How's that? Restitution

Q. Why don't the probation office and the district attorney's office enforce restitution payments ordered by the grand jury?

A. The grand jury does not and cannot order restitution payments. They are concerned with deciding whether the state has enough evidence of a crime to proceed with prosecution, not with guilt and innocence or sentencing. A grand jury will sometimes make suggestions on restitution but they are not binding. Assistant District Attorney Don Richard said.

A plea sometimes is worked out with the district attorney's office and a defendant's lawyer while the grand jury is in session, which could cause confuse persons unfamiliar with the grand jury process, Richard said. And if a person's probation is revoked, the person is sent to prison and generally will not pay restitution, Richard said.

Calendar: Dance TODAY

• A senior citizens dance will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Big Spring Air Park building #487.

SATURDAY

• The Big Spring Kennel Club will sponsor an all breed dog show and obedience trial at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Tops on TV: Restrictions

Channel 5 at 8:30 p.m. features "Whose News Is It?" The documentary examines the restriction of the press. Highlights from the barring of the press during the U.S. military action in Grenada will be featured.

At the movies: Olivia

"Two of a Kind," starring Olivia Newton-John and John Travolta, opens at the Ritz Twin. "Pieces," a horror thriller, opens at the R-70. At the Cinema, "Sudden Impact" with Clint Eastwood and "The Man Who Loved Women" with Burt Reynolds continue.

Outside: Snow

Cold temperatures, cloudy skies and snow flurries are in the Big Spring forecast today. A travelers' advisory has been posted for the city due to light snowfall. The city has a 40 percent chance of continued snow or freezing rain into tonight. Highs today will be in the mid 20s, with lows tonight falling into the mid-teens. On Saturday, look for highs in the upper 30s with southerly winds, 5 to 10 miles per hour.

Off the wall: Winners

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The winner of this beauty contest may branch out to bigger and better things in the shade of victory, or maybe simply stay put and lay down more roots.

No ordinary victor, this one has measurements that just won't quit: about 21 feet around, 65 feet tall and 117 feet at its broadest point.

It's an old giant oak standing in the yard of Charles and Bethea Griffith, and it's the proud winner of Tampa's "Grand Tree Contest."

Mrs. Griffith says she is 61 and her husband is 77. But she has no idea how old the oak is — maybe 100 or 200, she guesses.

KBST's Winston Wrinkle dead

Winston Wrinkle, 51, president of radio station KBST, died at 10 p.m. Thursday at Galveston's John Sealy Hospital after a 30-year battle with kidney disease.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Baptist Church under direction of the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Burial will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

Wrinkle, a long-time civic leader, was honored recently when the Big Spring Airpark was renamed the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, after Wrinkle and Clyde McMahon Sr.

"I can't say enough about him," said McMahon today. "He was one of the greatest guys I've ever known. The community was one of his first loves. He would have done anything for the community. We have no way of knowing how much he put into the community."

A native Texan, Wrinkle was born in Springtown on April 22, 1932. He attended the University of Texas at Arlington and Texas A&M University, where he was a distinguished student and military cadet. He was graduated from Texas A&M in 1953 with a bachelor of science degree.

He enlisted in the U.S. Air Force in 1953. While in the Air Force, he met and married the former Betty Taylor, an Air Force nurse.

Wrinkle left the Air Force in 1955 and went to work as a salesman for the Pfizer Corp. He was offered a transfer to New York as a product manager, but preferred Texas to the East and relocated to Big Spring. He purchased KBST radio in 1959 from the Harte-Hanks Corp.

Wrinkle devoted many hours to community affairs. He was president of the Jaycees, a member of the YMCA board of directors, president of the Quarterback Club, and was named an outstanding young man in the community by the Jaycees. He was also an active member of First Baptist Church.

Wrinkle served the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce as president in 1981. He was honored as the Chamber's Man of the Year in 1977.

After the closure of Webb Air Force Base, Wrinkle headed up an Industrial Development Foundation which sought out new industry for the city. He was instrumental in bringing Western Container Corp. here. He was also a partner in building Park Village Apartments.

Wrinkle was active in the Republican party and served on committees backing several candidates through the years.

Former Big Spring Herald editor Tommy Hart, who knew Wrinkle for 25 years, said, "If you seek a monument to Winston, look around. He worked to build a better community, a more responsible society. What greater tribute can be paid a man?"

China Long, who as news director of KBST had worked for Wrinkle for several years, said, "Winston demanded the best from all his workers. But he never demanded any more than he would do himself. He was a hard man to work for but you knew he had everyone's best interests at heart."

Johnnie Lou Avery, a local businesswoman and civic leader, said, "Winston was a classic example of a successful man who used his success and talents to benefit others. He courageously, enthusiastically and aggressively touched every facet of our community with his leadership. Few people realize all the things he did quietly behind the scenes to benefit Big Spring. I'm a better person for having known him."

Chamber of Commerce President Paul Shaffer, who met Wrinkle as "Frog" Wrinkle when they were students at Texas A&M University, said, "Everyone on campus knew Frog Wrinkle. He's got Aggie friends all over the country. We're not going to realize how much we've lost."

Snow returns to area

Staff reports
Snow flurries began falling over Big Spring this morning as the city began bracing for another bout with sub-freezing temperatures.

Travelers' advisories were posted across the Big Spring, Permian Basin and Panhandle areas of the state as streets became hazardous with thin coatings of ice.

Although travelers' advisories have been posted, most Big Spring streets were in good condition at noon today with light accumulations of snow along the sidewalks but no ice accumulations on the roads themselves.

Snow accumulation was expected to reach 1 inch by tonight, the National Weather Service said.

Although temperatures today are not forecast to rise about the mid-20s, forecasters say warmer weather is on tap by Sunday.

The forecast for the West Texas area today calls for highs in the mid 20s with easterly winds 5 to 15 miles per hour. A 30 percent chance of continuing snowfall remains in the forecast until tonight.

By tonight, residents can look for lows in the mid-teens and light and variable winds.

Saturday should see a high in the upper 30s with southerly winds, 5 to 10 miles per hour.

Hise's contract extended

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring school board — in what has become a customary procedure — yesterday extended the contract of Superintendent Lynn Hise for one year.

Hise's contract was lengthened from June 30, 1986 to June 30, 1987.

Hise told trustees an enrollment report for the week ending Jan. 6 showed that 4,661 students were listed in the school district, a 400-person drop from the previous year's total of 4,959 students.

The enrollment decline probably will affect adversely the amount of state money the district receives in the future.

Borden County included in N-waste study

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Borden County will be included in a study of what effect placement of a low-level radioactive waste site would have on local governments.

The study will focus on only two other counties — Hudspeith County and Dimmit — areas likely to be finalists in the search for a site.

But officials say inclusion in the study does not mean that Borden will be a finalist. Officials are continuing to look for land in the 16-county search area, which also includes Howard, Mitchell, Knox, Baylor, Haskell, Throckmorton, Scurry, Garza, Borden, Maverick, Zavala, Frio, La Salle and Webb counties.

