N-dump choices narrow

By The Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — State officials searching for a suitable site for a low-level, radioactive waste landfill are looking seriously at Hudspeth and Dimmit counties.

"We have narrowed it to essentially two counties where we are trying to secure parcels of land," said Bob Avants, assistant general manager of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority.

The lands under consideration in Hudspeth County are state-owned while the Dimmit County property is privately owned, he said.

"I can't tell you the locations or who owns it because we are negotiating," Avants said.

Several counties in West and Southwest Texas were under consideration this summer, including Knox, Baylor, Haskell, Throckmorton, Scurry, Borden, Howard, Mitchell and Maverick.

Avants said he still would be interested in talking to landowners in geographically suitable areas who would be interested in selling their land for the landfill.

If negotiations are successful on the two candidate sites, Avants said, reports on the site will be presented for final agency review. Public hearings on the sites also will be conducted, he said.

The board would then authorize the purchase of one of the sites or a back-up site would be considered.

The Texas health commissioner must issue a license for the final site.

Spent reactor fuel would not be dumped at the proposed landfill although other radioactive material, such as contaminated chemicals, workers clothing and tools from reactor areas would be deposited there.

Unique ingredients blend into arts fair

Entries in the Big Spring Parks and Recreation Board Western Arts and Crafts Fair will include straw flower arrangements and pictures made out of rocks.

Children who attend the Westside Community Center have used almost anything they can find for the art projects, including straw flowers, rocks, cardboard, popsicle sticks, clay and plastic cups, Center Director Madelin Boadle said.

"I like to make things with my hands," one 11-year-old said as he worked on a popsicle-stick stand for his straw arrangement. "I'm going to make an ashtray next."

Mrs. Boadle said having entrants in the fair was important because it "gave the children (at the center) a chance to compete with the other children in town. It gives them confidence."

Winning entries in the Western Arts and Crafts Fair will be on display today at the Citizens Federal Credit Union.

Entries will be judged in the following divisions by age: preschool to second grade; third to fifth grade; middle school, or sixth grade; junior high, which includes seventh and eighth grades; and senior high, which includes ninth grade through 12th grade.

Awards will be given for first, second and third place winners in each division.

FINISHING TOUCH — Jose Psina, a student who attends the Westside Community Center after classes, concentrates on painting his entry in the Big Spring Parks and Recreation Board Western Arts and Crafts Fair.

City officials view flak over hanger

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Officials of a fixed base operator at the Big Spring Air Park are threatening to go to the Federal Aviation Authority over a hangar lease agreement that they say has forced them to move their facilities to an inconvenient location.

City officials say the city council is simply giving the hangar to the company with the best service.

Trans Regional Airlines of El Paso is one of two fixed based operators (FBOs) servicing aircraft at the Air Park. Last week they moved out of one of the city's new hangars on the west side of the Air Park into a hangar off the main taxiway.

The other FBO, Mac Air, Inc. of Big Spring, is now operating out of both the new hangars.

The dispute began late last year when the city was preparing to move FBO facilities into the two new hangars. At the time, Trans Regional was the only FBO at the airport. Mac Air expressed an interest in competing with Trans Regional.

The council gave the north hangar to Mac Air and the south to Trans Regional. Trans Regional's lease was to expire in May, but a new lease was to be awarded in July 1983 and the council let them use the hangar until then.

Trans Regional's executive vice president Jerry Rosenbaum said the company then spent about $30,000 to prepare the hangar for business.

In July, when the council was ready to consider the new lease, Mac Air asked for both hangars.

JACK Y. SMITH

Both firms presented their service descriptions. After considering the bids the council passed over Trans Regional and awarded Mac Air the lease on the second hangar.

Since the Federal Aviation Authority says a city must provide space for any FBO that wishes to do business at a municipal airport, the city let Trans Regional move to their new hangar west of the Mac Air hangars.

"That's like having a gas station on the corner and moving it to the top of a mountain," Rosenbaum said. "We're hoping our customers will stay with us. We're lowering our prices."

Rosenbaum, in Big Spring Thursday, said the firm's business is "as

Area students rate below average on TABS exams

By JANET WARREN
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Students in an educational region that includes Big Spring performed below average in many of the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills exams they took in February.

Those tests determine if students have learned enough reading, writing and mathematics to get by in the working world.

The results for Region 18 and other areas across the state were released by the Texas Education Agency. Region 18 is composed of Howard, Martin, Andrews, Glascock, Midland, Ector, Winkler, Loving, Ward, Crane, Upton, Reagan, Culberson, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Terrell and Pecos counties.

While students in grades 3, 5, and 9 were required to take the test, 10th-, 11th- and 12th-graders did so at their own option or to fulfill a school district requirement, education agency officials said. Some of the upper-level students had taken the exam before, agency officials said.

Students in grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 were given the same test — an "exit-level" exam. It is designed to find out if students have "mastered" or developed basic skills. A Texas Education Agency spokesman said those skills are rarely taught beyond the eighth grade unless a student is in a remedial, or catch-up, program.

Other skills tests were given to third- and fifth-grade students. They were graded on whether they mastered certain objectives. No overall percentage scores were given by subject.

Third Grade.
Third-graders in Region 18 rated below the state average across the board in the percentage mastering mathematics skills.

In the majority of reading skills, Region 18 third-graders ranked below average.

In writing, they generally scored below average.

Fifth Grade.
Region 18 fifth-graders rated below average across the board in mathematics skills.

In reading, they ranked below the statewide average in mastering the majority of reading skills.

They also fell below average in writing.

Ninth Grade.
In mathematics, 78 percent of the students tested mastered the exam.

That compares with 79 percent statewide.

On the reading test, they also fell below average with 79 percent mastering the exam, compared with 80 percent statewide.

In writing, 90 percent of the students passed the test. The same percentage mastered the exam statewide.

10th Grade.
They met the state average in the percentage of students passing the mathematics, reading and writing exams. The percentages of 10th-grade students passing those tests in the region were 56 percent, 62 percent and 81 percent, respectively.

11th Grade.
In mathematics, 61 percent of the 11th-graders passed the test. That compares with 57 percent statewide.

In reading, 63 percent of the students passed the test compared with 65 percent statewide.

In writing, 80 percent of the students passed the test compared with 81 percent statewide.

12th Grade.
In mathematics, 53 percent of the Region 18 seniors taking the exam passed it. That compares with 58 percent statewide.

In reading, 68 percent of the students in the region and in the state passed the test.

In writing, 88 percent of the students mastered the test compared with 86 percent statewide.

Tower visits San Antonio, calls for increased defense

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tower, serving his fourth and last term, continued his push for increased defense spending Friday, telling a receptive military audience that "without national security, we have nothing."

Tower, R-Texas, traveled to Kelly Air Force Base to help celebrate Hispanic Heritage Week.

The senator, who reaffirmed that he would not seek re-election, pointed to the Soviets' recent downing of a Korean Air Lines jetliner, which was carrying 269 people, to bolster his argument for increased military spending.

