BECOMING RESPECTABLE — Rodney Dangerfield, shown during a scene from Easy Money, is in great danger of becoming respectable. Popular record albums, beer commercials and TV appearances threaten to discredit his comedy routine introduction, "I don't get any respect."

A little respect... for a star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He is starring in his own movie. His record album won a Grammy Award. He's a hit in beer commercials, cover boy for Rolling Stone and Johnny Carson has invited him back 56 times.

Will Rodney Dangerfield crab his own act by becoming too respectable? "I don't think so," replies the comedian. "Look at Charlie Chaplin. No matter how rich and famous he got, he was still the tramp. Same with Jack Benny. He was always the tightwad."

And Rodney Dangerfield seems secure in the guise of world-class loser. He plays the role with great skill in Orion Pictures' late summer release, Easy Money. He even has a single record coming out next month. The title, of course, is "No Respect."

Among the quips on the record: "Steaks and sex, my favorite dishes, and I get 'em the same way: rare ... I asked my doctor how I could stop aging; he gave me a gun ... I got a kidney-shaped pool — with a stone in it ... I called Suicide Prevention. They put me on hold."

Easy Money is currently playing at the Cinema II in Big Spring.

Still, Dangerfield can be serious — especially when he talks about the miserable childhood in Queens, N.Y., that contributed to his sense of inferiority.

"It was always the money thing with me," he recalled. "When I was 6 years old, I was selling magazines. At 16, I was working in a newsstand. I was also delivering groceries. So I was going to the back door of the homes of kids I went to school with."

"I didn't play tennis, like the other kids. I played football without shoulder pads, so my bones got bruised. I had no father at home, and in those times, kids put you down if you had no father."

MORGAN BRITTANY
... 'Dallas' star

Little girl to bad girl

Morgan Brittany on second career

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Morgan Brittany is an actress who has had two separate and distinct acting careers.

The blue-eyed, reddish-haired Miss Brittany is presently known as "bad girl" Katherine Wentworth on CBS' "Dallas" and was actress Vivien Leigh in "Gable and Lombard," "Day of the Locust" and "Moviola."

She's also widely known for her commercials. She's the worldwide representative for L'Oreal cosmetics, and has done commercials for Ultra-Brite.

But before that — before she was even Morgan Brittany — she had a busy career as a child actress.

"I was Suzanne Cupito then and I made my debut at the age of five with Lloyd Bridges in 'Sea Hunt,'" she said.

"I was on 'Gunsmoke' and I did 'The Twilight Zone' three times. I guess the most memorable one, the one they show on television all the time, was the one with Jackie Cooper as an out-of-work ventriloquist who had a dummy that could talk on his own. When he started stealing, I turned him in and ran off with his dummy. That was the only mean character I ever played until 'Dallas.'"

IN COLLEGE — California State University in Northridge — she did only modeling and commercials. During that time, she also changed her appearance.

"I was a skinny little squirt," she says. "I always looked five years younger, which was great for the commercials."

After getting a degree in journalism, she tried to get back into acting, but people remembered the skinny little kid and nobody wanted to see her.

"So when I grew up, people who knew me as Suzanne Cupito couldn't think of me as a grownup," she said. "Back then, too, if you had an ethnic name they tended to typecast you. I had to eliminate that name."

By chance she picked up a copy of Frank Yerby's book "Floodtide" and in the first chapter she found a character named Morgan Brittany. She changed her name 13 years ago, and the producers who knew her as a child seldom ever made the connection.

MISS BRITTANY'S HUSBAND is Jack Gill, stunt coordinator for NBC's "Knight Rider."

Cuba in the '80s

Bikinis and Bolsheviks on a tropical island

Blond and black beach beauties parade down the sands east of Havana, their bikini-clad bodies bouncing with peculiar Caribbean rhythm in tempo to rock music blaring from nearby radios tuned to Florida stations.

Teen-agers dressed in designer jeans buzz the tourists around the Hotel Capri offering two pesos for one dollar, the official exchange rate in Cuba's semi-official black market.

A Sephardic synagogue in Havana's crumbling ciudad antigua proudly displays a portrait of Castro between smaller pictures of Maimonides and Herzl.

Farmers turn their fields with ox-drawn plows. The Tropicana dancing girls and bongo-brass bands entertain nightly, two shows running late into the early morning. And the hot water in the supermodern Hotel Triton overlooking the ocean never quite makes the ascent to my 16th floor room.

No. 1 of a six-part series

"Cuba? Don't worry about it," a friend said, trying to ease my anxieties about a one-week late-July press tour of Castro's island. "It's just Southern Florida gone communist."

A QUARTER-CENTURY after "the triumph of the revolution," the pieces of Cuba, like a jagged jigsaw puzzle, just don't seem to fit easily together.

"After the triumph of the revolution" is the stock phrase of Cuban officials and propagandists guiding curious Yanquis through the bewildering contradiction that is Cuba of the '80s. Every speech, lecture and explanation is rhetorically divided into two parts: "Before the triumph of the revolution" and "After the triumph of the revolution." Everything good about Cuba was created "after the triumph of the revolution," and everything bad about Cuba is a remnant of "before the triumph of the revolution."

Hundreds of miles away in front of hundreds of thousands of faithful assembled in Santiago de Cuba, Castro ascends the podium to glory in the revolution, harangue the United States and promise victory to comrades in El Salvador.

The celebration — 26 July — marks the 30th anniversary of the attack on the Moncada Fortress, a suicidal assault by Castro and a ragged small band of companeros on a government outpost which got most of the attackers killed and landed El Jefe in Batista's jail.

Moncada, however, signaled the start of "the triumph of the revolution." Thus the hoopla: the stores and offices close, the rum flows freely, the streets are gaily decorated and choked with dancing revolutionaries.

FOREIGN JOURNALISTS descend on the island, relaying images of the frenzy and delivering learned speculations on Cuba's future.

The island's path into the '80s is paved and illuminated by its Moscow mentor, who has lost all shyness about his presence in a land 90 miles from the U.S. Across the street from the Triton the Soviets are constructing a massive embassy complex complete with a skyscraper office building, multi-decked housing quarters and other less definable structures. And the "ugly Russian" is there, bullying and intimidating his host.

Twenty-two years ago, after the U.S.-engineered Bay of Pigs invasion floundered, Castro sold his soul to the Soviet. Russian rubles float an island economy wrecked by shortages, inefficiencies and bungling. For this assistance, Castro pays a price. Cuban soldiers fall in Nicaragua, Angola and Eritrea. Where Moscow needs cheap blood, there is the Cuban.

Cuba is Russia's puppet, but it is not its clone. In the wake of the battalions come the Cuban doctors and teachers and engineers to mend the wounds, educate the illiterate and feed the poor. Cuba exports not only the Kalashnikov rifle. It also ships textbooks, medicine and food to Central America and Africa.

Cuba can afford this benevolence because it has made very real social progress since "the triumph of the revolution."

A WORLD AWAY — A giant portrait of Che Guevara dominates Revolution Square in Havana.

Modern medicine and advanced education are free and accessible under Castro's socialism. Illiteracy and hunger are relics of Batista's island paradise. Sanitation, electrification and communications now extend throughout the island.

Shortages of meat, housing and building materials plague the land, but the country has a surplus of physicians and professors. Not a bad record for a 30-year-old junta.

YET, THE CONTRADICTIONS linger. Pilots patrol in MiG-25 jets while peasants huddle in thatched-roof shacks. Soldiers rumble in Soviet-made tanks while taxi drivers maneuver Havana's corners in 1957 Chevrolets. The beach beauties bounce to the beat of the Rolling Stones while the national television station broadcasts its daily feature on capitalist See Cuba, Page 2A

ON THE BEACH — A Cuban beach beauty poses for a curious American journalist on the beach east of Havana. Rock 'n' roll and bikinis dominate the island's surf culture.

Ex-Texan on Korean jet

DEL RIO — Residents of this South Texas city on Friday mourned the almost certain death of a former neighbor who was aboard the doomed South Korean airliner that was reported shot down over Soviet airspace.

Rebecca Beal Scruton, 28, was aboard the unarmed 747 passenger plane en route to Seoul, South Korea to visit her parents, friends and relatives said. U.S. officials said the jumbo jet was destroyed by a Soviet heat-seeking missile Wednesday.

Del Rioans watched televised reports in shock Thursday evening as they saw their former neighbor and Mrs. Scruton's father, Robert Beal, among the crowd at the Seoul airport awaiting the arrival of the 269 people aboard the plane.

Beal, who works with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, was transferred to Seoul from Del Rio.

Army sweeps Moslem Beirut

BEIRUT — Lebanese Army troops rounded up militia suspects in sweeps through Moslem west Beirut Friday, and the troubled city's Christian sector staged a general strike to protest what it said was a massacre of Christians by Druse gunmen in a nearby mountain village.

Backed by tanks, troops led away truckloads of detainees from west Beirut neighborhoods as armed personnel patrolled the mostly Moslem sector.

As the Lebanese army strengthened its control of west Beirut, other U.S.-trained units completed their deployment in east Beirut and set up checkpoints in that Christian sector of the capital, according to an army communique on state-run Beirut Radio.

The deployment in east Beirut apparently was an attempt to prove President Amin Gemayel's government was not biased in favor of the Rightist Christian Phalange Party operating in that sector.

Drought state officials meet

CHICAGO — U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block met Friday with officials from 28 states to discuss the drought of 1983, the worst in the Midwest since the Dust Bowl of 1936, with damages estimated at $7 billion.

Block, who has his own farm near Galesburg, Ill., with 2,000 acres of corn and 1,000 acres of soybeans, inspected some fields in Illinois and Missouri on Thursday and said he was sympathetic.

Governors and members of Congress from 28 states were invited to Friday's closed meeting at a hotel near O'Hare International Airport.

The states included Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Astronauts, rats healthy

CAPE CANAVERAL — The Challenger astronauts went about their serious scientific investigations Friday while their fellow passengers — six white, pink-eyed rats — were "giving all indications of being healthy animals."

Commander Richard Truly dropped the space shuttle's orbit 54 miles closer to Earth, to an altitude of 138 miles, and turned the ship's cargo bay into their direction of travel. That exposed 300 different materials in their cargo bay to a blizzard of atomic oxygen molecules that exist just outside the fringe of Earth atmosphere.

Braniff gets OK to fly

FORT WORTH — News that Braniff International has won a bankruptcy court's approval to put some of its grounded jets back in the air brought responses ranging from excitement to nonchalance.

Officials and Braniff's former workers were ecstatic at the prospects of a revived Braniff, but competitors were more subdued.

The Chicago-based Hyatt Corp. plans to put Braniff back in the air with 2,000 former Braniff employees and 30 jets. Hyatt agreed to give Braniff $70 million in cash and loan guarantees in exchange for 80 percent of the new airline's stock.

5 tax clerks indicted

FORT WORTH — A grand jury Friday returned indictments against five former Tarrant County tax office clerks in connection with disappearance of county auto registration funds.

The grand jury also is trying to determine if Tarrant County Tax Assessor-Collector Reed Stewart attempted to cover up his employees' alleged wrongdoing, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Stewart and his chief deputy, W.A. "Joe" Corthay, were aware of the thefts before the investigation but did not report them to authorities, the Star-Telegram said, quoting an unidentified source close to the investigation.

And there is the vicious propaganda against America — unceasing, everpresent hate.

As the world's attention focuses on the tumult in Central America, Cuba takes the limelight. It is Moncada all over again. Thirty years after the beginning of "the triumph of the revolution," the struggle, the fighting continue.

The legacy and impulse of the revolution, the prodding and provocation of the Soviets — all are leading Castro to the desperate assault.

As Cuba enters the '80s, the Caribbean island is headed toward a reckless rendezvous with the United States.

shot on "The Dukes of Hazzard" and he was stunt double for John Schneider. "We started talking," she said, "and I don't think we'd known each other for 30 minutes when he asked me to marry him. I said yes right away. I thought he was kidding. Six months later we were married."

