Ag boss to meet Block

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower was off to Washington, D.C., on short notice Wednesday after being promised at least a brief meeting with U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block.

Hightower asked for a face-to-face meeting to tell Block about the problems of drought-stricken West Texas.

The two officials have been feuding over the drought issue for weeks, but only through the media.

Block last week told a national television audience on ABC's "Good Morning America" that Hightower hadn't yet presented his concerns directly to him.

Hightower immediately began seeking a meeting. He and other state officials are seeking release of 17.5 million bushels of government-owned corn stored in the Panhandle that could be fed to cattle in the drought areas.

A spokesman for Hightower said Wednesday morning that Hightower had been promised about a 15-minute meeting with Block and would be given longer meetings with several of the secretary's assistants.

Bond request approved

Cosden Building to get new look

The Howard County Industrial Development Corp. yesterday approved a bond application for the purchase and renovation of the Cosden Building at 118 W. Second.

Pending public hearings conducted by the Howard County Commissioners Court and the City of Big Spring, bonds totaling about $1 million will be issued to finance renovation of the building's office space, including a cafe on the bottom floor.

The remodeling will be handled by the Old Big Spring Joint-Venture Co., owned by Eidson, Wasson and Lish Realtors of Odessa, Hahn said.

Leroy Tillery, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said the firm expects construction to begin in January.

Granville Hahn of the development corporation said the firm wants to turn the six-story building into "first-class offices" housing about 210 persons.

Tillery said the building's renovation "will help to stimulate downtown. We really can't afford to watch the deterioration of downtown, and we feel this will give others the incentive to invest in downtown."

The building previously had been owned by Interfirst Bank of Dallas as a trustee for the Cosden Petroleum Corp. Pension Trust, Hahn said.

A representative of the Old Big Spring Joint-Venture Co. could not be reached for comment before presstime.

Bell lowers requested charges

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell has reduced the amount it wants from Texas residential customers to help replace long distance revenues it will lose after the Bell system breakup.

In supplemental information filed with the Public Utility Commission on Tuesday, Southwestern Bell asked for $249 million in so-called "access charges."

The initial request asked for an average of $4 in monthly "access charges" from business and residential customers. Tuesday's proposal calls for $2 a month from residential customers and $5.10 a month for businesses.

The Federal Communications Commission has approved a $2 per month residential charge and $6 business charge, beginning Jan. 1, 1984, to help replace interstate long distance business to be lost by Bell companies that will become independent of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The FCC charges will increase $1 a year until it hits $6 per month for residential customers.

Also requested Tuesday was a total of $669 million from long distance companies — such as AT&T, MCI and Sprint — for access to Southwestern Bell's equipment in Texas. The initial rate package, filed in June, called for $504 million from those companies.

The requests came in supplemental documents filed as part of the company's $1.7 billion rate hike request.

Under the court-ordered AT&T breakup, AT&T will retain much of the lucrative long distance business.

The access charges, now called "common line charges" by Southwestern Bell, would be in addition to monthly charges for basic

Forbes Magazine lists the men with the bucks

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifteen Americans are in the money — BIG money.

But the richest of the richest — Gordon Peter Getty — says he'd "rather be on the music pages" than at the top of Forbes magazine's Rich List.

And another of the nation's wealthiest few says modestly, "We're not as smart as other people, so we need every advantage."

Forbes magazine is at it again, ranking the 400 richest Americans in its Fall 1983 issue, due out next week. At the summit are 15 billionaires, 13 men and two women, six of them living in Texas.

Getty, 49, of San Francisco, son of oilman John Paul Getty, has a minimum net worth of $2.2 billion, according to Forbes. An amateur composer, pianist and patron of the arts, he is married and has four sons.

At No. 2, weighing in at $2.15 billion, is Sam M. Walton, 65, who lives in Bentonville, Ark., and drives a pickup truck. His family owns 41 percent of Wal-Mart Stores stock. "It's unbelievable," he told Forbes.

Daniel Keith Ludwig, 86, of New York City, whose shipping and real estate fortune topped the Forbes list last year, dropped to No. 3 because of huge losses from an Amazon jungle pulp venture. Still, his net worth is believed to be more than $2 billion, Forbes said.

Two billionaire sons and two billionaire daughters of oilman H.L. Hunt, all now living in Dallas, are scattered from sixth to 14th on the list. Nelson Bunker

Council to self-insure employees

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

In an attempt to avoid increased insurance costs of about $20,000, the city council voted last night to self-insure for the rest of 1983 employees between the ages of 65 and 69 years old.

Previously, these workers had been covered primarily by Medicare, but a recent change in the law requires that employers provide workers 65 to 69 years old the same benefits afforded younger employees.

Currently, the city has three persons who fall into this category.

Davis said the change was made to lighten the financial burden on Medicare and to remove discrimination from older workers by offering them the same benefits as everyone else.

He said the law makes the city the primary insurer with Medicare as the secondary insurer.

However, Davis said that although the law took effect in June, the city, if it chose to insure the three employees, would be required to pay insurance costs retroactive to January of this year — a total of $12,000 to $14,000.

Also, he said the cost for the remainder of the year would be $7,268, making the total approximately

Council okays owner switch for cable firm

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

After agreeing not to raise its base-service rate until 1985, Big Spring Cable TV received permission from the city yesterday to transfer ownership to its publicly-owned parent company, TCA Cable, Inc. in Tyler.

Jim Lancaster, vice president of Big Spring Cable TV, had come before the council Sept. 13 requesting the change from private to public ownership because of financial considerations. Lancaster said the local company would be able to "finance growth" much easier if it were publicly owned.

However, councilmen tabled the matter for further study.

In a regular meeting last night, the council said it would agree to the transfer if the local company would agree not to raise its basic service fee of $8.75 a month until December, 1985 and remove from its billing statements the wording "franchise tax," which refers to a street use rental fee charged to the cable company by the city.

City Manager Don Davis said the council objected to the company calling the rental fee a "tax," which made it appear as if the city were taxing subscribers for cable service.

Big Spring Cable TV, represented by local attorney Wayne Burns, agreed to the requests, and councilmen voted unanimously to okay the transfer.

Local management will not change, according to Lancaster.

Symphony Fund Drive nearing season goal

The Big Spring Symphony Association's annual Maintenance Fund Drive now stands at the half-way mark toward its goal of $16,820 for the 1983-84 concert season.

Johnnie Lou Avery, chairman of the drive, said support for the cultural organization has been strong, with enthusiasm expressed for the Nov. 11 concert by the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra. Anticipation is even greater for the spring inaugural concert by Big Spring's own symphony orchestra, she said.

The fund drive is scheduled to end Friday. Further support from the community must be forthcoming within the next two days if the $16,820 goal is to be met, Mrs. Avery said.

Five team captains are working with 27 volunteers during this final stage. Team status reports are due by 5 p.m. Thursday in the Avery Associates offices.

All contributions are tax-deductible and carry a listing in the concert programs in the following categories:

Benefactors ($500 and up), Patrons ($250 and up), Sponsors ($100 and up), Donors ($50 and up) and Friends ($10 and up).

Those individuals within the community who would like to contribute can call team captains Suzanne Haney, Beth Wilkening, Jerry Worthy, Rick Hamby and Sam Woodward or the Chamber of Commerce or Avery and Associates.

INVITED TO DINNER — Phil Kirtley, who is blind, pets his guide dog Milo who was forced to leave a restaurant because he was a "scroungy dog." The restaurant owner faces misdemeanor charges, and Kirtley and Milo have been invited to other restaurants.

Ejected seeing-eye dog now guest of honor

SULPHUR, Okla. (AP) — While a complaint against a woman who threw a seeing-eye dog out of her restaurant awaits trial, the dog's master isn't lacking dinner invitations.

Phil Kirtley, who is blind, said Tuesday he's had several offers from restaurateurs to dine free after they heard he was forced to take his dog out of the Wynnewood Steak House on Sept. 9.

Corine Abbott, owner of the restaurant, pleaded innocent Tuesday to the misdemeanor charge of denying public accommodations to a blind person. Her case was assigned to a court term that will probably begin in January, said Assistant District Attorney Candace Blalock.

Mrs. Abbott acknowledges she asked Kirtley to remove his dog. She said some customers complained and the guide animal was "a very scroungy dog."

Among many letters of support, Kirtley said, have been offers of free dinners from several restaurants. "They invited me to come and eat, and bring the dog," he said. The invitations made him "feel a lot better," he said.

Kirtley, the 52-year-old principal of Sulphur High School, said he's pursuing his complaint against Mrs. Abbott on principle.

"I still say that if she had admitted that it was legal for the dog to be there, and then told me that some people objected, I would have been glad to leave — I don't think there's any blind people who wouldn't have left," he said.

Self-insure

In order to avoid this extra cost, Davis recommended the city self-insure the employees until the end of the year when insurance contracts will be bid again.

"To self-insure through the present contract period means should employees or spouses become sick or ill, the city would be the primary insurer and pay for medical expenses incurred," Davis said.

Davis said the city had audited the present employees' medical expenses for the first six months of this year and found them to be $2,500.

"That's ($2,500 amount) far below the premiums we would be paying, and since we don't foresee any major medical expenses for these people the rest of the year, we recommend the city self-insure," Davis said.

In other matters, the council: Approved a bid from Pollard Chevrolet for $11,375 to purchase the city manager's new car.

Mitchell Energy & Development Corp., in Houston, is 10th, worth at least $1 billion, according to Forbes.

At No. 12 is David Rockefeller, 68, of New York City, grandson of Standard Oil mogul John Davison Rockefeller and current patriarch of the clan, worth more than $1 billion.

Two self-made oilmen in Denver are worth $1 billion each, Forbes said. They are Philip F. Anschutz, 44, at No. 13 on the list, and Marvin Davis, 57, who also owns half of 20th Century Fox, at No. 15.

The first Forbes, published in 1918, listed the 30 richest Americans. Leading the list was John D. Rockefeller, with an oil fortune estimated at $1.2 billion dollars.

The poorest of the really rich, or 400th on the Forbes list, is Arthur Jones, a one-time zookeeper from Ocala, Fla. Jones, who introduced the Nautilus fitness machine, is worth a mere $125 million, the magazine said.

The 400 richest Americans today include comedian Bob Hope, whose net worth, "despite denials, exceeds $200 million," Forbes said.

Also listed is Yoko Ono, widow of Beatle John Lennon. When Lennon died he left a fortune of, at minimum, $150 million, Forbes said.

