Thefts up 20 percent

Crime figures show thefts up

By RICHARD HORN, Staff Writer
Assaults, thefts and burglaries are up this year, robberies and motor vehicle thefts are down, and rapes and homicides are occurring at about the same rate, according to figures released by the Big Spring Police Department.

Motor vehicle thefts are down by 17, and robberies are down by five, statistics show. One more homicide has been reported over last year. Police Capt. George Quintero said the increase in thefts represents a growth in the number of reports, not necessarily incidents.

stores and household items like lawnmowers and garden hoses. Police Chief Rick Turner said he is battling the assault increase by having officers keep closer watch on businesses which sell alcoholic beverages. Assaults are up from 275 in the same period last year to 323 this year, and Turner said many of these are alcohol related.

have reduced somewhat the increase in the number of assaults, and he said a study of the statistics shows that the crime is a bigger problem during hot weather. Capt. George Quintero said police are handling the cases better because more victims are following through on prosecutions.

Citizens fight back with 'War on Drugs'

Ms. Barron also said drug abuse is reaching a younger group. "Our elementary-age students have parents who came right out of the 60s period of hard rock and drugs, and they're still abusing at home."

Manager Owen Ivie said. "We anticipated it." The Texas Supreme Court granted a possible writ of error on two of 30 possible errors filed by the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA), Ivie said.

'Magical design' home

FAIRFIELD, Iowa — Illusionist Doug Henning has decided to stress "magical design" in a home he and his wife are having built in Lakeview Estates.

"Originally, we were going to build this huge mansion," says Henning who arrived in Fairfield last week with his wife Debbie for some rest and relaxation at Maharishi International University. "But we realized that there were only two of us, and we said 'that's ridiculous.'"

"We're going to concentrate on exquisite quality and magical design rather than size," he said of the modest home the Hennings now are planning.

Construction was delayed by his starring role in the Broadway show "Merlin," and the house won't materialize until spring, Henning said.

Lawyer is Monopoly whiz

BOSTON — When famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey played Monopoly during a promotion for the parlor game under the rotunda of the restored Quincy Market Building in downtown Boston, he slyly tucked a yellow "Get out of jail" card into his vest pocket.

"If I go to jail I'm going to pay the $50 and keep this," commented the 48-year-old Bailey, who also snapped up St. James Place, a flock of houses and three railroads before cashing in with assets worth $6,682 after only one hour of playing time Thursday.

Bailey defeated three opponents, including Boston Celtics general manager Red Auerbach, in the Parker Brothers promotion of a new electronic hookup designed to speed the game, dating back to the 1930s, with loans, auctions and action.

But Bailey couldn't wait around to count up his winnings.

"Can you please assign someone to cash me out?" he asked, jumping up and running out. "I've got a telephone call."

Talents auctioned off

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — High bidders at an auction to benefit the Republican party in Tennessee could wind up with a family portrait taken by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker or a piano recital compliments of Gov. Lamar Alexander.

Alexander will go to the home of one of the lucky winners to perform.

Also to be auctioned off Sept. 16 for the benefit of 1984 GOP legislative candidates: a football autographed by the University of Tennessee team and a gourmet dinner, to be prepared by U.S. Trade Representative Bill Brock and his wife.

Baker has been a shutterbug since he was a teenager, and likes to develop and print his own photos.

Relating to 'Shadows'

LONDON — Hank Marvin, leader of the venerable British pop group, the Shadows, attributes their success at least in part to the fact that "we had pimples and I had glasses."

"That was something people could relate to," said Marvin as rock stars gathered in London on Thursday to pay tribute to the Shadows, who received silver discs to mark 25 years in the music business.

Soviet writes angry letter

LOS ANGELES — An official Soviet commentator has written a letter to the editor of the Los Angeles Times repeating claims that the United States sent Korean Air Lines Flight 007 on a spy mission against the Soviet Union.

Viktor Viktorov of the Novosti press agency wrote in a letter published today that the United States used the civilian jet to spy on Soviet territory hoping "for a sure win."

"Had the plane returned, it would have brought intelligence data, which the American service cannot obtain by other means," Viktorov wrote.

"Had it failed to come back, a propaganda campaign could have been orchestrated against the Russians and used as a cover for evading the solution of major international problems and distracting attention from the latest initiatives of the Soviet Union, aimed at the relaxation of international tension and ending the arms race, something which the present U.S. administration bitterly opposes."

Viktorov's letter repeated other Soviet claims defending that nation's action in shooting down the South Korean jet with 269 people aboard last week. U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz has denied that the plane was on a spy mission and called the Soviet defense "preposterous."

Anthony Day, editor of The Times' editorial page, said the newspaper receives three or four letters to the editor each year from Moscow.

Kremlin gives own report

A top Kremlin general said today a U.S. spy plane rendezvoused with a South Korean airliner that entered Soviet air space on Washington's orders and that the airliner ignored at least 120 warning shots before a Soviet warplane destroyed it with a missile.

"The plane obviously must have been flying toward Soviet air space fulfilling a spy mission. ... Why did it proceed in no other place than the one with Soviet installations?" asked Marshal Nikolai V. Ogarkov, the Soviet military chief of staff.

In a rare news conference at the Soviet Foreign Ministry televised overseas, Ogarkov told foreign reporters that Soviet defense forces detected Korean Air Lines flight 007 flying side by side with an American RC-135 surveillance aircraft for 10 minutes near a sensitive Soviet military zone in the Sea of Japan, 310 miles off the jetliner's intended course.

"Their flights were certainly coordinated so as to make our task more difficult and confuse our air defense forces," the marshal said.

He said the South Korean Boeing 747 later tried to flee when interceptors scrambled to meet it and defied 120 warning shots before a Soviet warplane blasted it with an air-to-air missile.

This was the first Soviet acknowledgment that one of its planes downed the South Korean jetliner with a missile, one of two Ogarkov said were fired. Previously, the Soviets had said only that the flight was "stopped."

Critics seek aid cutoff

WASHINGTON — Congressional critics are threatening to seek a cutoff of money to U.S. troops in Lebanon while President Reagan is pledging his full support to the 1,200-man Marine contingent in the war-torn Mideast nation.

"I am determined to see to it that we provide you whatever support it takes to stop the attacks on your positions," Reagan said Thursday in a telephone call to Marine commander Col. Tim Garaghty in Beirut. "Tell the Marines the entire nation is proud of you and the outstanding job you are doing under difficult odds."

Reagan's phone call preceded a news conference by Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., to protest the administration's assertion that the Marines are not involved in combat but instead are caught in the middle of hostile fire in their role as a peacekeeping force.

Four Marines have died in recent fighting in Beirut, and a total of five have been killed since the force was sent there a year ago.

"President Reagan, with all good intentions, has ordered our Marines into a war which is the constitutional job of Congress to declare and provide the money for," said Long, chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations.

Chileans defy police

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thousands of Chileans defied tear gas, riot dogs and club-swinging police to march in anti-government demonstrations that left at least two dead, scores hurt and hundreds jailed.

"He's going to fall! He's going to fall!" hundreds of young slum dwellers screamed Thursday night as Santiago streets filled with the acrid smoke of tear gas and bonfires in the fifth monthly "Day of National Protest" against President Gen. Augusto Pinochet's military government.

But the demonstrations and the response by security forces appeared less violent than in the previous protests, in which witnesses said police fired randomly at marchers and in some cases machine-gunned them in their homes.