The 31-year-old Miss Brittany got into "Dallas" in 1981 when she answered a call for an actress to play the half-sister of Pam Ewing (Victoria Principal). "They were looking for a new character, but they didn't know what she would be like," she said. "When I walked in the door, they said that was it. I was on for half a season in 1981 but after that, they didn't know what to do with Katherine. They didn't know whether to make her good or bad so I went on to other things. Then they called me back and made her a major character. "Katherine is a bad girl," she says. "But the writers are not making me like any other villainess on 'Dynasty' or 'Falcon Crest.' Katherine is so lovable and sweet. But the minute you turn your back, look out. They based her on Eve Harrington in 'All About Eve.' She's devious and will stop at nothing to get what she wants." Since she operates behind people's backs, only the conniving J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman) is on to her.

Rodney

As an escape, he started writing jokes at 15. He eventually tried vaudeville as Jack Roy. His real name Jacob Cohen. At 28, he married a singer and became a paint salesman.

At 40, he decided he wanted to be a comic. Four years later, he auditioned successfully for the "Ed Sullivan Show," then scored with Johnny Carson.

With his career ascending, he quit the comedy circuit to run a restaurant and club in Manhattan.

"Because of a domestic situation, I was left with two kids... to bring up," he said. "For nine years, I took no jobs. When my kids were 13 and 17, I decided I had done what I could for them, and I went back to work."

"Now my daughter, Melanie, is going to college in Boston and my son, Brian, just graduated from N.Y.U. (New York University). Do I regret those lost years? What's more important — trying to guide your kids or making people laugh?"

Now 61, Rodney Dangerfield is earning a fortune by making people laugh. But does that bring happiness?

"Yeah," he said dubiously, "It's nice to be a success at last. But your guts still remember all that stuff from when you were young."

After doing the film, "Caddyshack," in 1980 with Chevy Chase and Bill Murray, Dangerfield had a number of offers.

"The best seemed to be from Orion, which had released 'Caddyshack.' They told me to come up with an idea and take it from there," Dangerfield said. "So I got some collaborators and the idea came."

"During my whole life, I've been trying to moderate my drinking, my overeating, my smoking. So we devised this character who drinks too much, smokes too much, uses pills and gambles his money away. Then we created a situation in which he has to give up all those things."

The script, which Dangerfield wrote with Michael Endler, P.J. O'Rourke and Dennis Blair, portrays him as a luckless baby photographer who can earn a fortune if he gives up all his bad habits for a year.

Open beaches declared after storm

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox said Friday that city and county officials on the Gulf Coast have been warned that some houses, bulkheads and other structures may not be rebuilt because Hurricane Alicia shifted the vegetation line.

"I recognize that Hurricane Alicia was a catastrophe for our state," Mattox said in a letter mailed Thursday, "but we cannot allow the short-term losses to beachfront home owners to become long-term losses to the beach-going public."

Under the Open Beaches Act the area of public beach is the area between mean low tide up to the line of natural vegetation.

Task force members said about 300 houses on the west end of Galveston Island would be affected.

Weather

Showers soak South Texas

By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and heavy thunderstorms soaked parts of Southeast Texas Friday afternoon while isolated thundershowers dotted far South Texas and the Coastal Plains.

The rest of the state enjoyed partly cloudy skies under the influence of a weak high pressure area.

Late afternoon readings peaked in the 90s over most of Texas with a few readings along the coast in the 80s. The coolest point Friday afternoon was Palacios, at 84, while high temperatures of 97 were recorded at Del Rio, Alice and Laredo.

WEST TEXAS — Fair and hot, with isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers, mainly in the Southwest. Highs in the mid 90s in the mountains and near 100 in the Panhandle to near 100 in the Big Bend. Lows in the 60s, except in the mid 70s in the Big Bend.

NORTH TEXAS Partly cloudy. Lows in the mid 60s to around 70. Highs in the 90s to around 100.

Two car lots burgled

Big Spring police are investigating two burglaries at local auto sales businesses.

Rayford Gillihan, owner of Gillihan Motors at 821 W. Fourth, told police three parked vehicles on the lot were broken into between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday.

He said the batteries were stolen from all three cars. Total loss was estimated at $233.

Benny Hatfield, owner of Auto Sales Market of 905 W. Fourth, said four tires and four rims were removed from a parked vehicle between 6 p.m. Thursday and 7:55 a.m. Friday. He estimated the loss at $600.

Hatfield reported a $250 stereo was stolen from a car on the lot Wednesday night.

In another incident, Herb Paul of Kilgore, Texas, told police a $3,000 shotgun was stolen from his room at the Mid Continent Inn.

Wrestler files suit over toup

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — A professional wrestler who paid $750 for a dark brown toupee has filed a $200,000 lawsuit claiming he suffered "emotional distress" when the wig was ripped from his head during a recent televised bout.

Steven A. Grabowski, 28, of Lawrence, who goes by the ring names of Steve Thunder and Steve Gray, alleges that he was assured that the "lifetime hair-piece" would be just that.

Grabowski's lawyer, Carl Berger, said the hair of the toupee was strung through ringlets and bound to his own hair with a super glue.

The suit said Grabowski had lost much of his own hair to ring opponents and felt that was damaging his career. He got the toupee June 18 and changed his professional name to Steve Gray. However, an opponent yanked off the wig four days later in a bout in Allentown, Pa., that was taped for television.

Graham Parker: Words to live by Graham Parker, The Real McCaw, Arista Records.

Backed by Rumour guitarist Brinsley Schwarz and an energetic studio band, Graham Parker has made a solid album about the twists and turns of love.

Propelled by the stinging guitar of Schwarz and solid rhythm work of bassist Kevin Jenkins and drummer Gilson Lewis, Parker lets his voice soar to old emotional heights found on earlier albums such as Squeezing Out Sparks and Heat Treatment.

Parker, who used to rail against the boredom, madness and stupidity in the world, has now set his sights on relationships and marriage.

The recently married Parker is now singing about the joys of love, but he hasn't become maudlin about this powerful emotion. He is saying love can be good, but it's serious business. One must be prepared for the problems and tensions a lifelong relationship can bring, and if a couple can beat back the bad times, love is worth it.

However, the best song on the album is "Passive Resistance," a sad anthem about our routine-deadened world. Parker wails about all the consultants and demographics that have categorized people, leaving them no room for spontaneity.

Parker sings these all too true words, "It's all program by program. You're just a nail underneath their hammers. And it breaks my heart to know there's no heart in that."

Perhaps Parker is trying to point out to us that individual relationships are about all we have left. And he's telling us to make the most of it before we forget how to love and feel.

Ways the Kids Can Celebrate Happy Grandparents Day

In 1978, Congress set aside the first Sunday after Labor Day as Grandparents Day.

Although it is called Grandparents Day, the purpose is to honor all older citizens.

To find out more about how this day should be celebrated, The Mini Page talked with the 66-year-old grandmother who started it, Mrs. Marian McQuade of Oak Hill, W.Va.

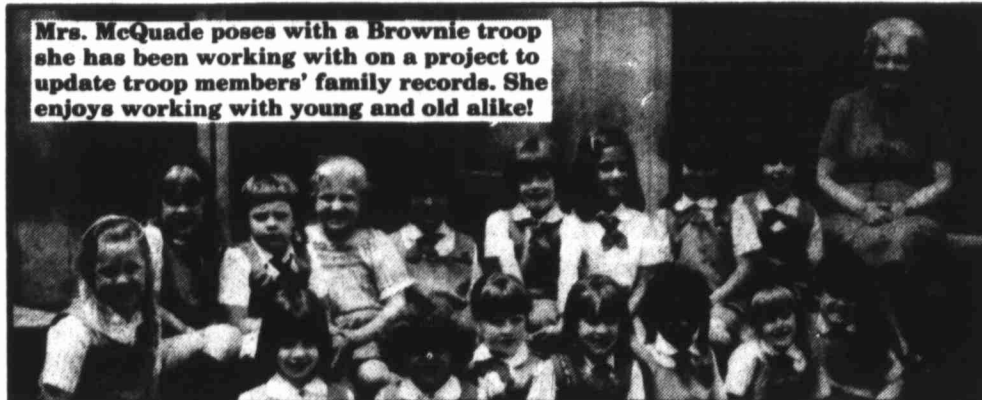

Mrs. McQuade is not encouraging the giving of store-bought gifts.

"The cards and gifts I prize the most from my children and grandchildren were handmade," she said.

"The main thing to do is to give grandparents and all older people love, concern and interest. These are gifts you can't buy," she added.

"If your grandparents are too far away, or no longer living, maybe you could visit a lonely neighbor or someone in a nursing home," she says.

Mrs. McQuade also hopes that this interest in older people will last all year long, not just on the special day she started.

Mrs. McQuade poses with a Brownie troop she has been working with on a project to update troop members' family records. She enjoys working with young and old alike!

The Founder

Mrs. Marian McQuade is the mother of 15 children and 18 grandchildren. Her husband, Joe, has been very successful in the coal-mining business. Although he did not take an active part in starting Grandparents Day, he did pay the expenses she had while promoting it. Mrs. McQuade worked very hard for five years to get this day set aside. She wrote many letters and traveled many miles.

Updating Family Records

Another purpose of Grandparents Day is to make kids aware of the valuable information grandparents can pass on — especially family information.

"Help your grandparents label and date all their family pictures," suggests Mrs. McQuade.

Mrs. McQuade also gave us a list of questions you might ask your grandparents. You can tape their answers and later write them in a "My Family" notebook.

Grandparents are very interesting people.

Here are just a few questions. Can you think of more?

— Do you remember your first teacher?

— Was there any relative who told you stories?

— How did you earn your allowance?

— How did you meet my grandmother (or grandfather)?

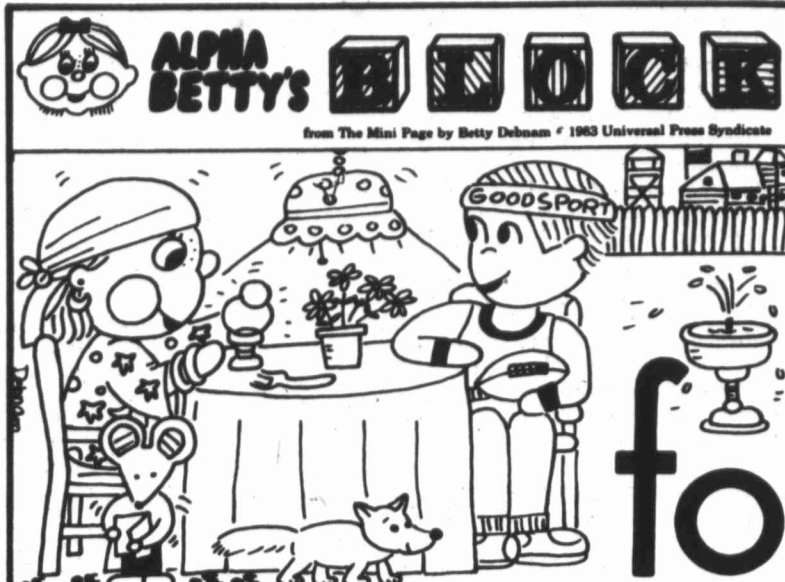

— Who did you vote for president the first time you voted?

— What did you do for recreation when you were growing up?

— What were your hobbies?

