Two ACU students shot here

Two Abilene Christian University students remain in Malone-Hogan Hospital today after being injured in a shooting here Saturday night.

James Bruce Walker, 19, of 907 W. Second St., remained in "stable but very critical" condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital this morning after suffering gunshot wounds in his left forearm and the left side of his neck, a Malone-Hogan spokeswoman said.

Walker is awaiting transfer to Lubbock General Hospital in the afternoon so that his neck, which still has a bullet in it, can be examined by a neurosurgeon, the spokeswoman said.

Ira Hopper, 18, of Abilene remains in stable condition at the hospital after suffering gunshot wounds in his chest and his right upper arm, she said.

Big Spring police arrested a suspect Sunday morning in connection with the shootings, which happened about 11:25 p.m. Saturday in a residential area near the intersection of 24th and Johnson streets, according to police reports.

Sammy B. Johnston, 19, of 2107 Runnels was arrested at 1:39 a.m. Sunday in the 1100 block of 11th Place in connection with the shooting.

Johnston remains in jail after being denied bond by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt, according to Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat.

Jeffcoat said both parties were arguing back and forth from their cars when the shooting occurred,

Man sought in killings found shot in Paducah

PADUCAH, Texas (AP) - James L. Jenkins, wanted in the ambush slayings of two Minnesota bankers, "stuck the shotgun in his mouth" and killed himself, and his son, also sought in connection with the killings, led authorities to the body, a sheriff said.

Steven Jenkins, 18, told authorities Sunday night his father had been threatening to shoot himself, Cottle County Sheriff Frank Taylor said. He said the younger Jenkins was willing to return to Minnesota voluntarily.

Jenkins and his son had been the objects of a nationwide search since the bodies of two Buffalo Ridge State Bank officers were found Thursday on a vacant farm near Ruthton in southwestern Minnesota. Authorities said the victims. Rudy Blythe and Deems "Toby" Thulin, had been shot to death.

The bank had foreclosed on Jenkins' farm four years ago and Steven Jenkins said his father held a grudge that may have prompted him to shoot the bankers, Taylor

Authorities found a cache of weapons in Jenkins' pickup, Taylor said today. The weapons included an M-1 carbine, sawed-off shotgun, .22-caliber pistol, machetes, bayonets, grenades and "things of that nature," he said.

Taylor said Minnesota authorities were expected to fly to Paducah this afternoon to interrogate the younger Jenkins. The teen-ager has indicated he will waive extradition. We haven't offered him that right yet, but I don't see any problems." the sheriff said.

FATHER FOUND DEAD — Police were alerted to Paducah, Texas, by Steven Jenkins, right, 18, one of two men sought in connection with murders of two Minnesota bankers. Jenkins told police his father, James Jenkins, also sought in the slayings, was saying he was going to kill himself. When police arrived, the elder Jenkins was found shot to death.

Authorities found the body of James Jenkins, 46, about four miles north of Paducah on a dirt road near an abandoned farmhouse, Taylor said. The elder Jenkins "had stuck the shotgun in his mouth and blowed his head off," Taylor said.

"His son came in saying they had run out of money and his father was talking about shooting himself. By the time we got to the farm he was dead," Taylor said.

The younger Jenkins drove into Paducah in the same white pickup police had been looking for in four states. He walked into the police station unarmed at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

The sheriff said the younger Jenkins was extremely upset, but behaved like a "perfect gentleman" and showed no surprise upon finding his father dead. Jenkins told Taylor he and his father had eluded the manhunt by taking backroads from Ruthton into South Dakota, obtaining a pair of

Death of C-City student leaves school in 'state of shock'

COLORADO CITY (AP) - The death of a 15-yearold student who suffered a fatal head injury during a football game has left this West Texas city's high school "in a state of shock." school administrators

Mourners filled St. Anne's Catholic Church on Saturday night of head injuries he suffered during a Sept. 22 junior varsity game between Colorado City and Wiley Alvarez, who died at Hendrick Medical Center in

Abilene, never regained consciousness after he was

Colorado City coach Tom Ramsey said that Alvarez's 13-year-old brother, Bo Alvarez, was one of seven students who have asked permission to try out for the team since the death.

Elsa Alvarez, the boys' mother, said she would discourage Bo from playing — but would not forbid it.
"We don't want to build a fence around him." because of his brother's death, she said.

Funeral director Doyle Kiker said the turnout at Saturday's service for Alvarez was the largest he could recall in 50 years. Mourners numbered more than three times the capacity of the church. Most also attended the burial at the family plot.

'The entire community is saddened by this tragedy which took such a young and promising life," Kiker

Alvarez, a defensive end on the junior varsity team who also excelled in track, was injured during the third quarter of the game against Wiley.

"He was blocked about the knees and just went down to the ground," Ramsey said. "He stayed down, and the coaching staff went out to help him.

His death left the high school "in a state of shock," school administrators said.

"Morale at school is very low ... this is one of those things that is very tough to go through," Ramsey said. Students learned of Alvarez's death during what would have been a pre-game pep rally for a game against Clyde. Dispirited students said prayers, sang their school song and went back to classes.

After the funeral, students announced that they plan a car wash, a walk-a-thon and other projects to help the Alvarez family pay medical expenses

New bank owners expect no trouble

ODESSA (AP) - New owners of a bank financially exhausted and forced to close because of heavy losses on recent energy loans say they envision an easy ownership transition that will allow business to continue as ususal today.

The U.S. Comptroller of the currency declared the National Bank of Odessa insolvent, ordered it closed at the end of business Friday and granted a new charter to Independent Bankshares Inc., an Abilenebased bank holding company. The bank reopened today as First

Super railroads may be trend of the future

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A trend toward super railroads that cover thousands of miles of track put steam in the merger between the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads, the companies' chairmen say.

"We're at a point where it appears that public policy is for mega-railroads — large railroad systems," B.F. Biaggini, outgoing Southern Pacific chairman and chief executive officer, said Tuesday in announcing the merger. "This is a great combination that's going to be one of the world's largest and strongest companies. Union Pacific's three-way merger with Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific in late 1982 put pressure on Southern Pacific and Santa Fe to take another stab at the merger that fell through in 1980, Biaggini said

We wanted to be back on a fairly competitive level with the big railroads in the West," said John J. Schmidt, Santa Fe chairman and chief executive

"In 1980, we didn't have the competitive pressures of the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Western Pacific merger which was authorized over the vigorous protest of both Southern Pacific and Santa Fe," Biaggini said. "To get the size and strength to match these combinations puts a sense of urgency on a combination between Southern Pacific and Santa Fe.

The Union Pacific merger made Union the largest in the West, with 22,700 miles of track linking West and Gulf Coast ports and Midwestern freight centers. The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific merger into a holding company, Santa Fe Southern Pacific Corp., would give the corporation more than 25,000 miles of track.

'We know there's no way we can shut down the operation today," Henry Duffy, president of the 34,000-member Air Line Pilots Association, said Sunday. "But with the working conditions the company has proposed, there's no way they can keep a successful operation going indefinitely.

