City attorney: Referendum 'wouldn't have mattered'

Federal action changes charter

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

The settlement reached between the City of Big Spring and the League of Latin American Citizens (LULAC) which extends the terms of office of the mayor and two city councilmembers has become a "court-ordered amendment to the city charter" and will not be voted on in a referendum election by the citizens of Big Spring, City Attorney Doyle Curtis said Thursday.

Curtis said the council discussed submitting the agreement to the public, but added that the outcome of such a referendum "wouldn't have mattered" since the agreement would still have had to be approved by federal court and the U.S. Justice Department of Justice.

"What we did was not only authorized by the law, but required by it," Curtis said.

The agreement, approved Nov. 29 by the U.S. Department of Justice and made available to the Herald Wednesday, will expand the council from five to seven members, with three councilmembers elected from single-member districts. Under the agreement, councilmembers will serve a three-year term. Elections for two of the districts will be held in April of next year, but will not involve any of the presently sitting councilmembers.

Included in the court order is a provision extending the terms of office of Mayor Clyde Angel and Councilman Larry Miller until 1986. Angel and Miller were elected in 1982 for two-year terms. The provision also extends the term of office of Councilman Robert Fuller — elected in 1982 for a two-year term — until 1985.

LULAC lawyer Rolando Rios of San Antonio said Thursday that in negotiations before the settlement was reached his side was "trying to resolve the conflict to accommodate the minorities and give them some representation."

"Our concern was the single-member districts. As far as who ran when, we left it up to the council," Rios said.

"They could work out the terms any way they wanted as long as we got the three (single-member districts)," local LULAC representative Pat Deanda said Thursday.

"There were more approaches (to election re-organization) than there were people there," Mayor Clyde Angel said in reference to the closed city council meetings in which

Restitution center for crime planned for Dawson County

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

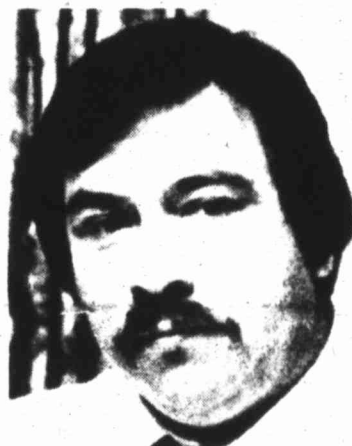

Dawson County may soon be the site of a state restitution center where convicted criminals can work off their crimes through public service, a group of probation officers were told here yesterday.

Jim McDonough, program service director for the Texas Adult Probation Commission in Austin, was among several speakers meeting with the West Texas Area Chiefs' Association in Big Spring.

The group, composed of chief probation officers from around West Texas, met in Big Spring Thursday and again today at the invitation of the 118th Judicial District Adult Probation Department and Chief Probation officer Frank Martinez. Martinez said 18 area probation officers attended the event.

McDonough touched on several subjects, including restitution centers which are being built in several areas of the state.

Dawson County "is in the initial stages and (is) investigating the possibilities" of establishing a restitution center in that area.

McDonough said.

McDonough said that restitution centers are "residential facilities where people can be placed by the court as a condition of probation in lieu of sending them to the penitentiary."

"A lot of people don't need that kind of punishment," McDonough said. In restitution centers, he said, residents live by and obey certain rules and work to pay restitution to victims of crime and to the community.

Examples of work done by restitution center residents are "fixing up parks and cemeteries," McDonough explained. Residents are expected to make contributions to the community in which they are housed.

Approval of restitution center funding was approved last session by the Texas Legislature. Texas is one of the first states to implement the program and the state hopes to have "10 to 12 centers going before the end of this fiscal year (in August of 1984) and 15 to 20 by the end of the next fiscal year," McDonough said.

Judge Jim Gregg, 118th Judicial District Judge, welcomed the area probation officers to the meeting Thursday morning at the conference room of the Great Western Motel.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, met with the probation

Festival kicks off Christmas season

Marching bands, beauty queens and Santa Claus will be in Big Spring Saturday to help the city celebrate Christmas as the Holiday Festival gets underway at 10 a.m.

Bill Nehls, chairman of the Holiday Festival, said Santa Claus will fly into Big Spring at 9:45 a.m. on a helicopter provided by Cathey Construction. He will land in the First National Bank parking lot and will join the Holiday Festival parade which begins at 10 a.m. at Fifth and Main.

The parade will proceed down Main Street to the courthouse, go west on Third to Gregg, then south on Gregg all the way to the Highland Mall, Nehls said.

"There will be 85 units in the parade, and it will last one hour," Nehls said.

Among participants in the parade are beauty queens from the Big Spring area and from the state. Catherine Jones, Miss Merry Christmas, is among parade participants.

Other queens include Tracey Dawn Estes, Miss West Texas. Miss Estes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Estes of Big Spring. She is a sophomore at Southern Methodist University.

Also Robin Ethridge, a junior at Texas Tech, is Miss Rodeo Big Spring. Miss Ethridge will represent Big Spring at the Miss Rodeo Texas pageant in March in San Antonio. She is the daughter of Marie and Rob Ethridge.

Tammy Peugh, 19, daughter of J.E. and JoAnn Peugh of Stanton, is the Howard County Farm Bureau Queen. She is a Sands High School graduate and a sophomore at Howard College. She was Miss Martin County in 1981-82.

Laura Shaw, Miss Texas U.S.A., will represent Texas in the Miss U.S.A. contest in May in St. Louis. She is from Burleson and won the

Grain allotments started

Howard County farmer picks up first load

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Howard County rancher R.X. "Jack" McNew was the first rancher in Texas to pick up his allotment of low-grade government corn under a livestock feed assistance program designated for 42 drought-stricken Texas counties.

McNew, who owns land about seven miles north of Big Spring, picked up 160 bushels of corn Wednesday at a federal warehouse in Wellman, said Tim Hall of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"He dropped it off in Lamesa to have it ground," Hall said.

Hall said McNew told him he would mix the corn with cotton seeds and molasses before he feeds it to his cattle.

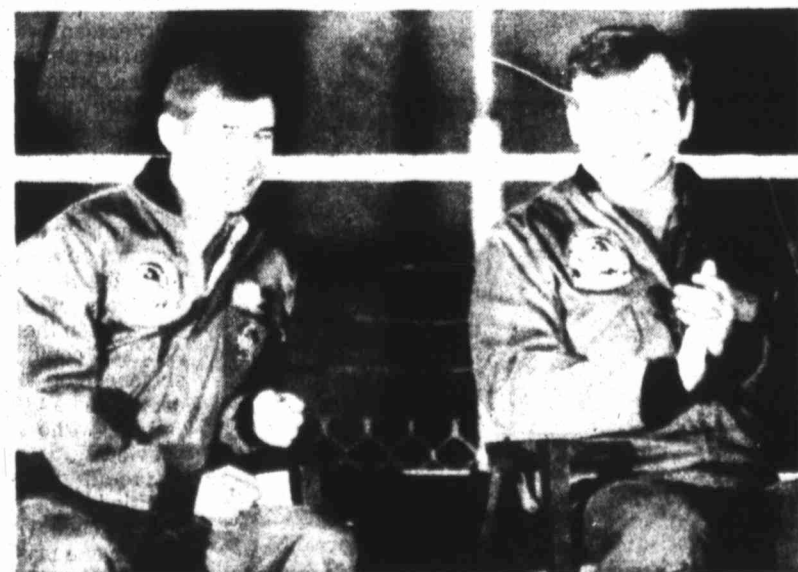

McNew brought the corn back to Lamesa in "a couple of pickup trucks and a trailer," Hall said.

Operators at Anderson Grain Co. in Wellman were expecting about seven more trucks from Nolan, Upton and Reagan counties.

Some ranchers drove pickup trucks and tractor-trailers hundreds of miles to receive the grain Wednesday. A total of 3,013 bushels of grain were distributed in Hale and Terry counties, said officials of the U.S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

President Reagan signed into law Nov. 29 a bill passed by Congress ordering the surplus corn's release to qualified livestock owners after the U.S. Agriculture Department refused to sell the grain.

Malfunction in shuttle computer probed

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Scientists inspected Columbia and its astronauts today for signs of wear from a record 10-day flight, but it may be weeks before officials know why a computer and a navigation device failed and forced an 8-hour landing delay.

With the $1 billion European Spacelab in its cargo bay, Columbia ended its flight of more than 4 million miles in a dusty touchdown at 3:47 p.m. Pacific time Thursday, less than an hour before sunset.

The ninth space shuttle mission was hailed as a success for the reams of scientific data accumulated during the voyage. Fourteen countries contributed to 73 experiments conducted round-the-clock in an unprecedented amount of scientific activity.

"We have many scientific firsts that came out of this mission," said NASA administrator Gen. James Abrahamson, flanked by shuttle Commander John Young and pilot Brewster Shaw at a post-landing news conference.

"We also have one that has been proven time and time again, and that's that the level of uncertainty in the universe is a constant," Abrahamson said.

The four mission specialists — Owen Garriot, Robert Parker, Byron Lichtenberg and West German scientist Ulf Merbold — were hurried off for a week of 12-hour-a-day experiments on how the body reacts to weightlessness and the return to gravity. The tests will duplicate those done during the flight.

Columbia, which has now made six trips into space, was towed to a scaffold-like device which will hoist it onto a Boeing 747 jettison for its return to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, planned for Monday.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists examined its exterior for damage and planned another briefing today.

However, inspection of its failed computer — which had four backups on board — and a broken navigational guidance device will await Columbia's arrival in Florida. Abrahamson said "weeks" of tests would be needed to determine the reasons for the breakdowns.

The six astronauts — the biggest crew on any space flight — were not endangered by the delay from the scheduled 7:59 a.m. PST landing and had food and fuel for another two days, NASA officials said. The flight had already been extended by one day to give the astronauts time for more experiments and some sightseeing.

But Young, praising Shaw's handling of the situation, joked that when the computers failed, "I turned to jelly."

"There was a problem and I don't want to minimize that, but ... we were not on the edge of some huge problem," Abrahamson said.

Sewer bills readjusted

Some Big Spring residents may have seen an increase in their monthly city sewer bills, City manager Don Davis said Tuesday.

The increase — which went into effect Oct. 1 — is the result of the city's yearly adjustment of sewer bills and comes after a study during July of household water usage during last December, January and February, Davis said.

The adjustment was figured on a base rate of $4.25 plus 68 cents for every 1,000 gallons of water used over 2,000 gallons during the study period, Davis said.

Two enter F.W. horse show

Allan Hamilton of Big Spring and Rickey Lewis of Stanton are area participants in the 1983 National Cutting Horse Association Futurity now being held through Dec. 11 at Will Rogers Coliseum in Fort Worth.

The competition, called "the true test of the western working horse," requires a horse and rider to separate a calf from its herd and keep it from returning in a 2½ minute time period.

Councilman Larry Miller said Friday that he thought the term extensions were necessary because "we wanted to continue to have an election every year." To stagger three-year terms was "the only way to do it," Miller said.

Farmers want windbreak program

LUBBOCK (AP) — About 50 High Plains farmers asked the Texas Forest Service to reinstate a discontinued program of production and sale of trees for farm windbreaks.