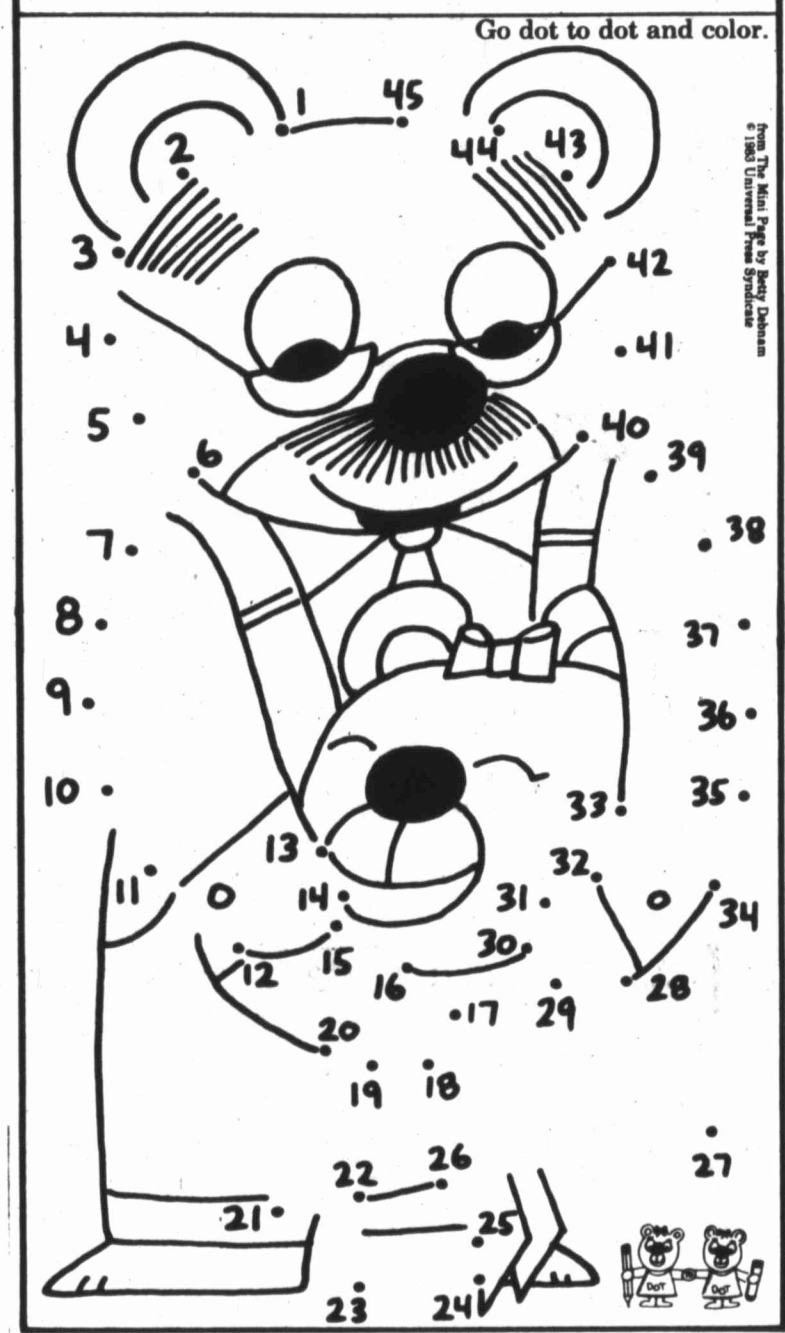

"Remember, everyone is a grandchild," says Mrs. McQuade.

Alpha Betty likes to pretend she's a fortuneteller. How many other words beginning with FO can you find?

Answers: four, fort, football, foot, fox, footprints, fort, fountain, fold.

The U.S. population is growing older.

- In 1900, about four out of every 100 persons were 65 years and older.
- Today, about 11 out of every 100 persons are 65 years and older.
- The average age at which a woman becomes a grandparent is 54.
- For men, the average age is 57. How old are your grandparents?

PUZZLE & LE-DO

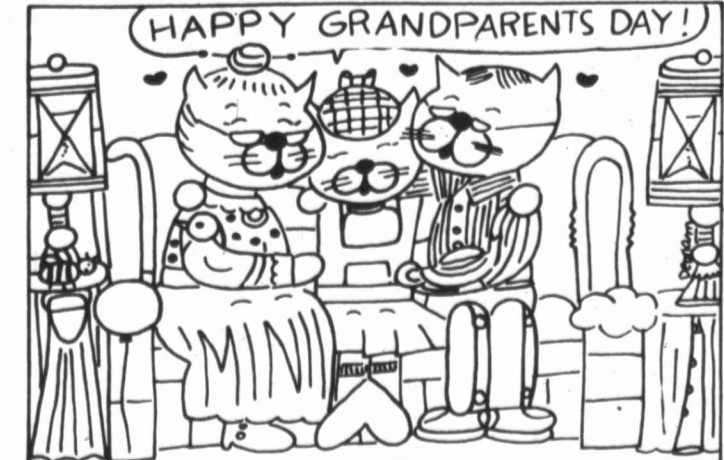

Peter Penguin's grandmother is holding some words about grandparents that are hidden in the sentences below. We have found the first one for you. See if you can find the rest.

Your Family Tree

Four generations — a grandmother, a great-grandmother, a mother and her two daughters — look at a family album. Grandparents can be a great help in telling you who is who in family pictures.

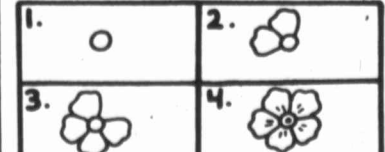

Genealogy (JEEN-ee-ALL-uh-gee) is the study of how families are related.

People studying it often make a pattern, or family tree, that traces relatives through the years.

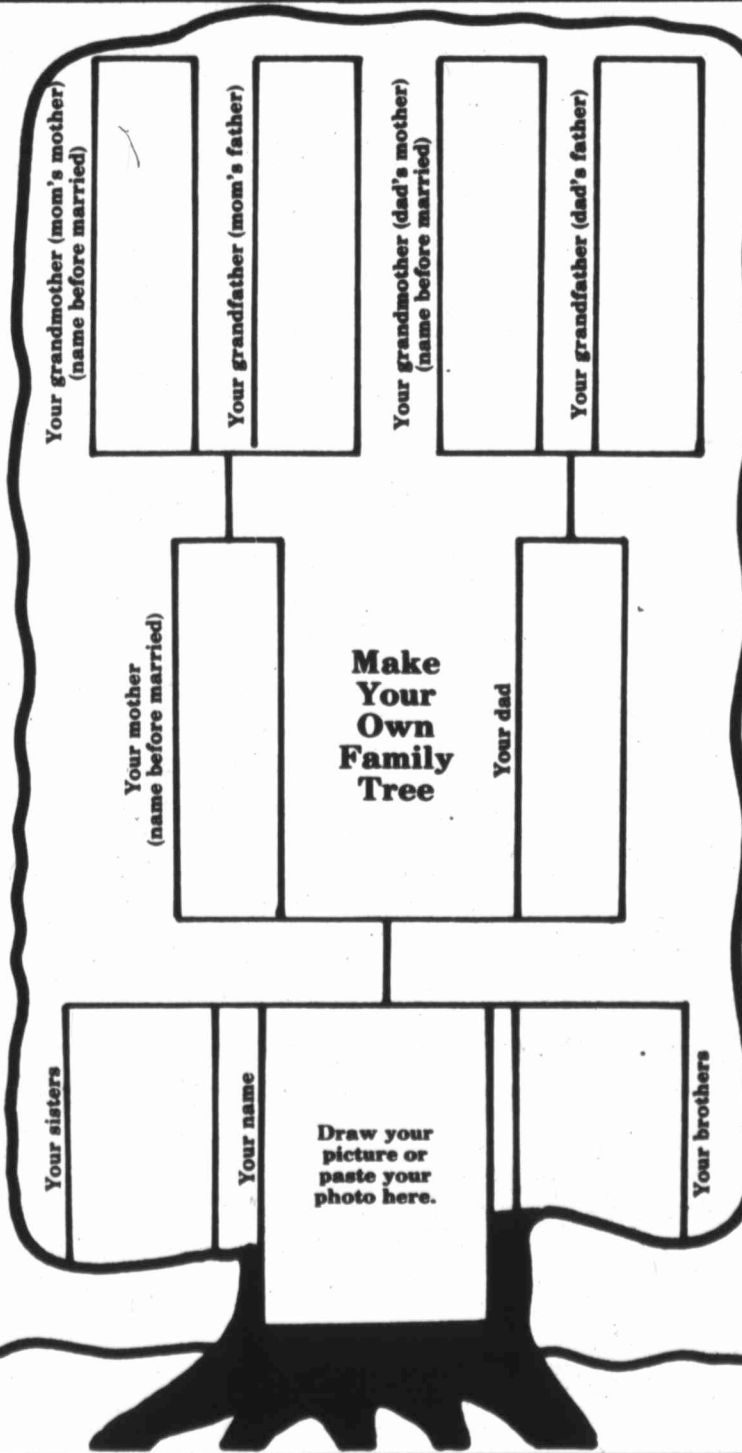

Why don't you make your own family tree?

Forget-me-nots

Maybe you would like to decorate your grandparents' cards with forget-me-nots. Here's how to draw one!

These flowers grow in clusters!

Make a Chalkboard Grandparents Day Card

- You'll need:
- 2 sheets construction paper (one dark, one light)
 - glue
 - crayons
 - facial tissue
 - string (12 inches long)
 - stapler

What to do:

1. Cut 2 inches off top and one side of dark paper. Glue dark sheet in the middle of light sheet.
2. Use crayons to decorate border and write the message "I can't erase my love for you" on the dark sheet with a light-colored crayon.
3. Fold facial tissue into a small rectangle. Glue a piece of the leftover dark construction paper to the back.
4. Tie knots in the ends of the string and staple one end to tissue and other to chalkboard. (Knots should be behind staple, so string won't pull out.) One of Mrs. McQuade's children made this card for her.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A great day and evening for you to think big and to get big and especially where conservative interests and activities are concerned and a new approach at them as well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your creativity is high today and can make the best use of it and gain much happiness as well. Be with persons you really like.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy and improve the situation at home and show family your interest in it and your devotion to them.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study into that philosophy you like so much and become better in tune so that it can enrich your life more.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have some excellent ideas about how to have more prosperity in the future, so make a note of them early.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some clever ideas you have should be either pushed right now or placed with those who can carry through with them for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get some inspired ideas, either from meditation or other persons and plan your life more successfully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to be with persons who like you and deepen the relationship with them. Then concentrate on personal matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about those influential people who can best aid you in career work and plan to see them. Make better plans for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are intuitively guided for what is best for you to do today, and can also get into philosophical studies that are helpful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think and act constructively and be with persons who are progressive and mean something in your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being with individuals who get things done and have a healthy outlook on life is wise today. Get to know them better.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your surroundings more charming so that you can be happier in them and also please others more.