Angry pilots and flight attendants, claiming the carrier filed for reorganization under the federal bankruptcy laws in an effort to void union contracts, began picketing early Saturday at many of the 25 U.S. cities now served by the downsized carrier. Thirteen flights were canceled Saturday because of the strike, but Continental spokeswoman Stephanie Roth said the airline completed 92 percent of its 158 domestic and international flights.

Nine domestic flights were canceled Sunday due to lack of a full crew, said Continental spokesman

Six domestic flights and one international flight from Monterrey, Mexico, to Houston also were canceled Sunday because of equipment problems,

'The cancellations were the direct result of Saturday's cancellations. "If you don't have a plane, you're not going anywhere," she said. Otherwise, our loads are good and the call volume (for reservations) is very high. We're looking stronger than ever."

any officials said the airline is flying with about 650 pilots, about 140 more than needed to fly the reduced schedule.

But Gary Thomas, spokesman for the ALPA's Continental chapter, said the company was making "private deals" with furloughed Continental pilots and calling former Braniff International pilots.

'They're getting more and more desparate. They have a real problem," Thomas said. "There are further cancellations and the load factors on the flights

One striking pilot, Moffit Tinsely said he was not angry at colleagues who crossed the picket lines in loyalty to Frank Lorenzo, Continental chairman and chief executive officer.

"It's like the Stockholm syndrome. Lorenzo has held a gun to these people's head for so long they thank him when he takes it away," Tinsely said.

Continental, formerly the nation's eighth largest carrier, suspended its domestic flights Sept. 24 and filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code. The carrier put its planes back in the air two days later after trimming the number of cities served from 78 to 25, employing one third of its work force of 12,000 and imposing emergency work rules that the unions labeled as

Continental officials have said the new rules were within guidlines enforced by the Federal Aviation

"It's not the FAA minimum standards that have produced a fine safety record, it's the extra margin of safety that's been built into our pilot contracts," Duffy responded on the CBS program, "Face the

Duffy said striking Continental pilots would receive benefits from the national union equaling amounts paid by the airline after the cutbacks. Pilots nationwide will be assessed $135 a month to pay the strikers more than $43,000 annual salary that Continental currently pays top-level pilots.

Nightmares.

Continued from page one town physician innocent Feb. 18 of hastening Hoffman's death by injecting a syringe full of air into his right arm. Perez, who never denied injecting air into Hoffman, said he was "always innocent."

Now, Perez has settled into a familiar routine that includes six days of work each week, and twohour lunches that are similar to the siesta of many Latin countries.

Born in Havana, Perez has two brothers who live in Miami, where most of the family fled when Fidel Castro came to power in 1953. A sister still lives in Cuba. Perez joined other anti-Castro exiles in the U.S., and trained as a war surgeon at Puerto Cabezas, Honduras, for the Bay of Pigs invasion.

But Perez said he helplessly watched in horror from the sea as the invasion sponsored by the U.S. government turned into disaster. Several of his fellow trainees died. including one friend who suffocated in the back of a truck as he was being driven after his capture to prison, Perez said.

"I have a lot of nightmares of his death," he said. But Perez has little to say about the attempted murder trial, which generated national attention because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the case.

"I don't remember much about the trial," he said recently during an office interview. But he remains bitter about the two nurses who testified against him. They still work at the local hospital and "are big shots there," he said.

Perez was barred from the hospital after he was charged with attempted murder, and never has returned to practice there. "I don't want to go back. They asked me once to return, but I won't." His wounds from the trial have slowly healed, but he remains embarrassed he ever was charged. He wouldn't let his teen-aged son come to the trial because he didn't want his only child ever to see him in court, Perez said.

Stephens predicted that any deposit withdrawals that might occur when the bank reopens will be 'inconsequential.' He said NBO apparently had experienced some withdrawals Friday after "word had leaked out" the bank was closing

But he termed Friday's withdrawals as "not substantinal." Stephens said the new bank would make "sensible" energy loans.

"We can't ignore the needs of the community, and energy is an important part of the community," he

"It's true the Permian Basin economy is weak, but it has a good, solid foundation," Stephens said during a press conference Saturday. "The oil business will be good over the long term and the cost of finding and producting oil now is more reasonable.

While directors of Independent Bankshares Inc. will serve as interim directors of the new Odessa bank, Stephens said Abilene bank holding company executives will seek Permian Basin residents to staff the new bank board and fill the positions of president and chief executive officer.

FDIC spokesman Allen Whitney in Washington, D.C., said Saturday that problem loans constitute the better portion of the $62 million in NBO assets retained by the FDIC.

In addition to assuming the problem assets of NBO, the FDIC is advancing to First State Bank of Odessa $46.9 million, Whitney said. He added that a criminal investigation will be conducted "as a matter of course.

He said a case-by-case review of the failed bank's loan portfolio will be conducted and problem loans "will be collected or liquidated over a period of time.

Some loans may be sold to other money lending institutions, he added

"I don't know what our people will find there," Whitney said. Syd Niblo, one of the new bank owners, said Saturday that while the FDIC has assumed NBO's commericial loans, First State Bank of Odessa will retain about $8 million to $10 million in installment loans, "subject to review" of each loan.

2 civil lawsuits filed in 118th District Court

Two civil lawsuits were filed Thursday in 118th District Court by Howard County residents

Cora Autry of Sand Springs is bringing suit against Price Construction Inc., located on Highway 350 north of Big Spring, in connection with the death of her husband, Haskell L. Autry, who died as a result of massive injuries suffered in a motor vehicle accident involving a dump truck belonging to the construction company.

The suit alleges that Autry had been driving his pickup truck on the shoulder of Interstate Highway 20 near the Martin County border when the truck was struck from behind by a dump truck driven by Phillip Charles Searfoss, an employee of Price Construction.

Mrs. Autry states in the suit that her husband was her sole provider of financial support and maintenance, and that the loss of his financial contributions and the loss of his care, comfort, counsel and advice entitles her to reasonable and adequate compensation from Price Construction for damages incurred by the loss of her husband. Another lawsuit, the case of William Larry Lee v.

Mark Allen Winters, also involves damages incurred in a motor vehicle accident. Lee alleges that Winters is responsible for an accident on April 28, 1983, at the intersection of 18th and Goliad Streets. Lee is seeking $370.12 for damages to his 1974 Triumph motorcycle.

In addition, Lee also is asking more than $60,000 in damages for a broken right leg and a blow to the head and chest, which he said he suffered in the accident. The $60,000 also includes hospital, ambulance, and doctor bills, loss of income from his job, and severe physical and mental pain, according to the lawsuit.

Gang robs concert-goers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — As many as 20 members of a knife-wielding gang robbed several teenagers attending a ZZ Top rock concert here, yelling curses and threats and even beating one youth, police said Monday.

Chad Esch, 15, said he was walking toward the San Antonio Convention Center to attend Sunday night's concert when the gang members began shouting at

"They started hitting and kicking me," Esch said. "There must have been about 20 of them in the gang. After they jumped me, they pinned my arms in front of me and grabbed my wallet. I lift weights, but I didn't have a chance.

