Spring_ U.S. economy grows by 3.3 %

WASHINGTON (AP) - Shaking off the worst recession since World War II, the economy grew by 3.3 percent last year, the government reported Friday. Many analysts predicted an even better showing for 1984, but some said the "hemorrhage" of trade deficits could spell trouble.

The growth in the economy in 1983, as measured by the inflation-adjusted gross national product, was the best of any year since the 5.0 percent rise in 1978. Last year's advance followed a decline of 1.9 percent in 1982 — the worst drop since 1946 — and a 2.6 percent increase in 1981.

Economic growth in 1983 was much better than the Reagan administration and most fourth-quarter slowdown was normal for this private economists had forecast a year ago. It was spurred by a burst of consumer spending and business investments aimed at rebuilding inventories sharply depleted during the recession of the two previous years.

For the final three months of 1983, the Commerce Department said the real or inflationadjusted GNP - the retail value of all goods and services produced by the economy grew at an annual rate of 4.5 percent.

That was a slower pace than the big increases of 9.7 percent in the second quarter and 7.6 percent in the third. But both the administration and private analysts sid the stage of the recovery and would guard against overheating that might trigger a new round of inflation

"We have had a strong recovery," said Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige. "It is normal in almost every sense except the trade deficits.' Baldrige said those deficits, which are expected to reach a record $70 billion in 1983, will be even worse this year, at an estimated $90 billion.

Baldrige acknowledged the negative effect on the trade balance of high U.S. interest rates and the strength of the dollar. He said the best way to restrain interest rates is to reduce federal budget deficits, but he held out no hope that Congress would approve what he called a 'proper mix" of spending cuts and tax increases to achieve that result in an election

Private economists expressed alarm at the worsening trade picture.

"What we see is a healthy domestic economy that is being dragged down by the disastrous impact of the international trade deficits," said Jerry Jasinowski, executive vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Medical writeoffs add up to a pitfall

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON — The most common mistake on individual tax returns is in computing the writeoff for medical expenses. There's an increased chance of error this year because Congress has reduced the deduction and changed the way it is claim that even if they had no other medical deductions. Under the new law, there's no separate deduction for insurance.

The second change limits the medical deduction to the unreimbursed expenses that exceed 5 percent of adjusted gross income,up from 3 percent last year. Under the old law, a couple with $20,000 income and $1,500 of unreimbursed medical and dental expenses could have deducted $900. This year, the deduction will be only $500.

ou've heard of mail room clerks who rose to be vice presidents or higher, but you don't have to roam the corridors of General Electric or Procter & Gamble to find an example.

Meet Priscilla Pond Schmitz, a native of Big Spring.

She began her career in the summer of 1962 as a $72-a-week personnel clerk with the Social Security Administration in Dallas.

Twenty years later, the 44-year-old Mrs. Schmitz is regional director of supplemental and food distribution programs of the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS). supervising two dozen employees and earning 10 times her original pay. She is responsible for policy interpretation and guidance, technical assistance and evaluation of the state agencies that administer the food distribution in the five-state region.

'Well, a couple of times I just happened to be in the right place at the right time, although I always gave it my best shot," she said. "I was very lucky to have good supervisors who gave me the opportunity to do my best and staff to help get the job done.

In 1962, after Mrs. Schmitz earned her degree in home economics from Texas Tech College in Lubbock, she moved to Dallas and "planned to be a housewife. But until such time, she would get a temporary job.

Three months into her job, she got her first promotion. Two more advancements soon followed.

"I sat there and talked to people about their problems all day," she said. "It bothered me that everyone was unhappy and the only place you could refer them to was welfare. It was the wrong job for my temperament.' After a stint as a department store sewing instructor, she joined the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Bryan as a county extension agent. When her husband accepted a job in Dallas in 1973, she was appointed a food program specialist with the Food and Nutrition Service and was promoted again within her first year. FNS was established in 1969 and is an entity of the

like food stamps; school lunch and breakfast; supplemental foods for women, infants and children; child care and summer food assitance for poor children; and food distribution to schools and other institutions. "I had already worked for seven or eight years before I realized that I was pursuing a career," she said. "I went to college and got my teaching degree because it was respectable to do so in those days. I planned to get married soon and raise kids. By 1978 Mrs. Schmitz rose to a supervisory food program specialist, monitoring the state agency administration of the child nutrition programs in three states. A $10,000 grant from the Tandy Corp. last fall has purchased four microcomputers for the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf where the machines are helping to alleviate learning deficiencies among students.

In the grant, Ramos listed equipment that he felt would aid students at SWCID. Requested and received were four microcomputers, a printer, software discs and educational programs.

"I wrote (the proposal) and showed it to people at SWCID. Everyone offered suggestions, so we all share in the credit," he said.

The Tandy Corp. offers a series of educational grants four times a year. Every cycle has a different topic. Ramos submitted a proposal during a mathematics cycle and titled his proposal "Applications of Microcomputers in Science and Math Education."

Competition for the Tandy grants is stiff, and Ramos said it was difficult "waiting and waiting to hear if we got the grant." Positive word came in the middle of the semester. The grant was one of the first awarded to SWCID.

