Murders stun small Texas communities

EDITOR'S NOTE — Texas has been stunned in the past month by three multiple slayings which claimed the lives of 14 people. The killings occurred in or near small towns, which at one time were felt to be immune from such violence.

By PHILIP BRASHER
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — David Maxwell and Monty Landers went to a fried chicken restaurant to pick up a Kilgore College fraternity brother for a Friday night out on the town.

In Sherman, 150 miles to the northwest, Ronald Mayes went to a hangar near his house to check on three friends who had gathered to sell a plane.

A retired Southeast Texas farmer, 62-year-old James Bennette of Hempstead, went to a nearby house, as he did every night, to check on a relative and a friend and watch the evening news.

Those fateful trips took them to their deaths.

They, along with 10 others, died violently within a span of 3 1/2 weeks in three unrelated Texas killing sprees that have shocked their communities.

Texas had the fourth highest

Dallas group buys Midland First National

MIDLAND (AP) — The chairman of RepublicBank Corp. said Saturday that he believes the slump in West Texas' energy business, which led to the collapse of First National Bank of Midland and to a takeover by the Dallas holding company, has bottomed out.

John D. Berry, RepublicBank's chairman, told a Midland audience that his firm was glad to rescue the failed bank Friday and believed it could turn the 93-year-old institution into a "billion-dollar bank."

"I think there is ample opportunity today for good, solid loans in the Permian Basin," Berry said at a news conference. "And certainly our economists and our people that are in the energy field believe that it has bottomed out and that we are now on a gradual recovery."

First National became the largest bank to fail in Texas and the second largest, in terms of assets, to fail in U.S. history when acting U.S. Comptroller of the Currency H. Joe Shelby declared it insolvent Friday evening.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. sold the bank for $51.1 million to RepublicBank, the nation's 21st largest bank holding company. The

For art's sake

Fair participants make time for painting, sewing

WET PAINT — Virginia Whitten of Big Spring adds tones of pink, purple and yellow to her landscape of sunset on a snowy evening at her booth in the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair.

To Virginia Whitten of Big Spring, art is more than a hobby, a job or even having an art gallery. Art has been Mrs. Whitten's way to fight her own shyness and a way to communicate with others.

Mrs. Whitten, a former art teacher at Howard County Junior College who is showing her paintings this weekend at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair, uses art to fund her annual Christmas project for inmates at the federal prison, she said.

To raise funds for her project, some of the children she teaches privately sell painted cans at the fair. Proceeds are split evenly between the children and the fund for the prisoners, she said.

Mrs. Whitten, whose bright landscapes and floral still lifes are influenced by the French impressionists, said she started painting 25 years ago.

"I was a little shy, and I always liked to sit around and draw and paint. I would draw the other kids in classes," Mrs. Whitten said.

Texans to vote Nov. 8 on 11 amendments

AUSTIN (AP) — If World War III broke out and the United States were under nuclear attack, you might not think you would worry right then about who your state representative is, but the Texas Legislature has been working on the problem.

Lawmakers have come up with a proposed constitutional amendment that would settle the issue of who becomes an instant representative or state senator if an enemy attack wipes out many current legislators. Voters will have a chance to approve or reject the amendment — Proposition No. 4 — on Nov. 8. It is one of 11 constitutional changes proposed by the Legislature.

"We've heard the Russians rattling their sabers and missiles," Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, told the House during debate. "We have to deal with reality."

He said the only alternative to a system of succession was martial law.

In 1959, encouraged by the Cold War, the Legislature passed and voters approved a constitutional change for filling vacancies among top state executive offices. The job of the state's chief executive would be passed on to the lieutenant governor, assistant presiding officer of the Senate, House speaker, or attorney general, if necessary in a national emergency.

Two years later, another amendment was approved providing for succession of all state and local officials, but it deliberately left out the Legislature.

Passage of Proposition 4 would provide a line of succession for legislators. The state Employees Retirement System would submit a list of former senators and representatives for each Senate and House district. The lieutenant governor and speaker would rank the former members according to seniority. If there were a vacancy, those with the most seniority would be picked.

The lists would be updated annually.

Proponents say the succession system would provide some semblance of normalcy in the panic and confusion that could occur following an enemy attack.

Opponents say the federal government mostly likely would take total control of governmental functions following a serious enemy attack. They also point out the system would result in placing persons in office that had been previously defeated by voters.

The other 10 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution, which has already been amended 253 times, include:

By The Associated Press Winters joins 'Hee Haw'

NASHVILLE (AP) — Comedian Jonathan Winters is joining the cast of the syndicated television show "Hee Haw" beginning in December. Using some of his familiar characters in regular segments of 12 "Hee Haw" shows, Winters will appear as Maude Frickert getting a perm in the "Hee Haw" beauty shop, Ellwood P. Suggins eating at Lulu's Truck Stop and 12-year-old Chester Honeyhugger asking Archie Campbell for a haircut. The country music-comedy show, in its 15th year, is seen on 200 stations. It is recorded in Nashville and stars Roy Clark and Buck Owens.

William sets toddler trend

ILKESTON — At the age of only 16 months, Prince William was credited Saturday with changing infant fashions and reopening a factory. After photos of the son of Prince Charles and Princess Diana in an embroidered romper suit appeared in British newspapers, the firm of John Thorpe (Nottingham) Ltd. was flooded with orders for the outfit. To cope with the demand, the firm reopened its Derbyshire factory at Ilkeston, recruiting workers who lost their jobs 17 months ago. Fifty workers will eventually be employed, double the original number. "Almost overnight, Prince William has changed the fashion from dressing little boys in T-shirts and pants," said managing director Michael Olive. "Mothers have now clearly decided that baby boys can be dressed as prettily as girls. We are delighted to say that the young prince seems to be following in his mother's footsteps by rejuvenating the fashion industry."

Twins keep it in the family

MARINARA DI CATANIA — Sicilian twin brothers Angelo and Benedetto Arena, 26, on Saturday married 21-year-old twin sisters Carmela and Santa Guglielmino in a double wedding. A family wedding was nothing new to the pairs of twins. Two years ago, the grooms' elder brother Pietro married the brides' elder sister Francesca, the Italian news agency ANSA said.

Rickover defends science

DAYTON — Two new members of the Engineering & Science Hall of Fame, one a career military man, the other the inventor of the laser, agree that while scientific knowledge can be used to destroy the world, it also can help mankind. Retired Adm. Hyman Rickover, best known as the father of the nuclear navy, and Charles Townes, the 1964 Nobel Prize winner who developed the laser, discussed the implications of their careers before the 1983 induction ceremonies Friday night.

"The destruction of life certainly wasn't on my mind when I was in the early stages of my work," said Townes, 68, who developed the laser in 1958. "But whatever you do, you are always aware of its kind of uses." "If you want to blame somebody for the destruction of life, you'd have to blame God," said Rickover. "He gave man the power to think." Rickover, who was retired by President Reagan in 1982, said it is difficult to distinguish between good and bad uses of science. "There is a fine line between the benign and the un-benign," he said. "Man has to determine how he is going to use it." Townes agreed, saying "It's hard to find anything that does not have military implications. Even the telephone was developed as a military tool."

Philip to get computer

KUALA LUMPUR — The three-day visit of Britain's Prince Philip in his capacity as president of the World Wildlife Fund brought one immediate benefit Saturday. The prince received $11,538 from the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corp. to help buy a computer for the fund's Malaysian office. The computer will be used to in research and compiling records on conservation and wildlife in Malaysia. The prince, who arrived Friday, leaves Sunday for Bombay, India, as part of his campaign to drum up financial support for the preservation of tropical rain forests.

