How's that? Assassination

Q. The anniversary of the John F. Kennedy shooting made me wonder on what date his brother, Robert, was killed.

A. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was fatally shot in Los Angeles on June 5, 1968. Sirhan Sirhan was held in connection with the shooting and later charged with murder. It was earlier that same year, on April 4, that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was fatally shot in Memphis, Tenn. James Earl Ray was sentenced to 99 years in prison in connection with the murder.

Partly cloudy skies are forecast for the Big Spring area today. Temperatures should be a little cooler today than Saturday. Highs are forecast in the mid-60s with lows in the lower 30s.

Bulletin

Felecia Ford Saturday night was named second runner-up at the Miss Lubbock Pageant at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium at Texas Tech University.

Elizabeth Ann Redell, a Tech student, was chosen from 10 other semi-finalists as Miss Lubbock. Miss Redell also won the talent competition with a dramatic monologue.

"I'm glad I didn't win because I didn't want to leave Howard College and leave my friends behind and lose my scholarship. Now I want to work on my grades," Miss Ford said.

Had she won Miss Lubbock she would have had to transfer to Tech. Miss Ford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V.P. Dunbar of Big Spring.

Fraud cases could yield money

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Howard County may begin receiving money for each food stamp fraud case filed in county court, County Attorney Bob Miller said last week.

The state Department of Human Resources will pay the county money for each conviction and uncontested plea in food stamp fraud-related cases if the county signs a contract with the department, Miller said.

Miller said he would present the contract between the state department and the county to County Judge Milton Kirby so commissioners could discuss the contract at their next meeting, Dec. 12.

The contract would give the county $250 for every uncontested plea and $600 for every conviction as a result of a trial, of a case involving food stamp fraud, subject to the availability of state or federal funds. The county, however, would not receive any money for deferred adjudications, Miller said.

All funds received as a result of prosecutions would become part of the county's general fund, he said.

All investigations would be conducted by officers from the Department of Human Resources Office of the Investigator General.

In return, the county would be expected to prosecute cases submitted from the Department of Human Resources and to recommend the person, if convicted, make restitution to the government.

"They're encouraging local people to prosecute," Miller said. "But I'll prosecute (the cases) whether the county has a contract or not."

Miller's office filed its first food stamp fraud-related case Wednesday afternoon against Richard Lee Hinklin, 26, of P.O. Box 3115 on suspicion of tampering with government documents.

Miller said the investigators wanted to file charges under the tampering statute because "it is easier to prove someone made a false statement" than to prove actual fraud.

All applicants for food stamps must make statements about their actual incomes to the government so their eligibility may be determined, said Jeffrey Freeman, Department of Human Resources.

Dawson gets grant approved

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A request for $4,800 to study the possibility of opening a regional restitution center in Dawson County was approved Friday by the Texas Adult Probation Commission.

Restitution centers are designed to give non-violent criminals on probation a place to live for up to a year while working to support their families and to repay the victims of their crimes.

Commission spokesman Dick Lewis said Dawson County officials will look into the possibility of extending use of the center to probationers from as many as 17 surrounding counties.

"They'll need two to three months to pursue some of those questions," Lewis said.

He said the county tentatively has identified a building that might be renovated to house up to 40 probationers. "But they need to look at the cost to bring it up to snuff," Lewis added.

The commission approved $1.6 million in grants for studies of construction of centers, leaving $2.7 million for other projects begun by September, Lewis said.

Another $7.2 million will be available during the state's next fiscal year that begins Sept. 1, 1984.

Lewis also noted that probationers with a history of drug or alcohol problems are not allowed to live in restitution centers.

Probationers also are expected to contribute toward the cost of living at the center, he said. That helps keep expenses lower than the cost of sending someone to a state maximum security prison.

In addition, some judges require offenders to perform community service work in the evening and on weekends.

City garbageman wins respect

VALUED EMPLOYEE — Juan Vasquez drives a garbage truck for the City of Big Spring and his dedication to the job and his determination to keep his truck clean won him the praise of several city officials and his fellow employees.

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

Juan Vasquez is a quiet man in a dirty business.

Vasquez drives a garbage truck for the City of Big Spring, and though his bosses are proud of the job he does, he doesn't let on much.

"He is the type of employee who does more than is required," Public Works Manager Tom Decell said about Vasquez.

"He sees something that needs to be done and he does it without being asked," Decell said, remembering a time when Vasquez cut the tall grass around the city vehicle yard on his own time with his own mower.

"He's the best hand I've got," said Benito Rubio, Sanitation Department supervisor.

Vasquez talked simply Wednesday about the things he does that make his bosses so high on him.

"I like my truck to be clean. I feel happy when it's clean," Vasquez said. And one must remember that it's no mean feat to keep a garbage truck looking good when it is in use eight hours a day picking up over 1,000 trash cans that contain the dregs of Big Spring life.

Gramm names local help

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

U.S. Senate candidate Phil Gramm dropped into Big Spring briefly Saturday to announce members of steering committee which will aid him with his local campaign.

Co-chairmen of the committee are Maxwell Green, local CPA, and businesswoman Claudene Cooper. Also serving are Mayor Clyde Angel, businessman Charles O. Christopher and attorney Ben Bancroft.

Gramm, a U.S. Representative from College Station who earlier this year switched from the Democratic to Republican party, said the committee will help him organize campaign efforts in Howard County and will help recruit volunteers and identify his supporters.

Similar committees have been set up in Midland, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston. He plans to have "active organizations in 70 of the largest counties in the state" by early next year.

Working with committees will provide "a broad base all over the state. A campaign is won by a grass roots means of support," Gramm said. "I need to get to know the people and to work with local people."

Two committee members, Angel and Green, were present at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Saturday for Gramm's announcement.

Green said "The main reason I'm supporting Con- See Gramm page 2-A

Car show aids Walker's road to recovery

VINTAGE MODEL — Vintage automobiles are on display today from noon until 5 p.m. at the Howard County fair barn with money from the event going to the Bruce Walker medical fund. Several area organizations and friends of the Howard Walkers sponsored the car show to help with rising medical costs.

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

"Street machines" built before 1948 line the interior of the Howard County fair barn this weekend, their brightly painted bodies rivaling cars fresh off the 1984 assembly line.

The cars are the stars in a benefit sponsored to aid the Bruce Walker medical fund. Walker was injured in a shooting Oct. 1 and has spent two months in intensive care in Lubbock. The money raised by the show will help combat medical bills.

The show began Saturday and will be open from noon to 5 p.m. today at the fair barn, Carl Hart, a show sponsor, said.

There are 27 cars displayed with all but three being from Big Spring owners. Locally, members of the Early Cars of Big Spring and the Rod and Custom Club of Big Spring and other car enthusiasts supplied automobiles for the show. Cars from members of the West Texas Street Rod Association of Odessa are also displayed.

"We're all friends of Howard's," Hart said, referring to Howard

Walker, Bruce's father. "(And) we're all interested in old cars."

Most of the cars displayed are in top condition, Hart said. They have "old bodies, but new engines, transmissions and rear ends. You can take them out on the highway and drive them, just like a 1984 car."

"Street rodding is the largest participant sport there is," Hart said. "National (competition) in Oklahoma this summer drew 7,000 participants."

Locally, "pretty decent" crowds have come to view the automobiles, Hart said. "The more the merrier," he added. "We wanted to get together as much help as we could. The Walkers need all the help they can get."

Howard and Marijo Walker couldn't be at the benefit Saturday as Walker was working in his Harley-Davidson shop and Mrs. Walker was at Lubbock General Hospital with her son.

When contacted at his shop, Walker said Bruce is "doing fantastic. They took him off the breathing machine Monday and See Walker page 2-A

By the Associated Press Lucy misses old character

NEW YORK — Ten years after she stopped production on her last television series, Lucille Ball says she misses the crazy character she created. "I like Lucy very much, and I really do miss her," Miss Ball, 72, said in an interview. Her shows — "I Love Lucy," "The Lucy Show" and "Here's Lucy" — are still seen by 500,000 viewers in 80 countries through syndication. Despite her extensive TV experience, she said she was "tongue-tied" when she appeared on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show and was "a nervous wreck" on a recent special celebrating Bob Hope's 80th birthday. Miss Ball made her comments for an article to be published in January's Ladies Home Journal. In the interview, she said her ex-husband, Desi Arnaz, "was much smarter than anyone thought. He was a great showman, a great businessman, a fantastic entrepreneur, and I loved watching the executives finding that out." "I was very proud of him.... I still am. He built an empire. It was unfortunate that he also likes to let things fall apart. But there are a lot of people like that. They build and they destroy," she added.

White's sleeping better

AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White says he's sleeping better since he had a 4:30 a.m. conference with a noisy street cleaner. "One of the occupants in temporary living quarters at 1010 Colorado (the governor's mansion) is awakened frequently at 4:30 a.m. by the street cleaner," White told a news conference Friday. The problem first arose in March and prompted White, 43, to talk it over with Mayor Ron Mullen, "but apparently they put in a new street cleaner who is very aggressive in getting out here early," he said. "Also they've employed a new technique, a sort of air blowing device to clean the sidewalks. You'd be amazed how similar it is to an airplane coming into the room with you," White said. Finally, the chief executive decided "more direct action" was needed, so he recently "visited with the supervisor on the job." "They are doing a good job cleaning the sidewalks," he added.

