the Reagan administration makes appointments to scientific advisory committees "conditional on political loyalty."

His argument was supported recently by a Nobel Prize-winning scientist who is doing significant cancer prevention research. The scientist told us that federal money has been cut back so much that he now must spend half his time raising funds and keep his laboratory functioning and to retain his staff.

Pure research is necessary for America to maintain scientific excellence. It should not be politicized, and it should not be subject to budget cuts.

Son's death tests faith

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Our oldest son was killed in a automobile accident just a few months before graduating from college. It all seems so senseless, and frankly it has even shaken my faith in God. Can you help me understand this? — D.A.F.

DEAR D.A.F.: Whenever I receive a letter like yours I always wish I had an explanation I could give that would cover all situations and answer all questions. But we do not always understand completely why things happen to us that are seemingly so senseless or evil. The Bible talks about "the mystery of iniquity" (II Thessalonians 2:7, KJV), suggesting that there is indeed a mystery to some of the things that happen to us.

At the same time, we need to remember that we live in a world which has been stained and twisted by sin. The world was not this way when God created it; instead, "God saw all that he had made, and it was very good" (Genesis 1:31). But then sin entered the world when the human race turned its back on God and chose instead to go its own way. And although we cannot fully understand it now, that rebellion has had terrible consequences for the human race, bringing heartache and death in its wake.

That leads me to a very important observation. This experience will most likely have one of two effects in your life. It will either embitter you and cause you to get angry at God, or it will show you your own need of God for strength and comfort in the midst of life. My prayer is that the latter would be the case, for it would be far more tragic than your son's death for you to turn your back on God and refuse his love for you.

As you consider this, I also want to remind you of something else very important. You are deeply hurt because of the death of your son. But I want to assure you that God knows exactly how you feel. How do I know this? I know it because God's only Son, Jesus Christ, also died. He suffered and died on a cross, so you and I could be reconciled to God. God understands your heartache — and he wants to surround you with his love if you will let him.

Working hard

Donna Summer has been singing these days about hard working women in "She Works Hard for the Money." Reviewers say she was inspired by a waitress attendant. Her album cover shows her dressed in a waitress' uniform, and the videotape of "She Works Hard for the Money" shows a woman with a couple of screaming kids trying to make ends meet by working as a waitress.

I can sympathize with waitresses. They do work hard for the money, but they seldom get treated right. When I was in high school, I took on a summer job "slinging hash" at a local restaurant. It was both an enlightening and horrifying experience.

Waitresses have to be one of the most misunderstood groups in America. Before taking my job as a waitress, I assumed they were a bunch of airheads floating through the day with nothing much to do except stroll around a restaurant. But being a good waitress takes training, and it's not so easy.

In the first place, a waitress has to try and get the orders right — whether she's working a table with a solitary guy who wants only coffee, or whether she's got a table with 20 people all ordering hamburgers, no, make that a cheeseburger, no change that back to a hamburger, with different ingredients on them.

Sometimes, even if she's good at her craft, she's bound to get it wrong. A lot of people are downright rude to waitresses. Since

I became more sympathetic to their plight, I've noticed that people can get really angry at these women.

I took a crash course in waitressing and dropped out early. The job was too tough. In the first place, you have to stand on your feet all day, scurrying from table to table. In the second place, you have to cart around other people's dirty dishes and disregarded food. Ugh.

A waitress has to politely take other people's orders, pour endless cups of coffee and glasses of tea and water, make sure napkins and silverware are in place, keep tables clean and make small talk with the customers.

You also have to laugh at a lot of stupid jokes and steam quietly from a lot of crass remarks.

In my case, I also had to put up with a boss who was trying to "improve" me. He was constantly after me to stand up straighter, keep my hands out of my pockets, turn in orders faster, keep sugar bowls filled, make sure everybody was happy. He watched me during my whole shift, and he was full of handy advice. I almost asked him to step behind the counter and serve people himself. I also almost threw a glass of water in his face, but I thought that might hasten my already planned departure.

Yes, waitresses work hard for the money. And it can't seem worth it when those 20 people with 20 different orders leave the table with a quarter tip hidden under the ash tray.

Art Buchwald

Dressing up the newsrooms

The recent lawsuit concerning a former Kansas City anchorwoman Christine Craft, who was demoted because her bosses allegedly didn't like the way she looked on television, points out once again the problem of delivering the news to people by TV as opposed to newspapers.

Miss Craft maintained the TV consultants hired by the station decided the audiences wanted a woman who was more attractive and gave them "warmth and comfort" with their headlines. The station executives said it wasn't a case of looks, but ratings, that made them decide to demote her. Miss Craft sued for sexual discrimination and won $500,000.

"I'm proud to say this could have never happened in the newspaper business, because if the consultants who work for TV companies had anything to say about our looks, 95 percent of us would be out of jobs."

I can just see a media consultant going through the city room of an American newspaper.

He says to the publisher who is escorting him, "Who wrote the lead story on President Reagan this morning?"

"Susanna West. She's sitting over there. Susanna is our best reporter and won the Pulitzer Prize for her series on hunger in America last year."

"She's going to have to get a new hairdo."

"Why is that?"

"The public doesn't like to read front-page stories written by a woman whose hair isn't perfectly coiffed."

"You tell her. I'm not about to," the publisher says.

"Miss West. You wrote a very good story this morning."

"Who the hell are you?"

"I'm a media consultant and I've been hired to up circulation. Have you ever thought about wearing something a little more sexy than a turtle-neck sweater and a tweed skirt?"

"Get lost, buster. I have a deadline."

"Please don't take it personally, but don't you think you're a little too old to be a newspaperwoman?"

"I'm 34."

"Newspaper readers prefer to read stories by younger, more attractive reporters."

"If this is a gag, you got me at the wrong time. I'm trying to check out something with Henry Kissinger."

"Miss West. I'd prefer you not make that call until you change your makeup. Let's see if we can get those wrinkles out from under your eyes before you speak to Henry."