Is it possible for anyone to become America's richest? The millionaires and billionaires say yes. Among their suggestions: be a good listener, do it yourself, establish a good relationship with a bank and borrow.

One possible contender whose wealth isn't listed is Malcolm S. Forbes, chairman and editor-in-chief of the magazine and son of the magazine's founder.

Officers pool Lucas info

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Law enforcement officers from around the country will meet next month in Louisiana to exchange information about Henry Lee Lucas, the drifter who has claimed to have killed more than 150 women, the Fort Worth Star Telegram reported today.

Police Lt. Joe Cummings, of Monroe, La., told the newspaper he was planning the law enforcement conference to enable authorities to share their information on Lucas and Otis Toole, a convicted arsonist from Jacksonville, Fla., who officials say was Lucas' accomplice.

The investigator said he expects some 50 to 75 officers to attend the conference. Cummings did not say when and where the meeting would be held.

Lucas and Toole were charged in Monroe last week with first-degree murder and kidnapping in the slaying of 19-year-old Kathy Whorton of Bastrop, La.

There's hope for American education

In determining that American high schools are in dire need of upgrading, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has duplicated much of the work of other organizations, including the national Commission on Excellence in Education.

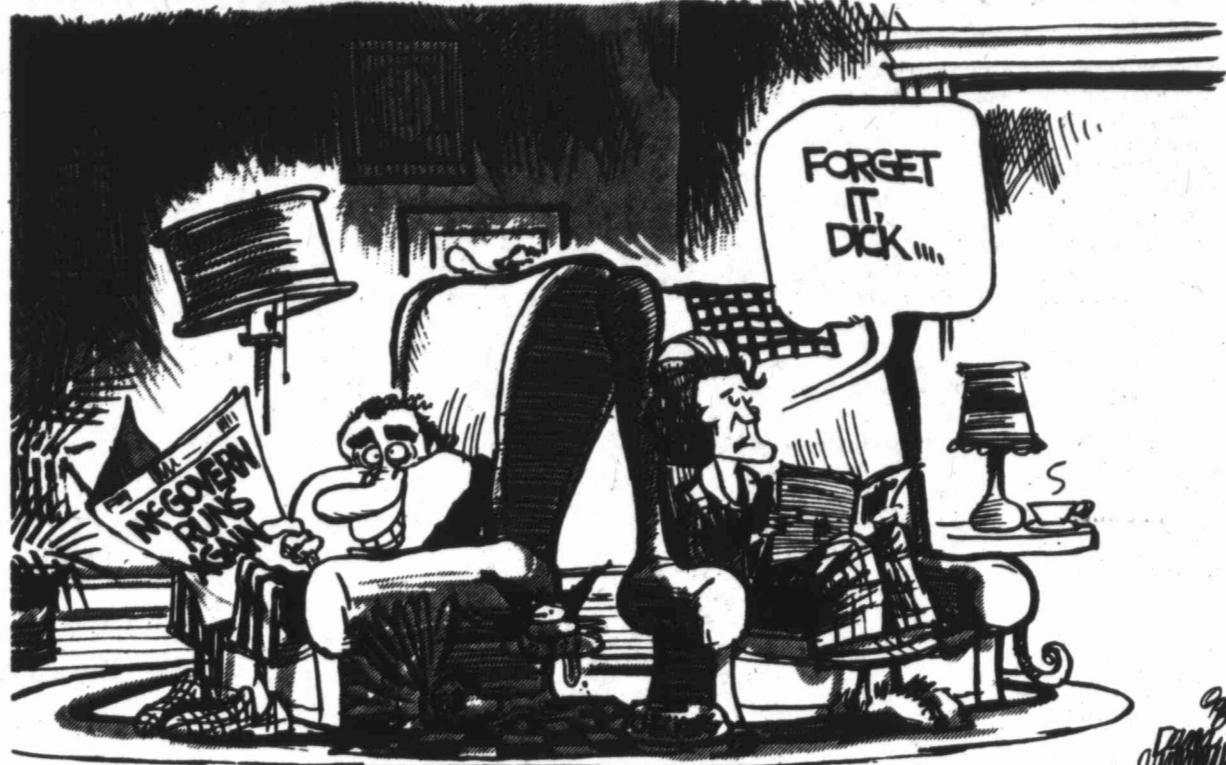

Nevertheless, the Carnegie Foundation report is especially noteworthy. In this age of high technology, mathematics and science often are stressed at the expense of the humanities. The Carnegie Foundation, however, has recommended that mastery of the English language, including writing, become the central objective of high school curriculums.

Although the Carnegie report acknowledges that enhancing math and science instruction will serve the national interest, it recognizes that the highest purpose of education is to enrich our lives.

Obviously, the study of a play by William Shakespeare, a novel by Charles Dickens or a poem by Emily Dickinson will not aid the United States to compete with Japan in the high-technology sweepstakes. By the same token, however, achieving expertise in calculus and physics will not provide the insights into human nature that may be found in great literature.

Moreover, English now is the international language of diplomacy, business and science. No matter how mathematically gifted, a student cannot become successful without skills to communicate with others.

Since the national commission's report was released in April, renewed interest in improving our schools has offered hope for achieving an education renaissance in the United States. We commend the Carnegie Commission for reminding us not to neglect the humanities in this national effort.

Only God knows future

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have recently become fascinated with the subject of predicting the future, and have bought several books on fortune-telling. Do you think it is possible for someone to know what the future holds? — Mrs. K.B.L.

DEAR MRS. K.B.L.: Only God knows the future, and you should not allow yourself to get involved in any scheme or teaching which claims to have accurate knowledge of the future. (I am not talking about projections which some social scientists or others might make based on present trends, but about those who claim to have supernatural abilities to predict the future precisely). At best, such schemes are mere guesswork; at worst, they may be involved in dangerous occult practices. The Bible clearly warns against such things (eg. in Deuteronomy 18:9-13).

I wonder, however, if you have asked yourself why you have become interested in this subject. I cannot help but feel you are searching for certainty about the future, and about your own life as well. What you really are searching for is spiritual reality and peace — and you will find that only in Jesus Christ.

The greatest discovery we can ever make in life is not some supposed "truth" about the future, but the joy of peace with God. God loves us, and he wants to come into our lives and establish a personal relationship with us if we will but open our hearts to him. Give your life to Christ by asking him to come into your heart by faith, and you can know the peace that comes only from being God's child. Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1).

Then learn to trust the future to Christ. We may not know everything God has in store for us, but when we know Christ we know that God is in ultimate control and we need not fear the future. "If God is for us, who can be against us? ... For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future ... will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:31, 38-39).

"If we did not flatter ourselves, the flattery of others would do us no harm."

Controversial drug back on market

WASHINGTON — A big drug company is quietly moving to put back on the market a controversial painkiller it pulled off pharmacy shelves in March after the government compiled reports that linked the medication to serious allergic reactions, including at least five deaths.

The drug is Zomax, a powerful anti-inflammation painkiller that had been prescribed for some 15 million Americans. Its maker is McNeil Pharmaceutical, a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson.

The drug is unchanged. It will simply have a new label, stressing the risks and advising its use only by persons suffering chronic, intractable pain.

Incredibly, a government advisory panel has approved the reintroduction of Zomax with its new label, on the understanding that further tests of the drug be made after it is back on the market.

McNeil voluntarily stopped selling the drug after studying reports that linked intermittent use of Zomax to hundreds of adverse reactions, including shock, swollen body parts, irregular heartbeat, labored breathing, unconsciousness and heart attack. A Food and Drug Administration computer printout of last June 21 listed 5,282 cases of adverse reaction to Zomax.

Although raw data suggested that Zomax might have been a factor in 40 deaths, the company and the FDA agree there were possible links in only five.

The drug has also caused cancerous tumors in laboratory animals, according to Dr. Arthur H. Hayes Jr., then FDA commissioner.

Under questioning last April by Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., Hayes said that before the FDA would allow Zomax back on the market "we would have to conclude that there is a population of patients in whom the risks of its use would be outweighed by its benefits."

Another FDA official, Dr. Robert Temple, echoed Hayes's point and added: "There would have to be substantial new information, information not now available, before one would reach a conclusion that making the drug available for chronic use is the right thing to do."

All McNeil has come up with is a new label; there is no new data that would satisfy the FDA's requirement. Yet last month, an FDA advisory committee approved the drug maker's plan to introduce a new Zomax label provided further tests are then conducted. Temple and other FDA officials were present but made no objection to the advisory panel's decision. They never brought up the conditions they had assured Weiss would have to be met.

The company sticks by its product. A spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio that perhaps the adverse reactions to Zomax were the result of intermittent use, and suggested that it should be used only in cases of "intractable" chronic pain where other drugs don't work. The company admitted that there is no current clinical data that proves the effectiveness of Zomax for such use.

Footnote: An FDA spokesman stressed that the committee's decision was purely advisory.

WATCH ON WASTE: Given the billions that are squandered by federal agencies, the expenditure of $68,883 on a questionable project may seem like small potatoes. But small extravaganzas can quickly add up to horrendous waste.

This is the story of one of these small expenditures, uncovered by my associate Lucette Lagnado. It is a proposed grant to the International Youth Year Commission from the U.S. Information Agency. But thanks to the vigilance of Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., the request has been red-flagged. Here's what aroused his suspicions:

• The money is supposed to be spent on legitimate educational expenses. But it was allocated to pay for a series of junkets to the Caribbean, Western Europe and Africa in connection with the 1985 International Youth Year.

• The amount of the proposed grant was shrewdly kept a few hundred dollars below the $60,000 limit that would have brought it under congressional scrutiny.

• The money was funneled through a subcontractor, the National Strategy Information Center, which had been chastised by the USIA's inspector general for giving federal funds to an organization that had refused to sign an agreement to hire women and minorities.

• A conflict of interest also appears to be involved. Roy Godson, the head of NSIC, is a consultant for USIA. Thus, he is on the payroll of the agency that granted his group the contract. Godson said that USIA's general counsel had advised him this was not a conflict of interest.

Copycat TV

Once again, the new television season is upon us, thrusting more recycled trash at us in the name of new premiere series. And once again, the networks are fighting losing viewership because of cable offerings in a way guaranteed to make them lose.

Has there ever been a year in television where the top network executives, those brilliant, thousand-dollar salaried wizards, did not come up with more of the same shows already on television?

We've had the "Age of the Western," in which the horses and tough guys rode the ranges of the Ponderosa, Bonanza and Gunsmoke.

