County's jobless rate declines

Unemployment history

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

The October unemployment rate plummeted during October, both in Howard County and statewide, according to figures released by the Texas Employment Commission.

Locally, the unemployment rate dropped from 8.6 percent for September to 6.6 percent for October. The October 1983 figure closely compares to October of 1982, when unemployment was logged at 6.5 percent.

In Howard County, the civilian labor force totaled 17,869 in October. There were 16,694 people employed and 1,175 unemployed.

This compares to a September workforce of 18,218, figures show. Employed during September were 16,652 people, with 1,566 unemployed.

In October of 1982, the civilian labor force numbered 17,393, with 16,255 employed and 1,138 unemployed.

Figures for the city of Big Spring during October show that the unemployment rate is now 7.6 percent, with 12,464 persons employed and 1,028 unemployed out of a total labor force of 13,492.

Local TEC office manager Joe Wallis has several reasons for the dramatic drop in unemployment. He said one reason for the decrease was that students were returning to school and leaving the labor force.

Wallis also said that the number of employed was up, and the number in the total labor force had dropped by 400 from September to October.

Wallis said that the economy generally was showing signs of improvement outside the areas of the oil industry and agriculture, but he added, "harvesting should be more than anticipated."

Howard County's unemployment rate had fallen in July and August prior to the September increase.

Skate Palace opens doors as dance hall

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

A former operator of Cactus Jack's Dance Hall and Saloon has completed $30,000 in remodeling at the Skate Palace on Interstate 20 and re-opened the former skating rink as a country-western dance hall.

E.L. Terry, owner of the Skate Palace building at 3202 Interstate 20 East along with Danny Fryar and Herb Sorely of Stanton, has installed new carpeting, lighting and concession areas in the building in preparation for its conversion to a private club to be known as "Players," Terry said Tuesday.

The establishment will operate under the "Skate Palace" name until a liquor license can be obtained, at which time the name will be changed to "Players," Terry said.

Mary Dupres and David Hildebrand of 805 W. 17th are operators of the Players organization and have applied to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission (TABC) for a liquor license for the establishment, Terry said.

Terry is an officer of Bogart's Speakeasy Inc., former operator of Cactus Jack's. The TABC requested that Cactus Jack's liquor license be revoked early this month for violations in the monthly reports the establishment sent to the state as required by law.

Previously, the officers of Bogart's Speakeasy Inc. had applied to the TABC for a transfer of its license from Cactus Jack's to the Skate Palace location. Several residents of the College Park area have protested to the City Council that a tavern-dance hall would harm their neighborhood.

Local TABC agent Sam Smelser said that the transfer application would be invalid if the license were revoked.

The Skate Palace was granted a public dance hall permit Sept. 15, City Manager Don Davis said Tuesday.

City officials believed then that the Skate Palace would hold Friday night dances for area youth after football games, Davis said.

The permit carried no stipulations that the establishment be used for solely that purpose, Davis said.

The permit, issued in the name of the Skate Palace, will be revoked if the name of the establishment is changed, Davis said.

Coronado residents protest apartments

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Coronado Hills residents went before the City Council once again Tuesday night to "wave a red flag" over an apartment development that will soon dominate the landscape of the mostly white, upper-middle class neighborhood on Big Spring's fashionable south side.

About 15 residents attended the council meeting, saying they wanted to call attention to traffic and water problems that may result from the construction of the Bent Tree Apartment complex planned for an area bounded by Avondale, Coronado and Wason streets.

Residents have in recent weeks become increasingly vocal in protesting the complex which now has reached almost the construction phase.

Brinkcraft Development Co. of Lubbock received from City Hall Nov. 7 a $4.4 million building permit authorizing the company to begin construction on the project.

Brinkcraft this week broke ground and began clearing land for the project, a company spokesman said Wednesday.

Brinkcraft expects to pour concrete for the project's foundation in early January and complete the apartment complex May 15, the spokesman said.

Speaking for the residents Tuesday night was Bob Abbott of 2701 Coronado who said he is concerned about an increase in traffic on Coronado and Crestline streets as a result of the new complex. Residents wanted "to wave a red flag in front of the city fathers that there is a problem," Abbott said.

Myra Robinson of 2619 Crestline said she is concerned about the complex's drain on water pressure. As the pressure is now, "if I run a hose

Cold front whips into Big Spring

Staff and wire reports

Big Spring recorded a low of 34 degrees last night as a cold front whipped through Texas. Rainfall of .35 was also recorded at the Big Spring Field Experiment Station north of town.

Vehicles on Interstate 20 west of Big Spring fought high winds and driving rain as the cold front blanketed the state.

The Rocky Mountain norther which blew through the state spawned a tornado in Ellis County that seriously injured at least five people and damaged homes, uprooted trees and toppled telephone poles, authorities said.

In Dallas, 15 miles to the north, downtown light poles swayed from high winds.

An Ellis County sheriff's dispatcher said winds of up to 80 mph were reported near the rural communities of Italy, Ennis and Bardwell. Every available unit had been dispatched to help residents cope with the damage from a tornado that touched down, she said.

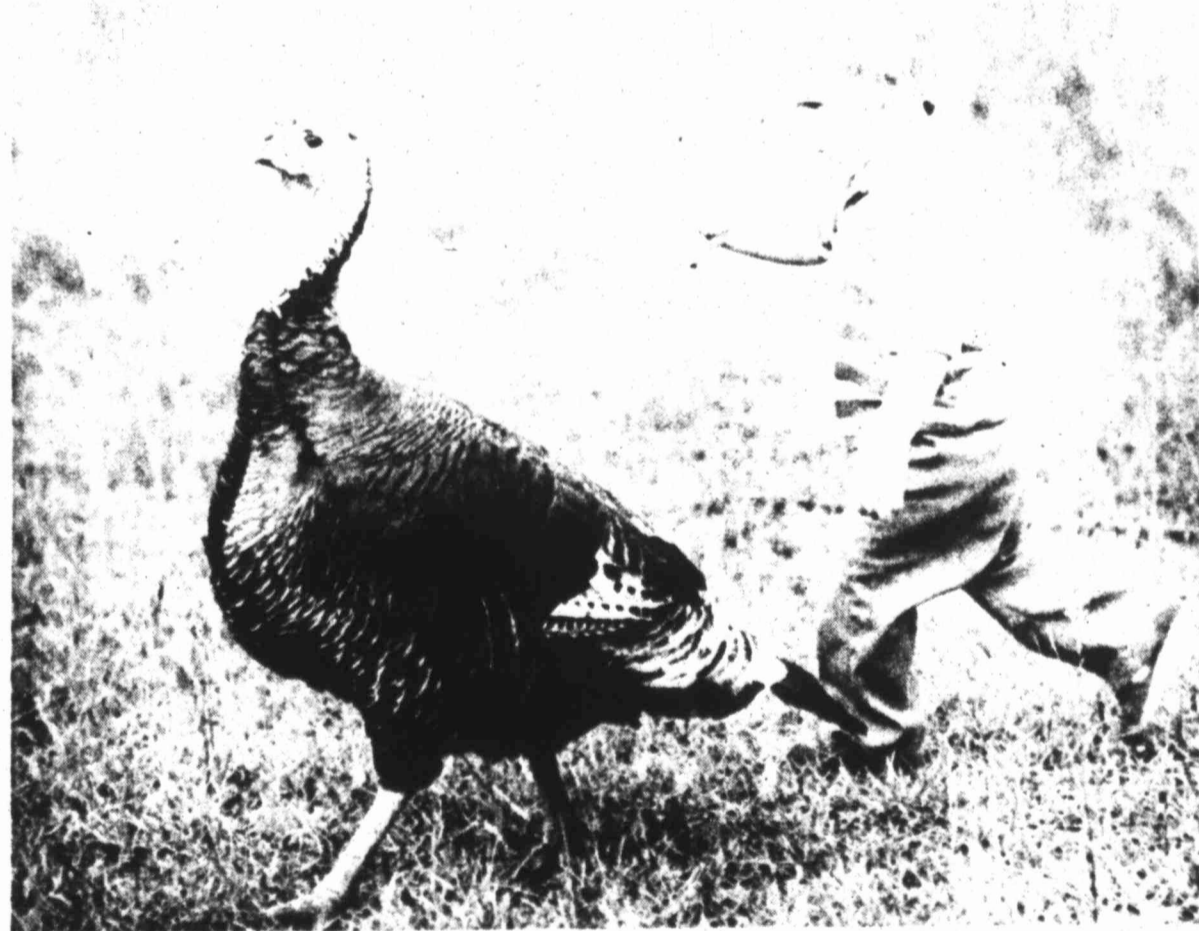

Ennis Community Hospital administrator Ronald Hudspeth said shortly after midnight CST that five people were transported from Bardwell. He said they all had serious injuries, like broken bones, but were not considered critical.

Two ambulances had been sent back to Bardwell although it was not clear whether they would be needed, he said.

Patrolmen reported trees and telephone poles had been blown onto roads. The Department of Public Safety said off-duty highway patrolmen were being called in to work "piles and piles" of traffic accidents caused by severe weather in Ellis County.

The winter storm moved into Texas late Tuesday, putting much of the state on alert for severe

South Texas vetos dump site

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — "Keep out" was the message South Texas residents gave Tuesday to officials eyeing their area, along with some West and North Texas counties, for a low-level nuclear waste dump.

"Your agency and your board is not welcome in Dimmit County. I'm looking at you as an enemy," Dimmit County Commissioner Joaquin Salgado told the board of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority.

Several South Texans said a nuclear dump in their already economically troubled region would scare away industry, poison the water, ruin property values and leave a "stigma" of being "the home of the radioactive dump."

While testing is underway on a University of Texas-owned tract in Hudspeth County and privately held land in Dimmit County, the agency also is looking for available land in Knox, Baylor, Haskell, Throckmorton, Scurry, Garza, Borden, Howard, Mitchell, Maverick, Zavala, Frio, La Salle and Webb counties.

The agency has been negotiating with a Baylor County landowner but officials assume he is no longer interested in making a deal since he hasn't contacted them in three weeks. But the agency's general counsel, Lee Mathews, said Baylor County land remains under consideration.

Mathews said he plans to contact realtors in Mit-

Soviets suspend arms talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today he was disappointed but not surprised by the Soviet walkout from the Geneva arms talks and pledged to "do everything we can to bring them back."

"We're not going to sit here with false pride," the president said as he left the White House to spend the Thanksgiving holiday at his ranch in California.

"I think they'll come back because I think they must be aware as much as we are that there cannot and must not be a nuclear confrontation in the world by the only two nations that truly have a great destructive nuclear capability."

"I don't think that I'm surprised by what they did this morning, but I am disappointed," Reagan said. "I can't believe that it is going to be permanent. We'll be ready to continue negotiations at any time that they want to come back."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, flying with the president to California, told reporters the United States hoped the arms talks could resume "as soon as possible, certainly by the first of the year."

Speakes said the Soviets had not officially notified the U.S. delegation of their decision to leave the talks.

Also on Air Force One, presidential counselor Edwin Meese told reporters, "Whether there will continue to be negotiations, or when they will resume, is strictly up to the Soviets."