Ramos explained some of the points which helped win the $10,000

"SWCID has students who come to college with various degrees of deficiencies in basic skills. Microcomputers are extremely useful in helping students improve their basic skill deficiencies.

Prisoner argues term in 118th Court hearing

A former Big Spring resident now in state prison for a 1979 armed robbery Friday told 118th District Court Judge Jim Gregg that he should be released from prison because he had already served more time than the "about three years" he claimed his former attorney said would be his prison term.

Ricardo Flores, who pleaded guilty in December 1980 to the Sept. 17, 1979 armed robbery of Brenda Christopherson, testified that his former attorney, Jack Thompson, told him he would serve "about three years" in prison if he pleaded guilty to a 12-year sentence in a plea bargain with the district attorney's Thompson, a witness in the habeas corpus hearing, denied telling Flores any specific time he would serve if he pleaded guilty.

"I'm sure I never told him he would serve three years," Thompson said. He also said he never tells his clients how much time they will serve on a sentence because "there are too many variables. When questioned on the witness stand by Assistant District Attorney Don Richard if he tried to give his clients a ballpark figure of the time they will serve on a sentence, Thompson replied, "I ordinarily don't try to put (the time to be served) in the ball park.' Thompson also testified that Flores received a three-year reduction in the time offered in the plea bargain, and that an additional charge of armed robbery of the Airport Grocery and Market on 3107 West Highway was dropped under the plea bargain.

Flores also claimed he had insufficient time to confer with his attorney, who was appointed by the court.

Judge Gregg, who conducted the fact-finding hearing, will send his results to Austin, where a decision will be made on whether to release Flores.

Accident victim still critical

Ronald Smith remains in critical condition at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Smith, 48, of Big Spring received severe head injuries when a car he was driving collided with a car driven by Roland King of Sterling City Route.

Smith's wife, Judy, was also injured in the incident and was hospitalized at Malone-Hogan. She is listed in good condition.

King was not injured.

Ambassador keeps cool head in political hotbed

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - Except for an occasional cartoon in the pro-government media, U.S. Ambassador Anthony Quainton has earned the respect of Nicaraguan supporters as well as critics of the revolutionary government.

But he will be leaving his post this spring, sources here and in Washington say, after serving for two years as the pivotal link between the Reagan administration, which sends covert aid to Nicaraguan insurgents, and the leftist Sandinistas.

Miguel Blandon, director of the government-run Radio Sandino, said Quainton is seen here as a 'reasonable' man who avoided confrontation and "at times expressed he was in favor of a dialogue between Nicaragua and the United States.

"He has shown great interest in getting to know the Nicaraguan reality," said Maria Azucena Ferrey, vice president of the opposition Social Christian Party. "His opinions are adjusted to reality. He recognized some things that the revolution has done that were good. We recognized them too.'

The boyish looking Quainton arrived in Managua in March 1982 just as the Sandinistas declared a state of emergency because of what they said was the threat of a U.S. invasion. That state of emergency is still in effect.

It was during Quainton's tour here that CIA support for Nicaraguan insurgents fighting the Sandinistas became known.

At high government levels, the ambassador kept a good relationship going although he continued to walk out of state functions or refuse to stand whenever the Sandinista anthem was played because it has a reference to the "Yankee, enemy of

The 50-year-old Quainton, a graduate of Princeton and Oxford universities, often can be seen wearing a tropical "guayabera" shirt. He appears to go about his business effortlessly, whether it is diplomacy, tennis or participation in a local theater group.

There have been recent reports out of Washington, later denied, that Quainton had angered State Department officials by making statements that could have been interpreted as praise for the leftist-led revolution.

The U.S. Embassy here had rebutted a report presented by President Reagan in Washington that charged Nicaraguan Jews were suffering from anti-Semitism among the Sandinistas.

Blandon, who has had Quainton as a guest on radio debates, said, "To say that he favors the revolution is sheer madness. The ambassador has maintained his position. There has been a confrontation of ideas, but the ambassador has defended his Catholicism to portray him as the man who encouraged the local Roman Catholic Church to be more vocal in its criticism of the government.

It is normal for an ambassador to be reassigned after two years in a job with visibility and tension as high as it is Nicaragua, but sources close to the U.S. Embassy here said Quainton could have stayed in Nicaragua longer if the Reagan administration wanted.

Some Nicaraguan officials said they believe Quainton will be reassigned to bring in an ambassador closer to Reagan's views.

A Western source, with access to top levels at the embassy and among the Sandinistas, said the United States and Nicaragua have reached a stage where negotiations could start "about specific bilateral issues" instead of general discussions about their ideological positions.

He predicted that the next six months will be a critical period for determining the future of U.S.-Nicaraguan relations.

Quainton, in the foreign service since 1959, has kept silent on reports that he will be reassigned. The Seattle native's first post as an ambassador was to the Central African Republic, and he was named director of the Office for Combating Terrorism in 1978 with the rank of an ambassador.

structors who tutor students in various classes. One problem in keeping the center opened for long periods of time is that "we don't have enough manpower," Ramos

"The microcomputers help ease the lack of manpower," Ramos said. Students who want to brush up on certain skills can now go into the learning assistance center and work repetitive exercises alone on the computers. An advantage is the computer offers immediate feedback.

