Outside: Fair

Fair skies and slightly cooler temperatures are forecast for the Big Spring area today and tomorrow. High today should reach into the lower 70s. Lows tonight are forecast in the upper 30s. On Thursday, temperatures in the middle 60s are forecast. Winds will be southerly, 5 to 15 mph.

Greyhound busts strike, rolls on

From staff and wire reports
Strike-plagued Greyhound Bus Lines is expected to restore partial service Thursday, and Big Spring will be one of the stops on its abbreviated schedule.

Jim Owens, manager of the Union Bus Terminal in Big Spring, said "service from Odessa to Dallas will be re-established Thursday... (but) I don't have the times."

As service resumes, buses will not follow previously established schedules because "it takes a few days to get the equipment set up again. Greyhound has buses in storage areas" which must be brought out and put on their routes again," Owens said.

He said he was told there will be "connections in all directions."

In Phoenix, the chief negotiator for 12,700 striking Greyhound employees asked local union presidents to return to Phoenix "as soon as possible" today to vote on a new proposal expected from the company.

Talks between the bus line and its unions resumed Tuesday, as the company prepared to start up partial operations on Thursday and said it had hired 1,300 replacement workers.

"We're not there yet, but we've made movement," said Harry Rosenblum, president of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Locals, said of the negotiations. He said he was asking local union leaders to come to Phoenix because "without them, there isn't any way we can proceed past that."

"We believe that we're at that point where we need them," Rosenblum said late Tuesday as he emerged from a private session with chief federal mediator Sam Franklin and union negotiators.

"There has been some movement on both sides, and the company will make a counter-proposal in the morning," Rosenblum said.

Earlier, several company officials entered the union's meeting room for the first face-to-face session between both sides since the strike began two weeks ago.

The company officials left an hour later, declining comment.

Union negotiators had made their first counter-offer to Greyhound earlier in the day, but they declined to reveal its contents.

The nationwide walkout began two weeks ago, halting 60 percent of the nation's intercity bus service.

Company officials had been demanding pay cuts of at least 9.5 percent and benefit cuts of 5 percent, saying they are needed to make the company competitive.

Greyhound ordered "dry runs" to prepare for partial resumption of service later this week, regardless of the strike.

The unions struck the giant bus line after rejecting Greyhound's "final offer" delivered hours before contracts expired.

On Tuesday, the company began preparing some of its 4,500 buses ready for limited service in 27 states and letting substitute drivers become familiar with the routes.

Greyhound Lines Inc. President Frederick Dunikoski said more than 1,600 union members told the company they would cross picket lines and go back to work.

But Jim Cushing-Murray, vice president of Local 1222 in Los Angeles, said "probably half that number" have crossed picket lines.

3 rejected in tax vote

Watkins withdraws name

Nominations for rector Lila Estes, ginner Wendell Shive and farmer Clay Reid to second terms on the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board were rejected by county taxing entities as three new members were chosen to the five-man board.

Voting ended Tuesday by seven taxing bodies on nominations to the board which governs the chief appraiser's budget and procedures.

Newcomers Dalton D. Johnston, Robert L. Roberson and Harold

Pearce, along with incumbents Billy T. Smith and J. Arnold Marshall, were elected to the board, according to votes received Tuesday in the Howard County Clerk's office.

Jack Watkins, a former member of the board who resigned under protest last year, withdrew his name Monday from consideration for the post.

In the election, 5,000 votes were split among the seven Howard County taxing entities, including Big Spring Independent School District, 1,654 votes; Howard County, 1,115 votes; Coahoma Independent School District, 790 votes; City of Big Spring, 760 votes; Forsan Independent School District, 656 votes; City of Coahoma, 21; votes and City of Forsan, 4 votes.

A breakdown of the voting shows Pearce received 21 votes from the City of Coahoma and 790 votes from the Coahoma Independent School District.

Johnston received 1,115 votes from Howard County. Marshall received 760 votes from the City of Big Spring and 827 votes from the Big Spring Independent School

Well blowout closes road

FORT STOCKTON, Texas (AP) — A runaway gas well spewed water and oil 100 feet high Tuesday and forced the closing of a 30-mile stretch of Farm Road 1063 between Imperial and Fort Stockton.

"There's no fire and no lives in danger," Mike Cunningham, office manager of Cherokee Drilling Co. of Midland, said from his Odessa office. But the blowout was considered "potentially hazardous," he added.

The gas "is not toxic, but it's quite a fire hazard," Cunningham said.

No one was injured when the blowout occurred about 7 a.m. It was discovered by a night watchman, said Frank Garrett, a company spokesman. The well still had not been capped early today.

The blowout, 15 miles south of Imperial, was spewing water and a small percentage of oil about 100 yards from the road, Garrett said.

"We had our job completed when it blew out," said Garrett. He said his company had run a cement casing down the hole two days earlier. He echoed Cunningham's apprehension.

"It might be all the gas in Mother Earth down there... or it might be just a little pocket that will bleed off in an hour," he said.

Texas Railroad Commission personnel made measurements of the blowout early Tuesday morning and determined there was no poisonous hydrogen sulfide gas being emitted from the well, Garrett said.

Cherokee employees allowed the lines leading from the 5,000-foot well to "bleed down" in an attempt to relieve gas pressure within the lines, Cunningham said.

Auditors paint HC ledger red, black

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Auditors yesterday told Howard County Junior College District trustees that the district had technically spent more than it took in last year, running up a deficit of almost one-half million dollars.

Trustees also were told, however, that projected revenues for this fiscal year will put the college back in the black for about the same amount.

Auditors James Welch and David McKay said a review of the 1982-83 fiscal year showed a deficit of $440,000 on expenditures of $7.7 million.

The deficit reflected carry-overs from the previous year, the auditors said, assuring trustees "there are adequate reserves" for 1984. Because of the carry-overs, "we should see an opposite swing" next year, Welch said.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, said the deficit was created because several certificates of deposits "didn't mature on time to make the transfer into the general fund prior to the report." Several other funds had not been transferred into the general fund prior to the audit, Hays said.

"We should have a half-million in reserve by the end of this fiscal year," Hays said.

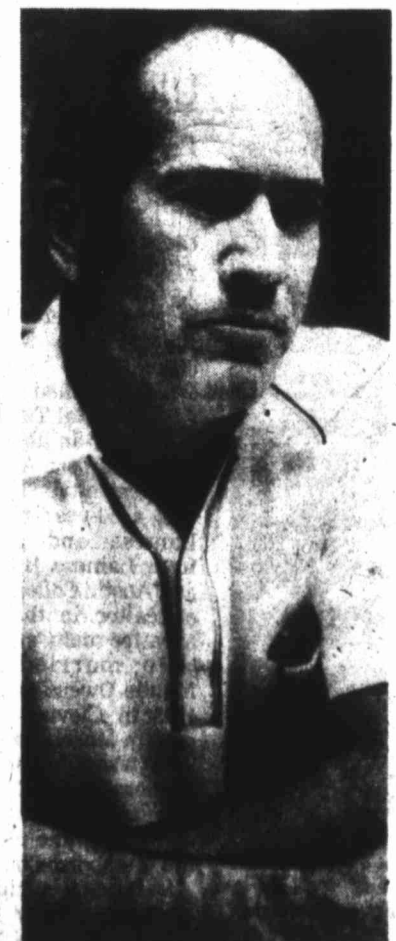

In other business, trustees accepted a bid of $7,560 from Taylor Publishing Co. for the district's 1983-84 yearbook. They also accepted a bid of $1,390 from Brooks Mayes Music Co. for an electronic piano which will be used on road trips made by the Red Hot Revue team.

During his report, Hays told board members he had visited the SWCID campus Monday to inspect dorms which are being renovated. He said that insulation had been installed and work on showers was almost completed. He said the district still expects to meet the Feb. 1, 1984 completion date.

Discussing a recent "Nostalgia Night" at the Howard College gymnasium, Hays said "We're not going to let that facility deteriorate. It is still quite usable."

He also reported that several

Smiling again

A FIGHTER — Kimberly Massey, 5, a veteran of several heart operations, is making a rapid recovery these days as she returns to a normal routine. Her last operation was Oct. 4 when she endured a five-hour operation.

Courageous kid

5 year old fights heart disease

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Five-year-old Kimberly Massey is a fighter.

Born with a defective heart that keeps oxygen from properly flowing through her bloodstream, she has to be.

The disease has put Kim through four operations, numerous heart catheterizations, heart failure and a stroke. Yet she remains an active, precocious child. Her eyes glow and she smiles brightly as she searches for childish trouble to get into.

Kim has gotten progressively healthier with each operation. The blue coloring that used to be so prominent in her face has become just a trace around her eyes. Her nails now have a pink glow.

Kim's latest act of bravery was an Oct. 4 operation for comprehensive repair of her young heart at Children's Medical Center in Dallas. Kim's surgeon, Hisashi Nikaidoh, patched a hole in her heart, completed an aortery bypass and removed three shunts during the five-hour ordeal.

"Kim did good during that time," said Kathy Massey, Kim's mother.

The doctor had Kim attached to a pacemaker and put her into the Intensive Care Unit of the hospital. Her heart beat wildly — sometimes running to 150 beats per minute — during the next two days.

"Kimmy has always been a fighter. She will go home without the pacemaker." Mrs. Massey quoted the doctor as saying during the days of Kim's ICU stay, and that is just what happened.

"The Lord took that pacemaker away," Mrs. Massey said in reference to the combination of stabilizing medication and sheer will which brought Kim's heart back to normal and made the heart-beat regulator unnecessary.

The 5-year-old is not fully recovered from her last operation. She suffers from an infection that developed in her lungs during the second day of her stay in the ICU.

The infection could move to Kim's heart or to the area where the pacemaker was attached, so her mother must clean and sterilize twice a day the chest incision made during the operation.

Kim remains on antibiotics and must visit the doctor regularly. She still has not been released to live a normal life, Mrs. Massey says.

Kim has one more operation — to close a duct in her heart — but "unless something happens," that will be from five to seven years in the future.

Mrs. Massey said she is optimistic about her daughter's future, and she says that Kim's worst problem now is that she was spoiled at the hospital.

"She needs to come out of all that petting they gave her," the mother said.

Police Beat

Car wash takes a bath

Bob Parks, an employee at the car wash at 201 Gregg, told police at 1 p.m. Tuesday that someone entered the business between 9:30 p.m. Monday and 11:55 a.m. Tuesday, caused damages of $300 to the roof and stole a Hamilton bill changer worth $100 and got $200 in bills and change, police reports said.

Francis Hendrick of 501 Dallas told police at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday that someone between Nov. 7 and Nov. 15 stole a white porcelain antique lavatory worth $250 and an automobile battery worth $65 from behind the garage at her daughter's residence at 1005 E. 12th, police reports said.

Cecil Guy Willey, 18, of 3902 Hamilton was arrested at 5:33 p.m. Tuesday at the Town and Country convenience store on Wassen Road on suspicion of unlawfully carrying of a weapon and reckless driving. He was transferred to the county jail, police reports said.

Assault suspect released

Johnny Corrales, 49, of 604 N.W. Eighth was released at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday from the county jail on $5,000 bond after being arrested on a warrant for assault by threats, reports said.

Guy Willy, 18, of 3902 Hamilton was transferred at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday from the police department to the county jail and released on $1,200 bond after being charged with reckless driving and unlawfully carrying of a weapon, reports said.

Gayla Ditmore, 26, of 1710 Johnson was arrested at 10 a.m. Tuesday by county authorities on a Harris County warrant of issuance of a bad check. She was released on $200 bond, reports said.

Jury selection slated in Odessa indecency trial

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Jury selection in the trial of an Odessa man charged with indecency with a child began Tuesday after a district judge ruled that a 12-year-old girl was competent to testify.

Judicial District Judge Joe Connolly overruled a defense motion Monday that sought to bar the youngster's testimony in the trial of Clifford Yates.

Defense attorneys claimed the child's age made it "unlikely that the witness understands the meaning of an oath or is able to adequately remember and relate the facts and circumstances of the offense," according to a pretrial motion.

Yates, 37, was arrested June 30 in a Houston suburb after being indicted by an Ector County grand jury on a charge of indecency with a child. He is accused of molesting the 12-year-old girl while the two were riding in a car from Brady to San Angelo.

The girl testified Tuesday she was 10 years old at the time of the alleged molestation.

Fruitcake nuts

Kitchen entrepreneur turns cake into money

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — Funny things have happened to a resident of the Shirley community on her way to join the nation's growing army of kitchen entrepreneurs. And she plans to keep on smiling all the way to the bank.

Linda Penn's Cedar Creek Farms Fruitcake makes its debut in the mail-order world this season, stocked with dry fruits, candied pineapple, bottled cherries and pecans — all meshed together in a light batter.

She said that although she doesn't think he knew what he was doing to his life, her husband was the instigator of her enterprise. "He would eat fruitcake from a bakery and then say, 'You can make a better fruitcake than this,'" she recalled. Then he would add, "Why don't you go into the fruitcake business?"

With a grin, she continued, "Well, I did, and now the man doesn't get a home-cooked meal from late October to Christmas, but the house smells wonderful."

For the past two years during "cake season," the Penn kitchen has been wall-to-wall fruitcakes. "I had cakes sitting everywhere, and I fed fruitcake to everyone who came in the house. Billy was probably expecting me to greet him with 'Hi, honey! How about a fruitcake sandwich for supper?'"

