Retail sales signal resurgence

By RICK BROWN Staff Writer

The director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce said an increase in city sales tax receipts for November 1983 signals a resurgence in retail sales, evidence that the local economy is rebounding from 1983's slump.

Sales tax rebates announced by the state comptroller's office Monday for Big Spring were up 18 percent over the same period last year, marking the second such increase since January 1983, city officials said Monday.

"It's an optimistic sign for 1984," said LeRoy Tillery, executive vice president of the Chamber. "I think part of that (increase) would probably be related to an increase in the number of retail outlets."

According to figures released by the office of state Comptroller Bob Bullock, Big Spring received approximately $65,000 from the 1 percent sales tax that is collected by the office for cities around the state.

Figures for November of 1982 show Big Spring received about $53,500 during the same period last year.

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson said Monday the money received from the tax goes into the city's general fund for general operations.

These funds represent about one quarter of the total fund budget.

Business prospects targeted

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Granville Hahn was elected president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation board during an annual stockholders meeting Monday which reviewed the condition of business here last year and the prospects for 1984.

Hooper Sanders was named vice president of the board. Treasurer is Sidney Clark. Secretary is LeRoy Tillery.

New members of the board are John Currie and Curt Mullins. Other members are Clyde McMahon and R.H. Weaver. Serving on the Industrial Foundation board as representative of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is President Paul Shaffer. Hooper Sanders, industrial committee chairman for the Chamber, is also on the board.

Trucker dies to avoid collision

CHICAGO (AP) — Thirty-five years of experience on the road boiled down to a split-second decision and Harold Knott didn't hesitate. Four lives were saved, but his was lost.

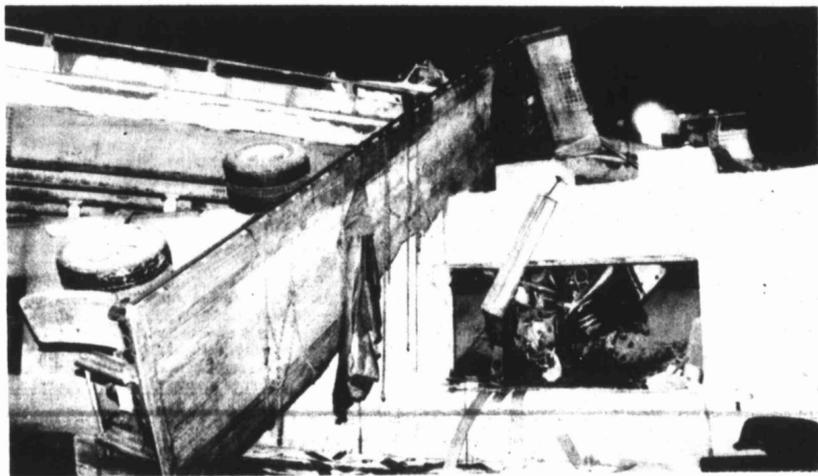

The 61-year-old truck driver swerved off a snow-swept expressway Monday to avoid colliding with a station wagon carrying a mother and three children, but was killed when his rig went through a guardrail and fell 25 feet, police said.

The woman was arrested later in the day at her home after being charged with leaving the scene of the accident and changing lanes without due caution. She was identified as Leonide Acevedo, 33. Her children ranged in age from 5 to 9. "He was a giving person," James Tanis, Knott's son-in-law, said Monday night. "It didn't surprise us."

"He'd been driving a truck all his life, and had never been in a serious accident before," he said. "Cars are always doing idiot things and every truck driver faces that."

Sgt. Michael Connelly of the major-accidents investigation unit, said, "If he had failed to swerve, the truck would have run right up over the station wagon. There's no doubt that the woman and her three children owe their lives to this trucker."

After entering the roadway, the station wagon failed to stay in the far right lane. Knott swerved to avoid a collision and apparently lost control of the tractor-trailer, which crashed through a guard rail and fell 25 feet onto a street running under Interstate 90.

A state Department of Transportation crew had to cut Knott from the tangled wreckage. He was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital, Connelly said.

Mrs. Acevedo, a factory worker, told police she left the scene because she "panicked" after the crash. Her car was found parked adjacent to the expressway and police traced her to her home through the license plate on the damaged car.

Knott's wife, Vera, of suburban Lansing, collapsed when police informed her of the accident and had to be treated by paramedics.

Tests begin for EDB pesticide in water

AUSTIN (AP) — The drinking water of cities across Texas was being tested today by health officials concerned because ground water in at least four other states has been found to be contaminated by the cancer-causing pesticide EDB.

At least 80 percent of Texas cities use ground water as their main source of drinking water, said C.K. Foster, who heads the health department's Bureau of Environmental Health.

The Texas Department of Health ordered the tests in Arlington, Abilene, El Paso, Lubbock, Canyon, Temple, Tyler, Harlingen, Uvalde and Rosenberg. But Foster said Monday that the tests are mainly precautionary. "Honestly, we really don't expect to find it," Foster told the Dallas Morning News.

"We're testing it because there is a specific interest in it (EDB) at the moment."

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency banned the use of ethylene dibromide, or EDB, as a soil fumigant four months ago because agency officials said it was believed to be contaminating water in Florida, Georgia, California and Hawaii.

Federal officials said they are considering a ban on the use of EDB to kill weevils in stored grain as well because of potential health hazards.

This will mark the first time that Texas water has been tested for EDB, Foster said. Officials with the Texas Department of Agriculture announced last week that they had found residues of the widely used grain fumigant in almost one-fourth of the 79 food items they tested.

Agriculture officials said additional tests are planned to determine how much EDB is lost in the cooking process.

An official with the San Antonio water department said the city plans its own test to see if EDB is in its water supply. San Antonio, the state's third-largest city, is the largest city in the state to get its drinking water exclusively from ground water.

Houston's municipal water supply gets most of its water from ground water, and Amarillo and El Paso depend heavily on ground water, Foster said. Dallas uses surface water.

The water samples from the various regional health departments, which will include water from wells and tap water, will be delivered to Austin for testing, Foster said.

Foster said he expects to have the test results by the end of the week.

State Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, chairman of the Subcommittee on Public Health, wrote Dr. Robert Bernstein, the commissioner of the state health department, to ask why Texas had not followed Florida's lead in removing EDB-tainted foods from grocery shelves.

Bernstein has criticized the Florida action. He said the state was "premature" in banning the sale of food items before federal officials set allowable limits of EDB in food.

But Truan said it would be safer to act first and make the studies later.

"Common sense tells us that studies can be conducted after the contaminated food has been taken off the shelf, and that enough is already known about EDB to fully justify Florida's policy of banning sales first and conducting studies later," Truan said.

Study ranks DA's office high

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

The 118th District attorney's office rates comparatively high in performance in comparison to district attorney's offices in 44 other Texas counties similar in population size to Howard County, District Attorney Rick Hamby said today.

The rating is based on figures released from the 1982 annual report of the Texas Judicial System and on population size for individual counties within state districts. Hamby used the report's figures to compare his office with the 44 Texas counties that counted a population between 25,000 and 60,000 in the U.S. Census.

According to U.S. Census figures, Howard County had a population of 33,142, ranking it 27th in population out of the 44 counties.

"Under any ordinary circumstances, the normal benchmark would be 27th at least," Hamby said. However, the district attorney's office ranked no lower than 18th in the seven categories compared for this county.

Hamby's office was ranked 15th in the number of guilty pleas, 14th in the number of jury trials, 15th in the number of convictions, 18th in the number of persons sent to the penitentiary, 14th in the number of persons placed on probation, 14th in the number of years persons were sentenced to, and 11th in the number of probations revoked, he said.

According to Hamby, in 1983 his office doubled the number of probations that were revoked in 1982.

"In 1982, we averaged one revocation every two weeks. In 1983, we had about 47 revocations, an average of one per week," Hamby said.

"It's not that our probationers act up more than in other counties. We have the same criteria for probation anyone else does," Hamby said.

He attributes the high number of revocations to "the efficiency of the probation office, the no-nonsense attitude of the judge and my office's ability to get along with both. We have policies and procedures that allow us to expedite (revocations) that they don't in some other counties," Hamby said.

Chamber membership drive attracts over 200

Tito Arencibia and Steve Fraser have won $25 each for bringing the most new members into the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce during the present membership drive.

Members of the Chamber's Blue Blazers and the Ambassadors are racing to attract 200 new members to the Chamber by Friday, LeRoy Tillery, executive director of the chamber, said.

A $25 prize is awarded each day to individual winners, Tillery said. The first day of the drive saw no winner due to a tie. Arencibia won Friday and Fraser was Monday's winner.

"We got 95 new members during our membership drive last year," Tillery said. "Our goal this year is 200 new members. That was the challenge issued by Tina Steffen and Steve Fraser, co-chairmen of the 1984 membership drive."

