Four killed in derailment

COLLISION — An inspector for Southern Pacific Railroad, wearing white plastic gloves, studies the point of impact where the engine of a work train came to stop under a tank car in a line of 41 tankers near Baytown yesterday.

BAYTOWN (AP) — An engine hauling tank cars in a rail yard smashed into parked freight cars and telescoped early Saturday, killing four men as a tanker carrying jet fuel slammed into the engine from behind, authorities said.

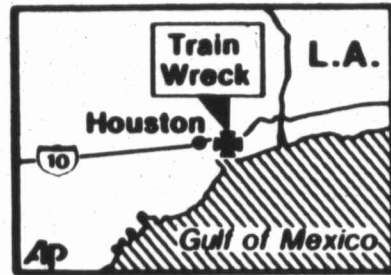

The dead men and a fifth trainman whose legs and arm were broken lay in the wreckage as jet fuel leaked from the tanker for two hours before other rail workers discovered the crash, the second fatal train wreck in Texas in eight days.

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said there was no danger from the jet fuel.

The engine, carrying three trainmen, was moving tank cars in an area where trains are assembled near Baytown when it hit the line of cars at about 5:30 a.m. Saturday. Behind the engine was a caboose carrying two trainmen, and behind the caboose were 12 tanker cars.

When the train hit the line of 41 parked freight cars at about 20 mph, the caboose and a tank car were knocked aside and another tanker filled with jet fuel rammed into the cabin at the rear of the engine, a state trooper said.

Two of the crewmen in the engine were thrown clear and killed. The body of the third was trapped in the engine cabin and was removed by firefighters who pried the wreckage apart. One of the men in the caboose was killed and one was injured, officials said.

Bob Baldwin, a Southern Pacific assistant manager of dispatching, said he thought visibility was reduced by a misty rain.

Tony Aleman, a spokesman for Southern Pacific, said the line of 41 freight cars had been parked on the track at 7 p.m. Friday.

He said the wreck wasn't discovered until another work engine started hauling cars from the undamaged end of the line of cars.

A teenager who lives less than a half mile away, Joel Gestford, 14, said the noise of the crash woke him and he rode to the scene on a bicycle, arriving at about 6 a.m.

"I heard someone groaning," said the youth. "I heard it a couple of times."

The boy said he did not call authorities because, "I didn't know

Stenholm in city for visit

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

A group of citizens from the Canterbury Retirement Center met with Congressman Charles Stenholm Saturday afternoon to air some of their concerns ranging from Medicare payments to the cost of living adjustment program and telephone costs.

Stenholm stopped at Canterbury as part of a busy schedule of events for this weekend. He told the group he had flown to Texas from Washington D.C. Friday night and "It's good to be home."

He then addressed questions from the audience. "I'd like to make this a town hall meeting," he said. One of his first questions pertained to health care costs.

"Insurance costs are going up for everyone," Stenholm said. "There are no simple answers. Medical costs are rising at a greater rate" than most other services. But to compensate for rising health care costs, the U.S. has the best medical care available. My mother-in-law recently entered the hospital in Houston

Banquet honors Scouts; Stenholm guest speaker

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

O.L. "Bill" Bradford was awarded the District Award of Merit at the Lone Star Boy Scout District Leadership Recognition Banquet Saturday at the First Baptist Church.

Bradford has served in scouting for 27 years in various positions ranging from assistant scoutmaster to assistant national Jamboree scoutmaster. He is also involved in Girl Scouting, the United Way and the American Business Club.

District chairman Carl Bradley was also presented a plaque for his work in 1983.

Joe Pickle served as emcee for the event. Keynote speaker was Congressman Charles Stenholm.

Stenholm told the scouting leaders assembled that "we read everyday about the problems caused by young people, the negative stories. They are drinking, on drugs, driving wildly. We hear that our kids are a bad bunch and they just don't make kids like they used to.

"True, there are problems, but not all of our kids have those problems," he said. He pointed out that today's youngsters are "faster and smarter" than previous generations.

"I didn't come here to say we don't have any problems among young people," Stenholm said. "We're not all equally blessed with talents, but 'It's our responsibility to develop our talents to their fullest potential. You learn that as scouts.'"

To leaders at the banquet, Stenholm said "It is the responsibilities of adults to make this world a little better than when we found it." He credited scouting for building character, providing citizenship training and leadership training for tomorrow's leaders.

"Many of us are failing our young people" in providing leadership, Stenholm said. "We need adult

SWCID students perform

Drama instructor Steve Baldwin said SWCID officials want to "continue the visibility of SWCID. We want to expose the art and drama divisions and we thought this would be a good vehicle to serve that purpose."

"We don't have a drama department at SWCID now, but we are introducing a new drama class in the spring," Baldwin said. We hope through drama to balance the high technical and vocational offerings at SWCID."

SWCID will offer a Theatre Activities and History of Theatre classes in the spring. Students interested in drama also may join the drama club, "regardless of class level or major."

Benefit aids Walker

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

At first glance it looked like members of a motorcycle gang had converged upon the Highland Shopping Center Saturday. But what most of the people clothed in leather jackets, caps and boots had on their minds was lending a little help to some friends in need.

The group was assembled for the Bruce Walker Community Benefit and Poker Run. Walker, the son of Howard and Marijo Walker, was shot and severely injured several weeks ago in Big Spring. He later was transferred to the intensive care unit at Lubbock General Hospital.

His parents have spent most of their time in Lubbock watching their son fight to stay alive, and friends in Big Spring decided to help them battle the high cost of intensive care services.

THE CHEMICAL PEOPLE

Questions & Answers

The Chemical People town meetings sparked many questions from participants. Answers to those questions — provided by seven panelists — appear below. Chemical People Q & A continues tomorrow in the Herald.

Today's answers are by Police Chief Rick Turner.

Q. Would you give some examples on how people make fools of themselves (in bars, etc.) when they are out of control?

A. Some examples of people's conduct when they are out of control have been found to include: 1. Their behavior is boisterous, rowdy or lewd and this behavior is totally opposite of their normal behavior; 2. Some urinate or defecate on themselves and are unaware of the fact.

Q. Many people get the idea that all students are involved in drugs. We should punish those who are the ones that are involved. If the police force would not worry about people going 5 to 10 miles over the speed limit and worry more about the more serious problems. Why is it that our police cannot control the problems. Why is it that our police cannot control the problems that are very visible?

A. The police department attempts to enforce all the laws equally to those offenders who they see commit a violation or have sufficient information to obtain an arrest warrant. On some investigations, it appears that nothing is being done by the police but in actuality they are obtaining the information necessary to make a good arrest and file a good case.

Police Beat

Several burglaries reported

Sunbelt Rentals at 1509 S. Gregg reported to police that on Sept. 14, 1983 a person renting a $950 stereo system and a $750 television stopped paying for the items and apparently left town with them.

• Randy Samuels has been named a member of the 65-voice Hardin-Simmons University Chorale for 1983-84, according to Dr. Loyd Hawthorne, director of the ensemble.

HELPING A FRIEND — More than 80 people entered various contests and raffles Saturday to benefit the Bruce Walker fund. The benefit was held at the Highland Shopping Center and money went to help combat the cost of treatments for Walker, who is in intensive care at Lubbock General Hospital.

Walker

Roy Thornton, one of the coordinators of the benefit, said "most of us know Howard and Bruce and all we want to do is help with the hospital bills. Costs in intensive care are running up close to $2,000 a day. We're going to do anything we can do to knock out those bills."

More than 80 people were registered in various events to benefit the fund, said Carol Winterbauer. "We're all just friends of the family. We're all sitting around, trying to think of other ways to make money for the family."

She said "We're doing this just to help. If someone gets sick, we all kick in. (The Walkers) are just friends who need help and we're trying to do what we can. We get no glory from this. We know they need our help and we're trying to do it." Most of the participants in the community benefit held in common an appreciation for motorcycles, but anyone wanting to participate was welcomed. During the day, a motorcycle poker run, drawings, raffles, races and ice cream eating contests were slated. Ribbons were awarded to winners.

Most of the activity was moved inside Highland Shopping Center after cold temperatures forced the group off the parking lot. Thornton, eyeing the activity inside the mall, said "This is a pretty good turnout, but it's not near what we expected, because of the weather. We had friends from Houston and Austin who said they were coming." He added that participants had come, however, from as far away as El Paso.

All door prizes for the day's events were donated by merchants from Big Spring. "We'd like to thank everyone for their generosity," Mrs. Winterbauer said.

Thornton said it "was rare for someone to say no" when approached about the benefit.

Bruce's mother, Marijo Walker, was seated in a folding chair inside the mall watching the action. She held a picture of Bruce made at Lubbock General Hospital and was showing it to people asking about his condition. The photo shows Bruce hooked to a respirator which is keeping him alive.

As she watched the activity, she said "This is great, wonderful. Everyone has been so great to help. Bruce is doing better. We're trying to get him off the respirator in two weeks. At first, we didn't know if he could breathe on his own. If not, he could have died, because he would have given up."

Instead of giving up, Mrs. Walker said "he is a fighter. He's fighting like heck."

Stenholm

and I saw the tremendous work going on there."

Some people recommend not using Medicare services as much, which "is fine if you're not sick," Stenholm said. "If you're sick, you don't want second class service, you want the best. We've demanded that and that is why costs are going up."

However, Stenholm said it was Congress's duty to find some way to lessen the burden for persons on fixed incomes.

Canterbury residents voiced their concerns about the rising costs of making a telephone call, and Stenholm discussed ways the government is studying to help the problem.

Because of the AT&T breakup, scheduled for Jan. 1, 1984, Americans are finding out that without subsidies, costs will rise significantly, he said.

"Congress got involved in an attempt to put back some of the subsidation...The problem started with the courts," he added, referring back to the AT&T breakup.

Congress is trying "to see that the worst you hear will not happen," he said, "so you can maintain basic service."

In reference to a question about the Cost of Living Allowance program, Stenholm said he believed the government can't sustain the program in all areas of the economy. He said he would like to see a program where the COLA program is "continued for the lower echelon, where it is necessary and vital."

However, for continuing COLA program for the upper echelon, he said: "We can't afford that. We'll be passing on more debt to our grandchildren...Folks, our country can't afford to maintain that...We have to bring ourselves back to reality and meet the needs of those who need help."

He said the government in the past has made promises "we can't deliver. "But we need to deliver what we can, what we should. If we can't deal with COLAs, then there is no hope for our economy — if we can't come to grips with that one (problem.)"

One Canterbury resident asked for Stenholm's opinion on illegal aliens and the burdens the U.S. was facing in aiding the aliens.

"The Government, that's me, has made errors in immigration policy," Stenholm said. "We can't bring ourselves to change in how we do business...We made a mistake in the liberalization of immigration policies. We've got to go back to a quota system...to certain established rules."

"We opened it (immigration) up too much. Thirty million people would come to the United States tomorrow if they could get here."

"We have to tighten up our immigration bill," Stenholm said. A resident countered with "We need a deportation bill." Stenholm smiled and answered "I can think of a few people I'd like to deport."

what to do."

DPS officials identified the dead as C.C. Hutchison, 35, of Houston; brakeman G.A. Stewart, 31, Pasadena, Texas; engineer J.R. Sandras, 33, Houston, and brakeman E.C. Hallmark, 59, Houston.

Conductor W.J. Muchow, 41, of Hempstead, Texas, broke both legs and one arm. Jim Mahoney, a spokesman for Life Flight, which took Muchow by helicopter to Hermann Hospital in Houston, about 30 miles west, said he was in stable condition. Muchow was transferred from intensive care into a regular hospital room.

All the victims were Southern Pacific employees, a railroad spokeswoman said.

The train collided with the cars about 1 1/2 miles south of Interstate 10 at the eastern edge of Harris County.

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board, the Federal Railroad Administration, the Texas Railroad Commission and Southern Pacific at the scene searching for clues to the cause of the accident, Aleman said.

The collision was in a yard area where trains are not tracked electronically, Baldwin said. The yard is used by work trains to "build", or put together, freight trains for cross-country hauling.

Baldwin said trains in the area work by so-called "yard rules" that require a reduced speed, but there are no specific limits. He said trains can move only fast enough to be able to stop in half the distance to the limit of visibility.

Baldwin said nobody heard the accident and the wreckage was discovered around 7:20 a.m. by other rail workers.

Southern Pacific terminal supervisor Ron Clifton said he did not know what the tank cars contained.

On Nov. 12, four people died when an Amtrak train derailed near Marshall, Texas. Earlier this week, there were freight train accidents in Louisiana, New Mexico and California. One person died in the Louisiana wreck.

Drama

Drama students Rodrigo Zapata, Robin Carpenter and Sam Ontiveros used sign language and mime to portray an orchestra, motorcycle cops, dangerous drivers and other characters for a crowd assembled inside the mall.

Students from the arts classes of Wilma Evans displayed a semester's worth of work. Mrs.

Evans said SWCID offered five classes in art this semester, including Fundamentals of Art, Lettering, Elementary Advertising, Art Education and Drawing. Work was displayed throughout the mall.

leadership in scouting today. "It's easy to watch teen horror stories on the 6 o'clock news, then switch to Monday Night Football. Someone will lead our young people, whether it is parents, friends or scout leaders, or whether that responsibility is surrendered to the drug peddler on the nearest corner."

"There are a lot of things right about America," Stenholm said. "Some of the training you provide here in Big Spring, Texas, will provide some of the solutions" to problems facing Americans.

Several other plaques were awarded to district leaders during the evening. Pickle said "We use this occasion to say thanks to these devoted people."

Carl Bradley, district chairman, said "We feel we have some of the best leaders...the only problem is we don't have enough of them. We want to thank you for a job well done."

Cub pack leaders recognized included Tom Van Arsdale, Pete Rosenbaum, Cheryl Wilson, Mark Pierce, Dianne Jones, Paul Soldan, Dwayne Wallace, Glenn Pierce and Bill Myers.

Recognized as troop leaders were David Reynolds, O.L. Bradford, Dan Glass, Don Wilson, Adron Welch, Ruben Figueroa and Bill Priebe.

Explorer post leaders recognized included Hank Williams, Lee Young, Austin Ferguson, Ricky Scott and James Hicks.

District committee members were also awarded plaques. They include George Walker, Elton Wallace, Charles M. Condray, Mark Sheedy, Nat Hart, Gerrie Tucker, Frank Crawford and Joe Pickle.

Council sets hearing on dance hall permit

The Big Spring City Council has scheduled a public hearing for 8 a.m. Tuesday at City Hall for an appeal by Mary Lozano, owner of Mary's Disco Paradise at 205 N. Runnels, on the council's disapproval of a dance hall permit for the establishment.

The council scheduled the hearing at its Nov. 8 meeting, when Mrs. Lozano and her lawyer, George Gilkerson of Lubbock, appeared before the council. Gilkerson told the council at that time that it had no jurisdiction in the matter since Mary's is not a public dance hall, but a private club.

Mrs. Lozano was arrested and released on $100 bond Nov. 12 in connection with allowing dancing at the club without a valid permit.

Mrs. Lozano said then that she had received a similar citation in August and that it had been dismissed on appeal. She had received two other similar citations in October, both of which are pending appeal, Mrs. Lozano said.

In the past year, police have received 31 calls to Mary's Disco Paradise in connection with several criminal offenses, City Manager Don Davis said at a news conference Nov. 8.

Asked at that time if the city was slowly trying to put Mary's out of business, Davis said, "No, we are trying to put Mary's out of business expeditiously."

Stenholm relates Capitol bomb story

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Congressman Charles Stenholm took two of his relatives on a tour of the Capitol in Washington, D.C., Nov. 7. Six hours later, a bomb rocked the building.

The bomb exploded about 11 p.m. that day. No one was injured in the blast which caused a gaping hole in the Capitol wall, ripped through congressional cloakrooms and damaged artwork.

During a visit at Canterbury Retirement Center Saturday afternoon, Stenholm remembered how close he came to the area which was destroyed in the blast.

"It was Monday afternoon, about 5 o'clock. I had an aunt and uncle with me and I was taking them on a visit. We went to the Senate and I noticed Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on the floor. I asked him to come out" and Stenholm, Bentsen and several others found themselves talking in front of a couch inside the Capitol.

The bomb which later rocked the Senate headquarters was hidden behind that couch.

"I'll never know if it that bomb was there at 5 or if it was planted later. Somebody was watching over me," he told the group.

HC sponsored group benefits world hunger

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Using a mixture of gospel singing and dramatic readings, members of the Howard College Baptist Student Union sponsored a benefit Saturday "to inform people about world hunger," Daniel Ryan, president of the BSU, said.

The event was held at the Kentwood Older Adult Center. Participants included BSU students, the Howard College Reader's Theater, singers Jim and Debbie Grimes, and the Mount Bethel Baptist Church Young Adult Choir. Phyllis Hardeman of the BSU served as emcee and talent coordinator.