On a small-scale commercial venture such as she tried last year, the home kitchen can try the abilities and stamina of the cook, not to mention the strength of the ties that bind the family.

One of the biggest liabilities of the home kitchen is the domestic oven. According to Mrs. Penn, a fruitcake takes two hours to bake and only four can be baked in the average oven.

She has leased a building with commercial cooking facilities for her mail-order banking, invested in specialty equipment and lined up a cooking crew for the hand mixing.

The final step was having the cake tested by a commercial food lab to insure all requirements for shipping and keeping quality are met.

When Linda cast her eyes on the mail-order market, "it was just like opening the door on a whole new world," she said.

One of those suppliers was an importer of an especially fine dried apricot, the special ingredient of her cake. "I called him and said I liked his apricots and would like to use them in my cakes. He said, 'fine,' and wanted to know how many apricots," she said.

"He told me that he imported them in 40,000-pound lots," she continued. "I tried to sound very cool, but all I could think of was where on earth would I put 40,000 pounds of apricots."

When she related her experience to her husband, he said, "You may have been wondering where you would put the apricots, but I'm wondering how would I explain 40,000 pounds of apricots to our banker."

The Penns read a story in a newspaper magazine supplement about a man in Texas who started a hot sauce industry from his home kitchen. The product is marketed under the label Hell On The Red.

Since his beginnings sounded so much like his wife's situation, Penn said he would try to call the man to see if he would give them any pointers.

The company said unarmed guards would be aboard the buses.

A striking driver was arrested Tuesday at Baltimore's Greyhound station and charged with disorderly conduct. The arrest followed an attempt by about 35 pickets to prevent a Greyhound bus from entering and leaving the station, police said.

Greyhound has said it would fire all strikers who did not agree to come back and would replace them with new hires. The pool of applicants for strikers' jobs has swelled to 65,000, Greyhound reported, and 1,300 have been hired to begin work Thursday.

leaks in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum had been repaired and that "we've almost whipped the leaks." He said the district had sold several shares of Union Oil Stock which had been donated to the school. The $15,000 in proceeds were transferred to the Howard College Foundation fund.

Office evacuated after hostages taken

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A man charged with holding his former girlfriend hostage, forcing the evacuation of a busy office building, already was awaiting trial on a federal firearms charge, authorities said Wednesday.

Richard Rollins, 24, of Arlington, was being held in the Bexar County jail on $50,000 bond set on an aggravated kidnapping charge.

Rollins was taken into custody about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Koger Executive Center, where he had been holding the woman hostage with an automatic weapon, police said.

"Apparently, this all started from an argument between them," said Deputy Chief Robert Heuck. Rollins agreed to surrender after STOLEN CIGARETTES — Approximately 700 cartons of cigarettes stolen from an Odessa business were seized Tuesday by state and county authorities from a business in Howard County. The cigarettes were taken to the courthouse to be inventoried and secured as evidence in a case that remains under investigation. No criminal charges have been filed in the case yet.

Jurors dismissed after docket call called off by judge

County Court Judge Milton Kirby Tuesday dismissed jurors who reported for duty without swearing them in and did not preside over any trials because, he said, "I didn't have time to set the docket."

Kirby said he had his secretary call local radio stations Monday afternoon to have them announce that jurors need not report to the county courtroom Tuesday because he and County Attorney Bob Miller had not determined which cases would be tried Tuesday.

"We were both just too busy," Kirby said. The judge said he presided over two probate cases and three juvenile cases as well as chairing the commissioners' meeting Monday.

Miller, Kirby said, appeared before the commissioners to make a request relating to his employees and to provide commissioners with information they requested.

However, Miller said he was ready Tuesday morning to try any case on the docket.

"I went in (after the judge's first probate case Monday) and announced that the state was ready. That's all I have to do," Miller said. "There was no one there but me and the judge and Mary Thomas (who has a bail bond company), who is not a lawyer."

According to an assistant attorney general in the Texas Attorney General's office in Austin, the docket of a court — which cases are set for trial, which are dismissed and which are continued, or postponed — is at the discretion of the judge.

Included in that discretion is the right to tell jurors, witnesses and lawyers to go home because cases will not be tried that day, Assistant Attorney General Scott Lyford said.

Nor is the judge required to hold a particular number of dockets a month since the court now sits continuously, Lyford said.

Kirby Tuesday sentenced three defendants whose cases were listed on this week's docket.

Torres murder trial delayed; defendant ill

118th District Court Jim Gregg postponed a murder trial scheduled for today and discharged the jurors because of testimony by the defendant's doctor that he was unable to stand trial.

The trial will be reset for the week after Thanksgiving, District Attorney Rick Hamby said. A new jury will be selected at that time.

Alfredo Torres, 29, of the Northcrest Apartments was to be tried on a charge of murder in the Feb. 5 shooting death of Daniel Rios, 39, of Midland. Rios died of a gunshot wound to the chest while at Fina's Restaurant, according to police Chief Rick Turner.

Torres' doctor, Bruce Cox, said the defendant was physically unable to stand trial, Gregg said.

Torres' defense attorney, Elliott Mitchell, said his client was "unable to eat. He throws everything up."

Man injured in crash

A Levelland man remains in Malone-Hogan hospital following an accident Tuesday afternoon involving a motorcycle and a car on South Highway 87.

Billy Wayne Mills remains under observation after receiving lacerations and possible broken bones following the accident at the intersection of Highway 87 and Driver Road.

Mills was driving south on 87 riding a 1974 Harley-Davidson motorcycle when he hit a 1976 Buick Regal driven by Fern Durham of 911 Curry that had been turning onto Driver Road from the northbound lane, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Miss Durham was not injured in the accident.

Top model gets Revlon deal

NEW YORK — Fans of model Kim Alexis, the 23-year-old blonde whose athletic ability and beauty made her a favorite in Sports Illustrated's annual swimsuit issue, will be seeing her more often.

Miss Alexis has signed a long-term contract with Revlon to be the Ultima II cosmetics model. She will succeed Lauren Hutton, 38, whose 10-year contract with Revlon expired last year.

Past Revlon models have included Suzy Parker, Barbara Feldon and Shelley Hack.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Winger to attend premiere

LINCOLN — Debra Winger, star of the new movie "Terms of Endearment," is expected to attend its Lincoln, Neb., premiere next week.

The movie is set in Nebraska and parts of it were filmed in Lincoln. The Lincoln Journal reports that Paramount Pictures has made reservations to fly Miss Winger, 27, to Omaha and also has hotel reservations for her in Lincoln.

Producer Martin Jurov, Paramount executives and Gov. Bob Kerrey also are expected to be at the Tuesday premiere.

Proceeds from the benefit will go to the oncology department, concerned with the study of tumors, at Lincoln General Hospital.

The picture opens to the public Nov. 23.

Elizabeth Taylor in Mexico

GUADALAJARA — Actress Elizabeth Taylor is in Mexico for what is described as a brief visit with her fiancé, amid rumors of an impending marriage.

Miss Taylor, 51, and lawyer Victor Gonzalez Luna, 56, arrived Monday on a flight from Los Angeles. Gonzalez Luna declined comment Tuesday on their plans.

Miss Taylor has been married seven times, while Gonzalez Luna has four daughters by a previous marriage.

"All I can say is that Miss Taylor is here to spend a few days," said Elizabeth Taylor the lawyer in a telephone interview.

Gonzalez Luna has been a frequent companion of Miss Taylor during the U.S. tour of the play "Private Lives," co-starring former husband Richard Burton.

Beauties visit Marines

CAMP LEJEUNE — Marines recuperating at Camp LeJeune, S.C., from wounds received in the bombing in Beirut, Lebanon, were looking forward to a couple of visitors to brighten their day — Miss Universe, 19-year-old Lorraine Downes of New Zealand, and Miss USA, Julia Hayek, 22, of California.

Ms. Downes and Ms. Hayek planned to visit today with servicemen at the Naval Hospital here and sign autographs, said base spokesman Kenny Reese.

Coretta King visits Kenya

NAIROBI — In a colorful ceremony in the Zambian capital of Lusaka, Coretta King, the widow of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King, was given one of Zambia's highest awards before she flew on to Kenya for a three-day visit.

President Kenneth Kaunda late Monday presented Mrs. King with the Companion Order of Freedom, praising her as a "selfless advocate for justice for oppressed people the world over."

In Kenya, Mrs. King was expected to meet government leaders and officials of the Rural Cooperative Development Society, co-sponsor of her stay in the East African country.

Queen tours Bangladesh

DHAKA — Queen Elizabeth II, on a state visit to Bangladesh, said during a toast at a glittering banquet that she is pleased with efforts to restore constitutional government to this turbulent country.

Since 1975, army officers have deposed three presidents — two by assassination.

On the second night of her visit here, the queen was responding to a toast in which Bangladesh President A.F. Ahsanuddin Chowdhury told her that "transition to democracy will begin with the elections" at local levels next month. Nationwide balloting for a new president is scheduled for next spring.

The president, in his toast, spoke of "a mystical bond that continues to link Bangladesh and the United Kingdom. Your country remains for us a source of intellectual nourishment."

Turkish Cypriots condemned

NICOSIA — More Western nations today condemned the surprise move by Turkish Cypriots to declare an independent state in their sector of Cyprus. Only Turkey recognized the new regime, and Turkish army units were reported on alert along the Greek border.

The declaration of independence, announced Tuesday, angered Greek Cypriots in the southern part of the war-divided Mediterranean island. They vented their frustration with noisy demonstrations today that included about 10,000 high school students who poured into the streets after authorities closed schools to let them protest.

Carrying Cypriot and Greek flags, the youths marched through the main streets of the Greek sector of the divided capital before congregating outside the presidential palace.

Authorities have closed the only crossing point on the heavily fortified "green line" dividing the Greek and Turkish sectors of Nicosia, and Greek Cypriot leaders are seeking an emergency U.N. Security Council meeting to reverse the independence declaration.

The declaration proclaimed the new state the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus and said its leaders were ready "for negotiations on an equal basis with the Greek Cypriot side for a peaceful and durable solution of the Cyprus problem."

Cyprus President Spyros Kyprianou blamed the move on the Turkish military government, which recognized the new state after an emergency Cabinet meeting in Ankara.

Flynn is Boston's new mayor

BOSTON — One-time school busing foe Raymond Flynn was elected mayor Tuesday, defeating a black community activist to succeed 16-year Mayor Kevin White.

Flynn, a white city councilor, received 125,141 votes or 66 percent compared with challenger Melvin King's 65,142 votes or 34 percent, according to unofficial returns from 246 of 252 precincts.

"I'm very, very proud of this city. I think we have proven to the entire United States that this campaign has truly brought out the greatness in our city," said Flynn, 44, who will be the first mayor from the Irish working class neighborhood of South Boston. "The city is coming together."

A teary-eyed King congratulated Flynn and praised him for "waging a decent, hard-working campaign that does honor to Boston neighborhoods and to the people who have for too long been ignored or oppressed."

King, the first black to qualify for a Boston mayoral final, had trailed Flynn in most polls by 10 to 15 percentage points in the battle to succeed White, 53, who is retiring.

Election officials said that despite rain, the hotly contested election may have broken the record 66.2 percent turnout in the city's 1967 mayoral election.

The final campaign poll, published Sunday in The Boston Herald, had given Flynn a 50-34 percent lead. The survey had a 4 percentage point degree of error. Earlier polls found a similar Flynn lead.

Grenada rebuilding continue

ST. GEORGE'S — The acting U.S. envoy says American troops occupying this Caribbean island nation will be home for Christmas, and the new interim government is promising a speedy return to democratic rule.

Meanwhile, Cuba's armed forces commander, Raul Castro, said Cuban military spending will be increased to arm every citizen against "U.S. aggression" in light of the American-led invasion of Grenada.

Acting U.S. Ambassador Charles Gillespie said

Tuesday in reference to the withdrawal of U.S. troops that "everything depends on security."

But he said American forces would be out of the country "certainly by Christmas" and within the 60-day period required by Congress.

The U.S. government led an Oct. 25 invasion of Grenada after a leftist military council seized power from an already Marxist government in a violent coup. President Reagan said the invasion was required to ensure the safety of Americans on the island and to restore democratic rule.

Foat trial nears end

GRETNA — After stories of beatings, mutilations and threats of revenge, the murder trial of California feminist leader Ginny Foat neared an end in Louisiana with prosecutors hammering away at the keystone of her defense.

The jury was expected to get the case today after closing arguments. Ms. Foat could be found innocent or convicted of either manslaughter or murder. She faces a possible maximum sentence of life in prison.

In 1½ hours of cross-examination Tuesday, prosecutors questioned Ms. Foat's credibility and depicted her as a four-time married homewrecker who when first arrested in 1977 failed to mention the threats that have been the center of her defense.

Ms. Foat is accused of murdering Moises Chayo, a Buena Aires toy manufacturer in 1965.

In her second day on the stand Tuesday, Ms. Foat tearfully told the jury it was painful to recall her stormy years of 1965 to 1970 with ex-husband John Sidote, her chief accuser.

"I have to make myself naked in front of everybody," she said. "Talk about things I've never talked about with anybody."

Ms. Foat, 42, had hopes of becoming president of the National Organization for Women when she was arrested in January on the 18-year-old charge.