Six teams are canvassing the city now, recruiting new members. Captains for team one are Jerry Reid and Shirley Shroyer. Team two is captained by Tito Arencibia and Vineta Blassingame.

Captains for team three are David Justice and Mary Kenny. Team four captains are Bill Nehls and Gail Earls. Team five captains are John Freeman and Nancy Graves. And team six captains are James Balios and Sue Balios.

The Ambassador or Blue Blazer with the most points at the end of the week will win a round-trip vacation for two to Las Vegas. The membership drive will officially end Jan. 31 after all money is collected and points tallied.

Marijuana penalties

What is the penalty for possession of marijuana? The Controlled Substance Act 23 requires that the amount of marijuana possessed must be a "usable" quantity to constitute an offense. It must be proved that the accused possessed enough to be smoked in a cigarette or pipe, which is the common use of marijuana. Possession of one marijuana cigarette or enough loose marijuana to make 1 cigarette, a small cigarette, or a very small cigarette is sufficient. Possession of marijuana cigarette butts containing a total of 1/10th of a gram of marijuana or 1 "roach" containing 2/100ths of a gram of marijuana is sufficient. Possession of 1.486 grams and a little over 1/4 ounce are usable quantities.

The penalty for possession of marijuana is:
(a) 2 ounces or less — Class B misdemeanor — fine not to exceed $1,000 or confinement in jail not to exceed 180 days, or both.

(b) 4 ounces or less but more than 2 ounces — Class A misdemeanor fine not to exceed $2,000 or confinement in jail not to exceed 1 year, or both.

(c) 5 pounds or less, but more than 4 ounces — third degree felony not less than 2 years nor more than 10 years and, in addition, may be fine not to exceed $5,000.

(d) 50 pounds or less but more than 5 pounds — second degree felony not less than 2 years nor more than 20 years and, in addition, may be fine not to exceed $10,000.

(e) 200 pounds or less but more than 50 pounds — confinement for life or for a term of not more than 99 years or less than 5 years, and a fine not to exceed $50,000.

(f) 2,000 pounds or less but more than 200 pounds — confinement for life or for a term of not more than 99 years or less than 10 years, and a fine not to exceed $100,000.

Drifters choose to live under Houston bridge

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Mentor, who used to live in a nationally famous Tent City, now has a bridge for a roof and says he likes the relative privacy of his new home.

A small community of drifters beneath a bridge in the shadow of downtown Houston's skyscrapers has yet to attract the attention that Tent City did in 1982. That collection of shacks and lean-tos 30 miles east of Houston became a symbol of boomtown's economy gone bust.

Mentor shares the shelter of his bridge with 10 other homeless people.

"At least this ain't no tourist attraction like Tent City," Mentor said. "People used to come down there taking your picture and laughing at you like you were a bunch of animals. Here, you get some privacy."

Tent City was closed down early this year after a resident burned to death in his tent.

Mentor said bridge communities evolve their own forms of organization.

"We've sort of set up a family here," Mentor said. "Everybody has got their own responsibility. We all just try to help each other out the best we can."

Mentor is the only former Tent City resident among his particular group. Some of the group are from out of state, the last remnants of job seekers from the North.

"In the street world, Houston is still thought of as a boom town," said Ron File, 45, a truck driver from Nashville, Tenn. "All you hear is 'Come to Houston come to Houston, there's plenty of work.' Well, I never found it."

The temporary home is only two blocks from a Salvation Army shelter but the group stayed outside during the recent subfreezing temperatures.

"It wasn't too comfortable but nobody froze to death," said Robert Tucker, 42, an unemployed carpenter from Ohio. "Some of us kind of had to sit with our bottles to get by, though."

Tucker said street life had taught him how to survive.

BRIDGE PEOPLE — Three of 11 people who are living under the North Main Street bridge over White Oak Bayou in Houston cook a meal over an open fire near their makeshift home. The community is one of several that have grown up in Houston.

"If there was a big disaster, like a nuclear explosion or something, those people above couldn't last one day on their own, they'd have to come to us for help," Tucker said.

new products and expanded their employment to 29.

Western Container Inc. now has 86 on the payroll and ships 19 truck loads of containers out of its plant each day. Fiberflex was listed as the largest employer at the Big Spring Air Park with 175 employees.

Cameo Energy Homes increased its production to 25 units per week and ended 1983 with an employment of 181.

Stockholders were told that the Howard County Industrial Development Corp. authorized a $1 million bond issue to the Old Big Spring

Joint Venture to modernize the Petroleum Building. The investors projected 30 to 40 new jobs may be added if new tenants are attracted to Big Spring.

Stockholders also were told that the slowdown in the oil fields cost about 1,000 jobs with the closing of Oilfield Industrial Lines, Inc.

A report on prospects for the Big Spring area was given by LeRoy Tillery. He said that a survey being circulated in the city by a prospective clothing manufacturer is "going slowly" and "we encourage people to fill out the survey." Tillery also reported on a "machine shop operation" from New Jersey which is negotiating for space in the city. Representatives will be in Big Spring later this month to "finalize an agreement, we hope," Tillery said.

The Foundation has contracted with Oscar Castillon to serve as a consultant and help with industrial efforts, Tillery said. The Foundation is now working on a suggestion to offer long-term loans to small businesses. A new corporation, the Big Spring Area Certified Development Corp., was chartered, and John Currie was elected president. The corporation was formed with plans to offer long-term loans.

Police Beat

Numerous burglaries reported

Burglaries and thefts were prevalent in reports to Big Spring police this morning, with more than $9,500 in property reported taken.

Elvira Nunez of 710 N. Scurry told police at 4:06 p.m. Monday that someone entered her residence between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. Monday and stole more than $5,000 in property and currency, police reports said. Items stolen included a German Lugar pistol worth $1,000 and a man's ring, set with three diamonds, worth $3,500 reports said.

Big Spring Parks Commissioner Gary Tabor told police at 10:54 a.m. Monday at City Hall that someone between 9 a.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday stole a gas heater and line worth a total of $200 from the community center at Comanche Trail Park, police reports said.

Phillip Malneix of 102 Carey told police at 9:48 a.m. Monday that his grey 1978 four-wheel-drive Ford pickup worth $3,500 came up missing after he lent it to his nephew so he could go to a party Saturday night, police reports said. Police recovered the vehicle after an accident in the westbound lane of the I-20 south service road, according to reports. The pickup hit a curb and left the roadway, re-entering 200 feet down the road in the westbound lane. The driver left the scene on foot, reports said.

Manuel Arsiaga of the McMahon Concrete Co. at 605 N. Benton told police at 9:15 a.m. Monday that someone stole assorted tools worth a total of $400 from his tool box inside the company grounds, police reports said.

Larry Smith of the Kentwood Texaco at 1608 Marcy told police at 8:09 a.m. Monday that between 8:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday someone stole a Radac wrench worth $85 from the service station, police reports said.

A.V. Blasingame of Pollard Chevrolet at 1501 E. Fourth said that someone stole a radial tire and wheel worth a total of $200 from a 1984 Chevrolet pickup demonstrator model while it was parked in the lot at the Holiday Inn, police reports said.

John Bryans of 1222 E. 15th told police at 1:43 p.m. Monday that someone he knows borrowed his gasoline-powered chain saw worth $150 Sept. 2 and then sold it without permission, police reports said.

Larry A. Parker of 1002 N. Main was arrested at 3:49 a.m. this morning in the 600 block of Lancaster in connection with driving while license suspended and traffic warrants, police reports said.

NEW FREIGHT BUSINESS — Perry Motor Freight, located at the intersection of North Birdwell and Anderson streets, held its grand opening yesterday. The business will carry general commodity goods and features pick-up and delivery. The business will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Pictured left to right are Donnie McFatter, Bill Brannen, Larry Scott and Charles Perry. Perry is chairman of the board and chief executive.

MH clinic extends hours of operation

Malone and Hogan Clinic opened a new extended hours medical center Monday.

The facility, located in the first floor surgery area at Malone and Hogan Clinic, will be open from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. No appointments are required.

Office fee at the extended hours center will be $25. An additional charge will be made for consults, lab work, x-rays and medication. Cash, VISA or MasterCard payments will be accepted.

"Ideally, patients should not have a long wait at the extended hours medical center," Dr. Caplan, one of the center organizers, said. The center was designed to treat problems such as cuts, minor trauma and acute illnesses.

Dr. Caplan said "problems that can be cared for within no more than 10 minutes, those are the ones for which our extended hours center is designed. If our physicians get tied down with complex workups, we can't serve our purpose of quick, walk-in, after-work medical care."

"That 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. period between when our clinic closes and when Malone and Hogan Hospital's Emergency Room physician starts his 12-hour duty has been a problem for many patients," Dr. Caplan said. "After five is the only time some persons can fit in medical attention for themselves and their families. Making an emergency room a routine health care provider has been an expensive proposition for many."