"Now you've done it. If you don't disappear in five seconds I'm going to dump this coffee on that yucky Palm Beach suit you're wearing."

"The publisher rushes up. 'Hold it, Susanna, the man is only doing his job.'"

"Get him out of here before I drop the 1984 budget on his skull."

The publisher leads him away and the consultant says, "She doesn't seem to have the warmth it takes to give the public the news about Ronald Reagan. I would replace her with someone your readers could be more comfortable with when they read about Chad. Who is that woman over there at the water cooler?"

"That's our science writer. What's wrong with her?"

"She's wearing a pantsuit. Our surveys show readers are very threatened by women reporters who wear pants."

"We gave up dress codes for women reporters years ago."

"Well, you're going to have to reinstate them if you ever hope to get your circulation up. Do you see that girl sitting at the desk over there?"

"Our film critic? What's wrong with her?"

"She's pregnant."

"But she isn't going to have a baby for four months."

"How do you think your subscribers would feel if they knew they were getting their movie reviews from a pregnant woman?"

"Look, why don't we just forget the whole thing. I'm not sure a media consultant is what this paper needs right now."

"It's your candy store. If you don't care about the way your women reporters look, don't come crying to me when your readers go somewhere else for their news."

A plan against pollution

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan, in what he hails as a model for the rest of the country, has offered a scheme to reduce water pollution by the United States Steel Corp. without causing the company to spend an extra dime or the state to lose any more jobs in steelmaking. This plan does deserve national attention — as a model for bad environmental policy.

Hartigan says his idea avoids the unpleasant choice "between jobs and the environment." It also spares him looking like a villain. On the other hand, he isn't willing to let the company out of a 1977 consent decree, which obliged it to undertake 10 anti-pollution projects at its South Works plant in Chicago. Eight of the requirements have been met. U.S. Steel says the other two aren't needed. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency agrees. But Hartigan wants them.

On the other hand, he is worried that U.S. Steel will make good its threat to close the South Works and cancel plans to build an adjacent rail mill if it has to spend another $33 million to reduce water pollution. In that case, Hartigan says, the state would lose some 13,000 existing and potential jobs.

One solution is for him to ask the supervising court to alter the consent decree, thus sparing U.S. Steel more costs. An EPA official says the additional expenses would provide "no real environmental benefit." Instead, Hartigan has contrived a scheme that would force Illinois taxpayers to pay for any new pollution controls.

While the matter of whether the new controls are needed is being settled (most likely through litigation), the state would divert up to $33 million of the taxes generated by the plant to a special "Lake Michigan Trust Fund." If the new pollution controls have to be installed, they would be paid for out of the fund. If not, the money would go for other projects to clean up the lake.

This would permit U.S. Steel to proceed with its expansion without the threat of new expenses. (The company has neither endorsed nor rejected the plan.) Hartigan's reasoning is that the cost to the state would be more than paid for by tax revenues from the plant — revenues that won't be collected if it closes.

But this plan represents a victory of ingenuity over prudence. It also violates the central tenet of intelligent environmental policy: that polluters and their customers, not the public at large, should pay the cost of cleaning up pollution.

The logic of this premise is simple. Pollution occurs because people demand goods whose production fouls the air or water. The buyers pay only the producer's costs — while innocent bystanders have to bear the cost of the pollution in damage to health and property. Requiring a polluter firm to pay for pollution controls forces buyers to pay the full costs of the goods they buy, eliminating the costs imposed on other people.

This is generally how our pollution laws have been designed. The alternative is to spread the cost to everyone. What's wrong with that? It forces those people who don't use products which generate pollution to subsidize those who do. It also causes overconsumption of goods whose production requires expensive pollution controls and underconsumption of goods which require less expensive measures.

The only problem, as Hartigan notes, is that existing laws sometimes lead to plant closures. That is unfortunate but necessary. If buyers are not willing to pay the full cost of the steel produced at the South Works, then it should be closed down — just as a lumber mill should be mothballed if its costs exceed the prices consumers will pay.

That may or may not mean a net loss of jobs in Illinois. Hartigan's proposal is concerned only with the jobs that may be lost if the plant closes. But the money that would be spent on steel produced at the South Works won't disappear. It will be spent on other goods, thus generating new jobs. Those goods and jobs can be produced in Illinois as well as anywhere else.

Hartigan says that states make deals all the time with corporations to encourage expansion or to discourage departure. The only difference is that this one involves environmental requirements. He's right, but that is usually a bad policy. Its only virtue is that it hasn't been extended into anti-pollution laws. His precedent will make a bad situation worse.

If Illinois (like other depressed industrial states) wants to promote economic health, it ought to look at the assorted ways in which its policies block growth — through taxes, regulations and concessions to union power. Economic growth will be a curse as well as a blessing if it comes at the price of bailing out polluters.

Trash bags reveal almost one million

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Acting on an anonymous tip, police dug up trash bags bulging with most of the $1 million in gold and silver artifacts and jewels stolen two months ago from a mansion on Millionaires Row.

State police Lt. Richard M. Wheeler said the loot was found Wednesday buried at two sites along Ocean Drive, a scenic road running along the craggy southern coast of Newport, as well as a wooded section of Hopkinton, 20 miles away in southwestern Rhode Island.

"We have to go back out," said Detective Albert Conti. "We have to assume there's still stuff out there because there's still stuff missing."

"We always had faith that something like this would happen," said Ruth Tinney, whose family owns and lives in the mansion called Belcourt Castle, which is a tourist attraction in this seaside resort city. "It wasn't all there, but the police will find the rest of it soon."

Wheeler said no arrests have been made.

Police found 36 of the 56 items stolen June 29 from the mansion, as well as about 40 loose diamonds, emeralds and rubies pried loose from a solid gold crown that was also recovered.

Also found were gold and silver urns, teapots, punchbowls, vases, candlesticks and chalices, he said. Among the items still missing was a 14-pound silver statue of Pope Sylvester I, Mrs. Tinney said.