Tsantes service planned

CHERRY HILL — Capt. George Tsantes, the American naval officer fatally shot in Greece, was an idealistic descendant of Greek seafarers and a "quiet... dedicated individual," family members in North Carolina said.

Tsantes, 53, was ambushed when his car stopped at an intersection Tuesday just outside Athens, where he worked as naval attaché at the U.S. Embassy. His driver was also killed in the ambush, for which left-wing terrorists have claimed responsibility.

"Ethnically and culturally-wise he was Greek," said Tsantes' brother-in-law, Michael Kouvatits of Cherry Hill. "Greek he was, and Greek he died."

A memorial service is planned Monday in Cherry Hill for Tsantes, who attended high school and met his wife, Thalia, in New Jersey. He will be buried next Wednesday in Arlington National Cemetery following another memorial service in Virginia Beach, Va., where the couple had lived, Kouvatits said.

He was remembered as an idealistic naval officer by John Kusturis, another brother-in-law. "George was a quiet, very dedicated individual," Kusturis said.

"No one knew anything bad about him," said Kouvatits.

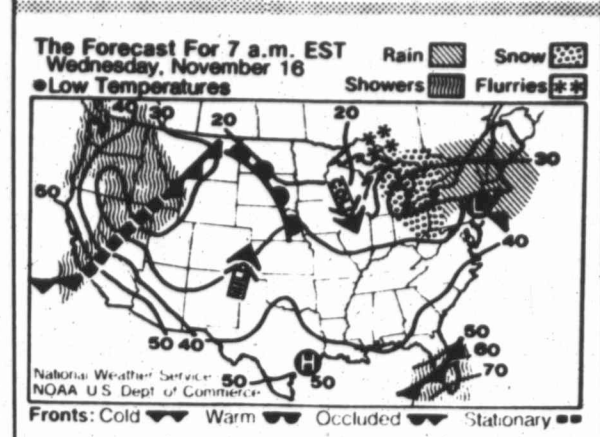

Bishops push social issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops are signaling their clear intent to keep pushing into social issues beyond those with obvious religious connections.

The latest sign came Tuesday in the church leaders' choice to head their national organization: a bishop who has made his reputation dealing with working people and — in one case — trying to help them buy a closed-down steel mill.

James W. Malone, a 63-year-old steelworker's son from Youngstown, Ohio, will take over Thursday as president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. And that won't come as good news to some conservative Roman Catholics who have felt in recent years that bishops and priests have gone too far afield from traditional chores such as saying Mass, hearing confessions and taking up collections.

The Forecast For 7 a.m. EST Wednesday, November 16

West Texas — Sunny and warmer today. Fair tonight and Thursday morning becoming partly cloudy most sections Thursday afternoon. Not so cold south tonight. Warmer most sections Thursday. Highs today mid-60s Panhandle to lower 70s south except mid-80s Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight mid-30s Panhandle and mountains to upper 40s southeast and extreme south. Highs Thursday upper 60s Panhandle to near 80 south except near 90 Big Bend valleys.

Clear skies across state

Skies were clear across the state early today as high pressure remained blanketed over the state, producing early-morning coolness that was expected to give way to a warming trend under sunny skies all across Texas.

The only cloudiness reported early today was some very high cirrus cloudiness located over the Panhandle and the Texas-Oklahoma border, the National Weather Service reported.

Winds across the state were light and variable at speeds generally around 5 miles an hour, and the light, variable winds were expected to continue to be the norm.

Morning temperatures were generally in the 30s and 40s, with some 50s reported over the lower Rio Grande Valley and Coastal Bend areas. The 4 a.m. extremes were a near-freezing 33 degrees at Junction in West Texas to a mild 58-degree reading at Galveston on the coast.

The forecast calls for a warming trend today and continuing through Thursday with sunny skies statewide, except for some early-morning fog and clouds expected in South Texas early Thursday morning. Temperatures were predicted to range into the 70s north, south and east, with 60s in the Panhandle and mid-80s in the Big Bend valleys.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

'Shop Big Spring' not just a slogan

Oh, those bargains! There is a lure of shopping in "a bigger place" — always has been, always will be. But are the touted "bargains" really a steal?

The first drawback to looking beyond the borders of Big Spring in search of that elusive "deal" is the time and energy it takes. We're busy people leading active lives. If we measure our spare time carefully, we'll find it doesn't pay us to make long, special trips out of town.

And there's the quality factor. The adage of getting pretty much what one pays for is a valid one. The television set advertised for a lot less elsewhere indeed may be less of a television set. It's particularly frustrating to drive a long distance to find that out.

That's not to say a true bargain cannot be had. Seasonal sales of merchandise, loss leaders, closeouts are generally true bargains. But those types of sales are represented universally by retailers — you'll find them right here.

The fundamental reason that it pays to shop Big Spring is the contribution it represents to the community, a contribution in participation, in involvement, that is reciprocated in community health and well-being. Literally, an investment in Big Spring is an investment in the future — yours — designed to pay the dividend of growth and quality of life.

There may be specialty items unavailable here, but if you haven't checked locally, you can't be sure.

And, there's a bonus to shopping locally. When a shirt doesn't quite fit right you can drive a few blocks and exchange it with a merchant who is smart to swap it with a smile. He has an obvious stake in cultivating satisfied shoppers.

What's so special about this Jesus?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I agree that Jesus was a great teacher, and I respect his teachings. But I can't see why people also say he was divine, and especially that he came to die as a sacrifice for sins. That seems kind of crude to me, frankly, and I don't see why you and other preachers seem to emphasize it so much. — P.Y.

DEAR P.Y.: If you truly respect Jesus for his teachings, then you need to respect also say he was divine, and especially that he came to die as a sacrifice for sins. That seems kind of crude to me, frankly, and I don't see why you and other preachers seem to emphasize it so much. — P.Y.

Jesus was not just a man who had special religious insights. He was instead God himself, come down to earth in human form. He came down to earth not only to show us what he is like, but to make it possible for us to be reconciled to himself. You see, the greatest problem we have is that we are separated from God, who created us. We are separated because of our sins, and our greatest need is forgiveness. We can never earn our right to God's salvation, because God's standard is perfection.

Christ came to earth to do for us what we could never do for ourselves. By his death on the cross, he took upon himself the guilt and the punishment that you and I deserve. This is what a Christian means when he says, "Christ died for me." Christ died in our place, just as he said he would. "I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep ... The reason my Father loves me is that I lay down my life — only to take it up again. No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord" (John 10:11,17-18).

My prayer for you is that you would examine honestly and openly what Jesus said and did. Then you will realize your forgiveness possible. You need Christ, and it would be tragic if your pride kept you from the eternal life he offers to all who turn to him in repentance and faith.

The gang wars of foreign policy

Because President Reagan enters so little into the substance of foreign affairs, there beats around him a constant storm of bureaucratic infighting. In recent weeks, the struggle for place has even come to determine basic lines of policy.

So here is a program to identify the major players. It describes relations among the Shultz Mob, the Gashouse Gang and the Palace Guard.

Secretary George Shultz, by instinct, and the State Department, by vocation, lean toward living with problems or settling them by negotiation. Shultz inherited a strategy for slow containment of radical subversion in Central America. He himself put together a plan for peace between Jews and Arabs in the Middle East which President Reagan surfaced on Sept. 1 last year. Shultz also laid out an approach to arms control that would have led to a Big Two summit this spring.

But events in Central America turned sour, and the author of the containment strategy, Assistant Secretary Tom Enders, was pushed out. Practically everybody in the Middle East rejected the Middle East peace plan. Though Shultz fought hard to save arms control after the Russians shot down a Korean airliner 10 weeks ago, Moscow refused the State Department gambit.

In these conditions, with their influence sinking to zero, Shultz and State seized on Grenada as a vehicle for proving toughness. They responded positively to the plea for help from other Caribbean nations. They pushed the idea that a military strike would preempt any taking of hostages. Though consultation is Rule One at State, and especially with Britain, the Department didn't even try to win over Margaret Thatcher before rushing into Grenada.

Success there has caused the Shultz Mob to ride high. It is symptomatic that Shultz has had appointed as the president's special representative in the Middle East a personal friend and rough bureaucratic fighter, Donald Rumsfeld. For conditions in the Middle East deal cards to the secretary's rivals in the Gashouse Gang.

The Gashouse Gang lines up around the toughest talkers in town — Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick and the director of Central Intelligence William Casey. All are highly articulate. All spring from bases in domestic politics that put them in touch with the right-wing ideologues of the Republican Party. All come down very hard on Moscow and its various friends in the Third World. They systematically harassed, as not tough enough, the original strategy of the Shultz Mob for arms control.

Being politically smart, the Gashouse Gang shares the national aversion to long and costly military engagements. They prefer covert operations, or warring with words, or lightning strikes of the Grenada variety. They successfully opposed, as too slow, the containment strategy for Central America. For a variety of reasons, they have nursed deep doubts about the Middle East peace plan. Weinberger, in particular, shows no interest in backing it up by moves that link the Marine presence in Beirut with pressure from the Israelis. And the exposure of the Marines assures him a good hearing by the Palace Guard.

The Palace Guard sees foreign policy primarily as a backdrop for making Ronald Reagan look good. Its leading members are Nancy Reagan, Vice President George Bush, and James Baker and Mike Deaver of the White House staff. They do not mind the firm anti-Communist stance. But above all they want the president front and center as a paladin of peace. Switching back and forth between anti-Communist and peace-mongering enables the Palace Guard to keep all other players off balance. In a couple of spectacular cases, heads have rolled.

Thus the Palace Guard drove out Reagan's first national security adviser, Richard Allen, after the press exposed various transactions with Japanese lobbyists that embarrassed the White House. Alexander Haig was bounced as secretary of state in large part because, as the self-proclaimed foreign policy "vicar," he upstaged the president. Finally, the Palace Guard fostered the translation of Allen's replacement, William Clark, from the post of national security adviser to secretary of interior in place of James Watt.

Judge Clark, like Allen before him, had close ties with the Gashouse Gang. When he left, the Palace Guard tried to put in one of its own — White House Chief of Staff James Baker — as national security adviser. The Shultz Mob also backed Baker. But the Gashouse Gang successfully fought him off by advancing the candidacy of Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

From that scramble there emerged as the new national security adviser Robert McFarlane, Clark's former deputy. In that role he serves as a truly honest broker, buffering the president against the pushing and shoving of various factions. But it is a question how much he is heard in the White House.

So the messy internal struggle continues. Predicting the future course of events, in these conditions, is tricky. But my own impression is that a president unable to resolve internal squabbles is best served by following an unambitious foreign policy until the election of 1984.

Around the Rim

By KEELY COGHLAN

Let it ring

I was accused of being a communist by some well-meaning reader from Alpine. She based her accusation, and I suppose her marking through my picture on the copy of my column she sent the paper, on her disapproval of anyone who did not automatically support a war being fought by our country.

I am not sorry to tell her that she is wrong, both about me being a member of Gus Hall's American Communist Party and about anyone's right to dissent about the actions or policies of our country, especially when that policy costs lives.

I am far from being a communist — especially the brand present in the Soviet Union and the Warsaw Pact nations. I respect the right of an individual to hold opinions different from those of the majority. The Soviet government doesn't.

Why is it that when someone says they disagree with the public line in our country, there are always three or four persons ready to label him or her a communist?

It is a sad commentary that in a nation that values its freedoms, particularly its freedom to say almost everything except "Fire!" in a crowded theater, that whenever people exercise those freedoms, they must be labeled a member of a group so abhorrent that no one will even consider their views.

The effect of yelling "Communist!" in our country is the same one generated by Soviet leaders yelling "Capitalist! Counter-revolutionary! Bourgeois elitist!" Catch phrases seemingly work well in both countries.

One of my most prized possessions is a weather-beaten, dog-eared copy of the last volume of Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn's Gulag Archipelago, his famous treatise on the political prison system in the Soviet Union. What makes this book so special to me, besides the courage of the author and his ability to continue having hope and faith for his fellow man, is the autograph inside the front cover.

The book is signed by another Soviet dissident, Alexander Ginsburg, whom I met when he lectured at my college. Ginsburg was imprisoned for his religious beliefs and exiled to the United States in exchange for Soviet spies we had caught.

Though he suffered tremendously for his beliefs, he never recanted. Nor did he lose faith, in either his God or his fellow man.

This man endured much more than anyone I ever knew. And for what? For something abstract, but very real. Religious freedom.

Solzhenitsyn endured harsh Siberian winters at forced labor camps — for his right to criticize and differ with his government. For his right to publish what he saw as truth.

Our forefathers fought years ago — and won their battle — for the right to criticize. In fact, colonial newspapers published by Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton were simply criticism of the other party or an individual's actions and policies. And criticism was sharp and skewering. Words were not minced: Rarely would either man say politely what could be said forcefully and dramatically.

I would hope we did not fight that battle in vain. But it is in the nature of a democracy that its residents must undergo a constant struggle to continue being able to speak whatever they wish, even if it is patent nonsense.

Supreme Court Justices Hugo Black and William O. Douglas pointed often to the First Amendment, which states, "Congress shall make no law to abridge freedom of speech..." They often said "No law means exactly that — no law." I rest content that such a statesman as Jefferson, knowing full well the problems it could create, would draft that as part of the Bill of Rights.

