Methodist pastor carves her own place in history

By KEITH BRISCOE City Editor

Associate Pastor Dixie Robertson has served the First United Methodist Church for only onefiftieth of its history, but she is just as excited as the rest of the congregation over the church's 100th anniversary being celebrated this year.

'The thing I'm excited about is that it's so close to the Methodist bicentennial," said Miss Robertson, a graduate of the Perkins School of Theology in Dallas. "You're given the opportunity to teach church history.

The oldest of Methodist congregations have been around for two centuries, dating their origins to 1784 when the English evangelist John Wesley repudiated Calvinism. and established the Methodist Societies. Because First United Methodist of Big Spring has been organized for half of the

'I have a dream'

Blacks, whites join anniversary march at Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Declaring "we still have a dream," a quarter of a million black and white Americans rallied Saturday behind an anti-Reagan "jobs, peace and freedom" platform and called for reviving Martin Luther King Jr.'s vision for a just America.

The huge crowd massed in 95-degree temperatures before the Lincoln Memorial, where on the hot Wednesday afternoon of Aug. 28, 1963, King appealed to the conscience of a nation during the biggest civil rights march in American history. That event proved to be a turning point in the struggle by blacks for social equality.

This time no one captivated the crowd the way King did that afternoon.

But chants of "Run, Jesse, run!" went up when the Rev. Jesse Jackson, the charismatic King lieutenant who is considering running for the Democratic presidential nomination, delivered his customary speech - an inspirational oration that has become his trademark.

'I am somebody!'' Jackson declared, and those assembled before him began reciting the familiar words with him: "Respect me. Protect me. Never neglect me. If my mind can conceive it and my heart can believe it, I know I can achieve it. Down with dope! Up with hope! I am somebody!

As he has across the country, Jackson condemned the pace at which blacks are winning public of fice and exhorted black people to register to vote.

He ended with arms thrust in the air, V-for-victory style.

The day ended with messages from King's widow and the recorded "I Have a Dream" speech delivered at the same spot 20 years earlier - one of the most famous orations of the 20th century.

"Martin Luther King Jr. is here today too," Coretta Scott King told the dwindling crowd after six hours as twilight fell. "I can feel it; I can sense Martin's presence."

Everyone left linked arms and sang the anthem of the civil rights movement, "We Shall Overcome."

Police in a hovering helicopter at first said the crowd at its midafternoon peak numbered 200,000. But late in the day Capt. Robert

Twenty years ago another crowd lined the same spot, the site of Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I have a dream" speech.

Hines of the U.S. Park Poice said analysis of aerial photographs put the figure at 250,000. At the 1963 March on Washington, the crowd was variously estimated at 200,000 to 250,000 by officials.

SWCID dormitories slated for facelift

Howard County junior college officials say as soon as specifications are drawn up and bids are received, the exterior renovation of a SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf dormitory will begin.

The dormitory targeted for repair is the old bachelor officers' quarters building No. 486, which sits adjacent to Webb Lane in the Industrial Park.

Friday in a special session the trustees okayed a renovation plan drawn by local building designer and architect Bill Brooks that calls for a brick, siding and hardwood facade, and composition shingles to modernize the 1950s-styled structure.

The structure will have dark brown shingles, dark brick and with contrasting cream colored hardwood, according to college officials. Also, as an energy conservation measure, each room will only have one window, rather than the three windows now in place.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, said it will be about two weeks before technical specifications can be drawn up and bid advertisements are placed.

He said the trustees are hoping that construction will begin soon after that.

Hays estimated the renovation could be done for about $100,000 with funds for the project coming from state monies not used during the previous school year.

Sam Hill, vice president of SWCID, said earlier the run-down condition of the dormitory had hurt recruiting at the school. However, he said the renovation should help in "recruiting and retaining

Hays said after the exterior renovation is completed, there are long-range plans to go inside the dorm and make extensive electrical, plumbing and cosmetic

The trustees also met in closed session Friday to discuss pending litigation with the League of United Latin American Citizens. LULAC has filed a suit in federal court claiming the district's present voting structure dilutes minority voting strength.

Hays said the trustees took no action on the lawsuit.

Liquor license appeal denied

COLORADO CITY (SC) - Judge Weldon Kirk of the 32nd District Court Friday turned down an appeal by store owner B.J. Tammen who asked the court to overturn an earlier decision by a Mitchell County judge which denied Tarmen a license to sell liquor for offpremises consumption.

Kirk ruled the Colorado City resident's appeal of the May 22 decision by Judge Bill Carter had been improperly submitted.

Mitchell County Attorney Pat Barber, representing the Texas Alcohol and Beverage Commission in opposing the appeal, said "The Texas Administrative Procedures Act requires as a prerequisite to an appeal that the applicant make a motion for rehearing within 15 days of the denial of the license.'

New Saturday newspaper to feature something for everyone

The Big Spring Herald's new Saturday morning edition will have a special page just for children -'The Mini Page.'

The new Saturday paper, which makes its debut next weekend, will also emphasize entertainment features, sports and off-beat news stories.

"The Mini Page," designed especially for kids, contains puzzles, connect-the-dot pictures, games, riddles, and educational articles. Each issue is based on a central theme, such as saving money, holidays, eating the right foods, good health, popular entertainers. The stories are written in easy-to-read language.
"Although it's designed for children, we think many parents will read the The Mini Page too," said Herald editor Linda Adams. "We believe it will promote family time together and will help encourage youngsters' interest in reading.

In addition to offering "The Mini Page," the new Saturday edition will focus on the lighter side of the news. Stories on local cultural events, the latest record and movie reviews and the best entertainment features of the Associated Press will be

The monthly subscription rate will go up 50 cents on Sept. 1, according to Herald circulation manager Chuck Benz. At the current rate of $4.50 per month, the Herald costs 171/2 cents per copy for home delivery. However, under the new rate structure of $5 per month, each paper will cost about a penny less - 161/2 each - because readers will be receiving seven papers a week instead of six, Benz said.

Continued from page one assembly. Police reported about 20 arrests, chiefly of vendors who had no vending licenses. About 100 people were treated for heat-caused difficulties at two hospitals, and an undetermined number of others at first-aid stations

The spirit was nostalgic, goodnatured and full of song. One man carried a sign that read, "We Still Have a Dream" on one side and 'Send the Dodgers Back to Brooklyn" on the reverse.

Streaming down Constitution Avenue, the army of demonstrators chanted: "Ronald Reagan, he's no good; send him back to Hollywood.'

But Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, caught the tone of the day's rhetoric with his sharp condemnation of President Reagan's budgetcutting and human rights policies.

"We serve notice on you, Mr. Reagan, that we are not here to live in the past and to leave simply singing, 'We Shall Overcome,'" Hooks

"We are here because we are committed to the elimination of Reaganism from the face of the earth," Hooks declared. "We've had enough of it. Reagan no more in

Some waved their placards at the White House as they marched by, but Reagan was out of town. The line of march stopped so supporters could greet, wave at and try to touch Mrs. King.

In a day of oratory promoting virtually every liberal cause, more than four dozen speakers urged that King's birthday be made a national holiday and supported a long list of proposals, all of which Reagan

They included a nuclear weapons freeze, ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, reversal of U.S. involvement in Central America and enactment of costly legislation to put people back to work rebuilding deteriorating American cities.

Almost every speaker recalled King's words in biblical rhythm 20 years ago which mobilized public opinion behind enactment of the landmark Civil Rights Act of 1964.

"I have a dream," he cried out that day, "that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plain and the crooked places will be made straight and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together."

'We still have a dream" - that's what Coretta Scott King, widow of the civil rights leader, said in a warmup speech as the crowd assembled at the Washington Monument for the short march along Constitution Avenue to the Lincoln Memorial. And that's what the big blue-and-white buttons said that most of the marchers wore.

Their placards said such things as: "No more MX missiles," "Alabama marches for jobs, peace and freedom," U.S. Out of Chad," "Deaf and blind need stronger federal support" and "Money for jobs, not bombs."

In the crowd, Marjorie Paterson, 50, a YMCA program director from Plainfield, N. J., recalled she had been here 20 years ago. "The issue is that it's been 20 years and we haven't moved fast enough to where we are supposed to be going toward the full recognition of people as peo-ple, toward jobs and to be anti-war. It's the same kind of thing we were figh ing for then," she said.

Later, Mrs. King broadcast a taped five-minute response to Reagan's regular Saturday radio address, which the president devoted to his Middle East peace

The 38-year-old anchorwoman returned to work at KEYT on Aug. 22, after a federal jury in Kansas City, Mo., found Metromedia guilty of job fraud and recommended that the judge find the company guilty of sex discrimination as well. The judge has not ruled on the sex discrimination count

The charges related to Ms. Craft's eight months of employment by KMBC-TV in Kansas City, when the station was owned by Metromedia. She had filed a $1.2 million lawsuit against Metromedia, claiming that when she was demoted from her KMBC anchor job in August 1981, station management told her she was "too old, too unattractive and not deferential enough to men."

Ms. Craft had been a KEYT anchor before accepting the KMBC job. Metromedia has asked the judge to either overturn the jury verdict or reduce the judgment to $8,500.

Jetliner hijacked to Sicily

ROME (AP) — Arabic-speaking gunmen who hijacked an Air France jetliner and forced it to land in Sicily freed 18 passengers early Sunday in what appeared to be an exchange of hostages for fuel, airport officials said.

At least 58 other passengers and crew members remained aboard the Boeing 727 at the Catania, Sicily, airport, including the three or four hijackers who also were armed with grenades.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Challenger is set to turn night into light Tuesday in a dazzling pre-dawn launch that may be visible for hundreds of miles as a 500-foot tail of flame carves a fiery path in the sky.

The ship will carry America's first black astronaut, the world's oldest space traveler, a communications satellite for India, an important drugprocessing test, 260,000 postal covers and six rats.

'We're proud to be here and we're ready to fly,' mission commander Richard Truly said as he and his four-man crew landed Saturday in T-38 jets that brought them from the Johnson Space Center in Texas.

"We're anxious to fly, and we're looking forward to a good mission," said Air Force Lt. Col. Guion Bluford, the first black named to a U.S. space

The other crew members are Navy Cmdr. Daniel Brandenstein, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Dale Gardner and Dr. William Thornton, a physician who at 54 will be the oldest person yet to have flown in space. Truly is a Navy captain.

The countdown to launch began right on time at 3 p.m. EDT Saturday, with no problems reported. Liftoff is set for 2:15 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

It will be the first after-dark launch of a U.S. manned spacecraft since Apollo 17 roared toward the moon shortly after midnight on Dec. 7, 1972. It was a clear night, and the exhaust of the Saturn 5 rocket was seen several hundred miles in every direction.