The benefit was built around the "Bread for the World" program which draws participation from churches nationwide. Described as a "Christian citizens' movement," "Bread for the World" is the only national citizens' lobby focusing solely on hunger.

Members of the nationwide movement "work to obtain government support for measures that offer dignity and opportunity to those who are poor and hungry."

The Howard College BSU got involved in the program "about two months ago during a BSU convention in Dallas. We learned about the problems of world hunger and we committed ourselves to inform the community about world hunger and the 'Bread for the World' program," Ryan said.

Ryan said too many people "see a one-minute commercial about hunger and think 'that's pitiful,'" then forget the situation. The "Bread for the World" program attempts to keep the world hunger situation before the public and before politicians who can enact bills to help the world's hungry.

Tornado hits near Bryan

MILLICAN, Texas (AP) — A tornado dipped from heavy thunderstorms and cut through a Southeast Texas cotton plantation Saturday, injuring five people and destroying homes, a church, cars and farm equipment, authorities said.

The tornado touched down at the Allen Farm Community plantation near Millican, about 20 miles southeast of College Station, at 9:40 a.m., said Sam Saxon, Texas Department of Public Safety communications supervisor.

"It dropped out of the sky, moved west to east for about a mile and then went back into the clouds," Saxon said.

Five people were injured and taken to Grimes Memorial Hospital in Navasota.

Rosie Ruiz arrested

MIAMI — Rosie Ruiz, whose 1980 victory in the women's division of the Boston Marathon was exposed as a fraud, has been arrested on drug-related charges.

Ms. Ruiz, 30, surrendered Friday in Miami to face charges of conspiring to traffic cocaine. Police said Ms. Ruiz and two other women struck a deal to sell $440,000 dollars worth of cocaine to undercover detectives.

She was being held in the Dade County Women's Detention Center until a bail hearing was scheduled.

Ms. Ruiz was stripped of her marathon victory when officials discovered she had actually run only the last mile of the 26-mile course.

Past catches up with Senator

ELKINS — For years, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., moved from room to room in the Tygart Hotel in Elkins, W. Va., where he lives while not in Washington. Now a piece of his past has caught up with him at the newly remodeled Tygart, now converted into an apartment building.

"When we finished remodeling, I showed the senator his new quarters," said owner Mary Frances Shepler. "I told him, 'Jennings, your trunk is in the closet.'"

"He looked at me and said, 'What trunk?' He probably didn't know we were moving it around for him all that time."

Inside the trunk, found last week, were a variety of materials from the senator's college days and 46 years in Congress.

"There was a copy of a speech by William Jennings Bryan called 'The Prince of Peace.' I heard him give that address in Clarksburg when I was a reporter there for the Clarksburg Telegram in 1924," Randolph, 81, said from Washington on Wednesday. "A very inspirational speech, the way he gave it. My name comes from his, you know"

Truman to be on stamp

INDEPENDENCE — A new stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of President Harry S. Truman has been unveiled at the Truman Library.

The stamp, which carries a likeness of Truman's official White House portrait, is to be issued Jan. 20, the anniversary of Truman's inauguration in 1949.

Margaret Truman Daniel, the daughter of the late president, said at the unveiling Friday, "I approve of it. I hope a lot of people will buy dad's stamp."

Faron Young arrested

AUSTIN — Country-western singer Faron Young has been arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated, police say.

Deputy Mark Hardin said he saw a 1976 Mercury station wagon moving erratically in traffic on a heavily traveled street at about 3 a.m. Friday. He stopped the vehicle and identified the driver as Young.

Justice of Peace Guy Herman released Young, 45, on a $500 personal recognizance bond and directed him to appear in court Dec. 8.

Wallace mired in suffering

MONTGOMERY — Gov. George C. Wallace, who has had his own share of hardships, told members of an advisory panel that he hopes they never see the suffering he has encountered in recent talks with constituents.

"It will affect you here," Wallace told the Advisory Committee on Humanitarian Affairs on Friday, pointing to his head. Wallace has been paralyzed since an assassination attempt in 1972 and was hospitalized for depression last spring.

He said his administration has received so many calls for help from the disadvantaged and handicapped that he created a five-person staff to handle the requests.

"We get more distress calls in one month in this administration than we did in four years before," he said.

Syria threatens U.S.

TRIPOLI — Syria's defense minister was quoted Saturday as threatening "kamikaze attacks" on U.S. warships, and the PLO mutineers he backs were reported to have opened fire on demonstrators backing Yasser Arafat, killing 25 and wounding 75.

The mutineers' artillery fired on Tripoli's Zahrieh neighborhood, where Arafat has set up headquarters, and the port area where his loyalists also are dug in.

International Red Cross officials, who asked not to be named, said the casualty toll at the pro-Arafat demonstration was compiled at two hospitals near the Nahr el-Bared refugee camp outside Tripoli. But they could not say for certain the victims were killed during the demonstration, which took place in the camp Friday.

State radio said the violence started when two spokesmen for the mutineers showed up at the camp during a rally by 2,000 pro-Arafat demonstrators. It said the protesters attacked the spokesmen with their fists and set their cars ablaze, and that rebels guarding the spokesmen opened fire.

The privately owned Central News Agency reported another violent pro-Arafat demonstration in Nahr el-Bared Saturday. It said a mob turned over several rebels' cars and burned at least one. There were fist fights between rival groups, the agency said, but it had no report on casualties.

Syria's defense minister, Gen. Mustafa Tlass, was quoted by the pro-Syrian magazine Al-Kifah Al-Arabi as saying "If the Americans attack us, then we shall answer with all adequate means. We have flyers ready to undertake kamikaze attacks on American warships" off Beirut.

Lavelle's trial begins

WASHINGTON — A string of government witnesses has testified that Rita Lavelle used her position as manager of the government's $1.6 billion hazardous waste cleanup fund to help Republican candidates in 1982.

Prosecutors began putting on their case Friday — calling seven current and former employees of the Environmental Protection Agency to testify against their former colleague.

Ms. Lavelle is facing a maximum 25-year prison term if convicted on all counts of an indictment charging her with perjury and obstructing a congressional investigation.

The government is charging that Ms. Lavelle lied when she denied using her position to aid Republican candidates.

RITA LAVELLE

Various witnesses testified that the former assistant EPA administrator ordered her staff to work on a Seymour, Ind., waste site and dioxin contamination in Missouri to help the re-election bids of Sens. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and John Danforth, R-Mo.

They said Ms. Lavelle was insistent that an agreement be reached on cleaning up the Seymour site before the November election. Edward Kurent, a former EPA attorney, quoted Ms. Lavelle as saying "we have to deliver this one for Senator Lugar."

William Hedeman, a top official in EPA's "superfund" cleanup program, and Gene Lucero, director of waste enforcement, said that Ms. Lavelle mentioned several times that Lugar was pushing for action and she wanted to see results before the election.

Ms. Lavelle said she had been in contact with Lugar's campaign staff, Lucero said, even though it was unusual for EPA officials to consult with campaign workers instead of a senator's congressional staff.

Cyprus leader faces crisis

ATHENS — Midway through his four-year term, Premier Andreas Papandreu has been plunged into his first major foreign policy crisis: The Turkish-Cypriots' declaration of an independent republic in northern Cyprus.

The issue is of particular importance to the Socialist leader, who made Cyprus a major campaign issue and who has made it a key plank of his foreign policy.

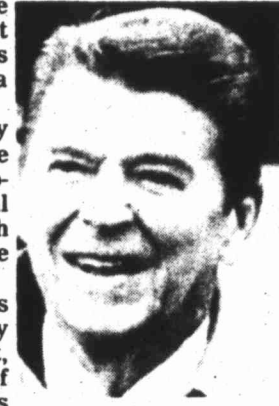

The Greek premier has mounted a worldwide diplomatic offensive, sending Cabinet ministers globe-trotting to make sure none of Greece's friends recognize the self-proclaimed Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus.

Defense bill goes to Reagan

WASHINGTON — President Reagan plans to sign a $249.8 billion defense spending bill making its way from Capitol Hill to the White House even though it pared $11.1 billion from his Pentagon programs, a spokesman says.

Deputy Press Secretary Larry Speakes made the comment Friday as the appropriation cleared its final congressional hurdles with votes of 311-99 in the House and 75-6 in the Senate.

The measure gives Reagan nearly every weapons program he sought, although the number of items to be bought was reduced in some cases.

RONALD REAGAN

The first production-model MX intercontinental missiles will be bought for deployment beginning in 1986, the B-1 bomber program will continue, the Navy will get 21 major new vessels toward its goal of a 600-ship fleet by 1990 and the Army will get 840 M-1 tanks — 120 more than it asked for.

In the only notable setback, Reagan's plan to start producing deadly chemical weapons after a 14-year interruption was thwarted by House-Senate conferees who deleted $124.4 million for the project in drafting the compromise measure of separate defense measures passed by chambers earlier this month.

Reagan also had to settle on a compromise that will permit intelligence agencies to spend only $24 million on aid to pro-Western guerrillas fighting the leftist government of Nicaragua. The agencies will have to come back to Congress next year if they want more money.

Fighting near Costa Rica

MANAGUA — Nicaraguan rebels and army troops fought for more than two hours near the Costa Rican border, while in northern Honduras, U.S. Marines moved inland in joint military exercises with Honduran troops.

About 300 rebels from the Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, ARDE, attacked Cardenas, 99 miles southeast of Managua, Friday morning, Capt. Ivan Tercero, army commander for the southern border zone, said. Eight people were killed in the attack, the third on the town by the rebels this year, he said.

Tercero said the rebels wanted to take the town but were driven back by Sandinista army troops and townspeople.

Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government views the maneuvers in Honduras, where another rebel force is based, as preparation for a U.S.-supported invasion and has stepped up its war readiness. On Friday, the commander of ARDE's rebel forces, Eden Pastora, also warned U.S. leaders against military intervention in the turbulent Central American region.

WEST TEXAS — Windy, partly cloudy and cold. Sattered rain or snow in the Panhandle Tuesday and Wednesday. Lows near 30 in the Panhandle to the mid 40s in southern regions. Highs in the 50s in northern parts, to the 70s in southern areas

Snow flurries predicted

Snow flurries may fall on the Texas Panhandle Saturday as a cold front pushes farther into the state from Colorado and Oklahoma, the National Weather Service said.

Thundershowers, occasionally heavy, began late Friday afternoon along a 90-mile corridor stretching from Plainview, on the southern edge of the Panhandle, to near Kermit. Showers were expected to develop later in the hill country, the weather service added.

Early morning lows for Saturday were projected to range from the upper 20s in the Panhandle to the lower 70s in extreme South Texas. Highs should range from the upper 40s in the Panhandle to the 60s and 70s across Central Texas and the middle 80s in far South Texas.

Ahead of the storm system, strong winds were gusting out of the south at 25 to 35 mph, occasionally reaching 45 mph. The winds, which were pumping warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico, prompted wind advisories for a large part of East Texas.

Afternoon temperatures Friday were mostly in the 60s and 70s. An exception was Central and South Texas, where readings were in the 70s and 80s.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

ESTATE "DISCLAIMERS"
Being the beneficiary of an estate may not be advantageous. If you already have assets in excess of what you need or want, additional assets from someone's estate could be burdensome. Unfortunately, most of us don't suffer from this affliction. If, however, you are trying to reduce your income to save income taxes or reduce your assets to lessen estate taxes, avoiding more assets could be beneficial. Avoiding additional assets is even more attractive if by so doing your intended beneficiaries end up with the property.
With the exception of property which you hold as joint tenants with the right of survivorship, you can file a "qualified disclaimer" to avoid receiving property from an estate.
Your disclaimer can be for all or a portion of the property that you are due to inherit.
A "qualified disclaimer" means an unqualified and permanent refusal to accept an interest in property. The disclaimer must meet four conditions. First, the refusal must be in writing. Second, the written refusal must be received by the estate administrator not later than nine months after the decedent's death. Third, the person making the disclaimer must not have accepted the property or any of its benefits before making the disclaimer. Fourth, the person making the disclaimer cannot direct the redistribution or transfer of the property to another person. Under this fourth provision, the property would pass as though the beneficiary named in the estate had predeceased the decedent.
Disclaimers can have excellent application when pre-death planning was not done or when circumstances after one's death make it desirable to alter the effect of the property distribution under the will.
As with all financial planning, seek the assistance of a qualified professional.

Big Spring sinking in pothole problem

Potholes. They're kind of like graffiti. Those that study these kinds of things tell us that the rule on graffiti is to clean up the first sign of it. Otherwise, the graffiti feeds on itself and before long the walls are covered.

Citizen frustration over the delays in major street projects on Birdwell Lane and Goliad Street are understandable, but in a real sense they are symptomatic of a deeper concern: the rough condition of our streets in general.

Front-end jarring potholes and stomach-grabbing dips are most evident to those who are new to the city. Longer-term residents grow to accept the street conditions, much like the regular patron doesn't pay much attention to the graffiti on the restroom walls.

But the "look" of Big Spring to newcomers and visitors is influenced by the condition of its streets — just as they are by whether streets are kept generally clean or are littered and whether drivers are courteous or obnoxious. There are practical considerations, too, like front-end alignments.

Not so long ago, we heralded the "Pothole Patrol" to our neighborhoods. They were a team of city workers banded together by purpose and armed with the necessary equipment to attack the widespread problem. It's been six months since the patrol was formed, yet the potholes persist.

Some relief can be given through rather simple means — covering a hole that's been cut for patching, but not yet patched, for instance. Barricades and signs warning of deep, across-the-road ruts would help, too. But better yet would be the heavy metal plates often seen in other cities which serve as temporary covers for unfinished work.

The major efforts now underway on Birdwell Lane and Goliad Street are progressing. Their completion — late as it is — will provide welcome relief from the dodge-ems motorists having been playing on major thoroughfares for months. But major efforts like street reconstruction don't touch the problem of potholes and generally rough roads. Just like that graffiti, we must get the problem under control — and then keep on top of it to keep it from getting out of hand.

Future foretold

I have discerned from editorial correspondence that there is some confusion over what the word democracy means, especially as it is applied to the United States.

Such confusion is dangerous because the word democracy describes the idea which fashions our government, writes the oriflamme for our armies and defines the society in which we forge relationships.

Democracy, quite simply, is the synonym of equality. We can quite correctly deduce from this equation that a democratic government, like the one we espouse, is one which promotes equality in all areas of political, social, economic and religious endeavors.

I sincerely believe that America is a democratic country, a nation that has been genuinely interested in promoting democracy since 1776. I also understand that when this country was created, democracy was a revolutionary idea and that its acceptance would be a long, often frustrating enterprise.

Despite the 200 years that have passed since we adopted our philosophy of government, undemocratic elements persist, and some people, who value their citizenship but are insistent on propagating traditional and parochial ideas, have confused the meaning of democracy with apologies for their own demented outlooks.

Thus, we find today people who will salute the flag in one breath and denounce niggers and spics in the next, businessmen who take advantage of government subsidies and decry social welfare programs, and teachers who dissect the Constitution in segregated schools.

I propose that Americans who do not fully support the idea of democracy are not fully Americans. I am, however, charitable enough to concede that any undemocratic bias which lingers in our land is due to ignorance.

Education, therefore, is the key to promoting and securing democracy in this country. Toward that end, I offer a primer on how democracy operates (or should operate) in the four areas mentioned before: politics, society, economics and religion.

Politics: This area is the least of our worries. Since the passage of the Voting Rights Act in the 1960s, political rights have been guaranteed for all qualified citizens regardless of their property holdings, their race or their political affiliation. We are now confident of everyone's right to participate in government.

Society: This category is closely related to politics, but has subtler dimensions. Politics does not in all cases extend to our social existence, and undemocratic qualities persist in the more informal, intimate areas of life.

Real estate agents who sell houses only to members of one race are undemocratic. Organizations which promote the well being of one group over and above others are undemocratic. People who discriminate even in the most personal matters against someone who is somehow different are undemocratic.

Economics: Democracy in this instance maintains that there be no prejudice or distinction concerning the means by which we earn a living. In short, in a democracy, there are no classes of economic status.

One who holds that the doctor is somehow superior to the garbage man is undemocratic. Scions who believe their family riches necessarily bring them entitlement are undemocratic. And clubs which limit participation to members of a particular wage classification are undemocratic.

Religion: This realm is perhaps the touchiest of all forms of human endeavor connected to democracy. There need be no despair, however, because in democracy religion flourishes as in no other form of government.

Democratic reasoning holds that religions be treated equally. In America, that means one religion holds no advantage over another. A democracy is unencumbered by religion, and religion is unfettered by democracy.

Now that I have spelled out what democracy is, I shall go further in explaining what democracy is not.

Democracy does not mean an individual has the freedom to pursue his wants regardless of the needs of other people. In a democracy, as Wally Cleaver so aptly observed in "Leave It To Beaver," the common good takes precedence over the individual desire.

Democracy does not mean that a government is based on the precepts of a god. All gods enjoy equal stature. Democracy is concerned with human endeavors and aspirations, not divine intervention and purpose.