"Storefront emergency clinics are popping up in shopping centers and malls all over the country," Richard Lehigh, administrator for the 28-physician medical group, said.

"Many of the facilities are staffed by doctors who specialize only in emergency medicine. Malone and Hogan's extended hours center is unique in being one of the few staffed by the physicians of a large multi-specialty medical practice," Lehigh said.

Indians wary of new wealth

INDIAN VILLAGE, Texas (AP) — With the Alabama-Coushatta Indians of East Texas expecting the first installment this month on at least $6 million in oil and gas royalties, tribal leaders are worried about a spending spree.

"They're being very cautious," said Ray Apodaca, director of the Texas Indian Commission in El Paso. "Too many tribes have gone from near-starvation to being millionaires. They've gone crazy spending their money."

Two companies have struck oil and natural gas on the 4,351-acre reservation since April. The discovery is expected to bring at least $6 million in royalties and leasing fees to the tribe.

Some tribal members told the Dallas Times Herald they want their share of the energy bonanza in cash. Others favor a trust fund that would be spent on scholarships, health care and other tribal projects. The dispute will be aired this week at a tribal meeting.

"I don't know what direction we'll go in," said Clem Sylestine, 56, a member of the tribal council. "A lot of them want their money in individual shares."

Before the oil boom, the Alabama-Coushatta ranked among the poorest Indian tribes in the nation. Unemployment among the reservation's 550 residents is 44 percent, and 21 percent fall below the national poverty level, according to the Texas Indian Commission.

"Building a health clinic is one of our priorities," said Tony Byars, reservation superintendent.

If the money is divided in shares, tribal leaders fear it will be squandered and that the prosperity will be short-lived.

Glenn paints bleak picture

SIOUX CITY — Sen. John Glenn, outlining a chilling scenario of America "held hostage by state-supported nuclear terrorism," is calling for a ban on distribution of all nuclear materials to nations developing new atomic weapons programs.

"Imagine a world in which Khadafi of Libya and the Ayatollah Khomeini of Iran have nuclear weapons," the Democratic presidential hopeful declared in a speech Monday at a community college in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"If that happens, we will face a world in which unstable, fanatical leaders can start a nuclear war. And we will face the prospect of being held hostage by state-supported nuclear terrorism," Glenn said.

Glenn foresaw a day in which terrorists might explode a nuclear weapon in this country or even in Russia, and said:

"Who can say that in the confusion following such a disaster, a nuclear attack might not be launched by one superpower against the other?"

The Ohio Democrat coupled his own proposal for limiting the spread of nuclear weapons — including talks on a comprehensive test ban treaty with the Soviet Union — with an attack on President Reagan's policy.

"Whether through ideology or indifference, President Reagan is carrying out a shortsighted and potentially tragic policy. It is a policy that amounts to helping to pass out deadly weapons which could one day be turned against our own people," he said.

Glenn made his speech during a three-day campaign trip through Iowa, where the presidential contenders face their first test before the voters in caucuses on Feb. 20.

Glenn faces a difficult struggle in the state, where his own polls show he lags far behind front-runner Walter F. Mondale.

The campaign was reorganized and new leadership was installed in the last weeks of 1983. While Glenn himself said on Monday that progress has been made, the new state director, Jerry Vento, told reporters, "I think we'll do well. We'll come in second."

In his speech in Council Bluffs, Glenn said the administration has compiled a dishonorable record — providing assistance of one type or another to South Africa, Pakistan, Argentina and India. "All in all, President Reagan's nuclear policy has been a faithful reflection of candidate Reagan's infamous remark in 1980 that 'non-proliferation is none of our business,'" Glenn said.

He declared that "non-proliferation is our business," and outlined several steps to deal with it. They include using the nation's "full economic and political strength to encourage responsible behavior by other countries."

Glenn said the United States, Russia, France, Britain and China currently have nuclear weapons, that India exploded what it called a "peaceful" device several years ago and Israel may have the capability. But he said more than a half-dozen other nations may have nuclear weapons in the next decade unless action is taken to prevent it.

He said he would discourage the transfer of fuel enrichment and reprocessing equipment, the stockpiling of plutonium by non-weapons nations and the sale of large nuclear reactors.

He pledged to seek "an embargo of nuclear exports to any non-nuclear state developing a weapons program."

Glenn also said he opposes government assistance for commercial reprocessing ventures in this country, such as a controversial plant at Barnwell, S.C.

He said a comprehensive test ban is needed if smaller nations are to believe a call for non-proliferation from the two superpowers.

Treaties now in effect ban nuclear weapons testing undersea, in space and in the atmosphere. Underground testing is not outlawed.

The news in brief

By the Associated Press

Lebanese, Druse trade fire

BEIRUT — Lebanese troops and anti-government Druse militiamen traded artillery fire in the hills east of Beirut today, police said, and France was reported ready to equip the Lebanese army with 100 helicopters.

Police said the army-Druse exchanges flared overnight and tapered off after dawn in the hills above the U.S. Marine base at Beirut's international airport. No casualties were reported.

An Israeli soldier was slightly wounded today when a roadside bomb exploded next to a passing convoy on a coastal road three miles south of the Zaharani River in southern Lebanon, the Israeli military command announced in Tel Aviv.

Walid Jumblatt, leader of the Syrian-backed Druse militia, said in Damascus, Syria, that there could be no reconvening of the Geneva conference on Lebanon until the May 17 Lebanese-Israeli troop withdrawal agreement was abrogated. Leaders of Lebanon's warring factions met last December in the Swiss capital to seek a political solution for embattled nation.

Also, a rebel leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Saed Mousa, said in Damascus after meeting with a top Libyan leader that it was time "to escalate the fighting in Lebanon against the Zionist enemy." He did not elaborate.

His meeting with Col. Abdel Salam Jalloud, an adviser to Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi, came a day after Jalloud said Libya intended to supply Lebanese opposition forces with sophisticated weapons to defend against "barbaric slaughters" by Israel.

The independent Beirut newspaper An-Nahar said France has agreed to provide the Lebanese army with 100 helicopters "as part of a plan to upgrade the army's firepower."

The report came the morning after a rocket-propelled grenade was fired at a guard post at the headquarters of the French peacekeeping contingent in Beirut, killing one French paratrooper and wounding two others.

It was France's 83rd fatality in Beirut since the September 1982 deployment of the multinational force, which also includes troops from the United States, Italy and Britain.

U.S., Vatican establish ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States established full diplomatic relations with the Vatican today, under President Reagan's belief that the importance of the ties outweighs lingering Protestant opposition.

The first announcement came from the Vatican in a brief statement:

"The Holy See and the United States, wishing to develop their already existing mutual, friendly relations, have decided in common accord to establish between them diplomatic relations," said the statement, read by the Rev. Romeo Panciroli.

An announcement was not planned in Washington until later in the morning. It appeared the delay was prompted by a White House desire to have the Vatican make the initial announcement, possibly to deflect criticism from domestic opponents of the move.

Austin finance director resigns post

AUSTIN (AP) — City Finance Director Phil Scheps has resigned, effective March 2, to become vice president for public finance at Shearson-American Express in Dallas.

"This is a good example of private industry being able to pay salaries that we can't compete with," said City Manager Nicholas Meiszer.

ponents of the move.

Reagan is expected to nominate William A. Wilson, as the nation's first ambassador to the Holy See. Wilson, 69, is a California real-estate developer who has long had close ties to Reagan.

Wilson was appointed by Reagan as his personal representative to the Vatican soon after taking office in 1981.

The Vatican will in turn appoint an ambassador, known as a papal nuncio, to Washington. It has been represented in Washington by an apostolic delegate.

State Department officials who confirmed the decision beforehand insisted on anonymity. They said that in deciding to establish diplomatic ties, the administration takes the position that it won't violate the constitutional requirement for a separation of church and state because it doesn't confer special status on the Roman Catholic Church.

U.S., China trust growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang told President Reagan today that a continued improvement in relations between their two countries is marred by "difficulties and obstacles." He said relations have become more friendly but have been marked by "ups and downs."

Reagan, welcoming Zhao in arrival ceremonies on the South Lawn of the White House, said that while differences remain, the two countries "stand on common ground" in searching for peace and "opposing expansionism and interference" in the affairs of other nations.

"We stand ready to nurture, develop and build upon the many areas of accord to strengthen the ties between us," Reagan said.

Zhao, the head of government and the highest-ranking Chinese communist official ever to visit the United States, praised the U.S.-Chinese progress in cultural, scientific technological and economic areas.

"But it should be conceded that the growth of the Sino-U.S. relation is far below the level it should have attained," he said. "There have been ups and downs in the course of development and there still exists difficulties and obstacles."

"Mr. President, at this solemn podium, I feel that hundreds of millions of people are watching us," Zhao said.

"They expect us to make contributions to the development of Sino-U.S. relations and to the cause of maintaining world peace. We should not disappoint them."