The study will be done by staff of the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. At a meeting Friday, the staff member who will be heading the study said it is mainly aimed at identifying the "political" problems surrounding placement of the site in the specified areas and determining the effect on the locale and its services, such as fire protection.

Texas Low-Level Waste Disposal Authority spokesman Bob Avant said Friday that including Borden County in the study does not necessarily mean that a site in that county will be selected.

As of Friday morning, no one from that area has offered a site

Coahoma OKs new trash law

By MARTY YOST
Special to the Herald

COAHOMA — The annexation of the Milliken Addition and a new trash hauling ordinance raised heated discussions here last night at a special meeting of the City Council.

Due to the financial crunch the city faces, the annexation of Milliken Addition was delayed. The council told Bill Milliken, developer of the property, that water and sewer connections could not be guaranteed to the proposed lots. The only assurances the council members could offer Milliken were for the two houses already under construction. Both of these homes lie within the city's present limits.

Milliken said as he was leaving the meeting, "If you don't assure me water, you are not going to grow."

"What we need is better management — this temporary business is going to have to stop," Milliken said.

A proposed trash hauling ordinance was approved by the council to be drafted by the city attorney despite objections from several residents and their lawyer.

The new ordinance, which must pass three readings to become law, would give the city council authority to enforce payment of the hauling fee. In the past, payment for trash hauling has been voluntary.

Brian Pollard, an lawyer from Waco, was at the meeting to contest the existing contract with Gerald King and proposed trash hauling ordinance. Pollard told the council he represented a number of people who would rather haul their own trash and save the $7 a month charge.

Pollard said that Alderman Ronnie Dodson should not have voted for the trash hauling contract with King because King is Dodson's cousin.

Despite Pollard's appearance at the meeting, the ordinance passed.

There was no discussion on a loan from Coahoma State Bank to help finance the city's debt. Mayor Jim Rackley announced that John Ezell, who was to have brought papers concerning the loan, could not attend the meeting because his father had a heart attack.

Rackley assured those at the meeting the bank would negotiate a loan.

In other action Thursday, the council approved raising the sewer connection charge from $40 to $125. The council discussed a water deposit charge and the possibility of getting more software for the city's computer.

Discussion of the installation of cable television was postponed later.

Grand jury indicts 14

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

A former city jailer was cleared Thursday of sexual assault charges by the Howard County grand jury.

The jury refused to indict Jay Anderson, 18, of Gail Route, who was accused of committing a sexual offense against a juvenile female inmate in the jail where he was working.

The jury also had the option of indicting Anderson for misconduct but did not indict him on any counts.

"All I can say is that there was evidence that raised an absolute defense to the sexual charge," Howard County Assistant District Attorney Don Richard said.

The grand jury passed on indicting self-confessed mass murderers Henry Lee Lucas and Otis Elwood Toole, both of whom are currently awaiting trial for murders in other

Jersey story put on film

TRENTON, N.J. — News commentator Howard K. Smith has come to the rescue of the state of New Jersey, which has always had something of an identity crisis from being sandwiched between New York and Philadelphia.

Smith, 69, narrated an hour-long documentary, "New Jersey — The Way We Are," illustrating state trends revealed in the 1980 census. The film was shown to 200 guests at a Trenton hotel Thursday.

HOWARD K. SMITH

"Situating in the shadow of these two great cities, and mainly recognized as being the path of least resistance between them, New Jersey has been destined to struggle hard for an identity of its own," Smith said before the screening.

New Jersey Network spokeswoman Tish Hamilton said the film, to be broadcast Jan. 26 on public television, features interviews with several hundred state's residents who exemplify such trends as the population shift to the southern regions of the state and migration to the suburbs.

Smith is not a New Jersey resident, but lives in Washington. He is retired from ABC.

Ex-mayor turns to teaching

BOSTON — Former Mayor Kevin H. White is giving up the politician's gavel for the professor's pointer, teaching communications at Boston University.

KEVIN WHITE

University President John R. Silber announced White's faculty appointment Thursday and said White's "profound knowledge of America's cities, and his 16 years experience as one of this country's most successful mayors, makes him superbly well qualified."

White, 54, a graduate of Williams College in Williamstown and Boston College Law School, served as Massachusetts secretary of state and was elected mayor in 1967. He was re-elected three times, serving longer consecutively than any of his predecessors.

Silber said White, who will step into his new job in September, will also help develop a center for the study of political communication.

Author carries on crusade

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Author William N. Warner, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his book about the history and culture of the Chesapeake Bay, is helping inspire lawmakers to pay for efforts to clean up the waterway.

Warner, who won the prize for his 1976 book, "Beautiful Swimmers," told yarns of the waterman's life as he addressed a reception of state senators Thursday at the governor's mansion.

But, as Gov. Harry Hughes had hoped, Warner also prodded legislators about their responsibility for protecting the continent's largest estuary, which studies have found to be increasingly polluted.

"It is the human element — not Mother Nature — that got the Chesapeake Bay into the big mess we are in now," said Warner, whose book examined the bay's history and culture by focusing on the Atlantic blue crab.

Reagan has no favorite

WASHINGTON — Caught between a tribe of Redskins and a crew of Raiders, President Reagan has delicately avoided the slings and arrows of either Super Bowl contestant by refusing to reveal his favorite in Sunday's football classic in Tampa, Fla.

"Since both teams playing are from my current hometowns, and since none of the Democrats who are interested in this job have declared their preference, I see no reason to be recklessly courageous. May the best team win," the president told members of the Council on Physical Fitness during a White House reception Thursday.

Salvadorans reconstruct

SAN SALVADOR — The Salvadoran army is preparing to launch the second phase of a major counterinsurgency and reconstruction plan in one of the country's key agricultural regions, military officials say.

Since June, more than 3,000 troops have been dislodging leftist guerrillas from the east-central province of San Vicente and guarding villages there to keep the rebels from returning while peasants are resettled in the area. The second phase will extend the program eastward into Usulután province.

"I think it's going to start very soon," Lt. Col Ricardo A. Cienfuegos, the armed forces spokesman, told a news conference Thursday. He declined to cite a starting date to avoid giving the guerrillas an edge.

Sugar cane, corn and beans have been replanted during the San Vicente operation, but rebels have continued hit-and-run operations in some parts of the province.

The army has carried out dozens of smaller drives in Usulután, which has major guerrilla supply routes, but rebels appear to be stronger there than ever. The province is a major cotton and coffee-growing area that has been plagued by rebel activities for three years.

Reagan wants strike force

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is urging Jordan's King Hussein to go public with plans to create a U.S.-financed strike force to respond to Persian Gulf emergencies, arguing it is the only way Congress will vote the funds.

After being once rebuffed, the administration has decided to renew its request to Congress to approve the $220 million needed to arm and equip two brigades of Jordanian troops, about 8,300 men, it was learned Thursday.

A unique aspect of the plan is that the Jordanian troops would be ferried by American military pilots in American C-130 aircraft to assist friendly Arab governments in times of emergency.

