Bidding war heats up for tax job

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The San Antonio firm of Heard, Goggan and Blair upped the ante last night in its attempt to secure a delinquent tax collection contract with the Big Spring school district.

The firm, along with local attorney Bob Miller, is vying for a chance to collect the district's delinquent taxes.

Both parties previously had met with the school board, and trustees were set to make a decision last night. However, the firm's new offer last night of a full-time clerk to help the district with collections for the first six months of the contract caused the board to table the issue for further consideration.

Miller was not in attendance at the meeting. The board had appointed a three-man committee in July to study the issue, and chairman Jerry Forsythe reported to the board last night that the group was in favor of giving Miller the contract by a 2-1 vote.

However, Steve Blair, representing Heard, Goggan and Blair then offered the services of a full-time clerk — funded by his firm — to assist the district with collections.

Blair also said his firm could offer the district a larger staff, better address research, computer personnel and more follow-up services than Miller.

Board member Dan Wise then presented a motion requesting more time to study the offers. The motion was approved by all members except Bill Brooks who voted no.

The board expects to make a decision at its next regular meeting.

According to school officials, the district has a delinquent roll of $712,000 that stretches back to 1939. In other matters, the board:

• Approved an agreement to be submitted to the Howard County Commissioners Court for approval on a lease of the old Lakeview YMCA. If the commissioners agree, the facility will be leased by the county for $120 a month.

The county also will have to agree to absolve the district from any liability for personal injury or property damage, and maintain insurance for liability purposes in the amount of $300,000 for bodily injury and $25,000 for property damage.

JOHN MONTFORD

Montford discusses gas tax

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

State Sen. John Montford was in Big Spring yesterday to discuss tentative legislation, voice opinions on upcoming constitutional amendments and push for support of his water package that failed in the Legislature last session.

Montford, D-Lubbock, who met with about 20 persons, discussed not only water but the possibility of a 5-cent a gallon gasoline tax to raise money for highways and education.

Montford said farm-to-market roads, bridges and state highways were in need of repair, and if funds aren't found soon the cost of repair would escalate.

"It's vital for our economy to have good routes of travel," Montford told the crowd. He also said 25 percent of the extra gasoline tax would go into funding for education, possibly in the area of teacher salaries.

Montford expressed confidence that his five-point water package involving loans, bonds and irrigation and conservation programs would pass in the next session of the Legislature.

The bill died in a house committee during the last session. The plan primarily makes money available to farmers, producers and local governments to develop efficient water projects. Speaking on the constitutional amendment election coming Nov. 8, Montford said he supported 10 of 11 amendments. He said he was against Amendment 11 which takes the power to revoke paroles from the governor and places it in the hands of a three-person board.

State treasurer searching for money owners

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The brochure resembles one of those Sunday supplements selling insurance, complete with green ink and dollar signs.

But the publication is really an attempt by State Treasurer Ann Richards to give away money — or really just return it to the owners, including some in the Big Spring area.

Some 20,000 individuals and businesses are included by city in the 1983 Texas Treasury Unclaimed Money Fund list, which names owners of abandoned bank accounts, uncashed money orders, unclaimed insurance benefits, dividends, royalties and security deposits totaling $50 or more.

The list has been mailed to 600. See MONEY, page 2A

Bonanza owners claim bankruptcy

MARSHALL — Steaks of U.S.A. Inc., previous owner of the Bonanza Family Restaurant at 700 FM 700, has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 bankruptcy laws.

Steaks of U.S.A., which owned franchises for more than 30 Bonanzas in Midland, Odessa, Dallas and other parts of the state, filed for reorganization Sept. 28 in the bankruptcy court in Tyler, according to a bankruptcy court clerk.

The Bonanza restaurant in Big Spring will remain open, but is under new management, manager Carlos Vega said.

Roz Inc. of Midland and Odessa assumed ownership this week, Vega said.

83 workers flee blast on off-shore drilling rig

GALVESTON (AP) — An explosion at a gas drilling rig lit up the sky above the Gulf of Mexico in a "mushroom cloud" visible for 30 miles shortly after 83 workers fled in watertight escape pods, officials said.

No injuries were reported as workers, alerted by a powerful rush of natural gas, decided to evacuate before the blast Thursday night.

A helicopter and a search jet were sent out after the evacuation because one of four escape "pods" was unaccounted for in the waters 100 miles south of Galveston, the Coast Guard said.

But within two hours, all workers had been picked up and carried to another rig about five miles away, said Tom Stoy, a vice president of Union Oil Co. of California, which operates the rig.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Larry Lawrence said the blast put on a show for offshore workers and sailors in a huge section of the Gulf. "An observer 30 miles away on another rig said he saw a mushroom cloud," he said. According to Stoy, gas blew out at the platform — actually two gas drilling rigs about 50 yards apart — at about 7 p.m. The gas came up through the hole the workers were drilling with such force that they decided to flee in the escape pods — watertight, saucer-shaped motorized vessels which hold between 25 and 40 workers each.

The explosion and fires followed at about 8 p.m., he said. See RIG EXPLOSIONS, page 2A

WAR BUDDIES — Charles Beachum, left, and Mac Acosta look over maps while reminiscing about the invasion of Salerno, Italy, during World War II. A

Texas National Guard unit was one of the first ashore and the survivors call themselves "T-patchers."

T-patchers remember Salerno

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Military tacticians have designated D-Day — June 6, 1944 — as the greatest amphibious landing in the history of modern warfare.

But the techniques that made the key invasion of German-occupied France a smashing success were learned by trial and error during other invasions — the one on Salerno, Italy, for example.

It was at Salerno that U.S. Army forces in the European theater first tested the mounting of an amphibious assault against stiff resistance — a full nine months before D-Day.

Salerno also marked the Army's first foray into Hitler's "Fortress Europe."

It was a decisive point in the war, a juncture at which the United States and its allies began to turn the tide against the Nazis.

Sept. 9 marked the 40th anniversary of the Salerno invasion.

The date is of particular significance in Texas because the first unit ashore early on the morning of Sept. 9, 1943, was the 36th Division, a Texas National Guard unit that had been mobilized three years before.

The men call themselves "T-patchers," after a distinctive emblem depicting the letter "T" against an arrowhead-shaped shoulder patch.

"T-patchers" who survived the ordeal of Salerno now are men in their 60s and 70s. They are lawyers, mechanics, insurance salesmen. Many are retired.

More than 1,000 live in the San Antonio area, a fraction of the 70,000 or so who served in the division throughout the war.

Henry W. Gopez, a San Antonian who is president of the 36th Division Association, said 1,038 veterans attended a recent 40th anniversary bash in Dallas.

In terms of human life, the invasion's cost was high. Hundreds lost their lives in the face of intense German machine-gun fire and tank and artillery shells. Memories are necessarily bittersweet.

"There's no doubt that the lessons we learned were put to good use at Normandy," said Charles Beachum, a 69-year-old lawyer who served as a company commander, was wounded by shrapnel and went on to earn the Distinguished Service Cross.