By The Associated Press Marines report killing 5

BEIRUT — Marine sharpshooters said they killed five snipers who pinned them down at Birut airport for the second day Saturday, and a mine or bomb blast wounded two French soldiers in a U.N. convoy in southern Lebanon. It was the first time since the Marines were deployed in Lebanon that they reported killing combatants. Lebanon's cease-fire committee, meanwhile, agreed to ask for Greek and Italian observers to police the Sept. 26 truce that ended three weeks of Druse-Christian fighting in the central mountains. The sniping Saturday occurred along the northeastern edge of the airport, where one Marine was killed and another wounded Friday, bringing the toll to six Marines killed and 51 wounded in Lebanon in 16 months — most of them since Aug. 28. Marine sharpshooters and Marine spotters said five of the snipers were killed.

Marine killed by sniper

NASHUA — A 25-year-old Marine sergeant killed in action in Lebanon cherished his U.S. citizenship and had volunteered to go to Iran during the hostage crisis, his family in New Hampshire says.

Sgt. Allen J. Soifert was mortally wounded by snipers Friday as he and another Marine rode in a jeep near the Beirut airport. A Marine spokesman said Soifert died as he was carried by helicopter to a hospital aboard the USS Iwo Jima off the Lebanese coast. Joan Romer, Soifert's mother, said her son had volunteered for his second tour in Lebanon, where he became the sixth American on the international peacekeeping force to be killed. An explosives expert who dropped out of high school at age 17 to join the Marines, he had come to this country with his parents from his native Toronto, Ontario, 19 years ago.

Germans want missile talks

VIENNA — West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher asked Soviet counterpart Andrei A. Gromyko on Saturday to help arrange a superpower summit to defuse a crisis over nuclear missile deployment in Europe, West German sources said.

The sources, members of Genscher's delegation to a meeting with Gromyko in Vienna, also said the West German foreign minister urged Gromyko to meet with U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz to ease growing East-West tensions. The sources spoke on condition they not be further identified.

Genscher and Gromyko conferred at the Soviet Embassy in Vienna for two hours but neither issued a statement afterward. They will meet at the West German Embassy on Sunday.

Their talks came one month before the North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to start installing 572 U.S.-built Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe to counter a Soviet buildup of SS-20 rockets on the border.

NATO says it will proceed with the deployment unless there is progress at the U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva on limiting medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe. The Soviets have indicated that if the NATO deployment starts they will install more missiles and take other unspecified retaliatory steps.

Last week, officials in Washington said the Soviets had threatened to pull out of the Geneva talks if deployment went ahead on schedule.

Grenada coup reported

ST. GEORGE'S — Grenada's leftist government warned against disorders Saturday and said counter-revolutionaries were trying to take advantage of "vicious rumors" — apparently meaning reports that Prime Minister Maurice Bishop was ousted by his more radical deputy, Bernard Coard.

The reports said Bishop was under house arrest following a coup Friday. But the government's Radio Free Grenada said the only person arrested was Bishop's chief bodyguard, and that Coard had resigned to squelch rumors he plotted to assassinate Bishop.

The broadcast repeated an armed forces advisory from Friday that a "counter-revolutionary element" was seeking to take advantage of unspecified "vicious rumors" circulating in the country. The military said disorders or disturbances of the peace would not be tolerated.

Streets were quiet in the capital, with no visible signs of troops, but Grenada's citizens were bewildered by the failure of Bishop, Coard or any of the other officials to make a public appearance.

S. Korea predicts invasion

SEOUL — President Chun Doo-hwan declared Saturday that North Korea was plotting an invasion, and North Korea charged the United States with spying on its coastal waters. The top U.S. general here postponed a trip to Washington.

Chun said the invasion plot was tied to the bombing in Burma Oct. 9 that killed 17 officials of his government — including four Cabinet ministers. South Korean investigators said North Korean agents made the explosive with ball bearings and an incendiary device of "anti-tank warhead type."

North Korean broadcasts earlier denied accusations that North Korea was involved in the Rangoon bombing, and on Saturday North Korea said a U.S. SR-71 reconnaissance plane flew an espionage mission over North Korean coastal waters Friday in a "crude violation" of the 1953 Korean war armistice.

Korea was divided at the end of World War II and fought a bloody war in 1950-53 after North Korean forces struck south and nearly overran the country before U.S. and other Western forces intervened.

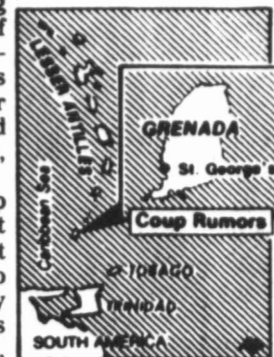

South Korea's army and national police have been on a special alert since the Rangoon bombing. The approximately 39,000 U.S. troops stationed in South Korea, some of them along the Demilitarized Zone, were reported to have taken "appropriate defensive precautions" after the bombing.

Kissinger meets leftists

MANAGUA — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived Saturday for talks with leftist Sandinista officials outraged over crippling attacks on Nicaraguan installations by U.S.-backed rebels.

Nicaragua is the final stop on the six-day Central American tour of the bipartisan commission headed by Kissinger, which is to formulate long-term U.S. policy for the turbulent region. Kissinger's itinerary included meetings with Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto and the Sandinista junta Coordinator Daniel Ortega, who charged Friday that an attack against Nicaragua by "American or Honduran troops" was "imminent."

The former secretary also was scheduled to meet with opposition party officials and Managua Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo, a strong critic of the leftist regime.

National Weather Service
NOAA U.S. Dept. of Commerce

Mild weather continues

Mild, pleasant autumn weather continued over Texas this weekend, with mostly clear skies reported statewide under a trough of low pressure that moved across the nation's midsection.

Some scattered high-level clouds were reported along the Trans Pecos and along the Red River. Low-level clouds formed, meanwhile, along the upper coast and in the southeastern corner of the state.

The plains and central areas of the state had southerly, 10- to 20-mile per hour winds while a more easterly direction in air flow at 5 to 10 miles per hour was the norm in the south and east. West of the Pecos, winds were westerly at about 10 miles an hour.

Pre-dawn temperatures today were generally in the 50s and 60s. The 4 a.m. extremes ranged from a 47 at Longview to a 67 at El Paso.

Forecasters called for increasing clouds in the west, but sunny skies north and partly sunny skies in South Texas. Widely scattered showers were considered possible over Northwest Texas.

Afternoon highs were expected to range from the upper 70s in the north to the 90s in South Texas. A few readings in the 90s may turn up in the Big Bend valleys of Southwest Texas.

Wintery conditions prevailed over parts of the northern United States Saturday, with snow falling in the higher elevations of the Rockies and freezing weather concentrated around the upper Great Lakes.

A low pressure system spread rain across the northern Rockies into the northern Plains, with temperatures in the 30s and 40s. Thunderstorms and temperatures in the 70s lingered over Florida.

On Friday, fair skies stretched from the Ohio Valley to the Gulf Coast states and across the West. A hurricane watch was in effect for Hawaii as Hurricane Raymond, with 125 mph winds, was 900 miles southeast of Honolulu and moving toward the islands at 15 mph.

Travelers' advisories were in effect for the Rockies of Wyoming and Colorado and the Black Hills of South Dakota as up to five inches of snow were expected today.

Rig fire blamed on sparks

GALVESTON (AP) — A fire that forced 83 workers to abandon an offshore gas rig apparently was caused by sparks that ignited natural gas, a spokesman for Union Oil of California says.

Crewmen were setting up a blow out preventers and a gas diversion system Thursday night when one worker noticed sand in the well bore, said spokesman John Thom.

"The velocity of sand against metal started some sparking" and the drilling foreman ordered the platform evacuated. Thom said Friday.

All 83 workers on the platform — actually two drilling rigs about 50 yards apart — scrambled to safety in four watertight escape pods after gas under tremendous force blew out of a hole workers were drilling.