What this fundamental principle of our law means, in practice, is that even were I a member of the Communist Party or of the National Socialist Party, I have the right to say what I think is the truth, without being forced into hard labor. It even allows a woman from Alpine or Big Spring to say there should be restrictions on letting a person like me write.

I would only hope I would have half the guts of great libertarians as Solzhenitsyn and Sakharov should someone ask me to stand trial for my right to say or print what I like, no matter who was president, or what our political climate was.

I even dare to say that dissidents are the real inheritors of our American political beliefs.

Jack Anderson

A million dollar bad idea

WASHINGTON — In past columns I've reported that the federal agency created to help minority businesses was rife with political cronyism.

Now I've seen a draft report, still unreleased, prepared by the Commerce Department's inspector general. It concludes that the Minority Business Development Agency's seven-year program to help minority businesses market new high-tech products has been badly mismanaged and has little to show for the millions of dollars it has spent.

The agency has shelled out some $5.6 million to 10 "technology commercialization centers," which were supposed to bring clever and useful new products to consumers. In its slick publications, the MBDA has claimed the program is responsible for marketing 28 products and has generated more than $40 million in financing and sales for minority firms.

But the inspector general's report says the MBDA's Washington headquarters "has seriously mismanaged the program (and) failed to adequately monitor the centers' program accomplishments." As a result, "centers have failed to achieve the purpose of the program and have misused federal monies."

Investigators checked out 22 of the agency's 28 success stories and found that the claimed accomplishments were "grossly exaggerated." That's putting it mildly. Ten products weren't even put on the market, though the MBDA claimed they were. These phantom achievements included an energy controller for light fixtures, a hydraulic oil pump, a water-saving flush toilet and a bun toaster.

Nor could the investigators find any evidence that a portable fluoroscope, a solar-wind energy generator, lightweight concrete, or a naval target device were ever commercialized.

The draft report also understated the case when it termed "inappropriate" the now-defunct Baltimore technology center's claim that it successfully commercialized a concealed stereo system and a flame retardant chemical "since the firms manufacturing the products were owned by ... the center."

The former director, Dr. Melvin Butler, told my reporter Laurie Siegel: "I started the firms from scratch in order to get the products on the market. This was part of the center's mission. We did what that contract called for ... Obviously, the auditors didn't know what commercialization involved." Butler denied the companies were set up for his gain.

But a Commerce Department memorandum notes that on one project Butler spent $5,000 of grant money "to defray his personal expenses," such as department store bills and apartment rent. He also executed "$21,000 worth of checks payable to 'Cash,'" and spent $6,150 in grant funds "to rent a convention hall and bar lounge" for office space.

The same memo cited the Baltimore center's "apparent misuse of grant funds and failure to perform adequately" as reasons to cut off its funding.

The inspector general's report concluded that 43 of 56 current MBDA projects are "unrelated to technology-based growth industries," which the program is supposed to encourage.

For example, the agency spent seven months and $9,000 in consultant fees on "The Circle Ball" — a baseball attached to a line, designed for a child to swing at. Another product with "weak potential" was a "Do-Not-Disturb Doorbell."

Footnote: Commerce Department officials responsible for the program would not comment. A department spokesman said a 200-page MBDA response to the inspector general "totally refutes, by documentation, the charges made." But a meeting to share this document with my reporter was canceled at the last minute.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: On Aug. 20, two young Army privates were killed by a stray artillery round at Fort Lewis, Wash. But the Army did not disclose that at least six times in the past six months, stray shells have landed on the Nisqually Indian Reservation near where the soldiers were killed. The Army says it has taken steps to correct the problem.

WORKER BURIED — Workers dig frantically to remove a trapped employee of Pioneer Concrete of Texas, Inc., who was accidentally buried under 100 tons of limestone emptied from a rail car Tuesday afternoon in Galveston. The employee, George Jones, was later listed in good condition at a Galveston hospital.

Man buried under rail car

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A man who was pinned under a railroad car and 100 tons of limestone rock for more than an hour was suffering from internal injuries and shock, but hospital officials said today he was in fair condition.

George Jones, 39, was trapped Tuesday when his co-workers accidentally released the door on the bottom of the railroad car, sending Jones to the ground and the limestone rock down on top of him.

Jones was taken to John Sealy Hospital, suffering from internal injuries, internal bleeding and shock, but was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit today, hospital officials said. About 20 firefighters and employees of Pioneer Concrete of Texas Inc. worked to free Jones as he screamed in pain, "Don't pull. My leg, my leg."

Danny Mannis, one of eight paramedics at the scene, said Jones suffered internal injuries and complained of pain in his lower abdomen before slipping into shock.

Tim Conner, manager of Pioneer's Galveston office, said no further statements about the accident would be made until he had spoken with Jones.

Worker hurt during fire

DALLAS (AP) — An employee of a downtown hotel here was injured Tuesday as a small fire in a clothes dryer forced the evacuation of about 50 guests and employees from the building.

Firefighters said the small fire sent smoke wafting through laundry chutes in the high-rise Sheraton Hotel.

RELIEF FOR SORE FEET — Dr. Charles Brantingham of the University of Southern California Medical School shows off his design for a new floor mat which stimulates circulation in the feet and lower legs.

Scientists discover special flooring that eases fatigue

DALLAS (AP) — A California scientist said Monday his research team has developed a special floor surface that can relieve fatigue in workers who stand and already has improved earnings at a New Jersey casino that installed a mile of the matting.

Dr. Charles R. Brantingham, a podiatrist and assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of Southern California, said he and three associates have found that 90 million Americans who work while standing can be more comfortable and more productive if employers install varying floor surfaces.

varicose veins." Brantingham said the surface — designed with a continuous series of 4-inch elevated triangles — has been installed in 50,000 workplaces, including the Resorts International Hotel Casino in Atlantic City, N.J.

"We just put a mile of the surface in workplaces at the casino. This outfit normally does about $28 million a month. In the month after installation, they did $31 million and said they thought it was because of an improved feeling of well-being."

"These people just aren't as pooped-out," he said.

Brantingham's team studied 51,217 workers for the paper, which states: "The flat urban surface insults the osteologic configuration of the human foot, produces leg muscle imbalance, venous incompetence, pathology and fatigue, leading to accidents."

Brantingham said the findings could have broad implications for public health, and for businesses such as shopping malls.

"If we change the surface of the mall every 20 paces, every 90 paces, every 120 paces — from tile to brick to carpet — we profoundly increase the comfort of the walkway," he said. "We have found they will stay on the walkway two to three times as long."

Brantingham's findings are scheduled to be presented Wednesday to a convention of the American Public Health Association.

"The reason why people who have to do standing work — like neurosurgeons or machinists or homemakers or teachers or clerks at cash registers — become fatigued is that they have to continually move their legs to stimulate circulation," he said.

"Standing still is very tiring," he said. "We have designed a surface with some ribs underneath it that can be placed under carpet and a mat for the work place that cause the foot to move slightly," Brantingham said. "The muscle activity produced reduces venous pressure, the study shows, and can even help prevent

Researcher promotes anti-viral drug

DALLAS (AP) — Fifty years after the influenza virus was isolated, scientists finally are developing drugs that effectively combat its effects, a researcher says.

Dr. Arnold S. Monto, an epidemiology professor at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, marked the anniversary by conducting a seminar Tuesday at the national convention of the American Public Health Association.

The last major outbreak of Type A flu — the most severe variety — was in 1968-69, but influenza is so unpredictable that "we have to treat every year as a flu year," Monto said.

"This winter we have no idea. We have three kinds of flu and all were around last year. This is a very unusual occurrence. We may be close to a time when a new kind of flu is going to come along," he said.

Monto is among the researchers studying amantadine, the only anti-viral drug approved so far in the United States. He said the drug is effective both in preventing influenza and in reducing its symptoms.

Paroled man arrested for robbery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man arrested after a holdup was a parole violator who had mistakenly been released from jail a day earlier, authorities say.

Narvis Nonnett, 23, had been released on $5,000 bail last Friday after being taken into custody while driving a stolen car, police said. Saturday night, he was arrested again after allegedly robbing an Encino couple at gunpoint.

In Nonnett's possession following the Encino arrest were jewelry and other goods allegedly stolen in another robbery, Detective Gary Redel said Monday.

2 TV stations ban Swaggart's show

ATLANTA (AP) — Evangelist Jimmy Swaggart's popular television show was canceled by two Atlanta stations after the Roman Catholic archdiocese complained that he made anti-Catholic statements on the air.

"We got complaints from our people, and we relayed our complaints to Channels 46 and 5," said the Rev. Noel Burtenshaw, director of communications for the Atlanta archdiocese.

WAGA-TV and WANX-TV confirmed Monday they had dropped the 30-minute program, which had been broadcast daily. According to Arbitron ratings, Swaggart has the largest television audience among TV evangelists, followed in order by Robert Schuller and Oral Roberts. Swaggart's show, carried on 250 U.S. stations, is estimated to draw 3 million viewers each week.

"He was saying things like, 'Priests are just leading people to hell,'" Burtenshaw said.

At Swaggart's Baton Rouge, La., headquarters, spokesman David Van Gorder said: "We're aware of the situation." He declined further comment.

WAGA program director Marc Doyle said Swaggart made statements against various organized religions. "The matter of content is unilaterally up to us," Doyle said. "So we canceled the program." It was pulled from the air Wednesday.

WANX canceled the program Thursday. Spokesmen said both stations already had returned Swaggart's taped programs, which he paid the stations to broadcast, and they could not provide any direct quotes from the tapes.

But the bishop of Baton Rouge said he met with Swaggart this year to discuss his comments on Catholic doctrine.

"Just last week he had several television shows on infant baptism," Bishop Stanley J. Ott said. Both Ott and one of his deacons, Bob Furlough, quoted Swaggart as saying, "It was a shame that Mother Teresa is Catholic."

Swaggart is an ordained Assembly of God minister who began his television ministry 10 years ago.

Jury finds man guilty of anti-Semitic remarks

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A man characterized in political campaigns as having racist views was convicted of making anti-Semitic remarks to his boss after he was fired.

Michael Hansen, 38, of Glen Cove, was found guilty Monday by a Nassau County Court jury of harassment and violating the state's civil rights law, said Edward Grilli, spokesman for the district attorney's office.

The jury acquitted Hansen of assault and possession of a dangerous instrument, he said.

A former Prudential insurance agent, Hansen once ran unsuccessfully for mayor of Glen Cove in the Republican primary, a contest in which he was disavowed by party officials for alleged racism.

Hansen was accused of returning to the Prudential office after being fired in July, shouting epithets at his former boss, Melvin Golub, and throwing a chair at him, Grilli said.

Hansen testified that he did not recall using anti-Semitic language and said he picked up a chair and slammed it on a desk but did not throw it at Golub, said the prosecutor, Assistant District Attorney Ronald Goldstein.

Golub said Hansen had been fired on orders of Prudential's home office because of customer complaints about his political activities.

Judge Burton Joseph set sentencing for Jan. 11 on the misdemeanor charges, which carry maximum penalties of a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

Muskie hospitalized

EDMUND MUSKIE ...hospitalized

BIDDEFORD, Maine (AP) — Former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie was admitted to a hospital this morning to undergo tests for an undisclosed ailment, and was in fair condition, officials said.

Webber Hospital spokeswoman Lauren Finkelshtein said Muskie, 69, was undergoing tests, but she would not disclose the nature of his ailment.

The former Democratic senator from Maine was in his home state to attend the funeral of his long-time personal secretary, Marjorie Hutchinson, said friends who asked not to be identified.

Muskie has a home in the resort town of Kennebunk but spends much of his time in Washington, where he is a lobbyist.

Muskie was admitted before 5 a.m. to the hospital in southern Maine, officials said. In Washington, Carol Parmelee of Muskie's law office said doctors had commented that "all indicators are favorable" for Muskie.

He was appointed secretary of state by President Jimmy Carter to fill the post vacated by the resignation of Cyrus Vance.

Before entering the Senate, Muskie had twice been governor of Maine.

They cried for science

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — People shed tears because they are happy, sad or angry — or because they've got something in their eye. At Tulane University's Tear Analysis Laboratory, volunteers cry for science.

The lab breaks teardrops into their basic chemical components, giving researchers a fountain of information about the human body — and hope that tear analysis might one day replace some painful blood tests and spinal taps.

In their first project, researchers found a Vitamin A deficiency among people with a malady known as "dry-eye syndrome," said Dr. Peter R. Kastl, director of the lab, which is less than a year old.

Other work has linked one group of tear chemicals to rheumatoid arthritis and shown that tears can help detect and prevent eye diseases.

To get the tears for study, volunteers take a healthy whiff of an onion slice, then carefully remove the tears from their eyes through a thin glass pipe, where the droplets are collected.

In collecting the droplets, researchers have to be careful to separate "reflex tears" from "basal tears." Reflex tears flow as an emotional reaction to a happy or sad experience or as a physical reaction to irritation caused by pollution, foreign particles — or onion slices.

Basal tears are the ever-present wetness in the eye that keeps the eyeball moist, sterile, nourished and protected.

Collecting the right kind of tear isn't easy, Kastl said. "If you irritate the eye while collecting the tears, you'll generate more reflex tears and dilute the volume," he added.

Kastl has high hopes for his tear lab. He envisions a laboratory where people all over the country could mail in tear samples on strips of filter paper — a method of collection still being tested.