Expecting light resistance, the 36th went in under darkness without naval bombardment of the Salerno shoreline.

Although Allied forces eventually secured the beach head and moved inland, resistance was unexpectedly stiff and casualties were high.

U.S. military planners had to reevaluate their strategy.

"Not long after Salerno, they realized that landing at night wasn't the best," Beachum said. "They found out darkness just adds to the confusion, that you could land easier during the daytime with a smoke screen."

"Also, we went in there cold, with no naval gunfire," he said. "At Normandy, you can bet they softened the shoreline plenty, and they landed during the day."

Mac Acosta, a 62-year-old retired civilian worker at Kelly Air Force Base, slogged ashore at Salerno as a 22-year-old buck sergeant. It was the place where he first faced the horror of war.

"If I had known what was coming, I would have joined the Air Force," he said, only half-jokingly. "In the beginning, I was a John Wayne — until I started seeing the dead."

Acosta's squad was one of the first on the beach at Salerno.

The suspicious quiet that greeted them when the front of their landing craft went down soon turned to a blaze of tracer bullets and artillery blasts.

"All hell had broken loose," he said. "It was like we had the 4th of July headed right toward us."

Acosta's squad advanced over the beach to seize its objective: a bridge some 2,500 yards from the shoreline. As things turned out, the sun rose and set that day with the squad pinned down by German tanks and howitzers.

Barbara is interviewed

NEW YORK — Barbara Walters is hurt when she hears people calling her "Baba Wawa," says her job as a co-anchor with Harry Reasoner almost drove her to a doctor and wants most to interview the elusive Greta Garbo.

Miss Walters, 52, says she loves her fame and tries to take her detractors in stride. But she says she is bothered when she hears the nickname Gilda Radner devised for her Walters imitation on "Saturday Night Live."
"What I mind sometimes is when I'm in a crowd, or get in a plane and people say, 'Oh, there's Baba Wawa,'" Miss Walters said in an interview to be published in Sunday's Parade magazine. "And I think, 'Don't they realize I heard? And is this what I am? Is this what I'm thought of?'"

Her move from NBC to serve as co-anchor with Harry Reasoner of the ABC Evening News in an unprecedented $5 million contract brought sharp criticism and pressure Miss Walters said was unlike anything she had known.
"I remember thinking that I should go to a doctor," she said. "It was so hard. ... And I thought then that if I didn't fall apart, I never would."
She says she would still like to interview Jacqueline Onassis, Pat Nixon, Yuri Andropov and especially Miss Garbo.
"If I interviewed Greta Garbo, I'd retire," she said.

Actress still surprised

PITTSBURGH — Italian actress Sophia Loren has been a darling of film fans for more than 25 years, but she says she's still pleasantly surprised by all the attention she gets.

In Pittsburgh to promote a fragrance, Coty's Sophia, at a department store, the 49-year-old star said the special notice is a "very nice and moving feeling."
She also said she feels it's important for people to look their best.
"I think that what really is beautiful in life is to find a kind of balance and a kind of equilibrium. That's the only way you can look relaxed and peaceful," Miss Loren told reporters Thursday during a reception in her honor where she received a key to the city.

Today she was going to Children's Hospital to hand out puppets to patients.

Trouble with success

PITTSBURGH — The co-creator and executive producer of the highly acclaimed television series "Hill Street Blues," Steven Bochco, says the television business "doesn't prepare you to succeed."
And, he added, some people "have a terrible time when they do."

Those who find immediate success "often feel guilty," Bochco said in an appearance before about two dozen acting students at Carnegie-Mellon University Thursday.
"They feel it was an accidental event and it was," he said. "You begin to take yourself seriously."
Bochco's actress wife agreed.
"The worst thing is to become too successful too soon," Barbara Bosson told the students. She plays the neurotic Fay Furrillo on the NBC series, which has won 17 Emmy awards.

Goldwater doing well

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Sen. Barry Goldwater is "remarkably well" nearly one year after the 74-year-old Arizona Republican underwent triple-bypass heart surgery, his doctor reports.

"He states he has never felt better and his post-operative tests indicate an excellent result," says the surgeon who operated on him, Dr. Ted Diethrich, head of the Arizona Heart Institute.
"The senator has been remarkably well since his operation" in November of 1982, Diethrich said in a statement Thursday.
The 1964 Republican presidential nominee, Goldwater is serving his fifth term in the Senate.

Couple right for part

LOS ANGELES — Noel Coward never suggested that neighbors Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton appear in his play "Private Lives," but he observed that the quarrelsome couple might be right for it, Burton says.
Miss Taylor and Burton, who are no longer married to each other after a couple of tries, are in the play which opens this week in the Wilshire Theater in Los Angeles after a Broadway run.

The news in brief

By The Associated Press

Shuttle problem probed

WASHINGTON — The space agency is holding to the slim hope that scientists will solve the rocket nozzle problem that nearly caused trouble for the shuttle Challenger so the shuttle Columbia can launch on schedule Oct. 28.

Launch preparations at Cape Canaveral, Fla., moved toward that date. But failure to find what went wrong could push the flight off one to four months.
Solid fuel rocket specialists, many borrowed from other aerospace companies, are studying records and nozzle samples at the Morton-Thiokol facility in Brigham City, Utah. They are trying to determine whether Batch 1042 of Fibertite, a carbon phenolic material, contained bad ingredients.
The protective lining on one of Challenger's two bell-shaped solid rocket nozzles was made from Batch 1042. Engineers examining that nozzle after its recovery from the Atlantic Ocean discovered that the three-inch coating had burned down to two-tenths of an inch. Normally only about half the lining erodes away under the searing exhaust temperatures of 5,700 degrees Fahrenheit.

Astronaut Daniel Brandenstein, who piloted the flight, told CBS News on Wednesday that the nozzle would have burned through if the rockets had fired for another 2.7 seconds. He said a burn-through would have been "catastrophic" and spelled "curtains" for the five astronauts.
A NASA official labeled that conclusion as conjecture, although agency engineers said a burn-through might have occurred in another 15 to 20 seconds. Even if there were a burn-through during the two-minute firing period, they said, a shuttle crew could drop the boosters and — depending on the point of flight — fly on into orbit with the ship's three main engines, or make an emergency landing.

One of the two nozzles on the shuttle Columbia, now on the launch pad awaiting a late October liftoff, also was made from Batch 1042. NASA said it will not commit to that launch until it has resolved the nozzle erosion problem. If a decision is made to change Columbia's rockets, the ship would be moved back to its hangar for the shift, ruling out an October flight.

Environmentalists fuming

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's surprise selection of National Security Adviser William P. Clark to take over the Interior Department from James Watt left environmentalists fuming and triggered a new guessing game about who will get Clark's foreign policy job.
Clark, 51, a longtime Reagan confidant and one of the most powerful men in the administration, had not been on anyone's list to succeed Watt — anyone except Reagan.
His appointment, subject to confirmation by the Senate, will keep the Interior Department under the stewardship of a staunch conservative. Critics complained Clark's lack of background on environmental issues would allow Watt's deputies to keep his controversial policies intact, with Clark simply a caretaker.