After ceremonies marked by a 19-gun salute for Zhao as China's head of government, the two leaders walked to the Oval Office for talks.

Reagan is scheduled to return the visit by traveling to Peking in April, the first trip to China by a U.S. chief executive in nine years.

Reagan told Zhao that the premier's visit to the White House "symbolizes the growing trust and cooperation between our two countries."

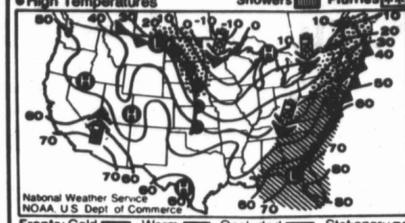

"We recognize the differences between our two countries but we stand ready to nurture and build the ties between us," Reagan said.

He praised China's vision in modernizing its economy and searching out ways to improve the lives of its one billion people.

Storm plasters northeast

A snowstorm plastered northern Ohio with up to 8 inches of snow today as the big cities of the East batted down for their first major winter storm of the year, a nor'easter threatening accumulations of up to a foot.

Snow or sleet fell in many areas from a corner of Arkansas, western Tennessee and Kentucky into New England, with the mercury taking a dive during the day.

In Kentucky, the storm spread a blanket of snow over western, central and northern sections, snarled traffic in Louisville and forced schools to close in a wide area.

Rain was falling in the eastern mountains, but the National Weather Service said residents could expect up to 6 inches of snowfall by midnight.

Light rain, which changed to sleet in many areas, preceded the snow, icing many roadways.

Traffic accidents attributed to the slick conditions were reported from Paducah to Louisville. Rush-hour traffic on Interstates 65, 65 and 71 in Louisville slowed to a crawl.

At least 22 school systems, most of them in central Kentucky, were closed.

The blast of Canadian air penetrated as far south as Texas, where the wind chill was well below zero in the northern part of the state.

Patches of fog shrouded the Pacific coast states early today and gale warnings were posted for the Gulf coast of Texas.

Rainshowers and some thunderstorms were expected for the Southeast as widely scattered rain was forecast for the Pacific Northwest.

Temperatures on left indicate previous day's high and overnight low to 8 a.m. EST. Temperatures on right indicate outlook for tomorrow.

Sandinistas just Nazis in fatigues

Nicaragua's ruling Marxist revolutionaries have made a mess of that country since they seized power there in 1979. The promises of democracy and material progress have long since given way to a reality of political repression, economic failure, and civil conflict. Amazingly, however, the Sandinista regime has continued to elicit a measure of sympathy from American and Western European liberals who should know better.

This is especially odd given the Sandinistas' systematic mistreatment of Nicaragua's Indians. The Miskitos, Ramas, and Sumos constitute just the kind of impoverished, Third World minority whose plight should occasion Beverly Hills fund raisers. Instead, Nicaragua's Indians have been largely ignored by the world as they suffer Sandinista persecution for the crime of resisting Marxist indoctrination.

The Miskitos especially have been subjected to armed attacks and forced relocation into Nicaraguan government camps. Thousands have fled to dreary refugee encampments in neighboring Honduras and Costa Rica, where many have volunteered to fight as guerrillas against the Sandinistas.

What brought all this to mind was the poignant saga of 3,100 Miskitos led through rugged mountains into Honduras by Roman Catholic Bishop Salvador Schläefer of Milwaukee. Bishop Schläefer, who had spent years in missionary work among the Miskitos, was first reported by the Nicaraguan government to have been killed by U.S.-backed anti-Sandinista guerrillas.

But, in fact, the bishop was only in danger from the Sandinistas. At a press conference held after he arrived in Honduras, Bishop Schläefer said the fleeing Indians had been shelled and strafed by Nicaraguan government forces during an exodus lasting three days and nights. The bishop described the Sandinista resettlement camp from which some of the Indians had escaped as "a Nazi-style concentration camp."

Some Americans view the Sandinistas and their revolution through a haze of romantic myths. Those so inclined need to reflect on the surer glimpses of reality provided by persons such as Bishop Schläefer. And then someone needs to organize that fund raiser in Beverly Hills.

Get ready for the 21st Century

To the editor: I would like to offer some counter thoughts to the editorial in Wednesday, December 21st paper, titled "From Star Wars to U.S. Defense."

It is very naive to think that the Russians have not already developed a laser beam. For the past 30 years the Russians have been doing experiments that will lead to operational beam weapon capability. Their scientists have been discussing these experiments with their U.S. counterparts, since the weapons research also has wide spread applications for commercial fusion energy development, new industrial technologies, and other civilian fields.

Over the past five years, the Soviets have reached a point where they have actually tested some of the techniques needed to deploy beam weapons, and they have succeeded in destroying missiles and aircraft in flight using high-energy lasers.

For many years the Soviets have had a broad-based approach to beam weapons, conducting work and experiments not only in the development of laser beams, but also in charged particle, microwave and other beams. It is thought in intelligence circles that the microwave beams were used in luring the Korean plane off course in 1978 and again in 1983. The Soviets are ahead of us in every aspect of laser beam technology.

This was the reason that Mr. Andropov threw such a fit when President Reagan announced the beam weapons program last March. Not only could we protect ourselves and the world from these evil mad men but the economic results could be fantastic for the U.S. and the rest of the free world. This is something Mr. Andropov does not want.

The development of the beam weapon as a defense would STOP the nuclear arms race and render them obsolete. It is absolute folly to think that we can sit down at the negotiating table and develop sensible treaties with the Russians. They lie, cheat, and steal and their word is absolutely useless. This is the reason that Russia has not only pulled even with us in military capabilities but have surpassed us.

What the American people must get into their minds is that the Russians are still intent on controlling the world and they are using every method within their power to accomplish this fact.

Come on Mr. Editor and pull your head out of the sand and get ready for the 21st century.

Briscoe's article is disgusting filth

To the editor: In response to Keith Briscoe's article Sunday, I would like to share my opinion.

In my opinion sir, that was the most disgusting article I have ever read in my entire life. To honestly praise and honor a magazine as filthy and perverted as Playboy must be an abomination to Christ. I assume you have spent a lot of time researching the contents of Playboy.

If you would have spent this time in the Bible, your time would have been more wisely spent. To take something as blessed and holy as a woman's body, and to defile and pervert it by exposure to the American public, just makes me sick. I just hope and pray, if you get to keep writing this trash, you will not be permitted to publish it on the Lord's Day.

You mentioned in your article, that Playboy shows sex as exciting, wonderful and natural as the day Adam met Eve. Well Mr. Briscoe, that's how Playboy exposes love, as pure sex. Nothing the same as the spiritual love and marriage between a man and a woman that God spoke of in Genesis. The kind of love God spoke of between a husband and a wife is to be compared to the love Jesus has for his bride, the Church.

I'm thoroughly convinced by the signs of God that Jesus is coming soon for his Bride. My prayer to you is that you are among his Church before you reach the age of 31. Jesus Christ is a much better companion than Playboy, I promise you, Keith. Call me anytime and I will show you. I challenge you to read the Bible this year, and see if you don't get more of a love story out of it, than you do Playboy. God's eternal love!

Around The Rim

By CAROL HART BALDWIN

TV goes from ridiculous to sublime

Anyone switching the television dial Monday night saw examples of noble television and television at its worst.

An example of television at its worst was "That's Incredible." Monday night's episode had a daredevil motorcycle rider attempting to jump over three helicopters. The helicopters were placed in a row with their propellers spinning. The man riding the motorcycle was aiming for a world's record by jumping over the spinning propellers. That stunt was incredibly stupid.

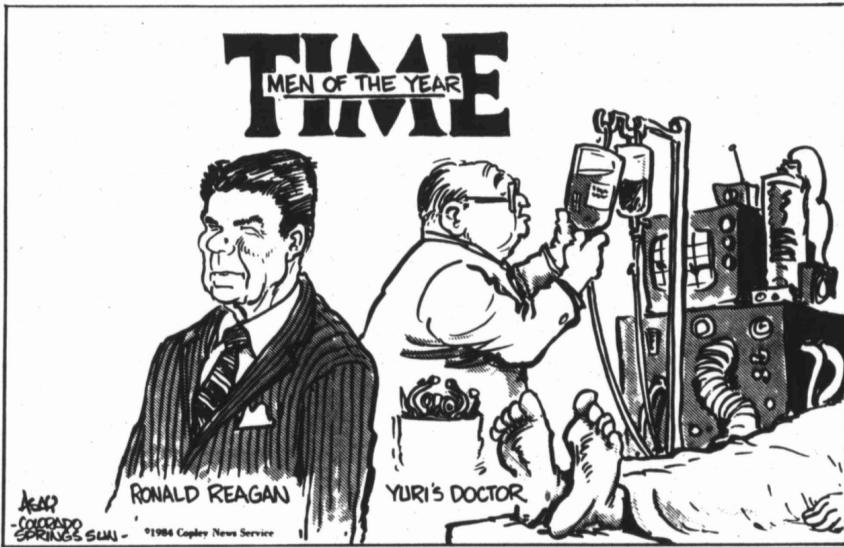

The irony of the jump was that minutes earlier the networks had carried news of the "Twilight Zone" trial in which director John Landis and others watched footage from a fatal helicopter crash which took the lives of actor Vic Morrow and two children. The graphic footage was horrible. It left people in the courtroom upset and no doubt upset many television viewers. The point of the trial was whether safety measures could have been taken to avoid the tragic accident. The footage was shown in the context of a news story and could be justified as a part of that news story.