Report from Austin

By Rep. LARRY DON SHAW

Goodbye, Matt Garcia

It is never easy to say a final goodbye to a friend and a colleague. I feel deeply honored that I had the privilege of working alongside a man who was more than just a good politician. A man whose leadership was an inspiration to all of us who had the pleasure of serving with him in the Texas House of Representatives.

State Rep. Matt Garcia died recently of a heart attack at the age of 55, but his memory will remain in our hearts and his influence in the Texas House will be felt for years to come.

During his six terms in the Texas Legislature, Matt stood firm on his beliefs, and always fought his battles with a strong conviction for the betterment of his constituency. He made his mark on issues on civil rights and bilingual education, and was a great spokesman for the Mexican American community in Texas.

Matt spent six years as a knowledgeable member of the powerful House Appropriations Committee where he fought to protect the interests of educational institutions throughout the state. He also carried the first funded bilingual education bill through this Committee in 1973, and in 1981 he co-sponsored the bilingual education reform bill.

He was always a friend to teachers and public education. This session he urged us on the House floor to reject the 1983-84 budget because it did not include the 24 percent pay raise he wanted for teachers.

Matt worked tenaciously in the area of civil rights over the last decade, and helped engineer the passage of the bill creating the State Human Rights Commission during the recent legislative session.

His strong voice on behalf of the Hispanic community will be sorely missed and not easily replaced. He was twice chairman of the Mexican American Legislative Caucus and founding member of the Texas Mexican American Democrats. He also served four years on the board of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, as vice chairman of the National Hispanic American Democrats.

During his political career, Matt turned down two judgeships, believing his influence in the House would be of more benefit to the people of Texas. Gov. White has said during his ten years in the Legislature, Matt Garcia probably authored and co-sponsored more important legislation than anyone else.

Matt will be missed not only by his family and friends, but also by all the citizens of Texas he so ably represented during the last decade.

We hear so much of the negative in the realm of politics, that we often do not hear much of the good. We do not hear about men like Matt Garcia — a good man, a great leader, and a true statesman.

Glenn: bickering must end

DALLAS (AP) — During a brief stop in Dallas, U.S. Sen. John Glenn said "bickering" between his campaign and that of his "principal opponent," former Vice President Walter Mondale, must end if Democrats are to wrest the White House from Ronald Reagan.

Glenn and Mondale, considered top contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, recently have traded barbs over each other's records in office.

"In the last week or so, we got into a small bickering thing about the past," said Glenn, of Ohio, addressing a reception hosted by Dallas Democrats Friday night.

He referred to Mondale only as his "principal opponent."

"The point is this," Glenn said. "We are going to need all the unity we can get in order to win in 1984."

The stop in Dallas was part of a day-long visit to Texas by Glenn.

Joy to the world!

By JOY CULWELL

What is the test for whether or not you have had a rain or a sprinkle?

In this dry part of our great country this is an important question. A good gentle soaking general rain is the desire of all our hearts, but back to the question. Well, it's a rain if you get nine drops of water on a brick, according to Colorado City's own Carroll Gray, or so I was told by my resident genius friend, Perry Adams.

A man was standing by a service station in Andrews, Texas, when an out-of-state car stopped to fill up, and a very tired Yankee got out. He turned to the man and said, "Did it ever rain here?"

"Yes it did," the man replied. "When Noah got his flood it rained three inches right here at the station!"

We don't want a Noah's flood, but we need at least three inches.

You can tell it's dry when the horned toads start carrying canteens. It's not that dry yet. When I was a child I survived the dust bowl days. Now that was dry.

Mr. live-in-Kernit, Texas, and if you opened your front door, your frontyard would blow in; but you could then open your back door and it would blow right on out. My mother loved that! She wore out six brooms in those pre-vacuum days in less than two years.

That makes me think of an experience we had when we lived on the farm. A hot-shot vacuum cleaner salesman, obviously from the city, came to our front door. When my mother opened the door to see what he wanted, he just threw in a hand of dirt. She showed horror on her face, and justifiably so because she had just swept and mopped our little home. When she told him that he said, "Oh, that's perfectly all right because I can clean it easily with this brand new vacuum cleaner I came to demonstrate for you."

"My mother looked him right in the eye and said, 'Well, you are going to have a hard time using it because we don't have electricity yet.'"

I'd love to go to sleep tonight hearing rain on the roof and in the morning go to work in the rain. We need it. Please, Lord,

Search aloft for Odessa pilot

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Five airplanes were aloft today over southeastern Colorado as the search continued for a light plane carrying a Texas pilot missing and presumed down since Oct. 8.

Capt. LaTrelle Stock of the Colorado Civil Air Patrol said weather conditions were favorable for the search for the Piper Cherokee piloted by Richard "Buck" Kruse, 57, of Odessa, Texas.

Kruse left Buffalo, Wyo., where he works on Oct. 8 and was scheduled for a refueling stop at Pueblo before continuing to Odessa. His wife alerted authorities the following day that he was overdue and the search was initiated.

Buddy Temple's un-candidacy

AUSTIN — Several years ago in a town in which I worked a local minister called a news conference at his church to make what was billed as "an important political announcement."

I and a bunch of radio and television people went to the church at the scheduled hour expecting to hear he would be a candidate in the upcoming city council or school board elections. Instead, we heard him announce that he would not be a candidate for the school board.

Until the news conference was called, no one except he and a few friends had thought he was going to be a candidate. So what we basically had was a non-story.

Perhaps because we were in a house of God, the reporters sat quietly and only muttered a few mild expletives outside. "That's like a nun announcing she's not pregnant," one reporter said with a shake of her head.

The poor minister never did understand why his announcement received little or no play in the media.

I was reminded of that incident last week when Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple issued a "press advisory" saying he will not be a candidate for the U.S. Senate next year.

Temple, at least, had an excuse. He pointed out that "a number" of reporters had asked him about any plans after Sen. John Tower announced he would not seek re-election.

After more than a month of "considering" running, Temple issued his terse announcement. The effect was not as ho-hum as a nun announcing she wasn't pregnant, but almost.

For one thing, after the initial interest in the Senate race after Tower's announcement, the media and especially the public have turned their attention to other things.

Who can get excited about who is or isn't running for the Senate next year when the World Series is under way, our favorite teams are battling in the Southwest Conference and the weather is so nice you almost feel guilty about staying inside and watching all the games on television?

If anyone besides Temple became excited over the prospect of his candidacy for the Senate, the roar generally went unnoticed.

There's no doubt that Temple remains ambitious and unsatisfied in the powerful but low-profile Railroad Commission post. But most political observers think he is just biding his time for another run for the Governor's Mansion.

Before he runs for anything, however, he has some more political fence-mending duties. Even Temple's strongest supporters acknowledge that he hurt himself in his fast-and-furious but flawed campaign for governor last year.

Temple, the wealthy son of super-wealthy and powerful East Texas timber baron Arthur Temple Jr., jumped into that campaign late with a lot of money but little organization — with a lot of ambition but little philosophical direction.

Except for padding the bank accounts of television and radio stations with a media blitz, Temple's campaign accomplished little. He finished a distant second behind Mark White in the Democratic primary and dropped out of the runoff campaign.

A month later, Arthur Temple paid off more than $1 million of the campaign debts run up by his ambitious son.

All this came only two years after the voters had believed Buddy Temple's denial that he was seeking the Railroad Commission seat only as a stepping stone to higher office.

Temple emerged from the 1982 gubernatorial campaign looking like a rich kid trying to buy an election away from other Democratic candidates who had put in the time and effort to build up their campaign organizations. And no matter how much he denied promising he wouldn't use the Railroad Commission post as a political stepping stone, a lot of people remembered it the other way.

The campaign left Temple in trouble with Democratic party regulars and with the voters in general. He regained some political stature in the party by campaigning for White in the Democratic nominee's successful general election race against then-incumbent Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

But Temple probably was smart not to offer himself to the voters again so soon. The memory of his disastrous spring of 1982 needs a little more time to fade.