Speculation as to Clark's successor immediately centered on Middle East envoy Robert C. McFarlane, who is Clark's deputy, and United Nations Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick.
For several days, Reagan secretly considered Clark, not even letting his inner circle of advisers in on the idea. He finally told top aides what he had in mind about midday Thursday, just hours before actually deciding Clark was the right man for the job.
Clark did not volunteer for the job, said White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes. "The important thing is the president asked him to do it," Speakes added. "Clark was needed somewhere else."

Reagan broke the news publicly at the conclusion of remarks to a gathering of women leaders of Christian organizations.
Describing Clark as a troubleshooter and result-oriented professional, Reagan said, "He is a God-fearing Westerner, fourth generation rancher, and a person I trust. I think he will be a great secretary of the Interior."

Another Marine dies

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A U.S. Marine died after being caught in a hail of sniper fire today at Beirut's international airport and another Marine peacekeeper suffered gunshot wounds in both legs, Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said.
The fatality was the fifth suffered by the Marines since the latest round of violence in Lebanon began Aug. 28. Forty more Marines in the international peacekeeping force have been wounded in grenade attacks and bombardments.

Later in the day, Jordan said, two Marine positions came under additional fire and the Marines shot back.

Jordan said the dead Marine was hit by sniper fire in the chest and possibly the head. But Jordan said it could not be immediately determined whether the head injury was a gunshot wound or occurred when his jeep overturned as it came under small arms fire.

New brake light planned

WASHINGTON — An extra rear brake light, mounted near the back window, will be required on all new cars in two years under a government regulation intended to reduce rear-end collisions.

Under to the new regulation announced Thursday by Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, the third taillight will be required on cars produced after Sept. 1, 1985.

The red high-mounted lamp, which will light up when the car's brakes are applied, is expected to significantly reduce the number rear-end collisions and eliminate 40,000 injuries a year, Ms. Dole said.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said there were 3.5 million rear-end collisions in 1980 that resulted in 600,000 injuries. The agency estimated that 2.3 million of the cars struck had their taillights on at the time of the crash. The agency estimated that 900,000 accidents could have been prevented in 1980 with high-mounted brake lights.

"Our decision that this new equipment be required is based on solid research findings," said Diane K. Steed, NHTSA's administrator-designate. "We believe it holds promise of being the most effective accident prevention standard in our agency's history — and at a minimal cost to the consumer."

Man bears no grudges

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — A man who claims he was "lucky to survive" five years in prison for a child murder to which a drifter has now confessed says he bears no grudges and seeks no compensation — he just wants his freedom.

"The only thing I'm worried about is getting out of here," 30-year-old Melvin Lee Reynolds said in an interview Thursday at the Missouri State Penitentiary.

The slight, soft-spoken inmate said he feared for his life during the half-decade he spent inside the maximum-security prison, where other inmates do not look kindly on child killers.

"I had a lot of guys wanting to kill me," Reynolds said. "I was lucky to survive."

Reynolds, who said he had falsely confessed to the murder under pressure from investigators, faced the prospect of life behind bars until Thursday, when another man pleaded guilty to the 1978 killing of 4-year-old Eric Christgen of St. Joseph.

Charles Hatcher, 54, told a judge in St. Joseph, "I did take the boy, and I did kill the boy by strangulation. That's all I'm going to say. I don't know why I did it."

Hatcher was sentenced to life in prison.
A prosecutor Thursday filed a petition to have Reynolds appear at a hearing in which a judge could release him.

"We are confident that we have written the final chapter in the Eric Christgen story," Prosecutor Michael Insko said.

Deputy discovers cocaine

SUSANVILLE, Calif. — A deputy sheriff investigating a fire at a ranch stumbled on what turned out to be one of the largest cocaine seizures on the West Coast — 673 pounds of the drug, worth $170 million on the street, authorities said.

Four men were arrested following the discovery at a remote ranch about 35 miles north of Susanville, in northeast California, Lassen County Sheriff Ron Jarrell told a news conference Thursday.

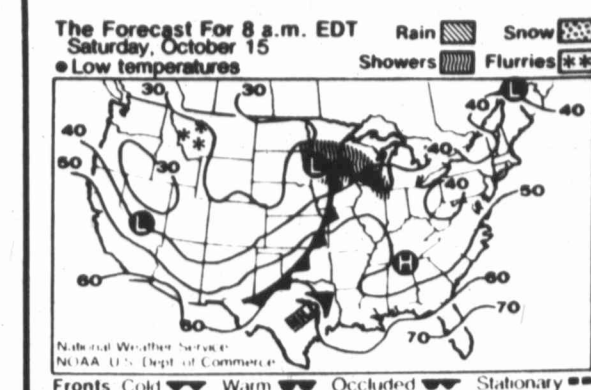

The four were identified as Robert Lee Kelly, 43, the owner of the Dry Creek Ranch, whose bail was set at $3 million; Antonio Montero, 36, of Miami, Fla.; Louis Alberto Bouzon, 26, also of Miami; and Joseph Michael Curtis, 29, of Marina Del Rey.

All four were being held in the Lassen County Jail in Susanville, and District Attorney Warren Haas said he expected the federal Drug Enforcement Administration to charge them with cocaine possession.

Jarrell and Haas said the cocaine would have had a street value of $170 million. Haas said that as far as he knew, "it's all pure."

Sheriff's Deputy Cecil Bushong went to the ranch about 11 p.m. Wednesday to check out a fire in a shed, Jarrell said. While there, he noticed some suspicious activity on the property and, on further investigation, found what he thought was cocaine, Jarrell said.

Weather

By The Associated Press

Clear skies prevail

Another warm, pleasant fall day dawned across Texas today with clear skies expected to prevail over most of the state while temperatures rise into the 70s and 80s.

Some scattered high-level clouds were situated over sections of West Texas this morning, however, and the National Weather Service issued a travelers' advisory for the Beaumont-Port Arthur area because heavy fog and smoke reduced visibility to 1 1/2 miles.

Southerly winds prevailed over most of the state, except for southeasterly winds along the Rio Grande and a westerly flow over far West Texas. Across the plains, winds were up to 10 to 20 miles an hour, with light winds around five miles an hour elsewhere.

Pre-dawn temperatures dipped below 50 in East Texas while South and Southwest Texas had readings in the lower 60s. The cool spot at 4 a.m. was Lufkin with 49 degrees. McAllen was the warmest with a 63.

Forecasters predicted fair skies statewide, except for increasing clouds over West Texas, and some widely scattered thunderstorms developing over Southwest Texas.

Afternoon highs were expected to be in the 70s and 80s.

A cold front across the Atlantic states today generated rain and thunderstorms along the Georgia coast and northern Florida with a few lingering showers in Ohio and the lower Great Lakes region.