17 slayings unsolved

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — An elderly woman was found slain Friday at her home outside Joliet, bringing to 17 the number of unsolved killings in Will County in the past two months, authorities said.

Sheriff's Deputy Darlene Gordon said investigators were trying to determine whether the latest death was related to the other killings.

The name of the victim, who lived in an unicorporated area of Joliet, south of Chicago, was withheld pending notification of kin, police said.

She was described by police as between 75 and 80 years old. Her body was discovered at about 3 p.m. Friday by a man delivering newspapers, police Coronor Robert Tezak scheduled an autopsy for Saturday morning.

Residents in the area have remained "fairly calm," despite the recent string of multiple slayings in the county, Tezak said. Last Saturday, four women were killed in a ceramics shop just outside

He added, however, "Now, I don't know."

Mosquito war continues

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's aerial war on encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes expanded Saturday as the virus was confirmed in five additional counties, the state Health Department said.

The number of counties on the spray list increased from 31 to 35 and the Health Department said it was possible more counties would be added later.

By Saturday, 97 communities in 22 counties had been sprayed. The Health Department said it expected first-round spraying would be completed by Sunday night, if weather conditions are favorable.

No human cases of Western encephalitis have been confirmed so far in Minnesota but the Health Department said four people had been hospitalized recently with what doctors strongly suspect is the illness. In addition, there are 13 "possible" cases where diagnosis is more questionable.

The department reiterated its plea that all Minnesotans adopt "common sense protection" by using insect repellents, wearing protective clothing and and avoiding areas where the virus has been confirmed.

1983 TAX PLANNING (Start Now)

Many taxpayers do their tax "planning" at year-end in a frenzied attempt to cut their tax bill. Yearend strategies often require cash that you don't have or time that is not available. Real planning to cut taxes is a year-long activity.

Start by comparing your anticipated income and deductions for 1963 with the income and deductions you reported on your 1982 tax return. Use a workpaper and your 1982 return to arrive at an estimate of your 1983 tax liability. If your estimate shows the need for some tax-cutting maneuvers, consider some of the following suggestions.

* Defer income to 1984 or later. Postpone bonuses and dividend payments. Invest in certificates or notes so that the interest is paid or credited to you in 1984

be hard to beat

The evidence continues to mount that President Reagan will be very hard to defeat it he decides to run for a second term. The latest Gallup Poll shows that Reagan, who trailed both former Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Senator John Glenn in the polls, now has drawn ahead of Mondale and has almost wiped out a big margin that Glenn held as recently as mid-June.

One of the major reasons for president Reagan's increasing strength is the strong recovery being made by the economy, a factor that could loom increasingly large if it continues to move up in 1984. The rapid upswing could cut the unemployment rate to less than 8 percent, and thus give the president much stronger support from labor than might now be expected.

Without the economic issue, Mondale, Glenn and the other Democratic presidential candidates are going to be hard pressed to keep from falling well behind President Reagan in the months ahead.

If they are counting on making gains by criticizing President Reagan's foreign policy, they also may be disappointed. Mr. Reagan's policies of supporting El Salvador and other Central American countries against Soviet-Cuban-Nicaraguan intervention are achieving favorable results, and could turn out to be another major plus in the coming campaign. Democrats who decided to make Mr. Reagan's Central American policies a campaign issue may be sorry they brought up the subject.

Another major factor in the president's growing support is the recognition by many Americans that none of the Democratic challengers has anything really new or constructive to offer. They still are espousing big government spending and proposing defense cuts at a time when the Western Hemisphere is under direct communist assault.

If President Reagan is waiting to see how the trend is moving before making an announcement on his candidacy, he can take great encouragement from the increasing support he is receiving across the nation.

Private lessons

Enrollment at private schools across the country is down, and that's good news.

Private schools exist primarily for two reasons: to inculcate under the guise of education religious dogma in captive young minds or to offer affluent white parents the opportunity to keep their children from having to attend school with Blacks and Hispanics.

These private schools are They go against American spirit.

Private schools promote inequality. Students at these institutions, where course offerings are restricted and material resources limited, graduate with an education inferior to their public school counterparts; they are denied equal opportunity at an excellent public school education.

The cloistered atmosphere at private schools also fosters a religious-racial apartheid, imbuing the young disciples with the feeling they're so much different and so much better than those bums in public school

I'm afraid these institutions are warping our young minds in other more insidious ways. How can you seriously discuss the Spanish Inquisition when there's a cross hanging in the classroom? And how can a teacher tell the truth about Brown vs. the Board of Education at an allwhite suburban school?

CLEARLY, America is so much the less for entrusting the leaders of tomorrow to these institutions. The legality of the private school should be challenged on Constitutional grounds for deteriorating the public welfare.

Education of the public lies within the purview of government responsibility. Individual states are allowed to regulate their own school systems as long as federal laws are not breached. We organize school districts, levy taxes to build the school house and appoint agencies to ensure standards and excellence are universally upheld. The public school is a hallmark of our democracy.

Somewhere along the line we allowed the private school to flower, giving it free rein to deplete our brain trust as long as it paid lip service to minimum curriculum guidelines would have to bus their students to end racial segregation, school desks were vacated overnight as the great white flight began for the Aryan sanctum of the private school. And when the public schools introduced Darwinism and dismissed classroom prayer in the early 60s, private school enrollment skyrocketed. These two incidents provide ample evidence of what the private school is all about.

When the federal courts told

BUT NOW I hear the refreshing news that private school enrollment is declining as students make the inevitable trek back to the public classroom. Perhaps parents realized that only in the public school can their children receive a decent education; or perhaps they just no longer can afford the private school tuition. Whatever the reason, the country has taken a turn for the

The more democratic, pro-America of us, however, should not be lulled into complacency by this migration. The dark forces of antiintellectualism, racism and religious intolerance are hard at work to sabotage the democratic character of our public schools.

President Reagan favors giving tuition tax credits to parents of private school children, meaning fewer dollars would be available for public education. The fundamentalists are trying to sneak prayer back into the public classrooom and rewrite biology textbooks, substituting myth for science. Equally as dangerous, lily-white unincorporated suburbs are forming their own school districts to secure their children in a racially pure environment.

Democracy is not optional; it is a duty. Our principles must be legislated and enforced. Education is the responsibility of the government, not the church or the countryclub suburb.

The Constitution enjoins us to educate our children free from religious and ideological parochialism.

We should take a very hard look at the private school and then lock its doors and throw away the keys. And while we're at it, let's double the salaries of public school teachers and congratulate them on what a great job they're doing.

How not to be a fop

And yet, although I bristled when I read that statement by Lord Chesterfield in "Letters to His Son," I forgave him for it. He had written the statement back in the early 1700's, when women were uneducated and no doubt boring, after a point.

Lord Chesterfield was born in 1694 in London and was a career diplomat in service to King George II. While Chesterfield was at The Hague in the Netherlands, he fathered an illegitimate boy. When the child was 5, Lord Chesterfield began to write his son letters on how to be the perfect gentleman.

One of his earlier letter describes a typical fop. "When an awkward fellow comes into a room, it is highly probably that his sword gets between his legs, and throws him down, or makes him stumble at least; when he has recovered this accident, he goes and places himself in the very place of the whole room where he should not; there he soon lets his hat fall down; and taking it up again, throws down his cane; in recovering his cane, his hat falls a second time; so that he is a quarter of an hour before he is in order again. If he drinks tea or coffee, he certainly scalds his mouth, and lets either the cup or the saucer fall, and spills the tea or coffee in his breeches.

'At dinner, his awkwardness distinguishes itself particularly, as he has more to do: there he holds his knife, fork, and spoon differently from other people; eats with his knife to the great danger of his mouth, picks his teeth with his fork, and puts his spoon, which has been in his throat 20 times, into the dishes again. If he is to carve, he can never hit the joint; but, in his company.

"Besides all this, he has strange tricks and gestures; such as snuffing up his nose, making faces, putting his fingers in his nose, or blowing it and looking afterwards in his handkerchief, so as to make the company sick. His hands are troublesome to him, when he has not something in them, and he does not know where to put them; but they are in perpetual motion between his bosom and his breeches: he does not wear his clothes, and in short does nothing, like other

"All this, I own, is not in any degree criminal, but it is highly disagreeable and ridiculous in company, and ought most carefully to be avoided by whoever desires to please.

LORD CHESTERFIELD told his son that good manners will carry a person much farther than knowledge, although both are desirable. He told his son always to seek the best com-

Never brag on yourself — always be reluctant about revealing your accomplishments, for when other people discover the information by themselves it is all the more treasured.

Never reveal your most intimate secrets, but listen carefully to everyone else's. Never repeat a confidence, because it will always come back to haunt you in the most unexpected

ALL THIS AND much more Lord Chesterfield wrote to his son in more than 400 letters over a period of 30 years. Sadly, the son died at age 36. Later, Lord Chesterfield discovered that his son had secretly married and had two children. He had certainly learned the lesson of discretion. Although the grandfather began writing letters to his grandsons, his heart was not in it. The letters do not contain nearly the feeling of pride and love that were evident in the letters to his son. Lord Chesterfield never intended for the letters he wrote to be published. But after his death, the son's widow sold them for 1,500 pounds. This was a very ungenteel thing for her to do, but it gave the world an opportunity to see the code of conduct for a fine gentleman of the eighteenth century.

It's an interesting book, and the principles still apply — except for that part about the in-

None has the right to judge

Dear Editor,

I am surprised at the misconceived ideas that have recently surfaced in response to the letter by Mr. Clark Johnson, published in your Mailbag of August 16.

Mr. Johnson spoke for more than himself when he pointed out that none of us has the right to judge others. It was perfectly obvious that he was not acting as an evangelist, nor was he insinuating that he had a closer relationship to God than anyone else, whether they be rich or

Mr. Johnson did not defend Billy Sol Estes for his crimes nor Cullen Davis for being wealthy (which is NO crime). He merely indicated that an individual's decision of salvation is his own, not to be prejudged by society. This is, I hope, a privilege we all possess, even those who abuse it. Maybe his letter should be read again!

P.S. This is probably the only time I will get my name in the paper, either!

The other side of coin

Dear Editor, In Friday 19th's Mailbag you published a letter from a paper boy's mother. I thought your readers might be interested in knowing a few things about this "paragon of purity" she wrote about, who expected her paper placed in rack on porch.

1. She's 80 years old. 2. She uses a walker to aid her in etting around - she broke her hip last year.

3. She's a diabetic and her vision

4. She's old enough to be a believer in the old law of not collecting debts on the Sabbath.

5. She lives on her Social Security check and barely has enough to get by on much less tipping everyone she has to depend on to do the extra things for her.

