Suit names Fina, energy department

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

A local gasoline wholesaler has joined in a $40 million lawsuit against American Petrofina Co. and the United States Department of Energy. The suit alleges overpricing of gasoline products from 1975 through 1979.

The suit claims Department of Energy officials covered up knowledge of the alleged overpricing. Named in the suit are U.S. Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel and Special Counselor Milton Lorenz.

The suit was filed Friday in federal court in Cape Girardeau, Mo., by Austin attorney Donald Grissom. It names as plaintiff 13 independent oil companies in Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri and includes Tommy Gage Oil Co. of Big Spring.

The Gage firm was purchased by Sam Thurman in April 1981. Thurman said the company supplies gasoline to 12 Fina stations in Big Spring, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Stanton. He directed all questions on the suit to Grissom.

Grissom said the suit pertains to a late 1970s energy department audit that resulted in seven notices of probable violations of pricing regulations by American Petrofina in 1974.

According to Grissom, the Department of Energy and American Petrofina entered into a settlement in 1982 that allowed reimbursement to companies that had purchased oil from American Petrofina in 1974.

A Department of Energy spokesman would not acknowledge that such an agreement had been made.

The settlement made available $14 million to the companies, Grissom said. Those companies which applied for the money signed a statement releasing American Petrofina from claims for the period 1974-1979, he said.

The suit claims the Department of Energy knew of additional overcharges in 1975 through 1979, but did not disclose them.

"We think it was done in cooperation with American Petrofina to get jobbers (independent oil suppliers) to sign the release, trying to limit Petrofina's exposure," Grissom said.

The suit asks for $10 million in actual damages and $30 million in punitive damages, Grissom said.

Gail Bradshaw, a press official for the Department of Energy in Washington, said it was against department policy to comment on litigation.

"We are not aware of the suit, and would not comment if we were aware of it," she said.

American Petrofina in Dallas also declined to comment.

"We have not been served, and I can't say anything until I know what it's all about," said Joe Moss of the company's legal department.

The suit's other plaintiffs include Sunglo Oil Co. of San Antonio, Palmer Oil Co. of Waco, Dal-Rich Oil Co. of Dallas, Carr Oil Co. of Jacksonville, Felts Oil Co. of Fort Worth and Hooper Oil Co. of Denison.

Traffic fatalities claim 4

From staff and wire reports

Four deaths on West Texas area roads contributed to a Labor Day weekend count of 52 traffic deaths in Texas, one more fatality than Texas Department of Public Safety officials predicted.

Two women from Phoenix, Ariz., died Monday morning in a single-vehicle accident two miles west of Stanton on Interstate Highway 20, Martin County Sheriff's deputies said.

Wanda Goldwin Lamphere, 60, was pronounced dead at 11:35 a.m. Monday at the scene of the accident by Martin County Justice of the Peace Francis Kennedy.

Peggy Cannon Hicks, 80, the driver of the car and Lamphere's mother, was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital where she was pronounced dead at 2:40 p.m. Monday. Both bodies were taken to the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring.

Hicks and Lamphere were traveling westbound on Interstate 20 when the vehicle went out of control and overturned three 1/2 times, sheriff's reports said.

One person was killed and two were injured Saturday in a one-vehicle crash 3.3 miles north of Kermit, according to DPS operator Patricia Holt.

Hector Diaz, 19, of Kermit was pronounced dead at 5:05 p.m. at the Winkler County Hospital. The body was taken to Cooper Funeral Home in Kermit.

Both passengers were listed in stable condition in Winkler County Hospital. David Nunoz Lopez, 22, of Kermit suffered a possible dislocated left shoulder and a broken arm. Ramond Lopez, 20, also of Kermit, had a broken left arm and a possible back injury, DPS reports said.

Diaz, driver of the 1980 Ford Mustang, was traveling northbound on Cabot Road. He swerved to the right, overcorrected, swerved to the left and overcorrected before the car turned over and rolled four times. Diaz was thrown out of the car through the left door.

In addition, a 17-month-old infant died at 2 a.m. Saturday when he was thrown out of the car in a one-vehicle accident about one mile

BREAKFAST UNDER FIRE — Five members of the U.S. Marine Corps on duty in Lebanon have breakfast near the Beirut International Airport while shells fall nearby.

Two more marines die in rocket attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two U.S. Marines were killed and two wounded in a rocket attack at Beirut airport today, and Druse-Christian mountain fighting left 134 more dead and 345 wounded, authorities said.

The Marines died in a barrage of rockets and mortar shells fired from a Shiite Moslem neighborhood near the airport, U.S. spokesmen said. They were the third and fourth Marines killed in Lebanon in eight days.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said the Marines later fired two 155mm rounds at an artillery battery that had been "firing at us from south of the airport" at Beirut's southern flank.

In Washington, Defense

Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Marines will "just try to improve their defensive positions, and, of course, they are firing back...."

Meanwhile, Christian forces conceded the fall of the central mountain highway town of Bhamdoun to what they called Syrian and Palestinian-backed Druse attackers, the first major Druse victory in the fighting touched off by the Israeli army's pullback to the south.

Police said the latest casualties in the mountain fighting raised the toll to 216 killed and 561 wounded since Sunday when the Israelis evacuated the heights and redeployed to safer positions in the south.

Soviets admit shooting down Korean airliner

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today admitted officially for the first time that its jet interceptors shot down Korean Air Lines Flight 7 last Thursday, but said Soviet pilots did not know it was a civilian jetliner.

A government statement broadcast on the nightly television news said the Soviet planes "fulfilled an order of the ground command to stop the flight" of the intruder airliner.

"Such actions are in full correlation with the new law about the state border of the U.S.S.R. which was published" earlier this year.

"These Soviet pilots stopping the actions of the intruder plane couldn't know that it was a civilian plane," the statement added.

The downing of the Boeing 747 over the Sea of Japan took the lives of all 269 people aboard.

Earlier today, the official Soviet media accused President Reagan of making an "aggressive, hateful speech" about the downed South Korean airliner and claimed he was trying to exploit the tragedy to bolster his military policy.

The official Tass news agency also asserted the U.S. chief executive was trying "to absolve himself of responsibility for the provocation."

Radio Moscow said Reagan, in his nationally televised speech Monday night, "made bitter, slanderous attacks against the Soviet Union in a bid to arouse anti-Soviet sentiments in the American nation."

FLOGGER FIGHTER — This Soviet MIG-23 is identical to the ones blamed for shooting down a Korean jet liner last week. The plane reportedly fired a heat seeking missile at the 747 jumbo jet.

Reagan "stressed the need to further reararm America," Radio Moscow said in an English-language broadcast.

Tass, reacting to the Monday night speech, declared, "What happened was the U.S. president's undisguised attempt at absolving himself of responsibility for the provocation staged against the U.S.S.R. while at the same time leaving a 'loophole' for himself in case new facts, exposing its true organizers, come to light."

Before Tuesday's Moscow television broadcast, the official Soviet news media had not directly reported that Soviet warplanes downed the Korean plane.

Earlier Tuesday, for example, the Communist Party daily Pravda told its public for the first time of the details of U.S. charges that a Soviet fighter shot down the Korean plane last Thursday. Pravda said Soviet forces "could have done so" if they deemed it necessary and did not explicitly deny the accusation.

The newspaper said "possible dangerous consequences of such a provocative flight were ignored."

Reagan calls for strength to deter 'brutality'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, avoiding tough economic sanctions in the wake of what he says "can only be called the Korean Air Line Massacre," called for U.S. strength to deter the Soviet Union's "inhuman brutality."