"This is the kind of barbarity that should give you some kind of idea why we should spend a great deal of money on our national defenses," Tower said.

"There are a lot of people who say we're a little heartless to spend so much on defense when there's still so much human suffering out there, but nothing is more important to our people than our national security," he said. "Without national security, we have nothing."

Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, also said military spending helped lift the country out of a recessionary tailspin by creating jobs — especially in the fields of automobiles, shipbuilding and the aircraft industry.

"Spending by the Department of Defense kept that recession from being as bad as it could be," he said.

Tower denied that his trip was politically motivated, part of the President Reagan's and fellow Republicans' continuing efforts to snag the Hispanic vote.

Kelly has 9,800 Hispanics in its workforce, about 52 percent of the total number of Mexican-Americans employed by the Air Force.

Candidates began announcing for Tower's seat just hours after he jolted political observers Aug. 23 by stating that he was "bored" and wouldn't run in 1984.

Tower said Friday that he had no plans to endorse any of the candidates currently in the race, but wouldn't comment whether he would change his mind later.

sensing lab's main use is as a research tool for oil and gas exploration. But it has also aided oilman Jack Grimm in his search for the Titanic.

Remote sensing aids search

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Exploring for oil has one thing in common with searching for sunken ships — both are easier with a technique known as remote sensing.

So when Texas oilman Jack Grimm needed help in his search for the Titanic, he called on Texas Christian University's Center for Remote Sensing and Energy Research.

TCU's computerized equipment turned Grimm's fuzzy underwater photos into images of a 38-ton propeller and two statues, signs that Grimm's expedition may have finally located the Titanic's resting place in the North Atlantic. The find may return half a billion dollars' worth of jewelry and artifacts. TCU charged Grimm a few hundred dollars to cover expenses.

But seeking sunken treasure is not the main purpose of remote sensing. The technology is useful for many other things. It monitors reclamation at Texas strip mines, fights fires in Australia, and gives U.S. negotiators inside information on the status of Soviet wheat crops.

And at TCU, the remote sensing lab's main use is as a research tool for oil and gas exploration.

"The main thrust of the center has been to educate and demonstrate to industry the use of this tool in exploration," said Ken Morgan, director of the center.

Remote sensing, he said, is simply the gathering of information from a distance — as with aerial photography and radar, for example. More sophisticated remote sensing uses data transmitted from satellites.

NASA's Landsat satellites have been a major source of data for TCU's use, Morgan said. Such satellites, in polar orbits about 600 miles high, record the brightness of patches of the Earth's surface with a complex mirror and prism system. The satellite scans different wavelength ranges, including the infrared region, invisible to the eye.

Brightness levels are recorded as numbers from 0 to 255, corresponding to 256 shades of gray. The numbers are stored on computer tapes, which TCU buys from NASA. TCU's $250,000 computer system then analyzes the numbers, transforming them into multicolored images displayed on a video screen or converted into photographs.

"From 600 miles, you'd be able to see a football field and determine if it's artificial turf or real grass," said Morgan.

The colors produced by the computer system look nothing like real-life colors. Vegetation appears red or pink; water is dark blue or black. The concrete, asphalt and bricks of urban areas show up as bluish gray. TCU's computer system can combine Landsat data with other information (such as radar images from airplanes or other satellites) to reveal different features of the Earth's surface. Analysis of these features can help pinpoint promising spots for oil and gas drilling, Morgan said.

While many major oil companies have their own remote sensing equipment, few independent companies can afford it. The TCU center will perform analyses for small or large companies, for a fee ranging from $10,000 to $50,000.

Since its inception two years ago, TCU's center has served about 30 companies, Morgan said, most looking for oil and gas. He said the center "has been in on some oil discoveries," but information about them is confidential.

Other projects have included helping mineral companies search for uranium, molybdenum and silver. And the center has attracted international attention from groups contemplating a variety of other uses for remote sensing.

An Australian group visited the TCU center and decided to buy similar equipment for use in fighting fires. Photos taken from helicopters flying over burning buildings can be analyzed to identify hot spots and flames hidden by the smoke.

Officials from China observed TCU's system in preparing a remote sensing program to monitor farming problems there.

Remote sensing can track the spread of plant diseases, look for signs of drought and even spot water pollution or estimate crop yields. The U.S. government uses Landsat data to gauge the annual Soviet wheat crop, Morgan said.

The same techniques have been used by the TCU center to monitor the progress of land reclamation at Texas Utilities Co.'s lignite strip mining sites near Fairfield.

Such activities have received less notice than the center's recent assistance in the search for the ocean liner Titanic. A 1981 expedition to the North Atlantic, financed by Grimm, photographed an area of the ocean floor where the ship sank on April 15, 1912. Grimm's associate Joseph Darlak brought videotape and still pictures from that expedition to TCU's lab for analysis. (Grimm's third attempt to locate the Titanic ended unsuccessfully in July.)

David Koger, the research associate at TCU's center, developed techniques to enhance the images. The results convinced Grimm and Darlak that they had photographed a propeller of the proper size and type to belong to the Titanic.

In addition, the enhancements revealed what appeared to be two statues, Darlak said. One, beneath the propeller, looked like a dog. The other was a statue of a person.

"It's lying face up on the ocean floor with a pedestal where the pedestal should be," said Darlak. "The legs are somewhat obscured, but the upper body and the face are pretty much easily seen."

Morgan said the work on the Titanic project was of value because it helped develop the TCU system's capabilities for doing different things.

"That was our main objective there," he said. "Our biggest concern here is as a research lab."

Hanger

Continued from page one good as ever," although he said Trans Regional is negotiating with the city for land and will build its own hanger.

He complains that the city led Trans Regional to believe it would be granted a lease. Otherwise, he said, the company would not have made the improvements on the hanger.

In a letter distributed to its customers last week, Trans Regional said:

"Due to political pressures presently beyond our control, we have been forced to move to a hanger located well out of convenient reach of the runway."

Trans Regional's attorney, John Steinberger of Midland, said he is advising the firm to negotiate with the city. He said no legal action has been taken.

Rosenbaum said he believes the city did not want more than one FBO at the Air Park.

"I think we had a right to rely on that lease," he said. "That belief comes from nine years of service. We came out here at the request of the city."

Bill Howard, manager of the FAA office in Albuquerque, N.M., said the city is within its rights as long as bids were properly advertised and as long as the city does not try to restrict competition.

The city advertised for FBO bids in the Herald on June 17 and June 24, 1983.

"The city council analyzes the bids and awards it to the firm with the best bid," Howard said. "If some other firm wants to do business out there, then the city needs to provide some kind of space for them."

He said Trans Regional's attorney, who at the time was local attorney Robert Miller, had contacted the FAA office. But he said no official complaint has been issued by the firm.

City Manager Don Davis said the city council has chosen to make no comment on the matter while negotiations with Trans Regional are under way.