We've had the "Age of the Cop with a Difference," examples of which include a bald New York detective with a lollipop (Kojak), a good-looking police commissioner and his wife (McMillan and Wife), and the ever-rumpled Lt. Columbo. This doesn't even begin to include all the tough cop shows like S.W.A.T. and Police Story, or the police teams like the one in The Streets of San Francisco.

Even the hospitals had their golden era on television. Marcus Welby, M.D. and Medical Center spawned their clones rapidly.

Two years ago began the "Age of the Soap." How many people actually care whether J.R. Ewing dies in a fire this year? How many people care about whether the cast on Dynasty dies? Or who killed Ciji on Knott's Landing? Who is Ciji?

All the above shows have at the most two plots per genre. It doesn't matter who the actor or the character's name is, they can fit interchangeably into any other show in their genre.

And this season is no different. Instead of just one trend, the networks have added shows from each different genre. The problem on television is not that the good shows aren't copied. They are. Look at Archie's Place, AfterM*A*S*H and Bay City Blues and their originals. The problem is that rarely do the people copying the programs understand what made them special — their originality, their characters, their different approach to a situation.

Some of these copies of the best, such as AfterM*A*S*H and Bay City Blues, may turn out to be great. Even if the episode of AfterM*A*S*H is typical, the show will be better than average. But usually programmers want more of the same situation comedies with lots of giggles or sexual innuendoes because they attracted the most people. Since audiences are getting older and the youth market is gradually decreasing, programmers ought to be considering upgrading their shows. At the very least, they could consider demographics. Hill Street Blues and PBS specials may not deliver the most audience, but they deliver audiences with more spending power and deliver a prime target for luxury or quality advertising.

But after all, who would expect the network officials in the creative side to actually be original? That's like asking a Pepper why he drinks a particular soft drink — because he wants to be a Pepper like everyone else.

At least no one can question why NBC was awarded more Emmys than the other two networks

Carl Sagan statement rebutted

Dear Editor: On the Tonight Show September 12, 1983, Dr. Carl Sagan was one of the guests. I have watched him on several occasions and I feel the need to comment on what he had to say. He made the statement, "If there is a God and if he is so malevolent as to give us knowledge that will enable us to discover facts about the universe, then trick us all and say that the Earth is only six to eight thousand years old, then I don't understand why anyone would want to love him anyway." A little background to the statement will find Carson and Sagan discussing the age of the Earth.

Carson said that he had seen Sagan and some fundamentalist preacher debating on TV. The preacher had said he believed the earth was six to eight thousand years old. They discussed carbon dating and several other things to refute that and then mentioned the fact of the galaxies being 200 million light years away. That means when we see a galaxy, it has taken that light 200 million years to reach us. Hence, God must have fixed it 6,000 years ago to trick scientists today into believing the preponderance of evidence that supposedly supports the earth's age of 200 million years and/or 4 billion years old.

That led up to the statement mentioned beforehand. I wasn't sure what malevolent meant so I looked it up. Webster's says, "wishing evil or harm to others; having or showing ill will; malicious." I went to the trouble to say all that to clarify what Sagan said. I did not misquote the man. I am growing weary of hearing people advocating the theory of evolution and spontaneous life in school while at the same time opposing the teaching of creation because it is not "scientific." God is not, never has been, and never will be confined to science. As to the Earth's appearance of age, there is no problem with that to me. The Lord created the Earth with the appearance of age. Is anything too hard for him? It sounds familiar to me when I hear men talking about their wisdom as opposed to what thus saith the Lord. Romans 1:21 speaks of not glorifying God or being thankful and becoming vain in their imagination while their foolish heart is darkened.

In the very act of professing themselves to be wise, they become fools. 1 Cor. 1:25-27 mentions that the weakness and foolishness of God is stronger than the strength and wisdom of men. That is only a figure of speech to prove that point, and does not mean God has any weakness or foolishness. I'm not going to try to prove God's point of view, for it needs none. I'm just tired of hearing the humanist, secularist, atheistic position propagated all the time as being the truth. Sagan talked about equal time as something the fundamentalists always complained about.

He said, "It's strange that they never discuss and/or teach Darwin's theory of evolution in the church. If they wanted to be fair... etc." I might add that the church is a local, self-governing body supported only by those who wish to do so, unlike the public school system which is supported by every taxpayer who pays for everything taught and encouraged at that school, regardless of the fact it might go against his or her beliefs. Incidentally, I'm not opposed to public schools.

Anybody that takes a stand today is labeled a fundamentalist, narrow-minded, bigoted, I'm right your wrong, what have you. I'm not intolerant of someone else's belief and I detest that attitude which identifies itself with that. However, I won't apologize for the truth either. It has been my experience that the humanist is guilty of the same thing they accuse us of. They would be perfectly content to shove their way of thinking on everybody while screaming at us the same old claptrap about separation of church and state and everything else in the world. The Bible does not contain truth, it is truth! It is not contingent upon whether science, or great learned men or anybody else supports it or not. I would also like to say that certainly applies to Christians and those who hold to the Bible as well. Probably more so than those who don't. It is not a question of me sitting in judgement as to knowing what is best at all. One doesn't even have to look for fault in me, it will come show itself. I'm not perfect, just forgiven.

I don't always do what the Bible says, but it is still right and still the final authority regardless. I give Carl Sagan credit for his learning and he is a very educated man and knows a lot more than I know concerning most things. But this one thing I do know, every breath he breathes is borrowed from the same God he so irreverently made mention of on the show. It's easy to get mad, but I can honestly say I'm not angry at the man and I don't hate him. I pity him and those like him. I do hate some of the things he stands for.

The tragic thing is not whether he comes around to the Bible's teachings, for he most assuredly will, along with every man, woman, boy and girl that's ever lived or ever will live. Phil. 2:9-11. It is whether or not they do it in me.

Woman praises TG&Y employees

Dear Editor: I would like to express my gratitude to the manager and staff of T.G.&Y. store in Big Spring. Last week while shopping there I pulled $65 from my purse, along with my glasses. I told the lady at the desk, and came home to Colorado City thinking I would never see it again, but I didn't count on the honest employees of T.G.&Y. They did find the money, and called me to pick it up. I did want to give them a little reward, but they wouldn't take it.

Oh, yes! The money I lost was set aside in my purse because it was a grandparents day gift for a special lady in Big Spring, my mother, who lives alone at the age of 90 years. Thanks again, T.G.&Y. You really restored my faith in people.

Howard College opens dental hygiene clinic

Last Monday, Sept. 26, the Howard College Dental Hygiene Department opened a dental hygiene clinic that offers dental services to the general public by students in their last year of school. These students are, in essence, in their "internship" stage of training and are closely supervised by instructors of Howard College's outstanding program directed by Betty Buchanan. Clinic dentist is Dr. Alice Haynes, and instructor is Ann Foster.

Local dentists are supportive of this program with several serving on its Advisory Committee.

Those interested in dental services such as oral assessment, teeth cleaning or gums checked should call 267-6311, ext. 306, and ask for an appointment. X-rays by referrals from dentists are also done.

Also in the Howard College health sciences department, Director Barbara Holdampf announced another Basic EMT class will begin in January. Upon completion of this course, one is eligible for the EMT certification. Contact Barbara's office now to register for the limited space in this class.

The Advanced EMT class in progress now, which will finish in December, leads to paramedics certification. This course will be offered again next fall.

The Churchwell building at 2303 Goliad houses Tommy Churchwell's insurance agency and Laurie Churchwell Dance Gallery and Physical Fitness Center. They're having an open house Saturday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Go see this unique facility that is the culmination of two years of planning.

The building is 3,600 square feet, plush on the inside and landscaped attractively on the outside. The two studios have floating wood floors, mirrored walls and large dressing rooms. One feature I found of great interest was the complete nursery with attendant Norma Bearden offering quality attention to the children.

Another unique feature is the 15 x 30 foot indoor/outdoor pool. I understand that it is the only stainless steel pool in West Texas and is used for water aerobics.

Instructors, in addition to Laurie, are Marlene Crockett, Leslie Williams, and Lynn Chalker.

The Northside Community Center, operated by the PACD non-profit organization, will sponsor a Walk-A-Thon on Oct. 16 beginning in front of Wards in Highland Shopping Center and traveling around an 11 mile route. Marianne Brown and Claudette Green are chairmen of this committee. Prizes will be given to the person raising the most money and to the fastest, the oldest and youngest walkers finishing the course.

The Northside Community Center has all sorts of activities going since its inception only a few months ago: A Brownie troop with 37 members, Junior Girl Scout troop with seven members, a 4-H Club and craft classes for adults and youth. Also the meeting room has been much in use by groups.

The Chemical People is a nationwide program designed to be utilized by each community according to their needs. In the next few weeks, you will be hearing a great deal about The Chemical People Project and how it affects you and how you can help.

Please become involved and active in this current fight against drug and alcohol abuse. Let's make Big Spring an example for other communities to be able to turn to and say, "They did it, so can we!"

The Downtown Lions Club is in final preparations for the annual hamburger supper Friday night before the first district football game. A ticket gets a homemade charcoal burger cooked over mesquite wood served with all the trimmings and second helpings. Carl Smoot, supper chairman, and James Welch, club president, are expecting a record crowd before the Midland High game. Football fans can park at the stadium and walk over to the coliseum where the Hamburger Supper is being held.

Proceeds go to the Lions Crippled Children's Camp and the Eyeglass Project.

Sherry Bordofsky, United Way executive, is recovering slowly and painfully from her recent automobile accident. She has numerous broken bones, which will prevent any normal activity for several weeks. It couldn't have happened at a worse time — just as the annual United Way Drive kick-off is about ready.

Sherry has a good team to carry on. Lynn Chalker is her secretary, who has United Way experience; Pat Moore is campaign chairperson; and Drew Mouton is United Way president. There are several key campaign leadership positions that need to be filled. Volunteers are needed.

I know Sherry will appreciate your calls and visits during her convalescence.

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy stole $7,000 worth of jewelry from his parents and sold it for $180 so he would have money to play video games, police said today.

The boy took jewelry four times and sold it to Daniel Levindofski, 59, of Bladell, who runs a television shop in Lackawanna and deals in coins and jewelry, Chief Detective Sam Violanti said.

Violanti said the jewelry hasn't been recovered.

District remapping approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A revised congressional redistricting plan for Texas has been approved by the Justice Department, which says the plan meets federal requirements for fair representation for minorities.

The plan, approved by the Texas Legislature in May, sets the boundaries for Texas' 27 congressional districts for the remainder of the decade and is widely regarded as tending to favor the re-election of current incumbents.