A coalition of labor groups and opposition political parties has organized the demonstrations each month since May to vent anger over the severe economic recession and Pinochet's political restrictions.

Pinochet, who seized power from an elected Marxist government 10 years ago, has granted some concessions to appease the protesters. But he also has denounced them as subversives and rejected their demands that he resign.

Teachers' walkouts continue

As teachers' walkouts in seven states continued to disrupt classes for 222,000 students, union officials in St. Louis refused to say whether striking teachers would obey or appeal a federal judge's order that they return to work today or face contempt charges.

The strikes by 11,000 teachers in 36 school districts centered mainly on wages or unsettled contracts, with class size, teaching time and seniority rules among the other issues that kept classrooms idle on Thursday.

In St. Louis, U.S. District Judge Stephen N. Limbaugh on Thursday ordered the 2,700 striking teachers and 1,100 striking support workers to immediately end their two-day-old walkout because they were hampering a voluntary desegregation plan.

"Our attorneys have been reviewing the situation and will continue to do so," Sally Eskew, a representative of American Federation of Teachers Local 420, said early today. "I'm sorry, but I can't tell you any more than that," she added.

St. Louis schools have been open since Wednesday, the day the desegregation program between the city and its predominantly white suburbs went into effect.

Man has no hope of riches

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — He's put a tidy sum in every packet, but Terry Kelliher doesn't have a shred of hope about getting rich from his latest product.

The 27-year-old, self-described entrepreneur from Hartford is marketing a novelty item called "Old Moneybags Good Fortune Confetti."

It is a packet filled with shredded U.S. currency and containing a booklet complete with fortune cookie-like saying and a resemblance of President Ronald Reagan.

"You're never without money with Old Moneybags," reads the inscription atop the packet. "I'd been working on the idea since 1976, trying to get the rights to shredded currency," Kelliher said.

"But it wasn't until 1980 that the government loosened its regulations that I could get permission to buy it and market this." Using shredded currency requires permission from the Treasury's Bureau of Government Financial Operations.

"Old Moneybags" originally resembled the drawing of the man in Parker Brothers' "Monopoly" game, Kelliher said. But Reagan's election made him the obvious choice as the item's standard-bearer.

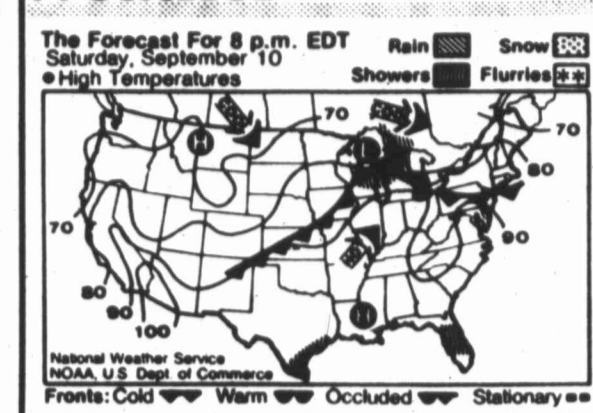

"I originally wanted to put a million dollars in each bag, but that was impossible," Kelliher said.

"So I decided to try to put the equivalent of an unemployment check in each bag."

Each "Old Moneybags" contains about 1 1/2 ounces of finely shredded currency. Except for its fine-lined green color, it resembles normal confetti.

The item is not Kelliher's entrance into the political novelty field. Before Reagan's election, he tried selling peanuts in a white box with smiles on the side called "JC Peanut in the White House."

Flash flood watch

A flash flood watch was in effect today for the Texas Gulf Coast as a number round of thunderstorms dumped rain from Southeast Texas across the coastal plains to the Rio Grande Valley.

The storms were spawned by the combination of a pocket of cool air aloft and daytime heating.

The heaviest activity this morning was reported near Brownsville and between Bay City and Galveston. Rain also was approaching El Paso from the southwest because of a upper air disturbance over northern Mexico.

Skies were fair over most portions of west and north Texas but low clouds enshrouded the Hill Country and Edwards Plateau eastward through Central Texas to the coastal bend. South to southeasterly breezes at 5 to 15 mph maintained high humidities and above normal temperatures.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s and ranged from 65 at Marfa to 81 at Galveston and Corpus Christi.

The forecast called for thunderstorms over most of the state tonight and Saturday. Lows tonight are expected to dip into the lower 70s. Highs Saturday should reach the lower 90s.

Pounding thunderstorms swept the Upper Midwest with Minnesota buffeted by chilly 75 mph winds and heavy rain, while less severe storms were scattered over parts of Wyoming, Utah and the Florida Keys today.

Meanwhile, a flood watch continued in effect for Galveston and Chambers counties in Texas, even though only a few showers lingered along the western Gulf Coast.

Skies were cloudy in the Pacific Northwest, the Northern Plains and the Southeast, while most of the rest of the nation had clear skies.

West Texas: Isolated to widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly south. Otherwise, partly cloudy today, clearing tonight and fair Saturday. Highs today and Saturday mostly in the 90s except near 104 in the Big Bend valleys. Lows in the 60s except 70s south.

how do they stand the ritual?
Monday night, Jim Farbusch wore a feathered headdress to a boys' meeting with his son.
Tuesday for the neighborhood cookout he donned an apron embellished with funny slogans.
At the Wednesday civic club, he kept things lively noisily shaking coins in a coffee can as he assessed fines from delinquent members.
Thursday was lodge night. No special rites, so a simple fest sufficed.
Friday? High-school home-coming game. In a coonskin coat reeking of mothballs, Jim chanted the traditional incantations.
Two, four, six, eight, who (sic) do we appreciate?
Saturday chores found him bedecked in a rather gaudy uniform-of-the-day silky-shiny coveralls in chic burnt-gold hue.
And on Sunday as he passed his acquaintance, the Episcopal rector in front of the church, Jim chuckled. "Those crazy Episcopalians! How do they stand all the robes and ritual?"
Maybe you too wonder what makes Episcopalians tick. They have some rather interesting thoughts on religion. Your nearby Episcopal neighbor or minister would be flattered if you ask him to discuss these with you, and he'd likely be the last person in the world to twist your arm.

A sigh of relief, but a problem still

We are encouraged that drug use seems to have become passe with today's high school students.

A survey published in the Herald yesterday indicates that the overwhelming majority of students shuns alcohol and drug use. Dozens of students, in the "Comments" section of the survey, expressed their belief that abusing one's body with drugs or alcohol is "stupid" and "dumb."

The results of the local survey coincide with national statistics which indicate substance abuse is decreasing.

This is certainly a welcome change from the drug culture of the '60s and the '70s. Certainly the Vietnam war had an effect on drug use in that era. Certainly the fitness craze has had an effect on the new attitudes. Today's students seem to have returned to healthy feelings about themselves and the world around them.

However, the small percentage of students who indicate they do use drugs and alcohol constitutes a problem that needs our community's attention. Some students who took the survey seemed to be crying out for help, such as the girl who said, "It just gets hard to make it through the day without a lude or some speed." She said, "I see the stupidity of it but it's hard to stop."

One student suggested a place is needed where teenagers can go, like "a bar or dance place with loud rock and roll music but no alcohol at the bar, just cokes."

These are some of the problems that a steering committee of Big Spring civic leaders — chaired by Paul Shaffer — will be addressing as they organize town meetings in conjunction with a national television program, "The Chemical People," to be aired Nov. 2 and 9.