The gang members stole his $12.50 concert ticket and about $5 in cash, he said.

Robbery Lt. Javier Moreno said the attacks part of an "on-going problem" caused by youtis ne calls "river rats." 'A lot of times, the kids are out there waiting for their moms when they get robbed," he said. Trey Foster, 13, and a friend told police they were surrounded by a large group of teenagers when they approached the convention center.

Foster was treated at the scene for cuts and bruises after the youths stole his ticket and $15 in cash and then

Moreno said at least two other young people were robbed — and probably more — by the gang members. 'Some of them wear bandannas and have motorcycle boots and Harley-Davidson T-shirts," he said. 'Others wear zoot suits. Some of them are low riders.

Bell trims original request

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell said today it has trimmed $330 million from its original $1.7 billion rate hike request and said under its current proposal, basic home phone service effect would go up $8.60 a month. The telephone company's original request last June would have added $19.60 to the basic home service rate, an increase that would have tripled monthly bills. Southwestern Bell spokesman Dale Johnson said the company was reducing its request by $330 million from its proposed allowance for depreciation.

The company had originally sought $400 million for depreciation, but decided to reduce it after only $70 million was recommended in that category by the Federal Communications Commission, said Paul Roth, vice president for revenues and public affairs.

Southwestern Bell's rate hike request is pending before the Texas Public Utility Commission. Normally, a utility is allowed to put higher rates into effect, under bond, 180 days after filing for the rate hike. If they don't win the increase, they have to give the money back.

But in the telephone case, the PUC held that the phone company had not backed up its request with sufficient data, and said the "clock would not start running" on the 180 days until the company could provide the needed documentation.

Roth said the company has now filed all the data he feels backs up the request.

Luxury liner on the block

NEW YORK - When President Jimmy Carter flew to the Mideast, he traveled in style, in a jet plane described as one of the most perfectly furnished aircraft in the world. That luxury liner goes on the auction block this week with other Carter memorabilia.

The BAC 1-11, about the size of a DC-9, is expected to go for at least $4 million to raise funds for the proposed $25 million Carter Presidential Library and Carter Center of Emory University in Atlanta. The plane, owned by Christopher Hemmeker of

Hawaii, one of the founders of the library's funding committee, is outfitted with a private office, private bedrooms, seating area for staff and a kitchen and dining room

'It's considered to be one of the most perfectly furnished, comfortably appointed aircraft in the world today," said Christopher Hest, associate funding director for the Carter Presidential Library.

More than 300 other items to be put up for bid at the auction at Sotheby Parke Bernet on Friday include chairs that Carter built from trees in his backyard and a five-piece silver tea service, a gift from singer Johnny Cash, a hand-carved rocking horse from Gov. John Y. Brown of Kentucky and a guitar used by country music singer Larry Gatlin.

By The Associated Press Floods soak Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. - Floodwaters that left 10 people dead or missing surged through normally bone-dry land today, forcing thousands from their homes, washing out bridges, roads and power and turning a slice of the desert Southwest into "a raging river."

Rivers swollen to record levels burst their banks amid heavy rains Sunday, swallowing buildings and bridges and causing millions of dollars in damage across a 200 mile swath of Arizona, officials said.

Business districts and thousands of houses in Tucson, Clifton, Safford, Nogales and Marana were under several feet of water as rain continued to fall today, and emergency shelters were set up in the few dry structures.

"The only thing we could salvage was our kids," said Fred Ramone, 24, who left his flooded home in Rillito for Marana, then had to be evacuated again from Marana to Tucson. "My family got out that's the main thing," he said, adding that he lost his home, car and farm animals to the floods.

A 4-foot-high wall of water hit Tucson on Sunday night as the Santa Cruz River crested, closing all but one of the city's bridges and knocking out major power lines to more than 20,000 homes and

"It's a desert that has been turned into a raging said Joann Webster, director of the American Red Cross' Tucson chapter.

Actions louder than words

WASHINGTON — James Watt likes to say he's brought "dramatic change" to the Interior Department. Of all Watt's claims over the last 2 1/2 years, that is one nobody is arguing with.

From Alaska's frozen tundra to the mountains of Wyoming to the seashore of Massachusetts, the interior secretary has brought change.

It was often Watt's words — about liberals and Americans, about the Beach Boys and recently about a "cripple" - that brought the headlines and the controversy. But in terms of lasting impact, it is Watt's actions that will truly speak louder.

Those actions began the first day Watt was in office when he fired 22 top Interior Department employees — not by telling them personally, but by announcing the fact to them and hundreds of other department employees at a mass meeting.

The speech was just his way to hit the ground running, to seize control of the bureaucracy.

In short order, Watt began putting in place policies fundamentally changing the way Americans will use their federal resources for decades to come. Consider:

• Watt, in his first weeks in office, imposed a virtual moratorium on the purchase of new park land. Instead of expanding the system, Watt zeroed in on what he declared the "shameful" condition in existing national parks. He instituted a park restoration program to pour $200 million annually into building new roads and sewer systems and correcting safety problems. But the critics says Watt is merely deferring the costs of necessary park expansion to future generations when the land will be more expensive.

• Dissatisfied with the pace of oil and gas drilling off America's coasts, Watt put into effect the biggest expansion ever in that leasing program. Over the next five years, Watt's plan will offer virtually the entire coastline -1 billion acres - for oil and gas exploration. The program has already resulted in posting a record for a single offshore sale — $3.5 billion bid by oil companies for 3.2 million acres in the Gulf of Mexico last May.

Court studying video market

WASHINGTON - In a replay of a high-stakesentertainment industry battle, the Supreme Court is again examining the question of whether increasing millions of Americans are breaking the law by using home television recorders

The justices, who postponed a decision in the case last summer, wasted no time in taking another look at the controversy. They called for lawyers on both sides to present oral arguments today as the court's 1983-84 term began.

A decision may not be announced for months, however, and Congress is likely to be the ultimate arbiter of the dispute, which pits Hollywood moviemakers against manufacturers of the video

The electronics industry estimates that more than 9 million American families will own recorders by the start of 1984, putting the device in nearly one out of 10 homes in the nation. The number is nearly double the estimated 5 million recorders in home use a little more than a year ago.

American sales of home recorders are approaching $2 billion, and nearly 40 million recorders are expected to be in use by 1990

The Supreme Court heard oral arguments in the case during its last term. But last July 6, as it quit for the summer, the court issued a one-sentence order saying it was postponing any decision. It gave no reasons for the delay.

Often in such cases, an inability to reach a decision reflects deep divisions among the justices. But the postponement in the video recorder case also prompted speculation that the court would prefer to see Congress settle the matter.

Workers try to free man

KUTZTOWN, Pa. — Professional rescue workers chipped away at a limestone cave today to try to free an amateur explorer stuck in a crevice for more than 24 hours.

Although the workers could touch the face of Robert Scott, 36, of Trappe, and were able to give him food and medication, they needed special equipment to dig him out of the crack he fell into while leaving the cave about 2 a.m. Sunday.