Democracy also is not a distant credo to which we casually pay homage. Democracy is a continuing commitment to which we pledge ourselves.

Democracy must be legislated, enforced, adhered to. It is a philosophy of life which countenances no detractions. It is neither tolerant nor patient. Abolition of slavery had to be forced. Equal rights for minorities were issues of action, not meditation. Poverty, ignorance and racism must be attacked.

Some maintain that democracy is the logical evolution toward ultimate equality — toward communism — in which political, social, economic and religious parity is fully realized.

I find no fault with this analysis.

Editor's message: consider the source

Bear with me. I want to tell you something about myself, so when I write opinions and observations here in the future you'll know a little about where it's coming from.

I'm new to this community. But that doesn't mean I'm new to cities of this size, or that I'm new to the area. I'm not. And I think that gives me a running start on adapting to Big Spring. That's not to say you will agree with my perspectives, but at least our differences will be personal ones, not regional or big city/small city ones.

I'm married and we have three children. So I know something of families — their makeup, their concerns, their interests. The oldest child is in public school, so I have a vested interest in our educational system.

I was reared in a big city, much bigger now than it was when I left it in the early '70s because I thought it had gotten too big. I heard recently that frustrated 18-wheel rig drivers were taking out their frustrations by bouncing cars out of their way on the freeways. Glad I left.

I worked 18 months in Orange, Texas, as a courts and crime reporter. And there are similarities with Big Spring: population, energy as a factor in the economy, newspaper size. The newspaper was similar, too, aggressive and well-read.

In 1979, I was asked to join the Abilene newspaper to work in an area I felt I knew little about, opinion writing for the editorial page. Some 2,000 editorials later, I was beginning to get a feel for it.

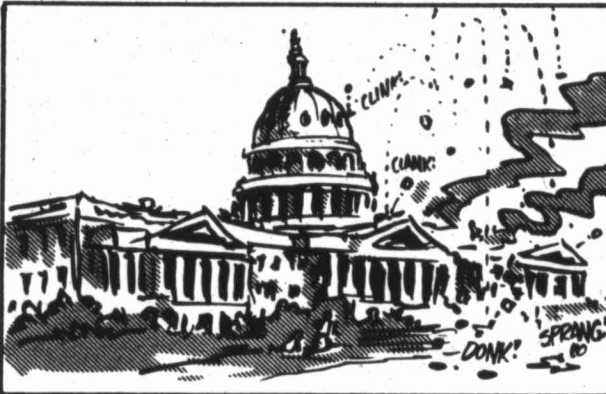

And while I learned how to make a point editorially, I by necessity was learning about West Texas' people, their philosophies and their outlooks. West Texans are good people. Straight-forward and forgiving.

The last two and a half years have been spent supervising creative people in creative positions at the Abilene newspaper. They were the 18 hardy souls who happened on fascinating stories about people, places and trends — then thought up intriguing ways to write and present those stories.

Now I'm here, and if first impressions count, Big Spring is destined to be my kind of place. The jury is out on whether I'm Big Spring's kind of people. But I suspect we'll get along fine.

In future weeks, I hope this column can be a forum, among other things, to explain better how our newspaper works, how it is interwoven into the community and why — and how — we do what we do. If you have questions along this line, I'd like to hear from you. Just drop a note to me.

The weak need God; the strong love him

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have just been released from a mental hospital where I was treated for severe depression. I am much better now but in the back of my mind there is always the fear that it will return. For the first time in my life I am thinking about my need of God, although one of my friends says religion is just a crutch and I should learn to stand on my own two feet.

DEAR R.N.B.: It is not a sign of weakness to admit that you need God. In fact, I would suggest that your friend is the one who is actually weak, because he is unwilling to admit that he also needs God. Don't let his remarks keep you from the most important decision you can make in life — your decision to follow Christ.

We all need God, whether we admit it or not. We need him first of all for forgiveness, because only God can truly forgive us for all the sins we have ever committed. We also need him because he alone knows what is best for our lives, and we need his guidance if we are to live as we should. We need him as well for strength — strength to resist temptation, strength to do what is right, and strength for daily living. And we need God because he alone can give us true hope for the future, both in this life and for life after death.

Yes, we need God — and the wonderful thing is that God loves us and wants us to come to him. He loves you. He knows all about your problems and your fears, and he wants you to trust all of those into his hands. How do we know this is true? We know it because God sent his son to this earth to die for our sins on the cross.

My prayer is that you would invite Jesus Christ to come into your life. You can do that with a simple prayer of faith, and when you do, God has promised to make you his child. "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12). You can go to bed tonight knowing Christ is with you, and he will never leave you no matter what the future holds for you.

The poor, the bad and the ugly

David Stockman was more honest than tactful when he recently informed a congressional committee that the poverty rate in the United States is exaggerated. The claim was ridiculed by Democratic members, who charged that the administration has "simply forgotten about the poor." But it stands on solid evidence. Unfortunately, because it has uncomfortable implications for both conservatives and liberals, much of the truth about poverty has been ignored.

The budget director merely noted that official poverty statistics are based entirely on cash income. If a family of four has an annual cash income of $9,862 or less, the Census Bureau classifies it as poor. In 1982, by that standard, 15 percent of the U.S. population was poor — a higher rate than when the War on Poverty was launched.

But that figure is misleading. Thanks to the proliferation of federal programs over the last 20 years, poor people have access to a variety of "in-kind" benefits — food stamps, Medicaid, housing subsidies. These programs account for more than 70 percent of all spending aimed at the poor, and they make a tangible difference in the living standards of the recipients. But they aren't taken into account in the official calculations of the poverty rate.

Counting these as income changes things considerably. Using that definition, Stockman's Office of Management and Budget figures the true poverty rate in 1982 at 9.6 percent. Nonetheless, the budget director admitted, it did rise during the recent recession, as in previous ones.

Stockman's criticism of official poverty estimates isn't particularly controversial among academic experts. Some would go even further than Stockman in their assessment of poverty in America.

Martin Anderson of Stanford's Hoover Institution, formerly Reagan's chief domestic adviser, wrote five years ago that the "combination of strong economic growth and a dramatic increase in government spending on welfare and income transfer programs during the last decade has virtually wiped out poverty in the United States."

Robert Haveman of the University of Wisconsin's Institute for Research on Poverty concluded in 1977 that the "day of income poverty as a major public issue would appear to be past... A minimum level of economic well-being has by and large been assured for all citizens." Haveman now says that is no longer true: though less widespread than it was 10 years ago, he says, poverty is a greater problem than five years ago. But he agrees it is less common than the official figures suggest.

These conclusions get little attention, because they don't serve the needs of either liberals or conservatives. Liberals resist acknowledging the progress made against poverty because it weakens their belief that the Great Society was a failure.

Each group is only fooling itself. Conservatives ought to face the fact that anti-poverty programs have succeeded in providing the poor with the necessities of life — food, clothing, housing, medical care. The government has proven that it can redistribute income from the non-poor to the poor.

But that should be no great comfort to liberals. Anti-poverty measures have alleviated poverty without curing it. There's no great achievement in keeping a large number of people chronically dependent on government aid: The real point is to help them to outgrow the need for it. Here, our welfare programs have failed. At any given time, some 87 percent of the people getting Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) have been getting it for more than two years. Nearly half have been on the rolls for more than eight years.

The reasons for the existence of a hard-core class are complex. But one factor is flawed welfare programs. The requirement that fathers be absent to make a family eligible for AFDC has contributed to one of the prime sources of chronic poverty — the explosion in the number of female-headed households. The absence of effective work requirements enables some able-bodied recipients to choose welfare over labor. In many states, benefits decline so sharply when earned income rises that recipients are better off not working. These flaws are well known, but ideology and prejudice have kept them from being corrected.

To have any hope of truly eliminating poverty in this country, the welfare system will have to be altered in ways that may be offensive to both the Left and the Right. The government gives fish to millions of poor people, but it has yet to teach them how to catch fish.

The modern game of golf was first played in the U.S. on a three-hole course in Yonkers, N.Y.

"A book should teach us to enjoy life, or to endure it." Samuel Johnson

A Closer Look

By JIM DAVIS

Lawyer troubles

AUSTIN — Less than 70 percent of the 1,784 law school graduates who took the latest Texas bar exam passed and thus may practice law in the state. That is the lowest passing percentage in 10 years.

Some people are worried and upset about the situation, but not me. There are bigger and better things for most Texans to consider — such as nutmeg.

Do you worry about individual blades of grass if you have a lush green lawn? Of course not. Do you worry about having enough neighbors when you live in a big apartment house or in a subdivision with postage-stamp-sized lots? No way.

We tend to worry about things relative to supply and demand, which gets us back to the subjects of lawyers and nutmeg.

I don't know about your community, but in Austin there seem to be more than enough lawyers. I have one living next door to me; that's about par in this town.

Our office building is full of them. I can't go to the restroom without standing next to one.

If I ever have to hire a lawyer I will go outside our office building to find one. It's hard to have confidence in someone who stands there in a pinstripe suit whistling "Jingle-Bell Rock" off key.

Nutmeg, on the other hand, is a nice little spice that helps us get through the holidays.

And I've been worried about it since the Communists took over in Grenada.

Few people know it, but Grenada is a key source of nutmeg for the world. Probably our nutmeg supply is safer with the Marines there.

But what if the Grenadians make so much money selling souvenirs to the Americans that they fail to bring in and ship out the crop? I won't feel safe until I taste my first nutmeg-topped eggnog at a Christmas party this year.

Undoubtedly there will be a few lawyers at that same party, and they probably won't understand when I propose a toast to President Reagan for making the world safe for nutmeg.

Probably, those lawyers, like most lawyers in Texas and a majority of those who passed the latest bar exam, will be white.

And although thoughts of nutmeg may seem more important at this time of year, the ethnic or racial breakdown of the exam's results offers some legitimate concerns.

Only 13.7 percent of the Texas Southern University's law school graduates passed the latest exam even though a majority of them had taken and flunked the test before. The next lowest school was South Texas College of Law at Houston with 65 percent.

Texas Southern was established in 1926 as Houston College for Negroes and remains predominantly black even after a couple of name changes and desegregation of higher education two or three decades ago.

The Civil Rights Office of the U.S. Department of Education has been looking critically at the situations at Texas Southern and another predominantly black campus, Prairie View A&M University. Just recently the state placated the feds with a plan to "enhance" the two universities and attract more minorities to the predominantly white campuses.

But the results of the latest bar exam may stir up some new interest from Washington.

Another possible cause of the low scores, some law school sources say, is a new part of the test designed to evaluate the law graduate's knowledge of legal procedures and evidence — things a lawyer needs to know to operate effectively in the courtroom.

That new section was added following numerous complaints from judges about the quality of lawyers practicing before them. The judges said many young lawyers know what's in the law books but don't know how to handle themselves in the courtroom.

The test scores indicate the judges have a legitimate concern.

But maybe the testers could make an exception on this new part of the test for those law school grads who say they're going to live in Austin.

There are already so many lawyers here that there's little chance the new ones will spend much time in the courtroom. They'll be going to work for state agencies, driving cabs or doing whatever it takes to survive in this lawyer-filled town. Some enterprising young graduate might even set up a nutmeg franchise.

Listen my children and you shall hear the tale of the rattlesnake who wanted to spend the winter in a nice warm cushy place. Interested?

Well, this story is about a good friend, Buena Vista Harrell. Buena lives in a lovely house on the waterfront of Lake Champion south of Colorado City.

One afternoon last week Buena washed a load of clothes in her washer and then put the wet clothes over in the dryer sitting next to it. When she turned it on she heard a terrible "clunk, clunk" coming from the general direction of the working part of the dryer. She turned it off and called a repairman.

When he arrived on the scene and looked at the back of the dryer, he put his hand down inside and turned around looking pale and said, "Buena, there's a big rattlesnake in there and I think it bit me!"

The repairman, who shall be nameless, but his initials are Robert Ramage, left for some medical care at Root Memorial Hospital.

Now Buena was alone with her snake. She went to the telephone and called her friends, Rex and Betty Anderson. They came over and brought a frog gig and gipped a 4½-foot long rattlesnake out of the back of the dryer and discovered it had bled to death from its wounds. His 11 rattlers will rattle no more.

They discovered he had crawled up the outside vent. Well, it didn't take long for the Andersons and Buena Vista to put a screen wire cover on the vent to keep one of the rattlesnake's relatives from entering the house the same way.

That's my household hint for the day. Cover the vent with some kind of snakeproof wire.

Now, it isn't that Buena Vista is run over with snakes at her lake home. This is only the second snake killed there in 20 years.

Winter is coming and the snake knew it. Soon all snakes will be snug in their dens under rock ledges and we won't hear anymore about them until the rattlesnake roundup in early spring.

Tread carefully. And if your dryer goes "clunk, clunk," be careful taking the back off.

Q. Is there an answer for those of us with restricted income who feel we are just priced out of the market for a home?

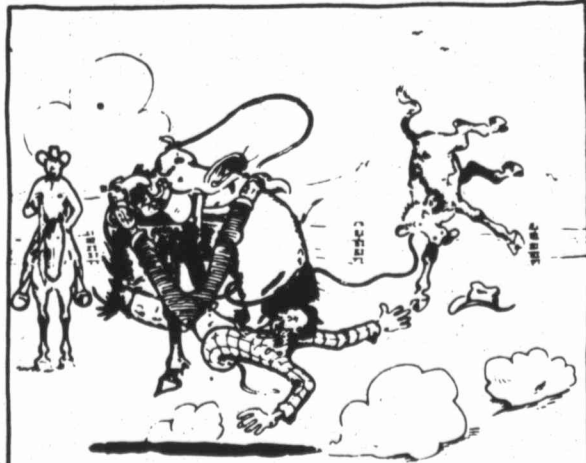

A. Look for mortgage assumptions. You might go to the county hall of records and search to find the names of people who have bought homes with FHA or VA mortgages. The law of averages will probably "catch up" with some of these homeowners in that some will likely be transferred or caused to sell their home for some other reason. You and your broker might send out letters to a number of these homeowners, expressing your desire to obtain a home. Although you might have to wait a while, it's possible you'll find someone with a low-interest mortgage that can be assumed with a low down payment.

Israel wants alleged German war criminal

CLEVELAND (AP) — A retired autoworker, accused of being a Nazi death camp guard known as "Ivan the Terrible" who murdered thousands of Jews in Poland, faces extradition to Israel for trial on war crimes charges.

The arrest Friday of John Demjanjuk, 63, marked the first time an alleged Nazi war criminal had ever been arrested by U.S. authorities for extradition to Israel, said Justice Department spokesman John Russell in Washington.

According to Israeli documents filed in U.S. District Court in Cleveland, Demjanjuk is wanted to stand trial for the "crimes of murder of tens of thousands of Jews during the period of the Nazi regime."

Demjanjuk, allegedly known as "Ivan the Terrible" by inmates at the Treblinka concentration camp in Poland during World War II, was arrested at his home in suburban Seven Hills on Friday.

U.S. Magistrate David S. Perelman set bond at $50,000 but released Demjanjuk for the weekend on his own recognizance. Perelman said he could meet the bond on Monday by surrendering the deed to his home, which Demjanjuk said was worth $60,000.

An extradition hearing was set for Jan. 23.

Demjanjuk, a native of what is now the Soviet Ukraine, had his U.S. citizenship revoked in 1961 when U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti ruled that he lied on his immigration papers to conceal his past as a Nazi guard.

Demjanjuk has maintained that he was a Soviet soldier captured by the German army in 1942 and held prisoner until the end of the war.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Battisti's decision and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case. Deportation hearings began last April and are scheduled to resume in December.

Arguing against a request from U.S. attorneys that Demjanjuk be held without bond, defense attorneys noted that Demjanjuk had made no attempt to flee since he was accused of lying on his immigration papers more than seven years ago.

Demjanjuk "would rather stay and fight and prove that he is the person he is and not the person he's being fraudulently accused of being," John A. Gill, one of his attorneys, told Perelman.

Last week, the Israeli government formally requested that the United States surrender Demjanjuk. Israel has had a law on the books providing for prosecution of Nazi war crimes since 1950.

...alleged war criminal

The Justice Department said the arrest was made in compliance with an extradition treaty between Israel and the United States.

Neal Sher, director of the Office of Special Investigations, said the deportation proceedings will be held in abeyance until the the extradition hearing is held. If Demjanjuk is extradited, the deportation proceeding would be moot, he added.

Last month, Demjanjuk's attorney filed a motion with Battisti seeking the reinstatement of Demjanjuk's citizenship. The attorneys said they had new evidence that would show that a key piece of evidence used in the citizenship trial was a forgery. The evidence was an SS identification card from Soviet archives which government attorneys say was issued to Demjanjuk.

CONTROVERSIAL PLAQUE — A court order and a political uproar stopped plans to have this anti-Facist plaque put on the house where Adolf Hitler was born. The inscription says "Never Again Fascism. Millions of dead are warning. For peace, freedom and democracy."