With a tough vote coming up in Congress on the MX missile and possibly others on U.S. military involvement in Central America and Lebanon, the president worked a reminder about the Soviets'

"massive military build-up" into his nationally broadcast address Monday night.

"Until they are willing to join the rest of the world community, we must maintain the strength to deter their aggression," he said.

Reagan, turning to Congress for a condemnation of the downing of the Korean jumbo jet that carried 269 people, decided not to delay arms negotiations, reimpose a grain embargo or try to halt high technology shipments to the Soviets.

In his speech, he sought to present the United States' case against the Soviet Union for what he said was "the savagery of their crime," and used a tape recording of a Soviet pilot reporting to a ground controller that "the target is destroyed" two seconds after a missile was launched.

At the White House this morning, spokesman Larry Speakes confirmed that the Korean plane "was very close if not out of Soviet airspace" when it was hit by one of two missiles fired by the Soviet fighter.

Speakes said the United States did not know whether the first or second missile hit the airplane.

One administration official, who asked to remain anonymous, said Sunday that the plane "may have actually been a mile outside of their (Soviet) airspace when they shot it down."

Brooke wants no attention

PRINCETON, N.J. — Actress Brooke Shields wants no special attention at college — so Princeton University officials are making a special effort to chase away reporters and photographers interested in her move onto campus.

The 18-year-old actress, known for modeling Calvin Klein jeans and starring in the films "Endless Love" and "The Blue Lagoon," began the Ivy League school's week-long freshman orientation program Monday prior to the start of classes Sept. 12.

The university announced that it would respect Miss Shields' request to be treated "like any other student" without press conferences, photo sessions or other fanfare.

University officials instructed security guards to keep an eye out for media representatives, who were promptly ejected from the campus, Princeton spokesman George Eager said Monday.

The freshmen checked in Sunday, and Miss Shields was assigned to share a suite with two roommates.

Media tracks Princess Di

LONDON — Speculation that Princess Diana is expecting a second child has started up again in British newspapers after she interrupted her vacation in Scotland with Prince Charles and made a quick trip to London.

Tabloids on Tuesday pointed out that her return coincided with the return to work of the royal gynecologist, George Pinker, after his two-week summer vacation.

The 22-year-old princess had been vacationing at Balmoral Castle in northeast Scotland with Charles, Queen Elizabeth II and other members of the royal family.

She boarded a British Airways flight Monday from nearby Aberdeen, flew to London's Heathrow airport and was then reported to have driven to the couple's London home at Kensington Palace.

Neither her 34-year-old husband or their 14-month-old son Prince William traveled with her.

Buckingham Palace refused to comment on speculation that she is expecting another child and said of her London visit: "This is a purely private matter."

Beauty doesn't mind travel

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — America's Junior Miss, 18-year-old Stephanie Ashmore, says she doesn't mind the extensive traveling she's had to do since winning the crown in June.

"I think I won because God planned to use me to witness to others when I travel, not because I was better than the other girls," Miss Ashmore said during a recent visit to Montgomery for a fashion show, where she sang two religious songs.

Miss Ashmore, of Muscle Shoals, who won $42,000 in scholarships and plans to study physical therapy at Mississippi State University, says her religious faith "keeps me going when I'm down. When I'm tired and homesick, God's always there for me to talk to."

'Mel' out of intensive care

BURBANK, Calif. — Actor Vic Tayback — Mel of Mel's Diner, Linda Lavin's hard-nosed boss in the television series "Alice" — is out of intensive care following triple bypass heart surgery.

Tayback, 53, underwent the surgery for 3 1/2 hours Saturday at St. Joseph's Medical Center, has been moved to a private room, and is expected to remain in the hospital another week or so.

"He's in good condition today," said nursing supervisor Cheryl Stanner on Monday.

Although taping of 16 episodes of "Alice" was postponed four weeks to early October because of Tayback's operation, the first eight episodes for the fall season were taped last spring. There should be no interruption in the new shows, Warner Bros. Television has said.

Joan Jett leads singing

COLUMBIA, Tenn. — Wearing a red and black jumpsuit, Joan Jett led thousands at the Electric Cowboy festival singing one of her big hits, "I Love Rock 'n' Roll" over the Labor Day weekend, although she concedes, "Some people think it's very unlady-like to sweat and run around on a stage."

"It's a natural body function," she says. "If you jump and run around like I do on stage you are going to sweat."

Performers at the weekend festival included Joan Jett and the Blackhearts, Cheap Trick, Joe Walsh, Mitch Ryder, Leon Russell, Gregg Allman, Johnny Van Zant and the Marshall Tucker Band.

MARATHON PAYS OFF — Local disc jockies Jay McKay, left, and Larry Ray Bruns, right, sat in a hot tub for 72 hours over the Labor Day weekend, a feat which set a world record and should earn the pair a place in the Guinness Book of World Records. The two sat in the tub raising money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Locally, $9,757.83 was raised.

$9,757.83 collected for MDA

Phone pledges, fish bowl pennies and disc jockies soaked to the bone from a marathon session in a hot tub resulted in $9,757.83 in pledges for the Muscular Dystrophy Association from Big Spring, according to David Trusty, chairman of the local fund-raising effort.

The local drive was part of a nationwide effort to raise money for muscular dystrophy research. Spearheaded by comedian Jerry Lewis, the drive appeals to the public to support studies of the debilitating muscle disease. Lewis spent 21 1/2 hours in a lelethon Sunday and Monday raising $30.7 million for victims of muscle diseases.

"We were second only to Midland-Odessa in the amount of pledges collected for this area," Trusty said today. Of the final total, $5,916 was collected in the form of phone pledges.

The other $3,787 was collected through various fund-raisers, such as a SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf Kick-a-thon, $494; a Big Spring High School bowl-a-thon, $213; a Big Spring Fire Department "fill the boot" money-raiser, $548; several cut-a-thons, including one by the Fuller Salon, $65, and one by Regis Hairstylists, $1,001; and a KWKI-Budweiser van lift, resulting in $1,466.

Trusty said Big Spring area Jaycees were instrumental in getting the local drive off the ground. They manned a "fish-bowl" at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce offices, raising $54.83 to add to the total.

The Jaycees and radio employees also handled the phones during the telethon period.

A world record was also set during the telethon. KWKI morning drive disc jockies Jay McKay and Larry Ray Bruns sat in a hot tub for 72 hours, an adventure which should land them in the Guinness Book of World Records, Trusty said.

Marines

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said Israeli forces have no intention of re-entering the Lebanese mountains unless Syrian or Palestinian forces move into areas captured by the Druse. Meanwhile, U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane flew from Beirut to Damascus in an attempt to get Syrian officials to put pressure on the Druse to stop the fighting.

"They (Druse) have entered Bhamdoun. They are committing massacres and crimes unprecedented in the history of humanity," said the Voice of Lebanon radio station of the rightist Christian Phalange Party in admitting the fall of Bhamdoun, 12.5 miles east of Beirut.

Communiques from both warring factions claimed combatants fought hand-to-hand and house-to-house during the battle for the town. A Druse statement claimed the Christians suffered "hundreds of casualties," and that the Druse suffered 10 killed. It said no Syrian troops or Palestinian guerrillas were fighting with the Druse.

Jordan said the airport bombardment started at 4:05 a.m. (10:05 p.m. EDT Monday), forcing the Marines to scramble for cover.

Names of the Marine victims were withheld until relatives could be notified. Rowe said one wounded Marine was in guarded condition for a shrapnel wound in the abdomen and the other suffered wounds in the back and legs.