Councilman Jack Y. Smith said recently that he had heard of the firm's complaints in a letter sent to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

"We had a decision to make and we gave it to the firm with the best service," he said. "They (Trans Regional) talk about Mac Air being a 'newcomer,' but listen, that's a local company."

Louis Rosenbaum, Trans Regional's general manager, said he thinks the issue is political.

"There's no justification for building two hangars and giving them to one company," he said. "You have to have two companies. They are trying to run us out of Big Spring, so we're going to go to the federal authorities. We've got the papers together and we will file a complaint."

Barbecue tickets must be picked up Monday

Man incompetent for trial

CAMERON, Texas (AP) — Jurors took only 15 minutes to decide a Houston man accused of setting fires at seven religious meeting places is mentally incompetent to stand trial.

A Milam County jury Thursday ordered Norris Eugene Moss to Rusk State Hospital, a psychiatric facility.

The 34-year-old former used car salesman did not speak at the hearing. Although handcuffed, he clung to a well-thumbed Bible.

Moss has been in Milam County Jail since early July when he was taken into custody in a string of seven fires set at religious meeting places in Milam, Brazos and Robertson counties of Central Texas.

He has been indicted in Milam County on four arson charges in fires set at small rural churches in the Gause area. In neighboring Robertson County, he is under indictment for burning one church and a Masonic Lodge in Hearne.

Moss also is a suspect in the burning of another church in northern Brazos County, but has not been charged in that offense.

Bell agrees to hotline

HOUSTON (AP) — Southwestern Bell officials, reversing an earlier decision, have agreed to list a crisis line for homosexuals in the Houston phone directory's "Helpful Numbers," printed on blue paper at the front of the book.

The phone company announced the new decision Thursday, two days after the Public Utility Commission received a letter of complaint from Rick Neil Grossman, executive director of the Gay Switchboard of Houston.

Grossman said he was told in a phone call Aug. 26 that the group's application for the listing had been denied. He said he received a letter from Southwestern Bell notifying him of the denial Thursday. Officials reached the new decision the same day.

The letter from a Bell official originally notified Grossman. "It is not felt that the volume of calls for your agency is sufficient to include this listing in the helpful numbers section."

Bell spokesman Ken Brasel said Friday the group's affiliations were "never a consideration."

Alamo rates high

AUSTIN (AP) — An author who has written a book on Texas museums nominates the Alamo in San Antonio as the greatest museum attraction in the state.

Ron Tyler says the best name for a museum, however, is the J.U. and Florence B. Fields Museum of Fine Living in Hereford.

Most out-of-the-way museum? Tyler says that would be the Guadalupe National Park exhibit near Pine Springs, which has a Carlsbad, N.M., mailing address.

One of the most unusual, Tyler says, is the Pyote Rattlesnake Bomber Base Museum in Pyote, a World War II air base and prison camp that now has exhibits on pioneer life and war memorabilia.

Tyler is director of publications for the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth. "Texas Museums: A Guidebook" will be published in December by the University of Texas Press.

Actress is confident

LONDON — Actress Diana Dors, who has had two operations to remove cancerous tumors in the past year, said Friday she is "scared" but confident she will survive.

Miss Dors, 51, told television viewers she had been "a wicked so-and-so" in the past, but did not regard cancer as "God's revenge."

"Of course I'm scared ... inasmuch as I don't want it to keep coming back," said Miss Dors in an interview on a breakfast-time channel, TV-AM.

"But, on the other hand, it has chosen the wrong person by actually choosing me. OK, it's a terrible thing, but it can be fought providing it is caught in time."

Miss Dors had an operation two weeks ago to remove a small cancerous tumor. Doctors removed another tumor during surgery a year ago for an ovarian cyst.

"I could so easily have lost my faith this time because I have been praying for a year that I would stay free of cancer, and then they said they'd found it again," said Miss Dors. "That's the moment when God tests you ... (but) I know I'm going to be all right. I just know it."

Independence celebrations

LONDON — Princess Margaret left London on Friday to attend the independence celebrations of the tiny Caribbean island state of St. Kitts-Nevis.

Margaret will represent her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, at ceremonies Monday when St. Kitts-Nevis, consisting of two islands with a population of 60,000, gain independence from Britain.

St. Kitts-Nevis, at the northern tip of the Windward Island chain, is the last of six British associated states in the Caribbean to become independent.

Claimed by Britain in 1623, St. Kitts was the first island in the British West Indies to be colonized.

Minister for Overseas Development Timothy Raison and 50 members of the Royal Marines Band also will take part in the ceremonies, which begin this weekend.

Actor steps in

TRENTON, N.J. — The state Legislature, commemorating its 200th session, called on a soap opera star to re-enact the speech Abraham Lincoln made in 1861 praising New Jersey's contribution to U.S. history.

Senators, assemblymen and spectators crowded the lower chamber Thursday as Mark La Mura, who portrays Mark Dalton on "All My Children," recreated the address Lincoln delivered during a stop here en route to his inauguration.

The state Legislature's first session was in 1776, when the United States declared its independence. The Legislature had one-year sessions until 1968, when a constitutional amendment was passed mandating two-year sessions.

Dressed in 19th century clothing, La Mura recalled Lincoln's words: "I cannot but remember the place New Jersey holds in the early history of our country."

"I remember that in the Revolutionary struggle none had more of its battle fields. I remember of reading, in my youth, a small book — the life of Washington — and of all his struggles, none fixed itself on my mind so indelibly, as the crossing of the Delaware, preceding the battle of Trenton."

"Even President Lincoln was descended from the New Jersey Legislature," said Gov. Thomas H. Kean said. "One of his ancestors was John Bowne, speaker of the House of Assembly 300 years ago, in 1683."

Justice accepts award

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. — Chief Justice Warren Burger accepted the National Freedom Foundation's highest award on the site where soldiers of a fledgling nation survived a bitter winter more than 200 years ago.

Burger said he accepted the foundation's George Washington award "with gratitude" and in the spirit of the soldiers in Washington's army who camped at Valley Forge in 1777-78.

The chief justice told the audience of 250 on Thursday night that he discarded a brief formal speech to reflect instead on the imprint Valley Forge had on the U.S. Constitution.

The award, last presented in 1979, is given by a special jury to recognize people for their patriotism. It cited Burger for his "leadership in the American judicial system and his tireless efforts to preserve and protect the careful balance between state and federal systems."

Time zone coming

JUNEAU, Alaska — Alaska's four time zones will be reduced to two beginning Oct. 30, and virtually all the state's residents will be within the same zone, Gov. Bill Sheffield said Friday.

Elizabeth Dole, secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation, on Thursday approved the plan to reduce Alaska's zones on the same day the nation switches back to standard time.

Alaska now is under four time zones: Pacific, Yukon, Alaska and Bering time, each an hour apart.