He stressed the administration's "determination to continue, to be willing and ready to encourage negotiations."

Before leaving Washington, Reagan defended the U.S. position in the impasse and said:

"We were the ones who initiated these discussions about eliminating, if possible, the in-

City approves pollution plan, new hotel tax

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council Tuesday night passed the first reading of an ordinance implementing a new water pollution control program for the city.

The new program will bring the city into accordance with state law and is designed to identify and control large pollution discharges into open city waterways like Beall's Creek and Comanche Trail Lake. Public Works Manager Tom Decell said Tuesday.

The program requires no additional personnel because it will operate in conjunction with other pollution control procedures now in place, Decell said.

Under the new program, organizations that use large amounts of water — like Malone-Hogan Hospital and the City of Big Spring itself — will be monitored for the pollution levels of the water they discharge into city waterways, Decell said.

The ordinance calls for fines of up to $1,000 a day for organizations that continue to pollute after their actions have been identified.

In other business, the council approved a request made by Paul Shaffer of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce for a 3 percent increase in the city's motel bed tax, raising the tax to 7 percent.

The increase is made with the stipulation that 3 1/2 percent of the new bed tax be used to fund an expanded Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The council's action Tuesday night merely approved the Chamber's request. To put the tax increase into effect, the council will have to pass an ordinance at a later date.

Speaking against the tax increase was Joe Speckels, manager of the Homestead Inn on West Interstate 20. Speckels said he is against the tax increase because it would not benefit those who are taxed, namely motel customers.

Speckels was the only city motel manager who voted against the tax increase in a petition of 16 motel managers given to the city council Thursday.

In other business, the council approved the plans and specifications to seal cracks in the airport runway at Big Spring Air Park. The project was budgeted at $110,000 and is estimated to cost the city $104,000. Only the middle 100 feet of the 150 runway will be repaired.

The council also approved specifications and granted the city permission to advertise for bids for radios, sirens, restraint barriers and other equipment for 10 new police cars to be added to city's fleet. The total cost of the new equipment is estimated to be $21,500.

In other business, the council passed a resolution authorizing Mayor Clyde Angel to execute a lease with the Satellite Antenna Manufacturing Co. on Building No. 1102 at the Big Spring Air Park. Rent on the building will be $610 a month.

In final action, the council moved up from alternate status to full member status Tom Vernon, manager of Rockwell Brothers Lumber Co., on the city Zoning Board of Adjustments. The action was brought on by the resignation of Daryl Hohertz from the board.

Cotton picking is lost art

EL PORVENIR, Mexico (AP) — The sun has just risen over the Juarez Valley and Lidia Banuelos Rosales, 74, is preparing coffee for her husband. Mrs. Rosales supports herself first on the kitchen table and then on the stove to reach the corner and dip water from a large tin cistern. She moves with difficulty after breaking a leg a few years back.

Her husband, Aniseto Rosales Villa, also 74, ambles into the kitchen, shaking off the cold. Rosales, known in these parts as Don Cheto, is a short but craggy man given to spicy language and knee slapping.

Soon some 25 sandal-clad picadores — a word for cotton pickers that literally means "pinchers" — gather outside their three-room adobe house, which wears a worn coat of blue-green paint.

A full day of harvesting cotton has begun at the Rosales' farm, some 50 miles east of Juarez on Mexican Highway 2 and across the Rio Grande from Fort Hancock.

Below the purple San Ignacio Mountains, elongated shadows of picadores spread across the white-dotted, green-brown field of drying cotton plants.

Pickers range from gray-haired grandfathers to 10-year-old Elias Gonzalez. Many come from Torreon, 500 miles south of Juarez.

On other farms, women and even younger children bend over the knee-high cotton.

A good worker can pick 400 pounds of cotton a day, earning three times the Juarez minimum wage of about $3.50 a day.

The pickers straddle long, yellow canvas sacks called costales. They pull the bags' openings up to thigh level and tie the strings attached around their waist.

A crunching sound fills the air as they pinch locks of fluffy white cotton from dried burs.

"Don't bother to clean (the cotton)," instructs Alberto Rosales, Don Cheto's 44-year-old nephew. "They'll do that at the gin."

He shows his two-fisted picking technique, snatching handfuls of fiber along with the dried leaves clinging to it.

The valley's cotton is some of the best in Mexico, but rains this year have knocked some of the bolls into the mud and stained much of the rest. The country's economic slump also has cut demand, said Cirilo Rodriguez Silveira, a buyer for the Algodonera Comercial Mexicana cotton company.

The one-two punch of rains and sluggish demand hurts all, including wealthier farmers who can afford the green John Deere harvesters that move across the land like giant locusts.

Back on Rosales' farm, more picadores arrive. Alberto Rosales wipes the sweat from his neck and tells about the time he worked as a "mojado," an illegal alien, on a Chidress farm about five years ago. He earned $70 a week driving a tractor.

Most of the picadores have tales to tell about life as a mojado. They keep worn pay receipts from farms and businesses all over the United States in their wallets.

Rosales said he plans to stay in Mexico unless things get worse. He stands up to stretch aching muscles and takes a cigarette from his pack of Fiestas.

"Who is causing (the crisis)? The United States?" he asks, with a puzzled look on his face. "Who benefits from it? The rich?"

Rosales adjusts his sweat-stained straw hat and surveys the toiling bodies filling the field. "Do you think Mexico is going to recover this time?"

weather. Portions of north central, northeast and southeast Texas were under a tornado watch, while central and southeast Texas and the coast were drenched by heavy thundershowers.

Ahead of the cold front, temperatures warmed into the 80s to lower 90s in the Rio Grande Valley. Austin and San Antonio Winds ranged from 10 to 25 m.p.h. reported record high temperatures of 86 degrees while Del Rio also broke a previous record with an 87 degree reading.

Behind the front, the weather was quite a bit different. Temperatures in the Panhandle dropped into the 30s with light rain and drizzle. Similar precipitation and temperatures extended south into the Trans Pecos region.

intermediate range missiles in Europe at a time when NATO had none. And during these two years or so of negotiations and talks, they have continued to add 100 of their triple-warhead SS-20 missiles to the stock they already had.

"At the same time, they are proclaiming that we are the aggressors in wanting to accede to NATO's demand and put any missiles at all in Europe, where there are none."

Reagan said the United States would continue to withdraw tactical nuclear weapons — "1,400 more than we've already withdrawn. So I think the evidence is very plain as to which country of the two is sincerely and honestly working toward a reduction of armaments."

Asked when the Soviets might return to the bargaining table, Reagan said, "I don't know how soon. I can't put a time on it. I think they'll come back because they must be aware as much as we are that there cannot and must not be a nuclear confrontation in the world by the only two nations that truly have the great destructive nuclear chell, Borden and Garza counties next week to see if land is available there — a desirable area with clay deposits to help prevent seepage. Land was not available when the agency checked in September. The agency cannot condemn property so it must negotiate with landowners.

The board is expected to select a site by late spring. A formal licensing process would then begin. Radiation-contaminated clothing and tools will be disposed of at the dump, as well as a small amount of high radiation waste from nuclear plants. Spent reactor fuel would not be dumped there.

In keeping with a request from state Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, the authority's directors decided to move back the date for selection of "candidate sites" or finalists from December to February. Chairman William Fisher said the board did so to make sure the agency does a thorough job of selecting a safe, secure site. "That is a fundamental conviction of this board."

Finding land is difficult because ownership is often divided among several people.

But Shaw, with the far West Texas county of Hudspeth in his district, urged the board "to find some more sites" closer to waste producers. Nuclear power plants are under construction near the Texas Coast and Fort Worth.

A Hudspeth County resident asked the board not to pick the county based on a "reverse popularity contest," referring to the county's small population.

Another reason for the delay in naming finalists is that the University of Texas wants to perform in-depth studies on the Hudspeth site, pushing back university action until February, said agency spokesman Bob Avant.

Avant said the dump would not jeopardize groundwater because of engineering controls planned for the site, such as clay liners.

"I don't care if it is as safe as Fort Knox. The stigma is still there," said Dimmit County Chamber of Commerce manager A.J. Armstrong. He threatened legal action if his county is chosen.

Agency officials studied land across the state before narrowing the choices to 16 counties.

A 1980 federal law requires that by 1986 each state handle its own waste or enter into an agreement with nearby states to take care of the material. The state agency was created to find a site for Texas.

Kettle drive to begin

The Salvation Army will kick off its annual Christmas Kettle Drive at noon Friday at the Big Spring Mall.

On hand will be Mayor Clyde Angel, members of the Ambassadors, the Blue Blazers and Miss Merry Christmas. A doll tree featuring dolls dressed by local residents will be displayed.

The Salvation Army has set a goal of $30,000 in order to assist needy families at Christmas.

Applications for Christmas assistance will be taken Nov. 28 through Dec. 2 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the old State National Bank at Second and Main. Proof of family aged 16 and under as well as proof of income and residence will be required.

Kettles will be manned by members of local civic organizations.

THE CHEMICAL PEOPLE

Questions & Answers

Rock 'n' roll effects

The Chemical People town meetings sparked many questions from participants. Answers to those questions — provided by seven panelists — appear below. Chemical People Q & A continues tomorrow in the Herald.

Today's answers are by Police Chief Tick Turner.

Q. Is it true about rock 'n' roll having any effects on people about taking drugs? Why don't police do something about the people smoking pot in front of their eyes at concerts?

A. There are several views on the effects of rock 'n' roll on the drug problem. Some see it as encouraging the people to use drugs based on the lyrics of the song and the personal habits of the entertainers in their approval of drugs and some feel that it has no effect on the usage of drugs.

One of the main problems faced by an officer working a concert is the availability of manpower to facilitate an arrest which, depending on the audience, could result in a large scale disturbance where innocent members of the audience could be injured.

Q. What about the problem of cocaine with the rich people?

A. The cocaine problem among the rich is more prevailing because of the high cost to obtain the drug through illegal channels, and also due to the apparent approval of cocaine use among certain groups of the more prominent people.

Actor Michael Conrad dead

LOS ANGELES — Michael Conrad, 58, who won two Emmys for his portrayal of the fatherly and eloquent desk sergeant on television's acclaimed "Hill Street Blues," has died after a two-year struggle against cancer, an NBC-TV spokesman said Tuesday.

MICHAEL CONRAD

The tall, balding actor played Sgt. Phillip Freemason Esterhaus, who began each show with a checklist of orders for his patrol officers that ended with the admonition: "Hey! Let's be careful out there!" "He was a very strong man, always positive and marvelous," said Rene Enriquez, who plays Lt. Ray Calletano on the award-winning series. Enriquez said Conrad knew he was suffering from cancer, but "he came to work up to the last minute. He thought he was going to conquer it."

"He'd work one day of each week for his scene," said Larry Blaustein, spokesman for the show's producers, MTM Enterprises. Although the "Hill Street" cast continued working Tuesday, they planned to take an extended Thanksgiving weekend break, Robinette said. "Michael Conrad died in the saddle," said Charles Haid, who plays Officer Andy Renko on the show. "He worked up until the end. He was with us until the last possible minute and for that we have great respect and admiration for him."