It was the first deadly attack on the Marines since Aug. 29 when two leathernecks were killed during intensified fighting between Christians and Druse, who have been batting for dominance in mountains near Beirut. Those were the first Marine combat deaths in Lebanon in the year since the Reagan administration deployed them at the Lebanese government's request.

The 1,200 Marines are part of a multinational peacekeeping force sent last fall after the Israeli's June 1982 invasion to rout Palestinian guerrillas from Lebanon. The peacekeepers oversaw the evacuation of Palestinian fighters from Beirut and have been patrolling the capital to help the government reassert control over areas long held by private militias.

Jordan said the latest victims were posted within the airport perimeter. Two armored cars brought the four casualties to a helicopter that evacuated them to the Navy's carrier Iwo Jima off the Beirut coast, Jordan said.

Associated Press photographer Don Mell, who spent the night at the Marine base, said the American peacekeepers dived into bunkers and foxholes on their highest state of alert, known as "Condition One," when shells and rockets started raining down on the closed airport.

Druse and Christian forces are battling for Israeli-vacated areas in the Chouf and Aley mountains while the Lebanese army is trying to secure the coastal highway to southern Lebanon and the Beirut-Damascus highway, which transverses the embattled high country.

The Druse warriors of Syrian-backed leftist opposition leader Walid Jumblatt have been locked in fierce fighting for three days around the airport area with the Lebanese army rightist Christian militiamen.

The fighting was touched off by the Israeli army's withdrawal from the central mountain regions of Aley and Chouf to pull back to a more defensible line along the Awali river in southern Lebanon. The Israelis completed the pullback on Sunday but still occupy one-quarter of Lebanon.

Jumblatt, who lives in self-imposed exile in Damascus, said in a statement Monday that Marines and "American heavy artillery" had support from the Lebanese army during its capture of the vital highway intersection of Khalde on Beirut's southern edge.

Peacemaking efforts by President Amin Gemayel's government suffered a blow late Monday, when Finance Minister Adel Hamiyeh, the only Druse Cabinet member, resigned.

Hamiyeh told Gemayel his role in the 10-man Cabinet "has become impossible after the massacre" of 40 Druse inhabitants by Phalangist militiamen in the Chouf town of Kfar Matta on Monday, a statement from his office said.

A Progressive Socialist Party statement claimed the 40 villagers were gunned down at their homes. The dead included the town's Druse sheikh, his wife and two sons, the statement said.

The Phalange Party denied any killings occurred in Kfar Matta. Reports of the slayings followed the alleged massacre of 27 Christians by Druse gunmen in the Aley district town of Bmariam last Thursday, which the druse denied.

Reagan

Speakes said that the United States had moved search and rescue operations to the vicinity, and these units were still on duty in international waters of the Sea of Japan.

In Moscow today, the Soviet Union accused Reagan of making an "aggressive, hateful speech" about the downed South Korean airliner and claimed he was trying to exploit the tragedy to bolster his military policy.

Radio Moscow, in an English-language broadcast, said Reagan

"made bitter, slanderous attacks against the Soviet Union in a bid to armise anti-Soviet sentiments in the American nation."

And Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said of Reagan's speech: "What happened was the U.S. president's undisguised attempt at absolving himself of responsibility for the provocation staged against the U.S.S.R., while at the same time leaving a 'loophole' for himself in case new facts, exposing its true organizers, come to light."

The Soviets have not said their fighter shot down the Korean aircraft as it emerged from restricted Soviet airspace near the island of Sakhalin in the Sea of Japan. However, on Monday, a Soviet commentator in Moscow said the jet fighter that intercepted the airliner "fulfilled its duty" in protecting the nation.

But Reagan said he was offering "the incontrovertible evidence that the Soviets were responsible" for the loss of the airplane.

"There was absolutely no justification, legal or moral, for what the Soviets did," said Reagan.

DPS officials said that alcohol and speeding were factors in many of the 52 fatalities this weekend.

The latest fatalities, reported to the DPS today, included three men killed in separate motorcycle accidents, said DPS spokesman Larry Todd.

Cuban journalism: truth and revolution

By KEITH BRISCOE
City Editor

Truth and revolution are synonyms in the Cuban vocabulary.

When the country's editors and broadcasters say they are disseminating the truth, they're being most sincere. They have convinced themselves that their rolls and reels of revolutionary propaganda are the truth.

"Truth is revolutionary," said Jorge Mendoza, publisher of Granma. "We have never published a lie, although truth may be different for us."

Packaged propaganda has reached a high art form in Granma, the official publication of the Communist Party's Central Committee and Cuba's national newspaper. A daily six-page journal, Granma prints government policy statements and important speeches next to hard news, sports and television listings.

Directing Granma for the past 16 years is Mendoza, a former professor at a Catholic university who served as a battalion commander in Castro's revolutionary army and who now sits on the party's Central Committee.

Granma gathers its news from an army of national and international correspondents and from the world's major wire services. Before stories make it into print, they must pass through a maze of editors, rewrite men and directors to ensure the news toes the party line.

"OUR JOURNALISM IS ultimately objective, but I have not said impartial," Mendoza said. "We will never make propaganda to favor private property. We cannot write against socialism."

To demonstrate that his journal is an independent organ, Mendoza points to a telephone in his office and proclaims, "You see. There is no one from the Central Committee calling to tell me what to put in tomorrow's paper. They trust me."

According to the apparent editorial philosophy of Granma, any position which glorifies the Cuban revolution in particular and Marxist-Leninism in general bespeaks the truth. Other views are distortions, lies and imperialist propaganda.

Mendoza's deputy director, Elio Constantin, explains Cuban journalism this way:

"We journalists are soldiers of the revolution. It is hypocrisy to write about something you don't believe in. The interests of the revolution are the interests of this journal."

TO AN AUDIENCE of visiting American journalists, Mendoza said: "Our journalism is totally, ultimately different. We are in two different worlds. You work in a world of private property. We are PROLETARIAT PRESS — Above, the front page of Granma, Cuba's national paper published by the Communist Party. At right, an American journalist inspects the news set at Cuba's Channel 2.

Nicaragua. "Cuba is the most well-informed country in the world," says Reinaldo Infante, director of the Cuban Institute of Radio and Television.

Infante directs news and entertainment programming for Cuba's two television stations and the Radio Havana network, which he calls "the most important radio station in Latin America."

THE INSTITUTE WAS organized in 1960 to replace the "Mafia- and capitalist-controlled" broadcast journalism of Batista's regime, Infante said.

Cuban radio and TV before Castro was "not used for good social purposes," Infante said. "The members worked for the tyranny."

Good social purposes to Infante means broadcasting a heavy dose of news and commentary along with more benign programs such as sports, variety and family comedy shows.

Infante says Cuban signals can now reach 98 percent of the island, and the country counts 150 TV sets — which cost between $400 and $600 — per 1,000 residents.

According to Infante's viewer polls, news programs are the most watched TV shows, with Revista Manana, resembling ABC's Good Morning America, earning the top ratings. Other popular shows include Behind the Facade, a man on the street documentary series, and I Give You a Son, a family comedy.

The institute culls its news from voluntary correspondents, the wire services and the ministries of education and culture.

A VISIT TO TV station Canal 2 gave an American press group a first-hand look at how well-informed the Cubans really are.

On the 30-minute 1 p.m. news program, half the air time was devoted to analyzing a speech Castro gave the day before. The remainder of the program included a report on a West Bank Arab wounded by Israeli soldiers, coverage of the civil war in Nicaragua and film footage of American GIs in the Korean War — the day's installment in the station's regular feature on U.S. imperialism.