"Let's imagine a crack just big enough for a human body to squeeze into," said Tom Vines of Chevy Chase, Md., coordinator of the National Cave Rescue Commission, which organized the rescue effort. "Suppose someone fell into it. How do you get him out?

"There's no way of getting anything underneath him or around him. You have to crack rocks. Cave rescues are very complex and difficult, and I would say a short one would take eight hours.

Scott and five friends were coming out of the cave when he slipped and fell into the crevice, authorities said. The cave, located just outside the small town of Dreibelbis, near Kutztown in eastern Pennsylvania, was popular with Scott and his friends, and they preferred to explore it at night to avoid Berks County authorities said Scott's friends apparently tried to get him out of the cave for several hours, but their efforts were unsuccessful and they notified local emergency units about 9:30 a.m.

Four fire companies, an ambulance and members of the national cave rescue unit went to the scene, and special equipment to move the rocks was flown in from Pittsburgh.

Scott's roommate, Frank Coughey, said he was surprised by the accident because "that cave was very popular with a lot of people."

Coughey said Scott and his friends "just got a thrill out of crawling through the entrances and exploring the caverns.

Businessman falls to death

LONDON — A British businessman killed in a fall from his Moscow apartment had warned associates two days earlier about a spy operating in the British Embassy there, a newspaper reported today.

The Briton, Dennis Skinner, was found on the ground beside his 16-story apartment building in Moscow on June 17.

The Daily Telegraph said an inquest formally opened in London two months ago, "is to be resumed in secrecy for reasons which are believed to be connected with security.

But a Foreign Office spokesman, responding to the report, said: "We are not aware of any interest of national security which would require the resumed hearing to be in camera (closed)." The spokesman, who declined to be identified, refused to elaborate on his statement.

Southeast London Coroner Dr. Mary McHugh, who reportedly is involved in the inquest, said she would not comment about "any aspects of this case." A spokesman at the British Embassy in Moscow also declined to comment.

The Daily Telegraph reported from Moscow that foreign residents heard a crash and saw a window swinging open from Skinner's 12th-floor apartment. A sweater was pulled over his head and his left trouser leg was torn.

Skinner, 54, represented Imperial Chemical Industries in Moscow starting in 1968 and the Midland Bank since 1976.

He was twice married to Russians, with a son by each marriage. His second wife was in England at the time of his death, the report said.

It said Skinner was considered by fellow Britons to be lonely and depressed.

A Western source in Moscow told The Associated Press that Skinner, two days before his death, told the British Embassy he believed he would never get out of the Soviet Union alive.

Strike idles 420,000 kids

CHICAGO - Teachers in the nation's thirdlargest school district called a strike today after negotiators failed to resolve a pay dispute, while city officials set up alternative activities for the 420,000 students idled by the walkout.

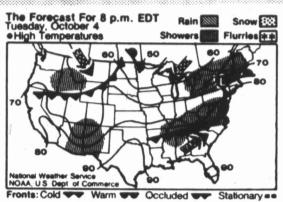

The strike call, authorized last month by the 28,000 members of the Chicago Teachers Union, became official when a last-minute bargaining ses sion Sunday between the union and school board ended without an agreement on the wage issue.

Showers bring relief

Rain and thunderstorms moved across West Texas before dawn today, bringing some relief to rought-parched farms and ranches.

The shower activity dropped up to one inch of moisture on some areas during a 12-hour period beginning Sunday evening.

Fair to partly cloudy skies were the rule over the rest of the Texas, except for Southeast Texas, where low clouds and fog were noted. Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Some readings dipped into the 50s in the Panhandle. Southerly and southeasterly winds dominated the state. Most winds were under 10 mph. The forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms over most of West and North Texas through Tuesday. Afternoon temperatures were expected to remain seasonably warm.

Thunderstorms continued Sunday across the Plateau regin and parts of the Rockies, pouring more rain on storm-washed Arizona, where Gov Bruce Babbitt has declared a state of emergency.

Floodwaters eight feet deep swept away homes in the Arizona mining community of Clifton, and National Guardsmen were called to help evacuate stranded residents in Tucson. The stormy weather left at least nine people dead or missing.

Meanwhile, light rain and cooler air swept into the north-central Plains. Showers moved into the upper Mississippi Valley and temperatures dropped to the 40s in parts of northern Minnesota and North

Sunny skies and warmer weather prevailed across the Midwest to the Southeast, with temperatures reaching the 80s in Illinois and Iowa. Showers continued over the northeastern corner of the nation, as temperatures in the 70s stretched from New England to North Carolina. Partly cloudy skies prevailed on the West Coast. Temperatures ranged from the 50s in Washington state to the 70s in Southern California For Monday, no relief was in sight for soggy Arizona as thunderstorms were expected to hit the southern Plateau region, the southern Rockies and the Great Basin. Showers and a few thunderstorms were forecast across the Midwest into the Great Lakes region, with mostly sunny skies from the Atlantic seaboard to the Gulf Coast and the southern Plains.

Partly cloudy weather was predicted for the Pacific Northwest and Pacific Coast, with mild temperatures over the northern states and highs in the 60s and 70s. Temperatures in the 80s were forecast for the southern half of the country.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 45 at Devils Lake, N.D., to 92 at Kansas City, Mo., and Cotulla, Texas.

Here are temperatures and sky conditions in other key cities, as provided by the National Weather Service:

-East: Atlanta 77 fair, Boston 68 cloudy, Buffalo 72 partly cloudy, Caribou 72 cloudy, Charleston, S.C., 84 fair, Cincinnati 80 fair, Cleveland 72 fair, Detroit 78 fair, Miami 85 partly cloudy, New York 71 cloudy, Philadelphia 72 hazy, Pittsburgh 66 partly cloudy, Washington 70 partly cloudy

-Central: Bismarck 47 drizzle, Chicago 80 fair, Dallas-Fort Worth 84 fair, Denver 68 fair, Des Moines 83 fair, Indianapolis 85 fair, Kansas City 85 windy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 68 hazy, Nashville 82 fair, New Orleans 81 hazy, St. Louis 85 fair.

West Texas — Generally partly cloudy midweek. Continued warm. Widely scattered afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms Wednesday and a few Thursday. Highs 80c except low to mid 90s Big Bend. Lows 50s north and mountains to 60s elsewhere.

Surefire way to kill flies

Stop the presses: The Los Angeles Times reports that the British magazine, Nature, reports that science has discovered a surefire way to kill flies.

The discovery hinged on the realization that flies, equipped by nature to sense and avoid any single impending swat, are helpless in the face of two.

As Nature explains the method: "A piece of tissue is taken in each hand and the fly approached from the left and right, keeping the hands equidistant from the fly and move to and fro slightly; then both hands simultaneously pounce.

The fly cannot cope with this situation since its central nervous system circuitry is geared to avoid approaching movement in only one part of its visual field at a time.

"Two simultaneously approaching swats render the fly immobile, for its central nervous system now cannot compute at which angle to take off."

In the many families that have passed down traditions of twohanded flyswatting - among which we include the blow-fromone-side, swat-from-the-other technique as an interesting variation - all this talk of angles and nervous systems may only serve to confirm the wisdom of their forebears.