"He was not well, yet he carried on. We're his family and we're going to miss him," Haid said. "We're going to go on making 'Hill Street' ... but we're going to miss what he brought to it. It's sort of like losing your old man."

Enriquez said private funeral services were planned for Wednesday.

Robinette said he did not know how Conrad's death would affect the show, which was halfway through shooting its fourth season. Twenty-two episodes were planned.

A native of New York City, Conrad, the eldest son of a career Army man, served in the artillery during World War II before attending New York City College. He studied drama, found roles in summer stock and joined the national tours of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Mr. Roberts."

Conrad, who stood 6-foot-4, was known early in his career for "physical" and bad guy roles. But he found his greatest success on "Hill Street Blues," where his soft-spoken and elegant expressions made him an island of serenity amidst the chaos of the big-city police station.

"I couldn't make a living as an actor until I was 33," Conrad said in a 1982 interview with The Associated Press. "But I knew that if I stuck with it, some day I would make it. I loved the work so much. And I didn't have a lot of middle-class values to support, so I could skimp by."

He found sustenance on such New York shows as "Naked City" and "The Defenders." He went to Louisiana for a guest shot on one of the first "Route 66" episodes.

"I played a roustabout on an offshore oil rig," he recalled, saying the cast and crew ate in New Orleans restaurants following filming each day.

"I had just finished working on a soap opera, 'Edge of Night,' and all the waiters knew me because they worked nights and watched television during the day. That was my first taste of being recognized, and I'm an actor who hates to be recognized."

He moved to Los Angeles in 1963 after becoming disenchanted with the theater. He appeared on "Wagon Train" and played heavies on "Gunsmoke," "Laredo" and "Rawhide."

In the following coach in "The Longest Yard," a locomotive engineer in "Cattle Annie and Little Britches," and also appeared in the movies "Castle Keep" and "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

Jordan strike plan scrapped

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration's secret plan for a joint U.S.-Jordanian strike force to respond to Middle East emergencies has been sidetracked, if not killed, because it was unable to survive public scrutiny, U.S. officials say.

The plan, which was quietly developed over several years, would have required an initial appropriation of $220 million. A key feature was the use of U.S. pilots and aircraft to transport up to two Jordanian brigades — 8,300 troops — to trouble spots.

The underlying purpose of the joint force was to ensure continued Western access to the vital oil resources of the Persian Gulf.

The force would augment or even replace the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force for the Middle East. Jordanians, regarded as more acceptable to Arab sensibilities than American troops, would do any fighting that was required, while the Americans would get them to their destination.

Both the Jordanians and Americans would have to approve before the force could go into action.

According to available evidence, the plan was widely — but quietly — supported by the governments of moderate oil-producing nations, including Saudi Arabia, which the force was designed to protect.

The plan was pushed to near completion by the Reagan administration, only to be thwarted at the last minute when opponents made it public through leaks to reporters. One U.S. official said the opposition came from Israel and from Israeli supporters in Congress.

The Senate sealed the doom for the proposal when it voted earlier this month to prohibit the creation of such a strike force unless the money is specifically authorized and financed by Congress.

W. Germany to get missiles

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration intends to move quickly to deploy new Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany now that the parliament in Bonn has given its approval.

"There is no political reason to wait any longer," an official said Tuesday after the 286-226 vote in the Bundestag at the end of a two-day debate.

In Geneva, Switzerland, meanwhile, the Soviet delegation walked out of U.S.-Soviet talks on reducing medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe. The Soviets earlier had threatened to end the talks because of the deployment of the new U.S. missiles.

Nine Pershing 2 rockets are to be installed in West Germany and made operational by Dec. 15. They are the forerunners of 108 of the intercontinental ballistic rockets to be installed through 1988 unless an agreement is reached with the Soviets.

Another U.S. official, who also spoke only on condition he not be identified, said it would be a "scramble" to meet the target date. But he said he was confident the missiles could be delivered and installed by Dec.

Grenada troops going home

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is completing its final plans for getting American forces out of Grenada before Christmas, U.S. officials say.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, did not give the precise date for withdrawal, but details of the timing were being worked out Tuesday night and were expected to be revealed as early as today.

One informant said he understood the withdrawal would involve all 3,100 Americans still on the island but added he personally would not be surprised if a token force of instructors and other non-combat personnel remained behind for the time being.

The timing of the announcement suggested the administration was eager to commit itself before the Thanksgiving holidays to a fixed withdrawal date. The American forces, accompanied by some 300 troops from friendly Caribbean countries, landed on Grenada 29 days ago. Eighteen Americans are reported to have died in the conflict or during the Oct. 25 landing.

Kennedy memorial ceremony

draws 1,500 persons in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Like the fateful day in 1963, showers cleared from the sky shortly before noon and political leaders spoke of dreams.

The world again watched Dallas as 1,500 people gathered Tuesday to remember President John F. Kennedy — a block from the site where he was gunned down 20 years earlier.

A lamppost near the spot where Kennedy was assassinated became a repository for flowers placed by those who still mourn the popular president's death.

A verse accompanied a handful of flowers taped to the post:

"Here once passed a man
"With hope we chose to follow.
"One brief shining moment."

Dozens of people milled around the assassination site before and after the memorial ceremony, taking photographs and remembering.

"I thought that on this day, this would be the place to be," said Ken Karnes, a 32-year-old security investigator from Dallas, as he sat on a grassy slope across from the Texas School Book Depository. "A lot of hopes died here on this street." But politicians spoke Tuesday of the future, urging Americans to rekindle Kennedy's dreams.

U.S. Rep. John Bryant of Dallas read a letter from U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy expressing regret he could not be at the service.

Kennedy, who attended a ceremony in Washington with his family and President Reagan, asked Americans "to rededicate ourselves to the ideals" his brother expressed.

Massachusetts House Speaker Thomas McGee told the crowd Kennedy's legacy "will endure and furthermore will grow stronger through the years."

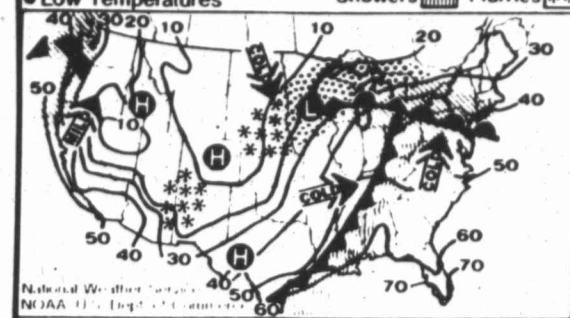

"What he promised was real and was possible," said Bryant. "John F. Kennedy did not solve the problems of war and peace but he created the conviction that they could be solved."

During the hour-long ceremony, Edward E. Coker of the Dallas Opera sang "Ave Maria," which was performed at Kennedy's wedding and funeral, and "Shannon's Lullaby," which was a campaign theme at Kennedy's political rallies.

Shortly after 12:30 p.m. — the time Kennedy was assassinated 200 yards away — a Navy bugler played "Taps."

Storms buffet U.S.

The Plains states from the Dakotas to Nebraska and Kansas were buffeted by frigid snowstorms churning out of the Rockies today.

The weather system turned to rainshowers over the Great Lakes, Ohio valley and central Mississippi valley and generated thunderstorms from eastern Texas across the lower Mississippi in the South and the Tennessee valleys.

Rain also was expected from central California to Washington state and from Idaho across Utah through Nevada.

Authorities said at least 19 travelers died as a result of weather related accidents in the Rockies and Plains states and as many as 24 people were injured by tornadoes touching down in Oklahoma, Mississippi and Texas late Tuesday and early today. High winds and large hail were also reported.

Nine people were killed in traffic accidents and 10 in small plane crashes.

The snowpack in South Dakota reached 7 inches Tuesday; Nebraska had 16 inches in the Panhandle.

2 families clash over suicide suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A teen-age student who "died for love" when he shot himself last year has left behind puzzled friends, a grieving mother and — after a lengthy investigation — a girlfriend facing the unusual charge of aiding a suicide.

Kent Kretsinger, a long-distance runner and saxophone player, and Jean LeeAnn Miller were a couple — an unlikely couple, classmates say — for only six weeks. On Aug. 27, 1982, Kretsinger shot himself after Miss Miller drove him to his family's home, authorities say.

"I thought she had a power over him, but it was the power of love," said the youth's mother, Ann Kretsinger. "Kent died for love. He loved her like you love a person for six weeks."

His girlfriend, who allegedly addressed envelopes for his farewell notes and got his car as a final gift, is charged with aiding his suicide. But her family protests that she was "a victim ... not the cause."

The charge against 18-year-old Miss Miller, the first of its kind ever filed in Texas, carries a possible 10-year prison sentence and a $5,000 fine.

Her family insisted she was only obeying her friend's last wishes. "He used her without regard to the consequences to her. Still, she attempted to protect him," the family said in a statement released to the Houston Chronicle and published Monday.

"Jean was his first girlfriend. He thought she was real interesting," said a friend, Barry Bramlett.

Miss Miller, who stood out among students at Klein High School, was a punk-rock music fan who once went to school with her hair dyed purple. She wrote poetry about anger, death and suicide, acquaintances said. She met Kretsinger in summer school in 1982.

Charges against Miss Miller for allegedly aiding in the death were initially dismissed in May when a judge found them unproven.

However, she was re-indicted earlier this month on charges she helped Kretsinger commit suicide by driving him to his house, providing envelopes and stuffing the suicide notes inside.

Elderly battle fear of transit systems

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Fear, filth and rude bus drivers are among the reasons why senior citizens don't use big-city transit systems as often as they might, according to a new study.

"Elderly people don't use public transportation in the numbers we would expect them to," said Arthur Patterson, associate professor of administration of justice at Penn State University.

"We wanted to identify the barriers, whether physical or psychological, to the use of public transit by older people," he said.

Researchers from Penn State asked 400 residents of senior citizen centers around Philadelphia their feelings about public transportation, Patterson said Monday.

Philadelphia was picked, among other reasons, because it is "fairly representative" of urban transportation systems, Patterson said.

More than half of the survey respondents said they were afraid of crime while walking to or from the bus stop, waiting for the bus or riding.

Almost two-thirds wanted more police on the buses, and nearly 73 percent wanted more police protection at bus stops.

Sixty-eight percent of the respondents complained that bus windows were so dirty they couldn't see out of them. They said that was significant because it meant they could miss their stop, or not know whether it was safe to exit or board the bus.

Almost half the respondents said the drivers are not patient enough when elderly people are boarding.

"We know that transportation is very important to the elderly to get services," Patterson said. "When they have bad transportation, it affects their quality of life."

The two-year study by Penn State's College of Human Development was funded in part by the American Association of Retired Persons and the U.S. Transportation Department.

Beachhouse owners sue Mattox

GALVESTON (AP) — Eighty-two beachhouse owners have filed a lawsuit against Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, claiming the state has no right to take their hurricane-damaged property with compensation.

The owners, who live in the Sea Isle, Bermuda and Jamaica subdivisions, claimed in the suit filed last week that Mattox' interpretation of the Open Beach Act is unconstitutional.

AMA official says insanity defense should be nixed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The insanity defense in criminal cases should be abolished to provide "better protection for both the accused individual and society," says the president-elect of the American Medical Association.

