TI stock rises 22 percent

DALLAS (AP) — Analysts reacted with glee as Texas Instruments Inc. stock rose 22 percent in the wake of the firm's decision to abandon its unprofitable home computer line, but the news was bitter for 1,000 of TI's West Texas workers.

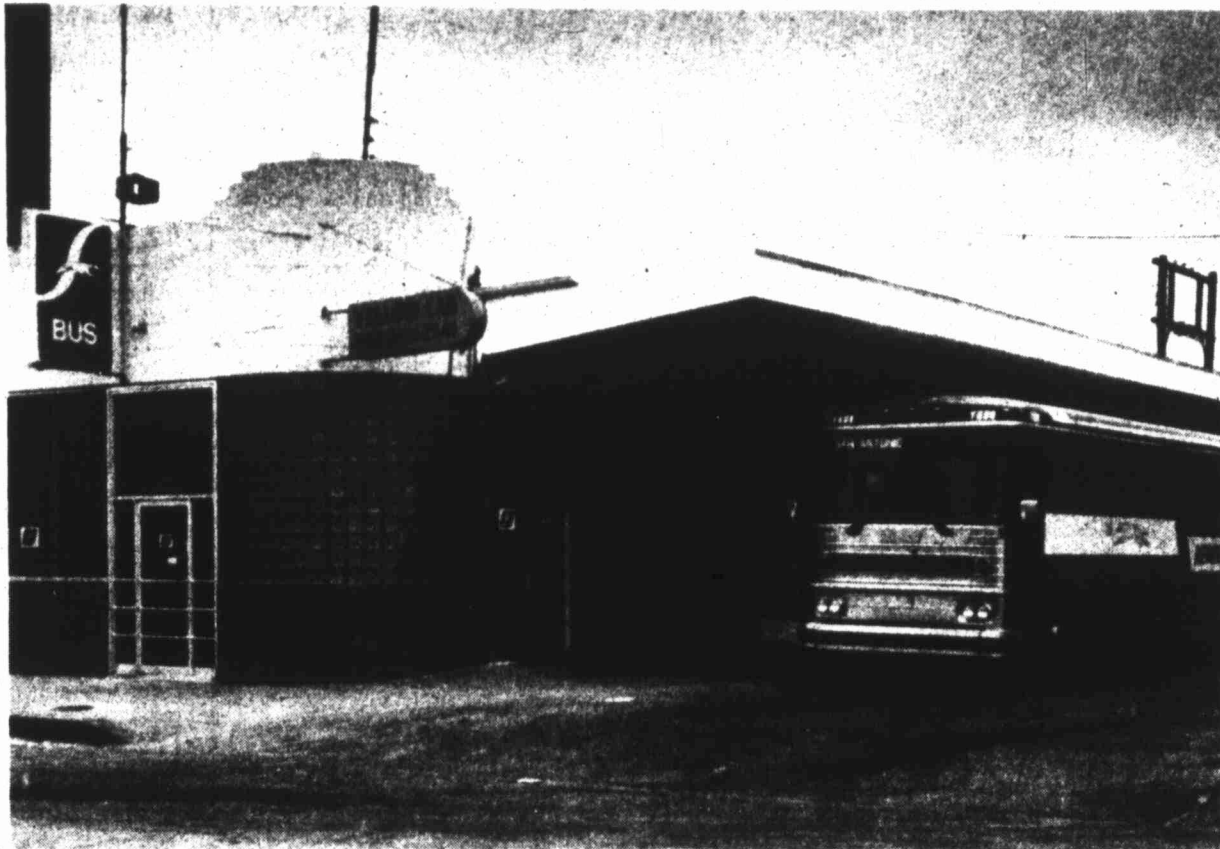

TI, which announced Friday that it quit manufacturing home computers, said Monday that it was eliminating 1,000 jobs in Lubbock.

TI spokesman Norman Neureiter would not say when or if more layoffs will occur. TI released a statement that said the consumer division headquarters would stay in Lubbock.

TI's consumer products division has been based in Lubbock. TI does not disclose its employment at individual plants, but an estimated 4,000 people work at the plant. Several hundred more employees work in the home computer area at Abilene.

The Dallas-based electronics firm on Friday reported its second consecutive quarterly loss of more than $110 million and said it was getting out of the home computer business, which was primarily responsible for the poor reports.

On Wall Street, TI's decision was greeted Monday with glee by analysts and investors, whose eagerness to buy the stock delayed trading. The stock opened at about $110. See TI, page 2A

STRIKE REPRIEVE — A bus sits in the local Greyhound station today as passengers prepare to board. A strike which would disrupt service to the Big Spring area was postponed until 1 a.m. Thursday.

Union grants reprieve

Bus strike would shut down local service

From staff and wire reports
A threatened strike by the Greyhound Amalgamated Local Union, which would shut down the bus line's service to Big Spring and 11 major Texas cities, has been put off until 1 a.m. Thursday.

The union had authorized a strike to begin at 1 a.m. this morning, but negotiators delayed the move in a last-minute attempt to reach an agreement with the company on a new contract. The company's "final offer" was rejected by representatives Monday night. They said they granted the company a reprieve from a strike in order to seek a solution to the deadlocked negotiations.

The Union Bus Terminal in Big Spring, which services Greyhound, would remain unaffected by the strike. See GREYHOUND, page 2A

Drilling ship found beneath the sea

From staff and wire reports
A U.S. oil drilling ship that carried 81 people and had been missing off the coast of China since Oct. 25 has been located by sonar 300 feet beneath the sea, a spokesman for the company that owns the vessel said today.

The ship's crew reportedly included a man from the Big Spring area, but this could not be confirmed with the ship's owner, Global Marine Inc. of Houston.

U.S. and Chinese air and sea craft have been searching for the vessel or survivors in the South China Sea since the Glomar Java Sea disappeared during a typhoon.

"Using sonar equipment, we have determined that the drilling ship is sunk at the drilling site," said Dick Vermeer, vice president for control and administration of Global.

No survivors had been found but the search was continuing, according to a statement today by the U.S. West Pacific Rescue Coordination Center in Okinawa, Japan.

The 5,926-ton ship had two escape capsules on board. Vermeer said one was sighted capsized, but the other has not been spotted.

Each of the capsules can hold 54 people, said Vermeer. There were 81 crewmen — 42 Americans, 35 Chinese, two Singaporeans, an Australian and a Filipino — on board the drilling ship.

Vermeer said he did not know how many survivors might be aboard the remaining escape capsule.

"They either loaded one to the gills, or it has about half the people," he said.

Vermeer said sonar located the Glomar Java Sea lying on its side beneath the drilling site in about 300 feet of water.

Two U.S. Navy P-3 planes have been searching for the lost ship while China sent 14 ships and three helicopters out in poor weather south of Hainan Island.

Over the weekend, U.S. pilots thought they might have seen flashing lights, a buoy and life rafts. But after debriefing pilots from U.S. Air Force Hercules HC-130 and Navy P-3 planes, Gregory said the lights apparently were strobe lights floating "unattached" in the water.

U.S. aircraft have chalked up more than 150 hours flying time in the search of an area 337 mile long and 92 miles wide in the South China Sea and Gulf of Tonkin, which washes onto the coast of Vietnam. The search hasn't entered Vietnamese waters, the rescue center said.

Three Chinese ships and a vessel under contract to Global Marine also were searching.

Two fenders and 10 life jackets from the Glomar Java Sea have been recovered so far. The rescue center said a life raft also had been found.

The ship had been leased by Arco China Inc., the first U.S. company to sign a contract to explore for oil off China's coast.

In Hong Kong, the South China Morning Post quoted Vermeer as saying the ship was insured for about $13 million and the crew for $250 million.

A Chinese ship was expected to arrive Thursday from Singapore to support possible diving operations, oil industry sources said.

Dear Marines

Children send letters to express their support

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — In pencil and on blue-lined notebook paper, the words are simple, but from the heart.

Over and over again they say "we're sorry" and "we appreciate what you're doing." Some promise to join the fighting "when I grow up."

The words are from 10- and 11-year-olds and they are in a batch of 28 letters Judy Gibson's remedial reading class in Hamlet, N.C., sent to Camp Lejeune. The base forwarded them to the Marines in Beirut.

"Dear Marines, "I heard some of you had to go to Lebanon. If some of your friends got killed or hurt, I am sorry. I am so thankful because you are trying to save our countries. My friend, Lisa, said hello. "Your friend, Tracy Walters." Capt. Mary Ann Krusa-Dossin, director of the Family Services unit at Camp Lejeune, opened the youngsters' letters on Friday and immediately sent them to Beirut, where 229 Marines died a week ago in a terrorist attack.

"It's so touching to get letters like that," said Mrs. Krusa-Dossin, who said she thought the correspondence will help lift the spirits of the troops in Beirut.

"Dear Marines, "When we saw the news, my (8-year-old) brother said, 'I'm going to be a Marine one day. They are brave like me.' My grandmother started crying. That is a brave thing you did. "Your friend always, Robin Dawkins."

Mrs. Gibson, 41, said her pupils at Monroe Avenue Elementary School began talking about the terrorist bombing in Beirut last week and she was surprised at how spirited the discussion became.

"Some were very adamant in their feelings," she said. "Some were pretty angry and they were ready to go out and defend their country. This is a bit of patriotism that I have not seen in children in the last couple of years."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Navy men were killed and 35 injured today when flames raced through an engine aboard the aircraft carrier Ranger in the Arabian Sea, Navy sources said.

The fire was put out within an hour and the 79,000-ton ship continued to operate in the approaches to the Persian Gulf, said officials who spoke on condition their names not be used.