Much to Infante's chagrin, Cubans may soon be more informed than the institute ever intended.

The U.S. administration plans to establish Radio Marti in Southern Florida to beam news American-style over super-transmitters to Castro's Island. All this has the institute's director a little nervous.

"It is a clear violation of international rights," Infante said. "Radio Marti proposes to destabilize the Cuban revolution."

TOMORROW: The Jews of Cuba.

Communists have deadlines, too

Every day except Sunday the three directors and five section chiefs of Cuba's largest and most influential newspaper gather at 3 p.m. in the chief director's spacious second-story Havana office to determine what news will run in the next edition of Granma, the official publication of Cuba's Central Committee of the Communist Party.

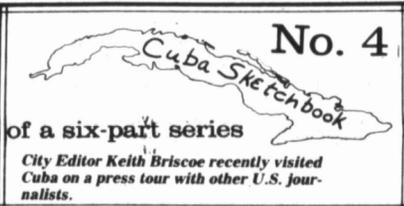

Decisions are usually made collectively in the socialist tradition, but Director Jorge Mendoza, a member of the Central Committee, can overrule the assemblage on any point.

Granma, printing an average circulation of 625,000 papers, publishes a six-page broadsheet daily edition and much larger weekly editions in Spanish, English and French.

The 18-year-old paper, which costs five centavos at the news stand or from the street corner hawk, is recognized as the voice of Cuba and apologist for Moscow. It ships its product by train and plane to all of Cuba and by mail to the rest of the world, where it enjoys faithful subscribers.

Granma employs an unusually large editorial staff for a six-page daily. The editorial department's five sections encompass ideological, international, national, cultural and sports news. A large room houses the world's major wire services, including The Associated Press and United Press International.

Liberal use of color, border tape and graphics decorate otherwise gray pages. Granma prints few pictures and no retail or classified advertising.

The paper's production facilities are antiquated by American standards. All copy is engraved on hot lead plates by linotype machines, and the pages are assembled on chases.

"Because we are a six-page paper, we have a rigorous selection process," said Deputy Director Elio Constantin. "Every day there is a battle for space. At the end, practically everyone is upset and angry."

In a remark that would stun American publishers, Constantin said Granma is trying to curb its circulation. The reason: Because of the American embargo against Cuba, Granma must import its newsprint from the Soviet Union — the Politburo's paper does not come cheaply.

Granma's directors readily admit they are propagandists, a word which carries no negative connotations in revolutionary regimes. Among the senior staff members, however, there emerges a touch of the old school.

"We try not to be sensationalist," Constantin said. "And I think the first thing an editor should be is a reader. If an editor can't understand a piece of copy, how can he expect his readers to understand it?"

Mendoza, a former professor at a Catholic university who served as a battalion commander in Castro's revolutionary army, is straight from the battlefield to the publisher's office. But Constantin has been around the ink for 44 years.

"I've always been a sports journalist. I would actually say I am a soccer reporter and then only a deputy director," Constantin confided.

"This is interesting work. It was interesting before the revolution, and it is interesting now," he said. "Maybe we are not writing as well now, but people are buying our paper."

Director of Granma for 16 years, Mendoza is proud of his product. But like all publishers, he sees room for improvement.

"It (Granma) does not disseminate the work of the revolution as much as it should do," he said. "I think we have been poor from a propaganda viewpoint."

"We need more pictures...But revolutions in the press are different."

Rebels launch attack in El Salvador

By The Associated Press
Leftist guerrillas sabotaged electric and telephone service in eastern El Salvador after attacking the country's third largest city, an assault a U.S. official says they probably planned with information from army spies.

"Boy, have they got an intelligence operation," said the official, who insisted he not be further identified. He spoke Monday, following the weekend attack on the city of San Miguel that shattered a three-month lull in guerrilla activity against the U.S.-supported government.

The fighting killed 33 and wounded 48, army sources said. The guerrilla underground Radio Venceremos network claimed more than 300 government casualties.

The U.S. official said the attack showed rebels knew a 350-man battalion had left San Miguel to fight in Morazan province, leaving the city short of troops. He said their information probably came from infiltrators in San Miguel.

Early Monday, rebel saboteurs blew up a microwave relay station three miles west of San Miguel, disrupting telephone and telex communications. Guerrillas also severed electricity to four eastern provinces — San Miguel, Usulután, La Unión and Morazan, affecting 1.4 million people.

Elsewhere in Central America, U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs

Langhorne A. Motley met with Panamanian President Ricardo de la Esparriella.

Motley told reporters "the way to arrive at a political solution for peace in Central America is through dialogue and negotiation."

Getting sitters for the Senate

Although the prospect of annual federal deficits totaling $200 billion or more in the years ahead should be one of Congress's main concerns, the Senate seems to have other priorities in mind.

It is hoping to open a day-care center for children of senators, staffers and other employees of the Senate.

Such centers are not new in federal government — they simply have not been publicized. On-site, day-care facilities already are serving employees of the Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Housing and Urban Development departments and other agencies.

The new center is to be established in a building formerly used for Senate offices. The 3,500-square-foot area would lease for about $35,000 a year but the Senate will provide the space free, along with $20,000 in start-up money.

This project illustrates why Capitol Hill is unable to balance budgets. The senators ignore the free rent and insist the facility, which will have room for 40 to 60 children, is expected eventually to be self-sustaining.

"Some would say, 'Isn't that going a long way with public funds?' I don't think so, because we provide space and utilities for various services," is the way Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., rationalizes subsidizing the project.

Not a word has been heard from the House but the lower chamber, with its 435 congressmen, plus staffers and other employees, might require the biggest day-care center in the world if it also decides to hop on the bandwagon.

Billy Graham

Don't stand for TV filth

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I guess some people would consider me old-fashioned, but I am appalled at many of the things that are on television today — sex, violence, alcohol, drug abuse. Do you think there is anything we can do about this? — W.F.M.

DEAR W.F.M.: I suspect there are many people who feel as you do, because the tendency to ignore — or even laugh at — moral values in the media today is very strong. In part this is a reflection of the drift away from moral values in our society today. But this also encourages even greater levels of immorality within our society, and that will have tragic consequences if it is not reversed.

You need to remember that in our nation, television, radio, magazines, and other aspects of the media are all supported by advertising. Companies purchase advertising on a program because they believe people will be receptive to their message and eventually buy their product. But if advertisers become aware of the fact that many people are offended by the programs they are sponsoring, and are therefore not going to purchase the products they sell, then those advertisers will put pressure on the programmers to come up with programs that are acceptable.

Do you, therefore, have a way to let your voice be heard? Certainly! If a program offends you because of its language or subject matter, take down the names of the sponsors and write them directly. Tell them you do not believe they should be sponsoring that type of program. Write the television station also, and even the network. I have had several people in that industry tell me that only a few negative letters can have a strong impact. Don't be angry in your letters, but let your views be known clearly.

Briscoe urged to visit St. Mary's

Dear Editor, Not all dogs eat grass, nor are all Aggie jokes funny. Neither are all private schools representative of "Private Lessons," your recent "Rim" column. Certainly, I cannot speak for all private schools. I can speak for St. Mary's Episcopal School in Big Spring, with which I was associated for a long period of time — first as a parent and, many years later, as a teacher.

May I suggest you visit St. Mary's if you haven't already done so? Ask about their financial aid programs. Ask about the curriculum. It far exceeds any "minimum curriculum guidelines" to which you refer. Ask about the members of the board who are, or have been, associated with the Big Spring public schools. Ask about the Headmaster and the faculty.