'Working on the microcomputers plus drill work improves understanding of the subject matter," Ramos

"The interesting fact is that not only are students using the computers, but teachers are using them. We are trying to stress computer literacy to everyone here at SWCID, not just the students."

Ramos has conducted several computer literacy workshops for SWCID instructors.

Ramos and a former SWCID instructor, Michael Moore, developed computer programs for the learning assistance center which permits instructors to write their own educational programs.

"Right now, instructors are in the process of writing programs in education, math, psychology and art," Ramos said.

Pioneer daughter Eula Harris dead

ROSCOE - Eula Wallace Harris, 90, a native of Colorado City, died at 3:40 a.m. Wednesday at Roscoe Nursing Home.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Greenville in the Carver School auditorium. The Rev. Caesar Coleman of Dallas, of the 8th Episcopal District of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, will officiate. Burial will be Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Wallace family cemetery located three miles southeast of Loraine.

Born March 23, 1983 in Colorado City, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. (80 John) Wallace, a pioneer black couple who lived in Mitchell County for more than six decades. "80 John," who was born of slave parents in 1860 at Inez in Victoria County, came to West Texas as a trail hand in 1876 working for Clay Mann's 80 Ranch, which had headquarters southeast of Colorado City in Mitchell County.

She married Thaddeus Fowler of Neylandville on July 8, 1914 in Colorado City. Before his death on Nov. 23, 1918, they lived at Neylandville and Greenville. In September 1925, she married M.W. Harris in Longview. He died Nov. 23, 1967 in Greenville.

She received her early education in the public schools of Colorado City and her high school diploma and bachelor of arts degree from Texas College. She finished her teacher training course at Prairie View University and received a diploma in home economics from the same school. She studied creative writing at Wiley College and attended the University of Colorado. After receiving a diploma in missionary education at Gammon Theological Seminary in Atlanta, Ga., she earned a master of arts degree at Northwestern University.

Her public school teaching career included service in the Colorado City and Cuthbert school districts in Mitchell County; Long Branch in Panola County; Timpson, Shelby County; and the St. Paul (Neylandville), Lone Oak, and Greenville school districts in

Hunt County. After leaving the public school system of Texas, she devoted herself to church work. She taught religious education at Texas College and at Lane College in Jackson, Tenn., and also taught in many religious leadership training seminars and workshops. In 1933, she was accredited as a teacher by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In the first cooperative project between the Women's Missionary Council and the Board of Christian Education of the Christian Methodist Episcopal (CME) Church, she served as direct of children's work, as a member of the board of Christian Education, and as secretary of Missionary Education for the council. At one time, she was the writer of the Primary Quarterly of the CME Church.

She served as the first editor of the Missionary Messenger and as vice president and president of the council. She was president emeritus of the council at the time of her death. She also served as local, district and annual conference predident of the Central Texas Conference Missionary Society.

She was a member of the trustee board of Texas College, the Greenville Council of Church Women, and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. She held life memberships in the United Church Women of Texas, the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc., and the National Council of Negro Women, Inc.

In 1951, she was a delegate to the World Methodist Conference which convened in Oxford, England. She was a member of the 1954 General Conference Resolutions Committee which recommended that the racial designation be removed from the name of the CME Church. She was co-author of a book on the history of the CME Church.

The honorary degree of doctor of letters was conferred on her by Lane College in 1955. When President Dwight Eisenhower invited her to a White House Conference in 1960, a broken ankle prevented her from attending. In 1966, the Greenville Council of Church Women honored her with a grateful tribute in the form of a certificate of appreciation.

In 1968, the Texas Council of Churches presented her a certificate of appreciation which stated that "Her life has been an adventure in pioneering for the Church and all ages and conditions of her fellow man."

At various times, she served on the Texas Interracial Commission and the Greenville Library Board. She was also involved in day care projects. Before her health began to decline, she was for many years a worker in the Hunt County Democratic Women's Club and the Hunt County United Way organization. A long time member of Carter Temple Christian Methodist Episcopal Church in Greenville, she attended 14 general conferences, including 10 as a delegate.

Survivors include one son, Thaddeus Fowler Jr., and one sister, Mrs. Hettye Wallace Branch, of Loraine; one grandson and two great-granddaughters, three nieces, and three nephews.

Nixon not popular neighbor

NEW YORK (AP) - Former President Richard M. Nixon said Friday he is trying to buy an apartment on Manhattan's posh East Side, but a 93-year-old liberal philanthropist who lives in the building has gone to court to stop him.

Nixon, who has lived in Upper Saddle River, N.J., since 1981, has tentatively concluded the purchase of a 12-room co-operative apartment at Park Avenue and 72nd Street for $1.8 million. He told radio station

He said he and his wife were not interested in buying another entire townhouse like the one they had before moving to New Jersey "In the case of someone who has had a stroke, you must always worry about a fall," Nixon said, explaining why they want "just one floor. ... no duplex or anything of that sort.'