As one community leader said, "If this helps only one person, it will be worth it." We agree, and we urge your support of the local committee's efforts.

Around the rim

By NICK GREENWALT

Wonder puppy

Do you think about your dog much?

Most of us don't. We buy a puppy because it looks cute and for nearly a month we drown it with affection.

However, that first month is generally made up for when we regard the dog as furry furniture that barks after those initial four weeks. We feed, walk and scold the dog when needed, but otherwise the dog is ignored.

However, there are a few people lucky enough to realize how stupendous having a dog can be. They understand that a dog is probably the most loyal friend one could ever have and they know that dogs can give a purer, more honest love than can usually be gotten from people.

I've always been happy to be in this category. Dogs are special and we can learn from them, if we allow ourselves to. Currently I have a miniature schnauzer named Maggie and I am continually astounded by her. While I have always felt that dogs are special, her actions constantly verify my feelings.

IN ORDER for most people to give affection, some must have been received first. We don't feel good about giving unless we are getting more than what we put out.

Our emotional responses to those around us are generally conditional. We love someone when they're happy but want to avoid them when they're sad; we love someone when they have money, but not when they have debts; we love someone when they act as we think they should, but not when they get out of line.

A dog's love doesn't change. Dogs have but one purpose in life, to give. A dog will put the person first while a person puts himself first. No matter what happens, a dog's affections can't be altered or changed.

While this is an admirable quality, it can also be a troublesome one. No matter how obnoxious or cruel a person is, a dog will always attempt to be friendly. When a person is upset with or mean to a dog the dog will feel guilty. This lasts even when a person practices animal cruelty, but that's another rim.

Interestingly enough, dogs also worry when we are not home. Most dogs identify with their owner or owners in such a great degree that their absence causes a slight anxiety attack. It's nothing to worry about, but it explains why a dog acts so happy when its person or people come home.

PEOPLE ARE the same way with loyalty as they are with love. As long as everything goes as planned, we're loyal. Let things go amiss, however, and we make a hasty exit. When we don't leave, and this is something about me that I really detest, we question and have doubts in those who need our loyalty.

A dog, again, will not question but will accept. Dogs are experts in loyalty, they seem to sense when we need a friend and respond accordingly.

Many people will explain a dog's reactions as instincts, especially those who don't own a dog. Remember, we don't have solid evidence for all that we know is true.

Basically people are good but we have many faults, one of them a false sense of being superior to those we share this planet with. It may sound silly, but we can learn from animals. Especially dogs.

The loan negotiator

I met a man the other day who has a very interesting job. He renegotiates loans for Third World countries. A loan renegotiator is not to be confused with someone who gets a nation a loan or collects one. He goes to work after a country has the loan and can't pay it back.

We shall call the man Jean Valjean, and he works for the Credit Bearnaise. He told me, "A loan renegotiator is the most important figure in the banking world today. Without him the monetary system would go under."

"How do you renegotiate a loan?" I inquired.

"You renegotiate a loan by not paying. The service you perform is to come up with a legitimate reason why a country cannot repay a loan to a foreign bank."

"Does it have to be a good reason?"

"Of course it has to be a good reason. Everyone knows long before the payment date that the Third World country can't pay its debt. But you still have to go through the ceremony of pretending it's a surprise to all parties."

"Could you give me an example of how you renegotiate a loan?"

"At the moment I just renegotiated a loan for the South American country of Santa Busta. Santa Busta is a Third World country that owes $1 billion to a consortium of Western banks."

"Why did the banks loan her that kind of money?"

"Because she was willing to pay two percent more for the loans than other countries. Besides, at the time, Santa Busta was getting $4 a pound for mining raw Velcro, its only natural resource."

"What did Santa Busta do with the billion dollars?"

"Some of it went for roads, some of it went for Mercedes Benzes, some of it for scotch whiskey, some of it went to pay for tear gas, and quite a bit of it wound up in numbered Swiss bank accounts belonging to Santa Busta politicians in power."

"Okay, so the money was well spent. Why can't they pay it back?"

"Last year the price of raw Velcro tumbled to 10 cents a pound and the country went bankrupt."

"So that's when you were called in to renegotiate the loan?"

"Right. Both Santa Busta and the consortium of banks asked me to come up with a plan that could justify them not paying the loan back. I talked Santa Busta's leading families into announcing a tough austerity program, which they were more than happy to do, since most of them live in Florida. Then I went to the banks with the austerity program, and asked them to renegotiate the loan by not demanding principal for seven years. The banks accepted this providing Santa Busta pay interest on the loan."

"Where could Santa Busta get the money to pay the interest?"

"I persuaded the consortium to loan Santa Busta the funds to meet the interest payments."

"Why would they do that if the country was bankrupt?"

"The consortium had to do it so they could keep the Santa Busta debt on their books as a viable loan. If Santa Busta couldn't pay the interest, the banks would have to tell their stockholders that a major client was in default, and then everyone would be in the soup. As far as the banks were concerned it was just an accounting transaction. They put the interest money they loaned to Santa Busta in one computer and transferred it to another computer in the same office. Now everyone can be relaxed until the loan comes up for renegotiation next year."

"I can now see the value of what you do. What do you get paid for this sort of thing?"

"A nice percentage of the loan, which the banks are only too happy to pay anyone for getting them off the financial hook."

Billy Graham

What about religious books?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think religious books can be helpful to a person, or should we just read the Bible only? — F.W.

DEAR F.W.: Religious books must never be allowed to take the place of the Bible, for the Bible is unique. It is unique because it alone is God's holy word. God has inspired it and given it to us as our only source and final authority of truth about himself. "All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, so that the man of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work" (2 Timothy 3:16-17).

At the same time, there is certainly a place for good religious books, as long as they are true to the Word of God and will help you grow in your relationship with Christ. For example, some books (such as a good Bible dictionary and a concordance) will help you as you study the Bible seriously.

Certainly one of the richest treasures is Christian biography. As you read about the lives of Christians who have served God across the ages, your own faith can be strengthened and your service for Christ can be challenged to deeper commitment. There are also many fine devotional writings, written by Christians from many periods of history who knew God and loved him. God has been at work among his people throughout the centuries, and we can learn from them — just as we learn from the experiences of Believers today.

But I want to come back to the priority of the Bible for our spiritual growth. No Christian will grow spiritually as he should apart from the Word of God. If you are not already doing so, I challenge you to set aside a period of time each day — perhaps only ten minutes at first — when you get alone with God. Listen to his Word as you read it and meditate on it, and use that time as well to pray. God wants to use his Word to shape up and change us into the people he wants us to be.

Mailbag

The other side of the mailbox

Dear Editor,

I am quite surprised there were no responses in regard to Mr. Hardesty's August letter concerning postal carriers versus dogs. He is either prejudiced or has a one-sided insight.

To begin with: why just postal carriers? What do they do to invite being bit? And they do carry a spray for dogs, which is effective but harmless. I was a door-to-door salesman for 28 years and have yet to be bitten because vicious dogs are not allowed deliberately to run loose. Most dogs do bark, to alert their owners of trespassing.

And I don't intend to confine my dog, because I've had two tires slashed, my camper rear view mirror smashed, and my lawn mower stolen. This is my protection since the police don't have a stake out to prevent this. My German Shepherd is 14 years old (no teeth), but he does have a bark that makes any strangers hesitate. And if carriers would refrain from fanning letters every time a dogs barks, they would no doubt not even go close.