The front produced severe weather over mid-Atlantic states Thursday, with tornadoes and high winds in Georgia, Virginia and Maryland. No injuries were reported.

Five tornadoes touched down in Virginia near Washington, D.C., damaging 70 homes in the Falls Church area and cutting electricity to 18,000 Virginia customers. Others touched down in Goochland, Hanover, Orange and Henrico counties. Winds gusted to 67 mph at Roanoke and thunderstorms damaged several homes near Culpeper, Va., and large hail was reported at Charlottesville airport.

Rain lingered today over the upper Great Lakes near Lake Superior and another storm system developed over Utah, Idaho and western Montana and Wyoming, with snow at higher elevations. Rains also were scattered along the Pacific Northwest coast.

Four tornadoes that skipped across northeastern Georgia damaged homes and brought down trees and power lines, but there were no reports of serious injury.

Scattered power failures from the weather were reported from Rabun County in Georgia's northeastern corner to the Atlanta metropolitan area as heavy rains and storms moved across the state.

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy and cool. A chance of showers and thundershowers mainly West of the mountains Tuesday. Lows in the 40s in northern regions, rising to near 60 in the South. Highs in the upper 60s in the Panhandle to the mid 80s in South regions.

'Time of last things' recalled

NEW YORK (AP) — From Jacqueline Kennedy's scrawled "Texas" across three November days in her appointment book to John-John's plea to be taken along to Dallas, a new book details President John F. Kennedy's "time of last things."

"Though no one was aware of it at the time ... We now recall them with poignance, with the dark tugging at the heart when you watch a tragic play," writes longtime Kennedy friend William Manchester in a new book to be published next month by Little, Brown and Co.

The book, excerpted in the current issue of McCall's magazine, is entitled "One Brief Shining Moment: Remembering Kennedy," its title drawing on the assassinated president's favorite song from "Camelot."

Manchester writes of the unknowing "goodbye hugs and farewell handshakes" of family and friends in November 1963:

"There was his parting with his mother and gravely ill father in Hyannis Port; his last glimpse of the Cape (Cod) and his brother Teddy singing 'Heart of My Heart,' the family anthem, while Ted's wife, Joan, played the piano."

On Sunday, Nov. 10, Manchester writes, many friends saw Kennedy alive for the last time when he and his wife entertained at Wexford, their new country home near Middleburg, Va.

"Jack spent the last weekend of his life at his father's Palm Beach house," the author writes. "He flew down to Florida to campaign and loaf with Dave Powers and Torbert McDonald, a Democratic congressman who had roomed with Kennedy at Harvard."

"Usually Palm Beach is not at its best in November, but that weekend the sky was cloudless — 'Kennedy weather' as we called it then. Jack said his back hadn't felt better in years. Torbert remembers. 'It was like being back in 1938 when there was nothing or anybody's mind.'"

KENNEDY WITH SON — The late John Kennedy gets a warm welcome from his son, John Jr., as he arrives at Otis Air Force Base, Mass., for a weekend at his summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., in

Aug., 1963. In a book to be published next month, author and longtime Kennedy friend William Manchester writes of the President's "time of last things."

Canaveral, Manchester writes, the friends watched a Navy-Duke college football game, with the president betting on Navy.

"There was a tightwad streak in Jack," Manchester writes. "Had he lost, he would have all but declared himself bankrupt, but he won and demanded an immediate payoff."

Manchester recalled that before turning in Sunday night, Kennedy was singing "September Song" — "And the days dwindle down to a precious few ... and these few precious days I'll share with you."

Manchester writes that Kennedy urged his wife to take a highly publicized cruise on the yacht of Aristotle Onassis, who was to become her second husband. Kennedy thought the trip would get her mind off the recent death of her newborn son Patrick.

Kennedy joked that the publicity about the trip might work to his advantage because she'd feel guilty and do more campaigning.

This proved true, Manchester writes, because after returning from the cruise she took out her red appointment book and scrawled "Texas" across the spaces for Nov. 21, 22 and 23.

On Thursday morning, Nov. 21, the day before Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Mrs. Kennedy was having her hair done, so Kennedy had Caroline and John to himself for breakfast. Caroline left for school with a hug and a "Bye, Daddy." While little John played with toy planes, Kennedy went to the Oval Office, then strolled into the cabinet room and admired its new draperies.

"When do we get ours?" he asked secretary Evelyn

Lincoln. "While we're in Texas," she replied. "Rugs, too?" Kennedy asked, and she replied in the affirmative.

"Good," Kennedy said. "When we get back, we'll have new offices." Manchester says Kennedy overruled a governess's objections to taking young John out in a drizzle and the boy boarded the helicopter with his parents for the 12-minute ride to Andrews Air Force Base.

Dear Abby

Camp souvenirs

DEAR ABBY: While my 12-year-old daughter was visiting her cousin in another state, I cleaned out the gear she brought back from camp. In her backpack I found 24 large color photos of teen-aged boys, naked and in a state of arousal. I also found a box of dozen condoms, one had been removed from its inner foil wrap. Her father and I have always talked openly with her about sex ever since she was old enough to ask questions. When she was 4, she expressed curiosity about the male anatomy, so I showed her a picture of Michelangelo's David.

We've had long talks about menstruation, dating, petting, intercourse, birth control, morals, etc., with no embarrassment on either side.

I have concluded that she was probably given or sold the pornography by a college-age girl camp counselor who was discharged mid-season with no explanation. I don't know where she got the condoms.

She's a well-adjusted, normal 12-year-old girl who appears to be no more boy-crazy than any of her girlfriends. I don't know whether I should be outraged, amused or even proud of her precocious interest in erections. I've heard of girls 12 and even younger having sex, but she is such a baby, I can't imagine her in such a situation.

I haven't the foggiest idea of what to say when she returns, but I know I must talk to her about this. Perhaps I've told her too much already, or somehow failed in preparing her for this phase of her life. What do I do now, Abby?

TROUBLED IN PARADISE
DEAR TROUBLED: When she returns, tell her what you found in her backpack, but not in an angry or accusatory way. If she is into sex at this early age, be grateful that she is taking no chances on becoming pregnant or contracting a venereal disease.

Don't punish, berate or put her down. Do assure her that you love her and will be there for her no matter what. Then stress the importance of respecting herself and her body. Also stress the high price of promiscuity, which includes a low self-esteem, a bad reputation (boys talk) and ultimately confusing sex with love. And don't blame yourself for telling your daughter "too much." What our children don't know can hurt them.

DEAR ABBY: When "Happy Atheist" took you to task for your many references to "God," you might have responded with this quotation from Christian Scientist Dr. Robert Milliken, winner of the Nobel Prize in physics:

"We have come from somewhere and are going somewhere. The Great Architect of the universe never built a stairway that leads to nowhere."

Calcium levels and sarcoidosis

Dear Dr. Donohue: You wrote about high blood calcium levels and sarcoidosis. Do the high blood calcium levels cause the sarcoidosis or is it the opposite. — A.R.