But for others who, helplessly, have been driven batty by the punitively harmless humming of little creatures that seem to alight only on delicate objects and innocent children, publicaton of the Nature method is a significant public service.

Extracurricular activities should be put into perspective. They can no long be the forces that disrupt our classes and dominate our schools. + H. Ross Perot.

Millionaire computer magnate H. Ross Perot, fresh from his war on drugs, has now focused his combative powers on the Texas educational system charging that academic excellence has been trampled by athletics and extracurricular activities. As chairman of the Texas Select Committee on Public Education, set up by Gov. Mark White to study the plight of education within the state, Perot's opinions already have the University Interscholastic League considering measures to crack down on extracurricular events that interfere with the school day and schoolwork

He has attacked such high school bastions as football and cheerleading saying the activities rob students of precious learning time, not to mention that students often work harder at these things than schoolwork.

Perot, however, isn't advocating wiping these activities from the slate. He merely asks that the public put extracurricular activities in perspective.

the educational world - parts which could be argued as more important - short shrift. How many of us have been to a football game, yet have never attended a school board meeting?

Perot is trying to get our attention. He wants us to realize just how important education is for the future of our children and the ultimate future of the United States.

Today, the U.S. ranks at the bottom of the industrialized world in terms of educational achievement. However, we will expect our children to compete internationally with countries who have already dented America's dominance in steel, electronics, automobiles and other industries.

It isn't hard to see why extracurricular activities must take a backseat to subjects like math, science, history and literature which strengthen and encourage intellectual discipline.

Of course, the woes of education can't all be laid at the feet of Friday night football. Things like teacher salaries, teacher competency, computers and curriculum standards also must be considered

However, Perot and his committee are wishing to limit the distractions of outside activities and get on with the real business of education.

They are giving us a test with only one question: "What are our

Reader praying for Keith Briscoe

Dear Editor:

Finally, I express my anger relative to some of the asinine public statements our "famous" Mr. Briscoe has been making. He cannot be held accountable for him because he has tied the parchment of his sins about his neck with his own cloven hooves and stands ready to be beaten into the wilderness as our most recent "scapegoat."

Prior to Sunday's ludicrous comments I have restrained myself, but no more. There was a time when I thought that our "dragon" city-editor was on drugs. He is not. He could quite possibly be a masochist. Yet, let's not crucify him. Grace is the key. I speak figureatively.

To make a comparative statement of two entirely different geographical, political and militarily armed areas of the world, and to suggest to the people of Big Spring that the Soviets are innocent of such a heinous crime as KAL 007 is 'treason." The G.P.M. areas referred to are the warring, highly exposed and volatile Arabic Peninsula etc. and the ice-bound Siberian Airways that meander near Soviet airspace. The difference between the U.S.-supported Israeli incident and the Soviet-KAL 007 incident is the same as that between a dead loon on a pond among 1000 sitting ducks and a pink flamingo at 10,000

I am very sorry sir, but I cannot 'sympathize" with your intrigue for Socialist and Communist Political Orientation. I assure you. the Soviets do "commit the Act" but they never remove their military trousers from around their army boots. Unless the people of the U.S. quickly recover their positions in the world — we are doomed as a country.

How could anyone with any intelligence support a suppressive regime that senselessly slaughters its own subversive resources, instead of converting them, while in the U.S. We vascillate for years over the morality of capital punishment. World War III has been in covert operation since World War II ended. The Soviets have "won" every "battle" since Stalin initiated

Mr. Briscoe, you speak of religious conduct. Sir, you are a disgrace to Judaism. You have misplaced your priorities and are in violation, if not technically, of the Talmudic code of conduct of Jews in the Diaspora. Tell me, do you walk to, drive to or even attend a synagogue? Your supposedly enlightened intellect is of composite, corrupted nature aimed at fomenting disturbance and unrest in the name of Keith Briscoe.

I truthfully feel that the U.S. has made a clean breast of the KAL 007 incident. Our leaders, from the 'most scandalous" to the "least offensive," in relative terms to the Soviet leaders are saints. Surely as a Jew you can discern between moral and amoral behavior? The scriptures should be clear even to a myopic semite: The Mohammedan Empire breathed its last dying breath of creativity 500 years ago. (A monogamous pedophile for a Messiah?) Bar Kochba was obliterated on the battlefield. (A charismatic warrior for a Messiah?) Sir, Our (yours and mine) Messiah was crucified in 33 A.D. on a cross in Jerusalem. He is our ultimate victor, even in death, if needs be. Side with the winners after considering eternity as a reality. I pray for you, all Jews, and secular America to be one under Jehovah, in the name of His Son Jesus the Christ, during the coming difficult "Revelations

Diez y Seis a wonderful day

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Big Spring community for helping us make our Diez y Seis de Septiembre Celebration the success it was. Big Spring had not had a celebration of this nature in 17 years and people who have talked to me about it are happy with the

Thanks are in order to so many that I do not know where to start but I will attempt to do it without leaving anyone out. All the organizations that worked with us to ensure that we had a good parade, ALSA, Howard County Boxing Club, Chicano Golf Association and the Sacred Heart Group who not only entered a float but also provided entertainment. Coors who provided us with all the trophies. The Chamber of Commerce who donated toward our expenses. Pete Jones for the loan of his trailer for our float. Trini Arsiaga for the loan of his shop to keep our float in while we were decorating it;

The men and women who set up booths providing foods customary to our culture, well prepared and enough to last throughout the entire event. The musicians who provided the music for an enjoyable evening of dancing. The people who lined the streets for our parade and then joined us at the park in support of our celebration. The candidates who worked so hard collecting money for L.U.L.A.C. monies that in some way will be put back into the community;

Mayor Clyde Angel and Police Chief Rick Turner who took time out from their busy schedules to crown our queen. The Herald who did a fantastic job of covering this event from start to end. All the merchants who donated money No one has to tell me that without this support the whole thing would have been impossible. I thank you sincerely. Also, thanks to downtown merchants who took time to judge our floats and cars. To the man (whose name I do not know) who volunteered to ride one of our lead horses, thank you. A brief explanation to those of you who have asked me or have wondered why a Mexican holiday is celebrated in Texas: It is done because before Mexico ceded to Texas this was Mexican Territory; many of our forefathers chose to remain in what once was Mexico and with them remained the culture and traditions of Mexico

But you also need to understand that we celebrate July the Fourth with the same fervor because we are proud to be Americans and you can find us out in the front lines in war and peace defending what America stands for. We are a people bound by two cultures and two countries that are very close to each other and both have contributed to who we are. We choose never to lose sight of either.

Last, but by no means least the members of L.U.L.A.C. who worked long and difficult hours in planning and executing the whole affair. I realize the time away from home and families disrupted many routines but nevertheless they did it selflessly.

For the times we almost cried from fatigue and frustration, for the times we could not tolerate each other because of the same fatigue and frustrations, yet being so tuned into each other as a team that we realized this too would pass. I thank them all for working like a finetuned machine, everyone doing their part and helping one another. I could not have done it alone.