But forest service officials said Thursday that while the program was under review, it would have to be proven economically feasible before it could be resumed.
Jimmy Hull, a forest service associate director, said he is "optimistic" about the future of the program, but cost must be considered.

The Lubbock hardwood tree production division, which opened about five years ago, provided about seven species of hardwood trees at nominal fees to residents in 96 counties for windbreak plantings.

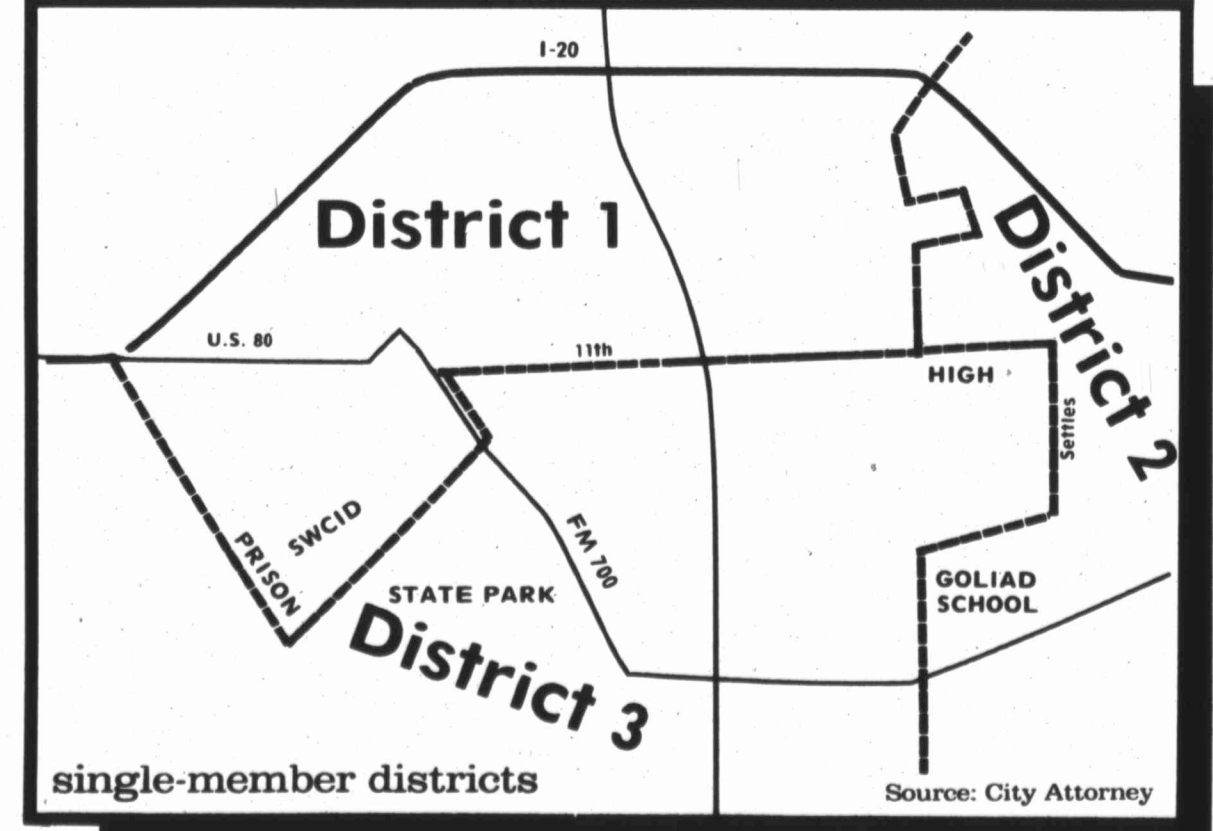

"We are required by legislation that any service we provide must be done on a break-even basis," Hull said. "That is the only reason we shut down the hardwood division."

Hull said after closing the operation, the service was inundated with letters opposing the move. Therefore, a task force of area citizens was created to fully assess the windbreak program.

"As much open land as there is on the High Plains, it would appear that we probably do need the program," Hull said. "I don't have a good feel for the actual demand, but we would need to sell a minimum of 250,000 trees a year to make it economically feasible."

Last year, 200,000 hardwood tree seedlings grown by the Lubbock facility last year, but only 20 percent, or 38,000 trees, were sold. The trees are marketed for about 25 cents each.

State forester Bruce Miles of College Station announced last March that the program was being closed because it had failed to break even for several years. He said closing the program would save $30,000 a year.

VOTING DISTRICTS — This map shows the three single-member districts created by an agreement between the Big Spring City Council and the League of United Latin American Citizens. The districts will enlarge the council from five to seven members.

Sheriff's Log

Forgery suspect sentenced

An Amarillo woman Thursday was sentenced by 118th District Court Judge Jim Gregg to two years in prison on revocation of probation for forgery.

Amy Lynn Oseland, 19, of Amarillo originally received a five year probation sentence, which was reduced in part of a plea bargain for her assistance to Potter County authorities in a forgery trial there. Oseland was transferred today to the Texas Women's prison in Gatesville, where she also will serve a three-year sentence from Potter County authorities to run concurrently with her two-year term. She was given credit for 152 days in jail.

Howard County sheriff's deputies Thursday arrested two men in Estancia, N.M., on suspicion of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Douglas Anthony Parks, 18, of Dallas and Sherad Jerome Andrews, 18, of Midland agreed to extradition and remained in jail today. Bond has not been set for either man.

Deputies also arrested Thursday James E.D. Self, 53, of 2410 Runnels on a warrant for revocation of probation on driving while intoxicated. Self was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond set by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Deputies also arrested Shirley Adams, 27, of 1503 Wood on a capias pro fine on suspicion of issuance of a bad check. She was released after paying the $206 fine to Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

Mickey Loya Hernandez, 25, of 506 1/2 Nolan was released Thursday from county jail on the authority of Judge Gregg. Hernandez had been jailed Oct. 13 to serve a six-month sentence for contempt of court.

Thomas Powell Brewer, 41, of Scurry Thursday was transferred to the Howard County jail from the police department on an Arkansas warrant for suspicion of fraud involving a confidence game. Brewer was released on $5,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Domingo Galaviz, 22, of 301 N.E. Seventh also was transferred Thursday to the county jail on suspicion of burglary of Fina's Restaurant at 200 N. Gregg. Galaviz was released on $10,000 bond set by Hefflin.

Linda Torres, 19, of 1517 B Wood or 112 Airbase Road also was transferred Thursday to the county jail on suspicion of burglary. She was released on $10,000 bond set by Hefflin.

Jerry Wayne Louis, 22, of Midland was arrested by the Midland County sheriff's office on a Howard County warrant on suspicion of revocation of probation for DWI. Louis was released on $1,000 bond via the Midland sheriff's office.

Albert Smith, 28, of 1503 W. Cherokee Thursday was transferred to the sheriff's office after being arrested by the Department of Public Safety on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Hefflin.

Jerry Jamison Thursday told sheriff's deputies that a white male commercial driver assaulted him by striking him in the face with his fists east of Big Spring.

Ex-San Jacinto deputy sentenced to 4 years

HOUSTON (AP) — A San Jacinto County sheriff's deputy who pleaded guilty to a count of conspiring to violate the civil rights of prisoners tortured at the county jail about 70 miles northeast of Houston was sentenced to four years in prison.

Floyd Baker, who pleaded guilty to a single count in October and who was sentenced Thursday by U.S. District Judge James DeAnda, is the third county deputy to be sentenced to prison in the case. Former Sheriff James C. "Hump" Parker also was found guilty earlier and sentenced to serve a prison term.

Baker originally was charged with Parker and the two other deputies. DeAnda, however, severed Baker from that case, declaring a mistrial after Baker testified he was just following the orders of his superiors when he participated in the torture.

Baker could have been sentenced up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Baker, who also worked previously as a deputy in adjacent Polk County, testified in the Parker trial that he once witnessed the torture of a prisoner in San Jacinto County.

"I have never been able to understand why you joined an organization that was saturated with misconduct of all kinds," DeAnda told Baker on Thursday.

Baker said the earlier incident he saw while working in Polk County "slipped my mind."

DeAnda also barred Baker from any law enforcement work.

"You may like the work, but you're just not cut out for it," the judge said.

According to a presentencing investigation prepared for DeAnda, Baker had abused other prisoners.

Earlier this week Parker's son and two former bail bondsmen agreed to a plea bargain and pleaded guilty to setting up so-called "marijuana traps" along U.S. Highway 59 in the county.

Miss America upsets city

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The Greater Syracuse Chamber of Commerce is in a dither over what Vanessa Williams, Miss America, said about the city's water.

Miss Williams, a 20-year-old student at Syracuse University before winning her beauty title this year, was quoted in a magazine as finding Syracuse water "horrible for the skin so I use distilled water when I'm there."

City promoters, who use the fresh water in central New York as the peg of their $3.2 million campaign to lure new industry to the area, claim their water is pure enough to satisfy the sky-blue needs of several national beer breweries.

"Our water is among the purest in the country. Maybe her skin is more sensitive than others," suggested Chamber of Commerce spokeswoman Maria Russell. Syracuse water exceeds the state's water-quality standards, she said.

Miss Williams told Vogue magazine that stress also may have been a factor in her skin outbreak which she had conquered during high school days with tetracycline.

Dermatologist Dr. Maurice Stone downplayed the water factor in Miss Williams' skin outbreak.

"She's a young girl, and she's had some zits, but what can you say," Stone added.

Star leaves trademark call

WASHINGTON — The few guests still around to hear it were astounded when comedian Carol Burnett left not a calling card but a just a plain call as she left a White House party.

CAROL BURNETT

Miss Burnett, 47, had attended a state dinner Wednesday night for the king and queen of Nepal.

Long after President Reagan and most of the other guests had left, and just before she herself took off, Miss Burnett sounded off, according to Nancy Reagan's press secretary, Sheila Tate.

Miss Burnett beat her chest and gave out with her famous "Tarzan" call.

Soap stars set stage show

ATLANTIC CITY — Soap opera sweethearts Luke and Laura of ABC-TV's General Hospital will be coming out from in front of the cameras and stepping up on stage this weekend.

Luke and Laura, in real life Tony Geary and Genie Francis, are making a rare public appearance on stage at the Tropicana Hotel in Atlantic City.

Hotel spokesman Glenn Lillie says up to 400 telephone calls a day have been coming in from as far away as Wisconsin and Florida as fans seek tickets to the three shows Saturday and Sunday.

Promoter Harriet Epstein said that during the performance Geary, 36, will serenade the 21-year-old Miss Francis while the lives of their television characters are documented in a slide show behind them.

Lillie said Geary plans a news conference on Monday, sparking speculation he may announce he is leaving General Hospital after five years. Geary and Miss Francis refused to grant interviews this week.

In 1981, the wedding of Luke Spencer and Laura Baldwin made that episode the most-watched show in the history of daytime television with more than 14 million viewers.

Miss Francis, who left the show in January 1982, recently reappeared as Laura for a six-week stint.

Prince Philip gets painted

LONDON — A portrait of Prince Philip, wrinkles and all, by British artist Bryan Organ is the newest face at the National Portrait Gallery.