Under the new plan, all of Alaska but the bulk of the Aleutian Islands will be under Yukon time — one hour behind Pacific Time. The Aleutian Islands will be under Alaska Time, two hours behind Pacific Time.

The switch means that on Oct. 30, southeastern Alaska will turn back its clock two hours — one hour to return to standard time and one more to conform with Yukon Time — while clocks in the populous railbelt area, which includes Anchorage, Fairbanks and the Kenai Peninsula, will stay where they are.

Pastor stops kidnapping

QUINCY, Mass. — A young pastor burst into an apartment to rescue an elderly parishioner who was kidnapped at knifepoint by two youths demanding his money, police said Thursday.

"That was the Lord's timing," the parishioner, 82-year-old Russell Hersee said of the Rev. Scott Johnson's arrival at his second-story apartment Wednesday night. "The Lord God Almighty helped see me through" the two-hour ordeal.

One of the youths was in custody, and the second was at large, jumping out the window when the minister burst into Hersee's apartment.

Hersee, a retired state bank examiner, said he was seized at knifepoint in his parked car by two youths after an evening service at the Central Baptist Church in Quincy, where Johnson is assistant pastor.

The two youths kept the knife at Hersee's back as they drove his car through Boston, took $9 from his wallet and bought a meal at a fast food restaurant, then returned to his apartment with a demand he get his bank book and turn over his savings to them, police said.

Spiders bite kids

DANBURY, Texas — Hundreds of just-hatched black widow spiders escaped from a jar in a classroom and bit at least 10 middle school students. A school official said Friday it's the last time live spiders will be displayed in schools.

Ten students at Danbury Middle School were treated for the bites at a hospital, superintendent Keith Swim said. He said six were held overnight and one boy suffered considerable nausea and aching shoulders.

The episode began last week when a student found a spider and took it to science teacher Jack Cameron.

Swim said Cameron identified the highly poisonous spider by its black body and red belly and put it in a closed jar in his classroom.

But over the weekend, Swim said, eggs the spider had laid hatched and the tiny babies escaped through air holes in the jar's metal lid.

The students were bitten Monday.

"I don't think the teacher or anybody else would have thought those little rascals would be small enough to get through those holes," Swim said. He said he has no more live spiders would be displayed in classrooms in his school district.

Cameron estimated the spider laid about 400 eggs.

"We took every precaution," Cameron said. "But now I have a standing rule. I told my students that from now on if you see a spider, leave it alone."

Couple not fighting anymore

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — With one platinum album and another soaring up the charts, Marv and Rindy Ross don't fight about music anymore.

The husband-wife team of the rock group, Quarterflash, are responsible for what has become the Pacific Northwest's most significant contribution to pop-rock music since the Kingsmen did "Louie, Louie" in 1963.

"It's been a real interesting evolution because his roots and my roots have very much merged," Rindy said of Marv, her high school sweetheart and husband of 12 years. "He has influenced me so much and I him as far as melody, so that what has resulted is a real nice compatible musical feeling between us now. We don't argue anymore as far as the direction that we're going."

Their debut album in 1981, "Quarterflash," has sold 1.25 million copies. Their second release, "Take Another Picture," jumped 50 places on the Billboard chart in the first week after its release.

And the single from the second album, "Take Me to Heart," has been in the Top 20 for several weeks. It is regularly heard on AM and FM radio and is seen as a video on Music Television.

The group, a merger of two club bands from Portland, Ore., has been on tour since May, both as a headline act and an opening act for Linda Ronstadt and Rick Springfield.

The sound of the band is somewhere between the rock 'n' roll that influenced Marv and the folk music that Rindy grew up with.

"I kind of got bored with the low energy of folk music and Marv got interested in the melody aspect that folk music had," Rindy said. "I was more interested in the energy of rock 'n' roll, and it just sort of met midway. That's kind of what we're doing now, melodic rock 'n' roll."

Their former band, Seafood Mama, grabbed the attention of record company executive and promoter David Geffen when they performed the song, "Harden My Heart." He made Quarterflash his first new project in 1981, after having signed Elton John, Donna Summer and John Lennon and Yoko Ono to his record label in the 1970s.

But the pressure of a recording contract and moving away from the comfort of club performances took its toll on Seafood Mama. The group split, but Geffen kept Marv and Rindy under contract. They, in turn, were forced to find a band.

Eventually, four or five members of the band, Pilot, were chosen to round out Quarterflash. Guitarist-vocalist Jack Charles of Pilot is now second lead vocalist to Rindy.

The other members of Quarterflash are Rick DiGiallonardo on keyboards, Brian Davis Willis on drums and Rick Gooch on bass.

The name is derived from an Australian saying, "a quarter flash and three parts foolish."

Rindy's saxophone playing, prominent in each of QUARTERFLASH — With one platinum album and another soaring up the charts, the husband and wife team of the rock group Quarterflash are responsible for what has become one of the Pacific Northwest's most significant contributions to pop-rock music. Marv and Rindy Ross were high school sweethearts and have been married for 12 years.

Quarterflash's single releases so far, has turned some heads.

"A lot of the feedback that I've gotten about playing the saxophone has been just that — 'Great, you play saxophone. Women don't usually do that.' I think that when you cross those barriers that people kind of like that," she said.

Quarterflash entered some different areas on the new album. Rindy has added some soprano saxophone play, and some of the songs have a harder, rock 'n' roll edge to them.

W.J. ESTELLE
...resigns position

Resignation changes rules of the game

HOUSTON (AP) — The resignation of state prison director W.J. Estelle signifies that "the rules of the game have changed" and marks a "new day" of increased state and federal government influence in the prison system, state officials say.

Estelle, citing the Legislature's rejection of more than half of the Texas Department of Correction's proposed $1.5 billion prison budget, publicly announced Thursday he will resign within the next three to six months.

Harry Whittington of Austin, state prison board member, said "a lot of changes" will be made in the prison system, which is under a wide-ranging federal court order.

"The Legislature is beginning to ask a lot more questions and require a lot more things. We're in a changing time," Whittington said.

State Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville and chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee, said Estelle's resignation is "a loss to the state."

The Big Spring Chapter of the American Business Clubs presented a check in the amount of $2,000.00 to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Tom Vernon, President, presented Larry Bristo, Director of the Rehabilitation Center with the check stating AMBUCS will continue their support aiding the handicapped.

In the past years the American Business Club has donated funds for new modern equipment and replacements of other equipment not functioning properly. The check presented to the Center for $2,000.00 was designated to be used for treatment for handicapped individuals unable to pay. With the unemployment rate and rising costs of everyday living, more and more individuals are in need of financial assistance. With the support of organizations and individuals such as the American Business Club the Center is able to continue to offer the best treatment available for handicapped persons.

The staff of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center is proud to have a part in the vital role of serving the handicapped in this area.

The donation by the AMBUCS is made possible by the efforts of the club through their work at the Rattlesnake Roundup, County Fair, and other such community involvements.

The American Business Clubs, local and national level, offer a deserving student a scholarship each year.