Thatcher praises Churchill

HARROW, England — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher paid a sentimental visit to England's prestigious Harrow School and joined in a singing tribute to its most famous alumnus — Sir Winston Churchill. Students doffed straw boaters and top hats as Mrs. Thatcher, who lists Churchill as her favorite predecessor at 10 Downing St., arrived Friday for Harrow's Churchill Songs Night. She was accompanied by her husband, Denis, and son Mark. The ceremony has been held annually since Britain's wartime prime minister visited his old school to sing songs and keep up the students' courage as Nazi bombs rained down on London.

The news in brief

By the Associated Press AM gets broadcast break

WASHINGTON — Almost half of the nation's AM radio stations have received an early Christmas present from the federal government — the right to stay on the air after local sunset. The Federal Communications Commission issued a special order Friday authorizing more than 2,200 so-called daytime AM stations across the country to stay on the air until 6 p.m. local time, instead of signing off when the sun goes down. The order, which was effective immediately, had been eagerly awaited by daytime stations ever since Sept. 9. That was when the FCC completed a yearlong review by ruling that longer evening operating hours could be permitted without creating undue interference. James C. McKinney, the chief of the FCC's Mass Media Bureau, said Friday's order was issued after the Canadian government informed the agency it was willing to allow the change immediately rather than waiting until later this month when a new AM broadcast treaty between the two countries is formally signed. Sometime next spring, when negotiations are to be completed on a similar treaty with Mexico, the FCC intends to authorize daytimers to remain on the air up to two hours after local sunset, even when that occurs after 6 p.m. Under the commission's Sept. 9 decision, most daytimers will have to reduce their power after local sunset to avoid causing interference to full-time stations. But the FCC says they should still be able to put a signal over their local community. Friday's extension of operating hours is expected to prove particularly beneficial to daytime-only stations in the northern sections of the country where winter sunsets can occur as early as 4 p.m.

Problems nag shuttle crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Astronauts struggled to repair crippled instruments in Spacelab 1 on Saturday, but officials said 90 percent of the science experiments attempted so far have been completed and the "very successful mission" still might be extended by one day. An electrical short knocked out two materials-processing furnaces and a film cassette jammed in a high-resolution mapping camera early Saturday, adding to the list of problems nagging the $1 billion Spacelab on the space shuttle Columbia. Officials said one of the furnaces would not be restored, causing the loss of three experiments, and a repair on the second furnace was uncertain. The mapping camera already had completed over half its work by taking more than 700 pictures when its second magazine of film jammed. The astronauts were to receive instructions aimed at returning the camera to service.

A microwave sensor and an electron beam gun both are crippled, gathering only a part of the data investigators hoped to harvest. But dozens of the 73 Spacelab science investigations have gone well and mission scientist Rick Chappell said, "One cannot be disappointed with this mission. We're seeing a fantastic science return. The rate of success is greater than 90 percent." "We've got a very, very successful mission," said mission director Harry Craft. Astronauts Owen Garriott and Byron Lichtenberg were to spend part of their Saturday shift in Spacelab trouble-shooting the problems. They also conducted a series of other experiments, concentrating on medical and astronomy investigations. Scientists from 14 countries designed the experiments aboard Spacelab, a 23-foot-long module designed and built by the European Space Agency.

Gemayel wraps up U.S. visit

WASHINGTON — President Amin Gemayel of Lebanon wrapped up a four-day visit here Saturday and proclaimed his government will seek to extend its authority to areas occupied by Israeli forces and private militias. Before departing, Gemayel stood with Secretary of State George P. Shultz at his side and said that while war in Lebanon presents problems "that are not going to go away overnight," he was still confident that "substantial and decisive progress is being made."

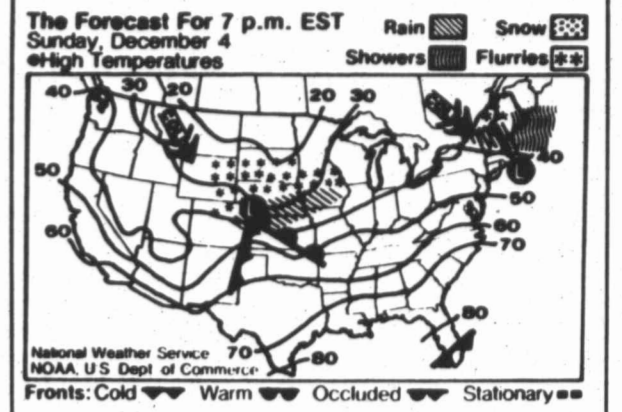

Gemayel was told by top U.S. officials during his visit that he must do more to build an image as a forceful leader capable of directing his country's future and restoring national unity. This includes taking a personal role in healing divisions between warring Christian and Moslem factions and negotiating with both Israel and Syria on troop withdrawal. Lebanese officials have contended talks with Israel could disrupt efforts to achieve national reconciliation in Arab Lebanon. Gemayel left for Beirut immediately following his appearance before reporters with Shultz, completing his four-day visit to Washington that included meetings with President Reagan, Shultz and other officials. He read a statement but declined to take questions. Gemayel, in apparent response to the concerns pressed on him here, said the Lebanese government is determined to continue efforts at national reconciliation and to consolidate its "exclusive authority" in all areas not now occupied by foreign armies. These apparently include regions where independent militias now hold sway. And Gemayel said that until the full withdrawal of all foreign forces is attained, his government will seek "to reactivate Lebanese civilian authority in areas under external control and occupation" — a clear reference to territory in southern Lebanon south of the Alawi river controlled by Israeli troops and to the Bekka Valley and northern Lebanon controlled by Syrian troops. "In this context, and in the existing spirit of cooperation, we have found the American leaders fully supportive of our goals," Gemayel said. It was clear from Gemayel's statement that he was signaling his readiness to carry out the kind of program urged on him by U.S. officials. The Lebanese president said his visit marked the forging of "a strong working partnership" with the Reagan administration and explored ways of achieving "the liberation of Lebanon and the restoration of its sovereignty over all its territory..." The official said Gemayel came to Washington to try to get the United States to put pressure on Israel to withdraw, thereby dropping its insistence that it will only pull out when the Syrians do.

Israeli jets bomb Lebanese bases

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli jets bombed and strafed guerrilla bases in Lebanon's central mountains Saturday, and the U.N. Security Council agreed on a plan to evacuate PLO chief Yasser Arafat and his fighters from Tripoli. The council decided that ships would fly the Lebanese flag as they take Arafat and his Palestine Liberation Organization loyalists out of Tripoli, then raise the U.N. flag once they are in international waters. There was no immediate reaction from Arafat, who had requested that his fighters be evacuated by ships flying U.N. flags.

Snow storms keep coming

Snowstorms that have dumped a record 12 feet of snow in parts of the the Rockies over the past month kept coming Friday, spreading ice and snow into the urban Northeast, and forecasters warned "another big one" is on the way. "We've already got a snow cover that looks like January across northern New England, the Great Lakes and the upper Midwest into Kansas, Colorado and Nevada," said Nolan Duke of the government's Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. "That's quite a snow cover, and it's not going to be melting away anytime soon." Nationwide, the death toll in a series of four snowstorms since Nov. 21 climbed to 83 — 42 this week — including traffic fatalities, people who froze to death in their cars and those who collapsed of heart attacks while shoveling snow. A lingering deep freeze in the West pushed temperatures as low as 16 degrees below zero Friday in Minnesota as the most recent storm dumped up to 15 inches of new snow in Utah and Colorado and spread into the heartland, icing highways across Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio into western Pennsylvania with up to 3 inches of snow or sleet and freezing rain. It was a bracing 16 degrees below zero at Hibbing, Minn., 15 below at St. Cloud, S.D., and 10 degrees below at Broadus, Mont. The 9 degrees at Boise, Idaho, was a record for the date. Noontime temperatures were barely above zero in Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. It was 8 degrees in Denver, which was also under an air pollution alert for its poorest air quality in two years. A winter storm watch was issued for the Texas Panhandle where forecasters warned of a potentially destructive ice storm.

Eastwood may sue Enquirer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Clint Eastwood may sue the National Enquirer for using an article and photo about him in a television commercial, a state appellate court has ruled. The court overturned a Los Angeles Superior Court ruling that had tossed out a portion of the actor's lawsuit over an article and photograph published by the tabloid on April 13, 1982.

The actor alleged the Enquirer falsely stated he was involved in a "love triangle with singer Tanya Tucker and actress Sondra Locke." Eastwood also said his privacy was invaded by the use of his name and photo in a TV commercial. The Court of Appeal ruled Thursday that use of the article and photo in the Enquirer ad "constitutes commercial exploitation" and is not protected by constitutional considerations.

A Closer Look

By JIM DAVIS

Objectivity is a nice goal

AUSTIN — Except for bad hours, relatively low pay and constant pressure, news reporting can be an OK way of life. For one thing, reporters often can avoid making a lot of tough decisions.

