TOTAL LOSS — The end of the drought in West Texas came in the form of driving hail and rain. Thunderstorms ravaged cotton crops up and down the Panhandle. West Texas farmer Mike Sherrod examines his crop five miles northeast of Lubbock. He estimated the loss at 100 percent.

Rolling thunderstorms bring rain, knock out power, cable

Rolling thunderstorms yesterday dropped over an inch of rain, knocked out electric power and cable service in many areas of Big Spring and may have contributed to at least one traffic accident.

The Big Spring U.S. Field Station recorded 1.45 inches of rain during a two-hour period late yesterday afternoon. Some sections of the city reported less rainfall, and other parts of the county received only a trace of rain.

The storm, which swept into the Big Spring area about 4:30 p.m., knocked out cable TV service briefly in the Wasson Road-Garden City Highway area and the College Park neighborhood, Cable TV of Big Spring said this morning.

Cosden Oil & Chemical Refinery Co. suffered a "complete power failure" about 6 p.m. yesterday, said Ross Westbrook, director of public relations. The outage lasted only momentarily, he said, but some parts of the plant had not been put back into full operation as of noon today.

Rain slick roads were cited by witnesses as a possible contributing factor in a three-car collision about 6 p.m. at the intersection of Birdwell and FM See RAIN, page 2A

PUC recommends $910 million increase for Southwestern Bell

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public Utility Commission's staff has recommended that Southwestern Bell be awarded a rate increase of nearly $910 million next year when the telephone company must break away from its parent corporation, AT&T.

It was by far the largest recommendation the commission staff has ever proposed, but it was just over half what the telephone company had originally asked for.

The PUC staff, which released its figures after 5 p.m. Monday, has not yet figured what its proposal would mean to individual phone rates. Commission spokesman Rick Hainline said those figures would be available in early December.

A Southwestern Bell official called the staff proposal "more realistic" than recommendations made by others involved in the case, but said it still "falls short."

In years past, the phone company has gotten less than the PUC staff recommendation.

The telephone company had asked for a $1.7 billion rate increase in June, citing losses in long distance revenue it now gets from AT&T.

Bell's original request would have tripled the cost of basic residential service, but the phone company reduced its request to $1.36 billion on Oct. 3 — saying the reduced request would about double the present rates for basic service.

The staff recommendation of $909.8 million will be considered by the three-member commission after hearings on the Bell case are over. The hearings, expected to take at least eight weeks, begin Monday.

The hearing examiners will make their own recommendations to the commission, and a final decision in the case is not expected before March, Hainline said.

The utility commission staff disallowed all telephone plant construction and payroll expenses and lowered Bell's rate of return on equity, also known as the return on shareholder's investment, from the asked-for 17 percent to the recommended 15.5 percent.

Southwestern Bell Vice President Paul Roth said the See BELL, page 2A

Shooting, accident claim lives of two

Two Big Spring residents died Monday in separate incidents, one of a bullet wound and the other in a one-car highway accident.

A woman who was found shot early Monday morning in the back seat of a 1978 Lincoln Continental died later Monday of wounds incurred in the shooting.

Elida Gutierrez Luna, 31, formerly of Ira died at 11 a.m. Monday morning during surgery for two gunshot wounds in her chest and wounds in both hands at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Big Spring Police Capt. Lonnie Smith said.

A second victim wounded in the same incident, Faustino Ramirez Rios, 33, of 307 N.W. Ninth remained in stable but critical condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital after surgery for gunshot wounds in his chest, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Police found Luna and Rios at 12:33 a.m. Monday in the back seat of the car parked in the Town and Country Food Store parking lot at 1101 Lamesa Drive after a store employee, John Elliott, reported the injuries to police.

Elliott said five Big Spring police cars, a county sheriff's vehicle, a Highway Patrol car, an ambulance and a wrecker responded to the shooting.

A man reportedly related to Luna found near the car Monday was arrested by police in connection with a charge of public intoxication and released later in the morning on $100 bond, police said.

Another couple was in the car sometime during the See DEATHS, page 2A

Unplanned parenthood

Ambulance crew arrives in nick of time

Sometimes "planned parenthood" doesn't always work out.

Surely, Big Spring's Carolyn Payne can attest to the truth of that statement as she gave birth to a 6-pound girl early Monday in the hallway of her home.

It's not that she didn't try to arrange things. Mrs. Payne had planned having her baby at home. However, the newest addition to the Payne family just had other ideas about the time and location.

The baby's birth was the stuff situation comedy scripts depict rather than parenthood pamphlets and manuals.

According to Mrs. Payne, she had gone to bed that night expecting nothing more than restful sleep; however, at about 3:30 a.m. she awoke and realized the baby was on the way.

She roused her husband, and he attempted to call the police for help but found the phone was out of order. Relatives staying with the Payne's then rushed to a neighbor's house to call an ambulance.

During this time Mrs. Payne's brother and husband did what has been done thousands of times during emergency births on television — they boiled water.

Shaffer Ambulance Service was contacted and attendants John Korell and Chuck Smith were racing to the rescue.

Mrs. Payne said she had settled down somewhat and believed she could make it to the hospital on time. That is, until the Payne's small house and the attendants' gurney presented a problem.

Korell said he and Smith struggled to pull the gurney through the small house to the Payne's bedroom and finally succeeded, but time was not on their side.

"She (Mrs. Payne) wasn't completely crowning, which means we would have had time to take her," Korell said. "But by the time we got her to the hallway she was crowning."

Crowning refers to a baby's entry into the birth canal, and once that happens, the birth is not far away.

HOME BIRTH — Mrs. Carolyn Payne planned on having a home birth, but the ambulance and hallway were both last minute changes. Mrs. Payne has three other children, and the last two were also born at home, although in a more usual manner.

Korell, a veteran of three other deliveries, knew what was about to happen and simply stopped the gurney and prepared for the birth.

"He (Korell) just sat there on the edge of the gurney and caught her," she said. "I trusted him because he knew what he was doing."

"It was a spontaneous delivery," Korell said. "Just as soon as she hit the air she was crying up a storm."

Mrs. Payne said she had been told See PARENTHOOD, page 2A

Voters to decide who has right to grant clemency

The amendments

Third

of a 3-part series

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters will decide Nov. 8 whether to take the power of granting clemency away from the governor and place it entirely in the hands of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

The proposed state constitution change is No. 11 of the 11 constitutional amendments approved by the 1983 Legislature and sent to voters for final approval.

"The way it is now, it is just a paper-shuffling job by some of the governor's staff," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, sponsor of the measure. "The governor never sees the parole papers."

If approved by the voters, the governor, for the first time in the state's history, will not have a direct say in granting paroles or pardons to prison inmates.

No longer could a death row inmate, on the night of his execution, hope for a last-second telephone call from the governor.

The power of executive clemency in prison sentences was first amended in 1893 when a board of pardon advisors was authorized to help the governor evaluate prisoners who should be paroled or pardoned.

Then in 1936, amid charges that some governors had abused their power to grant clemency, voters approved a constitutional change that restricted a governor's power to cases approved by the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

The 1936 amendment also provided that the governor would have the right to appoint only one member of the three-member Board of Pardons and Paroles, and the other members would be named by the chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and the presiding judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Under the amendment before voters Nov. 8, the board would have the exclusive power to grant and revoke paroles. But the governor would not be excluded from the process entirely.

If voters approve the amendment, the board would be increased to six members, and all would be appointed by the governor, subject to Senate confirmation.

Farabee said he knew of no opposition to the amendment.

"Gov. Mark White supported it as a part of his crime package," Farabee said. "It was part of the recommendations by the Blue Ribbon Crime Commission, appointed by former Gov. Bill Clements."

Man hospitalized after wreck

Wilburn Townsend of 1610 E. 15th remains in stable condition at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital following a major accident Monday at the intersection of FM 700 and Goliad.

Police said Townsend, driving a 1974 Ford, was stopped at a red light at the intersection when a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Nancy Hershey of 2809 Navajo struck him from behind. Hershey was taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital where he was treated and released.

• A woman at 702 S. Douglas told police that juveniles were observed Monday taking a female puppy worth $150 from her partly fenced-in front yard. The half-collie, half-German sheppard puppy is reported to be dark brown with black markings.

• Josephine Mitchell of 1509 Bluebird reported that a man interceded in an argument she was having Monday with a person known to her and assaulted her with a knife.

• Ann Schnitt of 1507 Lancaster told police that persons unknown to her entered her residence through an unlocked kitchen door and took a 19" Color TV worth $600 which had been rented from Sunbelt Rentals.

• Gloria Kriethe of 707 Magnolia reported to police that a subject known to her took her 1979 Ford Pinto, valued at $3000, which was parked in front of her residence.

• Police arrested at 8:54 p.m. Monday Bobby C. Torres, 37, of Midland six miles North on Highway 87 on charges in connection with driving while intoxicated and failure to maintain financial responsibility.

• Pete Conta of 406 N. Gregg told police that a subject known to him struck his front storm door with an unknown object Monday night, ripping the screen, bending the aluminum frame and breaking the glass. Damage is estimated to be $55.

2 plead guilty to DWI

Two persons pleaded guilty Monday in county court in connection with charges of driving while intoxicated.

County court Judge Milton Kirby sentenced Lino J. Leos, 50, of 501 N.W. 10th to a $300 fine, $97 court costs and one year probation. Leos was released on personal recognizance bond in connection with a charge of driving while license suspended that remains pending.

Kirby also sentenced Monty Lee Hancock, 23, of O'Donnell to $300 fine, $97 court costs and one year probation.

• Cecil Duane Brumley, 34, of 1410 Harding was released from county jail Tuesday after serving one day of a three-day sentence in connection with a conviction for DWI.

Nurse back in jail today

KERRVILLE (AP) — Nurse Gene Jones was back in jail today after an executive of the bonding company that posted her $250,000 bail unexpectedly said he could not guarantee she would appear in court.