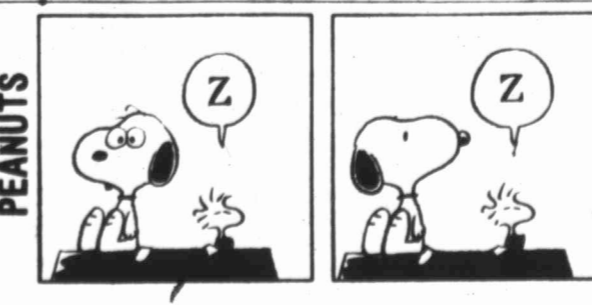

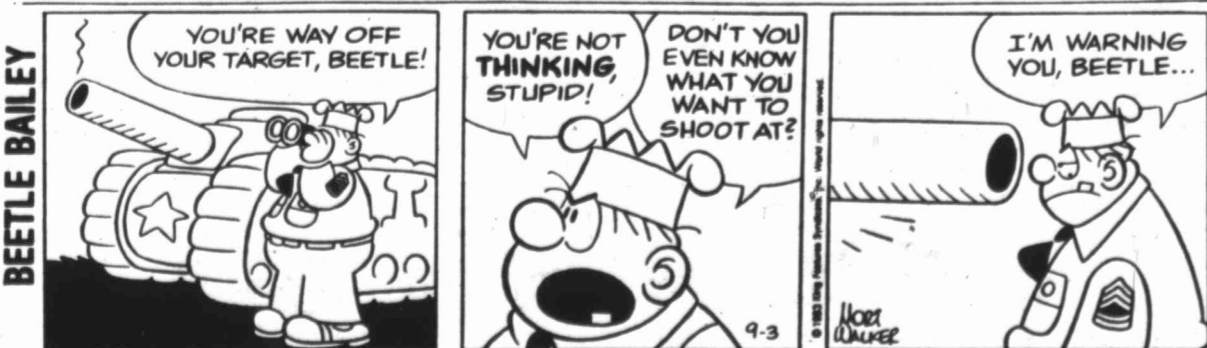

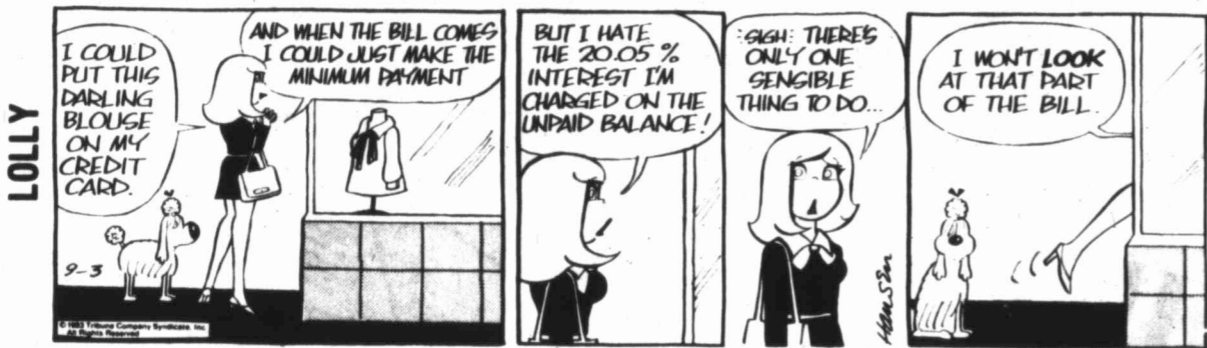

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can view everything from its best light and be able to accomplish more than others with relative ease and can reach the top of his, or her profession, provided you give a fine education.

Peggy Lee rehearsing for play

NEW YORK (AP) — About five years ago, a blonde, smoky-voiced, famous singer from Jamestown, N.D., began her autobiography. Alas, she sighs, "it began to be so long and tedious and" — she chuckles — "grim."

"It occurred to me to take bits out of it and do a musical instead."

The singer: Peggy Lee. The musical: "Peg," about both the bad times and the good times in her life and career. It's propelled by 29 songs, some her hits of yesteryear, others new tunes written for the show.

It's scheduled to premiere in November. And it'll be her Broadway debut in three respects — as a lyricist, co-author and star. The star part wasn't in her original plan.

"I didn't intend to be in it at all originally," says Miss Lee, a shy, soft-spoken woman. "I was writing it for someone else to do."

That changed when she invited Irv and Margie Cowan, friends who own the Hotel Diplomat in Florida, to a party at her Beverly Hills home. Someone urged her to sing a bit of the score from the work-in-progress.

"They loved it," she reports. "They said, 'We'd like to produce it.'" Then they summoned Broadway producer Zev Bufman to hear it. He also flipped, and asked to co-produce it. All insisted she be the star.

Which is how it comes to pass that when interviewed, Miss Lee, clad in a red turban and sunglasses, is busy rehearsing for her debut as the star of a Broadway musical.

"Naturally, we're only touching the highlights because I've lived a very active life and been around for a while," she says with a gentle smile.

Once described by jazz critic Gene Lees as "the most consistently intelligent female singer of popular music in America," she's been around since the late '30s, when she broke in as a teenager, singing on small radio stations back home in North Dakota.

Her name was Norma Jean Egstrom then. Ken Kennedy, a program director on a station in Fargo, suggested she change her name to Peggy Lee. She did.

And as Peggy Lee she became a star in 1941, when she cut her first hit, "Why Don't You Do Right," with Benny Goodman's band.

The session only earned her $10. But she has no gripes. "I don't like to dwell on that, because you see what that song has done for me? And Benny taught me so much. Like the value of rehearsing."

"And integrity with your music. He really dedicated himself to it. I think his whole life is music. As is mine."

At last report, her life in music includes the recording of 59 albums and 631 songs.

Songs like the finger-popping "Fever," the joyful "It's a Good Day," the sassy "Big Spender," the roaring Latino treatment of Richard Rodgers' "Lover," the wistful "Is That All There Is," to list a few.

A gifted lyricist, she also has collaborated on songwriting with some pretty fair tunesmiths, folks like Johnny Mercer, Duke Ellington, Victor Young, and Broadway's Cy Coleman — the last a longtime friend who's again working with her, this time as artistic consultant on "Peg."

Keeping up with demand

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

With the beginning of the school year, the demands on the library shift into high gear. Over the summer our young patrons were interested in reading for pleasure, but soon they will be requesting material for school reports. Frequently, students descend upon the library asking for certain kinds of books, and before long we run low on our supply of books on American Indians or the solar system, for instance. While we try to do our best to exhaust our sources for information on a particular subject, we are at a loss when most of the material has been removed by earlier patrons.

We would like to encourage area teachers who refer students to the library to notify us of their assignments when more than a few students are involved. The library staff will then be prepared for these students and be better able to serve them.

There are several ways we can be of help to teachers and students if the teachers let us know their plans. For a large project, books can be pulled from different sections of the library and shelved together to facilitate use.

If our supply of books in one area is limited or the demand is great by limiting check-out time to a shorter period instead of the usual three weeks, we can make those books available to more patrons.

Teachers can help us by merely telling us of the scope of the assignment or even giving us a copy of a suggested reading list so that it will be here for their students to refer to.

If a book is required reading, we will soon run out of our copies and be unable to meet the demand for that title. Forewarned, we could limit check-out time for that book, and in that way more students could use our copies

Dr. Donohue Best rebounds

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: As a basketball player, and not too tall one at that, I wonder if anyone has studied the best way to rebound? I'd like to get an edge on the big guys I have to play against. — F.F.

You can bet that anything to do with just about any sport, or any phase of any sport, has been studied, not once, but many times. I am certain basketball jumping is no exception. In fact I know it is no exception because two sports medicine specialists (Martin and Stull) have studied it and made the following recommendations for the best rebound jumping:

Your knees should be bent at an angle of 115 degrees. A 90-degree bend is when your lower legs and thighs make a right angle, the angle you get when you sit in a chair. The 115-degree angle would be a little bigger, like one you'd get if you sat on a slightly higher seat. There should be five to 10 inches separating the insides of your feet and the front foot should be five inches in front of the other.

The best jumpers push off with both feet. And when they complete a jump they land with feet as wide apart as possible. That helps sustain good balance. Now you don't have to get out a ruler to do all this. But they are good guides for style, just an idea of what's best.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My foot doctor came up with a helpful maneuver for my bunion. He had my shoes stretched for me. No more pressure. No more pain. — E.E.

Thanks for the tip. You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Singer fulfills dream

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When asked in the fifth grade back in Collin County, Texas, what he wanted to do when he grew up, country star Charlie Walker had a quick answer: "I want to sing on the Grand Ole Opry."

HONKY-TONK SOUND — Country singer Charlie Walker has made 25 albums and had 47 songs on the charts over a 25-year recording career, but he is best known for the honky-tonk sound.

He didn't go to the head of the class, but he did fulfill his ambition. Walker has been singing on the 57-year-old country music show since 1967.

Walker, 56, has been singing country music since age 17 when he performed in a Dallas honky-tonk where he was too young to drink the beer that flowed freely.

During his career, he recorded a million-seller, "Pick Me Up on Your Way Down," in 1958. He's made 25 albums and had 47 songs on the charts over a 25-year career.

He was the first to broadcast country music in Japan during World War II. Twenty years ago, he was one of the first country music singers to perform in Las Vegas. Now he's heard by millions every weekend on the Opry radio broadcast.

Down through the years, Walker has become known for performing the honky-tonk sound that grew out of the Texas bars, since he'd spent many hours singing — and ducking — in such places.

"The GI's and the truck drivers used to get to fighting," he recalled. "We had an upright piano, and I was glad it was there. You could get behind it if you had to."

He became a Mormon 10 years ago. As part of his religion, he does not drink alcoholic beverages, but he still performs in clubs where liquor is served.

"I don't do as many of them now," says Walker, who in 1972 put out the album, "Charlie Walker, Break Out the Bottle."

From 1951-65, Walker was an award-winning country music disc jockey in San Antonio, Texas, mixing that with his recording career.

Just down the road in Pleasanton, Texas, was another disc jockey — Willie Nelson, who also sang.

"We became friends back then," Walker says. "He got a job with Ray Price, and we've had a friendship."

"He's doing basically the same thing he did 25 years ago, but he's more accepted now. Back then he was ahead of his time."

Walker has recorded several songs about honky-tonks: "Chase All the Honky-Tonkers," "Close All the Honky-Tonks," "Honky-Tonk Season" and "Honky-Tonk Women."

But he broke tradition in 1967 when he recorded a novelty record, "Don't Squeeze My Sharmon," a takeoff on an advertising line for a brand of toilet paper.

The spelling of the brand was changed to avoid legal trouble, but Walker said the company "loved it" and the song is one of his most-requested hits.

Nevertheless, he's still best known for the honky-tonk sound and he admires its honesty.

"It basically is the music of the working man — the blue collar worker who stops off at the bar on the way home and has a drink," he says. "It is the songs of everyday life."

"You can take old songs like 'Stardust' and they are fantasy songs. Country music comes from the heart; that's why it's been so successful and should last over a long period of time."

"But most any place you perform, they have alcoholic beverages," he says.

When he was 12, he traded a shotgun for a fiddle. He still has the fiddle, but wishes he had the shotgun, too.

"It was an L.C. Smith hammer gun," he recalled in an interview just hours after returning to Nashville from a country music festival in Rhinelander, Wis. "It's a real collector's item."

Walker was in Japan during World War II with the 8th Army Signal Corps Headquarters. After U.S. troops assumed control in Japan, Walker began broadcasting country music — a music form very foreign to that country.

"There was no compensation," Walker recalled. "I just did it because I wanted to, especially for the Southern boys who liked that kind of music."

Agent whiz at star selection

TOKYO (AP) — Seiko Matsuda was a toothy, 16-year-old teenybopper who "didn't know how to dress," when talent scout Hideyoshi Aizawa discovered her several years ago.

Today, she's Japan's hottest selling "talento" — a term that has little to do with the word talent, but everything to do with the commercial packaging of teen idols in Japan.

Aizawa is president of Sun Music, a music production, talent scout and booking agency that has been grinding out pop stars and pop tunes for the past 15 years.

Miss Matsuda was the first of what has become an unending stream of "burikko" performers — singers who affect a wide-eyed, innocent image. This is what currently appeals to Japan's junior high, high school and college students, who make up the largest, most lucrative market in the music industry, Aizawa said.

Now 21, Miss Matsuda still projects sweet innocence, and Aizawa is quick to mention that she still lives with her parents.

"It's best to get them when they're young," the 53-year-old starmaker says. "If you recruit them into show business at 14, they think about that alone ... It becomes their happiness. By 18 or 19, they've developed bad habits — like boyfriends."

The image of purity is important in Japan, particularly in this industry where a real-life romance spoils the fantasy and a hint of scandal can ruin a career.

Sun Music ordinarily gleans two or three new stars a year from over 10,000 photographs and cassette tapes sent from young hopefuls around the country.