An AMA committee recommendation that federal and state governments abolish the insanity plea has already been approved by AMA trustees. It will be "one of the larger issues" facing the group's House of Delegates next month, president-elect Dr. Joseph F. Boyle said Monday.

"The rights of defendants who have serious mental defects will indeed be protected — probably better protected than under existing law — and at the same time, the rights and interests of society will be far better served," said Boyle, a 59-year-old Los Angeles internist.

The key part of the 37-page recommendation calls for eliminating the insanity plea as a special defense in criminal trials but retaining it as a consideration in sentencing. During trial, evidence of mental illness would be reason for acquittal only to the extent a defendant was shown to be incapable of criminal intent.

"It seems to us not logical ... to hide behind the question of whether or not somebody is mentally ill in determining whether or not they were guilty," Boyle said, noting that in many states people acquitted by reason of insanity often spend more time in institutions than people convicted and sentenced to definite prison terms.

Acquitted mentally ill people also are often kept in institutions "whether they have recovered or not," Boyle said.

If laws were changed to conform with the AMA proposal, mentally ill convicts still considered too dangerous to release at the end of their sentence "could still be subject to civil commitment," he said. Boyle added that such people "would have access to all of the procedures of due process that are available to any citizen rather than simply being released or just being indiscriminately retained in incarceration."

He added, "The principal benefit that would accrue from this (recommendation) would be ... better protection for both the accused individual and society."

Boyle said the AMA proposal — which is similar to one made by the Reagan administration last year — would shorten the length of trials because insanity arguments would be mostly limited to the sentencing phase, where they would be considered by the judge alone.

"Attorneys will be less likely to put on some kind of a stage show to impress a judge, where they might with a jury," said Boyle.

He said that under the AMA proposal, mentally ill convicts would be more likely to get "appropriate treatment in an appropriate institution and — upon being found to be relieved of mental illness — would ... then be able to appeal for release."

The AMA House of Delegates will consider the recommendation at its Los Angeles meeting Dec. 5-7. Boyle called the insanity defense "an issue of major importance to the American people," but said the AMA's decision to tackle the issue didn't stem only from the case of John Hinckley Jr., who was acquitted on grounds of insanity in the 1981 assassination attempt against President Reagan.

"Mr. Hinckley's acquittal may have had some part in bringing this issue to the surface right now," said Boyle. "But over the past several years there has been a gradually emerging general citizen unrest with the whole question of the special defense of insanity."

Statute of limitations expires in Kerr attack

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The deadline apparently has passed for charges to be filed in the 1978 attempted assassination of a federal prosecutor, but authorities remained close-mouthed about what would happen to the case.

The statute of limitations was to expire Monday on the Nov. 21, 1978, attack on Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr, who since has resigned.

U.S. Attorney Edward Prado refused to comment on the status of the case.

"Our official position is that we have no comment at this time," Prado said Monday. "No one in my department will issue any statements — official or otherwise — about the case."

Kerr narrowly escaped death by ducking under the dashboard as almost 20 bullets slammed into the luxury sedan he was driving to the federal courthouse.

Six months later — and only six blocks away — U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. was assassinated by a single shot from a sniper's rifle.

U.S. missiles signal end of intimidation

American cruise missiles recently began arriving in England to a predictable reception of heavily publicized protests wrongly blaming the United States and President Reagan for an escalation of the arms race.

While there can't be too many people on either side of the Iron Curtain happy about the missile shipments, it would be instructive for opponents to review the history of this controversy. If more did, Soviet embassies rather than the NATO air bases, would be the proper target of protest.

A total of 572 cruise and Pershing-2 missiles are being sent to Europe in the coming months — primarily at U.S. taxpayers' expense — because our NATO allies requested them in 1979. This was in response to the Soviet Union's replacement of its old SS-4 and SS-5 missiles in 1977 with mobile, accurate and multi-headed SS-20 missiles capable of destroying every city in Western Europe.

Our NATO allies, with the past three U.S. presidential administrations concurring, correctly saw the Soviet missile monopoly as a way to intimidate and split the alliance. But at least the West's response has been to back up deployment with legitimate and repeated offers of disarmament.

Since taking office, President Reagan has made a half-dozen proposals not to deploy the missiles if the Soviets dismantle theirs aimed at European targets.

Moscow's response has been anything but disarming. It has tripled the number of SS-20s aimed at Europe since arms reduction talks began in Geneva four years ago while mounting propaganda barrages extolling the virtues of a freeze of its missile superiority. It has manipulated the nuclear peace movement with apparent success although its blatant support of freeze candidates in Western Europe flopped with voters.

The Soviets even have threatened to field new missiles with their (reportedly unwilling) puppet Warsaw Pact allies in Eastern Europe. Their latest stunt has been to walk out of the most recent session of negotiations at Geneva.

President Reagan is hardly at fault for the inevitable rise in tensions that have accompanied the arrival of the cruise missiles. His best hope for progress at disarmament talks, and our best hope, is that the Soviets will see the wisdom of good faith bargaining more seriously now that their campaign of intimidation has failed.

Let's send Briscoe home to Moscow

To the editor:
So your infamous Mr. Briscoe has finally come out of the closet and declared openly (for those who did not already know) that he is a Communist. The ideological arguments he has made up to this point are not worth serious refutation by any realistic or logical standards. My question, and indictment, is why the Herald continues to carry this abomination of intellect on your staff?

As an admitted conservative, I would more than welcome arguments that presented the salient points of the liberal cause in this country. (As irksome as it is, I realize that an open forum is inherent to Americanism.) But an obnoxious, unattuned Communist? Do you really feel that presents any objective views of political, social, or economic value in this country. I think not.

May I propose a fund to buy Mr. Briscoe a one-way fare to Moscow; and may I also suggest that the Herald use more discretion in the future.

IHM school gives thanks to helpers

To the Editor:
I believe Thanksgiving is a proper time to extend my most sincere gratitude to the City of Big Spring and its surrounding communities for their outstanding support and generous contributions received by the Immaculate Heart of Mary School.

For the past year, I have served on the School Board and its Fund Raising Committee. I would like to thank those who have supported me and the projects that made 1983 most successful.

Our school festivals, and King and Queen Contest were coordinated and supervised by Frances Flores and her supporting husband Paul for the past two years, and the tremendous effort put out by Margie Rodriguez who did an outstanding job as Bingo Chairman for the year.

I would also like to thank the Chicano Golf Association and its president Manuel Ramirez for making our First Annual Golf Tournament such a success. Our County Commissioner Louis Brown and good friend Charlie Gonzales helped with the registrations, and the delicious Bar B.Q. was prepared by John Rodriguez.

The school also sponsored dances which were tremendously supported by the Hispanic community.

Let's not forget the Annual II Mile Walk-A-Thon which not only involved our Kindergartners but also our old folks. An experience which was not easy to forget.

I am proud to be a part of a caring community that supports the efforts of our school. Through your generous efforts, I.H.M. will continue to grow and serve the needs of the citizens of Big Spring and surrounding communities.

May the Lord richly bless you for your loving generosity towards us.

Smoking story loses its fire

To the Editor:
People can live up to a good resolution when given encouragement. Surely there was an individual somewhere in our area who had the guts to succeed on the Day of the Great American Smoke-Out. Publicity should have been reserved for success; let the failures become an unnoticed person. Usually failures are not accorded front page plus more space, unless they "rob-the-bank". All this ego-building, t.l.c. to a failure for failing is not helpful.

Smoking is selfish disregard for the comfort and health of associates who must breathe the second-hand smoke. Children who breathe smoke filled air in their homes are more frequently ill with respiratory infections than are children where parents do not smoke.

Three out of four people do not smoke. Encourage the failing one-fourth to stop the drug-addiction that is Tobacco.

DeLorean lured to cocaine deal

WASHINGTON — Automaker John Z. DeLorean was caught by the FBI's candid cameras up to his elbows in a cocaine conspiracy. The incriminating videotapes were shown on coast-to-coast television.

I have now had access to audio tapes, which support his version of the incident. He was lured into the cocaine deal, he says, to save his foundering company. When he tried to back out, the FBI's undercover informant threatened to bash in his daughter's head, DeLorean swears. The automaker's recorded behavior was less than heroic. But if he was coerced into committing a crime, then the government's conduct was far worse. It is important, therefore, to pursue the available evidence.

DeLorean told my associates Tony Capaccio and Indy Badhwar he was threatened by the FBI's sting man on Sept. 15, 1982. Earlier that same day, the government taped a conversation between the automaker and an FBI undercover agent posing as a banker. The agent used the name James Benedict.

DeLorean started by saying, "We have a problem, and I think it's serious." He then explained that the $2 million he was supposedly going to invest in cocaine was actually in the bank account of the British receivership that was trying to rescue his bankrupt, Belfast-based auto works. DeLorean pleaded that he couldn't touch the money.

"Well, you really put me in a bad spot," said Benedict.

DeLorean: "Yeah, I think we're in. I just don't see any way out of it."

Benedict: "You just screwed up a hell of a deal."

DeLorean: "I know. But it isn't a matter of choice. It was the only alternative. I don't see any other way, because that's where it is, and unless you've got some other ideas, there just isn't any other way. Now we're fighting like hell to get financing another place."

Billy Graham

Will faith help solve our problems?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a lot of problems I would like to see solved. Is it really true that if you have enough faith then all your prayers will be answered? How can I get that kind of faith? — G.P.M.

DEAR G.P.M.: The Bible does not promise that all our problems will automatically vanish if we have faith, although there are certainly many times when God acts in ways that we could never expect and deals with our problems. But being a Christian does not guarantee that we will live a trouble-free life. Jesus "was despised and rejected by men, a man of sorrows, and familiar with suffering" (Isaiah 53:3). The apostle Paul frequently encountered troubles and difficulties as he worked for Christ.

But God does promise several important things. First, he promises that in the midst of troubles he will be with us to help us and strengthen us. He may give us a special measure of spiritual courage and strength. "Fear not, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by name; you are mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and when you pass through the rivers, they will not sweep over you ... Do not be afraid, for I am with

Benedict: "So what you are telling me is I went to all this trouble for nothing?"

DeLorean: "I'm telling you that the two million is in the receiver's bank account ... and unless we can come up with the money somewhere else, there isn't any way to get it back."

Benedict: "Now you really put me in a bad spot. I got this man (drug trafficker William Morgan Hetrick) committed to make his phone calls. He wanted to do it for us, his end of it. This is going to make us look extremely, extremely bad..."

DeLorean: "Well, I'm being very candid with you, because I thought we were set..."

Benedict: "So what do you want me to do? You want me to kill this deal?"

DeLorean: "I don't see any alternative right now. Unless you got some other idea..."

Toward the end of the conversation, DeLorean said, "Right now, as I said, it's not optimistic... I feel as bad about it as you do, I'll tell you."

It was later that night, DeLorean says, that he got the threatening call from the man who turned out to be a government sting man. I also have what some audio experts believe to be a tape of the threatening conversation.