In closing I would like to encourage anyone who cares about our kids and community to join L.U.L.A.C. and be part of this sometimes confusing and frustrating but NEVER boring organization. It is truly an educational process everyone should experience. Join us and learn how a unit can work together towards the same cause

Respectfully

Teachers are falsely accused

Dear Editor: Mr. Swindell stated that he was "growing weary of hearing people (teachers) advocating the theory of evolution ... in school — opposing the teaching of creation." When has he heard this taught in school? I am "growing weary" of teachers being falsely accused. I challenge him to name one teacher in Big Spring, or any public school, who has ever taught that God did not create man (kind).

The dictionary defines "evolution" as "any process of (1) formation or (2) growth; (3) the continuous genetic adaptation of organisms to the environment." Examples are: (1) a pearl evolves inside an oyster (2) a boy evolves into a man

(3) chameleons change color, animals grow hair, all according to God's plan of evolution. Just because a teacher explains these processes does not mean that he or she does not believe in The Creation

If God has allowed man to improve and adapt during the ages, nothing is "too hard for him" and he could do it any way he chose. The important thing is to give God credit for creating everything, including man, and for giving man intelligence and the free will to evolve into the kind of person he wants to

Forgiving is very difficult

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently someone did something to me that was very wrong. I know I should forgive them and all of that, but all I can think of is some way I can hurt that person and get back at him. Why should I bother to forgive him when he has hurt me so much? -J.G.C.

DEAR J.G.C.: One reason you need to forgive this person is that your resentment and hatred toward him is going to hurt you very much if you do not get rid of it. One of the saddest things in life is to see someone whose life has been twisted and made miserable by years of bitterness and resentment.

But there is a deeper reason why we should learn to forgive others, even when they have hurt us deeply The Bible says that we should forgive others in the same way that God has forgiven us. "Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgives you" (Ephesians 4:32)

Perhaps you have never given much thought to how God looks at you. Yes, this person may have hurt you very much - but did you ever stop to think how much more we have hurt God, because we have repeatedly left him out of our lives and done things that are against his will? And yet the Bible tells us that God still loves us, and has done everything possible to forgive us by sending his Son to die for our sins. All we have to do is accept Christ and trust him as our personal Lord and Savior. God freely forgives us when we come to Christ - not because we deserve it, but because of his grace and mercy

You will only really forgive this person when you begin to understand things from God's point of view, instead of from a human point of view. Accept Christ into your heart, and then ask him to give you a love for this person and to see this person as he sees him.

Dear Abby

Latin lover has girlfriend seeing red

DEAR ABBY: About a month ago I met "Lorenzo" a hot-blooded Latin type — and we started to date. The chemistry was terrific between us, but I made up my mind not to rush into the sack with him, as I made that mistake before and it didn't work.

Last week Lorenzo had to entertain a bachelor businessman, so he asked me to drum up a girl for 'Sam" and we'd make it a foursome. I said fine, and drummed up "Millie" a good friend of mine.

That evening Millie flirted with Lorenzo and he flirted back. Later Millie said Sam was too short for her — that's why she danced with Lorenzo all evening.

Yesterday Millie confessed that the night the four of us went out, Lorenzo asked for her phone number, she gave it to him and the following afternoon (Sunday) she went to bed with him! I nearly fell off my chair. She apologized, saying they were both a little "high," she hadn't seen him since, and that one night didn't mean anything to her.

I am angry with Millie and furious with Lorenzo. I can't tell him that I know about him and Millie because I promised Millie that I wouldn't tell. I still care for Lorenzo, but I don't know how to handle this. Please advise me.

STILL IN SHOCK DEAR STILL: Say adios to Lorenzo and tell him to donate his "hot blood" to the blood bank. And don't trust Millie any farther than you can see her. I think Lorenzo and Millie deserve each other - and you

DEAR ABBY: I want to say a few words in behalf of telephone solicitors. I am one. I spend eight hours a day on the phone trying to interest people in a service, and I am sick and tired of being yelled at, lied to and hung up on.

Why can't people just listen to what we have to say, and if they aren't interested, say so politely so we can get on to the next call? Maybe they don't realize that the job we are doing could be keeping us off welfare.

DIALING IN SPOKANE DEAR DIALING: I sympathize with you, but can you sympathize with someone you might have awakened out of a sound sleep, or someone who is ill, disabled, or has a sick or sleeping family member whom you disturbed by your call?

There is no excuse for rudeness, but most people feel that their telephone is for their convenience and they resent being intruded upon with a pitch for a service they do not want.

DEAR ABBY: My huband loaned Bob and Barbara $200 for "just a few days." Well, you guessed it. Those 'few days" have turned into a year and a half!

When I finally located Barbara, she not only denied owing my husband the money, but accused me of fooling around with her husband! I was shocked and hurt, to say the least. Abby, why do matters concerning money turn people into such NO MORE MR. AND MRS. NICE GUY

DEAR NO MORE: These people didn't turn into jerks; they were jerks in the first place.

Dr. Donohue

Sick sinus is heart problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had been having disturbing heart palpitations and also spells of dizziness, which my physician diagnosed as having to do with my heart pacer, not the artificial kind but the natural one in the heart - his words. So he had me wear one of the 24-hour-day heart monitors. The results confirmed what he thought. I was told my problem was "sick sinus syndrome" (SSS) and that I would require an implanted pacemaker. I am 67, female, and in otherwise good health. Will the pacemaker be the answer to my symptoms? Explain SSS for me, please. — Mrs. R.R. Sick sinus syndrome (SSS) means the heart's natural pacemaker, a knot of specialized tissue in the upper heart chamber, is not functioning well. Its job is to regulate the tempo of the heartbeat. When that pacing structure malfunctions the heartbeat slows markedly and there may even be periodic secondslong interruptions in beating. A heart rate of 70 may drop to only 40 beats a minute or less. The combination of the very slow beating (pumping) and the beat interruptions can cause the symptoms you reported — dizziness, momentary confusion, etc. At those times the brain is not receiving sufficient blood to nourish its

SSS is most common among older people and the difficulty in diagnosis lies in distinguishing the problem from other causes of similar symptoms, such as artery hardening causing low blood flow to the brain. The use of the Holter monitor can, through continuous recording of heart activity, identify and correlate appearance of symptoms with heart activity. This helps identify the problem as pacer-caused.

The answer almost always is an implanted permanent artificial pacer device. If the monitoring shows the problem is not caused by the heart's pacer, then the answer is to treat the illness that is the cause. Most SSS patients do very well with the implanted pacer. SSS may occur in younger people, but the elderly are by far the most commonly affected age group.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How much weight will the average woman gain during her normal pregnancy? Should she diet to keep her weight down, even during a pregnancy? — M.M.

Dieting during pregnancy, as I've tried to stress here over the years, is not advisable. Even an overweight woman can expect some degree of weight gain during her pregnancy. The reason for not dieting is that it reduces not only the caloric intake but many of the nutrients so vital to the developing fetus. It is especially hazardous in the later stages of pregnancy, when most physical growth is occurring. An average woman can expect a weight gain of between 22 and 26 pounds during a pregnancy.