Objectivity — or at least the pursuit of it — can be a warm security blanket for some of us.

Are you supporting one of the candidates seeking the Democratic presidential nomination next year, or even wondering who you should support? Not I.

Are you convinced that the re-election of Ronald Reagan is either our only hope or our greatest threat? Not I.

It's not that I don't care, although that would be an easy trap to fall into next year if, as it appears now, Americans will have to choose between Reagan and former Vice President Walter Mondale.

We might be forgiven for being a bit Scrooge-like on enthusiasm when picking between the ghost of political mistakes present and the ghost of political mistakes past.

All right, so the previous paragraph doesn't sound totally objective. It isn't, and I'm not.

A decade ago I worked as a city hall reporter in Corpus Christi and faced writing stories about an emotional split between a new mayor and the other six council members. Each side felt that the future of the city depended on defeating the other. Each side felt that the newspaper should be part of its effort to save Corpus Christi, and, thus, neither was ever happy with my reporting of the fight.

A council member one day challenged me to look him in the eye and tell him I was 100 percent objective. I looked him in the eye and told him there was no way I could claim that without being dead.

But I did claim that I could be fair — that I could write a story about one side's mistakes without being against that side and stories about one side's victories without favoring that side.

Recently, I heard someone describe that situation more clearly and more tersely than my rambling comments to that council member. He said, "Your goal is not to be purely objective. Your goal is to be subjective fairly."

I've memorized those words to help me through the 1984 elections.

Austin supporters of former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger already are accusing some Austin reporters of personally favoring state Sen. Lloyd Doggett in the current race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator.

There's probably some truth to that. Doggett is a friendly, intelligent type who has championed some causes close to journalists' hearts, such as open records and open meetings. He also has been a good and reliable source on numerous major state issues.

Krueger is intelligent and occasionally witty but sometimes comes across as ambitious, cool and a tad stuffy. Unless you were a big Shakespeare fan or a political junky you probably wouldn't want to spend an afternoon with the former professor.

But that doesn't mean that Doggett would make a better U.S. senator than Krueger, or U.S. Rep. Kent Hance or any other candidate.

And Doggett may end up suffering at the hands of the press as the campaign continues. He currently is viewed as a Mr. Nice Guy—underdog with little name recognition outside Austin. To overcome that, he's most strongly attack the frontrunner, Krueger, and that will be hard to do while maintaining a nice-guy image.

Whoever wins in the May primaries, the fall general election campaign is sure to be a nasty one in both the senate and the presidential races. We're all going to be barraged with charges and counter-charges.

I don't know about you, but I'm just going to fondle my security blanket and hope for the best.

35 IRS workers under investigation

AUSTIN (AP) — Thirty-five Internal Revenue Service employees are the target of an investigation into welfare and unemployment compensation fraud, authorities say.

The employees, former and current seasonal workers at the IRS' regional office in Austin, are being investigated by the U.S. attorney's office, Texas Employment Commission and Texas Department of Human Resources.

"It will be sometime in the near future, but there will be indictments," Dan Maeso, an assistant U.S. attorney in San Antonio who is coordinating the investigation, told the Austin American-Statesman.

He said the cases would be referred to a federal grand jury in Austin.

Investigators said they have examined welfare and unemployment compensation claims of every seasonal employee who has worked at the regional service center during the past year. The center hires up to 2,200 temporary workers a year to process tax returns from an eight-state area.

Maeso said the investigation centers on statements the employees made on unemployment compensation forms. Making a false statement on such a form is a felony punishable by a maximum $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

The investigation began nine months ago as part of a national crackdown on welfare and unemployment compensation fraud among IRS seasonal employees, Maeso said.

"This is based on investigations in other states. Georgia had a very successful investigation," Maeso said, adding that more than 200 indictments were brought against seasonal employees of the Atlanta IRS regional center in 1982.

Austin attorney Malcolm Greenstein, who represents eight of the people under investigation, said the amount of money involved ranges from $40 to $250.

"None of them has ever been arrested before, and they all just want to pay their restitution," Greenstein said. "None of them intentionally meant to defraud the government. They've been given no opportunity to make restitution."

Maeso said those involved will be allowed to make restitution, "but that won't erase the thing." Even if the money is repaid, he said, the workers still could be indicted.

Gordon Hardy, investigator general for the Department of Human Resources, said two cases of welfare fraud were discovered during the investigation.

Q. My neighbor has recommended I subdivide 20 acres I own just outside town and sell lots for new homes. Is this a profitable course of action?
A. Realizing a profit will depend on many factors including: 1) If you bought the land for a low enough price. 2) Your selling price must exceed your total investment including the original purchase price plus the costs of surveying, platting, subdividing and installation of utilities and roads. 3) There must be sufficient demand for the lots to sell at a profit. Subdividing is not a task for amateurs. Check with the professionals. Your broker is an excellent source of information... knowing what the demand is for lots and the prices for which they should sell.

Tax package reconsidered

By JAY ROSSER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The legislative designers of a radical new approach to school financing have fine-tuned their once-rebuffed program and will ask Gov. Mark White to include it in his promised special session on public education.

Those refinements, targeted at making the package more palatable to the Texas Legislature, have done nothing to sweeten the taste for school and business lobby groups.

The tax reform package, dubbed Proposition Zero, failed during the 1983 Texas Legislature. Since then, proponents are "going less on instincts and more on facts," according to one spear-heading representative, Steve Carriker, D-Roby.

Proposition Zero, as envisioned by Carriker and other backers, would exempt single- and multi-family residences valued up to $100,000 from school district maintenance and operation taxes.

In its place would come a one-cent increase in the state's four-cent sales tax. Many cities also tack on a local penny tax.

Taxpayers still would be taxed to retire school district bonds, Carriker said. That accounts for about 15 percent of the school district property taxes, he said.

The loss of 85 percent of a school district's tax base, Carriker said, will cost about $800 million statewide. The one-cent sales tax increase would generate between $1.3 billion and $1.4 billion during 1985, he said, quoting estimates from State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The increased sales tax receipts would be funneled back to school districts, Carriker said, with each receiving at least as much as it lost from the property tax reduction and poorer school districts receiving a larger chunk.

White has vowed to call lawmakers back to Austin for a special legislative session next year to address public education funding, especially the issue of increased teacher pay. That, so far, has been White's chief unfulfilled 1982 campaign promises.

During a recent interview, White said he was not impressed with the reception the tax measure got in the 1983 Legislature. His staff, he said, has not yet made a recommendation on the recent changes.

But, White noted, lawmakers may be free to consider Proposition Zero during a special legislative session because it falls beneath the umbrella of public school finance.

When Proposition Zero No. 1 was introduced in the Legislature earlier this year, it called for the one-cent sales tax increase and a complete exemption from school property taxes.

The revamped version includes the $100,000 cap and the bonded indebtedness portion of the tax largely because of howls from commercial and industrial property taxpayers, Carriker noted.

"Other classes of property taxpayers fear that if a residence is not on there for bonds, residential property owners would have no reason not to vote against any bond issue that is excessively large," he said.

The $100,000 ceiling, Carriker said, also gives the program a "more progressive flavor."

Even if the tax reform package clears the Legislature in a special or regular session, it must still be approved by Texas voters as a constitutional amendment.

Proposition Zero is not being greeted with open arms in education lobby circles.

"We're not supporting Proposition Zero," David Thompson, an associate director of the Texas Association of School Boards, said pointedly. "We feel like we need one cent of additional revenue, not instead-of revenue."

The school board association wants the one-cent sales tax increase plus a doubling of the state's nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax to fuel education reforms and substantial teacher pay increases.

Three-fourths of the revenues generated from the gasoline tax would go to highway construction and renovation and the rest of education.

Goldsboro must pay $625,000

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Bobby Goldsboro must pay his former wife the full $625,000 he owes her as part of a divorce settlement, but a chancellor has ruled that Goldsboro can have more visitation time with his 8-year-old daughter Brandy.

Lawyers for Goldsboro and his ex-wife, Mary Alice Goldsboro, agreed to increased visitations after psychiatrist Dr. Kent Kyger wrote a letter and offered it the court of Chancellor Henry Denmark Bell.

The entertainer had been limited to daytime visits with his youngest daughter, but Kyger recommended that on a trial basis Brandy be allowed to have overnight visits with her father one weekend night.

In October, a state appellate court denied Goldsboro custody of Brandy, citing evidence that he collected pornographic pictures of young girls. Goldsboro has denied that allegation.

Bus wreck not caused by speed alone

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal investigator says speed alone would not have caused a Trailways bus to clip the rear of a flatbed truck and plunge 40 feet off a highway into a creek embankment, killing six people.

"It has got to be driver error," said Clyde C. Coggin Jr. of the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety, one of two federal agencies investigating last week's accident.

The bus was on a regular run from Shreveport, La., to Houston on Wednesday when it slammed into the rear of the truck near Livingston, Texas, about 75 miles from Houston.