Ms. Jones, 33, is awaiting trial on a murder charge in connection with the September 1982 death of a 15-month-old Kerrville girl.

She also is charged with injecting six other children with a powerful muscle relaxant, causing serious seizures.

Texas Rangers arrested the nurse about 1:30 p.m. Monday and transported her to the Kerr County jail after Dale Moreau, an executive officer with Hill Country Bonding Co., requested the bond cancellation.

State District Judge Murray Jordan granted the cancellation after consulting with fellow Judge John Carter of Georgetown, who is scheduled to preside over Ms. Jones' Jan. 9 murder trial.

Both the nurse's attorneys, Jim Brookshire and William Chenault, called the action "ludicrous."

"Every reporter in the state knew where Gene was," Chenault said.

"She's been at every hearing that's ever been held and she's been living at the house of one of her bondsmen with her husband," Brookshire said.

The bondsmen with whom the nurse had been living, Edd Hodges, said he resigned from the company July 14 and that Ms. Jones "just got caught in the crossfire" of a feud between himself and Moreau.

"She called me from jail," he said. "She was hysterical."

Moreau's application for the bond cancellation did not explain why he feared he might not be able to produce the nurse for trial.

CRASHED CAR — Dallas police officials check the car that broke loose from the carnival ride Enterprise Monday night at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas. The car landed 50 feet from the ride, killing one man and injuring several others.

State Fair crash leaves one dead

DALLAS (AP) — A car on a popular spinning midway ride broke loose, hung precariously for five or six revolutions and plummeted more than 50 feet into a crowd of people at the State Fair of Texas, killing one man, seriously injuring two others and sending five other people to hospitals.

Bob Halford, assistant general manager of the fair, said the dead man and the two seriously injured men were in the five-passenger car when it separated from the ride, flew about 50 feet and fell between another ride and a root beer stand about 8:05 p.m. Monday.

Robert Breckenridge, a field agent for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office, said a 19-year-old man was pronounced dead at 9:14 p.m. at Parkland Hospital. Claude McCain, night administrator at Parkland, identified the dead man as William Phillips of Allen, about 25 miles north of Dallas.

Marion T. Phillips, 23, a brother of the deceased, and Michael Olivari, 15, who recently moved from San Antonio, were reported in serious condition at Parkland. Halford said the three had attended the fair together.

Five other people were sent to Dallas hospitals with lesser injuries and fair officials said nine other people were treated at first aid stations for accident-related ailments ranging from possible ankle and neck injuries to upset stomachs.

Mary Brown, 19, of Dallas was working at a cotton candy stand on the midway of the State Fair of Texas when she heard "a loud bang and then some popping" about 8:05 p.m. Monday.

"I guess it was the thing cracking," she said. "I looked around and saw a car flying through the air. I just jumped out of the booth and started running. I only saw two guys on the ground ... one of them was in pretty bad shape," Ms. Brown said.

Glenn Freeman, operator of another ride on the midway, said he saw a car on the "Enterprise" shaking about two hours before the accident. Freeman said he told the operator of the "Enterprise" about the problem and said the two examined the ride and found a damaged weld on one of the cars. Freeman said he told the operator to send for a welder to repair the joint.

Russell Smith, the fair's vice president and legal counsel, said the ride's operator had not reported problems with the "Enterprise."

Smith said the operator had inspected the ride Monday morning and every day since the fair opened Oct. 7. Smith said the ride was being operated by Rick Polkenton of Knoxville, Tenn., who had run the attraction for five years.

Halford said the accident will be thoroughly investigated. Fair officials barricaded the area around the ride immediately after the accident and impounded the car.

that the more times you give birth the easier and quicker it became; her latest birth was almost too quick — taking only 15 minutes from crowning to arrival.

Mrs. Payne joked yesterday that she had told her husband the arrival of the baby would be a surprise, but until Monday she hadn't been serious. "I told my husband I was going to wait until the last minute to tell him," she said. "I was teasing, but my baby took me seriously."

Named Samantha Donna Marie, the baby is doing fine, as is the mother, at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

evening and early morning hours before the shooting, police said. However, further charges against any suspects are pending investigation, Smith said.

"Appropriate charges will be filed," he said. Police also found a Colt .38-caliber pistol in the car with the victims but are unsure if the weapon was used in the shootings, Smith said.

Nor can they determine if the victims were shot in the store parking lot where they were found or if they were shot elsewhere and moved later, he said.

Although police said they were unsure who the car belongs to, they said Rios was in the process of buying the car in which he was found.

Another fatality occurred Monday night when a Big Spring man lost control of his vehicle on Interstate Highway 20 about 4.2 miles west of Big Spring. Amadeo Garza, 32, of 605 N.E. Ninth died instantly at 11:10 p.m. Monday from multiple injuries suffered in a one-vehicle accident that occurred 1 1/2 miles west of the old Stuckey's, Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin said. Heflin pronounced Garza dead at 11:45 p.m.

Garza, a truck driver, was traveling westbound on I-20 about 4.2 miles west of Big Spring when his 1972 green Ford custom pickup truck ran off the north side of the road. Garza lost control of the truck, which then crossed the westbound lane, the center median and the eastbound lane before rolling 1 1/2 times and resting on the passenger side on the south service road of I-20, according to reports by the Texas Highway Patrol.

700. No one was seriously injured in the wreck, although two cars were extensively damaged.

Scattered thunderstorms were expected to continue today over most of Texas, while fog developed early today over parts of East Texas, reducing visibility to half a mile in Longview and Victoria, where travelers advisories were issued.

Rains produced flooding Monday in Bay City, forcing rescue workers to use air boats to move about 35 people out of homes flooded or threatened by rising water. The Matagorda sheriff's department estimated that between 8 and 10 inches of rain fell Sunday and Monday.

"It rained all day yesterday, then it rained hard this morning (Monday) until right before noon," said Sheriff's Deputy Mike Baker. Skies were clearing by Monday afternoon, he said.

Two state highways — Texas 71 and Texas 111 — were closed Monday because of the flooding. A stationary front stretched from Northeast Texas to the Big Bend area early today as predawn temperatures around the state registered in the 50s, 60s and 70s. The extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from a 57 at Amarillo to a 77 at Laredo.

Forecasters predicted partly cloudy to mostly cloudy skies with scattered showers and thunderstorms over most of Texas today. Afternoon highs were expected to reach the 70s and 80s statewide with readings in the low 90s in South Texas.

PUC staff "at least recognizes we have a sizeable revenue need which must be made up in new rates."

Roth said the "PUC staff proposal is more realistic than earlier recommendations made by other parties in the Southwestern Bell rate case."

"However, the Bell proposal still falls far short of our true revenue need," Roth said in a written statement distributed to the press.

Last week the Texas Municipal League, a group of Texas cities, intervened in the case and asked commissioners to award a rate hike of only $640.7 million.

Other intervenors have recommended the commission throw Bell's entire case out as too "speculative." Roth complained there were two major shortcomings in the recommendation — the proposed 15.5 percent return on equity and "disallowance of valid business operating expenses."

Last year Southwestern Bell asked for a rate increase of $471.5 million. The PUC staff recommended the telephone company get $304.5 million, and the commission awarded $243.8 million.

In 1981, Bell sought $469.8 million. The PUC staff recommended $249.3 million. The commission awarded an increase of $243.7 million.

there had been recommendations that the entire Board of Pardons and Paroles be moved from Austin to Huntsville, to be nearer the prison headquarters.

Farabee assured legislators that his bill contained no such move and it went through the Legislature "real smooth — smoother than I expected, because there was some opposition two years ago."

Supporters of the measure say it will expedite the parole process and save taxpayers money because any view by the governor's clemency office is duplicative and adds at least three weeks to the parole process.

The governor's rate of denial has fluctuated widely over the years. In 1978, Gov. Dolph Briscoe vetoed 622 parole recommendations. In 1980, Clements vetoed 2,241.

For the first six months of White's administration, in the midst of a drive to release all qualified prisoners on parole, there have been 4,754 paroles granted and 324

Baby takes mom from court

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A pregnant woman awaiting sentencing on a drunken driving conviction missed her lawyer's final arguments when she went into labor and got permission to go to the hospital.

Ann Kathleen Richter, 20, pleaded guilty last week to a charge of driving while intoxicated stemming from a Feb. 2 incident.

When the jury began considering punishment Friday, her baby already was six days overdue. "That morning when I woke up, I had started contractions, but I went to court anyway," Mrs. Richter said Monday. "I didn't want to have to have to stop the trial and go through the whole thing again."

Mrs. Richter left the courtroom about 4:30 p.m. Friday and her son, Mark Charles Richter Jr., was born at Medical Center Hospital at 6:44 p.m., she said.

"During a recess, just before final arguments, she and her attorney came to us and said she had been having contractions and that they were four minutes apart by that time," said Assistant District Attorney Mark Luijten.

"We all agreed to excuse her from court so she could go to the hospital," he said. Mrs. Richter got some good news after the birth of her son. The jury assessed her the lightest possible sentence — two years of probation and a $50 fine.

Absentee voting begins

Absentee voting for the constitutional amendments election scheduled Nov. 8 will begin Wednesday. Registered voters who will be out of town on election day can vote early by going to the county clerk's office on the first floor of the courthouse from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays.

Ballots are printed in both Spanish and English.

Officials pay for phone calls

AUSTIN (AP) — Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and three of his deputies paid Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. more than $260 last summer to cover personal calls they made on state-owned mobile telephones.

Records obtained by the Austin American-Statesman indicate payments of $128.14 by Mauro, $52.20 by Chief Clerk Jack Giberson and $74 by Deputy Commissioner Steve Roberts.

Mauro's office said he was out of state and unavailable for comment. "I did not make any long distance calls," Giberson said today. "I was told everything within 30 miles was a local call. For a while there when I worked late, I would call my wife in Buda and tell her I was on the way home. When you work 12 hours a day at the office there's no reason you can't call home and tell your family you are coming home."