Loraine consolidation with C-City tabled

LORAINE — The idea of consolidation with Colorado City schools has been mothballed for now by the Loraine school board while it seeks alternate ways to aid the district's ailing financial status.

On Oct. 11, a group of Loraine residents concerned about the district's shrinking tax base and rising tax rate ($1.45 per $100 of evaluation) asked the school board to consider consolidating with the Colorado City school district.

However, since that time, the board has met with Commission of Education Raymon Bynum and come away a possible alternative to the problem — one which does not include consolidation.

"The school board is not interested in consolidation," said Loraine Superintendent Glenn Sanders. "The Concerned Citizens Committee asked us to look into the feasibility of alternatives to our problems, and that's what we have done by going to Austin."

Sanders said the board has opted for study of the district's financial status by the Texas Education Agency. Sanders said the study should give the district an idea of its alternatives and which ones would be suitable to the system's problems.

Ida Rodriguez, manager of the Spanish Inn, told sheriff's deputies Monday that someone damaged two doors and three windows of the business on Oct. 9 or 10, apparently by a pellet gun.

Blacksmith 'on the cutting edge'

INGRAM (AP) — Richard Ross creates precision work with a hammer and red-hot steel, deftly striking tempered pieces of metal until they twist and gracefully bend into rugged objects of art.

Ross quit his desk job with an Alabama medical school about three years ago to settle in the Hill Country and make his living as a blacksmith.

"People look in the door here and say, 'Oh, poor man. He should have been born 100 years ago.' But that's not the case," Ross said. "There's a misconception that modern blacksmiths are somehow trying to live in the past. Actually, I think we're on the cutting edge."

Ross, 33, said he's actually more of a "housemith," since most of the items he pounds out on his anvil are designed for use in homes.

"I'm basically self-taught," he said. "I received some guidance from individuals, but what's more important is to get a hammer and some hot metal and to shape it to your will."

Ross moved to this pastoral town after stumbling across the Guadalupe Forge, a downtown building with soot-stained rafters from the almost-constant fire smoking in the forge.

"I envisioned something more modern, but that's a tradeoff," he said. "Now I enjoy the rustic, old-style setting."

As he talked, he struck a glowing strand of steel on the 130-pound anvil, ans — with finished pieces going for prices ranging from about $20 to $80.

"There's a revival of interest in blacksmithing," he said. "There are doctors and lawyers who do this as a hobby. You'd be surprised — but just look at the Smiths in the phone book and realize the history of the art."

Blacksmithing began, Ross explained, when alchemists heated the metals found in fallen meteorites and fashioned them into animal shapes.

"It started as an art form and worked its way through the industrial revolution, but machines have taken over most of that," he said. "It's up to the modern blacksmith to bring it back as an art form."

Ross, who eschews the traditional leather apron in favor of T-shirts and jeans, said he makes about everything — but not horseshoes.

"I just have no interest in doing that," he said. "I think I'd get bored."

About ditching the desk job, Ross said he had no regrets or second thoughts.

"When I first got here, I probably worked 46 days straight without a day off," he recalled. "It was almost like I couldn't stop. I felt like I had to learn my craft."

"To me, it's a form of wealth," he said. "To wake up in the morning and be excited about what you're committed to is a wealth. And to make a living at it is just extra."

which squats next to a table loaded with a stack of fireplace tools in progress. Some sport longhorns and rams' heads, a traditional smithy subject.

Ross uses his expertise and muscular arms to hammer out trivets, branding irons, bootscrapers, hooks and a host of other items, but considers fireplace tools his speciality.

Test brands blanket almost the entire wall behind the forge, where the coals are kept hot by airblasts from a motor blower.

Ross said he works mostly on commissions — almost entirely from Tex-

"I'm sorry about the Marines having to die for us, but I'm glad to be an American.

"Your friend, Famante Reid."

"Dear U.S. Marines, "We are proud of you. When I saw the news, I was proud of all of the Marines. My mother was proud of the Marines, too. I wish you luck for helping our country. "Your friend, Michelle Smith."

"Dear U.S. Marines, "I've heard what has happened. Russians make me sick. I'm going to fight for you some day. I'm glad all of you helped keep peace over there. "Your friend, Al Wilkes."

"Hi. I heard on the TV that we had some Marines in Lebanon. I am very sorry that some of your people got killed but I thank you all for fighting for us. "Your friend, Shelly Caison."

$129, up from $101.75 Friday, before closing the day at $124.50 on 1.9 million shares traded.

"Now we can have a high degree of confidence in TI ability to have earnings of $10 to $12 a share next year," said Michael Krasko, analyst with L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin.

"I applaud the decision. I know that TI has a lot of pride and this was very, very difficult for them," he said. "But this shows TI is seriously committed to generating a profitable return for its investors."

John Geraghty, a vice president with Dean, Witter, Reynolds & Co., said TI's decision will enhance its reputation with investors. "I put it (TI stock) on the buy list this morning, but I sure didn't think it would go up 22 points," he said. "I think a lot of people now will begin to value TI as a semiconductor company with a good government electronics business and some other things that aren't going to cause financial harm."

strike except for the loss of Greyhound traffic, Manager Jim Owens said yesterday. None of the terminal's workers belong to the bus union, he said.

Greyhound, which is based in Scottsville, Ariz., has 666 workers in Texas, company spokeswoman Beth Meyer said.

Greyhound serves 11 major Texas cities — Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Laredo, Lubbock, and San Antonio — and intermediate points.

Workers authorized a strike against Greyhound Lines Inc. when the current three-year contract expired at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

But union president Harry Rosenblum said Monday afternoon that employees would keep working if progress was made at the bargaining table, and later said the deadline was delayed to help the public make alternate travel arrangements.

"We always are willing to leave the door open but I am not expecting any change," Rosenblum said Monday night after talks broke down hours from the expiration date of a three-year contract.

"And I'd be thrilled to death by any meaningful offer." There will be no further negotiations unless the company changes what it described Monday as a final offer, Rosenblum said.

Greyhound, the nation's largest intercity bus carrier, has said it intends to keep its buses running, even if the union strikes. But Ms. Meyer said the carrier probably would suspend service for a week to a week and a half.

Greyhound has proposed wage and fringe benefit cuts that Rosenblum said amount to 20 to 25 percent for each of the union's 12,700 members.

The union council represents 31 locals nationwide. Greyhound said under the contract its 7,546 bus drivers earned an average of $27,437 a year in wages and $8,307 in fringe benefits; terminal workers earned $20,429 in wages and $6,185 in benefits; maintenance workers earned $21,576 in wages and $6,534 in benefits, and office workers earned $16,947 in salary and $5,312 in benefits.

Greyhound has a fleet of 3,800 buses and carried 57 million passengers last year, spokeswoman Leslie White said.

U.S. oil, gas drilling activity drops slightly

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil and gas drilling activity in the U.S. dropped slightly in the past week, but registered about the same level as a year ago, a Hughes Tool Co. report said.

The tally for the week ending Monday showed 2,409 active rigs, down nine from a week earlier, and four fewer than recorded during the same period in 1982, the report said.

Texas had 879 rigs operating, more than any other state and 62 more than at the time same a year ago. California showed the largest increase, up seven at 115. New Mexico had the largest decline, down eight at 72.

The number of offshore mobile rigs working in the Gulf of Mexico was unchanged for the week, with 139 of the 219 rigs operating.

Worldwide, the utilization rate has started reflecting the traditional seasonal decline. Currently, there are 540 of 723 rigs worldwide working.

Telephone store moves

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. of Big Spring said today it is moving its equipment store from the business office at 205 E. Fourth to Wheat Furniture Store at 115 East Second.

Customers needing to pick up, exchange or drop off telephone sets must go to the new location, the company said.

The store will be open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The store move is one of many changes in the telephone company stemming from its recent divestiture.

Astronaut loses plane

PITTSBURGH — For a while it looked as though the first American to orbit the earth, Sen. John Glenn, might have lost his latest ship.

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination flew his Beechcraft Baron airplane to Allegheny County's airport Sunday night. But when he returned from a campaign speech in downtown Pittsburgh, it was gone.

The 62-year-old Glenn, his aides and police searched for about 15 minutes before the plane turned up in a Page Avjet Corp. hangar.

An employee for Page Avjet, George Diggins, explained that he thought the Baron had been left for repairs, so he had rolled it inside.

After the senator from Ohio and his wife Anne had taken off, Diggins asked: "Who was that guy in the business suit?"

John Glenn, he was told. "Heck," said Diggins, "if I'd known that, I would have shook his hand."

Prince plays prank

LONDON — Prince Andrew often is a target for the wiles of celebrity-seeking picture-takers. But the 23-year-old prince had a chance to turn the tables and join a conspiracy to trap a favored photographer.

Royal photographer Norman Parkinson showed up Monday at a Mayfair art gallery expecting to take pictures of the prince.

Instead, with Andrew in on the surprise, the television host of the British version of "This is Your Life," Eamonn Andrews, crept up behind Parkinson and announced: "This is your life!"

The prince later joined an audience of 600 at the Royalty Theater for the show and led the applause and laughter as American model Carmen Dell'Orefice, whom Parkinson had once photographed on roller skates, fell as she tried to repeat her skating feat.

"I hope I don't get involved in one of these again," said Andrew with a smile as he left the after-show party.

Unforgettable impression

HIGHTSTOWN, N.J. — Publisher Walter Annenberg says The Peddie School made an "unforgettable impression" on him when he attended the college prep school in the 1920s.

Just how unforgettable was made clear Monday with the announcement that Annenberg had pledged $12 million to the school — apparently the largest gift ever to a secondary school.