But administration officials have concluded the plan stands little or no chance of getting congressional approval unless it can be discussed publicly. However, they aren't sure Hussein will agree to open consideration because it could hurt his standing in the Arab world and endanger his regime.

Ownby's death ruled suicide

SAN ANTONIO — An Army Reserve general lashed his hands behind his back and hanged himself, and although he planted a typewritten note that suggested terrorism, investigators suspected suicide from the start, the medical examiner said.

Maj. Gen. Robert G. Ownby was mired in financial troubles when he stepped into a stairwell at Fort Sam Houston, a noose looped around his neck, Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Vincent DiMaio said Thursday.

The ruling sent the family "into a state of shock" when they were told of it Thursday, the family minister, the Rev. Buckner Fanning, told the San Antonio Light.

And Ownby's brother, Dr. Ralph Ownby Jr., told the newspaper he would seek "legal review and representation" concerning the ruling, but he would not elaborate.

Ownby, 48, was found hanging in a headquarters building early Jan. 11, a note pinned to his sweater saying he had been "sentenced and executed" for "crimes by the U.S. Army."

"It was fairly evident from the beginning that it was a suicide," DiMaio said. "It was obvious that he had tied his own hands and there were no marks on his body indicating a struggle. There was no sign of foul play."

Both DiMaio and the FBI refused to elaborate on the financial problems of the two-star general, who owned and operated Bristol-ONB Corp., a company that manufactures steel doors and frames.

"It remains absolutely inconceivable that Bob committed suicide," the general's brother said from his office in Richmond, Va. "I will work with the other members of my family to do everything appropriate in the interests of my brother's memory. My brother would have done the same thing for me."

"This is like a bomb has dropped. They have to get over the blast before they can start picking up the pieces," said Fanning, who was at the Ownby residence when the FBI came by Thursday to tell family members of the suicide ruling and to explain it to them.

Fanning is the pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church of San Antonio, where Ownby was a deacon.

Ownby was the head of the 90th U.S. Army Reserve Command, supervising 63 combat reserve units in Texas and Louisiana.

Guests evacuated in Dallas hotel blaze

DALLAS (AP) — A smoky two-alarm fire at a northside hotel today forced the evacuations of some guests there, but authorities say no injuries were reported.

A fire spokesman said that an unknown number of guests were evacuated from the Hilton Inn after a blaze broke at Trader Vics Restaurant adjacent to the Hilton Inn at 5:53 a.m.

The fire dispatcher, who refused to be identified, said the fire was taped out at 6:10 a.m. The blaze began in a kitchen area at the restaurant, he said.

Fire officials said smoke rose to the fifth floor of the structure.

A travelers' advisory was issued for the Panhandle and West Texas east of the mountains, where southerly winds brought light snow and produced icy, slick and hazardous roadways.

Winds were east to northeast across the eastern half of Texas, and southeast elsewhere at 5 to 10 mph.

Scattered snow, mixed with freezing drizzle, was predicted across much of West Texas today, with cloudy skies. The weather service said a chance of sleet or snow exists over northern sections of South Texas, with occasional drizzle in the south.

Prevent another oil, energy crisis

After 10 years, the energy crisis is still with us.

True, there are no more long lines at the gas station. Gasoline prices are down. There is plenty of heating oil and natural gas. There is a glut of crude oil on the world market, and the world price keeps slipping. U.S. oil imports have dropped from a high of nearly 9 million barrels a day in 1977 to a level of 5 million barrels a day in 1982 and 1983.

But we are a long way from achieving the energy self-sufficiency that was the objective of Project Independence, launched by President Nixon in 1973, the year of the Yom Kippur War and the Arab oil boycott. We continue to import a third of our oil needs. And, with economic recovery, both the amount of U.S. oil consumption and the amount of U.S. oil imports are expected to rise in 1984. The world price may bottom out and begin rising again.

We need to know that we can never return to our wasteful ways. Gas guzzlers will soon be seen only at antique auto shows. Industry, which is now 20 percent more energy-efficient than it was a decade ago, must continue to conserve. Even if energy prices drop, we can't afford waste.

We continue to be dependent on imported oil and our allies (Japan and the European countries) are even more dependent. This dependence is probably inevitable. What we can't change we must accept, and we should try to mitigate the potentially bad effects. It must be a major goal of our foreign policy to protect oil sources, in the Middle East and elsewhere. The world economy has adjusted well to the effects of a massive transfer of money to the oil-producing nations, and the decline in world oil prices and production has kept the economic and political consequences manageable.

Fossil fuels (oil, gas, coal) will continue to dominate our energy picture for the next generation, despite the polluting effects (smog and acid rain) of burning them. Nuclear power is stalled in America by public fear. Hydroelectric projects involve damming wild streams, which is unpopular. Geothermal power is minuscule and expensive. Synthetic fuels (shale to oil, coal to oil) are too expensive to compete with lower natural petroleum prices. Solar, wind and biomass energy projects are in the same fix.

Governmental tinkering with the free market in energy is a bad idea if it involves price controls or production subsidies. A high price is the best incentive for conservation of a scarce commodity. When alternative energy sources are economic, the free market will call them into being.

Energy, as we have said, must be a factor in our foreign policy from now on. Our national interest demands it. At the same time, the energy prospect requires strong public policies at home to promote conservation (requiring cars to be fuel-efficient) and fossil fuel production (offshore oil drilling where it will not pose an intolerable risk to the coastal environment).

These are the sober lessons of a decade of energy crisis. We have learned them at great cost. They should not be forgotten.

Death squads resurgent in C. America

WASHINGTON — Behind the violence in Latin America are not only left-wing guerrillas but right-wing assassins who belong to death squads. They have cast a dark specter over the peace process.

I have learned there's an international league of death squads, which operate from Mexico to Argentina. Ordinarily, they maintain the strictest secrecy about their operations. But through a contact in the Honduran secret police, my associate Jon Lee Anderson arranged a face-to-face interview in Honduras with an outspoken leader and founder of the Honduran death squad.

He is a thin, fair-haired man in his 30s, who I will call El Lobo (The Wolf). By day, he is a doctor at the National Hospital in Tegucigalpa. By night, he is an assassin for ELA, the Spanish acronym for Anti-Communist Combat Army.

The ELA is a relatively new death squad, founded in 1979. Unlike its counterparts in Guatemala, El Salvador and Argentina, the ELA is not made up primarily of paramilitary security forces, according to El Lobo.

Perhaps it was his amateur status that made El Lobo indiscreet enough to brag to a Yankee reporter: "We are affiliated and in contact with similar groups in other countries."

The ELA had close ties, he said, with the Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez Brigade in El Salvador. This is the group that recently slaughtered nine members of a peasant cooperative, including two pregnant women, as part of a stepped-up campaign of terror.

Human rights groups estimate that 40,000 people have died in El Salvador since 1980; about half of those were civilians who were suspected of leftist leanings and were murdered by the death squads.