The jump on "That's Incredible" has no defense. If the man had failed in his attempt he would have been killed or maimed by the propellers. And the only glory he gets from the stunt is the knowledge that he's done something stupid and lived to tell about it. What is the honor in that?

An example of noble television was "Something About Amelia." I say noble instead of excellent because I didn't think it was handled as well as it could have been. However, it was a noble attempt at airing a very sensitive problem which affects a lot of children. Television has been labeled the "great wasteland" for good reason. We have too many shows such as "That's Incredible" which really offer little quality and a lot of escapism. And we have too few shows which tackle sensitive problems or heavy subjects. Of course we wouldn't want only drama and heavy subjects for our choices on television. Neither do we want only stupid sitcoms and so-called thrillers such as "That's Incredible."

Not every stunt attempted for "That's Incredible" has been successful. There have been people hurt while trying to prepare a segment for the show. And I hate to think how many kids want to imitate what they see on the show, despite the warnings that "this shouldn't be tried at home."

Mum's the word in 1984

Here are some of the things I doubt you'll hear said in 1984.

From John McEnroe: "Sir, my ball was out, and you called it in. Jimmy Connors deserves the point."

From Jesse Jackson: "I have no intention of making waves in the Democratic Party. The system as it now operates is fair to all the candidates."

President Ronald Reagan: "I received a touching letter from a little girl in Madison, Wisconsin, but I have no desire to read it to you."

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger: "We overestimated our defense needs, and we're asking Congress to cut our budget in half."

An IRS agent (any IRS agent): "You're right and we're wrong."

Frank Sinatra: "Look at all the photographers. Let's go over and have our picture taken."

John DeLorean: "I believe we have the finest Drug Enforcement Agency in the world."

Yuri Andropov: "I think I'll jog around the Kremlin for a few hours."

Henry Kissinger: "I have no comment."

Nancy Reagan: "What's that little kid doing in the White House?"

Secretary of State George Shultz: "See that press gets a copy of everything we discussed here today."

Vice President George Bush: "I hope President Reagan isn't going to run, because I'd like to go for it myself."

Rev. Jerry Falwell: "If there is a God, and I'm not saying there is..."

Fritz Mondale: "If I am elected I will continue the policies and philosophy of President Jimmy Carter."

David Stockman: "Mr. President, I think there should be a little more fat in our social programs."

The editor of Pravda: "When we're wrong we're wrong, and we should admit it. The Soviets overreacted when the United States placed Pershing 2 missiles in Europe. They're not the threat to the Warsaw Pact nations that we thought they would be, and we would like to return to Geneva as quickly as possible."

James Watt: "If I had it to do all over again, I would have kept my mouth shut and taken time to smell the flowers."

Anne Gorsuch Burford: "We all make mistakes, but the EPA was my department and I take full blame for the chaos."

Johnny Carson: "I believe a wife deserves every penny she can get when she feels she's been wronged."

A power company executive: "We have just discovered that our new nuclear plant was built with cheap materials and shoddy labor. This is no fault of our customers and therefore we intend to pay for our mistakes without passing on any cost to the consumer."

The Japanese Minister of Commerce: "Japan can no longer export more than it imports without upsetting other nations' balance of trade. We are therefore lifting all restrictions on foreign goods, so other countries may compete fairly in the marketplace."

President Marcos: "It's time we had open elections supervised by an international commission selected by the United Nations."

Madame Marcos: "I couldn't agree with you more."

A Big Ten football coach: "I don't care if he's All-American material. If the kid can't keep his grades up I don't want him on my team."

Fidel Castro: "I've been shaving with this Remington electric for months. I liked it so much I bought the company."

Howard Cosell: "I'd rather not give my opinion on that because I don't know anything about it."

Prince Andrew: "I'm sorry, dear. I'm third in line for the throne, and it would not be right for me to get into a hot tub with you."

Ayatollah Khomeini: "In the name of Allah, and I'm not saying there is one..."

Billy Graham

Will the world end before 2,000?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Now that we are only a few years away from the year 2,000, do you think the world will end before then? — T.R.M.

DEAR T.R.M.: The Bible makes it very clear that no one knows when the world as we know it will end. Jesus said, "No one knows about the day or hour, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father" (Matthew 24:36).

It is however, very possible as we approach the end of this century that you will hear leaders of various non-Christian cults saying that they know when the end of the world is coming, and there may even be some who will claim to be Christ. But Jesus said, "Watch out that no one deceives you, for many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am the Christ,' and will deceive many" (Matthew 24:4-5). Only God knows the exact time when Christ will come again.

At the same time, the Bible does give us a number of indications of what the world will be like just before Christ's return, and also tells us about certain events that must take place before his return. Many of these seem to have already happened. For example, Jesus declared, "And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come" (Matthew 24:14). Through such means as radio and television this may be taking place today. There are therefore many Bible scholars who believe we may well be nearing the last days — although no one can say for certain.

What is clear, however, is our responsibility. We know that this world is not our ultimate home, and we know that some day Christ will rule as Lord over "a new heaven and a new earth, the home of righteousness" (2 Peter 3:13).

Therefore we should live for Christ every moment of every day — whether he is coming tomorrow or whether he is coming a thousand years from now. We should seek to spread the Good News of Christ by every means we can, because "Night is coming, when no one can work" (John 9:4). As the Bible says, "Since everything will be destroyed in this way, what kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives as you look forward to the day of God" (2 Peter 3:11-12). Christ's return is our hope — and it is also our challenge to live totally for him right now.

What is echogram?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 34-year-old female who has been having heart palpitations. This worries me because my mother and brother both died of heart attacks. They said my mother had a hole in her heart. I went to my doctor who did a thorough examination — chest X-ray, EKG, etc. Everything turned out all right, but he said he'd only be completely satisfied if I went into the hospital to have an echogram done. What can echogram tell me that an EKG can't? Should I be concerned about the test? — S.M.

Echograms and EKGs are such very different examinations that it's hard to compare them. An EKG, as the name electrocardiogram indicates, provides information about the functioning of the electrical system within the heart, whether it's working properly to produce the heartbeat. The pattern produced also can tell if the heart muscle is damaged from poor blood supply, or if the heart is enlarged. It helps in diagnosing heart attacks.

Echograms, on the other hand, provide actual pictures of the heart made from sound waves. You see the heart and its structures, like the valves, and you can tell how well the heart is functioning. The EKG tells you what's happening. The echogram shows you what's happening.

You shouldn't be concerned about the test. It's easy and it's painless. Your doctor, I'm pretty sure, wants to get a picture of your mitral valve. Your symptoms (another part of your letter) suggest a very common condition where the mitral valve is a bit floppy, usually nothing to worry about. You should have the test done to confirm whether such a condition is causing your palpitations.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have trouble going to sleep. I have been told to get up and walk around or read when this happens, which it does just about every night. My question may sound silly, but here it is: How long should a person consider too long with regard getting to sleep? How long should one expect to get to sleep after lying down in bed? — W.O.

Most people should be able to get to sleep a half hour after lying down if that is their intention. After that, it is best to get up and, as you suggest, read for a while, perhaps an hour, before trying again. It works for most. You'll find other suggestions in the booklet "Why Can't You Sleep?" which other readers may order by writing me care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11216, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

A long trip to the altar

DEAR ABBY: A letter appeared recently in your column in the Brockton (Mass.) Enterprise from "Kathleen," whose son wanted to marry his first cousin. Kathleen's letter stated that first cousins could not marry in Massachusetts. Abby, for some strange reason, this is a common misconception among the citizens of this state; first cousins can marry in Massachusetts.

Kathleen asked if her son and his cousin went to another state to marry and returned to live in Massachusetts, would they be living in sin in Massachusetts? You replied that a valid marriage is valid in every state.

Wrong! Not in Massachusetts!

If Massachusetts residents go to another state to contract a marriage that cannot be legally performed in Massachusetts, and said couple return to continue to reside in Massachusetts, their marriage would not be valid in the state of Massachusetts.

ELAINE TRUDEAU, REGISTRAR.

REGISTRY OF VITAL RECORDS, BOSTON, MASS.

DEAR READERS: Mea culpa. Mea maxima culpa. I learned a lesson today. When it comes to the law, never assume anything.