The biggest changes come in the Dallas area, where the question of minority representation has been a persistent issue. William Bradford Reynolds, assistant attorney general for civil rights, said Tuesday that the department had found "no evidence" that in drawing new boundaries for the Dallas area that the Legislature's "judgment was infected by a racial or ethnic motive."

"Accordingly, the state has met the burden imposed by the Voting Rights Act with respect to the Dallas districts," Reynolds said in a letter to Texas Secretary of State John W. Fainter Jr. "Similarly, the other aspects of the plan satisfy the Act."

However, Republican Party representatives and a spokesman for the NAACP promised to appeal the Justice Department's decision.

The new boundaries will supercede boundaries drawn by a three-judge federal panel in Austin for the 1982 elections. The court drew its own boundaries after the Justice Department had rejected a previous redistricting plan adopted by the Legislature in August 1981.

Under the Voting Rights Act, all redistricting plans in Texas, as well as eight other states with a history of past voter discrimination, must be submitted for approval by either the Justice Department or the U.S. District Court here.

Under the new boundaries, about 45,000 persons in traditionally Democratic strongholds of East Arlington are transferred from the 24th District, represented by Democrat Martin Frost of Dallas, to the 26th District, represented by Democrat Tom Vandergriff of Arlington.

The change is expected to help Vandergriff, a freshman who won by a slim margin last year.

About 45,000 persons in southwest Dallas County are shifted from the 6th District, represented by Republican Phil Gramm of College Station, to Frost's 24th District.

For the first time, the 24th District will be located entirely in Dallas County, with a racial composition of 55 percent white, 32 percent black and 13 percent Hispanic.

The Dallas NAACP said in July that it wanted a 24th District made up of at least 60 percent minority residents, and was prepared to challenge the new boundaries in court if they were approved by the Justice Department.

Jesse Jones, a board member of the NAACP's Dallas chapter, said Monday that his group would either file a new lawsuit challenging the congressional lines or would intervene in an existing lawsuit.

And Fred Meyer, Dallas County Republican party chairman, said, "This just means we will see them in court." The Texas Republican Party took legal action in 1981 challenging the new congressional plan because it failed to create a minority district.

In the 1982 election, with the district 54 percent white, Frost defeated black candidates in both the Democratic primary and the general election.

The plan approved by the Justice Department also makes other minor changes in the 6th District, represented by Gramm, the 12th District, represented by Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, in the 3rd District.

'A-Team'
first spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's "The A-Team," back for another season of trashing the bad guys, zapped the opposition for first place in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended Sept. 25, but it appears more teamwork will be needed to dislodge ABC as the No. 1 network.

Not even Mr. T, Hannibal or their hearty band of mercenaries could lift NBC from second place. CBS finished third.

ABC chalked up its third straight victory in the A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings using its strategy of early premieres of its new and returning series. The official start date for the season was Sept. 19. Last week the network was aided by the spectacular debut of "Hardcastle & McCormick" and the week before by the return of Monday Night NFL Football.

ABC's momentum may be hard to stop, although CBS, the top-rated network for the past several years, traditionally has been a slow starter. But ABC has won the past two Fridays and Sundays, normally the strongest nights for CBS.

NBC's lighthearted adventure "The A-Team" headed the Top 10 in its season debut. In second place was the premiere of ABC's glamorous new series "Hotel," where a large number of guest stars will be checking in.

These returning shows also made the Top 10: ABC's "Fall Guy," fifth; NBC's "Remington Steele," sixth; and NBC's "Facts of Life," ninth. ABC's "Hardcastle & McCormick," first last week, was fourth.

The Emmy Awards show, telecast Sunday on NBC, was 13th. Only one other Emmy telecast, the year of the actors' strike in 1980, has had a lower rating in the past five years.

ABC had a network average of 17.5. NBC was in second place with 15.4 and CBS was third with 14.3. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 17.5 percent of the nation's television homes were tuned to ABC.

CBS' ratings may have been affected by the overtime of its Sunday NFL football game. The overtime postponed the start of "60 Minutes" by more than an hour and caused the network to drop "Alice" for the night. The normally top-rated "60 Minutes" was in 11th place.

CBS' ratings also may be suffering from the fact that unlike ABC and NBC, CBS has not previewed many of its new shows. Only "60 Minutes" and "The Dukes of Hazzard" had early starts.

ABC had five shows in the Top 10, NBC had three and CBS had two.

"The CBS Evening News with Dan Rather" continued as the most popular evening news show. Here are the ratings: CBS 12.7, NBC 10.4 and ABC 9.6.

The week's 20 top programs:

1. "The A-Team," NBC, a rating of 25.3 or 21.2 million households.
2. "Hotel," ABC, 23.7 or 19.8 million.
3. "The Love Boat," ABC, 21.5 or 18.0 million.
4. "Hardcastle & McCormick," ABC, 20.7 or 17.3 million.
5. "The Fall Guy," ABC, 20.3 or 17.0 million.
6. "Remington Steele," NBC, 20.0 or 16.7 million.
7. Movie—"Thunderball," ABC, 19.9 or 16.6 million.
8. "M-A-S-H," CBS, 19.3 or 16.1 million.
9. "Facts of Life," NBC, 19.0 or 15.9 million.
10. "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, 18.8 or 15.7 million.
11. "60 Minutes," CBS, 18.2 or 15.2 million.
12. Movie—"Saturday Night Fever," ABC, 18.1 or 15.1 million.
13. "Emmy Awards," NBC, 18.0 or 15.0 million.
14. "Simon & Simon," CBS, 17.9 or 15.0 million.
15. "20-20," ABC, 17.5 or 14.6 million.
16. "Fantasy Island," ABC, 17.2 or 14.4 million.
17. "George Burns Celebrates 80 Years in Show Business," NBC, 16.4 or 13.7 million.

Dear Abby

Mortician won't mourn dead humor's demise

DEAR ABBY: I am a funeral director (mortician) who is fed up with people who make jokes about my profession. I am very easy going and enjoy good humor, but enough is enough!

Have you any idea how many times I've heard the lines, "I'll bet people are just dying to do business with you!" and, "How's business? Dead, huh?"

I'm sure I speak for many funeral directors. Please print this for people who think they're being clever or original. They're not; a few hundred others have already beat them to the punch. Thanks a lot.

DEAD SERIOUS IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR DEAD: All right, let's call a spade a spade. The mortuary business is a grave undertaking, so how is this for a sequel? "All men are cremated equal."

DEAR ABBY: I can't receive a personal letter because my husband brings in the mail, so I hope you will answer me in your column. Before we were married, I told my husband I wasn't a virgin, but I didn't tell him how much of a virgin I wasn't! I admitted to having only one lover, and I've wanted to correct that lie many times, but I never did. Now I am the guiltiest person on earth.

I never was a tramp; I was a lady who had some special friends with whom I shared some very special moments. I don't have a long list of lovers in my past, but there was more than one.

I hate myself for lying and wonder if I should tell my husband the truth now. We've been married only a short time, and I don't know what would happen if I told him. He tends to be rather jealous.

I've been praying to God for an answer. Maybe he will give it to me through you.

NEEDS AN ANSWER DEAR NEEDS: Many wives have written to tell me the most regrettable mistake of their lives was telling a jealous husband about the lovers that preceded him. We humans all have imperfections. Let that be yours. Your husband will be happier not knowing, and your marriage will be healthier.

Dr. Donohue

Heart murmur: functional or organic?

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please explain the difference between a functional and organic heart murmur? Our 3-year-old daughter has been diagnosed as having the functional kind. We have been advised not to be concerned about it. But we would like more information about it. — Mrs. D.G.

When the doctor uses the term functional in speaking of a heart murmur he means there's nothing wrong with the heart. The murmur is not affecting how the heart does its work. To distinguish such a murmur from one that does indicate a possible problem, the term organic is used. Such a murmur indicates a structural anomaly in the heart or its valves.

Because the term functional heart murmur is used so often, perhaps I might try to use an analogy to explain what is meant.

Let's look at another kind of murmur, the kind of public speaker may detect at the rear of the auditorium as he is speaking. He has to decide if it is a serious sound. Is the audience gasping in admiration of his brilliance? That would be a functional murmur that he need not worry over. Or is it a murmur that a prelude to a sudden rush to the stage to eject him bodily from the auditorium. If so, there is cause for concern. It's an organic murmur indicating an ill-tempered audience.

Doctors, after having heard thousands of heart murmurs, can usually tell the difference between a functional and organic murmur by the kind of sound heard. It may be like the peaceful rush of gentle surf on a sandy shore or it may be the pounding turbulence against a rocky prominence.

If there is doubt, he has ways to help determine which kind of murmur is present — X-rays, the normal kind or those made after injecting dye into the heart chambers. He can visualize the valves and relate them to the sounds. That is not usually necessary.

If your doctor is able to assure you that the murmur is functional, then be thankful and forget it. The finding is recorded on the child's health record and subsequent examinations will follow the progress.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been taking Diucardin for my high blood pressure. About a month ago, I went for a refill and the pharmacist told me I should see my doctor about continued use of them. You see, the doctor who prescribed them for me is no longer here, but has moved to another state. I do want to find another doctor but I must wait, as office visits are expensive. I am 73, active and do exercise like walking. My outlook on life is good and I do all my own housekeeping, cooking, shopping, etc. Is this medicine dangerous for me? — S.J.P.

Your medicine (hydroflumethazide) is not especially dangerous. It's a water pill. My immediate concern for you, Mrs. P., is not so much for your medication as it is for your floundering in this no-man's land of medicine. You should not use a drug forever without being under a doctor's guidance.

Club plans projects for year

Charlotte Dalton, a guest, received the hostess gift.

The last meeting was in the home of Jett Moore, Tuesday. Susan Hester presented a program.

Red Guard recalls revolution

LONDON (AP) — Liang Heng, a Red Guard at the age of 12, grew up idolizing Chairman Mao. The Great Helmsman's name was the first word he learned after mother, father and grandmother.

He made a pilgrimage to Peking to lift his "Little Red Book" before the huge picture of Mao in Tian An Men Square, pledging: "I will always be loyal to your revolutionary line."

But the excesses of China's Cultural Revolution in 1966-1976 broke up his family, forced him to live as a peasant and left him abandoned at 13 when his parents were charged with ideological impurity.

Now 29 and living in New York with an American wife, Liang is the first Red Guard to chronicle the chaos and violence that prevailed in the world's most populous nation for more than a decade.