El Lobo expressed admiration for the Salvadoran death squad and the general whose name it took, Gen. Hernandez who was a Salvadoran dictator who ordered the massacre of an estimated 30,000 Indians and peasants after a communist-backed uprising in the 1930s.

"He handled communists the right way," said El Lobo. "He killed every one he caught."

El Lobo gave this account of the international fraternity of death squads: "We go to annual conferences. I went to last year's. It was in Buenos Aires. The Triple A put it on."

He was not referring to an automobile association, but to the Argentine Anti-Communist Alliance. This is a clandestine confederation of police, military and paramilitary goons responsible for thousands of murders and other disappearances during the "dirty war" of the 1970s.

The overall umbrella group for the death squad network is CAL (Latin American Anti-Communist Confederation), based in Mexico. "CAL is our political front," said El Lobo. "We are all 'La Mano Blanca.'"

La Mano Blanca (The White Hand) is the name for the warning white glove or hand print left on or near a victim's body. According to a former CIA "dirty tricks" specialist, La Mano Blanca was set up by the CIA in Guatemala in the 1950s after the agency engineered the ouster of leftist president Jacobo Arbenz.

Although now a member of La Mano Blanca's network, the Honduran death squad organization was set up independently, El Lobo said. "Eighty-five of us, mostly graduate students, got together and formed ELA," he said. "We were tired of Marxist control of the student union and faculty, the labor unions. We wanted to do what the military legally couldn't do to stop them."

With a laugh, the doctor-assassin said of his bloody work: "We call it environmental sanitation."

Footnote: The resurgence last autumn of right-wing squads in El Salvador led Congress to order a stop to U.S. backing for the Salvadoran security forces that control the assassins. But President Reagan vetoed the measure, and suspected leftists are still being murdered with impunity by goons whose salaries are indirectly paid by U.S. taxpayers.

Jackson's diplomacy in demand

"Hello, this is Jesse Jackson's campaign headquarters. No, the candidate is not here just now. He's in Moscow trying to persuade the Soviets to come back to the disarmament talks in Geneva. No, I'm sorry, Mr. Shultz, I don't know how to reach him. I believe he has an appointment with Mr. Andropov this afternoon and is dining with Mr. Gromyko tonight before taking off for Peking to discuss the China-Taiwan dispute with Deng Xiaoping. Yes, Mr. Secretary, he fully understands he's not speaking for the United States, but is only acting as a concerned citizen. I'll tell him that you called."

"Jesse Jackson's headquarters. The candidate is not here. Who is calling, please? Mrs. Thatcher ... Margaret Thatcher? It's so nice to talk to you. Unfortunately the candidate is out of the country. Can I be of help? Yes, he does plan to stop in Northern Ireland. I'm sorry you feel this is an internal matter for Her Majesty's Government. But Mr. Jackson believes you haven't given enough attention to the problem, and if he can get the British troops out we'll all be better for it, won't we? Please don't shout, Mrs. Thatcher. You should be happy that someone with Mr. Jackson's statesmanlike qualities is willing to get involved. Yes, Ma'am, I'll tell him what you said, but I doubt if the candidate will cancel his trip."

"Jesse Jackson's campaign headquarters. I'm sorry, the candidate is still out of the country, Monsieur Mitterrand. Yes, I did see his press conference with the Corsican separatists. But Mr. Jackson was just speaking about the moral justification for a free Corsica, and did not go into the political issues. I regret you're upset, Mr. Mitterrand. No, I don't think you can talk to him now. He's flying to Cyprus to talk to Turkish and Greek officials about the partition of that island. No, Mr. Jackson doesn't expect France to give up Corsica without being compensated for it. He made his position on Corsican liberation very clear to Barbara Walters on ABC. We'll send you a tape of it. Au revoir."

"Jesse Jackson's headquarters. Oh hello, John. Thanks for calling. Tell Jesse things are going really well. The candidate has been on the three major news shows every night for the past month. He got four minutes on his visit to El Salvador, three when he visited Kadafi, and five when he went to Brazil to renegotiate their loan with the United States. Ted Koppel has had him on 'Nightline' all week explaining his plan to settle the Israeli-PLO problem, and Time magazine put him on the cover three weeks in a row. Where are you now? You're at the Vatican talking to the Pope about Poland? Did they let in the camera crew? Great. The Mondale and Glenn people are going crazy. And the White House is fuming. The president called a news conference the other night on foreign affairs and nobody came."

"Where are you going from Rome? ... You don't know? Jerry thinks you ought to hop over to Iraq and then stop off in Tehran and see if you can bring about a cease-fire between those two countries. But don't go unless you have assurance you'll meet with Khomeini. Tell the candidate we're holding down the fort here."

"Jesse Jackson's headquarters. The candidate is not here. Who's calling? Oh hello, Mr. President. Yes sir, I did give him your message that you wanted him to call you, but he's been terribly busy. Yes sir, I did tell him what you said — that the American president, according to the Constitution, is in charge of foreign policy, and that Mr. Jackson is making your job much more difficult by negotiating with all the world's leaders. But he wanted me to assure you that he is not making any promises to them which will be impossible for you to keep. Oh, there was one other thing he told me to ask you if you called."

Words to live by

From that first taunting call of "go look it up," we go through life having dictionaries.

It's not that dictionaries don't give us a wealth of valuable information, because they do. What rankles is the condescension that comes from those in authority when they admonish us to put the book to use.

A personal experience comes to mind. As a high school junior, I was unfamiliar with the word, ombudsman, when I came across it in my history text.

It seemed natural enough to ask my teacher what this strange word could mean, but would he tell me the meaning? Of course not. With a strange leer, he told me for the umpteenth time in my then young life to go look it up.

Teachers always seem to say these words brightly with a smile, using a tone of voice much like the dentist's when he says "open wide."

After going to all the trouble of getting the dictionary, flipping through to the right page, and finding out that our dictionary, indeed, didn't have the word, I was angry.

In fact, I was livid when the teacher still wouldn't tell me the meaning of ombudsman and I left the class convinced he was in the dark as much as I was.

It is not surprising that we hate dictionaries even more when teachers and other persons in authority tell us to look up words we don't know how to spell.

"How can I look it up when I don't know how to spell it," is the children's refrain, and they are right. Like my history teacher's ignorance of the meaning of ombudsman, these persons who tell us so gaily to find spellings in the dictionary probably don't know how to spell the word either.

I am happy to say that I made peace with dictionaries when I found they have a lot more information in them than just words and their meanings.

My dictionary, the Random House Authoritative American Dictionary, copyright 1961, sits ever ready beside my computer terminal for times when quick retrieval of information is crucial.

If someone wants to know where Stanford University is, for example, I can give them that necessary information because my dictionary lists all American universities and their locations in an appendix in the back (Stanford is in Palo Alto, Calif., if you're wondering).

There is also a short run-down of English grammar (invaluable to a writer), a pronunciation key, a list of relevant weights and measures and a list of astronomy symbols.