6. This little lady, after having read the article, has been tearful and depressed.

I am no relative of this lady, only a friend, but I'm concerned that the mother thinks only of the money the boy earns. In times past children were taught to respect their elders and to go the extra mile to help the elderly. Also as a route boy he worked for the training he received. As the mother of an ex-route (Herald) boy I think it's one of the best ways for a boy to learn how to deal with so many things he'll have to face in

Please print this so everyone can see the other side of the coin. Thank you MRS. WILLIAM T. BREWER

P.S. In Alabama around Huntsville and counties neighboring Madison County from the 1930s to the '50s (maybe even now) it was the law that if anyone tried to col-lect a debt on the Sabbath, the debt was declared paid in full and could not be collected. I lived there.

A few nights ago I heard a knock on my door. This was about 1:00 a.m. I looked out the window and there was a police car. Naturally, I assumed it was bad news. Why else would a cop be at my house in the middle of the night?

I answered the door and found it wasn't bad news. I had left my pickup door open. I don't know this officer's name but I want to thank him. He was very nice and police.

The people of Big Spring seem to always be putting down our police force. Why? These ladies and gentlemen are only human. They

Emergency assistance

While Hurricane Alicia roared through Southeast and Southcentral Texas dumping 10 to 15 inches of unwanted rains and leaving behind a path of destruction and devastation, just a few hundred miles away West Texas farm and ranchlands were dry and thirsty, suffering from the worst drought in

Whether it is a hurricane or a drought, the victims of a natural disaster need emergency assistance. U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block has finally taken the first step toward providing such relief for drought victims in West Texas. As you probably know, after weeks of pressure from numerous state officials, including Gov. White and Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, Block has recently declared 20 drought-stricken West Texas counties a disaster area. Although the effects of a storm like Alicia can be assessed almost immediately, the long-term effects of a drought aren't as easy to predict but can defininitely be as serious. It has taken us a long time to convince Block of the seriousness of the drought, but I believe he is beginning to understand. Block's disaster declaration, though long overdue, means farmers and ranchers in the drought areas will now be eligible for federal emergency assistance.

The federal relief will be mainly in the form of low-interest loans at a discount rate of 8 percent, which will be available to farmers and ranchers through the Farmers Home Administration. Each farmer or rancher can receive up to $500,000 for 80 percent of his losses if he can show that 30 percent of his grazing land or cattle has been destroyed by the heat or lack of water. Ranchers will also be eligible for federal income tax breaks, allowing them to defer for a year their tax liability from income received from the forced sale of their herds.

The 20 counties included in the disaster declaration are: Andrews, Brewster, Coke, Crane, Culberson, Ector, Howard, Jeff Davis, Martin, Mitchell, Nolan, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Sutton, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler. Several other counties have applied for disaster relief as well; however, the paperwork has not been completed. These counties include Crockett, Dawson, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Irion, Loving, Reeves and Schleicher. I'm sure these counties will also be approved for assistance as soon as the processing is complete.

This recent action by the Department of Agriculture is certainly a step in the right direction; unfortunately, many ranchers are saying the assistance may be "too little, too late." They pointed out that without an end to the drought and a return to normal productivity, they will have little means of paying back the low-cost loans. Furthermore, a spokesman for the Farmers Home Administration said loan eligibility will be limited to range, pasture, and other feed crops. Therefore, those farmers with field crops such as cotton growers are out of luck for now. Block said he will defer any decision on field crops until after the fall

Since 11 of the counties in my district are in the drought area, I am extremely concerned about this situation. I recently took a helicopter tour of the drought areas in Reagan and Upton counties, and I was devastated by what I saw. I'm convinced the federal government needs to provide additional assistance. After all, many areas have received less than two inches of rain in almost two years. Ranchers are having to provide expensive feed to livestock because the grass is sparse or dead. Many are selling off their herds or moving them, consequently suffering severe financial losses. Hightower has said that West Texas farmers have already lost half their cattle herds and 70 percent of their sheep because of the severity of the drought, and experts say it may take close to a decade for the lands and the herds to recover. With all this in mind, you can see that low-cost loans are not going to be sufficient relief for drought victims.

White and Hightower, although thankful for this recent aid, have also said it is not enough to do much good. Their earlier requests for relief in the form of emergency grain feed programs were denied by Block last month because Block felt the drought wasn't serious enough. Hightower and two West Texas ranchers recently traveled to Washington to meet with Agriculture Department officials to discuss the drought problem, carrying with them a bag of dry West Texas soil to illustrate their case. It was shortly after this visit that Block made the disaster declaration.

Announcement is no surprise

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — Texas Sen. John Tower's announcement Tuesday that he would retire from the Senate should have come as no surprise to anyone who carefully monitored his recent performance in protecting the MX missile both in committee and on the Senate floor.

Perhaps the senator simply likes bombshells

The Tower Decision," as it's called, certainly hit Texas congressional politics with all of about the same force as one of those nuclear missiles he cherishes for national defense

An immediate question in the aftermath, aside from the great gusher of speculation over the ensuing political dogfight to succeed Tower, has centered on effects the decision will have on

Texas' plentiful military interests. Texas congressmen and their aides pointed this week at the network of Texas members on defense committees in the House as holding a crucial role in protecting those interests once the powerful Senate Armed Services Committee chairman is gone.

It's going to mean that everybody is going to have to work a little harder as far as Texas military bases are concerned," said John Geddie, spokesman for Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo, highest-ranking Texan on the House Armed Services Committee.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, who serves on the Military Construction Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, agreed with Kazen's aide.

There's no question he (Tower) will be sorely missed," said Loeffler. That means people such as myself are going to have work that much harder. From my perspective, it will be difficult, but it will be handled and handled well.

With the future absence of the committee chairman, Texas will probably not lose out so much on gains that already are in place, some observers said. But, the state might have a more difficult time coming up with expansions to military installations or the addition of functions at existing bases

An example is the so-called PAVE-PAWS radar system now scheduled for installation at San Angelo's Goodfellow

Air Force Base. For years, Goodfellow's existence was threatened by moves to consolodate the base's functions with other military bases, closing the San

With the location of the second function at Goodfellow, the base's future was

He (Tower) was key in putting PAVE PAWS there," said Tower spokesperson Linda Hill, though she noted that Loeffler also was instrumental in getting the radar that tracks submarine-launched missiles and other orbiting objects up to 3,000 miles away.

Observers have said in the past that the team of Tower in the Senate and Loeffler or Kazen in the House has been an effective one-two punch" for both new projects and military construction at existing bases.

The gap will arise when one of those punches is missing. Other effective House members on defense include Reps. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, a new member of the House Defense Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee; Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, a member of the same subcommittee, and Marvin Leath, a member of the House Armed Services Committee. Spokesmen for those three congressmen noted they already are placing plenty of emphasis on defense

A spokeman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, an influential member of the Senate who has no direct tie to Senate military committees, said Bentsen would expect to continue to work diligently outside those committees for the state's defense interests.

He already went at it at a pretty good clip," said his spokesman, Jack Devore, referring to Bentsen's involvement with defense issues

Others noted that House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, whose district each year usually has more spending on defense contracts that any other district in the country (with such outfits as General Dynamics and Bell Helicopter), will continue to be influential.

Wright is always strong on defense, like most Texans," said his spokesman,

Dan Aykroyd arrested on macijuana charge

MARSEILLES, Ill. (P) — Comedian Dan Aykroyd said he was "on his way to California' when police stopped him on a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana, authorities said

Aykroyd posted a $50 cash bond after rrested about 70 miles outside of Chicago, according to officers.

A 31-year-old man, later identified as Aykroyd, was arrested Friday while driving a black Mercedes Benz car, said

Police Chief Stephen Harvey Police had been alerted to watch for the car by an off-duty police officer in nearby Seneca, who phoned Marseilles about 5 p.m. and said he had seen the car drive by and noted the driver was drinking and "smoking marijuana," Harvey said.

"Upon observing him driving, the (Marseilles) officer stopped the vehicle and found 3.5 grams of a substance believed to contain cannabis," Harvey said. "He was charged with possession of cannabis.'

FIRST UN

METHODIST

In 1883 Big Spring was a tiny frontier town. There were no churches or schools in all of Howard County. The first crude buildings were clustered about the Railroad Station.

The railroad, built under threat of Indian attack, brought with it settlers who somehow saw vast possibilities in this arid, desolate region.

In November, 1883, a small group of these determined people, "purposed in their hearts to found a church in this barren spot to worship God," gathered to organize the area's first congregation. And they called it the First Methodist Church of Big Spring.

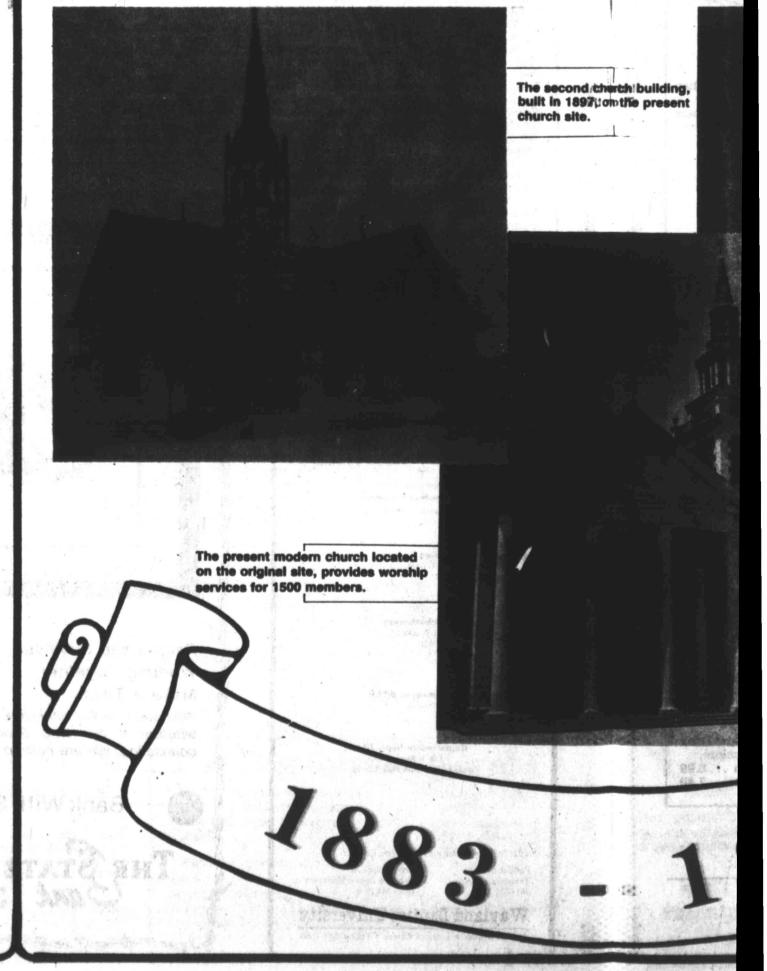

The Rev. J.B. Thomas was the first preacher, and services were held in the District Court Room until 1884 while a crude wooden structure was being built on the lot at Fourth & Scurry Streets where the present church now stands. The Ladies Aid Society purchased the lot for $350 and "felt they had been robbed."