The American-Statesman said the payments for the mobile phone calls were made after published reports about misuse of mobile phone equipment by Travis County Commissioner Bob Honts. The Travis County grand jury recently indicted Honts on charges of official misconduct and theft in connection with the phone calls.

The American-Statesman said that although car telephones are used by several state officials, lists of their long-distance calls were not immediately available.

One exception was a record of calls made from the mobile telephone that Jim Hightower, commissioner of agriculture, installed in a Winnebago camper used as a traveling office.

The American-Statesman said a log of who has access to the mobile phone is kept in the camper, which is parked at the State Fair in Dallas.

Craft on the circuit

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — Former anchor-woman Christine Craft sees little chance she'll be back before the TV cameras anytime soon, but she says she's being criticized for her appearances on the lecture circuit.

Ms. Craft, 38, won a sex discrimination suit in August against her former employer in which she charged she was demoted because she was deemed too old, too unattractive and not deferential enough of men.

She told reporters at Bowling Green State University on Monday that many people who applauded her victory in court, including fellow journalists, now accuse her of opportunism.

"Now that I've decided to go on the lecture circuit, which is admittedly lucrative, I'm hearing different things from people, that perhaps I'm playing this for all it's worth," she said.

From now until next May, Ms. Craft said, she'll be speaking to students, journalists and others who have booked her to talk about the experiences that led to her demotion at KMBC-TV in Kansas City.

She said it could be years before she sees the $500,000 she was awarded in damages in the highly publicized case.

Ms. Craft said she's in no hurry to return to television and will spend much of next year giving lectures to raise money for legal expenses from her trial.

Reagan calls widow

The death of Capt. Michael J. Ohler, the seventh U.S. Marine killed in Lebanon, prompted a phone call from President Reagan to the man's widow in Florida, while mourners readied a hero's funeral for a slain soldier from New Hampshire.

"He was very sympathetic and I really appreciated that," Gail Ohler said after Reagan's call Monday to her Pensacola, Fla., home. "He said he wanted me to know I could be proud of my husband for serving and that he gave his life for his country and for national security."

Ohler, 28, was killed Sunday at Beirut Airport in a barrage of gunfire and grenades that left five other Marines wounded. He was the seventh Marine to die in Lebanon, and the sixth to die in combat, since the U.S. peacekeeping force arrived 13 months ago.

In Nashua, N.H., an afternoon funeral was planned today for another Marine, Sgt. Allen Soifert, 25, who was killed by snipers Friday at Beirut Airport.

New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu, who said he planned to attend the funeral, ordered flags flown at half staff throughout the state. Soifert's body arrived at Dover Air Force Base, Del., on Monday, and was being transported to Nashua today.

In Pensacola, Mrs. Ohler said her husband had felt "he was doing his duty, and that he was where he should have been, doing what he should have been."

In a tape-recorded message to his daughter received last week from Beirut, Ohler "talked about the children running from their homes between the bullet fire, trying to escape," she said.

"He wanted to help those people have the kind of peace we enjoy here," Mrs. Ohler said.

Her husband was first stationed in Lebanon in May, about seven weeks before his son, Benjamin, was born. Ohler was scheduled to leave Beirut in about a month, and hoped to be reunited with his family — including the son he had never seen — in December.

Candidate consideration

WASHINGTON — In his own mind, Ronald Reagan might not consider himself a presidential candidate. But most others — Democrats in particular — think he's running and will treat him as though he is.

While White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III says he is convinced the president will seek a second term, while the chairman of a committee intended to win his re-election is likewise convinced, and while the president's advisers build a campaign staff and make plans to raise and spend $21 million, Reagan says that he is simply a candidate "in the eyes of the law."

Job not 'pulpit' for views

WASHINGTON — Robert C. McFarlane is taking over the White House national security adviser's job made famous by Henry A. Kissinger, but McFarlane says he won't use it as a pulpit for promoting his own views with President Reagan.

"My role now is not to be an advocate, but to be a coordinator," McFarlane said Monday after he was appointed to succeed William P. Clark, who is leaving to head the Interior Department. "I intend to do that, and I don't expect any difficulty."

The appointment of McFarlane, a retired Marine lieutenant colonel and foreign policy professional who worked in the Nixon and Ford administrations, disappointed hard-liners and left in doubt the plans of U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, who was passed over for the national security adviser's post.

In a statement from her office, Mrs. Kirkpatrick said, "I am committed to remaining at the United Nations through the 38th session of the General Assembly." Its session probably will end around Christmas, and she reportedly is eager to return to Washington.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, offering no words of congratulations to McFarlane, said "the president has the right to appoint anyone to any position in the administration, and, as always, I support the president's decision."

Reagan said she will remain at the United Nations. "As far as I know she's happy," the president said. "I think that she has done so much for this country."

Conservatives had argued that the blunt-spoken Mrs. Kirkpatrick carried more clout than McFarlane and would do a better job in presenting the case for higher defense spending, being tough with the Soviet Union and taking a hard-line approach in Central America.

New vaccines made

NEW YORK — Vaccines against herpes, hepatitis and influenza have been made by modifying smallpox vaccine using a technique that could theoretically be used to make vaccines for any infectious disease, researchers said today.

It even appears possible to make a single vaccine to protect against as many as 12 diseases, said Enzo Paoletti, the developer of the new technique.

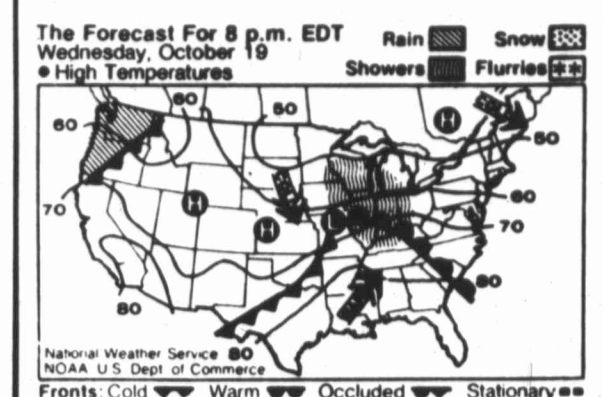

While vaccines for hepatitis and influenza already exist, the new technique may lead to cheaper, safer and easier-to-use vaccines, said Paoletti and Joseph Esposito, a virologist at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta who is familiar with Paoletti's work. Esposito said Paoletti's research "has tremendous potential" in the fight against infectious diseases.

Paoletti said it would be at least two years before the vaccines are ready for human trials.

A report on the research, described at a press conference today, will appear in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences in December.

Smallpox vaccine is made from cowpox virus, or vaccinia virus, which is similar enough to smallpox to provoke the body to build up its defenses against smallpox, and thus prevent subsequent disease.

Diamond has to evacuate

SEATTLE, Wash. — Singer Neil Diamond was among the guests who had to evacuate their rooms when fire broke out on the top floor of the Four Seasons Olympic Hotel in downtown Seattle.

About 60 guests, including the 42-year-old Diamond and his party, were asked to leave their rooms and go down stairs to the hotel restaurant, officials said.

The fire started Monday morning in air conditioning filters in a storage room on the 12th floor and smoke spread throughout the building, according to fire officials. The blaze was put out by a sprinkler.

Mothers share advice

BERNARDS TOWNSHIP, N.J. — One mother of quintuplets, Jennifer Joyce, has been given advice from Peggy Jo Kienast, another mother of quint.

Mrs. Joyce was told to plan on "counting noses all the time."

"You learn a lot of patience," says Mrs. Kienast, the mother of five 13-year-olds who says the two mothers talked by telephone recently.

The Joyce's three boys and two girls were born Aug. 18 six to eight weeks prematurely.

"She didn't know what to expect," said Mrs. Kienast in a telephone interview from her home in this Somerset County community.

"With five babies there's always going to be one who's doing something you don't want it to — you can't keep everything in apple-pie order all the time, like you would if you had one," Mrs. Kienast said. "You just work things out — you're counting noses all the time."

Mrs. Kienast also said she advised Mrs. Joyce "not to be shy" and to accept all the help she can get.

Four of the Joyce babies have left the hospital and the fifth is expected to be taken home in a few days.

Mrs. Kienast also told Mrs. Joyce: "You've got to learn to keep your sense of humor at peak form all the time."

Javits recalls Senate years

STONY BROOK, N.Y. — A wheelchair-bound Jacob Javits, whose public career spanned 34 years and seven presidencies, fondly recalled the U.S. Senate as a "sacred" institution.

The 79-year-old former senator, who has the nerve disorder known as "Lou Gehrig's disease," gave his views Monday at the dedication of his papers at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

"It is sacred," said the liberal Republican from New York, "because there is nothing more noble in life than dialogue and debate and the Senate has many great attributes including ... her ability and opportunity to consider an issue rationally and with civility, the most precious possession of a free people."

Among those honoring Javits at the ceremony were Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Javits collection contains more than 2 million items and will be housed at the college's Frank Melville Jr. Memorial Library.

Survivors recall blaze

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Joe Slater was stocking chili sauce on the second shelf in aisle three when the explosion sent a ball of flame across the ceiling. "It seemed like the air around me was on fire," Slater said.

Tommy Parsons looked around for a way to escape and saw that the back wall was no longer there. He ran through unscathed.

One minute, Delma Hudson was standing by her cash register. The next, someone was putting out a fire in her hair.

They were three of the lucky ones Monday when a natural gas explosion ripped apart the inside of the Foodland supermarket and sent the roof and walls crashing.

Seventeen people were injured and five remained hospitalized today, all in satisfactory condition.

A gas line about 40 feet from the supermarket was accidentally ruptured about noon Monday by a road construction crew and was leaking when the explosion occurred, according to Columbia Gas of West Virginia. The gas was shut off afterward, the utility said.

Glenn Hudson, no relation to Delma, was at work in his sign shop next door when he heard the explosion at 2 p.m. "It knocked over everything in the office," he said. "I rushed out the door, saw the cinder blocks flying everywhere, cars were crushed. The building was caved in completely flat."