Plaque for Hitler's home creates political clamor

BRAUNAU, Austria (AP) — It was a national shrine during the days of the Third Reich. Today, 15 Salzburger Vorstadt, the yellow, three-story building where Adolf Hitler was born, has become the center of a political storm in this picturesque Austrian town.

Members of the city council want to place an anti-facist plaque on the building where the Nazi dictator was born 94 years ago and where he spent the first two years of his life.

The marble plaque, which cost the city an estimated $770, was to have been unveiled in a public ceremony Oct. 8, and invitations were even sent out. But Gerlinde Pommer, the house's owner, sued the Austrian government, which is the building's legal tenant, and the city, which uses the premises.

Mrs. Pommer says she was never asked permission to erect the plaque which reads: "Never Again Fascism. Millions of Dead Warn. For Peace, Freedom and Democracy."

The project had been endorsed by Socialist Mayor Hermann Fuchs after bitter debate in the city council which approved the plan in a secret ballot.

"Again and again foreigners are coming to Braunau to see the house where Hitler was born," Fuchs said in September when display of the plaque was approved. "Therefore, everyone visiting or photographing the house should be reminded what horrors Hitler and fascism have brought to mankind."

But opposition councilmen said the plaque could be a magnet for protesters, leading to confrontations between radicals of the left and right.

A day before the ceremony, workmen arrived at the house located on a narrow road leading to Braunau's marketplace on the banks of the Inn River, and chiseled a recess into the outer wall.

But before the plaque could be set, the district court, at the request of Mrs. Pommer's lawyer, Florian Lackner, stopped the work.

District Judge Leopold Heinrich Ammerer will rule Nov. 30 on whether the plaque should be displayed.

Lackner said in an interview that a trespass suit he filed against the city may be dropped, but an action to cease and desist brought against the republic stands, "and I am confident we'll win."

Lackner says the plaque would not describe anything official and made clear that his client, if in fact defeated in court, would certainly not extend the contract with the government due for renewal in 1992.

Federal officials disagree. "It is the view of the government that as main and sole tenant it is, under contract, entitled to mount the plaque," a spokesman for the Federal Finance Procurement agency said. The government rents the house and sublets it to the city.

Homestead Inn's Buffet Is Tops

The luncheon buffet at the Homestead Inn is something of an institution in Big Spring.

It's a friendly noontime gathering place where you can count on running onto someone you know. Good food and cheerful service add to the conviviality.

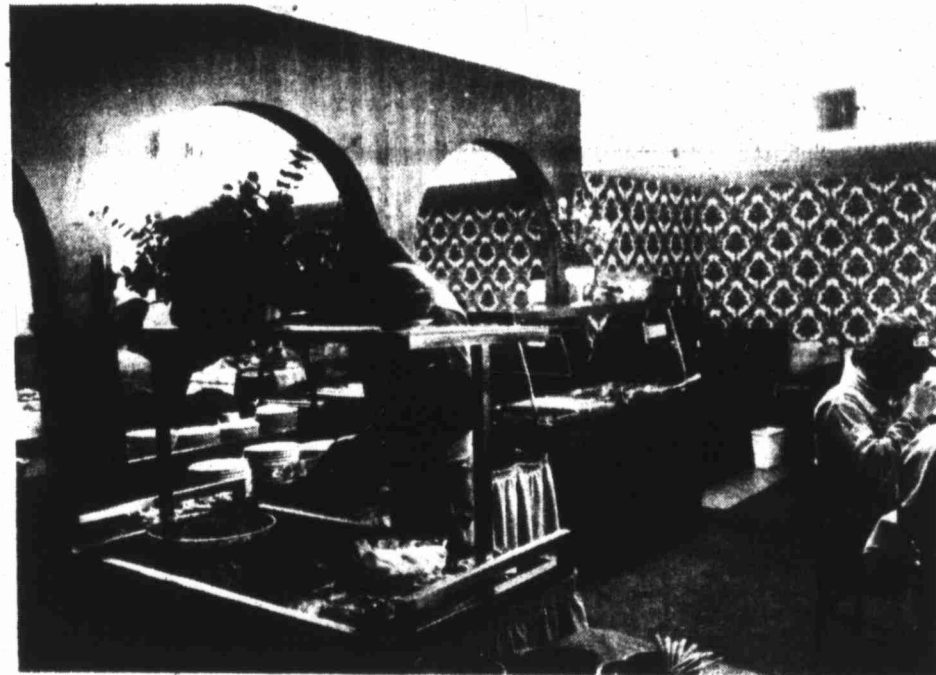

From 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday, you can feast on a salad bar, choice of two entrees, soup of the day, choice of three or four vegetables, and dessert, all for $3.95.

The Sunday buffet, served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., is a popular family outing. Culinary offerings are the same as weekdays, except that one of the entrees is always turkey and dressing. Sunday buffet is $4.25 with a child's plate at $2.25 for ages 6 and under.

The day your Dining Out Editor lunched there, she chose ham with lima beans, boiled cabbage, scalloped potatoes and cherry cobbler. This is real home-style cooking, prepared by the experienced hands of longtime chefs Willie Christopher and Claude Clark. Everything is well-seasoned and delicious. And here's a dining tip: If you usually pass up bread in deference to your waistline, don't do it at the Homestead Inn. They serve fresh homemade yeast rolls every day.

One of the entrees each Wednesday is stew, one of the Chef's specialties. Other luncheon selections include roast beef, meat loaf and Swiss steak.

Of course, the Homestead Inn dining room is open for more than just lunch. In fact, it's open from 6 a.m. until 9 p.m. every day. The day starts with a breakfast crowd who all seem to know each other — maybe it's just the atmosphere that make them friendlier. Or maybe it's waitress

KERR ATTACK — Investigators in San Antonio examine the bullet-riddled car that had been driven by form Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr. Kerr was ambushed in November 1978, but survived. The statute of limitations in the case expires Monday.

Statute of limitations takes effect Monday in Kerr case

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — As the deadline for prosecution drew near in the attempted assassination of a federal prosecutor five years ago, authorities said they would keep working on the case and seeking an indictment until the very last day.

The federal statute of limitations expires Monday in the attempted killing of James Kerr, whose plush Lincoln Continental was ripped by 20 bullets as he left his suburban home for the federal courthouse.

"Anything could happen," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Blagg. "We'll be working throughout the weekend. We're hopeful and there is a chance. We're certainly not giving up."

Kerr, who was then an assistant U.S. attorney and had earned some powerful enemies with his zealous prosecution of drug and organized crime cases, escaped death by ducking under the dashboard.

Although a special grand jury has continued to meet, no indictments have been issued in the Nov. 21, 1978, ambush.

Beginning with only the .30-caliber rifle bullets that pockmarked the car, federal agents have spent five years investigating the attack on Kerr, whose current whereabouts are a government secret.

The investigation was sidetracked when U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. was assassinated with a single slug from a sniper's rifle.

The two attacks took place six blocks and six months apart. Kerr had tried many cases before Wood, who was dubbed "Maximum John" for the stiff sentences he dealt defendants in narcotics cases.

Five people have been convicted in Wood's May 29, 1979, assassination, the first of a federal judge in this century.

An extension could be granted to prosecutors if federal agents proved that a conspiracy continued past the time the gunman fled from the shooting scene in a stolen green van.

Federal prosecutors also could turn over the investigation to Bexar County authorities so that state charges eventually could be brought. There is no state statute of limitation on attempted murder.

A federal source close to the investigation, who asked not to be identified, said Friday that prosecutors had not concentrated on either possibility and instead were "spending all their time trying to get an indictment."

Kerr, now 42, became a U.S. administrative law judge in 1980 and travels around the country hearing cases — but never in Texas, he told the San Antonio Express-News in a 1981 telephone interview.

Kerr told the Express-News that the appointment as administrative law judge had salvaged his career, which stalled when he had to drop out of sight for his own protection.

3 rapists offered jail or castration

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP) — Three admitted rapists sentenced to a choice between 30 years in prison or castration and five years on probation said Friday they may choose castration, but not before they've fought to have the sentence overturned.

"If we have to stay in jail until next year, we'll stay here, but we want our rights," said Roscoe James Brown, 27, of Pendleton.

Brown, Mark Wallace Vaughn, 21, of Clemson, and Michael Braxton, 19, of Sarasota, Fla., all pleaded guilty last month to raping a 23-year-old woman in a motel in April.

According to trial testimony, the woman was repeatedly raped and so badly beaten that she nearly died. Circuit Judge C. Victor Pyle Jr. called it the most horrible rape case he had ever heard of as he handed down their sentence Thursday.

The victim "felt it was a very fair, a very just sentence," said Doris Brown, a victim-witness advocate with the solicitor's office here. "She felt more safe knowing they would be in prison. I don't think the victim felt they would consider castration."

The three men were taken Friday from the Anderson County Jail to the state's Perry Correctional Institution at Pelzer, where Brown said they planned to consult with their attorneys and families on what to do next.

But he said during a brief interview before leaving the jail that it was "a possibility" they might ultimately choose castration, although each of the three would make his own decision.

Greenville attorney Theo Mitchell said a court challenge to the constitutionality of the sentence was being mailed Friday. He said he was "inclined to believe" that his client, Braxton, would not choose to be castrated.

Mitchell said the three men would remain at Perry prison for a week "to see if they wish to exercise the option," after which they would be transferred to a reception and evaluation center before being assigned to a prison.

10 persons hurt during Teamsters 'free-for-all'

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A work-site "free-for-all" involving Teamsters workers armed with baseball bats, tools and pipes left at least 10 union members injured, three in serious condition, police said.

An argument between two Teamsters locals, reportedly over union membership cards, flared into a brawl Friday in which about 25 workers battled each other with ax handles, steel pipes, baseball bats and shovels.

The mid-afternoon fracas occurred at a road construction site on Interstate 55-70 just outside this community about 15 miles east of St. Louis, a Teamsters spokeswoman in Alton said. She could give no further details.

Mutilation renews horse owners' fears

DALLAS (AP) — Police say they have a suspect in the latest of a string of horse mutilations under the full moon in southern Dallas County.

No arrest has been made, but police say witnesses provided a description of a man seen in the corral where an American-bred bay mare was severely assaulted with a hoe handle early Friday. The horse died later in the day.

"They chased him, but couldn't catch him," said police investigator E.E. Carol.

Geneva Dunagan experiences chemotherapy

Cancer patient discusses treatment

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

When a person has cancer, doctors may prescribe a particular type of treatment. One kind is chemotherapy, which is a combination of medicines to treat a disease.

"I had a 50 to 90 percent chance of recurrence without chemotherapy," Geneva Dunagan said. Doctors had discovered a malignant tumor, which turned out to be breast cancer, when they operated on her June 1, 1982. She had to have chemotherapy from July 1982 until June 4, 1983.

Her doctors, Donald Crockett and R.R. Patel, referred her to M.D. Anderson in Houston, which prescribed chemotherapy for her. Patel administered the chemotherapy to Mrs. Dunagan.

Mrs. Dunagan had chemotherapy treatments every 21 days, if her white blood count was high enough. She had to return to M.D. Anderson every three months for monitoring. "I would take his (Dr. Patel's) flow charts (on her) with all the information on it to the doctor in Houston when I would go."

WHEN MRS. DUNAGAN first found out she needed to have chemotherapy she "was frightened more than anything else, but was determined that if it was what we needed to do, then do it," she said.

She checked into Malone-Hogan Hospital for her first chemotherapy treatment. The first series of treatment took three to four hours at a time. Each treatment in the first series consisted of four types of medicine taken intravenously and one taken orally. She was monitored by Patel.

"Most people are very ill. After my first treatment I was nauseous for 30 hours, but after that I wasn't ill," she said. "Chemotherapy has a lot of side effects. My hands and fingers were numb for about six months. Other side effects are blisters in the mouth, hair loss, rashes, weakness and chills."

"The loss of your hair is traumatic. Your hair starts to fall out about ten days after the first treatment. It gives you an excellent opportunity to wear various-colored wigs. I even had my wigs trimmed by my hairdresser. My hairdresser held my standing appointment for a year until I was able to go back. Some people didn't even know I wore wigs."

MRS. DUNAGAN, WHO IS chief pharmacist's secretary at Veterans Administration Medical Center, worked until Nov. 1, 1982 when her white blood count dropped too low. She became confined to her home because one side effect to low white blood count makes a person susceptible to disease. She was able to return to work in February.

"Everyone was more than understanding. I was able to carry my load except for the time I was off. In fact, everyone in the hospital was great," she said.

During the second series she had to have two shots every other week if blood count was high enough.

"The last series was very difficult. I had no viens because all my viens had collapsed. I became very depressed. I cried a lot which is unusual for me."

The last series consist of four treatments in which Mrs. Dunagan would be given an I.V. each day for five days. "I felt like a truck had ran over my arms. It was the only pain I had. It was by far the worst of the lot. After two of the treatments I had run out of viens."

"I call Dr. Buzdar in Houston and asked him what I should do. He said I had had enough since I only had one malignant lymphnode," Mrs. Dunagan said. "I often wonder what I would have done if I had to finish the treatment."

She has to go back in four months for a check up. "So far all my tests have been clear."

THE PATIENT ISN'T THE only one who suffers, Mrs. Dunagan said. "Sometimes I think it is worst on the family than on the patient. My husband (M.A. Dunagan), who is retired, took over every facet of the home which makes me more fortunate than people who do not have understanding husbands."

Chemotherapy patients contact each other. "Communication with others that have had chemotherapy will comfort you. It is a comfort to you because people who don't have this may not understand you or they don't want to listen."

Mrs. Dunagan isn't worried about the future and is enjoying her life. "If it were necessary I would do it again. I try not to worry about anything if I don't have to."

"I'm thankful that I'm all right. I think I have a deeper love for my family and the people I work with. I enjoy my work even if it becomes stressful. I'm determined not to complain because things are so trivial."

SHE'S A WINNER — Geneva Dunagan, secretary to chief pharmacist at the Veterans Administration

Center, underwent chemotherapy treatment for breast cancer. She is thankful that she is all right.

"I'm 53 and glad to be 53. I may have not made it without chemotherapy." She is now going back to college so she can be reinstated as a real estate broker.

"I can't say that I'm glad to have had it, but it was a good experience," Mrs. Dunagan said. "It gives you a more clear perspective of what is important in life."

Chemotherapy's development fascinates doctor

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

"Chemotherapy is one of the youngest medical specialties. There is hardly anything stagnant about it. We are always learning more and more. It is in a stage of active development, which is an aspect that fascinates me," said Dr. R.R. Patel.

Patel is a general internist at Malone-Hogan Clinic who has a special interest in cancer chemotherapy. He started his practice here in 1979.

Chemotherapy, the use of medicine to treat disease, is one of the treatments for cancer. Other treatments are surgical excision and radiation therapy.

"SURGERY IS THE USUAL primary treatment of cancer and depending on the stage of the cancer may be the curative," he said. Radiation or chemotherapy may be used as a protective measure.

"Chemotherapy can be given one drug at a time, but much more often given in combination. Different drugs that have different side effects can have a greater chance in the destruction of cancer cells without having too much side effects from any singular drug. A combination can prevent the resistance in a strain of cancer cells."

"Malone-Hogan Clinic and Hospital has the facilities to do all cancer detections, except for CAT scans, and the follow up."

"Effective chemotherapy, which caused a degree of response, came about in the 50's. However, most of the development has been done during the 70's and 80's."

Chemotherapy is the most useful with patients who have cancers which include testicular tumor, Hodgkin's disease, breast cancer, Osteosarcoma, Wilms' tumor, acute lymphoblastic leukemia, and Ewing's sarcoma.

Cancers in which chemotherapy is rarely useful are bowel and stomach cancer, head and neck cancer, cervix cancer, Melanoma, brain tumors, bladder cancer, renal cancer, and pancreatic, liver and bile duct cancer.

DURING THE MID-70's, doctors started to see a cure to cancer, which included a five year wait after treating the patient, before they could tell a patient he was cured.

Chemotherapy does have some side effects on patients. "Side effects vary from drug to drug," he said.

"The general public looks on chemotherapy as debilitating treatment, but it is a treatment that has great benefit. On the whole, the general public judges it with fear, and with the side effects it is understandable."

Some side effects are bone marrow suppression, hair loss and problems with the gastrointestinal tract, because it acts mostly on active multiplying cells. Some gastrointestinal tract problems are nausea, vomiting, ulcers in the mouth, and diarrhea.

Bone marrow suppression can lead to a drop in red blood cells, white blood cells, and platelet count. A loss of red blood cells can cause anemia. A drop in the platelet count may make blood not clot. A person may become susceptible to disease if their white blood count is too low.

The general public looks on chemotherapy as debilitating treatment, but it is a treatment that has great benefit.

SOME DRUGS IN chemotherapy may have side effects on the lungs, liver, kidney, bladder and occasionally on the eyes, heart and hearing.