Baby bird triggers hope for endangered species

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The tiny, pink baby bird is only three-quarters dusky seaside sparrow, but it's the first product of a cross-breeding program that has bolstered experts' hopes that the nation's most endangered species may avoid extinction yet.

The bird, one week old today and just sprouting feathers, is one-quarter Scott's seaside sparrow, the result of a program begun this spring by the Florida Audubon Society and Walt Disney World.

Only five full-blooded duskies — all male and elderly — survive, making preservation of the 6-inch, brown and black marsh dweller next to impossible. But officials are cautiously optimistic that the new baby may turn out to be a female who can lead the species away from the edge of extinction.

"We're all excited — it's just a good start," said Charles Cook, curator of Walt Disney World's Discovery Island Zoological Park near Orlando. "It's a small step — a very small step — on the road to recovery for the dusky."

"I'm tempted to say 'Eureka,'" said Peter Mott, president of the Florida Audubon Society. "We are exploring one technique to bring an animal back from the brink of extinction."

Unaware of its importance, the baby bird looks and acts like any hatchling, said James Ellis, general curator of the Sante Fe Community College Teaching Zoo in Gainesville, where it was born.

"It has, of course, the typical characteristic of baby birds — the big mouth always wanting to be fed," Ellis said.

Officials said they hope the baby is a female so it can breed with the five surviving males. "But it'll probably be a year before we'll be able to tell," Ellis said.

Four hybrid dusky-Scotts born and bred in captivity at the Florida State Museum in Gainesville were brought to mate with the dusky males after wild sparrows proved too fragile to make the transition to zoo life, Ellis said.

Of the four, one turned out to be a male and two were incompatible with the duskies. And things almost didn't work out with the fourth, who finally became the mother of the new baby.

The drastic decline in duskies wasn't noticed until 1968, when a graduate student counted fewer than 1,000 breeding pairs in Brevard County, the bird's only known habitat. Ten years later, only 24 were counted in salt marshes along the St. Johns River. By 1979, the count had dropped to 13 males, and by 1981 the five surviving duskies were moved to the Gainesville zoo. Biologists blame the decline on habitat destruction caused by draining some marshes for farmland and flooding others to prevent mosquito breeding.

Dear Abby

Following these rules is downright neighborly

DEAR ABBY: I liked your 10 rules on how to be a good wife so much that I clipped that column. Then along came your 10 rules on how to be a good husband, and believe it or not, my husband saved it!

My mother told me that some time ago you ran 10 rules on how to be a good neighbor. Please publish them again.

STEADY READER, SPOKANE, WASH.

DEAR STEADY: Here they are:

1) Thou shalt love thy neighbor, but not his wife, nor shalt thou covet thy neighbor's house, or his car, or any other thing he owneth.

2) Thou shalt keep thy dog, thy stereo and thy lawnmower quiet while thy neighbor sleepeth.

3) Thou shalt borrow from thy neighbor rarely, and when thou doest, returneth undamaged and without delay that which thou has borrowed.

4) Thou shalt not alloweth thy pets nor thy children to run amok, despoiling thy neighbor's lawn, flower beds and fence.

5) Thou shalt keepeth thy lawn green, thy fence painted and thy driveway uncluttered even as ye shall also keep thy vehicles in thy garage where they belong.

6) Thou shalt watcheth always for criminals and fires in thy neighborhood and guard thy neighbor's home and his property even as thy own.

7) Thou shalt not useeth thy home for any unsightly or illegal activity.

8) Thou shalt always stand ready to help thy neighbor in his hour of true need, even as he does for thee.

9) Thou shalt not parketh thy camper, thy RV nor thy van in the street where it blocked thy neighbor's view and createth a safety hazard to all.

10) Thou shalt not hold wild parties or orgies that lasteth until wee hours unless thou shalt inviteth thy neighbor too.

Dr. Donohue

Vertigo: a symptom, not an illness

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would appreciate you explaining my vertigo. I have had it for about two years. I also have hardening of the arteries. Do these two problems go together? I have not found anything that helps my vertigo. Can this be a symptom of Meniere's disease? — B.P.C.

Vertigo is a sense of motion that really doesn't exist except in the brain of the beholder. The person feels that either he or his surroundings are spinning. And because the person's balance is being disturbed, the place to look for the answer usually is within the inner ear, where all those complex mechanisms are located.

Much can go wrong there. A viral infection can disturb things. So can a tumor of ear nerves. Occasionally, poor circulation to the inner ear may lead to vertigo, which brings your arterial hardening under suspicion.

You specifically mention Meniere's disease. That's a special kind of illness affecting the inner ear. We fortunately know what causes it — excessive fluid buildup in the inner ear.

The person with Meniere's has sudden episodes of vertigo, and there is hearing loss and ear ringing. The person is nauseous. (The reader who excoriated me for using the adjective nauseated, please take note.) The Meniere's attacks last minutes to hours, but between episodes that person may feel perfectly well, although he may have some degree of persisting hearing loss and the ear ringing.

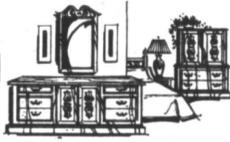

Meniere's can be treated. Included are use of diuretics to help get rid of the inner ear fluid. The drug, meclizine, is sometimes used to alleviate the vertigo, and prochlorperazine relieves the nausea. Variations of these drugs in combination may be used, but not all need be. And finally, there is special surgery to drain off the fluid excess when all else fails. If you suspect that you have Meniere's you will need a diagnosis to confirm things.

Volunteers feted at awards banquet

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor
Volunteers were honored at the March of Dimes Volunteer Awards Dinner at the Brass Nail Aug. 18 for services performed at 1982-83 March of Dimes' functions.

Special guests at the event were Sen. John Montford, Mayor and Mrs. Clyde Angel, Becky Jo Walker, poster child, and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ryan Walker.

In a brief speech, Montford said the Texas Legislature is supportive of the March of Dimes and he pledged his personal support.