Annenberg, a 1927 Peddie grad who was voted "most likely to succeed," was not present at a ceremony where the pledge was announced. But the founder of TV Guide and former ambassador to Great Britain issued a statement saying he "received an excellent education at the school."

He said he made the gift because Peddie is soliciting donations for improvements and "because of the growing concern nationwide that our secondary schools need to improve if America is to maintain its leadership position in a changing world."

Anne Rosenfeld, of the Boston-based National Association of Independent Schools, said the gift was the largest "as far as we know" to a secondary school.

Actors injured in accident

LONDON — It might have happened in America's Old West, but instead, it was in Jolly Old England that three top actors, including Paul Scofield, were injured in a stage-coach accident.

The 61-year-old Scofield, winner of an Oscar for best actor in 1966 for his role in "A Man for All Seasons," was hurt Monday during the filming of "The Shooting Party" in Amersham, about 15 miles west of London, when the coach overturned.

He suffered rib and leg injuries and was treated at Wycombe General Hospital in High Wycombe.

Actors Edward Fox and Robert Hardy also suffered minor injuries, and were released after treatment.

'Strangler' convicted

LOS ANGELES — A jury summoned almost two years ago returned its first verdict in the "Hillside Strangler" cases — guilty of one murder — and now must decide whether a 50-year-old car upholsterer also killed nine other people and deserves to die.

Angelo Buono Jr. remained expressionless as the verdict was read Monday to a hushed, packed courtroom just 16 days before the trial's two-year anniversary on Nov. 16.

The trial, which included testimony from 392 witnesses and 1,807 exhibits and whose transcript ran almost 56,000 pages, is the longest criminal trial in the history of California and possibly the United States.

Buono was convicted of killing Lauren Rae Wagner, 18, a business college student from Los Angeles who was kidnapped near her parents' home on Nov. 28, 1977, burned with an electrical cord and then strangled. Her body was found the next day along Cliff Drive in the Glassell Park section of Los Angeles.

"For Mr. Buono, it's obviously got to be a setback," said one of his two attorneys, Katherine Mader. "Anytime someone has been convicted of something to send him to prison for the rest of his life, it's got to be a setback."

Buono was "disappointed," said his other attorney, Gerald Chaleff, who added that he intends to appeal any conviction.

In most of the Hillside Strangler cases, the victims, ranging in age from 12 to 28, were raped or otherwise sexually assaulted, strangled and their nude bodies dumped along Los Angeles-area hillsides.

The victims included prostitutes solicited by telephone, an aspiring actress, students and others picked up hitchhiking or by men posing as police officers — a fact that made real officers suspect to women fearful because of the slayings.

Superior Court Judge Ronald George told the jurors, deliberating in seclusion since Oct. 20 on the 10 murder charges against Buono, to continue their deliberations today on the nine remaining murder counts. He also told them to consider whether there were special circumstances in the Wagner slaying that would make Buono eligible for the death penalty.

"This was a very, very strong count," Deputy Attorney General Roger Boren said of the Wagner slaying. "It was very easy for the jury to reach this conclusion. There was very strong evidence."

Anchorwoman 'appalled'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Former television anchorwoman Christine Craft says she's "appalled" and will fight a judge's ruling to throw out a $500,000 verdict in her sex discrimination case after citing "her apparent indifference to matters of appearance."

U.S. District Judge Joseph E. Stevens Jr. on Monday ordered a new trial, saying the jury verdict on Ms. Craft's allegations of fraud against Metromedia Inc. was excessive and resulted from "passion, prejudice, confusion or mistake."

He also ruled that her demotion by KMBC-TV was not the result of sex discrimination and criticized excessive publicity in the case.

"This totally throws out the jury's role and function," said Dennis Egan, an attorney for Ms. Craft. Kenneth W. Green, foreman of the four-woman, two-man jury, said Monday he did not believe the jury was biased by the publicity.

"It's like a boxing match," Ms. Craft said today on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program. "But there are several rounds to go."

Earlier, in Milwaukee on a speaking tour, Ms. Craft said, "I am appalled. I am not surprised, however. I think as a reporter, I was prepared for the worst. I wasn't ready to pop any champagne corks yet."

Ms. Craft's lawyers said they were investigating whether the judge's decision could be appealed immediately to delay or prevent the start of the new trial, which Stevens set for Jan. 4 in Joplin, about 120 miles south of Kansas City.

"We are pleased with the outcome," said Sandra L. Schermerhorn, a lawyer for Metromedia. "We are very hopeful that the new trial on the issue of fraud will turn out favorable to Metromedia."

Ms. Craft, 38, had claimed that she was demoted from co-anchor of news broadcasts to reporter at KMBC-TV in Kansas City in August 1981 for being considered too old, unattractive and not deferential enough to men. Metromedia owned the station then, but sold it to the Hearst Corp.

However, Stevens wrote in a 26-page ruling that KMBC-TV demoted Ms. Craft because her "below-average aptitude in matters of clothing and makeup" had damaged the station's ratings.

Leaders plan protest

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Roman Catholic leaders are planning a national protest Wednesday because of attacks on a bishop and eight churches by backers of Nicaragua's leftist government, and a rightist death squad is threatening El Salvador's archbishop.

In Managua, Monsignor Bismark Carballo, spokesman for the Nicaraguan church, Monday announced plans for a protest in response to the attacks Sunday by Sandinista demonstrators upset by church criticism of a new military conscription law.

In El Salvador, a rightist death squad Monday warned the country's two top church leaders they can't "hide behind their vestments" if they continue using Sunday homilies to conduct what it called a pro-communist "campaign of misinformation."

The Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez Anti-Communist Brigade claimed to have "evidence" that Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas and Auxiliary Bishop Gregorio Rosa Chavez are in contact with leftist guerrillas fighting to overthrow the government.

"Their Sunday homilies tend to divide the Salvadoran family, promoting false arguments that facilitate the campaign of misinformation which profits those who employ communist propaganda to pursue their aggression against the country," the group said in a communique.

Miss Lillian's funeral set

PLAINS, Ga. — A white ribbon, whispered condolences and a scrawled, "Goodbye, Miss Lillian," served as simple tributes in advance of graveside ceremonies for the mother of former President Jimmy Carter.

Lillian Carter, who died of cancer Sunday at age 85, was described as a "pioneer woman" and as "a lot of fun" by residents of this tiny southwest Georgia town.

She was to be buried this afternoon next to her husband's grave, less than a mile from her last residence, "Pond House."

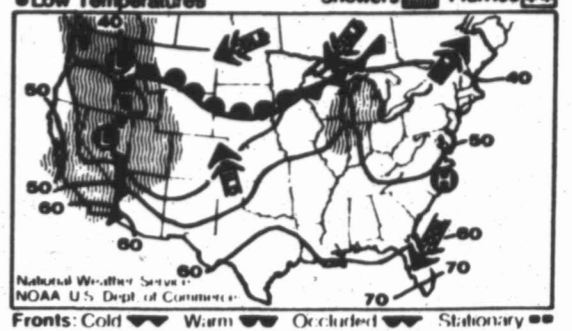

The former president and his family remained at the house Monday. Carter and his brother Billy helped bear their mother's coffin in from a hearse.

Among those who telephoned to express their condolences was President Reagan, a White House spokesman said.

At the downtown railroad depot which served as headquarters for the Carter presidential campaigns in 1976 and 1980, a white ribbon was placed on the locked entrance as a small memento.

For the cost of dry cleaning a suit an electric washer will run 100 hours.

Back when electricity was 2¢ per KWH, dry cleaning a suit cost 50¢. Now electricity is higher in price. But dry cleaning and a host of other services and commodities are many times higher than they were then.

Cooperative electric convenience costs more today. Still, it will never cost a penny more than is necessary to insure a continued abundant supply for your careful convenient use. It's a cooperative promise based on more than 40 years of dependable service.

Book burnings torch our liberty

In Vermont, local citizens burned a school library copy of Ernest Hemingway's classic novel, "The Sun Also Rises." In New Mexico, a parent objected to alleged obscenity in the "Merriam-Webster New Collegiate Dictionary," and a school superintendent removed 100 copies from the schools. In Alabama, 700 parents signed a petition protesting John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," and it was removed from English classes.

These are three of dozens of book-burning and censorship attacks reported this year in America.

It's easy to laugh them off as anomalies in a country which prizes freedom of speech. But incidents such as these have been documented in 48 states in the past year, according to a list compiled by People for the American Way, an anti-censorship group.

There seems to be no rhyme or reason to the choice of books targeted for attack across the country. They include "The Diary of Anne Frank," "Huckleberry Finn," "The Catcher in the Rye" and Newsweek magazine.

The Pro-Family Forum, the Moral Majority and Mel and Norma Gabler's Educational Research Analysts are three groups which organize censorship campaigns to remove books from schools. A circular from the Pro-Family Forum says: "Let's protect our families from child molesters!" It advises parents to "examine your child's library and textbooks for immoral, anti-family, anti-American content. . . . Objectionable material should be taken to the principal. . . . Voice your views to the state school board, state legislators, governor, and U.S. congressmen."

We have a better suggestion. If you hear of a book being taken off the shelves of your school library, question officials why they are engaging in censorship. Take the case to court, if necessary. Censorship in schools must be fought on a case-by-case basis, so that it never becomes a blanket form of intimidation.

If a book offends, it can always be closed. If a school censors dictionaries and classics, it can't open minds to learning.

Sweet sound

Having just gone through a name change myself, I've learned that a person's name is a very special thing. Although there are those who would have us go by only first and last names, or by our social security number and forget names altogether, there are others who put a lot of thought into what they are called.