Growth was so substantial that in 1897 the original church

In the years that followed many other changes and additions to the church have been made, and The First Methodist Church remained a significant entity, both as an architectural landmark and as an influence on the area.

Ministers and members of the congregation of this church helped to organize many other congregations in the county.

A list of the First United Methodist Church's members over the years has included many of the county's pioneer families, who personally and through the church, have contributed much to the growth and well-being of the community. Church membership now numbers 1500.

In 1983 the First United Methodist Church is celebrating its first one hundred years and has reason to rejoice handsome church, the lovely Garrett Hall and remodeled Sunday School Building, expanded over the block from the site of its first modest church.

Charles Parham, minister of music at First United Methodist Church, will direct the local choir for the last time today. He will be moving to Abilene to become minister of music at St. Paul United Methodist Church beginning the first of September. Parham began his 11th vear at the church in July. "I felt that myself and the church needed a different face. We had worked closely together and I felt it was time to let someone else come and enjoy the fine things," he said.

Parham has been instructing 150 people in musical programs at the church year round. At Christmas, he directed the Living Christmas Tree which usually contains 400 people.

He received his master's degree in organ and church music from Memphis University in Tennessee. Parham had been the organist at Methodist churches in Milan and Brownsville, Tenn., before Colorado City is pronounced a couple of ways at least, but right after I moved here 13 years ago I found out there is only one right way to pronounce it. That one right way is KAWL-O-RAY-DO!

That "A" in Colorado is pronounced like the name of the letter. The old settlers of this city named it after the river and that definately is the KAWL-O-

RAY-DO. There is a Colorado River and it runs through the Grand Canyon and separates Arizona from California. Ours rises up near Gail and flows to the Gulf of Mexico. The old pioneers who settled this country called both the river and the city KAWL-O-RAY-DO. The city part of our name was added much later.

A lot of people, most as a matter of fact, say Big Springs, but there is only one Big Spring to be singled out to be named for. I've visited it and I can just see it surrounded by covered wagons.

Miami, in Roberts County, is pronounced Miama in Texas and Miami in Florida. They'll fight you over the pronunciation in that town. The Lueders-Avoca school in Jones County is often mispronounced. Ask Bob Carpenter of the Herald. He came from that area. Palacious is Pal a shus, with a long A. Beaumont is Bo-mont. Coahoma is Ca homa. Of course, if you are born and raised in Texas none of this seems hard or strange. People call Fort Worth, Fot Wuth, and San Antonio is San Tone. Houston is pronounced Hooseton. Texans do not talk funny, it's all those out of staters, thank you!

Chicago archbishop sets his own pace

CHICAGO (AP) - A year ago, Joseph L. Bernadin moved from a three-room apartment in downtown Cin-cinnati to the imposing Victorian mansion that has been the residence of Chicago's Roman Catholic archbishops for almost a century.

The former archbishop of Cincinnati was taking over as leader of the 2.3 million-member Archdiocese of Chicago, a position of tremendous influence within the church. He would preside over 7,500 priests and nuns, 444 parishes and assets of $2 billion.

But the ornate house, with its throne room, coachhouse and sculptured shrubbery, didn't seem to suit Bernardin's self-effacing, low-key style. Moreover, the mansion was for many a reminder of its previous occupant, the controversial Cardinal John P.

So the throne was banished to a basement storeroom, two priests were invited to share the house and the broad lawns became the site of lemonade parties and receptions for ordinary Catholics.

Those and other small but significant gestures helped set the tone for the year that followed.

Bernardin has since commanded world attention as the head of a committee of Catholic bishops that drafted a strong and controversial statement declaring nuclear war immoral. And in a less visible role, he worked to mend the divisions formed during the last stormy years of Cody's tenure.

"I wanted to bring people together, to be a kind of reconciling influence," the 55-year-old prelate said in an interview on the first anniversary of his installation as archbishop.

Bernardin inherited a troubled archdiocese. For years, Cody was characterized as an imperious, autocratic administrator. In the last year of his life, he was haunted by allegations, still unresolved, that he misused as much as $1 million in church money.

The new archbishop asked prayers for Cody and urged his priests to "cast off the burden of bitterness and purify your hearts."

At the same time, he embarked on a program that in many ways was just what Cody's critics had sought: —He fired the $100,000-a-year public relations firm that Cody had hired to polish his image, and named as his top aide the Rev. James Roache, forced out as

Cody's director of communications. -He named Sister Anne Leonard to head the archdiocesan education department, making her the highest-ranking woman in the history of the

-He reopened a South Side church that Cody had closed for financial reasons despite pleas from parishioners. -He made a personal plea to Nobel laureate Mother

Teresa that brought nuns from her order, the Missionaries of Charity, to one of Chicago's poorest

-He published the first comprehensive statement of the archdiocese's finances.

"I think that a great deal of healing has taken place," Bernardin said. "We still have problems, differences of opinion and conflicts of one kind or another. But overall I'd say we have a better climate, that people are more inclined to be willing to work with one

Those familiar with day-to-day affairs of the archdiocese agree.z"There's a great difference, just in tone and in style," said the Rev. Stephen Mangan, vice president of the archdiocesan Priests' Senate.

'What you see is someone who is savvy about church added Martin Marty, a Protestant theologian at the University of Chicago and an observer of ar-chdiocesan affairs. "He knows exactly on what occasions to press his agenda, how to compel people through rhetoric, how power is wielded and how it has to be paced."

But heroes were in the wings, and Eugene Bullard and Bessie Coleman soon formed the vanguard of black Americans in aviation. Denied flying lessons in this country, both went to France, where racial attitudes were more liberal, to receive pilot training. Bullard sailed to Europe

We Dare You To Compare Quality, Prices and Selection!

ATLANTA (AP) - In a drab, cement-walled, windowless office at the Centers for Disease Con-trol, the chief of the national effort to fight AIDS leaned back in his chair and spoke of his frustrations.

"The problem," as Dr. James W. Curran called the syndrome, "is likely to be with us for quite a while." And, he conceded, he's "a little fed up" with criticism of scientists' efforts to find a cure.

Curran, director of the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome Task Force at the CDC, said he understood the attacks from gay rights leaders and others who say the government isn't doing enough to solve the mystery of AIDS, which has killed more than 800 people, most of them homosexual men.

"I have two reactions," Curran said. "The first is that it's understandable for all of us who are concerned about this to be frustrated. I, too, am frustrated. I've been working on this problem for two years and two months and it doesn't seem to be getting any better.

'The second part of that is that I get tired of people complaining. I'm a little fed up with it. I've been working on this problem a lot harder than most of the people who are complaining.

AIDS, which cripples the body's immune system and allows life-threatening opportunistic infections to attack, has struck 2,094 people since it was first discovered in 1979; 805 have died, according to CDC figures.

As media coverage has increased and case numbers have doubled in the past eight months, "there has been increasing panic and hysteria about AIDS, by the general public, which was only present in the gay community before, 'Curran said. "Because it is transmissible, people irrationally assume that it is easily transmissible.'

Steering fans straight

It's time for Steers fans to put on their game faces.

Friday night, Quinn Eudy's 1983 team goes against the Snyder Tigers in Memorial Stadium. No promises have been etched in stone, but Eudy says his team should provide the same kind of excitement that rocked this town last fall.

In its history, Big Spring High has produced many household name-type players. Charlie Johnson. J.T. Smith. Tom Sorley. Ken Coffey. But check the won-loss records. You'll find the Steers had only average years when those players were in black and gold.

Eudy has tossed the superstar idea out the proverbial window. Last year's team had good players on the roster to be sure, but the college scouts didn't give anyone a second look. Still, the Steers recorded their best record in 12 years.

This year's team — at this point — gives way to even greater no-name status. The defense had to be rebuilt with the loss of bone-crushers Bancroft, Stephen, Burke, Lamb, Green — all of whom won all-district notice. But it's the defense that again will have to carry the load for Big Spring.

Eudy likes defense. In fact, the emphasis goes as far to put "the best 11 football players in Big Spring, Texas" on the field when it's time to defend. If the opponent does not score, the worst a team can do is tie, right?

The Steers will play run-to-the-football defense again. The Steers will play hard the first play, hard the last play and hard in between. The Steers will play with emotion. All are traits Eudy and his coaching staff have instilled in the Steers.

But will those things work the second time

Big Spring doesn't have the tradition of Permian. Big Spring doesn't possess the in-dividual talent of Odessa High. Big Spring doesn't have the army of players of Lee. Big Spring doesn't have much of what football forecasters want to see on paper, therefore are picked last again. Spring won't finish last. The intangibles emotion, work habits, desire to kick the losing habit - are why.

What makes Eudy's plan work is taking things a step at a time. He's not thinking 10-0. Maybe not even 5-5. First things first. Build stronger players. Build faith. Play from week-to-week. Encourage.

Then let the wins fall where they may. Like Texas A&M, Eudy could use a 12th man. Instead of constructing a defensive kickoff team from the school's student body, he's looking into the stands. There, he hopes to see an ocean of fans.

When the community packed into Steer gym last fall and demonstrated their support of the football team, one could feel electricity in the air. When the Steers had Odessa High on the ropes, the fans were on their boots. None of that really can be used on the field but hearing noise from the natives can't hurt.

The price of admission into a Steers game doesn't include the guarantee of a victory. But you can bet Eudy's Beaudy's will pay back every cent turned over at the ticket

This season also may be one for the history books. With the school's enrollment walking the tightrope between 4 and 5-A, the Steers may be warring in "the Little Southwest Conference" a final time. That annoucement will come in November; until then, the Steers - always an underdog as the smallest school in the district - will go about their duties as giant-killers.

You never know what will happen. Reverse a pair of one-point losses last year, and the Steers would have been in the playoffs. Wouldn't that have taken folks

Be in stands Friday. Go to the pep rallies. Attend the Quarterback Club meetings. Pat a player on the back. Make black and gold part of your wardrobe.

The Cowboys, in a thriller

A FINGERTIP TOUCHDOWN — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Tony Hill (80) reaches out for a touchdown catch beyond the outstretched arms of Houston cornerback Willie Tullis (20). Dallas won the see-saw exhibition game played in Texas Stadium, 34-31.

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Quarterback Gary Hogeboom rifled two touchdown passes late in the fourth quarter to rally the Dallas Cowboys to a 34-31 victory over the cross-state rival Houston Oilers in a National Football League exhibition game.