The bus then crashed through a guard rail, became airborne and careened into the creekbed, killing six of 12 passengers, investigators said. The driver and the other five passengers were injured.

Coggin said the impact with the truck should have "decelerated" the speed of the bus. Because the bus became airborne, it still may have been moving fast, he said.

However, John Keryeski of the National Transportation Safety Board said that the takeoff angle could have determined the speed.

NTSB investigators on Friday completed their on-site inspection. They have made no final conclusion about the cause of the accident, but said preliminary investigation indicated there were no mechanical problems with the bus.

Trailways spokeswoman Dana Yates said the company's internal probe may be completed Monday.

Beach trial postponed

AUSTIN (AP) — The first trial in Attorney General Jim Mattox' attempt to prevent owners of some hurricane-damaged beach homes from rebuilding has been postponed until Jan. 4.

The trial was set for Monday but changed Friday on orders of State District Judge Harley Clark.

Clark ordered the change in the trial of Robert L. Matcha of Houston after attorneys indicated the trial would take more than the one day first allocated.

Mattox claims Hurricane Alicia shifted landmarks on West Galveston Island and about 15 partially destroyed homes are now on public beaches.

The great stampede

Film studios exit from Hollywood's costly economic climate

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "They went thataway!" The posse's cry from old Westerns is being heard here again as film companies stampede out of California to greener pastures.

With Hollywood long the world's undisputed film capital, California is now competing with other states eager to attract the glamour, and big bucks, of the $3.6 billion-a-year film industry.

The stakes are huge. The Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers estimates California lost $1.6 billion from 1979 through 1982 to "runaway" producers who were able to find "Hollywood" in Houston, Atlanta, New York and Miami.

Dallas, New York, Orlando, Fla., and Nashville, Tenn., have movie sound stages. Every state has a film commission putting the hard sell on movie and television producers.

Florida boasts "Hollywood weather without Hollywood overhead" and flatly declares in advertising: "In Florida you can produce as good a film as you could in Hollywood or New York ... on a much better budget."

Gov. Bob Graham thinks Florida will someday dethrone Hollywood as the leading production center.

The California Legislature is alarmed. An Assembly committee heard Ed Asner, president of the Screen Actors Guild, testify last month that twice as many movies were made outside California in October as were made in the state.

"Other states are hungry for the business, and we take it for granted because it was founded here," said California Assemblyman Tom Hayden, who is married to actress Jane Fonda.

Movie executives say the primary reasons for this Hollywood exodus are California's costly film permits and use fees, Hollywood labor costs and regulations, an expanding pool of acting and production talent and aggressive recruiting efforts.

Arkansas will give filmmakers a 5 percent rebate on money in excess of $1 million spent in the state in a year's time. The Nevada film office can arrange free or cut-rate housing for film crews.

The city of Buffalo, N.Y., last month turned over its National Guard armory for use as a studio and office for the crew of the Robert Redford film, "The Natural."

When the makers of the movie, "A Soldier's Story," which stars Howard E. Rollins Jr., needed an all-black Army battalion, the governor of Arkansas called up 600 members of the state's National Guard.

During filming of the TV mini-series "Chiefs" in South Carolina, the state's film office provided a red tape-cutting liaison officer on location every day for five months — at no charge.

Such generosity rarely occurs in Southern California, where film companies may be greeted by hostile citizens who don't want their streets blocked off or their sleep disrupted by 4 a.m. filming starts.

"If you're shooting on (Los Angeles') Mulholland Drive, which has been done many times, and a motorist goes by, he doesn't look approvingly on that production, but is likely to curse it for the inconvenience it causes," said Sam Arkoff, an independent producer.

Hollywood weather without Hollywood overhead.

In comparison, a crowd of 2,500 people lined up for two days in Pontiac, Ill., recently for $30-a-day jobs as extras in the movie, "Grandview USA."

"The City of Los Angeles has not helped, considering the movie industry is one of their biggest tourist attractions," added Arkoff, who estimated he'd made 200 of his 500 films outside California, including his latest, "Maria's Lovers," shot in Brownsville, Pa., with Nastassia Kinski and Robert Mitchum.

Los Angeles charges $100 a day for film permits, while nearby Santa Monica demands $400 a day. California's state parks charge $600-$900 daily. And filming in the affluent communities of Beverly Hills or San Marino is rare at any price.

FLORIDA'S CHEAPER — This is a Florida Department of Commerce advertisement directed at film makers in an effort to show them they can produce as good a film on a much better budget. The plan seems to be working as several Hollywood film makers have exited California for Florida's economic climate.

Tuba santas to play White House concert

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — An Indiana University professor and 20 of his proteges are going to march on Washington on Dec. 15, and there's little doubt they'll be heard.

Or seen. When music Professor Harvey Phillips and his Tubasantas perform at the White House, they'll be dressed in Santa Claus suits.

"When you get a request like that you know you've made points," Phillips said. Ten years ago, when he conceived the idea of Tubasantas, his proposal to play Christmas carols in front of the White House Christmas tree was politely refused.

While Phillips appears annually in a Christmas show at New York's Rockefeller Center and will be responsible for nearly 90 "Tuba Christmases" across the nation this year, he said the White House invitation is very important to him.

The 54-year-old Phillips is well known in music circles for his struggle to improve the image of the tuba. His goal is to create more jobs for his tuba students.

In 1973, Phillips organized the first International Tuba Symposium, where composers met with 300 tuba players, and he would like to have a bill introduced in the Indiana General Assembly that would propose making the tuba the official state instrument.

"I'll do it," he said, "as soon as I can find a legislator who plays the tuba."

'Buffalo Bill' returns to schedule Dec. 15

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buffalo Bill," starring Dabney Coleman as the despicable talk-show host who doesn't treat his guests the way Merv Griffin does, will be returning to NBC's lineup on Thursday nights beginning Dec. 15.

The network announced Thursday that the program, which won five Emmy nominations after its 2½-month run last summer, will occupy the 9:30 p.m., Eastern time, slot.

"Cheers," which beat out "Buffalo Bill" as last season's Emmy-winner for best comedy, will move up a half hour earlier to 9 p.m. starting Dec. 15.

That will push "We Got It Made" into a new time period. "We Got It Made" will go off the air for three weeks after its Dec. 8 broadcast, but NBC said it will return to the schedule early in January.

Thursday nights have been one of last-place NBC's few bright spots with "Cheers" and "Hill Street Blues" at 10 p.m., consistently finishing among the week's Top 30 shows.

On Wednesday, ABC announced it was revamping its Thursday night schedule, beginning Dec. 15, when it premieres the new series "Automan" and "Masquerade." "Trauma Center" drops from ABC's schedule after the Dec. 8 episode.

CBS has been dominant on Thursday nights with its lineup of "Magnum, P.I.," "Simon & Simon" and "Knots Landing."

"Buffalo Bill," which was on from June 1 to Aug. 17, attracted an average rating of 12.3 percent of the nation's TV homes and 22 percent of the homes watching TV during the program's time period. Although "Buffalo Bill" was one of the highest-rated of the 10 shows introduced during the summer rerun period, it still finished in the bottom third of all series broadcast last season.

Plane passengers get fear compensation

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Passengers aboard a TWA jet that plunged six miles before the pilots regained control should be compensated for the fear they experienced, even if they weren't physically injured, a jury ruled.

The Hennepin County District Court jury on Friday awarded $50,000 to Dean Abrahamson of Minneapolis, $41,000 to Tom Quill of Edina, and $30,000 to Robert Reber of Fridley for relatively minor injuries and emotional distress.

The three were passengers on a Boeing 727 from New York City to Minneapolis on April 4, 1979, when the plane suddenly rolled over and dived out of control over Michigan. After regaining control, the pilots made an emergency landing in Detroit.

About a dozen of the 82 passengers later filed lawsuits, mostly for minor injuries, against TWA and Boeing. Abrahamson, however, claimed no physical injury and sued only for emotional distress.

Abrahamson's lawyer, James Schwebel, said the jury awarded his client $50,000 because of "the absolute terror of what had happened." Schwebel had asked the six-member jury to award $191,500 to his client and attorney Charles Hvass Jr. had asked $100,000 each for Quill and Reber.

"We tried to show what it was like to believe with absolute certainty that you were going to die," Schwebel said. "That is the ultimate emotional distress."

Abrahamson, 48, is a professor at the University of Minnesota's Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs. He makes about 50 flights a year because of his work and suffers stress each time he boards an airplane, Schwebel said.

Quill, 45, and Reber, 57, claimed minor physical injuries in addition to emotional distress.

The three lawsuits were combined in one trial before Judge Jonathan Lebedoff. Several additional lawsuits filed by passengers are pending.

A lawsuit last spring determined TWA should pay 70 percent of any damages suffered by passengers and Boeing should pay the other 30 percent.

The National Transportation Safety Board determined the crew was at least partially responsible for the mishap.

C-City Playhouse presents 'The Fourposter'

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Playhouse will present the last production for the 1983 season, "The Fourposter", Dec. 8, 9 and 10 and Dec. 15, 16 and 17.

"The Fourposter" is the 61st major production presented through the Colorado City Playhouse. It is directed by Porter Richardson.