St. Mary's was not founded "to inculcate under the guise of education religious dogma in captive young minds" nor "to offer affluent white parents the opportunity to keep their children from having to attend school with Blacks and Hispanics."

I believe if, after making a careful, thorough study, you will find St. Mary's serves a definite need in your community. When you're through asking questions, use your eyes. Look at the classrooms, the music sessions, the physical education periods and the chapel. Go along on a field trip or watch a film. Eat lunch in the cafeteria with the children.

But, most of all, look at the children's faces. There's your story. How grateful I am for the few years my children were enrolled in St. Mary's before taking their places in Big Spring's fine public schools' classrooms. How much I learned and received there from other children later in my teaching capacity.

I would wish for you the same experience. Sincerely, MARGARET BAUM P.O. Box 990 Colorado City

Incredible comrades

Good evening. I'm George Shultz, filling in for the vacationing John Davidson.

Tonight on That's Incredible we have the Soviet pilot who shot down a clearly marked civilian aircraft, killing innocent men, women and children. He said he thought it was an American spy plane.

THAT'S INCREDIBLE!

Shultz: Let's welcome Capt. Alexi Deadeye of the Red Air Force. (Applause). Capt. Deadeye, how are you this evening?

Deadeye: Good. S: Good. I have a number of questions for you, but first let's hear your side of the story.

D: Yaaa. It like this ... and this no big deal, I think. Me and Boris, my copilot, had this bet with other flyers stationed at Ambarchik. Whoever shoot down American space shuttle first get free bombblast. You have bombblast here?

S: I don't believe ... D: Da. Bombblast is where you take pint of pivo — that beer — and you toss in half pint vodka. You shake and drink quick. If you man, it taste good. You not man you go whoop, whoop.

S: The point being ... D: Da. The point. Me and Boris very fired up, because we never win these things. We on lookout for space shuttle. But we never see it.

Well Yuri Zoonk, he's big hotshot of our squad, he says over radio, "I got shuttle! I got shuttle! WEEEEEE! Give me bombblast." Well, we get mad and we look very hard for something to redeem ourselves. Boris see plane. And he go, "Alexi! Look! American spy plane." And we shoot. We get half bombblast, which is best we ever do.

S: Capt. Deadeye, did you bother to check and see if it was a civilian plane.

D: Da. We fly close and look. S: And what did you see?

D: Well, we see movie picture on wall of plane. People watching it and laughing at it. And Boris say, "Alexi! Look! It Burt Reynolds and Loni Anderson in Stroker Ace."

S: A civilian movie? Then you knew, you murderer!

D: Now hold on George. There some question. I say, "No Boris. It not Burt Reynolds. It our commander." See, our commander look just like Burt Reynolds. It incredible. Hey! That good future subject for your show!

S: Get on with it. D: Da. So I say, "Boris! Look! They take pictures of our commander and his secretary. And they laugh at him!" We get mad. And we shoot down.

S: You saw nothing else unusual about the plane?

D: Well, we notice they serve drinks, and I say to Boris, "Boris! Look! We need to defect and get in American CIA. They serve bombblast on duty!" This get us mad, so we shoot.

S: Didn't you bother to check?

D: Da, da. We call Ambarchik. But we get commander and we say, "Commander! Listen! Plane have pictures of you and moustache and hairpiece and sexy secretary you play with. They laugh at you. Shall we check to see if it spy plane?"

He say no. He say shoot plane. He say destroy film. So we shoot. S: It was all pretty worthless, Capt. Deadeye. No one shot our space shuttle.

D: I know. Zoonk an enemy of revolution. We make him buy us all bombblast. That where I go now.

S: To a bombblast?

D: Cheers!

S: Capt. Deadeye, you're incredible.

D: Da. Boris too. Goodnight. Applause

Labor Day memoirs

One day after Labor Day is as good a time as any to reflect on how children learn about the capitalist system. All my prejudices and experiences about free enterprise were formed when I was a kid.

My first inkling of what American business was all about took place when I was 10 years old, and sold "Collier's" magazine every week at the Hollis, Long Island railroad station. Business was pretty good (in those days you worked for premiums such as roller skates and bicycles as well as money). Then a large gorilla of a boy showed up with the Saturday Evening Post, and told me if I manned at the station while he was there he would burn cigarette holes in my arms. In later fantasies I stood my ground and defied him to carry out his threat. In real life I did what any smaller kid would do, and stayed away from the railroad station. This experience made its mark on me, and I have hated big business ever since, as well as bigness for its own sake.

My second job, at age 12, was to take a wagon and stand in front of the A&P on Jamaica Avenue offering to pull people's packages home for 10 cents a bag. I even put a sign made from a laundry cardboard with a slogan, "We Deliver Everything But Babies." The manager, for reasons I never understood, made me take down the sign and told me to stay off his sidewalk. When I asked him why, he said, "It is none of your G--D--business." I learned my second lesson. For an enterprising soul, America was the land of opportunity, providing you didn't try to start a private delivery service on the sidewalk in front of an A&P. My third job, at age 13, was delivering flowers on weekends and holidays for a society florist who owned concessions at the Hotel Roosevelt and Ritz Carlton in New York City. I never saw the people I delivered the flowers to because I had to use the service entrances of the Park and Fifth Avenue buildings. But I did get an opportunity to listen to their help. The experience confirmed my suspicions that it was much better to be rich than poor. But it also taught me that no matter how wealthy I became when I grew up, I would never be a hero to my help.

At age 14 I applied for a job as a mailroom boy after school at Paramount Pictures on Broadway in New York City. I noticed the personnel manager's name on the door was Mr. O'Connor. I walked in and told his secretary that "Father Murphy of St. Francis College in Brooklyn sent me."

Mr. O'Connor saw me and asked how Father Murphy was. (I could tell he was faking it.) When I said the good priest was fine and spoke warmly of Mr. O'Connor, I got the job. The lesson I learned from this encounter was that it is always better to lie in the business world to get a job than it is to be honest and thrown out into the street.

At age 15 I worked that summer in a hotel at Long Beach, Long Island. I started as an elevator operator, and then became night clerk from midnight until 8 in the morning. My instructions from management were that if a couple came in with luggage, to charge them the regular rate for a room, but if they came in without luggage, to charge them double the rate. The people with luggage invariably complained about the rate. The people without luggage never argued with me. I discovered another valuable lesson. If you provided an urgent need for someone in the United States, price was never a problem for the person who desperately wanted it.

I don't believe I learned too much about the free enterprise system from my days in the Marine Corps, except for one lesson that still seems to hold true. When you get into a poker game, the guys with the largest stacks of poker chips in front of them can usually bluff the people with their tiny stacks out of every pot.

With all its faults, America is still a land of opportunity, especially if you learn the ropes when you're young. If you wait until you go to the Harvard Business School to find out how the system works, you might possibly make it in the real world, but you will have missed out on all the fun.

Jack Anderson

The warring factions of Nicaragua

WASHINGTON — Polls show the American public is, to put it mildly, confused about the situation in Nicaragua.

There are four identifiable groups involved: the Sandinista regime in Managua; the CIA-backed counter-revolutionaries of the FDN; the MISURA coalition of Miskito, Sumo and Rama Indians and black Creoles; and the independent rebel force under the charismatic former Sandinista, Eden Pastora.