He said he tried to run to the Foodland "but the flame was coming out of the ground." He went back and called for help.

Slater and Parsons, 21-year-old stock clerks at the Foodland, and Glenn Hudson had smelled the gas for a couple of hours.

"The Columbia Gas crew was out there," said Parsons. "The owner asked the guy if he should close the store and send everyone home. The guy said, 'No, as long as it was in open air it shouldn't cause any trouble.' It wasn't an hour later when it exploded."

Ed Esposito of the Charleston mayor's office said officials planned to ask the manager, who was injured, about that report.

Hudson said a backhoe, a piece of heavy equipment being used by the road crew, snagged a four-inch gas pipe and not long afterward, his shop began filling with gas. His employees opened all the doors.

Lichenstein award for straight talking

Charles M. Lichenstein, a U.S. delegate to the United Nations, became an overnight folk hero last month when he gave vent to some long-standing frustrations. No, Mr. Lichenstein was not speaking for the U.S. government when he invited the Soviets and anyone else who did not approve of American hospitality to leave the country and take the United Nations with them. But millions of Americans must have cheered anyway, and we think an award commemorating Charles Lichenstein's candor and spirit ought to be established by someone.

We even have a nomination for the first honoree: New York Mayor Edward Koch was once the kind of liberal Democrat who regarded the United Nations as the best thing devised by humankind since the wheel. No more. Last week the mayor referred to the United Nations as a (moral) cesspool.

When he was subsequently assailed by the Soviet government for this observation, Mayor Koch responded thusly:

"The Soviet Union is criticizing me? That country is one large Gulag. Since 1917 it has killed 50 million of its own people. Shall I be courteous? Shall I be restrained? Shall I simply stand aside and let immorality flourish at the U.S.? Not me.

"I called the U.N. a cesspool. Is that really so terrible in view of the actions that go on there? The Soviet Union is calling the tune. And other members of the U.N. lack the will or are identified themselves as totalitarian, despotic nations that engage in actions that ought to be denounced.

"For example, Iran is killing the Bahai people ... ought that not be the subject of a denunciation in the General Assembly? But it is not. Why? Because it is not in the interest of so many nations doing comparable actions, led by the Soviet Union."

A rhetorical breath of fresh air. A sacred cow getting its compunction. We love it. Bestow the first Charles M. Lichenstein Award for Straight Talk on New York's plucky mayor, Edward Koch. And keep an eye out for future nominees. Here's hoping there will be no shortage.

Around the Rim

By CAROL HART BALDWIN

A good look

One of the advantages of returning to college after a lengthy absence is that you tend to pick up on things you may have slept through during undergraduate school. When I was in school several years ago, I was there less to learn and more just to get a degree. Somehow, in graduate school, I'm more interested in the information the teacher is trying to get across.

One theory which holds an interest for journalists and for anyone who watches, reads or listens to any form of the media, is that of Marshall McLuhan, a Canadian English professor who studied communications in the 1960s and 1970s. I'm sure McLuhan and his theories came up sometime during my education in the past, but in a recent class I began to grasp what he was talking about, and it began to make a lot of sense.

McLuhan is the man who said "the medium is the message." By saying this, he was saying that the medium, the type of communication method used, was what was important. He was quoted as saying "The medium is the message because it is the medium that shapes and controls the scale and form of human association and action."

The main thrust of all this is that McLuhan makes people look at what the media has done in their lifetimes. Technology as it relates to the media has exploded in the last 50 years.

Take for example newspapers. When I was a kid I can remember walking through the composing room of the Herald. We had huge, black metal linotype machines which emitted loud crunching noises as they spit out the hot metal letters which would be assembled to make up a page. Today, reporters sit at computers which feed their messages through to the composing room, which now echoes a low hum as computerized typesetters spin out sheets of information we now refer to as cold type.

Look at television. Forty years ago, televisions were a rarity. Our professor spent a class period telling us about tiny black and white screens which people paid hundreds of dollars for. Programming was terrible. Reception was poor. Yet people gathered in front of these tiny screens because the technology was so amazing.

Today, we have color televisions with crystal clear reception. We have programming schedules which tell us what is on at what time and on which channel. We get newscasts from across the world as they are happening.

Another aspect of television, which is an advantage or disadvantage, depending on how you look at it, is that people in Maine can see the same programs that people in California are watching. In a way, it binds the country together, giving people a common thread which runs through the nation.

And look at radio, which before television began it's growth explosion, was the king of the mass media. Radio was the nation's entertainment earlier in this century. It had full-length programs and news and soap operas. It has radically changed, to a news and music format, to stay alive.

I agree with McLuhan. The advances of the media are really amazing, and it is interesting to trace their growth.

Dollar scores KO on world currencies

I went to the Monetary Health Fitness Club the other day to see the different currencies work out.

Most of the currencies were flabby, breathing hard. The only one that seemed in great shape was the American dollar. Its muscles were bulging, and it was shadow boxing in the ring.

Secretary of the Treasury Don Regan, the dollar's manager said, "We have a real slugger now. In the late '70s the dollar was the weakest fighter in the world. Everyone was killing us. But now we have the world champion."

"That's great. Who is that getting into the ring with it?"

"The French franc. It hasn't won a fight since Mitterrand became president."

The bell rang and the two currencies started at each other. The dollar jabbed to the face and when the French franc took a wild swing, the dollar ducked and hit the franc in the stomach, then the head, then a mean right squarely on the jaw. The franc was groggy and almost fell to the canvas.

The French Minister of Finance ran over to Regan and said, "Stop the fight. You're killing my boy."

Regan said, "Let them continue for a little while longer. It's good practice for them."

A few minutes later the franc was being counted out, and the dollar was hardly perspiring.

The next one to step in the ring was the British pound. Its manager, Margaret Thatcher, was rubbing its gloves and giving it instructions. But the British pound could hardly stand on its legs and after laying with it for a round, the dollar knocked it out of the ring.

Mrs. Thatcher said to Regan, "Your president is going to hear about this."

The next contender was the West German mark, who had held the currency championship for years. It was a real grudge match.

Regan said, "The dollar will kill this guy. It took a terrible beating from him during the Seventies and it wants revenge."

The West German head of the Central Bank came over and said, "If you beat us too badly we're not going to buy any goods from America."

Regan told him, "I have no control over the dollar. The only reason it's so strong is that your own people are betting on my boy instead of yours."

The bell rang, the dollar moved in quickly and hit the mark right in the solar plexus. Then it started working on the mark's face. The mark's right eye began to bleed and the Swiss referee stopped the fight.

The West German banker said, "You think you won, but now that we're weak we're going to flood the U.S. with German goods that will underprice anything you can sell."

The last fight was between the dollar and the Japanese yen. At one time the yen had been even stronger than the West German mark. But it also lost a match to the dollar.

The Japanese Minister of Finance said, "You have made us lose face. We are not worried. Our exports will make up for any money we lost on the fight."

Regan went over and shook hands with the dollar. "Good show," he told it. But when he came back to me he looked worried.

"You don't seem as happy as I thought you would be."

"I wanted a strong dollar, but I didn't want it this strong. If it keeps knocking out the other currencies no one will be able to afford to buy American goods abroad, and that means high unemployment in this country and a whopping trade deficit. Everyone is blaming us for putting steroids in our interest rates. But if we lower the interest rates we'll be back to high inflation, and the dollar could be knocked out again."

"Why don't you throw a fight? Then people abroad will start getting faith back in their own currencies."

"Who do you suggest we throw a fight to?"

"What about the Italian lira? If the money dealers see the dollar lose the lira, our currency will become the laughingstock of the world, and you won't have anybody being afraid of the dollar again."

Jack Anderson

Thatcher leaves Reagan with a sore toe

WASHINGTON — Margaret Thatcher tried a bit of diplomatic blackmail on President Reagan during her recent visit to Washington. It was the best-kept secret of a supposedly chummy confab.

Thatcher's little power play was confided to my associate Dale Van Atta by sources familiar with the incident. They said she succeeded only in getting Reagan's Irish dander up. Here's the story.

The British occupy a strategic, little piece of earth that straddles the smuggling routes into southern Mexico. It's called Belize, and it's tucked under Mexico's big toe.

The toe is heavily infected with Marxist revolutionaries who are biding their time until Mexico becomes ripe for revolution. Given the raging inflation and rampant corruption that afflicts Mexico, this could be all too soon.

However determined President Reagan may be to stop a Marxist takeover in El Salvador, he is 10 times more concerned about Mexico. He does not want the lurking revolutionaries, therefore, to get arms from Cuba. Happily, the most convenient smuggling routes through Belize have been effectively blocked by the British.

Thatcher was aware of all this as she explained for Washington. But she also had a worry of her own: She feared that Argentina still has designs on the Falkland Islands. So she tried to persuade Reagan not to resume sales of U.S. arms to the Argentines, whose arsenal was badly depleted by their disastrous attempt to seize the Falklands last year.

So under Thatcher's tutelage, British officials coyly informed their U.S. hosts that Britain was "willing to keep troops in Belize" as long as the arms embargo on Argentina stayed in effect. The implication was that the British might pull out if Thatcher didn't get her way.

White House sources reported that the president was infuriated by this "obvious blackmail."

Though the British garrison in Belize is small, it has been essential in limiting the flow of Cuban arms through Belize to the Marxist rebels in the Mexican toe. "As long as the British stay in Belize, they and the United States will be able to prevent large shipments of arms from Cuba reaching the rebels in Mexico," an intelligence source explained.

There's also another reason Reagan wants the British troops to stay: Their presence will discourage the neighboring Guatemalans from invading Belize, which they claim belongs to them.

A top secret CIA report warns that Guatemala would invade shortly after the British pulled out. The result would be carnage on an appalling scale. Guatemala's rulers are notoriously anti-black, and a large percentage of Belize's 143,000 inhabitants is either black, creole or Guarifuna, a black-Indian mixture. Reagan doesn't want to risk the slaughter of the black population. But he also doesn't want to offend Guatemala, whose good will is essential to his efforts to subdue the Marxist revolution in Central America.