The story line, set around the turn of the century, reflects the moral characteristics and whims of a bygone era.

Carl Berry Moore portrays Michael and Sharon Nelms is Agnes.

The box office opens Dec. 5. Reservations may be made by phoning 915-728-3491, between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. daily. Tickets are $4 each.

Economic program planned for students

One of many questions soon to be considered by students at Big Spring High School is "What is the impact of trade restrictions on inflation?"

The discussion will be triggered by their participation in the educational program, "Economics for Young Americans," being provided through The Greater Big Spring Rotary Club.

The program is in conjunction with the Free Enterprise Committee of the club.

A highlight of the program is classroom visits by local business leaders who relate the program's proposals to their personal enterprise experiences.

Gov. White authorizes job training funds

Gov. Mark White has authorized a grant of $1,060,331 in federal funds to the Permian Basin area to provide job training programs and employment opportunities for youth and unskilled adults.

Programs and funds are authorized under the Job Training Partnership Act.

The PIC will oversee the program in Howard, Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties.

Joy! to the world

Horn chair saga

Now hear the saga of a boot dealer known as the "boot king," Billy Joe Wood of Colorado City and his prize possession.

He's a man with lots of fine possessions; however, four or five years ago Billy Joe was able to acquire a genuine "bull horn chair" made of finest leather and 26 bull horns (yes, count 'em, 26). It was made by a real craftsman, Charles Blackburn of Alpine, Texas. Billy Joe figured 13 bulls had to die to build his prize possession. Billy Joe's wife, Bernice, who loves nice things, too, is not too sold on his horn chair. In fact, she says his horn chair is the ugliest thing she has ever seen. Billy Joe figures she just doesn't know the value of his treasure. As a matter of fact, Billy Joe says he lies in bed at night trying to figure out which one of his two sons, Don, who is a part of the boot firm of his son, Paul, who is a student at Angelo State University, to leave his horn chair to in his will. Don told me that wasn't going to be any great problem because he doesn't want it.

Dr. Charles Froneberger who heard the problem and said it must be screw worms. They eat on live animals so maybe they are attacking his horn chair. Billy Joe was not satisfied with that explanation from a doctor too busy doctoring live animals to mess with a house call to see about a dead set of horns. In desperation, Billy Joe called his friend Wilford Oylar, the guy who knows everything you want to know about exterminating pests but were afraid to ask. Well, Billy Joe asked and Oylar came right over. As soon as he got there and looked at the problem he knew right away the varmint eating away at Billy Joe's horn chair — it was the carpet beetle that will attack anything made of hair, hide, horn or wool. Oylar had experience with this particular pest when someone donated an artifact to the Colorado City Museum and the pesky beetle was attacking the horse hair stuffing of the cushion of an ancient chair brought to Mitchell County so long ago before the county was even thought about. Anyway, Oylar made short work of the pest.

Now we come to the sad part of this story. Tuesday Billy Joe was sitting in his office of the boot store thinking high level thoughts and he noticed this "dust" under his prized horn chair. On close inspection he was horrified to find some kind of bug eating away. Billy Joe immediately picked up the phone and called the Mitchell County Veterinarian Clinic and talked to

Now the scene shifts back to Billy Joe making an emergency call to his insurance agent, Tom Lovell, to find out if his insurance covers his treasured horn chair. That's when I left because what if Lovell said "no" and I knew I'd see a grown man cry. I'll have to wait and see how this saga turns out.

Dorm fires have officials puzzled

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — A senior, who last week speculated that a student was starting dozens of fires terrorizing University of Massachusetts dormitory residents, was in jail today after being charged with setting a blaze in a neighbor's room, police said.

Less than six hours after the arrest, yet another fire broke out in a dorm on the 25,000-student campus around 1:20 a.m. today.

Yvette I. Henry, 20, who worked as dormitory assistant and counselor, was held in lieu of $10,000 bail in connection with a fire on the desk of a student who lived next to her.

Campus officials arrested Ms. Henry, a chemistry major from Philadelphia, on Friday after setting off fire alarms to clear the building for a room-to-room search.

More than two dozen dorm fires have broken out in the past two months at the university, mainly on bulletin boards, in trash cans or in bathrooms, officials said. Earlier Friday, university officials announced that the FBI had been called in to help investigate.

Today's fire in four-story Cance dorm was confined to a bulletin board and was extinguished within minutes, dorm residents said. However, university police declined comment.

Rosemary Tarantino, assistant district attorney for Hampshire and Franklin counties, said Ms. Henry faces two complaints of "burning the personal property of another." She declined to say what evidence was found in the search of Ms. Henry's room.

Campus officials would not say whether Ms. Henry is a suspect in any of the other fires that have plagued several dormitories this semester.

"We have no plans to lift security in the dormitory, and we are by no means reducing our alertness, our extraordinary efforts," university Chancellor Joseph Duffey said.

Ms. Henry, who receives free room and board for counseling students in her role as resident assistant in Crampton dormitory, told a reporter last week that many of the building's 170 residents were suspicious of one another and she suspected someone in the dorm was responsible.

"A lot of people have been talking about it and think it's someone in the dorm," she said. "I'm amazed that no one in the dorm has seen anything. It's hard to keep information from a small group of people."

DOLL SENSATION — A worker grooms the hair of a Cabbage Patch Kid, the overnight doll sensation that is sweeping the United States, at a factory in Hong Kong. More than two million of the dolls have been produced in factories here and in China by Coleco Industries of West Hartford, Conn. However, the company is now facing heavy competition from dolls of similar style.

Diapers, belly buttons cause headaches for doll marketers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The wildly popular Cabbage Patch Kids are facing new competition from tens of thousands of similar-looking dolls that squeaked past U.S. Customs because they have neither bottoms nor belly buttons.

"The authentic Cabbage Patch doll has a lifelike tush," District Director of Customs Paul Andrews noted gravely.

The "Flower Kid" doll doesn't — so it's being allowed in the country to compete with the homely, yarn-haired Cabbage Patch dolls that have created near-riots as shoppers rushed to buy them.

Andrews said Friday that after comparison of the Cabbage Patch and "Flower Kid" dolls in Washington, officials had decided that America's doors were open to the new imports. That means 10,000 Flower Kids already here, 70,000 on the way and 250,000 still at the factory in Hong Kong.

And as if that weren't enough of a headache for Coleco Industries Inc., the distributor of the Cabbage Patch dolls is running low on diapers and names for its own product.

"We would welcome anyone who can suggest new names," said Malcolm Jeffery Kravit, Far East director of Coleco, which gives each doll a diaper, a name, a "birth certificate" and "adoption" papers. "Two and a half million names are a ... lot of names," he added.

Cabbage Patch mania this holiday shopping season has wiped out supplies of the chubby dolls at many stores and created long lines of shoppers wherever there's word of a new shipment. In several cases police had to restore order and at least five people have been injured in scrambles for the dolls.

Based on one-of-a-kind "Little People" dolls handmade by Georgia craftsman Xavier Roberts, the dolls are now mass-produced with computer-designed faces. They hit the market earlier this year.

Like the Coleco dolls, the Flower Kid dolls are 16 inches high, chubby and a little homely.

But unlike the Cabbage Patch Kids, they lack fingers, toes, disposable diapers, pug noses and, most persuasively, belly buttons, officials said.

"If the Flower Kid had a belly button, it might have been an entirely different story," Andrews said.

The 10,000-doll Flower Kid shipment was seized November 23 on its arrival in Oakland from the Far East, and was held under guard in a warehouse while lawyers and Customs officials compared the two dolls.

Specimens were flown to Washington on Tuesday for a top-level ruling, and the decision came three days later.

"This is a great victory," said Seth Jaffe, the attorney who represented Flower Kid interests. "There's no reason why Coleco should have the homely doll market all to itself."

While the Cabbage Patch dolls sell for $25 each, the Flower Kids have no birth certificates or adoption papers, and have a price tag of $12.88. The Flower Kid dolls are made and sold by Blue Box Toys.

Medical suppliers sentenced

DALLAS (AP) — The owner of a Cleburne medical supply house and two employees have been sentenced for sending Medicare $78,000 worth of fraudulent bills.

Arthur Gerald Hilley, 39, owner of Hilley's Medical Supplies Inc., was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $15,000 by U.S. District Judge Robert M. Hill.

Richard Mitchell, 35, of Grand Prairie, received a two-year prison term and $5,000 fine. Karen Parker, 26, of Cleburne, was sentenced to six months in prison and fined $5,000. She also was placed on probation for 4½ years.

Hilley's company overcharged Medicare by $250,000 for supplies delivered to 10 nursing homes in North and Central Texas last year, said Gene Richardson, a regional inspector general for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The nursing homes were supposed to inform the company when they used the supplies and it was to inform Medicare. Instead, the company billed Medicare before the materials were used.

As part of a plea bargain, the three pleaded guilty to fraudulently billing Medicare and reimbursed the government for $159,000 in overpayments. The government also canceled $82,250 in Medicare checks it had made out to the company.