Sarcoidosis causes high blood calcium levels, not the opposite. For other readers, sarcoidosis is the appearance of small, lumpy tumors in tissue. They may occur in about any tissue, but chiefly the lungs, skin and liver. For some inexplicable reason, sarcoidosis enhances the normal action of vitamin D, which is to assist absorption of calcium from the digestive tract into the blood. With the greater-than-normal absorption, the blood levels rise. When this happens, treatment of the sarcoids stop the exuberant calcium absorption.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I've read that the liver makes cholesterol. Why is this so? — F.F.

The liver makes cholesterol because the body needs it. Cholesterol is part of all cell membranes, and it's part of important body chemicals, like bile acids, which aid in food digestion and of hormones, which control body metabolism. I'm glad to be able to say this good word for cholesterol, but only for that kind the body makes as its own, not that from an injudicious diet of fatty foods and eggs.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What's the average weight for a 5-foot-3-inch, small-built female by today's standards? — L.W.

The most modern chart I consulted says that woman should weigh between 111 and 124 pounds.

DR. D'S DICTIONARY — Prodrumal. The word is akin to the word syndrome. Syndrome means a combination (syn) of symptoms (drome) occurring in a single illness. Prodrumal refers to symptoms that occur just before (pro) onset of an illness — for example, vision disturbance prior to a migraine attack may be prodrumal.

Patternmaking is explained through a slide presentation

"Home Sewing Fashions From the Big Apple" slide presentation was presented by county agent Naomi Hunt to members of Elbow Extension Homemakers Club in the home of Fay Roberts, Oct. 6.

Ms. Hunt prepared the program after taking a trip to New York City, sponsored by the Extension Service. Extension agents toured Simplicity, Butterick-Vogue and McCalls Pattern Companies, Macy's, JCPenneys, DuPont, Clairol and other places.

The slides showed how a pattern is made. Pattern designers start with a "croqui" — a miniature sketch of the pattern. Then the pattern is made. All patterns start in a size 10. Information is fed into a computer and it converts the information into different sizes. It also shows the least amount of material needed. A size 10 garment is made in every view and color shown on the pattern envelope. Then it is thoroughly examined to see if it fits, hangs right, and if the material used is suitable. The pattern is then ready to sell.

The Elbow Club won a gift of $10 at a countywide meeting, Oct. 3. The club will donate the money to the Howard County 4-H Scholarship Fund.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Joyce Soles, Oct. 20.

Forsan Study Club sponsors meeting

The GFWC Forsan Study Club sponsored the Western District Fall Board Meeting at Big Spring Country Club, Saturday. Fourteen clubs were represented.

Calico Country was the theme. Members of the host club wore denim skirts, white blouses and bandanas. Calico notebooks and table decorations were made for district meeting.

Bettye Green, TFWC president-elect, was keynote speaker. She encouraged the women to take an active part in their local club as well as the Texas and General Federations. Kerry Kay Cook, Western District president-elect, discussed the General Federation of Women's Clubs' emphasis on child abuse prevention. Bobbe Mitchell, 1st vice president of Western District, presented the club with information on how to complete reports due Feb. 1.

Donna Parker, Jeanine Fishback, Brenda White and Sharon Cregar entertained guests with music. Kathy Pickett, featured as the "Calico Critter," did a comical pantomime of Mule Train. Susan Alexander and Susan Gaston presented highlights from "Is There Life After Housework?"

Pastor concerned about people

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

Johnny Robertson, pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church, feels the greatest barriers between church-going people and non-church going people are social barriers.

"According to a survey of unchurch people by George Gallup, unchurch people feel an emphasis on organizational interest above spiritual interest. They don't feel warmly accepted into a church," Robertson said. "I want to turn this around. I've become very captivated in George Gallup because his reports are factual."

"George Gallup in the 1980 poll of unchurch people found that more than six out of ten can see themselves being in a church if they were invited and accepted," he said. "As high as 85 percent of unchurch (people) believe that Jesus Christ is the son of God. The majority of unchurch people pray regularly, read the Bible and have a spiritual faith."

Robertson wasn't raised in the church or a Christian home. "When I was converted at 18 years old, I had never read the Bible and had never heard the gospel," he said. Before Robertson became a Christian, he dreamed of being an automobile mechanic. He dropped out of high school and began work on a mechanics career. After becoming a Christian he went back to school.

THE REV. JOHNNY ROBERTSON

"When I went back to high school I didn't have a D average in any of my classes from junior high school to high school," he said. "It wasn't because I was unable to do the work but because I didn't care. I had a different attitude when I became a Christian. I went to school year around and was on the honor roll. I always had to work hard, but I did well."

Robertson graduated from high school when he was 20.

After becoming a Christian he became interested in the ministry. "I was very impressed with ministers and their work and thought their work was important," Robertson said. "I began to ask what it meant to be called to preach. I had a strong desire to minister the gospel."

"I didn't have any special events in my life (to tell me to preach)," he said. "I asked pastors and friends to pray for me to be called. Later my pastor told me that my inner feelings was probably my call to the ministry."

Robertson has several goals. "My personal goal is the same as any other Christian, to become the person God wants all His children to be. My ministry goal is to become more competent in management of the church and to become more knowledgeable of people and more competent of their needs," he said.

"My goal for the church is to grow, myself believing the church is a living organism. And the most important thing is growth both spiritual and numerical. In any church that does not grow, there is a problem."

Robertson received his bachelor's degree from McMurray College in Abilene, and his Master's degree of divinity and master's degree of Biblical studies from Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. He is working on a doctor of ministry degree with continuing education model from Fuller Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.

Robertson plays the guitar and sings with the children at church every Sunday. He likes to hunt and fish. Robertson and wife Cathy have two daughters, Emily, 2½, and Jenny, recently born.

Religion News Briefs

By RHONDA WITT
Religion Editor

Pabor preaches at church

THE REV. LOUIS PABOR
to be guest speaker

St. Paul Lutheran Church, located at West 9th and Scurry, will begin a series of worship services titled Celebration Praise Renewal (CPR), Sunday.

CPR services are scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. Sunday, followed by a 10:45 a.m. service and an evening service set for 7:30. Services will continue Monday through Thursday beginning at 7:30 p.m. Special music will be provided by local groups.

The Rev. Louis Pabor of Austin will be guest speaker. Pabor is presently the pastor at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Austin. He attended St. Paul College in Concordia, Mo., and graduated from Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo.

He has pastored at St. John Lutheran Church in Houston, Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church in Eola, and Redeemer Lutheran Church in Lubbock.

Church has revival

Emmanuel Baptist Church will have a revival Oct. 23-28. Bert Smith of Fort Worth, evangelist, will preach nightly at 7 p.m. Bob Beasley, the church's minister of music, will lead the music.

Special music will be provided each night as follows: Sunday at 6 p.m. Robin Newsom of Midland, Monday at 7 p.m. Promise, a youth group from Hillcrest Baptist Church, and Tuesday at 7 p.m. Cecil and Becky Garner of College Baptist Church. Lauri Evans from Circle 6 Baptist Camp in Stanton will perform Wednesday, and Sounds of Joy will be there Thursday. Jim and Debbie Grimes from Crestview Baptist Church will appear Friday.