It was this situation that Thatcher tried to exploit. The attempt failed, but it left a sour taste. As one source explained, the United States sent the British millions of dollars worth of arms during the Falklands war and had to redeploy NATO forces to cover the loss of British ships.

"And now they threaten to pull out of Belize, which would risk another war," the source said. "It's damned ungrateful."

BLUNDER OF THE WEEK: The Reagan administration doesn't trust the press with its secrets. But sometimes the government's own guardians of classified material are careless.

One slip-up was discovered by an enterprising West German reporter, Uwe Zimmer of Stern magazine, as he was combing through the publicly released transcript of a spring hearing by the House Military Installations and Facilities subcommittee.

Because of anti-nuclear fervor in West Germany, the Bonn government has asked the United States to keep secret the site of the base where new ground-launched cruise missiles — GLCMs will be delivered in December. The three other European allies have publicly announced where their GLCMs will be put.

So the hearing transcript was supposed to delete any reference to Germany, referring only to "the fourth country." But on page 609 of the transcript, the fourth country is not only referred to as "FRG" (Federal Republic of Germany), but it is stated that "detailed design work for the (GLCM) operations facilities at Wueschheim...has started."

POLYGRAPH PUZZLE: The administration seems determined to ferret out leakers — or intimidate potential leakers — by giving polygraph tests to more than 4 million government employees who have access to classified information.

In addition to the Orwellian implications, there's serious doubt that the admittedly imperfect lie detectors would be the expected job. The proposal has been bitterly opposed by high officials in the Pentagon, which generally is the most gung-ho for the project.

Billy Graham

Honesty is still the best policy

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you really think it is possible to be successful in business and yet be completely honest? I find it is almost impossible to avoid cutting some corners now and then, just to keep up with our competition. — R.U.

DEAR R.U.: Yes, it is possible, and some of the finest people I have known have been businessmen — some of them very successful — who have been committed Christians and had a reputation for being completely honest in their dealings.

There are really two issues at stake here. The first is that the Bible makes it clear there should be honesty and integrity in all or business dealings — as well as in every other area of our lives. The Bible says, "The Lord abhors dishonest scales, but accurate weights are his delight" (Proverbs 11:1). One of the Ten Commandments states, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). When a person is dishonest in business he is stealing — directly or indirectly — that which rightfully belongs to another.

The other issue is a deeper one. What is your priority in life? What is it that controls you or guides the way you live? Is it money or God? Most people are guided only by their own desires and seek to do only what is for their own advantage, even if it hurts someone else. But that is wrong. Our first loyalty should be to God. Is Christ really first in your life? Are you concerned above all else to do the will of God, whatever the cost may be? The Bible says, "honest scales and balances are from the Lord" (Proverbs 16:11). The person who is committed to Christ will want to be honest in all his dealings.

Don't compromise what you know is right, even if it seemingly costs you business from time to time. I am convinced God will honor you if you seek to honor him. Recently, I heard about a businessman who had committed his life to Christ and decided that he must now be completely honest in his dealings — although he feared it might bankrupt him because of the dishonest ways of his competitors. But word got around that he could be trusted, and his business has never been better.

"What about the Italian lira? If the money dealers see the dollar lose the lira, our currency will become the laughingstock of the world, and you won't have anybody being afraid of the dollar again."

Dear Abby

Kids' tips lead to payoff

DEAR READERS: It all began when I published "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Wife," followed by "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Husband." Then a reader signed "Old-Timer" suggested that I invite the younger generation to submit its "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Kid."

I did, and the response was heartening. (Many elementary school teachers made it a class assignment.)

This list, from a 16-year-old Dallas girl, is one of the best:

1. Show appreciation. Most parents give more than they can afford.
2. Take responsibility for your own actions. If you want to be treated like an adult, act like one.
3. Remember, parents are human; they get tired, have their bad days and make mistakes, too, so forgive them like they forgive you.
4. Don't lie and sneak around, then expect your parents to trust you.
5. Do your homework and chores without having to be reminded.
6. If you have a change in plans or know you're going to be late, call and let your parents know.
7. Say "Please," "Thank you" and "Excuse me" at home, and you will do so automatically everywhere else.
8. Be willing to work for what you want.
9. Take pride in the way you look.
10. Let your parents know that you love and appreciate them. Tomorrow may be too late.

1. Help with chores.
2. Say, "Yes ma'am" and "Yes, sir."
3. Do what your parents say.
4. If you hurt someone, or hurt their feelings, say you are sorry.
5. Be nice to guests.
6. Don't say bad words.
7. Use good manners everywhere.
8. Be nice to your brother or sister if you have one.
9. Say your prayers every night.
10. Love everybody, especially your parents.

do, even if it means getting busted.

5. When you're wrong, admit it, and take the consequences.

6. Pick up after yourself. Your mother is not your maid.

7. If your parents' marriage breaks up, don't act like they've ruined your life. They may have improved it.

8. Take good care of the body your parents (and God) gave you.

9. Do your best in school. Your future depends on it.

10. Include your parents in your prayers. You are always in theirs.

Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet,

JEFF PURINTON,
PALATKA, FLA.

A COLLECTION FROM OTHER LISTS SUBMITTED

1. Don't swear, drink or smoke. It makes parents wonder where they went wrong.
2. Don't ask your parents if they had lovers before they were married. It's none of your business, and you probably won't get a straight answer anyway.
3. Don't complain when you're served spaghetti three times in a row. It beats going to bed hungry.
4. Always be totally honest in what you say or

Dr. Donohue

Eyes cause own problems

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a senior citizen with a condition my doctor calls dry eye, and no other disease. I was told to use eyedrops, but they do not help much. I have been reading about vitamin deficiencies. Would the vitamin A in cod liver oil help me? Please write about dry eye in your column. — K.K.

Dry eyes are a nuisance, but more than that they can lead to serious eye diseases, like infection. Tears protect the eyes by constantly bathing and lubricating them. The problem of dry eyes is common in the elderly because their tear production is not so good and the quality of the tear itself is not the best. It's thinner and tends to break down, like an inferior grade of motor oil.

But to answer your question: There are scads of artificial-type tears available. Perhaps you need to experiment with a few of them to find the right one. Merck Sharp & Dohme make a little insert (about one-sixteenth inch), which is placed under the lower lid. It dissolves gradually and helps keep the eye moistened. Ask your doctor if he thinks you'd benefit from them.

I don't want to dismiss dry eyes lightly. There are illnesses to look for in a person with the complaint, regardless of age. I am glad you went to the doctor. Sjogren's syndrome, for example, consists of dry eyes, dry mouth and, usually, rheumatoid arthritis. It's good to hear that you do not suffer from this. If you had a vitamin A deficiency, then getting that vitamin supplementally would help. But such a problem is not likely in this country.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please give me some information on rosacea. How is it treated? I have been told this is my problem. — D.B.

If you have a constant rosy color in the central part of your face (nose and bluish area of the cheeks and chin) you have rosacea (row-ZAY-shuh). It's partly due to certain changes occurring in blood vessels of the skin. A second aspect is very much like adolescent acne, and that is treated accordingly.

For the skin vessel changes, there are different methods of treatment. A freezing skin spray is used sometimes as is a paste of part sulfur and part kaolin. You should check with your doctor on these two methods.

Finally, there are conditions that should be avoided by people with rosacea. Caffeine and alcohol can cause blushing, which adds to the vessel problem. Spicy foods can do this also. For your other questions, see the booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples," which other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Quilt lovers to gather for Quilt Festival '83

Quilters and quilt-lovers from all over Texas will converge on Houston Oct. 28-30 for the opening of the world's largest quilt show and sale, Quilt Festival '83.

Quilt guilds in all major metropolitan areas of the state are sending delegations to the Festival, which is celebrating its ninth anniversary. Participants and visitors will come from as far away as Australia and Japan, as well as from all 50 states.

More than 2,000 quilts will be on display at the Festival in three special exhibits and for sale in the booths of 100 exhibitors from across the nation. Antique quilts as early as the mid-1800s will be available, along with the brand-new king and queen size quilts made from traditional and original designs.

Entries in the special judged show, "Quilts: All American Beauty" will

"Quilts: Hard Times, Soft Touch" will showcase 30 antique quilts from the Stearns & Foster collection assembled in the 1930's Depression era, plus a rare showing of a spectacular quilt that was one of the winners in the Sears' 1983 national quilt contest, "A Century of Progress."

Quilt Festival '83 will be open from 10-6 on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28 and 29, and from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 30. Admission is $3 at the door; $2 for persons 65 and over; children under 12 are free. For more information call 713-465-8640.

Jury sequestered, trial arguments begin in AGRI trial

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The jury in the AGRI Industries theft conspiracy trial was sequestered today by U.S. District Court Judge Harold Vietor, who said he wanted to make sure jurors did not hear or read news account of the case.

"I certainly do not like reneging on a promise," Vietor told the eight-man, four-woman jury and two alternates as the trial convened for its 10th day. But the judge said because of considerable publicity in the case, he was acting "in an abundance of precaution" and making sure jurors receive no outside information on the trial.

The government then began its final arguments in the case, in which the huge, grain marketing cooperative and five of its employees are charged with conspiring to steal 133,000 bushels of government-owned wheat worth approximately $580,000 stored at an AGRI facility in Fort Worth, Texas.

Ed Timmons, a Justice Department lawyer on loan from Washington, told the jury that AGRI and its officials could have purchased grain elsewhere when it ran into a sudden shortage while loading a ship in Houston last May 5-6 and shipped the wheat from Fort Worth.

"But instead of taking one of the honest routes, the defendants took the government grain," Timmons said.

As a General Contractor, Bob's provides turn-key construction on room additions, everything from slab to roof, including sheetrock, painting, electrical, plumbing and cabinets.