PEN VS. SWORD: Those who complain about the "power of the press" might like to ponder the situation of Jose and Helen Vasquez of Pennsylvania. Vasquez wrote to me asking for help in the vicious murder of his mother and sister in Mexico. With the apparent complicity of local police, the suspected murderers had escaped. Though the victims were U.S. citizens, our embassy in Mexico City had done little to pressure Mexican officials to bring the killers to justice.

My staff began making inquiries, and now the Vasquezes have written to me:

"We are aware that it was the inquiry made by your office last May to the U.S. consulate which enabled us to secure the high level of cooperation we subsequently received from U.S. government officials in Mexico."

The suspected murderers have now been arrested "after much prodding and pressure applied by Mexican government officials and the U.S. Embassy."

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: My recent report that Cuban dictator Fidel Castro had ordered his far-flung minions to "kill Americans" in retaliation for the invasion of Grenada was essentially confirmed by the State Department, which warned its Latin American posts to take note of the threat. But dismayed Foggy Bottom officials had to spend days trying to reassure nervous American businessmen who were on their way South of the Border. They hadn't heard of the State Department's warning — but they had read mine.

A standard worry of State Department brass is that Foreign Service employees will become overly sympathetic to the countries they deal with, no matter how bad the governments may be. I'm told there's one place where this danger is no problem: the Iran desk. The memory of the Tehran hostage situation is still strong. As a result, every misdeed of Ayatollah Khomeini's regime is carefully recorded and analyzed in minute detail at the State Department.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens has a new nickname among his subordinates: "Minister of the Lavi." It's no compliment. The Lavi is a fighter plane that Arens is determined to produce jointly with the United States. Arens was regarded as a brilliant diplomat when he served as Israeli ambassador in Washington. But now he is being derided as an "engineer" whose obsession with the Lavi leaves no room for strategic issues or other concerns that his critics feel a defense minister should be handling.

Third, God gives us hope for the future. Even when our lives seem to be engulfed with troubles, we know there is a bright future ahead in Heaven for all those who know Christ. Then there will be no more pain or troubles, and we will be with Christ forever.

You need Christ. You need his forgiveness, and you need his wisdom and guidance, no matter what troubles you may be facing. Ask him to come into your heart right now, and let him be Lord of your life as you walk with him every day.

Second, he promises to give us peace in the midst of life's storms. When we learn to trust the future to his hands, then we know that we do not need to be anxious and worried about the outcome. "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:6-7). God hears our prayers, and we can have confidence that he will answer in-

Missing Mike

He was a tall, balding man; not very prepossessing at first sight. He was soft-spoken, kind and gentle; the kind of man that is too often ignored in a crowd.

And, yet, he stood out, even in an ensemble of very talented actors. No mean feat, considering that the series he appeared in is one of the most critically acclaimed and popular shows to go on the air in the last few years.

As Sgt. Phillip Freemason Esterhaus, he became a weekly institution in millions of households every Thursday night.

Most episodes of Hill Street Blues opened with Esterhaus in front of the station blackboard, checking off the day's assignments and memos for the Hill Street precinct. No morning briefing ever seemed complete without his voice calling, "Hey! Let's be careful out there!"

The morning briefings won't be ending that way very much longer. Michael Conrad, who received two Emmys for his portrayal of Esterhaus in the series, died Tuesday.

Conrad died of cancer after a two-year battle. According to his fellow actors, he always thought he was going to win. He retained his optimism in even the darkest moments.

And so he reported to work each week, making even the dreary daily routine of finding out assignments, suffering through lectures on regulations, and giving donations to the latest collections a little bit brighter. Some actors might not consider Conrad's role that choice, but it set the tone for the whole show.

I don't know Conrad, the actor. I don't think I'd even remembered him from his roles in westerns such as Gunsmoke and parts he played in movies such as They Shoot Horses, Don't They?

But if it is true that an actor must bring part of himself to any role, especially one he plays well, then I knew Conrad the man through his role as Esterhaus.

Sgt. Esterhaus was kindly, but stern; the kind of man who was everyone's confidante and friend, loyal to his superiors and diplomatically honest. In a show in which few continuing characters — except former crooked Detective Benedetto and Police Chief Daniels — are portrayed unsympathetically, Esterhaus was blessed with an abundance of warmth, wisdom and humor.

He lent quiet strength to an ensemble whose character descriptions could all include the phrase, "strong but sensitive."

In real life, Conrad displayed a quiet sense of bravado that made him admired by many, but probably imitated by few. He went to work each week without complaint until the end of his life, according to fellow actors, although he had known he had cancer for more than two years.

Hollywood rumor columns used to be filled with reports that Hill Street actors fought over the number — necessarily limited in any ensemble show — of lines each got. I never could see Conrad engaged in that war.

Thursday night's show will feel odd, seeing Conrad in action again. I'm not sure how the writers will handle the situation; I'm not sure I care.

I do know I'll miss Esterhaus and the friendly twinkle in his eye, even when he greeted Faye, everyone's caricature of a walking disaster and a clinging wife. I'll miss seeing him handle all the disparate characters thrown together in one motley crew under the same set — and handle them well.

Conrad — through himself and through his character, Esterhaus — left behind an example of how Everyman can live an ordinary life well, adding grace and warmth and humor to every soul he touched.

How do you say goodbye to people like that? Maybe you don't. Hey, everyone, be careful out there. It's snowing.

Ducks lay eggs only in the morning.

Woman can't find lover's 'off' button

DEAR ABBY: The man I'm dating exclusively is about to wear me out wanting sex so often. He's 42 and I'm 35. He wants sex twice a day, but he'll settle for once. I don't want sex even once a day; three or four times a week is plenty for me. I dread the weekends. All our friends knew him when he was married to his first wife. They said he was after her all the time, and after 10 years she was so exhausted she divorced him. I can relate to that. If I don't give in to him, he pouts, nags and acts deprived until I do. I hate having to go through the motions just to satisfy him. I think sex should be a mutual pleasure. We've been dating for two years and we really care about each other, but I refuse to marry him until this problem is worked out. I think there's something wrong with him. I've never heard of a man wanting sex so often.

DEAR NOT: Apparently there is a wide disparity in your sexual appetites.

No woman should feel compelled to "go through the motions" to satisfy a man, or "give in" to stop his nagging.

If he really cares for you, he will go for counseling. If he refuses to go say goodbye and wish him luck in finding a more sexually compatible partner.

Dr. Donohue

Don't dismiss back pain

Dear Dr. Donohue: My problem is a sore back. I am 53, have six children—the youngest 19. My husband and I are now alone, in our mid-life crisis. We are doing better. There have been lots of stresses and we are dealing with things better now. My back seems very tense, like rubber bands. My husband got interested in horses recently, so I've been trying to ride them. The jarring has not been too good for my spine. The main question is, is my back pain and discomfort psychosomatic or could some damage have been done from riding? — S.S.

I want, first of all, to discourage the notion that because back pain is one of man's most common medical complaints that it is always an insignificant one to be dismissed out of hand. Back pain is so common because the back itself is such a complex anatomical area. And it's not easily analyzed without seeing the person face-to-face, if I may use that term. Muscles, ligaments, bones and nerves all can be sources of low back pain, and treatment for each cause is different. Muscles can tighten in response to irritation, for example, or from trauma, as from the jolting in horseback riding.

So I don't care to believe your pain is psychosomatic — all in mind, as the expression goes. And I want you to stop horseback riding. It's not a good activity for you while you have the pain.

You have to find the cause of your pain. If it turns out to be simple muscle spasm, then you can use heat and simple analgesics to relieve the pain. And there are specific exercises that can help relieve the general problem. If you have a disc disturbance, then you certainly have to put the back at rest. And did you know that some cancers can be spread to the back from places like the lungs, breasts, thyroid gland, rectum and, in men, from the prostate gland?

I don't want to scare you, and I don't mean that your letter gives me any reason to suspect that kind of thing. I say it only to reinforce the idea that back pain can arise from a wide variety of sources, and that muscle spasm may be a secondary effect of such things. It cannot be dismissed.

Thanksgiving...

A day set aside to give thanks to God for his constant watchfulness over us, his presence with us, his gifts to us. We join together with family and friends to eat a meal and pray a special prayer of thanks.

Often we also express our thanks with actions that speak louder than words by giving of ourselves and sharing God's gifts with others. Christ taught us to help one another and that "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me — Matt. 25:40."

Throughout our nation's history, we have been blessed with religious, charitable, medical, scientific and educational organizations interested not in profits, but in improving life for all of us by helping those who need it most.

And it is a well-known yet little understood fact that our nation supports those legitimate organizations through laws which reduce taxes on each dollar contributed to non-profit groups. This money is used to meet specific needs, usually much more efficiently than is possible within our bureaucratic government. Because of these laws which encourage private philanthropy, we can exercise more control over money which would otherwise go to government coffers; it is possible, through planned giving, to support charities in which we believe while taking advantage of tax benefits which can reduce the cost of the gift by fifty percent or more.

Of course, the reasons for charitable gifts are to advance the work of the charity, not to save taxes. However, once a decision has been made to donate a gift, it is possible to greatly increase the benefit to the organization while decreasing the donor's cost.

One of the often-used representations of our Thanksgiving celebration is the Horn of Plenty. Plenty for our needs, plenty to share with the help of our nation's tax structure.

If you are interested in sharing your blessings this year, here are some common planned giving techniques of which you should be aware.

CASH GIFTS COST LESS THAN IT SEEMS

Cash is still the most common type of charitable donation. Few people realize, however, that a gift of cash benefits the charity more than it costs the donor in actual dollar value. For example:

A gift of:	from a donor in this tax bracket:	Costs only:
1,000.00	30%	700.00
2,000.00	40%	1,200.00
3,000.00	50%	1,500.00

CHARITABLE TRUSTS CAN PROVIDE CONTINUING INCOME OR TRANSFER ASSETS WITH REDUCED TAX BURDENS

Unitrusts and Annuity trusts provide annual income to the donor and/or a designated beneficiary on a percentage or fixed amount basis. The value of the trust is deductible in the year it is given, up to 50% of the adjusted gross income of the donor. Any amount above this is deductible over a five year period, up to 50% of the donor's adjusted gross income in each of the five years. Only the donor's annual income from the trust is taxed and upon the death of the donor and/or beneficiary, the trust passes, intact and free of estate taxes and probate costs, to the charity.

CHARITABLE LEAD TRUSTS ALLOW MAJOR ASSETS TO PASS TO HEIRS WITH SUBSTANTIALLY REDUCED GIFT/ESTATE TAXES

In a charitable lead trust, estate and gift taxes can be reduced and possibly even eliminated. If you have assets from which you do not currently need the income, they can be placed in trust for a specific length of time with a set percentage of the returns going directly to a charitable institution. At the end of the time period, the assets and any amount they may have earned in excess of your prescribed percentage will pass your heirs or selected beneficiaries; it is possible, depending on the length of time and the amount paid to the charity, to eliminate gift or estate taxes on the assets.

CAPITAL GAINS TAXES CAN BE REDUCED OR ELIMINATED BY DONATING APPRECIATED ASSETS TO CHARITY

When an individual sells assets, the profits or gains realized by the sale are taxed. By donating those assets to a legitimate non-profit organization, the donor reaps a triple benefit. The satisfaction of giving is supplemented by two factors: the donor can take a tax deduction for the current fair market value of the asset (subject to a maximum percentage of adjusted gross income each year over a period of 3-5 years) and avoid capital gains taxes on the appreciated value of the asset.