His autobiography, "Son of the Revolution," describes how his father divorced his mother when she was wrongly condemned as a "rightist" at the start of the Cultural Revolution, and how his journalist father later suffered from the label "stinking intellectual."

Liang tells how he and his two sisters ate grass to survive; of watching Red Guards rape a female comrade; of brutal factional warfare and roughneck guards who burned his father's books; of the renowned concert pianist Liu Shi-Kun being forced to clean the toilets at the commandeered Peking Institute of Music.

In London for the publication of the British edition of his book, Liang said in an interview that he thinks China's current leader, the pragmatic Deng Xiaoping, is on the right path.

But he worries that his people remain prone to "blind obedience."

The main characteristic of the Chinese people is to obey authority," he said.

Chinese pupils still receive a political indoctrination, not an education, and learn little about Mao's mistakes, he said.

"It was a tragedy, not only for the Chinese people, but for all human beings," said Liang. "I really worry about the future."

The book was written with the help of Liang's wife, Judith Shapiro, 29, who met and married the ex-revolutionary while teaching English in his native province of Hunan.

He was anxious to learn English and she to unravel the story of how a typical provincial family had weathered the 1960s upheaval.

Their romance upset local Communist Party members, and it was only after they appealed by letter to Deng Xiaoping — at a time when U.S.-Sino relations were warming up in 1980 — that their union was sanctioned.

They left for the United States in 1981 and spent a year working on the book. Liang is now a graduate student at Columbia University and his wife a part-time Chinese interpreter for the U.S. State Department.

"I told my story, and Judy wrote it down," he said.

"Both of us wept many times," she said, recalling the indignities and sorrows of Liang's shortened childhood.

Her husband added: "These were the shadows of my heart, and it's difficult for a Chinese to tell these stories."

The Red Guard who once donned straw sandals to join the re-enactment of the "Long March" of Mao's Red Army, hopes to become a U.S. citizen next July.

"All the things I've seen and all the people I've met in America are so different from what the party taught us," said Liang.

"Our newspapers were always criticizing the capitalist system, saying there was no human feeling and people only think about money. That's not true."

His eyes lighted up at the memory of arriving in the United States to a kaleidoscope of color, compared with drab Chinese uniformity.

"In China, in the summer they wear white and in the winter blue," he said.

"I disliked American food — except ice cream — at first, but I even like cheese now." To most Chinese, the smell of cheese is revolting.

Like other exiles from Communist lands, Liang felt Americans did not value their freedoms highly enough and were "too soft."

He points to two events that changed his life.

Unusually tall for a Chinese at 6-foot-1, he was recruited as a basketball player — playing center — and received many special privileges. Then in 1977, at the age of 23, he won admission to Hunan Teacher's College.

"Most people's lives were more terrible than mine. I survived, and in all of my family, only three people died."

Deadly weed spreading east

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP) — The tansy ragwort, an imported weed that has pretty flowers but a deadly effect on cattle and horses, is moving eastward across Oregon, spread partly by the hay elk hunters carry for their horses.

The weed has become a common sight in western Oregon since it landed in the 1920s as a stowaway in ship ballast, but now it is appearing in cattle ranching counties in the state's northeastern corner.

"If it spreads and continues to encroach the area, it certainly would be a real economic problem," Union County extension agent Ralph D. Hart said Monday. "The concern here is it would be a whole lot easier if it were not brought to this area, rather than trying to contain it once it is established."

The plant grows to about three feet high, with multiple stems, a bright green leaf and yellow flowers that resemble daisies.

Seeds of the plant, native to western Europe, arrived in the dirt that many ships in the early part of this century used for ballast. The ballast was dumped to make room for cargo when the ships made port in Portland and Coos Bay, said Robert B. Hawkes, supervisor of the noxious weed control program for the state Department of Agriculture.

"Now it's pretty well spread all over western Oregon," he said. "It's toxic to horses and cattle, but sheep can graze it. It's not a poisoning that occurs all of a sudden. It causes liver damage that is irreversible."

The weed is blamed for losses of about $5 million a year in livestock losses and money spent on eradication programs, primarily in western Oregon, said Hawkes.

County and state officials rank tansy ragwort — dubbed "stinking Willy" in Australia — the top problem weed in Oregon.

County extension agents in Oregon's northeastern corner have found tansy ragwort sprouting more than ever this year, particularly around camps made by elk hunters, who bring horses with them to pack out their kills.

The seeds tag along in hay the hunters carry to feed their pack animals. It can also be spread by an animal that ate the weed at home, then left droppings while on the hunt, said David D. Dickens, extension agent in Wallowa County.

Officials report it has infested about 1,300 acres in Union County and 200 acres in Wallowa County in the state's northeastern corner.

State and county officials are appealing to hunters to buy their hay after they get to the hunting grounds and to report sightings of the toxic weed when elk season begins in November.

"Legally, we could quarantine all the hay brought into the county, but that's not a practical thing to do," said Hart.

"We'd have to have a 24-hour roadblock and in hunting season the hunters come in bumper to bumper."

The weed is often found in rugged country where someone has to hike in with a backpack sprayer, clip the seeds off, put them in a plastic bag, then put herbicide around the roots, Hart said.

"It's better not to have it introduced in the first place," Hart added.

Partners split over tickets

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two men who split as business partners were able to agree on possession of a Colorado condominium and an airplane, but their dispute over ownership of University of Nebraska football tickets is headed for the courtroom.

In a lawsuit filed last week in Douglas County District Court, Joseph A. Vetro said that he and Richard King agreed last spring to split the four season tickets they had shared since about 1976.

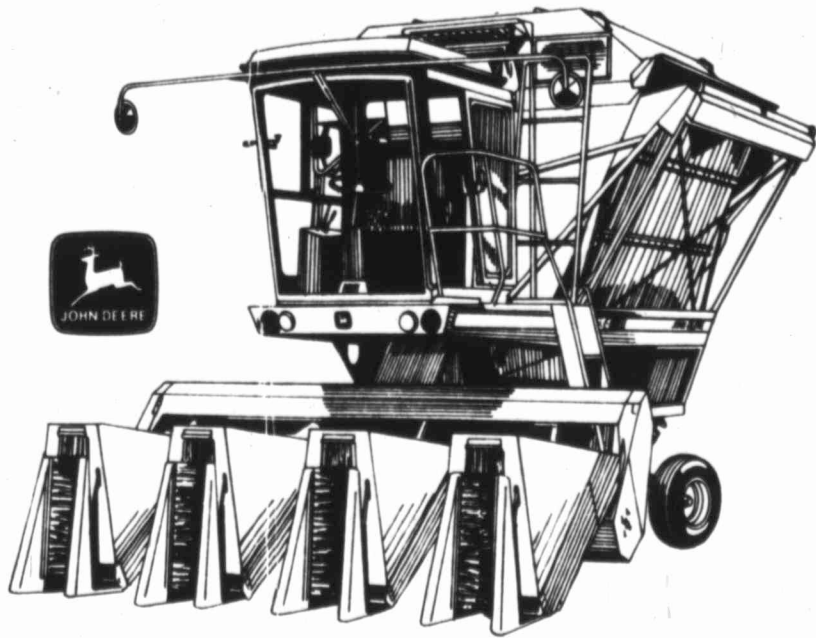

But King got the tickets in the mail during the summer and has kept them all, Vetro alleged. Vetro said the seats in the east balcony at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln provide "a unique and nearly unexcelled view" of Nebraska football games.

If King is allowed to keep all four tickets, Vetro said he "will sustain great and irreparable injury."

The Nebraska Cornhuskers were a unanimous choice as the nation's top football team in The Associated Press college football poll released Tuesday.

wednesday's quarterback

By DAN DAVIS
Sports Writer

Colorado City's collapse last Friday night against Wylie can't be attributed to a loss of guts or integrity.

Instead, it was an emotional loss. A drain. A critical head injury to freshman defensive end Dion Alvarez, 15, in the Thursday night junior varsity game left the Wolves stunned.

"We played well on emotion in the first quarter (scoring 18 unanswered points), but then Dion's situation hit us and we came out flat," said varsity coach Tom Ramsey.

Alvarez, injured on a play going away from him, was listed in critical condition this morning at Abilene's Hendrick Medical Center. His injury is diagnosed as an aneurysm on the brain. An aneurysm is a permanent cardiac or arterial dilation usually caused by a weakening of the vessel walls.

"Dion's a typical student at school," said Ramsey. "Everyone likes him and enjoys being around him because he's such a happy kid."

Alvarez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Alvarez, penetrated the line of scrimmage, "fixing to follow the play," when he was blocked hard at the knees Ramsey said.

"He went to the ground," said Ramsey, "and he didn't get back up."

Taken first to Root Memorial in Colorado City, Alvarez was immediately moved to Hendrick in Abilene. Dr. Joe C. Terry, Alvarez' doctor in Colorado City, said the young athlete apparently lost consciousness on the way to Root.

In other games played Friday night, Coahoma rolled to its third win with a 19-14 win over Reagan Co.; Stanton fell 48-0 to No. 1 Harris-rated Hamlin; Trent whipped Gray 32-8; Robert Lee won its fifth game by downing Garden City 24-6; Class AA Munday blasted Forsan 55-0; O'Donnell shut out Sands 6-0; Greenwood smothered Sterliling City 32-15; and Jayton edged Klondike 7-0.

Here's what the coaches had to say about those games and their upcoming battles this week:

JAN EAST, Forsan High Buffaloes — (On rout by Munday) "We were outclassed with a lot better talent. Still, though, we played hard." (On upcoming visit to 3-1 O'Donnell) "They're much improved, small but quick. They play sound football and we'll have a fight on our hands. But if we play good, we can win."

RICHARD GIBSON, Grady High Wildcats — (On 32-8 loss to Trent) "The score really wasn't indicative of the game. We failed to score three times when we were close. It was good improvement over the past even though we lost." (On hosting Hermleigh) "They're about our caliber and speed, and if we play against them like we did Trent, we can win this ballgame."

MICKEY VIRDELLE, Klondike High Cougars — (On shutout by Jayton) "We're still dealing with inexperience. We had lots of offense but were making mistakes at inopportune times. We've got a good ball club; just got to get going in the right direction. The more we play, the more we're getting there." (On the visiting Jal, N.M.) "New Mexico schools usually play a wide-open game, but Jal has settled down and plays more of a Texas-style of ball. To win, we'll have to eliminate our offensive mistakes. Our defense has been great all season."