Sir David Piper, director of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford, unveiled the new work which shows Queen Elizabeth's husband with a heavily wrinkled face.

As if anticipating criticism, Piper said, "I think the prince is portrayed as a very spritely 62. The wrinkles don't seem to me to be exaggerated at all — when you are 60 you tend to be wrinkled."

Shelling wounds 2 Marines

BEIRUT — Shiite militiamen fired on the Marine base at Beirut airport today, wounding two U.S. servicemen, and Israeli gunboats and helicopter gunships attacked a PLO base near Tripoli.

A PLO spokesman said the Israeli shelling killed one person and wounded three and that the Israelis set up a naval blockade to prevent Yasser Arafat and his loyalists from evacuating Tripoli. Israel denied it set up a blockade.

The Marine contingent at the airport retaliated with small arms, 40mm grenades and anti-tank Dragon missiles and "the firing ceased. There were no other casualties or damage," Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks said.

Beirut radio stations said the counterattack devastated the Shiite position, the second wiped out in two days by the Marines.

Brooks said one Marine was slightly wounded and one Navy Seabee suffered minor wounds when two rocket-propelled grenades and smallarms fire struck near the northeastern perimeter of the base shortly before 8 a.m. (1 a.m. EST).

Brooks said the Marine was in a bunker and the Seabee was driving a bulldozer when the base came under fire.

The wounded Marine was evacuated by helicopter to the amphibious assault ship Guam. The Seabee suffered a broken eardrum when a rocket propelled grenade blast hurled him off the tractor. He was treated at the airport, Brooks said.

The PLO base shelled by Israeli gunboats contained tents, buildings and vehicles. Israel's military command announced. It said the bombardment scored "accurate hits" on the fortification which it said was a half-mile north of Tripoli, where Arafat is trapped.

Fire destroys Chicago hotel

CHICAGO — Dozens of elderly people were left homeless today after fire swept through an eight-story transient hotel, killing three people and injuring 21 others. Officials said there were no smoke detectors to warn of the blaze.

At least 60 people were rescued Thursday evening from the Raleigh Hotel, with firefighters plucking some residents from ledges and the roofs of adjoining buildings and bringing others out in wheelchairs or on stretchers.

The injured included four people in critical condition and three firefighters in fair condition with cuts and burns, officials said. Fourteen people were taken to hospitals.

The Red Cross set up an emergency shelter for the homeless and was trying to find temporary housing for them. Fire Commissioner Louis Galante estimated that about 100 people lived in the hotel.

The hotel had fire alarms but no smoke or heat detectors, Galante said. However, a woman who would not give her name but identified herself as the "general manager" of the hotel said the building did have smoke alarms.

Fire officials said the blaze began in a second-floor room, but declined to speculate on the cause.

The fire was reported just after 5:30 p.m. and burned for 2½ hours, fire officials said. A fireman at the scene said the third through eighth floors were gutted on the south half of the building, located about four blocks west of the posh North Michigan Avenue shopping district just north of the downtown area.

"Thick smoke was pouring from the building, but not too much flame," said Michael Hughes, owner of an apartment building next to the hotel. "Everything for two blocks around was solid with fire trucks, police cars and ambulances."

About 25 people got away by climbing down a fire escape to the roof of an adjoining building, said George Just, who witnessed the blaze from a nearby building.

Meese discusses hunger

WASHINGTON — Presidential counselor Edwin Meese III says he has not seen any authoritative evidence there are hungry children in America and that many people go to soup kitchens "because the food is free and that's easier than paying for it."

EDWIN MEESE

In an interview Thursday, Meese said the Task Force on Food Assistance was created by President Reagan in September "to get to the bottom of some of these allegations that have been unsubstantiated."

"So, if there are hungry children, the question is why are they hungry? The United States government is spending more on food assistance than it ever has in history."

Proclaiming World Food Day last Oct. 14, the president said there was "no reason for hunger anywhere in America... Food and help are available to anyone who is hungry in America."

The U.S. Conference of Mayors said in October that economic recovery had not yet reached the hungry in U.S. cities.

"The problem of hunger is indeed continuing to grow in cities despite recent reports and indications of an economic recovery," said the mayors. They added that the hunger problem "has been exacerbated, clearly, by the recent drastic cuts in federal benefits and the high cost of basic necessities, such as food, shelter and energy."

During the same period, a group of physician told a House subcommittee that studies in the states of Massachusetts and New York as well as in Chicago found increases in the number of people, especially children and the elderly, suffering from inadequate diets.

Asked about reports of hungry children, Meese said, "I've heard a lot of anecdotal stuff, but I haven't heard any authoritative figures."

"With all the resources of the federal government, with all of the resources of state and local government, with all of the voluntary organizations," he added, "if people are going hungry there must be some problem that has not yet been addressed and it is not lack of funds."

Jones given defense funds

GEORGETOWN, Texas — A state district judge, acknowledging that the case will require costly expert witnesses, has approved an additional $6,000 for defense lawyers representing indicted nurse Genevieve Jones.

Ms. Jones is charged with murder in the 1982 death of a 15-month-old Kerr County girl. The indictment alleges she injected Chelsea Ann McClellan with a powerful muscle relaxant.

Court-appointed defense lawyer Jim Brookshire told State District Judge John Carter on Thursday that the $500 per witness — up to $4,000 total — previously approved for expert witnesses was insufficient.

"They're not free and they're not cheap," Brookshire said of the medical witnesses needed in the case.

The Georgetown lawyer said potential expert witnesses have given him estimates of $100 an hour for research and $1,250 a day to testify.

"This is not your normal case," Brookshire said in his appeal for more money.

Ms. Jones will be tried here Jan. 16. The 33-year-old vocational nurse, who has denied any wrongdoing, also faces seven charges of injury to a child in Kerr County, and a similar charge in Bexar County.

The charges resulted from a Bexar County grand jury investigation of a series of suspicious deaths of infants at the San Antonio Medical Center's pediatric intensive care unit from 1978 through early 1982.

Ms. Jones was a nurse in the child care unit during that period. She later moved to Kerrville and worked in a pediatric clinic.

City should have asked the voters

The democratic process was trampled in the city's head-long rush to reach accord on a voting rights suit. A handful of councilmen have overturned our elective system without so much as a tip of the hat toward the people who elected them and who now must live with what's been decided.

The mayor and city councilmen abdicated their responsibility to the people. Like omniscient gods, they gathered behind closed doors to reshape city government. They single-handedly changed the size and the form of city government. They arbitrarily extended the terms of the mayor and two councilmen without benefit of a public vote. And then they bundled it all up and shipped it off to the federal government for approval. Now they say: Well, look, the federal government approved it. Everything's fine.

The federal government didn't elect the Big Spring City Council. The people of Big Spring did.

Granted, a lawsuit was filed challenging the way the city elects its representation. Granted, at-large (citywide) voting generally is frowned upon by the federal government in states like Texas where the Voting Rights Act is an on-going enforcement tool. Granted, the federal government has a right — even an obligation — to step in and force changes in local government where the citizenry cannot or will not offer election plans which give minority populations a reasonable shot at representation.

We're not arguing any of these points. But federal officials didn't mandate anything. The city council did it for them.

And in the council's haste to win favor with the federal government, it stumbled over and fractured basic principles: It failed to recognize that the voters might like a voice in deciding whether we have five council members or seven, whether three would be from geographic districts or whether the number should be more or less, whether terms should be two or three years, whether majority or plurality should be election determinants, whether the mayor and two councilmen should run for re-election when their terms expire or whether they should grant themselves additional time in office.

Closed door meetings were conducted which skirted legality and certainly defied the spirit of law. The combatants to a lawsuit met privately and came to a nice settlement. Nobody thought to invite the people into the decision-making.

The voters aren't bumpkins. This wasn't too complicated for them. And election systems in effect across Texas aren't universal. There isn't one "best" way to govern a city. There's some choice in the matter.

It was all hush-hush in the making. By the time the closed doors were open, there was nothing for the people to decide — had they been asked. Implicit in the secrecy was the assumption that if Big Spring doesn't act quickly to give ample concessions, "It'll go a whole lot harder on us."

That's no revelation. Faced with the suit, we needed to give quick and conscientious thought to a new plan that would better embrace all the voters of Big Spring. The people could have — and should have — helped with that thought process.

The people should have been asked their opinions in public hearings. Then, several reasonable plans could have been submitted to the justice department for pre-approval. If more than one plan was found to be acceptable, the people should have voted what their city's future would look like.

Citizens of Big Spring still have recourse. Any individual can challenge the new setup just as the League of United Latin American Citizens did the old plan. And recall can be initiated to force elected representatives to place themselves before the city for reapproval before presuming they will be re-elected. We're not advocating recall and it's tragic that these time-consuming, costly steps should have to be considered, but they are alternatives. They wouldn't have to be considered if the mayor and city council hadn't presumed "we know best."

Our agenda

Since our administration placed education at the top of the national agenda, we've been seeing a grassroots revolution that promises to strengthen every school in the country.

— Ronald Reagan

Isn't it time someone blew the whistle on the Reagan Administration's rank politicization of our nation's education policies? The problem with the statement above — made last night during a speech before the National Forum on Excellence in Education — is that it places the education of American children squarely on the political football field. It is the kickoff, I am sure, of thousands of statements to come that will do little more than put a shallow coat of whitewash over the real problems in our schools.

This particular game of political football is being played between the Reagan Administration and teacher's organizations such as the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers.

Certainly there are valid points to be made on both sides, but it seems this important dialogue will put aside for the fact that the teacher's organizations are on the opposite sides of the political football field.

They were prime supporters in the democratic convention that nominated Jimmy Carter, and the NEA has already announced its preference for Walter Mondale in the next election. Taking Reagan's statement a face value, one would think that education in our country has been languishing from neglect the past 10 years.

In point of fact, the NEA and the AFT have been working to solve the problems in our schools all during this time, achieving some success as far back as the beginning of the Carter Administration. It was Carter, after all, who created the Department of Education, and it was during Carter's Administration that SAT scores began to climb back up after a drop begun during the 1960's.

To say that it is the Reagan Administration that has put education at the top of our national agenda is not only a misstatement of fact, there is some question as to whether such a strong commitment actually exists with Reagan's people.

It is fine for Reagan to tell us that the federal government is spending too much money. I'm sure most of us would agree. But there is little doubt in anyone's mind that he believes our social programs — education among them — to be the ones that are costing too much.

Reagan is leaving the defense establishment to run on its merry way, spending thousands of dollars on tools that should cost a few cents, and allowing them to put in for a $22 billion increase in their budget.

Aren't the real priorities of the Reagan Administration obvious from these facts?

Technical problems sink submarines

WASHINGTON — The way to prevent a nuclear holocaust, Pentagon strategists agree, is to keep America too formidable to attack. The Soviets will never unleash their missiles against the United States if they think it will bring devastation down upon their heads, say the strategists.

The grim sentinels, every ready to strike back, are our awesome intercontinental ballistic missiles, elusive submarine-launched missiles and ponderous B-52 bombers.