Most side effects are reversible, Dr. Patel said. "We make patients aware of side effects, and they watch for them."

Most patients are willing to accept the fact they need chemotherapy. "By the time we mention chemotherapy, they know they have cancer. The news must be given skillfully. Most patients will accept it after a time. There are very few breakdowns. The acceptance is growing because they realize there is a lot of help available."

Patel is concerned about his patients. "I like to have as much personal contact with my patients as possible. I come to know them better; they come to know me better; and they are more comfortable about the treatment. Little things like starting IVs, I do myself."

Stained glass: it's both an art and a craft

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

"Stained glass is a combination of an art and a craft," says David Clinkscales, a real estate and life insurance salesman who makes stained glass creations as a hobby.

"The craft is making and putting together of a window. The art is designing and choosing colors for windows." Clinkscales has worked with stained glass art for 5½ years.

"It's an accomplishment. It's not easy to do, and make it look right. It's a nice hobby, and I like it. You can make money too," he says.

Stained glass art includes items such as large hangings, small intricate suncatchers, room dividers, windows, lamps, tables, planters, and candle holders. "Candle holders are real pretty. I've even seen stained glass backgammon sets," he said.

Clinkscales became interested in stained glass art 6 years ago. He took lessons from Betty Robb. After her lessons he taught himself.

He has done windows for interior designers, homes in N.M., and churches. "One neat thing I did was a three dimensional Christmas tree. It is 3½ feet tall and decorated with stained glass ornaments," Clinkscales said. He isn't working on any stained glass projects now, but he does show his work at art shows.

"Stained glass art has been around for centuries. For a while it was thought only to be for churches, but in last 15 years has increased in homes and business,"

'Stained glass art has been around for centuries. For a while it was thought only to be for churches, but in last 15 years has increased in homes and business.'

he said. Stained glass art can be done several ways. One form is the copper foil technique. Pieces of glass are cut to fit a pattern. Each piece is wrapped around the edges with copper foil tape. After the piece are fitted together, the foil is solder on both sides to hold it together.

The copper foil technique, which was mainly developed for lamp shades, is not weather proofed. Lead came method is another type of stained glass art. The glass is cut to the pattern, then each piece is fitted "H" shaped channel. The channels "fit together like a puzzle". Next, the channels are solder together at the places where they intersect.

Another form of stained glass art is etching. To etch, a resist is put on the glass. The artist draws a pattern on the resist with a razor knife, then cuts away part he want to etch, Clinkscales said. "A good way to describe it is the resist ends up like a stencil."

Two techniques can be used to etch a piece of glass. An etching acid cream which eats away at the glass can be used, or you can sandblast it. "Sandblasting is the best way you can shade it and can get a better even clearer piece of glass," Clinkscales said. The glass turns white when it is sandblasted. With sandblasting, an etching can be made to look three dimensional.

Slab glass method is one type of stained glass art Clinkscales says he doesn't know much about.

Take care in firewood selection

With Fall on hand now, many people are beginning to buy or cut firewood. A few words of caution about firewood should be heeded, however.

Firewood is an excellent source for arthropods. Spiders, insects and scorpions can generally be found in firewood piles. Often wasps, crickets, roaches and beetles will over winter in firewood piles. Termites, wood borers, powder post beetles and other potentially destructive pests often live in firewood.

Take care in handling and storage of firewood. Don't stack firewood near or against the house. That's inviting all kinds of "bugs" (including destructive insects and stringing arthropods). Wear long sleeved shirts to handle firewood and check it over before you haul it in the house. One way to get the little woman real excited is to drop a few scorpions on the living room rug.

With the onset of some very cool days, already, many people are looking for a source of firewood for this winter. The wood peddlers are already arriving in West Texas with Post Oak and live Oak wood from Central Texas.

They are probably the easiest source of wood for many people. In addition to insect pest earlier described, some other hitchhikers might come along with the wood. Two fungal diseases infect oaks in central Texas and both are known to be carried by insects. Owners of oaks who buy this firewood take the risk of having these fungi transmitted to their oak trees. The best way to avoid infecting your oaks is to buy local firewood, but it is usually in short supply. If you must buy "imported" wood, the safest option is to have a pest control operator fumigate your woodpile to kill all the insects. Other less sure options include avoiding wood with bore holes in the wood and tunneling under the bark, storing the wood as far from your oaks as possible, and waiting to buy wood until after the weather is cool enough to keep the insects from emerging. Be careful with your firewood this winter, so you can enjoy your shade trees next summer.

In buying wood be sure you get what you are paying for. For one thing, be sure if you buy a cord of wood you get a full cord. A cord is a stack of wood four foot wide, four foot tall and eight foot long, no more, no less.

As to what kind of wood to buy generally speaking, the hardwoods are best, they burn slower, longer, and due to having less resins in them, burn with less smoke. These woods include the oaks, pecans, and fruitwoods. Evergreen wood, such as pine, spruce and cedar, contain more resins and burn quickly and hotly. Also, due to their resin content, they give off quite bit of smoke. Mesquite, which is usually available out here in West Texas is a good wood, though many claim it to be a more fast burning, hotter firewood than oak.

In buying any wood, however, be sure wood is dry. A rule of thumb in testing for dryness is check to see if it splinters easily. If so, generally speaking, it can be considered as suitable dry wood.

Pecan show entries being accepted

The 3rd Annual Howard County Pecan Show will be held at Highland Mall in Big Spring, Dec. 1. Any pecan grower in the area may submit entries for the show to the County Extension office.

Deadline for entries is Nov. 29. The Extension office is located in the basement of the county courthouse.

No entry limit per exhibitor is made, but participants are limited to one entry of each named variety they grow. The grower may enter as many seedlings, known hybrids or natives he wishes. The exhibitor must be the grower.

A minimum of 40 pecans are necessary for each entry. This sample of 40 should represent the variety or individual seedling tree and be uniform in size and shell color. Mixed samples — more than one variety in an entry — are disqualified.

The grower may wish to select the heaviest pecans by weighing individual nuts. This will eliminate poorly filled pecans, but certainly isn't an entry requirement.

A variety entry may be composed of nuts from more than one tree. For example, if the grower has 10 Choctaw trees, each tree could contribute nuts to the grower's one Choctaw entry.

Nuts should be free of dust, dirt and shuck remnants. They should not be buffed to the extent that shape or color is altered.

Discolored shells and kernals may result from peeling pecans from the shucks too early. Pecans must be from the 1983 crop and are judged on the basis of size (number per pound), appearance and shell color. Kernel quality is also important and is based on the percent kernel (as relative to shell), color, general appearance, texture and taste.

Dr. Donohue

Resting pulse idea confuses reader

Dear Dr. Donohue: Now you have me confused over your remarks about pulse beat after and before exercise. In your article you say that when you exercise the pulse rate drops. I am 81 years old, weigh 200 pounds and am 6 feet tall, and in excellent health. My pulse as I write this is 80. I walk four and one-half miles at about three and one-half miles per hour. When I get home I am dripping wet and my pulse is 100. I was under the impression that this indicates my heart is working harder, pumping more blood and stretching the arteries. I play 18-27 holes of golf a week, walking and pulling a 20-pound sack of clubs.

So what about my pulse being elevated instead of lowered with exercise? Bourbon at night and a cigar or pipe are my only vices. Am I on the wrong track? — H.B.H.

Your resting pulse rate is the one you had as you wrote your letter, not the one you had when you got back from your walk dripping wet, Mr. H. And a resting pulse rate of 80 for a man your age is very good.

I wonder if anyone else got the same idea about what I meant by resting pulse. When you exercise your pulse is going to rise. It's supposed to. That's the goal of aerobic exercise, to raise the pulse rate for a minimum of 15 minutes with your daily walk. I am not too sure whether you elevate it for 15-minute periods in golfing unless you're rushing through the course.

A person who is not conditioned when he starts an aerobic benefit program will notice his resting pulse rate dropping as weeks go by. The heart becomes able to pump more blood than it could before with each beat. I'm sorry about the confusion. I wonder if getting back from a walk dripping wet indicates you are overdoing. Be careful. Otherwise you're on the right track and I don't want to derail you.

Dear Dr. Donohue: There's a thin person inside me trying to escape. And I'm trying to help him by eliminating all starches from my diet, especially potatoes. My wife says this is not the way to do it. I tell her this issue can only be arbitrated by a professional. You. What is the verdict? Am I wrong? — S.I.

Potatoes are good for you. They're full of nutrition. It really depends what you do to a potato, or any starch, that makes the difference. A baked potato has only 100 calories, lots of potassium, and nice amounts of vitamins B and C — nothing wrong there.

But fry it up and you add another 144 calories of fat. Drown it with ketchup and you add hundreds more. Munch 20 potato chips and you get 224 calories. Can anyone stop at 20?

Your wife is not wrong. In fact, starches are "in" these days, and the humble potato is one of the new dietary darlings. Incidentally, I don't include sugar with starches. You should avoid that. You need to lose calories from all sources. And by that I mean that you need a balanced diet with less of each food group. Then you need to exercise.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you give me an idea of how many calories I need every day? And am I right combining diet with exercise? I've been told I'll only gain with exercise. — V.K.

You caloric needs depend on your activity. Begin with present body weight. Multiply that figure by 10. If you're 150 pounds, that gives you 1,500 calories. Add 200 to that and you are in a good range for your weight — 1,700 calories a day. If you are moderately active, add 500 calories — total 2,200. If you are really active add 1,000 to your 1,500 — giving you 2,500 a day.

If you are dieting and exercising, you are doing everything right. That's the best combination for good weight loss. If you diet alone, you tend to lose both muscle weight (which you want to keep) and fat. In dieting, about 75 percent of the loss is fat weight, 25 percent muscle. If you exercise and diet, 95 percent of the loss is fat weight. And you don't have to worry about ending up looking like a female Hercules. If you feel well with your present program it is a sound one for you.

The Ocie R. Crows

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie R. Crow, Gail Rt., will be honored for their 50th wedding anniversary today from 2 to 4 p.m. at Luther Bethel Baptist Church's Fellowship Room. The couple's children will host the event.

Crow was born in Waxahachie. Mrs. Crow, originally from Red Oak, is the former Ruth M. Owens. The couple met at a tacky party April 1, 1930 at a friend's home. They were married Nov. 25, 1933. The Rev. R.D. (Bob) Burleson performed the ceremony in the home of T.W. Burleson of Waxahachie.

The couple has three children. They are Connie J. Anderson of Lubbock, W.J. (Bill) Crow of Aba Dahbi U.A.E., and Sandra R. Crow of Upper Marlboro, Md. The Crows also have seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

During their marriage, the Crows have lived in Ellis County two years, Lynn County three years, and Luther Community in Howard County for 45 years. Although the couple lives on their farm in the Luther Community, Crow retired from farming in 1974. The Crows are members of Luther Bethel Baptist Church where Crow is a deacon. They also are members of the Farm Bureau, since 1940, and Good Sam Travel Club. They have been leaders of 4-H Clubs, Scouts and school work.

The Crows saw much of the "Dust Bowl" and depression times, good crops, poor crops and a few years of no crops during their marriage. They have enjoyed their children and always had a house full on Sundays, they said. They farmed together and say that this has been a short 50 years.

The couple enjoys traveling, camping, hunting and fishing. Due to ill health, they have tried to make one good fishing trip to Toledo Bend a year with their travel trailer during the past few years. They have toured 26 of the 50 states.

The altar was decorated with an arch entwined with grape vines. On both sides of the arch were candles with grape vines underneath.

Ring bearers were Rose Marie Granado and Ann Marie Granado of Odessa, granddaughters of the couple. Cushion carriers were Joey Rivera and Eidolina Margarita Rivera, grandchildren of the couple.

A reception followed the ceremony with a dinner and punch. A six-tiered wedding cake, which featured a water fountain and decorated with grape vines, was served.

Ruiz is formerly of San Angelo and is a retired Assembly of God minister. Mrs. Ruiz, the former Eidolina Bihl, was born in Marfa and raised in Big Spring. The couple met in Crane and were married in a small church in Levelland, Nov. 17, 1958. The Rev. Tiburcia Perez officiated at the rite.

The couple made their home in Lubbock following their wedding. They have since lived in many Texas, New Mexico and Colorado cities where they have also pastored.

Dear Abby

Only child fearful she will be always a child

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old single woman whose parents are still living. I am an only child. Yes, I said "child," because that's what I am.

Last week I had my phone removed because I was getting so many calls from my mother she was driving me crazy. If I don't visit my parents every day they give me the third degree: "Where were you? Who were you with? What did you do?"

I have never been able to have any close friends because my mother found fault with everybody I liked. Now I know why. She wanted me to be alone and available all the time.

How can I get out of this trap? Please don't tell me to be "patient" — that I will be "free" after they die — because they are both in better health than I am.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: It's not too late to get control of your life if you really want to. You are being treated like a child because you've been behaving like one. To deny yourself the convenience of a phone in order to avoid your mother's calls shows how you set yourself up to be the victim — something you've been doing all your life. If you want to be "free," get professional help and learn how to be the most important person in your life without feeling guilty.

***

DEAR ABBY: We have two baby girls. One is 3 and the other is 2. My wife is pregnant and will have the baby in January. We are now thinking that if we should get another girl baby, we should get a sex-change operation for her that people say is now possible.

How much would it cost?

NO MORE GIRLS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA
DEAR NO MORE GIRLS: Sex-change operations were not intended for infants whose parents are disappointed with the sex of a child. If you can't thank God for a healthy, normal, baby girl, why not adopt a boy?

***

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago, my husband and I went to an expensive restaurant with my sister and her husband. (I'll call him "Mickey.") When the bill came, Mickey looked it over, added a generous tip and told my husband what his share was. My husband put the cash on the table, whereupon Mickey paid the entire bill with his credit card and pocketed our cash, boasting that he would charge it to his company and write it off as a "business expense," adding he does this "all the time."

My husband didn't say anything at the time, but he felt very uncomfortable about it. If it happens again, how should we handle it?

LOST MY APPETITE

DEAR LOST: He should tell Mickey that he feels uncomfortable being written off as a "business expense." And having said that, he should insist on a separate check.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a disagreement about my knitting habits. I enjoy knitting while watching TV. We sometimes have friends over to watch TV, and I knit while I'm watching. My friends don't seem to mind, but my husband insists I'm being rude. What do you think?

BUSY FINGERS

DEAR BUSY: I think you're being needlessly needled. Watching TV is surely not the time to talk, so there's no harm in keeping your fingers busy. I'm sure that mountains of afghans, sweaters, booties and blankets have been conceived in front of a TV set.

Computers are commanding much attention lately and the news media is using terms such as "computer age." The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 28 and again at 9 a.m. Nov. 29 at Texas Electric's Reddy Room in Big Spring.

On Turning Heads

by Gary Don

Current evidence indicates that the most common cause of hair loss among women today is due to the birth control pill. Along with synthetic estrogens, many birth control pills contain synthetic progestins. Some of these progestins have a male hormone-like effect which can accentuate an inherited tendency toward thinning hair. If you notice hair loss and are using birth control pills, check with your doctor about switching to a formula that contains a different type of progestin. Be aware as well that hair may shed for two to three months after you stop taking birth control pills. The hair shedding patterns usually then returns to normal up to about six months after cessation.

Regardless of the season, you will always be right in fashion with a hairstyle designed expressly for you at LA CONTESSA. In the creation of a hairstyle, we take into consideration your facial shape, features etc. At LA CONTESSA, we are professionals who are here to offer you the finest in hair care. We are located at 1508 Marcy. Our salon is open Tues.-Sat. For an appointment, call 267-2187.

Very large doses of vitamin A can result in hair loss.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 267-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Parents needed for 'special-needs' youths

An estimated 100,000 "Special-Needs" children are awaiting parents to adopt them.

A person doesn't have to own a home, be childless or even married to adopt a child. Social workers are eager to find parents who are willing to commit themselves to providing necessary medical, educational and therapeutic care and emotional support these children need.

Some of these "special-needs" children are past the usual age desired by adoptive families (especially if they're over 10). Others are minority children or are handicapped in some emotional and/or physical way; or they may be brothers and sisters who want to be kept together. The children are eligible for state and federal subsidies that can help adoptive parents shoulder the cost of their care.

Many children are available for adoption from foreign countries, too. These children need both medical attention and emotional support.

Would-be parents of foreign children must be willing to assume the costs for traveling expenses, medical treatment and special education if necessary. People who want to adopt a foreign child may apply to U.S. adoption agencies with foreign affiliates or by writing directly to foreign agencies.

For additional information, contact National Adoption Exchange, 1218 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, PA 19107, or call (215) 925-0200.

Adopted families are special

The week of November 20-26 is National Adoption Week and National Family Week. The combination of celebrations is a reminder of how special adopted families are.

Adoptive parents are unique because they openly express an interest in parenting a child and seek to become parents. Adopting parents are diverse: some cannot have natural children, some are single adults, others adopt orphaned relatives, others just want more children.