FROM X-RAY TECHNICIAN TO FLORAL DESIGNER.....

GLENNA HUGHES HAS BEEN AN ACTIVE CAREER WOMAN!

Glenna and her husband, W.P. came to Big Spring in 1946. He was the service manager for Chevrolet and Big Spring was a good place to raise Mike & Johnny, their two boys. While her children were growing up, Glenna became an X-ray technician at Malone/Hogan Hospital and stayed in that field for 15 years. After the boys left home she decided to retire and found that staying at home just wasn't interesting any more. By this time, W.P. had gone into the ranching business, so Glenna opened Creative Arts in 1970. It was first located in the 1900 block of Gregg St., but soon afterward Glenna moved to Highland Mall. She has been a vital part of the mall since September of her first year in business. Although the merchandise has changed from arts and crafts supplies to bridal accessories and gifts for the home along with a name change to Creative Decor in 1978, the personal service provided by Glenna and her part-time crew of 4 continues to be the central ingredient of the store.

Glenna does all of the floral designing for Creative Decor. The lovely silk blossoms she uses are everlasting and can be used in bouquets, corsages, centerpieces or permanent arrangements. She is an experienced wedding consultant and the bridal registry makes it easy to coordinate color and pattern selections.

There's a complete line of kitchen and bath necessities at Creative Decor. Bedspreads and pillows to complement the bedroom and for bright and happy dining. Sigma pottery in the cabbage and jonquil patterns. Their completer pieces are perfect for separate use as party servers. Glenna stocks Asta cookware for beauty and superb heat control. Pfaltzgraff and Fitz & Floyd give the pottery and fine china customer an almost endless choice of shapes and designs. The collector can always find something at Creative Decor. Selections range from brass to bisqueware, porcelain figurines and one of a kind decorative clay animals. Right now candles and their holders that highlight a room or an arrangement are ready for your holiday celebrations.

Glenna Hughes makes sure that Creative Decor is where you'll find that touch of personal service so typical of the merchants of Highland Mall!

Reagan: no reason for hunger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he can't understand why hunger exists in America because "food and help are available to anyone" who needs it.

Even though his administration has been criticized for cutting food stamps and social programs, Reagan said, the federal government is doing its best to meet the nation's food needs.

"We are providing all that is necessary to make sure that there need be no hunger in this country of ours, and as little in the world as we can help alleviate," Reagan said Friday at a White House ceremony held to proclaim Sunday as World Food Day.

"Food and help are available to anyone who is hungry in America," the president added. "There is no need or reason for hunger anywhere in America," said Reagan, who has established a presidential commission to study the problem.

The president said the commission was trying to determine if the problem of hunger results from the way government food programs are run or whether it was simply the result of people not knowing.

Girl, 14, stabbed; fetus killed

AID AFTER STABBING — Lois Wheat, 14, receives emergency treatment at a high school football game after being stabbed 11 times in the stomach.

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — A pregnant 14-year-old who tried to break up a fight at a high school football game was stabbed 11 times with a pair of scissors, killing her unborn child, police said Saturday.

LOIS WHEAT

The teen-ager was hospitalized in stable condition, and a 17-year-old girl was being held for investigation of murder and attempted murder, said Simi Valley police Lt. Rick Terborch.

The fetus was pronounced dead during emergency surgery at Simi Valley Adventist Hospital on Thursday night, a few hours after the stabbing occurred, Terborch said.

The victim's father, William Wheat, said in a telephone interview that his daughter, Lois-Anne, was "very much grief-stricken over the loss of the child."

Police did not identify the 17-year-old girl arrested when she was found hiding in a parked vehicle a block from the fight scene about 15 minutes after the stabbing. Terborch said she was being held by Ventura County juvenile authorities.

Wheat, 64, said his daughter attended a freshman football game Thursday afternoon at Royal High School. At the game, the 17-year-old girl reportedly accused two 13-year-old girls of flirting with her boyfriend, and started fighting with them when Miss Wheat intervened, said police Sgt. Archer Morgan.

"My daughter informed the girl wanting to have the physical fight that she was (five months) pregnant," Wheat said in a telephone interview from Simi Valley, about 40 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

"She's very protective of her friends," Wheat said. The blond-haired, blue-eyed Miss Wheat is about 5-foot-3 and weighed about 130 pounds when she became pregnant, he said.

He said his daughter suffered stab wounds that narrowly missed her heart and liver. "The most serious wounds were in the abdomen, just above the groin, the three that looked the nastiest to me," said Wheat.

Still, when his daughter reached the hospital by ambulance, he said, "the heartbeat of the infant still beat on a normal basis."

During surgery, doctors discovered that Miss Wheat's intestines and uterus had been punctured, along with the umbilical sac.

"They determined that there was no hope of saving the fetus and on permission given by myself, the operation to remove the fetus was begun," he said.

Wheat described his daughter as "quite, subdued" after the operation.

"She wanted the child," he said, adding that his daughter felt "quite a bit of grief mixed with quite a bit of anger." A memorial service will be held for the unborn child, he said.

Pacific hurricane loses strength

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Residents here breathed a sigh of relief Saturday after Hurricane Raymond, which had been carrying 150 mph winds, weakened and was downgraded to a tropical storm.

"Everybody thought we would get hit with something, but I'll take these false alarms anytime," said Harry Kim, Hawaii County Civil Defense Administrator.

"It's been a long 36 hours," said Kim as he and his staff began notifying public agencies that the national weather service had canceled a hurricane watch.

The southeast coast of Hawaii island had been expected to bear the brunt of the hurricane. But the worst effects were 15-foot surf in the Kalapana area, 15 miles south of here, and overcast skies.

A short stretch of the coastal highway near the famed Kaimu Black Sand Beach was closed after water and rocks and washed ashore, Kim said.

There were no injuries and no reports of property damage.

Residents of Hilo, the county seat and largest town on the island, heeded Kim's advise to prepare for the hurricane.

"Everyone was buying radios and batteries this morning. We were going crazy," said a Long's Drug Store clerk, who asked not to be identified.

The store sold out of masking tape, used to help prevent windows from shattering. Many stores in downtown Hilo had taped their plate-glass windows.

Teen-ager run over by train

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 13-year-old ward of the state who had wandered away from a psychiatric treatment center fell asleep on railroad tracks and was run over by a train.

Robert Belt of Clinton in western Kentucky was killed Friday afternoon when he was struck by a train of seven locomotives and dragged along the tracks 800 feet.

Jefferson County police said Belt and a 17-year-old companion walked away from the Children's Treatment Services center at Central State Hospital about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Their absence was noted in less than an hour and police were notified.

The older boy told police the two wandered around during the night and then started walking along the railroad tracks.

"They apparently didn't have any plans on where they'd go or what they'd do," said Detective Pat Conkling. "They didn't have any money."

It's not unusual for patients to leave the hospital complex, said Jefferson County police spokesman Bob Yates, adding that about a dozen people walked away from it Friday.

The older boy said he and Belt fell asleep Friday lying across the tracks about 15 miles east of downtown Louisville.

He said he heard the train's whistle as it rounded a bend several hundred feet away and was able to escape, but Belt did not awaken in time.

The train's engineer told police he blew the whistle when he saw the boys, and watched one of them try to pull the other off the tracks.

He radioed for police, who captured the fleeing 17-year-old about two miles from the accident site.

Officials said both boys were wards of the state

Seattle Slew's son wins $500,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Slew o'Gold took to lead from Bounding Basque along the rail after straightening for home and won the $570,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup Saturday at Belmont Park.

The victory for the 3-year-old son of Seattle Slew, the 1977 Triple Crown winner, boosted his stock for Horse of the Year.