On August 18, there was an editorial in support of Mr. Hardesty's theory. All other reporters sign their name. Why no signature ever on the editorial? Seems we have one more situation where one or two persons opinion is law.

TV characters drinking more

BOSTON (AP) — Researchers who sampled three decades of television shows ranging from "Leave it to Beaver" to "Dallas" conclude that drinking is up during prime time but smoking is down.

Their review of "The Twilight Zone," "Perry Mason," "Alice," "M-A-S-H" — 280 1/2 hours of situation comedies and dramas in all — found a 10-fold drop in TV smoking since 1950. But during the same period, on-the-air drinking has risen dramatically.

The research, published in part in today's New England Journal of Medicine, was conducted by Drs. Warren Breed and James R. De Foe of the Institute for Scientific Analysis in Berkeley, Calif.

"We believe that television producers accepted the idea that smoking is dangerous to your health," Breed said in an interview. "We think they have shown good responsibility to the public in terms of health."

The depiction of drinking, however, was excessive, Breed said. TV often fails to show the consequences of overindulgence and rarely portrays people turning down a drink, he said.

"I would say that television does not handle drinking as responsibly as it could," he said.

The use of booze on TV was unchanged until recent years. Throughout the 1950s, '60s and '70s, actors on the hour-long shows committed an average of four "drinking acts" per hour. But in the early 1980s, this doubled to eight per hour.

In a drinking act, the actor actually takes a gulp on camera or has a glass in his hand.

Breed attributed the increased drinking to the advent of shows like "Love Boat," in which drinking plays a part in the plot.

"A pleasure cruise ship where people weren't drinking would be ridiculous," he said.

The researchers counted all the liquid consumed, not just alcohol, and "people on television drink more alcohol than soft drinks, coffee or water," Breed said. "Drinking on television does not reflect reality."

Cigarette smoking was highest on the hour-long drama shows during the 1950s and early 1960s, when actors puffed an average of 4.4 cigarettes every hour. By 1982, this had dropped to just under a third of a cigarette per hour.

"Characters from all occupational strata smoked, but one profession is noteworthy," the researchers wrote.

"In a 1961 episode of 'Dr. Kildare,' both Dr. Kildare and his mentor, Dr. Gillespie, smoked. In contrast, not a single cigarette was seen in 10 hours of two 1971-1977 hospital dramas, 'Medical Center' and 'Marcus Welby, M.D.'"

The research, conducted for the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, also attempted to keep track of illicit drug use on television. But this turned out to be almost nonexistent.

"People just don't shoot up on television," Breed said.

Taos poisons many prairie dogs

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — This New Mexico town has poisoned 41,050 prairie dog burrows near schools, parks and residences because "people were overrun" with the rodents, says Mayor Phil Lovato.

"We had more prairie dogs than people," Lovato said. "They're a nuisance. People were being overrun with prairie dogs."

The possibility of plague being carried by fleas on prairie dogs was not the primary concern, he said.

The poisonings took place between Aug. 8 and Aug. 31, said police Capt. Albert Vidaurre. Lovato estimated there were four rodents in each hole that was poisoned.

Meanwhile, the Taos County Commission allocated $4,000 Tuesday for a prairie dog control program.

The county plans to hire an adviser from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service with the $4,000 allocation from its farm and range fund, said County Manager Tom Trujillo.

City and county offices had been inundated with calls from people who had found prairie dogs in their homes, tearing up their yards, and living too close to parks and school playgrounds.

Troopers driving Mustangs

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Drivers in V-8 powered Mustangs cruising down Florida highways at high speeds won't have to worry about being pulled over by state troopers. They are state troopers.

The Florida Highway Patrol says it's adding the smaller, more powerful sports cars to its fleet, figuring to save gas when its officers give chase.

Forty high-performance Ford Mustangs, lined up in neat rows, were unveiled by Col. Bobby Burkett, the highway patrol's director, Highway Safety Director Robert Butterworth and Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter at the patrol Academy on Wednesday.

"Here we do see a marriage of cost efficiency and safety," said Gunter, who took one of the stick-shift Mustangs for a spin around the parking lot.

The cars will get better gas mileage and enable troopers to turn around and catch up with speeders in only five to seven miles instead of the 15 to 20 miles it now takes in slower, full-size cars, said Butterworth. "This means we will not have two speeders on the highways for 15 or 20 miles."

The Mustangs are painted the patrol's cream-and-black colors and have blue flashers on their roofs.

Bride-elect feted at bridal luncheon

Susan Brashears, bride-elect of Wayne Hirt, was honored at a bridesmaid luncheon in the home of Mrs. James Coates, R-Bar Community, Saturday.

Assisting with the hostess duties were Mrs. Daryle Coates and Cheryl Coates, sister and niece of the honoree. The hostess gifts to Miss Brashears were a corsage of blue flowers, a set of kitchen knives and peach-colored bath towels.

Mrs. Daniel Hirt, St.

Lawrence, mother of the prospective bridegroom, was the special guest. Guests were seated at luncheon tables laid with white imported cutwork cloths embroidered with blue, and centered with silk flower arrangements in varied shades of blue.

The couple will be married at St. Lawrence Catholic Church, Saturday. The Rev. David Holley and the Rev. Billy de Hass, cousin of the bridegroom, will officiate.

Clothing costs and people's opinions differ

Recent surveys show that Americans think they're paying more but getting less when shopping for clothes. These opinions aren't supported with facts and figures, says an extension clothing specialist. The dollars may have gone up, but since 1960 the percentage of incomes spent on clothes has actually gone down. Prices have increased at a lower rate than for other items, and comparatively speaking, clothes cost less.

Dr. Donohue

Heart's beat signals have backup

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I had a cardiogram recently the doctor told me it showed complete right bundle branch blockage. He called it "BBB." After listening to him trying to explain it to me I still can't tell my family in simple, plain language what that is. Can you please tell me? I wrote to you when this happened but I never saw anything in the paper on it. Could you now oblige? — Mrs. C.J.S.

I'll explain it probably much as your physician did. The advantage is that you'll have it in black and white and be able to ponder it a few times until the idea sinks in. Isn't the printed word marvelous?

Block and blockage when used in speaking about the heart aren't very comforting words. They can conjure ominous images. But the kind of block you have is a fairly common one, and it does not refer to blood supply in your heart, at least not directly. The term refers to the way the electrical message travels from the top of your heart to the bottom, the top telling the bottom to beat.

This electronic message gets through the heart by two cable systems, the right and left bundles. Normally the message travels down both cables at once. Your problem is that your right heart bundle is not working. It is blocked, hence you have a right bundle branch block. A right "BBB." That does sound a bit serious, I'll have to admit, but usually it isn't. The message is getting to where it has to because the left bundle is still there. Your heart continues beating well despite the loss of the message-carrying capacity of the other bundle.

So what does it mean for you? Often, nothing. Sometimes it may imply that there is some slight circulation problem involving the heart, but so long as you have a normal heartbeat, and as long as you have no other signs of heart trouble, the finding of an RBBB usually augurs no impending doom and requires no special treatment. That's true in most cases. And if you were an exception I'm sure your doctor would have told you so.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have watched your column for a long time now, waiting for an answer to ear noises, but so far, silence. What is the best way to get rid of ear noises? If you don't know, why don't you just say so? — D.B.