Aizawa personally reviews 300 to 400 applicants and selects three or four to train for six months. Those who make it past a final screening test are plunged into a one-year intensive "talento" course in singing and dancing.

He picks up the tab for the first year, but if these fledglings show no promise, he drops them. "At least they have a good memory to take with them," he says.

Since the star formula stays the same, these bouncing, bopping teen-agers, who may appear on television as often as 25 times a month, are difficult for the casual observer to tell apart.

It was Miss Matsuda's smile that caught Aizawa's eye. "I thought it was just the right charm point," he said.

She had already begun singing professionally when Aizawa took personal control of her career. He had her teeth straightened, hired two people to take charge of her wardrobe and hair styling and asked his favorite fortune-teller to give her a new name before her grand debut. For the first six months, he made her live with his family so he could teach her the proper manners of a star. He also coached her on how to behave during interviews.

Miss Matsuda comes out with a new single record every three months. Sun Music writes the songs.

Since the teen stars are so young, their education is usually limited.

"It used to be best if they just sang and didn't talk," Aizawa said. But with television appearances playing an important role in promotion today, "it's best if they know something."

Aizawa said that while his commercial packaging of teen idols works well in Japan, it has less appeal to overseas markets. He currently is grooming a Japanese-American for stardom. In five years, he hopes, that with luck and the right packaging he'll be able to promote her in the United States "like a Honda or a Sony."

Dear Abby: Eye contact

DEAR ABBY: The photographer in Fort Myers, Fla., wanted to know why lovers always close their eyes while kissing. Obviously the purpose is to shut out other distractions so that the ecstasy of the moment may be full and complete.

I, too, am a professional photographer, but my problem is not whether couples close their eyes, but how to get them to shut their mouths! In recent years, it seems that more and more bridal couples try to "swallow" each other while kissing. This is in extremely poor taste (pun intended), especially in view of hundreds of guests. Please print this, but don't use my name, as I'm still in business.

Turn of events shifts in Steers' favor

Snyder mistakes fuel 26-8 Big Spring victory

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Adversity was the toughest opponent the Big Spring High Steers had to overcome Friday night, not the Snyder Tigers.

Fumbles on the first pair of handoffs and a safety on the third play from scrimmage put Big Spring in a full bind. However, the team refused to break under pressure, regrouped to score the next 18 points and rolled to a 26-8 non-district victory over the Snyder Tigers in Memorial Stadium.

The 18 points scored in the first half topped the season high in 1982 coming in the season-ending 15-14 loss to San Angelo.

"The thing I really, really was pleased with," said head coach Quinn Eudy, "was that we started off bad but came back. We turned something bad into something good. That's been one of our major preaching points. We didn't put our heads down."

Steers fans were in shock at the start of Friday's contest. Chad Peterson's first punt rolled out of bounds at the Steer five and on the very first play, quarterback Tommy Gartman was nailed by Kyle Freeman behind the goal line for a safety.

So much for a good start, but things did get better.

In the final analysis, the Steers were able to shrug off the "bad" things while Snyder was stuck in the mud all evening.

The first bad break for the Tigers came immediately after the safety. Quarterback Jimmy Cain evaded a strong pass rush and fired downfield to a wide open Tommy Hunter. Hunter, behind the deepest Steer defender by at least 15 yards, dropped the sure touchdown pass.

The second Tiger mistake put Big Spring on the scoreboard for the first time, and for good in the game.

Snyder forced another punt but wide receiver Chad Peterson, who caught six passes for 74 yards in the game, fumbled on a reverse and Ted Gillis recovered for the Steers at the Tiger 29.

Four rushing plays moved the Steers to the eight and a facemask penalty, mistake No. 3, put Big Spring on the three yard line. Jay Pirkle burst through the middle to score standing up on the next play. The try for extra point failed.

Another unhealthy turn of events allowed the Steers to put more points on the scoreboard.

A 38-yard punt by Pirkle pinned the Tigers at their own 17 and three plays only moved Snyder back four yards. A high snap to Peterson, punting this time, panicked the senior and when he opted to run instead of kick, Derek Logback and Danny Arista pounced on him at the two yard line.

Pirkle gained a yard before Tommy Gartman scored his first varsity touchdown on a quarterback sneak. Again, the PAT attempt failed but Big Spring led 12-2 with 8:22 left in the first half.

Snyder swapped quarterbacks and junior Charles Bollinger entered the game with a red-hot hand. Starting at his own 10 after the ensuing kickoff, he whipped his downfield to the Big Spring 25 in just eight plays. The tail end of the eighth play, however, proved fatal as Peterson fumbled the football away to Pirkle after a 13-yard gain.

Big Spring again took advantage of the turnover, beginning with Gartman's 48-yard pass to tight end Charley Ragan. Four rushing plays and an interference call on Jay Mayo — another Snyder mistake — set up Eric Sherman's one-yard dive for the touchdown.

Scratching the PAT attempt, Big Spring went for two points and again failed.

Bollinger was not fazed by his team's bad luck. Beginning on his 27 this time, he needed just six plays to get his team into the end zone. Running back Norman Malone broke for gains of 13 and 18 yards and Bollinger hit completed three passes for 35 yards. The 18-yard run by Malone got the Tigers across the goal line.

Big Spring stopped the try for two points, leaving the score at 18-8 at halftime.

In the second quarter, Bollinger hit all eight of his passes for 103 yards. Things didn't go quite so well in the final half for Bollinger and his teammates, however.

On the second play in the third quarter, Peterson was decked after missing a high throw on a slant-in pattern. Although he wasn't seriously hurt and later returned to the game, the delay for the injury took the bite out of the Tigers.

Minutes later, backed up to their own 14 for a fourth down punt, Bollinger — replacing the injured player as the punter — had his kick blocked by a charge of Steers led by Ragan. The ball rolled free in the end zone where Rolando Davillo recovered for the a touchdown. Pirkle ran for two points and with 6:50 left in the quarter, the final score appeared on the scoreboard.

Ragan said the blitz on the punter was planned. "We just came in and no one picked me up," he said later. "The ball hit me right here," he said, rubbing his upper chest and chin.

The remainder of the game was a battle in futility for both offenses. In the second half, Snyder managed just nine more yards through the air and only 61 total yards.

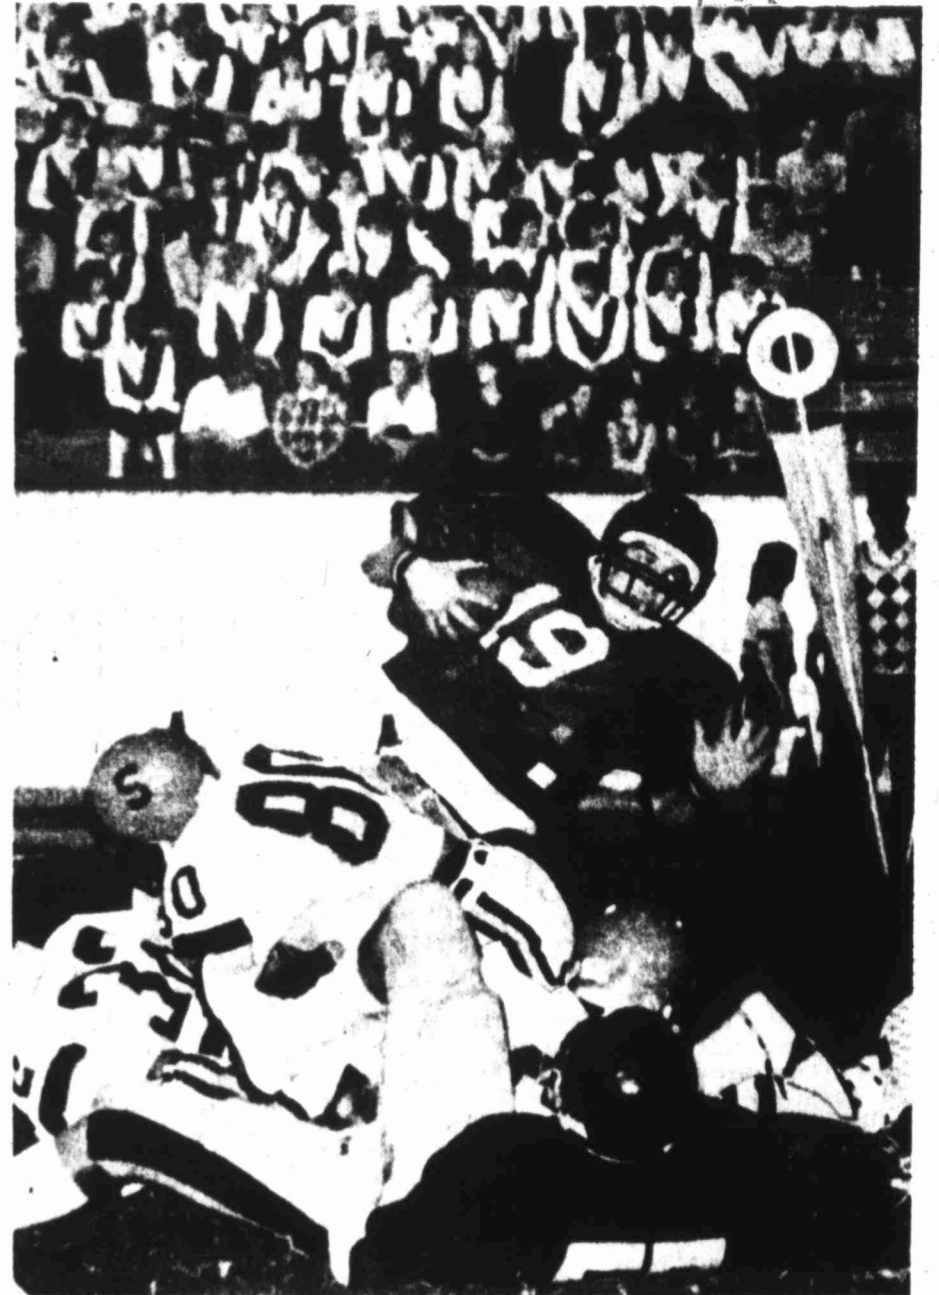

Although the finish was a far cry from an exciting first half, Eudy was completely satisfied with the game.

"We hit real well...our effort was tremendous," he said. The second-year coach said Big Spring's adjustments to the Snyder passing game in the second half were the result of the secondary getting "better breaks on the ball. We got people in the correct lanes and made some big hits. They weren't wanting to catch the ball."