AT&T breakup means radical stock changes

NEW YORK (AP) — An investment that has stood for decades as a bastion of stability and generous income will be radically transformed with the breakup of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. this winter.

The common stock of the existing telephone company will become stock of a new, smaller AT&T, and separate shares will be issued for each of seven new regional companies that will take over local telephone service.

All eight companies are expected to issue reports Wednesday on their finances and their dividend plans for 1984. Stock trading in the new companies is scheduled to begin Nov. 21 on a "when issued" basis — the trading of shares that have been announced but not yet issued.

Many Wall Street analysts believe the new structure will work in the companies' favor, and therefore benefit investors.

But no matter how successful any of the new companies becomes, experts generally agree that none will duplicate the characteristics that have helped make the old AT&T the most widely held stock in this country.

Along with its legions of customers and employees, American Telephone & Telegraph has a vast family of owners — more than 3.1 million at last count, or three times as many as any other company.

Large institutions like banks, insurance companies and pension funds hold only about a quarter of the shares. In the ranks of AT&T stockholders, those big funds are far outnumbered by individuals of comparatively modest means.

More than 500,000 people, in fact, own fewer than 10 AT&T shares, worth about $63 apiece at recent prices.

The company, under the supervision of a federal judge, has worked out a plan designed to make the transformation as easy as possible for investors big and small. Most will have some choice in the contents of the package of stocks they receive.

But as the time for divestiture nears, uncertainty is rampant, even among Wall Street professionals, over what it will ultimately mean for investors and how they can best respond to it.

"There is, unfortunately, no precedent for gauging the precise effect of breaking up the nation's largest company," said the firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis Inc. in one of the many special reports being turned out by investment analysts.

"The last time the government initiated such an event was with Standard Oil at the turn of the century. Unlike Standard Oil, AT&T is regulated at the federal, state and international level."

As the experts see it, AT&T shareholders can follow any of four basic strategies. One course that some have already taken is to sell the stock in the open market before the divestiture takes place, leaving someone else to cope with the complications.

But that approach can present new problems. If the stock is sold at a profit, the seller has a capital gain that is subject to tax on the 1983 return.

There will be brokerage commissions to pay as well. And the seller also forgoes a chance at the possible benefits of the breakup, which some students of the situation say could be considerable.

After selling, furthermore, the investor must seek out some other investment offering comparable stability and earnings growth. In the decade between 1973 and 1982, a volatile period for most stocks, AT&T never sold for less than $39 nor more than $66, while its dividend nearly doubled.

A second option is to hang onto the stock and accept the deal as AT&T has set it up. For each 10 shares in the old company, holders will wind up early next year with 10 shares of the new AT&T, plus one share in each of the seven regional companies.

Whenever that formula works out to fractions of shares in the regional companies, cash will be paid instead.

A third choice is available to the 77 percent of AT&T investors who own between 10 and 499 shares. They will be permitted early in 1984 to rearrange their holdings in the regional companies directly through AT&T, for a fee of 25 cents for each share bought or sold.

A fourth possibility is offered by Wall Street firms operating what are known as "Humpty Dumpty funds" — unit investment trusts that seek in various ways to put the new pieces of the telephone company back together into something resembling the old AT&T.

For a relatively small fee, investors may swap their old AT&T shares for units of these trusts, which will invest their assets in the stocks of the various new companies.

"The telephone trusts offer AT&T shareholders a convenient way to maintain their proportionate holdings in AT&T," along with the new regional companies, says Standard & Poor's Corp. in its investment advisory publication "The Outlook."

Whatever these trusts can accomplish, however, none can recreate the old AT&T.

Consumer confidence

Consumer confidence is high all over the nation with people entering the fourth-quarter holiday selling season with more money than a year ago. They are looking for value and a reason to buy. Our local stores are providing both. Overall, the economy is looking better with an expected spurt in retail sales and with the oil industry's recovery.

One problem that's facing some Permian Basin cities, but NOT Big Spring is bad loans made in previous months that have a residual or lag effect and will be draining bank profits into 1984. Fortunately, the Big Spring banking picture is extremely healthy overall and will be a plus factor in our local continuing recovery.

Postman saves woman's life

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A postman who said he tries to keep an eye on the elderly while he makes his daily route has been credited with saving the life of an 83-year-old Fort Worth woman.

Clara Muse remained in critical condition Tuesday at Harris Hospital, where she was taken after she was discovered unconscious and in a coma on her kitchen floor. The cause of her collapse has not yet been determined.

Officials say she might not have been found until it was too late had it not been for the concern of Jacob L. Farrell, 65, who noticed that her mail had accumulated over a four-day period.

District Fire Chief Jim Noah told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that Farrell initiated the rescue in what could have been a life-or-death situation.

"There is almost no doubt in my mind that if he (Farrell) hadn't acted as he did, Mrs. Muse might not have been found until it was too late to help her," Noah said.

Farrell, a 26-year postal employee, said he was making his daily rounds Monday when he realized the Mrs. Muse's mail had been in her mailbox since Friday.

"I figured something was wrong," he said. "It wasn't usual for her mail to be in the box that long a period of time. Right away I went over to a neighbor's house and asked him if he had seen Mrs. Muse lately," Farrell said.

Farrell said that the neighbor agreed to check the house to see if Mrs. Muse was ill and when Farrell returned from his rounds, he discovered an ambulance and firefighter rescue squad on the scene.

One of the firefighters at the scene said that when he entered the house, he saw Mrs. Muse unconscious on the kitchen floor near a lit gas stove.

Rescuers found her dressed for bed, lying about three feet from the gas stove. She was dehydrated and had a rapid pulse and breathing and low blood pressure. It was unclear how long she had been in unconscious, officials said.

Davis buys Fort Worth home

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Millionaire Cullen Davis is purchasing a new home in east Fort Worth, but the deal won't be final until the middle of next month.

Davis' former mansion has been sold to Cambridge Companies Inc. of Dallas, who have signed a contract to buy and develop the tract on Mockingbird Lane in Fort Worth.

The former Davis mansion achieved notoriety as the site of a double slaying where Davis' stepdaughter and his ex-wife's boyfriend were killed.

Davis was found innocent of the 1976 slayings at the mansion.

The real estate agent representing the current owner of the house said the deal will not become final until after Dec. 16. The realtor declined to reveal the purchase price of the 11-room house.

The Rev. John Wilkerson, pastor of Bethel Temple, where Davis is a member, said he asked Davis Saturday night whether he had bought a house.

"He said yes," Wilkerson said. "I asked if it was a secret and he said no."

Teachers sue school district

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Teachers Association says it is suing the Houston Independent School District because the new teacher evaluation system violates their constitutional rights.

Association President Camella Walker said the lawsuit challenges the school district's assessment plan for refusing to allow teachers to contest the subjective rating system or the improvement program for teachers who are found to be deficient.

A hearing on the group's request for a temporary injunction was set for Dec. 1.

The lawsuit, filed Monday in state court, asks that teachers be allowed to file grievances over the results of their evaluations and seeks a maximum 60-day time limit for settling complaints, which now take up to six months to complete.

"It is meaningless and farcical for the (district) to promise its employees an effective way to secure a resolution of their disputes concerning wages, hours and working conditions, and then design a procedure which, for all disputes that arise during the final two-thirds of their annual employment term, affords no decision until school is out," the lawsuit said.

The school district last year began using the new evaluation system, called the Teacher Quality Assurance Program. It includes an evaluation of teachers by their principal and area supervisors and a rating from 1 to 4 on a variety of objectives. Teachers who do not score satisfactorily in the evaluation are put on a "growth improvement plan."

Obtain a free Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football weekly game card each time you visit a Winn-Dixie store. No purchase necessary. Then watch Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football each week on network television, or check your local newspaper or result poster at any Winn-Dixie store for the score of both teams at the completion of the game.

If the last number of the final score of each team matches the score on your Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football game card, you win the dollar amount indicated on your card, either $1,000, $100, $10, or $2. EXAMPLE: If the score on your card reads DALLAS 9, NEW ENGLAND 7, it means the DALLAS score could be 9, 19, 29, 39, 49, 59, etc., and the NEW ENGLAND score could be 7, 17, 27, 37, 47, 57, etc. Any combination of scores ending in 9 for DALLAS and 7 for NEW ENGLAND would give you a winning card.

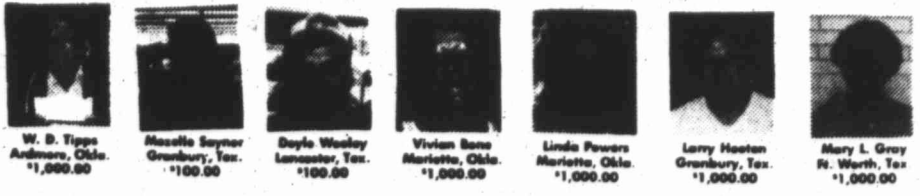

If you have a winning card, take it to any Winn-Dixie store by close of business Saturday night following that week's game for verification. Store Manager will redeem authentic $10 and $2 winners on the spot and arrange for payment of $1,000 and $100 winners.

Automakers exceed 1982 sales

DETROIT (AP)— Domestic automakers have sold more cars so far this year than in all of 1982, and early November sales are up 5.6 percent from a year ago, the companies say.

However, sales still are being limited by inventory problems in the more popular models, an auto analyst commented Tuesday.

John Hammond of Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass., also said the small increase for early November sales was due to a strong showing in November last year.

The six major domestic automakers said 5,843,480 cars have been sold this year, up 18.3 percent from 4,938,107 by this time last year and topping the 5.75 million autos sold in all of 1982. Last year's sales had been the lowest in 21 years.

Auto analysts predict some 6.8 million cars will be sold in 1983, marking the best sales since 8.3 million cars were delivered in 1979.

In the first 10 days of November, the automakers shipped 196,126 cars compared with 187,641 in the period a year earlier.

The daily sales rate of 22,014 was the highest for early November since 26,638 cars were sold each day in the period in 1978.

Coke announces program to reach Hispanic people

ATLANTA (AP) — Coca-Cola USA is setting aside more than $10 million for a new program to reach and support the Hispanic community in the United States.

The company Tuesday unveiled its plan to support Hispanic business and civic organizations and announced the creation of the Coca-Cola National Hispanic Education Fund.

Money from the fund will be used to combat the problem of high school dropouts and provide college and graduate school scholarships, the company said.

"This agenda emphasizes the importance of the Hispanic consumer to the Coca-Cola system," said Brian G. Dyson, president of Coca-Cola USA, the domestic soft drink division of the Coca-Cola Co.