Fall fashions from Miss Royale were modeled by Paula Talbot, Cinda Stanley, Pam Welch and Suzanne Haney during the banquet. Art Castetter, pianist, accompanied the models with selections from Louis Armstrong. Barbara Holdampf narrated the fashion show and emceed the awards banquet.

Awards were presented to volunteers who helped with particular event throughout the year. Individuals and groups presented with awards were:

- West Fest, Aug. 1982 — Suzanne Haney, Pam Welch, K.B.S.T. and China Long.

- Fantastic Christmas Fashion Fun Parade, Nov. 9, 1982 — Kelly Draper.

- Haunted House, Oct. 1982 — Mrs. Jett Moore, Big Spring High School's Key Club, Future Homemakers of America and Student Council and Big Spring Rotary.

- New Year's Eve Dance, Dec. 31, 1982 — Mrs. Donna Fish.

- Mother's March, Jan. 1983 — Mrs. Betty Bruner and Mrs. Cindy Middleton.

- WalkAmerica Team Walk, April 23, 1983 — Southland Corporation, Dick Hoolahan, First Federal Savings and Loan Association (winning money raising team), City of Big Spring (2nd place), Hall and Bennett Memorial Hospital and Clinic (3rd place), Malone and Hogan Hospital (4th place), Rep. Larry Don Shaw, Sen. John Montford, Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, Don Davis, Caria Henry, Sylvia Miamontes, The National Guard, Bill Laster, KWKI-KKIK, Gail Murphy, Burger King, Gail Moran, Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac and The Outlaw Band from Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

- Mail Campaign Phonathon, June, 1983 — Suzanne Haney, Pam Walker and Diane Austin.

- National March of Dimes Telethon Against Birth Defects, July 3-4, 1983 — Southwestern Bell, Darlene Gifford, KBYG, E. Ramey, and KTFX-TV.

Miscellaneous awards were presented to Becky Jo Walker, the March of Dimes Poster Child for 1982-83; Mrs. Pam Walker, mother of the poster child; Linda Adams, Tina Steffen, Carol Hart, Keith Briscoe and James Iley, Big Spring Herald; Big Spring High School; Malone and Hogan Hospital; KWKI-KKIK, KBYG and KBST radio stations.

Next year's executive officers were announced. New officers are: Bill Laster, chairman; David Argent, vice chairman; Pam Walker, secretary; and Debbie Rutherford, treasurer.

Dorene Zilberg, executive director of the Caprock Chapter of March of Dimes, described the March of Dimes' work to prevent birth defects. The organization also is dedicated to insuring a healthier life for the next generation of babies. The program's funds, raised by volunteers, are allocated to scientific research, medical services, professional education, public health education, volunteer services and public affairs.

In Big Spring, the chapter has donated an infant transport ventilator, costing $3,500, available for transporting infants to clinics. The apparatus supplies oxygen and blood to the infant's vital organs and helps prevent birth defects during transportion. It is being housed at the intensive care unit at Malone and Hogan Hospital and is available to all hospitals in the Big Spring area.

Mrs. Zilberg commended Barbara Holdampf for her two years of dedicated work as chairman of the March of Dimes executive committee. "Barbara Holdampf is one of the most dedicated and finest women I have ever known," Mrs. Zilberg said. "Her ability to serve in many directions as director of Allied Health at Howard College, Del Rio and Snyder has filled me with admiration. And with all this, her dedication to the March of Dimes has been inspiring."

Allie Moore new president of Sew and Chatter Club

Officers were elected during the Sew and Chatter Club meeting in the home of Lona Crocker, Aug. 24.

New officers are: Allie Moore, president; Marie Daniels, vice president; Norma Murdock, treasurer; Adele Tibbs, secretary-reporter; Charis Robinson, project chairman; Louise Porter, card chairman; Neva Clinkscales, scrapbook; Della Nobles, telephone.

Mrs. Murdock, Ruby Rowe and Bernice Davis celebrated their birthdays during the meeting. A birthday money corsage was presented to Mrs. Murdock for her 80th birthday.

Members are urged to bring white elephant items to be used in the Fiesta held by the Westside Center in September at the next meeting in the home of Marie Daniels, Sept. 14.

Corporate love affairs may be bad for business

BOSTON (AP) — Love in the board room is creating new problems for business as women climb the corporate ladder, says a Harvard Business Review editor who thinks companies should treat affairs of the heart between their executives as conflicts of interest.

In her article "Managers and Love" in the upcoming September issue of the Harvard Business Review, Eliza Collins warns that love affairs between executives can ruin careers, disrupt the organization's power structure and even cause domestic problems for other employees.

"It's disruptive on different levels," says Ms. Collins. "At the very least it is very disruptive of informal communications networks. It affects how the couple's peers respond to them."

These affairs can have such a widespread effect on a company's operations that Ms. Collins suggests the less valuable of the two lovers leave the company. In most cases, that means the woman, she says without elaborating.

"If they are going to both stay in the organization, the anxiety of the other people is going to put the romance under more and more stress," she says. "Both partners will begin to believe what other people were saying — that she is using sex as a way of advancement and that he is just having a midlife dalliance."

Ms. Collins cites four examples of corporate love without naming the companies or people involved. In each case, she said the women eventually left the firm and married their companions. But the happy endings often followed long, bitter periods of interoffice gossip and backbiting.

Ms. Collins says the incidence of such problems is growing as more and more women join the executive ranks. With better education and social standing, these women are equal partners in an affair, rather than the object of a sexual fling.

But such relationships can cause jitters among other workers.

"If they fancy themselves as proteges, they will see any redirection of the executive's affection as a loss," Ms. Collins writes. "They will be jealous and angry and feel abandoned. To alleviate these feelings, they'll politicize them and assert that the affair disrupts the social order."

The company's informal communication network may also break down as workers choose sides. There will be fewer gripe sessions, less honest dialogue.