Parents who adopt children have the same motivation as any married couple who wants natural children — to carry on the family name, to see their ambitions and goals are carried on or to enjoy sharing their life with offspring.

Adopted parents are well-meaning, intelligent people who do a creditable, if not a remarkable job, of raising their children. Like other parents, they have doubts, fears and inconsistencies. Often they may feel a little more tense or on-the-spot with regard to how well they are doing their job, especially to well-meaning relatives and friends.

Let's remember that children want to be individuals, but they desire a sense of belonging to their own family, friends, society and world...and adopted parents choose to help them get there. Adopted parents are special people with unique families.

SMART TOYS FOR SMART KIDS

Parents are a child's first (and best) teachers. The opportunities that parents provide for play, especially during the first three years of life, are an important stimulus to the development of a child's intellect. Carefully selected toys are some of the best tools for learning. Toys that teach need not be expensive. In fact, some of the best teaching toys are objects found and used on the home.

Non-breakable mirrors hung mobile-style over the crib; four empty, metal cigar containers that can be chimed when touched; cuddly animals made from socks; large cardboard boxes for building, crawling or sleeping; or sets of soft plastic bowls or cans that can be stacked are all valuable teaching tools.

Select toys that are safe, and have no small parts that can be swallowed. Toys that can be used in more than one way depending on the child's imagination, and can be used for more than one year of play are also a good choice. Toys are extra special when you can make them easily yourself so they bring enjoyment to you as you join in your child's play.

B-ball on the brain

You might say when the weather turns cold and sports heads indoors to the gym, I get a bad case of basketball on the brain. Perhaps that's why much of my hair has vacated my scalp in favor of a comb or shower drain.

At any rate, basketball is a fascinating game. You would get that idea just listening to Al McGuire do color one time for an NCAA game of the week. Al is fascinating in himself.

With the Hawk Queen Classic completed last night, the Hawks enjoying a 6-1 start, both local teams opening play Tuesday and Spud Webb debuting with style in Springfield, Mass., it's no wonder my head isn't in the game today.

Here are a few thoughts...

• How about Spud? The Little Big Man made a splash on national TV yesterday, scoring 18 points in North Carolina State's surprisingly easy win over Phi Slama Jama. Spud was so good, NBC named him the game's MVP. I think No. 22 will become a favorite around the country this year. And just think, we come to expect great things from him the last two years while he slammed and jammed for Midland College.

Who says this isn't basketball country? Now we have to keep an eye on one Jerald Wrightstil...

• They're already making Eric Dickerson clones or my eyes have failed me.

This clone was a female. Tyler's Marcia Green — and I speak in no derogatory tones — looks just like Dickerson, the former SMU Mustangs and NFL's leading rusher. Same style hair, same glasses. The resemblance was noticed by more than myself at the Hawk Queen Classic. In fact, Howard trainer Dave Lammers had already nicknamed her "Erica Dickerson" by the second night.

B-BALL ON THE BRAIN

• Speaking of the HQ Classic, there were some pretty far out names on the rosters. Sanchioni Butler? Zina Pippin? Shlandia Ary? R e R e Jackson? Yasuko Matsumoto? Greg Jaklewicz? Come on.

My all-time favorite name, though, comes from ages past from the University of Texas at Arlington roster. Zelwood Head. He had to make that one up.

• Junior college basketball coaches have a unique sense of court presence. While four-year coaches have to maintain some sort of dignity a la Joe Hall, John Thompson, John Wooden, juco coaches can let it all hang out.

Last week, Howard's Dwight Harris was boxed in by three Ranger players. Facing a five-second violation, Harris heaved a semi-hook while falling out of bounds. He made the shot.

Hawk coach Mike Mitchell grinned. Ranger coach Larry Gibson stood up, glared at Mitchell and said, "Coach, that was a helluva shot. How'd he make that?" Mitchell deadpanned (while the teams are moving back upcourt), "Shoot, we work on that all the time in practice." Gibson laughed and muttered something to the tune of his team would work also work on that particular play in the future.

Prior to that game, another coach told his players to stop fouling because it was delaying the upcoming game. "Come on, quit fouling," he pleaded. "Gibson's ready to play over there."

And Friday, McLennan's Charlotte Mason stopped a game to find out why the 30-clock had been restarted after a time-out. "Coach," referee John Weeks explained, to the whole gym, "your player had the ball and stepped out of bounds." Mason suddenly recalled the play and said, "You're right. I blew it." And play went on.

Mitchell has come up with several good ones but unfortunately, there are few we can print here.

OC's inside power game overcomes Howard, 82-74

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

It was a valiant try to the end but Odessa College's superior front line height provided the Lady Wranglers with a championship trophy.

Tricia Clay's three-point play with five minutes to play put Odessa ahead 69-67 and the Lady Wranglers fought off a undersized but determined Howard College team 82-74 to win the championship of the fifth annual Hawk Queen Classic Saturday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The win was the 11th straight of the season for Odessa while Howard slipped to 9-4 overall. Guard Sharon Cain was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player while Clay and inside teammate Sharon Blair gained all-tournament notice.

Point guard Janene Berry, wing Debbie Hall and forward Alex Provenzio were named to the team representing the host Hawk Queens.

Odessa coach Ken Hefner could only breathe a sigh of relief when the game was over. Two games before, his squad rallied by McLennan 76-73 and then had to hold off Western Texas in the semifinals. Had he thought the tournament title game would be an easier those ideas disappeared quickly in the first half.

Howard put on a box and one defense, assigning guard Molly Early the dubious task of containing Cain. The plan worked. The Queens led most of the first half, building a lead as large as 11 points, 22-11. "That game was a lot tougher," Hefner said, referring to thoughts his team would win in a runaway. "They came out in that box and one and that hurt us early. And everything they shot went in. We were playing a well-prepared team."

Odessa was able to recover and rallied into a one-point halftime lead, scoring the final eight points of the half. The Queens led on two occasions in the second half, the last at 67-66 with 5:40 to go when Berry hit two free throws.

The Lady Wranglers grabbed the lead right back as Clay connected on her three-point play. From there, it was a matter of offensive rebounding a foul shooting that allowed Odessa to pull away. Down 78-73, Pat Carter missed a free throw and Howard failed to score on two trips downcourt. Had the Queens come up with five points, the game would have been tied.

"That's when the ole sophomores come through for you," HC coach Don Stevens said, referring to his lack of such. "We had several chances to fold earlier though, and we battled back on three occasions. Before the end of the first half, we self-destructed. It wasn't them; we did it to ourselves."

The Queens, hustling for position on defense to combat Blair and Clay, were in foul trouble the entire game. Stevens used Provenzio, Debi Young and Diane and Allison Dickson as post players hoping to grab rebounds against the taller Lady Wranglers.

OC finished the game with a 34-29 rebounding edge. Carter had 10 and Provenzio had seven for the Hawk Queens.

"That guy is a master," Hefner praised his fellow coach. "He always comes up with the right offense and defenses. They did a great job in taking our strength away from us."

Hefner admitted his team's superior size won out in the end. "Tricia Clay showed her class tonight. I think she had 10 offensive rebounds in the last five minutes of the game. She was unbelievable."

Stevens was also impressed. "When you have two like Blair and Clay, you're in good shape. Those two aren't going to be blocked out all night long."

Odessa is off to its best start ever, Hefner said.

Hall finished with 20 points to top Howard while Carter added 19. Provenzio scored 12 and Berry added 10. Cain quietly worked her way to a game-high 27, followed by Clay with 19 and Blair with 13.

BLASTING OFF AT THE TIP-OFF — Former Midland College guard Anthony "Spud" Webb soars for two of his 18 Saturday against the University of Houston. Webb, now playing for defending national champion North Carolina State, was named the game's most valuable player in the Wolfpack's victory. See story, page 3-B.

Tyler edges WTC for 3rd, 78-76

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

No tournament is complete without a little controversy and the Hawk Queen Classic was no exception.

Lyndy French of Western Texas banked in the apparent tying field goal but an official ruled her attempt had come after the buzzer. The decision left the Dusters two points short as Tyler took home the third place trophy with a hard-fought 78-76 victory Saturday night.

Sharon Cain, who scored 96 points in four tournament games was named the Most Valuable Player of the 1983 Hawk Queen Classic. Joining her on the honor team were teammates Tricia Clay and Sharon Blair.

Other all-tournament choices were Debbie Hall, Janene Berry and Alex Provenzio of Howard College; Charlotte Reescano of Tyler; Sheila Stowe of Grayson, Debra Degrate and Carolyn Sneed of McLennan and Mary Nell Clayton of Western Texas.

Cisco downed Weatherford 66-63 for the consolation championship.

The Dusters trailed 45-43 at halftime in the tight contest but stayed close in the second until French's three-point play with five minutes to play put WTC ahead 70-69. Sheila Bryant of Tyler hit one free shot with 12 seconds to go to give the Lady Vikings a two-point lead.

Western brought the ball downcourt but Clayton misfired from the left side. French was there to rebound but her shot went up too late to count.

Clayton finished with 32 points but lost top scoring honors to Charlene James who led Tyler with 34.

Western Texas and Tyler were knocked out of the running for a tournament championship by Odessa and Howard earlier in the day. The Lady Wrangler staved off the Dusters 66-59 in one semifinal game Saturday morning while the Hawk Queens pulled away in the last 10 minutes of the game for a 70-61 over the Lady Vikings.

Odessa controlled the first half against Western, building a 12-point halftime lead. The Dusters, however, stormed back in the second game behind Renvy Evans and Mary Nell Clayton.

Evans, the former Greenwood High standout, scored 10 of her 15 points in the final half while Clayton sank 13 of her game-high 20 as the Dusters pushed OC before the Lady Wranglers won their 10th game of the season.

Clara Campbell added 19 points for WTC. Sharon Cain had 20 and Sharon Blair 18 for OC.

Alex Provenzio played the entire second half with three fouls and scored 11 points in the last seven minutes of the game. Hot foul shooting keyed the Queens' victory; Howard sank 11 of 14 tries in the last 10 minutes and 16 of 20 (80 per cent) for the game.

The lead swayed back and forth in the first half. Charlotte Reescano's lay-in gave Tyler a 29-28 lead but Janene Berry hit a pair of free throws and Pat Carter scored off a fast-break to give Howard a 32-29 halftime advantage.

The Queens built a five-point lead in the second half but Tyler closed to within two, 49-47, with eight minutes to go. Howard then went on a 11-2 scoring spurt as Provenzio scored seven and Carter four points, boosting HC into its largest lead of the game at 60-51 with 3:40 to play.

The Queens were outshot by the Lady Vikings 38 to 34 per cent and outrebounced 39-28. Provenzio added eight rebounds to her game-high 19 points. Carter finished with 17, Berry 16 and Debbie Hall 12 for Howard. Charlene Jones had 17 and Reescano 13 for Tyler.

In other winner's bracket games, McLennan downed New Mexico 90-65 as Carolyn Sneed and Debra Degrate scored 14 points each and Temple stomped Grayson 87-58 behind Sheila Stowe's 24 points.

Weatherford led Cisco 31-24 at halftime but the Lady Wranglers rallied to win, finishing the tournament with three wins after an opening night loss to Howard.

Barbara Williams had 32 points for Cisco, leading all scorers in the game.

In a pair of loser's bracket games, Navarro edged Southwest Christian 65-62 and Texas State Technical Institute of Waco got by Phoenix 67-61.

Lady Steers

By STEVE BELVIN

1982-83 was a good year for Big Spring High girl's basketball.

The Lady Steers recorded their first winning season under the direction of first-year coach Annette Fowler, posting a 15-11 season record and 9-5 district slate while finishing third.

Take away two bad road games, in fact, and a one-point loss to district champ Midland Lee at home and the Lady Steers could have made the state playoffs.

With six returning letterwomen, including three starters, things should be even better in 1983-84.

Coach Fowler is not about to concede the district crown to her team but admits that the Lady Steers will definitely be contenders for the District 4-5A championship.

"We should be improved from last season," said Fowler. "We have good experience along with a good attitude (See 'Lady Steers' on page 3-B)

With the shortage of tall basketball players in the locale, Big Spring High coach Mike Randle is following the current rage in short-team strategy: play aggressive defense and

Randle, taking over as head coach of the Steers this fall, finds himself in the same predicament as coaches Don Stevens and Mike Mitchell as Howard College and BSHS girls coach Annette Fowler. There just isn't a lot of height circulating in Big Spring. Randle's tallest player is 6-3 Mike Leuschner and puts the Steers at a disadvantage in District 4-5A basketball.

To complicate matters, only seniors Jimmy Brown and Jerry Wrightstil have varsity experience and they logged only part-time duty in 1982-83.

Randle, however, is far from gloomy over his situation. The Steers are coming off a 17-12 season, their first winning campaign in 10 years. Coach Archie (See 'Steers' on page 3-B)

Michigan gets Sugar; Huskies miss Roses

No. 4 Illinois 56, Northwestern 24

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Jack Trudeau hurled four touchdown passes, two to Tim Brewster, and Rose Bowl-bound Illinois nailed down its first Big Ten football championship in 20 years Saturday with a 56-24 romp over Northwestern.

The fourth-ranked Illini, becoming the first Big Ten team to sweep all nine of their opponents in the same season, finished at 9-0 in the conference and 10-1 overall.

The biggest cheers from the capacity crowd of 52,333, most of them Illini rooters, came when Brewster, a senior, caught a 3-yard pass from Trudeau for his first career touchdown although he went into the game as Illinois' leading receiver this season.

No. 8 Michigan 24, No. 10 Ohio St. 21

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Before the game, Michigan quarterback Steve Smith was afraid he would get too emotional to be effective against arch-rival Ohio State.

He needn't have worried. Smith, a 6-foot, 194-pound senior, turned in one of his best performances, hitting on 11 of 20 pass attempts for 207 yards and two touchdowns while running for another to lead the eighth-ranked Wolverines to a 24-21 victory Saturday.

In the Ohio State dressing room, Coach Earle Bruce was still kicking himself for calling a trick play that misfired in the fourth quarter, setting up Michigan's final touchdown.

From a second-and-10 situation at the Michigan 38 yard line, it appeared that Ohio State quarterback Mike Tomczak fumbled the snap from center.

Not so, the Buckeyes explained. The ball was supposed to be set down on the ground, then picked back up.

Instead, Michigan linebacker Mike Hammerstein pounced on the ball and it became a recovered fumble. Michigan took over on its own 40 yard line and the Wolverines drove the 60 yards in 10 plays with Smith flipping an 8-yard TD pass to tight end Eric Kattus to put Michigan on top 24-14 with 6:57 remaining in the game.

Michigan, which accepted a bid to play in the Sugar Bowl immediately after the game, finished the regular season 9-2 and was 8-1 in the Big Ten. The Buckeyes, who will play in the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2, finished 8-3 on the season, 6-3 in the conference.

No. 9 BYU 55, Utah 7

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Quarterback Steve Young threw six touchdown passes and set or tied nine NCAA records Saturday to power ninth-ranked Brigham Young to a 55-7 thrashing of upstate and Western Athletic Conference rival Utah.

BYU defensive end Brandon Flint set up three of the Cougars' touchdowns by forcing and recovering two fumbles and deflecting a pass. The Cougars ended the season 7-0 in the WAC and won their 10th straight game after an opening loss to Baylor.

No. 11 Iowa 61, Minnesota 10

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Eddie Phillips ran for three touchdowns and became Iowa's career rushing leader as the 11th-rated Hawkeyes, anticipating a bid to the Gator Bowl, rolled over Minnesota 61-10 Saturday in a Big Ten Conference football finale.

Phillips set the tone for the day by streaking 80 yards for a touchdown on the first play of the game and finished with 172 yards in 17 carries. That gave the senior tailback 2,144 yards for his career, breaking the school record of 2,133 held by Dennis Mosley.

No. 13 Clemson 22, South Carolina 13

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Senior placekicker Bob Pauling booted three field goals and Stacey Driver gained 110 yards rushing to lift 13th-ranked Clemson to a 22-13 victory over intrastate rival South Carolina here this afternoon.

The win gives Clemson a 9-1-1 record, identical to a year ago, and ends their season since they are on NCAA probation and ineligible for bowl games. South Carolina finished 5-6 in the first season under Morrison.

No. 14 West Virginia 17, Syracuse 6

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sophomore tailback Harold Gayden rushed for 93 yards in 10 carries, scored two touchdowns and put his team in position for scores with a 57-yard run and a 58-yard reception Saturday as Syracuse defeated No. 14 West Virginia 17-6 in college football.

The contest was marked by big plays on the part of Syracuse's "Four Wheel Drive" defense — named after linemen Tim Green, Blaise Winter, Bill Pendock and Jamie Kimmel — which sacked Mountaineer quarterback Jeff Hostetler five times, intercepted three passes and took over the ball twice on downs.