SAVE TAXES NOW AND REDUCE ESTATE TAXES BY DONATING REAL ESTATE TO CHARITY AND RETAINING LIFETIME ESTATE

If you plan to give your home or real property to a non-profit organization by will, you can realize substantial tax savings by doing so now. By retaining lifetime estate for yourself and a survivor/spouse you both may continue to live in the home or enjoy the profits and proceeds from the real property as long as either of you are alive. This current gift of un-mortgaged real property with retained life enjoyment gives your estate the same generous tax benefits as a gift by will, plus current tax savings potentially amounting to more than one-fourth the value of the property.

Why choose Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center for your gift?

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation is a local, non-profit organization dedicated to helping the handicapped overcome obstacles and lead better lives. Through donations, we are able to treat all who come to us. Few individuals could afford the kind of rehabilitative treatment they desperately need to defeat physical, learning and speech handicaps. We invite you to visit us and see for yourselves the courage and tenacity of these people... people you can help by your donation.

Any gift you may wish to give must first come from a desire to give and a belief in our purpose and accomplishments — past, present and future. Should you decide to give thanks by sharing your blessings with us, we want you to get the greatest possible benefit from your gift.

Western Container tour

The Industrial Committee will lead a tour of Western Container Manufacturing Plant on Dec. 2. This is an impressive facility that one must see to fully appreciate. If you would like to join the tour, call the Chamber office, 263-7641, for reservations and details.

Conferences will be held in 20 cities over the United States next year to help women business owners. These SBA sponsored conferences will deal with financing, management, and accounting primarily. Details can be obtained from Women's Business Ownership Office, SBA, Room 414, 1441 L Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20416.

You can put your ideas into action through a Small Business Council set up to help small business people by the Democratic National Committee. Ideas and recommendations that come into it from the public will be recommended to the 1984 Democratic platform and will help legislators' and Democratic officials' views about small business concerns. Write Bob Bender, Democratic Small Business Council, 1625 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036.

A new government loan plan for business will go nationwide in 1984. SBA will let selected banks make "preferred lenders" loans at a little over the prime interest rate and with a minimum of paperwork. Most will go to established companies for expansion. Look into this financing potential if you will be enlarging your company.

The Symphony Guild will present a Parade of Homes featuring some of Big Spring's most beautiful homes. This tour on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4, will include the homes of the Paul Shaffers, David Ricketts, Eddie Coles and Travis Floyds. The tour will be capped by a champagne reception at and tour of the historically preserved Potton House. Tickets are available at the Accent Shoppe, Dunlaps, and The Kopper Telle.

The First National Bank will sponsor our next community luncheon on Dec. 1. Reservations need to be made at the Chamber office by Nov. 28.

Miss Merry Christmas, Catherine Jones, will be at the Big Spring Mall Friday to officially open the Salvation Army Christmas Kettles and present the prize-winning dolls dressed by volunteers for the Salvation Army gift program. Catherine will be accompanied by her court made up of Tracey Thompson, Dana Cannon, Lisa Maynard, Kim Beckham, and Eva Baucum.

You can't beat a deal like this! Guy Speck, operator of the Ritz Theater, is giving a gift of appreciation to all mothers. Thanksgiving morning, while the mothers are busy cooking the turkey, Guy will provide a free movie for children from 9:30 to 11:30. Doors open for this special free show at 9:30, and the feature starts at 10.

Charles Stenholm, Congressman for our 17th District, was in town Saturday. He met with his Educators Advisory Committee, toured the Federal Prison Camp, met with senior citizens, and attended the Boy Scout reception and banquet where he was the keynote speaker.

Some interest has been shown concerning the energy audits provided by the utility companies. The Residential Conservation Service Program was mandated by the National Energy Conservation Policy Act of 1978. The objective was to reduce home energy consumption, with specific emphasis on savings to low-income households.

Stenholm approves of the laudable goal but is not pleased with the actual outcome of the law. He said that the Department of Energy had estimated a national response rate of 7 percent, the actual response has been far below that. Some electric utilities say they had a response rate of less than 1 percent. While the cost of the program is high (estimated to be $7.1 billion), the amount of savings is small and difficulty to justify. The idea of the program was worthy; however, the public doesn't appear interested in or ready for this approach to energy conservation. Congressman Stenholm is looking for ideas this program could be modified. Write him if you have comments about this program. His address is 1232 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC 20515.

Chisox's Kittle takes AL rookie honors

NEW YORK (AP) — If the reaction of Chicago White Sox slugger Ron Kittle to the news that he is the American League's Rookie of the Year was predictable, his mother must accept part of the blame.

"I'm thrilled . . . it's exciting," Kittle said Tuesday night. Then, he added: "I'm honored — my mom told me to say that one."

Selected by the Baseball Writers Association of America, Kittle is the first White Sox player to win the rookie award since Tommie Agee in 1966 and only the fourth winner in the club's history. The others were pitcher Gary Peters in 1963 and shortstop Luis Aparicio in 1956.

Asked if he was surprised he won, Kittle said: "Well, everybody hopes for the better. I'm just glad it's over with."

After waiting with his family at their home near Gary, Ind., Kittle broke out the champagne Tuesday night when he received the telephone call informing him of the award. When he was asked if he wanted to play next year with the White Sox, who captured the American League West before losing to the Baltimore Orioles in the playoffs, Kittle said: "I hope to be with the (Chicago) Cubs . . . I mean the Sox." Then, laughing, he said: "I think it's the bubbly I'm drinking. The bottle was gone in 10 minutes. I'm sending someone out for another one right now."

In 1983, the bespectacled outfielder batted .254 but slugged 35 home runs and drove in 100 runs.

He collected 15 of a possible 28 first-place votes and 104 points. Finishing second was shortstop Julio Franco of Cleveland with 78 points while Baltimore pitcher Mike Boddicker was third with 70 points. No other player was named on the 28 ballots cast by the two writers in each AL city.

During the AL Championship Series, Kittle said he didn't quite reach the goal he set for himself this season. But he told ABC Radio Sports Tuesday night:

"I set my goal higher than possible so you have to really strive to work for them. A lot of times you don't get up to your goals, but that's the way I like to work at them. I think I accomplished a lot of things this year I wanted to. That's what it's all about."

Kittle, 25, originally was signed by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1977 but was released the following year because of chronic injuries. He joined the Chicago organization in 1979 and in his final two years in the minors slugged a total of 90 home runs.

The announcement of Kittle's selection was to be made today, but WBBM-TV in Chicago announced it Tuesday night. A spokesman for the television station, a CBS affiliate, said, "We were at Kittle's house when he got the telephone call" from the Baseball Writers telling him of his victory.

"It's an honor you can only get one year," the player said. "It's a special moment for me."

Franco was a brilliant fielder for the Indians, hit .273 and had 80 RBI. Boddicker, 16-8 with a 2.77 earned run average during the regular season, helped the Orioles capture the AL Championship Playoffs and the World Series by winning one game in each while allowing a total of one run.

'Dogs demolish Steers BSHS turnovers costly in 107-56 Midland rout

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey missed a big chance by not including Tuesday night's Big Spring-Midland basketball game in their show. Forget the jugglers, trapeze artists and clowns. This was a better performance.

The Steers and Bulldogs teamed for 91 turnovers — 63 by Big Spring alone, committed 67 fouls and spent about 2 1/2 hours on the court as MHS bombed the Steers 107-56 in the season-opener for both teams.

It was more amusing than the Keystone Cops.

More time was spent at the foul line than moving the ball up and around the court. Between the two squads, 90 foul shots were taken. Adding to the circus were substitutions on every whistle by Midland coach Jack Stephenson. It's a wonder the game isn't still in progress.

And just think, the two teams play again next Monday in Big Spring.

"It'll be a different outcome the next time we play," Stephenson predicted. "I'm really surprised it turned out like this. Big Spring is not that bad. Basketball is just a crazy game."

BSHS rookie coach Mike Randle was too crazy about his team's performance but also promised a better game next week. "I definitely agree it won't be the same game. My guys will slow it down. We can't run on Midland, they're used to running. We're going to slow it down."

Things didn't start too badly for the Steers. BSHS led as late as halfway through the first quarter as John Howie sank a baseline jumper to put the Steers on top 12-11. Midland held a six-point lead, 22-16, after one period and that's when the gymwalls crashed in on the visitors.

The game had been hully-gully from the start, the usual night overthrows, traveling violations and double dribbles plaguing both teams. But in the second quarter, Midland began turning Big Spring's errors into points and that's when the six-point lead extended past 20.

The closest the Steers could get was 30-23 as Howie sank two technical fouls at the 5:12 mark. The free shots came after Stephenson protested too vocally on an official's call. After Howie's baskets, Midland ran off an 18-6 scoring spurt to close the half and the game was history.

Big Spring had 29 turnovers at halftime, Midland 18. The second half wouldn't get any better as the Steers turned the ball over the first trip downcourt after the tip-off.

Midland's full-court pressure defense caused the majority of Big Spring's problems. The Bulldogs played aggressive defense, even to the man covering the inbound throw. Twice Norris Cowles was hit with technicals for slapping the ball while it was out-of-bounds.

"I told them to set up the press offense," Randle said, "but they tried to run. They just wouldn't slow it down. We can't run like that against a quick team. We're going to have to slow it down."

The Bulldogs maintained leads of 20-25 points throughout the third quarter before reaching their first 30-point margin, 71-41, at the 2:19 mark when Tim Rooker hit a pair of free shots.

MSH led 81-46 after three quarters. If that advantage wasn't enough, Midland outscored Big Spring 26-10 in the final quarter. The Bulldogs got 100 points when Mike Gonzales hit two free throws with a minute to play.

Midland scored the last nine points of the game to stretch its lead to final 51-point margin. The 107 points was not a team record; the Bulldogs scored 113 once against Odessa Ector, Stephenson said.

"Our press proved to be effective," the MHS coach said. "We've got a lot of quickness this year. I think everyone on the team should play. I guess that's what distinguishes our program from the others."

Scoring was the Steers' problem on offense. Big Spring attempted just 33 shots in the game, hitting 15 for a respectable 46 per cent. Midland, however, put the ball up 81 times and sank 40 for 49 per cent.

Big Spring finished strong at the free throw line to end the game 26 of 45; Midland was 27 of 45.

Rooker, who scored 36 and 32 in two scrimmages, led all scorers with 26 points for Midland while Kenneth Johnson had 12, Tim Hickey 11 points and Darrell Davis and Todd Shiplett 10 each. Only two Big Spring players could reach double figures, George Roman and Chris Roberts getting 10 each.

Big Spring plays again this weekend, traveling back to Midland for the Tall City Classic. The Steers test Midland Lee, another future 4-5A foe, in the 7:30 p.m. game Friday in the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus.

While the varsity was having a long night, the junior varsity began the season with a bang. Freshman Bernard Williams scored 39 points in his high school debut to lead the Steers to an 89-88 double overtime win over Midland.