Remodeling is a specialty, including redesigned kitchens and baths. "The Furniture Doctor" shop offers complete repairs to furniture in your home or in the shop. This includes the repair and refinishing of antiques. Bob's has hard-to-find specialty hardware for trunks, chests and other furniture.

In The Strip Shop, they do wood and metal stripping for home and industry. Bob's will do the stripping and refinishing — or they'll strip an item and provide complete supplies for the do-it-yourselfer.

Bob's Custom Woodwork has the largest selection of veneer and hardwood in Big Spring, plus a selection of door lock sets. They install microwave ovens, dishwashers, and Majestic heat circulating fireplaces and mantels.

They also handle insurance estimates and repairs.

There's no job too small or too large for Bob Noyes and his crew. Bob does the estimates and give his personal supervision to all jobs. His wife, Jan, oversees the Strip shop, handles bookkeeping and customer service. Pablo Jara does framing carpentry and custom doors. Armando Nunez specializes in general carpentry, counter tops, installation of cabinets, custom doors and acoustical ceilings. Vickie Bell and Craig Neighbors do the stripping and refinishing. Elvin Bearden handles furniture repair. Chris Bonner does cabinets, bookcases and general carpentry, and Rick Cohn does general carpentry.

Bob's is located in Building 613 in the Industrial Park. The shop is open from 8 a.m. til noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Their number is 267-5811.

Mondale says attacks on Glenn fair

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Vice President Walter Mondale, responding to Sen. John Glenn's warning that continued bickering by Democratic presidential candidates could hurt the ultimate nominee, says he will continue to attack Glenn's record.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale fields reporters' questions after Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley Monday endorsed him for the Democratic nomination for president.

Mondale cited what he called "fundamental" differences between himself and Glenn in an interview with the Los Angeles Times published today.

"I was against Reaganomics. Glenn was for it," Mondale said. "That's a fundamental. I don't see how we can serve the public by trying to avoid discussions."

Joined at the Washington breakfast by Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, who announced his endorsement of the former vice president, Mondale rejected calls for a cease-fire by Glenn and party Chairman Charles Manatt.

"When candidates start hacking away at each other, it can cause a serious problem for whoever gets the nomination," the Ohio senator said recently.

But Mondale said Monday that President Reagan's economic program is "the most profound domestic issue" he has seen in his career. He said campaigns must be conducted "in a civilized way because antagonisms can settle in."

But he added that the idea of "an issue-less campaign in which one's record — and where one proposes to take this nation — is irrelevant to debate, is, I think, totally unsustainable."

Earlier Monday, Glenn reacted strongly to a charge by Mondale that Glenn is basing his campaign on support of Reaganomics.

The former astronaut told the Times: "Can you imagine anything more stupid than that? And feel free to use that as a direct quote."

Glenn accused Mondale of citing his record out of context, pointing out that although he voted for Reagan's 25 percent tax cut, he cast about 30 votes against other aspects of Reagan's economic program.

Virus-infected hamsters escape from laboratory

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Traps set and food was put out around a Yale University medical laboratory Monday as researchers crawled on the floor looking for three disease-infected hamsters that escaped from their cage, a school spokeswoman said.

But officials believe the rodents carrying a potentially fatal virus had burrowed into bags containing old bedding removed from the rodent cages and were incinerated, Yale medical school spokeswoman Marjorie Noyes said.

The hamsters were used in experiments and had been infected with the virus that causes Creutzfeldt-Jakob Syndrome, which attacks the nervous system and results in dementia. Ms. Noyes said the virus can only be transmitted to humans through contact with infected brain tissue.

"The disease is extremely hard to transmit," she said, emphasizing there was little hazard to anyone in the building. She also said the nine-floor building was designed to be "insect-proof" so that not even insects could get out of the building. The top floor of the structure, where the lab is located, is sealed from the rest of the building, she added.

The rodents escaped Oct. 3 from their cage in the university's Department of Epidemiology and Public Health in the Yale Medical School. Edward Adelberg, the deputy provost for biomedical sciences, said they escaped when their cage was warped by a heating process used to decontaminate infectious materials.

Traps have been set around the lab and food has been set out to attract the hamsters, Ms. Noyes said, adding that the animals may already be dead from lack of food.

But the "overriding possibility," she said, was that the hamsters burrowed into plastic bags containing bedding. The bags are put into an autoclave, in which high-pressure steam kills any organisms, and then they are incinerated, she said.

The search would continue, however, "until every possibility has been uncovered," she said.

'84 budget has few cuts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a retreat from its previous get-tough budgets, the Reagan administration's election-year budget will call for no significant cuts in federal spending, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The Times quoted unidentified Office of Management and Budget officials who said the fiscal 1985 budget is being prepared with a goal of keeping domestic spending at current levels and holding the federal deficit at about $170 billion.

The federal spending plan will avoid drastic curbs in domestic programs which drew harsh criticism against the Reagan administration, the sources said.

The newspaper quoted an administration official as saying the projected budget for fiscal 1985 — which begins Oct. 1, 1984 — would leave the government deficit at $170 billion, less than the estimated fiscal 1984 deficit of $180 billion.

Supermarket Blast

17 hurt in grocery store explosion

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — As clouds of acrid smoke billowed overhead today, workers combed through the rubble of a supermarket destroyed by a natural gas explosion, and one official said "it's plumb amazing that everyone got out."

At least 17 people were injured in the blast Monday, but authorities said they had accounted for all those reported missing. Five remained hospitalized today with burns and respiratory problems.

Work crews sifted through the rubble of the 10,000-square-foot building until about 4 a.m. today, when they finished removing sections of the market's collapsed roof and found no victims beneath it. "We have found no bodies in the wreckage and have stopped searching," said state police Superintendent John O'Rourke.

State Trooper A.W. Robinson said mop-up operations would continue through the morning to cool off hot spots.

Responding to the alarm, Charleston Fire Chief J.W. Britton said, "I took a look at the building and I just knew there was going to be somebody under there. It's plumb amazing that everyone got out."

Witnesses reported smelling natural gas in the area before the 2 p.m. explosion, but authorities said they had not determined what caused the blast and ensuing fire. They said they were investigating the possibility that it was caused by the lighting of a cigarette or by sparks from refrigeration motors inside the store.

A major gas line 40 feet from the Foodland supermarket was accidentally ruptured about noon by construction crews working on a highway project, said Bill Reed, district manager for Columbia Gas of West Virginia. The line was leaking at the time of the blast and utility crews shut it off afterward, he said.

Tony Richards, an employee of a sign company next to the store, said the force of the explosion "knocked me off my chair."

EPA warns earth will overheat

NEW YORK (AP) — A unavoidable and potentially catastrophic warming of the Earth will start in the 1990s, disrupting food production and raising coastal waters as the polar icecaps melt, the federal government warns.

The report by the Environmental Protection Agency calls for "a sense of urgency" in planning how to deal with the coming changes, caused by increasing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. The New York Times reported in today's editions.

The report concluded that the so-called greenhouse effect "is neither trivial nor just a long-range problem," and warned, "changes by the end of the 21st century could be catastrophic taken in the context of today's world."

The study marks the first time the federal government has warned that the greenhouse effect, long discussed by scientists, is a certainty, the Times said.

"Major changes will be here by the years 1990 to 2000, and we have to learn how to live with them," said John S. Hoffman, EPA director of strategic studies. "New York City could have a climate like Daytona Beach, Florida, by 2100."

The EPA study said global average temperatures could increase 3.6 degrees by the year 2040 and 9 degrees by the year 2100, with increases as much as three times as great at the poles, where the icecaps could melt.

It said nothing could do more than delay the effect for a few years — not even a ban on use of fossil fuels, the primary source of carbon dioxide, which inhibits the radiation of heat into space.

The report, which called for more study of the effect, said the climate change could be expensive, citing the town of Charlestown, S.C., as an example.

Rising coastal waters could cost Charlestown $1.25 billion in lost residential and industrial buildings and land, the report said, but added that planning and preparation could cut the losses to $440 million.

RARE FUMBLE FOR RIGGINS — Washington Redskins' running back John Riggins (44) fumbles into the end zone during the first quarter of Monday's game against the Packers in Green Bay, Wis. Tight end Clint Didier recovered the loose ball in the end zone for a Washington touchdown. The Pack won the game, 48-47.

Shootout!

Moseley's miss secures Packers' 48-47 win

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — It was nothing less than the wildest shootout of the year — and it ended with the game's most accurate marksman misfiring.

Washington's Mark Moseley, who had already kicked four field goals, was poised for a 39-yarder, almost routine for him. But he was wide to the right as time ran out and a 20-yard chip shot by Jan Stenerud with 54 seconds to play stood up as the winning edge in the Green Bay Packers' 48-47 victory Monday night.

"It's the first time Mark's missed in a situation like that," said Redskins' quarterback Joe Theismann, who threw two touchdown passes to Joe Washington. "He's won a lot of games for us in that situation. He's the best kicker in the league and I'm sure that's the last one he'll ever miss like that."

"He has made so many clutch kicks I guess the percentages finally caught up to him," Stenerud said of Moseley, last year's Most Valuable Player in the National Football League.

It was the highest scoring game in the league this season, surpassing Green Bay's 41-38 overtime victory over Houston in the season opener.

"You never expect to see 95 points in a game and it is always impossible to explain," said

Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "The Pack was just super tonight. They were great playmakers and they made a big night for themselves."

The game almost belonged from start to finish to the quarterbacks. Green Bay's Lynn Dickey completed 22 of 30 passes for 357 yards and three touchdowns — 36 and 9 yards to tight end Paul Coffman and 31 yards to fullback Mike Meade.

Theismann hit 27 of 39 attempts for 398 yards and had scoring tosses of 6 and 5 yards to Washington.

In all, the two teams amassed 1,025 net yards in total offense, just 108 short of the NFL record of 1,133 set in 1950 by the Los Angeles Rams and the now-defunct New York Yankees.

"It was the wildest game I've ever played in," Dickey said. "Everything you wanted to see or hear just about happened."

The lead changed hands seven times, five in the final quarter.