Our big office dictionary has even more useful information, including short foreign language sections for French, German and Italian, an atlas and a short style section. We get a lot of use out of the last one.

My only real question is who decides what information to put in dictionaries — other than the words themselves, I mean.

If I were making my own dictionary, I'd include lists of information that are of a more practical nature, things that have relevance to people's daily lives.

Like the number of aspirins a person can take safely in one day, for example, and how long it takes the average aspirin to take effect in the average person. How often have I sat prostrate in pain, yearning for just such information.

Still, it's possible to trip up the dictionary.

One smart-alecky classmate in my high school senior English class found she was able to distract the class for a full 20 minutes with a discussion of what the word parentheses means.

We all knew it was the plural of parenthesis, but did it mean two of the little marks — like this: () — or two sets of the little marks — like this: () () .

Not even our dictionary could help us with that one, and the debate trailed off until our teacher re-directed our discussion to the fascinating importance of symbolism in Willa Cather's Ethan Frome.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Dear Abby

Big Brothers and Sisters give lonely kids a lift

DEAR ABBY: I was touched by the letter from "Childless and Hurting," the young woman who was unable to bear children and whose husband refused to adopt.

I have a suggestion for her. While it may not fully satisfy her longing for motherhood, she could become a "Big Sister" to a young girl who needs a one-to-one relationship with an emotionally mature and stable woman.

The Big Brothers/Sisters of America is an agency that presently serves some 100,000 children from one-parent homes. Through a careful screening process, children who need positive role models are matched with responsible adults who agree to spend from 3 to 6 hours a week with them for at least a year.

With nearly 12 million children in the United States growing up in one-parent homes, the number of children in need of a positive role model far exceeds the number of adult volunteers.

Here in Lake County, Ill., our newly organized Big Brothers/Sisters Agency just hired its first executive director, and we're about to make our first "match."

What a wonderful way to start the new year!

LYNNE V. IN GURNEE, ILL.

DEAR LYNNE: Congratulations! In checking out the organization, I learned that it is an 80-year-old non-profit agency with over 400 chapters across the country.

So, readers, if you are an adult and willing to devote 3 to 6 hours a week to child who desperately needs guidance and companionship, look into Big Brothers/Sisters. (It's in your phone book.)

Perry enjoys helping patients

By RHONDA WITT Church Editor

To Mike Perry, working with the problems Big Spring State Hospital patients have is the most important aspect of his job as the hospital's director of chaplain services.

"A lot of our patients deal with some real tough problems. These people are in times of crisis, and they need to know about the Lord. I see myself helping them to find the right answer."

Perry has worked at BSSH for 1½ years, and says it "has been a different, but rewarding experience."

"We have a pretty large population of patients and I would like to be able to minister to as many as possible," he said. The chaplain services has the capability to broadcast Sunday morning worship services to the hospital's units.

Perry is involved in the hospital's adopt-a-patient program. "This is an effort on the hospital's part to make it more individualized," Perry said. "The patients need to know someone cares about them and that they are important. Some have lost all contact with their family. It's a slow, slow, slow process. But we are hoping it will take off eventually." Perry dreams of getting the community involved with the hospital. "I think sometime the community can say more (to the patients) in the way they respond (than anything else)." BSSH has many volunteer workers from the community.

Perry also ministers to the hospital's employees. "I really get a joy out of working with the staff and developing relationships with them as a person."

His parents, his home church and pastor influenced Perry's decision to go into the ministry. "I was brought up in Christian home. My mom probably had a great deal of influence on me because of her example. She has been a hard worker in the church. I also saw my parents as very caring people who wanted to reach out to help others.

"My home minister was a good model in pastoring and had a lasting influence on my life," he said. At 14, Perry decided to become a minister. "I thought I wanted to be a pastor in a local church."

During his freshman year in college, Perry had a ruptured appendix and missed an entire semester. At the time, he thought "Lord, why is this happening to someone who wants to do your work." The illness "was a way that the Lord change the direction of my ministry," he said. "I have a special concern and empathy for the patients."

During his senior year at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, he did his practicum by assisting the chaplain at Hendricks Memorial Hospital in Abilene. Perry worked there one day a week for a semester.

Following seminary, he had a one year intership of clinical training at Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Antonio. The job at BSSH became available three weeks before his training was completed.

Although Perry enjoys his work, he realizes the importance of leisure time. "Work is a big part of my life, but I think there needs to be a balance," he said. "Leisure time and time spent with my family is important because it probably allows me to be a better minister." His hobbies include reading and working with audio and stereophonic equipment.

Perry, originally from Lubbock, graduated from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and Southwest Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He and wife Beth have two daughters, Michaela, 4, and Sarah Beth, 10 months.

Phil & Dianne Thurmond: Ministers

how do they stand the ritual?

Monday night, Jim Far-bush wore a feathered head-dress to a boys' meeting with his son.

Tuesday, for the neighborhood cookout, he donned an apron embellished with funny slogans.

At the Wednesday civic-club, he kept things lively...noisily shaking coins in a coffee can as he assessed fines from derelict members.

Thursday was lodge night. No special rites, so a simple fez sufficed.

Friday? High-school home-coming game in a coonskin coat, reeking of mothballs, Jim chanted the traditional incantations: "Two, four, six, eight...who (sic) do we appreciate?"

Saturday chores found him bedecked in a rather gaudy uniform-of-the-day, silky-shiny coveralls in chic burnt-gold hue.

And on Sunday, as he passed his acquaintance, the Episcopal rector, in front of the church, Jim chuckled. "Those crazy Episcopalians! How do they stand all the robes and ritual?"

Maybe you, too, wonder what makes Episcopalians tick. They have some rather interesting thoughts on religion. Your nearby Episcopal neighbor or minister would be flattered if you'd ask him to discuss these with you...and he'd likely be the last person in the world to "twist your arm."

Dr. Donohue

Woman suffers from Fuller Albright disease

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 60-year-old woman with Fuller Albright disease. I have had this all my life, on my whole left side. It was not diagnosed for a long time, although I always had pain in the knee. The past few years the pain has been worse. I mean excruciating. My previous doctor has retired. I could go into this more thoroughly, but then maybe there is nothing to help it. Yet, certainly there must be some advance in treatment in all these years. Please comment on it anyway. — D.Z.
In 1937, Dr. Fuller

Albright, a Boston physician, described an illness with these features: bones with areas of incomplete growth, dark to light brown skin patches, and disorders of endocrine glands leading to puberty before the expected age. Now it is known that this illness can exist without all the skin and endocrine factors being present. Then it is called fibrous dysplasia of bone.

What it is you have, I cannot tell from your letter. However, the fundamental nature of the illness is still in the dark, I am sorry to have to tell you. One or more bones may be affected, and often they are on only one side of the body. The course of the illness is highly variable, in some instances causing few to no problems, and in others leading to deformity, pain and bone breaks. Still, there's no reason for you to sit there and do nothing about your symptoms, even if your previous doctor has retired. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Lady Steers lose tight game, 52-51

ODESSA — Close basketball games and the Big Spring Lady Steers do not make good companions and Thursday's 4-AAAAA girls' contest was no exception with Permian handing the Lady Steers their fourth one point setback of the year in a 52-51 victory.