Slew o'Gold got to the end of the 1 1/4 miles under Angel Cordero Jr. in 2:26 1-5 for a three-length victory over Highland Blade. Bounding Basque, a 3-year-old, was another neck back and 1 1/2 lengths ahead of another 3-year-old, Play Fellow.

Slew o'Gold, who had been fourth in the Kentucky Derby and second in the Belmont Stakes, won two of the three New York Fall Championship Series stakes. He won the 1 1/4-mile Woodward by a nose Sept. 3, then was beaten by a neck by the 5-year-old Highland Blade in the Marlboro Cup Handicap at 1 1/4 miles Sept. 24. The neck loss to Highland Blade cost Equisequity Stable, Slew o'Gold's owner, a $1 million bonus offered by the New York Racing Association to any horse who sweeps the Woodward, Marlboro and Gold Cup.

The Gold Cup was preceded by the $237,000 Champagne Stakes for 2-year-olds, and unbeaten Devil's Bag ran away from 11 rivals for his fourth straight victory.

Devil's Bag, ridden by Eddie Maple, beat Dr. Carter by six lengths in a stakes record 1:31 1-5 for the one mile under scale weight of 122 pounds, knocking one-fifth of a second off the old record set by Seattle Slew in 1976.

Devil's Bag, who won the Cowdin in his previous start, paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.10 and earned $142,200.

Slew o'Gold, coupled in the betting with Sir Mala Mala, paid $8, $4 and $3.40. Pen-Y-Bryn Farm's Highland Blade, ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, returned $6.80 and $5.80, while Jacques D. Wimpfheimer's Bounding Basque, ridden by Gregg McCarron, was $8 to show.

Sir Mala Mala, ridden by Alfred Smith Jr., set the pace for the first three-quarter miles in 1:12 3-5, followed by Desert Wine, Play Fellow and Slew o'Gold.

When the field hit the half-mile pole, Bounding Basque was on top with Slew o'Gold second. They went around the final turn that way and then as they straightened for home, Cordero sent Slew o'Gold along the rail for the lead and there was no way he was going to be caught.

Slew o'Gold's fifth victory in 12 starts this year — was worth $342,000 and boosted his earnings to $883,390 this year. He earned $22,200 as a 2-year-old.

Two lengths behind Play Fellow was the 8-year-old gelding John Henry, the leading all-time thoroughbred money-winner with earnings of $3,906,297.

Q. Our broker suggests that one way for us to obtain our own home is to buy a partially completed "shell" and do the finish work ourselves. What is your opinion on this?

A. Before making a decision, evaluate your own skills and temperament. Do you have the knowledge of the carpentry work that will need to be done? Are the tasks that require approval of local building code authorities completed, or must you do these jobs yourself and then petition for inspection and approval? Do you have the time and the patience to live in an incomplete structure while working toward the finished product? If the remaining work entails little more than painting and decorating, you may have a good deal. If you are not skilled or don't have adequate time for the project, you'd best find another way to obtain a home.

Osborne leads in city tourney

Stewart, Swart, Garcia one stroke back

Don Osborne's 71 Saturday put him on top of the Big Spring City Golf Championship at the Comanche Trail Golf Course with Howard Stewart, Ernie Swart and Ben Garcia Jr. deadlocked in second with scores of 72. In the senior division, Nick Nicholson leads the pack with a 71 followed by Loy Carroll at 73 and Buddy Clinton, Bernard Rains and Charles Bailey at 75. The first flight of the regular division saw four golfers tie with 79s. Travis Hunter, Keith Hamilton, Bob Rogers and Jerry Dudley were log jammed after the first round of play. Ben Garcia Sr. shot an 80 with 81s being recorded by Luevan Flores, Jimmy Welch, Don Reid and John Arrick. In the second flight, R.D. McCullough, John Basden, Annie Anderson and Juan Ortega are tied at 83. Steve Corson, Robert Hecker and Mike Bailey are one shot back at 84. The third flight has seven golfers even up at 86. Joe Dominguez, Steve Hedges, Johnny Scott, Dom Belew, John Borchardt, C.E. Roth and Jackie Touchstone are those golfers. Jim Jimenez, Dewey Slate, Manuel Ramirez, Clay Harris, Ansel Finley and Roddy Caffey all shot 88s to tie for top position in the fourth flight. John McGregor, Mark Bergeron and Lynn Wigginton captured the top spots in the fifth flight with scores of 91. Sal Diaz, Amador Gonzales and Tim Strain shot 100 for tops in the six flight. In the first flight of the senior division, Nile Cole's 80 was best followed by Gilbert Reyna and Paul Beasley at 82 and Jerry White, Henry Mexia, Weldon Bryant and Eddie Aciri at 83. The second flight of the seniors has Willie Graham on top at 87 followed by Bob Hicks, Bob Bell and Tommy Mills at 89. Others in the championship flight of the regular division are Royce Cox and David Merry at 75, Duane Thomas at 76, B.A. Brunson, Jimmy Stewart, Jerry Richbourg and Don Cook at 77, and Tommy Young and Joe Sharpnack at 78. Other in the first flight include Bob Parks, Ray Bluhm, Bernard Ains, Bob Shaeffer and Felix Martinez, all at 82.

North Texas whips McNeese St.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — At 1:11 into the Southland Conference football game, North Texas State's Tony Merriweather returned a punt 62 yards for a touchdown to start his Eagles toward their 17-10 Saturday night victory over McNeese State. McNeese's Richard Andrews collected a 7-yard scoring pass from quarterback Don Richards with 48 seconds in the quarter. The second quarter was marred when Cowboy running back Buford Jordan — the nation's second-ranked rushing leader with 144.6 yards per game — was sidelined with a knee injury. The half ended when kicker Thomas Bresnahan booted 25-yard field goal to give North Texas State a 10-7 advantage at the half. The defensive struggle ended with NTSU gaining only 88 yards rushing and 76 passing and McNeese got 152 yards on the ground but only 13 through the air. Running back Craig Carter closed out the Eagles' scoring with an 8-yard scoring run midway through the fourth period. The victory improved NTSU to 5-2 overall, 2-0 in the conference, and McNeese went to 4-2 and 1-1.

Elizabeth Johansen feted at reception

Former students honor Bible teacher

Elizabeth Johansen, long time Bible teacher at Big Spring High School, was honored at a reception and luncheon of former Bible class students at Bonanza, Saturday. The reception was held in conjunction with the school's homecoming festivities this weekend.

During the event, a film of Bible students acting out the Biblical story "The Life of David" was shown. During her years as teacher, her students made eight millimeter movies of the lives of David, Moses and Jesus Christ. They presented plays in school assemblies and gave an outdoor nativity pageant one Christmas.

Other memorabilia from the past Bible classes also were displayed to bring back memories of the class and lessons learned. These included pictures of Bible Club trips, mounted on poster boards.

A woman in her 70s, Mrs. Johansen began teaching the Bible classes at Big Spring High School in 1945. She was a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and earned a master's degree in religious education from Presbyterian School of Christian Education in Richmond, Va. Before coming to Big Spring, she taught Bible at Thornhill Orphanage in Clinton, S.C.

The Big Spring High School Bible Class had been organized two years before Mrs. Johansen arrived. She began teaching Bible full-time at the school until the state passed a regulation requiring that World History be taught at the sophomore level. Many of her students were sophomores, so she accepted a smaller student load and began teaching sophomore English in addition to Bible. She remained in both capacities until she resigned in 1982.

"I CAN'T THINK OF anything I'd rather teach," she said in 1982 in the Herald. "I find it very satisfying to work with young people." Each student she encountered had a special talent, she said. It was because of her students that her job never became routine.

"When I graduated from college, I was trying to decide what I wanted to do with my life. I wanted to do something that would deepen as the years went by. I wanted something that I could never feel like I had finished. I wanted to keep that feeling of enrichment, of depth. That has been true here. Teaching has been very satisfying to me," she said.