Midland missed a shot at the buzzer to send the game into overtime. Big Spring was down by two in the first bonus period when Williams rebounded a missed shot with six seconds to play, raced downcourt and hit an eight-foot jumper at the buzzer to tie the contest 80-80.

It was all Big Spring in the second OT period as the Steers built a five-point lead and withstood a fast Midland charge.

Mike Lyons and Elvin Mackey had 24 points each for Midland while Kenneth Burns and Mike Howie had 14 apiece for BSHS.

Lady Steers miss win on missed shots, 69-68

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

It's no doubt the Big Spring High Lady Steers wish they could've made just one more shot under the goal last night in their season-opener against Andrews.

If Big Spring had just made one more basket, it would have saved them from losing a heartbreaking 69-68 contest to the Lady Mustangs.

Actually the Lady Steers should have made considerably more shots than they did. No less than 10 times did they break Andrews' press for an easy shot under the basket only to have the ball not fall through the cylinder.

"We did a good job of breaking the press," said Lady Steer coach Annette Fowler. "We broke the press by looking ahead and passing the ball instead of dribbling, but our shots wouldn't fall."

Both teams battled back and forth all night with the Lady Steers leading most of the first quarter. Big Spring went ahead for the first time at the buzzer ending the period as Monette Wise banked in a jumper to give her team a 16-15 lead. It would be the next to last time Andrews would trail in the contest, although the Lady Steers stayed within striking distance the majority of the contest.

On several occasions, the Mustangs opened up leads of 8-10 points in the second half but each time Big Spring battled back.

The Lady Steers took the lead for the last time midway through the second quarter when they jumped into the full-court press. Trailing 21-19, guards Debra Rubio and Alice Lopez made steals which were turned into a pair of Paula Spears' baskets.

Spears had a big night as she led all scorers with 27 points, and grabbed 10 rebounds which tied her for team high with Wise.

Following Spears' baskets Andrews, outscored the Lady Steers 8-0 in a two-minute span to take the lead. Rubio sunk a midcourt shot to cut Andrews' lead to 33-30 at the half.

In the third quarter, Wise came out hot for Big Spring and hit three straight jumpers. The Mustangs, however, matched her point for point.

Andrews went on a tear as Jones and Ivy Christian recorded three steals. Suddenly Andrews had a 48-38 lead with 2:40 remaining in the third period.

But the Lady Steers rallied back behind the shooting of Spears and Wise. With seven seconds remaining in the quarter Tina Smith got a steal, drove the length of the court and missed a layup, but a hustling Wise followed with a basket at the buzzer to narrow the lead to 54-48.

Big Spring made their final run at Andrews with just under three minutes remaining in the contest. Down 65-59, Spears worked her way inside against her taller opponents and scored two quick baskets to cut the Lady Mustang lead to two.

With 1:20 left, Jones made a bucket off a nifty pass from Kid Wallace. Big Spring roared back as Rubio dished off a pass to Adrienne Allen who made the shot and was fouled by Jones. Allen converted the three-point play and Andrews led 67-66 with 1:04 remaining.

Jones scored her 18th and 19th points of the contest on an offensive rebound with 39 seconds remaining. The rebound bucket proved to be the winning margin as Spears hit a short jumper at the buzzer.

For the night the Lady Steers had a cold night from the field, connecting on only 24 of 62 attempts for 38.7 percent. They connected on 20 of 37 free throw attempts for 53 percent. On the other hand, Andrews was 27 of 60 from the floor for 47 percent, and sunk seven of 18 free throws. The Lady Mustangs enjoyed an edge in the rebounding department 46-39. Jones led all rebounders with 11.

Wise had a good night from the floor connecting on 6 of 12 shots to end the contest with 14 points. Rubio sunk 5 of 8 shots from the field and ended the night with 15 points.

The loss left Fowler disappointed but with high hopes. "We are definitely further along than last year," she said. "This is a very tough team to start the season off with, last year they beat us by 20 points, so the team is coming along fine."

In junior varsity action, the Lady Steers got 21 points from Monique Jones and 13 points from Tabitha Green to down Andrews 63-53.

Rockets down Suns; Mavericks edge Spurs

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Reid scored a season-high 23 points and James Bailey, another Houston reserve, scored 20 and grabbed 15 rebounds as the Rockets defeated the Phoenix Suns 118-96 Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The victory marked the first time this season that Houston, now 5-7, has won two in a row.

Phoenix cruised to a 31-27 lead in the first quarter, but Lewis Lloyd brought Houston back, scoring seven of a string of 12 unanswered Rocket points that put Houston ahead 44-33. The Rockets went on to a 58-51 halftime margin.

The Suns, 4-8, scored nine straight points early in the third quarter, but the Rockets answered with a 12-2 surge, led by Phil Ford's basket and three assists, to take a 79-70 bulge.

Ralph Sampson scored nine points in the third period as the Rockets clung to an 89-82 lead over the surging Suns.

The Suns closed to within four points, 91-87, on Walter Davis' three-point goal with 10:44 left in the game.

But Houston buried Phoenix with a 19-2 spurt, keyed by Elvin Hayes' five points, to make it 110-89 with 3:15 remaining.

NBA Roundup

Mavs 118, Spurs 117

DALLAS (AP) — Rolando Blackman did all he could to help the Dallas Mavericks, scoring 31 points and hitting all 11 of his shots in the second half to lead Dallas to a 118-117 win over the visiting San Antonio Spurs.

But with 10 seconds left in the game Tuesday night, Blackman almost helped them lose it.

Blackman poked San Antonio's Keith Edmonson in the eye and was assessed a technical foul. George Gervin, who had 19 points for San Antonio, hit the free throw to bring the Spurs within one, 115-114.

"It could have cost us the game," said Blackman, who watched as Edmonson was dragged away by a referee. "I should not have let my temper take over. But he poked me in my face first. The ref just caught the second one."

After the technical shot, Dallas got free throws from Brad Davis and Pat Cummings to clinch their seventh straight win at home.

The Spurs, which fell to 5-8, were led by Johnny Moore's 21 points. They saw their first half 17-point lead vanish as Blackman and Mark Aguirre, who led all scorers with 32, took over in the third quarter, scoring 24 points between them.

The Spurs missed two chances to tie the game in the final seconds. Gervin charged on a layup attempt with four seconds to play before Artis Gilmer, who had 18 points, was called for a loose-ball foul, trying to rebound his own shot with one second left.

SMU, Houston arrive in Far East

TOKYO (AP) — Two planeloads of Texas football players — the Mustangs of Southern Methodist University and the Cougars of the University of Houston — arrived at Narita International Airport today for Sunday's Mirage Bowl.

The chartered planes brought about 650 people, including both schools' marching bands, for the Mirage Bowl, the annual "American football" pageant in Japan, organizers said.

The game is the final regular season game for both SMU, ranked sixth in the latest Associated Press poll with a 9-1 record, and Houston, 4-6.

SMU defeated Houston, a Southwest Conference rival, 20-14, last year.

Led by senior quarterback Lance McIlhenny, SMU has a 30-2-1 record over the past three seasons. The Mustangs will face the University of Alabama on Dec. 24 in the Sun Bowl.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Morning is good for coming to a better understanding with others through cooperative attitudes on both sides. Later don't get involved in contentions with those close to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You and an associate can come to a fine understanding by giving in a little. Take care not to argue at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Get your work done early in the morning in the most efficient way. Later, communicate well with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You are enthusiastic about getting much accomplished early in the day. Get good results in money matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): Get that home situation well-handled in the morning and you soon get rid of that feeling of discontent.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): Handle vital correspondence early. Don't permit a private worry to deter your progress in the business world.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You can finally handle that financial affair easily. Don't permit a somewhat psychotic friend to deflate your ego.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You have fine ideas in the morning, but later you have all kinds of problems that need your full attention to solve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Schedule your time and activities early so that you can accomplish a good deal, but steer clear of someone who is depressing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): A good friend can help you to gain a personal wish that means much to you. Don't permit your mate to dissuade you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Go to a bigwig for support for a goal you have and get it. Steer clear of a partner who likes to harass you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You have many interesting ideas in your mind, but work has to be completed, so go to it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Follow that hunch in the morning and get things as you want them to be. Don't rush out later for expensive fun.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will see nothing wrong in others and will weigh and balance everything nicely. Encourage this. Your progeny will have his or her eyes opened to things as they are. Provide a good diet and give religious training.

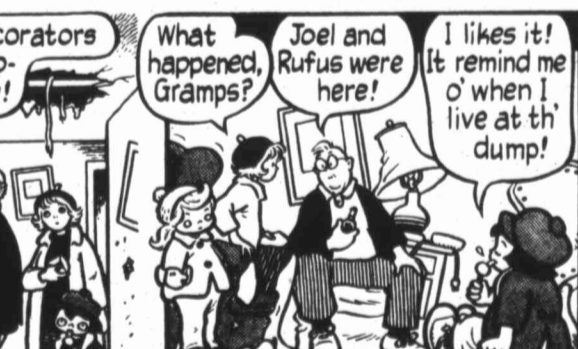

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Stenholm relates Capitol bomb story

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Congressman Charles Stenholm took two of his relatives on a tour of the Capitol in Washington, D.C., Nov. 7. Six hours later, a bomb rocked the building.

The bomb exploded about 11 p.m. that day. No one was injured in the blast which caused a gaping hole in the Capitol wall, ripped through congressional cloakrooms and damaged artwork.

During a visit at Canterbury Retirement Center Saturday afternoon, Stenholm remembered how close he came to the area which was destroyed in the blast.

"It was Monday afternoon, about 5 o'clock. I had an aunt and uncle with me and I was taking them on a visit. We went to the Senate and I noticed Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on the floor. I asked him to come out" and Stenholm, Bentsen and several others found themselves talking in front of a couch inside the Capitol.

The bomb which later rocked the Senate headquarters was hidden behind that couch.

"I'll never know if it that bomb was there at 5 or if it was planted later. Somebody was watching over me," he told the group.

Benefit aids Walker

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

At first glance it looked like members of a motorcycle gang had converged upon the Highland Shopping Center Saturday. But what most of the people clothed in leather jackets, caps and boots had on their minds was lending a little help to some friends in need.

The group was assembled for the Bruce Walker Community Benefit and Poker Run. Walker, the son of Howard and Marijo Walker, was shot and severely injured several weeks ago in Big Spring. He later was transferred to the intensive care unit at Lubbock General Hospital.

His parents have spent most of their time in Lubbock watching their son fight to stay alive, and friends in Big Spring decided to help them battle the high cost of intensive care services.

Banquet honors Scouts; Stenholm guest speaker

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

O.L. "Bill" Bradford was awarded the District Award of Merit at the Lone Star Boy Scout District Leadership Recognition Banquet Saturday at the First Baptist Church.

Bradford has served in scouting for 27 years in various positions ranging from assistant scoutmaster to assistant national Jamboree scoutmaster. He is also involved in Girl Scouting, the United Way and the American Business Club.

District chairman Carl Bradley was also presented a plaque for his work in 1983.

Joe Pickle served as emcee for the event. Keynote speaker was Congressman Charles Stenholm.

Stenholm told the scouting leaders assembled that "we read everyday about the problems caused by young people, the negative stories. They are drinking, on drugs, driving wildly. We hear that our kids are a bad bunch and they just don't make kids like they used to.