Here is my associate's assessment of the four groups, all fighting for their own hopes and dreams of what Nicaragua should become:

THE SANDINISTAS: The Marxist-oriented regime in Managua is determined to hang on to the power it seized from Somoza four years ago, and has put the entire country on a near-hysterical war footing. "We'll arm every single Nicaraguan if that's what it takes to defend ourselves," said Interior Minister Tomas Borge, a power on the nine-man Sandinista ruling directorate.

The regime has been helped immensely in its militarization of Nicaragua by the hard-line rhetoric coming out of Washington, the Reagan administration's open support of the FDN "contras" and the Big Stick deployment of American troops and ships in the area.

"We have to be prepared for an eventual invasion by the U.S. Marines," junta chief Daniel Ortega told one of the many mass rallies held to keep revolutionary enthusiasm at fever pitch. It's a shrewd line to take: There are still Nicaraguans alive today who remember earlier invasions by the Marines who occupied the country for years and installed the hated Somoza family dictatorship before they left.

EDEN PASTORA: Cunning, streetwise, macho and colorful, Pastora is the only individual rebel leader with international stature. Yet despite his denunciation of his former Sandinista buddies for letting the Cubans and Soviets in, he is viewed with uneasy suspicion in Washington. "Pastora wants to be a new Fidel Castro," a high-level State Department source said.

Although his "pure" anti-Sandinista movement has failed to catch fire, he is still the only foreseeable replacement to the Managua junta who might capture the Nicaraguan people's loyalty.

MISURA: The Indians' leader, 29-year-old Steadman Fagoth, a multilingual German-American-Miskito-Creole, has been forced into a reluctant alliance with the CIA-backed FDN. But he is clearly the junior partner in this marriage of convenience, and complains bitterly that his forces don't get the CIA supplies they're entitled to because they must come through the FDN and the Honduran army.

The Misura guerrillas are regarded with suspicion by the FDN and Honduras, which believe that the Indians are really fighting for independence from whoever is in power in Managua and Tegucigalpa.

THE FDN: Despite their million in CIA aid — or possibly because of it — the largest anti-Sandinista group has failed to make significant progress in its guerrilla war. Rebel sources told my associate in Honduras last month that the CIA has exercised too little control over the arms and supplies it gives the FDN. The result of rampant corruption in the top military leadership — which is composed almost entirely of former Somocista national guard officers.

"The Somocistas are growing fast," one disgusted FDN rebel said. "They are taking life easy in Tegucigalpa (Honduras) while we die and starve in the jungle."

Dear Abby:

Woman had bellyful of 'thin is in'

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this again: DEAR ABBY: Do you know what it's like to: "Walk down the street and have a total stranger say, 'You have such a pretty face, it's a shame you're so fat'?" "Shop in a grocery store and have people watch to see what you put in your cart?" "Walk into a restaurant and wonder if you'll fit into the booths or chairs? (Or worse yet, go to someone's home and pray there will be a chair that's sturdy enough to hold you?)" "Squeeze into a theater seat and sit in agony during the entire performance while the sides of the seat dig into your thighs?" "Lose out on a job for which you are highly qualified because of the way you look? (They never tell you that's the reason, but somehow you know it.)" "Be told that someone would like to date you if you would lose some weight?" "Wonder if maybe you wouldn't be better off dead?" "Well, I do. I know there is nothing you or anybody else can do about my problem. Abby, but it felt good to get it off my chest. Thanks for listening."

FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE
DEAR MISERABLE: I know of two solutions to your problem. One is Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 6190, Torrance, Calif. 90504. It has chapters in nearly every city in the nation, and a more loving, caring, understanding and supportive group of people you could never hope to meet. "The other is The National Association to Aid Fat Americans, Inc., P.O. Box 43, Bellerose, N.Y. 11426. This is a group of frankly fat people who have banded together for the purpose of helping the obese to accept themselves as they are. There is much to be said for both organizations. "When writing, please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Abby, the above letter changed my life. I was also "Fat, Female and Miserable," so I decided to do something about it. I made a choice. I decided to quit trying to be something I was never meant to be: thin! For 20 years I had tried every diet that came along. I lost and gained and lost and gained. Finally I could no longer handle the feeling of failure, so I went the other route and joined The National Association to Aid Fat Americans. I have finally learned to accept myself as I am, and I've never been happier. Sign me...

FAT, FEMALE AND FEELING FANTASTIC
DEAR FEELING FANTASTIC: One of our most cherished rights is the right to be ourselves, so congratulations. There's nothing wrong with being heavy — as long as you're healthy! Problems? Everybody has them. What are yours? Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Donohue

Woman needs attention

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am real concerned about my neighbor. She is in her late 50s and has started her periods again after stopping them 10 years ago. She has cramps and lately has become nauseated. She flows for a day or two each month. She tells me she cannot afford to go to the doctor, so I am hoping you will write something in your column to persuade her. Hopefully, something can be worked out with our local doctor. We will be anxiously waiting for your reply. — G.P.

I am concerned about your neighbor, too. When bleeding occurs after menopause the specter of cancer looms. I don't mean to imply that all post-menopausal bleeding is cancer; most of the time it is one of the benign ailments. In any event it is not normal and simply must be reported. So make sure she is seen by a physician.

And to pursue this general theme, I receive many letters in which the writers state they cannot afford to see a doctor, so they hesitate to seek medical attention. All your friend has to do is contact a physician and explain her circumstances. I know that doctor will make accommodations for her or direct her to a facility where she can be seen quickly. In fact, in many cases that person may even learn that routine medical attention is his or hers by right because of one or another of our social programs. The person has simply been misinformed about the situation.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My father, 53, had a stroke that paralyzed him and left him without the power of speech. That was a month ago. He is undergoing physical therapy, but is so discouraged, and we are dismayed at the lack of real progress. Can he be expected to regain speech? Can speech therapy help him? The emphasis is on physical aspects to date. — Mrs. R.

Generally speaking, it is unusual for a stroke victim to recover 100 percent of pre-stroke function. I would be less than honest if I didn't tell you that. Yet, modern stroke rehabilitation therapy can produce truly remarkable results.

Other muscles can be trained to perform functions previously done by those damaged. And also, other brain areas can send out messages that can take over lost functions. So it is possible for proper speech therapy to bring some return of that faculty. It can be a long and often discouraging return.

It is important to retain a sense of perspective in stroke rehabilitation. For your father, a success that might to you seem insignificant can be a major triumph, adding to his self-esteem and confidence, qualities that seem to build on themselves to bring further improvement. Keep up the therapy, and, yes, include a lot of good speech therapy with it. The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" may give you some helpful information. Other readers may obtain a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Affluent schools likely to offer computer training

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Youngsters in affluent schools are more likely to receive computer training than their counterparts in poor ones, and that may leave some students unable to compete in an increasingly computerized society, a researcher says.

To help equalize opportunity, Anderson called for support at the national and state government levels, and implored businesses to lend a hand.

"... To the extent computer literacy and computer expertise are necessary for success in getting and keeping jobs, computer inequity is a serious problem," said Ronald Anderson of the University of Minnesota.

"It threatens to separate groups and communities by giving some people more effective tools for living in the computer age."

The sociologist is a co-author of a new federally financed report that offers the first solid statistical evidence supporting concerns by some educators — that the spread of classroom computers has largely bypassed disadvantaged children.

Anderson, director of the university's Center for Social Research, said in a weekend interview that 58 percent of the nation's school districts had computers for student use last year. If the growth rate continues, 85 percent will be using computers this school year, he said.

The 12,000 wealthiest schools are four times as likely to have microcomputers as the 12,000 poorest, he said. And enrollment in such programs is lower in districts qualifying for federal aid for the economically disadvantaged.