LARRY HUDSON, Coahoma High Bulldogs — (On second-half comeback over Reagan County) "We didn't play a good first half. Although we had lots of offense, we hurt ourselves too much with penalties and fumbles. We came out in the second half and commensed to play football, though. Running, passing, catching. It was all good the second half. It may've helped us with character and team play." (On hosting D-City) "We're looking for a strong opponent. Very strong defense to crack. Most of their offense was lost to graduation, but their quarterback's back and he's been moving the ball with the veer option fairly well."

JIM WHITE, Sands High Mustangs — (On eating O'Donnell's dust) "We looked kind of dead, unenthusiastic. We weren't mentally ready for the

One isn't enough

Lee subdues Big Spring in 3 games

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

In between the two losses, Big Spring played its best volleyball of the season. Unfortunately, Lee had too much Lesa Burnett to handle in games one and three.

The Rebels battered the Lady Steer back line in the opening game, winning 15-6, was out-hustled 15-11 by Big Spring in the second game and then looked to Burnett to put the match away with a 15-9 victory in the deciding third game.

The loss dropped Big Spring to 2-3 in District 4-5A play while the win kept Lee alive in the first half title chase with a 4-1 record.

In other matches around the 4-5A Tuesday night, Permian fell to Cooper 15-10, 13-15, 15-6, Odessa High rallied by Abilene 15-3, 12-15, 15-6 and San Angelo upped its record to 5-0 with a 17-15, 15-8 victory over Midland.

Viewing the match from the Big Spring side of things, the evening was made by the second game. Aside from too many net services by both teams, each point went into a rally. Diving out-of-bounds. Left-handed returns. Scooping from the net. The game had it all.

Although entertaining, the game only tied the match at one apiece.

The Rebels shook off Big Spring's resurgence and left it up to Burnett to calm the Lady Steers.

Lee jumped out to a quick 5-1 lead and Big Spring could not recover. It was that simple. Burnett scored to boost the Rebels into a 10-4 lead that withstood two pinpoint serves by Paula Spears and a setting error by Stacy Harmon.

Burnett then went back to work. She scored to make it 12-7. Her block at the net made it 13-7. She scored again to make it 14-8 after Harmon hit a shot long. The Lee senior then stepped aside to let Adrienne Wurtz get the winning point, blocking BSHS's Tris Clemons at the net.

No one is happy with a loss but Big Spring coach Susan Sharp had to be pleased with her team's about-face in the second game.

Lee roared off to a 7-0 lead in the first game, watched Big Spring come back to within 10-6 as Spears and Clemons entered the game for the first time. Three scoring serves by Felicia Farias, a slam by Burnett and long shot by Spears gave Lee its 11-point win.

But the second game was totally different. Big Spring led for half the game before a mental lapse allowed Lee to take a 7-5 lead.

Clemons suddenly got hot, pushing in a scoring shot, blocking a winner, rejecting another shot and getting a second block as Big Spring took a 10-7 lead.

Lee wasn't standing on its hands either. Megan Pace scored to end the night's longest and most thrilling rally to give Lee its ninth point. Two BSHS mistakes tied the match 11-11 before Farias hit a power spike long.

Burnett made a rare error. Farias hit long again and Spears scored on a block to give Big Spring a 13-11 lead. After another rally, Burnett hit long again and Pat Sanchez muffed a dink at the net to give Big Spring the win.

The absence of Spears and Clemons starting the match cost the Lady Steers. Both reportedly had missed a practice session and had to pay by sitting on the bench.

In the junior varsity contest, Big Spring had no trouble in picking up its third win in five district outings. Lisa Subia served five points in a 15-6 win in the first game while Delia Correa had six points in the 15-9 match-winner.

The Lady Steer JV's split two matches at the Seminole tournament over the weekend, downing Denver City 15-11, 8-15, 15-5 before losing to Monahans 15-5, 15-10.

The junior varsity is 11-6 overall. Both teams are in action again Thursday, traveling to Permian.

Honor Roll

Again this week, team effort along with individual performances rank among the best in area football action.

Despite the emphasis on team play, several players sparkled when the coaches reviewed game films and they are honored as Offensive and Defensive Players of the Week for the Big Spring area.

The top performance by an offensive player goes to Richard Seals, Coahoma fullback, who rushed for 218 yards in 32 carries and scored two touchdowns in the Bulldogs' 19-14 come-from-behind win over Reagan County.

Defensively, it's Klondike's Rolando Juantos who was part of 17 tackles as the Cougs held powerful Jayton to just one touchdown in a 7-0 loss.

Special notice goes to Forsan's Todd East who was moved from safety to linebacker and responded with 17 tackles in Buffs' 55-0 to Munday.

Now for more on how the schools played as a team.

Greenwood coach Joe Longley credits the entire offensive line in his club's homecoming win and gaining 332 yards rushing. He gave special laurels to guard Scott Goff and tackle Joey Branch.

Similarly, Klondike's Mickey Virdele praised his defensive team, saying they've been "super" all through the season. Klondike lost 7-0 to Jayton and gave up only 139 yards.

game, I think I hope." (On facing Lamesa JVs) "Well, I hope the guys will say this kind of football (their performance against O'Donnell) isn't the kind of ball they want to play. We're asking for more leadership out of our upperclassmen; I think that's what we need to get ourselves prepared for the games."

CLYDE NOONKESTER, Lamesa High Golden Tornadoes — (After a vacation last Friday night and facing 3-0 Lakeview) "With the week off from a game, we worked on the fundamentals. Lakeview will be a tough ballgame. They're one of the tough teams in our district, surely one of the top four. We'll have to make fewer mistakes, play good defense for a change, keep the ball away from them and go score."

JOE LONGLEY, Greenwood High Rangers — (On homecoming win over Sterling City) "Our offensive line did a good job, opening up big holes for big gains. We rushed for 332 yards. Turnovers were the difference in the ballgame. We didn't have any while Sterling City had three. (On upcoming tilt with unbeaten Robert Lee) "It'll be a real tough one. They're big and fast. We're going to have to play our kind of football, basically running. We've been able to so far, but we're not bashful about throwing, either."

DALE RUTH, Stanton High Buffaloes — (On Hamlin buffalo-ing) "They didn't score until late in the second quarter. They just wore us down. We played a good first half, really, but in the second half, they were able to throw the bomb on us. We just couldn't keep up." (On facing rival Seagraves) "It'll be a pretty hard fought game. Our kids get fired up for Seagraves. They're a little slower this year but still very good."

TOM RAMSEY, Colorado High Wolves — (On upset by Wylie) "The big turn-around in the game came with Dion's injury. It shocked our kids Friday afternoon. They were pretty upset. We played real well on emotion in the first quarter, but then it hit us and we came out flat." (On facing 4-0 Clyde) "Depending on how we bounce back from this situation with Dion, I don't know. We haven't recovered yet, and it may be awhile before we do. We were really caught off guard. This hasn't happened with us before. Clyde's a good ball club. If we show up unprepared, we'll get whupped."

STEWART COOPER, Garden City Bearcats — (On loss to Robert Lee) "We played good defensively, but we turned the ball over five times in critical field position. You can't do that against a team like Robert Lee. (On hosting Water Valley) "Looking for a much-improved Water Valley team. We can't fumble as much if we want to win. We've gone back to basics instead of trying outfinesse them."

Mavericks sign Ellis for upcoming season

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks have signed their top draft pick, forward Dale Ellis of Tennessee, to a five-year contract, team officials said.

Terms of the pact, which was signed Monday, were not released.

The signing cleared the way for the 6-7 Ellis to report to Mavericks' rookie camp, which opened today.

"We took our time, as long as it was done before training camp started," Ellis said. "I just didn't want to get off to a bad start. I didn't want the fans or the organization to think I felt like I was too good to go to camp."

"I wanted to make a good impression. I felt it was very important for me to sign and participate in camp so I could be ready for the season," he said.

Asked about how much he would be making, Ellis smiled and said, "It's enough to make me happy for a while."

"I wouldn't have signed unless I was comfortable with the figure," he said. "But I was eager and it was important for me to get out here as soon as possible so I could work out with the players."

NY Jets moving to Meadowlands

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets of the National Football League will move to Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J., at the end of the season, becoming the second NFL team to leave New York City within a decade.

Mayor Edward I. Koch announced at a news conference today that the city was giving up its fight to keep the Jets at Shea Stadium, where they have played since 1964.

The team has been dissatisfied with the condition of the ballpark and with their lease, which they say is far less favorable than that held by baseball's New York Mets. The lease expires after this season.

In announcing the move, Koch released a letter he sent to Jets owner and oil magnate Leon Hess which said the city must now "begin the search for alternatives."

Koch told Hess the city was still willing to negotiate with him to keep the team in New York. "However, we must also now commence an aggressive effort to negotiate with other NFL teams, as well as teams from the new leagues, who may want to take advantage of the wonderful, prosperous football stadium which we can have here."

In moving across the Hudson River, the Jets follow the New York Giants, who began play at Giants Stadium when it opened in 1976. The Giants had played at the Polo Grounds and then at Yankee Stadium until the second game of the 1973 NFL season. The Giants spent most of two seasons at Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., and one season at Shea before moving to Jersey.

The Jets do not need approval of the NFL to move to New Jersey since the Meadowlands sports complex is within the territorial boundaries set by the league's bylaws.

Steers Stars

Five Big Spring High football players have been honored by head coach Quinn Eudy and his staff this week.

The "Top Steer" award as the top defensive player in Friday night's 15-8 loss to Abilene was senior noseguard Danny Arista. Arista recovered two fumbles and anchored a Big Spring defense that gave up less than 200 yards to the Eagles. He shared the honor last week with Robert Porras.

Porras, another senior, won the "Hawk" award as the top performer in the secondary. The Steer strong safety intercepted a fourth quarter Mickey Russell pass and made several key tackles in the game.

Derek Logback, a newcomer to the varsity this season, earned his first varsity recognition with the "Bullet" award for his special teams play. The "Golden Spike" award for best performances by running backs and receivers was shared this week by junior Jay Pirkle and senior Eric Sherman. Sherman gained 53 yards on nine carries while Pirkle had 41 on 13 tries from his fullback position.

Senior Fabian Salazar won his first award by taking the "Conan" award as the game's outstanding lineman from his guard position.

The five awards are made every week by the Steers coaching staff after grading the film of the previous week's game.

Smithson tames Twins on 6-hitter

MINNAPOLIS (AP) — Pitching in the major leagues for Texas Ranger rookie Mike Smithson is beginning to be like pitching batting practice.