"It seemed like who had the ball last would win the game," said Packers' fullback Gerry Ellis.

Ellis, who rushed for 41 yards and caught four passes for 105, came up with the big play that set up Stenerud's game-winning kick — a 56-yard catch and run to the Washington 8-yard line.

"The ball just shot through the gap," Dickey said of the pass to Ellis on a third-and-10. "I got just enough on it that Gerry caught it."

Theismann nearly pulled it out, completing four consecutive passes as he moved Washington from its 27 to the Green Bay 22 with three seconds left before Moseley failed.

Mike Douglass' 22-yard run with Joe Washington's fumble 67 seconds into the game opened the scoring, but by the end of the first quarter it was 10-10 with Moseley and Stenerud each kicking a field goal and tight end Clint Didier recovering John Riggins' 1-yard fumble in the end zone for the Redskins.

Coffman's scoring catches offset the first of Riggins' 1-yard TD runs and Moseley's second field goal to put Green Bay on top 24-20 at the half.

The Redskins held a 33-31 lead after three quarters, Moseley's final two field goals and Washington's 6-yard catch overshadowing Ellis' 24-yard run, the first touchdown scored on the ground against the Skins since their 31-30 season-opening loss to Dallas.

Fifteen seconds into the fourth quarter, Gary Lewis scored his first career touchdown on a 2-yard sweep, but Riggins countered with his second TD and Washington led 40-38.

For the second straight time, voting for the nation's best in college football resulted in the same 20 teams as the previous week.

The top five spots in The Associated Press Top 20 were identical to last week, led by overwhelming leader Nebraska, but losses by Ohio State, Arizona and Alabama caused considerable shuffling after that. Those three teams fell to 17th, 19th and 20th, respectively.

Permian tumbles to No. 8, Central drops out of listing

By The Associated Press

A week ago, Midland Lee lost to San Angelo Central and lost its position in The Associated Press Schoolboy Poll. But it never lost its resilience.

Lee bounced the favored Odessa Permian Panthers 20-7 last week and once again returned to the good graces of voters in the AP poll and resumed a commanding role in the rugged District 4-5A title race.

Converse Judson remained the front runner in 5A while other top-ranked teams also held their leads, including Fort Bend Willowridge in 4A, Littlefield in 3A, Groveton in 2A and Bremond in A.

Midland Lee jumped back into the No. 9 position while Permian dropped from second to eighth following the loss.

San Angelo Central dropped its second consecutive game, 12-0 to Abilene High and fell from the top 10 in 5A along with LaPorte, which lost to Dickinson after only one week in the top 10.

Austin Reagan, 7-0, moved into the No. 10 position.

Second ranked New Braunfels and Gonzales battled to a 7-7 tie dropped New Braunfels to eighth on the current list. All other 4A teams won their games.

Littlefield, Navasota, Daingerfield and Ballinger remained in solid position in 3A, where all 10 ranked teams survived the week without upsets.

The only blemishes in 2A came when No. 2 Panhandle and No. 9 Clarendon battled to a 20-20 tie. Panhandle dropped to sixth and Clarendon remained No. 9.

Valley Mills was the lone loser in A and was replaced in the balloting by Paradise, 7-0.

Blue 4th Royal to plead guilty

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The government was on the verge of completing its presentation to a grand jury in a case that already has led to guilty pleas by four present and former Kansas City Royals to cocaine-related charges and has become major league baseball's worst drug scandal.

Vida Blue, a Cy Young Award winner who pitched for the world champion Oakland A's in the 1970s, pleaded guilty Monday to a federal misdemeanor charge of possessing three grams of cocaine. Three of the pitcher's former Royals teammates pleaded guilty last week to a similar charge stemming. Blue was released by the Royals on Aug. 5.

U.S. Attorney Jim Marquez has said he expected a federal grand jury investigating cocaine traffic in suburban Johnson County, Kan., to return "many indictments." The investigation was not necessarily limited to baseball players, he said.

"We hope to get everything finished tomorrow (Tuesday)," Marquez said. "I can make no further comment."

Blue, 34, who won the American League Cy Young Award in 1971, spent more than two hours before the grand jury Monday after entering his plea. The grand jury later recessed for the day without returning indictments.

Outfielder Willie Wilson, the 1982 American League batting champion, first baseman Willie Aikens and outfielder Jerry Martin pleaded guilty last week to attempting to possess cocaine.

All four have been released on $5,000 unsecured bonds and face maximum penalties of one year in prison and $5,000 fines. Sentencing for all four is scheduled for Nov. 17.

RICHARD HILARIO ...gets interception
ERIC SHERMAN ...covered on kicks
DOUG WALKER ...blocking praised
PETE CRABTREE ...handles punt snaps
JAY PIRKLE ...best night rushing
CHARLIE RAGAN ...big catches

Seven Big Spring High football players have been honored by head coach Quinn Eudy and his staff this week.

The "Top Steer" award as the top defensive player in Friday night's 14-11 homecoming win over Cooper goes to varsity newcomer Jerry Anderson. The junior transfer from Arizona filled in at linebacker for the injured Mike McKinley and led the Steers in tackles.

Senior Richard Hilario won the "Hawk" award as the top performer in the secondary. In addition to his interception, Eudy praised the senior for his excellent run support from his free safety position.

Seniors Eric Sherman and Pete Crabtree shared the "Bullet" award for special teams play this week. Sherman was lauded for his downfield coverage and tackles on Steer kicks while Crabtree handled the deep snaps for Jay Pirkle, the team's punter, in place of injured regular Danny Arista.

Sharing the "Golden Spike" award as the game's top backfield performers were Pirkle and senior Charlie Ragan. Pirkle rushed for over 100 yards, the first such performance by a Steer this season while Ragan made two big catches and blocked well from his tight end position.

The "Conan" award, made to the game's outstanding linemen, went to junior guard Doug Walker. Walker's offensive line blocking allowed the Steers to control possession of the football the entire game.

The five awards are made every week by the Steers coaching staff after grading the film of the previous week's game.

Senior Leon Barraza was honored as Student Trainer-Manager of the Week by head trainer Everett Blackburn. Barraza volunteered to help with football practices after completing his duties with the BSHS basketball team and made the trip to Abilene with the junior varsity football team.

Big Spring travels to Midland Friday night to battle 4-5A leader and No. 9 state-ranked Lee.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After a slow start, attend to whatever unfinished business is possible. You now have the chance to be all fired up with new pioneering ideas whereby you have a good chance to advance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan privately for coming civic affairs and later go after your goals in a positive and efficient manner. The evening is fine for seeing friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to avoid pals who have problems and plan a brighter future for yourself, since you have been helping others too much lately.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Whatever is puzzling connected with your vocation can be clarified by proper analysis. Socialize with good friends later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) The morning is risky for any new investment, but later you can make progress in the right channels.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) The morning is best time to handle held-over business dealings so that later you can get into fascinating new ventures.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to the demands of partners and handle them in a sensible fashion. Higher-ups will then assist you to advance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do only whatever is necessary at home or office early and then you can be with partners to discuss important matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't arrange for extravagant amusements and get busy on practical affairs that can increase your abundance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You had better be tactful in handling problematical affairs at home, and later you can go out for recreation and have a fine time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Particular care must be exercised to avoid accidents from occurring, then you can be happy at home after your work is done.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be very careful about finances today and know what your true position is with associates. Exercise patience.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are apt to get wound up on personal affairs early, but later be sure to handle routines and business deals well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she may seem dull and not have confidence early in life, so be sure to encourage and give right diet and soon there can be a decided change for the better. Plan a fine education for your progeny, and add foreign languages.

Actress dislikes labels

NEW YORK (AP) — As the fictional Fatima Blush, a sexy member of an international crime organization in the latest James Bond thriller, Nicaraguan actress Barbara Carrera pursues the legendary Agent 007 throughout the world.

She's the first Latin actress ever to star in a James Bond film, and she resists the idea of being "categorized." Fatima Blush is not Hispanic in "Never Say Never Again," a movie that marks Sean Connery's return to the role of Bond.

"It is with great pride that I'm changing this stereotypical image that Hollywood had about a Latin woman," Miss Carrera said. "I didn't go into this business for that purpose. But it's the way it seems to be working out. And for that I am very honored to do it for my fellow Latins."

"I think it is wrong to put people in any category, be it Latinos or Russians or Greeks. I hate the idea of intelligent people not being able to see each other as simply other human beings."

A former professional model, Miss Carrera is the daughter of a Nicaraguan diplomat father and an American mother. Her movie career started in 1975 when she appeared in "The Master Gunfighter." She also has done such TV miniseries as "Centennial" and "Masada."

But none of her performances so far had anything to do with Latin women, despite her multilingualism and her charming "Latino look."

In "Embryo" with Rock Hudson, she played "a glamorous Frankenstein monster" who falls in love with a Roman warrior played by Peter O'Toole in "Masada."

Raised in the United States since she was 10 years old, Miss Carrera cherishes her freedom and independence.

"If anyone gets caught into a certain cliche, he or she shouldn't curse anyone but him or herself," she said. "It's nobody's fault but the actor's."

Miss Carrera says she believes in changes. "I have discovered that I am constantly changing and I really like that. The minute anyone would want to put me a number, a label, I would contradict it. Whatever I am now, I am also the opposite of it."

She said Hollywood is famous for stereotyping actors according to their nationalities, but she says this is sometimes the artist's fault.

"The actor does not have to permit this," she said. "It's not easy, because we don't have a constant, big influx of scripts. But we've got to convince (producers) that we can work in other roles, not only in stereotypes."

She admits, though, that she'd love to portray Eva Peron, the late second wife of Argentine dictator Juan Domingo Peron.

"I haven't seen the magic of Eva Peron" in the theater or television versions of her life, she said. "What I've seen are American or British interpretations of her life, but no Latin passion."

Until her third film, "The Island of Dr. Moreau" with Burt Lancaster, Miss Carrera had no formal training as an actress. Then she started being coached by Milton Katzelos.