"She was certainly one of the outstanding teachers we had in Big Spring High School," said Mary Davis Deats in a recent interview.

Mrs. Johansen had an interest in her students, an exceptional morale that she lived up to, and was dedicated, Mrs. Deats said. "Of course all of our teachers lived up to those categories.

"I think it was the nature of the class. It was the kind of thing where there was a lot of rapport between the students and the teachers. She was always chuckling over things. She always got a delight out of the things we students would do in class," Mrs. Deats said.

"She was concerned about her students and helped them. She was real nice," said Thelma Brumley Ditto, another former student.

The Bible class "helped me to pick up on things better when I heard things preached from the Bible. It helped me understand what they (ministers) were talking about. It kind of brought it (the Bible) to life for me," Mrs. Ditto said. "By taking that course I knew more of places and people in the Bible that I might not have gotten from a preacher."

THE CLASS WAS sponsored each year by the Howard County Minister's Fellowship because the school could not pay someone to teach Bible. The state does allow private organizations to sponsor such classes.

The class dealt with the literature of the Bible and is taught as a historical survey. The class gave students exposure to the Bible without a denominational slant. Students were able to familiarize themselves with the Bible even if they did not attend church.

Activities in the class were designed to enhance learning facts about the Bible and develop a rapport with the teacher and students. "The Bible is a course that everyone needs, no matter what they do in life," Mrs. Johansen said.

Due to her health, Mrs. Johansen had to retire from teaching in 1982 after the school year began. She taught at Big Spring High School about 36 years. "Teaching has been a blessing to me. I'm grateful that I've had the opportunity to teach that many years," she said.

PEP TALK — Cheryl Oren, administrative assistant for Texas Electric Service Co., talks to some of her fellow employees about current business procedures. Ms. Oren specializes in the housing and management area of home economics.

Home economist employed in world of energy, business

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

"Traditional concepts of a utility home economist giving cooking demonstrations no longer exists," Cheryl Oren, an administrative assistant at Texas Electric Service Company, said. "I haven't had to give one, and I probably couldn't do it."

Ms. Oren has a home economics degree in housing and management from East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. She says the field of home economics has become specialized.

"I think the concepts I had of home economics in high school were that it simply involved cooking and sewing. I realized in college that the whole home economics structure was changing," Mrs. Oren said. "The whole concepts of home economics deals with family and economics of the home which covers everything from the grocery bill to the electric bill. Housing and management involves everything from building an energy efficient house to running it in an energy efficient way after it is built."

MRS. OREN HAS several job responsibilities. One thing she finds interesting and challenging is her primary duty of communicating with customers. She said it is important to have a liaison between the public and TESCO. Part of her job is speaking to organizations.

"When I am out I get a chance to talk to people about TESCO. There are a lot of people who don't ever get to talk to TESCO. It's an opportunity for them to express any concerns they have about TESCO," she said. "This (talking to organizations) is a chance for me to find out what is bothering our consumers. The programs work in a two-way communication.

"I think that my role with Texas Electric is to talk to customers and to understand their problems. My background in home economics helps me care about that," she said.

"Most groups I find are very receptive to what I have to say. This doesn't mean they agree with everything I say, but will listen to what I have to say," Ms. Oren said. "I hope it helps them to understand a little bit better our situation."

"It's important to stay in touch with customers. They have questions, and they need answers. It's important to talk as well as listen," Ms. Oren said. "I want to hear what their questions and their problems are."

QUESTIONS AT her lectures depend on nature of program. She talks to children about electrical safety and to senior citizens about energy efficiency. Ms. Oren says the people asking the questions are genuinely concerned. At energy efficiency programs, some things people want answers to is "Why does it do any good to raise or lower the thermostat for a couple of degrees?" or "Why is my bill so high?"

Questions about TESCO's Comanche Peak Nuclear Plant at Glen Rose range from "What do you plan to do with the waste from Comanche Peak?" "How long will plant last?" and "What will it cost?"

She also is responsible for handling the media such as the radio stations and the newspaper. "My job is to keep the media informed and up to date. We usually have quite a bit of news," Ms. Oren said.

Her job also deals with the educational aspect, Ms. Oren said. TESCO has a variety of films and slides to loan to schools. She tries to keep in touch with teachers so they will be informed with what TESCO has. "TESCO is pretty involved in the community," Ms. Oren said.

"An important part of my job this year is the TESCO's rate increase. I went through learning everything involved in a rate increase," Ms. Oren said. "City councils have original jurisdiction over us and are required to take some kind of action over the rate increase filed."

Ms. Oren finds her minor in political sciences applies to what she does. It helps in the rate increases because it gives her a good knowledge of how government is set up and how it functions.

She is responsible for keeping Forsan and Ackerly city councils up to date on the rate increase, telling them when they need something done about the rate increase and keeping up with papers that need to be signed.

Ms. Oren helps in conducting employee meetings. "It's important to keep employees up to speed about the company to insure they have a good feel when talking to consumers," she says.

"It (the meetings) helps them in doing their job. The employees are very knowledgeable on what is going on in the company," Ms. Oren said. "It's not an 8 to 5 job when it comes to answering questions because friends and neighbors ask you questions about the electric company too."

"WE HAVE CERTAIN requirements we are required to meet by the Public Utility Commission, and I help to see they are met," Ms. Oren said.

Ms. Oren got her job when the previous home economist left. She was originally hired to be a home economist. "Any career requires adapting to the company. I didn't know a whole lot about electricity and being an utility economist," Ms. Oren said. "Any career is a constant educational process with new things happening constantly. It is up to you to learn as much as you can about the company."

Ms. Oren is involved in Chamber of Commerce and the United Way. Her parents live in Portsmouth, Va., where she grew up.

Dolly Melendez helps area girls and adults enjoy scouting

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

Dolly Melendez greets prospective Girl Scouts and their mothers with a warm smile when they enter Girl Scout office at 501 Main. Ms. Melendez became the Girl Scouts field executive of the West Texas Girl Scout Council two months ago.

"This job was offered to me and I took it," she said. When Dorrie (Cook) gave her notice of resignation, they wanted someone with scouting experience and knew what scouting was about (to take the job).

"Peggy Sturrock (of Abilene, executive director of the West Texas Council) knew I was almost through with my education and was at home for the summer," she said. "We met and talked about the job several times. She gave me a month to think it over."

"I needed the job and felt like I owed it to Girl Scouts," Ms. Melendez said. "All my life was centered around Girl Scouts. I felt I needed to use my skills in some way and this is one of the ways I can do that."

Ms. Melendez is majoring in psychology at Howard Payne College in Brownwood. She will graduate Summer of 1984. Ms. Melendez also is taking night courses at Western Texas College in Snyder.

MS. MELENDEZ HAS participated in Girl Scouts since she was in second grade. "I'm an only girl and my mom has always wanted me to be active in some organization. She signed me up for Girl Scouts, and I didn't like it. But I later changed my mind. In my Girl Scout days we did a lot of camping, a lot of primitive camping, and I enjoyed that," she said. She worked on the camp staff at Camp Boothe Oaks near Sweetwater for two summers.

As a Girl Scout field executive, Ms. Melendez serves 11 towns: Ackerly, Garden City, Big Spring, Lamesa, Sterling City, Elbow, Forsan, Coahoma, Stanton, Colorado City, and Lenorah-Tarzan. She travels to each town at least once a month.

During service unit week, Ms. Melendez delivers supplies to Girl Scout leaders in all the towns. She says during that week she is "basically out of the office and on the road."

When in the office, Ms. Melendez's day begins at 9 a.m. Most of the day is spent answering phone calls and questions about Girl Scouts. She also supplies leaders with what they need. Ms. Melendez also does their typing and runs off flyers when they are needed. "It's just little things that take up the day," she said.

Ms. Melendez organizes troops and places girls in troops at the beginning of the school year. If a new leader needs help getting started Ms. Melendez will help her. As an experienced scout, she talks to girls about camping and places she has been.