"I'm just learning what I can do," said Smithson after pitching his 10th complete game in beating the Minnesota Twins 6-1 Tuesday night. "I used to be tense before a game and threw as hard as I could. Now I go out there and say to myself that I'm just throwing batting practice. I throw to the plate and I don't look at the hitters. It doesn't matter who is up there now."

Buddy Bell hit a solo homer and Mickey Rivers and Billy Sample each had three hits.

Loser Al Williams, 10-14, was knocked out in the Rangers' three-run second inning.

American League

Yankees 7, Red Sox 2

Matt Keough notched his first victory since July 27 and Dave Winfield became the first Yankee to drive in 112 runs in a seasons since 1961, when Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle drove in 142 and 128 runs, respectively. Don Baylor added a two-run homer.

Brewers 8, White Sox 4

Cecil Cooper hit a two-run homer and drove in three runs and Robin Yount had three hits at Milwaukee.

Angels 7, Blue Jays 1

Rookie Gary Pettis went 4-for-4, including an inside-the-park home run. Pettis has homered in each of his last three games.

A's 5, White Sox 4

Rick Peters' infield single with one out in the ninth gave the A's the victory and snapped the White Sox' six-game winning streak.

Mariners 4, Royals 0

After losing nine of his last 10 decisions and getting only 15 runs of support in his last eight losses, Jim Beattie decided enough was enough.

And, except for one pitch in the third inning, Beattie was perfect Tuesday night.

Beattie, 10-14, hurled a one-hitter — U.L. Washington's single in the third — and faced only 28 batters in leading the Mariners over Kansas City 4-0.

Tigers 9, Orioles 2

With the AL East already decided in Baltimore's favor, there wasn't much riding on this game. But Jack Morris of the visiting Tigers was determined to stick it out to the end.

He did, throwing 143 pitches to become a 20-game winner for the first time.

Mumphrey bats Astros by Padres

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston center fielder Jerry Mumphrey has brought peace and quiet to the world of Manager Bob Lillis, in addition to some needed batting punch.

Mumphrey drove in four runs Tuesday night with a home run and three singles to key the Astros' 8-5 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

The talented 31-year-old switch hitter joined the Astros Aug. 10, traded from the New York Yankees for Omar Moreno.

Mumphrey's offensive contributions include a .336 batting average and 10 doubles in 42 games. His four RBI tied a career game high.

National League

Dodgers 7, Reds 4

Pedro Guerrero brought the Los Angeles Dodgers to the brink of the National League West title with seven runs batted in a two-game sweep of the Reds the last two nights, including a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly Tuesday in a 7-4 triumph.

Giants 6, Braves 2

San Francisco, which successfully played spoiler a year ago against the Dodgers, to the benefit of the Braves, all but killed Atlanta's hopes.

Mark Davis, 5-4, who has won five of his last six starts, yielded three hits over six innings and pinch-hitter Tom O'Malley broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run single in the top of the seventh.

Cubs 3, Phillies 0

At Chicago, the Cubs broke Philadelphia's 11-game winning streak, longest in the major leagues this season, but the Phillies still clinched a tie for the East title.

Mets 4, Pirates 3

Pittsburgh missed a chance to pick up ground in the East as George Foster hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run in the fifth inning.

Mike Torrez, 10-17, got credit for the victory despite a shaky start — seven hits in the first four innings. He pitched eight innings and Doug Sisk' relieved in the ninth for his 11th save.

Expos 10, Cardinals 4

At St. Louis, Tim Lincecum belted a three-run homer in the first inning and became the first National League player to total at least 70 RBI and 70 stolen bases in one season as Montreal beat the Cardinals.

Raines' home run, his 11th of the year, gave him 70 RBI for the season and he stole his 86th base and added a run-scoring triple later in the game.

St. Louis pulled off a triple play in the fourth inning.

"Stop the train," Mrs. Trencher cried. "My prize diamond has been stolen!"

As the train rolled through the Swiss Alps in splendor, passengers discussed the crime over dinner. Nearly everyone was a suspect.

M. Poulet, private investigator, however, suggested six prime suspects: James (2), the porter, returned Mrs. Trencher's jewel box to her cabin. Henri (1), the chef, was upset over Mrs. Trencher's comments about his soup and twice returned to the dining car to talk with her. Paul (3), the waiter, had every opportunity, as he served dinner. Winston (5), the butler, dislikes wealthy Americans. Charles (6), the concierge, unhappy at his work after 30 years, has the motive but little opportunity. Gibson (4), the valet, who'd love to be rich, shouldn't be ruled out.

Europe's most famous detectives are cleverly working to solve this crime. But you can solve it first. Here's how...

Dating process can help consumers find fresh eggs

COLLEGE STATION — An easy-to-understand "date" on egg cartons could be a big help to consumers for high quality, fresh eggs.

Present regulations do not require either a "pack" date or "pull" date on egg cartons, says Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. But, many egg cartons are "dated."

A "pack" date on cartons is usually based on the Julian calendar. Under this system, days of the year are numbered consecutively, explains Mellor. For example, Jan. 1 is 001, Jan. 31 is 031, June 25 is 176 and so on. Packers and store personnel use this date for inventory control and proper shelf stocking.

In addition to a "pack" date, many companies use a "pull" or expiration date. This is usually followed by the date and preceded by "Exp" or "Sell By." This date is usually from 10 to 30 days following packing, depending on the grade of eggs and the store or company involved, notes the specialist.

Even though eggs may have reached this "pull" date, they would not have lost their nutritional value, Mellor assures. If eggs have been maintained under refrigeration, they could probably be kept in the home refrigerator for a month or more without any noticeable difference in taste, flavor, appearance or nutritional quality.

For many years, some people have suggested the dating of food containers in an easy-to-understand fashion while others have questioned the practice. Perhaps the most understood dating system for eggs would be an uncodified pack date that retailers and consumers would understand, says Mellor.

Natalie Wood's last movie finally makes it to theaters

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — "Brainstorm," Natalie Wood's last movie, finally reaches theaters Friday 22 months after the actress drowned before filming her final scenes and the studio tried to scuttle the production.

Director Douglas Trumbull's original concept had to be altered to get around Miss Wood's loss but he managed — with the help of Lloyd's of London — to fight off two attempts to terminate the project.

Trumbull had completed filming on location in North Carolina and was filming at the Culver City studio when Miss Wood drowned off Catalina Island on Nov. 29, 1981, during a cruise with husband Robert Wagner and co-star Christopher Walken.

"Natalie was three scenes away from finishing and I had three more weeks of shooting," Trumbull said. "I reviewed what was left to shoot and decided immediately that the film could be finished. It never crossed my mind that it might be terminated."

But the studio felt completing the film without Miss Wood would involve too many changes, said Frank Rosenfeldt, vice chairman of MGM-UA Entertainment.

"We felt the project would not be the project that we had originally approved," he said.

The studio padlocked the film's sound stages and announced that "Brainstorm" would not be completed. That would have meant huge losses for the insurance carriers — $5 million for Lloyd's of London and $10 million for Pacific Indemnity.

Lloyd's offered a solution: It would invest $3.2 million to complete principal photography.

"The insurance companies viewed the situation like an auto wreck: Can you unbend the fenders and get the car running so you get some money out of it?" Trumbull said.

"I worked for no cost, and I got the cast to return without contracts. Everyone was wonderful about it. Nearly all of the crew returned, and many of them turned down other jobs to remain available."

He reworked the script to eliminate Miss Wood's unfinished scenes.

Three scenes were eliminated because of taste: a love scene in a canoe with Miss Wood and Walken; a shot of both leaping into a swimming pool; a fantasy of their son's drowning. Part of Miss Wood's dialogue was given to actor Joe Dorsey.

Trumbull then assembled the film into a rough cut, indicating where second-unit — transition scenes not involving the stars — and effects photography would be added. But the studio refused to see it.

Bismarck wants to drop North

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — A group in Bismarck has started a billboard campaign to change the state's name to Dakota because it believes the word "North" scares off tourists.

"Dropping the name would not change the temperature," said Milo Candee, who calls himself the coordinator of the group. "But we're not talking about changing the temperature, we're talking about changing the image."

The 15 people in the group, which includes businessmen, lawyers and a historian, donated about $1,000 to buy billboard space across the state, Candee said Monday. So far, between three and six billboards have been put up, he said.

The word "Dakota" alone raised images of the rugged Old West, which would be more attractive for tourism, he said.

CONVICTED — Frances Schreuder is escorted from the Salt Lake City courthouse after being found guilty of first-degree murder in the 1978 death of her millionaire father.

Socialite convicted of murder

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Socialite Frances Schreuder, convicted of murder for the slaying of her millionaire father by her teen-age son, deserves to receive a death sentence when her trial resumes Monday, a prosecutor says.

Mrs. Schreuder, 45, a member of the board of the New York City Ballet, was found guilty of first-degree murder Tuesday night by a jury that deliberated only three hours before deciding that she had ordered her father's slaying.

Her son, Marc, had testified that he was instructed by his mother in 1978 to kill his 76-year-old grandfather, Franklin Bradshaw, the owner of a chain of auto parts stores. The prosecution charged that a "ruthless and cruel" Mrs. Schreuder wanted Bradshaw killed because she feared being cut out of his will.

Mrs. Schreuder is to appear in court Monday for the penalty phase of her trial to decide whether the sentence will be life imprisonment or execution. She must choose whether the jury or 3rd District Judge Ernest F. Baldwin will determine her fate.

"We're asking for the death penalty," prosecutor Ernie Jones said.

At the penalty phase, aggravating or mitigating circumstances will be presented. Under Utah law, a person sentenced to death can choose execution by firing squad or lethal injection.

Baldwin allowed Mrs. Schreuder, a New York City resident, to remain free on $500,000 cash bond today. But he ordered her to stay in Utah and report to her attorney daily until Monday's hearing.

She sat motionless at the defense table for several minutes after the verdict was read. She then slipped away with her attorney, Michael Rosen, down an elevator and out onto the street.

"We can't talk to the press at all. We have nothing to say under the judge's orders," said Rosen, who walked arm-in-arm with Mrs. Schreuder. She stared straight ahead, and did not acknowledge shouted questions.

When asked what may have convinced the jury, Jones said, "We think it was Marc Schreuder's testimony."

The 22-year-old Schreuder, convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to five years to life for the July 23, 1978, shooting death of Bradshaw at his Salt Lake City warehouse, testified that his mother gave him detailed orders to kill his grandfather.