In my behavior modification classes I've been told that the sweetest sound to any other human being is the sound of their own name. Use a person's name and you can hold their attention. Call them by the wrong name or no name and the bond between you is not as strong.

If that is the case, then people should be called what they want to be called. If they want to be called by one syllable, fine. If they want to be called by six or seven names strung together, fine. If they want to be called Rosebud, Redwood, Moonchild, or Forest, fine. There are reasons behind what we are called, and other people shouldn't dictate what we call ourselves.

Many people don't hold on to one name throughout their whole lives. Things get tagged on, like the titles of doctor, reverend, chief, coach, or professor. These titles are earned, and the people who earn them have every right to be proud of the title and to use it.

When I married and changed my last name, I went through a little identity crisis. Suddenly, no one was quite sure who I was because I had a new name. In order to clear that up, I began using my maiden name as my middle name. Like most people who go by more than one name, I used my maiden name and my husband's name as a means to identify myself. It's hard to give up your name when you've had it for more than a quarter of a century, but it was also my choice to take my husband's last name. I'm glad I have the right to use the name I choose to use.

Someday, after people get used to calling me by my new last name, I'll probably start phasing out my maiden name just as a means of convenience. But if and when I do that it should be my choice, not someone else who thinks my name is too long. Like I said, names are personal and should be the choice of the person who has to answer to them.

Russia key to Lebanon

WASHINGTON — "Reculer pour mieux sauter" is a French phrase meaning "to pull back the better to jump forward." That image provides the right American response to the mass murder of the Marines in Lebanon.

For this country now has to lead friends and allies in redressing the balance against a new collection of radical states and revolutionary movements that threatens the whole Middle East. As a first step in the process, the U.S. needs to recover freedom of action as a superpower by extricating the Marines from the Beirut trap that makes this country a hostage to Syria and its proxies.

The emergence of Syria is the prime expression of a fundamental reshuffling in the Middle East. As radical nationalists, the Syrians enjoy the support of Moscow. Thus the Russians rebuilt Syrian armies after a bad beating at the hands of the Israelis in the Lebanese war last summer.

Ideological harmony bestows upon the regime of President Hafez Assad close ties with the Iran of the Ayatollah Khomeini. Khomeini's revolutionary drive gives Assad the drop on several other Arab states.

Saudi Arabia, fearful of the Ayatollah's religious fundamentalism, and of possible attacks on the oilfields, pays generous subsidies to Syria as insurance against Iran. The Saudi tilt works to neutralize several countries ordinarily hostile to Syria — namely Iraq, Egypt, Jordan and the sheikhdoms of the Gulf.

Further freedom of action is conferred upon Syria by two other historic changes in the region. First, there was the wipeout of the Palestine Liberation Organization as the prime sower of trouble in Lebanon. In its place there has sprung up a host of desperado forces hostile to the government of Lebanon. They include the Druze militia, the militia of the Shi-ite Moslems, or Amal, and the Iranian revolutionaries. While Syria may not control them absolutely, it controls the atmosphere in which they work, and manipulates their moves.

Then there is the Israeli withdrawal inside Lebanon. The redeployment, as the Israelis call it, constitutes their first voluntary abandonment of territory seized from the Arabs. In Arab eyes, it looks like a sign of weakness, a case of finching. Since the U.S., for once, did not force the Israeli pullback, the influence that accrued to Washington as the only possible rein on Israel also diminished — especially in the view of President Assad.

With so much to gain and so little to lose, it was inevitable that the Syrians and their friends would test their strength. That is why some of us, normally partial to an assertive American posture in the Middle East, began calling for an early withdrawal of the Marines. Though it is psychologically harder in the wake of the bombing, their withdrawal to a place that is not a magnet for attack is still a first prerequisite.

The next requirement is a coordinated political and military buildup. More American forces will be required around the area, though not in Beirut or maybe even in Lebanon itself. The visit of Francois Mitterrand to Beirut suggests that the French will join with the U.S.

The Israelis have the strongest army on the ground by far. They will have to be the spearhead of any move on the Syrians. So a tightening of lines between the U.S. and Israel is in order.

Lebanon, with an American mediator off its back, can be counted on to offer some resistance to the Syrians. American prodding can cause several other states to jostle Damascus. King Hussein, after all, knows that Assad has designs on Jordan. The Egyptians see in Syria a prime rival for leadership in the Arab world. Turkey knows Syria as a source of deadly terrorists, and an unsatisfied claimant on Turkish territory.

A diplomatic effort — including a fuss at the United Nations, to cut short Iran's war of attrition against Iraq — also makes sense at this point. The fighting is dangerous in itself, and if the Iranians can be put on the defensive, the Saudis will feel that much easier about not supporting Syria.

The drill, once these moves are underway, is to dig in and sit tight. The Syrians and the Russians hold the initiative. But apart from roughing up a little piece of Lebanon, there is not a lot they can do with it. Once the United States stands tough, they have no good choices in the Middle East.

When that point asserts itself, the U.S. will once again be in position to negotiate — but not mainly with the Syrians, as the Arabists will probably urge. The Syrians have no interest in order, and Americans who have recently tried to deal — including Ambassador Philip Habib and Robert McFarlane, the new national security adviser — have been swindled.

No, this time the negotiations should be with the other superpower. For the Russians need a breathing space with the U.S. and have a lot to lose if the Syrians plunge. Only with the Russians, moreover, can the U.S. block out the kind of general accord that will ensure the Marines did not die in the vain.

Drunk driving a terrible crime

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why don't you say anything about drunk driving? We recently lost our only daughter to a drunk driver, and the judge let the driver off with almost no penalty. — MRS. B. V.

DEAR MRS. B. V.: I have actually spoken out frequently against drunk driving, as well as other automobile-related safety matters — but perhaps not as frequently as I should in this column. Drunk driving is clearly one of the most serious social problems we face in our nation. Probably well over half of the fatal car accidents in our nation are alcohol-related — a terrible toll of tens of thousands of lives each year.

Certainly you have put your finger on one of the problems we have in combating this critical issue. There certainly has been a tendency by our legal system to treat driving as a minor offense instead of the serious matter it is. If someone walked into a crowded shopping mall waving a loaded pistol and threatening to shoot anyone who got in his way I suspect the police and the law courts would treat it very seriously. If someone gets on an airplane and threatens to blow it up, it is treated as a very serious offense. But a drunk driver loose on the roads is every bit as dangerous, and we must back much stronger penalties for this offense. (Some countries in Europe have done this, and have much less of a problem with drunk drivers).

Drunk driving is only one part of the larger problem of alcoholism that plagues our nation today. Right now there may be someone reading this who knows that alcohol has taken possession of him, or that person may even have refused to face the fact that they have gotten hooked on alcohol (or some other drug). If that is your situation, my prayer for you is not only that you would never, never drive while drunk, but that you would face your need honestly. The first step to take — and the most important step in life for any of us — is to open your heart to Christ and ask him to help you fight this problem. It may not be easy, but you need God's help and he wants to help you if you will turn to him in faith and trust.

Today Grenada, tomorrow Cuba

WASHINGTON — Was the U.S. invasion of Grenada just a warm-up for an attack on Cuba? This startling possibility cannot be lightly dismissed. Here's why:

As far as Ronald Reagan is concerned, the 1962 U.S.-Soviet agreement — no Soviet missiles in Cuba, no U.S. invasion of the island — does not exist.

And he's right — though for the wrong reasons. Reagan's view is that the Kremlin has abrogated the agreement by repeated violation of its provisions. Therefore, the United States is no longer bound by its pledge not to invade Cuba.

But the truth is this: The supposedly ironclad agreement between President Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev never actually existed.

The Soviets did not agree never to deploy offensive weapons in Cuba, for the simple reason that the two sides disagreed over the definition of offensive vs. defensive weapons. So the Soviets can "legally" put medium-range nuclear missiles on the island, within 10 minutes' flight time or less of most major U.S. cities and other targets.

On the U.S. side, the absence of an agreement means we can "legally" invade Cuba. We always could.

The fascinating thing is that for 21 years the State Department has kept up the pretense that there was an agreement. This diplomatic "Potemkin village" has served as reassurance to the American people that the Kremlin had agreed not to put missiles or other offensive weapons in Cuba.

To maintain the fiction that an agreement was made, the State Department has kept a close hold on the secret portions of the 1962 U.S.-Soviet negotiations.

At his Sept. 14 press conference, President Reagan said: "That agreement has been abrogated many times by the Soviet Union and Cuba, in the bringing of what can only be considered offensive weapons, not defensive, there."

To make sure he was on solid ground for that accusation, Reagan sent William Clark, who was then national security adviser, to examine the 1962 documents to see exactly what they said. Incredibly, the State Department stalled.

But my associate Dale Van Atta has gained access to the top secret documents that the State Department denied to Clark and the president. He also obtained three different secret State Department reviews of the supposed agreement.

One of these, a 1981 memorandum, lets the cat out of the bag. It says: "We have in the past taken the position, at least internally, that the 1962 U.S.-Soviet exchanges were not legally binding agreements. . . . (But) it would be ill-advised to continue to foster the view that these exchanges are less than legally binding understandings."

The secret documents make clear that while the Russians removed their nuclear missiles from Cuba they did not agree that the weapons were "offensive in nature." When presented with a list of weapons the United States considered offensive, the Soviets balked.

After a Nov. 5, 1962, meeting with Soviet diplomat Anatoly Dobrynin, Attorney General Robert Kennedy wrote a memo to his brother, the president, saying: "I explained to Dobrynin that from the first it had been made clear by the Soviet Union that they would get rid of any weapons which we considered offensive." But Dobrynin did not agree.