Nixon bought his 15-room house in Upper Saddle River for $1 million three years ago, moving from a Manhattan townhouse he had bought after twice being denied permission to buy co-op apartments by boards of directors who feared his celebrity might

Members of the building's six-member board of directors had been expected to approve the sale Friday during a telephone meeting. But on Thursday, building resident Jacob Kaplan won a temporary restraining order in State Supreme Court in Manhattan after arguing that telephone meetings are illegal under the by-laws of the co-op.

Justice Wallace R. Cotton signed the restraining order directing other board members to appear Tuesday and show why a meeting by telephone should not be permanently barred.

But on Friday, the other board members agreed to hold a face-to-face meeting Tuesday, according to Kaplan's lawyer, Thomas Fleming, and Kaplan withdrew his request for an injunction against the telephone meeting.

Kaplan, a millionaire philanthropist and longtime supporter of liberal causes, said in court papers that Nixon's presence "will no doubt bring on a host of sightseers, security guards, newsmen and others ... will shatter the privacy and tranquili-ty of our family-oriented building and reduce the marketability of our apartments.

"The value of our apartments would go down dramatically if Nixon were admitted," Kaplan

And besides the danger from "nutty people" who might want to do Nixon harm, "We would be forced to ride with Nixon and his entourage in the elevator," Kaplan said.

Kaplan reminded the other co-op directors in a letter that Nixon resigned as president in the midst of the Watergate scandal, and except for the pardon given him by then-President Gerald Ford, "he would have faced criminal proceedings, probable conviction, and a prison sentence."

Presley record discovered

NEW YORK - A recording of five songs by the late Elvis Presley, sung on a Luisiana radio show in 1955 and 1956 when he was 20 and 21, will come out Jan. 30, a record company spokesman says.

The LP, titled "Elvis, the First Live Recordings," also has an introduction by the master of ceremonies of the "Louisiana Hayride" radio show and a recent reminiscence by a man who worked on the program, according to Ben Liemer, publicity director for Jem Records.

The five songs were recorded on a one-track machine in a Shreveport, La., radio studio where Presley sang, for later broadcast on the Armed Services Network. "Hound Dog" was recorded in his last appearance on Louisiana Hayride in late 1956, 'I Wanna Play House with You, "Maybelline," "Tweedle Dee" and "That's All Right Mama" were recorded in December 1955.

Marshall Sehorn, co-owner of a New Orleans recording studio, found the tapes, in a mislabeled box, among several he bought from Louisiana Hayride. Liemer said Presley tapes from the show had long been rumored to exist but hadn't previously been found. Sehorn made a deal with RCA Records to press the records. He and Kevin Eggers set up their own record label, the Music Works, and went to Jem for

"Maybelline" and "Tweedle Dee" have not been on a Presley record before, Liemer said.

Doonesbury returns in fall

NEW YORK — While fans fiddled with other funnies as their beloved "Doonesbury" took a vacation from the comics pages, Garry Trudeau fathered twins and sent Zonker, B.D. and Uncle Duke to Broadway. Now, between diapers and burps, the cartoonist is readying pen and ink for the return of his Pulitzer Prize-winning strip in September.

"At this point, we don't know what the story line will be," Lee Salem, editorial director of Universal Press Syndicate, said in a recent telephone interview. "But the play acts as a bridge between where the strip ended and where it will pick up."

Reagan wants Europe safe

WASHINGTON — President Reagan said Friday that although the United States failed in its efforts to resume nuclear arms control talks with the Soviet Union "we are determined to continue our efforts to make Europe and the world a safer and more secure place.' He said the meetings in Stockholm between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko helped toward the goals of reducing the threat and use of force, to finding ways to reduce the stockpiles of armaments and to establish a better working relationship. RONALD REAGAN "Secretary Shultz and Foreign Minister Gromyko had a full and serious exchange of views on key global questions," Reagan said after meeting for 40 minutes with the secretary of state.

"Of course, they did not resolve our differences. But the important thing is that despite those differences, we are determined to continue our efforts to make Europe and the world a safer and more secure place in which all of us may live in peace and dignity."

The president said the Atlantic Alliance is demonstrating once again at the European Security keystone of peace and security in Europe." He said the United States and its allies are better able to meet common challenges because they stand together. "None of these challenges is more important than the need to establish a constructive relationship with the Soviet Union," he added. Speaking to a large audience of his administration's appointees after he met with Shultz, the president predicted that "sooner or later the Soviets are going to realize that equitable and verifiable arms reductions are in their interest, too."

Copnference in Stockholm "that it remains the

Trial testimony heats up

GEORGETOWN, Texas — The pathologist who examined Chelsea McClellan's body eight months after the Kerrville girl's mysterious death testified Friday that there was no way the girl was a victim of sudden infant death syndrome.

"The child was too old," Bexar County Medical Examiner Vincent DiMaio testified at the Genene Jones Ms. Jones, 33, is a vocational nurse accused of killing the 15-month-old girl in September of 1982 by injecting a powerful and hard to detect drug. The defense contends the girl was not healthy and that her death was caused by SIDS or some other

Although the official autopsy result listed SIDS as the probably case of death, DiMaio and another pathologist involved in the case told jurors Friday that the young girl did not fit the mold of a SIDS victim. DiMaio dismissed SIDS as a medical excuse for being unable to determine what causes some child

"SIDS is a fancy way of saying we don't know why the kid died," he testified.