No. 15 Washington 6, Washington St. 17

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Twice in a row, Washington State's underdog Cougars did their best to take Washington out of the Rose Bowl Saturday, using the rushing of sophomore Kerry Porter and a stubborn defense for a 17-6 victory over the 15th-ranked Huskies.

UCLA was leading Southern California in the second half in Los Angeles in a bid to take advantage of Washington's loss and back into the Rose Bowl for the second straight season.

Porter, a 6-foot-2, 203-pounder, carried the ball 30 times for 170 yards as the Cougars rolled up their fifth straight Pacific-10 Conference football victory.

No. 19 Missouri 27, Kansas 37

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Frank Seurer threw two touchdown passes and erased the Big Eight career-passing record and Bruce Kallmeyer snapped the league kick-scoring mark with three field goals Saturday as Kansas, an 18-point underdog, whipped No. 19 Missouri 37-27.

Missouri, just two weeks after handing powerful Oklahoma its first conference shutout in 18 years, was unable to stop the passing onslaught of Seurer. The strong-armed senior threw for 354 yards, hiking his career total to 6,410 yards and erasing the Big Eight mark of 6,208 set by Lynn Dickey at Kansas State. Seurer hit Bob Johnson with touchdown passes of 26

No. 18 Boston College 47, Holy Cross 7

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Boston College did its part by clobbering Holy Cross, 47-7, Saturday.

Kem Wilson, the president of the Liberty Bowl, did his part by presenting an official invitation to his game to Eagles' Coach Jack Bicknell on the field moments after the rout.

Boston College, which led 10-0 at halftime, "just exploded in the second half. That's a type of game" that makes for an exciting television show, Wilson said.

The 18th-ranked Eagles end their regular season here next Friday against Alabama.

BIG GAINER FOR THE WOLVERINES — Michigan running back Rick Rogers, left, picks up good yardage during first half action Saturday against Ohio State in Ann Arbor, Mich. The Wolverines won a berth in the Sugar Bowl opposite Auburn with a 24-21 victory over the Buckeyes.

'Horns win into Cotton Bowl

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Second-ranked Texas rolled into the Cotton Bowl and clinched at least a tie for the Southwest Conference title Saturday with a shaky 24-21 victory over Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Baylor behind Rob Moerschell's heady quarterbacking and tailback Ronnie Robinson's bulldozing runs.

The 10-0 Longhorns immediately accepted an invitation to be the host team in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 2 against Georgia of the Southeastern Conference.

The 7-3-1 Bears will play Oklahoma State of the Big Eight Conference in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston on New Year's Eve.

Texas is 7-0 in the SWC and can claim its first outright title since 1977 with a victory next Saturday over Texas A&M. Baylor finished its SWC play with a 4-3-1 ledger.

The Bears refused to die, falling behind 24-7, then rallying for two fourth-quarter touchdowns to put a scare into the unblemished Longhorns. The game wasn't secure for Texas until Mossy Cade intercepted a pass on the Bear 43 with 13 seconds to play.

With the score 24-13, Baylor recovered an onside kick and Alfred Anderson scored on a one-yard run with 2:19 to play, then caught a two-point conversion pass as the Bears fell short.

Houston 43, Texas Tech 41

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Mike Clendenen finally gave Texas Tech the boot in the Astrodome Saturday night, ending a wild, offensive struggle with a school record fifth field goal, a 35-yarder, with 10 seconds to play to lift the Cougars to a thrilling 43-41 Southwest Conference victory.

Clendenen's steady kicking proved to be the most telling individual statistic in a game that also included Tech receiver

Leonard Harris' 12 catches for 248 yards and a six for 171 performance, including two touchdown catches for Houston's Kevin Johnson.

"I just had to keep my concentration and keep my head down," Clendenen said. "I don't know what happened when I kicked (the game winner). It was not a very good hit. I'm lucky it wasn't any farther away."

Tech Coach Jerry Moore said it was no accident the Harris got so much attention.

"We go into each game with the plan to get the ball in Leonard's hands as much as possible," Moore said. "He had a super game today and I really can't say enough about the way he has played this season. I like to watch him play and I know everyone else does."

Clendenen's final kick came after Houston had blown a 40-27 fourth-quarter lead when Tech quarterback Jim Hart threw touchdown passes of 38 yards to Harris and 20 yards to Troy Smith for a 41-40 Red Raider lead with 1:03 left to play.

SMU 17, Arkansas 0

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P) — Tailback Reggie Dupard, the leading rusher in the Southwest Conference, scored two touchdowns to lead sixth-ranked SMU to a 17-0 victory over Arkansas on Saturday. The shutout ended an Arkansas scoring streak of 125 games.

Dupard, who entered the game averaging more than six yards per try, broke for 60 yards over the right side on the first play of the second quarter. He scored again on a one-yard run in the closing seconds of the third quarter. His 57-yard run in the fourth quarter set up Jeff Harrell's 22-yard field goal. Harrell missed three other attempts.

Dupard netted 175 yards on 19 carries to break the conference rushing record for a sophomore. That gives him 1,179 yards, 17 more than the 1976 record by Arkansas' Ben Cowins.

In between, Arkansas could do little against the SMU defense led by Michael Carter, Fred Nichols and Russell Carter. Nichols ended Arkansas' deepest threat when he intercepted a Brad Taylor pass at the SMU 2 late in the first half.

SMU apparently is headed for the Sun Bowl. The Mustangs are 9-1 and 30-2-1 in the past three years. Arkansas fell to 5-5.

A&M 20, TCU 10

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Freshman quarterback Kevin Murray passed for one touchdown and sneaked in for another Saturday as Texas A&M ground out a 20-10 Southwest Conference verdict over Texas Christian's hard-knuckled Horned Frogs.

Murray winged a 9-yard scoring pass to tight end John Kellen in the first quarter and dived a yard for a touchdown in the third period as the Aggies dealt the Frogs the latest in a series of tough losses.

Texas A&M specialist Alan Smith kicked field goals of 43 and 21 yards as the Cadets, 5-4-1 and 4-2-1, ended the rookie year of TCU Coach Jim Wacker on a grim note.

The Frogs, who nearly upset No. 2 Texas and No. 6 SMU this year, shot themselves in the foot all day and thus closed the 1983 campaign with but one triumph against eight losses and two ties.

UCLA downs Trojans, Air Force stuns Irish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Karl Dorrell, Kevin Nelson and Bryan Wiley scored touchdowns in six-minute span of the third quarter Saturday afternoon to propel UCLA to a 27-17 Pacific-10 Conference victory over Southern Cal and put the Bruins into the 1984 Rose Bowl game against fourth-ranked Illinois.

The win over the arch-rival Trojans, coupled with Washington State's 17-4 upset of Washington in Seattle earlier in the day, gave the Bruins the Pac-10 title with a 6-1-1 conference record.

The triumph over Southern Cal gives unranked UCLA a 6-4-1 overall record. The Trojans finished their season 4-6-1, the school's first losing campaign since 1961. Big Ten Conference champion Illinois is 10-1.

The Bruins trailed 10-6 at the intermission, but stormed back to take command after halftime. Quarterback Rick Neuheisel guided them on an 80-yard scoring march with the second-half kickoff, capping the drive with a 7-yard scoring throw to Dorrell.

Tackle Jeff Chaffin recovered a fumble by Southern Cal's Michael Harper at the Trojans' 26 to set up Wiley's 17-yard touchdown burst that staked the Bruins to a 27-10 advantage with 3:51 remaining in the period.

Southern Cal narrowed the margin to 10 points when Todd Spencer scored on a 7-yard run with 10:35 remaining in the contest.

The Bruins broke on top on a first-quarter field goal of 25 yards by John Lee and another of 20 yards by Lee in the second quarter.

Southern Cal rallied to move ahead, however, on a 1-yard scoring run by Spencer and a 30-yard field goal by Frank Jordan in the closing seconds of the first half.

Air Force 23, Notre Dame 22

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Air Force had not blocked a kick all season, but Coach Ken Hatfield warned his team that the conditions were right Saturday to fix that failing.

The Falcons responded with three blocks, including Chris Funk's knockdown of a Notre Dame field goal attempt with just four seconds remaining to preserve a 23-22 nonconference victory over Notre Dame.

Funk also blocked a 37-yard attempt by Irish kicker Mike Johnston in the first quarter. And the Air Force line blunted an Irish extra-point attempt in the third period.

After the loss, Notre Dame, 6-5, asked Liberty Bowl officials to find another team to play Boston College in the Dec. 29 postseason classic. Irish Athletic Director Gene Corrigan said if a replacement could not be quickly found, Notre Dame players would vote Sunday on whether to appear in the bowl.

Air Force, 8-2, will play in the Independence Bowl in Shreveport, La., against Mississippi. But wide receiver Mike Kirby spoke Saturday as if meeting Notre Dame would turn out to be the highlight of the Falcons' 1983 season.

"Seeing that blocked kick at the end was the greatest feeling I've had in athletic competition," said Kirby, a senior. "I'll remember this day meeting Notre Dame at Notre Dame for the rest of my life."

Kirby's teammate Mike Brown ran for 148 yards to set up two touchdowns and Sean Pavlich booted a tie-breaking extra point with 1:35 to play to provide the margin of victory.

California 27, Stanford 18

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Richard Rodgers of California made a midfield interception in the third period, when Stanford committed four turnovers, and the Cal offense drove for the deciding touchdown, winning 27-18 Saturday in the 86th Big Game between the college football rivals.

The Bears held only a 14-9 lead before quarterback Gale Gilbert, capitalizing on Rodgers' interception, threw his second touchdown pass of the game, 10 yards to split end Andy Bark. Early in the third quarter, underdog Stanford drove to the Cal 10-yard line and lost a fumble.

Rodgers' interception, at the Cal 38, came when another defensive back, David Carter, jarred the ball loose from Stanford tight end Jim Clymer. The biggest play on Cal's ensuing TD drive was a 23-yard pass from Gilbert to Rance McDougald.

Carter intercepted a pass late in the third period, and his interception in the final quarter set up a 31-yard field goal by Randy Pratt.

Pratt also kicked a 43-yarder, making the score 27-9. Stanford scored twice in the final minute of play, on a Mark Harmon field goal and a 53-yard TD pass from John Payne to Eric Mullins.

The season-ending victory before 84,804 fans on the rainy day at Stanford Stadium gave Cal a 5-5-1 record. The Bears were 3-4-1 in the Pacific-10.

HPU player dies in B'wood

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) — Loyal Proffitt threw three touchdown passes to lead Abilene Christian to a 35-6 win Saturday over Howard Payne in a tragic Lone Star Conference season finale in which a Howard Payne player died.

Offensive lineman Paul J. Cunningham, 19, a freshman from Dallas, suffered a seizure on the sideline and died a short time later at Brownwood Regional Hospital Saturday.

Hospital spokeswoman Cheryl Wilson said an autopsy has been ordered for Cunningham, who died at 5:05 p.m.

Proffitt, who passed for 186 yards, threw first-half scoring passes of 8 yards to David Russell, and 15 yards and 16 yards to Arthur Culpepper. Rodney Mathias scored two touchdowns in the final quarter on runs of three and two yards.

Quarterback Glen Stirman got Howard Payne's only touchdown on a one-yard run in the fourth quarter.

N.M. State 26, W.T. State 24

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Tailback James Hebert set up one fourth quarter touchdown and ran for another TD with 9:55 to play Saturday as New Mexico State rallied for a 26-24 come-from-behind non-conference college football victory over winless West Texas State.

The Aggies' had scored on the first play of the fourth period with reserve fullback Bill Fanelli's 3-yard run ending a 40-yard scoring march keyed by Hebert's 28-yard burst to the West Texas State 12.

The victory gave New Mexico State a 5-6 record for the season, the most victories by the Aggies since 1978 when they finished 6-5. It also was the 1983 finale for West Texas State, which was 0-10-1.

ETSU 27, Angelo St. 3

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Kyle Mackey passed for two touchdowns and Kevin Graham kicked field goals of 44 and 45 yards to lead East Texas State to a 27-3 victory over Angelo State Saturday in a Lone Star Conference game.

The victory lifted the Lions to an 8-2 record overall and 6-1 in league play, enabling East Texas State to tie Southwest Texas State for the conference title. The Rams fell to 5-6 and 3-4.

BSHS Basketball Steers to flash both speed, and strength this season

Myers, nominated for Texas high school basketball coach of the year, and Jerald Wrightsil, the 4-5A Most Valuable Player, have departed but Randle sees the newly-established winning tradition continuing.

"We'll probably be picked sixth or seventh if not last," Randle said, "but we're going to surprise a lot of people. I consider ourselves the Cinderella team. We'll start out slow but we'll be playing good basketball by the time district starts."

Although he's short and inexperienced with his team, Randle thinks outstanding quickness and physical size will make up for much of the deficiency.

"We're going to play physical ball," Randle promised. "We started from day one. We hacked and hacked and pushed and shoved. Now I'm starting to call that in practice, trying to tone the fouling down. But I still want them to be aggressive and fight around the basket. We have to."

"With four inside people, we hope to wear their inside people down. Sure we'll get into foul trouble but with four guys ready to play, it won't hurt us too much," he said.

Big Spring has gained a reputation of being one of the quicker teams in the district along with the perennial racehorse Abilene High. "We'll be quick, real quick. We'll be fast-breaking a lot. But we'll still be patient. If we don't have the break, we'll automatically set up and work the offense."

With graduation taking a heavy toll on the team — five starters are gone, Randle needed some help. He got it in double fashion. Fred and Billy Cole moved to Big Spring from Houston and the pair, both sporting Fats Domino flat-tops, should bring the Steers added muscle.

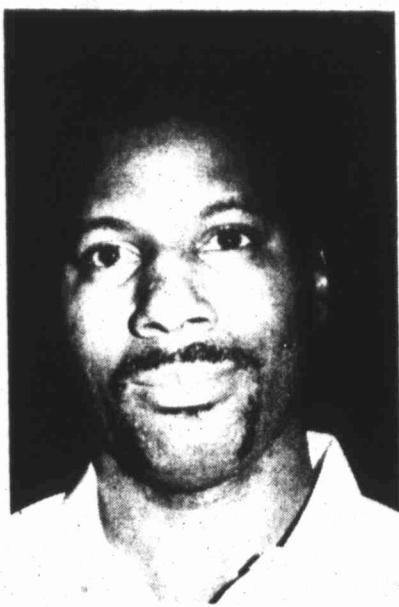

Billy, the sophomore, is 6-2 while Fred, a junior, is 6-0. Height isn't their calling card; it's physical strength. With that pair on his roster it isn't any wonder why Randle sees his players holding their own around the hoop.

"He's strong," Randle said of the elder Cole. "He's a strong rebounding guard on the boards. Billy is our strongest inside player. He is really physical."

Shooting-wise, the Steer coach thinks his squad can hit from 45-55 per cent consistently through the year. "We didn't hit that well in our scrimmage against Brownfield," he admitted, "but we should be okay. We want to fast-break as much as possible and get a lot of layups. But I want us to be strong going up and get the three-point play. I want them to go for the three-points all the time."

When not pushing the ball upcourt, Randle will have his team operate from a 1-2-2 and a triangle (three posts, a wing and point guard) when facing a zone. "We've got to have five people out there scoring," he said. "We don't have the one big scorer like last year. Everyone has to put the ball up."

Defensively, Randle is confident. "We'll be solid. Defense definitely won't be our weakness. I think we're pretty aggressive inside. We'll be running mostly a man and some zone, depending on how big their inside people are."

MIKE RANDLE
...Steers' rookie coach

The District 4-5A schedule is still distant but Randle is already eyeing Odessa and Midland Lee as teams to beat. The Bronchos won the league title last year and return several key players including high-scoring Joe Terry, guard Boyd Cowan and 6-5 Thomas Taylor.

Midland Lee spent most of last season in the league cellar but 11 returning lettermen including speedy guard Tyrone Thurman make the Rebels tough.

Big Spring opens its scheduled Tuesday night in Midland against Midland High.

Here is a player-by-player look at the Steers for the 1983-84 season:

JIMMY BROWN, 6-1 senior guard — "Jimmy is one of my only returning lettermen and was a part-time starter last year. He'll play point guard and also down low, depending on how he sizes up that game. He's real aggressive and a good outside shooter. He's probably my best rebounding guard."

JERRY WRIGHTSIL, 5-11/2 senior guard — A player Randle is hoping keeps the Wrightsil tradition alive. "He's another aggressive guard who I can play at a low post. He's a great defensive player and a good shooter."

GLEN MELLINGER, 5-10 senior guard — "Will play point guard for us. He's a good outside shooter and also an aggressive player on defense. He doesn't mind going for the loose ball."

GEORGE ROMAN, 5-11 senior guard — "One of our best improved players I have. He's a good outside shooter and penetrates well to the basket. One of the top three defensive players I have."

FRED COLE, 6-0 junior forward — "A strong rebounding guard who can get on the boards. His strongest asset is hitting the 8-10 jump shot."