But Miss Carrera says that she really learns from actually working. "When you have to do something, you will find the way to do it," she said.

"This is my eighth year in show business, but this Bond film, I feel, is my debut because I've been free to really put all of my energies into a role," she says. "I was encouraged by my director Irvin Kershner, and this character was great fun to create."

Hoaxer makes way into homes by lying

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man who said he was the son of actor Sidney Poitier and a student at Harvard University conned his way into the homes of at least four families where he dined, borrowed money, and in one instance, stayed overnight, authorities say.

"This is a new scam to me, but we know the kind of people who would try it. They live by their wits. They do it more for the challenge than anything else," said Lt. Edward Shea of the police department's special-fraud squad.

Poitier, who won an Academy Award for his performance in the 1963 film "Lilies of the Field," has no son. Officials said the unwitting hosts for the unidentified hoaxer included the dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, Osborn Elliott.

On a recent Saturday morning, Elliott said, the young man called, identified himself as David Poitier and claimed he was a friend of Elliott's daughter.

When he said he had been mugged and needed a place to stay until his father arrived the next day, Elliott invited the young man to stay at his East Side home and gave him $50 and clothes to wear.

The next morning, when Elliott was unable to reach his daughter, a student at Yale University, to confirm the friendship, he called John Jay Iselin, president of WNET-TV, whose daughter attends Harvard.

Elliott's story stunned the Iselin family. The impostor had called them the day before with the same story. They, too, had given him money and invited him to stay over. However, they grew suspicious and asked him to leave.

"He must have walked out of Jay's place and into a phone booth to call us," Elliott said.

Community angered, scared by local church

DANTE GARGANESE
...former member of church

ISLAND POND, Vt. (AP) — When Juan Mattatall got his 4-year-old daughter back from the Northeast Kingdom Community Church, it was one of the happiest days of his life.

But for some people in this village it was an unpleasant reminder of the tension between the town and the fundamentalist sect, which is the subject of a child-abuse investigation. And it served as a reminder of recent charges against two church elders accused of beating a 12-year-old and a 13-year-old.

"I'm just really disgusted that there's always something boiling, but never enough to blow the top off," Lisa Hilliker said as she fastened a seat belt around her 1-year-old daughter. She said she resents the fact that some of her closest friends joined the church — a group that "totally baffles me."

"I thought of petitioning ... but there's nobody around, including me, that has the backbone to do anything about it."

The Northeast Kingdom Community Church, which had been based in Tennessee, moved to this remote northeastern Vermont community five years ago and bought 11 businesses and 14 sprawling homes for its approximately 325 members.

Island Pond, part of the town of Brighton, which has a population of 1,557, has been embroiled in controversy off and on ever since.

The most dramatic episode occurred Oct. 10, when Mattatall, a church defector, was reunited at a police roadblock in Nova Scotia with his daughter, Lydia, who had allegedly been abducted.

Mattatall had been searching around the world for Lydia for two years when a viewer tipped a Canadian television station to the child's whereabouts.

"It was the happiest moment I can remember, except for the time I was reunited with the other four," Mattatall said from his South Burlington home.

He had been granted temporary custody of his five children after a bitter court battle in which he accused church members of beating the children with rods to discipline them.

Canadian police detained Mattatall's wife, Cynthia, church elder Charles Wiseman and his wife, Mary, under suspicion of kidnapping. However, officials decided not to prosecute the case as a kidnapping and the three were released.

Mattatall said church members told Lydia that church founder Elbert Spriggs and his wife were her parents and that her real mother was her nursemaid.

Mattatall also said Lydia told him she had been beaten "a lot."

"She's been beaten with that rod daily," he said. "Her bottom is really hardened and calloused."

Essex County State's Attorney David Weinstein said the state is conducting a "very extensive" investigation into reports of child abuse.

Church members have refused to discuss their practices with reporters. But a few members agreed to answer questions if their names were not used.

One father of three, who works in the church-owned shoe repair shop, said he sees nothing wrong with using a rod to discipline children.

"Were you ever spanked as a child?" he asked, leaning forward on the counter. "And didn't you feel grateful afterwards?"

He said the Bible commands parents to discipline their children, citing the passage that says "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

"We do it out of love," he said.

But authorities have received numerous complaints of prolonged beatings.

Wiseman pleaded innocent to simple assault in August in the alleged beating of a 13-year-old who had 89 welts, according to an affidavit. Church elder Timothy Pendergrass pleaded innocent that month to simple assault in the alleged beating of a 12-year-old church member.

Town Manager Robert Shepeluk said some church-owned businesses have refused to abide by zoning ordinances. "Sometimes they say they don't have to follow man's laws — only God's laws," he said.

"There is definitely tension in the community."

Rumors that local opposition has prompted the sect to plan a move to Canada were fueled by the Lydia's discovery in Nova Scotia.

"It's in the Bible — when you're persecuted somewhere you should move on," said Gary Long, who works in the church's natural foods store.

CBS sweeps news Emmys

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' prime-time newsmagazine "60 Minutes" was the big winner in News and Documentary Emmy Awards competition, winning seven of the network's 17 statuettes during ceremonies here.

CBS' "Evening News" was cited for its coverage of unemployment, and ABC News' "Nightline" honored for its report on the Air Florida plane crash outside Washington, D.C., as awards were presented in seven different categories.

In addition to CBS' 17 Emmys, ABC News won 13, the Public Broadcasting Service 12 and NBC News three in the competition that included 187 entries, covering the period between Nov. 15, 1981 and Dec. 31, 1982.

Snuff use up among school kids

TULSA, Okla. (P) — Elementary school children seem to be "dipping" snuff more frequently, educators and health officials say, and instructors are adding warnings about smokeless tobacco to oral hygiene programs.

"It's a big thing around here to have a snuff can ring in your back pocket," said Sue Cousatte, Ottawa-Delaware County dental health educator.

Use of smokeless tobacco among children has become a "peer pressure thing," she said.

"It may be worse in the Southwest because of our cowboy heritage, but smokeless tobacco use by younger children seems to be increasing nationwide," said Dr. Mike Morgan, who heads state dental health education programs.

Dr. Joan Leavitt, state health commissioner, said in-

SECOND EDITION — L.L. Bean, purveyor of gear for outdoor lovers and sporty preppies, is being spoofed for the second time by Alfred Gingold who has written a catalog parody entitled "More Items From Our Catalogue." None of the items exist, but hundreds were ordered.

Parody of catalog brings big business

NEW YORK (AP) — L.L. Bean, purveyor of gear for outdoor lovers and sporty preppies, was a sitting duck for a spoof of its popular mail-order catalog.

But when people picked up the decoy volume, entitled "Items From Our Catalog," they couldn't resist the bargains. Adorable doggie brassieres — a steal at $7.75. Sheepskin-lined cases for canned tuna — $5. Edible moccasins — $41.75.

Several hundred readers got on the phone to Avon Books in New York, bank cards in hand. They mailed checks for the proper prepaid amounts, including the size and color of their choice.

The catalog, of course, was just a joke. The items did not exist.

But a real pair of Bean's hip waders might have come in handy at the publisher's office, where an extra person was assigned just to handle the calls.

"It clogged up our phone lines," says Richard Brenner, director of special markets for Avon. "We had to rearrange things and put other business on the back burner."

Lorraine Buckley, Brenner's assistant, was the bearer of the bad news. "We just had to tell people, 'Sorry, it's just a gag,'" she said. "Some people were very upset that they couldn't order the items."

"Our Catalog," written by Alfred Gingold and published last year, was a cockeyed look at the catalog of L.L. Bean, the store in Freeport, Maine, which sells everything from slacks to stoves and caters to the faithful night and day.

Bean sends out about 45 million real catalogs, for free, every year. Gingold's catalog was pretty successful, too, selling 800,000 copies at $4.95 each.

It was so successful that Gingold has tried it again. "More Items From Our Catalog," with a cat in snorkeling equipment on the cover, was released this month. Besides aquatic cat clothes, there is bird seed pate, rabbit fur wallpaper, a navel reamer, a personal theatrical spotlight that hooks onto your shirt-pocket, battery-operated eyeglass wipers and "politely plaid" pants.

Of course, "More Items" is also just a joke. The items don't exist.

Avon had explored the possibility of actually producing items from "Our Catalog," but Brenner said the demand was too great. "We decided we couldn't make them quickly enough," he said.

Gingold, who describes himself as 36 years old "but very immature," thought the first catalog was "very obviously a joke." He attributes the serious orders to the success of the book's design, which mimics the actual catalog.

A woman in Massachusetts had the bad luck to have the same phone number as the one listed on the back of the catalog. She got so many orders for doggie bras, edible moccasins and nose warmers that she had to change her number.

Most callers knew the catalog was a spoof, but thought the items would make great gag gifts. Others traded gags of their own.

A witty real estate officer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology ordered a "Building Cozy" for the school's 22-story Earth Sciences Building. The cozy, made of heavy-duty, preshrunk gingham, was listed at $51,575.25, postpaid.

MIT wanted it in "red check."

Councilwoman: no shirt, no football

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A member of city council doesn't want men going topless.

Councilwoman Helen Chavez tried to get the Tampa Sports Authority to either establish dress-code standards for football fans at Tampa Stadium or designate a "primitive section" where "bad-mannered slobs," men with bared chests, would sit.

But the authority rejected the idea Monday.

"You have an opportunity to set standards," Ms. Chavez had told the 11-member authority. Otherwise, "nice people are going to stop coming" to the stadium, home of the National Football

League's Tampa Bay Buccaneers, she said.

Ms. Chavez blamed the shirtless style on "the hippie movement that started 21 years ago." The same movement has produced "mediocrity in our schools ... crime in our streets (and) vile language," she said.

Authority members said a law banning shirtless males would be unenforceable — and probably unconstitutional.

Ms. Chavez said she's not ready to throw in the towel and will urge others who feel the way she does to send in letters and petitions supporting her position.