I don't know the best way to get rid of ear noises. If I had a sovereign cure, many readers, like yourself, would nominate me for a Nobel Prize in medicine.

I have discussed this many times before. We all hear noises in our heads to some extent. Few people can be placed in a totally soundproofed room and stand silently without hearing noises. But how to get rid of them?

The only way I know of is to try tracking down some of the causes. Working in a loud environment can cause one to hear such noises later. So blocking such noises can help.

Certain medicines may cause ear noises — aspirin, for example. Impacted earwax can lead to ear noises. I have in the past recommended use of noise-masking devices. You wear them in your ears like hearing aids. They can be tuned in to mimic the precise noise level inside the ear. It works for some, not for others.

Dear Abby:

Young son's benders break mother's heart

DEAR ABBY: My 13-year-old son goes to his friend's house to drink beer every Saturday and Sunday afternoon. His friend is 15, and I don't know if his parents are home at this time or not.

Should I let my son go on doing this and bury my head in the sand like an ostrich? I can't tie him up in his room for the next five years.

I don't want him to turn into an alcoholic by the time he is 18. He has come home from his friend's house so drunk he can hardly talk or walk straight. He keeps promising not to do it again, but it's the same story next weekend. Please help me.

DISTURBED MOM IN LODI, OHIO
DEAR MOM: If you love your son (and I'm sure you do or you wouldn't have written to me), you will forbid him to visit his beer-drinking friend again. Allowing him to spend his weekends getting drunk makes you guilty of child abuse! Please call Alcoholics Anonymous and ask for its help. Your son is possible an alcoholic already. I beg you not to put this off. It's the most important thing you have to do today.

DEAR ABBY: I was supposed to get married in July of '82, so my co-workers gave me a shower. I postponed my wedding because my fiance said he wasn't ready for marriage, but he promised we'd get married at a later date. My co-workers insisted I keep the gifts, thinking we would eventually marry. Now, 14 months later, my fiance tells me he thinks we should call it quits — that we are not "right" for each other.

I am so embarrassed about those shower gifts. Should I just haul them back to the office and go up and down the hall giving out presents like a department store Santa Claus? Or should I mail each gift back individually?

My friends and relatives have offered to return all the gifts for me while I'm away on my vacation. I don't think this is proper, although it would be easier for me. When I tried to return the gifts last year, everyone insisted I keep them, but now I know they must be returned.

What is the best way to handle this?
EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Feeling as you do, you should return them yourself. Start by telling a few of your closest co-workers that your engagement is off; therefore, you are returning all the shower gifts next week.

You aren't the first girl this has happened to, so don't be embarrassed. You are to be commended for insisting on returning those shower gifts. Many do not.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your 10 tips on how to be a good wife, followed by 10 tips on how to be a good husband.

How about inviting your readers to submit their 10 tips on how to be a good son or daughter? That would not only make interesting reading, but it would tell us something about the younger generation.

OLD-TIMER
DEAR OLD TIMER: A great idea! Children?

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

"West Texas Style" Cooking —
Serve yourself at Fats' Buffet.

You'll see a lot of "regulars" at Fats' Buffet. Regular customers who put great store in hearty cooking and a no-frills dining atmosphere.

Some of them come in groups from across town — from the Industrial Park or from out the Snyder Highway. They know they'll get served quickly in the cafeteria-style restaurant and get back to work on time. Fat's Buffet is open only at lunch — from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. — every day except Monday.

Speed and convenience are assets, but Fat's Buffet's main attraction is the food. Fats Johnson says he has no secret ingredients or special recipes. "I just cook West Texas style," he says, adding modestly "My customers seem to like everything I cook."

You serve yourself when you go through the line, and you can pile your plate high. The tab is one price — $3.90 for the regular plate lunch, $2.60 for the child's plate and $3.70 for Senior citizens, tax and drink included.

Entrees change daily, but there's always a choice of 5 or 6, such as roast beef, barbecue brisket, Southern fried chicken, chicken fried steak. (The chicken fried steak is a special favorite of customers and is on the menu nearly every day.) Choose from 5 or 6 vegetables including such standbys as corn and potatoes, but also cauliflower and broccoli. (One of his "regulars" praises an imaginative combination of vegetables which Fats whips up from time to time.) To complete your lunch there are several desserts, a salad bar, cornbread or homemade yeast rolls, and coffee, tea or lemonade. (Milk or Cokes are extra.)

One of his regular customers, a bachelor, said visits to Fats' Buffet helped assure that he gets "well balanced meals" several days a week.

Your Dining-Out Editor decided not to count calories the day she dropped by, selecting Chicken Fried Steak, Pinto Beans, Cornbread and Cherry Cobbler. It was better than Grandma used to make. Fats and his wife Mary come to work about 7:30 every morning and share the cooking. Everything is made fresh daily and is made from scratch.

Fats has been in the restaurant business for almost 20 years, much of it in Big Spring. His genial face and ample frame are familiar to most of his customers.

Fats' Buffet is located at 1003 11th Place. It's open Tuesday through Sunday, and is closed on Monday.

PET REMEDIES — Will garlic pills kill fleas and ticks on dogs? Will diatomaceous earth, a talcum-like silica substance that's derived from the shell of single-celled organisms called diatoms, eliminate intestinal worms in animals? The answers to both questions is an unequivocal maybe. Most veterinarians doubt the effectiveness of the "home remedies," however, many people still firmly believe in its value.

Doctors skeptical that home remedies effective with pets

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Is garlic effective in combating fleas and ticks on dogs?

Will diatomaceous earth eliminate intestinal worms and do away with the need for over-the-counter preparations or those prescribed by a veterinarian?

The answer to both questions is an unequivocal maybe.

At one time, all medications were gleaned from the plant world.

Penicillin, for instance, had its beginning in mold. Digitalis — used in controlling certain heart ailments — originally came from the foxglove flower.

And garlic was once used almost universally to reduce high blood pressure.

But with the growth of the multi-billion dollar industry that manufacturers synthetic drugs, the use of "home remedies" is now widely discounted by doctors and veterinarians alike.

"I'm aware of garlic being used to control fleas and ticks," said a spokesman for the San Diego Zoo. "But it's an outdated concept of veterinary medicine and is not used here."

Dr. Eric Miller of the St. Louis Zoo concurs. "There is no proof that garlic is effective on fleas and ticks. I know of no zoos that use such home remedies."

A Midland veterinarian, who did not wish to be named, also doubts the effectiveness of what he refers to as "folk remedies."

"It's an interesting subject," he said. "But it's superstitious witchcraft medicine."

He and other veterinarians, however, say most over-the-counter flea and tick products — including collars — display a limited effectiveness.

They also admit that to their knowledge no formal studies have been conducted on the issue of "veterinary folk medicine."

But advocates of home remedies think they know why no such studies have been done.

"It's probably economics," said Dr. Joel Wallach. "It would be pretty hard for pharmaceutical companies to get a patent on garlic."

Wallach is a former newspaper columnist and a former veterinarian with the St. Louis Zoo. He's now a naturopathic physician who operates three clinics in Portland, Ore., and has recently published a 1,200-page book on animal care called "Diseases of Exotic Pets."

"It deals somewhat with home remedies," he said. "Yes, there's a certain amount of validity to them. All kinds of plants have remedial effects. They do work. And they lack the potential toxicity of commercial chemicals."

"But with garlic, there were problems with its consistency because of different growing conditions. Also, there's the smell, an inconvenience. We're a convenience-oriented society."