"True, there are problems, but not all of our kids have those problems," he said. He pointed out that today's youngsters are "faster and smarter" than previous generations.

"I didn't come here to say we don't have any problems among young people," Stenholm said. "We're not all equally blessed with talents, but 'It's our responsibility to develop our talents to their fullest potential. You learn that as scouts."

To leaders at the banquet, Stenholm said "It is the responsibilities of adults to make this world a little better than when we found it." He credited scouting for building character, providing citizenship training and leadership training for tomorrow's leaders.

"Many of us are failing our young people" in providing leadership, Stenholm said. "We need adult leadership in scouting today.

"It's easy to watch teen horror stories on the 6 o'clock news, then switch to Monday Night Football. Someone will lead our young people, whether it is parents, friends or scout leaders, or whether that responsibility is surrendered to the drug peddler on the nearest corner.

"There are a lot of things right about America," Stenholm said. "Some of the training you provide here in Big Spring, Texas, will provide some of the solutions" to problems facing Americans.

Several other plaques were awarded to district leaders during the evening. Pickle said "We use this occasion to say thanks to these devoted people."

Carl Bradley, district chairman, said "We feel we have some of the best leaders...the only problem is we don't have enough of them. We want to thank you for a job well done."

Cub pack leaders recognized included Tom Van Arsdale, Pete Rosenbaum, Cheryl Wilson, Mark Pierce, Dianne Jones, Paul Soldan, Dewayne Wallace, Glenn Pierce and Bill Myers.

Recognized as troop leaders were David Reynolds, O.L. Bradford, Dan Glass, Don Wilson, Adron Welch, Ruben Figueroa and Bill Priebe.

Explorer post leaders recognized included Hank Williams, Lee Young, Austin Ferguson, Ricky Scott and James Hicks.

District committee members were also awarded plaques. They include George Walker, Elton Wallace, Charles M. Condray, Mark Sheedy, Nat Hart, Gerrie Tucker, Frank Crawford and Joe Pickle.

Council sets hearing on dance hall permit

The Big Spring City Council has scheduled a public hearing for 8 a.m. Tuesday at City Hall for an appeal by Mary Lozano, owner of Mary's Disco Paradise at 205 N. Runnels, on the council's disapproval of a dance hall permit for the establishment.

The council scheduled the hearing at its Nov. 8 meeting, when Mrs. Lozano and her lawyer, George Gilkerson of Lubbock, appeared before the council. Gilkerson told the council at that time that it had no jurisdiction in the matter since Mary's is not a public dance hall, but a private club.

Mrs. Lozano was arrested and released on $100 bond Nov. 12 in connection with allowing dancing at the club without a valid permit.

Mrs. Lozano said then that she had received a similar citation in August and that it had been dismissed on appeal. She had received two other similar citations in October, both of which are pending appeal, Mrs. Lozano said.

In the past year, police have received 31 calls to Mary's Disco Paradise in connection with several criminal offences. City Manager Don Davis said at a news conference Nov. 8.

Asked at that time if the city was slowly trying to put Mary's out of business, Davis said, "No, we are trying to put Mary's out of business expeditiously."

Sheriff's Log

Man released on $5,000 bond

Ruldolfo Castillo, 29, of 208 Main, Muleshoe, Texas, was released on $5,000 bond after being arraigned before Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt on suspicion of burglary.

• Doris Edwards of Snyder was arrested on a

Howard County warrant for the issuance of bad checks, according to sheriff's reports. She later was released after paying $114 in checks and fines.

• Walter Dugan, 22, of 1601 Meadow was released on a $2,500 bond after being arraigned before Daratt on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Academia

• Two students from Big Spring are participating in "Grease," to be presented at West Texas State University in Canyon Nov. 17-20. John Paul Mauldin, a freshman, is providing the voice of the scientist in the musical. Jennifer Shirey, junior, is also a member of the cast.

• Randy Samuels has been named a member of the 65-voice Hardin-Simmons University Chorale for 1983-84, according to Dr. Loyd Hawthorne, director of the ensemble.

4-Hers attend District banquet

Howard County 4-H Gold Star winners DAWN UNDERWOOD and KELLY ROGERS were in Pecos Nov. 12 to attend the District VI Gold Star Banquet at Crockett Junior High School.

Keynote speaker at the event was the Honorable BILL SIMS, state senator from San Angelo. Sponsoring the event were electric service companies in the District VI area, which included Texas Electric Service Co., West Texas Utilities Co., El Paso Electric Co., and Texas-New Mexico Power Co. Representatives from the companies presented Gold Star Certificates to each of the 25 winners. Each winner was recognized along with their parents.

Dawn is the daughter of MR. AND MRS. LOYD UNDERWOOD. Kelly, an Olympic hopeful in skeet and trap shooting, is the son of MR. AND MRS. A.G. ROGERS. Also attending was Howard County Extension agent PEGGY KALINA.

Congratulations to CATHERINE A. JONES for being selected the 1983 Miss Merry Christmas Thursday. Catherine competed against five other local girls for the title. Catherine and her court will reign over the Holiday Festival activities Dec. 10. They also will be guests of many organizations as speakers on the upcoming Christmas activities and will assist with various business promotions during the holiday season.

Members of Catherine's court are: KIM BECKHAM, daughter of MR. AND MRS. RICHARD WILLADSEN; DANA DEE CANNON, daughter of DOLORES JENKINS and CARROLL CANNON; TRACEY THOMPSON, daughter of BEOLA THOMPSON and MELVIN THOMPSON; LISA MAYNARD, daughter of MR. AND MRS. ALVIS MAYNARD; and EVA BAUCHAM, daughter of MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM SANDERS. Miss Jones is the daughter of GLENN JONES and MIDGE JONES.

Peggy Kalina has special visitors this weekend. Her parents, JAKE AND PAULINE KALINA, are here from Wharton.

Speaking of Peggy, she told me that GAIL and FLOYD EARLS are really bursting with joy this week. They are the proud grandparents of a six pound baby girl named KENDRA LAYNE BEARDEN born Thursday. Kendra is the daughter of the Earls' daughter and son-in-law, KAREN and KENNY BEARDEN.

Adopted families are special

The week of November 20-26 is National Adoption Week and National Family Week. The combination of celebrations is a reminder of how special adopted families are.

Adoptive parents are unique because they openly express an interest in parenting a child and seek to become parents. Adopting parents are diverse: some cannot have natural children, some are single adults, others adopt orphaned relatives, others just want more children.

Parents who adopt children have the same motivation as any married couple who wants natural children — to carry on the family name, to see their ambitions and goals are carried on or to enjoy sharing their life with offspring.

Adopted parents are well-meaning, intelligent people who do a creditable, if not a remarkable job, of raising their children. Like other parents, they have doubts, fears and inconsistencies. Often they may feel a little more tense or on-the-spot with regard to how well they are doing their job, especially to well-meaning relatives and friends.

Let's remember that children want to be individuals, but they desire a sense of belonging to their own family, friends, society and world...and adopted parents choose to help them get there. Adopted parents are special people with unique families.

opportunities that parents provide for play, especially during the first three years of life, are an important stimulus to the development of a child's intellect.

Carefully selected toys are some of the best tools for learning. Toys that teach need not be expensive. In fact, some of the best teaching toys are objects found and used on the home.

Non-breakable mirrors hung mobile—style over the crib; four empty, metal cigar containers that can be chimed when touched; cuddly animals made from socks; large cardboard boxes for building, crawling or sleeping; or sets of soft plastic bowls or cans that can be stacked are all valuable teaching tools.

Pecan show entries being accepted

The 3rd Annual Howard County Pecan Show will be held at Highland Mall in Big Spring, Dec. 1. Any pecan grower in the area may submit entries for the show to the County Extension office.

Deadline for entries is Nov. 29. The Extension office is located in the basement of the county courthouse.

No entry limit per exhibitor is made, but participants are limited to one entry of each named variety they grow. The grower may enter as many seedlings, known hybrids or natives he wishes. The exhibitor must be the grower.

A minimum of 40 pecans are necessary for each entry. This sample of 40 should represent the variety or individual seedling tree and be uniform in size and shell color. Mixed variety in an entry — are disqualified.

The grow may wish to select the heaviest pecans by weighing individual nuts. This will eliminate poorly filled pecans, but certainly isn't an entry samples — more than one of size (number per pound), appearance and shell color.

What a bright idea!

Hester's Makes Your Gift Shopping Easier

Communicate your Christmas sentiments this year with greetings and gifts from the wide selection at Hester's. You can start with Christmas cards. Hester's has cards for every taste — frolics Santas, religious themes, snow scenes, kittens, gold and silver metallic designs, and striking abstracts. There are even Christmas postcards for a short note, and Yule stationery if you're moved to write a letter. Stationery is always a welcome gift, and Hester's has one of the largest stocks in town. You can choose from many designs and colors. Examples are Eaton's open stock stationery in such shades as lavender, mauve, and pale green; Lasercraft's lacy designs actually created by a laser; boxed paper with a pen and several points plus a booklet of calligraphy instructions; stationery in a decorative, reusable chest; and designs for everyone from a small child to the ultimate sophisticated on your list.

Why not surprise someone with your photo or a snapshot, framed from the selection at Hester's. Pick wood, old-timey tin look, lucite, beveled glass. There are single, double, triple and college frames. Another popular gift is theme calendars — and Hester's has a big selection on hand now. Puppies, kittens, nature scenes, religious themes, Murphy's Law, gourmet calendars and more: one will fit every personality you know. There are handy pocket calendars for stocking stuffers. Hester's has pen-and-pencil sets in many styles and colors — from Parker at $5.98 to Cross at $20. and up. And every gift you buy at Hester's is gift-wrapped free of charge. A trip to Hester's at 209 Runnels will surely make your Christmas shopping a little merrier.

T. Marquez & Sons is a family-owned and operated business.

T. Marquez & Sons Is Family-Owned Business

T. Marquez & Sons is one of those home-grown family businesses of which the community can be justly proud. It was founded in 1956 as a parttime TV repair service by the late T. Marquez Jr. He gradually expanded and developed the business, and taught his trade to his six sons. The firm moved to its present location at 1010 Lamesa Highway in 1977, and the building underwent a handsome renovation earlier this year. Today T. Marquez & Sons, operated by the six sons, offers total sales and service for TV's, stereos, radios, auto radios and 8-tracks, appliances (refrigerators, stoves, washers, dryers), and dish satellites. Their service area includes Vealmoor, Ackerly, Knott, Lenorah, Vincent, Garden City, St. Lawrence, Lomax and other communities in the area. While they sell Quasar TV's exclusively, they service all brands of televisions from A to Z. They specialize in antenna work, service all makes and models of satellite dishes, and install the dishes in town or in the country. In an era of declining customer services, T. Marquez & Sons still make house service calls and they still offer free delivery on appliances purchased from them. They have three trained technicians to service what they sell. The Marquez sons — Bobby, Manuel, Raul, Jesse, Tony and Larry — still operate the company with their father's philosophy that "The customer is your friend — not just a customer." Keep their phone number 263-3033 handy for prompt, courteous TV and appliance service.