On Turning Heads

by Gary Don

One of the new looks this season is a short cut with a tousled front and smoothed back. The top and front get their ruffled fullness by being cut in longish layers. On the sides, the layers are cut from underneath to allow the hair to taper to a narrow line at the nape. This method of cutting allows the creation of a platform for the top layers, giving the hair a pretty lift. The result is a clean, bold look with enough fullness to give this short cut beautiful interest and a diversity of wear on top.

Keeping your hair in peak condition requires proper care between visits to the beauty salon. Our job is to know the condition and texture of your hair and how to keep it shiny, soft and manageable. We can help you select a style that will allow you the flexibility to meet your busy schedule looking your best. Beautiful hair begins with a visit to LA CONTESSA. You will find us conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are open to serve you Tues.-Sat. Tel. 267-2187.

Home for Christmas

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

The doors will be opened to some of the city's most beautiful homes today as the Big Spring Symphony Guild introduces its Christmas Parade of Homes tour. Four homes plus the Potton House will be featured on the tour from 1 to 5 p.m. Tickets for the entire tour are $5 and available at each home during tour hours.

First on the itinerary to day is the 611 Highland Dr. home of Paul and Rose Shaffer, Big Spring natives who decorate in Early American. It will be open from 1 to 3 p.m. "I was very honored to be asked to show my home," Mrs. Shaffer said. The Shaffers have lived on Highland Drive about 20 years and raised their children in the home. Christmas decorations adorn rooms throughout. Above the fireplace, Mrs. Shaffer hung two stockings for her grandchildren, which she made herself.

THE NEXT HOME on the tour is just down Highland Drive from the Shaffers. It is the home of Dr. David Rickey and his wife Judy, located at 805 Highland Dr. It, too, will be opened from 1 to 3 p.m. The Rickey home has traditional and Early American decor. The living room features a wall of doll chests where Mrs. Rickey displays a collection of 200 dolls from around the world. A flocked Christmas tree decorated with red and gold bows, bells with fruit, red cardinals, a straw wreath, 17 strands of lights, icicles, bubbles and pearl beads highlights the room.

The Rickeys' entry, dining room, and den also are in fashion for the season. The Rickeys have lived in the 20-year-old, two-story house for 6½ years. It has brick flooring in the den and kitchen, a brick fireplace and red carpeting. Many of the home's furnishings and decorations are from foreign travels and antiques from their grandparents' farm in Ohio.

"I think Big Spring Symphony is a worthwhile endeavor and I want to do my share to support it," Mrs. Rickey said. Doing her share meant extensively decorating and sharing her home for the parade of homes. "It has taken a lot of time to get ready and I have added decorations I have never had before."

From the Rickeys' home, visitors will go to Eddie and Debbie Cole's home at 608 Washington. It will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. Their remodeled two-story home sets on two acres, or about eight city blocks.

PLACING THE GIFTS — Travis and Linda Floyd place gifts under the Christmas tree in their home, which is located at 805 Edwards. The ranch home is decorated with modern and traditional furnishings, and sits next to a creek. Floyd built most of the home himself.

TRIMMING THE TREE — Millie Cunningham, on the ladder, and Charlie Morehead, on the floor, trim the tall tree in the parlor of the Potton House, 200 Gregg. The Christmas Parade of Homes tour will end at the Victorian-styled house with a champagne reception.

DINING ROOM'S DECOR — Rose Shaffer, wife of Paul Shaffer, ponders over her dining room's decorations while sipping on a cup of coffee in one of her Santa mugs. Sitting in the center of the table, the reindeer's antlers form a candelabrum accented with holiday tapers. The chandelier above is entwined with greenery and poinsettia. The Shaffers live at 611 Highland Drive.

THE HOUSE ORIGINALLY belonged to a Mr. Harding who built it for his two daughters in the late 1920s to early 1930s. Harding was an elderly gentleman, according to Cole. Supposedly he sat in front of the house as it was being built and inspected every board that went into it. "I guess you'd call it a very modern house of its kind in the 1920s," Cole said.

In the late 1930s, the house was sold to Bill Mead, founder of the well-known Mead's Bakery, which made "Mead's Fine Bread." In 1949, it was sold to the Cecil McDonalds. The Coles bought it in 1975 and have had an ongoing project of remodeling and decorating in it since. It has traditional furnishings. The house is about 4,000 square feet, and the property includes a guest house, which used to be servants' quarters, two garages that will hold six cars, a large patio and a swimming pool.

'I think Big Spring Symphony is a worthwhile endeavor and I want to do my share to support it.'

"We wanted a kind of old-timey Christmas look this year — a little casual," Cole said.

THE NEXT STOP is the home of Travis and Linda Floyd at 805 Edwards, open from 2 to 4 p.m. The Floyds home was built in 1975 next to a creek. It sits on one acre in the city, and is a modern ranch home with modern and traditional furnishings and decorations. Native landscaping is visible through large windows and is incorporated in the home's decor by the rocks used for the fireplace and on the exterior. The rocks are native to this area. It is a casual home, said Floyd, who built a good portion of it. The kitchen, dining room, living room, den area, bar and breakfast area are all one large room, making an excellent entertaining area.

"We usually always back the symphony (association)," Mrs. Floyd said. That's why they decided to help with the Christmas Parade of Homes under its first-year theme of "Home for Christmas." The Symphony Guild plans to make the event an annual affair. "We are civic-minded and participate in many projects," Floyd said.

THE TOUR IS COMPLETED when guests visit the Potton House at 200 Gregg for a champagne reception from 2 to 5 p.m. The house is a turn of the century Victorian structure and a historically preserved home. Guests will be entertained by Mary Skalicky on the harpsichord. Marjorie Dodson will also provide music. Hot spiced punch, cheese balls and old-fashioned cookies also will be served.

The Potton House was built in 1901 by Joseph and Mary Potton who came to Big Spring in 1882. Potton was a master mechanic for Texas and Pacific Railroad, and an early civic leader in Big Spring. Mrs. Potton served tea in the English tradition every afternoon in her charming, ornate quasi mansion.

The house was kept in the family after the Pottons' death. In recent years the grandchildren maintained it daily even though it was vacant. It was purchased with a grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation and the Tourist Development Council of the City of Big Spring in 1975. It was chosen as an entry into the National Register of Historic Places because of its excellent Victorian architecture.

MRS. KURT JAMES CHEATHAM
...formerly Connie Dale Smith

Smith-Cheatham

Connie Dale Smith and Kurt James Cheatham were united in marriage during a Saturday evening ceremony at College Baptist Church. The Rev. Bobby Fuller, pastor officiated the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. The couple was wed before an archway decorated with clusters of burgundy carnations, pink spider mums, and baby's breath. The archway was flanked by candelabra decorated with greenery. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Smith, 1605 Lancaster. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Cheatham of Sulphur Springs.

Tammy Worthan, vocalist, and Mrs. Donald Richardson, organist and pianist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a sheer sweetheart yoke of Brussels silk embroidery trimmed with a deep Chantilly lace ruffle.

The lace sleeves ended in cuffs at the wrist. The A-line skirt had cascades of sheer ruffles falling into a chapel-length train. The skirt was bordered in a lace ruffle.

To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a waltz-length veil held by a picture hat of Brussels silk embroidery accented with pearls. The crown of the hat was bordered with silk flowers.

The bride carried a cascade of white roses, burgundy carnations and pink snowflake mums accented with baby's breath and English ivy.

Rod helps with kitchen storage needs

If not having enough drawer space for kitchen gadgets is a problem, try this. Install a simple medium-height curtain tension rod using either S hooks or upside-down curtain hangers. Perfect for hanging colanders, cheese graters, garlic braids and more.

Tape holds candle secure in candlestick

Seldom do candle and candlesticks match perfectly. For a perfect fit, take a holiday hint, and put a strip of self-stick foam weatherstrip tape around the base of each candle.

The tape will adjust instantly to the candlestick opening and the candle will remain securely in place. The narrow foam won't show above the holder.

Stoker-Reeves

Darlene Cole of Andrews served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Wylene Payte, Jennifer Shirey and Karla Cheatham of Sulphur Springs, sister of the bridegroom. Misty Hogg and Coti Massey were flower girls.

Ray Harris of Bedford was best man. Groomsmen were Tommy Berry, Doug Tate and Charlie Clark. Ring bearers were Justin Cole and Cody Smith, both nephews of the bride. Gordon Rhodes, Paul Rosenow and Jimmy Brown were ushers.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. A three-tiered cake, decorated with pink and burgundy roses, featured a fountain. The cake was topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine. The table held an arrangement of carnations and spider mums in a silver wine cooler.

A horseshoe-shaped German chocolate cake was served at the bridegroom's table. The bridegroom's table held a floral arrangement accented with candles.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hurst Bell High School in Hurst. He is employed by Halliburton.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M.