'Hogeboom flipped an 18-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Butch Johnson with 92 seconds to play for the game winner after Houston's Carl Roaches had shocked the Texas Stadium crowd of 54,363 with a 105-yard kickoff return to give the Oilers hopes for their first victory of the exhibition season.

Dallas finished the preseason 3-1, while the Oilers lost all four of their outings.

Hogeboom, who replaced Danny White at the start of the fourth quarter, fell down, scrambled to his feet, and threw a 2-yard touchdown pass to tight end Doug Cosbie to give Dallas a 27-24 lead with 3:05 to play.

Then Roaches fielded the kickoff, broke a tackle at the 10 and scored on the longest exhibition kickoff return ever against the Cowboys, giving Houston the lead with 2:45 to go.

Hogeboom, who completed 11 of 16 passes for 119 yards, drove Dallas 62 yards in eight plays for its 13th victory over Houston in this "Texas Professional Football Championship" against four losses. Hogeboom completed three straight passes before he found Cosbie alone in the back of the end zone.

Houston trailed most of the game before going ahead 24-20 with 9:36 to play on Gifford Nielsen's 5-yard touchdown pass to rookie tight end Mike McCloskey Houston's Earl Campbell scored on runs of 1 and 43 yards and gained 119 yards on 18 carries. White completed 16 of 27 passes for 229 yards while Archie Manning, the starting quarterback for the Oilers, hit 5 of 13 for 59 yards

Speedy Wiley grabs 400 gold

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Cliff Wiley of Baltimore ended a string of personal disappointments Saturday, winning the men's 400 meters at the IX Pan American Games, where a little-known stimulant cost a Dominican sprinter his silver medal.

Wiley is an outspoken critic of athletes who use steroids and other drugs, yet he, too, has had trouble because of the Pan Am doping crackdown. He suffers from asthma and, he said, "with the (drug) ban, there's nothing I can take.'

But his victory provided the only bright light of a cloudy day in track and field for the United States the lone gold medal and one of just three medals in all.

The biggest drug bust in the history of international sports now has touched 16 athletes here. Juan Nunez, who finished second in the men's 100-meter dash, was

Pan Am Games

As with all but one of the athletes cited earlier in testing for banned substances, Nunez's name and medical report were turned over to the Dominican Republic Olympic committee and international track authorities for possible sanctions.

There was no official word that Nunez had been stripped of his silver medal, but Pan Am officials said in announcing the other names that medalists would lose their awards.

On the next-to-last day of competition at the games, the U.S. team added to its big lead in the medals count. It officially picked up the gold medals in men's and women's basketball, as both U.S. teams beat Puerto Rico to finish their tournaments unbeaten.

So far, the United States has won a total of 120 gold medals and 249 in all. The American total is guaranteed to increase substantially Sunday, with medals awarded in boxing. Seven U.S. boxers are in the championship bouts, and all 11 members of the team are assured of at least bronze medals for having reached the semifinals.

But it was bad news for the Americans at Olympic Stadium. Besides the gold for Wiley, 28, the best the United States could go in the five other finals was a pair of bronze medals - for Lorna Griffin in the day at the Pan American Games in Caracas, Venezuela. The win was the only first for the U.S. in track and field.

In basketball, the United States had clinched the golds earlier this week, but had to wait for Saturday's close of the tournament to make it official. Both teams closed with blowouts.

Who's No. 1?

The U.S. women whipped Puerto Rico 112-65, as Lynette Woodard of Wichita, Kan., scored 20 points. Cheryl Miller of Southern California and former UCLA star Denise Curry added 18 points apiece, and Janice Lawrence of Louisiana Tech had 17 for the Americans, who had clinched the championship Thursday.

In the men's tournament, the United States beat Puerto Rico 101-85, with Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma scoring 22 points and the North Carolina duo of Sam Perkins and Michael Jordan adding 16 and 13 points, respectively. An 87-79 victory over Brazil on Friday

'Huskers given nod over Penn St.

By The Associated Press Nebraska, which barely missed winning the last two national championships, has been picked to dethrone Penn State as the king of college football.

In the final 1981 Associated Press poll, Nebraska dropped from fourth to 11th by losing a 22-15 shootout to national champion Clemson in the winner-takeall Orange Bowl. And the Cornhuskers finished third last year despite winning their last 10 games following an early-season 27-24 loss to Penn State, which went on to win its first national crown.

This time, Nebraska received 30 of 51 first-place votes and 976 of a possible 1,020 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the AP preseason poll.
The Cornhuskers easily outdistanced
Oklahoma and Texas, who waged a

"I guess that's OK," Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said when informed of the preseason rankings, "but I don't know if we can be that good. I'm a little bit surprised because I really haven't followed the national scene enough to know who should be rated on top.

know if anybody knows how good they are right now. I guess when you only have eight starters coming back you're a little uneasy. But our second-teamers played a lot last year, so it's not like we're totally starting from scratch.

"We'll just have to see what happens. Any coach would rather start out down the list a little further - maybe fifth or sixth. This will probably be a little added incentive for Penn State and every team we play - if we're still there."

Oklahoma, which finished 16th a year ago, received 11 first-place votes and 860 points, to three first-place ballots and 857 points for Texas, last year's No.17 team. Fourth-place Penn State received two No.1 votes and 756 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Auburn with two firsts and 749 points, Notre Dame with 617 points, Florida State with one first and 575 points, Southern California with 553 points, Ohio State with 518 points and Michigan with one first and 515 points. Houston school top of 5-A crop

By The Associated Press Class 4A Fort Bend Willowridge, which has compiled an amazing 32-7 record in three years of high school football competition, is the lone defending state champion favored to repeat its title run in the 1983 Associated Press Pre-season Schoolboy Football Poll. Willowridge blitzed the opposition with a 15-0 record last season en route to the state championship that climaxed with a 22-17 victory over Corsicana.

The new heirs apparent include Houston Memorial in Class 5A, Decatur in Class 3A, Panhandle in 2A and Bremond in A.

Beaumont West Brook won last year's Class 5A title in its first year of competition. It also became the first 5A team to win the state title after finishing second in the district race under the University Interscholastic League's new playoff system permitting district champions and runnersup to compete in the playoffs.

West Brook, with only four returning starters, started the 1983 season ranked seventh in the state.

Defending 3A champion Refugio is ranked third behind Decatur in the preseason poll, defending 2A champion Eastland is unranked as is 1982 Class A title holder Union Hill.

Memorial, which lost to eventual state champion West Brook 28-22 last year, raked in six of the 18 first-place votes cast by a panel of Texas sports writers and sportscasters in the preseason balloting.

The Mustangs have 11 starters returning, headed by quarterback Shannon Kelley, a projected blue-chip candidate. Converse Judson, a semifinals loser to West Brook last season, returns 12 starters and is a close runnerup to Memorial on the 5A list. The Eagles hogged 14 first-place votes and posted a hefty 173-123 point margin over No. 2-ranked Gainesville, which has 11 returning starters from last season's 10-2 finish.

New Braunfels, 12-2 last season, McKinney, 9-3-1 and Silbsee, 9-3, round out the top five on the Class 4A list.

The tightest preseason race shaped up in Class 3A where only five points separated the first three teams. Decatur, trying to reach the top with 15 returning starters, lead the pack with 127 points and six first-place votes, followed by Navasota with four firstplace selections and 125 points and thirdplace Littlefield, which had seven first-place votes and 122 points. Groveton, Hale Center and Pilot Point lined up behind Panhandle in Class 2A and Bremond held a strong lead over championship in nine Pan Am Games. The doping crackdown started last Monday, when officials announced that four weightlifters had been found with anabolic steroids in their systems. One of them, Cuba's Daniel Nunez, had set a world record in the snatch while sweeping the three gold medals in the 132-pound class, but officials said the record wouldn't count and the championship would stand vacant. Steroids were the drug found in the first 12 athletes named — 11 weightlifters, including U.S. gold medalist Jeff Michels of Chicago, and a Chilean cyclist.

On Friday, the names of three more athletes were released, with officials saying they had tested positive for a stimulant, Ephedrine. Cuban fencer Mario Wilson and Dominican shot-putter Juan de la Cruz had their names sent to national and international sports authorities for review. But officials said the third athlete, Cuban volleyball player Lazaro Beltran, apparently had taken the drug to treat a cough, and therefore would not be punished.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Minnesota quarterbacks Tommy Kramer and Steve Dils combined for 236 passing yards and three touchdowns as the Vikings wrapped up their National Football League exhibition season with a 34-3 victory over the Denver Broncos.

The Vikings defense also crushed Denver quarterback John Elway, spoiling the rookie's debut as a starter. Elway was 3 for 16 in the second half.

action against Gunslingers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The City Council has voted to go to court if San Antonio's United States Football League franchise continues to ignore a deed restriction that forbids professional sports in Alamo Stadium.

The attorney for the Gunslingers however, said team officials won't back

"We're certainly not shrinking away from litigation," said State Sen. Hector Uribe, who represents South Texas Sports Inc. "I'm not intimidated by going into the courtroom. I've always enjoyed jury trials.'

Council members voted 8-3 Thursday night to sue, if necessary, to keep principal owner Clinton Manges and his South Texas Sports from using or renovating Alamo Stadium. The San Antonio Independent School District, which owns the stadium, has leased it to the Gunslingers for up to 50

A 1939 deed restriction, however, forbids pay-for-play sports from taking place in the stadium and council members said they intend to enforce the Assistant City Attorney Jack Hubbard indicated the city would seek an injunction to halt the renovation, possibly early next week. Bud Haun, the president of South Texas

"We're going to continue our im-provements," he said. "We have a valid lease. Work crews hired by South Texas the Gunslingers the right to install artificial turf and expand the stadium to 30,000 seats by next year and up to 60,000 seats by 1986.

Sampson signs for megabucks

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets have agreed to pay Ralph Sampson more than $5 million, including incentives, over the next four years and they don't feel they've been robbed.

"I think in the situation we are in, someone could come in and hold us up, and what are we going to do about it?" Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson said Friday night. "But they didn't do that.

Sampson, the No. 1 selection in the 1983 National Basketball Association draft, made it official Friday night by signing a contract that made him the richest rookie in the history of the NBA and, according to his agent Tom Collins, the third highest paid player in the Sampson's contract is believed to exceed that of Boston forward Larry Bird, who received $650,000 in 1979-80 in his first season with the Celtics, sources said.

"Hopefully, people will say it's a fair contract," said Sampson, the Rockets' latest millionaire. "I've waited and waited. I stayed in school and got my degree and . what I've been waiting for came along — a lot of

Now that monetary matters have been settled, new Rockets Coach Bill Fitch says Sampson is ready to start putting out the numbers on the court, especially after watching his star pupil in a rookie camp on the West Coast.