The study by Anderson and a colleague at the university, Professor Wayne Welch, was funded by the National Science Foundation. It was based on a 1982 foundation study, statistics from Quality Education Data of Denver and data from the National Assessment of Educational Progress, which surveyed 18,000 students aged 13-17 across the nation last year.

Among the findings: —Thirty-seven percent of the 83,700 school buildings in the U.S. had at least one microcomputer for students.

—Only 7 percent of students in schools getting special federal aid had taken computer programming, while 14 percent of students in more affluent schools had taken such classes.

—Suburban and small-city schools were enrolling students in computer studies at a faster rate than those in the inner cities and rural towns.

—The Central states pushed computer studies most at the high school level, or age 17. Forty-one percent of students in that region said they were taking courses. The West and Northeast tied at 33 percent, and the Southeast trailed at 24 percent.

For the group 13 years old, the West led with 25 percent, followed by Central 23, Northeast 21 and Southeast 12.

—More boys than girls were taking a shine to computers. Anderson said that is due in part to traditional sexual stereotypes.

Cowboys avert Redskins' massacre

WHITE HAS FIRST HALF BLUES — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White (11) falls forward for a short gain during the first half of Monday night's game with Washington. White suffered through a miserable first half but fired three second half touchdown passes and score once to rally Dallas to 31-30 victory.

White's 3 TD throws fuel 31-30 rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — At halftime Monday night, the Dallas Cowboys staggered into their locker room, a seemingly beaten team. Washington led 23-3 and looked just like the defending Super Bowl champions they were.

"We all came in saying, 'Don't let down,'" said cornerback Dennis Thurman. "It was a unanimous feeling — we weren't going to."

"I think we found our personality in the second half," said quarterback Danny White. "We found out what we can do out there."

What they did was rally for a 31-30 victory, built on White's three touchdown passes. "If they improve as much the rest of the season as they did in the second half, they will be a great team," said John Riggins, the Redskins' Super Bowl hero. "They just never let up."

Two of White's scoring strikes were bombs covering 75 and 51 yards to Tony Hill. The third was a 1-yard clincher to tight end Doug Cosbie, offsetting Joe Theismann's second TD pass for Washington, a 10-yarder to Don Warren with 10 seconds to play.

And even before it was asked, White knew what was coming.

"No," he said, "it doesn't make up for last year."

Last year, in the second half of the National Conference championship game, he sat on Dallas' bench, a concussion clouding his mind, while the Redskins completed a 31-17 victory that propelled them into the Super Bowl.

In this second half he completed eight of 10 passes for 183 yards.

"I talked about setting the tempo," said Redskins' Coach Joe Gibbs. "I told them we couldn't let anything happen the first five or six minutes."

That was when White began bombing away. "It was a lot of big plays that beat us," said Gibbs.

Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry called it "kind of like two games out there. In the first half, I don't think I ever saw a team play better than Washington. . . . I told them at halftime that it was just a matter of pride. The Redskins learned tonight that anything can happen."

In all, White completed nine of 20 passes for 193 yards while Tony Dorsett ran for 151 yards on 14 carries.

White, literally knocked out of last season's National Conference championship game that propelled the Redskins into the Super Bowl, appeared indecisive and shaken in the first half, when he completed only one of nine passes and was sacked twice while Washington rolled up a 23-3 lead.

"I think we found our personality in the second half. We found out what we could do out there."

Danny White

But he and the Cowboys were a different team from then on. In the third quarter, on Dallas' first possession, he completed a 90-yard, five-play drive with the longest pass of his career. It was the 75-yarder to Hill, who took the pass on the Washington 31, a stride behind cornerback Vernon Dean and cruised into the end zone.

On the Cowboys' next possession, not yet halfway into the third period, White blasted the Redskins' secondary again, this time from a shotgun formation. He lofted a sideline pattern to Hill, who had gotten behind cornerback Anthony Washington and again found an unhindered route to the goal line.

The Redskins' lead was now only 23-17. They had a chance early in the fourth quarter to widen it to nine points. But Mark Moseley, last year's Most Valuable Player because of his field goal accuracy, missed on a routine 31-yarder.

Dallas was in business again. From its 20, Dallas moved steadily to midfield, then reserve linebacker Mel Kaufman plowed into White on a late hit and a personal foul gave Dallas the ball on the Washington 35.

Five plays later, Dorsett, who had broken loose on a 77-yard run in the first half, gained 18 yards to the Washington 9.

Ron Springs added eight yards, then White sprinted around right end for the score which tied it 23-23. Rafael Septien, whose 26-yard field goal was all Dallas could manage in the first half, added the extra point that put Dallas ahead.

Fellows intercepted Theismann with 2:03 remaining and ran the ball 33 yards to the Redskins' 4. Three plays later, White passed 1 yard to Cosbie with 1:49 to go.

The first half was almost all Washington as the 'Skins played with all the confidence and tenacity befitting a Super Bowl champion. They controlled the ball for 23½ of the first 30 minutes to roll up their 20-point lead.

Moseley kicked field goals from 23, 30 and 39 yards out and John Riggins, the Super Bowl MVP, bulled for a 1-yard touchdown. Theismann, who finished with 28 completions in 38 attempts for 325 yards in the game, hit on 15 of 19 for 181 yards in the first half and the last one seemed to sound Dallas' death knell.

It was a 41-yard scoring strike to Charlie Brown with 31 seconds remaining in the second period.

Nebraska grabs No. 1 stranglehold

By The Associated Press
 Nebraska strengthened its hold on the top spot in the Associated Press' first regular-season college Top Twenty football poll, while defending champion Penn State slipped from fourth place to 20th.

The Cornhuskers, which ripped Penn State 44-6 in the inaugural Kickoff Classic last week, took 44 of 50 first-place votes and 993 of a possible 1,000 points Monday from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Nebraska had 976 points in the preseason poll.

Oklahoma, which opens its season this weekend at Stanford, received three first-place votes and 868 points for second place. Texas, which gets under way Sept. 17 at Auburn, got two firsts and 865 points for the third spot.

Auburn, which opens its season this weekend at home against Southern Mississippi, received the other first-place vote and moved from fifth to fourth with 757 points.

Notre Dame, which opens at Purdue on Saturday, rose from sixth to fifth with 659 points and Michigan, which hosts Washington State in its opener, climbed from 10th to sixth with 593 points. However, Florida State slipped from seventh to 12th after barely beating East Carolina 47-46.

Ohio State, No. 9 in the preseason poll, replaced Florida State in seventh place with 586 points. The Buckeyes open at home against Oregon on Saturday.

North Carolina, a 24-8 winner over South Carolina, moved up from 11th to eighth with 568 points. Southern California, which plays host to Florida this weekend, slipped from eighth to ninth with 560 points.

Georgia, which knocked off UCLA 19-8, jumped from 15th to 10th with 528 points.

While UCLA fell in the rankings, Florida moved in with a 28-7 triumph over Miami.

The Second Ten consists of Arizona, Florida State, LSU, Alabama, Southern Methodist, Iowa, Maryland, Florida, Washington and Penn State.

Shocker!

Scanlon rips McEnroe

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Scanlon, riding behind his booming serve and supreme confidence, shocked top-seeded John McEnroe 7-6, 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 Monday to advance into the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

It was the earliest exit from America's premier tennis tournament for McEnroe since his first appearance in 1977, when, as an 18-year-old, he also reached the fourth round.

For Scanlon, it was only his third career victory over McEnroe in 10 meetings and marked the first time he had reached the quarterfinal of a Grand Slam tournament since Wimbledon in 1979.