My office phoned Elaine Trudeau in Boston to thank her for the above information, and to inquire, "What types of marriages would be legal in other states, but not in Massachusetts?"

We were told that a marriage between a man and his son's wife is one example. Another: Marriage between a couple who have not waited the required six months following a Massachusetts divorce, have gone elsewhere to be married and returned to live in Massachusetts.

So, dear readers, what seems logical is not necessarily legal.

 (Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Critic picks Oscar nominees

By BOB THOMAS
AP Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When a movie has eight supporting players and no stars, whom do the supporting players support?

That is the absurdity facing members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences as they start considering their nominations for best achievements of 1983. Two major films have "ensemble" casts, that is, several players with more or less equal roles.

"The Big Chill," the tale of 1960s collegiates who gather for a bittersweet reunion, features this cast: Tom Berenger, Glenn Close, Jeff Goldblum, William Hurt, Kevin Kline, Mary Kay Place, Meg Tilly, JoBeth Williams.

Who are the stars of "The Big Chill"? None of the above, says Columbia Pictures. In trade paper ads aimed at Academy voters, Columbia lists all eight as supporting players.

"The Right Stuff" features another ensemble cast, with Charles Frank, Scott Glenn, Ed Harris, Lance Henriksen, Scott Paulin, Dennis Quaid and Fred Ward playing the original U.S. astronauts. There's also Sam Shepard as test pilot Chuck Yeager. The Ladd Company has proposed Shepard for best actor, the others as supporting actors.

Logic may not be on the side of the studios, but history is. Jack Albertson ("The Subject Was Roses") and George Burns ("The Sunshine Boys") won Oscars as supporting actors in roles that seemed to be starring. On the other hand, Paramount last year promoted Susan Sarandon as supporting actress for "Atlantic City," but she was nominated for best actress.

The Academy voters themselves make the final decision as to who stars and who supports. This year they will have a harder choice.

Entries for the 1983 Oscar race are now complete, with the passing of the Dec. 31 deadline. "Terms of Endearment" appears to be the leading contender, because of its dominance of the year-end honors from critics' organizations and individual reviewers.

Here is one reporter's view of the probable nominees, more or less in order:

Best Picture — "Terms of Endearment," "The Big Chill," "The Right Stuff," "Educating Rita," "The Dresser," "Yentl," "Tender Mercies."

Best Actor — Tom Courtenay and Albert Finney, "The Dresser"; Robert Duvall, "Tender Mercies"; Michael Caine, "Educating Rita"; Tom Conti, "Reuben, Reuben"; Richard Farnsworth, "The Grey Fox"; Eric Roberts, "Star 80"; Ben Kingsley,

"The Betrayal"; Sam Shepard, "The Right Stuff."

Best Actress — Shirley MacLaine and Debra Winger, "Terms of Endearment"; Meryl Streep, "Silkwood"; Jane Alexander, "Testament"; Barbra Streisand, "Yentl"; Bonnie Bedelia, "Heart Like a Wheel."

Best Supporting Actor — Jack Nicholson and John Lithgow, "Terms of Endearment"; John Lithgow, "The Twilight Zone"; Scott Glenn, Ed Harris and Dennis Quaid, "The Right Stuff"; William Hurt and Jeff Goldblum, "The Big Chill"; Charles Durning, "To Be or Not To Be"; Rip Torn, "Cross Creek"; Beau Bridges, "Heart Like a Wheel."

Best Supporting Actress — Glenn Close and JoBeth Williams, "The Big Chill"; Dana Hill and Alfre Woodard, "Cross Creek"; Cher, "Silkwood"; Eileen Atkins, "The Dresser"; Tess Harper, "Tender Mercies"; Amy Irving, "Yentl."

Best Director — James L. Brooks, "Terms of Endearment"; Lawrence Kasdan, "The Big Chill"; Philip Kaufman, "The Right Stuff"; Ingmar Bergman, "Fanny and Alexander"; Peter Yates, "Educating Rita"; Barbra Streisand, "Yentl"; Mike Nichols, "Silkwood"; Bruce Beresford, "Tender Mercies."

Aggie joke backfires on UT grad

AUSTIN (AP) — This time the Aggie joke is on Texas.

Ben Hardeman is paying back University of Texas alumni for all those tacky jokes they tell about Texas A&M. Many of those T-sippers unknowingly are placing Aggie-produced awards for service to their school on their walls and desks — a sort of Aggie joke in reverse.

"We took the low bid, that's all we did," said Dr. Robert King, dean of the UT College of Liberal Arts. "We knew it was made in Bryan but not that it was made by an Aggie. Do you think I ought to go jump off the (UT) Tower? I'll take any kind of punishment."

Hardeman, a 1969 A&M graduate and owner of OMC Industries, Inc., of Bryan, says he is shocked that anyone would care about his collaboration with the rival college.

"We're just about the only company around that makes cast (bronze) plaques, especially in this part of the country," he said, "and the only other one that makes the paperweights (such as those bought by the UT College of Liberal Arts) is in San Antonio."

In fact, he said, the UT system will be his company's largest customer this year, with about $75,000 worth of business.

Hardeman started his company in 1967, while still an A&M student, but doesn't consider it an Aggie company any more.

"I think we only have one other Aggie at the management level, Melody Lawrence, and she is the sales rep in Austin — she is the one who sold the UT College of Liberal Arts the paperweight," Hardeman said. "But we have two UT grads working for us, too."

"I am absolutely shocked, but I do think it is very humorous," said Sandra Esquivel Snyder of Dallas, the chairman of the Liberal Arts Foundation executive committee and a UT loyalist. "One of the great things about this rivalry is that we can joke about things back and forth. But this is one on us, that's for sure."

Redskins are human

Boy am I thankful for the San Francisco 49ers. (No I have not traded colors and deserted the Cowboys and no I did not have a bet on the National Football League Championship game.)

But the 49ers did bring me and probably a host of others back to reality. That's right, they proved to the football world that the Washington Redskins are mortals; and more importantly — beatable.

The 'Skins had me psyched out. They had me believing that they were invincible and that no team could hold a candle to them — but the 49ers proved different.

In fact on this given day the 49ers might have been the better team if not for some controversial calls by the officials late in the contest.

The 49ers' secondary was called for two costly penalties on the Redskins' last scoring drive, which offset a brilliant second half comeback spearheaded by 49ers quarterback Joe Montana.

Ever since the Redskins put it to the Cowboys in Texas Stadium it appeared a sure bet that the Super Bowl trophy would stay in Washington. A flat Redskins squad struggled with the Giants in the last game of the regular season. After getting a week off in the opening round of post-season play they looked awesome with a 51-7 massacre of the Rams.

Betting against the Redskins in the Super Bowl seemed like a very foolish idea. Just ask the Rams, who warned San Francisco that they should just as well get their playoff check, stay home and concede the contest to the men from the nation's capital.

When Washington jumped out to a 21-0 lead early in the third quarter it seemed that the 49ers should have listened to their California counterparts. But Montana and crew had other ideas.

Montana, who looks like Barry Manilow behind a face mask, started to write his own songs on the gridiron as he led his troops to scoring drives on 79, 76 and 53 yards to knot the game at 21. All of a sudden it didn't seem so foolish to bet against the Redskins appearing in their second consecutive Super Bowl.

Late in the fourth quarter reality reached up and grabbed the Redskins by the throat. Panic had settled in their stomachs and fear was now in their heart. The crowd of more than 55,000 was quiet as they sensed their heroes were going down for the count.

Could this be the same Redskins team that had been referred to in recent press clippings as a dynasty team comparable to the Packers of the '60s and the Steelers of the '70s?

It looked like the 49ers were going to introduce them to the world of hard knocks. But when it was over the scoreboard flashed Washington 24, San Francisco 21. The Redskins seemed so stunned to escape with the victory that the final gun touched off no wild celebrations. And with good reason.

Washington didn't deserve to win — not the way they won, on the calls of the officials. Referee Tom Kelleher put the Redskins on their way to Tampa when he dropped his little flag on 49ers cornerback Eric Wright who was defending against Art Monk. It was a 27-yard penalty, putting the Redskins on the 49er 18.

Replays clearly showed that the call was incorrect. But the fiasco doesn't stop here. More officiating help was in store for Washington. On third down from the 13, cornerback Ronnie Lott of the 49ers was called for holding Charlie Brown, another controversial and incorrect flag.

That gave the Redskins another first down which caused the 49ers to use their remaining two timeouts. More importantly it moved Washington kicker Mark Moseley, who was having a miserable day — in even closer. Who knows, Moseley's kick barely made it inside the left upright... Maybe if not for the holding call; well it's over now.

But what a way to ruin a championship game, having the contest decided by incorrect calls.

It's a cut and dried case now; nothing can be done to change the calls and the outcome of the game. But one thing is for sure, the Washington Redskins are definitely human.