Officers serving with Mr. Vernon for 1983-84 are Paul Richter, First-Vice-President; Bill Sneed, Secretary; and Ray Alexander, Treasurer.

The staff of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will be offering its help to the ABC's, Saturday, September 17, when they hold their first annual TEXAS DUST JAMBOREE at the city park. Other sponsors of the jamboree are Coor's Distributing Co. and K.B.Y.G.

Working Together to Stay Alone

How to Be by Yourself

Most children stay alone at one time or another. To find out some tips on how to be by yourself, The Mini Page talked with two college professors, Dr. Thomas Long and Dr. Lynette Long, who are experts on this subject. They have interviewed many kids and their parents.

They say that it's important for you and your parents to spend a lot of time together to prepare you to be by yourself. You will want to plan and practice.

Here are some ideas that will help in most cases, but you and your family will want to make up your own rules.

A safe place:

- Have your parents ask a friendly neighbor or storekeeper if you can come to his or her place in case of an emergency. It is important to have some adult help nearby.

Arriving home alone:

- Be alert. Have your key ready. If everything looks OK, go in. Lock the door behind you and keep it locked.

- If anything looks unusual, go to a safe place and tell an adult. Do not go inside. (Since most moms and dads expect calls as soon as their children get home, they know what's happening. They will worry if you don't.)

Using the phone:

- Answer with "Hello," instead of something that gives your name. Never tell the caller your name, address, phone number or say you are alone, even if the caller asks.
- Say your mother or father is busy and get the caller's number. If possible, call them return the call.
- Keep emergency numbers by the phone.

Going to and from home alone:

- Carry an ID card with your name, address, parents' names and phone numbers.
- Keep money for a phone call taped to your ID card if possible.
- If you carry a house key, keep it out of sight so no one will know you are going home alone.
- If you lose your key, go to a safe place and call your parents.

When playing outside:

- Never talk to strangers.
- If a stranger approaches you, move away to a safe place and tell an adult.

- Stay within the boundaries you and your family have set up.

In case of a household emergency:

- Keep a flashlight and transistor radio together in a special place.
- If possible, know how to shut off the water in your house.

When someone's at the door:

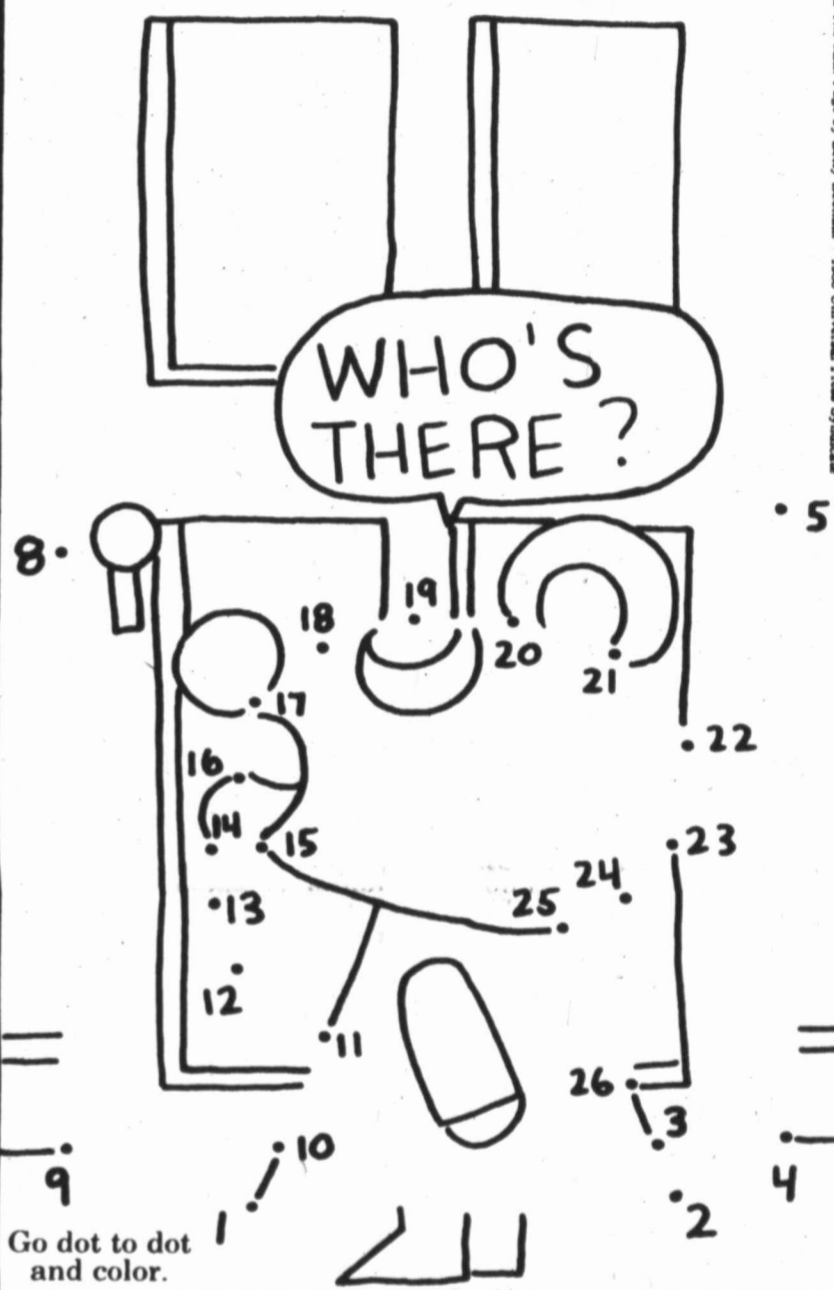

- Answer through the door, never open it.
- Unless you have permission to let the person in, don't, even if it is someone you know.
- Say, "My mother (or father) is busy. Please wait outside," or ask if you can take a message.

When staying alone with brothers and sisters:

- Work out agreements with your parents as to what duties each of you will have.
- If you do disagree, have a complaint box to put the problems in so they can be handled when your parents get home.

Our thanks to the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Lynette Long, professor of education at Loyola College of Maryland, and Dr. Thomas Long, professor of education at The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Things to do

- Don't watch scary TV shows or read scary books. Ask your mom or dad to look over the TV schedule with you and choose some good shows.
- Plan activities beforehand. Make a schedule that might include chores, homework and TV.
- Break up a week by asking your parents to arrange an afternoon with a friend or at the library.
- Call a friend or relative on the phone, but don't talk too long in case your parents are trying to reach you. Some parents subscribe to a telephone service called "call waiting" that gives a little "beep" if another call comes in while you are talking.

If fire breaks out:

- Stay calm. Get out.
- If there is lots of smoke, stay down low.
- Feel doors before opening. If hot, don't open. Find another way out.
- Plan and practice escape routes with your parents.
- Never try to put a fire out by yourself. Get help.