One goal Ms. Melendez has for Girl Scouts is to involve more girls. "I hope to get more girls involved in scouting, not that I don't have the girls but I don't have the leaders," she said. "I have three schools who have a big amount of girls who want to be involved in Girl Scouts, but they don't have leaders. I hope to see more adults in scouting."

"IF PARENTS WANT their children to be involved they need to be involved. It helps in family unity," Ms. Melendez said. "Parents find out things about their children, and their children are more open because they know their parents really care."

Girl Scouts in this area has experienced a decline this year. "I think Dorrie had 25 troops last year. I only have 18 troops. If we had the leaders we could probably have eight more troops," Ms. Melendez said. There are 8 to 27 girls in a troop.

Since the beginning of the year, Girl Scouts have participated in a Big Spring city-wide camp out at Camp Boothe Oaks. Cadettes from six councils including New Mexico were active in an event last weekend in Midland.

A camp out and where each troop can do their own thing was held this weekend. All the troops did their own cooking and planned their own agenda. Upcoming events will include a Brownie Day at Camp Boothe Oaks planned for March 31, and a senior event called "Tawasi" for ninth through twelfth graders March 30-31. Some Girl Scouts troops will individual plan their own camp outs.

Girl Scouts are selling calendars during October. During January, February and March, the Girl Scouts will have their annual cookie sale. At the end of the Girl Scouts year, there will be more camping events, daughter-father banquets, and end of the year parties.

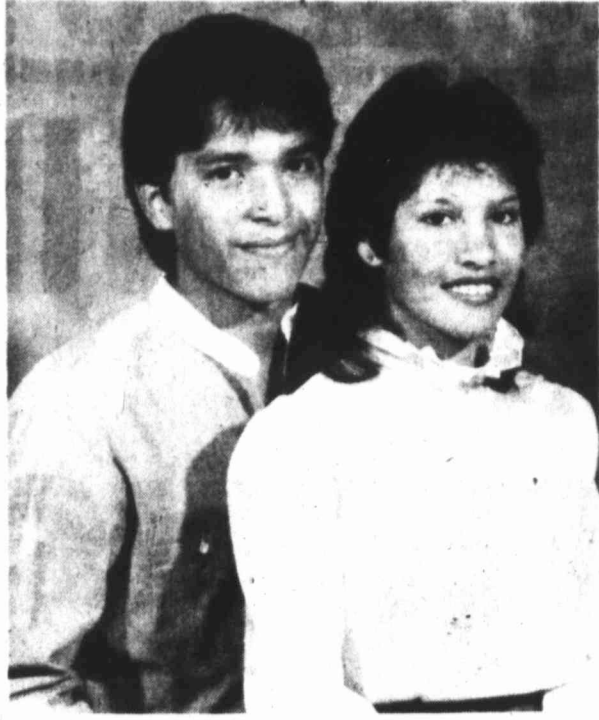

Ms. Melendez who is 21 grew up in Sweetwater. She finds she doesn't have much spare time because her weekends are filled up with Girl Scouts camping and staff training. She likes to sew and cook.

A pearl should be judged according to the following standards: It should have a luster which depends on the reflection of light from the pearl's surface. The pearl's "orient" is due to light refracted through the translucent surface of the pearl's various layers of nacre. A pearl should be free of blemishes and should also be judged according to its color, which ranges from pink to black. The size of the pearl should be considered as well. Its diameter is measured in millimeters. Generally, a pearl's desirability increases with size. Shape should also be taken into account. Finally, pearls should be matched using all the above characteristics.

Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT A. (BOB) MERRICK
...to celebrate 50th anniversary

The Robert Merricks

The eight children of Robert (Bob) and Mamie Merrick, Ackerly, will help their parents celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception in the Merrick home from 2 to 5 p.m. Oct. 23. "Momentos of Golden Years" is the theme.

"Get out dem golden slippers. Fifty years of wedlock are worth celebrating," their children said. "Here's reason to bring out momentos of golden years and weave them into plans for an anniversary event."

Merrick met the former Mamie Brown, originally from Waco, at Knott in 1932. They were married Oct. 21, 1933 in Big Spring at the home of the late Rev. H.C. Raddock. The couple had eight children: Jimmy Merrick of Amarillo, Jerry Merrick of Plainview, Joyce Turner of Levelland, Johnny Merrick of 2520 N. Chanute, Jo Nell Rowlett of Fort Worth, Jake Merrick of Dill City, Okla., Jackie Merrick of Ackerly, and Julie Merrick of Dallas.

The couple lived at Knott following their wedding for two years. Later they lived in Big Spring for five years and Ackerly for 43 years.

Merrick was a truck driver and was employed by Cosden before becoming a farmer in Ackerly. He has been self-employed as a farmer for 43 years. Mrs. Merrick is a homemaker. The couple are members of Ackerly Baptist Church.

Planning their anniversary reception has brought forth "lots of tales, both good and bad, that the family has experienced while raising these eight children on the family farm one mile south and four miles east of Ackerly," Mrs. Merrick said.

Dr. Donohue

Pain is jogger's nemesis

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please write about heel pain, which has occurred to me. How common is this problem? I started a jogging program, and now a month later I'm out of it, and have been told to forget jogging for a while. How long is that usually? — E.A.

According to a communication I have from the American Orthopedic Foot Society, Inc., you are far from being alone with your heel complaint. About 30 percent of running foot injuries involve the heel. Dr. Lowell D. Lutter, of St. Paul, Minn., reported that a review of 5,000 athletes treated since 1971 at his clinic showed that 75 percent of heel injuries treated were among runners. The next most heel injury-prone athletes, in order, were racquetballers, basketball players, and soccer players.

Hospital schedules volunteer orientation

The Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services Council Luncheon and General Orientation for Volunteers is scheduled for Oct. 20. Those attending are encouraged to wear Mexican attire.

The orientation will be in Room C of the Allred Building. To be certified as a volunteer a person must attend at least one general orientation. However, he may attend the luncheon only or the orientation only. The luncheon will be in auditorium of the Allred Building at noon, followed by a tour of BSSH Campus at 1:15 p.m.

Reservations should be made by Tuesday by calling 267-8216, ext. 534.

The foot is constructed to absorb and dissipate stress, but the runner places greater-than-normal stresses on it. Dr. Lutter says that when the heel contacts the ground in running there is approximately two and one-half times the person's body weight exerted. And even the unique fat pads of the heel, which have a "ripple-sole" action, are not always equal to the challenge.

As to the time needed to recover from jogger's heel, Dr. Lutter says heel injuries generally take seven to eight weeks before the runner is ready to resume his program. He notes that the athlete with a high-arch rigid foot is more prone to developing heel pain than athletes with normal arches or even those with flat feet. Best treatment usually is insertion into the shoe of a semi-flexible support molded into the arch, preferably one molded to the individual foot. Average recovery time for non-heel foot injuries from running is 5.2 weeks, according to the report.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have never seen the matter of breathing rhythm discussed by you. Is there a recommended breathing rhythm for joggers, in order to get maximum benefit from the exercise or improve times? — P.H.

You are referring to what Dr. George Sheehan calls LCR (locomotor respiratory coordination). So far as is known, and according to Dr. Sheehan, most of us adapt to our own LCR, falling naturally into a "phase-locking" of our limb and lung frequency.

Dr. Sheehan says he usually exhales on every third stride during training runs. For him, it is convenient to synchronize exhaling to when he lands on his right foot. In a 10,000 meter run, he exhales every second stride, again on his right foot fall. In an end-of-race sprint, he may be breathing three times for every two strides, exhaling on alternate strides.

I am sure you will find that your present natural LCR is the one most suited to you. Dr. Sheehan's discussion appeared in the July issue of Runner's World, a fine publication. What about horses? They put it all together with an LCR of one exhalation for every stride.