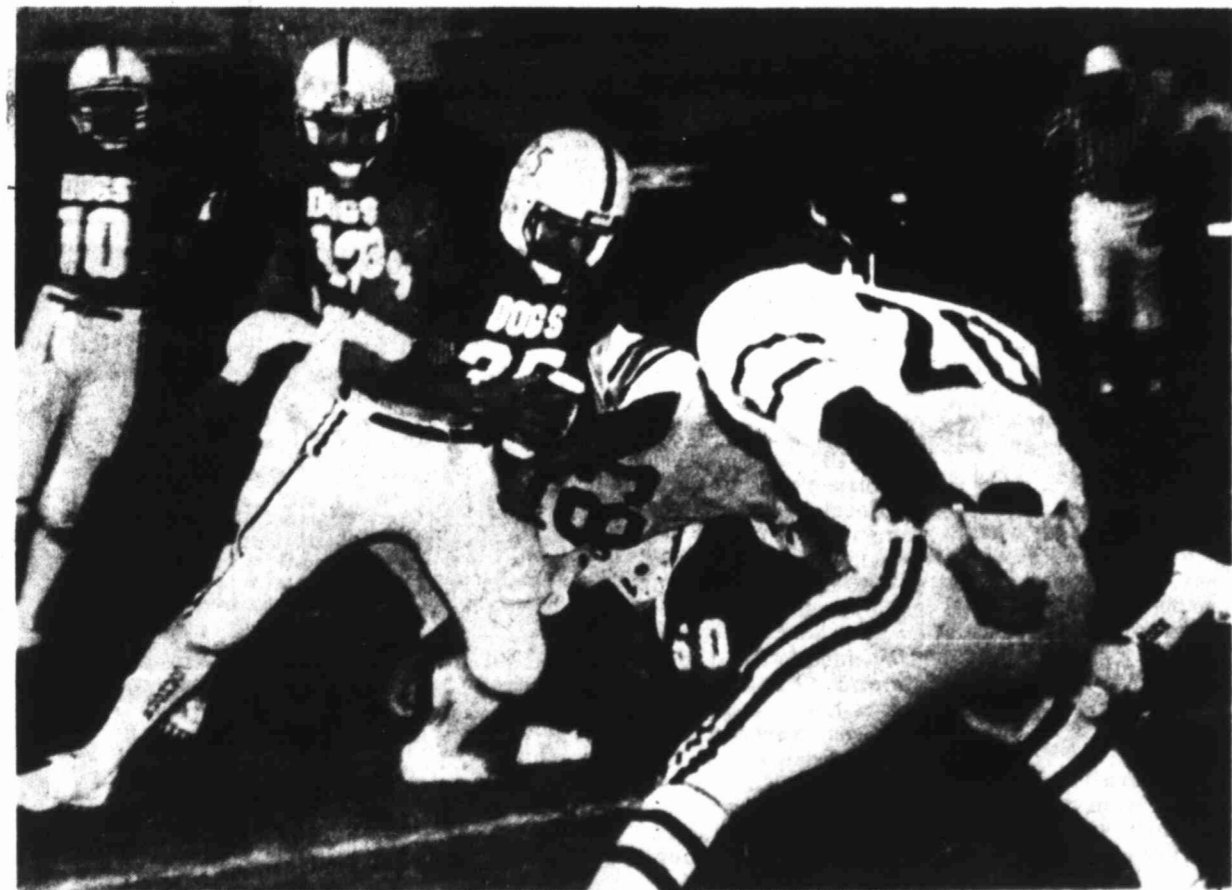

The Steers rolled up 274 total yards as Pirkle gained 71 yards on 15 carries. Bollinger finished 9 of 16 for 110 yards while Malone gained 69 yards on 13 carries.

HERE I COME — Coahoma Bulldog fullback Richard Seals, 35, attempts to elude a couple of Kermit Yellowjackets in first quarter action last night in Coahoma. Kermit, with a safety and a 62-yard scoring pass defeated Coahoma 8-0 in the non-district contest. Also pictured are Jacket defenders Joe Lujan, 20, and Danny Sluder, 83.

Kermit nips Coahoma 8-0 in defensive battle

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — In spite of a pesky Coahoma defense, a first quarter safety and a 62-yard scoring pass lifted the Kermit Yellowjackets to an 8-0 victory over the Bulldogs here last night.

Most of the offensive action, in this otherwise defensive struggle, came early in the first quarter after Kermit blocked a Bulldog punt out of the end zone with 7:42 left in the period.

On the following kick, Kermit's James Nolley ran for an apparent 64-yard score, but a clipping violation nullified the touchdown and the Yellowjackets had to begin from their own 36 yardline.

Quarterback Agmed Ramirez sent Nolley diving into the line for a 2-yard gain on first down before dropping back on second down and finding Joe Lujan running loose in the Bulldog secondary.

Ramirez fired a strike to the fleet Lujan who sprinted 62 yards for the touchdown with 6:36 still left in the first period. Roger Segars' point after touchdown attempt failed.

The Bulldog team had its bright moments throughout the night. The stingy Coahoma defense practically shut down the Kermit attack after the Yellowjackets score, and fullback Richard Seals racked up 67 rushing yards behind some solid blocking by Ricky Delacruz, Tony Burnett, Jeff Dever, James Sanders and Shawn Justiss.

The Bulldogs threatened early in the second quarter when Kermit's Lujan mishandled a punt which was pounced by Coahoma at the Yellowjacket 22.

On the first play from scrimmage, Seals blasted up the middle for 16 yards to the Kermit 8. However, the Yellowjacket defense dug in tossing Seals and quarterback John Swinney for 2 and 4 yard losses, respectively. A subsequent

The Bulldogs also mounted an impressive drive early in the third quarter after taking possession at their own 28. Marching steadily down the field the quarterback Swinney put together a 17-play, 5 first down drive which moved the Bulldogs to the Kermit 7. However, on the next play the Yellowjacket's Mike Parks stole a Swinney pass ending the Bulldogs' scoring hopes.

Kermit found the officials perceptive last night as three Yellowjacket scores were wiped off the slate by flags. Besides Nolley's 64-yard run being nixed, a 78-yard TD was nullified by an illegal forward lateral, and a 16-yard scoring pass from Martinez to Parks was taken off the record by an illegal procedure call.

Coahoma's Seals led all rushers with 67 yards on 18 attempts. Todd Engel also contributed 36 yards.

Lloyd breezes to simple victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Defending women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd breezed to victory over Alycia Moulton 6-2, 6-2 Friday night as the top four seeds moved into the third round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Top-seeded John McEnroe crushed John Sadri 6-0, 6-1, 6-4 and No. 2 Ivan Lendl battered Israel's Shlomo Glickstein 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 in men's singles, while Martina Navratilova, the women's top seed who is determined to win her first U.S. Open singles title, thrashed Louise Allen 6-2, 6-0 in 56 minutes. Lloyd is seeded No. 2.

Lendl, the Czech right-hander, ended the night by decimating his rival as Glickstein held his service in only the first game of the match, the second game of the second set and the third and seventh games of the final set.

The only seed to fall Friday was No. 15 Kathy Rinaldi, who was eliminated 6-4, 6-3 by Ivanna Madruga-Osses of Argentina.

Fifth-seeded Mats Wilander of Sweden, who says he doesn't stand a chance of winning this hardcourt tournament, won his second-round match by stopping Brian Gottfried 6-3, 6-4, 7-6, while Yannick Noah, seeded fourth, wasn't extended as he dispatched fellow Frenchman Jerome Vanier 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Noah, who has tendinitis in his right knee, wore a protective brace on the knee.

A six-time winner of America's most prestigious tennis tournament, Lloyd broke Moulton in the third and fifth games of the opening set as she rushed out to a 5-1 lead. Moulton, who won a set from Lloyd in their last meeting two weeks ago in Toronto, lost her serve to begin the second set.

But she broke her opponent right back and held serve to take a 2-1 lead. She would not win another game in the match, which lasted just 50 minutes.

"The dangerous players left in my (half of the) draw are serve-and-volley rather than baseline," Lloyd said. This was a good tuneup for me."

McEnroe, while not close to the perfection he displayed in the final at Wimbledon in July, was too sharp for Sadri to handle. And while Sadri, who now has lost all seven of their meetings, anticipated McEnroe's shots well, the world's No. 1 player's game simply was too good.

The two first met in the NCAA final in 1978, with McEnroe winning three tiebreakers. This time, McEnroe rode his serve-and-volley game to the easy victory.

Other early winners Friday were fifth-seeded Pam Shriver, who upset Navratilova in the quarterfinals here a year ago; No. 8 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, 10 Zina Garrison, No. 14 Jo Durie of Britain and No. 16 Kathy Jordan.

In the men's draw, No. 12 Johan Kriek outlasted Lloyd Bourne 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 2-6, 6-1 and No. 13 Steve Denton stopped Australian Brad Drewett 2-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Navratilova had more unforced errors than her opponent and fewer out-right winners. But the graceful left-hander broke Allen in the second, fourth and eighth games of the first set. In the second set, Allen, who battled gamely despite being outclassed in every respect, could only hold her own serve once, that in the fourth game.

"She didn't make too many errors," Navratilova said of Allen. "I had to win the points, she didn't give me anything. I knew I couldn't wait for her to make the mistakes. I had to force the action, which I like to do anyway."

After two matches here on the DecoTurf II hardcourts, Navratilova has dropped only four games.

"It doesn't matter how long it takes to win, just that you win," Navratilova said.

Wilander, who captured the French Open in 1982, used his steady baseline game to grab the first two sets off Gottfried, who is 12 years older than the 19-year-old Swede. But the veteran Gottfried, who was ranked No. 5 in the world in 1977-78, zipped out to a 5-0 lead in the third set.

The methodical Swede wasn't fazed, however, ripped off the next six games and was serving for the match.

Gottfried broke Wilander to send the third set into the tiebreak, then took a 3-2 lead, winning the third, fourth and fifth points. He wouldn't win another as Wilander took the tiebreaker 7-3.

Gerulaitis, who was ousted in the first round by Fritz Buehning here last year, atoned for that defeat, but had to struggle to do it. The blond New Yorker finally outlasted Buehning 3-6, 6-1, 7-6, 6-2 in a two-hour, 13-minute battle.

Shriver ousted Jean Hepner 6-4, 6-3; Mandlikova stopped Kathy Horvath 7-5, 7-6; Garrison eliminated Shelly Solomon 4-6, 6-0, 6-3; Durie downed Japan's Etsuko Inoue 7-5, 6-3, and Jordan defeated Peanut Louie 6-1, 6-1.

Stanton soars, Bearkats fall short

TAHOKA — Two key passes, one of five yards and another of 48 helped the Stanton Buffaloes topple Tahoka 13-7 Friday nights.

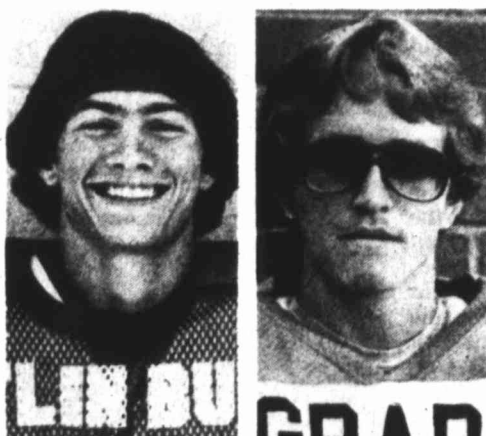

Stanton struck first when, after a scoreless opening quarter, quarterback Darren Sorely passed to his little brother, freshman Derek, from five yards out. Bob Almaguer's kick was good and the Buf's had a 7-0 lead.

After a scoreless third quarter Sorely once again took to the air, hitting Jerry Anderson with a 48-yard pass to set up a 2-yard run by Bobby Barnes. This time Almaguer's kick was no good and Stanton had a seemingly safe 13-0 lead.

With 9:14 left Tahoka finally got on the scoreboard on Steve Pierce's 7-yard run, making the score 13-7. Neither team scored again, although both managed drives within the others' 15-yard line, and the final stood at 13-7.

Stanton's record is now 1-0, while District 3AAA Tahoka is 0-1.

Neither team scored in the third and fourth quarters.

Forsan will meet Garden City in Forsan next Friday.

Garden City falls to B-Vista, 6-0

IMPERIAL — The Garden City Bearkats found out last night that some losses are harder to bear than others as they lost 6-0 in their season opener with Buena Vista.

Both teams moved effectively, each totaling over 200 yards offense, but the defense of both squads showed their mettle.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Longhorns of Buena Vista engineered the night's only scoring drive, culminating in an eight-yard pass from George Terango to Mike Hennington. A two-point conversion pass failed and the score stood 6-0 at the half.

The third quarter was more of the same with both teams moving but avoiding the endzone.

In the final minutes it looked as if Garden City would register at least a tie as Arthur Hernandez raced in from 11-yards out. Their joy turned to sorrow, however, as the play was called back for clipping and the Longhorns lead stood up.

Despite the loss the Bearkats out-gained the Longhorns by one on the ground, 223 to 222. They gathered 36-yards to 13 in passing.

However, penalties were the key as Buena Vista lost 20 yards in five infractions while Garden City was penalized for 100 yards on nine penalties.