The Panthers rallied in the final quarter, outscoring Big Spring 12-9 to take their fifth district win against three losses. The loss drops the Lady Steers' district slate to 3-5 and season record to 10-11 — the first time they have been under the .500 mark since early in the season.

It also marked the sixth time Big Spring has lost a contest by five points or less. The victory was a sweet one for Permian since the Lady Steers owned two previous wins over the Panthers already. Big Spring beat Permian, 69-30 in a tournament and 59-51 in the first district contest between the two.

In the opening minutes of the final quarter things looked good for the Lady Steers as they led 45-40. But Permian rallied back on a steal and two free throws to cut the lead to 45-44. Big Spring was hampered when Paula Spears, who was held to nine points, fouled out midway through the final period.

Guard Debra Rubio and forward Monette Wise's scoring kept Big Spring in the contest as both players scored 16 each. Wise scored eight third quarter points when Big Spring took the lead. Rubio was praised by assistant coach Elaine Stone for her defensive play.

In the junior varsity contest Permian downed Big Spring 57-49. Teresa Pruitt and Monique Jones tallied 20 and 15 points respectively for Big Spring. Monica Lockridge added 11, as the JV's district slate drops to 3-4.

The Lady Steers next contest will be Monday in Steer Gym versus league leading San Angelo.

Dallas bidding for all-star contest in '86

DALLAS (AP) — The National Basketball Association will pick Dallas as the site of the league's 1986 All-Star game, Dallas Mavericks general manager Norm Sonju says.

Sonju, who told the Dallas Morning News that it is only a matter of time before the league makes the site selection, recently told a group of Dallas businessmen that the 1986 game definitely will be held in the city.

"It won't be announced until David Stern is the commissioner," Sonju said Thursday. "But I'm going to really put pressure on them (NBA officials) to announce it as early as possible. It's very important to us."

Stern succeeds Larry O'Brien as commissioner Feb. 1.

The 1985 game was awarded Wednesday to Indianapolis. A spokesman for the NBA said Dallas was the only city bidding for the 1986 game, although other cities might apply.

Sonju said the Mavericks and an official of Dallas' Hyatt Regency Hotel, which would host the 1986 game, planned to make arrangements for the event during the league's meetings later this month in Denver.

Hawks outmanuever military 70-45

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

New Mexico Military Institute visited Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Thursday night for a Western Junior College Athletic Conference men's basketball game with the Howard County Hawks and for a half the Hawks found the military's manuevers frustrating.

With some poor shooting on the Hawks part; plus a slow, deliberate game on the part of the Broncos, NMMI was able to keep pace and was knotted with the Hawks, 31-31 at intermission.

For the conference leading Hawks (now 6-0 and 16-1 overall) the second half was entirely different. With a smothering defense that controlled the boards and forced NMMI into a running game the Hawks limited the conference's doormat to only 14 points. Only once in the second half were the Broncos able to muster two consecutive buckets.

In the first half, however it appeared the Hawks were still on holiday as NMMI jumped in front 4-0 while Howard missed its first six shots of the contest. With 16:08 in the first half Jerry Stroman started the Hawks back. Al Holland and Anthony Snooks contributed slam dunks which widened Howard's lead to 13-4.

The Broncos had their own success at stringing points together though and trailed only 13-12 with 8:10 in the half. From that point on it was nip and tuck with Howard leading anywhere from two to seven points. Ralph Raby tallied twice in the final 1:04 to tie things up for the Broncos who are 4-13 overall and 0-6 in the league.

Howard head coach Mike Mitchell said, "They (the Broncos) played us the only way they could in the first half. If they had tried running with us they would have probably been in a lot of trouble earlier." Mitchell added, "We also shot the ball poorly in the first half. If it hadn't been for several dunks our percentage would have been even poorer." The Hawks shot 44 percent (15 of 34) in the first half, and matched that total for the game (28 of 63).

In the second half it was all Howard County after the first 4:47. With 15:13 left in the game NMMI and Howard were deadlocked 37-37, but that was as close as the Broncos would come. Dwight Harris, the Hawks' leading scorer who sat out the first half because of illness during the week, came off the bench to spark the rout. Along with Stroman and James Johnson, Harris helped build Howard's lead to 51-41 with 7:12 to play.

Raby notched the Broncos' final field goal with 1:29 to play while Harris, Holland and Johnson completed Howard's scoring during the final 55 seconds.

Coupled with Midland College's, 54-52 loss to Amarillo on Thursday the win ups Howard's lead to two games over their nearest competition. Midland will invade Big Spring Monday, Jan. 23 for a game with the Hawks in what can still be billed as a must win contest for the Hawks. Game time is set at 8 p.m.

Howard (70) — Jerry Stroman 8 17; Michael Porter 4 18; Dwight Harris 3 7 16; James Johnson 5 4 14; Anthony Snooks 2 1 5; Al Holland 5 1 11; NMMI (45) — Billy Rodriguez 6 9 12; Ralph Raby 7 1 15; Chataur Dease 6 9 12; Alan Tolbert 3 0 6; Halftime — Howard 31, NMMI 31

Pole vault duel highlights Sunkist Invitational

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American debut of Jarmila Kratochvilova, and a pole vault duel matching Billy Olson against Pierre Quinon are expected to highlight tonight's Sunkist Invitational, the first major track meet of the Olympic year.

In the indoor meet at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, Kratochvilova, the Czechoslovakian who set women's records outdoors last year in the 400 meters (47.99 seconds) and 800 (1:53.28), will be making her only U.S. appearance prior to this summer's Olympics in Los Angeles.

She hopes to better the 880-yard indoor best mark of 1:59.7 set by Mary Decker, who is sidelined with a leg injury.

The pole vault features a pair of athletes who've cleared 19 feet. Olson, the top American hope for an Olympic gold in the event, has gone 19-0 1/4 indoors, and France's Quinon formerly held the world outdoor mark at 19-1.

Also entered in the pole vault are Earl Bell, Dan Ripley, Felix Bohni of Switzerland and Patrick Abada of France.

Steve Scott, another top hope for a U.S. gold medal in the Olympics, heads a strong group of runners in the men's mile. Scott has run the second fastest mile ever outdoors, 3:47.69, and is the American record holder in that event and the Olympic distance of 1500 meters.

Former outdoor mile world record holder Filbert

Security tight in Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Security has been routinely thick around the training sites of the Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Raiders as they prepare for Sunday's Super Bowl showdown.

Officials went so far as to drape the cyclone fence around the Redskins' practice field with heavy material to discourage intruding eyes, a move that pleased Washington Coach Joe Gibbs.

He's no more paranoid than any football coach, but Gibbs prefers privacy as he prepares for the big game.

If an interloper could peek into their playbooks, though, there would not be any great surprises in the basic approaches of these two teams.