MRS. KEVIN ZANE HERRING
...formerly Tammie Lea McCarty

McCarty-Herring

Tammie Lea McCarty became the bride of Kevin Zane Herring during an afternoon ceremony, Oct. 8, at First Baptist Church of Midland. The Rev. Daniel Vestal officiated the 2 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Paul McCarty of Midland and formerly of Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Herring of Midland.

Carrie Beck of Midland was maid of honor. Larron Herring of Midland served his brother as best man. Flower girls were Hollie Farrell of Dripping Springs, cousin of the bride, and M'Lissa Bradley of Midland, cousin of the bridegroom. Jarred Kemper of Midland was ring bearer. Ushers were Jim Couger, Paul Couger, Russell Crockett and Will Light, all of Midland.

The bride is employed at Parkview Hospital in Midland. The bridegroom is employed at Woolard Electric Co. The bride and bridegroom both attended Midland College.

Following a trip to Cloudcroft, N.M., the couple will make their home in Midland.

Creative Expressions is

Mu Zeta's program topic

Lisa Murphy presented a program titled "Creative Expression" during a meeting of Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in the home of Marian Buzbee, Sept. 12.

At the meeting, plans for the baked potato sale at the Howard County Fair were finalized.

Toni Saxton was a guest. The next meeting will be held at Barbara Carr's home.

Desk and Derrick Club hosts seminar

"The Energy Woman", a seminar for Region V Desk and Derrick members and other interested women, will be held on October 22, 1983, at The Holiday Inn T-Dome in Midland, Texas. The Desk and Derrick Club of Midland will sponsor the seminar which will focus on Land and Leasing and Personal and Professional Development.

During the morning, the Land and Leasing session will include the following topics: essential lease clauses, computing interests, lease records, delay rental schedules, prospect files, letter agreements, farmout agreements, joint operating agreements, assignments, contribution letters, dry hole, bottom hole acreage, turnkey, and oil and gas contracts. These will be presented by two qualified Midland men, Robert C. Bledsoe, attorney and partner of Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe & Dawson, and Kenneth H. Griffin, landman and partner of Griffin and Burnett.

Bledsoe has practiced law and specialized in the field of oil and gas for more than 25 years. He has taught courses pertaining to oil and gas law, curing titles and operating agreements at Midland College and at Permian Basin Graduate Center.

Griffin has worked for Texaco Inc. in various land positions until 1966 when he became an independent operator in the partnership of Griffin and Ross Oil and Gas Properties. In 1971 he became President of Griffin and Burnett, Inc. Oil and Gas Properties, his current position. Griffin has served as director, vice-president and president of the Permian Basin Landmen's Association, director of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen, and director of the Permian Basin Graduate Center.

Positive Attitudes and Effective Listening will be covered by Dr. Vernon D. Stokes in the afternoon session of the seminar. Stokes has spent 24 years in public education. Stokes is the assistant director for Instruction at Region 18 Education Service Center, Midland.

Following the luncheon, Leila Seal, Director of Tours for Midland Travel, will give a brief demonstration including tips for the traveling professional.

Anita Blackford, owner of A. Blackford's

Ladies Investment Apparel will demonstrate how to build a wardrobe to dress for authority and success. Ms. Blackford is a certified consultant in designed appearance and business wardrobe planning. She is a former fashion instructor and coordinator for Midland College and is an instructor of fashion, the color key system and dress for success seminars at Ms. A's Modeling and Finishing School. Joining Ms. Blackford will be Johnny Smart of Dallas who will feature cosmetics and hair styling. The seminar will close with a farewell wine and cheese party.

Included in the registration fee of $20.00 for Desk and Derrick members and $35.00 for non-members will be a get-together icebreaker on Friday evening, October 21st, with registration beginning at 6:00 p.m. and cocktails and hors d'oeuvres at 7:00. On Saturday morning, the 22nd, registration and a Continental breakfast start at 8:30 a.m. with the seminar beginning at 8:30 a.m. For further information, contact Kitty Adams, Pauley Petroleum Inc., 822 Building of the Southwest, Midland, Texas 79701, (915-682-1607).

On Turning Heads

During the waning days of summer and into the autumn months, people tend to pay less attention to protecting their skin from the sun. They incorrectly deduce that a tan offers protection against the sun's harmful rays, hence, they use a suntan lotion with a lower sun protection factor (SPF) or no lotion at all. However, they should be aware that a tan is the skin's response to continuing exposure to the sun. A tan may even hide sun damaged skin which, during early exposure, would show up as a sunburn. Instead of neglecting tanned skin, continue your skincare by using a lotion with a correct SPF.

Turn your attention to all the latest beauty secrets at LA CONTESSA. Our staff is constantly updating all available information on all the latest in fashion ideas. You will find us ready, willing and able to serve all your hair care needs including coloring, cutting, styling, perming, etc. We are a full service salon with you in mind. Plan to visit us soon at 1508 Marcy. We are open to serve you Tues.-Sat. Call 267-2187 for an appointment.

HINT
It takes very little exposure to the sun to "maintain" your tan.

Focus on the family

By NAOMI HUNT

Families can use TV wisely

Parents are concerned about the negative effects of television on their families.

But because television also informs and entertains, parents are not willing to throw away the set either.

Educators, television critics and organizations like Action for Children's Television have suggested many good strategies that parents can use to change family viewing habits.

Where the television is located in the home, for example, influences its use by children. By locating the set in a room where other things go on, such as piano practicing, there will be competition for air time. Parents can also keep the set out of the children's bedrooms where they have less control, and away from the dining area, where it interferes with conversation.

Also, providing alternative activities in the TV room, such as craft materials, puzzles, books and games may distract children from the set.

How families watch television is also important. "Watching television" usually means turning on the set and keeping it on, taking potluck from among the shows — good or bad, new or reruns — that happen to be on the air at the time.

But "watching planned programs" means making a decision to turn on the set for a specific broadcast and then to turn it off when the program ends. Watching planned programs is one way to reduce the family's total amount of time in front of the set and yet enjoy what television has to offer.

As children learn to review the weekly TV listings, discuss and decide with their parents which programs to watch, they will become more discriminating viewers.

Used wisely, television can even stimulate family interaction. For example, parents can choose to have only one television set so the family must watch TV together. They can also watch TV with their children whenever possible and make a conscious choice to not let it become a babysitter.

When families laugh together, it promotes a feeling of unity, according to recent research studies. In all the writing on parenting, humor is probably the least talked about parental resource and the most untaught parental skill.

Laughing together helps reduce stress in a family, as well as keep communication harmonious and open. This is not to imply that a good joke suffices for parents providing structure, feedback and limit-setting for child guidance. Humor helps diffuse emotionally charged situations and makes serious discussion, disciplinary measures and ground rules more likely to work.

Increasingly, psychologists are demonstrating the effectiveness of humor related to health promotion. Humor has a stimulating effect on the digestive and circulatory systems, but the real psychological value of laughter is its ability to lessen inner tension.

As children grow older, families seem to vary more in the extent to which they use humor. Growing children respond to verbal humor as well as to the earlier slapstick humor. Toward adolescence, children have an increasing repertoire of jokes from peers. The way parents respond to a child's humor depends on the value the family places on humor, the way they have learned to use it and the interaction they typically have with their children.

Psychological research can document what makes children laugh at different ages and in diverse situations. But humor between parents and children is generally spontaneous and hard to capture in a laboratory even though its effects are real and healthy.

Most importantly, parents can talk about the television shows they watch. This gives parents a prime opportunity to find out what their child is getting from television and respond to it.

Parents can become a member of Action for Children's Television. Packets of television educational materials, bibliographies, speakers kits, displays and applications for membership may be received free of charge from ACT by writing to: Actions for Children's Television, 46 Austin Street, Newtonville, Mass. 02160.