Our thanks for these tips to the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Lynette Long, professor of education at Loyola College of Maryland, and Dr. Thomas Long, professor of education at The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Congress Tries to Find Out More About Kids

The U.S. Congress wants to find out more about kids and their needs. Members of Congress want to know what it is like to grow up in the United States today.

Congress is a very important lawmaking group that meets in Washington, D.C.

The men and women who serve are elected to either the House of Representatives (435 members) or the Senate (100 members).

Many committees and government departments handle matters that affect children. Many local and nationwide children's groups, such as Camp Fire and Girl Scouts, are also interested in kids.

Members of Congress listen: Sen. Paul Hawkins of Florida, Sen. Christopher Dodd of Connecticut and Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania listen to Kani's report. The senators were trying to find out what kids do after school.

So many groups handle kids' interests that it is hard to get a good picture of what is being done or what the problems are. For that reason, the House and Senate each has set up special committees of their members to invite experts to testify about kids.

The committees sometimes invite kids to come and make reports, too.

While these special committees do not make laws, they do gather information that will help the lawmakers and the public... and the kids, too!

One out of every three Americans is under 18 years old.

President scores high with beauty contestants

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Public opinion pollsters may say that President Reagan's support among women is shaky, but he's doing well among this year's Miss America contestants.

At the beauty pageant, which winds up with final competition Saturday night, gaps of concern include those that show between teeth or between the dancers rehearsing their numbers. The "gender gap" is not among them.

In an informal survey, 36 of the women said they thought Reagan was doing a good job as president. Twelve said they did not approve of his performance, while two said they had not yet made up their minds.

At the same time, 28 of the contestants said they did not believe there is widespread disaffection among women with the president. Nineteen said they thought it did exist, and three said they were not sure.

For months now, public opinion polls have shown that Reagan's support among women is far weaker than it is among men.

"I wonder about those polls," said Miss Idaho, 20-year-old Elaine Pack. "I'm thinking they might be slanted, looking for sensationalism. He's appointed women and I think he's done an outstanding job."

Miss Wisconsin, Wendy Lynn Wagner, 22, said the more she knows about Reagan, the more she likes him.

"Before I started paying close attention to current events, I didn't like him at all," she said. "Now I do. He's not a sheep, he's a lion. You need somebody strong who is going to defend you."

Miss Utah, Lynn Lambert, 21, said she believed the president was being picked on unfairly by women.

"Women attack him like homosexuals attack him and blacks attack him, because he's the best thing to attack," she said. "They need someone they can harp on."

Miss Mississippi, Wanda Gayle Geddie, 24, said women she knows support the president, but she said she believed that opinions vary according to who is asked.

"If you ask Barbara Honiger, she'd surely say there is a gender gap," she said, referring to the former Justice Department employee who resigned and accused the president of being insensitive to women's issues. "But if you asked Sandra Day O'Connor, I'm sure she'd give a completely different answer."

Reagan appointed Mrs. O'Connor to the U.S. Supreme Court last year.

Amy Elizabeth Keys, Miss Maryland, said she did not favor Reagan's performance in his job. She added that the president's appointments of women to some key jobs were "cosmetic changes" that were ill-designed.

"He makes a big deal about putting women in certain positions," she said. "If he'd just place them there and let people realize it on their own, it would be better."

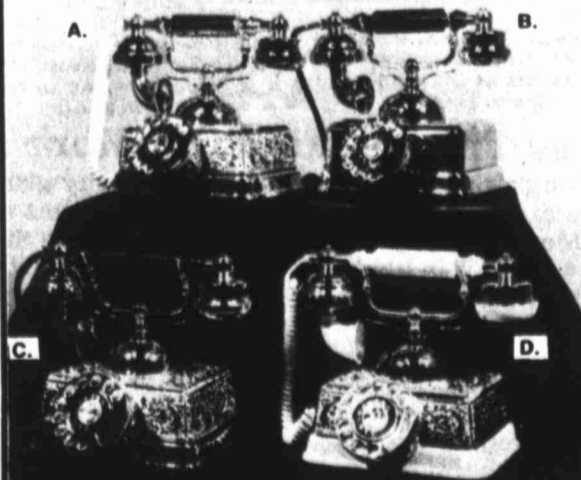

Added Miss Vermont, 19-year-old Juliet A. Lambert, "I think as the elections approach, he's trying to do something. He's definitely putting more emphasis on this issue now. Before that, he concentrated on building up our weaponry."

Some of the women said that despite Reagan's opposition to the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, his policies were, in the long run, benefiting women.

"Women may be hurting more than men, but he is concerned with women," said Miss Ohio, Pamela Helean Rigas, who is 22. "But by helping the economy, he's helping all minorities."

But Miss Rigas, a law student at the University of Cincinnati, was contradicted by another law student, Regina Hopper, Miss Arkansas.

Dr. Donohue

Raynaud's phenomenon

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a woman of 59. For about six years I have had what the doctors call "Raynaud's phenomenon." In cold weather or when I handle anything frozen or cold my fingers turn white. At first it was only at the fingertips. Now it is the whole fingers that get white.

The doctors explained that blood vessels become spasmodic at times when they get cold and circulation is affected. I've been told to keep my hands warm and there is nothing else that can be done. When my hands get cold they also become painful. Could smoking affect it in any way, and will this keep progressing? — Mrs. V.S.

You have a good basic understanding of what is happening in Raynaud's phenomenon. I can't add much to what your doctors have told you, either with regard why it happens or what you have to do for it. Yes, tobacco smoking can exacerbate the tendency of the vessels to constrict and cause more violent symptoms.

The course of the illness is unpredictable, but in most cases the spasm is limited to the extremities, fingers, etc. The pain results from the loss of blood supply to the area, like the pain you get from frostbite. The smoking has the effect of constricting the small arteries (from nicotine).

Dear Dr. Donohue: My urologist diagnosed bladder inflammation and stricture of the urethra. An antibiotic cleared up the infection, but the stricture remains. Is there anything further to do? Do I have to live with it? — Mrs. M.C.

It is good that the antibiotic took care of the infection. I am sure your doctor will now want to discuss further your urethral stricture (narrowing) which may have been a result of the infection, incidentally. There are procedures to relieve stenosis of this kind. You should return to your physician, especially if you are having symptoms, like difficulty in urination or pain. You should return to your physician, especially if you are having symptoms, like difficulty in urination or pain. You won't have to live with that condition.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can a person come up with a positive skin test for an allergy to some foods and yet never have an encounter any actual reaction from eating those foods? — V.H.

Yes, this can happen. It is called a false-positive skin test reaction. And it frequently happens with certain foods that contain histamines, those being the substances involved in such body reaction. Tomatoes provide a good example. A test may show a positive test reaction without tomatoes being a threat. Such false-positive results from allergy testing are not uncommon.

Steers thrash Lobos in 23-0 game

Big Spring holds 2-1 record for year

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Friday's contest between Levelland and Big Spring was determined by the success of each team inside the other's 10 yard line. Check the stats, Big Spring wins 3 to nothing.