"He didn't look like a rookie after his first time around the court," Fitch said. "Basketball has always been his No. 1 priority.

"He went out there (rookie camp) and played without a contract and he was going to play here in our rookie camp without a contract," he said.

Sampson says he's ready to accept the challenge on and off the court.

"As far as I'm concerned, I just want to be part of the team," Sampson said. "It's going to take 10 or 11 more players to even win a game. It will take time to blend together. We've lost a lot of games in the past, but now we're going out to beat people.

Sampson, Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson and Collins showed up one hour and 35 minutes late for a news conference, but Patterson said there were no last-minute problems.

Patterson said the contract was for between $5 million and $6 million.

The Rockets had realized benefits from Sampson's name even before Friday's signing. Season ticket sales already have exceeded last year's total of 4,500.

The Rockets had hoped to sign Sampson to a longterm contract, possibly for as long as 10 years. Collins, however, favored shorter contracts, assuming Sampson will be able to negotiate a more favorable deal after he's played in the NBA several years.

Sampson led Virginia's Cavaliers to 112 victories in his college career, more than any other division I school over the same period of time. He was the only collegian ever to receive three consecutive the Rupp Awards, presented annually by The Associated Press to the collegiate player of the year.

Parrish: Rangers' steadiest performer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — In Tuesday night's 2-0 victory over Texas, Detroit's Chet Lemon lined an RBI double down the right field line in the fifth inning. He was rounding second base when Larry Parrish got a glove on the ball. A few seconds later, a surprised Lemon slid into the tag of third baseman Buddy Bell, who had just receivaway. Lemon was out, ruining the rally. Two teammates singled later in the inning, but were stranded. Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said he wished he could have stopped Lemon at second. With nobody out, the percentages were against testing an arm like Par-rish's, Anderson said. "I've been around him (Parrish) about eight years. He's hurt me enough over the years," said Anderson, who managed at Cincinnati when Parrish was third baseman for the Montreal Expos. "You never saw him at third base here. He's been in the outfield. But he was a helluva third baseman.

Outstanding. I would say he was the best in the National League, defensively," Anderson said. Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt "was just coming along then," Anderson said.

Although Parrish has played right field since coming to Texas two years ago in the trade that sent Al Oliver to the Expos, several clubs needing a third baseman wanted to trade for him last winter. 'We played good this year, but probably we could still use a key player to push us over the line."

"I haven't played third base in two years now, at all, and right now I consider myself an outfielder. It would be another adjustment if I had to go back and play infield now," Parrish said. With 21 homers and 11 game-winning RBIs, he's been Texas' most consistent offensive threat this season and he realizes he could end up as trade bait again as the Rangers try to rebuild. Last year, when Texas won only 64 of 162 games, "it was not good here," says Parrish, as if to suggest he might have been willing to leave then. But he said things have been more encouraging since the Rangers hired Joe Klein as general manager and Doug Rader as manager

"The club has made a lot of progress. With Joe and Doug, they've added some stability. When you lose 98 games, it takes something to come back from that," Parrish said.

The Rangers began the year hoping to finish at least .500, but got their fans excited when they led the American League West at the All-Star break. A July slump dropped them out of the pennant chase, but Parrish said the early showing proved what could happen "We played good this year, but probably we could still use a key player to push us over the line," he said. That "extra player" doesn't necessarily have to be an MVP performer, he said. "No, I don't think it takes that. And really, the personnel may be in the clubhouse already. Who knows? What we need is that real stopper out of the bullpen that gets 25 saves. We haven't had that," Parrish said.

The success Texas had this season came despite an off-season by catcher Jim Sundberg and a season-long slump by Dave Hostetler, whose home run heroics last season surprised and pleased Rangers fans, Parrish would convert into a lot of victories, he said. A year ago, Parrish got off to a dismal start at the plate, but finished strong. Rangers coaches put him through an almost brutal spring training, trying to get him to his mid-season form early. It apparently worked, since Parrish began the season at the same sizzling pace he left off at the end of 1982.

"I thought I was real consistent all year until about two weeks ago, and then I ran into a slump." Parrish said. He went 3-for-4 Sunday night against Chicago but had two "sure" extra base hits taken from him Monday night against Detroit by leaping, over-the-shoulder warning track "It's sort of been that sort of year," Parrish said "There have been a few guys on this club that have hit the ball better than their stats show. The Arlington wind definitely has been troubling us this year." Pitchers love the park, because it takes a mighty clout, particularly in right or center field, to get a

He had 30 home runs for Montreal four years ago. With 21 now, he says he'd have "to get awfully hot" to equal that this year.

"I feel like I've hit the ball harder this year than in 1979, when I hit the 30," he said.

Eight U.S. lifters tested positive for steroids before Pan Am Games

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) -Eight U.S. weightlifters tested positive for anabolic steroids in drug exainations conducted by the USOC prior to the IX Pan American Games, the executive director of the USOC said Friday night.

F. Don Miller, the USOC chief, said the 10 weightlifters on the team were the only members of the 600-athlete U.S. delegation who underwent the drug screening, and that it was done at the lifters' request after they had learned of sophisticated checks for banned substances which were to be used at the Pan Am competition. The crackdown on drug use here has so far found 15 athletes with drugs in their system. So far, only one American — gold medal weightlifter Jeff Michels of Chicago had been among those cited for drug use. Miller said that Michels, a competitor in the 243-pound class, passed the test conducted by the

"Michels showed negative, but the test we ran was only for steroids and not testosterone. The Pan Am tests checked for testosterone, and that's what Michels tested positive

Louisville draws first 1,000,000 fans

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - His Louisville Redbirds had just become the first minor-league team in baseball history to attract a million fans during a season, yet owner A. Ray Smith's first reaction was disappointment.

"We expected it tonight, we planned it tonight. We were a little disappointed we didn't do it sooner," Smith said Thursday night, after a crowd of 31,258 fans pushed Louisville's season attendance to 1,006,103 with two home dates remaining.

For Smith, the real thrill came last season when the Redbirds. after being moved from Springfield, Ill., set a minor-league attendance record by attracting 868,418 fans. "Last year was better. It was a surprise," Smith said. The 64-year-old owner lauded the achievement as a great day in Everest-type of thing" and exuberantly leading a firework celebration in the home half of the seventh before the jubilant crowd.

"It's easier now for other clubs to do the same thing. It's good for the sport to do that at this level. You'll see a million and a half here in five years," Smith said.

Particularly excited was Giovanni "Frank" Setaccioli, a 62-year-old barber and native of Tarquinia, Italy, who gained a small place in baseball history by being the millionth fan to enter Cardinal Stadium. "I'm a big fan, I come all the time," said Setaccioli, who gained a bird's-eye view of the game from the Redbird dugout for being the lucky ticket holder. "I never saw baseball until I came to this country (in 1947), but the more you see it, the more you get attached."

stars during the firework celebra-tion as Smith confirmed the crowds' belief that the record had been set. "Let us no longer look at what we can do, but look at what we have done," Smith told the cheering crowd from the infield. "To have broken the million barrier is an accomplishment that will proliferate through all baseball and I can honestly say that I love each and every one of you."

Smith spent part of the evening shaking hands and signing his autograph for the fans.

Outfielder Tito Landrum said the crowd's enthusiasm and the knowledge that the million goal had been reached helped the team to its 7-0 victory over the Evansville Triplets in Thursday night's game. The Redbirds already have clinched a spot in the Triple A World

Black directors find it difficult to obtain work

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - A decade ago, Hollywood suddenly discovered the black film market, and black directors thought they would become an important creative force in the movie industry.

But during the last quarter of 1982, according to the Directors Guild of America, only 4.1 percent of those hired for TV and feature film work were minority directors. All were men; no women minority directors worked.

The plight of the black film director was underscored last month with the class action suit brought by the Guild against Warner Bros. Inc., charging the studio with illegal and discriminatory hiring practices for women and minorities.

Warners has denied the charges and said it plans a countersuit accusing the Guild of allegedly "restricting the employment opportunities for women and minorities in the

Rob Friedman, a Warners spokesman, said: "I'm terribly sorry, but because of pending litigation, we'll have no further

The Guild's suit declared that during a oneyear period, minorities worked for Warners as directors only 2.8 percent of the time, and that there were no women among the 177

Of the 3,850 members of the Guild, 232 are women and 94 are minorities. Michael Franklin, the organization's national executive director, says the Guild is asking

He said that Warners was chosen as the target for the suit because the studio "refused to bargain on goals and timetables and the other studios didn't.'

The 1970s witnessed a plethora of so-called 'blaxploitation' movies primarily intended for black audiences. But there were several other films aimed not only at blacks but at the 'cross-over' (black and white) audience.

Gordon Parks, a writer and award-winning photographer, was one of the first blacks in the industry to direct a feature film when he made the critically acclaimed "The Learning Tree" in 1969. He made the detectiveadventure movie, "Shaft," in 1971 and later did "Shaft's Big Score" and "Supercops."

Writer Melvin Van Peebles also entered the arena early with "Watermelon Man" in 1970. Other new black directors were Academy Award-winning actor Sidney Poitier, who did "Uptown Saturday Night" in 1974, and Michael Schultz, who made "Car Wash" in

Poitier directed "Hanky Panky" earlier this year with Gene Wilder and Gilda Radner. Schultz recently did "Carbon Copy" with George Segal. But director William Crain hasn't worked in five years. He is chairman of the Guild's Ethnic Minorities Committee. He started in the "Room 222." Producer Aaron Spelling soon hired him to direct a "Mod Squad" episode

"My first feature was 'Blacula' in 1972 for American International Pictures," he says. "It was a black exploitation piece, but it got some good reviews and it made a lot of money for the company. The plot had some logic: A black man (played by William Marshall) goes to Transylvania and gets the bite put on him, then returns to this country as a vampire. I tried to give it quality."

After "Blacula" Crain says he spent three years with no film work. Then Spelling hired him for segments of "The Rookies," "Starsky and Hutch" and "SWAT."

He also directed a feature, "Dr. Black and Mr. Hyde," with Bernie Casey, and was hired to do a segment of "Roots: The Next Generation." After three days, he was fired, apparently because an ABC executive didn't like his work.

He hasn't worked as a director since 1978, and though he has a top agent, his rounds of producers have been disheartening.

Once, when asked to read a prospective script while waiting for a producer, a secretary later snatched it back and said that her boss would not hire him because he was

The Guild suit accuses the all-white, allmale Warners executives of "preferring their male and white friends" for employment.