The affair may also affect the home life of other executives — especially if one or both of the lovers are married.

"When executives of a company and their spouses get together on social occasions and the lovers appear, couples whose marriages are shaky can become anxious and angry," says the article.

Ms. Collins says these affairs create big headaches for top officers who face the options of getting involved in their employees' personal lives. Ms. Collins recommends that managers confront the problem from a business viewpoint, treating an affair between two executives as a conflict of interest.

Managers should make the lovers see that they cannot be objective in business decisions when someone they love might be hurt by its outcome.

"This point of view takes the focus off the romance, puts it on the business issue, and does not force the two managers to go on the defensive about the affair," she says.

Ms. Collins suggests companies issue statements of policy that view executive affairs as business conflicts and warn that the lower-ranking person must go.

"No matter how much everyone understands the beauty of a love relationship, it can't survive if the less valuable person stays," says Ms. Collins.

Teacher lives 'private hell' after taking wrong summons

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A first grade teacher says she and her family lived "a private hell" for 12 days until she managed to convince officials that she wasn't the man they were seeking in a cocaine distributing case.

"I can see the mistake happening but I can't see why it didn't stop when the man came to the door and saw a black woman in a dress instead of a white man," said Bobbie Rennix, 35, recalling the day a sheriff's deputy gave her a summons on the cocaine charge.

Charges finally were dismissed Wednesday against Mrs. Rennix, who said she was too upset to think about taking legal action.

"I don't think our family will ever live this down," she said.

Mrs. Rennix was handed the summons Aug. 12 on two counts of conspiracy to distribute cocaine. After two court hearings, charges were dropped by Hampden County District Attorney Matthew J. Ryan Jr.

The summons sought a Robert Rennix of Lynnbrook Drive and not Mrs. Rennix, who lives on Lynbrook Road.

Mrs. Rennix said the deputy first asked for her husband. When she told him her husband's name was Ivon and hers was Bobbie, "he said, 'This is for you.'"

"I offered to show him my birth certificate, all sorts of identification, and all he said was, 'You said you were Bobbie, and that's good enough for me.'"

"We thought it was a joke and that everything would be taken care of when Monday came," she said.

But when Monday arrived and she went down to the district attorney's office to deal with the problem, secretaries told her that if she had been issued the summons, "It had to be so."

"They wouldn't listen to me," she said. "It was like I was in a whirlpool and going around and around and not getting anywhere."

"I cried all the way home because I knew it wasn't me. I knew I was innocent and no one would listen to me. I felt like I had just gone to a funeral and lost someone very close to me. I had this empty feeling in the pit of my stomach and it kept getting worse every day."

Once news of the charges appeared in local papers, "people started to act strange," she said. At work, her husband was asked about his involvement with drugs and some of her eight-year-old daughter's friends were not allowed to attend her birthday party, she said.

"It was just a mistake," said her lawyer, Walter Bennett. "But as soon as he realized it, Mr. Ryan acted quickly to dismiss the charges. Unfortunately it took some time to get it straightened out, because there were a number of people indicted in that case, and in the meantime Mrs. Rennix was very, very upset."

ON THE WAY DOWN — Big Spring Steer Billy Wegner tries to break through the Sweetwater line yesterday at a high school scrimmage in Sweetwater.

Steers have rough scrimmage

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

SWEETWATER — Dave Campbell's Texas Football magazine picks Sweetwater third from the bottom in District 2-4A this fall. The Texas High School Coaches Association poll projects them to finish sixth in the district race.

Both may be embarrassed by their predictions in coming months.

The Mustangs, bolstered by the return of four starters in the offensive backfield, gave the Big Spring High Steers all the competition they could stand. If one is keeping score, the first teams for each school drove for a touchdown apiece while the Sweetwater No. 2 offense scored twice to one or the Steers.

If one is looking for a highpoint, it came at the end of the 2-workout when Big Spring stopped Sweetwater within the one-yard line on third and fourth down runs.

Head coach Quinn Eudy gathered his troops at midfield and told them they "made a lot of mistakes" and "you didn't tackle well," but "it wasn't because you didn't run to the football."

He told the players "we can teach you how to tackle."

One of the toughest Mustangs to bring down was Gerald Todd, a fullback who goes 6-1, 200 pounds (brother, Everett, is a starting defensive end at Rice University). Todd is a two-year varsity veteran while quarterback Scott Richardson will start for the fourth year for the Mustangs in next week's opener.

Add three-year letterman Thomas Goodman and veteran Donald Jones, and Sweetwater threw a ton of experience at the young Steers. But as the scrimmage continued, the Big Spring defense clamped down on Mustang running attack.

The Steers had trouble with the yellow flag and lost four fumbles. One loose ball came at the Mustang goal-line and was recovered by Sweetwater for a touchdown.

Big Spring scored first with its starters on offense. After a slow start and a second fumbled pitch-out, the Steers drove 65 yards in eight plays.

Junior quarterback Tommy Gartman passed 24 yards to Robert Porras, fullback Mike McKinley rumbled 15 yards on a draw and Gartman reversed his field for a 14-yard gain to the one to highlight the drive. McKinley dove in the end zone on the final play of the series.

Sweetwater took the football and promptly marched 65 yards, also on eight plays, to score. Richardson dashed 16 yards on an option play for the touchdown. Jones broke for 17 and Todd for 11-yard gainers and Richardson hit a pair of first-down passes but the Mustangs failed to score again in their first possession.

Billy Wegner gained 23 yards on three carries for the No. 2 offense but the fumble call on the goal-line pass play thwarted the squad's only scoring threat.

The Mustang No. 2 unit, guided by sophomore Neal Hoover, roared through the Big Spring defense for two touchdowns. Hoover capped the first drive with a 10-yard scoring run while Steve Skupin followed Maurice Marshall's 25-yard run on a draw with a 23-yard touchdown run.

The Steer No. 1 team didn't score as a fumble and an offensive pass interference call stalled two drive. Sweetwater didn't score either with its first team as the Steers stiffened up and surrendered just 49 yards.