U.S. Open

"This has to be the best I've ever played in any major tournament," Scanlon told the crowd of 20,701 at Louis Armstrong Stadium and a national television audience.

The victory moved Scanlon into a meeting with Mark Dickson, who defeated John Lloyd of Britain 6-7, 7-6, 6-0, 7-6.

Third-seeded Jimmy Connors, a four-time U.S. Open winner, had no such problems in his fourth-round match, crushing Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland 7-5, 6-4, 6-1.

With McEnroe's loss, Connors, who was in the same half of the draw, became a heavy favorite to advance to Sunday's men's final.

Lloyd's wife, Chris Evert Lloyd, the women's No. 2 seed, reached the quarterfinals for the 13th consecutive year, defeating No. 16 Kathy Jordan 6-3, 7-6, while top-seeded Martina Navratilova, looking for her first U.S. Open singles crown, rolled over Pilar Vasquez of Peru 6-0, 6-1 in just 43 minutes. Vasquez' only game came in the fifth game when she broke Navratilova's serve.

In other women's fourth-round matches, third-seeded Andrea Jaeger ousted Bonnie Gadusek 4-6, 6-2, 6-1; No. 5 Pam Shriver eliminated Lisa Bonder 6-2, 6-2; No. 7 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany defeated Pascale Paradis of France 6-4, 6-1; No. 8 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia stopped No. 10 Zina Garrison 6-3, 7-5; No. 14 Jo Durie of Britain downed Anne White 6-3, 6-0, and Argentina's Ivanna Madruga-Osses toppled Andrea Leand 6-1, 6-3.

McEnroe's loss left No. 2 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia as the highest seed left in the men's singles. Lendl, who is still looking for his first Grand Slam title, will meet No. 12 Johan Kriek in a fourth-round match Tuesday.

It was a troubled and tentative McEnroe who faced Scanlon on the Stadium Court Monday. His serve was off and he made numerous unforced errors. (See 'McEnroe' on page 8-B)

Is your heating/cooling system gobbling up too much money?

If electric bills are taking too big a bite out of your budget, consider equipment with a higher energy-efficiency rating. The higher the rating, the less electricity it takes to heat and cool your home. And using less electricity will help hold down your bill.

High-efficiency equipment costs more, but when the equipment qualifies, Texas Electric will give you a bonus check to help pay the difference. So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.

Earning the "Top Steer" award as the top defensive player in Friday night's win over Snyder was senior Mike McKinley. Eric Sherman, another senior, won the "Hawk" award as the top offensive back while McKinley and Charley Ragan, a senior tight end, shared the "Bullet" award for their special teams play.

Jimmy Cearley, a senior center, claimed the "Conan" award as the game's outstanding lineman. Sherman grabbed the "Golden Spike" award as the top defensive back.

The five awards are made every week by the Steers coaching staff after grading the film of the previous week's game.

Workers protest 'Bonzo economics' at rallies

By The Associated Press
 Hundreds of thousands of workers rallied against President Reagan and "Bonzo economics" on Labor Day, while some employees made peace with management and millions of others took a break from their work to revel in summer's last long holiday.

Americans thronged beaches, parks and backyards, dousing the 90-degree heat that swamped much of the country in pools, lakes and ocean surf. At least five drownings were reported.

The three-day weekend proved deadly on the nation's highways, where 436 perished between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday, 14 less than the 450 fatalities safety officials had predicted.

For construction workers in Michigan, autoworkers around the nation and symphony musicians in Utah it was a time of harmony, as they moved away from confrontation and towards contract settlements.

Workers paraded through America's cities by the thousands, but in New York City, the 425,000 marchers far outnumbered the 50,000 spectators who sparsely lined Fifth Avenue.

"It's a disgrace," said Mrs. Paul Gutenstein. "I'm ashamed that people would rather swim than come to

The Solidarity Day bash in Austin, Texas, drew 10,000 people to a march starting at the state Capitol, bearing picket signs with slogans such as "Bust the Union Busters Today" and "Hallelujah, I'm a bum, thanks to Reaganomics."

the parade, after what kind of government we've got." AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, who reviewed the New York parade, lashed out at the Reagan administration's economic policies, saying the recovery "has bypassed working people and benefited only a handful of corporate entrepreneurs and corporate profits."

"The current occupants of the White House have so identified the general welfare with enriching the rich and pandering to the powerful that everything else strikes them as 'special interests,'" the nation's foremost labor leader said.

For laborers in about 150 U.S. cities, Labor Day was renamed Solidarity Day III to show the strength of the nation's unions.

The Solidarity Day bash in Austin, Texas, drew 10,000 people to a march starting at the state Capitol, bearing picket signs with slogans such as "Bust the Union Busters Today" and "Hallelujah, I'm a bum, thanks to Reaganomics."

In Cleveland, about 15,000 union members joined in a 350-foot parade through town, as some marchers hefted signs reading "C'mon, Ron, stop the Bonzo economics." One of Reagan's films was called "Bed-time for Bonzo," about a chimpanzee.

Tragedy marred the holiday for members of a Houston church when four children drowned in swift currents in the Gulf of Mexico at a church outing in Galveston, Texas, on Sunday.

New York City's Canarsie Bay Park was the scene of another drowning on Monday when a man died after he waded into a deep channel. His wife was in critical condition.

In a TV address to the nation, Reagan spoke of the "Korean Air Line Massacre," urging condemnation of the Soviet Union for the downing of a Korean jumbo jet Thursday carrying 269 people.

"Our immediate challenge to this atrocity is to ensure that we make the skies safer and that we seek just compensation for the families of those who were killed," Reagan said.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said Monday was "one of the nicest Labor Days that I've celebrated in a long time," as the union reached agreement with Chrysler Corp. on a tentative contract for 56,000 workers. Chrysler workers, who granted the No. 3 automaker wage concessions when its outlook was grim in 1979-81, had been clamoring for a pay raise since the company announced record profits the first half of 1983.

A coalition of Detroit-area building trades unions agreed to end picketing at a non-union Port Huron, Mich., construction site where violence has brought 11 arrests and a legal action by the contractor.

CANDIES ARE ONLY ONE GREAT FEATURE OF RAINBARREL
 ...Amy Lewis, Debbie Cross and Sealy Harris at General Store

Rainbarrel carries unique gifts, candies

In May, the Rainbarrel moved adjacent to the Gold Mine Restaurant, giving customers the most convenient shopping possible.

Owners Steve and Amy Lewis have given the General Store the best in gift, candy and hobby stocks. Some of the more famous candies they carry include Lammes Candies from Austin, Sweet Shop Candies from Fort Worth and Lee's Country Candies, makers of Fudge Loves.

The Rainbarrel General Store in College Park Shopping Center already has a reputation for offering the most unusual gifts. Now they offer this in a spacious store with a greater stock.

They also have Jelly Belly jelly beans and fruit Gummy Bears from Europe.

But there's a lot more to Rainbarrel. They still have wind chimes, stained glass and a great selection of gag gifts, games and puzzles.

You can find fresh ground coffee, kitchen accessories and receive free gift wrapping.

The model shop is the Rainbarrel's newest feature. Before you've had to go miles out of town to find model airplanes, rockets and trains. Now the Rainbarrel brings these and all the needed accessories to town.

Come by the Rainbarrel General Store. They are open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get letters written, and shopping done with relative ease today, so get started early on them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle those details connected with practical affairs and complete them today. Especially get into your accounts.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to finish personal matters that you have started and gain the right benefits from them. Contact neglected friends.