Loan of prints is service

Children's librarian

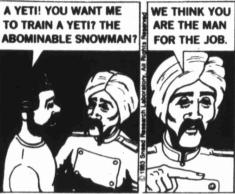

One service offered by the Howard County Library is the loan of art prints to patrons for a six-week period. A great variety of prints is available, many currently in the library ready to be loaned out. Others are available on reserve and may be seen in an album.

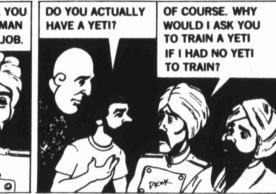

The prints are purchased by Friends of the Library and donated for the use of library patrons. To renew the collection, some of the framed prints have been selected to be sold by the Friends so that the collection may be renewed.

Anyone wishing to place a bind on any of the available prints may make one or more selections and bid on those prints any time during October. The prints for sale will be on view in the library, and bids may be turned in at the circulation desk. A minimum bid will from flower still lifes to modern prints. If there is a space on your wall that needs decorating or if you like a bargain, come into the library to see what is

be set for each framed print. There is quite a variety of prints for sale available -

Bargain hunters may want to add Oct. 21 and 22 to their calendars so they will remember the booksale at the Howard County Library.

Couple honor death pact

NORTH FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) - Julia Saunders, 81, had her hair done. Her husband, Cecil, 85. collected the mail one final time and paused to chat with a neighbor. Inside their mobile home, they carefully laid out a navy blazer and a powder-blue

After lunch, the Sanderses drove to a rural corner of Lee County and parked. As cows grazed in the summer heat, the couple talked, then Cecil Saunders shot his wife of 60 years in the heart and turned the gun on

Near the clothes they had chosen to be buried in, the couple had left a note:

"Dear children, this we know will be a terrible shock and embarrassment. But as we see it, it is one solution to the problem of growing old. We greatly appreciate your willingness to try to take care of us.
"After being married for 60 years, it only makes sense for us to leave this world together because we loved each other so much.

On the floorboard of the car, Cecil and Julia Saunders had put typewritten funeral instructions and the telephone numbers of their son and daughter. They draped the Chevrolet's seat with a shower curtain and wool blanket so their blood would leave no permanent

Then the retired electrical engineer and his Norwegian-born wife consummated their suicide pact, becoming two of the more than 4,000 elderly Americans authorities say will embrace death this

"What struck all of us was how considerate, how thoughtful they were to all concerned about killing themselves," said Lee Sheriff's Sgt. Richard Chard, who investigated the Aug. 19 murder-suicide. "They didn't want to impose or be a bother to anyone. Not

Julia's dimming eyesight, heart congestion and a stroke had driven Cecil to put his ailing wife in a nursing home earlier this year. But she became hysterical over what she thought was poor care there, and Cecil brought her home, said neighbors at the Orange Harbor Mobile Home Park where the couple had lived

"You never saw him without her," said Vera Whittimore, 67. "If there ever was true love, they had it. I think they were just tired of living and couldn't wait for Weak and ailing, Julia came back to their creamand-white mobile home three weeks before she died. "Sometime during that period, they made up their minds," said Chard. "Imagine them talking about it the details, the location, the weapon.'

A neighbor, Betty Fieser, saw Mrs. Saunders on the eve of her death, as she was having her soft gray hair rinsed and set at Faith Family Styling. "I told her she looked nice, and she really did," Mrs. Fieser said.

"She was excited about getting a curly permanent."
At noon, another trailer park resident outside to shake a rug greeted Cecil Saunders as he ambled to the mailbox in front of his 40-foot trailer framed by rosebushes and ixora. "When I asked him how he was, Cecil said, 'OK, about the same, standard," the neighbor

The Saunderses had hot dogs and beans for lunch, then drove their Caprice to pastureland 5 1/2 miles from their mobile home, parking on the grassy shoulder.

As thunderstorms rumbled in the distance, they

"I can picture in my mind them sitting there," Chard said. "Maybe they spoke about how things were when they were young. Then he leaned over and gave her a farewell kiss.'

From inside a green washrag, Saunders unwrapped the revolver he had purchased eight days before. In its chamber were six bullets. Both husband and wife plugged their ears with twists of cotton to muffle the sound of shots.

Saunders reached over and held the Smith & Wesson inches from his wife's breast. She closed her brown eyes behind metal-rimmed glasses. Saunders fired twice.

One bullet pierced his wife's heart, and blood poured onto her red-and-white print dress. Her head fell backwards against the car seat, and she died in Saunders watched life leave her. Then, as he had promised his wife, he pointed the revolver at his shirt pocket and pulled the trigger one final time.

The .32 tumbled onto the seat by his right thigh.

Saunders' arms fell to his sides and he slumped forward onto the steering wheel, dead.

Rocker apologizes for slur

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — British rock singer Joe Elliott says he was dealing in "playful chitchat" when he referred to this West Texas city as "that place with all the greasy Mexicans.

But a Hispanic leader refused to accept his apology and called on fans of Elliott's group, Def Leppard, to boycott the band.

Elliott apologized to an El Paso radio station for the comment, made during a recent performance in Tucson, Ariz., and said because he is English he didn't understand the remark was an ethnic slur.

But Joe Loya, district director for the League of United Latin American Citizens, angrily called for a boycott of Def Leppard records, concerts and Tshirts.

"An apology won't cut it. Anybody who makes that kind of statement is a bigot and a racist. It should have never been said. What good reason can you give me to forgive someone like that? There's no reason," said

Elliott made the remark during a Sept. 7 concert in Tucson, the day after the band played before a sellout crowd in El Paso. He apologized by phone from Tokyo to El Paso radio station KLAQ-FM, which broadcast the message at 7 p.m. Friday "If I've offended anyone, then I'm very, very sorry for it. Being an English person, I didn't really understand that that (expression) was such an insult." said Elliott. "I'm not a Mexican-American, I do not live in El Paso, so I don't really understand what is and what is not a good or bad thing to say.

Dallas comeback topples Minnesota, 37-24

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - It was Ron Fellows' interception and one quick dash down the sidelines that put the Dallas Cowboys ahead.

But it was the 26 dashes by Tony Dorsett over the afternoon that accounted for 141 yards and helped the Cowboys control the ball for 40 minutes and wear down the Minnesota defense

"The overriding difference in many games is Dorsett. It's a different dimension not many teams have, if any," Vikings Coach Bud Grant said after his team lost a first-half lead and fell to the Cowboys 37-24

The victory kept Dallas, 5-0, as the only unbeaten team in the NFC. Minnesota fell to 3-2.

"There are lots of reasons," Grant said, referring to the loss, "mainly Dorsett. I wonder if the fellows in Seattle still have their jobs.

The answer is no. Former Seattle General Manager John Thompson and Coach Jack Patera are no longer with the Seahawks. They were the ones responsible for trading the No. 1 draft choice to Dallas, with which the Cowboys in turn took Dorsett.