Wegner was the star of the Steer second team when it got the football for the last time. He rushed for 55 yards on four carries, the last of those an 11-yard run for a touchdown. The Mustangs got the ball one more time but a charge led by McKinley at linebacker stopped Skupin on a fourth down and one attempt to end the scrimmage.

"Our tackling was not good," Eudy said. "But our people running to the football was good. We needed to play someone else. The kids showed they wanted to play...I think our offense is going to be pretty good; we made some tough runs inside. Wegner is just a good, steady back."

Sweetwater had the added advantage of an extra week of workouts Eudy said.

The Steers open the regular season next Friday, hosting the Snyder Tigers in Memorial Stadium.

Oilers vs. Cowboys

Texas teams battle for state championship

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The National Football League exhibition and regular season series between the Dallas Cowboys and the Houston Oilers has been a lopsided one in favor of the Cowboys.

The Cowboys are 3-1 in regular season jousts. When the two teams collide Saturday night at Texas Stadium in a resumption of their annual "Texas Championship" preseason battles, the Cowboys will own either an 11-4 or 12-4 edge over the Oilers depending on which press release you read.

Ironically, it's the Oilers who carry Dallas with a 12-4 edge. The Cowboys say it's just 11-4. Dallas whipped Houston twice last year, 20-14 in the exhibition game then flattened the Oilers 37-7 during a regular season confrontation.

Earl Campbell, had been doubtful for the nationally televised (CBS) game that kicks off at 8 p.m. The running back had reported sore knees and Coach Ed Biles at first said he didn't want to take any chances with the regular season starting next week. But on Wednesday, Biles said Campbell will play.

Archie Manning will start at quarterback for the Oilers with backup Gifford Nielsen expected to play a quarter.

Danny White gets Dallas Coach Tom Landry's starting call and will play at least three quarters with Gary Hogeboom seeing some action.

Houston is winless in the preseason losing to Baltimore 15-0; to Tampa Bay 23-17; and to New Orleans 20-13.

Dallas has defeated Miami 20-17; Los Angeles 30-7; and fallen 24-7 to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Tight end Dave Casper will return to the lineup for the Oilers after missing last week's game with personal problems.

"We'll go with our starters about three-fourths of the game but we've still got crucial decisions to make in our secondary and at wide receiver," Biles said. Landry said his defense will get some close scrutiny this week.

"We'll go mostly with our veterans," Landry said. "We need to start moving on defense. It's going to get a lot of our attention this week."

Cuba does well in Pan Am boxing

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — It's almost showdown time for U.S. boxers in the IX Pan American games, the confrontation with the Cubans that most anticipated since they arrived here.

Four young Americans — Pernel "Sweet Pea" Whitaker, Jerry Page, Louis Howard and Dennis Milton — won semifinal bouts Thursday night, atoning for the U.S. flop on Wednesday when three of four American boxers lost. That ended a U.S. unbeaten streak that had reached 12.

But waiting for all four on Sunday will be four Cubans who took only nine minutes and 52 seconds to dispose of four opponents, three by knockout in the first round, the fourth by disqualification.

One U.S.-Cuba confrontation will take place today when the U.S. baseball team tries to end Cuba's 32-game Pan American winning streak. But now the U.S. must beat the Cubans twice to win the gold medal because the U.S. lost its first game in nine starts Thursday, falling 9-5 to Nicaragua.

Outside of baseball, it was a good day for the United States, which won 11 gold medals to move to 106 total and 218 overall. Cuba remained second with 64 golds and 138 medals and Canada third with 12 and 89.

The women's basketball team clinched its gold with a game left to play in a 113-33 romp over Venezuela, as Lisa Ingram made her first appearance and led the United States with 23 points. Joan Benoit won the women's 3,000 meters and Colleen Sommer took the high jump to ease the American drought in track and field.

There were three golds in tennis, one in table tennis and four in the brand new sport of sombo wrestling, a cross between freestyle and Greco-Roman.

In tennis, NCAA champion Greg Holmes of Danville, Calif., won the men's singles; Gretchen Rush of Pittsburgh, who won the women's singles on Wednesday, teamed with Leslie Allen of Winston-Salem, N.C., to take the women's doubles, and Eric Korita of Glenview, Ill., and Jon Levine of Phoenix combined to win the men's doubles, 4-6, 7-5, 12-10 in 3 hours and 20 minutes.

The U.S. men's basketball team remained unbeaten by trouncing Argentina 88-68, its biggest point spread of the games, as Michael Jordan led the way with 24 points.

GOLD AND SILVER — Joan Benoit, left, and Brenda Webb of the USA congratulate each other after finishing first and second in the 3,000-meter run Thursday night in Pan Am Games action in Caracas, Venezuela.

The best performance of the day came not from an American but from Luis Delis of Cuba, who broke the Pan Am mark in the discus with a toss of 220 feet, 10 inches. Delis also won the shot put on Tuesday and competed in both events against fields without Americans — the U.S. weight men were among the 11 athletes who went home.

Price leads World Series tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — South African Nick Price, a non-winner since 1981, blitzed the back nine in 30, completing a 4-under-par 66 that established a one-shot lead over Jack Nicklaus in Thursday's first round of the $500,000 World Series of Golf.

"I hit a few good shots and got it on a roll. I haven't done that for a while," said Price, who joined the American tour after his last-round collapse handed Tom Watson the 1982 British Open title.

Price, who gained entry to this elite event as the leader of the South African Order of Merit — a feat he accomplished without winning a title — ranks a distant 117th on the American money-winning list this year with $28,828.

Price, 26, was 2-over-par after four holes on the 7,173-yard south course at the Firestone County Club, but turned this around with a 25-foot chip-in for a birdie on the 11th hole.

Nicklaus, a five-time winner of this title and a narrowly beaten challenger in his last two starts, was a single stroke off the pace and tied at 67 with Bobby Clampett.