Big Spring converted three fourth down plays inside the Levelland 10, scoring twice, and went on to thrash the Lobos 23-0 at Memorial Stadium.

The win sends the Steers into District 4-5A play with a 2-1 record while Levelland slips to 1-2 overall.

While Big Spring's offense sparkled inside the 10, it was also a night for individual performances, particularly those by senior Billy Wegner.

Wegner scored his first varsity touchdown — on a fourth down dive — in the fourth quarter and came close to two others.

He intercepted a Ron Webb pass at his own 25 yard line and raced 75 yards for an apparent score late in the game. However, safety Robert Porras was flagged was clipping at the Lobo 35 and the play was brought back to midfield.

Then on the final play of the game from the Levelland 13, Wegner raced left with a pitch-out only to be knocked out of bounds at the one.

"It was disappointing," he said, smiling off the costly yellow flag, "but you got to keep on going." The second team defensive back batted down Webb's pass and somehow held onto the ball while it rode on his right hip. "I had it right there and then it slid down my hip. I thought 'This is my only chance to do something, I better not drop it. I'm surprised it didn't... I usually do. Then I ran my fastest."

Porras' clip was about the only thing the senior wide receiver-safety did wrong all night. He tackled Webb for a safety late in the first quarter and those two points stood up as Big Spring recorded its first shutout since it blanked Levelland 10-0 last year.

He added 3 catches for 56 yards including a 25-yarder before Wegner's unsuccessful drive for a TD.

"I made my mind up to play right tonight," he said. "I've been playing too tense. We played good as a team."

Big Spring's first opportunity at a fourth down came late in the first half. The Steers moved the football from their 24 to the Levelland 13. Mike McKinley burst three yards on a fourth down at the four. On the next play, Eric Sherman dove the remaining yard for the TD with 41 seconds to go.

Jay Gonzales kicked the first of three PATs.

After a scoreless third quarter, Big Spring scored again after a fumble recovery by Derek Logback at the Lobo 44. Five plays moved BSHS to the five and on fourth down from the four, quarterback Tommy Gartman got the first. Sherman scored his second TD on the next play.

A 32-yard punt return by Sherman set up the next Steer scoring drive, although a clip initially moved Big Spring backwards. A 23-yard passplay from Mark Johnson to Porras netted 23 yards and Ragan ran 11 on a tight end reverse. Johnson hit Porras again to the one on third down and Wegner got his touchdown on the next play.

The Steers' big defensive moment came in the third quarter. A 10-yard burst by Joe Shakespeare and a 16-yard quarterback keeper by Rodney Caddell pushed the Lobos from their 43 to the Big Spring five after a fumble recovery by Brent Rush.

Porras stopped Walter Washington on a third pitch-out for no gain and on fourth down, batted down a pass intended for Wright in the right corner of the end zone.

"That goal line stand for another building point," said Steer coach Quinn Eudy. "It came at the right time in the game. If they had scored, it might have turned the game around. We rose up and held them."

Big Spring played without starter Jay Pirkle who hyper-extended his left knee midway through the first half. McKinley, his backup, also left the game with 94 yards rushing while breathing troubles.

BSHS piled up 326 total yards while Levelland had 217.

CUTTING UPFIELD FOR A GAINER — Big Spring fullback Jay Pirkle (19) bursts for a 19-yard gain in the first quarter against Levelland Friday night in Memorial Stadium. Pirkle had 30 yards on six carries before leaving the game with a hyper-extended left knee. His injury was not serious but he sat out the rest of Big Spring's 23-0 victory.

OFFENSIVE STANDOUT — Rolando Juantos, carrying the ball for Klondike, had a good night with 131 yards on 24 carries against the O'Donnell Eagles Friday night.

Lawsuit names Saints' Perry

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — New Orleans Saints defensive back Vernon Perry Jr., has been named in a $57,000 lawsuit filed by the mother of a child allegedly hit by a vehicle driven by the athlete.

No charges were filed against Perry, who lives in Jackson, when his Jeep struck Christopher L. Barnes on April 2. Police said at the time that the child and his 8-year-old cousin had run in front of Perry's vehicle.

An attorney for Rita Barnes, the child's mother, said the boys had found a nickel and were running across the street to a store to spend it when they were hit.

Attorney Frank Coxwell of Jackson said Perry later went to the hospital to check on the boy's condition.

The suit alleges the child suffered permanent injuries from the accident and now walks with a limp.

There were no surprises in District 4-5A Friday night as the teams that were supposed to have won did win and the teams figured to lose did indeed come up short.

Angels deck Rangers SCORECARD

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Darryl Scobers hit a two-run double and scored on right fielder Tommy Dunbar's two-base error to cap a four-run eighth inning and give the California Angels an 8-6 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday.

With reliever John Butcher, 6-6, protecting a 6-4 lead, Bob Boone singled with one out and Rob Wilfong walked. Gary Pettis' RBI single made it 6-5 before Scobers drilled a ball down the right field line to score Wilfong and Pettis. Dunbar came around as the ball eluded Dunbar.

Luis Sanchez, 10-8, worked the final 2-3 to gain the win.

The Rangers had broken a 4-4 tie in the seventh when Dave Hostetler, who homered in the fifth inning, drew a one-out walk off reliever Rick Steiner, and George Wright singled him to third before Dunbar delivered an RBI single up the middle.

The Rangers made it 6-4 in the eighth on Billy Sample's RBI single before the American League

Angels' four-run explosion.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead on a pair of run-scoring grounders by Doug DeCinces in the first and third innings off Texas starter Danny Darwin. But the Rangers chased left-hander Geoff Zahn with a three-homer assault in the fifth.

Bucky Dent and Bobby Johnson, who had four hits on the night, hit consecutive solo shots before Curtis Wilkerson singled and scored on a one-out shot by Hostetler, his 11th.

Rob Wilfong's homer following Bob Boone's infield hit in the sixth pulled the Angels into a 4-4 tie.

Royals 6, A's 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Butch Davis' eighth-inning sacrifice fly scored Hal McRae to lead Kansas City past the Oakland A's 6-5 Friday night, for the Royals' fourth straight victory.

The victory kept Kansas City 16 games back of first-place Chicago in the American League West and kept the Royals, at least for one more day, in the race for the division title. One more Chicago victory or another Kansas City loss clinches the division for the White Sox.

McRae opened the inning with a triple off reliever Keith Atherton, 2-3. Willie Aikens and Frank White drew intentional walks to load the bases, setting the stage for Davis' game-winning fly ball.

The victory went to left-hander Larry Gura, 11-17, who pitched two innings in relief of Gaylord Perry.

Dan Quisenberry worked the ninth to increase his major-league record save total to 40.