Lady Steers drub Odessa for third district victory

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Odessa Broncos girls basketball team came to Steer Gym looking for their first district win — they departed Big Spring still searching as the Lady Steers handed them a 74-60 drubbing.

The win keeps Big Spring in a three-way tie for third with Midland and Permian with 3-2 records. San Angelo continues to lead the pack with a 5-0 record followed by Lee with a 4-1 slate.

The win wasn't especially easy for coach Annette Fowler's troops as they got themselves in foul trouble in the third quarter with their big people and had to play much of the period with a three guard offense.

Things got even shakier when veteran forward Monette Wise who ended the contest with 17 points left the game with an ankle injury early in the third quarter.

Wise had been the vital cog for the Lady Steers in the first half, keeping them ahead with her accurate foul shooting. She scored only three field goals; but connected on 11-13 charity shots.

The Lady Steers ran off a comfortable 11-3 lead in the first quarter thanks to some poor shooting by the visitors. The Broncos connected on one of their first six shots, and then proceeded to go scoreless for the better part of four minutes.

By the time they did score again the Lady Steers had run up a 21-4 margin on their way to taking a 21-6 first quarter lead.

Early in the second quarter Big Spring opened up their largest lead of the game as Paula Spears, who ended the game with 27 points and 11 rebounds scored a three-point-play, Wise hit two free throws and Spears added another basket to up the score to 36-15.

Trailing 42-25 going into the second half, the Broncos came out and played Big Spring on even terms the remainder of the game. The tide started to turn when Spears, Trish Clemons and Jana Matthews all picked up their fourth fouls within one minute's time. Things got worse when Wise went down with the ankle injury.

Fowler then inserted guards Debra Rubio, Alice Lopez and Tina Smith into the game which gave the Broncos the rebounding edge. Odessa slowly crept back into the game as Broncos forward Zoria Saldana caught fire. After being held to five points in the first half the 5-7 junior burned the Lady Steers defense for 17 second half points.

Odessa cut the lead to 46-33 with three minutes remaining in the third quarter, and trailed 53-38 going into the final period.

At the start of the fourth quarter Fowler put Spears back into the game, and the Steers leading scorer went to work by scoring four consecutive baskets thanks to some nifty assist by Rubio. Spear's second three-point-play of the night upped the Lady Steers lead to 64-47 with 4:30 remaining, and it was light's out for Odessa.

BASKETBALL

Coach Mike Randle's Steers will be going after their first district win of the season, as are the Broncos.

The Steers are coming off a 84-57 defeat suffered at the hands of tough Midland High. Senior guard Jimmy Brown continues to lead the Steers in district scoring with an 11 point average. Against Midland Brown scored 18 points and pulled down 9 rebounds. Forward Fred Cole is averaging 9 points per game.

The Broncos have been struggling since district play started. Their two district losses have been to Cooper (46-38) and Lee (41-35).

Senior post player Joe Terry (6-3) has been the Broncos' main weapon averaging 16 points and 10 rebounds. Guard Charles Hunter and post Boyd Cowan also add scoring punch to the line-up.

Oiler's coach facing big problems

HOUSTON (AP) — New Houston Oiler Coach Hugh Campbell had a double-barreled problem awaiting him when he arrived to accept the challenge of rebuilding one of the worst teams in the National Football League.

He must deal with an unhappy Earl Campbell and he must convince the masses that all is not lost if free agent quarterback Warren Moon doesn't sign with the Oilers.

"The whole franchise isn't dependent on signing Warren," Campbell said Monday after a barrage of questions about the 1983 Canadian Football League most valuable player. "There are other avenues such as trades and the draft and the development of the fine young quarterbacks that are here."

That doesn't mean that Campbell won't try to convince Moon that he should follow his former coach to the Oilers. The Campbell-Moon combination won five consecutive CFL championships for the Edmonton Eskimos.

"I would try to have Warren feel the same things that I feel and that is that there is a good nucleus of young players and there is the opportunity for the team to show signs of improvement and beyond that," Campbell said.

"I would try to tell him that there is no other place that he could go where the coach has more faith in him."

One Oiler option would be to draft a quarterback in the 1984 collegiate draft. Houston, because of its 2-14 record in 1983, will get the No. 2 selection.

The million dollar question,

Did Rozier sign with Maulers?

TOKYO (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier said today he hasn't decided whether to play for the Pittsburgh Maulers of the United States Football League and won't make a decision until he returns home next week.

The University of Nebraska running back was evasive when asked about statements made by team officials, who said he had already signed a three-year, multimillion-dollar contract.

"I don't know if it's true or not," Rozier said at a news conference after arriving here for this weekend's Japan Bowl all-star game. "That's press talk."

MIKE ROZIER
...did he or didn't he?

Officials of the expansion team in the year-old league said Monday that Rozier had signed a "generous" contract, reportedly for $3 million. If that figure is correct it would make Rozier the second-highest paid player in pro football after the New Jersey Generals' Herschel Walker.

The Maulers quoted Rozier in a news release as saying he was "extremely happy" to join the club, and also as saying that the contract gave him financial security.

"Obviously, there seems to be some confusion," the Maulers said in a statement from Pittsburgh after Rozier's Tokyo news conference.

"We have a signed contract. It was signed on Tuesday, Jan. 3. We are in contact with his representatives."

Asked who had signed the contract, Mauler spokesman Bill Keenist replied: "It was signed by ... I can't say any more."

Asked about the quotes attributed to Rozier on Monday, Keenist replied: "They were legitimate quotes. I can't comment any further."

After the announcement Monday, the team quoted Rozier as saying: "My contract with Pittsburgh enables me to have financial security, which was very important to me and my representatives when we first began discussing a professional football contract."

Area districts' hoop preview

District 8-2A

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The 1983-84 basketball season could be the year of the Buffalo- as far as the boys and girl's district 8-AA race is concerned.

Both Stanton squads return a host of starters for girls' coach Bill West and boys' mentor Eric Looney. West, in his first year at Stanton returns Pam Garcia, Cat Scurlark and Ruth Jones to the starting lineup as well as daughter Dawna West who played for Klondike last season.

Looney returns starters Darren Hagan, Darren Sorley and twins Rocky and Robby Barnes from a squad that finished second in district play behind Wall with a 7-4 record and 15-13 season slate. The Bulldogs were defeated by regional finalist Clint 63-51 in bi-district play.

This season the Stanton girls sport a 10-9 record and a 1-0 district slate. Their conference win was a 53-44 win over Miles.

West had 19 points in that contest and the 5-7 post player is the squad's leading scorer and rebounder averaging 14 and 11 respectively.

Garcia, a 5-4 guard averages 11 points per game while Jones, a 5-7 post helps on the boards averaging 9 caroms per contest. Point guard Scurlark is a good floor leader averaging 5 points and four assists per contest. Rounding out the starting lineup is wing Julie Todd.

Stanton's game plan is to work for the high percentage shot and play tough pressure defense, according to coach West. "We are not that tall, so we have to utilize our quickness," said West. "Our main problem has been playing consistently. We have the ability and we are improving but we tend to play only play good in spurts. If we start putting whole ball games together we will be contenders."

West rates Eldorado and Wall as the teams to beat in district. Eldorado coach Don Barton says he expects the district race to be tight. "Whoever plays well late in the season will win it," said Barton. And if Stanton establishes consistency it just might be the Buffaloes.

The Stanton boys will have to get by McCamey and Wall.

Looney has a solid foundation with four players averaging in double figures. Center Hagan (6-1), leads the charge with 12 points and 12 rebounds per game. Guards Sorley (5-10), Jerry Anderson (6-0) and Rocky Barnes (6-1) all average 10 points per contest. Rocky Barnes also pulls down 11 rebounds per game.

Balanced scoring is his team's biggest asset said looney. "With four different guys scoring double figures every night it makes it hard on the other team," said Looney.

Looney said that McCamey will have an added height advantage over everyone with two 6-6 players and a 6-3. "It will be a tough race," said Looney. "If somebody lets up, they will be in trouble."

District 8-AA foes better make sure they don't let up against the Stanton Buffaloes.

6-3A girls

The Colorado City and Coahoma girls both figure to be in the thick of things when the district 6-3A race is concluded.

Coahoma coach Bill Dennis and C-City mentor George Martin both feel that no one team is a shoo-in for the district title with the district being as evenly balanced as it can get.

Just like their expectations for the district race; Martin back for his fifth year at C-City and Dennis in his first year at the helm, expect similar type of game plans from their teams.

Both squads like to get the ball down the court in a hurry and play pressure defense, utilizing their overall quickness.

Last season the Coahoma Bulldogettes finished the season with a 11-14 record and 6-4 district slate finishing third behind district champ Sonora and Ballinger. This season Dennis forseees Ballinger and Crane as two of the tougher teams.