"I have no quarrels with a 67. I'll take four of those and waltz back home to Palm Beach," an obviously satisfied Nicklaus said. "I really played very well. I didn't get any more out of the round than I should have."

Clampett, who has missed the cut more often than he's made it this season, said his effort was "the first solid round of golf I've played in several months."

Two-time U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, Mike Nicolette, Fred Couples and Tommy Nakajima of Japan were at 68. The only others in the international field of 42 who broke par were Ray Floyd, Larry Mize and Bob Gilder, tied at 69.

Defending champion Craig Stadler shot 71. Price quickly dropped two shots to par in the first competitive round of his life on the famed Firestone course and said he was "just trying to keep it together, maybe get back to par."

He got one shot back before the turn, dropped a 15-footer on the 10th and then went 1-under for the day with his chip-in birdie on the 11th.

He scored from inside of 10 feet on both the 13th and 14th, then took the lead alone with a 20-footer for birdie-4 on the 625-yard, water-guarded 16th.

Nicklaus, a one-shot loser to Sutton in the PGA, missed only one green, the first, and made par there. His only bogey came on the 13th, where he three-putted from 30 feet.

'Steel Curtain' makes comeback

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "They're playing well," said Pittsburgh Steelers coach Chuck Noll after his defense collected eight sacks and three pass interceptions in a 10-3 National Football League exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Ask if he is building another "Steel Curtain," Noll replied, "I hope so."

The victory Thursday night enabled the Steelers to finish the exhibition season at 4-1. It was the first preseason loss for the Eagles, who ended up with a 3-1 record.

Gary Anderson kicked a 20-yard first period field goal for a 3-0 lead that stood until the Eagles' Tony Franklin kicked the equalizer 29 yards in the third.

Quarterback Cliff Stoudt threw four yards to tight end Bennie Cunningham to complete a game-winning 71-yard touchdown drive on the first play of the final quarter.

In five preseason games the Pittsburgh defense has 19 sacks, 14 interceptions and five fumble recoveries. The Pittsburgh club record for sacks in a game is eight, set during the regular season last year against Kansas City.

Pittsburgh's first interception, by Dwayne Woodruff, set up the Steelers' field goal. He returned the pass 19 yards to the Eagles' 41.

After the Eagles tied it with 9:14 left in the third period, Philadelphia got a break when a defender ran into the punt returner. It set them up at the Steelers' 34.

But Pittsburgh held them to a net five yards on three plays, and forced a 47-yard field goal attempt by Franklin that sailed wide left. Then came the winning TD drive.

In games tonight, it's Baltimore at Atlanta, the Los Angeles Raiders at Cleveland, Miami at the New York Giants, New England at Tampa Bay, Denver at Minnesota and the Los Angeles Rams at San Diego.

On Saturday, the final day of preseason play, it will be Seattle at San Francisco, Washington at Buffalo, Cincinnati at Detroit, Green Bay at St. Louis, Kansas City at Chicago, the New York Jets at New Orleans, and in the Battle of Texas, Houston at Dallas.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon all sorts of changes and upsets can take place so do not get disturbed for this is immediately followed by an influence which gives you the ability to fill any voids.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't ask a higher-up for assistance since you will not get it but later can get help from friends and gain new benefits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You could have some trouble with a business person, but it soon blows over. Seek expert advice.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Home tie takes much of your time in the morning, but later you can be with good friends you like. Handle correspondence.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your morning plans are postponed so get into civic affairs that are important. Watch for powerful individuals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A financial affair does not go as you desire, but you can get into fascinating new situations. Follow your intuition.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You find it difficult to get started, but later you make big progress and get much accomplished. Do entertaining at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get that personal affair nicely handled. Take care of outside matters as soon as this is cleared up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Help a good friend solve a problem before you get into the practical affairs that are easy to you to handle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Early consider your standing in the world and make plans to improve it very quickly. Go out on the town tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to expand but this is not the right day for that, since you have worries on your mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Await the afternoon before you get into the constructive activity that is on your mind and then get much done.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A depressed partner may take up your time, but after lunch can get much done in the outside world. Improve surroundings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those interesting young persons who will be well equipped for learning but is apt to do much daydreaming early in life, so teach to focus on studies and improve the diet and be more alert to outside affairs.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Wennerlind speaks about church

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

The Rev. Dan Wennerlind takes his work as pastor-teacher of the Big Spring Bible Church seriously. He has ministered at the church four years.

"The Big Spring Bible Church is a local, independent, non-denominational church whose sole purpose is to bring glory to God by studying and applying God's word," Wennerlind said. "We're not simply another 'New Testament' church, but are a 'complete Bible' church. We emphasize the 'Whole Counsel' of God.

"Our church is fundamental, pre-millennial and non-charismatic." The church is small because it is a whole new church to West Texas, he said. "We are baptistic in everything we teach," he said. Most of the congregation is from outside the Big Spring area. We simply believe God's word applies to every sense of the believer's life." A Bible Church has three primary functions: edification of the saints, evangelism and fellowship.

...pastor of Big Spring Bible Church

The church operated as a taped Bible study which met in various homes, until Wennerlind was asked to come to Big Spring and to become the pastor.

"I'm in the ministry, because I love God," he said. "I rather refer to myself as a Christian than a denomination. It's the actual studying of God's word and having an opportunity to share what I have learned every week, that I enjoy."

Wennerlind dislikes having extracurricular activities to take away from his study of God's word. "It would be so much easier in a large church to study and to give out God's word, because you don't have the extracurricular activities to do," he said.

He also has things he dislikes about other ministers. "Very often they embarrass me," Wennerlind said. "Because they don't believe in literal Bible stories such as the creation of the World. If they don't believe the literal Bible stories, how can they believe in the spiritual things?"

"The Bible is the most accurate document in history," he said. "I take it very seriously as God's words. It also has the answer to current problems, such as abortion. The Bible is crystal clear that life begins at conception.