He said he tried to beg off and was told "just don't come home again," if he didn't carry out her orders. When he reported the successful slaying, she "ran up to me and hugged me and kissed me," he testified.

Jones, who prosecuted Schreuder last summer, told the jury Mrs. Schreuder was a "ruthless and cruel woman" who would try to destroy anyone who tried to get in her way.

"She destroyed her father. She destroyed Marc," Jones said. "There's only one thing standing in her road — a verdict."

Jones said Mrs. Schreuder was "absolutely obsessed" with fear that Bradshaw would disinherit her.

The major issue in the two-week trial, Jones said, was, "Why would a 17-year-old boy kill his grandfather?"

"Don't let him (Schreuder) bury his mother like he buried his grandfather," Rosen said.

'Forgotten holocaust' recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans of Ukrainian descent are spending a week in Washington trying to call attention to a famine 50 years ago that killed millions of their countrymen — and that they say was a deliberate massacre by the Soviet Union of peasants who would not give up their land.

To commemorate "the forgotten holocaust," they are staging candlelight vigils, every evening outside the Soviet Embassy, mounting exhibits of photographs and documents to prove it actually took place, holding a symposium and a concert of Ukrainian music and, on Sunday, staging a march to the Soviet Embassy by an estimated 5,000 protesters. Four clergymen are conducting a five-day fast.

The National Committee to Commemorate Genocide Victims in Ukraine 1932-33 says the Soviet government deliberately stripped the Ukraine — rich farmland that produces meat and dairy products, wheat, barley, corn, rye and tobacco — of all foodstuffs.

They say it was a brutal attempt to eradicate opposition to the collectivization of millions of small peasant farms, to decimate Ukrainian nationalism, propel the Soviet Union into the industrial age and obtain hard currencies with the sale of Ukrainian grain.

British historian Robert Conquest told a news conference Tuesday that the famine constituted "one of the great crimes of the 20th Century."

Conquest said despite the suppression of the Soviet Union's census of 1937, in which census takers were shot to death to keep their findings secret, students of population trends have concluded that the famine killed 7 million Ukrainians. Historic accounts often list the toll as "millions."

Conquest said entire Ukrainian villages perished during the famine while villages on the other side of the Ukrainian border subsisted without difficulty.

The Ukraine is now one of the 15 republics in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. In 1929, the Communists in Moscow began to take over its small peasant farms. Resistance, the Ukrainians charge, led to the decision to starve the people into submission.

"Until the Great Famine of 1932-33, the Ukraine could rightfully be called the breadbasket of Europe," the committee said. "And even the harvests of 1932 and 1933 were more than sufficient to feed the population."

"The leaders of the Kremlin, however, sent the Red Army into the Ukraine to confiscate all grain from the countryside. Watchtowers were erected so that the authorities could better detect attempts at hoarding."

"People were physically prevented from leaving the fields and going to the cities in search of food," the committee said. "Those who violated the state's orders were killed. Some resorted to cannibalism to survive."

The committee said the starving peasants ate anything to survive — dogs, cats, frogs, bark, roots and grass — and thousands roamed the countryside in search of food. The borders were sealed to keep them out of other parts of the Soviet Union.

Grimm fairy tale to be published

NEW YORK (AP) — A long-overlooked story about a lost little girl will be the first addition in more than a century and a half to the 210 fairy tales collected by the brothers Grimm, a publisher says.

The manuscript, penned in 1816 by Wilhelm Grimm, opens with the familiar "Once upon a time" and tells of a girl whose guardian angel leads her to shelter with an old man, eventually revealed as St. Joseph.

When it is published by Farrar, Straus & Giroux, the 2,500-word story will become the first addition to "Grimm's Fairy Tales" since the German folklorists first published the work between 1812 and 1815.

"The new manuscript should also be of great interest to scholars," said Peter Demetz, Sterling Professor of German Languages and Literature at Yale University.

Demetz said the Grimms "are among the major figures of 19th century culture and civilization."

The work is thought to be the only original manuscript by either Wilhelm or Jakob Grimm outside the Bodmer library in Geneva.

New York rare book dealer Martin Bresslauer said Tuesday he bought the manuscript in 1974 from an auction house in West Germany.

Before that, said Michael di Capua, editor in chief of Farrar, Straus & Giroux, the manuscript was apparently owned by the family of a girl named Milli to whom Grimm addressed an introduction.

Bresslauer said he offered the manuscript for sale five years ago for $21,000 but could find no buyers, then placed it in a bank where "I forgot all about it because I have quite a lot of books."

The publishing company bought the manuscript this year from the Justin Schiller dealership, to whom Bresslauer said he had given it on consignment for $26,000. Di Capua said his company purchased it for a "substantial five-figure price."

Illustrator Maurice Sendak, who is to provide color drawings, called the story wonderful, beautiful and touching. My major challenge is that they're so good as prose, what can an illustrator do to complement them?"

The story tells of a little girl — her name is never mentioned — whose mother fears an impending war and sends her into the woods.

To repay the kindness of the old man who shelters her, the girl serves him for what she thinks are three days but which is actually 30 years. As she leaves, he reveals himself as St. Joseph, gives her a rosebud and says she will return when the flower is fully bloomed.

The guardian angel returns the girl to her mother. The next morning, "the neighbors found them both dead; they had blessedly departed this life, and between them lay the rose of St. Joseph in full bloom," the story concludes.

Airlines cut costs to survive

NEW YORK (AP) — Major airlines are cutting costs to survive while being attacked from all sides by new competitors that didn't grow up as partners in one of the highest paid industries in the world.

Continental Airlines, which failed to win concessions it demanded from its employees, began reorganizing under federal bankruptcy law Saturday. It laid off two-thirds of its workforce and put its remaining staff on the books at lower salaries. Eastern Airlines says it may have to initiate bankruptcy proceedings unless its workers agree to a 15 percent pay cut.

Other leading airlines have already won concessions from employees.

The established airlines say the employee sacrifices are essential to survive competition from upstart rivals born in the industry deregulation of 1978.

For example, Continental Airlines pilots earned an average $81,000, while pilots for People Express, which turned a profit in its first full year in existence, start at $36,000, and there is no shortage of applicants, said People Express spokesman Russell Marchetta.

But he said comparisons are risky.

While it could take 20 years for a pilot to become a captain on a senior airline, People Express captains may have only had 2 1/2 years in, because the airline is only 2 1/2 years old.

And, those pilots do more. In fact, virtually all of People's 2,000 employees are managers — flight managers (pilots), customer service managers (flight attendants) and maintenance managers.

Each is a stockholder and each performs a variety of functions that their senior counterparts at other airlines are forbidden by their contracts from doing.

High labor costs have characterized the airlines for decades, but until deregulation opened the skies to new, low-cost competitors, the unions were in a position of strength. The airlines generally passed on the costs to passengers through government-approved higher fares.

A report by the Civil Aeronautics Board says airline workers in general are paid higher than in the rest of industry.

"For example, in 1980, keypunch operators who worked for the airlines earned 31 percent more than the average wage for all keypunch operators. Typists at airlines were paid 41 percent more; for computer operators the differential was 38 percent," the CAB said.

Among the major and national airlines, labor costs have almost tripled in the last decade, to $12.5 billion from $4.6 billion. According to the Air Transport Association, the average compensation in 1982 was $39,193, compared with $15,650 in 1972.

Labor, as a percentage of airline costs, in fact has declined to 35.3 percent from 46.8 percent because fuel costs in the same period soared from $1.2 billion to $9.7 billion.

But labor is adjustable and most airlines have taken steps to bring costs down. Continental's petition to seek court protection from creditors while it reorganizes under the Federal Bankruptcy Act is the most radical, but some analysts say it may not be the last airline to file for bankruptcy protection to get out from under costly labor contracts.

Arguments on whether the law can be stretched that far will be heard next month by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Eastern Airlines, which lost $94.4 million in the first half of the year, has demanded that all its employees take a 15 percent pay cut or the airline may have to shut down, or file for bankruptcy protection.

Frank Borman, the Eastern chairman, has frequently asked his employees for concessions. "Whether this is the time he means it or not, I don't know," said Patricia Fink, leader of the flight attendants' union, which has an Oct. 12 strike deadline.

Other airlines have sought similar concessions, but they have tended to result more from negotiations rather than ultimatum.

At Western Airlines, for example, all of its five major unions have approved a 10 percent pay cut, along with a stock ownership and profit-sharing plan.

Many of the new airlines, generally non-union operations, began with higher employee productivity from the start.

When a People Express pilot is not flying, for instance, he may serve as a dispatcher, work in marketing and recruiting, or handle some other administrative chore. Such new airlines also serve short-haul markets where more of their costs are related to passenger service, the area in which their cost advantage is the greatest, particularly labor, the CAB said.

Many fly used or leased planes and are not burdened with hundreds of millions of debt for their fleets of aircraft which, new, start at about $16 million apiece and can cost $50 million or more.

"The co-existence of high-cost and low-cost airlines creates a competitive disequilibrium that will undoubtedly influence the development of the airline industry for many years to come" concludes the CAB. That the high-cost airlines will have to cut to remain competitive is generally accepted.

The CAB raises, but does not answer, the following question:

Will the low-cost airlines lose their cost advantages as their work forces mature?

Free deliveries may not catch on

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hold the pickles, hold the sauce and hold your horses. A suburban McDonald's restaurant is satisfying Big Mac attacks with free home deliveries.

But even McDonald's isn't sure you deserve that much of a break today.

David Caplan, who owns the restaurant in College Park, Md., is delivering hamburgers to students at the University of Maryland at no extra charge after dark. And what's even more unusual, he doesn't want to talk about it.

"No comment," he replied to all questions about his business. "No comment."

Back in Oak Brook, Ill., where McDonald's has its corporate headquarters, company executives were reluctant to discuss Caplan's idea.

"We're not anxious to have it seem that McDonald's is in the delivery business," said senior media relations manager Stephanie Skurdy. "He's extending himself to his customers only."

Ms. Skurdy said Caplan started the service last September when students came back to campus and he now receives more than 40 calls a night.

"There are coeds who don't want to go out at night and many students don't have cars," she said. "But he doesn't deliver anywhere but the dorms."

Ms. Skurdy said that of the company's 6,200 restaurants around the country, she knows of no others that deliver.

"To my knowledge, there's been nothing like this before," she said. Caplan says his venture is successful, Ms. Skurdy said, "but he's still working on the figures."

"It's too early to know if it will work, if it's adaptable," Ms. Caplan said.