Sound of Joy, a contemporary Christian singing group, will present a concert at Emmanuel Baptist Church, located at 2107 Lancaster, at 7 p.m., Oct. 27. Sound of Joy is an outreach of Suart Ministries, Inc., of Pensacola, Fla. The public is invited.

Church has festival

"Look for the Balloons" is the theme for the Evangel Temple Assembly of God's Fall Festival, Saturday. The festival will be held at Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church, located at 2205 Goliad, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

At the festival, game booths including a ring toss and dunking booth will be open. The dunking booth will feature church leaders. Local singing groups, puppet shows, food and drinks, handmade crafts and a country store also are a part of the festival. There will also be a make-up booth which will do clown faces.

Money raised at the fall festival is for the youth mission fund called "Speed the Light".

Pabor has served as a district circuit counselor on the district board for social welfare, the district mission board, on the board and chairman of the board of Regents of Concordia Lutheran College in Austin and on the Board of Directors and a vice president of the district.

The theme for CPR is "I Have Good News For You". Sunday mornings services will be "I Come to You". "We Share A Problem" will be the evening service's topic. The sermon "The Answer is Jesus" will be Monday, while "God's Clock" is Tuesday, and "Beautiful Missionary Feet" is Wednesday. Thursday's sermon will be "God Still Loves the World".

Grahn hosts banquet

A Wycliffe Asia-Pacific banquet will be held in Midland/Odessa area, Oct. 20. The dinner and program will be from 7 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. Dick Grahn, Wycliffe Associates director for South-Central United States, will host the event.

Wycliffe is committed to translating the New Testaments for people whose languages do not have the scriptures.

For reservations and complimentary tickets call the Holiday Inn at 4300 West Hwy. 80, Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Puckett at (915)682-8007, Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer at (915)332-9533 or call 267-8271 or 263-2782.

Ladies attend meeting

Women from the Four-square Gospel "Lighthouse" Church attended the annual district meeting of the United Four-square Women in San Angelo, Oct. 9. The group met at the "Victory Fellowship" of the Four-square Gospel Church. The meeting included district business, song and worship session, a program and luncheon. The Rev. Salvador Bihl from Four-square Gospel "Lighthouse" Church accompanied the women on the trip.

Garage sale held Saturday

The seventh grade girls' Sunday school class at Hillcrest Baptist Church will have a garage sale, Saturday. The sale will be at 4055 Vicky from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A portion of the proceeds will go toward a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Church has afternoon services

Faith Tabernacle Church will have Sunday services at 3 p.m. in the Recreation Hall of Calvary Baptist Church, located at 1200 W. Fourth. The Rev. Arlie Knight is pastor of the Faith Tabernacle Church.

WHEN ARE WE GOING TO ACT OUR AGE!

From Adam to the atom it has been a long process. But process does not necessarily mean progress. Only when we recognize our need for God will we begin to come of age. Then, and only then, will process mushroom into progress.

3 missing children found since TV movie

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — A crying 6-year-old girl who said she wanted to "go home to daddy" was carried from her classroom by detectives, the third missing youngster located because of a television movie on child abduction.

Two of the three missing children whose photographs were shown on TV this week — including 6-year-old Jennifer Rae Swisher, who remained in the custody of California juvenile authorities Thursday — were living with fathers who had lost custody disputes.

Elsewhere, 3-year-old Justin Clark was reunited with his mother in Kentucky after being found with his father in Georgia, and 15-year-old Lynn Stockie returned to her grandparents in Arkansas, ending a two-year disappearance.

Jennifer had been missing since 1980 when a court granted her mother custody in a divorce case but authorities said she would not be immediately returned to her mother's home in Buffalo, N.Y., because of questions about the death of her 3-year-old half-brother.

UNDERWAY — Paul Batchelder, 10, of Waterbury, Conn., makes his way in a specially equipped wheelchair from the New England Medical Center's Rehabilitation Institute to his doctor's laboratory three blocks away in downtown Boston Wednesday. Batchelder controls the wheelchair's direction by puffing into a tube which is connected to a device that controls the wheelchair's motor.

Child ready to puff

his way out of hospital

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Batchelder can't breathe on his own or move anything below his neck, but the 10-year-old plans to puff his way out of the hospital Friday in a wheelchair that follows commands blown by his mouth.

The cheerful redhead, who has been hospitalized since he was hit by a car two years ago, says he has been using his specially equipped wheelchair to "chase the nurses." The chair, plastered with E.T. decals, carries a respirator and moves in response to breaths of air.

A strong blow into the plastic tube gets the chair going. Two puffs, and the chair backs up. "That's the hardest," Paul said. Other combinations turn it right and left, speed it up and slow it down.

"I've got to keep puffing," he said, smiling but tired after taking a three-block trip down a rain-splattered Boston street on Wednesday.

Paul was struck by a car near his Connecticut home on Dec. 11, 1981, as he ran back to school to pick up a jacket. He was in the intensive care unit of Waterbury hospital for nine months, then transferred to New England Medical Center's Rehabilitation Institute.

The driver was cited for unsafe tires, according to Paul's mother, Susan McOmber.

She, her husband, Stephen, and Paul's younger brothers plan to come to Boston on Friday to take Paul home to Watertown, Conn., where they now live. Their house has been equipped with ramps, doors widened to help Paul maneuver and an emergency electrical generator in case of a power failure.

"The boys are excited about him coming home. We all are," Mrs. McOmber said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

Paul is also looking forward to going home. "I'll chase my brothers," he said with a wide-toothed grin.

Casket rentals are a hit

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — With Halloween coming up, Charles Owens' company has a lay-away plan fit for just about anyone alive — rent-a-casket.

"Theatrical companies, office parties, birthdays, country clubs," Owens said Thursday. "We rent for any purpose you would dream of — except burial. Our units are brand new and we wouldn't want to get into that end of it."

Since he first placed a tiny newspaper ad a week ago, Owens — "an auctioneer by trade" — estimates he's had 65 responses. The ad says in capital letters "CASKET RENTALS" and gives no other information but two phone numbers.

"The results have been fantastic," he said. "Within the first four days of the ad, we had a lot of phone calls. People are coming in. Every now and then, someone will call to see if this is a legitimate business."

The caskets come in three sizes and rent from $75 to $25 for 24 hours.

Jets face Miami in key NFL game

The New York Jets, whose Super Bowl hopes last season died one game short in the Miami mud, try to put their up-and-down 1983 season back in gear when they play host to the Dolphins in a key National Football League game Sunday.

The Jets, who had seven victories and a tie over Miami from 1978-1981, lost three times to the Dolphins last year. The last was a 14-0 decision in the American Conference championship, played in a quagmire in Miami's Orange Bowl.