There is always the danger that a lightning strike over the Arctic could wipe out our intercontinental missiles before they could be launched and destroy our bombers before they could get off the ground. But the Soviets aren't likely to attempt a first strike as long as they know our submarines are lurking beneath the ocean, missiles bristling, just waiting to retaliate.

At least that's what the military experts say in their public testimony. But when the doors are shut and the public is excluded, they tell a different story. The truth is that our missile-carrying submarines are plagued with problems. They must surface frequently to communicate with the Pentagon and to reset their targeting devices. This makes them dangerously vulnerable. The sea-launched missiles also aren't as accurate as they could be.

These weaknesses are revealed in a General Accounting Office report that has been double-checked by my associates Dale Van Atta and Indy Badwar. The report is classified "Secret" and is titled, significantly: "Need for Improving Mapping, Charting and Geodesy Support of the Strategic Ballistic Missile Submarine Force."

The report cites imperfections in the submarines' inertial navigation system sensors which "increase with the time (the sub) spends" at sea.

In many seaways, the only sure way to reset the sensors is to surface. The oldest of our strategic subs, the Polaris, must surface "every eight to 15 hours of ship operations," according to the GAO report. The Poseidons "reset at intervals of 20 to 25 hours of operation." And though the new Trident subs won't have to surface as frequently, they still will have to come up at least every "100 hours" to reset.

All this popping up and down, of course, makes it easier for Soviet satellites to track them.

Resetting can only be done by determining the submarine's precise position with a navigational fix. The GAO report indicates that this is best done by obtaining "bottom contour fixes." The fix can be accomplished "covertly," the report says, "by remaining submerged and using a secure sonar signal to correlate the contour of the ocean bottom (to charts) maintained in the navigational computer system."

And that's the rub. The demand for these charts, called PBNZCs for Precise Bathymetric Navigational Zone Charts, far exceeds supply. The Navy has less than a dozen ships to survey the ocean bottom, and just three of them have done most of the work since 1959.

But "changes in the global extent of U.S. strategic deterrent operations," the report says, "has created greater geographical demand for the (surveys)." It may require "over five million track miles of Ocean Survey Program effort extending into the year 2020... to more effectively deploy ballistic missile submarine forces," the report estimates.

The GAO report warns urgently that submarine operations "may not be able to meet changing U.S. nuclear weapons deployment policy needs because of lack of adequate data to operate in areas that were not surveyed."

BOONDOGGLE OF THE WEEK: Uncle Sam is blundering into the computer age, scattering money willy-nilly. The Pentagon brass, as usual, are the worst wasters. An audit by the Defense Department's inspector general provides the sad details:

- Of the 147 cases of Pentagon computer contracts studied over an eight-month period, 108 were awarded on a non-competitive, "sole-source" basis.

- Of that number, the justifications for such costly, non-competitive awards were "efficient," — that is, inexcusable — in 54 percent of the cases.

- In some cases, taxpayers were charged hundreds of thousands of dollars unnecessarily because officials allowed contractors to acquire equipment and services from other contractors. In other words, the costs passed on from the prime contractor to the middleman contractor would have been saved had the brass done the procurement work themselves.

Briscoe's wrong; Jesus is Messiah

Dear Sir: Keith Briscoe's editorial, Around the Rim, in Sunday's paper regarding his search for the real Messiah was very interesting. He seems to be getting his information about Jesus from some other source other than the New Testament.

There is a reference in the new testament where Jesus did claim to be the Messiah. It is found in John 4:25-26 (The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh, which is called Christ when he is come. He will tell us all things, Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am He.) There are other references indicating that he was the Messiah but not using the word "Messias."

In addition to the Messias mentioned by Mr. Briscoe he should read about David Alroy. He declared himself Messiah to the Jews of Babylonia and led a revolt against Persia in 1160. He died — possibly at the hand of his own father-in-law.

How about Solomon Molkho? He was a messianist, born in Portugal (1500) and died in Mantual, Italy (1532). He was born, Diego Pires, to parents who were Marranos (secret Jews). He openly returned to Judaism, had himself circumcised and renamed Solomon Molkho. Molkho refused to return to the church and died in the flames of an Auto-de-fe.

There are still others on record and will be others to come. I am reminded of an old French philosopher who complained because people followed Jesus and his teachings but would not follow him. The answer came back: "If you will die, be buried and come back alive in three days we will follow you and your teachings." Maybe that is why we know so much about Jesus Christ and do not seem to know too much about all these false Messias.

Lie detector story is true

Ever since President Reagan gave his okay to allow the use of lie detector tests to find out who was leaking to the press, the atmosphere in the White House has been heavy with mistrust and suspicion.

I know this because someone leaked to me what took place during a recent meeting in the president's Cabinet room.

The president came in. "Where's Jim Baker?"

"He's in the lie detector room taking a test concerning the Carter briefing book investigation."

"Where's Bill Casey?"

"He's going over the results with his lawyers of the one he took yesterday."

"All right. Let's begin. Who leaked the story to Evans and Novak that were deploying a Pershing II missile in the Rose Garden?"

"It wasn't me, sir. I haven't talked to Evans and Novak in a month."

"You're lying, Meese. I saw you having lunch with Novak last week."

"Don't call me a liar, Deaver. I'm telling the truth."

"Tell it to the polygraph machine," Deaver snarled.

The president said, "All right, gentlemen. Let's cool down. How many people knew about the Rose Garden deployment?"

Robert McFarlane, the president's national security adviser, said, "There was Secretary of Defense Weinberger, you, myself, Meese, Baker, Deaver and the gardener. You didn't tell Mrs. Reagan, did you?"

The president replied, "No. I didn't want to upset her until they started pouring the concrete over the roses. I'd like everyone to take a test as soon as this meeting is over. A leak like this could start a panic in the country."

"Sir, wouldn't it be easier to have a lie detector machine in the Cabinet room so we could find out who was lying right on the spot?" Deaver suggested.

"No," the president replied. "We'd be so busy taking tests we'd never get any work done. Were there any results on the leak to the Washington Post of what the deficit was really going to be in 1985?"

"Nothing concrete. The FBI polygraph director said he caught people lying about other things, but everyone came out clean on the budget deficit," Meese reported.

"Well, someone leaked it," the president said.

Deaver said, "The director was wondering if you might consent to taking a test to make his investigation complete."

"I've never leaked anything to the Post in my life," Mr. Reagan thundered. "Besides, whoever heard of a president of the United States submitting to a lie detector test?"

"It would be very bad politically," Meese agreed. "Particularly since the media would demand the results of the test."

Jim Baker and Bill Casey came into the room.

"How did you do?" Deaver asked them.

Baker was smiling. "I passed with flying colors."

Everyone looked at Casey. He said, "My lawyers assure me when I told the lie detector I couldn't remember seeing the briefing book I was telling the truth."

Baker said, "I'll bet."

"All right," said the president, "let's knock it off. We all know there is a mole in the White House and I'm going to find out who it is if it's the last thing I do. Are there any other methods of getting the truth out of people besides a polygraph test?"

Casey said, "The CIA has other methods."

"What are they?" the president asked.

"Well, for one thing, we could put the electrodes on other parts of the body."

Everyone looked at the president in horror.

"I'd rather not go that route at the moment," Mr. Reagan said. "If the media got wind of it they would say I didn't trust my staff."

Jobless claims decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — First-time claims for unemployment compensation insurance payments decreased by 47,000 in the last full week of November, the Labor Department said today.

The total of new applications for basic, 26-week state-paid benefits, adjusted for seasonal variations, stood at roughly 388,000 in the week ended Nov. 26, compared to 435,000 in the preceding week.

Because state offices were closed in observance of Thanksgiving Day, jobless Americans had only four days in which to test their eligibility for unemployment benefits, and the decline was likely attributable to that fact.

New claims for jobless benefits had risen by a seasonally adjusted 55,000 in the week ended Nov. 19 in what officials said was a heavier volume of applications brought on by the closure of state employment offices on Veterans Day in the preceding week.

The department's Employment and Training Administration also said approximately 2,721,000 unemployed people were drawing regular state benefits in the week ended Nov. 19, based on seasonally adjusted figures, a decline of 144,000 from the previous week's total of 2,865,000.

tried, one discovery was that a news story's credibility suffers enormously when the reader is not told the source of the news, and is therefore denied means of judging its truthfulness.

He cited two developments as grounds for rising discontent with the news media — the press' post-Watergate tendency to suppose that all public officials are probably "guilty of something" and its reliance on unnamed sources, usually identified merely as "informed sources." He called this a fad, and a damaging one.

"Our credibility is becoming an open issue in the public mind," he said.

To regain the public's respect, Maynard said, newspapers and broadcasters should examine the tone they adopt in their stories, reaffirm their commitment to fair play, abandon their remoteness and be willing to accept the same kind of scrutiny to which they routinely submit other institutions.

The alternative, he said, is not merely dangerous to the press, but threatening to democracy. The press must serve as an independent check of other institutions, he said, but it cannot if it is not free — and it will not be free forever if it is not trusted.

"We in the press have always taken for granted certain of our liberties because we say the First Amendment says so," Maynard said. "But we seem to have forgotten that the First Amendment is by no means a self-executing document."

Editor says press in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Maynard, editor and publisher of the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune, says the American press is in trouble and the wound is self-inflicted.

Maynard said the press has weakened its own liberty and invited its own curtailment by allowing itself to be seen as arrogant, venal, remote, overly powerful and indifferent to the old American principle of fair play.

As evidence, he cited broad support for the Reagan administration's decision to bar the press from playing its traditional role as an independent observer when U.S. military forces were dispatched to Grenada.

As a solution, he called for new press institutions comparable to fill a role that existed in the journalism of an easier era, when the hometown editor could stroll down Main Street and get an earful from the people he wrote about and for.

Maynard, 46, the first black editor and the first black publisher of a major American daily, offered his observations Wednesday night at the annual Gannett lecture to an audience of several hundred public figures and Washington journalists.

The substitute he suggested for the editor's bygone stroll is the creation of citizens advisory boards to read the local paper, raise questions about it and react to what it prints.

In Oakland, he said, when the experiment was

Sewage plant ruined by chemical plant fire

HOUSTON (AP) — About 750,000 gallons of nearly raw sewage is being discharged into a Harris County lake and river because chemicals that escaped from a huge chemical plant fire earlier this week disabled a sewage treatment plant, officials say.

A Texas Department of Water Resources inspector, Jo Kines, said plant officials told her it could be several weeks before the situation is resolved.

"It's hard to say what the impact might be on the lake and river," she said. The problem began Monday night when fire and explosions ripped through the Hi-Port Industries plant in Highlands, about 20 miles east of Houston, causing an estimated $20 million damage.

Allison R. Pierce, Harris county pollution control chief, said oily wastes from the plant likely were pumped into the nearby sewage plant run by Harris County Water Control and Improvement District 1.

The plant discharges into Whites Lake, which opens into the San Jacinto River.

The plant serves most residents of Highlands, many of whom were forced to evacuate from their homes Monday night because of the blaze.

Pierce said the chemical wastes flowing into the

Dear Abby

Pregnant bride-to-be sings wedding blues

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and my fiance is 21. I'll call him "Leon." We've been engaged for two years, but we never set a wedding date because Leon wanted to pay off his motorcycle, van and boat first.