Harvard accepts youth who learned at home

BOONEVILLE, Calif. (AP) - Grant Colfax skipped school for the past 11 years, raising goats and studying at home with his folks. He didn't even watch television; there wasn't any

But next week he's headed for Harvard — a university that yearly rejects thousands of the nation's brightest high school seniors. Only 2,200 of the 12,500 applicants were accepted this year.

"They didn't take me because of my high scores on the tests," he said, although those admissions test scores were in the top 5 percent, "and they didn't take me because I may or may not be intelligent. They took me because I'm unique.

"Most students come in with a very structured, academic background, said Harvard admissions officer Robert Cashion. "Here comes a kid who came completely self-taught.'

The 18-year-old had some advantages that most high school students don't have. His father is a former sociology teacher at the University of Connecticut and Washington University. His mother is a high school English teacher.

The family moved to the Mendocino area 11 years ago and decided to teach their children at home, gaining state approval of the plan. Grant's brothers -Drew, 15; Reed, 13, and Garth 8 — are also learning at home.

Home in this case is four miles from the little town of Booneville, some 100 miles north of San Francisco, and a mile from the nearest neighbor.

"I've never felt really isolated," said Grant.

He said his social skills were developed by raising and showing goats, his involvement in a foreign film group and his pro-nuclear-freeze activities.

Cashion, who interviewed Grant, said the boy "struck me as someone who really enjoyed the learning process. It was refreshing to see. It was really a remarkable thing.

"We talked about goat farming. We talked about construction. We talked about electricity, about politics, living on a homestead, just about everything. He had a really different prespective on things, given his background.

Grant said he had to convince the Harvard admissions staff that he could handle formal academic work. So early this year, he took a semester of courses at Santa Rosa Junior College. He wound up with straight As in his 18 units of classes.

"Harvard won't be like that," he said, "but I did have to deal with other kids, classrooms, formal class times and those things. I don't know whether it will carry over, but I hope the admissions committee was correct."

Grant's brothers are also doing well. Drew recently constructed a telescope from scratch and Reed is doing advanced geometry problems. Garth, said his oldest brother, is "still 8 and still just

"I tell people to give us a corner and we'll cram in there." Atlanta bass guitarist-vocalist Brad Griffis says.

While the fast-rising musical group gains noteriety because of its size, it also is making history because of its sudden success. Their first record, "Atlanta Burned Again Last Night," cracked the Top 10 of the national country music charts in early August. It is believed to be the highest charting first record ever by a country group on a small record

Atlanta will soon be the opening act at concerts by such country stars as Kenny Rogers, Ronnie Milsap, Juice Newton, Sylvia and Johnny Rivers. The group will be performing in London in October, and already is booked for four months of fairs in 1984.

The group was formed earlier this year by adding four members to the five-member pop group, The Vogues. Atlanta thus became the largest name group in country music, eclipsing the six-member Charlie Daniels Band.

The Vogues were a popular group 20 years ago with such hits as "Five O'Clock World," "Turn Around Look at Me," "You Are My Special Angel" and

Mendes makes it without Brasil

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the beginning — back in the '60s — it was Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66 — and a collection of Latin-tinged middle-of-the-road hits including "The Look of Love," "Scarborough Fair" and "The Fool on the Hill."

s and ction, bing. The ring, 3251.

Then came the '70s. Brasil '66 became Brasil '77. Later, it was Brasil '88. Mendes left A&M Records and moved to Elektra-Asylum. There were albums and concerts, but no hits.

Now, in 1983, Mendes is back - back at A&M, and back with "Never Gonna Let You Go," a romantic ballad that soared into the Top 5 and boosted an album, 'Sergio Mendes," into the Top 30. Gone, apparently for good, are Brasils '66, '77 and '88

- but they were merely catch-all names for a changing group of sidemen and vocalists.
"What happened was, '66 was the year that we got started," Mendes says. "Then in 1970, somebody suggested to me, 'Why don't you move that date ahead, so ple don't think you are dated, that you're doing old stuff. Keep the two numbers, move it to '77 - you have until 1977 to do whatever you want' — which I did.

"Then 1977 came, so I threw another 10 or 11 years for '88. Now I've run out of numbers — no more numbers," he smiles.

At 42, Mendes is an unlikely candidate for pop stara slight, dark man with an engaging smile and a small but apparent pot belly that must owe at least something to his longstanding passion for fine wines. But from the beginning, Mendes' success has had less to do with looks or personal style than with a sound — and not the sound of his voice. That's Joe Pizzulo crooning away with Liza Miller on "Never Gonna Let You Go." Both are unknown studio singers.

Although Mendes occasionally contributes a background vocal, he's never done leads and his hits have been written by others. He simply picks out songs, writes arrangements centered around his catchy keyboard hooks and produces them - much like the big bandleaders of the swing era.

"I do play," he says. "I enjoy playing. I'm active out there. I go on the road with the band. I happen to be the keyboard player-producer instead of the singerproducer or the writer-producer."

Mendes admits that he was encouraged to abandon at least one of his roles after his Elektra contract expired a few years ago.

"A lot of people that I knew in the record business kept saying, 'Well, you might need a producer in order for you to come back.' And I said, 'No, because that's what I've been doing all my life.'

"So I cut a demo, which I paid for, with three songs that are on this album. And the first stop after I finished the demo was back at A&M. I thought I would call my friend Herb (Alpert, co-founder of A&M) and say, 'Do you want to hear what am I doing these days.' And he heard and said (Here would not be been a said. he heard and said, 'How would you like to come

"Never Gonna Let You Go," which was written by veteran songwriters Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil, was first recorded by Dionne Warwick. Mendes — who until now has always used female lead singers — originally envisioned a male vocal, but decided to go

South African golfer clings to narrow lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - South African Nick Price, the leader all the way, shot a 1-under-par 69 and clung to a 2-stroke lead Saturday in the storm-interrupted third round of the $500,000 World Series of Golf.

Price, 26, a non-winner for two years, finished 54 holes at 203, seven strokes Hale Irwin, however, closed to within striking distance of the man who had a 3-shot advantage after two rounds and led by four at the turn. "I did what I wanted to do. I put some pressure on him so that he wasn't able to just run away with it," said Irwin, who shot a 67 and was alone in second at 205.

Play was held up for 2 hours, 15 minutes by a severe afternoon thunderstorm that swept over the 7,173-yard south course at the Firestone Country Club, disrupted the national telecast of the event and delayed the finish until a few minutes before

Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner of this title, managed a 69 despite an uncertain and unreliable putter and led a group at 209, one under par and six back going

He was tied with Fuzzy Zoeller, Fred Couples and Bobby Clampett. Zoeller also had a 69, while Clampett and Couples

Defending World Series champion
Craig Stadler shot a 71 and was well back at 214. Hal Sutton, the PGA title-holder and the year's leading money-winner, and British Open champ Tom Watson were at 211, one over par. Watson had a 71 and Sutton matched par 70. U.S. Open

He had a 3-shot advantage when the day's play started and appeared poised for a runaway when he birdied three of the first-round holes.

He dropped a 15-foot putt on the first hole, 2-putted for birdie 4 on the second, then got a 5-iron shot within eight feet of the flag on the fourth and made the putt. A hooked drive on the ninth cost him a bogey, however, and he turned in 33. Another hook off the tee resulted in a bogey on the 14th and, despite his lead, he was struggling. He had to make a 15-footer to save par on the 15th, missed the green with a wedge and bogeyed the 16th, then pulled himself together with a 15-footer for birdie on the 17th.

Carvings part of mountain's attractions

Park's hidden assets rediscovered

Lifestyle Writer

Many residents walk around Scenic Mountain, Big Spring's state park, for exercise or an occasional stop at Prairie Dog Town or the summit's picnic area. Although these areas on the mountain are popular, several other points of interest exist.

Other interesting sites include the remains of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camp, carvings of a sun dial and crosses, a Spanish bench mark, a medicine man, coffin and pyramid, Spanish cross and code. A ranger station and cave also can be found on Nimerous names, initials and drawings dating back to the 1800's are found carved in the rocks, although several names were covered by the asphalt road.

The CCC camp was established in 1934 for men employed by the U.S. government during the depression. Ralph Proctor of Luther remembers his six months at the CCC camp.

"THE CIVILIAN CONSERVATION Corps was started under FDR's (Franklin Delano Roosevelt) administration for boys and men who didn't have a job during the depression," Proctor said. "They help to beautify parks.

"In order to get into the CCC, your parents had to show they owed a lot of money. The banker had to give a financial statement to the CCC officials. That's the only reason I got in. We had some bad crops and owed money to the bank.

"It was similar to the army," he said. "We had fatigues, similar to army uniforms, to work in. "If there had been a war, we would have been put in-to the services," he said. However, CCC men had no military training. While in the CCC, Proctor helped level and widen the road. "We had to dig back in the bank, and we had to load the truck by hand."

Other jobs he remembers were raking around the cedar trees, building the entrance to the park, and fixing rock trails for visitors to walk through park.

"It was something more or less to give the boys something to do," Proctor said. "We didn't work hard, but we worked eight hours a day.

"I was 20 years old. I kind of got homesick. There was nothing to do out there on the weekend. We went to the canteen, or we got a pass into town," he said.

"Our pay was very little. We made $30 a month.
They made us send $22.50 home, and we got to keep

No one knew for a while," Proctor said. "He didn't have money to buy glasses so we all chipped in and bought him some glasses.

"IT WAS A GOOD experience for me because I met some boys I would have never met otherwise," Proctor said. "I enjoyed it up to a point. Being confined to camp was the only boring part of it." The CCC workers recieved some benefits for their work. They were offered some classes. "We also got a special discount on movie passes. We got them for 15 cents." Then the movies were 25 cents.

Although the CCC camp has disappeared except for some rocks arranged to designate the area, the camp at one time had four barracks, a mess hall, an infirmiary and showers.

The sun dial and crosses, Spanish bench mark, coffin and pyramid, medicine man, and eagle are carvings left by unknown people. The eagle is carved on rock ground beside the park road near the park residents'

The ranger station consists of three rooms. The first com louses a nature exhibit. Park Ranger Charles Gray plans to use some donated pictures of Scenic Mountain to fill the second exhibit room. People wishing to donate pictures of earlier times at Scenic Mountain may contact Gray. The third room is the Animals such as the red fox, the gray fox, cottontail ossum, turkev and quail can be found in the park, according to Gray. State park regulations prohibits picking up arrowheads.

During the early years of Scenic Mountain State Park, people told of a cave that existed under the mountain. Instead of great caverns which people believed to exist, a smaller cave was found.

TWO CAVE OPENINGS, deemed unsafe by the CCC camp commander, were filled, according to state files. In the 1960s, then park ranger Byrl Cramer, with the help of Boy Scouts and local citizens, reopened one of the cave openings

The explorers found a large hole on top of Scenic Mountain with a sinkhole opening. From the opening it is a 45 feet drop to the floor. The length of the cave is 70 feet with the ceiling height varying from 2 feet to 22

BEAUTIFYING PARK — Civilian Conservation Corp members built rock structures and the road around Scenic Mountain as part of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt's plan to beautify parks during the 1930s.