Two days later, a top-secret cable from Secretary of State Dean Rusk referred to "a confidential indication that the Soviet Government takes strong exception to the list of weapons we consider offensive."

And Khrushchev himself wrote to President Kennedy in a top-secret letter: "You yourself refer not to direct obligations of the sides but to the understanding implied by the American side in the expression 'offensive weapons.'"

FEUD OF THE WEEK: On Capitol Hill, memories are long and dog-in-the-manger attitudes are not unheard of. Both seem to be factors in the bitter feud between Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla. The bizarre bone of contention is the chairmanship of the U.S. Helsinki Commission — hardly one of the great sources of power in Washington.

Dole is co-chairman of the commission and Fascell is chairman. Dole covets his neighbor's title, even though he has shown minimal interest in the commission's work, which is to monitor Soviet human rights violations.

In fact, the senator has even urged that the commission be abolished to save money. "The world will little note nor long remember the U.S. Helsinki Commission," he said, "except as a footnote in the pages of diplomatic history."

Part of Dole's rancor may be due to the experience of one of his staff aides, Mike Packard. Dole pressured Fascell into making Packard a deputy director of the commission, at $50,000 a year. But Packard's performance — including falling asleep at one Madrid conference and leaving another to go shopping — led Fascell to fire him.

Another reason may date back to Watergate. The commission's staff director, Spencer Oliver, worked at the Democratic National Committee in 1972. His phone was one of those tapped by the Watergate burglars.

Halloween takes deadly turn

By The Associated Press
Benign vampires capered through New York City streets amid Groucho-masked nuns and human-sized bread slices, but Halloween took a gruesome turn elsewhere, with deadly fires set by Detroit pranksters and shootings in two states that killed one girl and injured another.

Reports of tainted candy and goodies laden with pins and needles marred Monday night's holiday in Arizona, just over a year after the Tylenol poisonings worried parents of trick-or-treaters.

But officials in other states reported a calm Halloween, made safer by curfews, organized events for children and X-ray stations where parents could bring treats to spot tampering.

"We just didn't see many trick-or-treaters out tonight," said police Lt. Jim Webb in Muskogee, Okla. "The city had little programs for the kids to go to — carnivals — and that kept a lot of them off the street."

However, in Macon, Ga., a 9-year-old girl died in a NUN TOO SERIOUS — Revelers in Monday night's 10th annual Village Halloween party show that the parade can be habit-forming as they march through the Greenwich Village section of New York. Some 250,000 people turned out to march in and watch the parade.

Georgia hospital today after she was wounded when an unknown gunman fired into a group of children as they were trick-or-treating Monday night, police said.

And in upstate New York, police said a man who answered his door expecting trick-or-treaters was shot with a rifle by one of two men in army fatigues and blackened faces. His 3-year-old daughter was also wounded.

The streets of New York City's Greenwich Village were thronged Monday night, but most of the 250,000 revelers were grown-ups playing at being children for one night for the 10th annual Halloween parade through the Bohemian heart of the city.

Costumes ranged from the sedate — a red, white and black painted face over a business suit — to the outrageous: a carton of milk, a seven-slice loaf of white bread, and an entire family of ancient Egyptians.

Seven witches on stilts swept through the crowd with long brooms and 10 nuns wearing Groucho Marx masks marched in single file.

Look at how everybody's having a good time. New York's hostility disappears," said Michael Dantzin, 60, who wore a deathly white painted face, an old Army hat, a tuxedo jacket, white gloves and flaming red briefs over white tights. He said he was a state judge who participated in the parade every year because "I get to hide this way."

In Detroit, one man died and two firefighters were slightly injured in as many as 600 fires set on Devil's Night, the 24-hour period that ended at noon Monday, fire officials said.

"It was one of the worst nights the department has had in its history," said Fire Chief Maruice Roche. "We could have had a disaster if an apartment building had gone up."

Officials said the fires were set by teen-age pranksters, not professional arsonists.

Minor damage was reported to three public schools and residents of two apartment buildings were evacuated when the pre-dawn blaze spread from abandoned buildings.

The body of a 20-year-old man was pulled from the burned ruins of an abandoned building early Monday, firefighters said.

Eye troubles may signal AIDS

CHICAGO (AP) — Eye problems such as blurred vision, spotty images and drooping eyelids can be an early sign of AIDS and also can alert doctors to other curable, sexually transmitted diseases, say doctors attending a meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Two physicians at the group's annual meeting in Chicago this week are presenting studies suggesting certain eye problems can signal the start of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, an incurable, often deadly disease.

Dr. Alan G. Palestine of the National Eye Institute at Bethesda, Md., said that individuals with eye lesions — spots on the retina arising from any of four major diseases, including Kaposi's Sarcoma — should be suspected as AIDS victims if they are in "high-risk" groups.

Palestine presented a study suggesting that monitoring eye lesions in AIDS victims can be an effective way to assess the effect of treatment for the disease.

However, a paper prepared by Dr. Leslie S. Fujikawa, a San Francisco eye specialist, said three cases of AIDS studied began with blurred vision or drooping eyelids, but were never associated with eye lesions.

Two of the three patients died, and one is in grave condition.

AIDS is marked by the inability of the body's immune system to resist disease. The cause of the disorder is not known, but it is probably due to a yet unidentified virus.

Homosexuals, Haitians, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs are most likely to get AIDS. It is apparently spread by sexual contact, contaminated needles and blood transfusions, not by casual contact.

Since AIDS appeared in 1979, it has struck 2,513 people and claimed 1,048 lives as of Oct. 19.

Woman gives music program at meeting of Hyperion Club

Mrs. Robert Bonnington spoke about music at the GFWC 1905 Hyperion Club meeting at Big Spring Country Club, Oct. 20.

The string family descended from the viol of the 16th century, Mrs. Bonnington said. The viols had several physical differences from modern string instruments including more slopes in the shoulders, a flat back and deeper ribs.

The viols had six strings and the bow was held palm up. The two types of viols were viola da Gamba, which was held on the knee, and viola da Braccio, which was held against the shoulder.

A master of violin making was Cremona. Niccolò Amati created the classical shape by flattening the body, deepening the middle bouts, sharpening the corners, and rounding the holes in a more elegant shape. Amati's most famous pupil was Antonio Stradivari, who made violins.

The cello is the bass size of the violin and is tuned an octave and a fifth below. The cello originally was used only for accompaniment. Domenico Gabrielli was first to use the cello as a solo instrument.

Mrs. Bonnington played two pieces on the cello. Performing from St. Mary's Episcopal School were Lee Ann Tillery, Susan Warrington, Ashley McCann, Tracey Owen, Donna Reitzer and Sunny Fraser.

The club gave $25 to Howard County Library Friends of the Library and three books as memorials of deceased members.

The trustees of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Historical Foundation are compiling a cookbook for publication to help defray the cost of reroofing the Headquarters building. Each federated club will submit four recipes. Submitting recipes from the club are Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Sr., Mrs.

Aubry Stokes and Mrs. Chesley McDonald.

A report of the recent Western District's Fall Board meeting at the Big Spring Country Club was given.

Mrs. Avery speaks on individual's growth

Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery and Associates, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the La Posada restaurant, Oct. 25.

Mrs. Avery emphasized six areas of growth of an individual: physical, spiritual, mental, social, financial and career, and self and family. She warned against concentrating on one area. To become a well-balanced person one should develop and work at all the areas of growth.

In order to succeed in life, one has to keep before them a set of goals; specifically, crystallize a plan and follow through with it. Use persistence and determination. Don't let society intimidate a person for making mistakes because mistakes can be used as a learning tool.

Everyone owes something to their community, so they should be involved. A person should find out what talent he has that would help make his community a better place to live, then offer that talent. A good way for a person to find out what is needed, is to attend public meetings, find out who is doing what, and meet people who are concerned.

Dear Abby

Get married without getting stuck

DEAR ABBY: This letter is regarding "No Mrs. in Manhattan," who complained that her live-in lover, "Bobby," wouldn't marry her because he was terrified of needles, and he couldn't get married in New York without a blood test. To add to her problems, she was pregnant.

You suggested that Bobby see a "shrink" or consider hypnosis. You missed a painless solution, Abby. They could come to Nevada, obtain a marriage license without a blood test and get married the same day.

And by the way, divorce in Nevada is almost as quick and painless as marriage.

JACK IN NEVADA

DEAR JACK: Thanks for the good news from the most popular hitching and unhitching post in the United States. Read on for some sunny news from California:

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "No Mrs. in Manhattan" to take Bobby to California, because the law there states that when an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, not minors, have been living together as husband and wife, they may, without a license and without obtaining health certificates, be married by any person authorized to solemnize a marriage.

MRS. IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR MRS.: California may not be the only state in which this law prevails. And because state laws change from day to day, I repeat my advice: If you have a legal problem, hire a lawyer and pay him (or her) for what he knows. The person who tries to be his own lawyer has a fool for a client. Even lawyers hire lawyers to represent them.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "No Mrs. in Manhattan," whose boyfriend was afraid to get married because of the blood test, to come to Arkansas. As of July of this year, the state of Arkansas no longer requires blood tests for marriage license applications. All we require is that the couple apply together, provide proof of age and $20 in cash.

I realize Arkansas is a long way from Manhattan, but the trip probably wouldn't be as painful to Bobby as the needle.

PHYLLIS MALLARD
DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK
CRAWFORD COUNTY, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: I am the holder of a mortgage on property sold to a relative. Payments are due the first day of each month. This relative dutifully writes the checks and dates them on the first day of the month, but the checks are not mailed until later, and some have arrived as late as the 11th! This infuriates me!