Well, in the two years we've been engaged, I've had two abortions, and I just found out I'm pregnant again. I honestly don't know how this keeps happening, Abby. I've been on the pill for two years and I hardly ever forget to take it. Leon never uses any protection because it's against his religion.

He wants me to get another abortion, but this time I think we'd better keep the baby and get married. I've always wanted a pretty church wedding. My parents promised me one, but I'm afraid if I tell them I'm pregnant, I won't get the wedding. Also, the kind of wedding I want will take four or five months to plan, and I'll be showing by then. Please tell me what to do.

IN LOVE IN TAMPA
DEAR IN LOVE: Tell your parents you are pregnant and want to be married as soon as possible. Forgo the kind of wedding that will take four or five months to plan. There's no reason why your wedding can't be both pretty and prompt. And if it's against Leon's religion to use birth control, tell him to use self-control.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle this long-standing dispute between my daughter-in-law and me.

I say that when we are out for dinner and I am the host and the bill comes to the table, the guests should engage in polite conversation and show no interest in the check.

My daughter-in-law not only insists on knowing how much the bill is, she offers her unsolicited opinion on how much the tip should be!

Please print your answer. I want to show it to her.
STORMY IN SUNLAND, CALIF.

DEAR STORMY: The amount of the bill and the size of the tip should be the exclusive concern of the host or hostess. Your daughter-in-law should contribute her opinion only if she is going to contribute to the bill.

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from picking up my 9-year-old son at school, and I am at the end of my rope.

This is the fourth time in as many days that "Johnny's" teacher called and asked me to pick up Johnny because he had wet his pants. Today she told me that unless something is done about this I will have to take him out of school.

Johnny stopped wetting his bed when he was 4, but he has not as yet achieved consistent daytime dryness. Sometimes he will be fine for weeks, then for no apparent reason he starts to wet his pants again. It doesn't matter if he's in school or on vacation, he still wets his pants.

I've had him to a pediatrician, then to a urologist, and neither doctor could find anything physically wrong, so I took him to a child psychologist. She said, "Ignore it and don't make an issue of it; in time the boy will outgrow it."

This is very hard to ignore, Abby. Now what?
END OF ROPE

DEAR END: Take the psychologist's advice, then ask her to write (or telephone) Johnny's teacher enlisting her patience and cooperation.

To expel the boy from school for this reason would only compound his problem. In the meantime, buy him some disposable, absorbent, diaper-type underpants with plastic linings. Your urologist can tell you where to get them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HAVING PROBLEMS IN PALM BEACH, FLA.: Sex therapy is in. Faking satisfaction is out.

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

QUICK CHANGE — Variations on the classic bob cut are simple, thanks to the versatility of this favorite hairstyle. With a bit of body wave on the ends, even fine hair holds its deep-dipping waves throughout a busy day, left. By slicking the sides into a neat little twist, a stylist can change the look for an elegant evening, right.

Winter trend is to neatly styled hair

CHICAGO (AP) — Simple, yet sophisticated, is the watchword of fashion this season, and trends in hair fashions follow suit, say members of the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board.

Winter styles are rich in color, silhouettes sleek and sensible or sensuous and sexy, and the total effect projects a practical but glamorous femininity by day and a shimmering elegance by night.

Mario Tricoci of Oakbrook, Ill., one of 12 professionals who make up the board, says that versatile hairstyles which offer different daytime and nighttime looks from one cut are important.

Most fashionable heads this fall are cleanly cut, neatly styled and permed to add volume and soft waves.

"The hairstyling trend is towards glamorous simplicity," says board member Darlene Hakola, Portland, Ore. "Styles are designed especially for professional women who want and need to look good, but have minimal time to fuss with a complicated style. A geometric and asymmetric one-length bob seems to mesh well with these women's personal and professional hairstyling needs."

The popularity of "new wave" music may continue with fervor, but the faddish "punk" hairstyle is losing its charm, observes Victor Figueroa, New York City. "I see hair moving away from the faddish gelled and teased look for a new clean and refined feeling. Yet, I don't think that look will die completely just yet," he added. Gels, which give hair a sleek, wet look even when it's dry, are requested regularly in many salons. But stylists are turning to foam-in conditioning "mousses" from Europe to escape from the stiff stickiness gels afford, board members said.

"Gel styling is still fun when creating looks for the young, but I prefer a styling foam because it provides a softer look," says Doug Marvaldi, Winter Park, Fla.

The new smoother, straighter looks hasn't affected the popularity of perms. For straight looks, perms are needed to achieve volume and life, and the various layered curly-top styles won't hold up to winter's winds and weather without the assistance of this chemical process. Many clients want softness around the face, but a longer, more tailored look in the back. Stylists are perming just the front of the head to make this style more manageable and flexible — easy to change from one look to another.

Although some women still prefer a super-short cropped hairstyle, according to board member Jerry Gordon, Chicago, many women who have worn this look are growing it out.

"Hairstyles reflect what is being done in fashion," he said. "If the trend in clothes is toward softer, sleeker and longer lines, stylists will stay on top of the trends by offering clients complementary lines for the hair."

Dr. Donohue

Some epilepsy occurs at night

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Recently, my 10-year-old grandson spent time with us (for the first time without his parents). One night, as I kissed him good-night and held his hand, he seemed a little upset. Then I could feel his hand muscles tighten. Then his body started moving and his legs jumped, shaking the bed. This happened several times during each night. The twitching was not noticeable during the day. Since he sleeps alone at home, no one would know about the movement at nights.

Please help me know if I am worrying needlessly. Should his parents be told? Does he need a doctor's examination? I wonder if he was being homesick and this was his way of reacting. What is your opinion about the leg and body movements? — Grandmother.

There is a form of epilepsy that occurs only during the onset of sleep or shortly after. It is called nocturnal epilepsy. It often goes unnoticed because no one has occasion to witness the seizures and they are not accompanied by other symptoms.

Yes, definitely tell his parents about what happened. They can describe it to their family doctor, who will be able to make further recommendations. Brain-wave recordings will tell if there are any abnormalities causing the problem.

There is another form of this problem, called benign nocturnal epilepsy. It occurs during the first 10 years of life, then disappears during the second 10 years.

No matter, the boy's doctor should be notified. At the very least, it is a troublesome problem that may be interfering with sleep.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A friend of mine tells me she has been diagnosed as being a victim of autoimmune thyroiditis. Exactly what is this condition? — A.T.

This is inflammation and enlargement of the thyroid gland, due to thyroid tissue being invaded by antibodies and white blood cells (lymphocytes). That's where the term, auto-immune thyroiditis comes from. It is a kind of self-allergy. It affects women chiefly and among them the middle-aged are the most frequent victims.

At first, there may be few symptoms other than the gland enlargement (goiter), but as times goes on the gland makes less of its hormone: The person becomes hypothyroid. Treatment is to give supplemental hormone. Often, this makes the gland shrink, but if it doesn't or if the gland is pressing on nearby structure of the neck (like the windpipe) it may have to be removed surgically.

Most of the other symptoms of the problem — sluggishness, cold intolerance, dry skin, constipation, stiff and achy muscles, and hoarse voice — relate directly to the low thyroid hormone level. All these symptoms subside when the missing thyroid hormone is supplied.

Another name for auto-immune thyroiditis is Hashimoto's thyroiditis.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was put on prednisone years ago and was on it anywhere from eight to 10 years. I was recently taken off it, and am severely flabby. Could all that medicine all those years have been responsible for this? — M.C.

Prednisone and the other cortisone-like drugs, when used in high doses for long periods, can produce muscle wasting. They do this by causing a breakdown of muscle protein. The good news is that when this happens and when the medicine is stopped the condition is reversed.

However, this does not take place overnight. It may take up to a year after stopping for the muscles to regain their lost protein.

GMC scraps 600 new trucks

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Six-hundred new pickup trucks, worth nearly $5 million retail, are being junked because they rusted while parked at this Florida port awaiting shipment for up to a year, General Motors Corp. said Thursday.

Work crews used forklifts to rip off tires and gas tanks so the 1982-model Chevy Luv pickups could be fed into huge crushers which reduced the two-ton vehicles to 9-inch-high blocks of metal. The blocks were loaded onto tractor trailers for delivery to a shredder. Bill Stewart, international relations director for Chevrolet in Detroit, said it's company policy to destroy vehicles damaged through "acts of God" rather than jeopardize "dealer integrity" by selling them.

"This is not unusual, though obviously it is expensive," he said, adding that the decision would cost the manufacturer "millions of dollars." A new Chevy Luv fetches $8,500.

GM agents said the demolition process, which began Wednesday, would take until late Friday to complete, using two crushing machines that can pulverize up to 100 trucks a day.

City wants Christmas gifts

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Looking for that perfect gift for Grand Rapids? How about a month's supply of porcine food? Five bucks will do it.

If not that, maybe picnic tables for the Parks Department. Price: $140. Or even a new inner-city library branch. That goes for $650,000.

All the suggestions are in a 15-page, 90-item booklet called the Community Enrichment Group Gift Catalog.

"We intentionally tied it in with the Christmas season hoping that people would extend their Christmas spirit to include some of our city facilities," said James Overbeek, assistant city manager for community enrichment.

Several of the suggestions deal with animals, alive and otherwise. A $20 donation will feed a goat at the Blanford Nature Center for a month, $3,500 will put a portable X-ray machine at John Ball Zoo, and $10,000 will restore a prehistoric Mastodon skeleton.

"The book is a success if we get one (item) paid for or all of them paid for," said Overbeek.

Gas wells bring Indians prosperity

INDIAN VILLAGE, Texas (A) — Leaders of an impoverished East Texas Indian reservation hope to build a health clinic now that the natural gas discovered on their property will assure them of at least $6 million a year in royalty payments for the next 20 years.

"We want to make sure the money is spent for the good of the whole reservation," says Ray Apodaca, executive director of the Texas Indian Commission.

Union Oil Co. of California announced Tuesday that workers had found a substantial natural gas reserve on the 4,000-acre Alabama-Coushattas reservation 75 miles northeast of Houston.

The reservation, established in 1854, has been in financial trouble for years. Median income of residents is about $6,500, about two-thirds of the national median per capita income.

The reservation has recorded revenues of $1 million from tourist business this year but failed to show a profit.

About 40 percent of the Indians suffer from diabetes, the highest rate in the nation. Other ailments affecting the Indians are contagious diseases, like tuberculosis. The reservation also has a high infant mortality rate.

Apodaca said he hopes his tribe can avoid the mistakes made on other reservations who encountered windfalls.

"Too many times, reservations have gone on a spending spree when they came into a bunch of money," he said. "We're trying to look into the long range. I'm sure the majority of the money will be put into investments to provide resources for the future. But this really has given the reservation some breathing room to look at future development."

Union Oil has leased 1,500 acres of the reservation for oil and gas exploration.

Besides the health clinic, tribal leaders say they would hope to develop an Indian scholarship fund for those who want to go to college. In addition, they want to analyze their economic base to see if it would be beneficial to try to attract businesses other than tourism.

Other money would be used for renovation of existing buildings and for helping the elderly.