Wallach said he had not heard of diatomaceous earth being used for worms and suggested that anyone wanting to try garlic for repelling fleas and ticks "should play with it."

Polygamist battles state law

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Royston Potter, fired by a suburban Salt Lake City police force because he is a polygamist, says he took three wives as a matter of religious conviction.

Potter calls his decision "living the principle," and it has revived a century-old dispute in this mostly Mormon state by challenging anti-polygamy laws demanded by Congress before Utah entered the Union.

"It's not so much that you decide that you want one (a second wife)," he said. "It's necessary as far as a theology goes."

Potter's lawsuit seeks legal sanction for an outlawed practice still embraced by thousands of Utah residents. Polygamists once dodged police raids and served jail terms, but today they are seldom prosecuted.

Potter, now a janitor, has five children and two more "on the way." He maintains three separate households which he said he visits "on a rotation-type thing, normally one-night at each place."

Potter and wives Denise, 30; Joann, 30; and Mary, 23, are among the 20,000 Utah residents who, according to Owen Allred, head of the pro-polygamy Apostolic United Brethren, are members of multi-parent households. They practice polygamy despite the 87-year-old state Constitution, which bans plural marriage, a third-degree felony.

Potter was fired in late 1982 when officials in the Salt Lake suburb of Murray learned of his second wife. Potter married a third time this year.

"We felt that he had a religious guarantee to practice plural marriage," said Potter's attorney, Dennis Haslam, who further contends the firing was an invasion of privacy.

Mormon pioneers brought polygamy to Utah in the 1840s after it was introduced by church founder Joseph Smith as a divinely inspired plan.

But plural marriage prompted sometimes bloody opposition from non-Mormons, and Congress passed laws preventing polygamists from voting or holding office in federal territories like Utah. Many were forced into hiding or imprisoned; the church was disincorporated and much of its property seized.

In 1890, church President Wilford Woodruff announced the ban on polygamy among Mormons, saying God had told him to do so in order to prevent further confiscation of property and imprisonment.

In pre-trial documents, Murray's attorneys argue that polygamy is frowned upon by most Americans, many of whom consider it demeaning to women, and "if everybody practiced polygamy, there would not be enough females to go around."

They maintain that while polygamy is accepted in some cultures, so are blood feuds, tribal warfare, stoning of adulterers "and many other practices repugnant to our culture and moral values."

No date has been set for trial of the lawsuit, which names the city of Murray, its civil service commission, individual city officials and the state and federal governments.

Polygamists have not challenged the law for at least a decade, fearing publicity could anger the state's Mormon majority and revive stiff enforcement of the law. As late as the 1950s, police raided polygamist strongholds, jailing suspected practitioners and sending their children to foster homes.

In February, Potter was excommunicated from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. But he still considers himself a true Mormon and believes the church was wrong to abandon polygamy.

Potter and other polygamists — many of them former Mormons — believe Woodruff's decision did not come from God, but was a result of pressure from Congress to abandon polygamy in exchange for statehood.

The enabling act for Utah statehood in 1896 insisted the state Constitution forever prohibit polygamy, and attorneys for the state were able to argue successfully that the federal government should be included as a defendant in Potter's suit.

Haslam declined to say whether he believes religious prejudice from Mormons was behind the city's decision to fire Potter.

"It is ironic, though, that in our local society, those folks who are so opposed to it are those who held it so close to their hearts before," he said.

Church spokesman Don LeFevre said, "The church doesn't make any excuses for having practiced polygamy in righteousness during the 19th century."

LeFevre said church leaders have never specifically said whether they would resume polygamy if it were legal in Utah. But church President Spencer W. Kimball has said, "Remember, the Lord brought an end to this program (polygamy) many decades ago."

Asked about jealousy among his wives, Potter said: "Human emotions are going to be there no matter what."

years and claims it's been 100 percent effective in keeping her dog free of worms.

"I sprinkle about a teaspoon on their food every day," she said. "It appears to dissolve, but it's not soluble in water. It works by clogging the digestive tract of worms. The digestive tract of dogs is much larger, so it doesn't hurt them."

"I started using it in 1967 on the advice of a veterinarian. My dogs are checked periodically and have shown any signs of worms," she said.

"Diatomaceous earth won't work on heartworms, though — only on intestinal worms."

On the advice of a Midland woman who shows dogs, she began using garlic about six weeks ago and says its 80 percent effective on ticks and 90 percent effective on fleas.

"I'm using four garlic capsules a day on each of my dogs because we have a bad flea and tick problem where we live. But most people could probably use one or two a day and be all right."

"I roll them up in small pieces of hamburger or moist dog food."

'Black boxes' could reveal what happened before jet shot down

NEW YORK (AP) — Two "black boxes" which may reveal what happened before a Korean jumbo jet was shot down by the Soviets are most likely still in good shape — wherever they are in the Sea of Japan, says a U.S. aviation technical expert.
 "If the boxes could be retrieved right now, they'd probably have good data on them," said Carol Roberts, chief of laboratory services for the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington. "Recorders that have been in the water a week are no problem at all."
 But the Soviet Union has refused to allow Japan or the United States to conduct searches in its territorial water for the wreckage. And reports from Japan on Wednesday indicated the Soviets had nearly doubled the number of vessels operating in the area.

withstand a shock equal to 1,000 times the force of gravity.
 The Soviets have not said where the missile or missiles struck Korean Air Lines Flight 007, carrying 269 people, and that could determine the condition of the boxes.
 "If the missile hit the engines of the airplane, it probably wouldn't have all that much effect on the recorders," Ms. Roberts said. If the missile struck the tail, she said, "conceivably there could be some damage to the recorder. But they are built to withstand a lot."
 The flight data recorder contains 25 hours of information on the aircraft itself, including altitude, airspeed, heading, acceleration, pitch attitude, roll attitude and at least 12 other factors.

Coahoma at Stanton

They invented the word "rivalry" for games like this one. The Bulldogs are coming off a stirring effort against Kermit. Two muffed chances inside the Yellowjacket 10 killed any Coahoma scoring chances in 8-0 loss. Crippling blow came in second quarter as linebacker Robby Henry went down with knee injury and is lost for year. Buffaloes met the challenge against a vastly improved Tahoka team. Quarterback Darren Sorley had a good game and the defense, although not a brick wall, was stout enough to give up just one score. This one is a toss up. Stanton was a thriller in Coahoma last fall. This year, it's the Bulldogs' turn. (Game time 8 p.m.) Coahoma 20, Stanton 18

Garden City at Forsan

Who will win this game? Do you have a crystal ball? On paper, it should be the Bearkats easily. But Garden City had its problems last week, losing to Buena Vista. Meanwhile, the young Buffaloes avenged a surprise loss in 1982 with a one-point victory on the road against Bronte. Forsan coach Jan East calls G-City quarterback Richard Balta "the premier athlete in this area." Bearkat leader Stewart Cooper is starting at tradition which points to a Forsan win. Ah, but all streaks eventually are broken and if the 'Kats learned a lesson last week they should win Friday. (Game time 8 p.m.) Garden City 19, Forsan 18

Seminole at Colorado City

The Indians took it to the Wolves last year but last week had Andrews give them a taste of their own medicine. Colorado City, meanwhile, zipped up the road to Slaton and held their all-state running back to less than 100 yards, winning 14-6. The Wolves are for real in 1983 and will take this game without much problem. (Game time 8 p.m.) Colorado City 28, Seminole 12