Grady demolishes Loop rally, 32-37

LOOP — The Grady Wildcats charged to a 20-0 first half lead and then held off a spirited third quarter rally by the Loop Longhorns to win their six-man football season opener 32-27 here Friday night.

Quarterback Jay Billingsly opened the scoring on the last play of the first quarter with a 20-yard strike to Charlie Perez. The point after attempt was missed.

The second quarter turned into the Dennis Sawyer show as the Grady back broke loose for a 55-yard touchdown run with 6:02 left in the half. Fred Garza kicked the two-point conversion. Sawyer followed a few minutes later with a 20-yard TD reception from Billingsly.

The Longhorns dominated the third quarter, scoring twice on a nine-yard run by Jesse Garza and an eight-yard return of a pass interception by Kevin Bagwell midway in the quarter. Ricky Garza got the first conversion on a kick, and Vaughn Jones passed to Brent Medlin for the second point after attempt.

The District 2-A Wildcats and District 1-A Longhorns dug in for a see-saw battle in the last quarter, trading scores twice before the final whistle.

Fred Garza took the ball over from two yards out for Grady before Loop responded with a 26-yard scoring jaunt by Scotty Scott.

Garza broke free on a 31-yard pass reception from Sawyer to put Grady on the board again midway in the quarter. Jones of Loop closed the scoring with 14 seconds left in the game on a four-yard pass from Ricky Garza. Both teams failed on their last quarter PATs.

Coach Richard Gibson's Wildcats, third-place finishers last year, will meet the Dawson Dragons next week in Grady.

Greenwood short; Jal wins, 27-21

JAL, N.M. — The Greenwood Rangers rebounded from a 27-0 fourth quarter deficit to make a last-minute run at their interstate rivals, but fell one touchdown short when a desperation pass was intercepted deep in Jal territory.

Greenwood had recovered an on-side kick with two minutes left in the game and was driving for the end zone when sophomore quarterback Chad Longley was intercepted to end the game with Jal on top 27-21.

The Jal Panthers jumped to a 20-0 halftime lead on the strength on two interceptions. With only 2:42 gone in the first quarter, Jal capitalized on a stolen pass when Louis Ruiz rammed over from 2-yards and then kicked the extra point.

Brad Eggleston added to the tally with 4:36 left in the second quarter by hitting Mark Lee on a 10-yard touchdown strike. The extra point was missed. Two minutes later Mike Epperson intercepted at the Greenwood 34 and raced over the goal line to put Jal ahead 20-0 at halftime on Ruiz' PAT.

Jal threatened to rout the Texas squad when Brad Childers pushed over from two yards after a 35-yard drive late in the third quarter.

But Greenwood's defense stiffened in the final quarter, and the Ranger offense found its running legs, ripping off 21 straight points in less than nine minutes.

Halfback Roger Smith got the Rangers on the board with 10:56 left in the quarter on a 14-yard run. Longley threw to David Skinner for the two-point conversion.

Longley cocked his arm again three minutes later, finding Todd Foris on an 11-yard strike after the Rangers recovered a Jal fumble. The extra-point kick failed.

With 2:01 left in the final quarter, Smith got his second score, going over from three yards out. Scott Goff kicked the PAT to end the scoring.

Mustangs maul New Home, 40-14

NEW HOME — The Sands Mustangs trampled New Home in a 40-14 match-up Friday.

Robbie Creswell of Sands ran 54 yards with 11:01 left to play in the first quarter to score the first touchdown of the game. PAT was kicked by Chris Wiggington.

New Home snapped back into action on the kick-off, and made a 70 yard run for a touchdown. J.T. Hays kicked the extra point.

With 5:20 left to play in the quarter, Marshall Long of Sands scored on a 10 yard run, bringing the score to 13-7.

In the second quarter, Santos Ybarra of Sands scored on a 25 yard run with 10:30 left to play. Chris Wiggington kicked the PAT.

With 3:50 left to play, Robbie Creswell ran 73 yards to claim another touchdown. An attempt at the PAT was missed.

Santo Ybarra took a 72 yard run into the end zone with 2:50 left to play, bringing the score to 32-7. Wiggington kicked the PAT to bring it to 33-7.

Sands scored the only touchdown of the third quarter when Johnny Willis threw a pass to David Ybarra, who ran 25 yards with 7:20 left to play. Wiggington again kicked the PAT.

Robert Poers of New Home intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter and ran 15 yards for a touchdown. J.T. Hays kicked the extra point.

Coach Jim White said "we had super games played by running backs Robbie Creswell, who rushed 16 times for 295 yards and two touchdowns, and Santos Ybarra, who rushed 11 times for 164 yards and one touchdown."

4-AAAAA Roundup

Coogs win, Midland rips Monterey

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

District 4-5A made a big splash Friday night, winning all seven non-district games with Abilene High still to test Wichita Falls Rider tonight.

Making the biggest news was Cooper's 10-3 victory over Class AAAA power Brownwood in Abilene. Midland High, projected underdog to Lubbock Monterey, battered the Plainsmen 30-7.

Here are the way the games went around the league last night:

Cooper 10, Brownwood 3
ABILENE — Running back Allen Gunter rushed for 151 yards on 26 carries as the Cougars pulled off a big win against the Lions.

All the scoring came in the first half. Scott Anderson booted a 37-yard field goal with 4:37 left in the first quarter to Cooper a 3-0 lead. That margin was extended to 10-0 in the second period as Gunter dove one yard for the game's lone touchdown. Anderson kicked the PAT to cap the 53-yard scoring drive.

Midland 30, Monterey 7
MIDLAND — The Bulldogs rolled up 346 yards of total offense, roaring off to a 27-0 halftime lead, and blasted the 1982 District 3-5A champions.

Darrell Davis caught a four-yard and Allen Forett a seven-yard scoring pass from James Wellborn in the first quarter. Wellborn connected with Forett again and Willie Swindell scored on a one-yard run to cap the Bulldogs' first-half scoring.

Richard Fry kicked a 22-yard field goal for the only MHS score of the second half.

Lee 38, Lubbock Coronado 7
LUBBOCK — The Rebels amassed 312 total yards and junior Walter Jones scored on runs of 33 and 25 yards to pace Lee's big season-opening victory.

Permian 23, EP Coronado 0
EL PASO — The Permian Panthers, ranked among the state's top teams in every poll, shut out Coronado for their first win of the season.

No other details were available on the game.

Odessa 14, Amarillo 7
AMARILLO — Quarterback Albert Cruz dashed four yards for a third quarter touchdown to lift the Bronchos to the win over the Sandies.

OHS scored first in the game on a touchdown by Boyd Cowan.

Central 21, Anderson 0
SAN ANGELO — Mike Fanning scored on runs of 19 and 13 yards in the first half to power the Bobcats to their shutout win.

Bevans Hoffman ran four yards for a score in the fourth quarter. Pat McKnight kicked all three of his PAT tries.

Lady Steers split matches at tourney

SAN ANGELO — Big Spring High won once and lost once Friday at an invitational volleyball tournament here Friday.

Andrews ripped BSHS 15-4, 15-13 in a first round game but the Lady Steers came back to zap Brownfield 15-1, 15-7 in the second round. Paula Spears had 11 and Debbie Donelson six serving points in the winning match.

Big Spring is now 2-7 for the year and plays at noon today against the winner of the Lamesa-Lubbock Monterey match.

Rangers rip Royals, 7-0

ARLINGTON (AP) — Wayne Tolleson's two-run single triggered a four-run fifth and George Wright added a three-run homer to lead the Texas Rangers 7-0 over the Kansas City Royals Friday night.

Winner Charlie Hough, 12-12, allowed six hits, struck out seven and walked two in pitching his eighth complete game of the season.

Paul Splitteroff, 10-7, gave up seven hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Splitteroff left after Tolleson and Buddy Bell singled to put runners on first and second in the seventh. Wright's 16th homer came on the first pitch by reliever Mike Armstrong.

Through four innings, Splitteroff gave up only two hits, but Buckey Dent singled and Jim Sundberg hit a ground-rule double to set up Tolleson's two-run single with none out in the fifth.

Billy Sample's line drive caromed off first baseman Willie Aikens' glove for a three-run error, scoring Tolleson, and the lead mounted to 4-0 when Splitteroff threw wild to the screen while walking Bell.

Red Sox 5, White Sox 1

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice drove four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single as the Boston Red Sox snapped Chicago's six-game winning streak Friday night with a 5-1 victory over the White Sox.

Rice drilled an 0-2 pitch by Chicago starter Jerry Kossman, 10-7, high into the screen in left after a one-out single by Wade Boggs in the first. The homer was Rice's sixth in nine games, giving him 34 for the season, tops in the major leagues.

Then, after Kossman walked Boggs with the bases loaded to force in a run in the fourth. Rice hit his

Blue Jays 8-8, Tigers 7-9

TORONTO (AP) — Jesse Barfield, who clubbed two homers in a losing cause in the opener, keyed a four-run third inning with a two-run triple in the nightcap as the Toronto Blue Jays salvaged their doubleheader against the Detroit Tigers with an 8-7 victory Friday night.

The Tigers took the opener 9-8 on Larry Herndon's two-run double in the 10th inning.

In the nightcap, Toronto starter Jim Acker improved his record to 4-1 with relief help from Dave Geisel, who posted his fifth save. Loser Milt Wilcox, 8-9, making his first start since coming off the disabled list, lasted just 2 2-3 innings.

Orioles 1, Twins 0

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Baltimore's Ken Singleton hit a ninth-inning home run and Mike Flanagan pitched five-hit ball over 8 1-3 innings as the Orioles blanked the Minnesota Twins 1-0 Friday night.

Flanagan, 9-3, left in the ninth after walking two batters with one two-run single for 105th and 106th RBI of the season.

Rookie right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 4-4, scattered eight hits, including Ron Kittle's 28th homer with one out in the second.

Kittle's homer broke the Chicago team record for rookie homers in one season. The old record was 27, set by Zeke Bonura in 1934.

American League

Angels 6, Brewers 5

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Ellis Valentine's two-run single with two outs in the seventh snapped a 4-4 tie Friday night and carried the California Angels to a 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

With reliever Rick Waits, 0-3, protecting a 4-3 lead, Fred Lynn led off the Angels' seventh with a double and stopped at third on a single by Ron Jackson.

Yankees 5, Mariners 4

SEATTLE (AP) — Dave Winfield continued to pummel Seattle pitching Friday night, hitting his fifth homer of the year against the Mariners, to lead the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory without the services of suspended Manager Billy Martin.

Martin was serving the first game of his two-game suspension ordered by American League President Larry MacPhail after a July 31 game at Chicago when he gripped about umpire Dale Ford to reporters after the game. Third base coach Don Zimmer replaced him.

The homer was Winfield's 26th of the season overall, and with his RBI-fielder's choice in the first, brought to 20 his league-leading game-winning RBI total.

Ray Fountenot, 5-2, scattered eight hits in seven innings before leaving with two on and nobody out in the eighth.

Red Sox 5, White Sox 1

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice drove four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single as the Boston Red Sox snapped Chicago's six-game winning streak Friday night with a 5-1 victory over the White Sox.

Rice drilled an 0-2 pitch by Chicago starter Jerry Kossman, 10-7, high into the screen in left after a one-out single by Wade Boggs in the first. The homer was Rice's sixth in nine games, giving him 34 for the season, tops in the major leagues.

Knight clobbers Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray Knight broke a 3-3 deadlock with an eighth-inning single and Terry Puhl drove in three runs Friday to give the Houston Astros a 6-5 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

The Astros broke the 3-3 tie with three runs in the top of the eighth after Jose Cruz, stretching his hitting streak to 11 games, doubled to start the inning against loser Bill Campbell, 4-8. Knight followed by punching the go-ahead hit into left field.