"We're really going to make a close study of the reservation need and see where we want to use the money," said Tony Byars, reservation superintendent.

The Indians migrated from Alabama in the 1780s. In 1836, the tribe helped Texas in its war of independence from Mexico.

Byars said two exploratory wells have yielded the rich natural gas strikes and it would be three to six months before a well could begin producing.

Nicknames necessary in China

PEKING (AP) — There is "Big Li Wei," "No. 2 Li Wei," "Big Eyes Li Wei" and "Long Braids Li Wei."

The nicknames are necessary at one company in northeast China's Shenyang City because it has more than 10 people all named Li Wei, the Canton newspaper Yangcheng Evening News reports.

The city also has more than 4,800 people named Liu Shuzhen, it added.

China has only a few hundred family names for its one billion people. In addition, certain given names have become quite popular. "Wei," for example, means "great." "Shuzhen" means "precious and fair."

A Shenyang policeman has suggested that parents avoid one-character given names like Wei in naming their children, said the paper's Wednesday edition, seen in Peking on Thursday.

Schwab's Pharmacy for sale

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Schwab's Pharmacy, the Sunset Boulevard landmark where movie star Lana Turner was supposedly discovered, is closed and up for sale — bringing tears to at least one movie star.

The store's fixtures went on sale Wednesday and owner Leon Schwab said he was closing the store and coffee shop for family reasons.

The pharmacy has had a loyal Hollywood following even though the story about Miss Turner has never been proved.

Schwab said friends and celebrities called him with "condolences."

Actress Barbara Stanwyck called in tears, he said. "She's been a customer here for almost 40 years and she called me up when I closed the store," Schwab said. "She was crying and that to me is a great tribute."

Germans flocking to 'Day After'

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Some critics said the film was poorly made and badly acted, a "nuclear soap opera." But it hasn't mattered to West German movie audiences who are flocking to theaters around the country to see "The Day After," the U.S. made-for-television movie about a nuclear war triggered in Germany.

At least 250,000 people saw the film during the first four days of its release, said Patricia Wiedenhoest, spokeswoman for the West German distributors, Tobis. The movie, which opened Dec. 2, is showing in 100 theaters. The film was shown on television in the United States on Nov. 20.

"Interest in the film is extremely high... much more than we expected," she said. "We have ordered 35 copies more because of the high interest."

Tobis, which paid $1 million for the West German movie, video and television distribution rights, has shrugged off some critics' charges that it is profiting from "scare tactics" in the film.

West German audiences, however, seem generally impressed by the film, which focuses on the town of Lawrence, Kan., following a nuclear exchange between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The film opened 10 days after the West German Parliament, following a stormy debate, voted to deploy new U.S. nuclear missiles despite the objections of the country's vocal anti-nuclear movement.

The 500-seat Europa Palast in downtown Frankfurt is filling the house at nearly every showing, said spokeswoman Doris Amthor.

"We've been showing the film five times a day for the past four days, and the house is usually full," Ms. Amthor said.

"We are showing it with synchronized German language translation, and audiences are very impressed and shocked at what could happen in a nuclear war," she said.

Moviegoers seemed subdued and shocked after a midday screening Tuesday at the theater.

An original English-language version of the film, which stars Jason Robards Jr. and John Cullum, is being shown in a theater at Frankfurt International Airport.

Ms. Elsa Fritz, a spokeswoman, said the 85-seat Airport 1 has, so far, sold out all evening showings. It's even attracted some airline passengers who don't have time to sit through the whole film, which runs nearly two hours.

"But in the evenings after 4.30 p.m. the house is full, mostly young people, and many American servicemen are seeing the film here," she said. The busy commercial airport shares runways with the U.S. Air Force's Rhein-Main air base.

Two Munich cinemas are playing the film, including a 750-seat house that has been continually sold out since the weekend.

Chicken mascot stolen from restaurant

GARDEN CITY, Idaho (AP) — Officer Gary Thurston was in the police station when the call came in. A daring daylight kidnapping, right off a fence post at the Red Lion Inn.

Only one clue, but it was a good one: An alert window washer, who had watched two men grab the victim and stuff him in a gunny sack, managed to memorize the license number of the getaway car.

Thurston moved quickly. He traced the address through the car registration and went to the house to confront the kidnappers.

"You have a chicken and we want it back," Thurston told the bird-grabbers. There was no resistance. Thurston reported later, as he "deprived the suspect of his chicken."

Within hours of Tuesday morning's crime, the victim, Willard — who, it should be noted, is not a chicken at all but a bantam rooster — was back among friends at the motel, where the staff adopted him last summer. He was named for the owner of a restaurant, the Cock of the Walk, formerly located in the suburban Boise inn, and now spends most of his time perched on decorative tree by the bar.

"Now he's happy and back at home, and everybody's happy, but I'm never going to live this down," manager Jack Reiss said Wednesday.

"Willard has been here long enough to go on our insurance program," added Dawneen Blakeslee, the inn's marketing director. There were no arrests.

Termites drive mayor out of town's city hall

CAMANCHE, Iowa (AP) — A copy of "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" — a guide to termites — sits on City Clerk Jane Munksgaard's desk, and visitors to city hall can see exactly who came to dine.

Termites have driven the mayor and city clerk out of office.

"Highways" of termite paths course along the walls of city hall and termite-chewed boards are exposed in the ceilings.

Officials in this city on the Mississippi River discovered the damage just before Thanksgiving when they were preparing to install new windows in the city clerk's and mayor's office.

Workers ripped out ceilings in the clerk's office, front office and women's restroom to determine just how much damage had been done.

The nasty discovery forced Mayor Paul Willis, Mrs. Munksgaard and assistant city clerk Pat Reese to leave their offices and conduct business in the City Council chambers, which like other rooms in the building apparently was spared.

Guidelines for biblical language approved

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The governing body of the United Methodist Church has approved guidelines on biblical and theological language that suggest that fewer male nouns and pronouns be used in referring to Jesus.

The report neither recommends nor eliminates the use of the word "Lord" in referring to God. The study says that "king" as a reference to God "need not be used in contemporary writing and speaking" and suggests "more inclusive words and images" in addition to the term "father."

The report will be presented to the General Conference of the church meeting in Baltimore in May. The governing body is asking that General Conference conduct a churchwide study of the report and commend it to the Board of Discipleship for use in developing a new hymnal.

Council raises funds to purchase medicine

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Council of Churches is conducting a $200,000 fund-raising drive to buy medicine for Nicaragua.

The drive is being conducted by the Church World Service, the relief and development arm of the national council. The Church World Service will buy the medicine and ship it to a colleague agency in Nicaragua, CEPAD.

Pastor ministers to families

By RHONDA WITT
Church Editor

"My philosophy is, 'the key to a strong individual is a strong family,'" said the Rev. Robert Millsaps, pastor of Trinity Family Church. "The way to minister to the youth is to minister to their parents. Strong families are the roots of America."

Millsaps likes to minister to families and see his church expand. "I believe every church ought to be a growing church, bringing unchurched people in. I have a goal to see new people brought to the Lord."

"I have a goal to see 100 people in the church by the end of my first year. When we first came here we had 17 people," he said. During his six weeks here, the church has had an attendance high of 32.

"Many people put up a sign and expect them to come in. I believe in reaching out — out into the community. One thing I started doing is going door to door and saying 'hi'. It is just a way of promoting our church in the community."

Millsaps became a minister, "due to the call of God on my life. I just felt like that is what God wanted me to do," he said. At one time he thought about going into real estate, "but once I made up my mind I never veered from my course."

Millsaps' father also influenced his son into becoming a minister. "My father was a pastor. He influenced me by his life, the way any father influences his son."

Millsaps has set some goals for himself and his ministry. "I just would like to develop as a pastor. I also would like to have a staff underneath me by the time my kids are in junior high school."

Millsaps plans to begin an evangelism explosion pro-

Joe Whitten makes religious record

"It's been a life-long dream," Joe Whitten said about his first professional record album, "One Day at a Time".

The album contains ten religious songs arranged and orchestrated personally for Whitten. He selected songs he thought everyone would like.

Whitten began work on the album July 5. A orchestra which included several members from the Lubbock Symphony and Texas Tech Music Department participated in the album's production. Whitten received the finished albums a few weeks ago.

...makes first record album

The cover of the album has a picture painted by his artist wife, Virginia Whitten. Albums and cassettes can be bought at First Baptist Church or KBST radio station.

As minister of music at First Baptist Church, Whitten originated "His Children" prison ministry. He also works part-time as choral director at Howard College. He graduated from West Texas State University in Canyon and Texas Tech University in Lubbock. He is a member of the Centurymen of the Radio and Television Commission of Southern Baptist Convention.

'Saturday Night' writer not so funny, but his material is

NEW YORK (AP) — You don't have to be the life of the party to get your jokes on "Saturday Night Live." You just have to write funny material and hand it to a cast member who gets paid to put the lampshade on his head.

"People have the image of Morey Amsterdam cracking jokes on a couch on the old 'Dick Van Dyke Show,'" said Kevin Kelton, a writer for NBC's "Saturday Night Live." "Nine out of 10 comedy writers I know are not the funniest people I know."

Kelton, 27, could win a Ted Koppel lookalike contest. Slightly built with short-cropped brown hair, he favors corduroys and flannels as work outfits. His NBC office is neat. The major props are a typewriter, a thesaurus and a rubber globe that he bounces off the walls.

Kelton belies the image, leftover from the original "Saturday Night Live" troupe that included Dan Aykroyd and the late John Belushi, that "SNL" script sessions were conducted like marijuana-enhanced seances. "We're not the hippies people think we are," said Kelton.

Comedy, like other forms of writing, requires discipline. One-liners and wisecracks can be born on the spur of the moment, but four-minute comedy sketches are developed and nurtured. "I tend not to write jokes," said Kelton. "I like to write scenes that play off situations."

"The way writing is learned is by doing it. There are some tricks to doing it well. Someone like Woody Allen does it more often, with a better, sharper percentage."

The work week for a show begins Monday, when the host — this week Flip Wilson — meets the staff and makes suggestions. "Usually we listen, nod politely and ignore everything they say," said Kelton.

The exception was when Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC Entertainment, was host. "We didn't ignore Brandon — he's everybody's boss," said Kelton. "He knew he wasn't a performer, so he asked us not to lock him into things he couldn't do. He also encouraged us to be rough on him — otherwise it would look like we were coddling him."

After the meeting, the host goes door to door, and the writers pitch their ideas. The rest of Monday and Tuesday are devoted to writing. On Wednesday, the producers select the show's basic lineup, and everybody gets together to read the first draft.

"For me, that's the big test," said Kelton. "My emotional highlight is how the material is received in the first reading. From there, the important steps are whether it gets on the show, whether it gets a laugh and whether I think it's well-performed."

Kelton said there's no weekly quota for the eight staff writers, who all have individual contracts lasting a minimum of 13 episodes. "If you submit one piece each week and it gets on, that's fine. If you submit 10 pieces and none gets on, then you're not doing the job."

Ex-academic administrator

accused of stealing money

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A former administrator at St. Phillip's College has been accused of stealing money from a program she supervised and then hiding it in three personal bank accounts.