Apart from the interest that might be earned on the payments, and the concern that the check may be lost in the mail, the late arrival necessitates multiple trips to the bank and other inconveniences.

The law provides a 30-day grace period before a late payment penalty can be invoked.

Can you suggest a solution?

STEAMED

DEAR STEAMED: If the relative lives in your city, pick up the check on the first day of every month—or have someone pick it up for you. It may get your relative's back up, but it will keep your blood pressure down.

Dr. Donohue

Non-nursing milk production

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have galactorrhea. I am still producing milk from both of my breasts. My last pregnancy was more than three years ago. I had hormone tests and my levels are normal, and I have not missed periods. My doctor has ruled out pituitary tumor and says I have nothing to worry about. I trust my doctor's judgment, but I am still worried about the problem. Would you please discuss galactorrhea in your column, and what I should do about it? —J.G.M.

out in your case. Drugs can cause the phenomenon, the birth control pill among them. Thyroid gland disorders can lead to it, as can those of the adrenals and ovaries.

If no such cause can be found, then, as I said, the woman can be watched and rechecked to see if new signs have appeared, especially in some cases of galactorrhea. And other treatments are dependent on the cause. The problem sometimes subsides spontaneously.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can gout disappear, just like that? One attack, and no reappearance? I had this happen with great pain in my toe, which was diagnosed as gout. But I have had no reappearance of pain, and that was weeks ago. Am I home free? —J.L.

If you had those symptoms and if gout was diagnosed, then the odds are that you will have similar symptoms in the future. Gout is a problem having to do with how the body handles a substance called uric acid, the end result being a buildup of urate crystals in joints, the great toe being a prime site.

It is not uncommon for the patient to experience apparent remission, as you have. Most often, however, the problem returns to haunt him, so treatment with or without symptoms present is recommended when the diagnosis has been made. For further information, read the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It," which other readers may obtain by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

BEDWETTER

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting—What It's All About and How To End It", a report by two medical doctors. No obligation.

Staff members discuss issues at fall convention in Ft. Worth

Executive staff members attending from the West Texas Council were Peggy Sturrock, Linda Walker, Marianne Hooker, Troylene Stewart and Dolly Melendez.

The convention's program topic was "The One Minute Manager and Putting Her to Work." The consultant for the workshop was an associate of the author of "The One Minute Manager."

Participants learned practical managerial techniques. Utilizing skills to get the most out of people provided beneficial insight.

During the convention discussion groups studying issues facing Girl Scout staff members were formed. The groups covered the areas of new program delivery systems, the five year old girl scout, and utilizing computers.

The convention was hosted by the Tejas Council.

So long as you have had these tests to rule out serious causes, your periods are normal and your milk secretion is not a distressing problem, then periodic re-examination is the rational approach. I'm sure you can trust your doctor's judgment. But I want to say a few more things about the problem, which is really not uncommon.

Many events can cause it. Stimulation of breasts, even from chafing of clothing can lead to milk production. A pituitary gland tumor, as you imply, can result in it. That gland produces the hormone prolactin, which primes the breast for milk production. X-ray of the gland and determining blood levels of the hormone help in diagnosing such tumors. The condition is sometimes associated with lack of menstrual periods, ruled

Funds raised at the garage sale held by the club recently will be used for civic beautification projects.

Two groups opposing Clark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of Interior Secretary James Watt's fiercest environmental foes — the Sierra Club and the Wilderness Society — announced Monday they will fight the nomination of his successor, William P. Clark. But both groups conceded that Senate rejection of the appointment is highly unlikely.

The Sierra Club branded Clark's overtures to environmentalists "disappointing and cosmetic" and called on him to show his seriousness in reversing course by firing five of Watt's top deputies.

William Turnage of the Wilderness Society said, "It serves nothing to trade the worst secretary of the interior in history for one who is arguably the least qualified."

Both groups attacked Clark's lack of a conservationist background and urged the Senate to review his voting record on the California Supreme Court.

Controversial trial begins

DALLAS (AP) — Jury selection began Monday in the aggravated robbery trial of a black engineer whose claim he is a victim of racial prejudice and poor investigative procedures has captured national attention.

Anthony Williams, a 25-year-old former E-Systems Inc. engineer in the Northeast Texas city of Greenville, could be sentenced to life imprisonment if convicted in the Aug. 22, 1982 armed robbery of a suburban Dallas convenience store. His former roommate and co-worker, 25-year-old Lenell Geter, received a life sentence last fall for a similar robbery of a Balch Springs fast-food restaurant Aug. 23, 1982, despite testimony from 10 E-Systems employees that he was at work when the crime occurred.

Prosecutors have attempted to depict Williams and Geter as "recreational robbers" who lived on both sides of the law.

ANTHONY WILLIAMS

Socialite convicted in plot

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A judge today sentenced New York socialite Frances Bernice Schreuder to life in prison for having persuaded her son to kill her millionaire father five years ago.

Third District Judge Ernest F. Baldwin denied a defense request that Mrs. Schreuder be allowed freedom on bail until the resolution of an expected appeal of her conviction for first-degree murder.

Mrs. Schreuder showed no emotion when Baldwin sentenced her to life in Utah State Prison. Moments before, she told Baldwin: "I am innocent of the charges, your honor, and I intend to vindicate myself."

Mrs. Schreuder was convicted Sept. 27 of first-degree murder after her 22-year-old son, Marc Schreuder, testified at her trial that she had coaxed him to kill his grandfather, Franklin Bradshaw, 76, to keep Bradshaw from cutting her out of his will.

Bradshaw was gunned down at his Salt Lake auto parts warehouse in July 1978.

Mrs. Schreuder, 45, a member of the board of the New York City Ballet, appeared in court today in rumpled jail garb. She has been held in the Salt Lake City-County Jail since her jury conviction.

Bernice Bradshaw, Mrs. Schreuder's mother and the widow of the victim, wept quietly at several points during the sentencing.

APING BEHAVIOR — The first set of twin gorillas born in captivity in the northern hemisphere are held by workers at the Columbus, Ohio, zoo where the two were born last week. It marked only the third such birth in the world, according to zoo officials.

Zoo officials going ape over rare gorilla twins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rare male gorilla twins born last week at the Columbus Zoo should stay together, city officials say, despite rumors that one ape will be sent to his mother's home zoo in Omaha, Neb.

"We're going to work something out with the Omaha Zoo," said Columbus Parks and Recreation Director Melvin Dodge. "People who operate zoos are gentlemen."

The male twins were born Wednesday to Bridgette, on loan from the Henry Doerly Zoo in Omaha.

The babies have been temporarily named Boy 1 and Boy 2. They are only the third set of gorilla twins born in captivity and the first in an American zoo.

Omaha was to get Bridgette's first offspring, and Columbus the second if another pregnancy followed. But no one expected twins.

Lee Simmons, director of the Omaha zoo, was to arrive in Columbus on Sunday to discuss the matter. And Columbus Zoo Director Jack Hanna said he will ask Simmons to accept a young female gorilla from the Columbus collection in place of the twins.

'Papa Bear' Halas dead in Chicago

THE HALAS YEARS — George Halas was involved in pro football for 60 years. From left, Halas as a player for the Bears in the 1920's; Halas as owner and coach in 1942; Halas in 1958; Halas in 1963; and Halas in 1974.

CHICAGO (AP) — "Papa Bear" George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears and last survivor of the pioneering group that founded modern professional football in a Canton, Ohio, auto showroom, has died at the age of 88.

Halas, whose teams won eight national championships and produced 20 members of pro football's Hall of Fame over a career that spanned seven decades, died just after 8:30 p.m. Monday at his apartment on Chicago's North Side, family members said.

Halas had been in and out of hospitals for the past year with heart problems and other ailments. His daughter, Virginia Halas McCaskey, was at his bedside when he died, his grandson, Rich McCaskey, said.

His death prompted an outpouring of tributes from former players, coaches and others who remembered his contributions to the game and his feisty, driving personality.

"George Halas leaves modern professional football as his memorial," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "He was the National Football League — its founder, the driving force that sustained it during struggling pioneer years, the owner-coach-innovator whose dynamic Bear teams triggered public acceptance of the NFL and the revered elder statesman whose vision and vitality were pivotal in the league's growth."

"I think the biggest quality Coach Halas had was he was a very inspirational guy," added current Bears Coach Mike Ditka, whose often-stormy career as a player under Halas spanned six seasons and included the team's last championship, in 1963.

"His talks at halftime — I wish that I had taped a few of them so that I could use them," Ditka said. "They were unbelievable. No matter what had happened in the first half, he could make you feel like you could do anything when you went back out the door. You may not be able to do it, but you thought you could."

Halas was the last survivor of 12 men who met in 1920 at a Canton, Ohio, automobile agency to establish the American Professional Football Association, forerunner of the National Football League.

On his 82nd birthday, Halas said: "It has been the most priceless privilege of my professional life to see our dreams come true and to watch our ugly duckling grow up to be a magnificent eagle."

He acknowledged that he "never thought it would be this big."

Halas, born Feb. 2, 1895, grew up on Chicago's West Side. He played college football at the University of Illinois, where the idea of professional football first occurred to him after he heard the legendary Coach Bob Zuppke lament, "When a boy finally learns to play football, he graduates from college."

After a stint in the Navy and a brief tenure as a right fielder for the New York Yankees — he often joked that he was "replaced" by Babe Ruth" — Halas in 1920 went to work for A. E. Staley, a corn products company in Decatur, Ill., "to learn the starch business."

There, he organized an athletic team, the Decatur Staleys.