New York and Miami, expected to be the class of the AFC East this season, are both 3-3, one game behind Buffalo and surprising Baltimore, who meet Sunday. Both the Jets and the Dolphins lost last week, Miami 38-35 in overtime to the Bills; New York 10-7 to the Cleveland Browns on a last-second field goal.

"It's puzzling to everybody, not just to me," Jets Coach Joe Walton says of his team's record. "We've played well enough to win the games we won and not well enough to win the three games we lost. Still, we're in the race. It's up to ourselves to get cranked up."

In other games Sunday, Houston will be at Minnesota; San Francisco at New Orleans; St. Louis at Tampa Bay; San Diego at New England; Chicago at Detroit; Cleveland at Pittsburgh; Buffalo at Baltimore; Cincinnati at Denver; the Los Angeles Raiders at Seattle; the New York Giants at Kansas City; Atlanta at the Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia at Dallas.

Washington is at Green Bay on Monday night.

In New York, the Jets will be facing a fresh face at quarterback in Dan Marino, who last week took over an offense that had sputtered under David Woodley.

"I'm happy with the direction our offense is going now," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "Marino's got good awareness. He had a lot of experience setting up and throwing the ball in college. We like everything about him."

The Colts, who won two games in 1981 and 1982, will be trying to run their record to 5-2 and take over outright possession of first in the AFC East.

Buffalo has beaten Baltimore four straight times, including a 28-23 victory in Buffalo four weeks ago. But Colts Coach Frank Kush is concerned the rivalry is second to momentum.

"We have to keep on a normal plane," said Kush. "We have a long way to go. I don't think we can be concerned whether we're playing the Bills or Miami or Timbuktu."

Cy Young winners battle tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 1983 World Series, a mirror image so far of last week's League Championship Series, continues tonight for the Baltimore Orioles and Philadelphia Phillies with Mike Flanagan and Steve Carlton, a pair of Cy Young Award winners, opposing each other.

The teams split the first two games of this "Amtrak Series" in Baltimore before moving 100 miles or so up the road for the next three contests in Veterans Stadium.

For both teams, the results of Games One and Two of this 80th World Series were remarkably similar to their respective League Championship Series a week ago.

In the American League pennant playoff, Baltimore lost the opener to Chicago 2-1 before coming back on a 14-strikeout shutout by Mike Boddicker, 4-0. The Orioles lost the World Series opener against Philadelphia, 2-1, and again used Boddicker's airtight pitching to recover, beating the Phillies 4-1 in Game Two.

Philadelphia captured the opener of the National League playoffs against Los Angeles, 1-0 — a one-run victory much like the one the Phillies imposed on Baltimore in the first game of the Series. The Dodgers won Game Two of the playoffs, 4-1, the same score by which the Orioles beat the Phillies Wednesday night.

The similarities end tonight. Both teams won the third games of their pennant playoffs. One of them must lose the third game of the World Series.

MIKE FLANAGAN ...Oriole pitcher
STEVE CARLTON ...Phillie hurler

Pitching has dominated the Series so far and that could continue tonight with Flanagan and Carlton, a pair of left-handers who have both won baseball's top pitching award, facing each other.

Flanagan won his Cy Young Award in 1979 when he went 23-9 for the Orioles. He is the first to admit that he is not the same pitcher now that he was then.

"I think I'm entirely different," he said. "I've been three different pitchers since then. In 1980, I had a sore shoulder. I had to learn to finesse batters, change speeds. It took two years of therapy to get the shoulder strong again. This year, I was back. I could go either way. The fastball was back if I wanted to use it. If I didn't, I could finesse batters. Now, with the knee, I'm back to finesse."

Flanagan got off to the best start of his eight-year career, winning his first six decisions this season. Then he tore up his left knee on May 17 and was sidelined for three months in the heart of the division race. He was re-activated Aug. 7 and, wearing a bulky brace on the knee, lost his first two starts before recovering. He finished with a 12-4 record and a 3.30 earned run average.

Which pitcher will be tonight?

"If the leg feels 100 percent, I'll throw hard," he said. "If it doesn't feel so good, I'll finesse them."

In addition to the knee, Flanagan has been troubled by an arthritic left hip that limits his motion. "It won't get better until the off-season when I can rest it," he said. "It just means I have to favor my left leg a little and put extra pressure on the right one."

Carlton has had some physical problems, too, and visited a chiropractor this week after coming up with back spasms in his last start, the fourth and final game of the playoffs against the Dodgers.

"It goes up into his neck and prevents him from turning," Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens said. "But Lefty said he felt better."

Johnson tapped as Mets' boss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dave Johnson, who won three championships in his first three years as a minor league manager, today signed a two-year contract to pilot the New York Mets.

Johnson succeeds interim Manager Frank Howard, who was dismissed at the end of the 1983 season. Howard will remain with the club as one of Johnson's coaches, returning to the role he held under former Manager George Bamberger.

Johnson, 39, managed the Mets' Tidewater farm

Fort Worth artist successful painter despite handicap

A tragic mishap when he was a high school senior failed to deter Randy Souders of Fort Worth in his ambition to paint.

The Fort Worth resident, as a result of a diving accident, is a quadriplegic, painting with the motions of his arm and hand. The successful painter shrugs off his handicap, and has compiled an impressive line of rural and Gothic creations as evidence of his skills and insights as a wheelchair artist.

He will exhibit his work this weekend at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair.

Landscape painter featured

Love of the Lone Star lore is evident in the paintings of Barbara Savage, a native of the Rio Grande Valley who will exhibit her wildlife and landscape paintings this weekend at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival.

Native trees, cacti and flowers of Texas are treated in her "low-key palette" compositions. The artist said she tries to bring the nostalgia, poetry and beauty of the Southwest heritage to the foreground of contemporary thought.

Arts, crafts fair

TEAMING UP — Husband and wife team David and Ira Grebe of Goldthwaite will be making their first appearance at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival

Man, wife team make 1st show

While husband and wife teams are not new to the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival, such teams that excel in two different mediums are. The team is David E. and Ira Kay Grebe of Goldthwaite, Texas, who will be making their first appearance at the local festival this weekend.

Having been educated at Stout State University in Wisconsin, Grebe worked for Collins Radio Co. as its advertising and public relations writer and motion picture film producer from 1962 to 1980. During his spare time he worked with knifemakers Ralph Bone and G.W. Stone. He also built sets, speciality items and models for advertising firms and film production companies in Dallas for 10 years from 1965 to 1975.

He began making jewelry in 1958 as a hobby, specializing in brass and copper belt buckles in 1969. He began using sterling silver in 1976. He has participated in juried art shows in Texas and Wisconsin since 1971 and has received numerous awards for his efforts.

The other half of the team, Mrs. Grebe, attended North Texas State University and attended special workshops in pottery during her spare time. She spent a short summer with master potter Abe Cohn of Fish Creek and Milwaukee, Wisc. She also attended workshops by Karen Karnes, Michael Cardew and Lotia Kowali of Africa.