The indictments issued Wednesday against Paulette Marie Halvorson, 36, accuse her of official misconduct, misapplication of funds and theft.

Ms. Halvorson had directed the restaurant management program for 10 years before her July dismissal by the Alamo Community College District, which oversees St. Phillip's.

The district attorney's office began investigating the program nine months ago, and Bexar County Deputy District Attorney Terry McDonald said the probe would continue.

Special crimes prosecutor Ed Sargolagos said Ms. Halvorson took more than $8,000 from the program beginning in April 1981.

She stole $1,112 from the program's student Hospitality Club, which raises money from "bakes sales and other fundraising activities" to finance student field trips and scholarship programs, Sargolagos said.

The prosecutor said Ms. Halvorson diverted funds from the student accounts into three personal accounts, then wrote checks on the stolen money.

Byron McClenney, chancellor of the Alamo Community College District, said the indictments bolstered his decision to fire Ms. Halvorson earlier this year.

"This is a very sad situation," he said. "Here is a person with tremendous potential. It's regrettable to see someone with so much energy and ability go through something like this."

El Paso County gets $25,000 grant

EL PASO (AP) — El Paso County, where more than 10,000 households lack basic water services, will receive a $25,000 grant from the state to study ways to improve the water supply, Gov. Mark White says.

The governor announced the grant Wednesday night in a meeting with about 2,500 members of the El Paso Interreligious Sponsoring Organization.

White also pledged to help the city of El Paso in its attempt to establish water lines to parts of the area that the El Paso Public Service Board refuses to serve.

PRAYER-POWER

John Lavender relates the story of an elderly widow from the slums of New York who was invited by a wealthy benefactor to spend a weekend at an ocean-side cottage. The lady, who had never enjoyed such luxuries, was awestruck by the beauty of the location. As she stood by the sea on a quiet, sunny afternoon, overwhelmed by the vast expanse of water, a tear silently found its way down her cheek. When the benefactor asked why she was crying, her reply was simply, "Because it's so wonderful to see something there is enough of."

Truly there is enough of God's power available to answer every prayer in His will. Leonard Ravenhill writes, "One might estimate the weight of the world, tell the size of the celestial city, count the stars of heaven, measure the speed of lightning, and tell the time of the rising and the setting of the sun — but you cannot estimate prayer-power. Prayer is as vast as God because He is behind it. Prayer is as mighty as God because He has committed Himself to answer it."

Hawks escape Western in OT

Clutch plays key HC's 70-66 victory

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

SNYDER — For the Howard College Hawks, winning in Scurry County Coliseum Thursday night proved more difficult than finding a Cabbage Patch doll for sale this Christmas season.

Missing six free throws to end regulation play, blowing a five-point overtime lead and having the timekeeper fail to start the clock with eight seconds to play, the Hawks overcame those obstacles and many others to pull out a 70-66 victory over Western Texas.

The win, Howard's third straight on the road, kept the Hawks' Western Junior College Athletic Conference record intact at 3-0 while the inspired Westerners slipped to 1-3. To say it was a difficult 45 minutes is the understatement of December.

"It was not an aesthetic, artistic game," a mope-haired Hawk coach Mike Mitchell said after the game, "but both teams gave it all they had...both teams played as hard as they could. That is my paramount thought at this time."

It was a wonder Mitchell had a voice left after the contest was completed. In addition to yelling instructions to his players over the crowd's noise, the Hawk coach joined WTC coach Barry Davis in giving the game officials an earful.

With his team ahead 62-60 in overtime, Mitchell was hit with his first technical foul of the season. Westerner Fred Johnson hit both free shots to the tie the game with 2:52 left in overtime.

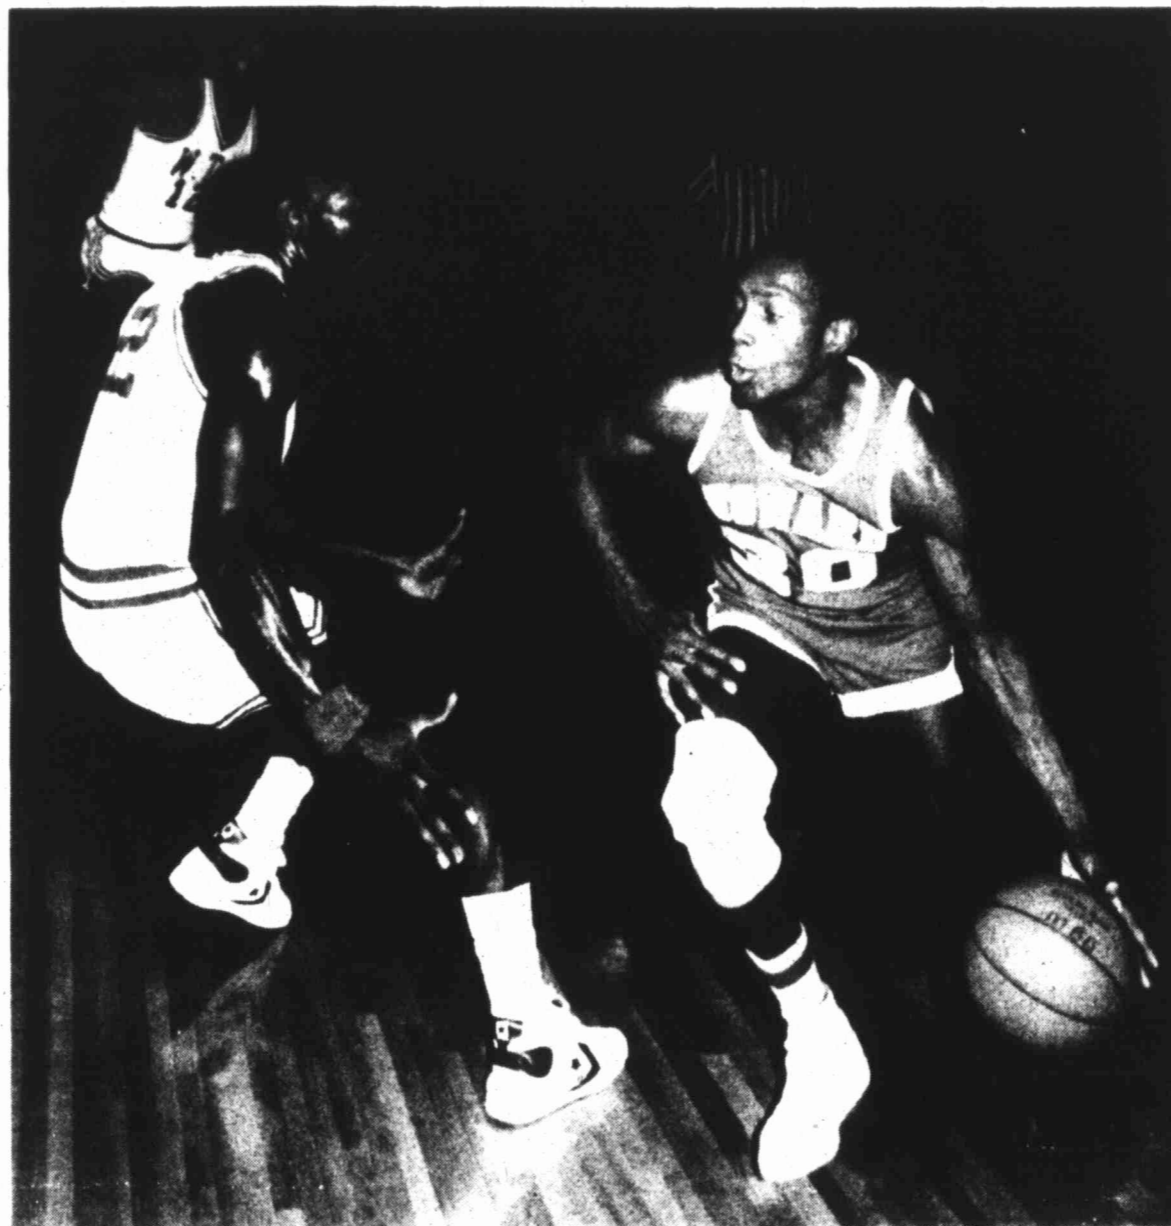

WTC got the ball back but this was not a night the Hawks would fold. After Larry Banks missed for the Westerners, Dwight Harris put Howard ahead with a jump shot. Banks turned the ball over downcourt and Joe Johnson scored for Howard at the other end. Maurice Hoskin sank two free throws with 26 seconds left after a Billy Chambers miss and suddenly the Hawks were up by six points.

Harris and Hoskin hit insurance free throws in the final seconds to secure the win. In between, the timekeeper allowed Western to bring the ball downcourt and get a shot off in just two seconds. Mitchell, filled to the collar-line already with things going wrong, let loose another verbal attack. The unused seconds, however, didn't make a difference as the Hawks won their 11th game in 12 tries.

"It was a well-played ballgame by both teams," WTC's Davis said quietly, "but it was terribly officiated ballgame. By that I mean on both ends. I don't think it came down to one incident. They just outplayed us at the end."

Mitchell, as upset about the officiating as Davis, refused to comment on their performance. "I don't like to say anything about the officials."

Down 51-46 with 7:05 to go in regulation play, Howard rallied into a 51-51 tie on a tip-in by James Johnson. Johnson, the player who scored two key buckets in last week's win over Amarillo, then stole the ball and hit a lay-up to put HC on top 53-51. The teams traded baskets until Johnson again dropped in a lay-up to put Howard ahead 57-55 with 1:57 remaining.

Richie Fells, the top WTC scorer with 19 points, hit a 25-foot jumper to tie the game with 1:36. In that final span of time, Howard missed two field goal tries while Jerry Stroman and Joe Johnson missed both ends of two-shot jumps.

"Our free throw shooting was terrible...print that," Mitchell said with disgust. "It was terrible. I bet we didn't hit half of them. I don't think we went up their trying to miss. I don't think they choked either. They just missed them. But free throws are something you can work on in practice."

Mitchell had high praise for James Johnson, who scored 14 points off the bench and swiped the ball four times during the crucial late stages of the game. "James played great. It seemed he was deflecting every ball around him. He came up with some big plays for us," the Howard coach said.

Howard shot 64 per cent from the floor in the first half, taking a 33-31 lead into the locker-room when Stroman hit a tying jumper and Hoskin turned a steal into a lay-in with two seconds left in the half.

The Hawks won the game without big scoring from Harris and Stroman, their two leading scorers averaging 47 points between them. Harris had just 10 points, 16 below his average, while Stroman still led the team with 17.

Johnson added 16 and Banks 10 for the Westerners.

Dusters demolish HC Queens, 79-56

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

SNYDER — Howard College coach Don Stevens may be gathering every calendar he can find today and erasing Dec. 8 from each. That's how much thought of his team's performance Thursday night against Western Texas.

The Queens went 6:16 in the first half without scoring and 5:10 in the second half without a field goal and were swamped 79-56 by the Dusters in a WJCAC game played in Scurry County Coliseum.

The loss dropped Howard to 12-6 and 0-2 in conference play while the Dusters kept pace with unbeaten Odessa, improving to 14-3 and 2-0.