MOUNTAIN CAVE — The opening of Scenic Mountain cave drops 45 feet to the passage way. The cave is closed to the public due to it being hazardous.

Later the cave was found to be dangerous, and an iron box was placed over it in 1969. Gray tells a story he has heard about two boys being unable to get out of the cave after climbing down into it. They remained in the cave until they were found late in the day.

Although the cave is closed to the public, Gray recently had a chance to explore it himself.

Heidrun Covington's hobby now money-making venture

Lifestyle Editor

Heidrun Covington's knitting has become a money-making hobby during the past three years. She never advertises. However, her daughters are like walking billboards when they wear the sweaters their mother knitted for them.

Knitting almost became Heidrun Covington's way of life. Heidrun has taught more than 60 Big Spring women the art of European knitting. A native of East Germany, she at age eight escaped to West Germany through the Iron Curtain in 1949.

Back in the 1940s and 1950s, East and West German schools required female students to learn all needlecrafts in order to clothe their families. They began in first grade and was the Communist regime decided there would be no rich or poor. "So everybody was poor because they took everything," she said. When her father refused to sign papers turn-ing over the family's property, he was forced to sign and was imprisoned for 3½ years in concentration camps and one year in a sanitarium. He escaped from the East Ger-man sanitarium to West Germany. A year later Heidrun and her mother escaped from East Germany to join her father in Stuttgart, West Germany.

"I didn't really knit all that much when I first came here until I had a family and knitted for the girls," she said in her English, riddled with a German accent.

In 1965 and 1966, at the invitation of Home Economics teachers, she taught students at Runnels and Goliad Junior High Schools how to knit. The older her daughters got the more she chauffeured them to Brownie, Girl Scouts and other extracurricular activities, and gave up her knitting for a time. "I thought I'd get started on it later," she said.

She taught her daughters, some of their friends and her Elbow Extension Club friends to knit. "I've been a guest at some of the other extension clubs to show them how," she said.

Three years ago, "When my girls got to be teenagers, they found sweaters they liked in books and said, 'Mother make this," she said. So Heidrun began knitting regularly again.

When her first grandson was born a year go, she went "haywire making afghans and hings for him." In a department store, the irst counter she goes to is yarn. "Then I'll sead for the other departments," she said.

"WHEN I STARTED making sweaters for the girls, the word got around that I could do stuff like that. And people started asking me to do stuff for them. That got me going and knitting and doing stuff. And I thought 'Hey, I can make some money doing this kind of stuff,'" she said with a chuckle.

"I've even had a lady come from Amarillo that heard about me and she sent me yarn from New Zealand, undyed sheep's wool." She made the woman two sweaters.

One day she walked into Quilt Box and Yarn Shop to shop for yarn. She talked to Sharon Shanks, owner, about knitting and told her the European style of knitting was much faster than the American way. The difference is in the way the needles are held.

"And she asked me if I would consider teaching there. I didn't think I was good enough to do it, but I did it. I guess I've done some good. No one has stabbed me with their needles," she said, laughing. Heidrun taught six classes at the store before it closed.

'You can see me in line at the drive-in window at the bank knitting," she said. Some peo-ple look at her as if she's crazy sometimes, she says, but she takes her knitting everywhere she goes.

She also learned to coordinate her knitting she also learned to coordinate her knitting with the bumps in the road when she accompanies her husband, now a truck driver, on trips. This coordination keeps her from losing stitches. Knitting keeps her occupied. With knitting she feels as if she isn't wasting time sitting and doing nothing on these trips or when watching TV.

Heidrun will continue teaching knitting as long as people continue wanting to learn. "I

Britain tour planned

BETTY BOB BUCKLEY, a former Big Spring resident whose daughter, BETTY LYNN BUCKLEY, is starring in "Cats" on Broadway, will be in Big Spring Tuesday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Buckley and SANDRA BLOXOM will be hosting an English tea at the Country Club. The women are working on a Great Britain tour, slated for October or November, and anyone who is interested in the tour is invited to attend the English

The tea is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Betty Bob worked at the Big Spring Herald before she married ERNEST BUCKLEY, who was a student at the Big Spring Bombardier School. Ernest is now dean of engineering at a university in South Dakota, and the Buckleys are planning to move to South Dakota after Labor Day. They have been residents of the Fort Worth-Arlington area for many years, and Ernest taught at the University of Texas at Arlington.

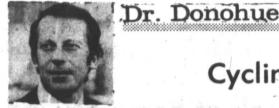

Daughter Betty Lynn is starring as Grizabella in the musical "Cats," and in May won a Tony award for her efforts. You may also remember Betty Lynn as Abbey in the series "Eight is Enough." Betty Lynn was born at Hall-Bennett Hospital, but grew up in Fort Worth.

While FELECIA FORD was giving up her Texas America's Perfect Teen crown in San Antonio earlier this month, she was being eyed by some production company representatives from Austin. The representatives offered her the opportunity to appear as America's Perfect Teen on various TV commercials until she gives up her crown in October. Following that, she will continue to model for TV commercials as herself.

"I'm kind of excited about it," she said, 'but it hasn't really hit me yet. When I do it it will, I guess. I've always wanted to do commercials and be an actress." In addition to her modeling for commercials, she will sing in some that requires singing.

Cycling shoes are a good investment

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it OK to wear sneakers for bike riding? — G.M.P.

It's not if you're a serious cyclist. It's OK for casual biking if you're not going great distance. But if you're pedaling for any distance or with any regularity, then an investment in a pair of good cycling shoes would be worthwhile. As you will become painfully aware, the edges of pedals tend to dig into shoes (and soles of and fingers. When you feet as well). Good cycling shoes have rigid soles especially fabricated to absorb these pressures. And they are low-cut, so there is no chance of blisters from heel contact. If you cycle very much (unless you

Prepare for the fall vegetable garden

A fall garden often produces better quality and higher yielding vegetables than a spring-

Cooler weather means a longer harvest period for several of your favorite vegetables. Lettuce and leafy greens are usually sweeter and more tender. Lettuce, collards, spinach, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and swiss chard can be an enjoyable part of your Thanksgiving, and maybe even Christmas feast.

A fall garden requires careful planning. Planting must be timed to allow frostsensitive vegetables to mature and be harvested before frost. Those which will tolerate frost can be planted for harvesting to continue after the first fall frost.

Vegetables adapted to fall gardens can be divided into four groups by their tolerance to freezing temperatures.

Some warm-season vegetables adapted to fall gardens — but killed by frost — are snap beans, southern peas, summer and winter squash, cucumbers, sweet corn and early maturing pepper and tomato varieties.

The second group includes cool-season crops usually damaged by light frost when mature, such as lettuce, cauliflower, kohlrabi, celery, and broccoli. The third group contains those which are moderately tolerant of repeated light frosts: cabbage, carrots, parsnip, beets, Brussels sprouts, endive, radishes, rutabagas and Members of the fourth group, which tolerate night after night of freezing and might even survive a mild winter, include bulb onions, green onions, chives, garlic, leeks, multiplier onions, shallots, spinach, parsley, collards, and kale. Seed of snap beans, baby lima beans, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, collards, chard, sweet corn, cucumbers and summer squash planted in late summer will produce crops ready for harvest before the first fall frost. Beets, kohlrabi, leaf lettuce and spinach seed planted in late summer will likewise provide abundant fall harvests. Mustard greens, radishes, and turnips planted in early to late summer and early fall will make it to the table in October and November.

Gardeners have several choices for starting their fall gardens. Summer vegetable seedlings require constant attention. Sowing seed in the garden in summer is one choice but will require repeated irrigation and careful attention to pest control. It's often easier to start seedlings of tomatoes, peppers, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels spourts and parsley in boxes or pots of potting soil, culture them in protected areas, and transplant them to the garden when four to six weeks old.

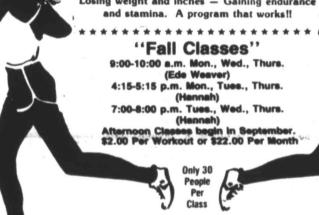

A third choice to help fall gardeners is to buy transplants of these vegetables at local nurseries to set in the garden at the right time. Now is the time to get ready for a produc-

Working women take a look at home sewing

Today's working woman has a dilemma - her busy lifestyle demands a wellrounded wardrobe, but her paycheck is gobbled up by food, housing and transportation costs.

Yet the working woman can stick to her budget and also be well-dressed if she will sit down and sew.

"Easy for them to say," says the working woman who hasn't thought about sewing since she made an apron in the seventh grade. And what about the working woman who owns a ability or time to sew? Home sewing has changed greatly in recent years. Anyone who fumbled over the fundamentals so long ago should take a second look. Sewing today can be enjoyable, easy, efficient and economical.

Fabric, pattern and notion companies have streamlined sewing to make it adaptable to busy working women.

Fabric companies have concentrated on blending natural and man-made fibers into fabrics which sewing machine, but are easy to work with, care doesn't think she has the for and wear. Today's problem and don't want to ask anybody else because it is too embarrassing. I have an 8-year-old son and I am not sure who his father is. It's either my husband or his brother. As you can probably guess, I had an affair with my husband's brother. He's now happily married, and there is nothing between us, but I have to know whether he is my son's father or not. My husband and his brother look a lot alike and my son resembles both of them.

How can I find out for sure without making any trouble? If my husband ever found out I was asking such a question, he would kill me, so please print your answer.

MY SECRET DEAR SECRET: Please, do your whole family a favor and assume that your husband is the father of your son. In order to determine paternity you would need the cooperation of both your brother-in-law, who is now happily married, and your husband, who is happily without

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday my niece and I attended a lavish wedding. I was served an enormous steak and was able to eat only a small portion of it. It was especially delicious - too good to throw out - so I asked the waiter for a "doggie" bag and he obliged willingly.

should I give him an ultimatum — either he goes for counseling and learns how to be a proper father, or the children and I are leaving? CLEVELAND MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your husband needs counseling, but don't give him an ultimatum or you might force a decision that would be unfortunate for all concerned. You and the children should have family counseling to learn how to handle a very ignorant, misguided and possibly unstable man. In time, it is to be hoped, your husband will join the family counseling session.

To avoid the monotony of the brown bag lunch, vary sandwich fillings and bread. Wholewheat, bran and pita bread add extra nutrition as well as provide a change.

Occasionally forget the sandwich and try soups, stews or spaghetti. Widemouthed, insulated jars make it easy to carry a hot lunch from the home.