By 1922, with financial backing from the company's owner, Halas was in Chicago coaching the team, now officially named the Bears.

Years of selling tickets and writing game stories himself, as well as passing hats in the stands to collect money for players, began to end when Halas arranged the signing of legendary Illinois running back Red Grange, "The Galloping Ghost," for $100,000 in 1925.

On Thanksgiving Day that year, Grange made his debut, drawing 36,000 fans to Wrigley Field. The Bears then went on a coast-to-coast tour, paving the way for football to become a big-time sport.

During the next four decades, Halas led his "Monsters of the Midway" to more victories than any other coach — college or professional — has ever won. (See 'Football' on page 2-B)

Moseley puts kick into win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For a few anxious minutes, Mark Moseley knew what it felt like to be in Neil O'Donoghue's shoes.

After missing four field goals in Monday night's game against San Diego, Moseley was fighting a case of nerves when he lined up for what he called "the hardest field goal I ever had to kick in my career."

"I was over there on the sidelines praying to get another chance," said Moseley, a veteran of 12 National Football League seasons.

His 37-yard field goal with four seconds left produced a 27-24 victory over the Chargers and helped Moseley, 35, conquer a confidence crisis that traced back to a key miss two weeks ago.

A year ago, he was near-perfect for the Super Bowl champion Redskins, hitting 20 of 21 field goals for an all-time NFL accuracy mark. Over two seasons, he had made 23 consecutive kicks, another NFL record.

But Monday night he was near the breaking point.

"I wouldn't be human if I didn't say I was thinking about the four misses," said Moseley, who had failed from 43, 52, 47 and 39 yards. He also had made a 43-yarder.

The winning kick "felt like I had a 1,000 pounds taken off my shoulders," a relieved Moseley told reporters. "It's been a mental struggle all year. Tonight was the turning point of my career."

It was the third consecutive week that a field goal kicker determined the outcome of the Monday night NFL game.

In last week's 20-20 tie between St. Louis and the New York Giants, the Cardinals' O'Donoghue missed three field goal attempts in the overtime period.

Two weeks ago Moseley missed a 39-yarder as time ran out, allowing the Green Bay Packers to preserve a 48-47 victory on Jan. Stenerud's 20-yard field goal with 54 seconds left.

Moseley's kick erased a dramatic comeback by the Chargers, who trailed 24-7 early in the fourth quarter and tied it at 24-24 with 1:52 remaining on a 43-yard field goal by Rollie Beirnschke.

San Diego quarterback Ed Luther overcame six interceptions, a fumble and a sack to ignite the 17-point fourth quarter with a pair of touchdown passes 4½ minutes apart.

But, after Beirnschke tied it, the Redskins drove 72 yards in the final two minutes to grab the

The Nebraska Cornhuskers, fresh off another lopsided victory, this time over Big Eight foe Kansas State, widened their lead over second-place Texas in the Associated Press college football poll.

The Cornhuskers polled 57 of 59 first-place votes and 1,178 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Texas, which defeated Texas Tech, received the other two first-place votes and 1,123 points.

Last week, with 58 voters participating, Nebraska had 54 first-place votes, while Texas received four.

Behind the two unbeaten powers, who have held down first- and second-place for seven straight weeks, there was a lot of movement, though the 20 teams remained the same as last week.

Miami of Florida also jumped two spots to fifth after knocking off West Virginia, while Illinois, a 16-6 winner over Big Ten foe Michigan, moved up three places to sixth. The victory made Illinois a strong favorite for the Big Ten berth in the Rose Bowl.

Maryland's victory over North Carolina moved the Terrapins from 13th to seventh, while North Carolina fell from third to 10th. Southern Methodist is eighth this week, up two spots, while Florida held on to its No. 9 ranking.

The second 10 consists of, in order, Oklahoma, Brigham Young, Michigan, Ohio State, Iowa, Boston College, West Virginia, Notre Dame, Alabama and Washington.

Last week, it was Washington, West Virginia, Maryland, Oklahoma, BYU, Ohio State, Iowa and Alabama, with Boston College and Notre Dame tied for 19th.

Stations scramble for 5-A title game

AUSTIN (AP) — Television stations around the state have signed on to carry the telecast of the Dec. 17 Texas high school football championship game in Class 5A, officials say.

"We are covered in every area," said Russ Potts, former Southern Methodist University athletic director and now president of Sports Productions Inc. of Dallas, which will produce Texas' first-ever telecast of a high school football title game.

The agreement between the University Interscholastic League and Sports Productions Inc. of Dallas includes a ban on replays of controversial calls by officials. Also unseen will be athletes being treated for injuries.

Sportscaster Verne Lundquist of Dallas, who handles the play-by-play for the Dallas Cowboys radio broadcasts, is set as the play-by-play man.

Former University of Texas coach Darrell Royal will be one of the color announcers. Roger Staubach will join Lundquist and Royal if the game is in the Dallas area. If not, veteran announcer Frank Fallon will be the third man.

The site for the game won't be selected until the final two teams are known.

Marshall said the UIL probably will get $20,000 from the telecast. The schools involved will split $16,000.

Concerning the decision to disallow replays of controversial calls, UIL director Bailey Marshall said Monday, "We feel like we just want to show the positive sides of the game." UIL official Bob Young added, "It's high school kids. We don't want to cause any embarrassment to anybody."

Young said the list of "no-no's" also prohibits the announcers from questioning officials' decisions.

"Sometimes I think that is all the announcers do," he added.

Other no-no's are live interviews with coaches, and commercials advertising beer or wine.

"I don't think there's anything worse than interviewing a coach on the sideline when he's getting ready to play," said Potts, who also added that the ban on criticism of referees does not bother him.

"I don't think there's anything wrong with those kinds of suggestions," Potts said. He said the announcers will be free to comment on the play.

Carew joins free agent list

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven-time American League batting champion Rod Carew will be among as many as 47 players who will take part in the free agent re-entry draft next Monday.

The 47 players still can sign with their old teams by Thursday. On Monday, catcher Bob Boone and outfielders Ellis Valentine and Brian Downing, each of whom had been eligible for free agency, signed multi-year contracts with the California Angels.

But the Angels may be losing Carew, 38, who batted .339 this year. Carew filed for free agency over the weekend, along with Dan Ford, who hit .280 with nine homers and 55 runs batted in for the world champion Baltimore Orioles, and five other players.

The others included pitchers J.R. Richard, the former Houston Astros' star who hasn't hurled in the majors since suffering a stroke in 1980, and Jerry Kosman, who posted an 11-7 record and a 4.77 earned run average for the Chicago White Sox this year. He turns 40 in December.

First baseman Enos Cabell, who batted .311 with five homers and 46 RBI for the Detroit Tigers last season, reserve infielder Kiko Garcia of the Philadelphia Phillies and reserve outfielder Miguel Dilone of the Pittsburgh Pirates also opted for free agency. While the Angels made progress in signing potential free agents, New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner worked to keep reliever Goose Gossage and Graig Nettles, who have both filed for free agency.

Steinbrenner and front office aide Gene Michaels talked with the two players and agent Jerry Kapstein in separate meetings Monday.

"The atmosphere of our meetings was businesslike and friendly," Kapstein said. "It was time well spent."

But the prospect of Nettles staying in New York appeared to be far more likely than Gossage's.

After the meeting with Nettles, Kapstein said, "We are no closer to signing, but it was a positive meeting."

But Kapstein said "Gossage is going through the draft for certain."

Meanwhile, 40-year-old second baseman Joe Morgan asked for and received his unconditional release from the Phillies. Morgan wants to play for a team closer to his home in Oakland, Calif., and he reportedly is negotiating with the San Diego Padres.

Pete Rose, 42, also released by the Phillies, reportedly is considering the Montreal Expos, California Angels and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Akers evades quarterback queries

AUSTIN (AP) — Coach Fred Akers of No. 2-ranked Texas withheld the name Monday of his starting quarterback for the Houston game, but agreed people would probably think it will be junior Todd Dodge.

Dodge relieved starter Rob Moerschell late in the first half Saturday with Texas trailing Texas Tech 3-0 and guided the Longhorns to 20 second-half points and a 20-3 victory.

For his performance, throwing for 118 yards and scoring on a 12-yard run, Dodge was selected by Longhorn coaches as the team's outstanding offensive player.