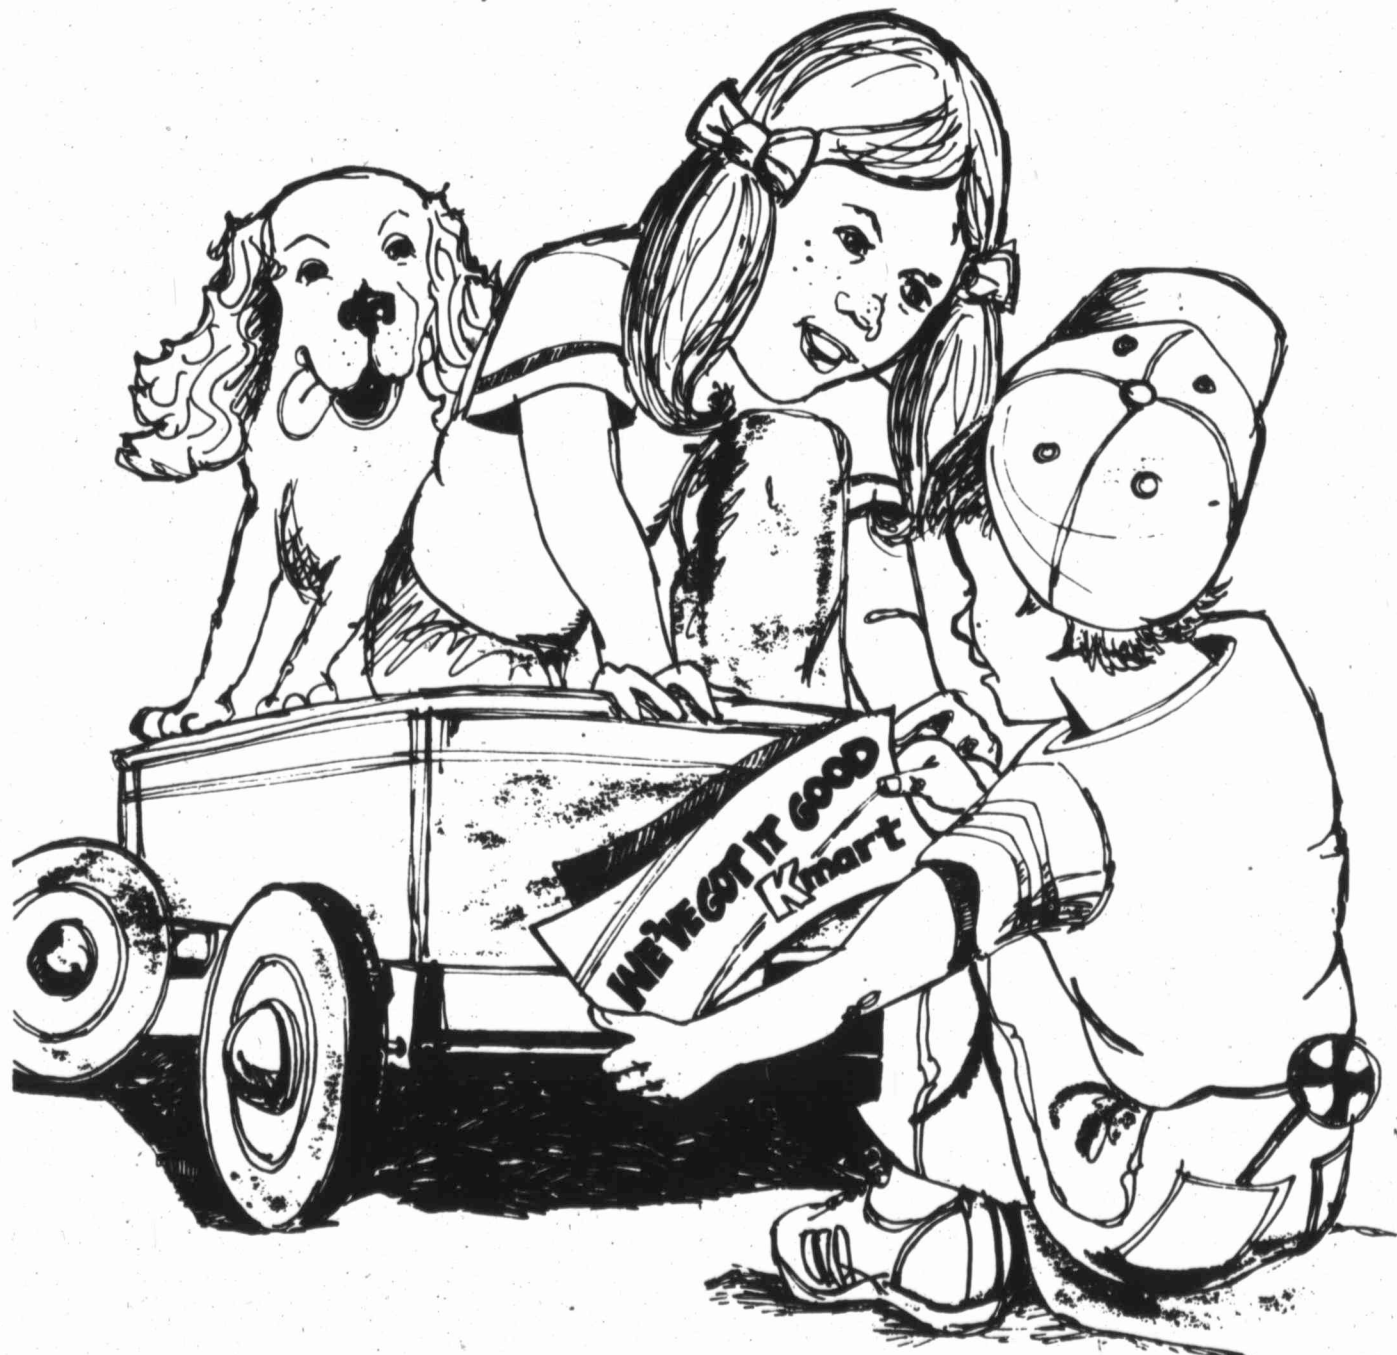

"In 1984, Coca-Cola USA will allocate more than $10 million to reach the Hispanic market . . ." he said in a statement.

The company is giving $500,000 to develop pilot projects to aid Hispanic students in New York, Miami, Chicago, San Antonio and Los Angeles, all of which have significant Hispanic communities.

Nonstriking pilots claim harassment

SANTA ANNA, Calif. (AP)— Continental Airline pilots crossing picket lines say they have been harassed by classified ads offering their homes for sale, utilities that were shut off and threats of harm.

A spokesman for the airline's striking pilots said such acts were not condoned "in any form or fashion" and he did not know who was responsible.

Pilot James Sandin, a 15-year Continental veteran, said eager potential buyers knocked on the door of his three-bedroom home in Tustin after it was advertised in weekend newspapers for $87,000.

Earlier this month, he added, someone told utility companies that his family was moving to Albuquerque, N.M., and ordered the phone and gas shut off.

Other advertisements last weekend in two newspapers offered two other pilots' homes for sale at low prices.

CAL RIPKEN, JR.
...Oriole wins MVP award

Ripken: From top rookie to top player

NEW YORK (AP) — Cal Ripken Jr., Rookie of the Year in the American League just one year ago, was named today as 1983 AL Most Valuable Player, narrowly defeating Baltimore Orioles teammate Eddie Murray in the balloting.

Ripken, 23, completed his meteoric ascension from rookie standout to MVP by leading the American League in hits with 211, runs with 121 and doubles with 47 last season as the Orioles won their first World Series since 1971.

The Baltimore shortstop also placed among the league leaders in batting average (.318), RBI (102), game-winning RBI (17) and slugging average (.517) to go along with his 27 homers.

And, in only his second season, he has earned the reputation as an ironman by being the only player in the league to play every inning of all 162 games this year, extending his streak of consecutive games to 280.

"Sometimes it's like living in a small fantasy world, things have happened so fast," Ripken said after receiving the phone call that informed him of the award. "I've been excited all day, even if I was just going to the supermarket to buy a bottle of milk.

"Everyone here has been behind both me and Eddie (Murray), and I think I would have been just as excited for Eddie if he'd won. I'm sure he feels the same way."

In balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America, Ripken received 15 of a possible 28 first-place votes with two votes allocated to each of the 14 American League cities. He was voted second nine times, third three times and fourth once for 322 total points.

Last year's AL MVP also was a shortstop, Robin Yount of Milwaukee, and, for the second straight year, Murray finished second in balloting. Murray, who hit .306 with 33 homers and 111 RBI, received 10 first-place votes and 290 points.

Carlton Fisk of the Chicago White Sox was third with the remaining three first-place votes and 209 points, followed by Jim Rice of Boston with 150 points and Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee with 123 votes.

Ripken said the first phone call he made after learning of the award was to his father, Cal Sr., who, as the Orioles third-base coach, has had a rare opportunity not only to watch but also to help his son's career.

"He was very excited," Ripken Jr. said in a telephone interview from Baltimore. "I got a phone call about quarter to 11 (p.m.), and it was him on the phone, so I know it was on his mind. Last year, I didn't get that phone call."

"He was doing some things around the house, and he figured I ought to have heard by now. But I didn't get the call until just about 11, so he was the first one I called back."

While Ripken was the first American Leaguer to win rookie and MVP awards in successive years, Fred Lynn, then of Boston, won the awards in the same year, 1975. Ripken is only the fourth player to win both the rookie and MVP awards in a career since the rookie voting was divided by leagues in 1949. Besides Lynn, the others were Thurman Munson and Rod Carew.

Ripken set Baltimore single-season records for hits and doubles in his MVP season while hitting more homers and collecting more RBI than any other shortstop in Orioles history.

Ripken hit better than .350 in the second half of the season and nearly .400 in his final 43 games as the Orioles won their seventh AL East title. He hit safely in 11 or more straight games three times, including 16 straight from Sept. 9-21.

He was the league's Rookie of the Year in 1982 when he set team rookie records with 28 homers and 93 RBI.

Two Wins

Queens clobber Weatherford, 82-57

RANGER — Alex Provincio scored a season-high 21 points and the Queens hit 77 per cent from the foul line in an 81-57 victory over Weatherford College in the Ranger Classic here Tuesday night.

The win boosted HC to 6-3 for the season and gave the Queens a consolation victory in the two-day event. South Plains edged host Ranger 55-53 in the championship game.

Provincio sank nine of 13 free throws as Howard connected on 23 of 30 tries. Weatherford also fared well at the line, dropping in 21 of 30 attempts.

"I platooned the whole game," said HC coach Don Stevens. "I wanted to run them and everyone got to play." Debi Young, a 6-2 freshman post from Pampa, drew her first starting assignment and scored seven points and grabbed six rebounds, both season highs.

Provincio added eight rebounds to her performance. "Alex had her best game of the year and she didn't play all that much," Stevens said.

Howard rebounded Weatherford 41-34 as even 5-4 point guard Janene Berry pulled in seven missed shots. The Hawk Queens led the entire game, building a eight-point halftime lead and stretching that to a 30-point margin during the second half.

HC shot 45 per cent from the floor (29-64) while Weatherford, pressured by the Queens' man defense, could sink only 38 per cent of its shots (18-47).

Molly Early was the only other HC player in double figures with 10 points while Kimberly Land led Weatherford with 12 points.

McLennan, Odessa headline entries for annual Hawk Queens Classic

The Hawk Classic, as usual, will be one of the stellar junior college women's tournament in the state this basketball season. The host Hawk Queens, however, have been tabbed in the unusual role of challenger.

The three-day event, featuring 16 teams from as far away as Phoenix, Ariz., begins at 8 a.m. Thursday when Navarro tangles with New Mexico Junior College. Play continues around the clock until the eighth and final game is completed near midnight.

McLennan Community College of Waco and Odessa College have been tabbed co-favorites by Hawk Queens coach Don Stevens. MCC won its own McLennan Classic two weeks ago while the Lady Wrangler shared the championship of the Odessa Optimist Classic with the Queens this past weekend.

McLennan's High Lassies open tournament play at 12 noon against Lubbock Christian, the only four-year school entered, while OC takes on Southwest Christian in the 2 p.m. game.

Howard makes its tournament debut at 8 p.m. against Cisco.

Other first round games feature Western Texas against Weatherford (10 a.m.), Grayson versus Ranger (4 p.m.), Tyler against TSTI-Waco (6 p.m.) and Phoenix Community College testing Temple (10 p.m.).

Second round games will be played Friday with the winner's bracket semifinals set for 8 and 10 a.m. Saturday. The tournament championship game is scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday with the third place game at 6 p.m.

Loser's bracket games, heading towards a consolation final, will be played Friday and Saturday in both DGC and the old Howard gymnasium.

"McLennan is probably one of the top favorites," says Stevens whose team lost 70-55 to MCC in Waco earlier this year. "They are deep. They have size, quickness, experience, shooting and play great pressure defense. They are definitely one of the better teams I've seen in a few years."

Stevens points to Phyllis Cleary, Carolyn Sneed and Debra Degrate as player's to watch on the High Lassies roster.

Odessa is as talented but not quite as deep down the bench as McLennan, Stevens said. Newcomer Sharon Blair, a 6-2 post player, has added skill to a lineup that already includes Sharon Cain, the Western Junior College Athletic Conference MVP last year, and high-scoring Tricia Clay.

The Queens, of course, will be no pushover. HC brings a 6-3 record into the game and is scoring 72.9 points a game, giving up just 64.2.

Molly Early is scoring 14.0 points a game but has totaled just 23 in her last three starts. Debbie Hall is adding 13.2. Alex Provincio has been the most consistent Hawk Queen in recent games, hitting double figures in five straight contests to boost her scoring average to 10.3 points a game. Janene Berry adds 9.0 and Pat Carter 8.7 points a game.

Other title contenders are Grayson which returns the 1-2 scoring combination of Nita Garrison and Sheila Stowe, Western Texas which won five of its first six games and Tyler, the 1982 runner-up and playing under first-year coach George Cox.

AP rates North Carolina No. 1

By The Associated Press

North Carolina, led by Michael Jordan and Sam Perkins and bolstered by three outstanding freshmen, is the No. 1 college basketball team in the preseason Associated Press rankings announced today.

The Tar Heels, who won the 1982 NCAA title but were eliminated in the East Regional final last season by Georgia, received 34 first-place votes and 1,175 points from a nationwide panel of 61 sports writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky, which gets back 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie, sidelined two seasons with a shinbone injury, drew 16 No. 1 votes and 1,123 points to rank second, ahead of Houston, which drew four first-place votes and 1,042 points.

Georgetown attracted four first-place votes and 1,024 points for the No. 4. The Big East Conference favorite has 7-foot Pat Ewing, a first team All-American, and a strong supporting cast.

Memphis State, which includes 6-10 Keith Lee among its four returning starters, drew one vote for No. 1 and 905 points to gain the No. 5 spot.

Louisville, which made the Final Four last season for the third time in four years, received the other first-place vote and 836 points to rank sixth despite the loss of the McCray brothers.

Iowa was ranked seventh, with Maryland and UCLA and Oregon State completing the Top Ten.

Louisiana State headed the Second Ten, followed by Michigan State, Fresno State, Arkansas, Boston College, Georgia, Kansas, DePaul, Indiana and Oklahoma.

Jordan, a junior guard-forward and a clutch performer for North Carolina since his freshman season, earned first team All-America honors last season. Perkins, a 6-foot-10 senior who doubles at forward and center, was a second team All-American.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith also has returning starters in 7-foot sophomore center Brad Daugherty and 6-8 senior forward Matt Doherty plus holdover guard Buzz Peterson. The Tar Heels' only key loss was point guard Jimmy Braddock.

North Carolina, 28-8 last season, also has 6-10 forwards Joe Wolf and Dave Popson and point guard Kenny Smith from the freshman ranks.

Smith has said Maryland should be the favorite in the Atlantic Coast Conference because the Terrapins have all their starters back, beat the Tar Heels once last season and nearly beat them two other times.

Houston lost front-liners Clyde Drexler and Larry Micheaux, but returns 7-foot Akeem Abdul Olajuwon, who became a dominant force last season, leading the Cougars to 26 straight victories before being knocked off by North Carolina State in the NCAA final.