But Dorsett was not the only reason for Sunday's loss. The Vikings still led 24-20 with 3:30 left in the third period. Safety John Turner had given the Vikings the bail after his second interception of the day

It was then, however, that Fellows streaked in front of wide receiver Sam McCullum and took Steve Dils' pass 58 yards for the go-ahead touchdown "He threw it out there like a Christmas gift,"

Fellows said. "It's free and I'll take it. 'I made up my mind not to give up too much room because I knew the quarterback had to get rid of it in a After that Dorsett led another time-consuming drive that accounted for 84 yards, a touchdown and more than six minutes. Rafael put the finishing touches on the victory with his third field goal of the game. Dallas quarterback Danny White applauded

Fellows' interception but pointed to the drive that set up Septien's second field goal at the end of the first half as the turning point of the game. "We're definitely not predictable," White said. "It seems we need a shot in the arm to do it. Going 80 ed our offense around. That was the biggest part of the It came at a time when Dallas needed something good to happen. The Vikings had recovered a White fumble on the Cowboy five-yard line and scored on the next play to make it 24-10. Dallas got the ball back with 45 seconds left in the half. White, who completed 22 of 40 passes, went to the air and in seven plays had Dallas in field goal range. Septien drilled a 45-yarder with no time remaining.

Before that it was all Vikings.

Dils, who completed only 17 of 39 passes and threw three interceptions, got the ball after Turner intercepted his first pass. On the second play after that, Dils hit Sammy White with a 43-yard touchdown pass. After Septien's first field goal, the Vikings made it 14-3 when Dils and White teamed up again on a 36-yard scoring pass.

"In the second half we played an excellent game. We were mediocre in the first half," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "We didn't change anything. Maybe we played a little better."

Landry was happiest about Dorsett, who came out of the game uninjured 'This is the first week he hasn't been hurt coming out of the game," Landry said of Dorsett who was playing with a cracked right wrist and bruised ribs.

EARL CRUMBLES — Pittsburgh Steeler defenders Rick Woods (22) and Jack Lambert (58) put a hit on Houston Oiler

Oilers defeated again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have played some of their best football in losses this season. Now, they've played some of their worst foootball in a victory.

The Steelers, losers in two previous home games despite holding big statistical edges in both, were outgained Sunday by the winless Houston Oilers and trailed 10-7 in the fourth quarter. But quarterback Cliff Stoudt then improvised a 51-yard, touchdown pass play to running back Walter Abercrombie and the Steelers went on to win 17-10.

"It certainly wasn't a masterpiece by any means but last week (in a 28-23 loss to the New England Patriots), we had the stats and lost the game," said Ron Wolfley. "I'll take this."

"We didn't play a great game but we won," said Jack Lambert. "Last week we played better and we lost, so what's the Stoudt had his worst game as a National Football League quarterback, completing just 5 of 12 passes for 108 yards. Running back Franco Harris, gaining 51 yards, was held under 100 yards for the first time in a month. Yet the winless Oilers, losing their 12th in a row over two seasons, couldn't put the Steelers away. "We played well enough to win, but we didn't get it done," said Oilers quarter-back Gifford Nielsen. "And I'm

But Houston punter John James, trying to catch the Steelers by surprise, ran with the ball on a fake punt attempt at the Pittsburgh 38 early in the fourth quarter and was stopped for no gain.

AL has Orioles, White Sox...

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago White Sox may be neophytes, but when they finally returned to championship form, they did it in style.

While playoff opponent Baltimore has won seven East Division titles since 1969, the White Sox haven't won anything since 1959, when they captured the American League pennant.

But this season, the White Sox were the first team in baseball to clinch, winning the AL West on Sept. 17. They ended their season with three straight victories, while Baltimore lost five of seven. The Sox won 99 games, the most in baseball.

And, to top it all off, they finished a league-record 20 games ahead of second place Kansas City. The 1936 New York Yankees finished 191/2 games ahead of Detroit to win the AL pennant in the league's previous most lopsided finish

"Everybody's had a hell of a year, but it's only just starting," White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa said after his club ended the season with a 3-0 victory at Seattle. "I'm happy to be in there."

The Orioles also ended their season on a winning note, blanking the Yankees 2-0 to finish the season with "Everybody's at zero right now," McGregor said. "I

For all but two of the teams in the Naional League, it's time to go home for the winter.

The NL East champion Phillies and NL West winning Dodgers, both substituting freely, each lost their final regular season games Sunday. Los Angeles, which fell to San Francisco 4-3, finished at 91-71 while the Phillies, 4-0 losers to Pittsburgh, wound up 90-72.

On Tuesday night in Los Angeles, the Dodgers and Phillies begin their best-of-five NL championship series. The two teams met in the playoffs in 1977 and 1978, with Los Angeles winning three games-to-one each season.

This year, the number everyone is looking at is the one that shows that Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 11 out of 12 times, inclduing all six at Dodger Stadium.

"Everytime we played them we were flat," Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens said just after his team was shut out by Pittsburgh's Lee Tunnell. "They'd catch us cold. But they'll see a different ballclub now.'

The Phillies won their division with an 18-3 burst in September that included an 11-game winning streak.

"Chicago has a good ballclub." said Joe Altobelli who replaced Earl Weaver as the Orioles manager this season. "They've got good power, pitching and defense, and some speed. They had a tremendous second half — but so did we.'

The Orioles won the season series between the two clubs 7-5, but six of the games were decided by one run. Left-hander Scott McGregor, 18-7, will start the opener for the Orioles, while the White Sox will use righthander LaMarr Hoyt, 24-10. The best-of-five series starts Wednesday (3:05 p.m. EDT) in Baltimore. Game Two is scheduled for Thursday night in Baltimore, with Games Three, Four and Five set for ed to get a lot of breaks in the games "They'd stick out their gloves and the ball would stick. They'd make a wild throw and the first baseman would dig it out. "They're going to see a team with a great deal more confidence," Schmidt said.

Steve Carlton, whose 15-16 record marked his first losing season in 10 years, will open for the Phillies and be opposed by Jerry Reuss, 12-11.

One player who won't take part is Tug McGraw, the hero of the Phillies' drive to the World Series championship in 1980. McGraw, who saved two games in the 1980 playoff victory over Houston and then saved two games and won another in the World Series triumph over Kansas City, was dropped from Philadelphia's 25-man playoff roster Sunday. In other NL games Sunday, New York swept a

The Steleers then intercepted Nielsen for the third time on Houston's next possession and Gary Anderson followed with a chip shot 18-yard field goal to secure the Steelers' victory.

"I don't think we were as keyed up as we can be," Noll said. "Part of it was the way Houston played. They are one improved football team.

Pittsburgh beat the Oilers 40-28 in Houston just two weeks ago as Stoudt moved the Steelers almost at will.

"The second time around, it's always a tougher assignment," Noll said. "The three interceptions were big, big plays.' "We got the chance to win the game," Nielsen said. "But we didn't."

The game had promised to be a duel between two of the league's best running backs, Campbell and Harrris. Campbell was coming off a 130-yard game against the Buffalo Bills, while Harris had run for 106 yards against the Patriots to become pro football's second leading career