The medical examiner examined the body in May after a state judge ordered an exhumation for a second look at why the girl died.

DiMaio said it is estimated that up to 20 percent of

He said the mysterious killer of young children is most common in ages two through four months.

DiMaio added that "virtually all" medical examiners refuse to list SIDS as a possible cause of death for any child over the age of 10 months. Dr. James Fletes, the pathologist who did the autopsy on the McClellan girl, testified that the child didn't fit the mold of an SIDS victim so the death was blamed on an atypical form of SIDS.

"The child was not the correct age" to be an SIDS victim, Fletes testified. "The circumstances were not

Jackson's rule changes fail

WASHINGTON - An angry and disappointed Rev. Jesse Jackson said Democratic Party leaders failed

Friday to correct a "fundamental injustice" in rules he portrays as locking millions of people out of the process of picking a presidential candidate. Despite last-minute help from front-runner Walter Mondale's campaign, Jackson failed even to get his proposed changes before the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee for a vote.

But DNC Chairman Charles T. Manatt said the battles over rules, adopted nearly two years ago, should JESSE JACKSON end with the presidential season begining for real with precinct caucuses in Iowa on Feb. 20. He said he did offer Jackson a compromise on Thursday, but that "time ran out for anything to be agreed upon.

"Today the executive committee of the DNC walked the extra mile in terms of being ready and willing to hear the concerns of Rev. Jesse Jackson," he said. "I think enough is enough now on party rules. I think enough is enough about trying to have anyone push around the Democratic Party.

Angry over failure to find supporters on the committee, Jackson refused to speak to the group, calling it a "stacked deck."

Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., a Jackson supporter, told the committee the black presidential candidate felt he would not get more than one vote out of 36 on the committee. "Not being a masochist, he decided not to come," said Hatcher.

The sport of luge

The Super Sliders

One to Get Ready

Lugers wear helmets and tightfitting, plastic-coated suits and boots. They also wear steel cleats on several fingers to help them push off on the ice after they shove away from the starting post.

One to Go

It can take less than a minute for a single seater to go down a run that is about 10 football fields long and has at least 12 curves. The experts say that this sport is not as dangerous as it looks. Here, the U.S. team's coach looks on as a luger zips by.

The sport of luge (loozzsh) is a very old and popular one in Europe. But not many people in the United States know about it.

A luge team from our country will be competing in the upcoming Winter Olympics in Yugoslavia.

While we probably won't win any medals, we are learning more and more about the sport.

Luge athletes call themselves "sliders."

In this sport, one or two people lie flat on their backs on a special sled.

They slide feet first down a curving, icy run called a 'bahn."

They can go as fast as 80 miles an hour.

All important luge races are held on man-made runs covered with at least two inches of ice. Our country has only two such runs. One is at Marquette, Mich., and another at Lake Placid, N.Y., the site of the 1980 Olympics (pictured above).

Two to Get Ready

A "double seater" gets ready to go down the run. Before a slider goes off, a judge tests the temperature of the steel runners. The runners can be heated, but only to within 5 degrees of the outside air temperature.

Two to Go

In doubles, the top man lies on top of his partner. The bottom man does a lot of the steering by flexing the steel runners. Since the bottom man can't see, the top one squeezes his leg to give the signals. Only men take part in doubles. Doubles use a guide rope, while most singles do not.

Jurning

Flyaway, dry, lifeless hair is usually due to excessive dryness. Under normal conditions hair will absorb moisture from the environment Low humidity, or high heat, can rob hair of this moisture. The dryness problem is compounded by the loss of the hair's natural oil barrier, which impedes the hair's ability to retain water. The loss of natural oils is a result most often of overexposure to the sun, wind, chlorinated or salt water, over-processing and over-shampooing. Blow-drying also robs the hair of its moisture. Combat dryness by using less of a mild shampoo. Have your moisturized and consult your stylist about a lowmaintenance haircut at least until the condition has been corrected.

6-tons of food destroyed

DETROIT (AP) — Six tons of flour, rice, beans powdered milk and other perishable food donated by the U.S. government for Detroit soup kitchens has spoiled and is being destroyed, a newspaper reported today.

Some of the bulk food delivered to the city beginning last January was packaged by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in July 1981 and its shelf-life may have expired, The Detroit News reported in a

Additional delay in distributing the food resulted from the city's attempt to get federal approval to repackage the food - much of it in 50-pound bags into smaller quantities, the News reported.

City officials said Thursday the contaminated food represents a "small percentage" of the total handled by the Mayor's Emergency Relief Fund since it began in December 1982.

"In the past year, the city has handled 13 million pounds of food from the feds," Robert Berg, news secretary to Mayor Coleman A. Young, told the News. "Any time you have that quantity of food, you're going to have a certain percentage that gets damaged in storage and handling.

Sources in the Detroit Health Department told the newspaper the food condemned as "unfit for human consumption" is being trucked to incinerators and landfills for disposal.