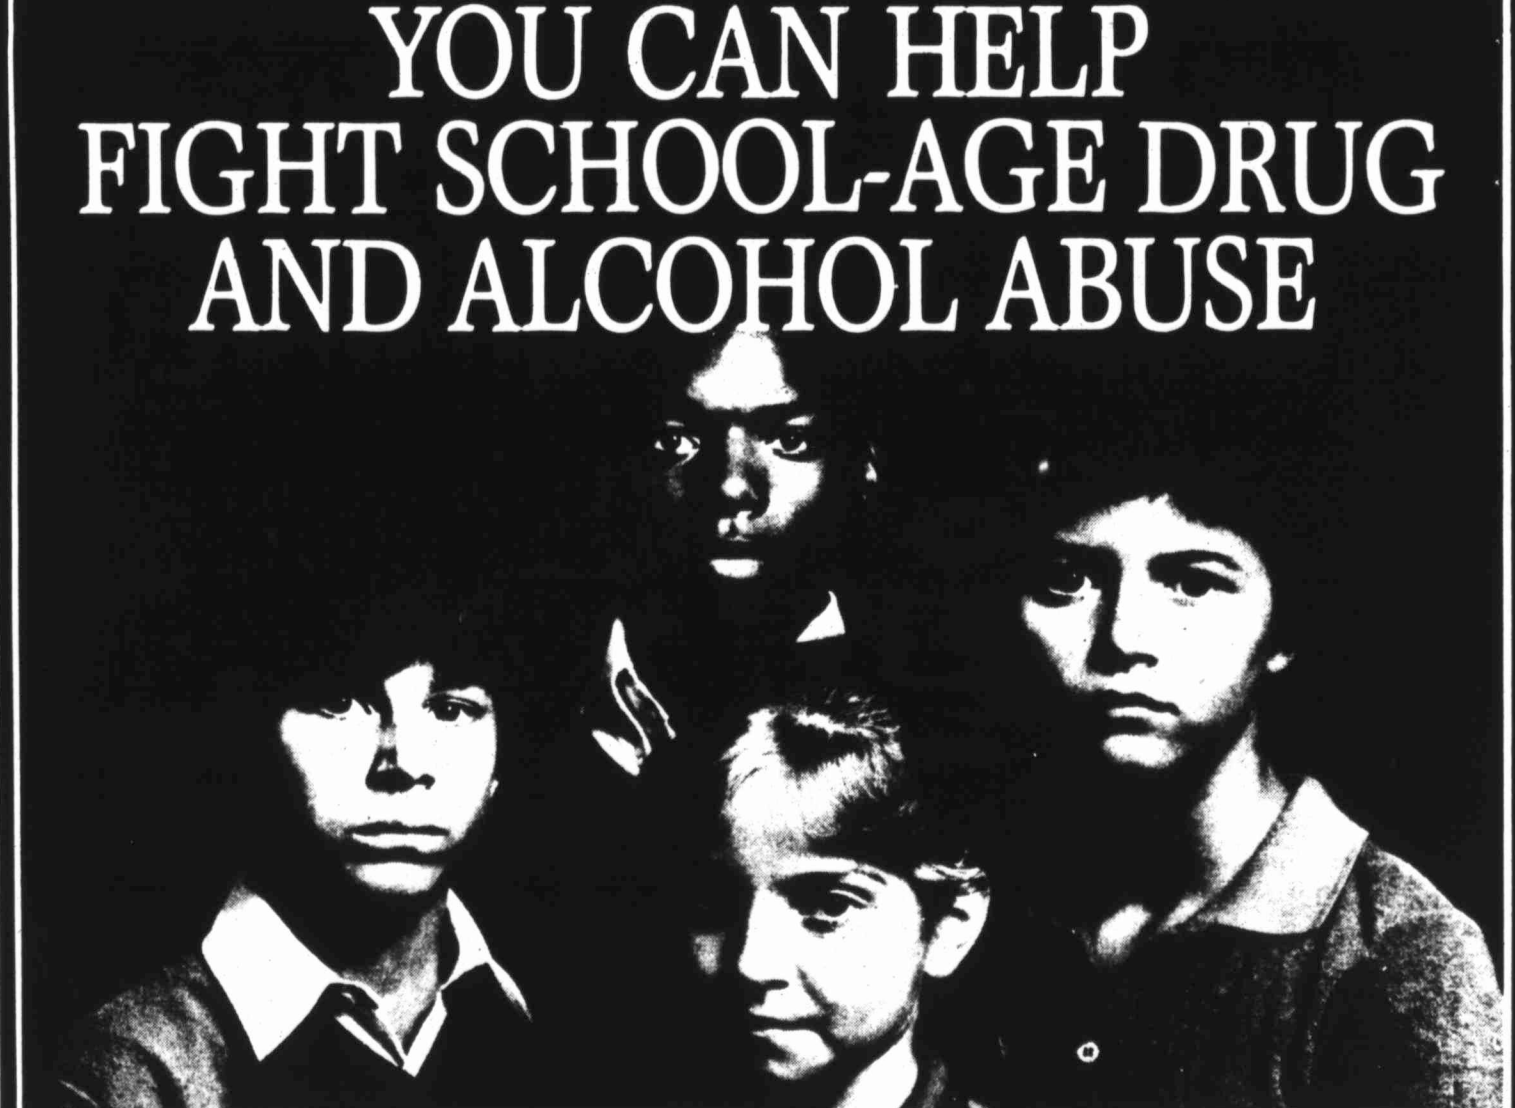

Asked if people would "draw the inference" that Dodge should be the starter against Houston on Saturday, Akers told his weekly news conference, "Probably.

But that doesn't affect what we do one bit."

Akers acknowledged that Moerschell, who became the starter when Dodge got hurt in preseason, "was having some problems, a little off-target throwing" against Tech.

But Akers said, "This is one of the traps of being a quarterback. Everything that doesn't work is your fault, and that's not the case most of the time, and it wasn't the case out there Saturday. He (Moerschell) had some help in some unsuccessful plays."

Akers said the quarterback situation, with Moerschell, Dodge and third-teamer Rick McIvor, a former starter, "is a strength when it was a big question mark before the season."

Panhandle firm files against Gulf

AMARILLO (AP) — Mesa Petroleum Co. announced Monday that it has filed materials with the Securities and Exchange Commission to oppose Gulf Oil Corp.'s proposal to reincorporate as a Delaware holding company.

The preliminary proxy materials were filed for a counter-solicitation against the proposal, which is scheduled for a vote by Gulf shareholders Dec. 2.

Mesa and a group of other investors, who have committed up to $1 billion to purchase Gulf stock, have said they would fight the proposal. The group already has purchased 10.8 percent of Gulf's outstanding stock.

Mesa also said it was exercising its right under Pennsylvania law to demand access to Gulf's list of shareholders and other corporate records.

In an amended filing with the SEC last week, Mesa made provisions to protect its Gulf stock from any takeover attempt, the Amarillo Globe-News reported.

The documents provided for the Gulf stock to go to another member of the investors' group if a majority of Mesa stock is bought by another company without approval of Mesa's board of directors.

GET READY FOR COLDER WEATHER — Large variety of leisure and work clothes are manufactured and sold at Walls.

Walls Factory Outlet Outfits Whole Family

If you enjoy cold weather sports — or if you work outdoors — Walls Factory Outlet at Interstate 20 and the Snyder Highway is the place to outfit every member of the family. The selection and value are tops.

Right here at the Big Spring factory, about 65 employees are busy producing insulated outerwear (leisurealls, vests, coats and coveralls) and snowmobile suits for skiing and snow recreation. They sell down- and fiberfill coats.

In addition Walls carries hunting clothes, khaki pants-and-shirts and jogging suits. Plus western shirts and name brand jeans — at less cost — for men, women and children; and ladies dress or casual blouses and pants.

And here's good news for the larger woman and the big or tall man: Walls has these hard-to-find sizes.

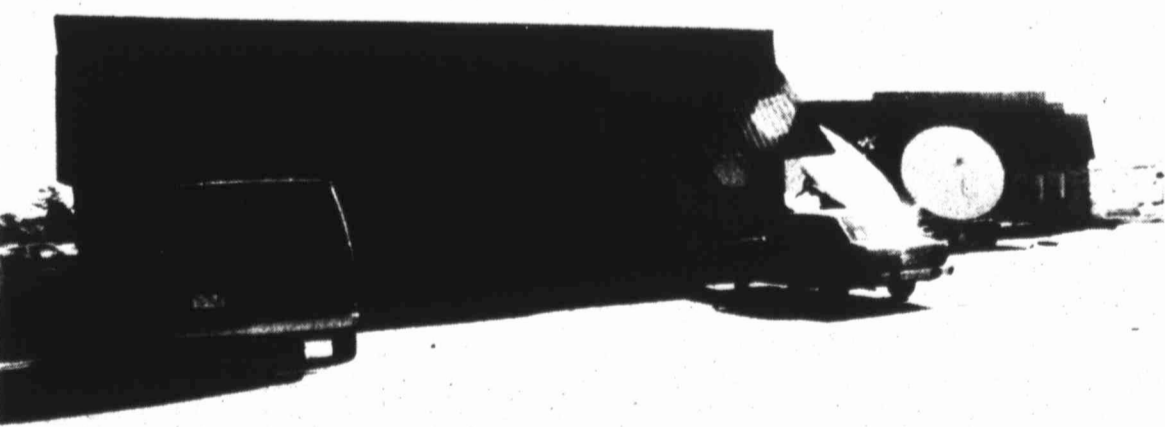

The Big Spring Walls factory produces the leisurealls and coveralls for all Walls outlets, located in Cleburne, Clifton, Hamilton, Gatesville, Arlington, Groesbeck, Sweetwater, Snyder and Merkel.

Walls Outlet Stores opened in 1971 to sell surplus merchandise from Walls manufacturing plants. In addition to irregulars, overcuts and discontinued styles from their factories, Walls carries both first and second quality merchandise from other manufacturers, including well-known, popular brands.

The Big Spring Store opened in 1973. Syble Pope is store manager and the sales staff includes Novena Butler, Liz Robles and Shirley Jenkins. Jack Letts is factory manager.

George S. Walls, founder and present chairman of the board, owned and operated Walls Clothiers in Dallas in the 1930's and 1940's; in 1953 he opened a small manufacturing operation in a loft in a downtown Dallas building.

Walls stores were founded on good merchandise, good value and good service. These qualities are obvious at the Big Spring Store. Unlike many establishments today, Walls has salespeople who still provide old-fashioned service. The store is attractively laid out and it's easy to find sizes and selections. They're open Monday thru Saturday from 9:30 to 5:30.

T. MARQUEZ JR. & SONS — Sales & Service is a family business serving Big Spring and surrounding areas since 1956. The late T. Marquez Jr. found the business as a TV repair shop, but has expanded to TV, appliances, and satellite antenna systems sales and service, servicing all brands. They are located at 1010 Lamesa Hwy, phone 263-3033.