The Redskins will use the straight-ahead power plunges of 1,000-yard running back John Riggins to take them down the field. That is their style.

The Raiders, almost certainly, will use long passes by Jim Plunkett to explore the leaky condition of the Washington secondary, which finished last in the league, allowing more yards through the air than any other team.

"We pass before we run," said Plunkett. "Everytime I drop back, I'm looking for the long pass."

Plunkett threw for 232 yards against Pittsburgh and 214 against Seattle in LA's first two playoff victories. He will be aiming downfield against a reconstructed Washington secondary that surrendered 3,975 passing yards. Of the four defensive backs who started the Super Bowl for the Redskins last year, only safety Mark Murphy is still there.

"There are a lot of reasons for us being last in pass defense," said Murphy, who led the league with nine interceptions. "We have the number one rushing defense, so teams are not trying to run against us. But unless you run, it is difficult to win, so our (passing) yardage (allowed) might be helpful."

"They're the type of team that says, 'We're gonna throw the ball deep.' I guess they feel that will stretch out our defense and if you intercept a long pass, they figure that's as good as a punt."

The Redskins, although perfectly capable of passing, prefer the ground control game that Riggins can supply.

Washington quarterback Joe Theismann, the league's most valuable player and second in passing ratings, said the formula for winning the National Football League championship game is relatively simple.

"Every team that wins the Super Bowl has a great running game and a great defense stopping people," he said. "You control the game with your defense and by running the football."

The Redskins' strategy, then, is simple. Their defense, best in the league against the run, must take the ball away from Los Angeles and then Riggins must advance it down the field.

Certainly Theismann will include his share of passes to talented wide receivers like Charlie Brown and Art Monk, but the basic Washington game plan reads: Riggins left; Riggins right; Riggins up the middle.

Riggins rushed for a record 166 yards as the most valuable player in last year's Super Bowl and has a record six straight 100-yard playoff games. He likes his assignment running 30 or more times a game out of Coach Joe Gibbs' single back formation behind the Redskins' offensive line.

Riggins reviewed "the world famous Hogs" who open his rushing lanes.

"You've got Joe Jacoby. He's Interstate 66. Go West, young man, go West. And Russ Grimm. He'll be tremendous when the (United States Football League Pittsburgh) Maulers sign him. And Jeff Bostic. He's probably the best center in the league. And Mark May. He's a new improved Highway 73. And George Starke. He's like myself, a dinosaur who managed to escape evolution."

"I'm in the perfect situation. I don't have to block. I don't have to catch the football. All I have to do is run with it."

And all the Raiders have to do is stop him.

That job falls first to Los Angeles' three-man front with nose guard Reggie Kinlaw flanked by Lyle Alzado and Howie Long.

"It's going to be a war," promised Long. "People are going to need some rest after this game."

"I'm going to crowd the line of scrimmage," said Kinlaw. "I'll be up close. If you play back, you give their line and Riggins a chance to get some momentum and that makes him harder to tackle."

Riggins isn't the only 1,000-yard rusher in this game. LA's Marcus Allen carried for 1,014 yards and his presence in the backfield could keep the Redskins' defense honest.

sports notepad

And Allen is not a one-dimensional threat. He also caught 68 passes for 590 yards in 15 games.

The only game he missed was the Raiders' 37-35 loss to the Redskins, a game in which Plunkett passed for 372 yards including a 97-yard touchdown to Cliff Branch.

They will see some more of them from Plunkett on Sunday.

BASKETBALL

The Steers are coming off a 62-30 loss to Midland Lee while the Panthers suffered their first district defeat to Abilene Cooper, 57-50 on Tuesday.

The 30 points were the Steers' lowest output of the season. Junior post player Mike Lueschner has come on strong for the Steers the last two games averaging 13 points per contest.

In their loss to Cooper, Permian was led by senior guards Rodney Hendrix and Paul Logan with 12 points each.

A sophomore tilt starts at 4 p.m., junior varsity at 6:15 p.m. and varsity at 8 p.m.

Rose finds home with Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Pete Rose, a 21-year veteran who at age 42 is chasing Ty Cobb's creel hitting record, will become a member of Montreal Expos, a source within the club said Thursday.

While financial terms of the contract were not known, it was believed to cover the next two seasons. Only a handful of teams showed interest in signing Rose, who was cut after last season by the Philadelphia Phillies, but Rose has voiced determination in his effort to surpass Cobb's hitting record. Rose is 201 hits shy of Cobb's career record 4,191 hits, and Rose admits it will probably take more than one season to break the record. Helping Rose is the fact that Expos owner Charles Bronfman wants him on the club.

Also a plus is Rose's fierce competitiveness. His style might be an inspiration for his new teammates, who have been criticized for lack of intensity in recent seasons. Rose's presence might also lessen clubhouse friction on the Expos.

In past months, several Expos have complained of clubhouse jealousies, and former Expos pitcher Scott Sanderson said certain players "detest one another." Andre Dawson, the team's center fielder, said last month he called for a new camaraderie on the club, "a little bit of communication among players."

Expos reliever Jeff Reardon had a positive reaction to Rose's signing. "I think it's good for Montreal," he said in an interview with RKO Radio Sports in New York. "Pete Rose is a leader. Everyone in baseball looks up to him. In the long run, he's going to be a real good acquisition for the team."

"I don't know where he fits in or where he's going to play, but I think he's going to help the team a lot just with his experience. He didn't have his best year last year, but he could come back. He always gives over 100 per cent. A team will look up to him."

Speaking on a Cincinnati radio talk show earlier this week, Rose refused to specify which team he expected to join, but admitted he had held discussions with the Expos and would enjoy playing here.

"When they talked to me last week, they talked about me playing left field," said Rose. "They're a good ballclub and being a Phillie for the last five years, I know a lot about the Expos."

"On paper, they're a team to beat. They're definitely in the running." Rose likely will play some left field for the Expos and possibly first base, although that position currently is held by Al Oliver. At the winter meetings last December, Montreal tried to peddle Oliver and his $800,000 contract without success.

If Rose ends up in left, Tim Raines would probably move to right, with Dawson staying in center. Rose has expressed a desire to play every day rather than be platooned, but his lawyer, Reuven Katz of Cincinnati, has said his client realizes that may not be a realistic expectation.

Besides Montreal, the only other teams that showed any real interest in Rose were the Seattle Mariners and Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cincinnati Reds, with whom Rose started his career and to whom he had wanted to return, took themselves out of the chase when they signed Tony Perez.

Pittsburgh's interest in Rose was only marginal, and Pirates General Manager Pete Peterson said he made it clear to Rose from the beginning that they might not be able to find a spot for him to play regularly.

The Mariners probably showed the most interest of any club outside of Montreal, but Rose reportedly had reservations about switching to the American League. In any case, the Mariners withdrew themselves from contention for Rose's services last weekend.

During Rose's search for a new club, he bemoaned criticism against himself "for wanting to play every day."

"What would they have said if I only wanted to play Monday, Wednesday and Friday?" Rose asked. "When you sign a contract, it says you are paid for services rendered. It doesn't say services rendered for 130 or 140 games."