Nine of last season's final Top Twenty are missing from the preseason rankings.

Among them are NCAA champion N.C. State, which lost three key players, and Virginia, which graduated 7-4 Ralph Sampson, three-time Player of the Year.

Landry expects tricks from KC

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry is looking for some trick stuff by one of his former pupils on Sunday.

The Kansas City Chiefs come calling and their coach is John Mackovic, who was an assistant under Landry for two years.

Mackovic was the quarterback coach and even helped Landry call plays.

"I suspect John will have something up his sleeve," Landry said. "If he doesn't know us after two years here, he didn't learn anything."

Mackovic, in a telephone hookup, said on Tuesday "I may not have any (tricks) left. I've used so many of them, they will have a chance to see them on film."

The Cowboys will get to see a lot of passes. The Chiefs are averaging over 38 passes per game, high in the National Football League.

Mackovic said his passing game is "quite a bit" like the one Landry runs.

He added, "Our running game is different."

Mackovic said the main thing he has learned from Landry is the "consistency of work. You have a lot of highs and lows in this business, but it was always difficult to judge the good days and the bad days at Dallas."

COWBOYS' TOM LANDRY
...wary of Mackovic's tactics

be a success in the NFL.

"He has good temperament and intelligence, gets along with his players and handled them well," Landry said.

Landry is worried about how slow his team has started in almost every game this season. Dallas fell 24-23 to San Diego Sunday after falling behind 24-6.

"We think we are ready, we get geared up, but we don't start strong," said Landry. "If you keep playing that way, you are going to lose some games."

Someone suggested to Landry at his weekly press luncheon that he scrimmage the 9-2 team 30 minutes before kickoff to get their attention.

"A scrimmage might help," Landry said, just kidding.

He added, "This is an unusual team. I've never had one play this way before. Maybe we will go all the way. I'm not sure."

Landry admitted his defense, which is 10th in the National Conference overall and 12th against the pass, is yielding too many big plays.

"We are giving up big plays on third down, and that has been a strong area for us in the past," said Landry, who planned no lineup changes. "We are missing plays we shouldn't miss. When you are in man-to-man coverage most of the time like we are you can't afford many mistakes."

Medich caught writing bogus prescriptions

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former Texas Rangers pitcher George "Doc" Medich, now a doctor at a Pittsburgh hospital, has been charged with improperly writing drug prescriptions, authorities say.

State agents charged Medich with prescribing the addictive pain killer Percodan and other drugs for non-existent patients and patients who never received the drugs, said Bob Gentzel, spokesman for Attorney General LeRoy Zimmerman, on Tuesday.

The investigation began when a routine check of files at a pharmacy in Pittsburgh's Oakland section showed that Medich had picked up the drugs, Gentzel said.

Medich, 34, of suburban Allison Park, surrendered Monday and was released on his own recognizance after being arraigned before Pittsburgh Magistrate Nicholas Diulus on seven counts of improperly writing prescriptions, Gentzel said.

Each count carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a fine of $5,000.

Three of the prescriptions were for a total of 121 tablets of Percodan, Gentzel said. Other prescriptions were for Flexeril, a muscle relaxant, Indocin, used to fight inflammation, and Catapres, used for high blood pressure, he said.

Medich, an orthopedic resident at Children's Hospital, declined comment on the charges. His lawyer, Lawrence Zurawsky, said "the matter is being resolved."

Medich retired from the Milwaukee Brewers last year with a major league lifetime record of 124 wins and 105 losses over 11 years.

HOUSTON (AP) — New Jersey guard Otis Birdsong scored 34 points to pace the Nets to their first road victory, 104-86, over the Houston Rockets Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Birdsong's efforts offset the 32 points and 20 rebounds, both season highs, of rookie Houston center Ralph Sampson.

New Jersey hit 8 of its first 10 shots, and Birdsong scored 13 points as the Nets built a 29-26 first-quarter lead, but Sampson brought Houston back in the second period.

Sampson, the first pick of last year's draft out of Virginia, had 13 points and eight rebounds as the Rockets, 3-6, took a 54-53 halftime advantage.

The Nets used 10 turnovers and Houston's 36.8 percent shooting in the third quarter to fashion a 79-71 lead, and a 10-1 spurt early in the final period gave New Jersey, now 6-3, a 88-76 lead with eight minutes remaining.

 OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Eric "Sleepy" Floyd sent Golden State ahead by making a short jump shot with 20 seconds remaining and Mickey Johnson added two free throws to give the Warriors a 115-112 victory Tuesday night over the San Antonio Spurs.

George Gervin scored 39 points for San Antonio in the rough National Basketball Association game in which six technical fouls were called.

Johnson, who led the Warriors in scoring with 29 points, stole a pass and was fouled by Gervin with four seconds remaining. Johnson started at forward in place of Purvis Short, who missed the game because of a sore ankle.

Spurs Coach Morris McHone was ejected from the game in the second minute of the third quarter after drawing his second technical foul. Warriors Coach John Bach drew a technical in the fourth quarter when he went onto the court during a brief fight between players and Bach announced the Warriors were playing the game under protest.

BSHS, Andrews split Tuesday dual meet

Big Spring High split a non-district dual meet with Andrews Tuesday, winning the girl's division by a lopsided 36-6 score.

Andrews retaliated in the boy's division, winning 49-34.

The Mustangs had only one girl girl swimming Tuesday. Lisa Zapata won the 200 freestyle and finished second behind BSHS's Hartley Newell (1:19.08) in the 100 butterfly.

Without competition, the Lady Steers won seven other events. The medley relay team of Newell, Kelly Williamson, Laura Johnson and Lisa Salazar swam to a 2:26.0 clocking; Newell added a win in the 60 freestyle (36.15), Salazar won both the diving and 100 breaststroke (1:31.41), Williamson the 500 freestyle (8:31.66) and Johnson the 100 backstroke (1:46.11).

The Lady Steers swam without Carol Davey who was absent because of a one-meet disciplinary action and senior Rita Fleckenstein who has been dismissed from the team. "We had a disagreement on the way things should be run," said coach Harlan Smith.

Fleckenstein did not have first period swimming but had worked out on her own.

Andrews won the 400 freestyle relay and six other first places in Tuesday's meet. The BSHS medley relay team of Terry Bordsfke, Robert Chase, Cade Loftin and Brigham Martin took a first with a 1:33.73.

Individual winners for the Steers included Loftin who won both the 100 butterfly and 160 individual medley. The freshman swam a season's best in the fly, clocking a 1:02.45 to fend off Andrews senior Todd Gilbert (1:03.38).

Loftin also defeated Gilbert in the IM. The Mustang swimmer led after the opening butterfly leg but Loftin tied the race with his backstroke and surged ahead on the breaststroke.

The only other BSHS winner was Bordsfke in the 100 backstroke (1:05.82).

The freestyle relay team of Charles Morse, Don DeFitch, Martin and Scott Ferguson was second (4:14.45).

Ferguson splashed to a season's best 6:06.81. Gilbert, making up for his two seconds to Loftin, won the event with a fast 5:25.75.

Make your own gingerbread house for the holidays

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Now is the time to build that irresistible gingerbread house for the fast-approaching holiday season.

They are traditional, they are charming and they are a great project for the family. The gingerbread house's presence adds a new dimension of joy and happiness to Christmas 1983.

Americans have re-discovered the delight of creating delicious domiciles not only for the whole family but also for raising money for charities.

Gingerbread cakes have been traced as being made as far back as 2800 B.C. on the Greek Island of Rhodes. Gingerbread was always a part of the scene over the centuries in Europe for celebrations marking weddings, birthdays and holidays.

When villages chose a "Man of the Year," tribute was paid by having a full size replica of the one chosen made out of gingerbread baked by the town baker. The replica, which often weighed well over 100 pounds, was carried through the streets of the village on the day he was to be feted.

Bakers across the country have joined the gingerbread boom by dramatically increasing commercial production. But the "storeboughts" cannot compete in volume with the hundreds of thousands made by families and home economics students.

Although most gingerbread house builders stick to traditional designs, many have begun to create new and imaginative hamlets. In some cases, geographic influences have been noted. From Southwest in Arizona and New Mexico the houses are likely to take the shape of adobes. California bakers display contemporary designs while New Englanders love their traditional Cape Cods. Mid-western "architects" often create log cabins reflective of Americans' early history.

Gingerbread houses are not that difficult to make. Here is a basic recipe for your gingerbread house.

Colleen Dunn is still looking for a Diabetic Pecan Pie recipe. Vangie Soosa also needs a recipe for Pea Salad for the Thanksgiving holidays. Iris Correa tried Fried Cheese at Pelicans in Odessa and wants a recipe for it. If you have these recipes and others you would like to share, please send them to Herald Recipe Exchange, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

GINGERBREAD DOUGH

- 5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. soda
- 1 tsp. nutmeg
- 3 tps. ginger
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup unsulphered molasses

Sift together flour, soda, salt, nutmeg and ginger. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing dough. Add sugar and molasses; mix well. Gradually stir in 4 cups flour mixture. Work in remaining flour mixture with hands. Divide dough into 3 equal portions. Form each portion into a ball.

HOW TO ROLL, CUT AND BAKE: 1. Place each ball on ungreased baking sheet. Place a damp towel underneath baking sheet to prevent sliding. Roll into a rectangle 1/4 inch thick. 2. Lay pattern of house on dough, with front and back walls on first rolled portion of dough; two sides end to end on second portion; and roof on third portion. Cut through dough on all lines of pattern with pointed knife. Do not remove windows or door. Remove all excess dough from around sides of STEP ONE — Roll gingerbread dough flat onto rectangle pan approximately 26" by 16" and 1/4" thick adding flour if needed for smooth surface.

STEP TWO — Place pattern of house on dough, cut out basic outlines with pointed knife but do not remove windows or door.

STEP THREE — Remove from pan and place on cardboard, breadboard or tray. Join four walls by applying frosting to edges. Hold in place a few minutes and when firm place roof on structure.

STEP FOUR — With cake decorator or paper cornucopia decorate roof, chimney, windows and door. Add cookies, candy to roof and walls. Use frosting to provide snowy background for Santa, trees and other objects.

pattern; reserve. 3. Roll out excess dough 1/4-inch thick. Use to cut out Santa Clause, chimney pieces, and easels for trees. If desired, any remaining dough may be used for fence, flagstones and gate. 4. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 13 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven. While hot, with point of knife, retrace outline of windows and door. If necessary, cut house edges to straighten. Do not remove from baking sheets until cool. Remove with spatula; remove windows and door.

HOW TO ASSEMBLE AND DECORATE HOUSE: 1. Have Ornamental Frosting* prepared. Use cake decorator or paper cornucopia to put together and decorate the house. If desired, a portion of the frosting

Turkey tips

What size turkey should you buy for the holidays? Home economists recommend 1 1/2 pounds of turkey per person. Plan on 1 1/2 to 2 pounds per person if the turkey is pre-stuffed.

Using this guide, there will be plenty for gracious carving at the table — no scraping the bones to serve everyone. Also, there will be enough left over for late night sandwiches or another meal.

The best way to thaw a turkey is in the refrigerator. Refrigerator thawing is recommended for food safety reasons since the surface of the bird remains cold during thawing and does not permit the rapid growth of bacteria. Plan on two to three days for thawing a 12 to 16 pound frozen turkey in the refrigerator.

If you must thaw the bird more quickly, put it in a deep pan or in the sink, cover it with cool water and change the water frequently to keep the surface cool while the turkey thaws. Room temperature thawing is not recommended because the turkey surface can become warm, allowing harmful bacteria to grow.

A low-sided open pan about 2 1/2 inches deep is the best for roasting turkey in. A shallow baking pan or shallow disposable foil pan will allow heat to circulate freely and cook the turkey evenly, resulting in a golden color and delicious roasted flavor.

The deep roasting pan with a cover was important years ago when turkeys were not as young and tender as today's. Back then the steam captured in the covered pan was needed to tenderize the bird. Today, some people prefer this method because the turkey cooks quicker. However a turkey from a covered pan tends to have a roasted flavor and a less attractive appearance.

Bumper apple crop harvested this year

By TOM HOGE
AP Food Writer

The crisp, bright days of autumn signal the harvest of America's favorite fruit — the crisp, crunchy apple. And Washington state, known as the "World's Apple Bowl," reports a bumper crop this year.

The worldwide yield of apples hovers around 700 million bushels, nearly one-fifth of which are grown in the orchards of America. More than 40 percent of the national crop is harvested in Washington.

Thousands of varieties of apples are known to exist, but relatively few are cultivated in this country any more. At least 6,500 types are said to exist worldwide and about a thousand have appeared in America.

But many succumbed to insects and blight, while others did not have wide enough appeal. In fact, they were disappearing at such an alarming rate that in 1952 the Worcester County (Mass.) Horticultural Society saved a number from extinction.

Among the fruits that dominate the American market are the mellow Baldwins of New York, New England and the Middle West and the delicately textured Cortland from New York and New Jersey.

But Washington state sets the pace. Its yield includes the Red Delicious, now the world's leading type, and its sister, the Golden Delicious, whose firm, sweet flesh, unlike most types, resists browning when cut open.

Other varieties from Washington are the Winesap, whose tart flesh is crackling crisp, and the aromatic Rome Beauty, known for its brilliant red hue.