Wink at Greenwood

Greenwood did its best impression of Dallas last week in New Mexico but played one bad quarter too many. Down 27-0, the Rangers rallied to within six before losing. Coach Joe Longley says his team learned a lot from the experience. The only problem is returning to Texas to face Wink, one of the best Class A team in the state. Wink was in the playoffs last year and is expected to make a return appearance with more than half dozen starters back from 12-1 squad. The Rangers will play tough but Wink is too tough. (Game time 8 p.m.) Wink 19, Greenwood 14

Dawson at Grady

Grady had its ups and downs in win over Loop but coach Richard Gibson will take a "W" any day. The opposition for the first home game may be more than the small-numbered Wildcats can handle. Dawson won this game last year and is just as talented. Grady will have to play great defense and put a lot of points on the board to pull this one off. (Game time 8 p.m.) Dawson 38, Grady 28

Water Valley at Sands

Water Valley has new coaches, new players, new outlook and a lot of size. Sands has Robby Creswell. Coach Jim White saw his team beat up on hapless New Home and his young line gained valuable experience. If the holes keep opening for Creswell, who had 225 yards and two TDs, the Mustangs will stay tough. Stop Creswell and there is Santos Ybarra. Last year's winning tradition holds strong. Brownfield at Lamesa

Lamesa put up a good fight at Levelland before falling to the Lobos. The Tors have lost 21 of their last 22 games but only victory sandwiched in that drought is last year's win over Brownfield. Coach Clyde Noonkester has spirits up in camp...whether that will turn program around this year is to be seen. But one thing is for sure; the Tors will roll tonight in grand fashion behind Kenneth Williams, Greg Bryant, Gilbert Arredondo. (Game time is 8 p.m.) Lamesa 28, Brownfield 7

Klondike at Meadow

Klondike had its chances against Sundown and since coach Mickey Virdehl says Meadow is comparable to last week's opponent, the Coogs should have their chances again. Ground game led by Rolando Juantos and Ray Arismendez. Team needs quarterback Tim Cope to get all-district air game going. Meadow is picked third in Sundown's league, has a good set of backs and is a challenge. Klondike is due, however. (Game time 8 p.m.) Klondike 21, Meadow 14

Fast-strike Matadors prevail

Blocked punt key in Steers 21-14 loss

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

LUBBOCK — When Estacado High's famous quick-strike offense was restrained, its less publicized quick-strike defense came through with the big play. In fact, the play to win Thursday night's non-district game.

Clinging to a one touchdown lead, linebacker Wally Owens blocked Jay Pirkle's fourth quarter punt and recovered the loose football in the end zone for what proved to be the winning touchdown as the state's No. 5-ranked Class AAAA team held off the Steers 21-14 at Lowrey Field.

The clutch defensive play finished above Terry Upshaw's 168 yards rushing in Estacado's list of outstanding performances. Although the senior running back scored twice and caught a two-point conversion pass, it was Owens' heroics that provided the Mats with their second win.

Having just regained the lead on Upshaw's second score, the Mats corraled BSHS for three plays inside the Steer 20. On fourth down, Pirkle dropped back to punt from his goal line and disaster, namely Mr. Owens, struck.

The snap from center Danny Arista was high and Pirkle, a long-ball punter with a mechanically-slow motion, took too much time sending the ball downfield. Owens, rushing unattended from the right side, smothered the ball. He was quick enough to regain his feet and cover the loose football in the Steer end zone.

"I snapped it kind of high." Arista admitted but it was Pirkle who took the blame. "I was a little slow getting it off. I guess it was a combination of things but really it was my fault."

The Steer junior rallied back from the crucial mistake minutes later. Beginning a drive on the Estacado 49, throwing quarterback Mark Johnson drove the Steers to the 20 in three plays. On first down, he flipped a screen pass to Pirkle, who broke six tackles and scored on a play that should have gained only three yards.

"I wanted to get in there," Pirkle said. "I don't remember how I did...I just remember getting in there."

Jay Gonzales kicked his second extra point and the score narrowed to 21-14 with 4:11 to play. Of course Big Spring tried the on-sides kick and Matadors needed another defensive sparkler to save the day.

The attempt was perfect. Bounding the necessary 10 yards, the football evaded one Estacado player and free-for-all ensued at the Matador 45. The primary combatants were the Steers' Derek Logback and Estacado's Shawn Avery. When the officials finally pulled the two apart, Avery was hugging the ball and Estacado had survived its last threat.

For Big Spring, the second half was a stark contrast to the first two quarters. Held to only 37 total yards, the Steers were fortunate to trail only 6-0 at halftime. Cornerback Eric Sherman's interception on the goal line stopped the first one Matador drive of the game and Logback's tackle on a fourth down reverse by quarterback B.T. Ross stopped a second quarter march on the Steer 17.

Sherman's pickoff killed a 15-play Estacado drive. The Mats hogged almost seven minutes of the first quarter clock and converted four third down situations.

Big Spring ran just 17 first half plays, gaining one first down. Meanwhile, Upshaw alone drew 14 assignments and gained 102 yards.

"I don't think we were ready to play football when we went out there," said Steer head coach Quinn Eudy. "The effort was there but weren't mentally in the game. That's poor preparation on my part."

In the locker-room, the first half game plan was altered. "We talked about our tackling and made a few minor adjustments," Eudy said. The strategy session proved invaluable. The Steers took the opening kickoff and moved from their own 27 to the Matador 32. The first two penalties of the game, however, stalled the drive. A play later, quarterback Tommy Gartman passed incomplete to end Robert Porras. The play was ruled a lateral, however, and Ross recovered for the Mats.

No problem. Upshaw fumbled on the Big Spring 39 five plays later and Arista pounced on the football. Mike McKinley, who started at fullback in the second half and gained 50 yards, bullied for gains of 7 and 19 yards as the Steers drove the Estacado 19.

Faced with a fourth down, Gartman chose a pass-run option. With Estacado closing in fast, he fired a pass to tight end Charley Ragan slanting open in the end zone. Ragan made the catch, the first passing score for the Steers in two years.

Gonzales knocked the kick through and with 53 seconds left in the third quarter, Big Spring had rebounded into a 7-0 lead. The Steer defense held tough after the following kickoff and forced a third and nine from the Estacado 44. Ross, with only one completion in four throws, dropped back to pass and heaved the ball downfield. Tight end Tony Sowell had beaten Porras, the safety, and pulled in the throw for a 48-yard gain to the Steers 8. Three plays later, Upshaw scored again and the Mats had regained the lead for good.

The second-year coach did have something to smile about after the loss. After recovering the on-sides kick, Estacado drove to the Big Spring yard line. Four separate defensive plays by Jerry Meyer and Pete Crabtree, Arista, Porras and finally Logback kept the Mats out of the end zone with 12 seconds to play.

"That was a hell of goal line stand," the coach said. "That's a very positive thing. I didn't feel the kids ever thought they were beat. The kids showed they wouldn't stay down."

Arias stuns Noah, Lendl wins easily

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Lendl's methodical march through the United States Open Tennis Championship clearly is becoming more difficult.

Through his first four victories in this richest of all Grand Slam tournaments, Lendl lost just one service game. In Thursday's quarter-finals, however, Sweden's Mats Wilander broke the cool Czech's booming serves three different times.