Disa Lenise Stoker and Randy Ross Reeves were united in marriage during a Saturday evening ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Coahoma. Danny Curry, pastor, officiated the 8 p.m. rite before an altar decorated with two fifteen-branch candelabra accented with rose-colored flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Bessie Stoker, Rt. 1. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Reeves, 538 Westover. Ronna Reeves of Odessa, cousin of the bride, and Steve Brown, vocalists, were accompanied by Crystal Freeman of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, pianist.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a formal-length gown of white silk organza. A Victorian neckline enhanced the bodice, which was overlaid with Chantilly lace and accented with seed pearls. The skirt fell from the waistline and ended in a chapel-length train edged by a ruffle and Chantilly lace. The fingertip-length veil was edged in matching lace.

The bride carried a cascade of white carnations, roses and rose-colored daisies.

Wendy Bussell of Coahoma was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sandra Tercero and Teresa Henderson. Todd Henderson was best man. Groomsmen were Robbie Reeves of Lubbock, cousin of the bridegroom, and Brent Hutchens of Abilene. Ushers were Danny Stoker, brother of the bride, and Wesley Beauchamp.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall.

The bride is attending Coahoma High School and Aladdin Beauty College. The bridegroom graduated from Canyon High School in Canyon. He attended West Texas State University in Canyon and Texas Tech University in Lubbock. The bridegroom is employed by Big Spring Beverages.

The couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Tina Wood feted with bridal shower Nov. 29

Tina Wood, bride-elect of Mark Sundry, was feted with a bridal shower in the Fellowship Hall at Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church, Nov. 29.

The event was hosted by Barbara Daily and Linda Mulligan.

The couple will wed Dec. 9 at the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church with the Rev. Dale Daily, pastor, officiating.

Craig-Gibson

The Lutheran Church of the Risen Lord in Odessa was the setting for the Saturday morning wedding of Leah Craig and Gary Gibson. The Rev. Jim Otterness, pastor, officiated the 11 a.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Craig of LeRoy, Ill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, Sterling City Rt.

Jim Fullingim of Petersburg, vocalist, was accompanied by La Honda Adams of Petersburg, organist, and Gayle Fullingim, pianist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown of satin and Chantilly lace. The Queen Anne neckline enhanced the fitted bodice, which was accented with seed pearls on Chantilly lace motifs. The full skirt fell in rows of antique lace into a chapel-length train. A natural flounce bordered the hem. Her matching fingertip-length veil was held by a cap of antique lace. It was made by the bridegroom's mother.

Step-families strengthen during holidays

Holidays can provide extra stress for a step-family in the process of developing its own identity as a family unit, says a Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

Before the holidays, parents should decide where and how children will spend their time, without placing them in the middle of disagreements among ex-spouses, parents and step-parents. Parents also may have to remind relatives that children and step-children should be included equally in receiving gifts from relatives and in extended family celebrations, ceremonies, pictures or other activities.

The step-family can also take time for hobbies, sport or other activities they enjoy doing together.

Leona Swopes of Petersburg served her sister as matron of honor. Frank Gibson, father of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride graduated from LeRoy High School in LeRoy, Ill., and attended Parkland Junior College in Champaign, Ill. She is employed by West Texas Oil and Gas Corporation.

The bridegroom graduated from Garden City High School and attended Midland Junior College. He owns Gibson Container Company in Midland.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will make their home in Midland.

Classical garments have professional look

Classically styled garments help the professional woman project an appropriate image for business. "With the competitiveness of today's job market, projecting this image is important," says Nancy Brown, clothing specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

A recent survey shows working women believe their manner of dress is important in creating a successful image, and most said purchasing garments which project competence is vital to their careers. Of these women, 86 percent preferred classically styled clothing and were generally less influenced by current fashion.

Because classical garments are an investment that will last for several years, less money must be allocated to the clothing budget each year.

Classical designs, unlike fads, are seasonless. In women's clothing they are similar to men's tailored suits: simple, clean and yet elegant. There is no clutter and no direct focus, but rather a style that reflects a hint of authority.

To achieve a classic look, Brown recommends emphasis on suits, skirts, soft blouses, blazers and jacket dresses to develop a slim and natural silhouette.

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5x7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 267-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

DECEMBER'S BIRTHSTONE

The finest quality turquoise stones are smooth and have an evenly-distributed color of intense medium blue. The name "turquoise" is said to be derived from the French term "Pierre Turquoise" which means "Turkish Stone." The adoption of the phrase was probably due to its being the first stone to reach Europe by way of Turkey. It is the Birthstone of December. The ancient Aztec, Inca, Egyptian, Persian, and American Indian civilizations valued turquoise highly. To the Indians of the American Southwest, in the 16th Century, turquoise was a medium of exchange. It embodied the spirits of the sea and sky. Both the ancient Egyptians and the Aztecs of Mexico buried Chiefs and Monarchs with turquoise treasures as protection.

BLUM'S JEWELERS well known throughout the Big Spring area for over 22 years of experience and expertise in the field of fine jewelry and gift items cordially invites you to make us your first stop for Holiday shopping. ### Garden checklist for December

- The garden checklist for December follows:
1. Check condition of Christmas tree lights and cords before placing on the tree. Dry evergreen foliage and a short circuit are the ingredients for a holiday tragedy.
  2. Protect your lawn from excessive winter damage by providing irrigation during dry periods.
  3. Old Christmas tree branches can serve as mulch. Don't attempt to dispose by burning in the fireplace as it is unsafe.
  4. "Weed" trees and shrubs frequently sprout and grow in shrub borders and hedges. They often go unnoticed until they have crowded valuable shrubs. These should be pulled or dug out of your plantings as soon as possible.
  5. Plant those spring flowering bulbs if you haven't already done so.
  6. Try to interest your garden club or civic organization to take leadership in a community effort to clean-up, fix-up and paint-up the community. Start early so program is in full swing by early spring.
  7. African violets and other plants that are watered from below or by a wick method should be thoroughly watered from the top at least every 4 to 6 weeks to wash out any soluble salts that may have accumulated at the soil surface from evaporation.
  8. Don't use candles near flammable Christmas decorations.
  9. Prolong the life of Christmas gift plants by providing proper care. Check to see if the pot wrap has plugged up the bottom drainage. Don't overwater. Keep out of drafts from heating vents and opening doorways. Fertilizer is seldom needed the first few months.
  10. Break up garden beds for spring planting. Work in any needed organic matter and have beds ready to plant when needed.
  11. Consider replacing those bare spots in heavily shaded lawn areas with liriope, Mondo grass, vinca or English ivy.
  12. Don't forget those tulip bulbs in the refrigerator. They can be planted any time this month if they have received 60 or more days of chilling.
  13. Annual and perennial beds as well newly planted trees and shrubs should be checked for adequate moisture at frequent intervals. Much so called winter injury could be prevented if plants had received adequate moisture.
  14. Continue to select any trees and shrubs needed in your landscape plan.
  15. Remove and destroy bagworm pouches on narrow leaved evergreens.
  16. Rake leaves in lawn area and place in compost pile.
  17. Spider mites, mealy bugs, white fly and other pests can take over house plants and plants in the backyard greenhouse if not checked frequently.
  18. Want to start cuttings of your favorite Christmas cactus? As soon as they have finished blooming, select a cutting with four or five joints, break or cut it off and insert the basal end into a pot of potting soil that is moderately moist. Place it on a window sill or other brightly lit area. The cuttings should be rooted within three to four weeks.
  19. Been wondering why those poinsettia plants you carried over from last Christmas haven't started to show color? Maybe this will explain why. First, poinsettias aren't the easiest plants to flower under non-greenhouse conditions. Better, perhaps just to buy a new one each year. But to re-flower one, remember that poinsettias, like mums, Christmas cactus and kalanchoes, have a built-in light measuring mechanism that tells them when fall (and blooming season approaches. If we keep these plants in the house with lights on around then, they never bloom. The answer: starting some 6 to 10 weeks prior to the desired blooming date, begin long night treatments. Keep the plants in absolute, total uninterrupted darkness for 14 hours each night. Set the plants near a bright window during the day.

20. Don't spare the pruning shears when transplanting bare-rooted woody plants. Cut top back at least 1/3 to 1/2 to compensate for the roots lost when digging the plant.
21. Use a durable edging material of brick, concrete block, cedar, redwood, steel or one of the new heavy duty plastic materials to separate the lawn from shrub, ground cover or flower beds to reduce maintenance labor.
22. Check the credentials of any door-to-door salesman of garden or landscape service. If they have no permanent address or can offer no references, check their legitimacy with your local Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau. Many self-styled tree surgeons can't tell one tree from another, let alone know how to care for them.

Christmas parties in planning stages

Planning for the rounds of Christmas parties is already underway. Some of the parties will be hosted by NITA AND BOB WASH, JACKIE AND TRAVIS BRACKEEN and LINDA AND TRAVIS FLOYD. BOB AND SHERRY WEGNER and DR. RON AND GINA COHORN hosted their annual Art Show and Party last night. The show featured guest artists JUSTIN WELLS of Amarillo and JIM THOMAS of Austin. Wells and Thomas are renown Western artists.

The DAVID MELDAHL moved to Lake Jackson this week. JANE MELDAHL resigned as manager of Big Spring Mall Tuesday, and David took a great position as senior development computer analyst with a South Texas Nuclear Project, Thursday.