Coahoma (9-7) returns three starters in senior all-district guards Melissa Paige; 5-5, Jana Griffin; 5-4 and forward Denise Greenfield 5-6. These three along with guard Tobie Henry (5-4) and 5-9 sophomore post player Leslie Kirpatrick give the Bulldogettes a line-up that average over 55 points per game.

Paige is the "zone breaker" of the club averaging 14 points while Kirpatrick has been sensational of late averaging 17 points and 11 rebounds. Greenfield and Paige both average around the double-digit figure. Mila Gellido, Brandy Kloss and Ronda Fowler are also top players.

Dennis feels good about his team's chances of getting into post-season play. "We feel that we have a strong chance of winning district," said Dennis. "It will be tough, but with the right kind of breaks we will be contenders. It has taken us some time to get it together; but district is what counts."

Colorado City will be trying to rebound from a dismal 9-13 season including 2-8 in district. Aiding the cause will be the return of senior guard Laura Baum (5-8) who was all-district last season. The slick outside shooter is averaging 19 points per game.

Lynn Scott, a 5-7 senior compliments Baum at the other guard position by playing tough defense and averaging 11 points per game. Just like Coahoma the Wolves have a sophomore at the post position. Denise Jackson (5-10) averages 10 points and 10 rebounds per contest and has been instrumental in the Wolves current 8-4 record.

Senior Sonja Mercer sophomore Sherry Fite, a pair of 5-10 post players along 5-8 junior Julie Waid give the Wolves rebounding strength. Junior guards Traci Blackwell and Sheri Morris are excellent team players.

Martin describes the district race as a very tight situation. "It will be very close," said Martin. "It can be anybody's race. Coahoma, Ballinger, Sonora, Crane and ourselves seem to be pretty evenly matched. Any team is capable of beating the others on any given night."

So the district 6-3A race looks like one that might go down to the wire— and don't be surprised to see the Wolves and Bulldogettes right at the finish line.

STRETCHING OUT— Alabama's Terry Williams (41) and Kentucky's Jim Master (20) tried in vain to keep the ball inbounds during the first half of Kentucky's 76-66 win Monday night in Southeastern Conference action

NCAA ponders over playoff procedures

DALLAS (AP) — The postseason bowls came out again Monday against a national championship football playoff and reportedly made some progress on the annual problem of striking bowl deals before the official invitation date.

"We discussed the playoff situation and reaffirmed our position as being against a playoff. That's as far as we'll go at this time," Jim Brock, executive vice president of the Cotton Bowl and chairman of the bowl group, said after a meeting attended by representatives from 14 of the 16 Division I-A postseason contests, all except the Bluebonnet and Aloha Bowls.

The bowls met in conjunction with the 78th annual NCAA Convention, which holds its first business session Tuesday.

Concerning the appointment Sunday by the NCAA's Postseason Football Committee of a special subcommittee to study the feasibility of a major-college playoff, Brock said, "I don't see how they could have done anything else in view of all the recent talk among coaches and in the media about a playoff."

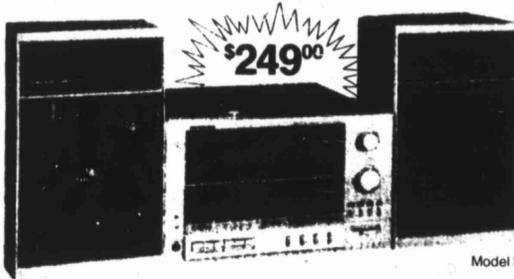

Asked if there was any such sentiment for a playoff on any bowl committee, Brock replied, "No sir!" He said his group would meet with the Postseason Football Committee in April.

Regarding the selection date, which was violated by virtually all the bowls this season with almost every matchup reported a week in advance, Brock pointed out that the 1984 date would be later than usual — Nov. 24, as opposed to Nov. 19 in 1983 — because the selection date is now the Saturday following the third Tuesday rather than the third Saturday in November.

Town decides to kick TV habit for 30 days

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — This town's resolution to kick the TV habit for a month is agreeing so far with one little girl who's found time to bake "a lot of things," but fans of pro football are finding it a bit trying in this playoff-rich season.

Promoters of the January "TV Turnoff" campaign, sponsored by the library directors in this affluent Hartford suburb of 16,000, say they want to encourage selectivity in viewing so that people use their leisure time more productively.

And as kickoff time for Sunday's National Football League game between the Washington Redskins and San Francisco 49ers neared, Salvatore Faiella found himself selectively turning on the set.

"People are still going to watch the news and their one or two favorite programs," said Faiella, whose family endorses the campaign. "It's changed me to the respect that I'm conscious of what I'm watching. Now, I look at the TV Guide and if there's a real good program I want to watch, I'm going to watch it."

The Farmington Library Council launched the campaign, which began Tuesday with word spread by the town's 2,500 public school pupils.

Some of the youngsters seemed to be taking the TV-less routine in stride.

"I made a doll, I started a quilt, I baked a lot of things," said Tara Savin, a fourth-grader at Robbins Elementary School.

Robbins School librarian Betty Kelly reported that children checked out 50 percent more books than usual Thursday and Friday.

Ten-year-old Brendan Blair deemed the ban "pretty good because it's trying to get people to read instead," and researchers agree.

Studies show that television adversely affects a child's language, vocabulary and reading skills, said Dorothy Singer, co-director of Yale University's Family Television Research program.

But that was far from the mind of school board chairman William Colton, an "avid football fan," as he faced the prospect of missing that the National Football Conference championship game on Sunday. He had planned to listen on the radio, but relatives came to visit "so I never even listened to the radio during the game."

"But I have to be honest," Colton said. "When I later heard the score and the Washington won the game" — 24-21, on a 25-yard field goal with 40 seconds left — "I had a twinge of regret."

Vincent Rogers, education professor at the University of Connecticut, is "personally skeptical" about the merits of going cold-turkey for a month.

"With any plan of that kind, it's all or nothing," said Rogers, who is conducting a study commissioned by the school board on how Farmington's children spend their time.

News of Big Spring Business and Industry

Original barbecue technique and sauce are still featured at Al's Barbecue at 411 West 4th.

Al's Barbecue Offers Catering and Take-Out

Al's Barbecue has been a Big Spring landmark for nearly 20 years.

The menu is simple — and just what real barbecue lovers expect. They serve barbecue beef, ham, sausage and ribs. The plates come with choice of salad (macaroni or potato), slaw, beans, onion, pickle, pepper and bread. The combination plate (two or more meats) at $4.25 and the regular plate at $3.75, also come with cherry cobbler. There's a small plate for $3.35 and a child's sized barbecue plate for $2.10.

Barbecue sandwiches are available with choice of macaroni or potato salad. Sliced ham or beef sandwiches are $2.10 and chopped meat sandwiches are $1.95. Al's serves the only barbecue po' boy sandwiches in town — a hefty, hearty meal for $2.85.

Al's sells barbecue by the pound, as well as potato salad and cobbler by the pint and quart. In addition they offer take-out service on all their sandwiches and plates. The customer can phone ahead, and the order will be ready when he arrives.

Al's also will custom cook meats, including turkeys, for 50¢ per pound.

Al's catering service is much in demand. And the restaurant's dining room, with seating for 52, is available in the evenings for private parties.

The man for whom the restaurant was named operated it for 14 years and developed a following from many other towns and states. He retired several years ago and now it's owned by Charlene Rinard. Charlene is quick to point out that Al's original barbecue technique and his sauce are still featured.

Located at 411 West 4th, Al's is open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday thru Saturday. The staff include Daniel Garcia, manager, and Frances Garcia.

Baby whale shows improvement
GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - A 1-year-old pygmy sperm whale which has begun eating on its own in a marina is basking in the attention of the trainers caring for it, a spokeswoman for Sea-Arama Marine World said.
 Sandra Alexander said Monday workers are acting as "surrogate mothers" for the animal, who followed its real mother onto a Galveston beach Jan. 1.
 The 125-pound baby, named Lafitte, enjoys the petting and stroking so much that he now swims toward anyone who enters his tank, Ms. Alexander said.
 "He's doing fine," said Ms. Alexander. "He started feeding on his own Sunday and that's really encouraging."
 The trainers had been forcefeeding the youngster gruel made of vitamins, ground squid and milk.
 Lafitte's 750-pound mother died, apparently from toxic poisoning, ulcers and shark bites. But Ms. Alexander said Lafitte apparently has no bites or ulcers.
 Ms. Alexander said salt has been added to the water in the tank to raise the salinity to about that of the open ocean, where whales normally live.
 Few beached whales survive because the mammals usually seek shallow water only if they are ill. But Sea-Arama officials said earlier that Lafitte may have beached only because he followed his fatally-ill mother into the shallows.
 The young whale appears to be in good condition, though suffering from the trauma of losing his mother and being placed into the shallow tank, said Ms. Alexander.
 Ms. Alexander said no one knows what will be done with Lafitte if he survives. Keeping him in captivity will require the approval of a government agency.