It hardly mattered, of course, since the second-seeded Lendl continued to destroy his side of the draw with a 6-4, 6-4, 7-6 wipeout of No. 5 Wilander.

That thrust him into Saturday's semifinals against underdog Jimmy Arias, the No. 9 seed who staged a major upset by eliminating fourth-seeded Yannick Noah of France, 7-6, 4-6, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5.

It was the second straight five-set marathon for Arias. That is not Lendl's style. The next set he loses in this tournament will be the first set he loses. Until Wilander, no one has even threatened to win one from Ivan the Wonderful.

Wilander appreciated the fact that he had given Lendl a tougher match than anyone else in the tournament. "I think I'm the closest one to take a set from him and I'm satisfied with that," he said.

"This was a very good test," decided Lendl. "It was a difficult match. He keeps the ball in play and he's very difficult to beat."

Wilander proved that three weeks before this tournament, when he defeated Lendl and other top pros in Cincinnati on a Decoturf II court, the same surface as the one used in the Open.

But after the first round here, the 19-year-old announced he could not win the Open. Lendl, however, didn't put much in that declaration.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Denny Walling drove in George Bjorkman with a tenth inning pinch-hit double that gave Houston the victory that ended its four-game losing streak.

Seven of those RBI have come in the last two games. His 10th-inning grand slam gave Los Angeles a victory Wednesday night, and on Thursday his three-run shot was the difference.

National League

"We have to do a lot of things right to win since we don't have a game breaker," said Walling, who now has eight hits in his last 13 pinch-hitting appearances, including a double, two triples and two home runs.

Bob Welch, 14-11, pitched eight innings in the Dodger victory, allowing only one run — which he balked home — and four hits. Tom Niedenfuer surrendered one run and three hits in the ninth before Steve Howe came on to retire Cesar Cedeno and post his 17th save.

White Sox roll onward

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox pitcher Rich Dotson is a hard man to please. Even though he gave up only four hits in eight innings Thursday night, he wasn't happy with his performance in Chicago's 8-5 victory over the California Angels.

Don Baylor and Bert Campaneris knocked in two runs apiece to stake starter Bob Shirley and New York to a 6-2 lead, and then three relievers hung on to preserve the victory in Milwaukee.

American League

Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa agreed and said the right-hander was having trouble right from the first inning. "I thought he struggled most of the game," LaRussa said. "He was rushing at times."

Youth minister helps family, child

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor
Gary Fine, minister of youth and outreach at First Baptist Church, wants to help the youth and their families spiritually and emotionally.

"My philosophy in the youth ministry is to nurture the whole person. Which means you have to deal with problems, work with what you have, and understand who they are in developing a relationship with Jesus Christ," he said.

"Our first goal as a church is to reach out to the whole community and to the young people who need more in life than they are getting," Fine said. Ways of reaching these goals are through Sunday School, youth activities, bible study, retreats, fellowships and visitations.

Fine decided to enter the ministry when he was 16. "I was impressed by God that was what he wanted me to do," he said. "My mom had some influence, but my greatest influence was my pastor."

Fine's youth minister also played an important part in his decision. "When I was a youth, my youth Christian, and in that, to follow Christ and all that He has for me," Fine said. His career goal is to be a church pastor.

"I really like the people in West Texas, and I like the staff at First Baptist. We all work for the same purpose; to win others to Jesus Christ," Fine said.

Fine graduated from Baylor University in Waco and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, this year.

Before coming to Big Spring, Fine was a contract painter with some seminary students. His former jobs with Baptist churches include being youth minister in Monahans, children minister in Fort Worth, and music and youth minister in Abilene.

Fine was raised in Monahans. He enjoys golfing, playing the guitar and hunting. Fine and wife Diane have a son, Anson, 17 months.

Young BSBS teams run at Levelland

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

Coach Randy Brittain must have a good memory. You see, every year his cross country teams change rosters and that means he's constantly reviewing new names.

Big Spring High opens its 1983 season Saturday in Levelland and only three runners on both the girls and boys teams claim any varsity experience.

The top returning letterman for the Lady Steers is junior Anita Flores. "If I had three more like her, I wouldn't complain a bit," Brittain said. "She doesn't look like a runner but she's a good one. I expect her to be up there."

His team is not low on numbers — 34 have come out for cross country. That's a contrast to Abilene High and Cooper, District 4-5A schools with less than eight in the entire program, Brittain reports.

Experience is the key. Joining Flores on the 7-member varsity team are juniors Cindy Garcia and Lan Mai and sophomore Nelda Saldivar. They are the only other runners with experience as three freshmen complete the team.

CHRISTIAN GRIBBLE ...freshman runner

PRESTON HARRISON ...only BSBS veteran

The most talented of those is newcomer Christian Gribble who has won her share of races in the Big Spring area. Cynthia Regalado and Anissa De Los Santos finish the starting lineup.

"If our young kids come on," Brittain says, "we have as a good a shot as anybody." A bonus to date has been the team's conditioning. His runners have returned to school in shape and Brittain can concentrate on training the team instead of working them into shape.

"I'm really excited about the girls. We'll find out more Saturday. There's no pressure on them in this race. We're just going to test ourselves," he said.

Four runners chose not to return on the boys' varsity. Three seniors — John DeLeon, Ricky Garza and Danny Rubio — are working instead of running cross country. Junior Lupe Garza has also joined the working class.

That leaves junior Preston Harrison with varsity experience. "We are going to be awful young," understates Brittain. Harrison and classmate Quang Mai went through an extensive summer program, their coach said, and should be highly improved over 1982.

Other varsity members are senior Roddy Fair, sophomores Dax McCracken, Rolando Montana and Johnny Barraza and freshman Jesse Bridges. Fair comes over to the team from track.

"I guess we're going to do the best can," Brittain said.

Arias relishes Noah upset

"He didn't expect to win the French Open last year," Lendl said. "It didn't work out that way. You don't pay attention to what guys are saying."

So Lendl ignored Wilander's poormouth routine and did his usual systematic job, winning in — what else? — straight sets.

Why was he able to whip Wilander here after losing to him on the same surface last month?

"I made one big mistake in Cincinnati and couldn't get out of it," he said. "I tried to pace myself, start slowly and get into the match. I never did get into the match."

Lendl learned his lesson. He has not held back in any match at the Open. There has been no pacing here. He has been going at full speed.

"From the very beginning to the very end," he said.

Lendl had elevated the level of his game from last year, in fact, from last month.

"In Cincinnati, I played the same, but Lendl didn't play as good. He didn't serve very well (there). I think he's serving much better than I am now. I think he has a good chance to win, a very good chance, a better chance this year than last year."

As for himself, Wilander said his loss proved his pre-tournament prediction that he was not ready to win the Open. "I know I have to serve better, I have to come to the net a little bit more, I have to hit my backhand and forehand better. I have to be a better tennis player."

But it wasn't all bad for the young Swede. "I made the quarter-finals," he said. "That's one more round than last year. Next year, maybe it's one more round than this year."

Arias, who turned 19 last month, became the youngest semifinalist in the Open era, which began in 1968. He played a memorable match filled with spectacular, often acrobatic shots, against Noah, the French Open champion.

"In the fourth set, when I was down 3-0, I threw it away to run him," he said. "I acknowledged we were going to play a fifth set. If he hit the ball too far away, I didn't give it a 100 percent shot running after it. I was going for the corners to keep him running."

In the fifth set, both players held service until the last game when Arias broke Noah to win the set and the match.