Inspectors have found live baby mice in bags of rice and husks from weevils or other unidentified bugs in bags of flour, the News reported.
In addition, many bags of bulk food stored in the city-owned Civil Defense warehouse were not covered with plastic and became coated with droppings from birds that flew in through ventilators. Barbara Parker, who manages the city's food program, told the newspaper the plastic covers may have been removed in handling. "We have been handling an enormous amount of food in the past year and unfortunately have had some spoilage and some broken bags and a number of things that have gone wrong," Ms. Parker said. City officials also told The News that soup kit-

Man gets 527-year sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Citing "a high degree of cruelty, viciousness and callousness" in a man sentenced to 527 years in prison for the abduction and sexual abuse of two children, a judge has denied him bail pending an appeal.

Superior Court Judge Robert Dossee pronounced sentence and denied bail Thursday for Luis "Tree Frog" Johnson, 34, who was convicted of 100 counts in the 1982 abductions of Tara Burke, then 2, and Vietnamese refugee Mac Lin, then 11.

Johnson and Alex Cabarga, 18, were found guilty of forcing the youngsters to perform sexual acts, which were photographed. Tara, who was held for 10 months, was rescued when Lin escaped and sought help.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Officials are of the radioactive material, which was esting truckloads of radioactive steel, imported from Mexico, and is working testing truckloads of radioactive steel, which originated in Mexico and was impounded here, to determine the extent and nature of the radioactivity.

The radiation appeared to be low-level and posed no danger, officials said.

"The (Texas) Department of Health is attempting to trace any other shipments with the Texas attorney general's office to get a court order to prevent the importation of any more of the contaminated product." the department said Thursday.

Tainted steel also turned up in New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Steers stay close for a half before falling in 4-5A action

The Big Spring Steers played their most inspiring basketball of the year in the first half of Friday's 4-AAAAA contest against Permian at Steer Gymnasium.

Unfortunately basketball, like most athletic matches, is played in quarters and divided into two halves. That's where the crystal ball crashed.

After holding a slim, 25-21 halftime lead over the Steers the Permian Panthers came on strong and

Sumners retains lead but second in short program

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Rosalynn Sumners, skating very cautiously, retained the overall lead but Tiffany Chin outskated her to win the short program Fri-day night at the Unitd States Figure Skating Championships. Sumners was second in the short program and Elaine Zayak — who remained second overall - finished third Friday. Chin moved up to third overall.

Chin, 16, who skates for the San Diego Figure Skating Club, received two scores of 5.9 of a possible 6.0 for skating in required elements and her presentation. She performed with polish and flair and got a standing ovation from the 11,000 people at the Salt Palace for her beautiful spins and solid combination jump - a triple-toe wally double loop.

Sumners, 19, had seven 5.8s for her performance. She skated a very safe program. Instead of doing a more difficult combination jump, he stuck with a double axle-double loop.

Zayak, 18, on the other hand, did the more difficult jump also performed by Chin but could not compare in expressiveness and style to Sumners and Chin. Zayak did not crack a smile and appeared very stiff until the difficult jumps were completed, when she finally smiled.

Chin performed after Sumners and Zayak.

The final event for the women, the top three of which will make the Olympic team, will be Saturday afternoon.

The men, led by three-time U.S. and world champion Scott Hamilton, skate for Olympic berths tonight.

Judy Blumberg and Michael Siebert continued to dominate ice dancing Friday and closed in on their fourth straight title. The couple, who represent the Pittsburgh Skating Club, retained their lead after the original set pattern dance, a Paso Doble or Spanish Rhythm.

In second place were two teams from the Wilmington, Del., Skating Club -Carol Fox and Richard Dalley, and Elisa

Spitz and Scott Gregory.

The ice dancing freestyle, to be skated Saturday night, is the final event at this weeklong competition.

The pairs Olympic team is in place, led by four-time U.S. champions Kitty and Peter Carruthers. Sumners, of Edmonds, Wash., wants to leave her mark on the sport before retiring. She is very image conscious. "Our goal is to present an overall package," she explained earlier in the

"I told her if she got down to training weight, she could have it." Zayak, who was a pudgy 130 or so this summer, says she now weights 116. Training weight is 114. She got the coat. "If my weight goes up, the coat goes

Cougars slash Owls, 72-42

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Michael Young scored 14 of his game-high 22 points in a breakaway second half and Akeem Olajuwon grabbed 21 rebounds to lead the fourth-ranked Cougars to a 72-42 Southwest Conference victory over Rice Friday night.

The victory boosted Houston's season record to 16-2 and set up a showdown Sunday in Lexington, Ky., against third-ranked Kentucky.

Young sounded the Houston charge at the beginning of the second half when the Cougars outscored the outmanned Owls 20-5 over the first 10 minutes of the half. Young hit 11 points in the surge and retired to the bench with 6:56 left in the game.

Olajuwon finished with 10 points and 21 rebounds, marking his fifth consecutive 20-plus rebound performance. Olajuwon also became the 25th Houston player to score more than 1,000 points in a career. The Cougars jumped to a 22-6 lead against the cold-shooting Owls to start the game. Rice was led by Tony Barnett with 14 points and sophomore Terence Cashaw with 10 first-half points but fouled out with 6:56 to play.