During the years since, both Ira Kay and Dave Grebe have done extensive self study and research on their own specializing in glaze formulation, specifically at cone 10 (reduction) with copper reds and blues — and earth tones, on hand-thrown functional pieces, and have been professionally producing pottery and selling it in galleries and at art shows since 1968.

Mrs. Grebe has participated in numerous art shows with her husband and had received many prestigious awards. These include the 1975 Gallery of Honor, Wichita Falls; 1975 2nd place, Dallas Arts and Crafts Fair; 1975-1981 purchase awards, Baraboo, Wisc.; 1976 first place blue ribbon, CASA, Dallas; 1979 first place blue ribbon, Temple Emanuel, Dallas; 1979 first place blue ribbon, Wimberly Arts and Crafts Fair; 1981 judges choice award, Kermezaar, El Paso; and 1981 judges choice award, Southwest Craft Center, San Antonio.

FINAL TOUCHES — Ira Grebe puts the final touches to a clay pot produced in her Goldthwaite, Texas, studio. Mrs. Grebe has studied pottery with renowned ceramicists in the United States and abroad.

W. Texas couple pools talents in wood production

Husband and wife team Bill and Kathy Boulton of Gardendale will exhibit their custom-made wood products at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair this weekend.

The Boultons call their business Wood Art, and they combine their individual talents into what they call heirlooms for the future.

Bill hand-rubs the wood to a natural finish and then oils or stains it. Kathy uses a process known as stripping to paint pictures with tiny dots.

Bill uses hand tools on mostly exotic hardwoods which is used to produce furniture, artwork and other home furnishings, including jewelry boxes, knife boxes, clocks, picture frames and children's items.

Kathy, a former art student and currently president of the Odessa Art Association, has a repertoire of designs that include ships, cars, animals, Indians, logos, emblems, insects, machinery, oil rigs and airplanes.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After a potentially upsetting early morning, you have a beautiful day for using your most talented attributes and gifts you are capable of expressing and you will gain much cooperation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) See as many of your friends today as you can since they hold the key to greater success and happiness for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study what should be done in order to achieve greater success and become better attuned to modern methods of operating.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get many fine new ideas for advancement today and can get others to help you in putting them across.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You get fine business ideas and should put them in operation quickly. Avoid a jealous colleague.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to make the acquaintance of really talented and fascinating individuals and to think of them as associates.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your newspaper and other periodicals for new mechanisms that can help to make your work easier and your home more functional.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Novel projects present themselves, so get right into the most practical and promising ones. Benefits ensue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can take on new outlets now that can prove more profitable and also make your home run more efficiently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can communicate with others very well today and get much accomplished with mutual benefits following.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into financial affairs that can advance you greatly at this time and be clever with them. Avoid acting impulsively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you use originality in expressing yourself, you can get ahead much faster and be happier as a result.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get in the quiet of your study and plan how to better yourself and you get excellent ideas. Set about implementing them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY He or she will be one of those charming young persons who will fit easily into the modern-day picture and will adapt to whatever is coming in the future, so be sure to handle your interesting progeny as you would an adult for best results.

COMPUTER KIDS — Four Woodbridge High School students from Irvine, Calif., involved in an F.B.I. computer fraud case talk at a press conference. They are Wayne Correia, 17, Gary Knutson, 15, Gregg Knutson, 14, and David Hill, 17.

FBI crackdown nabs youths

A nationwide FBI crackdown on computer buffs who tapped into a Defense Department system and an electronic mail network targeted at least 10 youths, and one of the "hackers" said he feared "they are going to make an example of us."

Stadjas admitted he had the listings but said, "They don't indicate that I was on those systems." "He bragged he knew how to do it, but he said he would never harm anything if he got in," Mrs. Stadjas said. "He would just look and leave. It was just the thrill of getting in."

Agents on Thursday raided the homes of four teenagers in Irvine, Calif., where officials seized thousands of dollars worth of computer equipment. Six others were targeted in Detroit as part of an alleged defense computer sabotage ring.

In Detroit, six teen-agers were implicated in a national ring that federal investigators believe has done at least $500,000 damage while sabotaging computer networks, according to the Detroit Free Press.

The newspaper quoted a source close to the FBI as saying the probe was focusing on "deliberate, calculated sabotage," with the emphasis on "anything defense-oriented."

"Investigation is still in its initial phases. It will be several months before the case reaches a prosecutable phase, and search warrants have been issued nationwide," said Mull, who is based at the FBI's field office in Alexandria, Va. He would not elaborate.

The seizure was confirmed by FBI Special Agent John Anthony, who refused to comment further. "It was a real shock," said Sharon Stadjas, whose 14-year-old son, Eric, has bragged about breaking into a Defense Department computer. "They claimed he had over 30 pages of defense computer listings and passwords to get into them."

The youths, all students at Woodbridge High School, said they had no idea that the San Diego youth, whom they know only as "the Cracker," had given them passwords for a pay system. "I definitely think that the Cracker wanted to get us in trouble," said Gary Knutson, 15.

Minister plans rooftop meal

HEYWORTH, Ill. (AP) — The Rev. William Tabb has been on the roof of his church before, but this Sunday he'll fulfill a vow made in jest by climbing up to eat his dinner three stories above the ground.

Tabb said the congregation has been growing steadily since he came to the central Illinois church, about 100 miles southwest of Chicago. He believes the church's "old-fashioned good services" are what started attracting people.

"We've got other goals. We'd like to be at between 130 and 140 members by spring," he said. But he's not planning anything unusual when those numbers are reached.

Strict church called cult by ex-members of the church's 38-member congregation in LaFollette, has opposed medical treatment for his daughter ever since he learned of the tumor in July.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A cancer-stricken girl ordered to undergo chemotherapy despite her beliefs is a member of a church so strict that it bars members from taking medicine, attending ball games and even curling their hair.

Some ex-members have called it a cult and complain of wallet-emptying rites and brainwashing, but leaders of the Church of God of the Union Assembly say their sect is the truest of Christian faiths, practicing biblical teachings that other churches only preach.

When state social workers intervened and the appeals court ordered the treatment, Hamilton prayed and hired a lawyer. The state Supreme Court refused to stop treatment, and lawyers for the preacher are preparing an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Twelve-year-old Pamela Hamilton, daughter of a Union Assembly preacher, was in good condition at East Tennessee Children's Hospital today, three weeks after the Tennessee Court of Appeals ordered she be treated for a football-sized bone cancer tumor in her left leg.

She was voicing a belief in faith healing that has been part of the church since it was founded in 1921 by Charles Thomas Pratt, a Kentucky restaurant owner.

But doctors say her chances of recovery are only 25 percent. By receiving the treatment Pamela is in violation of the church's Rule 23 — one of 26 rules prescribed for the church's 5,000 followers in 17 states — and her father says the fight against Pamela's chemotherapy could be headed for the U.S. Supreme Court.

In tent revivals and radio sermons, Pratt railed against medicine, citing the Bible: "And prayer of the faith shall save the sick..."