Phil Garner followed with a sacrifice bunt and Lee Smith came on for the Cubs. Smith gave an intentional pass to John Mizerock before Bill Dawley singled to score Knight and Bill Doran singled home Mizerock for a 6-3 Houston cushion.

Dawley, 6-5, the third Houston pitcher, came on with one out in the seventh and Frank DiPino recorded his 15th save.

Pirates 4, Braves 1

ATLANTA (AP) — Dave Parker hit a two-run homer and John Candelaria hurled a four-hitter over seven innings as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the faltering Atlanta Braves 4-1 Friday night.

It was Atlanta's sixth straight loss, its longest losing streak this year, and its ninth in 11 games, dropping the Braves 2½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West.

Jim Dayley, 4-5, carried a no-hitter into the sixth inning when the Pirates scored three runs to break a 1-1 deadlock.

Candelaria, 13-8, walked four and fanned three in seven innings before

Phillies 5, Giants 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch-hitter Ozzie Virgil hit a two-out, grand-slam homer in the ninth inning to lift Philadelphia to a 5-3 victory over San Francisco Friday night, keeping the Phillies in a first-place tie with Pittsburgh in the National League East.

The Pirates beat the Braves, 4-1, Friday night.

The Phillies, trailing 3-1, loaded the bases after one out in the ninth. Gary Maddox singled. Bo Diaz and Ivan DeJesus reached on errors. But pinch-hitter Tony Perez struck out.

Then Virgil homered on a 1-0 pitch from Gary Lavelle. 6-4. Ron out. Tim Stoddard finished up for his ninth save, leaving the tying run on the third base.

Frank Viola, 7-12, took the loss, pitching a five-hitter through eight innings. Viola gave up singles in the fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth innings before giving up the home run to Singleton in the ninth and being relieved by Ron Davis.

Coe suffers rare illness

LEICESTER, England (AP) — Sebastian Coe, who pulled out of last month's WorldTrack and Field Championships after a number of humiliating defeats, is suffering from a rare glandular illness, the consultant treating him said Friday.

After exhaustive tests on Coe at a Leicester hospital, Dr. Karl Nicholson, consultant in infectious diseases, said there was no doubt that the complaint was responsible for the Briton's recent poor performances.

Coe, Olympic 1,500-meter champion and world-record holder at 800 meters and one mile, is unlikely to restart training for several months.

That means he will miss the cross-country season, which many middle and long distance runners consider vital to their build-up.

After losing twice at London's Crystal Palace stadium in the space of nine days in late July — once over 1,500 meters and once at 800 — Coe was beaten in another 800 race at Gateshead shortly afterward.

'La Cage Aux Folles' far from a drag

NEW YORK (AP) — "La Cage Aux Folles" is far from a drag. It has lavish, glittering costumes, magnificent, eye-stunning sets, a cast of 30, a lushly romantic score and an opening song-and-dance number that wows the multitudes.

And at the preview I saw, this $5 million drag-queen extravaganza had the multitudes on their feet at the finale, loudly clapping in time with the reprise of one of its sunniest, sprightliest songs, "The Best of Times."

But "La Cage," which bowed recently on Broadway after critical raves and a sell-out run in Boston, seems oddly tame. It's a colorful, energetic spectacle with a lot of fizz and poignancy but no real tension or surprise.

It's safe to say that "La Cage" — adapted by Harvey Fierstein from a hit French play by Jean Poiret, sleekly staged by Arthur Laurents, and with a score by Jerry Herman — is an unconventional musical by Broadway standards.

It's about a pair of middle-aged homosexual lovers (Gene Barry and George Hearn), Georges and Albin. They respectively own and star in a drag-queen nightclub in St. Tropez where gay glitter abounds and where, as one song slyly jokes, you may spy a nun dancing with a Marine.

A naughty world, but not too outrageous, really, not even with the lovers' sassy black butler (William Thomas Jr.) who insists he's a maid. Why, the menfolk don't even kiss, although Georges and Albin do hold hands now and then.

The crisis afoot here that Georges' handsome young son, the product of a one-night stand 24 years earlier, wants to wed a sweet young lass. Alas, she's the daughter of a stuffy, Moral Majority politician, "the most well-known anti-homosexual on the Riviera."

The son wants his father to play things straight when his fiancée's father and mother come calling. And he doesn't want Pop's flouncy male "wife," who helped raise the boy and loves him as would a real mother, around at all.

Anger, hurt feelings, and all that ensue, leading to Albin's powerful, defiant, show-stopping first-act finale, "I Am What I Am," followed by a second-act lovers' reconciliation and Albin's wildly funny efforts to stop flouncing and start posing as a real he-man.

Many laughs, too, when you see how the son has redecorated the lovers' fussy, heliotrope-hued living room as a woodily masculine, almost monastic chapel of sorts (where to his horror his "mother" unexpectedly materializes).

But you never doubt that love will triumph, be it gay, parental or the heterosexual variety. Or that the villain will get his comeuppance. Or that what's up here is a plea for tolerance, self-realization, acceptance of things as they are.

The major problem is Fierstein's book. It has the self-mocking gay humor of his hit drag-queen play, "Torch Song Trilogy," but not its convincing pain and emotional power. It's almost as if he's writing with the governor on.

True, "La Cage" has plenty of pluses, among them:

- Theoni V. Aldred's stunning costumes, and David Mitchell's remarkable high-tech settings that slide in and out, from nightclub to backstage to living room to waterfront cafe to smart restaurant and back again all night.
- Scott Salmon's spectacular choreography, in which the transvestite (save for two women) chorus line leaps and bounds with gusto, tossing in bits of Follies and Rockettes hoofing before doffing their wigs, both at the start and the finish, to reveal that 10 of these ladies are gentlemen.

— Herman's score which, while melodically less imaginative than his "Mack and Mabel" effort, is quite pleasant, particularly his lovely first-love "Song on the Sand" that Hearn and Barry sing.

— Hearn's Tony-quality performance as man and woman; Barry's solid singing and emoting, and the fine support of John Weiner as the son, Leslie Stevens as the lovely bride-to-be, Jay Garner as the stuffy politico and Merle Louise as his wife, and Elizabeth Parish as a saucy restaurant owner who accidentally provokes Albin's unveiling, or unwigging, as the case may be.

But for all this and despite inspired flashes of wit, "La Cage Aux Folles" is awfully predictable. It plays things safe, and no amount of song, dance, beaded gowns, glitter, or sight and sound gags can disguise that.

Here's what other critics said: In the New York Daily News, Douglas Watt called "La Cage" "in its musical embodiment, a glittering, fast-stepping extravaganza."

In The New York Times, Frank Rich said the play was "the schmaltziest, most old-fashioned major musical Broadway has seen since 'Annie.'"

Clive Barnes of the New York Post said the show has "that kind of breezy, swifty Broadway music that you thought had, at least briefly, disappeared from style."

'Pa' has new baby girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Michael Landon's wife, Cindy, is back home with a brand-new baby girl. Jennifer Rachel Landon was born Monday and went home from the hospital with her mother on Thursday, said a spokesman for NBC, who asked not to be identified.

The baby and mother were "doing fine," the spokesman said.

The child was Landon's eighth, three of them adopted. It was his first by Cindy.

Singer's ban overruled

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — A Calcutta court has overruled a Marxist state government official who attempted to ban performances by India's best known pop singer because her music represented a "decadent" and "perverted" culture.

The Calcutta High Court on Thursday held that the singer, Usha Uthup, had the right to appear in Calcutta's state-operated auditoriums because there was nothing "vulgar or decadent" in her disco-style music.

Jatin Chakraborty, minister of public works and housing in West Bengal State's communist-ruled government, in May banned a charity show by Ms. Uthup at a hall under his jurisdiction.

The cigar-chewing minister then banned her shows in other state auditoriums to protect what he called "the traditional culture of Bengal."

Ms. Uthup sought a court order against the ban and also filed a $200,000 defamation suit against the minister which has not yet been decided.

In with show biz crowd

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Leon Schwab, now 72, bought a failing drugstore on Sunset Boulevard in 1932, he took note of the movie studios in the area and figured he'd better make friends with the show biz crowd.

"We started charge accounts," recalls Schwab, now 72. "And cashing checks."

And that's what a lot of celebrities remembered Wednesday as they turned out to help celebrate the 51st birthday of the Hollywood drugstore.

The drugstore may owe its fame to the tale of a young Lana Turner being spotted at the counter by an agent and made a star in short order. But many of the stars remember it for other reasons.

Actor Chuck Mitchell, the porcine villain in the film "Porky's" and a Schwab's regular since 1942, was one who cited the owner's willingness to let out-of-work actors run up bills.

"Leon has carried actors longer than their mothers did during pregnancy," he said.

Schwab reminisced about the nights he locked up and let Charlie Chaplin get behind the soda fountain to make his own milk shakes, about Gloria Swanson coming in to buy her makeup, and about Hugh O'Brian working there as a soda jerk.

Since then, most of the nearby studios have folded, such as Republic and RKO, or moved. Down the street, a savings and loan has replaced the Garden of Allah apartments, onetime home of stars such as Errol Flynn and Marion Davies.

Reagan doesn't like it hot

MEXICO CITY — Some may like it hot, but Ronald Reagan doesn't.

So when presidential chef Henry Haller starts trying out his new Mexican recipes in the White House kitchen, he will go easy on the chiles.

Haller is meeting here with 21 other chefs of presidents and kings for an annual meeting called the Chefs des Chefs — the chefs of the chefs.

Haller said even though he's on vacation he and his colleagues have been learning new recipes. In Mexico, that normally means eating foods laced with chiles. One local newspaper said with tongue-in-cheek that many tears were being shed at the banquets attended by the chefs.

Haller, who has been White House chef 17 years, wouldn't dare serve a meal spicy enough to bring tears to the eyes of his boss. But he said he may very well try out some south-of-the-border plates in his kitchen, with modifications.

"I had that dish chiles rellenos (stuffed chiles) and liked it, but I might not use the real hot pepper, just the regular green pepper," Haller said.

"The Reagans like to eat rather light," he said.

Kennedys not charged

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Neither Sen. Edward Kennedy nor his 16-year-old son Patrick will be charged with a crime for removing a walrus tusk from a state wildlife refuge, a district attorney says.

"The district attorney's office has concluded that no criminal violation took place," said District Attorney Vic Krumm.

He said that while removing the 24-inch tusk from a beach on Round Island on Aug. 15 violated terms of a permit that allowed Kennedy's party to visit the strictly controlled refuge, the Massachusetts Democrat had returned the ivory to Alaska.

A state Fish and Wildlife Protection Division spokesman said at the time of the incident that removal of animal parts from the sanctuary is a misdemeanor with a possible maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

While the permits do warn that a violation is a misdemeanor, there are no criminal statutes or regulations to back up the warning, Krumm said.

Round Island is part of the Walrus Islands State Game Sanctuary located about 70 miles off Dillingham.

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.
For use with issue: Happy Grandparents Day

Main Idea: To tell children about Grandparents Day and the history behind it. Also included in the issue is information on family trees. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty with the easier, pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

1. Draw a picture of your grandparents.
2. Look in your paper for pictures of older people. What do the pictures tell you about the people?
3. Draw a picture of what you think your grandparents looked like when they were your age.
4. Write a letter to your grandparents or an older person.
5. See if there is a retirement home in your town. See if it is possible to arrange for your class to visit the home for one day. What do you think it would be like? What would you like to do while there?
6. Think of a famous older person you would like to interview. What questions would you ask?
7. Make and illustrate a time line of your grandparents' lives.
8. Some people tend to believe that older people are not capable of learning new hobbies or occupations. The famous artist Grandma Moses did not become an artist until she was in her 70s. Discuss the way society views and treats old people. Can you think of some older people who took up new hobbies or occupations later in life?
9. Write a story telling about the happiest time you spent with your grandparents or another older person.
10. Write a paper on why you think older people are important to our society.