The Owls, 6-10 for the season, made one charge at the Cougars, outscoring Houston 12-4 to pull within 36-27 at Houston is 6-0 in league play and Rice fell to 2-4.

Rockets ride Spurs

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Reid poured in 32 points to lead the Houston Rockets to a 138-104 victory Friday night over the San Antonio Spurs in a National Basketball Association game.

Houston, 16-26, led by as many as 16 points early in the third period before the Spurs, who lost their first game in four starts, closed within three at 87-84.

Reid, who tied his career high, hit a pair of 18-foot shots in the last 40 seconds of the third quarter to give Houston a 103-92 advantage. Rodney McCray hit three shots and Reid added two more for a 115-96 lead with 8:47 left in the game. McCray and Ralph Sampson each had two baskets and a string of nine unanswered points that gave Houston a 50-39 edge with 7:32 left in the first half.

Sampson scored 24 points and pulled down a careerhigh 23 rebounds. McCray added 18 points, including 10 in the first quarter. Artis Gilmore had 24 points for the Spurs, 17-24.

Access fee postponed

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission tentatively postponed until mid-1985 a requirement that telephone consumers pay a $2-amonth "access fee."

By delaying the introduction of access fees, FCC officials acknowledged they were canceling most, if not all, of a planned reduction in interstate long-

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. had hoped to reduce its long-distance rates by more than 10.5 percent in April, but that reduction was linked to the payment of access fees.

The fees, which would replace payments that are now made solely by long-distance callers, had been scheduled to take effect in April. Citing congressional concerns, the FCC said Thursday it had decided to take most of this year to conduct further studies to determine whether the fees would force customers to give up their phone service.

FCC Chairman Mark S. Fowler made it clear he still believes access charges are needed to stop the construction of private "bypass networks" by large companies.

Takeover delayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The proposed $9.9 billion takeover of Getty Oil Co. by industry giant Texaco Inc. has been delayed, at least until next week, by a new round of legal maneuvering by heirs to the J. Paul Getty family fortune.

In a related development, Texaco Inc. said Thursday it had been informed the Bass family of Fort Worth, Texas is increasing its ownership of Texaco stock to 18.5 million shares, or 7.2 percent of the common stock outstanding.

Texaco said Sid R. Bass had told the company he considered Texaco's merger agreement with Getty to be favorable to Texaco and that he "strongly supports" it. Texaco did not say how much Texaco stock the Bass family previously owned.

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Richard P. Byrne issued an order Wednesday at the request of attorneys for three grandchildren of the late J. Paul Getty, delaying the merger at least until a court hearing set for Monday.

The petition to delay the merger was filed by the guardian for three daughters of Jean Ronald Getty, the oldest surviving son of J. Paul Getty. The daughters are Stefanie Marie, Cecile Karen Margarita and Christina Terese Getty.

The delay was sought on grounds that the Texaco-Getty deal violates terms of the document that established the Getty family trust.

NEW YORK (AP) — Home heating oil prices are on the rise nationwide, except on the West Coast, but analysts say prices and supplies are likely to

As a result of the December cold wave, refiners have raised wholesale prices about a dime a gallon in the East and Midwest, to about 90 cents a gallon. The upward trend continued this week, with refiners increasing prices by one to two cents, including Mobil Corp., Texaco Inc. and Marathon

On the West Coast, prices have moved in the opposite direction. Analysts said the West Coast has been spared of price increases because supplies are stronger and demand is weaker, due partly to a milder winter season.

Supplies are tight in parts of the Midwest and East, mainly because the recent cold weather has produced a spurt in home heating oil demand at the same time oil refineries on the Gulf Coast were unexpectedly crippled by winter storms.

Computer choice leaves software king on limb

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Charles La Fara bubbles with enthusiasm when he talks about computers, software and his business empire, but he also expresses the worries of a man who has been left out on a limb by a decision made by a Texas firm.

La Fara, a bear of a man with a full beard, is president of the International 99-4 Users Group — an organization comprised of owners of Texas Instruments computers.

From his west Oklahoma City office, decorated with paintings of strange creatures, football players and scores of computers, La Fara and his 20 employees run a network of services for the owners of TI computers. With the decision by Texas Instruments last October to get out of the home computer business. La Fara isn't too sure how long his business hitched to that star will

La Fara has made contacts with TI to handle software and hardware for the firm and pay it royalty from his sales, but he's awaiting an answer on his proposals

Until TI decides how it will get out of the home computer business, millions of TI owners and the future of his operation are up in the air.

"We're all out on a limb," he said. La Fara figures that with some 2.2 million TI home computers in place, there has to be a market for software and hardware. His organization has more than 100,000 members About a fourth of the TI owners bought their computers after the company announcement dropped prices as low a $47.50.