BILLY COLE, 6-2 sophomore post — "Billy is the strongest inside player we have. He really gets physical on the boards. His inside scoring is good and is outside shooting is coming along."

JOHN HOWIE, 6-11/2 senior forward — "He's our best outside shooter as far as shooting form goes. He's smart in running the offense. I'm expecting a lot out of him."

CHRIS ROBERTS, 6-1 senior post — "He's turned around 102 per cent as far as playing on the varsity level. He'll be playing a strong inside position. He's handling the ball real well this year. He'll play both in the guard and post positions."

ERIK SHERMAN, 5-9 senior guard — "He's an aggressive point guard and good outside shooter. He's one of the strongest, no, the strongest guard as far as physical strength is concerned."

TIM HASTINGS, 5-11 junior forward — "He's still coming into his own and should be a lot better ballplayer as the season goes on. His ball-handling has improved tremendously and he's good off the boards."

DALE GREENSHAW, 6-1/2 senior forward — "He'll be one of the top rebounders on the team because he's always around the ball. He's a good inside scorer and plays defense well."

KENNETH BURNS, 6-2 sophomore post — "He's the youngest kid I have on the team. He's strong on the boards... time will tell just how strong he can be. He's one of our best free throw shooters."

MIKE LEUSCHNER, 6-3 junior post — "We're going to have to depend on him a lot inside. He has to come through for us. He's the tallest player I have and he's still growing. Offensively, his play has improved a lot from last year. We're still working on defense."

Lady Steers eye best year

and a stronger bench. The Lady Steers will definitely not be the tallest team in the district with forwards Jana Matthews and Adrienne Allen being the team's "skyscrapers" at 5-8.

With their lack of size Fowler said the team will run a fast tempo 1-3-1 offense and employ various man and zone coverages on defense. "It should be easier for the girls this year because they have had a chance to get used to the system," said Fowler.

Seniors Monette Wise, Paula Spears and Debra Rubio are starters returning for the last year's squad. Other returning lettermen are Matthews, 5-4 guard Tina Smith and 5-6 senior forward-guard Debbie Donelson.

Wise, a 5-7 senior forward is entering her fourth year of varsity play. She was an all-district selection last season in which she averaged 10 points and six rebounds per contest.

"Monette is an excellent outside shooter, a good defensive player, a good passer and a all around asset to the team," said Fowler.

Standing 5-7, Spears does not look like a dominating center, but the senior player possesses enough jumping ability to get up with the best of them.

Spears was a spot-starter who averaged six rebounds per game as a junior. She had a season high of 18 points versus Lubbock Estacado last season. "Last season Paula was inconsistent," said Fowler. "This year I think she has improved enough to be consistent."

Rubio is considered the "zone-breaker" because of her soft outside shot. The 5-6 senior is deadly from the baseline from 15-feet out, Fowler said.

First-year varsity player Tris "Trell" Clemmons will give the Lady Steers added help under the boards. The 5-7 junior is an excellent rebounder and is considered the best jumper on the squad, according to Fowler. Clemmons also has a good jump shot from the 10-foot range.

Also seeing her first varsity competition is point guard Alice Lopez. The 5-5 junior is considered one of the quickest players on the squad along with Rubio and Wise. Her main asset is her passing ability, her coach said.

ANNETTE FOWLER
...expects banner year

Rounding out the rest of the squad are Borden Co. transfer Tanya Hollis, a 5-7 junior forward, and 5-5 senior forward Kathy Porras.

The Lady Steers had their first scrimmage last Thursday against a tough Greenwood squad. Big Spring started slowly and lost the first two quarters of the workout, but rallied in the final three quarters to outplay their opponents.

Spears led the Lady Steer charge with 11 points and seven rebounds. Clemmons and Wise grabbed eight and seven rebounds respectively.

As far as the 4-5A race goes, Fowler tabs San Angelo as the pre-season favorite. "I think that San Angelo will be the team to beat because they have quite a few people coming back," said Fowler. "Last season was the first winning season in six years of basketball here. Until that time the kids didn't know how it felt to win in basketball. Now that they have had a taste of it, they want more."

That's bad news for the rest of District 4-5A.

'Spud' selected MVP, NC State rips Houston

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — North Carolina State's Lorenzo Charles, a hero of last season's NCAA basketball final, scored 23 points and pulled down 13 rebounds as the Wolfpack once again stunned Houston 76-64 Saturday in the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic.

While N.C. State needed Charles' last-second shot to beat Houston 54-52 to take the NCAA title last year, the Wolfpack took charge early in the second half this time. They coasted to victory, their 11th in a row, dating back to last season.

Houston was ranked No.3 in the preseason rankings, while N.C. State is unranked and the Cougars were a 10-point favorite. But the Wolfpack double and triple-teamed Akeem Olajuwon, the Houston's 7-foot center, who was held to 16 points and 12 rebounds and held their own on the boards.

Anthony "Spud" Webb, who spent the last two years at Midland (Tex.) Junior College, and Terry Gannon, a junior guard, played key roles in the Wolfpack's upset.

The 5-foot-7 Webb scored 18 points before fouling out with a little over five minutes left and was voted the game's most valuable player. Gannon had 15 points, most from the outside.

N.C. State broke away from a 33-33 halftime tie as Charles and Webb scored two baskets at the start of the second half. Webb also contributed two steals as the Wolfpack raced away to a 41-35 edge.

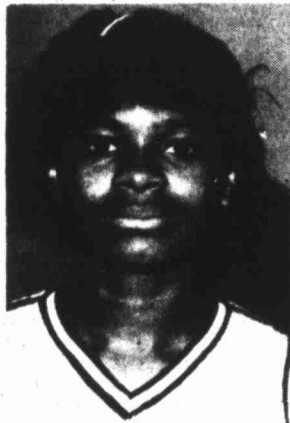

But the Cougars bounced back as Michael Young, who led Houston with 20 points, scored three baskets. Akeem Olajuwon's layup put Houston on top 46-45 with under 13 minutes left.

Then Charles and Gannon led 11-point spurt, hitting on long jumpers and with less than six minutes left, the Wolfpack had surged to a 65-52 lead. That was the biggest lead and the Wolfpack were in no trouble the rest of the way.

Big Spring's Spears named all-district volleyball player

Bordofske paces Big Spring swimmers in San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — Terry Bordofske finished fourth in the 100 backstroke to pace Big Spring High swim efforts at the San Angelo Invitational held here Saturday.

Bordofske clocked a 1:05.66 in the event to record the highest finish by a Steer swimmer in the finals. Big Spring scored 52 points to finish seventh among 11 teams.

ODESSA — The Permian Panthers kept up their winning ways in post-season play as they demolished El Paso Eastwood 48-0 in a Class 5-A bi-district game here Saturday afternoon.

The Panthers overpowered their opponents from El Paso as they racked up 404 yards total offense while limiting Eastwood to a mere 138 yards.

Permain took a 14-0 halftime lead on runs of 25 and seven by Britt Hagar and Rex Lamberti. In the third period the dam busted on Eastwood as the Panthers scored four touchdowns.

Marcus Hudgins scored on runs of 10 and 38 and Kirk Strahan caught a 15-yard pass from Lamberti.

Hagar scored his second TD of the contest when he picked off a pass and rambled 38 yards.

The win ups Permain's record to 11-1 for the year as they travel to play Wichita Falls next Friday in Wichita Falls at 8 p.m.

Rams' Dickerson faces NFL's top rush defense

By The Associated Press
Eric Dickerson, who has torn apart almost every defense he's met this season, gets to test the best when his Los Angeles Rams face the Washington Redskins.

The rookie running back from Southern Methodist is the league's leading rusher with 1,369 yards. Sunday, he will go against the league's best rushing defense in the defending National Football League champion Redskins, who have held the opposition to an average of 81 yards a game so far.

"They're the class of the NFL right now," said Los Angeles Coach John Robinson of the 9-2 Redskins. "They're champions playing like champions."

"I've just seen them on TV and films, and when I have, they're always beating the heck out of whoever they're playing. They reached their peak (at the end of last season) and just kept going this year."

Dickerson already is the Rams' top single-season rusher ever. He also leads the NFL in scoring with 114 points and touchdowns with 19.

"They have a tough running game," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "It remains to be seen if we can stop them."

The Redskins, of course, have a potent ground attack of their own, with a pounding, punishing runner in John Riggins, and an elusive runner-receiver in Joe Washington.

The Redskins also have the quarterback that Robinson tabs the best in the league, Joe Theismann.

"Theismann is such a good athlete," said the Rams' coach. "He has that talent to scramble and still look down the field for receivers."

The 7-4 Rams, who have turned things around from last year's 2-7 mark, also have a talented passer in quarterback

Vince Ferragamo. However, Ferragamo might be hampered by an injury to his passing hand suffered against Atlanta last Monday night. He required four stitches to repair a tear between the ring finger and little finger and, although he was throwing in practice this week, the hand was bruised and swollen.

In other games Sunday, Kansas City is at Dallas, Seattle is at Denver, Detroit plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, the New York Giants at Philadelphia, San Diego at St. Louis, the Los Angeles Raiders at Buffalo, Chicago at Tampa Bay, Houston at Cincinnati, Baltimore at Miami, Cleveland at New England and Minnesota at Pittsburgh.

In the Monday night game, the New York Jets play at New Orleans.

The Cowboys expect to see a lot of passing by Kansas City. The Chiefs are averaging more than 38 passes per game, tops in the NFL. They also are last in rushing.

The Cowboys are tied with Washington for the lead in the NFC East. Their only two losses have been to American Conference West teams, San Diego and the Los Angeles Raiders.

The meeting between Dallas and Kansas City revives memories of the war between the old American Football League and the NFL. Lamar Hunt started a franchise, the Dallas Texans, in 1960, the same year the Cowboys were born. In 1963, Hunt moved the Texans to Kansas City, where they became the Chiefs.

The 49ers lead the series with the Falcons 17-16, including a 24-20 victory in San Francisco earlier this season, but have not won in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium since a 10-3 victory in 1977.

"They have made us feel helpless there often," said veteran offensive guard Randy Cross. "All we have to do to remember how good they are is to look at films of them whenever we go there."

Despite a 4-7 record, the Falcons have been in every game until the closing minutes, except for last two losses against New Orleans, 27-10, and the Rams.

Pupil challenges teacher when Cowboys host Chiefs

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The mentor, Tom Landry, trades chess moves with a former pupil, John Mackovic, Sunday in a rare National Football League game between Dallas and Kansas City, meeting for the first time since 1975.

Landry's Cowboys, 9-2, were nine-point favorites over rookie Mackovic's Chiefs, 5-6, in the 3 p.m. sold-out joust at Texas Stadium.

The teams have met just twice before with Dallas winning 27-16 at Kansas City in 1970 and the Chiefs scoring a 34-31 victory in 1975 at Texas Stadium.

Mackovic, who built a successful program at Wake Forest before joining the Cowboys, worked two years under Landry as a quarterback coach.

Mackovic even brainstormed with Landry on the play-calling. During the preseason two years ago, Mackovic called plays along the sidelines while Landry watched.

Landry said Mackovic's knowledge of the Cowboy offense will help the Chiefs.

"John certainly has an excellent knowledge of certain routines we have," Landry said. "He does have to be careful because we will change some things."

"I suspect John will have something up his sleeve. If he doesn't know us after two years here he didn't learn anything."

The Cowboys will get to see a lot of passes. The Chiefs are averaging over 38 passes per game, high in the NFL. They are also dead last in rushing.

Mackovic said he has a lot of appreciation for what he learned under Landry.

"I feel the two years as an assistant with the Cowboys were necessary for me," Mackovic said. "I don't say they are necessary for everybody but, for me, I would not have felt the least bit comfortable about being a head coach at 39 years old in the NFL had I had no prior professional football experiences."

"If I stayed at Wake Forest five years and the Chiefs called and said we would like for you to be the coach, I certainly couldn't have entered the whole thing nearly as well prepared or comfortable as I would have under these circumstances."

He continued, "I have a lot of special friends at Dallas and sooner or later I knew we would have to challenge each other. There is an excitement to it for me."

The Cowboys are tied with Washington for the lead in the National Conference Eastern Division. Their only two losses have been to American Conference Western Division teams, San Diego and the Los Angeles Raiders.

A meeting between Dallas and Kansas City always revives memories of the old war between the American Football League and the NFL.

Lamar Hunt started a franchise, the Dallas Texans, in 1960, the same year the Cowboys were born.

Hunt finally moved the Texans to Kansas City in 1963 where they became the Chiefs.

Kansas City is coming off a 20-15 victory over Cincinnati but finds its playoff chances remote.

Cowboys sign Miller for punting chores

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys announced Friday that punter Jim Miller has signed with the National Football League team.

Miller was released by San Francisco over the summer after punting for the 49ers for three years. Miller, San Francisco's third-round draft choice in 1980, was replaced by Tom Orszoc, who was released by Miami.

He averaged 40.6 yards per punt for the 49ers during his three seasons there, including their Super Bowl championship year of 1981.

Miller, a barefoot punter who was an All-America punter at the University of Mississippi, replaces John Warren on the Cowboys' roster. Warren, a rookie punter who is out for the season, injured his knee Oct. 23 against the Los Angeles Raiders and underwent surgery Wednesday for a partially torn ligament.

Meanwhile, Danny White is expected to punt Sunday against the Kansas City Chiefs.

Oilers meet Bengals again

CINCINNATI (AP) — Houston Oilers interim head coach Chuck Studley thinks the Cincinnati Bengals had mercy on his team in their last meeting.

Studley would like to be the one deciding when to ease up Sunday, when the Oilers visit Riverfront Stadium for their rematch with the AFC Central Division rival Bengals.

The Bengals blasted the Oilers 55-14 just two weeks ago in the Astrodome, capitalizing on seven Houston turnovers. Studley said the score could have been even worse if Cincinnati head coach Forrest Gregg hadn't decided to run the ball more and play a basic defense once Cincinnati was in command.

"Forrest Gregg and the Bengals were very benevolent," Studley said. "They had sympathy for us. They could have thrown the ball more, blitzed more and stunted more."

That game two weeks ago marked important points in the season for both clubs.

For the Bengals, it was their third straight impressive victory at the time after a 1-6 start and revived playoff hopes.

However, those hopes all but died last Sunday when the Kansas City Chiefs held on for a 20-15 victory that dropped the Bengals to 4-7. Gregg told his players this week that he doesn't want a letdown in the last five games.

"We've got five games left to play," Gregg said. "I don't want to finish this season 4-12, and I don't think they (the players) do."

Pep-band to be assembled

Basketball season has again arrived, and this year a new band will be assembled to root our basketball teams on at all home games. All band members who want to be in the pep-band are to meet during the regular band period on Tuesday, Nov. 22. Also, all band members who wish to participate in the Jazz Band need to meet at the band hall on Sunday, Nov. 20 at 2:30 p.m.

In April, 1984, twelve Coahoma High School students, juniors and seniors, girls and boys, will be selected to be in the Who's Who of Coahoma High School. The twelve students selected will have to have a grade average of at least an 85, based on the fall semester and the spring semester up until selections are made.

Who's Who students must also qualify in at least one of two categories. One qualification is that the students must participate in at least three extra curricular activities such as annual, journalism, band, school clubs, athletics, spirit organizations, student council, National Honor Society, VICA, VOCT, or UIL events. Another qualification that can make students eligible is that the students participate at the state level of any facet of UIL school activities while representing Coahoma.

A principal appointed committee of three faculty members will receive Who's Who nominations from the high school faculty members. Nominees who qualify will then be screened by the faculty on citizenship requirements, including loyalty to the school, a cooperative attitude, honesty, regular attendance, and overall good self-conduct.

"Turkey feathers" for your favorite teacher may be purchased on Monday and Tuesday from the FHA members for ten cents. The winner of the contest, the teacher who has the most feathers, will be crowned the "Turkey of the Day" on Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Tuesday, Nov. 22, the junior varsity and the varsity girls and boys basketball teams will travel to Merkel to begin non-district play at 4:00 p.m.

Students will be let out of school at 2:30 on Wednesday, Nov. 23, in order to celebrate Thanksgiving over a four-day weekend.

Juarez educators protest pay rates

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — More than 400 teachers and parents, angry over the firing of 28 educators, took to the city's streets and blocked traffic in a peaceful demonstration police called a "pain."

The group crowded this city's main thoroughfare, Avenida 16 de Septiembre, and Avenida Juarez, a street leading to El Paso, Texas, for several hours on Friday.

They were protesting the recent firings of 28 educators, including several principals, and low teacher salaries.

Juarez schoolteacher Efrain Gutierrez Roa said the demonstration was intended to show federal officials that "we object to their policies."

He said the teachers and principals were fired "for no good reason. They (federal authorities) just wanted to bring in their own people."

The costs of food products in Juarez has risen by about 170 percent in the past 20 months, while teacher salaries have increased by about 16 percent, Gutierrez said.