The fertile soil of Washington, combined with long summer days, low humidity and lots of sunshine, accounts for the juicy sweetness of the local fruit.

Golden Delicious, with delicate flavor and low sodium content, holds its shape well when cooked and its golden skin is so tender that paring is not called for in many recipes, such as this one for Apple Shrimp Sauté.

APPLE SHRIMP SAUTE

- 1/4 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1 Tbsp. soy sauce
- 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
- 6 ounces fresh or frozen shrimp
- 1 Golden Delicious apple, cored and sliced, with skin left on
- 1/2 cup fresh or frozen peas
- 1 stalk celery, diagonally sliced
- 1 green onion, sliced
- 1 Tbsp. cold water
- 1 tsp. cornstarch

Combine pineapple juice, soy sauce and ginger; bring to boil. Add shrimp, apple, peas, celery and green onion. Simmer 5 minutes, or until shrimp is cooked, stirring frequently. Combine water and cornstarch and blend into hot juices in pan. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Serves 2.

school's library. The Tennessee school has been without heat since the Nashville Gas Co. terminated service because of nonpayment.

College shivers with no heat

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The heat is back on in one of seven dormitories at Fisk University, but the rest of the campus will keep shivering until the financially troubled university pays $157,000 to Nashville Gas Co. "I smelled that gas (for heat) and I didn't believe it," senior Carla Robertson, a resident of the Mary D. Shane dormitory for women, said Tuesday after the utility accepted partial payment of a debt that reached $170,000 by the time gas was shut off in April. With cold weather setting in, the 700 students at the liberal arts college have slept and studied in heatless buildings while a neighboring school, a newspaper and a TV station helped raise money.

Portable heaters were banned as a fire hazard and students in the one dorm with heat offered to put up some students from other dorms if necessary. So far about $90,000 has been raised toward the debt, but until Tuesday, Nashville Gas had refused to accept partial payment, saying Fisk had not adhered in the past to installment arrangements. However, the 130-student, seven-story Shane dormitory was found to be on its own meter and the utility agreed to resume service after Fisk agreed to pay the dorm's $13,000 bill and put $12,000 in escrow against future charges on that account, said Charles Warfield, vice president of the Fisk trustees' executive committee.

Estes' sentence to end

Convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes will end a 12-year prison career tomorrow morning when he is released from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

Estes will leave the prison about 7:30 a.m., according to John Allman, superintendent of the facility. Estes will spend one more month in a Salvation Army-sponsored halfway house, Allman said.

"That's normal procedure," Allman said.

Estes has been at the Big Spring facility since Aug. 9, 1980, and during his stay "Billie felt it best he not go public," Allman said.

He granted only three interviews during his more than three years in the camp, Allman said.

Estes first gained notoriety when he was charged in a federal fraud case in a scheme involving non-existent fertilizer tanks. He was convicted in 1963 to a 15-year term and was paroled in 1971.

REHEARSAL — Members of "Fantasy" rehearse a segment of their concert which will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday and again Monday at

Fantasy

Group interprets music with sign language

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Taking music and interpreting it through sign language, mime, elaborate lighting and staging are the keys behind the group "Fantasy," appearing in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday and next Monday at the Big Spring High School auditorium.

The group behind the elaborate audio/visual presentation is composed of Shannon Gilley-Fike, Bob Coltrane and Jim Haslup, who when not appearing as "Fantasy" are full-time interpreters at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

The performances are being sponsored by the Big Spring High School drama department.

"Fantasy" can be traced back to Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., where Haslup began to pick up an appreciation for signing music for the deaf. He began signing songs at the campus bar and expanded to workshops and meetings.

When he moved to East Carolina State University he met Coltrane, who expressed an interest in teaming up to sign songs. And Shannon "had never seen signed music until I saw them. I wanted to join."

To transpose a song from lyrics designed strictly for singing during a concert into a visual experience that the deaf would enjoy, interpreters must use American Sign Language, gestures and mime to get the full impact across, Mrs. Gilley-Fike explained.

"In the beginning, I made every mistake a beginner (in sign language) could make. I found ASL and mime are more appropriate (when sign-signing) than signed English."

Those signing songs must also "pick out something that doesn't have a lot of instrumental, because we have to maintain visual concepts," the group said. "And we need songs that are not repetitious so they don't become too boring."

The trio likens their act to videos that rock performers are making today. "It's sort of like MTV, but instead of video it is live," Mrs. Gilley-Fike said. "We interpret the music as we feel the artist meant for it to be interpreted."

The "Fantasy" act is designed for both deaf and hearing audiences, Haslup said. "Anyone who likes music will like it." The group will be performing songs from artists ranging from Frank Sinatra to the Police, Billy Joel and Dolly Parton.

Coltrane said the group will present "a light show that hasn't been seen in this area. It will be one of the largest lighting and special effects shows in West Texas."

To keep that promise the group has hired Robert Camp from Oklahoma. Camp recently did the lighting for an Oral Roberts crusade. He will be aided by members of the Big Spring High School drama department and their director, Jimmy Smith.

The group will also use effects such as smoke and fire on stage and "living props," said Mrs. Gilley-Fike. "We will have people acting out scenes" from songs.

Although the group has done very few performances in Big Spring, they have been asked to perform at several events across the country, including National Association of the Deaf conventions in Cincinnati, Ohio, and in St. Louis, Mo., and the Miss Deaf America pageants in Cincinnati and St. Louis. They also performed for three nights on a riverboat on the Ohio River. They've been invited to perform at the 1984 deaf convention in Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Gilley-Fike said the group wanted to do a show in Big Spring because "We want to see the fine arts really take off here." She commended groups such as the SWCID and Howard College drama departments, the BSHS drama department and Spring City Theatre and said "there is a lot of talent in this area. We'd like to work together with all the performing groups in Big Spring."

"Fantasy" will be joined on stage by several other signers, including Theresa Burke, Angela Parks, Catherine Corrigan and Paul Lovell, and a group of dancers.

CRMWD revenues near projections

Revenues were close to estimates but expenses were under projections for the Colorado River Municipal Water District in October.

Revenues were $964,010 of which $784,344 came in sales of water to municipalities and $106,565 to oil companies. For the first 10 months of the year, revenues aggregated $10,876,008.

October expenses amounted to $321,564 of which $461,811 went for operations. The prime item of expense was $325,434 for electric power. For the 10 months, power costs were $4,063,484, whereas the budget estimate was $5,072,390 for the period because projections were based on much higher fuel adjustments to the rate than materialized.

WIN UP TO... $1,000.00

Obtain a free Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football weekly game card each time you visit a Winn-Dixie store. No purchase necessary. Then watch Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football each week on network television, or check your local newspaper or result poster at any Winn-Dixie store for the score of both teams at the completion of the game.

If the last number of the final score of each team matches the score on your Dallas Cowboy Pro-Football game card, you win the dollar amount indicated on your card, either $1,000, $100, $10, or $2. EXAMPLE: If the score on your card reads DALLAS 9 NEW ENGLAND 7, it means the DALLAS score could be 9, 19, 29, 39, 49, etc. and the NEW ENGLAND score could be 7, 17, 27, 37, 47, 57, etc. Any combination of scores ending in 9 for DALLAS and 7 for NEW ENGLAND would give you a winning card.

If you have a winning card, take it to any Winn-Dixie store by close of business Saturday night following that week's game for verification. Store Manager will redeem authentic $10 and $2 winners on the spot and arrange for payment of $1,000 and $100 winners.

WINNING POSSIBILITIES:

Klondike stuns G'wood, 7-6

By STEVEN BELVIN
Sports Writer

STANTON — The Klondike Cougars taught the Greenwood Rangers a valuable lesson in a zone playoff game here Friday night: You must play two halves of football to win the game.

The Cougars, who were runners-up in 7-A North Zone during the regular season, played two good halves of football to upset the 7-A South Zone champions by a score of 7-6.

The win moves the Cougars into bi-district action against 8-A runner-up Gorman at 7:30 p.m. next Friday night in Sweetwater.

The victors rode the running of Rolando Juntos coupled with a stingy defense led by Juntos, linebacker Ray Arismendez and cornerback Brent Airhart to turn back the favored Rangers who had their eight-game winning streak broken.

Juntos was clearly the offensive star of the game as the 190-pound junior lugged the ball 32 times for 188 yards. He gained over 150 yards in the first half alone.

The contest easily could have turned into a rout in the first half had the Cougars capitalized on their penetrations. Twice Klondike had the ball inside the Rangers' 20-yard-line and two times they came up empty-handed.

Meanwhile Greenwood could manage only 72 yards total offense in the period and failed to cross the midfield stripe. "Our kids did not come to play," said Greenwood coach Joe Longley.

Klondike got on the scoreboard on their first possession of the contest as they marched 54 yards in only six plays. Juntos got most of the yards on the ground. An 18-yard pass from quarterback Scott Runge to Brent Airhart was also a key play, carrying the Cougs to the Ranger 18.

On the next play, Juntos burst through the right side behind the blocks of Mark Logan and Oscar Castaneda for the score. Tim Cope added the "big" extra point and the Cougars to a 7-0 lead with 8:23 remaining in the first quarter.

Early in the second quarter the Cougars drove from their own eight yard line to the Greenwood 11. The big plays in the drive were runs of 32 yards by Juntos and 17 yards by Arismendez.

Facing a fourth and sixth from the 11, a wing-back trap to Tim Cope was stopped short of a first down by Ranger linebacker Joey Branch.

Greenwood dodged the bullet again later in the second quarter when a Cougar drive stalled at the Ranger four.

Cope got things started when he fielded a punt as his own 25, found a wall of blockers down the sidelines and raced 54 yards to the Greenwood 21.

Again the Ranger defense held on a fourth and goal from the four when Juntos was stopped by a host of Rangers led by Rodney Goff. The half ended with Klondike leading 7-0.

The Rangers came out in the second half to play respectable football and generated more offense. Their offensive leader was halfback Roger Smith who was held to a mere 14 yards in the first half. Smith ended the contest with 89 yards on 25 carries.

On their second possession of the stanza, the Rangers reeled off their only impressive drive of the night. Smith was the workhorse in the 14-play, 69-yard drive, carrying the ball 10 times for 57 yards in the drive.

Ranger quarterback Chad Longley scored from one yard out with 4:41 remaining in the third period. The all important try for two was stopped when Longley carried on the keeper, and for all practical purposes, the contest was over.

The upset left Cougars coach Mickey Virdell all smiles. "The kids all played good, especially the defense," said Virdell. "We were keying on Smith and we did a good job of shutting him down."

The win pushes the Cougar's record to 6-5 for the year while Greenwood closes the season out with an 8-3 slate.

DWIGHT HARRIS
...100 pts. in 3 games

Harris named all-tourney

MIDLAND — Howard College wing Dwight Harris was named to the Chaparral Classic all-tournament team Saturday night.

Harris scored an even 100 points in his three tourney games, getting 36 each against Barton Co. (Kan.) and McLennan and 28 in Howard's consolation victory over Ranger.

The sophomore from Americus, Ga., is scoring 29 points a game this season.

What a bright idea!

Street project delayed

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Big Spring residents upset that two main thoroughfares remain torn up with no construction crews in sight to finish the jobs may get some relief this week, although city officials say they are disappointed with progress on the $1 million street project.

"Weather permitting," pouring of the concrete gutter and curb on Birdwell Lane between Third and FM 700 should be finished early this week, with reconstruction of the College Park section of the street between Fourth and Purdue to begin later in the week, said Bob Price, vice president of Price Construction Inc. of Big Spring.

Goliad Street between 11th and 15th should be open to traffic within 1½ weeks, Price added.

Although city inspectors are satisfied with the quality of work Price Construction is doing on the city streets, they are concerned the work is lagging too far behind schedule, City Public Works Director Tom Decell said last week.

Before work can resume on either street, construction materials must pass 95 percent density tests, Price said.

Price says reconstruction of Birdwell to be 46 days behind schedule due to rain delays, public utility work on the street that was not completed until Sept. 30 and conflicts with other commitments the construction company has.

Price Construction signed the $1,030,000 contract for street improvement — its largest ever with the City of Big Spring — on Aug. 18, Price said.

Decell said the contract also includes work on streets other than Birdwell and Goliad and sets out a priority list for the projects and their anticipated completion dates as follows:

- Birdwell Lane — Nov. 15, 1983.
- Street repairs following waterline reconstruction — June 15, 1984.
- Goliad Street — Dec. 15, 1983.
- Intersection of 11th and Settles

- May 15, 1984.
- Intersection of 15th and Main — May 15, 1984.
- Oak Glen Drive — June 15, 1984.

The contract lists no penalty if individual projects are not finished by the completion dates but calls for a blanket $100 penalty for every day after June 15, 1984 that any project covered by the contract is not substantially finished, Decell said.

The contract allows Price to submit an alternate progress schedule to be approved by the project's engineer, Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock, Decell said.

Although no new progress schedule has been submitted, representatives of Price Construction, the project's engineer and the city public works office met last week, and priorities for the project were changed at that time, Price said.

The new priorities stress finishing the Birdwell curb and gutter, followed by the opening of Goliad and then work on the north end of Birdwell to be done concurrently with reconstruction of 79,000 square yards of street pavement that previously had been cut for water line replacement, Price said.

Much of the work reconstructing pavement following water line replacement will be delayed until spring, Decell said.