This is a big opportunity for David and the Meldahl family. They wouldn't leave Big Spring for just anything, Jane said while visiting with me at the Mall last week. The Meldahls enjoyed their time in Big Spring.

The JERRY AVERYS had a guest at their home last week. DONNA RZESZOTARSKI of San Jose, Calif., JONI AVERY'S suitemate at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, came down for the Thanksgiving holiday.

FRED AND LANA OVERTON and children KENT and KRISTI of Carthage and KELLY OVERTON of Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches were guests during the Thanksgiving holidays of MAT-TIE WREN. The Overtons also were in Monahans for a family reunion at the home of the JOE CONNALLY family.

TRACI CONNALLY was elected a beauty queen at her high school in Monahans. Mattie is proud of her. RUTH CONNALLY, Joe's wife, was a former employee of 1st National Bank here.

LILLIAN RHYNE was honored with a surprise birthday party at Berea Baptist Church's Fellowship Hall, Nov. 25. Hosting the occasion were her children CLAUDIA AND TOMMY BROWN of Arlington, GENE AND CINDY TUCKNESS of Cappell, W.D. AND MARY O'DONNELL of Alvarado, granddaughter DEBRA AND MIKE MILLER of Arlington and nephew JOE TUCKNESS of Plano.

Out of town guests at the party were from Lamesa, Midland, Qualin and Houston and included Mrs. Rhyne's sister Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hauerwas of Qualin.

Party tips for the responsible host

The holidays are here and your are planning to give a party. You want your guests to enjoy themselves and you plan to serve alcoholic beverages.

So that your guests will remember your party for the enjoyment it provided (not for how bad they felt the next day) consider these tips:

* The home setting — Greet your guests and instead of sending them directly to the "bar" for a cold drink introduce them to someone they don't know or reacquaint them with an old friend.

* Pace the drinks — Serve drinks at regular, reasonable intervals. The length of the interval will depend on whether the guests are enjoying the company or the drinks more. A drink-an-hour schedule means good company prevails.

* Don't push drinks — Wait until the glass is empty before you offer another drink, especially if someone comes up empty too fast. When a guest says "No, thanks" to an alcohol drink — don't insist.

* Push the snacks — Offer snacks while your guests are drinking, not after. Food slows down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream. It also slows the rate at which people drink.

* Serve non-alcoholic drinks, too — One out of three adults chooses not to drink at all. Occasional drinkers sometimes prefer not to. Offer a choice of drinks besides alcohol, such as fruit and vegetable juices, tea, coffee, and soft drinks.

* Offer more than drinks — When guests focus on the drinks, the party is slipping. Introduce two people who don't know each other. Get a conversation started. Share a laugh.

* Serving dinner — If you're going to serve dinner or an evening snack, do it before it's too late. If the "cocktail hour" goes on for hours, nobody will know what they had for dinner.

* Set drinking limits — When a guest has had too much to drink, politely express your concern for them by offering a substitute drink — coffee, perhaps. This is a gentle way of telling a guest that they have reached the limits you have set for your home.

* Closing the bar — Decide in advance when you want your party to end. Then give appropriate cues by word and action that it's time to leave. A considerate way to close the drinking phase is to serve a substantial snack. It also provides some non-drinking time before your guests start to drive home.

In spite of your best intentions someone may become drunk at your party. See that the drunken guest gets home safely, but do not let him drive.

Sometimes it's best to let the guest "sleep it off" instead of going home. There is no way to sober up quickly because it takes about one hour per drink for the body to metabolize the alcohol that is in the blood stream.

Several citizen groups and alcoholism experts have urged FDA to expand its efforts to ban alleged "sobriety aids" such as Sober Aid, Sober Up, and Sober Up Time. The groups also called on FDA to issue public warnings to protect consumers from such products, which claim to reduce or prevent intoxication.

Women need to drink more milk

"Many women say they don't like or can't drink milk. And they're not unlike the average American women," says Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Recent studies suggest women would benefit from drinking more milk. Men also need the calcium provided by dairy products, but women have a greater need. Of the six million broken bones caused by minor falls in 1981, more than 80 percent occurred in older women.

As they grow older, women become more vulnerable to the weakening of their bone structure: a condition known as osteoporosis. The best prevention is good nutrition, including an adequate supply of calcium daily over the lifespan.

Dear Abby

Battered marriage is down for last count

DEAR ABBY: After five months of marriage I am contemplating a divorce. "Marty" and I lived together for two years, so it's not as if we didn't know each other when we married.

We are always fighting. He never wants to be with my friends or family — only his. I've done nothing but give, give, give, and he takes, takes, takes. I was in the hospital with bleeding ulcers and Marty didn't bring me a flower — not even a weed! All he brought to my hospital bed was more fighting. I could go on and on.

After I got home I told him I wanted out of this marriage. He started crying and begging me to stay. Now he's making me feel sorry for him. He wants another chance. I've already given him so many chances I've lost count. His mother reminds me that we made a vow to God to live together regardless — and this is from a woman who is on her fourth marriage! Can you believe the never? Now she is making me feel guilty!

Am I wrong in my decision to leave him, Abby? My mother says, "Leave him."

HAD IT IN CINCINNATI

DEAR HAD IT: Don't ask me. Don't ask your mother. And don't ask his mother.

Nobody can "make you" do anything or feel anything. As an adult you must make your own decisions and take the responsibility for your own actions. From your letter I would say you have been repeatedly used and abused, and if you remain in that kind of situation, you're asking for more of the same. Separate from him, and if he doesn't convince you that he will treat you right — make that separation permanent.

***

DEAR ABBY: Our newspaper rarely publishes an address for those who want to write to you with a problem. Today I saw a box number where one can obtain your booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." I have just passed my 83rd birthday and have already had three lovely weddings, which were sufficient, thank you.

I remain very truly yours.

WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: Write to P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

***

DEAR ABBY: I work with a guy who is very friendly at work. I have met his wife and she seems very nice, too. Of course, they are a married couple and I am a single man, but I would like to be their friend.

Several times I have mentioned to this man that I would like to come and visit him and his wife at their home, but I have never been invited. Last week I had to deliver something to their home, so I planned on spending the evening with them. (They knew I was coming.) They seemed glad to see me, but after I was there for half an hour, the wife stood up and said, "I'm sorry, but we have to go somewhere." The way she said it sounded suspicious, so instead of driving home, I parked my car down the street from their house and waited for nearly two hours, but they never did come out.

I really like these people. What do I have to do to make them realize I want to be their friend?

PUZZLED IN TEXAS

DEAR PUZZLED: Please don't pursue this married couple. Most married people prefer to socialize with other married couples. Try to cultivate the friendship of single acquaintances. If you push too hard to socialize with this man, you will spoil the good relationship you have with him at work.

Dr. Donohue

Coldness aggravates bicyclist's chest

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been riding a bicycle all summer and fall, and I have had no problem. Only now, when the weather has turned, am I having any difficulty. Now my chest in the nipple area is quite sore after riding. What can I do about this? — H.I.

Runners have the same problem. In their case the cause of the irritation is the friction of their clothing. Bicyclists, on the other hand, develop sore nipples in cold weather because their clothing has become moist from perspiration. The resulting chill from the air lowers the temperature of their nipples and they get sore. You should wear clothes that can be effective windbreakers, yet be porous enough inside to absorb any moisture. I suggest you try putting a couple of layers of newspaper between two T-shirts.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Leg muscles become tired because of lactic acid buildup, right? How about neutralizing this effect by giving the athlete sodium bicarbonate. That should block the acid's effect and stop fatigue. — G.M.

You're right in style trying to combine chemistry and physical education for better performance, G.M. In high-intensity, short-duration activity, like sprinting, although the cause of muscle fatigue isn't really clear, one theory is that lactic acid accumulation has stopped muscle sugar metabolism. It cannot be used for energy, so fatigue results.

I'm sorry to tell you that your sodium bicarbonate idea has been tried. Sprinters were given sodium bicarbonate prior to running and it did seem to improve their running time. But I don't think you should try this. Wait until more studies are done to see if it's a safe practice. Those studies must be done by trained scientists. We shouldn't experiment with body chemistry unless we are experts and unless we are prepared for unexpected and sometimes deleterious results.

Also, for long-distance running, the idea has flaws. This kind of fatigue stems from depletion of muscle sugar, not from lactic acid buildup. So giving sodium bicarbonate or any other neutralizing solution to distance runners wouldn't help them. But I'm going to watch the sports medicine journals for an update on your idea.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The enclosed ad seems too good to be true. I would appreciate your comments on the efficacy of such "wonders" that promise to tone my lower abdominal flab. Or is it a scam? I consider your column required reading, so what you say goes. — L.S.

I appreciate your confidence. I looked at the ad, and truly I can't tell you if it is a scam, but I do have doubts as to its efficacy. I've yet to find the wonder toning device for muscles. I believe your walking program (another part of your letter) is far more effective than anything that claims such extravagant results. I've wasted too much money on such products myself. I am skeptical along with you. Stay on your program and save your money until you have seen with your own eyes, verifiable results. Things that seem too good to be true usually are.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.