White Sox 12, Mariners 0

CHICAGO (AP) — Harold Baines hit his third career grand-slam homer in the sixth inning and LaMarr Hoyt pushed his major-league leading total to 21 wins Thursday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Seattle Mariners 12-0 in a game that was shortened to 6½ innings by rain.

The Sox sent 17 men to the plate, got nine hits and benefitted from three Seattle errors in registering their highest single-inning total of the season. The 11 runs were the most scored against the Mariners in their history.

The game was played in a steady drizzle, and the start was delayed by 1:50 because of rain.

Hoyt, 21-10, yielded just two hits in the six innings he worked, striking out three and walking one. It was his 10th straight win, and reduced the magic number for the White Sox in the American League West to two.

Any combination of Chicago victories and Kansas City losses totaling two will give the White Sox the division title. They have 16 games left.

Greg Luzinski's 30th home run of the season leading off the fourth inning was all the support Hoyt needed. It came off Seattle starter Mike Moore, 5-7.

Reds rout Astros, 8-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nick Esasky, Eddie Milner and Gary Redus slammed fourth-inning home runs to power the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-3 victory over the Houston scored twice in the first inning on Bill Doran's triple, Terry Puhl's double and a double by Jose Cruz, who had four hits.

The Reds tied it in the third. Ron Oester doubled and scored on Berenyi's single. Milner doubled, sending Berenyi to third, and the pitcher scored by beating shortstop Dickie Thon's throw to the plate on a groundper by Redus.

Giants 1, Dodgers 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants' rookie Mark Davis continued his mastery over the Los Angeles Dodgers by firing a two-hitter and scoring the game's lone run as he outdueled Fernando Valenzuela 1-0 Friday night.

The Dodgers, shut out 8-0 by Davis on July 30, saw their National League West lead sliced to 3 1/2 games as the second-place Atlanta Braves beat San Diego 6-0.

Davis, 4-4, struck out eight and walked two in winning for the fourth time in his last five decisions.

Davis scored the only run in the sixth inning. He led off with a single to center, went to second on Johnnie LeMaster's sacrifice, reached third on third baseman German Rivera's error and scored on Jeff Leonard's single to center.

Valenzuela, 13-10, pitched seven innings and gave up only four hits and the unearned run while striking out seven.

SWC: Texas takes on Auburn

By The Associated Press

The mystery quarterback will be revealed today as the injury-plagued Texas Longhorns, preseason favorites to capture the Southwest Conference football title, take on Auburn as one-point underdogs.

Texas coach Fred Akers has refused to name the starter who will replace No. 1 quarterback Todd Dodge, suffering from a separated shoulder that will keep him on the sidelines for several weeks.

Either Rob Moerschell or Rick McIvor will emerge as Texas' signal caller at the 11:38 a.m. CDT kickoff. The game will be televised to a large section of the country by CBS-TV.

Moerschell said Akers' silence on Dodge's replacement has forced the War Eagles "to work on two quarterbacks."

Texas is among the last college teams in the nation to begin this season. Auburn already has posted a 24-3 victory over Southern Mississippi.

In other games, unbeaten Baylor, an impressive 40-36 conqueror of Brigham Young last week, takes its three-quarterback offense to El Paso; Texas A&M hosts Arkansas State as the Aggies try to bounce back from an opening two-point loss to California; Texas Christian tries to win its first road game since 1979 when coach Jim Wacker preaches his Horned Frog gospel at Kansas State; unbeaten Arkansas entertains once-whipped New Mexico; Rice tries to break a 16-game losing streak when Louisiana State comes calling, and Houston hopes to shake off a solid thrashing by Miami in an Astrodom meeting with Lamar University. All the games are at night.

The Bears will be facing a team coached by Bill Yung, who spent seven years as offensive coordinator for Grant Teaff at Baylor.

Quarterback Cody Carlson said the Bears are very wary of UTEP.

"If we go out there thinking it's not going to be hard, we'll be in sad shape," Carlson said.

Teaff will continue his quarterback shuttle, using Carlson and Tom Muecke plus Allen Rice on short yardage plays.

"At this point, I see no reason to change," Teaff said. "It's not chisled in stone. We might change."

The meeting will be Baylor's first with the Miners.

Baylor ranked a two-touchdown choice over UTEP, Texas A&M was a three-touchdown choice over Arkansas State, TCU was a field goal favorite over the Wildcats, Arkansas was a 14-point nod over New Mexico, LSU was a 20-point favorite over Rice and Houston was a 24-point selection over Lamar.

Top 20 tilts collegiate highlights

KY HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It's only September, but one of the most important weekends of the college football season is coming up.

Rarely have there been this many big games this early - Ohio State at Oklahoma, Texas at Auburn, Michigan at Washington, West Virginia at Maryland, all members of the Associated Press Top Twenty. And that doesn't include Georgia at Clemson and Iowa at defending national champion, but O-2, Penn State.

Now that second-ranked Oklahoma has managed to overcome pass-happy Stanford, the Sooners have to face No. 6 Ohio State and the Buckeyes merely have the nation's No. 1-ranked passer in Mike Tomczak.

Woody Hayes never would believe it, but there stands Tomczak at the top of the NCAA's complex passing chart with 228.5 points. In the Buckeyes' opening 31-6 victory over Oregon, Tomczak completed 21 of 25 passes for 273 yards and four touchdowns. If you know who that figures out to 228.5 points, go to the head of the class.

At any rate, the Sooners, playing at home, are a 6 1/2-point favorite. The pick is Oklahoma 24-14.

Last week's record was 37 right, 17 wrong and one tie for a .685 percentage. For the young season, the count is 57-30-1-.655. Against the spread, last week was only 9-13-.409; for the year, 11-17-.393.

No. 3 Texas at Auburn (favored by 2): Texas hasn't played a game yet, but last weekend was a bad one nevertheless. Quarterback Todd Dodge suffered a separated shoulder (not his throwing one) and star linebacker Jeff Leiding wound up in the hospital with a 16-stitch cut on his leg from a boating mishap. Auburn 14-10.

No. 8 Michigan at No. 16 Washington (4): Washington 21-14.

No. 20 West Virginia at No. 17 Maryland (3): Jeff Hostetler and Boomer Esiason, two of the better quarterbacks around, square off. West Virginia 24-21.

No. 1 Nebraska (28) at Minnesota: Nebraska 49-7. Michigan State at No. 4 Notre Dame (17): Notre Dame 38-14.

No. 7 Arizona (7) at Washington State: Upset Special of the Week, Washington State 28-27.

No. 9 Florida State (10) at Tulane: Florida State 35-21.

Miami of Ohio at No. 10 North Carolina (no line): North Carolina 28-7.

No. 11 Georgia (11-2) at Clemson: Clemson 20-17.

Mississippi at No. 12 Alabama (19): Alabama 34-14.

No. 13 Iowa (3) at Penn State: Penn State 20-14.

No. 14 Southern California (22) at Oregon State: Southern Cal 42-7.

Indiana State at No. 15 Florida (no line): Florida 49-7.