Ten times in his career, Rose has had more than 200 hits in a season, but not since '79. Last year, Rose had 121 hits as his average dipped to .245.

THE LIGHT TOUCH
By Sherry Wegner

Here are some clues to let you know if you're getting old:

- 1) When "denture adhesives" is the main topic of your discussion.
- 2) When the Insurance Co. can't find a bracket for you.
- 3) When the things that used to seem important no longer seem important.
- 4) When your body doesn't wake up the same time your eyes do.
- 5) When you keep forgetting things.

Don't forget Big Spring Seed & Chemical, 602 N.E. 2nd is the only dealer in the county for Wayne Pet Foods & Evergreen feed. Before you forget, call Sherry about Multiple-Peril Crop Ins. today - 7-2549.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 21, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to get into the various odds and ends and the details of work and everyday living that may be difficult to accomplish during the busy week. Show others more courtesy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) All kinds of tasks can be handled today, whether at home or in the outside world. Get an early start on them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go to beauty or barber shop today and improve your appearance to look more charming. Goad about socially and make new contacts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Many small tasks are awaiting your attention at home, so get right at them and they are soon out of the way.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Fine day for handling correspondence, statements, travel plans etc. Then you can get out and go visiting.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Handle any accounts and reports for which you have had little time during the busy week. Take any needed health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improve your appearance and then handle personal problems wisely. Know who it is you want in your life for the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Those petty annoyances in your life need to be handled meticulously now and gotten rid of quickly. Money can't buy everything.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It is important that you handle every time precisely when going after your special goals if you are to make headway.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting shopping, marketing and other outside duties handled early is wise. Don't procrastinate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some new interest can be investigated today. Get at this early and find the right source of data you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some special attention to business and financial affairs now can make the days ahead much brighter. Handle small duties now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to have greater accord with associates in the future and gain their added cooperation. Carry through meticulously.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of making a plan and then carrying through with it in a most meticulous way. Early teach the right principles that will make it possible to deal with any eventuality that may arise. Each not to criticize.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

PBS goes inside Super Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Lamar Hunt, one of the founders of the old American Football League, thought the newly arranged championship game pitting his league titlist with the top team from the National Football League should have a flashy name. "NFL Championship" just wouldn't do.

That was the old name, and it would have represented another slight by the genteel NFL against the upstart AFL. Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, also wanted a splashy brand name that would help sell the game.

At the time, his daughter was playing with the latest kids' craze of the mid-1960s, a hard-rubber ball that could bounce over tall buildings. Just think how the course of human history would have been altered if the toy had been an Incredible Hulk, and not a Super Ball.

Hunt's Super Ball became Super Bowl to nearly everybody except the NFL, which referred to the game as the NFL-AFL Championship in 1967 and 1968, the first two years the league champions met. The NFL finally deigned to refer to the new name in its 1969 program, but it wasn't until Super Bowl IV that the NFL discovered Roman numerals.

This historical anecdote comes courtesy of public television's "Inside Story," the only regularly scheduled national gadfly critiquing the press. Normally, this program covers the major issues of journalism, as in tonight's new-season opener, when it discusses the Grenada press ban with former President Carter, veteran CBS News anchor Walter Cronkite, President Reagan's chief of staff James Baker and Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger.

But next Friday, "Inside Story," with anchor-correspondent Hodding Carter, tackles Sunday's Super Bowl XVIII in "Super Bowl-Super Stakes," reporting on how the event has become much more than a 3½-hour football game and two-hour pre-game show.

"Where else will you find such a concentration of media and fan interest than in the Super Bowl?" asked Jim Marooney, producer of next week's program. "There's more national interest in this than a presidential inauguration."

Hand in hand, the media and the NFL have raised the Super Bowl into America's greatest shared experience. Marooney says the NFL issued hundreds of hotel credentials for reporters who will cover this week's hoopla, then go home and watch the game on TV.

In the all-time ratings rankings, Super Bowl XVI and Super Bowl XVII are fourth and fifth, respectively, behind the "M-A-S-H" finale, the "Who Shot J.R.?" episode of "Dallas" and one episode of "Roots."

This has not been a banner year for NFL ratings. Its showcase "Monday Night Football" game had its worst ratings in 14 years. But, since Super Bowls are events more than games, that doesn't matter. And it doesn't matter that Super Bowls have never lived up to their two-week hype.

CBS, which is charging advertisers a record $450,000 for a 30-second commercial, hopes the Washington Redskins-Los Angeles Raiders match-up will be the first to top the 50-rating mark, which would mean half the nation's 83.8 million TV homes will be watching.

Last year's 48.6 Super Bowl rating helped the follow-up program, "The A-Team," attract a huge sampling audience, and the series has become NBC's biggest hit. CBS will follow Sunday's game with "60 Minutes" and a two-hour premiere for its new helicopter series, "Airwolf."

"Inside Story" will examine how well the hundreds of newspaper reporters and broadcasters can do their jobs amid the media circus.

Nixon trying to buy New York apartment

NEW YORK (AP) — A tenant fearing his building's "tranquility" could be disturbed by the presence of Richard M. Nixon has stalled the former president's effort to buy a 12-room cooperative apartment in Manhattan for $1.8 million.

The agreement hit a snag Thursday when a resident at Park Avenue and 72nd Street obtained a temporary restraining order barring the building's six-member board of trustees from holding a telephone conference today to give final approval to the sale.

The restraining order, signed by state Supreme Court Justice Wallace R. Cotton, was obtained by Jacob M. Kaplan, founder of the J.M. Kaplan Fund and a trustee of the building.

Kaplan obtained the order on grounds that the cooperative's bylaws did not permit telephone meetings to approve the sale of apartments.

Bernard Greene and Thomas Fleming, lawyers for Kaplan, said he opposed the sale because Nixon's presence might disturb the peace of the 13-story building.

"There would be a retinue of Secret Service agents and security detectives," Fleming said. "He is a celebrity and a newsworthy person. Who could predict how that would affect the tranquility of the building?"

Gas cited in mobile home fire

A fire blamed on a frozen butane regulator caused the total loss of a Gail Route mobile home yesterday afternoon, according to the Big Spring fire marshal's office.

Two units from the Big Spring Fire Department answered the alarm for the mobile home blaze, fire department authorities said. The alarm was called in by Steve Bryant at 12:05 p.m., according to sheriff's reports.

No injuries were reported as a result of the fire. Occupants of the mobile home arrived on the scene after firemen began extinguishing the fire, reports said.

A unit of the fire department returned to the scene later in the afternoon to extinguish the still smoldering ashes, reports said.

Authorities said the fire probably started with an explosion caused by too much pressure in the mobile home's gas lines.

The excessive pressure build-up occurred because a butane regulator outside the home had frozen over and failed to release pressure on the gas lines, authorities said.

The fire marshal's office this morning issued a notice to area butane distributors asking them to warn customers of the need to "secure regulators from the weather," authorities said.