La Fara said TI owners are angry and confused about the TI action. "They feel they've been let down." It's like buying a new Corvette and then Chevrolet deciding not to build it anymore," he said. "Right now they (TI officials) are trying to decide what legal and moral obligation they have to consumers," he said. La Fara got into the computer business through the back door in 1979 when he purchased a TI 99-4 home computer and monitor for $1,050 for use by his

Because of his frustrations, La Fara became acquainted with four or five other disgruntled computer owners and soon they had compiled a library of 45

He said he began thinking that if five people can come up with 45 software packages, "just think what could happen if we got everyone together."

Working with TI, a mailing was sent to 1,438 computer owners in August 1979. He received responses m 994 people — forming the nucleus of the user's

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some of the S. Strauss, former party chairman. It nation's most prominent Democrats, trying to shatter the idea that their party lacks new ideas, have unveiled an election-year program that calls for overhauling the federal tax system and employing more diplomacy in dealing with the Soviet Union.

While not officially endorsed by the party or the leadership of the Democratic-controlled House, the policy manifesto is aimed at helping shape the 1984 debate as Democrats attempt to re-take the White House and the Senate, both now in Republican

The wide-ranging 90-page document, titled "Renewing America's Promise," accuses President Reagan of bringing the country astronomical budget deficits, failing to emphasize diplomacy in foreign policy and arms control, and abandoning women, minorities and the poor.

The policy blueprint is the product of three years' work by House Democrats and was published by the National-House Democratic Caucus, a newly formed organization headed by Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus, and Robert

The group's membership includes 70 House Democrats and 83 other top party figures, among them former defense secretaries Clark Clifford and Harold Brown, investment banker Felix Rohatyn, economist Lester Thurow, and fund-raisers Pamela Harriman and Lew Wasserman.

The document calls for sharp cuts in the growth rate of the national debt by 1988; permanent changes in taxation and the health care system; a new forum for cooperation between labor, industry and government; new public and private investment in research and industry; and a revival of arms control efforts.

"It is imperative that Democrats demonstrate to the American people in 1984 that we are not asking for a return to policies they rejected in 1980, that we have the will to lead and the resolve to make hard choices," wrote Long in a preface.

'This volume helps Democrats to reestablish our identity as the party of growth, for growth is the prerequisite of opportunity," Long said

Rep. Martin O. Sabo, D-Minn., who played a major role in drafting the report, said the group hopes the document will become part of the party's campaign platform later this year.

"This volume helps Democrats to re-establish our identity as the party of growth, for growth is the prerequisite of opportunity," — Rep. Gillis Long

Central to ensuring future growth and prosperity, the document states, is erasing the built-in deficits which have grown enormously during the Reagan administration.

The group urged Reagan to join with Democrats in an effort to trim $150 billion to $200 billion from the deficit in 1988, mostly through gradual cuts in defense spending and entitlements, and through tax increases.

The report promises: "We will not hurt those Americans who have already been worst hurt by Reaganomics. There is no more 'fat' to trim from programs that feed the needy, educate our children and offer the elderly poor a life of dignity."

Over the long term, the group proposes to scrap the current income tax system and replace it with a modified flat-rate tax on individuals and corporations, eliminating most itemized

Tax" proposal of Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and Rep. Richard Gephardt,

The program also calls for "imposing stringent controls on escalating health costs." The report notes that of the price of a new car, $600 is attributable to workers' health insurance costs — more than the price of the steel used. And without action to rein in medical fees, the Medicare program will go broke by 1990, according to the document.

The report calls for renewed investment in research and development and in educating and training workers to enhance the U.S. position in world trade. It proposes the nation invest 3 percent of its gross national product in civilian research each year; help universities improve their laboratories; and devote more money to student aid programs.

Saying Reagan has "built a foreign policy record of failure" by worsening relations with the Soviet Union and failing to strengthen ties with allies and the Third World, the Democratic That plan is similar to the "Fair group calls for less foreign policy reliance on military strength and a greater emphasis on diplomacy.

> It said the Reagan administration has been "reaching too quickly for military options, too hesitantly for diplomatic openings" and has weakened our position as a peacemake in the world."

Citing Lebanon as an example, the report states "it is not enough to put forward a plan for peace - however sound - and then, responding to an emergency instead of a coherent strategy, commit American lives to keeping a non-existent peace."

Dallas may raise athletes' grade standard

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas school official has urged that students earn grades of at least C before they can don athletic gear.

'We want to put some teeth in our requirements to ensure that our young people learn to function in the academic world before they learn to function in the athletic world,' Deputy school superintendent Otto Fridia told a school board task force Thursday.

The panel, composed of Dallas principals, is working on new academic requirements that would exceed the tougher standards tentatively established for next year by the University Interscholastic League, the governing body

"Because of the age of the three, no additional details will be released pending juvenile pro-ceedings," Cobb said. He refused to elaborate on the arrests and declined to say whether or not the three are connected with Calvin Loyd Padgett, who was convicted of capital murder last August in the slaying of one of the employees.

Padgett, who has since appealed his life sentence, is scheduled to go on trial in Dallas in February for the death of another employee.

Killed during the apparent robbery were Howard Leroy McClaflin, 25; Shirley O'Bier Thompson, 24; and George Dwaine Landrum, 42.

Padgett was arrested in March 1983 in Oklahoma He was convicted of capital murder, but was not given the maximum sentence the death penalty