"We got behind early, panicked and let that influence our shooting," Stevens said. "We lost our confidence and it became a fiasco. Coach (Joe) Cushing and I talked before the game and said if we both play well, it could go into triple overtime. If one of us doesn't, it would be a blow-out either way."

"We just have to wipe that game out of our minds and get ready for Monday night," he added.

Stevens wants to forget his team's 23 per cent first-half shooting (9-33), nine turnovers and the six-minute stretch when the Queens saw their 11-8 lead turn into 25-11 deficit. The Dusters built further on that, taking a 40-22 lead in the dressing room.

"Defensively, we had the advantage," Cushing said. "Pat (Carter) and Alex (Provencio) got into foul trouble early and Don had to sub a little earlier than he wanted. We had a lot of kids play well. If I've ever coached a perfect ballgame, that was it. They don't come along very often."

To the Queens' credit, the second half was a great improvement on the first 20 minutes. The teams scored basket-for-basket until Howard hit a 11-2 spurt after the Westerners had gone ahead 58-38 with 11 minutes to play.

Down 60-49 with 7:17 to go, the Queens almost were back in the game until their shooting went cold again. While the Dusters were playing lob-n-score to 6-2 post Clara Campbell, the Queens did not hit a two-pointer until 2:52 was left. By that time, WTC had rolled into a 75-53 lead which was more than enough to wrap up the victory.

"Obviously our weakness again was our rebounding," Stevens said. "There was nothing we could do to stop Campbell. We fronted her, zoned her some, put someone on her on the backside. Then they'd start hitting outside and we were caught in the crossfire."

The Queens muffed four layups in the game and Debbie Hall and Molly Early, the team's top scorers, combined for just seven points.

Carter finished with 14 points to lead Howard while Campbell scored 22 and sharp-shooter Mary Nell Clayton had 21. Clayton, the No. 3 scorer in the

Wink, Knox City eye state title game

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Wink Wildcats and Knox City Greyhounds are close to the gusto of playing for the state Class A football championship, after tonight's encounter between the two powers, one squad will definitely get a taste of that gusto.

The teams hook up in a 7:30 p.m. semifinal clash in Big Spring's Memorial Stadium, the winner advancing to the championship contest to be played next week against either No. 1-ranked Bremond or Celeste.

Making it this far in the playoffs is nothing new to either team. Wink was eliminated 7-6 in the quarterfinals last year by state finalist Roscoe while Knox City was defeated the following week by those same Plowboys, 9-0.

Both teams are known for their stout defenses. Wink, 13-0, breezed through District 6-A play allowing only 18 points to be scored on them. The defense has sparked in post-season play in wins over Fort Hancock, 48-0, Roscoe, 30-13, and Iraan, 56-14.

Knox City, 12-1 and winners of District 4-A, lost their season opener 19-14 to Albany but that's the last time they lost. Albany's point-total was the most scored on the Greyhounds this season. In post-season play, the Greyhounds defeated Meridian, 46-15, Nazareth, 20-6, and Valley, 13-0.

Wink coach Robin Byrd and his Wildcats like playing in Memorial Stadium; tonight's game marks the third consecutive year the Wildcats have earned a playoff game at Memorial Stadium. In 1981 the Wildcats clobbered Aspermont 40-23 in a semifinal game and last year, they defeated Eden 39-13 in a regional contest. "Big Spring has been good to us," Byrd echoed.

Although Byrd feels comfortable bringing his stingy defense to Memorial Stadium, a highly explosive offense makes things even better for the Wildcats.

Wink's wing-T attack is led by double-threat quarterback Travis Price who has completed 82 of 175 attempts for 1,425 yards and 10 touchdowns. He has also rushed for 1,008 yards and scored 24 TD's.

Fullback Raymond Price has rushed for 1,108 yards and 16 touchdowns while halfback Paul Posey has rushed for 824 yards and scored 11 TD's. Tight end Don Jacobsen has caught 32 passes for 632 yards and seven touchdowns.

In their victory last week against 6-A runner-up Iraan, Wink showed its explosiveness in erupting for 41 points in the second half as the Wildcats gained over 500 yards total offense.

Top Wink defensive players are linebackers Jacobsen, Crawford Adams, Raymond Adams and Gary Henderson.

The Greyhounds are appropriately named with the quantity of speed in their backfield. Coach Tommy Sloan has speed merchants in quarterback Wayne Hutchinson, flanker Dwayne Watkins and running back Otis Lockhart.

Lockhart, a 10.7 sprinter in the 100 meters, leads the veer attack with over 1,700 yards rushing. Hutchinson, a 50.0 400 meter runner, has rushed for over 1,000 yards and has tossed 10 TD passes to Watkins.

Last week the Knox City defense led by tackle James Evatt, end Chad Whitley and Hutchinson as the secondary limited Valley to only 120 yards total offense.

Byrd makes it quite clear that the Greyhounds' speed concerns him. "They have excellent speed in the backfield," said Byrd. "They are probably the most talented team we have faced this season. We can't stop them completely, but we will have to slow them down."

Sloan, meanwhile, says he's concerned about Wink's many weapons on offense. "They are big and quick and with their passing attack, they have the most versatile attack we have faced," said Sloan. "They also have a good running attack with a very good defense."

Both coaches said their players will have added incentive since they were stopped at this spot in the playoffs last year.

"It's a challenge to be in a contest like this," said Byrd. "There is no doubt in these kids' minds that they are capable of winning a state championship."

"At the start of the season the players made it their goal to win the state championship," said Sloan. "The challenge facing us is Wink; and it is an important step in getting to our goal."

Ex-Yankee Brown named new AL president

...likes 9-player game

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dr. Bobby Brown, an ex-major league infielder and baseball purist who prefers the traditional nine-player game, is the new president of the American League, with its 10th-man designated hitter.

Brown's appointment was announced at baseball's winter meetings Thursday and accompanied the three-month extension in office of Bowie Kuhn as the sport's designated commissioner.

The major league owners also directed the game's long range planning committee to do a feasibility study on eventual expansion to two 16-team leagues and rejected a proposal which would have permitted the DH rule to be used in all games played in AL parks during the World Series, referring the question to a study committee.

Brown's appointment and Kuhn's extension highlighted the busiest day of the winter meetings with 19 trades completed, involving 16 players including catcher Jim Sundberg, shortstop Tim Lincecum and pitcher Ray Burris.

Brown, 59, was elected to a five-year term, succeeding Lee MacPhail as AL president. The noted Texas heart surgeon's term of office begins Jan. 1 but he said it might take him until July to clear up his patient load.

Bob Fishel, longtime aide to MacPhail, was elected executive vice president of the league and will serve as caretaker until Brown can take charge of the league office.

Asked about his dramatic change of career, Brown said, "This looks like a very irrational act by a rational person. I've been in practice for 26 years and it's a tough specialty. The work load is heavy. The tension load is heavy. We deal with the most catastrophic emergencies you can imagine."

"Will baseball be easier?" "I'm not trying to get into a tension-free atmosphere," he said. "There is no such thing. I'm not looking to a tension-free tenure. I know there are problems."

Brown, who played for eight years with the New York Yankees in the 1940s and '50s, confided that he is not a fan of the AL's designated hitter rule.

Wilander trips McEnroe, gains finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Mats Wilander is now the man to beat in men's tennis, says second-ranked John McEnroe, who was upset by the 19-year-old Swede in the semifinals of the $400,000 Australian Open.

And Ivan Lendl, the world's top-ranked player, who meets Wilander in Sunday's finale following his 6-1, 7-6, 6-3 victory today over American Tim Mayotte, wasn't about to disagree.

"It's very difficult to win, especially with the way he's playing from the baseline . . ." the Czechoslovakian ace said. "If you want a point you'd better hit a very, very good shot." "It was just a disappointing effort . . ." McEnroe said of his 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 loss to Wilander.

Wilander called the victory, which gives him a 3-1 career record against his American opponent, one off the most satisfying of his career.

"In the first set he returned pretty well and then he started to miss his approach shot on the backhand, made a few double faults and didn't serve very well," Wilander said.

Wilander said he played as well as he could on grass, and said he was able to relax because the pressure was on the favored McEnroe.

Lendl and Wilander have divided six previous meetings, but have not faced each other on grass.

Australian Open

The Wilander-McEnroe match began with service breaks by both players, but the American was able to maintain a slight edge throughout the first set. Wilander took control early in the second set and although he rarely ventured to the net, was able to pass McEnroe almost at will.

Lendl said he was "surprised and impressed" with Wilander's play.

Rangers trade Sundberg to Brewers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Texas Rangers have dealt popular Jim Sundberg to the Milwaukee Brewers for backup catcher Ned Yost and minor league pitcher Dan Scarpetta.

Milwaukee behind Ted Simmons. "The time had come for us to look down the road and develop a young catcher like Ned Yost," said Texas Manager Doug Rader, who had been publicly critical of Sundberg. "Yost has all the qualities I'm looking for. I think he can be productive for us."

Scarpetta, 20, was 6-6 with a 3.63 earned run average this year with Beloit in Milwaukee's minor league system. "I'm sad, but excited — it's a funny feeling," Sundberg told the Dallas Morning News.

Mitchell wins in return

BSHS Lady Steers (5-4) vs. Greenwood (5-1) Midland Tournament

MIDLAND — The Lady Steers, in quest of their third tournament trophy in three outings, face a stern test against Greenwood at 3:15 p.m. this afternoon.

The two teams scrimmaged earlier in the season with Greenwood holding a slight advantage.

The Lady Steers placed fourth in the Andrews tournament and third in the Crane tournament. Greenwood finished third in the Big Lake tournament, suffering their only loss of the year to AAAA Andrews, 51-38. Andrews defeated the Lady Steers in the season opener, 69-68.

Post Paula Spears continues to lead BSHS in scoring at 19.2 per clip. Forward Monette Wise is averaging 13.6 points per contest while guard Debra Rubio is averaging 12.5. Wise and Spears also lead the team in rebounds with 8 per game.

Brown not fan of DH rule

"As a baseball purist, I always preferred the original nine guys," he said. "That's a personal opinion, not official. I always liked having the pitcher in the lineup and having to maneuver pinch hitters."

"But that doesn't mean I advocate disenfranchising the DH."

Brown's candidacy for the AL job developed after he had been interviewed by the search committee which continues to hunt for a successor to Kuhn.

"I was interviewed once or twice for the commissioner's job but I was not offered the job," Brown said. "I would suspect when they invited me to talk with the search committee about the commissioner's job, it evolved into a discussion of this with me," he said.

Bud Selig, chairman of the commissioner's search committee, made his report to the owners and the result was a second extension in office for Kuhn, this one through March 1.

"A transitory bridge needs to be built," from Kuhn to his successor, Selig said.

But the owner of the Milwaukee Brewers insisted that although "10 or 12" candidates have been interviewed, the job has not been offered to anyone and that no candidate has withdrawn his name from consideration.

"This committee has been no where near making any offers to anybody," Selig said.

Peter Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, said he had been told 10 days ago that he was one of two finalists for the job. He said because he was "committed to the 1984 Olympics through the Games," he was not a candidate "at this time."

The extension is the second for Kuhn, who at first agreed to serve only until Dec. 31.