"The problem I think most pastors face is personal counseling," Wennerlind said. "All a pastor can do is give God's opinion, but most people want to be their own God and make their own decision."

Wennerlind was born in Chicago, Ill., and raised in Seattle, Wash. He attended Fresno Pacific College in Fresno, Calif., and graduated from Talbot Seminary at Biola University in Los Angeles, Calif. He served four years in the United States Air Force. His hobbies include tennis, sports and swimming.

Wennerlind and wife Peggy, are expecting their first child.

Religion News Briefs

By RHONDA WITT
Religion Editor

Church celebrates 100th year

DR. JORDAN GROOMS
...speaks at celebration

The First United Methodist Church, 4th and Scurry, will celebrate the second phase of its 100th anniversary, Sunday at 10:50 a.m.

Dr. Jordan Grooms of Amarillo, the church's pastor during the late 1950's and early 60's and retired Big Spring District Superintendent, will present the sermon.

Grooms' wife, Gladys, and some of their children also will be present Sunday.

A covered dish luncheon will be held in the church's Garrett Hall at 12:30 p.m., Sunday. Families are urged to bring enough food for themselves.

The church also will bid farewell to the Charles Parham family, Sunday morning. The Parhams are moving to Abilene where Parham will be minister of music at St. Paul United Methodist Church.

8:30 a.m. worship service will not be held Sunday.

Holidays announced

The Jewish High Holy days of Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur will be observed in early September this year. Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year will be observed beginning at sundown on Wednesday, September 7, and continuing September 8. Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will be observed from sundown Friday, September 16 through sundown September 17. For the second year, High Holy day services will be conducted at Temple Beth-El in Odessa by Houston Rabbi, Moshe Cahana.

Rabbi Cahana, originally from Israel, now is retired and resides in Houston. A rabbi with a Houston synagogue for over 16 years, Rabbi Cahana even though retired still conducts services here in West Texas at least once a month, and on all holidays. When not at Temple Beth-El in Odessa, Rabbi Cahana still studies religion, conducts some weddings and Jewish ceremonies in Houston, and does some part-time work with Texas A&M.

Rabbi Cahana lives in Houston with his wife Alice, a refugee from World War II. She is active in art and also writes poetry. The Cahanas have three children.

Rosh Hashana begins the new Jewish year. It also begins a 10 day period when Jews reflect on the past year — their sins and their lives during the year. This period culminates on Yom Kippur, a day of prayer, fasting and atonement, when God judges all. The two holidays are the most sacred of the year, and all vestiments and ritual objects in the synagogue are white during those days. Jewish people repent for their sins against God and against man during those days, and pray that their repentance will be accepted.

Psychiatrist to speak in Midland

Dr. Gerald Jampolsky, psychiatrist, will speak about concepts in attitudinal healing in the Lee High School Auditorium in Midland at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 9.

The program is sponsored by Science of Mind Center and Bookstore in Midland. Tickets are $10 and can be bought at the Highland and Big Spring Malls.

Open house held

Temple Beth El is located at 1501 N. Grandview, Odessa, and serves all West Texas.

Members of St. Paul Lutheran Church have been invited to attend the service of blessing and open house of the Lutheran Home-Permian Basin at 2:30 p.m., Aug. 28, according to the Rev. Carroll Kohl, pastor. The Lutheran Home is located at 3203 Sage in Midland.

"The Lutheran Home-Permian Basin, a 106 resident nursing care facility, is part of the social service ministry of Lutheran churches in Texas through Lutheran Social Service of Texas (LSST). LSST has assumed operation of this facility in order to provide its 'Superior' rated nursing care to older people who need help in living out their lives as children of God worthy of our love and concern," said Kohl.

Lutheran Social Service of Texas, the only private, state-wide, multi-level social ministry agency in Texas, is supported by members of all three major Lutheran church bodies in Texas. Its service is available to people regardless of race, sex or religious background. LSST's services include nursing homes, adult day care centers and the Emergency Response Service (ERS) for older people living by themselves, including an ERS center for the Midland-Odessa area.

Midland also is the location for one of the agency's seven regional offices providing adoption, unplanned pregnancy and counseling services, with a satellite office in Odessa. Other services include refugee resettlement; 29 chaplains in hospitals, prisons and other institutions; the Clergy Care System; consultation to congregations and the Lutheran Disaster Response Program in Texas.

Educational series on TV planned by church

Several Sunday School classes at First Christian Church, 10th and Goliad, will be studying the series "Growing With Television", Sept. 11-Nov. 27. Classes begin at 9:45 a.m., Sundays. The public is invited to participate in the series.

The purpose of the "Growing With Television" series is to bring about an awareness of Television and its effects on the Christian mind.

The series is endorsed by the Christian Board of Publication. Classes participating are Kindergarten, 1st through 5th grades, Junior High, High School, Searchers and Koinonia.

Church celebrates completion of facility

The First Church of the Nazarene will feature a "Celebration of Praise" at the morning service, Sunday, as the congregation moves into its new facility.

The new facility consists of a hexagonal sanctuary seating 280 with an additional overflow area for 50, a rock encased round baptistry, an exposed beam ceiling, modular choir seating and unique lighting system. The peripheral area contains offices, a choir rehearsal room, a bride's room, nurseries and rest rooms. A covered canopy connects the new building to the Sidney Knox Family Life Center providing access to several adult classrooms.

The original structure will be utilized for Children's ministries.

The "Celebration of Praise" will begin with a processional of the congregation from the old building to the new with the American and Christian flags leading the way. The Sanctuary Choir, directed by Jerry McGuire and accompanied by Gerry Spears and Vanessa Cooper, will sing. Dr. Carl Powers, pastor, will use "What's Right with the Church?" as his theme.

Chapter to install officers at banquet

The Permian Basin Chapter of B'nai B'rith will hold its annual officer installation and banquet at 8 p.m., Tuesday, at the Petroleum Club in Odessa. U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, who has announced for retiring John Tower's U.S. Senate seat, will be the keynote speaker.
